CYCLOPEDIA

OF

LAW AND PROCEDURE

EDITED BY

WILLIAM MACK AND HOWARD P. NASH

VOLUME VI

NEW YORK

THE AMERICAN LAW BOOK COMPANY

LONDON: BUTTERWORTH & CO., 12 BELL YARD

1903

J. B. LYON COMPANY
PRINTERS AND BINDERS
ALBANY, N. Y.

TABLE OF TITLES, EDITORS, AND CONTRIBUTORS

CITE THIS VOLUME

6 Cyc.

FOLLOWED BY PAGE.

BUILDERS AND ARCHITECTS

By Henry Stephen

CROSS-REFERENCES

For Matters Relating to:

Admiralty Jurisdiction as to Building Contracts, see ADMIRALTY.
Arbitration, see ARBITRATION AND AWARD.
Authority to Construct Public Building, see COUNTIES; MUNICIPAL CORPORATIONS; STATES; UNITED STATES.
Contracts in General, see CONTRACTS.
Insurable Interest of Builder, see FIRE INSURANCE.
Lien of Architect or Builder, see MECHANICS' LIENS.
Specific Performance of Contract, see SPECIFIC PERFORMANCE.
Validity of Building Regulations, see MUNICIPAL CORPORATIONS.
Validity of Health Regulations, see HEALTH.

I. TERMINOLOGY.

A. Architect or Engineer. An architect or engineer is one whose special business it is to design buildings, fix the thickness of their walls, the supports necessary for the maintenance of them in their proper position, and do all other necessary things in the line of his profession for the guidance of builders in the erection of buildings.[1]

B. Architecture. Architecture is the art of building according to certain determined rules.[2]

C. Builder. A builder is one who builds, or whose occupation is that of building; specifically, one who controls or directs the work of construction in any capacity.[3]

D. Plan. A plan is the delineation of a city, a house, or houses, a garden, etc., traced on paper, or other substance, representing the position and the relative proportion of the different parts.[4]

E. Specification. In the law of contracts, a specification denotes an extended statement annexed to complex building contracts, agreements for construction of public works, and the like, describing the details of the erection or structure intended.[5]

1. Giles v. Diamond State Iron Co., (Del. 1887) 8 Atl. 368.

An architect is one whose profession it is to form plans and designs of buildings, and superintend the execution of them. Century Dict.

A civil engineer is a person skilled in the principles and practice of "that branch of engineering which relates to the construction or care of roads, bridges, railroads, canals, aqueducts, harbors, drainage-works, etc." Century Dict.

2. Louisiana Molasses Co. v. Le Sassier, 52 La. Ann. 2070, 28 So. 217.

Civil architecture is the art or science of building various structures for the purposes of civil life. Webster Dict. [quoted in Little Rock, etc., R. Co. v. Spencer, 65 Ark. 183, 193, 47 S. W. 196, 42 L. R. A. 334].

3. Century Dict. [quoted in Little Rock, etc., R. Co. v. Spencer, 65 Ark. 183, 193, 47 S. W. 196, 42 L. R. A. 334].

Other definitions are: "A person whose business is to construct buildings, vessels, bridges, canals, or railroads, by contract." Anderson L. Dict. [quoted in Little Rock, etc., R. Co. v. Spencer, 65 Ark. 183, 193, 47 S. W. 196, 42 L. R. A. 334].

"One who builds; especially, one who follows the occupation of building, or who contracts or directs the actual work of building." Standard Dict. [quoted in Little Rock, etc., R. Co. v. Spencer, 65 Ark. 183, 193, 47 S. W. 196, 42 L. R. A. 334].

"One who builds, one whose occupation it is to build, an architect, a shipwright, a mason, etc." Webster Dict. [quoted in Savannah, etc., R. Co. v. Callahan, 49 Ga. 506, 511].

In the practice of civil architecture the builder comes between the architect who designs the work and the artisans who execute it. Century Dict. [quoting English Encycl. and quoted in Little Rock, etc., R. Co. v. Spencer, 65 Ark. 183, 193, 47 S. W. 196, 42 L. R. A. 334].

"Builder" synonymous with "contractor." — The word "builder" has been used by lawyers, judges, and courts, as synonymous with "contractor" when used in connection with construction or building contracts. Weeks v. Walcott, 15 Gray (Mass.) 54; Parker v. Bell, 7 Gray (Mass.) 429; Gray v. Walker, 16 S. C. 143; Lloyd Building and Buildings, pp. 45, 54, 55, 82, 83, 84, 85 [cited in Little Rock, etc., R. Co. v. Spencer, 65 Ark. 183, 194, 47 S. W. 196, 42 L. R. A. 334]. So under a statute giving a lien for a debt contracted by the builder of any ship or vessel, it has been held that the man who contracted with the owner for the building of the ship or vessel was the builder thereof (Calkin v. U. S., 3 Ct. Cl. 297. And see also Little Rock, etc., R. Co. v. Spencer, 65 Ark. 183, 195, 47 S. W. 196, 42 L. R. A. 334), and, under statutes providing that every builder shall have a lien for his work or labor done, a builder is practically in effect a contractor (Little Rock, etc., R. Co. v. Spencer, 65 Ark. 183, 195, 47 S. W. 196, 42 L. R. A. 334; Wortman v. Kleinschmidt, 12 Mont. 316, 30 Pac. 280).

4. Bouvier L. Dict.

Another definition is "A map, chart, or design; being a delineation, or projection on a plane surface of the ground lines of a house, farm, street, city, etc., reduced in absolute length, but preserving their relative positions and proportion." Black L. Dict.

Blue prints as plans see infra, p. 31, note 22.

Compensation for drawing plans see infra, III, A, 2, a.

Construction of plans see infra, II, C, 1, b.

Nature and purpose of plans see infra, II, A, 2.

Right to plans see infra, III, A, 4.

5. Bouvier L. Dict.

Other definitions are: "A particular or detailed statement of the various elements involved." Black L. Dict.

"An accurate description of the materials

II. BUILDING CONTRACTS.

A. Nature and Purpose of — 1. In General. Apart from certain provisions,[6] that are in a great measure applicable to a building contract only, a contract of this class presents no characteristics not common to contracts in general,[7] or contracts of bailment for mutual benefit in particular;[8] the nature and purpose of a building contract being, in general, to govern the respective rights, duties, and liabilities of the builder and his employer, and of an architect so far as he is concerned in the contract between them, and by it those rights must be determined.[9] The contract may be an implied one;[10] and, like other contracts, be and work to be used and performed in the execution of a building." Gwilt Enc. Architecture 595, § 13 [quoted in Gilbert v. U. S., 1 Ct. Cl. 28].

"A written instrument containing an exact and minute description, account, or enumeration of particulars." Worcester Dict. [quoted in Gilbert v. U. S., 1 Ct. Cl. 28].

"A particular and detailed account of a thing." Bouvier L. Dict. [quoted in Gilbert v. U. S., 1 Ct. Cl. 28].

The term embraces not only the dimensions and mode of construction, but a description of every piece of material — its kind, length, breadth, and thickness — and the manner of joining the separate parts together. Gilbert v. U. S., 1 Ct. Cl. 28.

Construction of specifications see infra, II, C, 1, b.

Nature and purpose of specifications see infra, II, A, 2.

Preparation of specifications see infra, III, B, 2, b.

6. Special provisions of building contract see infra, II, B, 4, c.

7. As to contracts generally see CONTRACTS.

Specific performance of a building contract will not generally be enforced (Great Southern Hotel Co. v. McClain, 4 Ohio S. & C. Pl. Dec. 309, 3 Ohio N. P. 247; Strang v. Richmond, etc., R. Co., 101 Fed. 511, 41 C. C. A. 474); nor will a court, at the suit of the builder while the contract is not yet performed by him, undertake to enforce performance indirectly by impounding bonds, alleged to have been appropriated by the contract to pay for the work (Strang v. Richmond, etc., R. Co., 101 Fed. 511, 41 C. C. A. 474). See also, generally, SPECIFIC PERFORMANCE.

Bid and acceptance a contract.— Where the builder makes an offer to erect a building for a certain sum and the owner accepts it there is a consummated and binding agreement, notwithstanding the builder, in adding up the items of his estimates, makes a mistake for which the owner is not responsible by which the total is made considerably too small. Brown v. Levy, (Tex. Civ. App. 1902) 69 S. W. 255.

Effect of acceptance of bid.— A builder's bid for construction in no way affects or controls an agreement afterward made for performance of the work as the bid is merged in the contract. Taylor v. Fox, 16 Mo. App. 527.

Signed instrument may be merely inchoate agreement.— Where the obtaining of a permit to build is essential to render an agreement between the builder and the owner valid and the contract is silent upon the subject the obtaining of such permit must be implied as a condition of the agreement between them and the instrument signed by them as merely an inchoate agreement which will become effective and binding only in case the permit be issued. Smith v. Luning Co., 111 Cal. 308, 43 Pac. 967.

8. As to bailments for mutual benefit see BAILMENTS, 5 Cyc. 157.

Building contract said not to be contract of hiring.— A contract to build for a certain sum, owner to furnish all materials, is not a contract of hiring or for personal services but a contract for a "job of work," and is what is called in the books "a building contract." Singleton v. Wilson, 85 Tenn. 344, 2 S. W. 801.

9. Hewlett v. Alexander, 87 Ala. 193, 6 So. 49; Manuel v. Campbell, 3 Ark. 324; Livingston v. Anderson, 30 Fla. 117, 11 So. 270.

Under a statute declaring a building contract void for certain purposes unless a proper contract or memorandum is filed, the rights of the parties, so far as a mechanic's lien is concerned, are entirely statutory. Butterworth v. Levy, 104 Cal. 506, 38 Pac. 897.

Necessity of recording building contract see infra, II, B, 2, c; and, generally, MECHANICS' LIENS.

10. Carney v. Cook, 80 Iowa 747, 45 N. W. 919; New England Iron Co. v. Gilbert El. R. Co., 91 N. Y. 153.

But there is no implied agreement to employ a builder who offers to do the work at the lowest price. Topping v. Swords, 1 E. D. Smith (N. Y.) 609.

An express agreement to pay for extras is not requisite where extras are supplied by the builder upon the order of the owner. Childress v. Smith, (Tex. Civ. App. 1896) 37 S. W. 1076.

Implied contract with subcontractor.—The existence of a contract covering the whole subject-matter between the owner and the builder will not prevent the existence of an implied promise, by the owner, to pay a subcontractor employed by the builder for work done and materials furnished by him. Blount v. Guthrie, 99 N. C. 93, 5 S. E. 890.

Implied contract where express contract void.— Where a written contract to build is void for failure to record under Cal. Code Civ. Proc. § 1183, there is an implied contract entire[11] or severable;[12] and the character of the building contract in this respect on the part of the owner to pay the value of the building erected, since § 1197 of the code provides that nothing in the statute shall impair the right of one who has done work on a building to maintain a personal action to recover what is due from the person for whom the work was done. Rebman v. San Gabriel Valley Land, etc., Co., 95 Cal. 390, 30 Pac. 564.

Necessity of recording building contract see infra, II, B, 2, c; and, generally, MECHANICS' LIENS.

11. Alabama.— Partridge v. Forsyth, 29 Ala. 200.

California.— Cox v. Western Pac. R. Co., 47 Cal. 87; People v. Brooks, 16 Cal. 11.

Colorado.— Walling v. Warren, 2 Colo. 434.

Connecticut.—Coburn v. Hartford, 38 Conn. 290.

Georgia.— Hunnicutt, etc., Co. v. Van Hoose, 111 Ga. 518, 36 S. E. 669; Broxton v. Nelson, 103 Ga. 327, 30 S. E. 38, 68 Am. St. Rep. 97; Freeman v. Campbell, 22 Ga. 184.

Illinois.— Chicago v. Sexton, 115 Ill. 230, 2 N. E. 263.

Kansas.— Madden v. Smith, 28 Kan. 798.

Massachusetts.—Weed v. Clogston, 98 Mass. 147; Phelps v. Sheldon, 13 Pick. (Mass.) 50, 23 Am. Dec. 659.

New Jersey.— Grassman v. Bonn, 32 N. J. Eq. 43.

New York.— Cunningham v. Jones, 3 E. D. Smith (N. Y.) 650, 4 Abb. Pr. (N. Y.) 433, [affirmed in 20 N. Y. 486]; Sharpe v. Johnson, 41 How. Pr. (N. Y.) 400.

Ohio.— Newman Lumber Co. v. Purdum, 41 Ohio St. 373.

Pennsylvania.— Quigley v. De Haas, 82 Pa. St. 267.

West Virginia.— McConnell v. Hewes, 50 W. Va. 33, 40 S. E. 436.

Wisconsin.— Grant v. Diebold Safe, etc., Co., 77 Wis. 72, 45 N. W. 951.

United States.—Simonds v. Pearce, 31 Fed. 137; McGowan v. U. S., 35 Ct. Cl. 606.

Illustrations of entire contracts.—The contract is entire where building is to be completed before compensation is demandable (Partridge v. Forsyth, 29 Ala. 200; Coburn v. Hartford, 38 Conn. 290; Chicago v. Sexton, 115 Ill. 230, 2 N. E. 263; Simonds v. Pearce, 31 Fed. 137), although the amount to be paid is made up by stating the estimated cost of each stage of the work separately and then adding the work together (Chicago v. Sexton, 115 Ill. 230, 2 N. E. 263); so where payments are to be made from time to time as the work progresses (Cox v. Western Pac. R. Co., 47 Cal. 87; Freeman v. Campbell, 22 Ga. 184; Newman Lumber Co. v. Purdum, 41 Ohio St. 373); again the contract is entire where the employer is to pay a gross sum (Broxton v. Nelson, 103 Ga. 327, 30 S. E. 38, 68 Am. St. Rep. 97; Chicago v. Sexton, 115 Ill. 230, 2 N. E. 263; McConnell v. Hewes, 50 W. Va. 33, 40 S. E. 436); so where there is no stipulation as to the time of payment (Walling v. Warren, 2 Colo. 434; Cunningham v. Jones, 20 N. Y. 486 [affirming 3 E. D. Smith (N. Y.) 650, 4 Abb. Pr. (N. Y.) 433]), or as to the time in which the building is to be completed (Walling v. Warren, 2 Colo. 434); again the contract is entire, where a right is reserved to the owner to suspend further prosecution of work and pay for the building when it has been brought to a certain stage of completion (Hunnicutt, etc., Co. v. Van Hoose, 111 Ga. 518, 36 S. E. 669), and where the contract provides for retention of some of the contract price (Grassman v. Bonn, 32 N. J. Eq. 43; Quigley v. De Haas, 82 Pa. St. 267), notwithstanding payment for the work done is to be made in instalments (Grassman v. Bonn, 32 N. J. Eq. 43).

The entire and indivisible nature of a contract is not affected by a provision in a building contract that a certain person shall be paid as the work progresses. Medley v. American Radiator Co., (Tex. Civ. App. 1901) 66 S. W. 86.

An inference of an entire contract may be rebutted by proof of the owner's attempt to get an uncompleted building insured against loss by fire. Partridge v. Forsyth, 29 Ala. 200.

As to the nature of entire or severable contracts in general see CONTRACTS.

As to performance of an entire contract see infra, V, B.

As to recovery where contract is entire or severable see infra, V, B.

12. Illinois.— Keeler v. Clifford, 165 Ill. 544, 46 N. E. 248 [affirming 62 Ill. App. 64].

Iowa.— Dibol v. Minott, 9 Iowa 403.

Michigan.— Barnard v. McLeod, 114 Mich. 73, 72 N. W. 24.

Minnesota.—Spear v. Snider, 29 Minn. 463, 13 N. W. 910.

New Hampshire.— Flather v. Economy Slugging Mach. Co., (N. H. 1902) 52 Atl. 454.

New York.— Arnson v. Wertheim, 21 Misc. (N. Y.) 483, 47 N. Y. Suppl. 657; Gay v. Haskins, 11 Misc. (N. Y.) 134, 31 N. Y. Suppl. 1022, 65 N. Y. St. 53.

Pennsylvania.—Crawford v. McKinney, 165 Pa. St. 605, 30 Atl. 1045; East Union Tp. v. Comrey, (Pa. 1887) 9 Atl. 290.

Rhode Island.—Briggs v. Titus, 7 R. I. 441.

Wisconsin.— Arndt v. Keller, 96 Wis. 274, 71 N. W. 651.

Illustrations of severable contracts.—A contract to build for an entire sum payable on completion but providing that on failure to complete the owner may do so at the builder's expense is a severable contract (Arndt v. Keller, 96 Wis. 274, 71 N. W. 651); so the contract is severable where it provides for payment of definite sums at different periods before the completion of the entire work (Keeler v. Clifford, 165 Ill. 544, 46 N. E. 248 [affirming 62 Ill. App. 64]; Dibol v. Minott, 9 Iowa 403; Crawford v. McKinney, 165 Pa. St. 605, 30 Atl. 1045), or where the contract is to do several buildings at so much per building (Dibol v. Minott, 9 Iowa 403; depends upon the intention of the parties to be gathered from the circumstances of the case.[13]

2. Plans and Specifications. The contract moreover may be embodied in several instruments:[14] Thus plans and specifications, if made a part of the contract, are essential factors in determining the rights of the parties.[15]

B. Requisites and Validity— 1. In General — a. Certainty. To constitute a valid building contract, the language used must be such that it is possible to ascertain to a reasonable degree of certainty the meaning and intention of the parties.[16]

Barnard v. McLeod, 114 Mich. 73, 72 N. W. 24), or the building consists of separate items, a price being apportioned to each item or left to implication of law (Dibol v. Minott, 9 Iowa 403; Spear v. Snider, 29 Minn. 463, 13 N. W. 910; McMaster v. State, 108 N. Y. 542, 15 N. E. 417; East Union Tp. v. Comrey, (Pa. 1887) 9 Atl. 290), or when it appears that no work was done or materials furnished under a special contract; that no terms were agreed upon; that no prices were fixed; that no time of payment was appointed; and that directions were given from time to time as to what was wanted (Briggs v. Titus, 7 R. I. 441).

Warranty contained in specifications independent of contract.— Where the builder agreed to put in certain apparatus for heating and the specifications guaranteed the apparatus to heat to a certain temperature the warranty was held to be an independent undertaking. Gay v. Haskins, 11 Misc. (N. Y.) 134, 31 N. Y. Suppl. 1022, 65 N. Y. St. 53.

13. Hunnicutt, etc., Co. v. Van Hoose, 111 Ga. 518, 36 S. E. 669; Allen v. Sanders, 7 B. Mon. (Ky.) 593; McGowan v. U. S., 35 Ct. Cl. 606.

14. Howard v. Pensacola, etc., R. Co., 24 Fla. 560, 5 So. 356; Francis v. Heine Safety Boiler Co., 109 Fed. 838, 48 C. C. A. 687 [reversing on other ground 105 Fed. 413].

15. California.— Willamette Steam Mills Lumbering, etc., Co. v. Los Angeles College Co., 94 Cal. 229, 29 Pac. 629; Worden v. Hammond, 37 Cal. 61.

Colorado.— Charles v. E. F. Hallack Lumber, etc., Co., 22 Colo. 283, 43 Pac. 548.

Florida.— Howard v. Pensacola, etc., R. Co., 24 Fla. 560, 5 So. 356.

Louisiana.— Suarez v. Duralde, 1 La. 260.

Wisconsin.— Learmonth v. Veeder, 11 Wis. 138.

United States.— Harvey v. U. S., 8 Ct. Cl. 501.

See 11 Cent. Dig. tit. "Contracts," § 884 et seq.

Plans and specifications are usually prepared by architects and require great skill and experience. Learmonth v. Veeder, 11 Wis. 138.

Writing furnished to builder regarded as specification.— Where a contract did not fix the amount of work to be done, except by reference to accompanying drawing and specifications, but the drawing and specifications actually annexed to the contract did not fix the amount of work, it was held that a writing, prepared by one party and furnished to the other to estimate and bid thereon and upon which he made his proposals which were accepted, which specified within limits the amount of work, was properly admitted in evidence as an accompanying specification. Monmouth Park Assoc. v. Warren, 55 N. J. L. 598, 27 Atl. 932.

What matters covered by specifications partially made part of contract.— Plans and specifications expressly made part of a written contract in so far as certain matters are concerned do not cover other matters not embraced in terms in the contract, merely because those matters appear in the plans and specifications and may properly come under the head of an item mentioned in the contract. Harvy v. Radkey, 1 Tex. App. Civ. Cas. § 276.

Guaranty contained in specifications binds the contractor.— Lake View v. MacRitchie, 134 Ill. 203, 25 N. E. 663.

Duty of builder to comply with plans and specifications see infra, V, B.

Liability for defects in plans and specifications see infra, III, B, 3; V, B.

As to right of builder to refuse to do work not shown on plans and specifications or to furnish materials other than those appearing therein see infra, V, B, 7.

16. Thomas v. Thomasville Shooting Club, 123 N. C. 285, 31 S. E. 654.

Contract stating what is intended to be included.—A contract is not void for uncertainty where the builder agrees to construct a feeder for a canal therein described for a sum specified, and the contract itself states what was meant to be included, namely, "every kind of work connected with fetching the water into the canal." Phelps v. Sheldon, 13 Pick. (Mass.) 50, 23 Am. Dec. 659.

Quantity and value.—A contract requiring construction in accordance with specifications on file, and there are none on file, is not void for uncertainty where the contract itself specifies the material and there is a common and well-known method of construction. Hitchcock v. Galveston, 3 Woods (U. S.) 287, 12 Fed. Cas. No. 6,534.

The ground on which a building is to be erected need not be described.—Austin v. Wohler, 5 Ill. App. 300.

Supplying omissions in incomplete contract.— Where the building contract and its consideration are agreed on except that the times and manner of payment of the price are left for future determination, the omission may be supplied by inserting the necessary omissions before the contract is signed; but work commenced before signature must be considered as done under the contract as

It is also essential that the language of the contract be so intelligible as to render the contract capable of performance.[17]

b. Mutuality. Every building contract must contain the elements of mutuality, that is to say, there must be a two-fold obligation — the one on the part of the builder to do work, and the other on the part of his employer to pay therefor.[18]

2. Formal Requisites — a. Necessity of Writing. Unless statutes render a written and signed building contract essential to recovery thereon,[19] a written contract is not requisite, provided that performance be possible within one year from execution thereof.[20] signed, in so far as the right to a first payment is concerned. Reynolds v. Welsh, 8 N. Y. St. 404.

17. Lyle v. Jackson County, 23 Ark. 63.

Specifications making building impossible. — A contract to build in every particular similar to specifications and plans annexed is bad, where the specifications make it impossible to erect a structure of any known dimensions. Lyle v. Jackson County, 23 Ark. 63. See also Turney v. Bridgeport, 55 Conn. 412, 12 Atl. 520.

As to certainty required in specifications see infra, III, B, 2, b.

18. Greve v. Ganger, 36 Wis. 369.

A mere schedule of prices for work and material signed by the parties, but containing no undertaking by either party, is not an agreement to build. Eyser v. Weissgerber, 2 Iowa 463.

There is no mutuality of obligation where there is no definite agreement but merely a bid by the builder in the shape of an unsigned memorandum, without reference to any building and without names of parties or specifications.. Doyle v. Desenberg, 74 Mich. 79, 41 N. W. 866.

Where contractors gave plans and estimates, and the owner agreed to accept the bid, provided certain alterations therein were made, saying that he would make a written contract when he came to the place where the building was to be erected, upon which the contractors agreed to make such alterations at such time, and the owner told the contractors that they might consider that they had the contract, but recommended them not to commence work until he came, as he expected to change the plans, it was held that the correspondence did not constitute a contract. Bissinger v. Prince, 117 Ala. 480, 23 So. 67.

19. West Coast Lumber Co. v. Knapp, 122 Cal. 79, 54 Pac. 533, holding that a writing signed by the parties, but not of itself determining what constitutes the contract, is not sufficient under a statute requiring the whole contract to be in writing, and that if the writing refers to drawings and specifications, in accordance with which the building is to be erected, such drawings and specifications must be in existence.

20. Sarles v. Sharlow, 5 Dak. 100, 37 N. W. 748; Plimpton v. Curtiss, 15 Wend. (N. Y.) 336; Jones v. Pouch, 41 Ohio St. 146. See also Badders v. Davis, 88 Ala. 367, 6 So. 834.

Effect of understanding that contract should be in writing.— Where all the substantial terms of a contract have been agreed on and nothing is left for future settlement, the mere fact of an understanding that the contract should be formally drawn up and put in writing does not leave the transaction incomplete and without binding force, unless there is a positive agreement that the contract shall not be binding until reduced to writing and formally executed. Disken v. Herter, 73 N. Y. App. Div. 453, 77 N. Y. Suppl. 300. And work may be suspended by a builder, where the owner agreed to have the contract under which the work was commenced reduced to writing and refuses so to do. Smith v. O'Donnell, 15 Misc. (N. Y.) 98, 36 N. Y. Suppl. 480, 71 N. Y. St. 432.

Necessity of contract under seal when one party is incorporated.— Where a private corporation contracted under seal for the execution of works according to the terms of a specification annexed, which contained provisions for extra work, and the builder, under the superintendence of the employer's engineer and with his approbation, executed extra works which could not be considered as coming within the provisions of the contract under seal, a claim was made by the builder upon the company to a much larger amount than that specified by the contract, and the directors paid him a sum generally on account. By 8 & 9 Vict. c. 16, s. 97, the directors of such company may make parol contracts without the same being reduced to writing, where such contract would, if entered into between private persons, be valid; but as there was not any evidence that the company had contracted for this extra work under seal, or that the company had entered into a contract for the same under the terms of their special act, or of any general act authorizing the same, the company was not liable to the builder for the extra work so performed by him. Homersham v. Wolverhampton Waterworks Co., 6 Exch. 137, 6 R. & Can. Cas. 790. See also, generally, Corporations.

Necessity of revenue stamp to render contract admissible in evidence see Vincent v. Cole, 3 C. & P. 481, 14 E. C. L. 673. See also Black v. Woodrow, 39 Md. 194, in which case it was held that an agreement unstamped, as required by act of congress, 13th July, 1866, might be used in evidence, where it did not appear that there was any fraudulent intent to evade the provisions of the Stamp Act.

b. Signature. A written building agreement, showing on its face that it is to be executed by both builder and employer, or at least assented to by both, should be signed by them,[21] but it has been said that actual signing of the contract by the party to be charged therewith is not material, so long as the terms of the contract are agreed upon and the builder is directed to proceed with the work called for by the plans.[22]

c. Recording. Where required by statute the building contract must be recorded or it is void and cannot form the basis of a recovery of damages for prevention of its performance.[23]

3. CONSIDERATION. A consideration is essential to the validity of a building contract.[24]

21. Keating v. Nelson, 33 Ill. App. 357, where it was said that an employer was not bound by an agreement where the builder had not signed it. See also Lewis v. Crow, 69 Ind. 434.

The fact that specifications referred to in a building contract are not signed by the parties is immaterial if the specifications are otherwise sufficiently identified. White v. McLaren, 151 Mass. 553, 24 N. E. 911; Lennon v. Smith, 14 Daly (N. Y.) 520, 1 N. Y. Suppl. 97, 16 N. Y. St. 668. Contra, Donnelly v. Adams, 115 Cal. 129, 46 Pac. 916, holding that a building contract referring to plans and specifications signed by the parties to the contract cannot form the basis of a recovery on a contract if there are no signed plans.

22. Girard L. Ins., etc., Co. v. Cooper, 162 U. S. 529, 16 S. Ct. 879, 40 L. ed. 1062.

A builder who refuses to sign a contract under which he has already done work is entitled to be paid the value of the work done. McWilliams v. Joseph, 1 L. C. L. J. 92.

23. Palmer v. White, 70 Cal. 220, 11 Pac. 647. See also Laidlaw v. Marye, 133 Cal. 170, 65 Pac. 391.

As to necessity of recording see MECHANICS' LIENS.

As to whom the duty of recording belongs see infra, V, A, 1.

Actual notice by a subcontractor of the existence of a building contract is not equivalent to the filing of the contract in the recorder's office. Butterworth v. Levy, 104 Cal. 506, 38 Pac. 897.

Unrecorded contract as evidence.— Where an original contractor sued for the reasonable value of his services and materials in repairing a building, a written contract, though unrecorded, was admissible to show that the work had not been performed in substantial compliance with its terms. Laidlaw v. Marye, 133 Cal. 170, 65 Pac. 391.

Plans and specifications made part of a contract for a building must be filed in California. Pierce v. Birkholm, 115 Cal. 657, 47 Pac. 681.

It is not sufficient to file a sun-print copy of the plans and drawings bearing a photographic representation of those documents and of the signatures thereto. San Francisco Lumber Co. v. O'Neil, 120 Cal. 455, 52 Pac. 728.

24. Performance of legal obligation.— Where a builder agreed with A, who had contracted to build a house for B, to assist him in building the house in consideration of his assisting him in his work, and after A had assisted the builder B agreed to pay the builder for any services performed by him, there was no consideration, as the builder was already bound to render such services (Ford v. Crenshaw, 1 Litt. (Ky.) 68; and see Moyer v. Kirby, 2 Pearson (Pa.) 64); so the employer's agreement to pay that which he has already contracted to pay does not constitute a consideration for a new promise to perform the same building operation (Widiman v. Brown, 83 Mich. 241, 47 N. W. 231).

Completion of work under partly performed contract.— One contracting to build at a fixed price who, after part performance, refuses to proceed but does complete his work on a parol promise by the employer to pay him for his labor and material, can recover on the promise, as it is on a sufficient consideration. Munroe v. Perkins, 9 Pick. (Mass.) 298, 20 Am. Dec. 475. So a promise made by an original contractor to the subcontractor of his subcontractor that he would give him extra compensation if he would complete a contract he had refused to proceed further with because of non-payments by his immediate contractor is supported by sufficient consideration. Grant v. Duluth, etc., R. Co., 61 Minn. 395, 63 N. W. 1026; Chapman v. Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co., 18 W. Va. 184 (where the promise was made by the employer); Yeoman v. Mueller, 33 Mo. App. 343 (where a subcontractor was informed by the owner that the builder had overdrawn his account and that he (the owner) would have to pay for the work and requested the subcontractor to stop work as he could get it done cheaper; this the subcontractor declined to do and the owner finally instructed him to proceed, send the bills to him but to make a reduction in the price if possible and it was held that the contract was supported by a sufficient consideration in the request to the subcontractor to go on with the work and his compliance with the request). Again, where a building contractor defaulted and permitted liens to accrue and the contract was assigned to sureties on his bond, and the balance on the price paid them on their agreement to finish and discharge all liens to an amount not to exceed the bond plus the amount paid them, it was held that the agreement was supported by a sufficient consideration. McHenry v. Brown, 66 Minn. 123, 68 N. W. 847.

4. LEGALITY — a. In General. It has been held that a contract to build a structure that is capable only of use for a purpose prohibited by law cannot form the basis of recovery;[25] on the other hand, it has been held that a builder may recover for building a house intended to be used by the owner for illegal purposes, where it is not shown that the builder's purpose in building was that the house should be used for those purposes, though he may have known of the owner's intention.[26]

b. Building Regulations. It is essential that the contract to build be not in violation of any building regulations.[27]

c. Special Provisions — (I) AS TO ASSIGNMENT OF MONEY DUE ON THE CONTRACT. A provision is valid that prohibits the builder from assigning any Payment of valid matured debt.—An agreement by one who has performed labor for a contractor in the erection of a building to sign a release of the contractor from personal liability, in consideration that the owner will pay the former a past-due note, is nudum pactum. McNutt v. Loney, 153 Pa. St. 281, 31 Wkly. Notes Cas. (Pa.) 576, 25 Atl. 1088.

Where performance is impossible, as where the contract provides that the builder shall receive no compensation unless his work conforms to a standard having no existence the contract is invalid. Nordyke, etc., Co. v. Kehlor, 155 Mo. 643, 56 S. W. 287.

Sufficient consideration for contract between owner and subcontractor.— Where a materialman agreed to furnish building materials to a builder provided the owner would retain sufficient of the money due on the contract to protect the materialman, there was sufficient consideration between the latter and the owner for the owner's promise so to do. Roussel v. Mathews, 62 N. Y. App. Div. 1, 70 N. Y. Suppl. 886 [affirmed in 171 N. Y. 634, 63 N. E. 1122].

Question of consideration one for the jury. — Where a person agreed to build for the mere convenience of an owner in consideration of the latter releasing him from certain damages, it was held that the contract showed a sufficient consideration to render it valid and that it could not be declared void on ex parte affidavits of one of the parties averring that it was not founded on any consideration because the other party had the right to a submission of the question of a consideration to a jury. Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Carter, (Tex. 1902) 68 S. W. 159.

Consideration for builder's agreement to do work abandoned by subcontractor.— Where a subcontractor was unable to complete his contract and it was agreed that the general contractor should finish his work and pay any balance to him, and in pursuance of this agreement the work was completed and the general contractor rendered a statement showing a balance which he was willing to pay, it was held that, if the subcontractor omitted to have the work performed by other means, there was sufficient consideration for the agreement of the general contractor. Pease v. McQuillin, 180 Mass. 135, 61 N. E. 819.

25. Spurgeon v. McElwain, 6 Ohio 442, 27 Am. Dec. 266.

26. Michael v. Bacon, 49 Mo. 474, 8 Am. Rep. 138.

Contract partially void as ousting jurisdiction.—Where an otherwise valid contract contains a provision for the decision of an engineer as to any differences between the parties, and provides that it shall be final, and such provision is separate and individual with regard to other provisions of the contract, the fact that the provision is void as being against public policy in ousting the jurisdiction of the courts does not affect the remainder of the contract. Gay v. Lathrop, 6 N. Y. St. 603.

As to provisions void as being against public policy see infra, II, B, 4, c, (III).

Right of builder participating in illegal contract to plead illegality.— Where the builder participates in a contract void on the ground of illegality he is not prevented from pleading the illegality. William Wilcox Mfg. Co. v. Brazos, 74 Conn. 208, 50 Atl. 722.

27. Burger v. Koelsch, 77 Hun (N. Y.) 44, 28 N. Y. Suppl. 460, 59 N. Y. St. 69; Beman v. Tugnot, 5 Sandf. (N. Y.) 153; Stevens v. Gourley, 7 C. B. N. S. 99, 1 F. & F. 498, 6 Jur. N. S. 147, 29 L. J. C. P. 1, 1 L. T. Rep. N. S. 33, 8 Wkly. Rep. 85, 97 E. C. L. 99.

Contract to build in manner prohibited by statute void.— Under a statute providing that plans and specifications of any structure proposed to be erected in particular localities must be approved by certain officers before construction thereof, an agreement to build from plans and specifications not submitted to such officers is void. William Wilcox Mfg. Co. v. Brazos, 74 Conn. 208, 50 Atl. 722.

Illegality of agreement to build without requisite permit.— Where an ordinance requires that a permit for building must be obtained an agreement between the builder and owner to construct without obtaining such permit is unlawful and cannot form the basis of a civil action. Smith v. Luning Co., 111 Cal. 308, 43 Pac. 967.

A lawful contract to construct, although carried out in an illegal manner, because no permit is obtained, and the work not done by a person authorized by law, cannot be declared illegal as a whole so as to prevent a recovery under it. Fox v. Rogers, 171 Mass. 546, 50 N. E. 1041.

Effect of building regulation upon contract previously made.—A contract to build which, though lawful in its inception, becomes by a change in the law unlawful to fulfil is necessarily at an end and cannot be enforced. Walker v. McMillan, 6 Can. Supreme Ct. 241.

money payable under the agreement unless with the assent of the owner, and that authorizes the owner to notify the builder to discontinue work under the contract.[28]

(II) AS TO BONDS. A contract may require the builder to tender the owner a satisfactory bond within a certain time of the execution of the contract.[29]

(III) AS TO CERTIFICATES, ESTIMATES, ETC. A stipulation is legal, and enforceable by the courts, which provides that the certificate, estimate, determination, or decision of an architect, engineer, or some other person shall be final and conclusive,[30] with respect to disputes concerning the meaning or construction of drawings and specifications;[31] any matters of difference;[32]

Duty of builder to observe building regulations see infra, V, A, 3.

As to building regulations in general see MUNICIPAL CORPORATIONS.

28. Burnett v. Jersey City, 31 N. J. Eq. 341, holding that subsequent materialmen or persons who have worked in the building have no right to demand a fulfilment of the provision, which is one designed for the protection of the owner against the dereliction or insolvency of the builder.

Rights of subcontractors, materialmen, etc., see infra, V, D.

Effect of assignment of balance due builder who subsequently becomes bankrupt see Drew v. Josolyne, 18 Q. B. D. 590, 56 L. J. Q. B. 490, 57 L. T. Rep. N. S. 5, 35 Wkly. Rep. 570.

29. Brown v. Levy, (Tex. Civ. App. 1902) 69 S. W. 255, holding that a provision of this character does not confer upon the owner a right to reject a good and solvent bond for capricious or whimsical reasons, nor does it contemplate a bond that will impose upon the owner a performance of acts he would not otherwise be required to perform for the protection of a surety on the bond; thus, he need not accept a bond stipulating that he give immediate notice in writing to the surety of default by the builder, and that any suit on the bond be instituted within a specified time after completion of the work.

For whose protection intended.—A clause providing that if it be required a builder shall furnish security is intended for the protection of the owner and not for persons furnishing material to the builder. Hurd v. Johnson Park Invest. Co., 13 Misc. (N. Y.) 643, 34 N. Y. Suppl. 915, 69 N. Y. St. 141.

For form of bond see Brown v. Levy, (Tex. Civ. App. 1902) 69 S. W. 255.

Duty of builder to furnish security see infra, V, A, 2.

As to builders' bonds see infra, VI.

30. Florida.— Summerlin v. Thompson, 31 Fla. 369, 12 So. 667.

Georgia.— Green v. Jackson, 66 Ga. 250.

Minnesota.— Meyer v. Berlandi, 53 Minn. 59, 54 N. W. 937.

Missouri.— Eldridge v. Fuhr, 59 Mo. App. 44.

Pennsylvania.— Brown v. Decker, 142 Pa. St. 640, 21 Atl. 903.

Texas.— Boettler v. Tendick, 73 Tex. 488, 11 S. W. 497, 5 L. R. A. 270.

Adoption of arbitration clause by subcontractor.— Where a subcontractor accepts work under a contract which adopts, as between himself and the original contractor, all the terms and requirements of the original contract, an arbitration clause is likewise adopted. Brown v. Decker, 142 Pa. St. 640, 21 Atl. 903. See also Green v. Jackson, 66 Ga. 250.

The enforcement of such a stipulation cannot be objected to by the owner for the reason that the architect was selected by him and charged by him with this very power, and the builder is not entitled to complain because he takes the work on the condition that the stipulation be enforced. Boettler v. Tendick, 73 Tex. 488, 11 S. W. 497, 5 L. R. A. 270.

The stipulation may be waived.— Summerlin v. Thompson, 31 Fla. 369, 12 So. 667; Meyer v. Berlandi, 53 Minn. 59, 54 N. W. 937.

There is a waiver where the clause is not set up in abatement of an action on the contract, but defendant pleads a failure on the part of plaintiff to comply with his contract (Healy v. Fallon, 69 Conn. 228, 37 Atl. 495; Summerlin v. Thompson, 31 Fla. 369, 12 So. 667), or presents an issue involving a consideration by the jury of the entire merits of the controversy (Summerlin v. Thompson, 31 Fla. 369, 12 So. 667); so where the parties proceed without regard to the provision they will be held to have waived it (Meyer v. Berlandi, 53 Minn. 59, 54 N. W. 937). Again waiver may be presumed where defendant on a motion for a nonsuit does not specifically urge as a ground thereof that suit was premature, or raise that question at the close of the case, or ask that the question of waiver be submitted to the jury. Preston v. Syracuse, 92 Hun (N. Y.) 301, 36 N. Y. Suppl. 716, 71 N. Y. St. 782. Moreover a declaration by an owner to a builder that he will not pay more than a specified sum for extra work excuses the latter from a strict compliance with an agreement to refer to the architects a disagreement as to the value of the work. Munk v. Kanzler, 26 Ind. App. 105, 58 N. E. 543.

A contract providing that disputes, or what is extra work, shall be conclusively determined by the employer and the architect is not binding on the builder, as a party making a contract cannot stipulate that he himself shall arbitrate differences arising therefrom. Fulton County v. Gibson, (Ind. 1902) 63 N. E. 982.

31. Holmes v. Richet, 56 Cal. 307, 38 Am. Rep. 54; Cosby v. Adams, Wils. (Ind.) 342; Smith v. Boston, etc., R. Co., 36 N. H. 458.

32. Smith v. Boston, etc., R. Co., 36 N. H. 458; Hurst v. Litchfield, 39 N. Y. 377; Max-the quantity or quality of the work done under the contract;[33] satisfactory performance;[34] payments;[35] amount and value of work;[36] measurement of well v. Thompson, 15 S. C. 612; Mitchell v. Dougherty, 86 Fed. 859.

Effect of provision upon rights of parties. — In general the agreement does not bar the parties of their remedies by action at law or by suit in equity, but the provision will not be specifically enforced. An action at law, however, on such an agreement affords no effectual redress for a refusal to refer, since it is not easy to show that the party has sustained any actual damage by the refusal. Smith v. Boston, etc., R. Co., 36 N. H. 458. See also Holmes v. Richet, 56 Cal. 307, 38 Am. Rep. 54; Hurst v. Litchfield, 39 N. Y. 377. A provision, that any dispute or differerence arising with the contractors in any way relating to the contract or any question arising between any of the several contractors relating to the proposed building shall be settled by the architect whose decision shall be absolute and final, applies only to disputes as to the mode of carrying on the several works, and not to differences between the contractors and their employers as to extras. Pashby v. Birmingham, 18 C. B. 2, 86 E. C. L. 2. A provision for decision of disputes between builders does not make the decision a condition precedent to the right of a contractor to sue another contractor for the costs of removing rubbish placed by the latter contractor on land on which the former had to work. Delamater v. Folz, 50 Hun (N. Y.) 528, 3 N. Y. Suppl. 711, 20 N. Y. St. 821.

A clause providing that a dispute as to the value of extra work shall be submitted to arbitration does not negative the effect of a provision requiring an architect's certificate of satisfactory completion so as to dispense with the necessity of such certificate as to extras, and require arbitration as to all questions concerning them, but the arbitration is required only as to the value of extra work. Fox v. Powers, 65 N. Y. App. Div. 112, 72 N. Y. Suppl. 573.

33. Arkansas.— Hot Springs R. Co. v. Maher, 48 Ark. 522, 3 S. W. 639.

Florida.— Summerlin v. Thompson, 31 Fla. 369, 12 So. 667.

Indiana.— Cosby v. Adams, Wils. (Ind.) 342.

New Hampshire.— Smith v. Boston, etc., R. Co., 36 N. H. 458.

United States.— Elliott v. Missouri, etc., R. Co., 74 Fed. 707, 40 U. S. App. 61, 21 C. C. A. 3.

34. Wilcox v. Stephenson, 30 Fla. 377, 11 So. 659; Finegan v. L'Engle, 8 Fla. 413.

Decisions as to quantity or fitness of material or sufficiency of work.—An agreement that an architect or engineer shall determine the quantity or fitness of material or the sufficiency of work is a reference of a matter in dispute to a person fitted by special knowledge to determine the facts, and it is for the benefit of both parties that such facts be settled as the work proceeds, hence an agreement for such arbitrament will be upheld. Barlow v. U. S., 35 Ct. Cl. 514.

The stipulation does not apply to the question of damages caused by the owner in wrongfully breaking the contract. West v. Suda, 69 Conn. 60, 36 Atl. 1015.

Clause creates condition precedent.—Where the contract provides that an architect is to certify that work is completed to his satisfaction, the obtaining of the certificate is a condition precedent to a right to final payment. Davidson v. Francis, 14 Manitoba 141.

Application of clause.—A clause providing that the work was to be executed to the full satisfaction of the architect and to the satisfaction of the owner has no reference to the quality of the workmanship or materials, and is only put in the contract to prevent any change of plan or design without the consent and approval of the owner. Tetz v. Butterfield, 54 Wis. 242, 11 N. W. 531, 41 Am. Rep. 29.

A clause requiring a certificate from an architect merely provides a method by which the owner may satisfy himself that the builder has fully performed his contract and is for the benefit of the owner (Blethen v. Blake, 44 Cal. 117), and he may waive it (Blethen v. Blake, 44 Cal. 117; Clark v. Pope, 70 Ill. 128; Gilmore v. Courtney, 54 Ill. App. 417).

35. Denver, etc., Constr. Co. v. Stout, 8 Colo. 61, 5 Pac. 627; Wilcox v. Stephenson, 30 Fla. 377, 11 So. 659; Mitchell v. Kavanagh, 38 Iowa 286; Mansfield, etc., R. Co. v. Veeder, 17 Ohio 385.

Contract partly printed and partly written.— The fact that a provision for payments on architect's certificates is contained in the printed part of a contract, and that a provision that payments are to be made at fixed stages in the progression of the work and at definite times on its completion is written does not render the provision for payment on certificates inoperative, since there is no inconsistency between it and the written part of the contract. Michaelis v. Wolf, 136 Ill. 68, 26 N. E. 384.

When obtaining of certificate is not a condition precedent.—A clause providing for payment by the owners every two weeks on the architect's certificate for the amount of work done, less a percentage to be held by them, until final completion of the contract, does not make it a condition precedent that a certificate should be obtained on final completion. Childress v. Smith, (Tex. Civ. App. 1896) 37 S. W. 1076.

36. Summerlin v. Thompson, 31 Fla. 369, 12 So. 667.

When clauses create condition precedent. — Where the contract provides that before any right of action shall accrue with respect to extra work any dispute regarding its value must be determined by a tribunal selected by work;[37] or loss, expense, or damage to owner.[38] The jurisdiction of the courts, however, must not be ousted thereby.[39]

(IV) As to Completion of Unfinished Work. The contract may provide that on failure of the builder to complete his work according to contract the owner may employ any other person or persons to finish the work and provide materials therefor.[40]

(V) As to Compliance With Building Laws. A stipulation that the provisions of a building law will be complied with in the construction of the building described in the contract, whether the provisions are specified in the contract or not, is a proper one.[41]

(VI) As to Deviations From Contract. A stipulation that no deviation from any of the provisions of the contract, specifications, or drawings will be permitted except with the sanction and writing of the architect or engineer is both the parties, it is a condition precedent that there be a determination (Holmes v. Richet, 56 Cal. 307, 38 Am. Rep. 54; Kennedy v. U. S., 24 Ct. Cl. 122), or an attempt to obtain one (Ball v. Doud, 26 Oreg. 14, 37 Pac. 70; Fulton v. Peters, 137 Pa. St. 613, 20 Atl. 936); but an agreement as to valuation of extra work is not a condition precedent to a recovery therefor, where the reasonableness of the charges is not questioned (Essex v. Murray, (Tex. Civ. App. 1902) 68 S. W. 736).

The provision does not apply, where the owner refuses to pay for work on the ground that the contract has not been substantially performed. Oberlies v. Bullinger, 75 Hun (N. Y.) 248, 27 N. Y. Suppl. 19, 57 N. Y. St. 752.

37. McMahon v. New York, etc., R. Co., 20 N. Y. 463.

38. Tally v. Parsons, 131 Cal. 516, 63 Pac. 833; Eldridge v. Fuhr, 59 Mo. App. 44.

39. Hurst v. Litchfield, 39 N. Y. 377; Mitchell v. Dougherty, 90 Fed. 639, 62 U. S. App. 443, 33 C. C. A. 205.

Illustrations.—A stipulation that the engineers of a railway company shall make final estimates of the quality, character, and value of the work done by a railway contractor, and that such estimates shall be final and conclusive as against the contractor, without further recourse or appeal, is invalid, and cannot deprive the builders of the right to refer to the courts for a redress of wrongs and for the recovery of whatever may have been due them. Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Donnegan, 111 Ind. 179, 12 N. E. 153. A contract providing that engineers employed on the work shall be "referee in all cases to determine all the questions that may in any way arise . . . and to decide all questions which may arise relative to the fulfilment of this contract" is void as against public policy. National Contracting Co. v. Hudson River Water Power Co., 34 Misc. (N. Y.) 652, 70 N. Y. Suppl. 585 [affirmed in 67 N. Y. App. Div. 620, 73 N. Y. Suppl. 1142]. The architect, to the exclusion of the court, is not invested with authority to determine the questions as to what delay there was in completing the work, and whether it was caused by acts and orders of the owner, or was attributable to the builder, under a provision that changes may be directed by the owner, and that, in case of any addition, such further time shall be allowed for completion of the work as the architect shall decide to be reasonable, and that any question arising during progress of the work, or in settlement of accounts, shall be referred to the architect, whose decision shall be binding on both parties. Murphy v. Orne, 185 Pa. St. 250, 42 Wkly. Notes Cas. (Pa.) 271, 39 Atl. 959.

40. Tally v. Parsons, 131 Cal. 516, 63 Pac. 833.

For form of such clause see Parker v. McGilway, 7 Rob. (La.) 192.

Provision should receive liberal construction.—A provision that the owner may, in case of default by the builder, proceed to finish the building himself, and to that end use materials brought by the builder on the ground for the purpose of building, and be accountable to the builder for any excess of the unpaid contract price over the cost of completion is not one for a forfeiture which must be strictly construed against the owner, since it does not involve the taking of any property of the builder, by way of penalty or punishment but is in the interest of both parties and is to be fairly construed to effect its purpose. Duplan Silk Co. v. Spencer, 115 Fed. 689.

Time to which clause refers.—A clause providing that the owner shall notify the builders of an intention to complete refers to the time when the work is in progress, and not after its completion. Spink v. Mueller, 77 Mo. App. 85.

The enforcement of the clause permitting the contract by the owner does not entitle the builder to damages.— Harder v. Marion County, 97 Ind. 455.

41. De Kay v. Bliss, 4 N. Y. St. 728, holding that the making of such stipulation requires the builder to consult the building laws and ascertain from them what his obligations are, thus where one of the requirements of a building law is with respect to fire-escapes, the builder cannot disregard its provisions, for should he so do he will not have complied with his contract.

Duty to comply with building laws see infra, V, A, 3.

equitable and reasonable,[42] is intended to protect the employer against doubtful claims,[43] and is consistent with provisions to the effect that alterations, additions, etc., may be directed by the architect or engineer.[44]

(VII) AS TO EMPLOYMENT OF SUBCONTRACTORS. A provision that the builder may not subcontract his work without the written consent of the architect or engineer is entirely proper and is intended for the benefit of the employer, who has a right to waive it.[45]

(VIII) AS TO EXTRA WORK AND CLAIMS THEREFOR. A provision that the builder is not to execute any extra work or make any modifications or alterations in the work mentioned in the specifications and plans, unless ordered in writing by the engineer in charge, or claim payment for the same, unless such written order be produced, is valid and should be enforced.[46] Such a provision is one intended for the benefit of the employer.[47]

(IX) AS TO LIABILITY OF BUILDER. Ordinarily a builder who agrees to work according to the plan and under the direction of an engineer or architect is not understood to insure the sufficiency of the plan or undertake as to the scientific correctness of the specifications or the verbal or written directions,[48] and he may stipulate against any liability for the correctness of the plan of the work that he is to execute.[49] On the other hand, he may guarantee the perfection of a plan, or the wisdom of directions given under the progress of the work by the architect whose orders he is by the terms of the contract bound to obey;[50] and, since he is bound for his own skill and the skill and fidelity of his workmen as well as the sufficiency of the material which he supplies there is nothing unreasonable in a guaranty that the workmanship and the material furnished by him should

42. White v. San Rafael, etc., R. Co., 50 Cal. 417.

43. White v. San Rafael, etc., R. Co., 50 Cal. 417.

44. White v. San Rafael, etc., R. Co., 50 Cal. 417.

Liability for deviations see infra, V, B.

45. Danforth v. Tennessee, etc., R. Co., 93 Ala. 614, 11 So. 60, holding that, for the purpose of showing a waiver, the builder may prove by the architect or engineer that he knew subcontractors were at work, and that he estimated their work, and that the employer was aware of the subcontracts and permitted the work to be done by the subcontractors without objection.

Rights of subcontractors see infra, V, D.

46. White v. San Rafael, etc., R. Co., 50 Cal. 417; Howard v. Pensacola, etc., R. Co., 24 Fla. 560, 5 So. 356.

The object of a clause providing that no extra charge is to be made unless a written agreement be made and attached to the contract is certainty as to the terms on which the work is to be done, in order that the parties may know how much one is to pay and the other to receive for such changes and alterations as may be made. Abbott v. Gatch, 13 Md. 314, 71 Am. Dec. 635.

The stipulation does not apply to work done pursuant to alterations made by subsequent mutual agreement. Wilkens v. Wilkerson, (Tex. Civ. App. 1897) 41 S. W. 178.

Condition precedent created by clause.—Where a contract provides that no claim for extra work shall be made unless the same be done in pursuance of a written order from the architect, and that all claims must be made to the architect in writing or be considered abandoned by the builder, these are conditions precedent to a right to recover. O'Keefe v. St. Francis' Church, 59 Conn. 551, 22 Atl. 325.

For form of clause see O'Keefe v. St. Francis' Church, 59 Conn. 551, 22 Atl. 325; Bartlett v. Stanchfield, 148 Mass. 394, 19 N. E. 549, 2 L. R. A. 625.

Recovery for extra work see infra, V, C, 3.

47. Howard v. Pensacola, etc., R. Co., 24 Fla. 560, 5 So. 356.

48. MacRitchie v. Lake View, 30 Ill. App. 393.

49. St. Patrick's Hall Assoc. v. Gilbert, 1 Montreal Leg. N. 116, 23 L. C. Jur. 1, 9 Rev. Lég. 612.

50. MacRitchie v. Lake View, 30 Ill. App. 393 [reversed on other ground in 134 Ill. 203, 25 N. E. 663].

Sufficiency of provisions to warrant correctness of plans.—A clause guaranteeing that work should remain in good condition for one year has the effect of insuring the sufficiency of the plan (Lake View v. MacRitchie, 134 Ill. 203, 25 N. E. 663 [reversing 30 Ill. App. 393]); but a warranty, that ground is free from quicksand or of the character shown by a plan, cannot be implied from a contract to build a dry dock on a place to be provided and designated by the employer, even though a plan showing the soil was shown to the builders and considered by them in making their bid (Simpson v. U. S., 172 U. S. 372, 19 S. Ct. 222, 43 L. ed. 482 [affirming 31 Ct. Cl. 217]).

Evidence that the builder orally warranted the correctness of the plans is not admissible to vary a written contract. Hills v. Farmington, 70 Conn. 450, 39 Atl. 795.

stand the test of a certain period of time after the completion and acceptance of the work.[51]

(x) As to Liquidated Damages. A provision for liquidated damages is usual in building contracts.[52]

(xi) As to Retention of Money Due Builder. It is competent for the parties to agree that the employer may retain in his hands money due the builder out of which to meet the demands of materialmen,[53] or that money earned by the builder shall be retained until completion of the work to answer any damages suffered by the owner;[54] and a provision of this character is supported by the consideration which supports the remainder of the contract.[55]

51. MacRitchie v. Lake View, 30 Ill. App. 393 [reversed on other ground in 134 Ill. 203, 25 N. E. 663].

Guaranty of work does not dispense with completion.—A guaranty of the roof of a building for some years against ordinary wear and tear does not dispense with the necessity of the builder completing the roof according to contract, nor does it put the roof in any position different from the rest of the work as to the necessity under another provision of the contract for a certificate that the building is completed according to the satisfaction of the architect. Davidson v. Francis, 14 Manitoba 141.

Warranty may exist without the use of any particular words, if such was the intention. Van Buskirk v. Murden, 22 Ill. 446, 74 Am. Dec. 163.

Effect of builder's abandonment of contract.—A clause providing that any damage incurred through default of the builder must be audited and certified by architects is not impaired by the builder's abandonment of the contract. Tally v. Parsons, 131 Cal. 516, 63 Pac. 833.

52. Mills v. Paul, (Tex. Civ. App. 1895) 30 S. W. 558. See also Downey v. O'Donnell, 86 Ill. 49.

For form of clause see Kelly v. Fejervary, (Iowa 1899) 78 N. W. 828.

Where the damages that may be suffered by a breach of contract must be of an uncertain nature or amount the parties may designate damages to be paid for the breach provided they are not obviously unconscionable. Mills v. Paul, (Tex. Civ. App. 1895) 30 S. W. 558.

A provision that stipulated damages should be paid for delay is material. McEntyre v. Tucker, 36 N. Y. App. Div. 53, 55 N. Y. Suppl. 153.

Where builder entirely abandons contract the provision is not applicable. Gallagher v. Baird, 54 N. Y. App. Div. 398, 66 N. Y. Suppl. 759.

As to construction of clause providing for liquidated damages see infra, II, C, 2.

53. Luthy v. Woods, 6 Mo. App. 67.

Equity will treat a balance retained for payment of subcontractors as an assignment of the fund and apply it to their payment to the exclusion of any other creditors or the original builder. Luthy v. Woods, 6 Mo. App. 67.

The furnishing of a sworn statement as to subcontractors is, in Illinois, a condition precedent to a suit by the builder on his contract. Gilmore v. Courtney, 158 Ill. 432, 41 N. E. 1023.

Provision creates condition precedent.—A provision that the builder shall furnish to the owner satisfactory evidence that materials furnished are fully released from all liens before he shall receive the sums due on final payment creates a condition precedent to recovery under the contract (Fogg v. Suburban Rapid-Transit Co., 90 Hun (N. Y.) 274, 35 N. Y. Suppl. 954, 70 N. Y. St. 627; Franklin v. Schultz, 23 Mont. 165, 57 Pac. 1037); but where a contract contained a clause requiring releases of mechanics' liens to be furnished by the builders before the last payment, and, in an action to recover a balance due on such contract, it appeared that a judgment foreclosing a mechanic's lien had been rendered against plaintiff from which an appeal had been taken, but that at the time of making the contract plaintiff executed a bond against liens to defendant in a sum many times greater than the amount of the lien for which judgment was given, it was proper to refuse an instruction that a tender of releases of mechanics' liens was a condition precedent to plaintiff's right to recover, since the only outstanding lien was the subject of a bona fide dispute that had been liquidated by judgment, and the matter was capable of adjustment by the court (Huckestein v. Kelly, etc., Co., 152 Pa. St. 631, 25 Atl. 747).

54. Danville Bridge Co. v. Pomroy, 15 Pa. St. 151, where it was held that such retention was not in the nature of liquidated damages.

Right of retention additional to protection of bond.—A right to withhold payments under a provision therefor, which also provides that no rights under the contractor's bond shall be impaired thereby, is intended as a protection additional to the bond, and not as applying only to the final payment. Dempsey v. Schwacker, 140 Mo. 680, 38 S. W. 954, 41 S. W. 1100.

Provision is for benefit of owner.—A provision in a building contract that the owner shall hold a certain percentage of the contract price until the completion of the work is for the benefit of the owner and does not render the owner personally liable to a subcontractor. Steele v. McBurney, 96 Iowa 449, 65 N. W. 332.

55. Luthy v. Woods, 6 Mo. App. 67.

(XII) As to Suspension of Building. A provision giving the employer the right at any time and for any reason satisfactory to him to suspend the progress of building either temporarily or permanently on giving certain notice, and further providing that such suspension shall give the builder no claim for damages therefor is one competent for the parties to make and is valid.[56]

(XIII) As to Termination of Work. A provision that work under the contract shall be terminated upon its arriving at a certain stage unless the builder is notified to go on and complete the work is valid, and is for the benefit of the owner who may waive it.[57]

C. Construction and Operation — 1. In General — a. What Law Governs. Like other contracts, a building contract must generally, when to be performed in a state or country other than where made, be governed by the law of the country or state in which it is to be performed.[58]

b. Where Contract Is Contained in Several Instruments. Applying a well-settled rule governing the construction of contracts, effect must be given, if possible, to every part of the contract, whether it is contained in one instrument or in many;[59] thus, plans and specifications, if not contained in the contract itself, but referred to therein or annexed thereto must be construed therewith,[60]

56. Warren-Scharf Asphalt Paving Co. v. Laclede Constr. Co., 111 Fed. 695, 49 C. C. A. 552.

Rescission or abandonment see infra, II, E.

57. Hinkley v. Grafton Hall, 101 Wis. 69, 76 N. W. 1093.

58. Thurman v. Kyle, 71 Ga. 628.

59. Mahoney v. St. Paul's Church, 47 La. Ann. 1064, 17 So. 484; Fitzgerald v. Moran, 19 N. Y. Suppl. 958, 47 N. Y. St. 379; Francis v. Heine Safety-Boiler Co., 109 Fed. 838, 48 C. C. A. 687 [reversing on other ground 105 Fed. 413].

Conditions inconsistent with contract.— A contract provided that, if work was not carried on with expedition, and in proper manner, the architect might give the contractor ten days' notice in writing to remedy such defects and, upon the latter's failure, dismiss him and employ others. The contract also provided that general conditions were made a part of the contract, except so far as inconsistent with them, in which case the contract should govern. Among the general conditions was one that, in case work was not proceeding with proper dispatch, the architect might give ten days' notice, and, upon failure of the contractor to make the necessary changes, the architect could, with the consent of the owner, take the work out of the hands of the contractor. It was held that such latter clause being inconsistent with the contract the contract would govern, and the architect had power to dismiss without the consent in writing of the owner. Neelon v. Toronto, 25 Can. Supreme Ct. 579.

Inconsistent provisions.— Where a clause provided that all walls should be plastered with certain cement, under the direction of a superintendent of its maker and another clause provided that the cement and sand should be mixed in equal parts, it was held that the two clauses were not inconsistent but that effect could be given to each. Fitzgerald v. Moran, 19 N. Y. Suppl. 958, 47 N. Y. St. 379.

General provisions do not control a specific provision.— Erickson v. U. S., 107 Fed. 204.

Where a subcontractor undertakes to work according to the original contract with the owner, the two contracts are so connected, and the one so dependent on the other, that they form one contract; and the subcontractor is entitled to the same benefits, as well as bound by the same conditions, as affected the first contractor under the original contract. Price v. Garland, 3 N. M. 285, 6 Pac. 472.

Where specifications made part of a contract provide for a guaranty the contract is coextensive with the guaranty clause of the specifications. North Bergen Bd. of Education v. Jaeger, (N. J. 1901) 50 Atl. 583.

60. Illinois.— Lake View v. MacRitchie, 134 Ill. 203, 25 N. E. 663.

Indiana.— Bird v. St. John's Episcopal Church, 154 Ind. 138, 56 N. E. 129.

Louisiana.— Suarez v. Duralde, 1 La. 260.

Massachusetts.— Bergin v. Williams, 138 Mass. 544.

New York.— Gay v. Haskins, 11 Misc. (N. Y.) 134, 31 N. Y. Suppl. 1022, 65 N. Y. St. 53.

United States.— Ingle v. Jones, 2 Wall. (U. S.) 1, 17 L. ed. 762.

See 11 Cent. Dig. tit. "Contracts," § 749.

A letter, referred to in a contract, that specifies among other things the quality of material and the mode of doing the work agreed on performs the function of a specification and should be construed as such within the meaning of the contract. McGeragle v. Broemel, 53 N. J. L. 59, 20 Atl. 857.

Reference to plans and specifications mean those on which builder estimates.— Where there are differences in plans furnished as a guide for the estimates of work proposed to be let, and a bidder uses the set furnished him for making his estimates and bid, and a difference as to the amount and quality of the work let to him arises between him and his employer on a bid made on the plans submitted which was accepted and made the basis when identified, and parol evidence is admissible for the purpose of such identification.[61]

c. General and Specific Words and Phrases. General rules must govern the construction of general and specific words,[62] or of particular words and phrases.[63]

d. Terms Implied as Part of Contract. As in other contracts whatever may be fairly implied from the terms and language of a building agreement is generally regarded, by the law, as contained in it,[64] but where the obligations of the contract, the words "plans," "diagrams," and "drawings" in the contract entered into upon such bid refer to the plans, etc., so furnished to him, and, if the plans, etc., referred to in the contract differ from those furnished, advantage of such difference cannot be taken, to the prejudice of the contractor. Sexton v. Chicago, 107 Ill. 323.

Effect of false reference to plans or specifications.—A false reference to signed or attached plans or specifications cannot be aided by parol evidence (Donnelly v. Adams, 115 Cal. 129, 46 Pac. 916; Willamette Steam Mills Lumbering, etc., Co. v. Los Angeles College Co., 94 Cal. 229, 29 Pac. 629; Worden v. Hammond, 37 Cal. 61); and a contract referring to "plans and specifications" as "herein made a part" of the contract, or referring to signed or attached plans or specifications that are not signed or attached, is left inchoate and incomplete and cannot form the basis of a recovery (Donnelly v. Adams, 115 Cal. 129, 46 Pac. 916; Willamette Steam Mills Lumbering, etc., Co. v. Los Angeles College Co., 94 Cal. 229, 29 Pac. 629; Worden v. Hammond, 37 Cal. 61; Almini Co. v. King, 92 Ill. App. 276), unless such contract contains something to locate or identify them in some way (Almini Co. v. King, 92 Ill. App. 276).

The contract as executed merges all previous or contemporaneous agreements as to changes in specifications, if there are specifications attached to the contract at the time of its execution. Coey v. Lehman, 79 Ill. 173.

Contract controls specifications.— Meyer v. Berlandi, 53 Minn. 59, 54 N. W. 937; Boteler v. Roy, 40 Mo. App. 234; Harvey v. U. S., 8 Ct. Cl. 501.

Specifications control plan.— Early v. O'Brien, 51 N. Y. App. Div. 569, 64 N. Y. Suppl. 848.

Effect of omission in plan.—As between positive requirements of specifications and a plan which, though perfect in other respects, omits a single detail, the mere implication derived from the omission in the plan is controlled by the specifications, thus where a contract provided that the building should be in all respects according to specifications, requiring "all walls to be vaulted," and to the plan on which the walls appeared a certain width, without any apparent vault or space, it was held that the walls were to be, including the vault, of that width only. Smith v. Flanders, 129 Mass. 322.

61. Bergin v. Williams, 138 Mass. 544.

62. Mellen v. Ford, 28 Fed. 639.

63. McPhee v. Young, 13 Colo. 80, 21 Pac. 1014; McIntire v. Barnes, 4 Colo. 285; Harris v. Rutledge, 19 Iowa 388, 87 Am. Dec. 441; U. S. v. Mueller, 113 U. S. 153, 5 S. Ct. 380, 28 L. ed. 946; Haydnville Min., etc., Co. v. Art Institute, 39 Fed. 484; Tillson v. U. S., 20 Ct. Cl. 213.

As to meaning of "omission" see Shaver v. Murdock, 36 Cal. 293; Gallagher v. Hirsh, 45 N. Y. App. Div. 467, 61 N. Y. Suppl. 609.

As to meaning of "insurance" see Tillson v. U. S., 20 Ct. Cl. 213.

As to the expression "available site" see Simpson v. U. S., 31 Ct. Cl. 217.

As to "best quality of material" see McIntire v. Barnes, 4 Colo. 285; South Cong. Meeting-House v. Hilton, 11 Gray (Mass.) 407.

As to "bill of quantities" see Haydnville Min., etc., Co. v. Art Institute, 39 Fed. 484.

64. Delaware.— Randel v. Chesapeake, etc., Canal Co., 1 Harr. (Del.) 233.

Indiana.— MacKenzie v. Edinburg, 72 Ind. 189.

Kansas.— Thurber v. Ryan, 12 Kan. 453.

Maryland.—Black v. Woodrow, 39 Md. 194; Denmead v. Coburn, 15 Md. 29.

Massachusetts.— White v. McLaren, 151 Mass. 553, 24 N. E. 911; Ricker v. Cutter, 8 Gray (Mass.) 248.

Michigan.— Perine v. Standfield, 107 Mich. 553, 65 N. W. 541.

New Hampshire.—Smith v. Boston, etc., R. Co., 36 N. H. 458.

United States.—Crocker v. U. S., 21 Ct. Cl. 255.

See 11 Cent. Dig. tit. "Contracts," § 751.

Implied agreement to employ competent engineer.—A provision that work is to be done under the supervision of an employer's engineer and to his satisfaction impliedly binds the employer to employ only a competent engineer. Smith v. Boston, etc., R. Co., 36 N. H. 458.

All necessary work included in contract.—A contract to keep up a building and leave it well supported includes all necessary means for the job, whether of labor or materials, although not specially mentioned. Cobb v. West, 4 Duer (N. Y.) 38. So where a contract provided that the builder should make excavations and put in foundations according to plans and specifications, including all labor and material incident thereto, and in order to make the excavations of the required depth, it became necessary to underpin a house standing on the line of one of the foundations, and to use a certain quantity of lumber for the purpose of sustaining the sides of the trenches, it was held that the un-are expressed in clear and unambiguous language further and greater obligations cannot be implied,[65] and when the terms or language are doubtful they should derpinning of the house, and the lumber used in the trenches, were included in the terms of the contract. Ashley v. Henahan, 56 Ohio St. 559, 47 N. E. 573. See also Trenton v. Bennett, 27 N. J. L. 513, 72 Am. Dec. 373.

Implied agreement to furnish builder with materials.—An employer bound to furnish materials to the builder impliedly agrees to furnish them in time to enable the builder to finish his work within a time specified. Smith v. Boston, etc., R. Co., 36 N. H. 458.

As to making of certificates.—An owner who agrees to pay the builder periodically for work which the employer's engineer certifies to have been done by the builder impliedly agrees that the certificates shall be made by the engineer. Randel v. Chesapeake, etc., Canal Co., 1 Harr. (Del.) 233.

An owner is impliedly bound to give the builder possession of a building upon which the builder is required to make good work condemned by the architect.— Vermont St. M. E. Church v. Brose, 104 Ill. 206.

There is an implied contract on the part of the owner to keep work in such a state of forwardness as will enable the builder to perform his contract within a time limited. Nelson v. Pickwick Associated Co., 30 Ill. App. 333.

As to deductions from money due builder. — Where it was agreed that if work did not proceed as rapidly and satisfactorily as required by the employer or his agent, they should have power to proceed with the work themselves and deduct from whatever moneys might be due to the builder the cost thereof, it was held that the intention of the parties was that the employer if bona fide dissatisfied, whether with or without sufficient reason, with the progress of the work, should be at liberty to deduct from the money due the builder such sums as had been expended in pursuance to the said proviso. Stadhard v. Lee, 3 B. & S. 364, 9 Jur. N. S. 908, 32 L. J. Q. B. 75, 7 L. T. Rep. N. S. 815, 11 Wkly. Rep. 361, 113 E. C. L. 364.

As to building foundations.—A contract reciting that a foundation shall rest on "limestone rock," and the filling in "be laid flush with mortar" means that the builder must build the foundations on bed rock, and that the filling be held to its place by grouting. Sullivan County v. Ruth, 106 Tenn. 85, 59 S. W. 138.

65. District of Columbia.— Carver v. Hall, 3 App. Cas. (D. C.) 170.

Illinois.— Owen v. Stevens, 78 Ill. 462.

Iowa.— McNulty v. Stearns, 85 Iowa 437, 52 N. W. 357.

Kentucky.— Rhodes v. Cox, 9 Ky. L. Rep. 895.

Michigan.— Bell v. Harvey, 50 Mich. 59, 14 N. W. 699.

Minnesota.— Larson v. Schmaus, 31 Minn. 410, 18 N. W. 273.

Missouri.— Ittner v. St. Louis Exposition, etc., Assoc., 97 Mo. 561, 11 S. W. 58; Reed v. Conway, 26 Mo. 13; Rothwell v. Dean, 60 Mo. App. 428.

Nebraska.— O'Rourke v. Burke, 44 Nebr. 821, 63 N. W. 17.

New York.— Preston v. Syracuse, 92 Hun (N. Y.) 301, 36 N. Y. Suppl. 716, 71 N. Y. St. 782; Millstone Granite Co. v. Dolan, 61 N. Y. Super. Ct. 106, 18 N. Y. Suppl. 791, 46 N. Y. St. 531 [affirmed in 138 N. Y. 607, 33 N. E. 1082, 51 N. Y. St. 932].

Texas.— Wright v. Meyer, (Tex. Civ. App. 1894) 25 S. W. 1122.

United States.— Weld v. Goldenberg, 65 Fed. 466, 26 U. S. App. 491, 13 C. C. A. 12; Gibbons v. U. S., 15 Ct. Cl. 174.

See 11 Cent. Dig. tit. "Contracts," § 751.

Illustrations.—A contract to deliver a building complete in accordance with plans and specifications, calling for the use of certain materials and the doing of certain work to make a water-proof cellar, with a guaranty of the cellar from the builder for five years, does not amount to a covenant to deliver a water-proof cellar. Weld v. Goldenberg, 65 Fed. 466, 26 U. S. App. 491, 13 C. C. A. 12. An owner who promises a materialman to pay for all materials the builder might get for the building is not liable for material furnished to the builder before his promise. Owen v. Stevens, 78 Ill. 462. Under a contract between the contractor and a subcontractor a provision that the contractor is not to be liable for any damages accruing to the subcontractor from delay on the part of other contractors does not render the contractor liable for failure to bind one with whom he has contracted for certain materials to furnish the same without delay when needed. McNulty v. Stearns, 85 Iowa 437, 52 N. W. 357. A contract to put a mill up and in running order does not compel the painting of the mill as requisite to its completion. Rhodes v. Cox, 9 Ky. L. Rep. 895. A contract requiring a builder to take all risks from floods occurring before completion of a levee does not impose on the builder a liability for losses incurred by the other party to the contract during a previous construction of the levee. Rothwell v. Dean, 60 Mo. App. 428. By reserving an option to make payments by assuming lumber bills an owner does not assume payment of lumber bills unknown to him at the time of contracting. O'Rourke v. Burke, 44 Nebr. 821, 63 N. W. 17. A contract to build a bridge and to keep the bridge in repair for a specified time does not render the builder liable to rebuild if destroyed by fire. Livingston County v. Graves, 32 Mo. 479. A contract to build a bridge so as not to interfere with the running of trains over it is not a guaranty of the safe passage of trains over the bridge, and in the absence of negligence or unskilfulness on his part the builder is not liable if the bridge gives way under a passing train.

be construed against the party who in preparing the contract made use of the doubtful terms or language.[66]

2. As to Penalties and Liquidated Damages. Whether a sum agreed between the parties to be paid in the event of a breach of the building contract is termed by them a penalty or liquidated damages is not controlling upon the question of construction, their use of such words not always being conclusive,[67] and there seems to be a leaning against construing the contract so as to compel the builder to pay the sum mentioned as stipulated damages, and a disposition to regard the sum agreed to be paid as a penalty to enforce performance.[68] The intention, however, of the parties and the subject-matter and nature of the agreement are to be considered in determining the meaning of the expression,[69] and the question whether the sum is to be treated as liquidated damages or penalty, must, where there is nothing on the face of the contract which will militate against the sum being liquidated damages, depend on the evidence.[70] It seems, however, a general rule that the sum fixed by the parties is deemed to be liquidated damages and recoverable as such, where the damage and loss which may be presumed to result from non-performance are uncertain and incapable of exact ascertainment,[71] and where the amount named is not, on the face of the contract, out of all proportion to the probable loss;[72] so where the builder stipulates to pay a stated sum for a given period of time during a delay;[73] but where a sum has been stipulated as a payment by the defaulting party which is disproportionate to the presumable

Feike v. C. & E. R. Co., 5 Ohio Cir. Ct. 199, 3 Ohio Cir. Dec. 100.

Operation of sureties' agreement to complete on percentage retained by owner.— An agreement made between the sureties of a builder, who has abandoned his contract, and a subcontractor to the effect that the former will complete the work, and the latter proceed under his contract, and that the owner should pay the estimates made on his work and materials directly to him, to which the owner assents, extends to the per cent authorized by the original contract to be retained until final completion of the building, but does not operate on the amount retained thereunder prior to the making of the supplemental agreement. Beatrice School Dist. v. Thomas, 51 Nebr. 740, 71 N. W. 731.

Height of dam.— If a contract requires that a dam shall be built "of the same height, thickness, and quality of work" as an old dam there standing, and the old dam was never finished, but only its front part raised to its intended height; a fair construction of the contract requires that the new dam shall be made as high as the front of the old one. Mason v. Bridge, 14 Me. 468, 31 Am. Dec. 66.

66. Gibbons v. U. S., 15 Ct. Cl. 174, wherein the expression "the foundations and the brick walls now standing that were uninjured by the fire will remain and be carried up to the height designated on the plan by new work" was held to be a doubtful one.

Statutory provision.— Under Iowa Code, § 3652, providing that where the terms of an agreement have been understood in a different sense by the parties that sense is to prevail against either party in which he had reason to suppose the other party understood it, a builder cannot recover for alterations made without securing an architect's decision, when the contract provides that the architect is to decide whether alterations asked for by the owner are within its terms, if the builder knew that the owner understood the alterations asked for were within the terms of the contract. Evans v. McConnell, 99 Iowa 326, 63 N. W. 570, 68 N. W. 790.

67. Moore v. Platte County, 8 Mo. 467; Ward v. Hudson River Bldg. Co., 125 N. Y. 230, 26 N. E. 256, 34 N. Y. St. 934.

68. Moore v. Platte County, 8 Mo. 467.

69. Ward v. Hudson River Bldg. Co., 125 N. Y. 230, 26 N. E. 256, 34 N. Y. St. 934.

70. Mills v. Paul, (Tex. Civ. App. 1895) 30 S. W. 558, holding that it devolves upon the builder to establish by evidence a condition of things which would cause the sum to be regarded as a penalty where the expression used is "liquidated damages"; and that evidence that the owner had made a lease of the building to go into effect on its completion and agreed to abate his rent pending completion of which fact the builder was aware, and that the tenant on completion paid a specified monthly rental, was not sufficient to support a finding that the provision was for a penalty.

71. Ward v. Henderson River Bldg. Co., 125 N. Y. 230, 26 N. E. 256, 34 N. Y. St. 934; Worrell v. McClinaghan, 5 Strobh. (S. C.) 115; Mills v. Paul, (Tex. Civ. App. 1895) 30 S. W. 558; Fort v. Cameron, 1 Tex. App. Civ. Cas. § 1112; Reichenbach v. Sage, 13 Wash. 364, 43 Pac. 354, 52 Am. St. Rep. 51.

72. Ward v. Hudson River Bldg. Co., 125 N. Y. 230, 26 N. E. 256, 34 N. Y. St. 934; Mills v. Paul, (Tex. Civ. App. 1895) 30 S. W. 558.

73. Nash v. Hermosilla, 9 Cal. 584, 70 Am. Dec. 676.

or probable damage or to a really ascertainable loss it will be treated as a penalty;[74] so where a party stipulates to build in a particular manner within a given time, and, upon failure, to pay a named sum.[75]

3. EVIDENCE TO AID CONSTRUCTION. In accordance with general principles of evidence,[76] where the construction of the building contract is in doubt, testimony showing the facts existing at the time of the execution of the contract and the circumstances of the parties is admissible;[77] and it is common and prudent to admit the opinions of experts to explain the contract, and where the evidence otherwise tends to limit or enlarge the apparent meaning of the words used the opinions of witnesses who are in the habit of making and executing such contracts are almost indispensable.[78] So, a custom uniform, general, of long standing, and reasonable, that exists in the place of making the contract and at the time of making the contract, and upon which the builder relied when making the contract, is admissible,[79] and, if proved, should prevail;[80] but it is an equally well-settled rule that the legal effect of a written building contract cannot be varied or contradicted by evidence of a building custom or usage.[81]

74. First Orthodox Cong. Church v. Walrath, 27 Mich. 232; Cochran v. People's R. Co., 113 Mo. 359, 21 S. W. 6; Ward v. Hudson River Bldg. Co., 125 N. Y. 230, 26 N. E. 256, 34 N. Y. St. 934.

A stipulation creates a penalty where the owner is at liberty to employ persons to complete the building if the builder is in default and where actual damages by reason of his delay may be readily determined. Brennan v. Clark, 29 Nebr. 385, 45 N. W. 472.

Percentages retained until completion of the work though declared by the contract to be forfeited in case of annulment must be treated as penalty and not as liquidated damages. Satterlee v. U. S., 30 Ct. Cl. 31.

75. Nash v. Hermosilla, 9 Cal. 584, 70 Am. Dec. 676; Moore v. Platte County, 8 Mo. 467; Tayloe v. Sandiford, 7 Wheat. (U. S.) 13, 5 L. ed. 384.

76. See, generally, EVIDENCE.

77. St. Anthony Falls Water-Power Co. v. Eastman, 20 Minn. 277; Doane College v. Lanham, 26 Nebr. 421, 42 N. W. 405.

Admissibility of specifications.— Specifications not signed by the parties but agreed upon by them when the building contract was made are admissible for the purpose of explaining a written building contract. Maxted v. Seymour, 56 Mich. 129, 22 N. W. 219. See also Myer v. Fruin, (Tex. 1891) 16 S. W. 868, in which case a plan not attached to the contract but which was exhibited to plaintiff at the time he made the contract was admitted as explaining how work should be done about which a dispute arose.

78. Reynolds v. Jourdan, 6 Cal. 108, holding that a witness may be asked whether if, under the contract and the customs of the locality, he would consider himself bound to put on a tin roof, or any roof, where the contract specified the dimensions of the walls, floors, etc., but did not mention the roof. Since the court was of the opinion that, where the contract contained a specific description of the manner, size, measurement, and material of each part with great particularity with one exception, the exception was the result of design, and did not enter into the contract of the parties.

An architect may be examined as to the usage under particular contracts but not as to his understanding thereof. Suarez v. Duralde, 1 La. 260.

79. Patterson v. Crowther, 70 Md. 124, 16 Atl. 531; Walker v. Syms, 118 Mich. 183, 76 N. W. 320; Bardwell v. Ziegler, 3 Wash. 34, 28 Pac. 360.

Under a contract to pay so much "wall measure" for brick work, and those words have acquired a particular meaning by local usage, which is shown to have been so general, uniform, and frequent as to warrant an inference that the owners had knowledge of and contracted with reference to the usage, the sense of the instrument may be explained by parol evidence. Packard v. Van Schoick, 58 Ill. 79.

"Mason work."— The evidence of persons skilled in mason work is admissible to show whether the term "mason work" as used in a contract to construct water works includes the laying of inlet, suction, and drain pipes. Elgin v. Joslyn, 136 Ill. 525, 26 N. E. 1090.

"Old style roofing tin."— Evidence is admissible to show that the words "old style roofing tin" used in a building contract have, by usage of trade, acquired a peculiar meaning. Storck v. Mesker, 55 Mo. App. 26.

The meaning of the words "wall count solid measure," as usually understood among bricklayers, may be shown. Long v. Davidson, 101 N. C. 170, 7 S. E. 758.

80. Walker v. Syms, 118 Mich. 183, 76 N. W. 320, in which case no particular method of measuring work was provided for by the contract of which the language was ambiguous. See also Lowe v. Lehman, 15 Ohio St. 179; Bardwell v. Ziegler, 3 Wash. 34, 28 Pac. 360; Laycock v. Parker, 103 Wis. 161, 79 N. W. 327.

81. Arkansas.— Cook v. Hawkins, 54 Ark. 423, 16 S. W. 8.

Massachusetts.— Daly v. Kingston, 177 Mass. 312, 58 N. E. 1019.

So where the language and terms of the contract are plain a custom or usage cannot be implied.[82]

D. Modification and Merger — 1. In General. A building contract is, like other contracts, subject to modification,[83] the parties having a right to alter and modify the original contract[84] by mutual consent,[85] or the contract may be merged in a subsequent one[86] and the new agreement either expressly or impliedly waive any right either would otherwise have had.[87]

2. Manner of Making Modification. The mode of making the modification may be provided for by the contract.[88]

Missouri.— Pavey v. Burch, 3 Mo. 447, 26 Am. Dec. 682.

New York.— Fellows v. New York, 17 Hun (N. Y.) 249; Dutch v. Harrison, 37 N. Y. Super. Ct. 306.

Tennessee.— Wilson v. Knott, 3 Humphr. (Tenn.) 473.

Evidence of custom is inadmissible to contravene an implied legal construction that work was to be done in a reasonable time. Morowsky v. Rohrig, 4 Misc. (N. Y.) 167, 23 N. Y. Suppl. 880, 53 N. Y. St. 220.

Admissibility of custom as to estimating on walls shown on plan.—Where plans showing sections of the walls are furnished from which to estimate, it is not admissible to show a universal rule, custom, or practice of builders to estimate according to the section as shown and to contract with reference thereto, and to regard an increase in the height of the walls as not included in the contract and demand additional compensation therefor. Stuart v. Cambridge, 125 Mass. 102.

82. Chambers v. U. S., 24 Ct. Cl. 387.

83. As to modification of contracts generally see Contracts.

A sealed building contract may be changed by a subsequent verbal agreement (Cooke v. Murphy, 70 Ill. 96; Munroe v. Perkins, 9 Pick. (Mass.) 298, 20 Am. Dec. 475), or by an unsealed agreement (Lawall v. Rader, 2 Grant (Pa.) 426).

Effect of subsequent change in character of work.—A contract to raise a building to the grade adopted in a certain ordinance within a specified time is not modified by a subsequent change in the grade so as to extend the time of performance. Clements v. Schuylkill River, etc., R. Co., 132 Pa. St. 445, 25 Wkly. Notes Cas. (Pa.) 383, 19 Atl. 274, 276.

84. Cornish v. Suydam, 99 Ala. 620, 13 So. 118; Jacksonville, etc., R. Co. v. Woodworth, 26 Fla. 368, 8 So. 177.

The legal competency of the parties to modify the contract is not limited, except as to the mode of modification, by provisions that the builder shall not claim for additional work unless done in pursuance of an order from the architects, and that notice of claims therefor shall be made to the architects in writing within a certain time. The legal effect of these stipulations is merely to prevent the builder from recovering for extras, by showing they were not included in the original contract but were necessary for completion of the building and were furnished by him. Michaud v. MacGregor, 61 Minn. 198, 63 N. W. 479.

Effect of subsequent agreement to do work contemplated by original contract.—Where, after making a contract to build upon the site of an old building, the builder agreed to remove the ruins of the old building preparatory to the erection of the new one, it was held that the preparatory work of clearing away the old building was necessarily contemplated by the parties when the contract was made, and that the subsequent agreement to do such work did not modify the contract by enlarging the time within which, by its terms, the new building was to be completed. Shute v. Hamilton, 3 Daly (N. Y.) 462.

85. Cornish v. Suydam, 99 Ala. 620, 13 So. 118. See also Young v. Jeffreys, 20 N. C. 294.

Modification must be assented to by both parties.—Where, upon completion of a house, the builder said he would make a deduction from the price if the mortar did not harden, and his employer did not accede to the proposition the builder was not bound by it. Demoss v. Noble, 6 Iowa 530.

There was no modification where a builder who contracted to work for a specified sum, without security, shortly after beginning work refused to continue unless security was furnished, and it being arranged that both employer and builder should deposit a certified check as security, and that a contract be executed to that effect, the builder immediately resumed the work, but, the employer subsequently refusing to sign the agreement or give security, the builder abandoned it, and the employer procured another to complete the work, at an advanced price. Klingman v. Quincy, 25 Misc. (N. Y.) 526, 54 N. Y. Suppl. 1003.

86. Howard v. Wilmington, etc., R. Co., 1 Gill (Md.) 311; Lawall v. Rader, 24 Pa. St. 283.

Question of modification or merger is one of fact.— Cook County v. Harms, 10 Ill. App. 24; Kugler v. Wiseman, 20 Ohio 361; Malone v. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co., 157 Pa. St. 430, 33 Wkly. Notes Cas. (Pa.) 373, 27 Atl. 756. See also Lilly v. Person, 168 Pa. St. 219, 36 Wkly. Notes Cas. (Pa.) 382, 32 Atl. 23.

87. Cornish v. Suydam, 99 Ala. 620, 13 So. 118.

88. A provision by which the builder agrees not to execute any extra work or make

3. NECESSITY AND SUFFICIENCY OF NEW CONSIDERATION. The modification of a building contract should be supported by a new consideration,[89] which must be sufficient.[90]

4. NATURE OF MODIFICATION. The modification may be with respect to the parties,[91] or the terms and conditions of the contract.[92]

5. EFFECT OF MODIFICATION. A partial modification leaves the contract subsisting as to other particulars.[93]

E. Rescission or Abandonment — 1. RIGHT AND GROUNDS OF. The rules allowing rescission or abandonment of contracts apply to building contracts the same as to other contracts.[94] Thus, it is optional with the builder to rescind the any modifications or alterations in the work described in the specifications and plans unless ordered in writing by a named agent of the employer, or claim pay for extra work, modifications, or alterations unless such written order is produced is valid. Howard v. Pensacola, etc., R. Co., 24 Fla. 560, 5 So. 356. See also Michaud v. MacGregor, 61 Minn. 198, 63 N. W. 479.

89. Barnard, etc., Mfg. Co. v. Galloway, 5 S. D. 205, 58 N. W. 565. See also Morrison v. Heath, 11 Vt. 610. But in Cornish v. Suydam, 99 Ala. 620, 13 So. 118, it was said that there was no necessity for any new consideration.

90. Tinker v. Geraghty, 1 E. D. Smith (N. Y.) 687.

Change of compensation may be a sufficient consideration, thus, where the builder claimed that he had made a mistake in the price named, and refused to go on and complete the contract, and thereupon his employer agreed to pay a sum in addition to the original contract price, and the builder completed the work, it was held that the new and supplemental agreement to pay an additional sum was not without consideration. Cooke v. Murphy, 70 Ill. 96. See also Osborne v. O'Reilly, 42 N. J. Eq. 467, 9 Atl. 209. So where a builder, finding himself unable to perform without great loss owing to a rise in prices, informed his employer that he would not comply with the contract, and the employer directed him to go on and finish and he would pay him what was right for it, there was sufficient consideration to support the new agreement. Bishop v. Busse, 69 Ill. 403.

Doubtful liability of builder consideration for new contract.—Where a portion of a building fell before the whole building was finished and work was suspended because the builder and owner could not agree as to who was at fault, and subsequently one of the builders made a new contract to complete the structure, it was held that the question of doubtful liability was sufficient consideration for the new contract. Brodek v. Farnum, 11 Wash. 565, 40 Pac. 189.

91. Davelaar v. Rockwell, 35 Wis. 210, holding that the fact that the employer has contracted with one party for the erection of his building does not invalidate a contract for extra material made with a subcontractor of such party so as to prevent the subcontractor from recovering for such extra work and material.

92. McCormick v. Connoly, 2 Bay (S. C.) 401, holding that additions or alterations made in a contract to build a structure of specified size or dimensions form an express or implied new contract that does not affect the original contract, and that such additions and alterations must be paid for under the new contract if a sum is fixed for that purpose, but if not, then according to a just and true valuation. To the same effect are Boody v. Rutland, etc., R. Co., 3 Blatchf. (U. S.) 25, 3 Fed. Cas. No. 1,635, 24 Vt. 660; Gallaher v. District of Columbia, 19 Ct. Cl. 564.

93. Young v. Jeffreys, 20 N. C. 294 (where alterations were made in the building); Haynes v. Second Baptist Church, 88 Mo. 285, 57 Am. Rep. 413; American Ice Mach. Co. v. Paterson Steam Fire Engine, etc., Co., 22 N. J. Eq. 72 (wherein an extension of time was held not to affect other provisions of the contract).

94. See, generally, CONTRACTS. Thus where the contract stipulated that rock taken from a necessary excavation should become the property of the builder except such part as should be necessary for the support of and protection of the work, it was held that the fact that another person, through whose property a portion of the structure ran, would not permit the builder to sell rock removed from such portion did not entitle the builder to rescind the contract, as a right to sell the rock did not occur until the contract was completed. Becker v. Philadelphia, (Pa. 1889) 16 Atl. 625.

What constitutes abandonment by owner. — A contract provided that, upon failure of the builder to perform his contract in any particular and the architect should so specify, the employer might give the builder three days' notice to perform, and, on refusal, terminate the contract and, upon the architect giving a certificate that the work was not being done according to the contract, the owner notified the builder to remove the material and provide such material as the specifications call for and that he should terminate the contract; there was an abandonment of the contract by the owner. Charlton v. Scoville, 68 Hun (N. Y.) 348, 22 N. Y. Suppl. 883, 52 N. Y. St. 306.

Failure to finish work by the time stipulated is not a rescission by the builder. Aikin v. Bloodgood, 12 Ala. 221.

Abandonment of work, leaving it unfincontract where the employer prevents the builder from performing it,[95] or where there is a failure of the employer to pay in accordance with his contract,[96] unless the builder himself is in default;[97] so a builder is liable to have his contract terminished when the time for completion has elapsed, amounts to a rescission by the builder. Bertrand v. Byrd, 5 Ark. 651.

There is no rescission of the contract by the employer nor cause for rescission by the builder because the owner, on the builder's statement that his failure to prosecute the work was owing to his inability to get men, employs extra men himself. McGonigle v. Klein, 6 Colo. App. 306, 40 Pac. 465.

Where the builder agreed to complete within a certain time but the owner reserved the right to add to the building by a payment of a specified sum, it was held that the employer's election to add to the building did not operate as a rescission of the provision requiring the builder to complete within a specified time. Lauer v. Brown, 30 Barb. (N. Y.) 416.

A general assignment for the benefit of creditors does not amount to a rescission.— Vandegrift v. Cowles Engineering Co., 161 N. Y. 435, 55 N. E. 941, 48 L. R. A. 685.

95. Adams v. Burbank, 103 Cal. 646, 37 Pac. 640; Connelly v. Devoe, 37 Conn. 570; Powers v. Hogan, 6 N. Y. St. 239.

Right of builder after rescission by him.— A builder who exercises a right to rescind stipulated for in a contract which prohibits him from removing any building materials after they have been deposited in the place where he is building is not entitled to enter the premises for the purpose of removing the material after the date of rescission. Marsden v. Sambell, 43 L. T. Rep. N. S. 120, 28 Wkly. Rep. 952.

96. San Francisco Bridge Co. v. Dumbarton Land, etc., Co., 119 Cal. 272, 51 Pac. 335; Golden Gate Lumber Co. v. Sahrbacher, 105 Cal. 114, 38 Pac. 635; Bean v. Miller, 69 Mo. 384; South Fork Canal Co. v. Gordon, 6 Wall. (U. S.) 561, 18 L. ed. 894. Where a contract provided that before any sum should be due for certain material furnished for a building the builder should furnish a certificate from the architect as to the quality and quantity of the material furnished but the builder without fault or waiver by the other party failed to furnish the certificate and made demand for more than was due which was refused but there was an offer to pay what was due there was no default in payment warranting an abandonment of the contract. Gallagher v. Baird, 54 N. Y. App. Div. 398, 66 N. Y. Suppl. 759 [affirmed in 170 N. Y. 566, 62 N. E. 1095].

Continuous and repeated defaults in payment justify abandonment by builder. Scheible v. Klein, 89 Mich. 376, 50 N. W. 857.

Where a builder has given bond for the faithful performance of his contract and his employer withholds any part of the compensation that is due and payable in order to pay subcontractors or the builder's employees the builder has a right to abandon the work. Dobbins v. Higgins, 78 Ill. 440.

Notwithstanding the contract provides that the work shall be steadily prosecuted without intermission until final completion, a failure to pay instalments at stated periods, as agreed, justifies an abandonment of the work by the builder. Bean v. Miller, 69 Mo. 384.

A refusal to pay a disputed balance will not justify a builder, who has agreed to accept as part payment a conveyance of two houses built by him under the contract, in refusing to take the houses and entitle him to recover the whole consideration for his work in money. Grunwald v. Hahn, 176 Pa. St. 37, 34 Atl. 972.

Where the building is to be paid for in instalments the builder cannot, unless payment is expressly made a condition precedent to a fulfilment of the contract on his part, abandon the contract on the non-payment of an instalment that is due, if he is not absolutely prohibited by some act or omission of the owner from completing the same. Christian County v. Overholt, 18 Ill. 223.

Right of rescission where disputed matter referred to arbitration.— Under a contract providing that no compensation shall be made for extra work, unless its price be agreed in advance, a builder performing extra work without an understanding as to price is not justified in abandoning the building, where the parties have referred the claim for extras to arbitration, until the filing of the arbitrator's report. Davis v. Ford, 81 Md. 333, 32 Atl. 280.

Where a method of ascertaining the builder's compensation for extra work is specified in the contract the builder cannot rescind it because he will not accept the valuation of such work. Gibbs v. Girardville School Dist., 195 Pa. St. 396, 46 Atl. 91.

97. Golden Gate Lumber Co. v. Sahrbacher, 105 Cal. 114, 38 Pac. 635, in which case the builder was in default at the time an instalment was due.

A builder is not justified in an abandonment because the owner requires him to do certain work that he alleges was contracted for, unless the builder offers to perform his contract in accordance with his own understanding. Cochran v. Balfe, 12 Colo. App. 75, 54 Pac. 399.

Errors in plans as ground of rescission.— Under a contract providing that errors in plans shall be referred to the architect before the work is proceeded with, the builder's rescission of a contract on the ground that there were errors in the plans which made it impossible to erect the building according to the plans is not justified, unless he calls the architect's attention to the defects and asks for a correction. Gibbs v. Girardville School Dist., 195 Pa. St. 396, 46 Atl. 91.

nated where he has violated it in any material part,[98] as where he fails to complete in the time specified or in a reasonable time,[99] or where the material fur-

98. Kirkland v. Oates, 25 Ala. 465; George A. Fuller Co. v. Doyle, 87 Fed. 687.

Incapacity of the builder to do work properly under a contract, providing that the building is to be erected in the best, most substantial, and workmanlike manner, justifies the owner in terminating the contract, if he is authorized by the contract so to do in the event of the work not being done in accordance with its terms. Rector v. McDermott, (Ark. 1890) 13 S. W. 334.

An owner is justified in treating a contract as abandoned, where the builder sublets the work to one who became insolvent and abandons it, and the sureties of the subcontractor undertake to complete and also abandon the work, and the builder himself is insolvent and unable to complete. Watson v. De Witt County, 19 Tex. Civ. App. 150, 46 S. W. 1061.

An instruction that if the conduct of a builder was such as to evince an intention to abandon the contract the owner would have the right to treat it as abandoned is erroneous, where there is evidence tending to show that the builder had entered upon and was engaged in performance of his contract at the time the owner took possession of the building and completed it. Kilgore v. Northwestern Texas Baptist Educational Assoc., 90 Tex. 139, 37 S. W. 598.

Under a provision that the employer may enter and complete the contract if the builder fail in any part of his undertaking a statement from the builder that unless a claim for extra work is allowed he will not proceed does not justify the employer in terminating the contract on disallowance of the claim, when he knows that the contractor is still prosecuting the work, and has told the employer's engineer that he would not quit till he had obtained legal advice and consulted with his bondsmen. Amsterdam v. Sullivan, 11 N. Y. App. Div. 472, 42 N. Y. Suppl. 358 [affirmed in 162 N. Y. 594, 57 N. E. 1123].

Unqualified refusal of a contractor to perform what he has undertaken justifies the owner in treating the contract as broken.—Thompson v. Laing, 8 Bosw. (N. Y.) 482.

Effect of refusal to pay instalment.—Where the contract stipulates that on failure of the builder to pay for labor and material the owner may refuse to pay certain instalments otherwise payable a refusal does not show an abandonment of the contract (Casey v. Gunn, 29 Mo. App. 14), nor does it show abandonment because the owner himself does work upon the refusal of the builder to complete. Rodemer v. Gonder, 9 Gill (Md.) 288.

Effect of builder's expulsion from work.—Where the employer was entitled to annul the contract upon giving the builder notice in writing, in which case the builder was to forfeit the unpaid value of the work done, and the employer without notice entered upon and expelled the builder from the work it was held that the owner by so doing annulled the contract. Rodemer v. Gonder, 9 Gill (Md.) 288.

Employer's power of rescission where work is to be done to his satisfaction.—Where the builder agrees to work to the "full satisfaction" of his employer, the contract is not subject to arbitrary rescission, but the builder's agreement means that the work must be done to the satisfaction of the employer and that the employer must not withhold his satisfaction unreasonably. Lee v. New Haven, etc., R. Co., 15 Fed. Cas. No. 8,197.

The fact that the architect has the power to accept or reject the work does not prevent the court from passing upon the justification of the owner in terminating the contract. West v. Suda, 69 Conn. 60, 36 Atl. 1015.

It is a question of fact whether building work varies materially from the specifications, so as to authorize the owner to terminate the contract. West v. Suda, 69 Conn. 60, 36 Atl. 1015.

A builder has no remedy for damages resulting from the owner's exercise of a right to annul the contract when not satisfied with the work. Harder v. Marion County, 97 Ind. 455.

99. Wyckoff v. Taylor, 13 N. Y. App. Div. 240, 43 N. Y. Suppl. 31, 4 N. Y. Annot. Cas. 102; Miller v. Phillips, 31 Pa. St. 218.

As to time of performance see infra, V, B, 5.

Where builder is for cause ordered to leave premises there is no rescission.—A builder claimed that an instalment was due on a certain day, but the architect pointed out work to be finished, and without demanding the instalment the builder stopped work because it was not paid, and so notified the owner. Five days later the builder, being drunk, went on the premises and threatened the architect; the owner ordered him off the place, and at once gave him notice to proceed with the work, as provided in the contract, in case the builder caused an unreasonable suspension of the work. It was held that the order to leave the premises was not a rescission by the owner. Fox v. Clark, 44 N. Y. App. Div. 626, 60 N. Y. Suppl. 237.

When power of determining agreement may be exercised.—Where it was agreed that if the builder was guilty of delay the owner might give notice of his intention to employ another to complete the work, and that at the expiration of the notice the agreement should be void and any amount already paid to the contractor be considered the full value of the work executed by him up to that time, it was held that the power of determination might be exercised before any payment had been made. Davies v. Swansea, 8 Exch. 808, 22 L. J. Exch. 297.

Under a contract providing for a forfeiture in event of non-completion by a specified day, and for alterations for which a reasonable valuation should be added to or deducted

nished by the builder is defective, unless the existence of the defect was known to the employer at the time the contract was made ;[1] and in one state, at any rate, the owner has a statutory right to cancel at pleasure the contract he has made for building, even in case the work has already been commenced.[2] The right to annul a contract for non-performance by the builder is lost, where the employer is in default by failure to estimate and pay for work done and material furnished by the builder.[3] Again misrepresentation and fraud practised upon either party may be a ground for rescission by the other, provided the fraudulent representation is respecting a matter material to the contract and one, in the absence of which the contract would not have been made ;[4] so, where the contract is entered into under a mistake as to a material matter, the party affected thereby may be relieved in equity from his obligation.[5] It is not, however, every partial neglect or refusal to comply with some of the terms of the contract by one party which will entitle the other to abandon at once the obligation entered into and by which the parties have made for themselves the law which is to control them.[6] Again the contract may be mutually rescinded or abandoned,[7] or may be implied from the contract price, the contractors are not justified in abandoning the contract after the date fixed for completing the building, on account of disputes respecting the kind of work being done and materials used, and the alterations required, and because the owner refuses to release them from liability on the forfeiture clause. Hutton v. Gordon, 2 Misc. (N. Y.) 267, 23 N. Y. Suppl. 770.

Where an employer does not declare a contract forfeited but tacitly acquiesces in the builder's abandonment there is an abandonment by the act and acquiescence of both parties, and in such case the law will not imply a forfeiture. Satterlee v. U. S., 30 Ct. Cl. 31.

Where the employer annuls a building contract, he releases all claims to a forfeiture provided by the contract. Rodemer v. Gonder, 9 Gill (Md.) 288.

1. Scales v. Wiley, 68 Vt. 39, 33 Atl. 771.

2. Villalobos v. Mooney, 2 La. 331, in which case it was also said that, in the event of his so doing, he must pay the builder for the expense and labor already incurred and such damages as the nature of the case may require.

Whether a contract is annulled because the owners have sufficient cause therefor, or because the owners choose to avail themselves of the provisions of La. Rev. Civ. Code (1870), art. 2765, without reference to any cause, the builder should receive compensation for the value of his material and for his labor up to the date his contract is canceled. Monarch v. McDonogh School Fund, 49 La. Ann. 991, 22 So. 259.

3. O'Connor v. Henderson Bridge Co., 95 Ky. 633, 16 Ky. L. Rep. 244, 27 S. W. 251, 983.

Effect of rescission by owner upon builder's liability to forfeiture see infra, V, B.

4. A misrepresentation made by a builder as to his solvency is not ground for rescission of the contract where a bond with security has been exacted of the builder to secure against his failure or inability to perform his contract. Waco Tap R. Co. v. Shirley, 45 Tex. 355.

Evidence of fraudulent representation.— Proof of a custom that a builder should be notified in case there were any buildings to be removed by him, and that the builder was not notified as to such buildings is inadmissible in support of a defense in an action on a building contract that there had been a fraudulent representation to the builder (Brown v. Strimple, 21 Mo. App. 338) ; again evidence of the insolvency of a builder is irrelevant where suit is brought by an employer to rescind a contract against a builder from whom a bond with security was exacted (Waco Tap R. Co. v. Shirley, 45 Tex. 355).

A subcontractor induced to take a subcontract by a promise fraudulently made may abandon his contract on the contractor's failure to keep the promise. St. Louis, etc., Co. v. Burgess, 20 Tex. Civ. App. 527, 50 S. W. 486.

5. McCormack v. Lynch, 69 Mo. App. 524, in which case the employer sued the builder to recover damages for non-performance and the builder attempted to show that he had been mistaken as to the lot upon which the building was to be erected and that therefore there was no contract. The evidence, however, was not admitted on the ground that the mistake was that of the builder alone.

6. Selby v. Hutchinson, 9 Ill. 319, 333, holding that an employer was not entitled to rescind the contract because the builder was somewhat dilatory in doing his work and furnishing material and that "in order to justify an abandonment of the contract, and of the proper remedy growing out of it, the failure" of the builder must have been "a total one; the object of the contract must have been defeated, or rendered unattainable by his misconduct or default. For partial derelictions, and non-compliances in matters not necessarily of first importance to the accomplishment of the object of the contract, the party injured must still seek his remedy upon the stipulations of the contract itself." To the same effect is West v. Suda, 69 Conn. 60, 36 Atl. 1015.

7. Kirkland v. Oates, 25 Ala. 465; Bozarth v. Dudley, 44 N. J. L. 304, 43 Am. Rep. 373.

from the acts of the parties, as for example if, upon the site on which a building was to be erected under a written contract, the owner should direct the builder to erect a building entirely variant in character, shape, material, and style.[8]

2. MANNER OF EXERCISING RIGHT. The exercise of a right to rescind a building contract must be signified in an unqualified manner,[9] with proper notice to the party to be affected thereby,[10] and within a reasonable time,[11] or, at all events, not after the other party has gone to expense in the belief of the right of election not being exercised.[12]

3. WAIVER OR LOSS OF RIGHT. There is a waiver of the right to rescind a building contract where the contract is treated by either party as still in force.[13]

What constitutes assent.—Where the builder did the work required to earn the first instalment on a contract price for building which was paid to him, and in consequence of a dispute refused to go on with the contract and discontinued working, but afterward the owner gave the builder a statement agreeing to submit their mutual claims to an arbitrator and agreed with the builder that his execution of the statement should relieve him from further performing the contract, and both the employer and the builder signed the statement, it was held that the employer had accepted the abandonment (Scofield v. McGregor, 63 N. Y. 638); but where the owner notified the builder that he would, at the expiration of a certain time, himself complete the building if the builder did not, and the builder informed the owner that he would proceed as soon as he could obtain certain material, and afterward notified the owner that he could not secure the material but that he would send some men to finish the building if the owner could get the material elsewhere, it was held that there was no assent to an abandonment and that the builder was liable for the proper construction of the building (Washburn v. Dettinger, 76 Hun (N. Y.) 141, 27 N. Y. Suppl. 540, 57 N. Y. St. 320); again, where the builder entered upon the performance of his work, and while so engaged the employer gave him an unconditional direction to leave the work and do nothing more under the contract, whereupon the builder did leave, it was held there was no mutual relinquishment of the contract but that the employer had exercised a legal right to put an end to the contract leaving himself liable of course for all consequences resulting from such a breach of the contract upon his part (Derby v. Johnson, 21 Vt. 17). See also Kirkland v. Oates, 25 Ala. 465, in which case an entire contract for construction of a house was entered into, but the employer discharged the builder for a violation of the contract and told him to make out a bill for the work done, and that he would pay him, whereupon the builder abandoned the contract and presented the bill.

8. Bozarth v. Dudley, 44 N. J. L. 304, 43 Am. Rep. 373, holding that an inference of abandonment could not be drawn from deviations from the original plan permitted by the contract to be made.

What amounts to mutual abandonment.—A subsequent parol change in a written building contract, with respect to its consideration, does not amount to an abandonment of the written contract (Cooke v. Murphy, 70 Ill. 96), nor is there an abandonment where the construction of the building is altered with the consent of the parties (Garver v. Daubenspeck, 22 Ind. 238).

9. Marsden v. Sambell, 43 L. T. Rep. N. S. 120, 28 Wkly. Rep. 952.

10. Where a contract provides that it may be annulled on notice in writing given by the engineer, a builder accepting an oral notice and abandoning the work cannot avoid the effect of the notice on the ground that it was not in writing. Kennedy v. U. S., 24 Ct. Cl. 122.

Service of notice on a builder according to the contract that the owner will complete the work does not of itself terminate the contract so as to relieve the builder from responsibility for proper execution of the work already done. Washburn v. Dettinger, 76 Hun (N. Y.) 141, 27 N. Y. Suppl. 540, 57 N. Y. St. 320.

11. Henderson Bridge Co. v. O'Connor, 88 Ky. 303, 11 Ky. L. Rep. 146, 11 S. W. 18, 957; Linch v. Paris Lumber, etc., Elevator Co., 80 Tex. 23, 15 S. W. 208; Marsden v. Sambell, 43 L. T. Rep. N. S. 120, 28 Wkly. Rep. 952.

Exercise of right where contract provides for rescission by owner.— Under a provision that on failure of the builder to comply with the contract the owner may, upon serving notice upon the builder of his intention so to do, either complete the contract himself at the expense of the contractor or entirely avoid the contract and bring suit for the damage, in which latter case all work done or material on the ground should become the property of the owner, and under a provision providing that any material condemned must be immediately removed from the building and grounds, and any work that may be condemned must immediately be made good, it would seem that whenever a cause for forfeiture should occur, it should then be promptly declared and proceeded with or the failure so to do considered an acquiescence and waiver of the right to forfeit for that part of the undertaking. Linch v. Paris Lumber, etc., Elevator Co., 80 Tex. 23, 15 S. W. 208.

12. Marsden v. Sambell, 43 L. T. Rep. N. S. 120, 28 Wkly. Rep. 952.

13. A builder employed to build a certain number of houses waives a right to rescind in toto, on account of the employer's refusal to permit him to build some of the houses, if while negotiating with his employer he con-

So also a party to a building contract may waive his right to rescind the contract, when the right is not exercised by him promptly.[14]

III. RIGHTS, DUTIES, AND LIABILITIES OF ARCHITECT.

A. Rights — 1. Authority in General. The mere fact that a person is employed as an architect does not constitute such person a general agent of his employer, his powers as agent being limited by the contract entered into between them.[15] Thus, unless specially authorized, he is not entitled to change, alter, or modify the contract entered into by the builder and his employer;[16] nor has he tinues to work after the refusal. Meyer v. Hallock, 2 Rob. (N. Y.) 284. So an owner waives a right to rescind on the ground of delay in performance, where he permits the builder to continue work after the expiration of the time limit (McIntire v. Barnes, 4 Colo. 285; Foster v. Worthington, 58 Vt. 65, 4 Atl. 565), and acceptance and payment for work done under the contract subsequent to the time when performance is due waives a contractual right of the owner to annul the contract, if he sees fit so to do, because the work is not progressing with sufficient speed or in a proper manner (Henderson Bridge Co. v. O'Connor, 88 Ky. 303, 11 Ky. L. Rep. 146, 11 S. W. 18, 957).

14. Henderson Bridge Co. v. O'Connor, 88 Ky. 303, 11 Ky. L. Rep. 146, 11 S. W. 18, 957; Linch v. Paris Lumber, etc., Elevator Co., 80 Tex. 23, 15 S. W. 208; Marsden v. Sambell, 43 L. T. Rep. N. S. 120, 28 Wkly. Rep. 952.

Although the power of annulment at will is lost by a failure to exercise it within the time fixed, the right still exists to terminate it whenever the builder, in fact, fails or refuses to progress with sufficient speed or in a proper manner to complete the work within a reasonable time, provided the non-performance or delay is not caused by the owner contributing substantially to it. Henderson Bridge Co. v. O'Connor, 88 Ky. 303, 11 Ky. L. Rep. 146, 11 S. W. 18, 957.

15. Connecticut.— Starkweather v. Goodman, 48 Conn. 101, 40 Am. Rep. 152.

Georgia.—Crockett v. Chattahoochee Brick Co., 95 Ga. 540, 21 S. E. 42.

Illinois.— Adlard v. Muldoon, 45 Ill. 193.

Maine.— Coombs v. Beede, 89 Me. 187, 36 Atl. 104, 56 Am. St. Rep. 406.

Massachusetts.— Leverone v. Arancio, 179 Mass. 439, 61 N. E. 45.

New York.— Weeks v. Trinity Church, 56 N. Y. App. Div. 195, 67 N. Y. Suppl. 670.

Wisconsin.— Dodge v. McDonnell, 14 Wis. 553.

As to agent's powers generally see Principal and Agent.

An architect cannot invite people into a building and thereby render his employer liable for any damages occurring to such persons by reason of defects in the building. Seward v. Draper, 112 Ga. 673, 37 S. E. 978.

Termination of agency by death.—Where the building is to be finished and completed to the satisfaction of a firm of architects, and one of the firm dies, but both the builder and the owner recognize the surviving member of the firm as architect, the case is taken out of the general rule that the death of one joint agent terminates the agency. Davidson v. Provost, 35 Ill. App. 126.

Architect as trustee of owner.—Where a contract is made in the name of the architect, for the benefit of the owner, the former is deemed the trustee of an express trust, and may bring an action on the contract in his own name, or for damages for breach thereof, without joining the owner. Faust v. Goodnow, 4 Colo. App. 352, 36 Pac. 71.

16. California.— Gray v. La Societe, etc., 131 Cal. 566, 63 Pac. 848.

Connecticut.— Starkweather v. Goodman, 48 Conn. 101, 40 Am. Rep. 152.

Georgia.— Mallard v. Moody, 105 Ga. 400, 31 S. E. 45.

Illinois.— Adlard v. Muldoon, 45 Ill. 193.

Kentucky.— Watts v. Metcalf, 23 Ky. L. Rep. 2189, 66 S. W. 824.

Missouri.— Lewis v. Slack, 27 Mo. App. 119.

New Jersey.—Bond v. Newark, 19 N. J. Eq. 376.

New York.—Glacius v. Black, 50 N. Y. 145, 10 Am. Rep. 449; Dillon v. Syracuse, 5 Silv. Supreme (N. Y.) 575, 9 N. Y. Suppl. 98, 29 N. Y. St. 912.

England.— Sharpe v. San Paulo R. Co., L. R. 8 Ch. 605 note, 27 L. T. Rep. N. S. 669 [affirmed in L. R. 8 Ch. 597, 29 L. T. Rep. N. S. 9].

Canada.— Mayes v. Reg., 23 Can. Supreme Ct. 454 [affirming 2 Exch. 403].

Authority must be exercised as provided.— An architect has no authority to extend the time for completion except as provided in the contract, and a verbal extension is of no effect where an extension in writing is provided for. Kelly v. Fejervary, (Iowa 1899) 78 N. W. 828.

As to extension of time see infra, V, B, 5.

An architect may dispense with requirements contained in specifications where the contract provides that in the event of any dispute arising as to the true construction or meaning of the drawings or specifications it shall be finally and conclusively decided by him. Duell v. McCraw, 86 Hun (N. Y.) 331, 33 N. Y. Suppl. 528, 67 N. Y. St. 163.

Provision for decision of disputes not authority to dispense with substantial performance.— An architect is not authorized, by a provision that he is to decide any dis-any authority to bind the owner by contracts for any work done upon or materials furnished for the structures concerning which he is employed;[17] nor is he entitled to receive notice of an assignment of payments accruing on the contract so as to charge the owner with notice thereof.[18]

2. As to Compensation — a. For Drawing Plans — (i) In General. A person employed as an architect to furnish a plan is entitled to remuneration therefor,[19] pute respecting the construction or meaning of the drawings or specifications, to dispense with the performance of any substantial part of the contract. Mallard v. Moody, 105 Ga. 400, 31 S. E. 45.

The architect cannot accept different class of work or inferior materials than those provided for by the plans and specifications. Adlard v. Muldoon, 45 Ill. 193; Glacius v. Black, 50 N. Y. 145, 10 Am. Rep. 449; U. S. v. Walsh, 115 Fed. 697. Thus, a provision that the plastering should be done with a named person's cement, under the direction of a superintendent of such person, followed by one that the cement and sand should be mixed in equal parts does not authorize the superintendent to direct a different mixture. Fitzgerald v. Moran, 141 N. Y. 419, 36 N. E. 508, 57 N. Y. St. 579 [affirming 19 N. Y. Suppl. 958, 47 N. Y. St. 379].

Cannot waive agreement by owner as to terms of payment.— Leverone v. Arancio, 179 Mass. 439, 61 N. E. 45.

Right to pay laborers and supervise contracts made by builder.— Unless authorized an architect cannot receive money from the owner and pay laborers, materialmen, and subcontractors, or supervise the letting of subcontracts and the employment of men. Lewis v. Slack, 27 Mo. App. 119.

17. California.— Gray v. La Societe, etc., 131 Cal. 566, 63 Pac. 848.

Illinois.— Campbell v. Day, 90 Ill. 363; Hill v. Lowden, 33 Ill. App. 196.

Kentucky.— Watts v. Metcalf, 23 Ky. L. Rep. 2189, 66 S. W. 824.

Massachusetts.—McIntosh v. Hastings, 156 Mass. 344, 31 N. E. 288.

New York.— Woodruff v. Rochester, etc., R. Co., 108 N. Y. 39, 14 N. E. 832.

South Carolina.— Day v. Pickens County, 53 S. C. 46, 30 S. E. 681.

Wisconsin.— Dodge v. McDonnell, 14 Wis. 553.

If an inference of authority so to contract were permissible a man who has employed an architect to make plans and specifications for building and then engaged a builder who is to furnish materials might find himself bound by a contract entered into by the architect with another person to do the same work and furnish the same materials. Dodge v. McDonnell, 14 Wis. 553.

There is no inference that an architect is authorized to bind an owner for materials because the employer has placed money that will be due the contractor in the hands of the architect to be paid to materialmen upon an order of the contractor. Dodge v. McDonnell, 14 Wis. 553.

Implied authority to determine what are extras.—A provision that all extras or additions should be paid for at the price fixed by a surveyor impliedly authorizes him to determine what are extras under the contract. Richards v. May, 10 Q. B. D. 400, 52 L. J. Q. B. 272, 31 Wkly. Rep. 708.

Ratification by owner.—Where the architect purchases materials on the credit of the owner with the latter's knowledge and consent, the owner will be deemed to have ratified the transaction and be liable (Crockett v. Chattahoochee Brick Co., 95 Ga. 540, 21 S. E. 42), and there is evidence of authority in an architect to order work more expensive than contracted for where the order is given with the knowledge of the employer (Wallis v. Robinson, 3 F. & F. 307), and, to show the architect's authority, testimony is admissible that the owner told a person who applied to him for certain work that he must "see the architect," because if the testimony shows recognition of the architect's authority, it is of his authority in the matter in dispute (American Encaustic Tiling Co. v. Reich, 12 N. Y. Suppl. 927, 35 N. Y. St. 579); but an acceptance of the work after its completion does not ratify a contract for work entered into by a supervising engineer unless the employer has knowledge of such agreement (Woodruff v. Rochester, etc., R. Co., 108 N. Y. 39, 14 N. E. 832).

18. Renton v. Monnier, 77 Cal. 449, 19 Pac. 820, holding that a provision for the signing and issuing of certificates that work has been done to the approval and full satisfaction of an architect, and for the decision of disputes arising as to construction or meaning of drawings or specifications does not authorize the architect so to do.

19. Maas v. Hernandez, 48 La. Ann. 264, 19 So. 269; Canfield v. Johnson, 144 Pa. St. 61, 22 Atl. 974; Smithmeyer v. U. S., 25 Ct. Cl. 481 [affirmed in 147 U. S. 342, 13 S. Ct. 321, 37 L. ed. 196].

The right to remuneration is not affected because subsequently the architect becomes a contractor for the construction of the building. Maas v. Hernandez, 48 La. Ann. 264, 19 So. 269.

Although maps made by an engineer may be incorrect, yet he is entitled to a remuneration for journeys made respecting them. Taylor v. Higgins, 1 L. J. K. B. O. S. 19.

Time of payment of compensation.—Where an architect made a written offer to prepare plans and specifications and to supervise building for a percentum on total cost of the work, with "payments to be made on monthly estimates," and there was an acceptance in writing conditioned "upon the agreement terminating in twenty-four months," it was held that the time of payment was fixed by the contract as being every month. Davis v.

if made in accordance with the directions of the owner;[20] but he cannot recover, where the owner stipulates that the plan should be for a building not to cost over a specified amount, if the plans made are for a building exceeding that sum.[21]

(II) Necessity of Delivery and Acceptance. In order to entitle the architect to compensation for drawing plans there must be a delivery or tender of the plans prepared,[22] but an acceptance of the plan is not necessary,[23] unless

New York Steam Co., 33 N. Y. App. Div. 401, 54 N. Y. Suppl. 78.

Necessity for taking out patent or copyright.— An architect who prepares a design for one about to erect a building is entitled to be paid for it without being obliged to have it patented or copyrighted. Canfield v. Johnson, 144 Pa. St. 61, 22 Atl. 974.

When plans recoverable for as extras.— Where an architect agreed in writing to make plans and specifications for a building and superintend the construction for a stipulated price, but after accepting the plans and specifications made, defendant abandoned the idea of erecting the building in accordance therewith, and ordered plaintiff to make new plans for an entirely different structure, which plaintiff did, it was held that the latter set were recoverable for as extras. Fitzgerald v. Walsh, 107 Wis. 92, 82 N. W. 717, 81 Am. St. Rep. 824.

Right of builder to charge for plan.— Where a contract to build for a fixed amount according to certain specifications is entered into between an owner and a builder and a plan is annexed to the specifications by the builder as explanatory thereof, no charge in the absence of an agreement to that effect can be made for services in preparation of the plan, since the builder appears in the transaction as a contractor and not as an architect. Maas v. Hernandez, 48 La. Ann. 264, 19 So. 269.

Necessity of contract.—Where an architect prepared plans for the construction of the congressional library building, and there was no contract entered into with him by any one empowered to adopt plans or employ an architect, or to enter upon the construction of the building, until the act of congress of April 15, 1886, c. 50 (24 Stat. at L. 12), which adopted the architect's plans, it was held that the act did not constitute a contract, but only declared the intention of the legislature, and might have been rescinded at any subsequent time before the architect entered upon the performance of the work without either party becoming liable to the other. Smithmeyer v. U. S., 147 U. S. 342, 13 S. Ct. 321, 37 L. ed. 196 [affirming 25 Ct. Cl. 481].

20. Smith v. Dickey, 74 Tex. 61, 11 S. W. 1049.

Fraudulent representations made by an architect in order to have plans adopted justify rescission of the contract by an employer who adopted the plans on faith of the representations. Hall v. Los Angeles County, 74 Cal. 502, 16 Pac. 313.

Abandonment of owner's intention to build does not affect architect's right to compensation.—An architect, employed to prepare plans for a building to cost a specified amount, which are accepted and acted upon by the owner until he finds that the cost will be so much greater than originally contemplated, whereupon he gives up the idea of building, is entitled to recover his commissions. Hutchinson v. Conway, 34 Nova Scotia 554.

As to owner's acting upon plans being sufficient delivery see infra, III, A, 2, a, (II).

21. Georgia.— Feltham v. Sharp, 99 Ga. 260, 25 S. E. 619.

Illinois.— Ada St. M. E. Church v. Garnsey, 66 Ill. 132.

Maine.— Coombs v. Beede, 89 Me. 187, 36 Atl. 104, 56 Am. St. Rep. 406.

Missouri.—Maack v. Schneider, 57 Mo. App. 431.

Texas.— Smith v. Dickey, 74 Tex. 61, 11 S. W. 1049; Emerson v. Kneezell, (Tex. Civ. App. 1900) 62 S. W. 551.

Reasonable approximation to sum stated sufficient.—Where the cost is to be about a specified sum, a reasonable compliance with that sum is sufficient. Smith v. Dickey, 74 Tex. 61, 11 S. W. 1049. See also Feltham v. Sharp, 99 Ga. 260, 25 S. E. 619.

Reduction of cost to stipulated amount sufficient.—An architect, who, under a contract for plans and specifications for a building to cost ten thousand dollars, furnishes plans for a building that would cost sixteen thousand dollars but proposes certain reductions, making the plans apply to a building that would not cost over ten thousand, has complied with his contract. Marquis v. Lauretson, 76 Iowa 23, 40 N. W. 73.

22. Kutts v. Pelby, 20 Pick. (Mass.) 65; Wandelt v. Cohen, 15 Misc. (N. Y.) 90, 36 N. Y. Suppl. 811, 71 N. Y. St. 834; Resther v. Frères des Ecoles Chrétiennes, 34 L. C. Jur. 89.

Sufficiency of delivery.—Where an architect draws plans at the request of an owner who sends for them and has them estimated upon, but concludes not to build by them, there is sufficient delivery. Kutts v. Pelby, 20 Pick. (Mass.) 65.

Blue prints furnished by an architect, instead of the original drawings prepared by him, are "plans," within the meaning of a contract requiring him to furnish the plans for a building, and entitle him to compensation therefor. Lincoln School Dist. v. Fiske, 61 Nebr. 3, 84 N. W. 401.

23. Canfield v. Johnson, 144 Pa. St. 61, 22 Atl. 974.

What amounts to acceptance.—Where there is an express or implied agreement otherwise, as in the case of plans submitted in competition with the plans of other architects.[24]

b. For Superintendence. An architect employed to superintend erection of a building is not entitled to compensation if he does not perform his contract or offer so to do;[25] so an architect is not entitled to compensation in the absence of a contract therefor and is not in fact employed as superintendent;[26] nor can a building contractor who acts as his own superintendent recover for additional compensation as such superintendent under an implied contract.[27]

c. Amount of Remuneration. The allowance of a commission on the cost of building is a usual, fair, and reasonable method of remuneration.[28] building is actually commenced according to plans made for its construction, the plans are so far accepted as to authorize a recovery therefor. Fitzgerald v. Walsh, 107 Wis. 92, 82 N. W. 717, 81 Am. St. Rep. 824; Smithmeyer v. U. S., 25 Ct. Cl. 481 [affirmed in 147 U. S. 342, 13 S. Ct. 321, 37 L. ed. 196]. So when architects were invited to submit plans for a building not to exceed a certain sum and all plans were rejected except those of plaintiff but his plan was not in accordance with the conditions, it was held that he could recover on a quantum meruit. Hopkins v. Thompson, 3 L. C. L. J. 36.

Conditional acceptance.—Where plans are accepted on condition that a bid by a reliable person is received on the basis of the plans, the architect may recover in the event of such bids being received. Acceptance of such bids is unnecessary. Hall v. Los Angeles County, 74 Cal. 502, 16 Pac. 313.

24. An architect offering plans in competition for a building about to be erected, on condition that all plans sent in will be submitted to disinterested experts before a choice is made and the plans are not submitted to experts, cannot recover since the person to whom the plans were offered is not bound to adopt the plans which might be recommended by the experts. Walbank v. Protestant Insane Hospital, 7 Montreal Q. B. 166. So, where an advertisement stated that plans offered would be submitted to a committee of architects who would select the best six plans but before a decision the erection of the building for which the plans were destined was abandoned, it was held that in the absence of evidence that plaintiff's plans were among the best six selected, plaintiff had no cause of action. Audsley v. New York, 74 Fed. 274, 38 U. S. App. 689, 20 C. C. A. 426. Again, where an architect, learning that a person was about to build, solicited from such person the superintendence as an architect of the building intended and made a sketch for such a house as the intending builder described and left the sketch with such person, after which it was returned to the architect, never having been used, it was held that the architect could not recover for the sketch. Allen v. Bowman, 7 Mo. App. 29.

25. Wehrli v. Rehwoldt, 107 Ill. 60, where the architect was present when the work was let out and in a position to have known when building was to be commenced.

26. Where an association invited architects to submit designs for a building, and the designer of the design selected as the best of all was to be engaged as architect and superintendent, and the association selected as best a particular design with the understanding that it should be modified so as not to exceed a certain amount but the designer's plan was for a building to exceed such an amount and another architect was selected who made new plans, it was held that the selection of the design was conditional only, and did not entitle the author to be employed as architect of the building. Walsh v. St. Louis Exposition, etc., Assoc., 101 Mo. 534, 14 S. W. 722. But see contra, Walsh v. St. Louis Exposition, etc., Assoc., 90 Mo. 459, 2 S. W. 842 [affirming 16 Mo. App. 502].

Where an architect's contract contemplated the supervision of the construction of an entire building, including certain interior decorations, but before their completion the architect was notified by the owner to cease work on the interior decorations, the architect cannot recover for work done on such decorations after the notice when the work is not done at the owner's request. De Prosse v. Royal Eagle Distilleries Co., 135 Cal. 408, 67 Pac. 502.

27. Friedland v. McNeil, 33 Mich. 40, holding that the duties of a building superintendent are such that it would be improper that he should be appointed or controlled by the contractor.

As to good faith required of architect see infra, III, B, 1.

28. Footner v. Joseph, 5 L. C. Jur. 225, 11 L. C. Rep. 94, 7 Quebec Q. B. 478.

Percentage upon actual cost.—Where a contract provided that the architect should draw plans and specifications for a building not exceeding in cost a certain amount, and should make changes and furnish new plans without additional expense in case the bids for building should exceed such amount, or the employers for any reason required new or changed plans, and that as compensation the architect should receive a percentage of the total cost of the completed building, it was held that where changes and additions were ordered to such an extent that the total cost of the building exceeded the specified amount the architect was entitled to the specified percentage of the actual cost. Weatherhogg v. Jaspar County, (Ind. 1902) 62 N. E. 477.

Actual cost of construction to termination of employment no limit to amount of recovery. — The actual cost of construction as far as building has proceeded at the time an archi-

3. As to License. In one state, at any rate, architects are required to be licensed after being examined, though examination is not necessary, where it appears that the applicant for a license was practising the profession of architecture on a specified date.[29]

4. As to Plans. An architect has no right to the ownership of a plan furnished to, accepted by, and paid for by another;[30] but as between the architect and builder there is said to be a universal custom that the builder has a right to use and possess plans whilst the building is in course of construction, though the plans remain the property of the architect.[31] tect's employment is terminated does not limit the amount of his recovery under a contract to furnish all necessary general drawings, specifications, and details for the construction of a building on a specified commission on the total cost of construction. Havens v. Donahue, 111 Cal. 297, 43 Pac. 962.

A percentage upon estimated costs means upon reasonable cost of buildings erected in accordance with the plans and specifications referred to, and not necessarily the amount of some actual estimate agreed upon by the parties, or an estimate or bid accepted by the person for whom the plans were made. Lambert v. Sanford, 55 Conn. 437, 12 Atl. 519.

Recovery of conditional compensation.—An architect who agrees with a landowner to lay out his land for building purposes and to make all the requisite plans, on condition not to charge for such services, but that, in the event of the land being disposed of for building purposes, he shall be appointed the architect on the landowner's behalf, and that parties building on the land should pay him a percentage on the outlay, provided they did not employ him as their architect, but that the landowner might dispense with his services at any time on remunerating him for his time or trouble in making the preparations, is not entitled to recover where the land is not disposed of for building purposes, as the contract does not compel the landowner to dispose of the land for building purposes only. Moffatt v. Laurie, 15 C. B. 583, 24 L. J. C. P. 56, 1 Jur. N. S. 283, 3 Wkly. Rep. 252, 80 E. C. L. 583.

Right to schedule compensation established by institute.—An architect employed to prepare plans and estimates, who does not intimate the price he expects, is not entitled to demand the compensation fixed by the schedule of prices established by an institute of engineers, at any rate in a place other than that where such compensation is recognized as the proper rate (Mason v. U. S., 4 Ct. Cl. 495), and knowledge by the employer of a custom of architects to charge a certain percentage on the cost of a building will not be presumed (Packer v. Pentecost, 50 Ill. App. 228).

Compensation of supervising architect of the treasury.—A supervising architect of the treasury receiving a salary is precluded, by force of U. S. Rev. Stat. §§ 1763–1765, from recovering extra compensation, not expressly authorized by law, for professional services rendered to the government outside the scope of his official duty. Mullett v. U. S., 150 U. S. 566, 13 S. Ct. 190, 37 L. ed. 1184.

29. Illinois State Bd. of Examiners v. People, 93 Ill. App. 436, in which case it was held that a mandamus would not lie to compel the board to issue a license to practise architecture in the absence or abuse of discretion.

As to when mandamus lies generally see MANDAMUS.

30. Windrum v. Philadelphia, 9 Phila. (Pa.) 550, 29 Leg. Int. (Pa.) 84, holding that where an architect furnishes a plan in pursuance of an advertisement offering a premium for the best plan for a certain building, and receives the premium offered for the accepted plan, the plan as well as the idea becomes the property of the person paying the premium.

Tender of premium sufficient to destroy architect's right to plan.—Where architects are invited to submit designs for a building in competition for an award, an architect to whom the award is tendered loses his right to the plans, and the person making the tender is entitled to use the plans. Walsh v. St. Louis Exposition, etc., Assoc., 101 Mo. 534, 14 S. W. 722.

There is no intrinsic property in an architect's design unless patented or copyrighted, and though, if lost or stolen, a court of equity may possibly enjoin a use of such design by one not entitled to it, yet an architect who voluntarily makes an unrestricted surrender of a design loses all right of property in it, and when it is tendered to a party for inspection then, by a usage which cannot be questioned, it is mutually understood to be a tender of the services which produced the plans and which are embodied in them. Smithmeyer v. U. S., 25 Ct. Cl. 481 [affirmed in 147 U. S. 342, 13 S. Ct. 321, 37 L. ed. 196].

A custom with architects to retain plans accepted by and paid for by one who has offered a premium for the best plan for a building, unless the architect is employed in the erection of the building, binds no one but architects. Windrim v. Philadelphia, 9 Phila. (Pa.) 550, 29 Leg. Int. (Pa.) 84. See also Tilley v. Chicago, 103 U. S. 155, 26 L. ed. 374.

Presumption that plans a part of contract belong to employer.—Plans forming an essential part of a building contract, unless proved to be the property of the architect, are deemed that of the employer. Moffatt v. Scott, 8 L. C. Jur. 310.

31. Lunsford v. Dietrich, 86 Ala. 250, 5 So. 461, 11 Am. St. Rep. 37, wherein it was held that such right of the builder vested in

B. Duties and Liabilities — 1. In General. The architect must act in good faith toward his employer and the builder,[32] and cannot, at the same time, be employed by the owner and the builder and receive pay from both.[33]

2. Performance of Work — a. In General. The undertaking of an architect implies that he possesses skill and ability, including taste, sufficient to enable him to perform the required services at least ordinarily and reasonably well; accordingly he must exercise in any given case his skill and ability, his judgment and his taste reasonably and without neglect,[34] but it is not necessary for him to give more than ordinary care and attention, or so closely to superintend a builder's work as to discover variations from the contract and defects in execution that can only be detected by the exercise of extraordinary diligence,[35] nor does the undertaking imply or guarantee a perfect plan or a satisfactory result,[36] it being con-him a special property in plans that would enable him, before completion of the building being constructed in accordance with such plans, to maintain trespass against an architect taking the plans from him without his consent, or that would, if the plans were clandestinely taken by the architect with felonious intent to convert them to his own use or to deprive the builder of them, render the architect liable to prosecution for larceny.

As to the constituents of larceny see, generally, LARCENY.

As to when trespass lies see, generally, TRESPASS.

32. Badger v. Kerber, 61 Ill. 328.

33. Tahrland v. Rodier, 16 L. C. Rep. 473, holding that the owner is discharged where it appears that the architect covenanted with the builder to receive pay from him. See also Poitras v. Deslauriers, 4 Rev. Lég. 375.

Validity of architect's contract with builder when made with knowledge of owner. — A special contract of the architect with the building contractors and in his favor, and attached to the original building contract, and recorded in the recorder's office, is presumed to have been made with the knowledge of the owner of the building and, in the absence of actual fraud or deception, neither of such contracts is void. Orlandi v. Gray, 125 Cal. 372, 58 Pac. 15.

Employment by the builder is not presumed because the builder went to the architect to see the plans or to borrow them. Poitras v. Deslauriers, 4 Rev. Lég. 375.

34. Coombs v. Beede, 89 Me. 187, 36 Atl. 104, 56 Am. St. Rep. 406; Hubert v. Aitken, 15 Daly (N. Y.) 237, 2 N. Y. Suppl. 711, 5 N. Y. Suppl. 839, 19 N. Y. St. 914; Moneypenny v. Hartland, 1 C. & P. 352, 12 E. C. L. 211.

An architect covenants not only that he is possessed of the requisite skill but that the skill shall be exercised in the work which he has undertaken. Johnson v. Wanamaker, 17 Pa. Super. Ct. 301.

Responsibility of architect is analogous to that of lawyer or physician.— Coombs v. Beede, 89 Me. 187, 36 Atl. 104, 56 Am. St. Rep. 406.

Acceptance of a building, without objection, does not waive defects patent to an architect, though latent to one not an architect. Shipman v. State, 43 Wis. 381.

Responsibility for defects where plans are made by another.— An architect is responsible for defects in a building erected by him, though the plans were made by another architect before he assumed charge. Scott v. Christ Church Cathedral, 1 L. C. L. J. 63.

35. Stewart v. Boehme, 53 Ill. App. 463; Vigeant v. Scully, 20 Ill. App. 437; Petersen v. Rawson, 34 N. Y. 370 [reversing 2 Bosw. (N. Y.) 234].

Failure to fasten joists.— A failure to discover that a contractor, in placing the roof on a porch, omitted to fasten the mortised joints with pegs does not render an architect liable for damages. Stewart v. Boehme, 53 Ill. App. 463.

An instruction that the duty of making a special inspection of work, before issuing a certificate that the work was properly done and in accordance with the plans and specifications, devolved upon the architect is erroneous, where the contract does not require the architect to inspect work in any special manner. Vigeant v. Scully, 20 Ill. App. 437.

It may be doubted whether an architect is liable for incidental failures in detail of foresight or of oversight that may be consistent with proper architectural skill and reasonable diligence. Shipman v. State, 43 Wis. 381.

Skilled architect using best judgment not liable for defects.—Where an architect possesses the knowledge and experience of those ordinarily skilled in the business, and uses his best judgment, he is not liable for faults in construction resulting from defects in the plans. Chapel v. Clark, 117 Mich. 638, 76 N. W. 62, 72 Am. St. Rep. 587.

Liability for excess in cost.—An architect who merely gives a price for building figured upon the estimated cost of the building is not liable for excess in the actual cost of building. Bodine v. Andrews, 47 N. Y. App. Div. 495, 62 N. Y. Suppl. 385.

36. Coombs v. Beede, 89 Me. 187, 36 Atl. 104, 56 Am. St. Rep. 406; Shipman v. State, 43 Wis. 381.

No implied warranty that building can be built from plans.—An architect or engineer who prepares plans and specifications does not thereby enter into any implied warranty that the work can be successfully executed according to such plans and specifications; accordingly a builder who has considered enough that the architect himself is not the cause of any failure, and there is no implied promise that miscalculations may not occur.[37]

b. Preparation of Specifications. It is not usual for architects to prepare specifications of the exact quantities of work to be performed, but, where specifications are prepared, they should be in detail, to enable parties to judge not only of the gross quantities but also of the quantity of labor to be employed.[38]

c. As to Rejection of Work. Where it is the duty of the architect under the contract to inspect the material and construction as operations progress, and he is authorized to reject any material or construction not deemed by him to conform to the contract, the power of rejection for defects discoverable by ordinary care must be exercised promptly or the defects will be considered waived.[39]

d. As to Certificate, Decision, or Estimate — (i) Necessity and Manner of Giving Certificate, Decision, or Estimate. Where payment of the builder is dependent upon a certificate, decision, or estimate of the architect or engineer, it is the duty of the latter to give the certificate, upon being satisfied that the builder is entitled thereto,[40] and must exercise his power of withholding a certificate with reasonable discretion and not capriciously,[41] and is only justified in tracted for the work cannot sustain an action for damages against the owner as upon a warranty, should it turn out that he cannot execute it according to the plans and specifications. Thorn v. London, 1 App. Cas. 120, 45 L. J. Exch. 487, 34 L. T. Rep. N. S. 545, 24 Wkly. Rep. 932.

No liability for failure of recommended material.—An architect who recommends the use for a special purpose of a material largely and successfully used in other buildings for similar purposes is not liable if the material fails to be effective. Stewart v. Boehme, 53 Ill. App. 463.

37. Coombs v. Beede, 89 Me. 187, 36 Atl. 104, 56 Am. St. Rep. 406.

Liability for unfit soil.—An architect who has undertaken to erect a house by the job is answerable in the event of the work falling to ruin, in whole or in part, on account of the badness of his materials or work, but he is not liable for unfitness of soil or for the refusal of the owner to have excavations in the soil properly prepared for the building. Powell v. Markham, 18 La. Ann. 581. But it is the duty of an architect to cause a foundation to be sufficiently deep, or otherwise protected in order to prevent settling, which would cause the wall to crack. Schreiner v. Miller, 67 Iowa 91, 24 N. W. 738, 56 Am. Rep. 339.

38. Kemp v. Rose, 1 Giff. 258, 4 Jur. N. S. 919.

Accuracy of bill of quantities.—Mere employment of an architect to prepare plans and specifications and to procure a builder does not render the employer responsible for the accuracy of the bill of quantities given by the architect to the builder. Scrivener v. Pask, 18 C. B. N. S. 785, 114 E. C. L. 785 [affirmed in L. R. 1 C. P. 714].

39. Ashland Lime, etc., Co. v. Shores, 105 Wis. 122, 81 N. W. 136.

40. Illinois.— Michaelis v. Wolf, 136 Ill. 68, 26 N. E. 384; Badger v. Kerber, 61 Ill. 328; Frost v. Rand, 51 Ill. App. 276.

Iowa.— Crawford v. Wolf, 29 Iowa 567.

New Jersey.— Bradner v. Roffsell, 57 N. J. L. 32, 29 Atl. 317.

New York.— Nolan v. Whitney, 88 N. Y. 648; Thomas v. Fleury, 26 N. Y. 26; Van Keuren v. Miller, 71 Hun (N. Y.) 68, 24 N. Y. Suppl. 580, 54 N. Y. St. 229; Doyle v. Halpin, 33 N. Y. Super. Ct. 352; Beinhauer v. Gleason, 15 N. Y. St. 227.

South Carolina.— Sullivan v. Byrne, 10 S. C. 122.

Texas.— Mills v. Paul, (Tex. Civ. App. 1895) 30 S. W. 558.

Washington.—Washington Bridge Co. v. Land, etc., Imp. Co., 12 Wash. 272, 40 Pac. 982.

Wisconsin.— Wendt v. Vogel, 87 Wis. 462, 58 N. W. 764; Bentley v. Davidson, 74 Wis. 420, 43 N. W. 139.

See 11 Cent. Dig. tit. "Contracts," § 1290 et seq.

There is a covenant on the part of the owner that an engineer shall make a certificate of damage, where it is agreed that, in the event of the builder being prevented by his employer from performing his contract, any pecuniary damage sustained by him by reason thereof shall be certified by the employer's engineer, and, on the certificate, which shall be final and conclusive, the employer shall make to the builder such reasonable compensation as the certificate may fix. Randel v. Chesapeake, etc., Canal Co., 1 Harr. (Del.) 233.

41. Badger v. Kerber, 61 Ill. 328.

The parties have a right to the independent and honest judgment of the umpire with respect to the matters submitted to him, and an arbitrary refusal to determine the fact, or to accept performance, where the work has been in good faith performed, constitutes a fraud in law, availing to dispense with the necessity for his judgment as a condition precedent to the right of recovery by the contractor for the work done. Crane Elevator Co. v. Clark, 80 Fed. 705, 53 U. S. App. 257, 26 C. C. A. 100.

To constitute an unreasonable withholding refusing where there is a real and substantial failure on the part of the builder to fulfil his duty under the contract,[42] the fact that the employer prevented the architect from giving the certificate not being justification.[43] Should the architect unreasonably or fraudulently refuse to issue a certificate or give a decision or estimate, the builder is relieved from the necessity of showing that the certificate, decision, or estimate was procured.[44] of a certificate there must be not only an absolute compliance with the specifications on the part of the builder but also it must appear that the architect could not, with any fair degree of reason, have any doubt that the payment was "properly due." Fox v. Clark, 44 N. Y. App. Div. 626, 60 N. Y. Suppl. 237. Thus where the builder has complied with his contract it is unreasonable to refuse a certificate upon which payment depends (MacKnight Flintic Stone Co. v. New York, 160 N. Y. 72, 54 N. E. 661 [reversing 31 N. Y. App. Div. 232, 52 N. Y. Suppl. 747]; Crouch v. Gutmann, 134 N. Y. 45, 31 N. E. 271, 45 N. Y. St. 470, 30 Am. St. Rep. 608; Nolan v. Whitney, 88 N. Y. 648; Terra Cotta Co. v. Sharp, 7 Pa. Dist. 544), even if the architect has certified that the contract has been performed (Murdock v. Jones, 3 N. Y. App. Div. 221, 38 N. Y. Suppl. 461, 73 N. Y. St. 617.

It is a question of fact whether the architect exercised an independent judgment as to the performance of the contract or arbitrarily refused his approval. Long v. Pierce County, 22 Wash. 330, 61 Pac. 142; Crane Elevator Co. v. Clark, 80 Fed. 705, 53 U. S. App. 257, 26 C. C. A. 100. But where it appears that the builder paid the architect for making the inspection on which he gave a final certificate the question of the good faith of the architect in giving the certificate should not be submitted to the jury. Haunroth v. Peters, 50 Ill. App. 366.

The burden of proving that an architect or engineer acted unreasonably, arbitrarily, or fraudulently in rejecting work is on the builder. Brownell Imp. Co. v. Critchfield, 197 Ill. 61, 64 N. E. 332 [affirming 96 Ill. App. 84].

Impropriety of refusal where work nearly completed cannot be immediately finished.— A certificate cannot be withheld where the contract is nearly completed, but it is impossible to finish the work at the time the certificate is asked for, because of circumstances over which the builder has no control. Washington Bridge Co. v. Everett Land, etc., Imp. Co., 12 Wash. 272, 40 Pac. 982.

42. Weeks v. O'Brien, 59 N. Y. Super. Ct. 28, 12 N. Y. Suppl. 720, 35 N. Y. St. 463; Doyle v. Halpin, 33 N. Y. Super. Ct. 352; Highton v. Dessau, 19 N. Y. Suppl. 395, 46 N. Y. St. 922; Sullivan v. Byrne, 10 S. C. 122; Washington Bridge Co. v. Land, etc., Imp. Co., 12 Wash. 272, 40 Pac. 982.

Amount and value of work to be considered.—Where a contract provides that no payment shall be made except on the written certificate of the architect stating that he considers the payment properly due, regard must be had, in making such certificate, to the amount and value of the work remaining to be performed. Kelley v. Syracuse, 10 Misc. (N. Y.) 306, 31 N. Y. Suppl. 283, 63 N. Y. St. 534.

The refusal of an architect to give a certificate of performance must be based on and supported by some real and substantial failure on the part of the builder to fulfil his duties under the contract, and such failure should be pointed out and protested against by the architect, and it must appear that the work was not performed as provided in the contract, and that the builder was not really entitled to the certificate. Doyle v. Halpin, 33 N. Y. Super. Ct. 352.

Withholding final certificate.—Where certificates from time to time had been given by the architect, and the contractor received payments on account, but the final certificate was withheld because part of the work had not been done in a "sound and workmanlike manner," as agreed, it was held that on proof of the "unsound and unworkmanlike manner of the buildings" the withholding of the final certificate was not a fraud upon the builder. Cooper v. Uttoxeter Burial Bd., 11 L. T. Rep. N. S. 565.

43. St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Kerr, 153 Ill. 182, 38 N. E. 638 [affirming 48 Ill. App. 496]; Beinhauer v. Gleason, 15 N. Y. St. 227; Mills v. Paul, (Tex. Civ. App. 1895) 30 S. W. 558.

44. Illinois.— Foster v. McKeown, 192 Ill. 339, 61 N. E. 514 [affirming 85 Ill. App. 449]; St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Kerr, 153 Ill. 182, 38 N. E. 638 [affirming 48 Ill. App. 496]; Arnold v. Bournique, 144 Ill. 132, 33 N. E. 530, 36 Am. St. Rep. 419, 20 L. R. A. 493 [reversing 44 Ill. App. 199]; Michaelis v. Wolf, 136 Ill. 68, 26 N. E. 384; Frost v. Rand, 51 Ill. App. 276.

New Jersey.— Bradner v. Roffsell, 57 N. J. L. 32, 29 Atl. 317.

New York.— Nolan v. Whitney, 88 N. Y. 648; Thomas v. Fleury, 26 N. Y. 26; Van Keuren v. Miller, 71 Hun (N. Y.) 68, 24 N. Y. Suppl. 580, 54 N. Y. St. 229; Doyle v. Halpin, 33 N. Y. Super. Ct. 352; Highton v. Dessau, 19 N. Y. Suppl. 395, 46 N. Y. St. 922; Beinhauer v. Gleason, 15 N. Y. St. 227.

South Carolina.— Sullivan v. Byrne, 10 S. C. 122.

Texas.— Mills v. Paul, (Tex. Civ. App. 1895) 30 S. W. 558.

Wisconsin.— Bentley v. Davidson, 74 Wis. 420, 43 N. W. 139.

See 11 Cent. Dig. tit. "Contracts," § 1310.

The question whether a certificate was unreasonably withheld is one of fact.— Gibbons v. Russell, 13 N. Y. Suppl. 879, 37 N. Y. St. 402.

(II) Requisites and Sufficiency of Certificate — (A) In General. Where no specific form of certificate is prescribed, any certificate that is in substance all that the contract requires,[45] or which is so treated by the parties interested is sufficient,[46] and the architect must adopt his own form;[47] but the certificate must be substantially such as the contract calls for.[48] Thus, where the contract requires

A builder is absolved from any further efforts to procure a certificate after having frequently called upon the architect for a certificate, if, after striking out some items and delaying a year after he was first applied to, the architect declines to do anything further in adjusting the differences between the parties. Fowler v. Deakman, 84 Ill. 130.

45. Wyckoff v. Meyers, 44 N. Y. 143; Gay v. Haskins, 11 Misc. (N. Y.) 134, 31 N. Y. Suppl. 1022, 65 N. Y. St. 53; Snaith v. Smith, 7 Misc. (N. Y.) 37, 27 N. Y. Suppl. 379, 57 N. Y. St. 86.

Form of certificate of dissatisfaction with work see Sanders v. Hutchinson, 26 Ill. App. 633.

A certificate that work will be acceptable when slight additions have been made is sufficient if the additions are made. Mills v. Weeks, 21 Ill. 561.

46. Finney v. Condon, 86 Ill. 78.

47. Mercer v. Harris, 4 Nebr. 77, holding that an order of the architect on the owner in favor of the builder for the amount of the instalment then payable under the terms of the contract, or for a balance in full of the contract price is sufficient, especially in a case where the owner accepts such form.

A certificate headed "Final recommendation," and stating "We recommend, under the terms of the contract," etc., the payment demanded by the contractor, sent by the architect to the owner in a letter inclosing the contractor's bill, is sufficient to inform the owner that in the architect's opinion the builder was entitled to final payment, and, in the absence of fraud or mistake, is the same as if it had stated that the work was finished to their satisfaction. Tilden v. Buffalo Office Bldg. Co., 27 N. Y. App. Div. 510, 50 N. Y. Suppl. 511.

There is now due to the builder.—A certificate that "there is now due to" the builder "the final payment on his contract," specifying the amount, sufficiently complies with a contract requiring that all work upon the performance of which payment is to become due has been done to the satisfaction of the architect. Snaith v. Smith, 7 Misc. (N. Y.) 37, 27 N. Y. Suppl. 379, 57 N. Y. St. 86.

That builder is entitled to a certain sum.—Where payments are to be made as the work progresses, and the work to be done in a workmanlike manner, to the satisfaction and under the direction of an architect, a certificate that the builder is entitled to a certain sum on account of his contract is sufficient. Bloodgood v. Ingoldsby, 1 Hilt. (N. Y.) 388.

Have completed work on building.— Under a provision in a contract that payment is to be made "when all the works are completely finished and certified by the architect to that effect," a certificate that builders "have completed" the work "to your building" is sufficient. Stewart v. Keteltas, 9 Bosw. (N. Y.) 261.

Last payment due as per contract.—Where a building contract provides that the last instalment shall be paid "when all the work is completely finished, and certified to that effect by the architects" a certificate that "the last payment is due as per contract" is sufficient. Wyckoff v. Meyers, 44 N. Y. 143.

48. Michaelis v. Wolf, 136 Ill. 68, 26 N. E. 384.

Entitled to settlement.—Where an architect has certified that a subcontractor is entitled to a settlement, without prejudice to any claim the builder might have for time lost or work done by him in carrying out the terms of the contract, payment cannot be refused on the ground that no certificate of performance was procured. Granniss v. Deeves, 72 Hun (N. Y.) 171, 25 N. Y. Suppl. 375, 55 N. Y. St. 674.

Entitled to payment by terms of contract.—A certificate that the contractors "are entitled to a payment" of a named sum "by the terms of contract. . . Work has been measured at building," is not sufficient under a contract requiring a certificate that the "contract has been well and truly performed." Barney v. Giles, 120 Ill. 154, 11 N. E. 206. So a certificate in which the amounts of several prior payments are stated, and reciting that the builders "are entitled to a payment, being the last payment on contract price for your residence," to which is appended by the architect a "remark" that the payment due as the last payment "is the same as written in article of agreement, less credits, and credit for defective plastering," is sufficiently explicit as to the sum due on the contract to entitle the contractors to sue for such sum, where there is a finding that the contractors were not liable for the damage caused by the change and defects in the plastering material. Robinson v. Baird, 165 Pa. St. 595, 35 Wkly. Notes Cas. (Pa.) 561, 30 Atl. 1010.

Order requesting owner to pay contractor specific sum.—Where a certificate must be to the effect that work is in strict accordance with drawings and specifications, and that the architect considers payment properly due, a mere order signed by the architect addressed to the owner requesting him to pay a given sum to the contractor does not conclude the owner. Michaelis v. Wolf, 136 Ill. 68, 26 N. E. 384.

Subject to owner's approval.—Where the building must be performed to the satisfaction of the architect and the owner, a certificate from the architect to the effect that that work be measured according to the rule of mason's measurement and that such measurement be certified by the architect, the architect in giving his certificate must adhere to the system required by the contract.[49] Moreover, the certificate, estimate, or decision must be given in the exercise of an honest judgment, there being an implied condition in the building contract that this shall be so;[50] payment is due to the builder "subject to owner's approval" entitles the owner to refuse payment if the work is not satisfactory to him. Pormann v. Walsh, 97 Wis. 356, 72 N. W. 881, 65 Am. St. Rep. 125.

The checking of the builder's charges by the architect, who thereupon sends them to the employer, does not amount to a certificate of satisfactory performance. Morgan v. Birnie, 9 Bing. 672, 3 Moore & S. 76, 23 E. C. L. 754.

A letter from the architect to the owner, substantially admitting that the building is not finished according to the specification, but saying that were he the owner he would accept them for himself is not a certificate contemplated by the contract. Smith v. Briggs, 3 Den. (N. Y.) 73.

Sufficiency of final certificate.— To constitute a certificate a final one, it is not essential that it be therein declared to be such, but, if apparently in balance or satisfaction of all claims, it is sufficient. Rousseau v. Poitras, 62 Ill. App. 103. Thus, under a provision that no payments shall be made the builders except on certificates during the progress of the work that a certain amount of work had been done, and that after ninety per cent of the whole work shall be completed and paid for no further payments should be made until after the architect should have certified the completion of the whole work to his satisfaction, a certificate of final completion is sufficient, without mentioning the amount remaining due. Pashby v. Birmingham, 18 C. B. 2, 86 E. C. L. 2. But where a contract provided for a payment when part of the work was done, another payment when the work was completed and the balance of the contract price in a specified time from the second payment, and that payments should be made on the architect's certificate that the work had been done to his satisfaction, and that only the final certificate and final payment should be conclusive evidence of performance of the contract, either wholly or in part, a certificate given after the work was completed that the contractor was entitled to the second payment "as per contract" was held not the final certificate contemplated by the contract. Gay v. Haskins, 11 Misc. (N. Y.) 134, 31 N. Y. Suppl. 1022, 65 N. Y. St. 53. See also Beharrell v. Quimby, 162 Mass. 571, 39 N. E. 407. So where a contract requires a certificate to show the completion of the work, and acceptance by the architect and his final estimate of what was due on the work, and that the same had been done according to his drawinge and specifications to his satisfaction, a certificate showing merely the balance due the builder does not meet the requirements of said contract. Roy v. Boteler, 40 Mo. App. 213. Again under a contract requiring a certificate that the work was completed according to specification, a certificate stating that the work was "finished in such a manner" that the architect would accept it "if he were the owner," and that "he was satisfied, as to work and materials," is not a sufficient compliance with the contract. Smith v. Briggs, 3 Den. (N. Y.) 73.

Where a contract merely authorizes a certificate that the contract is performed to the satisfaction of the architect, his certificate that it is not so performed because of certain defects in the work has no binding effect. Mackinson v. Conlon, 55 N. J. L. 564, 27 Atl. 930.

49. Koch v. Kuhns, 41 Wkly. Notes Cas. (Pa.) 429, where it was held that it might be shown that the measurements certified by the architect were not in accordance with the rule required by the contract.

50. Welch v. Hubschmitt Bldg., etc., Co., 61 N. J. L. 57, 38 Atl. 824; Chism v. Schipper, 51 N. J. L. 1, 16 Atl. 316, 14 Am. St. Rep. 668, 2 L. R. A. 544.

Certificate given to builder on payment of fee.—A certificate from an architect to a builder that a building is completed, given after an inspection of the building, for which inspection the builder paid the architect, is void. Haunroth v. Peters, 50 Ill. App. 366.

Competency of architect as arbiter.— The fact that the architect named is interested in the ownership of the building does not of itself render him incompetent to issue a certificate. Chicago Athletic Assoc. v. Eddy Electric Mfg. Co., 77 Ill. App. 204. Again, an architect is not disqualified, because he has previously been a witness in an action between the owner and the builder, wherein there was involved the matter which is referred to him for decision. Barclay v. Deckerhoof, 171 Pa. St. 378, 33 Atl. 71. There must be very conclusive language in the contract to bind a builder to abide by the decision of an architect or engineer appointed by the employer. Lawson v. Wallasey, L. R. 11 Q. B. D. 229, 52 L. J. Q. B. 302, 47 L. T. Rep. N. S. 625 [affirmed in 47 J. P. 437, 52 L. J. Q. B. 309, 48 L. T. Rep. N. S. 507].

Estimates cannot be expected to be absolutely correct.— Louisiana Molasses Co. v. Le Sassier, 52 La. Ann. 2070, 28 So. 217 [affirmed in 52 La. Ann. 1768, 28 So. 223].

Where a superintendent when called on for a certificate neither gives nor refuses to give it, but tells the builder to wait the happening of a specified event, when payment will be made, there is a presumption that the work was done to his satisfaction. Vermont St. M. E. Church v. Brose, 104 Ill. 206.

and the certificate, decision, or estimate of the architect must be both final,[51] and complete.[52]

(B) Necessity of Notifying Parties. It has been said that it is unnecessary, in the absence of any stipulation therefor in the contract, for an architect to give notice to the parties of his intended assessment of damages, caused the owner by the builder's failure to perform his contract, and to which he is required by the contract to certify.[53] On the other hand, there are authorities holding that the architect cannot proceed without giving notice to the builder, in a case where the builder is liable to a forfeiture, as liquidated damages, which are to be determined by the architect,[54] and in a case where it is the duty of the architect or engineer to estimate expenditures for which an allowance is claimed by the builder,[55] and generally, that it is essential to a final and conclusive decision, upon any matter of difference, which the builder and his employer have agreed to submit to the decision of an architect or engineer, that both parties should have notice of the time and place when the architect or engineer is to investigate the matter with a view to such decision, unless there be something in the terms of the agreement declaring or clearly importing that such notice need not be given.[56]

(C) Necessity of Writing. It is usual to give the certificate in writing, and in most cases it is required by the contract to be in writing,[57] but there is no rule

51. Hamilton v. Hart, 125 Pa. St. 142, 23 Wkly. Notes Cas. (Pa.) 480, 567, 17 Atl. 226, 473.

52. Charlton v. Scoville, 144 N. Y. 691; 39 N. E. 394; Hamilton v. Hart, 125 Pa. St. 142, 23 Wkly. Notes Cas. (Pa.) 480, 567, 17 Atl. 226, 473; Brown v. Farnandis, (Wash. 1902) 67 Pac. 574.

Insufficiency of certificates for final payment.—A certificate that builders are entitled to a specified amount in full, less a specified sum to be held back until certain items are completed, containing a statement showing how the money due is arrived at and reciting that there is a deduction for a "bad floor" of a certain sum, and a second certificate, stating that the items to recover which the deduction was made had been attended to and that the builder is entitled to the amount stated in the first certificate, are insufficient to entitle the builder to the final payment, as the two certificates taken together do not show that the defect named has been corrected. Davidson v. Francis, 14 Manitoba 141.

Incomplete certificate.—Where time is of the essence of a building contract which also provides that on all questions of difference arising under the contract the architect's decision shall be final, a certificate that a certain sum was due the builder, and that the work was completed, but not stating whether the completion was within the time fixed does not preclude the owner from insisting on damages for delay. Downey v. O'Donnell, 86 Ill. 49.

Where an arbitrator did not pass on the merits of claims for some alterations, because the builder had failed to object to the computations of the architect at the time they were submitted to him with the order for the alterations, the award was not binding, and evidence of the matters submitted was admissible in an action against the builder on his bond. Brown v. Farnandis, (Wash. 1902) 67 Pac. 574.

53. Eldridge v. Fuhr, 59 Mo. App. 44.

54. Young v. Wells Glass Co., 187 Ill. 626, 58 N. E. 605 [affirming 87 Ill. App. 537].

55. Wilson v. York, etc., R. Co., 11 Gill & J. (Md.) 58.

56. Collins v. Vanderbilt, 8 Bosw. (N. Y.) 313. See also McMahon v. New York, etc., R. Co., 20 N. Y. 463.

An engineer required to measure masonry work need not give previous notice of his intention to make the measurement to the builder. Wilson v. York, etc., R. Co., 11 Gill & J. (Md.) 58.

57. De Mattos v. Jordan, 20 Wash. 315, 55 Pac. 118; Roberts v. Watkins, 14 C. B. N. S. 592, 9 Jur. N. S. 128, 32 L. J. C. P. 291, 8 L. T. Rep. N. S. 460, 11 Wkly. Rep. 783, 108 E. C. L. 592.

Intention that certificate should be written.—A contract providing that if the builder fails to prosecute the work, the owner may take possession and complete it, and that the expense incurred by the owner for materials and work "shall be audited and certified by the architect and that his certificate should be conclusive upon the parties," fairly contemplates a certificate in writing. De Mattos v. Jordan, 20 Wash. 315, 55 Pac. 118.

An architect's certificate not signed by the architect which does not confine its estimate to the structure described in the building contract, and does not recite that the work estimated was performed to the architect's satisfaction, does not determine the owner's liability in a case where the building contract specifically prescribes that the architect's certificate is to be in writing and must recite that the work estimated was done to the architect's satisfaction and must also be signed by him. Mockler v. St. Vincent's Inst., 87 Mo. App. 473.

of law precluding a certificate by word of mouth, where a written certificate is not specified in the contract.[58]

(D) Necessity That Certificate Be Made by Party Named. Where the architect, engineer, or other person is made the sole and only person whose certificate or decision shall be conclusive, a certificate or decision by him is necessary.[59]

(E) Necessity That Certificate Be Made on Knowledge of Architect. The certificate should be made only on the knowledge of the architect.[60]

(III) Effect of Certificate. Where the building contract expressly provides that a certificate, estimate, determination, or decision of an architect, engineer, or some third person shall be final and conclusive, it is a well-settled rule that such certificate, estimate, determination, or decision is conclusive[61] and

58. Roberts v. Watkins, 14 C. B. N. S. 592, 9 Jur. N. S. 128, 32 L. J. C. P. 291, 8 L. T. Rep. N. S. 460, 11 Wkly. Rep. 783, 108 E. C. L. 592.

Final acceptance of the work by the engineer is an announcement of his decision that the terms of the contract have been complied with and is binding under a provision that the work shall be completed under the supervision and to the satisfaction of an engineer and that such work was to be paid for upon a report showing the completion and satisfactory character of the work. Omaha v. Hammond, 94 U. S. 98, 24 L. ed. 70.

59. Monahan v. Fitzgerald, 164 Ill. 525, 45 N. E. 1013 [affirming 62 Ill. App. 192]; McEntyre v. Tucker, 5 Misc. (N. Y.) 228, 25 N. Y. Suppl. 95, 54 N. Y. St. 826, 23 N. Y. Civ. Proc. 171, holding that a certificate signed by the assistant of the person named is not sufficient. See also Wilson v. York, etc., R. Co., 11 Gill & J. (Md.) 58.

It should affirmatively appear that the person making the estimates was the person contemplated by the contract. Moran v. Schmitt, 109 Mich. 282, 67 N. W. 323.

Sufficiency of signature by one of a partnership.—Where payments are to be made on the certificates of two architects who are partners, a certificate signed by one of them is sufficient in the absence of any objection to the certificate by the owner. Lull v. Korf, 84 Ill. 225.

A certificate signed by another person for the architect named in the contract is not admissible in evidence, unless there has been a modification of a contract which provides that a certain architect shall certify in writing. McEntyre v. Tucker, 36 N. Y. App. Div. 53, 55 N. Y. Suppl. 153.

A certificate given by one claiming to be an overseer for the architect is insufficient where there is no evidence that the person giving the certificate occupied that position or was authorized to act for the architect in such a manner. Spencer v. Duplan Silk Co., 112 Fed. 638.

Where two persons are named.— Under a contract providing for skilful and workmanlike work, to the "full and complete satisfaction of A, architect, (who drew the plans and specifications,) or his assistant superintendent," the work need not be done to the satisfaction of both. Vermont St. M. E. Church v. Brose, 104 Ill. 206.

A failure to designate a person who is to furnish the estimates does not avoid the contract or render nugatory any obligation into which the parties have entered. Johnson v. Slaymaker, 18 Ohio Cir. Ct. 104, 9 Ohio Cir. Dec. 500.

Certificate of architect other than one named.—Where an owner, by dismissing an architect from his employment, renders performance of a contract requiring the approval of the architect named impossible, the builder has a right to obtain the certificate of another architect who is in charge of the work. Griffith v. Happersberger, 86 Cal. 605, 25 Pac. 137, 487. So, where an architect named dies and another is substituted by the owner who is accepted by the builder, the certificate of the substituted architect is sufficient. Beecher v. Schuback, 4 Misc. (N. Y.) 54, 23 N. Y. Suppl. 604, 53 N. Y. St. 74.

60. Spencer v. Duplan Silk Co., 112 Fed. 638, holding that a certificate that a failure of the builder is sufficient ground for a termination of the contract by the employer should be made only on the knowledge of the architect, and a certificate reciting that it is based on information received from the employer's agent is insufficient to justify a forfeiture.

Effect of decision not based on personal knowledge.—Where a contract stipulated that, in case of failure or unreasonable delay of the builder to provide the necessary labor and materials to complete the work by a certain time, in the judgment of two architects named, then the employer might, after notice, provide other labor and materials, and complete the work, it was held that the builder could not be stopped from proceeding with the work on the judgment of the architects, where the judgment of one was based solely on what the other had informed him, and not on his own examination. Benson v. Miller, 56 Minn. 410, 57 N. W. 943.

61. Arkansas.— Hot Springs R. Co. v. Maher, 48 Ark. 522, 3 S. W. 639, as to quantity and quality of work done under the contract.

California.—Dingley v. Greene, 54 Cal. 333, as to payments.

Illinois.— Finney v. Condon, 86 Ill. 78; Downey v. O'Donnell, 86 Ill. 49 (as to differences arising under the contract); Lull v. Korf, 84 Ill. 225 (as to quality of perform-binding in its legal operation and effect upon the owner, the builder, and the ance); Taylor v. Renn, 79 Ill. 181 (as to work done and materials furnished); Coey v. Lehman, 79 Ill. 173; McAuley v. Carter, 22 Ill. 53 (as to work done and payments to be made).

Kentucky.— Covington v. Limerick, 19 Ky. L. Rep. 330, 40 S. W. 254 (as to quality and amount of work); McMahon v. Casement, 13 Ky. L. Rep. 429 (as to requirements of contract).

Massachusetts.— Chapman v. Lowell, 4 Cush. (Mass.) 378, as to time of performance.

Michigan.— Kelly v. Muskegon Public Schools, 110 Mich. 529, 68 N. W. 282 (as to meaning of plans, working, drawings, and specifications); Wildey v. Fractional School Dist. No. 1, 25 Mich. 419 (as to manner of performance).

Minnesota.— St. Paul, etc., R. Co. v. Bradbury, 42 Minn. 222, 44 N. W. 1 (as to work performed and materials furnished); Trainor v. Worman, 33 Minn. 484, 24 N. W. 297 (as to completion of work).

Missouri.— Eldridge v. Fuhr, 59 Mo. App. 44, as to expense and damage to owner from builder's failure to perform.

New York.— Amsterdam v. Sullivan, 162 N. Y. 594, 57 N. E. 1123 [affirming 11 N. Y. App. Div. 472, 42 N. Y. Suppl. 358]; New York Bldg., etc., Co. v. Springfield Elevator, etc., Co., 56 N. Y. App. Div. 294, 67 N. Y. Suppl. 887 (as to substantial completion and reasonable value of work); Lawrence v. New York, 29 N. Y. App. Div. 298, 51 N. Y. Suppl. 416 (as to quality of material); Weeks v. Little, 47 N. Y. Super. Ct. 1 (as to payment being due); Wiberly v. Matthews, 10 Daly (N. Y.) 153; Jones v. New York, 32 Misc. (N. Y.) 211, 65 N. Y. Suppl. 747 (as to progress of work and owner's right to take possession of incomplete work); Lantry v. New York, 19 Misc. (N. Y.) 558, 44 N. Y. Suppl. 874 (as to performance); Zimmerman v. German Evangelical Lutheran Immanuel's Church, 11 Misc. (N. Y.) 49, 31 N. Y. Suppl. 845, 63 N. Y. St. 469 (as to disputes with regard to extra or omitted work); Gay v. Haskins, 8 Misc. (N. Y.) 626, 30 N. Y. Suppl. 191, 61 N. Y. St. 837 (as to satisfactory completion).

Pennsylvania.— Messner v. Lancaster County, 23 Pa. St. 291 (as to satisfactory completion); Malone v. Philadelphia, 12 Phila. (Pa.) 270, 34 Leg. Int. (Pa.) 230 (as to payments).

South Dakota.— Seim v. Krause, 13 S. D. 530, 83 N. W. 583, as to value of alterations.

Tennessee.— East Tennessee, etc., R. Co. v. Central Lumber, etc., Co., 95 Tenn. 538, 32 S. W. 635, as to allowances and differences not agreed on before commencement of work.

Texas.— Kilgore v. North West Texas Baptist Educational Soc., 89 Tex. 465, 35 S. W. 145 (as to payments); Boettler v. Tendick, 73 Tex. 488, 11 S. W. 497, 5 L. R. A. 270; Wright v. Meyer, (Tex. Civ. App. 1894) 25 S. W. 1122 (as to materials used and character of work).

Washington.— Long v. Pierce County, 22 Wash. 330, 61 Pac. 142, except in case of concealment of facts.

Wisconsin.— Baasen v. Baehr, 7 Wis. 516, as to value of extra work.

United States.— Omaha v. Hammond, 94 U. S. 98, 24 L. ed. 70 (as to performance); Breyman v. Ann Arbor R. Co., 85 Fed. 579; Newman v. U. S., 81 Fed. 122; Elliott v. Missouri, etc., R. Co., 74 Fed. 707, 40 U. S. App. 61, 21 C. C. A. 3 (as to quality and amount of work and material); Barlow v. U. S., 35 Ct. Cl. 514 (as to quality of material); Henegan v. U. S., 17 Ct. Cl. 273 (as to payment).

England.— Richards v. May, 10 Q. B. D. 400, 52 L. J. Q. B. 272, 31 Wkly. Rep. 708; Stevenson v. Watson, 4 C. P. D. 148, 48 L. J. C. P. 318, 40 L. T. Rep. N. S. 485, 27 Wkly. Rep. 682; Lapthorne v. St. Aubyn, Cab. & El. 486; Arnold v. Walker, 1 F. & F. 671 (as to balance due builder); Goodyear v. Weymouth, 1 H. & R. 67, 35 L. J. C. P. 12; Connor v. Belfast Water Com'rs, Ir. R. 5 C. L. 55 (as to payment and value of extra work).

Canada.— Reg. v. Cimon, 23 Can. Supreme Ct. 62; Peters v. Quebec Harbour Com'rs, 19 Can. Supreme Ct. 685, as to sum due builder.

See 11 Cent. Dig. tit. "Contracts," § 1326 et seq.

But compare Welch v. Hubschmitt Bldg., etc., Co., 61 N. J. L. 57, 38 Atl. 824, to the effect that a provision that a decision shall be final as to the true construction or meaning of the drawings or specifications does not render such decision conclusive as to the character and quality of the workmanship and material.

Account stated has force of estimate.— Where a contract stipulates that an official is to determine the amount of work to be paid for and that his estimate is to be final, and the builder has received payment of the amount audited as due on final settlement and receipted for payment in full, the transaction constitutes an account stated and is, in the absence of fraud, conclusive. McCormick v. St. Louis, 166 Mo. 315, 65 S. W. 1038.

Decision has the force of finding between the parties.— Kilgore v. North West Texas Baptist Educational Soc., 89 Tex. 465, 35 S. W. 145.

Where a building contract is void the conclusiveness or inconclusiveness of an architect's certificate to the effect that the building had been done according to the contract is not material, since the architect's certificate deriving whatever faults it may possess from the contract itself is deprived of all efficacy. Donnelly v. Adams, 115 Cal. 129, 46 Pac. 916.

A certificate that an instalment may be paid is not so conclusive as to prevent the owner from showing negligent performance or omission of work. Accordingly, the owner other parties, if any, to the contract,[62] including those guaranteeing its faithful performance,[63] but not as between either party and the architect,[64] provided the decision concerns matters within the scope of the submission to him,[65] may show that plans and specifications were disregarded by the builder in material aspects, that certain parts of the work and materials were wholly omitted and alterations made in other particulars. Davidson v. Provost, 35 Ill. App. 126.

A certificate that entire work was completed implies that it was done as the contract required, and to the satisfaction of the architect. Galbraith v. Chicago Architectural Iron Works, 50 Ill. App. 247.

An architect's estimates are not binding when not provided for in the contract.— Schuler v. Eckert, 90 Mich. 165, 51 N. W. 198. See also White v. Harrigan, 41 Minn. 414, 43 N. W. 89, in which case the building contract was made with a city but did not provide that the decision of a city building inspector as to whether the builder was complying with a city ordinance should be final and conclusive and the ordinance itself did not assume to give his decision any such effect.

62. Arkansas.— Hot Springs R. Co. v. Maher, 48 Ark. 522, 3 S. W. 639.

California.— Dingley v. Greene, 54 Cal. 333.

Idaho.—Thompson v. Bradbury, (Ida. 1898) 51 Pac. 758.

Illinois.— Finney v. Condon, 86 Ill. 78; Taylor v. Renn, 79 Ill. 181; Coey v. Lehman, 79 Ill. 173; Korf v. Lull, 70 Ill. 420; Lindeman v. Wagner, 67 Ill. App. 134.

Kentucky.— McMahon v. Casement, 13 Ky. L. Rep. 429.

New Hampshire.— Smith v. Boston, etc., R. Co., 36 N. H. 458.

New York.— McMahon v. New York, etc., R. Co., 20 N. Y. 463.

Ohio.— Kane v. Ohio Stone Co., 39 Ohio St. 1.

Pennsylvania.— Kennedy v. Poor, 151 Pa. St. 472, 31 Wkly. Notes Cas. (Pa.) 174, 25 Atl. 119; Malone v. Philadelphia, 12 Phila. (Pa.) 270, 34 Leg. Int. (Pa.) 230.

South Dakota.— Seim v. Krause, 13 S. D. 530, 83 N. W. 583.

Tennessee.— East Tennessee, etc., R. Co. v. Central Lumber, etc., Co., 95 Tenn. 538, 32 S. W. 635.

Texas.— Kilgore v. North West Texas Baptist Educational Soc., 89 Tex. 465, 35 S. W. 145; Boettler v. Tendick, 73 Tex. 488, 11 S. W. 497, 5 L. R. A. 270; Johnson v. White, (Tex. Civ. App. 1894) 27 S. W. 174; Wright v. Meyer, (Tex. Civ. App. 1894) 25 S. W. 1122.

Wisconsin.— McAlpine v. St. Clara Female Academy, 101 Wis. 468, 78 N. W. 173; Baasen v. Baehr, 7 Wis. 516.

United States.— Omaha v. Hammond, 94 U. S. 98, 24 L. ed. 70; Breyman v. Ann Arbor R. Co., 85 Fed. 579; Newman v. U. S., 81 Fed. 122; Barlow v. U. S., 35 Ct. Cl. 514; Henegan v. U. S., 17 Ct. Cl. 273.

England.— Rogers v. James, 56 J. P. 277.

Canada.— Reg. v. Cimon, 23 Can. Supreme Ct. 62.

See 11 Cent. Dig. tit. "Contracts," § 1331.

Certificate binds judgment creditors of builder.—A contract between a builder and his subcontractor, providing that the estimate of the engineer shall be final and conclusive as to the amount of work and its value, is binding on judgment creditors of the subcontractors, on garnishment of the builder. St. Joseph Iron Co. v. Halverson, 48 Mo. App. 383.

Actual controversy not requisite to make decision binding.— Under a provision that all cases of dispute as to the character of labor or material or the meaning of the contract should be submitted to the architect, whose decision shall be final, with no right to appeal therefrom, it is not necessary that an actual controversy should have existed and have been decided by the architects to make their decision binding between the parties. Boettler v. Tendick, 73 Tex. 488, 11 S. W. 497, 5 L. R. A. 270.

Opinion given as witness not binding.—A provision that the opinion, certificate, report, and decision shall be binding and conclusive does not bind the builder to an estimate or opinion given as a witness. Fitzgerald v. Beers, 31 Mo. App. 356.

The fact that a builder does not keep the final certificate, but hands it back to the architects, does not affect the validity of the certificate. Arnold v. Bournique, 144 Ill. 132, 33 N. E. 530, 36 Am. St. Rep. 419, 20 L. R. A. 493.

The fact that the question may be decided in some other manner does not affect the binding character of the decision; thus when it is agreed that a report as to the amount and quality of work done or material furnished shall be conclusive, such report is as conclusive upon questions of count, measurement, or distance as upon other matters, although these questions may be capable of accurate measurement. Elliott v. Missouri, etc., R. Co., 74 Fed. 707, 40 U. S. App. 61, 21 C. C. A. 3.

Under a provision that suspension of the work shall not entitle the builder to damages, a suspension in good faith will not relieve the contractor from an undertaking to abide by the award of an engineer as to the quantity and quality of the work done. Snell v. Brown, 71 Ill. 133.

63. Finney v. Condon, 86 Ill. 78.

64. Rogers v. James, 56 J. P. 277, holding that the architect's certificate is not final as between the building owner and the architect.

65. Illinois.— Taylor v. Renn, 79 Ill. 181; Korf v. Lull, 70 Ill. 420.

New Hampshire.— Smith v. Boston, etc., R. Co., 36 N. H. 458.

and also provided the decision, determination, estimate, or certificate is made

New York.— Burns v. New York, 69 N. Y. App. Div. 214, 74 N. Y. Suppl. 697 [affirming 31 Misc. (N. Y.) 315, 63 N. Y. Suppl. 1078]; Zimmerman v. German Evangelical Lutheran Immanuel's Church, 11 Misc. (N. Y.) 49, 31 N. Y. Suppl. 845, 63 N. Y. St. 469.

Pennsylvania.— O'Reilly v. Kerns, 52 Pa. St. 214.

United States.— Crane Elevator Co. v. Clark, 80 Fed. 705, 53 U. S. App. 257, 26 C. C. A. 100; Elliott v. Missouri, etc., R. Co., 74 Fed. 707, 40 U. S. App. 61, 21 C. C. A. 3.

England.—Goodyear v. Weymouth, H. & R. 67, 35 L. J. C. P. 12.

Canada.—Peters v. Quebec Harbour Com'rs, 19 Can. Supreme Ct. 685.

See 11 Cent. Dig. tit. "Contracts," § 1330 et seq.

Decisions or estimates not authorized by contract.—A clause providing that if any difference should arise between the parties in relation to the contract, or the work to be performed under it, the decision of the architect should be final does not render binding a decision on the claim of the owner for a bill for merchandise sold to the builders, as such claim was entirely outside of the contract. Busse v. Agnew, 10 Ill. App. 527. So a clause providing that the decision of the architects shall be final and binding in case the parties fail to agree as to the value of extra or deducted work, or the amount of extra time, or in case of any disagreement between the parties relating to the performance of any covenant or agreement contained in the contract, does not cover a claim made by the builder for the recovery of damages resulting from a delay caused by the failure of other contractors to complete the work. Nelson v. Pickwick Associated Co., 30 Ill. App. 333. Again a clause providing that the architect's decision be binding on both parties "as to the interpretation of the drawings and specifications, and as to the quality or quantity of work or materials, or any other matter connected with the work, furnishing materials, or in settlement of this contract," does not include a claim for damages for unreasonable delay in performing the contract. Michigan Ave. M. E. Church v. Hearson, 41 Ill. App. 89. In like manner the determination of a claim for damages resulting from a builder's delay is not authorized by clauses providing that, if the builder failed to complete the work at the time specified, he should forfeit, as liquidated damages, amounts named in certain detailed specifications for different portions of the work, and, that should any disagreement arise as to the meaning of the drawings or specifications on any point, or as to the character of the work, the decision of the engineer should be conclusive on all parties to the contract. Chandley v. Cambridge Springs, 200 Pa. St. 230, 49 Atl. 772. So disputes as to whether certain work was extra work, and as to whether extra work done at agreed prices was properly done are not within a stipulation for arbitration in case of a dispute as to the true value of extra work or of work omitted. Weeks v. Little, 47 N. Y. Super. Ct. 1. Again a provision that, in case of dispute concerning certain specified work, or any increase or contingent work, the decision of an engineer shall be conclusive does not apply to extra work not contemplated in making the contract, and a decision thereon is not binding. O'Reilly v. Kerns, 52 Pa. St. 214. See also Delaware, etc., Canal Co. v. Dubois, 15 Wend. (N. Y.) 87 [affirming 12 Wend. (N. Y.) 334]; Long v. Pierce County, 22 Wash. 330, 61 Pac. 142. So under a contract to do work according to definite plans and specifications, without any responsibility as to result, retention of pay by an engineer till certain work is made perfect, though a defect is not due to a failure of the builder to fully perform his undertaking, is not justified by a provision that the engineer shall determine the amount or quality of the work to be paid for, and shall decide all questions arising relative to execution of the contract by the builder, and that his estimates and decisions shall be conclusive. Harlow v. Homestead, 194 Pa. St. 57, 45 Atl. 87. When all payments are to be subject to the architect's approval, but the owner may make "any alteration, deviation, additions, or omissions" from the contract which are not to avoid the contract, but be duly allowed for in payment, work not mentioned in the contract, and for which there are no specifications is not subject to the architect's approval unless it is proved that such work was in contemplation of the parties provided for by the contract. St. John v. Potter, 19 N. Y. Suppl. 230, 46 N. Y. St. 883. A contract providing for a determination by the architect of all questions arising as to the true intent and meaning of the plans and specifications does not authorize him to decide a disputed method of measurement of brick used in walls. Walker v. Syms, 118 Mich. 183, 76 N. W. 320.

A measurement or estimate based on an erroneous construction of the contract is not binding. Galveston, etc., R. Co. v. Henry, 65 Tex. 685.

What provision as to reference of disputes embraces.—A provision in a building contract, referring to the architect "all disputes, . . . and all questions of doubt as to the tenor and intention of the drawings and specifications, or of the contract," embraces the question whether the contractor and his sureties are bound to refund to the owner of the building the amount paid by him on a mechanic's lien, where the contract provides that the contractor shall deliver the building free from all claims, and shall furnish at his own cost all necessary materials. Barclay v. Deckerhoof, 171 Pa. St. 378, 33 Atl. 71.

An estimate or decision partly within and partly without the matters submitted by the contract is not void in toto but the esti-by such architect, engineer, or third person in the exercise of an honest judgment.[66]

(IV) IMPEACHMENT OF CERTIFICATE. The only grounds, upon which a certificate, estimate, determination, or decision may be impeached[67] are fraud or mate is rendered void with respect to the matter improperly decided by the architect. Drhew v. Altoona City, 121 Pa. St. 401, 15 Atl. 636.

Where the contract fixes the price to be paid, the arbiter has no power to compel the builder, after the work is done according to the terms of his contract, to accept a less price than agreed upon. McMahon v. Casement, 13 Ky. L. Rep. 429.

66. Arkansas.— Hot Springs R. Co. v. Maher, 48 Ark. 522, 3 S. W. 639.

Massachusetts.— Chapman v. Lowell, 4 Cush. (Mass.) 378.

Michigan.— Wildey v. Fractional School Dist. No. 1, 25 Mich. 419.

Minnesota.— Trainor v. Worman, 33 Minn. 484, 24 N. W. 297.

Missouri.— McCormick v. St. Louis, 166 Mo. 315, 65 S. W. 1038.

New Hampshire.— Smith v. Boston, etc., R. Co., 36 N. H. 458.

Ohio.— Kane v. Ohio Stone Co., 39 Ohio St. 1.

South Dakota.— Seim v. Krause, 13 S. D. 530, 83 N. W. 583.

Tennessee.— East Tennessee, etc., R. Co. v. Central Lumber, etc., Co., 95 Tenn. 538, 32 S. W. 635.

Texas.— Boettler v. Tendick, 73 Tex. 488, 11 S. W. 497, 5 L. R. A. 270.

United States.— Newman v. U. S., 81 Fed. 122.

England.— Ormes v. Beadel, 2 Giff. 166 [affirmed in 30 L. J. Ch. 1, 3 L. T. Rep. N. S. 344, 9 Wkly. Rep. 25].

Necessity of exercising honest judgment see supra, III, B, 2, d, (I).

67. Arkansas.— Hot Springs R. Co. v. Maher, 48 Ark. 522, 3 S. W. 639.

California.— Moore v. Kerr, 65 Cal. 519, 4 Pac. 542; Dingley v. Greene, 54 Cal. 333.

Illinois.— Brownell Imp. Co. v. Critchfield, 197 Ill. 61, 64 N. E. 332 [affirming 96 Ill. App. 84]; Lull v. Korf, 84 Ill. 225; Taylor v. Renn, 79 Ill. 181; Coey v. Lehman, 79 Ill. 173; Snell v. Brown, 71 Ill. 133; McAuley v. Carter, 22 Ill. 53; Davis v. Gibson, 70 Ill. App. 273.

Kentucky.— Covington v. Limerick, 19 Ky. L. Rep. 330, 40 S. W. 254.

Minnesota.— St. Paul, etc., R. Co. v. Bradbury, 42 Minn. 222, 44 N. W. 1.

Missouri.— Eldridge v. Fuhr, 59 Mo. App. 44.

New York.— Tilden v. Buffalo Office Bldg. Co., 27 N. Y. App. Div. 510, 50 N. Y. Suppl. 511; Amsterdam v. Sullivan, 11 N. Y. App. Div. 472, 42 N. Y. Suppl. 358 [affirmed in 162 N. Y. 594, 57 N. E. 1123]; Whiteman v. New York, 21 Hun (N. Y.) 117; Weeks v. Little, 47 N. Y. Super. Ct. 1; Jones v. New York, 32 Misc. (N. Y.) 211, 65 N. Y. Suppl. 747; Gay v. Haskins, 8 Misc. (N. Y.) 626, 30 N. Y. Suppl. 191, 61 N. Y. St. 837.

Tennessee.— Chandler v. Wheeler, (Tenn. Ch. 1898) 49 S. W. 278.

Texas.— Kilgore v. North West Texas Baptist Educational Soc., 89 Tex. 465, 35 S. W. 145; Brin v. McGregor, (Tex. Civ. App. 1898) 45 S. W. 923.

Wisconsin.— McAlpine v. St. Clara Female Academy, 101 Wis. 468, 78 N. W. 173; Baasen v. Baehr, 7 Wis. 516.

United States.— U. S. v. Walsh, 108 Fed. 502; Breyman v. Ann Arbor R. Co., 85 Fed. 579; Elliott v. Missouri, etc., R. Co., 74 Fed. 707, 40 U. S. App. 61, 21 C. C. A. 3.

England.— Scott v. Liverpool, 27 L. J. Ch. 641, 4 Jur. N. S. 402, 6 Wkly. Rep. 136, 493.

See 11 Cent. Dig. tit. "Contracts," § 1343.

What constitutes fraud.— To constitute sufficient fraud to avoid a decision, the architect or other person whose decision is impeached must have knowingly and wilfully disregarded his duty (Gilmore v. Courtney, 158 Ill. 432, 41 N. E. 1023; Snell v. Brown, 71 Ill. 133); thus any failure to consider all matters submitted to him is to that extent a fraud upon the party discriminated against (Anderson v. Imhoff, 34 Nebr. 335, 51 N. W. 854). A concealment of defects by builder would be fraud on owner and render decision not binding on him. Kane v. Ohio Stone Co., 39 Ohio St. 1. That work specified in a certificate is not entirely completed does not show fraud on the part of the architect. Lincoln v. Schwartz, 70 Ill. 134. Fraud is not shown where an engineer allows in his final certificate for all that the contract authorizes, even if he thinks the builder entitled to an allowance for certain work and that he had the right to give the contractor credit therefor on the final certificate. O'Brien v. New York, 139 N. Y. 543, 35 N. E. 323, 55 N. Y. St. 596, 142 N. Y. 671, 37 N. E. 465, 60 N. Y. St. 388 [affirming 65 Hun (N. Y.) 112, 19 N. Y. Suppl. 793].

Collusion between architect and owner constitutes fraud. Pittsburg Terra-Cotta Lumber Co. v. Sharp, 190 Pa. St. 256, 44 Wkly. Notes Cas. (Pa.) 5, 42 Atl. 685; Mills v. Paul, (Tex. Civ. App. 1895) 30 S. W. 558.

Fraud should not be presumed merely because the architect estimates work done pursuant to the contract as less than the measurement of the work actually done. Snell v. Brown, 71 Ill. 133. So the fact that the architects, named to decide disputes as to the meaning of plans, working, drawings, and specifications, drew the plans and specifications and were to receive as their compensation a percentage of the total cost of building does not warrant an inference of fraud in their decision. Kelly v. Muskegon Public Schools, 110 Mich. 529, 68 N. W. 282. But such gross mistake as would imply bad faith or a failure to exercise an honest judgment.

(v) Withdrawal of Certificate. An architect may not withdraw an acceptance of work which must be done to his satisfaction without good cause.[68]

3. Liability For Fraud and Negligence. An architect is responsible, not only for actual fraud committed by him,[69] but also for a negligent disregard of his duty.[70] Thus, he is liable to the owner for permitting material to go into the where the architect had, unknown to the builder, assured the building owner that the cost of building should not exceed a specified amount, it was held that a decision of the architect as to the amount to be paid the builder made under such bias was not binding upon the builder. Kemp v. Rose, 1 Giff. 258, 4 Jur. N. S. 919.

Mere refusal to issue a certificate upon grounds known to be fictitious and without foundation may be found by a jury to constitute a fraudulent refusal and be no bar to the contractor's right to payment. Rawle v. Gilmore, 76 Ill. App. 372.

The burden of showing fraud (Lindeman v. Wagner, 67 Ill. App. 134; Pucci v. Barney, 1 Misc. (N. Y.) 84, 20 N. Y. Suppl. 375, 48 N. Y. St. 30), caprice, or malice (Eldridge v. Fuhr, 59 Mo. App. 44) is upon the party complaining.

Wilful neglect, refusal, or absolute incapacity of the arbiter to perform his duties are grounds of impeachment. Scott v. Liverpool, 27 L. J. Ch. 641, 4 Jur. N. S. 402, 6 Wkly. Rep. 136, 493.

Mere mistake or error of judgment afford no ground of impeachment (Snell v. Brown, 71 Ill. 133; Whiteman v. New York, 21 Hun (N. Y.) 117; McAlpine v. St. Clara Female Academy, 101 Wis. 468, 78 N. W. 173; Mitchell v. Dougherty, 86 Fed. 859; Stevenson v. Watson, 4 C. P. D. 148, 48 L. J. C. P. 318, 40 L. T. Rep. N. S. 485, 27 Wkly. Rep. 682; Lapthorne v. St. Aubyn, Cab. & El. 486), though a mistake may be ground for correction (Peters v. Quebec Harbour Com'rs, 19 Can. Supreme Ct. 685).

A palpable mistake appearing on the face of the decision is ground of impeachment. Amsterdam v. Sullivan, 11 N. Y. App. Div. 472, 42 N. Y. Suppl. 358.

Severity of award no ground for avoidance. — However severe an award may be in its effects, it will not be relieved against if fairly and impartially made. Ormes v. Beadel, 2 Giff. 166 [affirmed in 30 L. J. Ch. 1, 3 L. T. Rep. N. S. 344, 9 Wkly. Rep. 25].

It is not permissible to revise a progress certificate, on which a payment is to be made, where the contract limits the certificate to such portions of the building as have been constructed in a manner satisfactory to the supervising architect under the contract, unless the revision is provided for by the contract; and, in this respect, a provision that the certificate shall not be conclusive is not sufficient, as it should be construed to extend to defects only that are not discoverable by the exercise of ordinary care prior to its issuance. Ashland Lime, etc., Co. v. Shores, 105 Wis. 122, 81 N. W. 136.

Reopening of decision by subsequent engineer improper.—Where an engineer changes the character of a particular class of work, and classifies it and fixes the value, his decision cannot be reopened and revived by a subsequent engineer. Murray v. Reg., 26 Can. Supreme Ct. 203.

Reversal.—An approval of work by an architect who is sole arbiter between the parties as to the character of the materials used cannot be reversed to the injury of the builder. Wright v. Meyer, (Tex. Civ. App. 1894) 25 S. W. 1122.

Where an erroneous construction of the contract is given by an engineer and classification of the work is made on an erroneous basis, the error may be corrected in a proceeding to enjoin payment under the contract. State v. Cuyahoga County 12 Ohio Cir. Dec. 328.

Where an owner does not exercise a right of reviewing a final decision his approval or disapproval of an estimate is immaterial. Gonder v. Berlin Branch R. Co., 171 Pa. St. 492, 33 Atl. 61.

68. Lauman v. Clark, 73 Ill. App. 659.

The conclusiveness of a final certificate is not affected by a letter afterward written by the architect, stating that the certificate was not intended to conclude any just rebate or offsets. Weeks v. Little, 47 N. Y. Super. Ct. 1.

Where either the architect or his superintendent may approve the work the architect cannot, after it has been done to the approval of the superintendent, say it was not done to his satisfaction, and reject all the building. Vermont St. M. E. Church v. Brose, 104 Ill. 206.

Under a contract providing that the building must be subject to the approval of an architect or engineer, the engineer cannot, after approving the materials in advance, withdraw his approval. Jones v. Gilchrist, (Tex. Civ. App. 1894) 27 S. W. 890.

69. Lasher v. Colton, 80 Ill. App. 75.

70. Lasher v. Colton, 80 Ill. App. 75; Schreiner v. Miller, 67 Iowa 91, 24 N. W. 738, 56 Am. Rep. 339.

Although an architect may, as between the owner and the builder, be an arbitrator, and his decision be unimpeachable except for fraud or dishonesty, yet as between him and the owner he is answerable for either negligence or unskilfulness in the performance of his duty as architect. Badgley v. Dickson, 13 Ont. App. 494 [approving Irving v. Morrison, 27 U. C. C. P. 242].

Negligence of architect not attributable to owner.— Failure of a competent architect properly to inspect construction of a build-building that is inferior to that called for by the contract,[71] and is not entitled to recover anything for plans, specifications, or estimates made for the work, where he is so negligent that he fails to inform himself of the nature of the soil of his foundation and such soil turns out to be bad,[72] nor is his negligence excused by the fact that he relied on the statements of others,[73] and the architect is liable to the builder for damages sustained by him by reason of an improper refusal to issue a certificate essential to the builder.[74]

IV. ACTIONS BY OR AGAINST ARCHITECT.

A. By Architect — 1. FORM OF ACTION. Assumpsit will lie where an architect has been prevented by the owner from performing a special agreement.[75]

2. PARTIES. Where the obligation is joint, both contractors must be joined and a discontinuance against either is improper.[76]

ing is not attributable to the owner. Burke v. Ireland, 166 N. Y. 305, 59 N. E. 914 [reversing 47 N. Y. App. Div. 428, 62 N. Y. Suppl. 453].

Negligence of architect does not bind owner.— The mere fact that the architect does not object to work as it progresses does not amount to waiver of provisions of the contract relating to the character of the work and the manner in which it is to be done, and the owner is not bound by such failure. Monahan v. Fitzgerald, 164 Ill. 525, 45 N. E. 1013.

Architect not ordinarily liable for builder's breach of contract.—A supervising architect is not liable for the builder's breaches of contract arising through incapability, misconduct, or intemperance, unless he has wrongfully given the builder a certificate of performance. Gilman v. Stevens, 54 How. Pr. (N. Y.) 197.

71. Gilman v. Stevens, 54 How. Pr. (N. Y.) 197.

72. Moneypenny v. Hartland, 1 C. & P. 352, 12 E. C. L. 211.

73. Hubert v. Aitken, 15 Daly (N. Y.) 237, 2 N. Y. Suppl. 711, 5 N. Y. Suppl. 839, 19 N. Y. St. 914; Moneypenny v. Hartland, 1 C. & P. 352, 12 E. C. L. 211.

Presence of owner during progress of work no excuse for neglect.— Proof that the owner was about the premises during the progress of the work and must have seen the imperfections does not excuse negligence of architect. Lotholz v. Fiedler, 59 Ill. App. 379.

Architect taking construction contract liable for defective plans.—An architect employed to make plans and undertaking to carry out such plan cannot, after executing them, urge that his employment had changed from that of architect to that of a builder and that he is no longer bound for defects in the plans. Louisiana Molasses Co. v. Le Sassier, 52 La. Ann. 2070, 28 So. 217.

Where an architect appears to have exercised reasonable care and diligence in supervision the mere fact that inferior material has been used in some instances and that work has been carelessly done does not establish as matter of law that he has not fully performed his contract. Hubert v. Aitken, 15 Daly (N. Y.) 237, 2 N. Y. Suppl. 711, 5 N. Y. Suppl. 839, 19 N. Y. St. 914.

74. Ludbrook v. Barrett, 46 L. J. C. P. 798, 36 L. T. Rep. N. S. 616, 25 Wkly. Rep. 649.

Duty to third persons.—A surveyor owes no duty to mortgagees who have advanced money to a builder upon the faith of certificates given by him of exercising care in giving the certificates, and is not liable to them for negligence in the absence of contract and fraud. Le Lievre v. Gould, [1893] 1 Q. B. 491, 57 J. P. 484, 62 L. J. Q. B. 353, 68 L. T. Rep. N. S. 626, 4 Reports 274, 41 Wkly. Rep. 468.

For form of action see infra, IV, B, 2, a.

Responsibility of owner for architect's refusal to issue certificate.—Where there is no collusion between the architect and the owner, the owner is not responsible for the architect's refusal to give a certificate. Clarke v. Watson, 18 C. B. N. S. 278, 34 L. J. C. P. 148, 11 L. T. Rep. N. S. 679, 13 Wkly. Rep. 345.

75. Wilson v. Bauman, 80 Ill. 493; Marcotte v. Beaupre, 15 Minn. 152; Wolf v. Altmeyer, 8 Pa. Dist. 408, 30 Pittsb. Leg. J. N. S. (Pa.) 27; Chicago v. Tilley, 103 U. S. 146, 26 L. ed. 371. See also, generally, ACTIONS, II, J [1 Cyc. 734].

As to recovery, in general, where performance is impossible see CONTRACTS.

Right to rescind contract where performance prevented.—Where the architect was by the contract to have so much for drawing plans and a per centum for superintendence, but the owner prohibits the superintendence, the architect may treat the contract as rescinded and sue for the value of the services in preparing the plans. Marcotte v. Beaupre, 15 Minn. 152.

76. Where plaintiff contracted with the son-in-law of one defendant to make plans and specifications for a building to be erected on land, half of which defendant owned, the other half being controlled by the son-in-law, and plaintiff sued defendant and his daughter, but dismissed as to her, it was held that the obligation sued on was joint, and the father entitled to a verdict. Van Leyen v. Wreford, 81 Mich. 606, 45 N. W. 1116.

Necessity of joining joint contractors generally see PARTIES.

3. Conditions Precedent. Plaintiff must have performed or tendered performance of the work for which he seeks to recover.[77]

4. Defenses. The negligence of plaintiff is a defense to an action by an architect to recover remuneration,[78] nor is the defense barred because defendant occupied the building being erected before its completion;[79] but where the contract is divisible and apportionable and has been completely performed but negligently, the defects cannot be urged to defeat all recovery on the contract.[80] It is not a defense, however, to an action to recover for superintending the erection of a building that plaintiff was one of the contractors for the erection of the building.[81]

5. Pleading[82] — a. Complaint, Declaration, or Petition — (I) In General. A complaint alleging that plaintiff made plans and specifications and procured bids for building, at the request and by direction of defendant, at an agreed compensation of a percentage upon the estimated cost of building, and that the percentage amounts to a named sum, is sufficient.[83]

(II) Particular Averments. Where there was a special contract it may be averred,[84] and should be;[85] but a complaint is sufficient if, after alleging a special agreement, it avers facts showing that plaintiff is entitled to recover for the reasonable value of his services and claims that value.[86]

b. Counter-Claim.[87] A defense by way of counter-claim in an action to 77. Wehrli v. Rehwoldt, 107 Ill. 60. See also, generally, Actions, I, N [1 Cyc. 692].

Where an architect declines to proceed with his undertaking upon discovering that a contract for a portion of the work has been awarded to a business rival of a company of which he is president, and takes away his plans, and calls off his superintendent in charge of the building, a promise by the owner, who was in great haste to have the building completed, to pay him a commission of five per cent upon the cost of such work as an inducement to resume work cannot be made the basis of recovery. Lingenfelder v. Wainwright Brewing Co., 103 Mo. 578, 15 S. W. 844.

78. Havens v. Donahue, 111 Cal. 297, 43 Pac. 962; Hettinger v. Beiler, 54 Ill. App. 320.

79. Hettinger v. Beiler, 54 Ill. App. 320, holding that such occupancy does not constitute, as a matter of law, an acceptance of the architect's work.

80. Hubert v. Aitken, 15 Daly (N. Y.) 237, 2 N. Y. Suppl. 711, 5 N. Y. Suppl. 839, 19 N. Y. St. 914, holding that the defects may entitle defendant to a reduction of the damages caused thereby.

It is erroneous to refuse an instruction that payments made by the owner with knowledge that the work paid for was not according to specifications would not preclude the recovery of damages suffered from the architect's failure to use proper diligence and skill in drawing the plans or specifications or to supervise the work done thereunder. Pierson v. Tyndall, (Tex. Civ. App. 1894) 28 S. W. 232.

81. Shaw v. Andrews, 9 Cal. 73, holding that, though it may be true that the duties of superintendent are in some respects in conflict with the interest of the contractor, if an owner, with a full knowledge of the facts, chooses to employ a contractor for the erection of the building as superintendent and to rely on his good faith and honesty, there is no reason why the contractor should not receive the value of his services, especially where there is no pretense that his duties as superintendent were not faithfully and satisfactorily performed. Accordingly under such circumstances it is not error to refuse an instruction "that plaintiff, being one of the contractors for the erection of the building, it would be against public policy to allow him to act as superintendent of the same building" and that any contract for such superintendence was void.

82. See also, generally, Contracts; Pleading.

83. Lambert v. Sanford, 55 Conn. 437, 12 Atl. 519, holding that it is not necessary to aver when, by whom, or how the cost of building was to be estimated, or how much the estimated cost was, or that any estimate had been made, or when payment was to be made, or that a demand for payment had been made on defendant.

84. Maack v. Schneider, 51 Mo. App. 92, holding that an architect under contract to plan and superintend the building of seven houses who has completed three, and has been paid for them, but who has agreed to wait a reasonable time for the erection of the other four, for which he has made plans and specifications, may, when suing for services with respect to them, declare on the original contract.

85. Ehlers v. Wannack, 118 Cal. 310, 50 Pac. 433.

86. Ehlers v. Wannack, 118 Cal. 310, 50 Pac. 433, holding that failure to prove a special contract under such circumstances was not a material variance or one by which defendant could possibly have been injured.

As to declaring on a special contract and recovering on a general count see Assumpsit, 4 Cyc. 356.

87. See, generally, Recoupment, Set-Off, and Counter-Claim.

recover for architect's fees and the superintendence of a building must state facts creating a legal liability against plaintiff, defendant in the counter-claim.[88]

6. Issues and Proof. Under the general issue, where plaintiff sues to recover for plans, defendant may show that plaintiff failed to furnish such plans and specifications as could be used,[89] and, under an answer denying the allegations of the complaint and setting up a contract for the services mentioned in the complaint and payment of the amount therein agreed upon, plaintiff may show that, after the contract but before performance, the plans and character of the work were entirely changed, that no price was fixed upon, and what the services rendered under the new arrangement were worth.[90]

7. Evidence[91] — a. Admissibility — (i) On Behalf of Plaintiff. Evidence of the customary charges of architects for services similar to those performed by plaintiff is admissible.[92] For the purpose of showing what the reasonable cost of a building was, in a case where the remuneration was to be based upon such cost, evidence of bids for the erection is admissible, even if such bids were not accepted by defendant.[93] Where the action is to recover compensation for drawing plans, plaintiff, if an architect by profession, may testify as to the value of his services,[94] but, for the purpose of proving the value of plaintiff's recent labor in erecting a building, it is incompetent to show that plaintiff was a skilled carpenter and joiner a long time ago, or to show the comparative value of a good architect and an ordinary joiner.[95] Again, where it is sought to recover additional compensation, evidence of the value of plaintiff's services in making an estimate is not admissible, unless it is shown that the services were rendered at the instance of the employer.[96]

(ii) On Behalf of Defendant. Where plaintiff has shown by expert witnesses the value of his services in drawing plans and specifications, defendant may show the time reasonably necessary therefor;[97] and, to mitigate damages in an action to recover compensation for drawing two sets of plans, defendant may show that the plans presented in court are more elaborate than the first plan drawn.[98] Testimony that good plans have been obtained for less than the sum proved by plaintiff to be the customary rate of charges of architects is not admissible where plaintiff seeks to recover for drawing plans.[99]

88. Bodine v. Andrews, 47 N. Y. App. Div. 495, 62 N. Y. Suppl. 385, holding that an owner, restrained from locating a house upon premises nearer than a specified distance to a street, who has examined the plan therefor prior to construction of the house, and who knew that the plan as prepared located a portion of the building nearer to the street than was permissible, and who with such knowledge approved the plan, cannot enforce an agreement of the architect to pay counsel fees for defending a suit to restrain the maintenance of such portion of the building.

Damages caused by an owner by premature publication of plans are not recoverable by owner in an action brought by the architect to recover for services rendered, since the relationship of the parties is not of that confidential character as will bring the facts within the provisions of Cal. Code Civ. Proc. § 1891. Havens v. Donahue, 111 Cal. 297, 43 Pac. 962.

89. Geddis v. Greene County, 20 Ind. App. 274, 50 N. E. 581.

90. Marcotte v. Beaupre, 15 Minn. 152.

91. See, generally, Evidence.

92. Laver v. Hotaling, 115 Cal. 613, 47 Pac. 593, holding that it is immaterial whether defendant is ignorant or not of the customary rate of compensation, since the fact that the customary rates of charges made by architects originated in and conformed to a rule established by an association of architects does not render evidence of the actual custom incompetent.

So in a suit by an architect to recover for work and services plaintiff may show a custom that the employment of an architect to make plans and designs for a building carried with it an employment to superintend its construction. Wilson v. Bauman, 80 Ill. 493, also holding that defendant may in rebuttal show by the testimony of builders and contractors as well as architects that no such custom existed among persons entering into building contracts.

93. Lambert v. Sanford, 55 Conn. 437, 12 Atl. 519.

94. Nourry v. Lord, 3 Abb. Dec. (N. Y.) 392, 2 Keyes (N. Y.) 617.

95. Shepard v. Ashley, 10 Allen (Mass.) 542.

96. Tilley v. Chicago, 103 U. S. 155, 26 L. ed. 374.

97. Ehlers v. Wannack, 118 Cal. 310, 50 Pac. 433.

98. Graves v. Hunt, 8 N. Y. St. 308.

99. Cooper v. Gordon, (Tex. Civ. App. 1893) 23 S. W. 608.

b. Sufficiency. Where an architect sues for the value of his services and defendant pleads that the work was done under an express contract for a stated consideration, plaintiff must make out his case by a preponderance of evidence;[1] so, the contract or an offer of a contract by defendant either in form or intention must be proved, where plaintiff sues on an express contract for superintendence,[2] or where defendant counter-claims by reason of plaintiff's alleged breach of performance of a supplemental contract.[3]

8. TRIAL[4] — a. Questions of Law and Fact. Whether an architect has used proper skill and diligence is a question of fact;[5] so the value of services rendered by plaintiff is a question of fact, and the time reasonably necessary to perform those services should be considered;[6] again, whether there was a positive employment to draw plans, or whether plans were drawn and submitted by the architect without any agreement or employment, is a question of fact.[7]

b. Instructions. An instruction given by the court must not be misleading,[8] invade the province of the jury by submitting to it a question of law,[9] or be prejudicial to either party.[10]

c. Verdict. In an action instituted by the architect against his employer it has been held that the verdict or finding should dispose of all the issues in the case,[11]

1. Johnson v. Wanamaker, 17 Pa. Super. Ct. 301.

2. Benton v. Springfield Y. M. C. A., 170 Mass. 534, 49 N. E. 928, 64 Am. St. Rep. 320, holding that there is not sufficient evidence of the contract or an intention to make one, where defendants invited plaintiff and other architects to participate in a competition for plans but defendant reserved the right to reject any or all submitted, and where the only evidence is that plaintiff submitted plans and that defendants agreed among themselves that the person who received the greatest number of votes should superintend the construction, and that all the plans were rejected but that defendants selected plaintiff as architect to superintend construction.

In order to charge a third person with liability for preparing plans, the fact of an express promise to pay for them must be established by a fair preponderance of testimony: and the promise should be proved to have been made before the service was rendered; for if the work was not done on the credit of the third person but for some other, any subsequent express parol promise to pay for the same would be void, as being a promise to pay for the debt of a third person. Dunton v. Chamberlain, 1 Ill. App. 361.

3. A paper, signed by an architect after he has performed all the services which he has agreed to perform, acknowledging a receipt of part payment and stating that after such payment there remained due a balance which the owner agreed to pay in instalments, at stated times, "which shall be in full for all services for plans of exterior and floor plans" is not an agreement to do detailed drawings or specifications. Pfeiffer v. Campbell, 111 N. Y. 631, 19 N. E. 498, 20 N. Y. St. 482.

4. See, generally, TRIAL.

5. Moneypenny v. Hartland, 1 C. & P. 352, 12 E. C. L. 211.

6. Ehlers v. Wannack, 118 Cal. 310, 50 Pac. 433.

7. Nourry v. Lord, 3 Abb. Dec. (N. Y.) 392, 2 Keyes (N. Y.) 617, holding that the jury should consider the fact that plaintiff took away plans instead of leaving them with the owner in determining the question.

8. Coombs v. Beede, 89 Me. 187, 36 Atl. 104, 56 Am. St. Rep. 406, holding an instruction, in an action to recover for services rendered in preparing plans and specifications, where the defense was that plaintiff agreed to furnish a plan for a building not exceeding in cost a certain amount but that the plans called for a more expensive house, misleading, when it charged that plaintiff should have either made plans for a building not costing more than a specified sum, or have frankly told defendant that he could not so do, or that if plaintiff undertook to make plans with such a restriction the plan must be so made in order to recover therefor.

9. Link v. Westerman, 80 Mo. App. 592, where recovery was sought for making plans and specifications under an implied agreement that they should be accepted, and the jury were erroneously instructed to find for plaintiff if defendant accepted the plans and specifications as work done by plaintiff for him, since the instruction failed to define what amounted to an acceptance.

10. Wees v. Warren, 72 Mo. App. 641, where plaintiff was not to have any pay for plans unless he procured a bid at or near his estimate, and an instruction was held to be not prejudicial (although it used objectionable language) when it charged that plaintiff could not recover if the bid procured by him was "largely in excess" of his estimate, and the facts were that plaintiff did procure a person who bid reasonably near the estimated cost.

11. Ehlers v. Wannack, 118 Cal. 310, 50 Pac. 433, holding that, where there was a special defense to the effect that plaintiff was told that defendant would not build unless a license was procured for the proposed and that in such a case the verdict should be sufficiently certain to support a judgment thereon.[12]

9. Judgment.[13] If the cause of action is breach of a contract to pay for plans and specifications defendant, after default, cannot, upon the assessment of damages, show the non-existence of a contract or that a contract if entered into is void.[14]

10. Damages[15] — a. Generally. Where the contract price was entire but was to be paid by instalments at times fixed by the progress of the work, the measure of damages is the reasonable value of the services rendered.[16]

b. Prospective Profits. Prospective profits cannot be recovered by an architect employed to prepare plans and obtain estimates for a building and to let the contract for the erection of such building, whose contract is rescinded, unless the amount agreed to be paid to him, or that anything was ever done by him toward performance of the contract, is proved.[17]

c. Reduction of Damages. Defendant is entitled to a reduction from the sum due under the contract, where the architect furnished defective plans whereby defendant suffered damage, of the amount of damage caused by the architect's negligence;[18] so the damages may be reduced, in an action for breach of a contract for superintending the erection of a building, where plaintiff claims that defendant made it impossible for him to complete his part of the contract, building, but that plaintiff might draw specifications with the understanding that he was not to receive compensation therefor unless the license was procured, and that the building was abandoned because the license was not procurable, a finding that there was no agreement between plaintiff and defendant as to the amount payable to plaintiff related merely to amount and did not dispose of the question whether plaintiff was to be paid anything in the event of defendant not obtaining a license and abandoning the erection of the building.

Finding will not be disturbed where evidence is conflicting.—Where damages for an alleged negligent plan are counter-claimed and there is a finding in favor of plaintiff upon the question of negligence as to which the evidence is conflicting, the findings will not be disturbed. Havens v. Donahue, 111 Cal. 297, 43 Pac. 962.

12. A verdict in an action to recover for architectural plans is sufficiently certain to support a judgment for defendant, when it finds that the architect agreed that if his plans were not used in the construction of a particular building he was to receive no pay for it, and that the plans were abandoned on account of imperfections. Geddis v. Greene County, 20 Ind. App. 274, 50 N. E. 581.

13. See, generally, Judgments.

14. Lambert v. Sanford, 55 Conn. 437, 12 Atl. 519.

15. See, generally, Damages.

16. Marquis v. Lauretson, 76 Iowa 23, 40 N. W. 73, holding that where an architect is to be paid one third of the agreed price for drawing plans "when general drawings are made" and the balance at specified stages of the work, but is prevented by the employer from doing more than making the drawings, and it does not appear that the first payment of the price fixed was regarded as fair compensation for the drawings while some of the evidence indicates that it was not, the value of the service constitutes the measure of damages.

Acceptance of salary as superintendent affects method of computing value of service for drawing plan. Where an architect's plan has been accepted and he then departs from the general rule of architects by accepting a salary for superintending the work, with no reservation as to his compensation for the preceding service of preparing the plan, the value of such service should be computed by the salary he has accepted and not according to a schedule of an institute of architects. Smithmeyer v. U. S., 147 U. S. 342, 13 S. Ct. 321, 37 L. ed. 196 [affirming 25 Ct. Cl. 481].

17. Fuller v. Craig, 10 N. Y. St. 108.

Amount of recovery where contract is rescinded — Louisiana.— Where a building contract is rescinded under La. Civ. Code, art. 2736 (La. Rev. Code [1900] art. 2765), providing that an owner may cancel at pleasure his contract, even in case work is commenced thereunder, by paying the architect the expense and labor incurred up to that time and such damages as the nature of the case may require, and there is no evidence on which expenses or loss of profits, if any occurred, can be estimated, the architect can only recover the price of his plans and a commission upon the work done on the building up to the time the contract is annulled. Moore v. Howard, 18 La. Ann. 635.

18. Hubert v. Aitken, 15 Daly (N. Y.) 237, 2 N. Y. Suppl. 711, 5 N. Y. Suppl. 839, 19 N. Y. St. 914.

In an action by an architect to recover for plans, where it is found that the plans are incomplete and defective, it is erroneous to take as a basis for ascertaining the value of plaintiff's services the amount which the plans would have been worth if skilfully prepared and complete and deduct from such amount what it would cost to complete the plans and remedy the defects therein. Johnson v. Wanamaker, 17 Pa. Super. Ct. 301.

by showing that during the time contemplated in the contract plaintiff, though unemployed, rejected offers of employment within the range of his general occupation on reasonable terms, and in the same locality.[19]

B. Against Architect — 1. By Employer — a. Parties.[20] Where improper construction results from joint neglect of architect and builder, a suit based on such neglect will lie against the architect alone.[21]

b. Evidence.[22] Where negligence of the architect consists in the furnishing of defective plans, specifications, and drawings it is essential to prove that the builder substantially complied with such plans and specifications and that in consequence of such compliance damages were sustained by plaintiff.[23]

c. Trial[24] — Instructions. Where the scope of an architect's duty is in controversy an instruction that defendant should not have issued a certificate to a builder unless the work appeared, upon a proper inspection, to be properly done, has been held erroneous, since it left the jury to determine what it was proper for an architect to do.[25]

d. Damages.[26] The measure of damages in an action to recover for an architect's negligence in drawing plans is the difference between the value of the building, as designed and constructed, and what it would have been worth had it been properly constructed.[27]

2. By Builder — a. Form of Action. Case will lie at the suit of a builder against an architect who wrongfully withholds a certificate required under the contract to be given by him upon satisfactory performance,[28] and the builder may resort to equity where there is collusive dealing and concert between the owner and the person whom he has appointed architect, overseer, or agent, for the purpose of injuring the builder or defeating his claim.[29]

b. Pleading[30] — Complaint, Declaration, or Petition. In an action at law a pleading is sufficient where it shows that defendant had a duty to perform toward plaintiff, a breach of such duty, a fraudulent collusion with the owner to abstain from doing that which defendant was authorized to do, and a damage

19. Pond v. Wyman, 15 Mo. 175.

20. See, generally, Parties.

21. Newman v. Fowler, 37 N. J. L. 89, holding that a suit by the owner against the architect alone is not barred because the owner has refused to pay the builder a part of the money due him on the ground of improper construction.

Joint liability of architect and builder.— An architect, as well as the builder, is jointly and severally liable for damages incurred by reason of the insufficiency of timber used to support the joists of a floor that has sunk. David v. McDonald, 8 L. C. Jur. 44, 14 L. C. Rep. 31.

For form of complaint against architect to recover damages arising from defects in plans and specifications see Lake v. McElfatrick, 139 N. Y. 349, 34 N. E. 922, 54 N. Y. St. 610 [reversing 19 N. Y. Suppl. 494, 46 N. Y. St. 437].

22. See, generally, Evidence.

23. Lake v. McElfatrick, 139 N. Y. 349, 34 N. E. 922, 54 N. Y. St. 610 [reversing 19 N. Y. Suppl. 494, 46 N. Y. St. 437], holding that, where there is a variance from plans involving the whole method of constructing the affected part and so material that it may have been the direct cause of the injury, a question as to whether such variance did or did not cause the injury should not be submitted to the jury, though it might be otherwise where the variance was confessedly immaterial or occurred in an independent part of the building having no structural relation to the defective portion. See also Louisiana Molasses Co. v. Le Sassier, 52 La. Ann. 2070, 28 So. 217 [affirmed in 52 La. Ann. 1768, 28 So. 223], where it was also held that an architect who has taken charge of the execution of his plan, selected his own subcontractor, his own workmen and the materials used in the construction of the building, is responsible to the owner with whom he contracts.

Evidence that the builder has advanced the architect money is admissible as bearing upon the issue of negligence. Gilman v. Stevens, 54 How. Pr. (N. Y.) 197.

24. See, generally, Trial.

25. Vigeant v. Scully, 20 Ill. App. 437.

26. See, generally, Damages.

27. Larrimore v. Comanche County, (Tex. Civ. App. 1895) 32 S. W. 367.

28. Ludbrook v. Barrett, 46 L. J. C. P. 798, 36 L. T. Rep. N. S. 616, 25 Wkly. Rep. 649, where it was said by Grove, J., that though it did not appear that such an action had ever been brought against an architect there was "no reason why such an action should not lie." See also Pawley v. Turnbull, 3 Giff. 70, 7 Jur. N. S. 792, 4 L. T. Rep. N. S. 672.

29. Bliss v. Smith, 34 Beav. 508.

30. See, generally, Pleading.

resulting to plaintiff from defendant's so abstaining from doing such act.[31] Where, however, the builder complains in equity of undue delay on the part of an architect or engineer in awarding the amount earned by the builder, plaintiff's pleading must show facts establishing a case of fraud or collusion against defendant.[32]

V. RIGHTS, DUTIES, AND LIABILITIES OF BUILDER.

A. In General — 1. As to Recording Contract. Where the filing or recording of a building contract is required by a statute, the duty so to do is primarily on the builder.[33]

2. As to Bonds. A builder must execute a bond to secure the due performance of his work, when required so to do by the contract,[34] or by statute.[35] Where, however, the employer accepts a written guaranty in place of the bond and fails to ask anything more the execution of a bond is not necessary.[36]

3. As to Building Regulations. It is the duty of the builder to comply with any building regulation,[37] and should he fail so to do he may be fined.[38] Where the obtaining of a permit is necessary and the contract is silent upon the subject it seems the duty of the builder to obtain it,[39] unless under the statute or regulation it is the duty of the owner so to do.[40] Where the contract requires a builder

31. Ludbrook v. Barrett, 46 L. J. C. P. 798, 36 L. T. Rep. N. S. 616, 25 Wkly. Rep. 649.

32. Scott v. Liverpool, 3 De G. & J. 334, 5 Jur. N. S. 104, 28 L. J. Ch. 230, 7 Wkly. Rep. 153.

33. Laidlaw v. Marye, 133 Cal. 170, 65 Pac. 391. See also Marchant v. Hayes, 117 Cal. 669, 49 Pac. 840.

Necessity of recording contract see supra, II, B, 2, c; and, generally, Mechanics' Liens.

34. Flynn v. Dougherty, (Cal. 1891) 26 Pac. 831; Howard v. Maine Industrial School, 78 Me. 230, 3 Atl. 657.

A builder's bond is not without consideration because executed after the contract and after the commencement of work, in a case where the contract is entered into upon faith of the builder's promise to give bond. Smith v. Molleson, 148 N. Y. 241, 42 N. E. 669 [affirming 26 N. Y. Suppl. 653, 57 N. Y. St. 250].

The failure of the builder to furnish or tender the required bond precludes his right to recover prospective profits, when he has done nothing under the contract. Flynn v. Dougherty, (Cal. 1891) 26 Pac. 831.

Validity of provision requiring bond see supra, II, B, 4, c, (II).

As to liability of sureties see infra, VI.

35. A builder, entering into a formal building contract with the United States with respect to the construction of a public building, etc., must, under act of congress of August 13, 1894 (28 Stat. at L. 278) before commencing work under the contract execute a penal bond with sureties conditioned for the prompt payment by him of all persons supplying him with labor or materials with respect to the work provided for in the contract. Since the practical effect of the statute is to confer a special lien in favor of these persons and to substitute the bond in the place of the building as the thing upon which a lien is charged, the statute should receive a liberal construction. U. S. v. Burgdorf, 13 App. Cas. (D. C.) 506.

36. Joske v. Pleasants, 15 Tex. Civ. App. 433, 39 S. W. 586.

37. Montgomery v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., 84 Ala. 127, 4 So. 626; Waterman v. Shepard, 21 R. I. 257, 43 Atl. 661; Smith v. Milwaukee Builders', etc., Exch., 91 Wis. 360, 64 N. W. 1041, 51 Am. St. Rep. 912, 30 L. R. A. 504; Walker v. McMillan, 6 Can. Supreme Ct. 241.

Builder cannot recover under contract where regulations not complied with.— When work is condemned by the department, a builder contracting to build, according to the regulations of a building department, cannot recover under his contract, unless he shows that the building was erected in accordance with departmental requirements. Mittnacht v. Wolf, 6 N. Y. St. 44.

Illegality of contract to build in contravention of building regulation see supra, II, B, 4, b.

Health requirements in connection with building see Health.

38. Montgomery v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., 84 Ala. 127, 4 So. 626; Sioux Falls v. Kirby, 6 S. D. 62, 60 N. W. 156, 25 L. R. A. 62]; Baxter v. Seattle, 3 Wash. 352, 28 Pac. 537.

39. Smith v. Luning Co., 111 Cal. 308, 43 Pac. 967.

Validity and constitutionality of ordinances providing for the obtaining of building permits see Municipal Corporations.

40. It is the duty of the owner to obtain a permit to build under N. Y. Consol. Act, § 503, and, where a contract requires the contractor to proceed with the work promptly and diligently, an implied obligation is imposed on the owner to procure the permit to enable the contractor to proceed with the work, and for a breach of such obligation the contractor may recover such damages as have been occasioned. Weeks v. Trinity Church, 56 N. Y. App. Div. 195, 67 N. Y. Suppl. 670.

to obtain a permit from the building department of a city he must file plans reasonably free from objections and acceptable to the department, as their filing is a prerequisite to a permit.[41]

4. As to Insurance. The builder is not bound to insure the building until its completion, without an express or implied agreement for that purpose,[42] and the fact that a builder for his own protection might have insured the building on which he was working does not show negligence on his part.[43]

5. As to Possession of Building. A builder who has agreed to erect a building on the land of another has no right to interfere with the latter's possession any more than is necessary to carry out his contract,[44] and cannot, after his work is completed, retain possession as against the owner with a view of enforcing payment of the price,[45] or dispossess the owner.[46] He is, however, entitled to have such possession of the building given to him as is requisite for the purpose of labor thereon.[47]

6. As to Débris on Land and Material Excavated. In the absence of express stipulation, where an owner of land on which buildings are standing contracts for the erection of new buildings thereon, the builder, on taking possession under the contract, has a right to the material of the old building,[48] at any rate where the builder is not paid for taking down the old building;[49] but a contract to excavate land for the erection of a building thereon does not imply that the title to valuable material removed in performing the contract is transferred to the builder.[50]

7. As to Certificates, Estimates, Etc. Unless it is in terms, or by fair implication from the nature or language of the agreement, made the duty of the employer to procure a certificate, decision, or estimate of an architect, engineer, or superintendent, the responsibility rests solely on the builder to obtain it.[51]

Where a builder seeks to recover from the owner damages caused by his failure to obtain a building permit, which resulted in an enforced suspension of the work, the builder may show that the specifications were not filed until after the contract was made, and were so defective that the building superintendent refused a permit, and that the owner's attention was called to the defect too late to obtain a permit. Such evidence is sufficient to entitle the builder to have the question whether the owner did not fail in his obligation to procure a permit submitted to the jury. Weeks v. Trinity Church, 56 N. Y. App. Div. 195, 67 N. Y. Suppl. 670.

It is not the builder's duty to obtain a permit that can be issued only upon the owner's personal application, unless the contract goes further than to provide that a permit must be obtained before commencing work. Leverone v. Arancio, 179 Mass. 439, 61 N. E. 45.

41. Strom v. Dongan, 31 Misc. (N. Y.) 754, 64 N. Y. Suppl. 57, holding that unless this was done a builder was not entitled to payment of a first instalment of the contract price. See also Hawke v. Brown, 28 N. Y. App. Div. 37, 50 N. Y. Suppl. 1032, in which case it was held that the filing of a plan showing the size and dimensions of contemplated improvements, which was afterward amended and approved by the bureau of buildings, was sufficient.

A mandamus to compel a building inspector to grant a permit will be refused where the inspector considers that the plan submitted fails to comply with statutory requirements as to public health. Rafferty v. Haddock, 6 Pa. Dist. 667.

When mandamus lies see, generally, MANDAMUS.

42. Clark v. Franklin, 7 Leigh (Va.) 1.

A contract requiring a builder to take all risks before completion of the building does not impose on him a liability for losses previously incurred by the employer. Rothwell v. Dean, 60 Mo. App. 428.

As to guaranty of work see infra, V, B. 3, a.

43. Weis v. Devlin, 67 Tex. 507, 3 S. W. 726, 60 Am. Rep. 38.

44. Keystone Surgical Supply Co. v. Bate, 196 Pa. St. 566, 46 Atl. 887.

45. Beller v. Stange, 27 Mich. 312.

46. Keystone Surgical Supply Co. v. Bate, 196 Pa. St. 566, 46 Atl. 887.

47. Vermont St. M. E. Church v. Brose, 104 Ill. 206; Niblo v. Binsse, 3 Abb. Dec. (N. Y.) 375, 1 Keyes (N. Y.) 476.

Implied right to possession see supra, II, C, 1, d.

48. Villalobos v. Mooney, 2 La. 331; Morgan v. Stevens, 6 Abb. N. Cas. (N. Y.) 356.

49. Viau v. Jubinville, 1 L. C. L. J. 64.

50. Jones v. Wick, 10 Misc. (N. Y.) 112, 30 N. Y. Suppl. 924, 62 N. Y. St. 526.

51. Smith v. Boston, etc., R. Co., 36 N. H. 458.

A contract providing that the owner's engineer should, on a certain day of each month, estimate the amount of work done in the month previous and return a certificate

B. Performance and Breach of Building Contract — 1. In General. Unless strict performance has been waived,[52] or unless the terms have been changed or modified by the owner, architect, engineer, or superintendent under provisions for that purpose contained in the contract,[53] a builder must perform his contract according to its terms and those of the plans and specifications where there are any;[54] it not being an excuse for non-performance that a literal com-thereof to the owner, who should then pay the builder a certain portion of the contract price, does not impose on the latter the duty of obtaining a certificate before payment to him, as the estimate of the engineer is solely for the benefit of the owner. Rusling v. Union Pipe, etc., Co., 5 N. Y. App. Div. 448, 39 N. Y. Suppl. 216.

Notice of application for certificate.— It is not necessary unless so provided in the contract for the builder to give notice to the owner before applying for a certificate. Taylor v. Renn, 79 Ill. 181; Korf v. Lull, 70 Ill. 420; McAuley v. Carter, 22 Ill. 53. Contra, Packard v. Van Schoick, 58 Ill. 79.

Duty of architect with respect to certificates, decisions, or estimates see supra, III, B, 2, d.

Procurance of certificate as condition precedent see infra, VII, A, 3, b.

52. A waiver of performance is not caused by merely paying the whole or part of the contract price (Andrews v. Portland, 35 Me. 475; Moulton v. McOwen, 103 Mass. 587), unless the employer knew at the time of payment that the work was defective (Andrews v. Portland, 35 Me. 475), or unless the circumstances under which the payment was made warranted an inference that a waiver was intended (Moulton v. McOwen, 103 Mass. 587). So performance is not waived because the building is used and occupied by the employer (Kirkland v. Oates, 25 Ala. 465), although it may be a waiver of defects not substantial in their character (Parke v. Franco-American Trading Co., 7 N. Y. St. 498).

Waiver of one defect is not a waiver of others.— Hill v. Millburn School Dist. No. 2, 17 Me. 316.

Effect of acceptance as a waiver see infra, V, B, 6.

53. Validity of provision for providing from deviations from contract see supra, II, B, 4, c, (VI).

A builder is justified in departing from the specifications with the assent of the architect where his contract is to do work in a specified manner under the architect's directions. Sinclair v. Tallmadge, 35 Barb. (N. Y.) 602.

Even if the contract provides that the building be carried on in accordance with directions to be thereafter given by an architect or engineer the contract must be complied with until the provision is acted upon. Burke v. Kansas City, 34 Mo. App. 570.

Time of commencing work.— Where a right to make changes in the plans need not under the contract be exercised before work is commenced, failure to exercise the right does not relieve the builder from a duty promptly to commence work. Savage v. Glenn, 10 Oreg. 440.

54. Arkansas.—Manuel v. Campbell, 3 Ark. 324.

California.— Golden Gate Lumber Co. v. Sahrbacher, 105 Cal. 114, 38 Pac. 635.

Connecticut.—Smith v. Scott's Ridge School Dist., 20 Conn. 312.

Illinois.— Monahan v. Fitzgerald, 164 Ill. 525, 45 N. E. 1013; Clark v. Pope, 70 Ill. 128; Estep v. Fenton, 66 Ill. 467; Davidson v. Provost, 35 Ill. App. 126.

Iowa.— Fauble v. Davis, 48 Iowa 462.

Kansas.— Graham v. Trimmer, 6 Kan. 230.

Kentucky.— Kiel v. Kline, 15 Ky. L. Rep. 158.

Maine.— White v. Oliver, 36 Me. 92; Hill v. Millburn School Dist. No. 2, 17 Me. 316; Jewett v. Weston, 11 Me. 346.

Maryland.— Hagerstown Presb. Church v. Hoopes Artificial Stone, etc., Co., 66 Md. 598, 8 Atl. 752.

Massachusetts.— Gillis v. Cobe, 177 Mass. 584, 59 N. E. 455.

Michigan.— Eaton v. Gladwell, 121 Mich. 444, 80 N. W. 292; Scheible v. Klein, 89 Mich. 376, 50 N. W. 857.

Minnesota.— Cornish, etc., Co. v. Antrim Co-operative Dairy Assoc., 82 Minn. 215, 84 N. W. 724; Stees v. Leonard, 20 Minn. 494.

Mississippi.— Wooten v. Read, 2 Sm. & M. (Miss.) 585.

Missouri.— Haynes v. Second Baptist Church, 88 Mo. 285, 57 Am. Rep. 413; Helm v. Wilson, 4 Mo. 41, 28 Am. Dec. 336; Burke v. Kansas City, 34 Mo. App. 570.

Montana.— Franklin v. Schultz, 23 Mont. 165, 57 Pac. 1037.

New Hampshire.— Wheeden v. Fiske, 50 N. H. 125.

New York.— Tompkins v. Dudley, 25 N. Y. 272, 82 Am. Dec. 349; Lewis v. Yagel, 77 Hun (N. Y.) 337, 28 N. Y. Suppl. 833, 60 N. Y. St. 23; Salvinsky v. Levin, 27 Misc. (N. Y.) 521, 58 N. Y. Suppl. 284; Kohl v. Fleming, 21 Misc. (N. Y.) 690, 47 N. Y. Suppl. 1092; Bryon v. New York, 7 N. Y. St. 17.

North Carolina.— Lawing v. Rintles, 97 N. C. 350, 2 S. E. 252.

Oregon.—Chamberlain v. Hibbard, 26 Oreg. 428, 38 Pac. 437.

Pennsylvania.—Filbert v. Philadelphia, 181 Pa. St. 530, 37 Atl. 545.

South Dakota.— Aldrich v. Wilmarth, 3 S. D. 523, 54 N. W. 811.

Texas.— Linch v. Paris Lumber, etc., Co., (Tex. 1890) 14 S. W. 701.

West Virginia.— McConnell v. Hewes, 50 W. Va. 33, 40 S. E. 436.

Wisconsin.— Jackson v. Cleveland, 19 Wis. 400.

United States.— Dermott v. Jones, 23 How.

pliance with minute specifications was difficult; that difficulty, if it exists, should have been taken into consideration by the builder at the time he entered into his contract;[55] moreover where the plans and specifications are not contained in the same instrument as the agreement but are attached thereto or referred to therein they must be followed just as zealously as if incorporated in the body of the contract.[56] A builder, however, is not bound to follow directions of an architect, engineer, or superintendent that conflict with the plans and specifications;[57] or to do work not shown upon plans and specifications furnished to him and upon which

(U. S.) 220, 16 L. ed. 442; Driscoll v. U. S., 34 Ct. Cl. 508.

England.— Ellis v. Hamlen, 3 Taunt. 52, 12 Rev. Rep. 595.

Ambiguity in plans and specifications.— A builder who has agreed to erect a building after certain plans, drawings, and specifications impliedly understands them and cannot escape liability for defective performance, on the ground that he exercised ordinary care and skill to understand but failed to comprehend them. If there is obscurity in the drawings and specifications the builder should apply to the architect for directions, for if he relies on his own judgment, and a mistake occurs, he must bear the consequences. Clark v. Pope, 70 Ill. 128.

Judgment of builder subordinated to that of architect.— A builder's right to exercise his own judgment with respect to what the specifications, plans, and details require for its fulfilment is subordinated to that of an architect who is authorized to determine their meaning. Boettler v. Tendick, 73 Tex. 488, 11 S. W. 497, 5 L. R. A. 270.

Necessity of general compliance where employer prohibits doing of special work.— A builder is not relieved from general compliance with the contract because not allowed by his employer to do some particular piece of work. Meyer v. Martin, (Tex. Civ. App. 1899) 50 S. W. 470.

Duty of builder to correct mistake not observed by architect.— The builder must correct any substantial defect or departure from the contract which escapes the attention of an architect at the time he gives a certificate, in a case where it is stipulated that a certificate shall not relieve the builder from the necessity of completion according to plans and specifications. Snell v. Evans, 55 Ill. App. 670.

Effect of architect's failure to object to deviations.— The fact that the architect has charge of the work and makes no objections as the work progresses does not waive strict performance. Monahan v. Fitzgerald, 164 Ill. 525, 45 N. E. 1013.

The fact that the builder has employed a competent person under him and the person the owner expected him to employ does not excuse non-performance. Blakeslee v. Holt, 42 Conn. 226.

The employer has a right to have the structure he contracted for and not another, and even his caprices, if expressed in the contract, must be complied with, notwithstanding they would not add to the value of the building, or may lessen its value. Perry v. Quackenbush, 105 Cal. 299, 38 Pac. 740. See also Golden Gate Lumber Co. v. Sahrbacher, 105 Cal. 114, 38 Pac. 635.

Where the contract contains a guaranty that the builder's work will be sufficient for a particular purpose, there is no substantial performance unless the work conforms thereto. Early v. O'Brien, 51 N. Y. App. Div. 569, 64 N. Y. Suppl. 848; MacKnight Flintic Stone Co. v. New York, 13 N. Y. App. Div. 231, 43 N. Y. Suppl. 139; Sherwood v. Houtman, 73 Hun (N. Y.) 544, 26 N. Y. Suppl. 150, 57 N. Y. St. 271; Weeks v. O'Brien, 59 N. Y. Super. Ct. 28, 12 N. Y. Suppl. 720. See also MacKnight Flintic Stone Co. v. New York, 160 N. Y. 72, 54 N. E. 661 [reversing on other ground 31 N. Y. App. Div. 232, 52 N. Y. Suppl. 747].

Where the contract provides that the work must be done under the instructions of an architect, the contract is performed if the work is done as required by the architect and to his approval, whether the work is done according to the plans prepared for building or not. Smith v. Farmers' Trust Co., 97 Iowa 117, 66 N. W. 84.

Variations treated at the time as immaterial will not afterward be treated as departures. Wildey v. Fractional School Dist. No. 1, 25 Mich. 419.

Damages recoverable from builder by reason of departure from specifications see infra, VII, D.

Excuse for departing from plans and specifications see infra, V, B, 7.

Nature and purpose of plans and specifications see supra, II, A, 2.

Preparation of specifications see supra, III, B, 2, b.

Necessity of averring full performance of contract according to plans and specifications see infra, VII, A, 5, a.

55. Smith v. Scott's Ridge School Dist., 20 Conn. 312.

As to literal performance being a condition precedent to recovery see infra, VII, A, 3.

56. Suarez v. Duralde, 1 La. 260; Burke v. Kansas City, 34 Mo. App. 570.

Construction and operation of plans and specifications see supra, II, C, 1, b.

57. Burke v. Kansas City, 34 Mo. App. 570, holding that a provision that the builder is to build according to directions that an engineer or architect may from time to time give in superintending the construction of the work should be construed to mean such directions as he may give, looking to a completion of the work according to the plans and specifications, and not to mean that he his bid was made,[58] unless the contract provides that extra work may be directed by the owner or his representative.[59] Where there is not a compliance, acceptance by the owner cannot be compelled, and the builder is not entitled to recover on the contract.[60] may give directions for an improvement in manner different from that provided in the plans and specifications.

Legality of provision authorizing deviation see supra, II, B, 4, c, (VI).

Right to deviate from contract see infra, V, B, 2.

Power of architect to alter or modify contract see supra, III, A, 1.

58. Illinois.— Sexton v. Chicago, 107 Ill. 323.

Maryland.— Abbott v. Gatch, 13 Md. 314, 71 Am. Dec. 635.

New Jersey.—Isaacs v. Reeve, (N. J. 1899) 44 Atl. 1.

New York.— Lennon v. Smith, 23 N. Y. App. Div. 293, 48 N. Y. Suppl. 456 [affirmed in 161 N. Y. 661, 57 N. E. 1115]; Millstone Granite Co. v. Dolan, 61 N. Y. Super. Ct. 106, 18 N. Y. Suppl. 791, 46 N. Y. St. 531 [affirmed in 138 N. Y. 607, 33 N. E. 1082]; Schwoerer v. Zimmermann, 63 N. Y. Suppl. 1020; Horgan v. McKenzie, 17 N. Y. Suppl. 174, 43 N. Y. St. 131.

Tennessee.— Fisher v. Edgefield, etc., Mfg. Co., (Tenn. Ch. 1900) 62 S. W. 27.

Work included in contract but not in specifications.—A builder is not entitled to recover for work as an extra, where it is included in the contract but not mentioned in a specification referred to in the contract. Williams v. Fitzmaurice, 3 H. & N. 844. Where signed specifications provided that the finishing of certain work should be made of freshly burnt shell lime and thoroughly washed, coarse, white marble dust, but the plans and specifications submitted to the contractors, and on which they bid, called for a plain cement exterior coat without the white finish, the builders were held bound to the specifications signed. L'Hommedieu v. Winthrop, 59 N. Y. App. Div. 192, 69 N. Y. Suppl. 381. But see Schwoerer v. Zimmermann, 63 N. Y. Suppl. 1020, in which case the builder was not compelled to do work specified in plans and specifications but not specified in his bid.

Effect of understanding in the trade.— Where a contract called for a combination passenger and freight elevator, without more particular specification, it was held that the builder was not liable for a failure to put gates on the elevator, where there was no proof that the custom of the trade was to supply gates in the absence of specifications, and that the testimony of a witness that, in his opinion, gates were proper and necessary was not sufficient for this purpose. Horgan v. McKenzie, 17 N. Y. Suppl. 174, 43 N. Y. St. 131.

A builder may refuse to do the work or assent thereto under a clause providing that no extra charge is to be made unless a written agreement be made and attached to the contract; if, however, the builder does the work without a written agreement so made and attached to the building contract he waives any right to additional compensation for the performance of such extra work. Abbott v. Gatch, 13 Md. 314, 71 Am. Dec. 635.

An owner is not entitled to forfeit a contract by reason of the builder's refusal to do work not shown on plans and specifications referred to in the contract or to furnish materials other than those appearing therein. Sexton v. Chicago, 107 Ill. 323.

Effect of contract adopting that of original contractor.— Where a contract to build according to certain plans and specifications was abandoned by the contractor after partial completion and another contractor engaged to finish according to the original plans and specifications the latter contractor was bound to correct without extra cost such defects in the work and materials formerly employed as were apparent to a competent and careful observer, but he was not bound to correct defects undiscoverable by the use of reasonable care, since they were not within his contract and the employer was entitled to recover the amount paid therefor from the original contractor. Long Beach City School Dist. v. Dodge, 135 Cal. 401, 67 Pac. 499.

59. Validity of provision as to extra work see supra, II, B, 4, c, (VIII).

Effect of provision authorizing extra work. — A stipulation that the building shall be erected under the supervision of an architect, and that orders for extra work, after being signed by the owner of the building must be countersigned by the architect, does not authorize the architect to order such work done independently of the owner, and of course his ratification, verbal or written, of the performance of extra work done by the contractor does not bind the owner to pay for the same. Baum v. Covert, 62 Miss. 113.

60. Fanjoy v. Seales, 29 Cal. 243; North v. Mallory, 94 Md. 305, 51 Atl. 89; Eaton v. Gladwell, 121 Mich. 444, 80 N. W. 292; Cornish, etc., Co. v. Antrim Co-operative Dairy Assoc., 82 Minn. 215, 84 N. W. 724. See also Twitty v. McGuire, 7 N. C. 501.

At any rate, unless there is substantial compliance.— Cornish, etc., Co. v. Antrim Co-operative Dairy Assoc., 82 Minn. 215, 84 N. W. 724.

No obligation to accept where certificate of satisfaction is not produced.— Where the contract provides that an architect must certify to his satisfaction with the work performed by the builder, the owner is not under any obligation to accept the work without the certificate. Clark v. Pope, 70 Ill. 128.

Owner not liable at law or in equity.— Where a contract provides that the builder must make all necessary measurements neces-

2. Substantial Performance. To constitute substantial performance a general adherence to the plans prescribed is not sufficient; the builder not being entitled to wilfully or carelessly depart from minute details;[61] to leave his work incomplete in any material respect;[62] to make deviations and omissions that effect a large saving to himself and a consequent damage to the owner,[63] or that in fact substitute a new contract for the original one,[64] or which are so substantial as not to be capable of remedy and that an allowance out of the contract price will not give the owner essentially what he contracted for;[65] or to omit work that cannot be done by the owner except at a great cost,[66] or with great risk to the building.[67] There is a substantial performance, however, where a variation from the specifi-sary for proper prosecution of the work called for by the drawings or specifications, and also during the progress of the work all necessary remeasurements to prevent misfitting, it is the builder's duty so to do, and if the duty and responsibility are neglected, by reason of which he suffers loss, he cannot, either in law or in equity, hold the owner liable therefor. Driscoll v. U. S., 34 Ct. Cl. 508.

As to acceptance see infra, V, B, 6, a.

Performance as condition precedent see infra, VII, A, 3.

61. Bixby v. Wilkinson, 25 Minn. 481; Smith v. Gugerty, 4 Barb. (N. Y.) 614.

No substantial performance even if material is substantially the same as specified. — Where a contract stipulates that the builder shall not vary in any manner from the plan and specifications without the written consent of his employer, and the contract calls for a particular kind of material, if it appears that such material could have been procured evidence that the material substituted was substantially like that specified is immaterial and irrelevant, or that material of a different dimension was more in accord with the plan is immaterial. Linch v. Paris Lumber, etc., Co., (Tex. 1890) 14 S. W. 701.

Whether an omission or deviation is wilful or not is a fact of great weight in determining if there has been a substantial compliance with the contract. Bradford v. Whitcomb, 11 Tex. Civ. App. 221, 32 S. W. 571.

Evidence of substantial performance see infra, VII, A, 7.

Right to recover compensation where there is substantial performance see infra, VII, A, 3.

62. Marchant v. Hayes, 117 Cal. 669, 49 Pac. 840; Clark v. Collier, 100 Cal. 256, 34 Pac. 677; Fox v. Clark, 44 N. Y. App. Div. 626, 60 N. Y. Suppl. 237; Anderson v. Petereit, 86 Hun (N. Y.) 600, 33 N. Y. Suppl. 741, 67 N. Y. St. 563; McEntyre v. Tucker, 5 Misc. (N. Y.) 228, 25 N. Y. Suppl. 95, 54 N. Y. St. 826, 23 N. Y. Civ. Proc. 171; Gillespie Tool Co. v. Wilson, 123 Pa. St. 19, 16 Atl. 36.

Ornamentation of a building is matter of substance. — McEntyre v. Tucker, 5 Misc. (N. Y.) 228, 25 N. Y. Suppl. 95, 54 N. Y. St. 826, 23 N. Y. Civ. Proc. 171.

Where the contract provides for payment when the building is inclosed and "ready for lathing," and heating pipes and speaking tubes called for in the specifications are not in place, there is no substantial performance. Fox v. Clark, 44 N. Y. App. Div. 626, 60 N. Y. Suppl. 237.

A contract for putting down a well of specified dimensions is not performed where those dimensions are not followed and there is nothing to prevent the well being the required size, it not being material that the well as bored is sufficient for the locality and that the boring of it to the required size would only subject the owner to extra expense. Gillespie Tool Co. v. Wilson, 123 Pa. St. 19, 16 Atl. 36.

Obedience to the requirement of a building law with which the builder agrees to comply is a matter of substance, and a failure to comply therewith renders a building not completed according to specifications. De Kay v. Bliss, 4 N. Y. St. 728. See also Mittnacht v. Wolf, 6 N. Y. St. 44.

63. Golden Gate Lumber Co. v. Sahrbacher, 105 Cal. 114, 38 Pac. 635; D'Amato v. Gentile, 54 N. Y. App. Div. 625, 66 N. Y. Suppl. 833.

64. Swain v. Seamens, 9 Wall. (U. S.) 254, 19 L. ed. 554, holding that it is not sufficient to erect a building costing more and better adapted to the purposes for which it is intended than the one agreed to be built. See also Fauble v. Davis, 48 Iowa 462.

65. Elliott v. Caldwell, 43 Minn. 357, 45 N. W. 845, 9 L. R. A. 52; Van Clief v. Van Vechten, 130 N. Y. 571, 29 N. E. 1017, 42 N. Y. St. 736 [modifying 55 Hun (N. Y.) 467, 8 N. Y. Suppl. 760, 29 N. Y. St. 378]; Weeks v. O'Brien, 59 N. Y. Super. Ct. 28, 12 N. Y. Suppl. 720, 35 N. Y. St. 463.

66. Martus v. Houck, 39 Mich. 431, 33 Am. Rep. 409; Cahill v. Heuser, 2 N. Y. App. Div. 292, 37 N. Y. Suppl. 736, 73 N. Y. St. 450; Smith v. Sheltering Arms, 89 Hun (N. Y.) 70, 35 N. Y. Suppl. 62, 69 N. Y. St. 273; Flannery v. Sahagian, 83 Hun (N. Y.) 109, 31 N. Y. Suppl. 360, 63 N. Y. St. 844; Zimmermann v. Jourgensen, 70 Hun (N. Y.) 222, 24 N. Y. Suppl. 170, 54 N. Y. St. 13.

The fact that an owner completing a building departs from the plans by introducing additional work is not material, where the contract provides for alterations in the plans and it does not appear that the changes were made in bad faith. Zimmermann v. Jourgensen, 70 Hun (N. Y.) 222, 24 N. Y. Suppl. 170, 54 N. Y. St. 13.

67. Flannery v. Sahagian, 83 Hun (N. Y.) 109, 31 N. Y. Suppl. 360, 63 N. Y. St. 844.

cations of the contract is unintentional and unimportant,[68] and one by which the building is not injured;[69] where the building is actually used after it is erected for its intended purpose;[70] where the defects can be remedied by the owner without any great expenditure,[71] and it is apparent that the builder intended to fulfil his contract;[72] or where the work is, in fact, done under the direction and to the satisfaction of the architects in compliance with the contract, although not to the entire satisfaction of the owner.[73] The defect, however, must not run through the whole or be such that the object of the owner to have a specified amount of work done in a particular way is not accomplished.[74] Whether there has been a substantial performance, the evidence being contradictory, is one of fact,[75]

68. Smith v. Scott's Ridge School Dist., 20 Conn. 312; Oberlies v. Bullinger, 132 N. Y. 598, 30 N. E. 999, 44 N. Y. St. 851 [reversing 11 N. Y. Suppl. 264, 33 N. Y. St. 443]; Woodward v. Fuller, 80 N. Y. 312.

Small and unimportant portions of the work remaining undone are not sufficient to render it not substantially performed so as to preclude the right of a builder to a payment which is not a final payment, if the work can readily be done thereafter and it does not appear that it would not be done if the payment were made. Highton v. Dessau, 19 N. Y. Suppl. 395, 46 N. Y. St. 922. Where the only deviation from plans is an error in measurement by which the roof of a rear addition of a building is a few inches too low and the deviation does not affect the appearance or value of the building there is substantial performance. Oberlies v. Bullinger, 132 N. Y. 598, 30 N. E. 999, 44 N. Y. St. 851 [reversing 11 N. Y. Suppl. 264, 33 N. Y. St. 443].

Bona fide omission may leave contract substantially performed.— Where the builder agreed to make alterations in a building so as to include "the cutting of a door from sitting room to cellar," but the door was not cut because a tenant of the owner objected thereto and the building, though otherwise completed before its acceptance by the owner, a finding by a jury in an action on the agreement that there had been a substantial compliance and that the uncompleted part was omitted in good faith should not be disturbed. Bradford v. Whitcomb, 11 Tex. Civ. App. 221, 32 S. W. 571.

Contract to heat building.— A contract to well and sufficiently heat a building being erected is performed where the equipment furnished is sufficient in quality and power to heat the building as exhibited in the plans shown the builder. Phœnix Iron Co. v. The Richmond, 6 Mackey (D. C.) 180.

69. Smith v. Scott's Ridge School Dist., 20 Conn. 312.

70. Rose v. O'Riley, 111 Mass. 57; Liggett v. Smith, 3 Watts (Pa.) 331, 27 Am. Dec. 358.

71. Jones, etc., Co. v. Davenport, 74 Conn. 418, 50 Atl. 1028; D'Andre v. Zimmermann, 17 Misc. (N. Y.) 357, 39 N. Y. Suppl. 1086; Chaplin v. Candee, 14 Misc. (N. Y.) 453, 35 N. Y. Suppl. 1018, 70 N. Y. St. 741; Valk v. McKiege, 16 N. Y. Suppl. 741, 43 N. Y. St. 26; Crouch v. Gutmann, 10 N. Y. Suppl. 275, 32 N. Y. St. 254 [affirmed in 134 N. Y. 45, 31 N. E. 271, 30 Am. St. Rep. 608].

A failure to cover a well when completed is not a failure to substantially perform, if the cost of the cover is a trifling one. Chaplin v. Candee, 14 Misc. (N. Y.) 453, 35 N. Y. Suppl. 1018, 70 N. Y. St. 741.

A failure to perform work to the extent of thirteen dollars odd does not show that a contract to build at a price of three hundred and ninety dollars was not substantially performed. D'Andre v. Zimmermann, 17 Misc. (N. Y.) 357, 39 N. Y. Suppl. 1086.

Railroad construction contract.— In the construction of a road-bed for a railroad there is no substantial bona fide performance if work be omitted, even if such omitted portion may be executed at a trifling expense. Finegan v. L'Engle, 8 Fla. 413.

72. Valk v. McKiege, 16 N. Y. Suppl. 741, 43 N. Y. St. 26. See also Muckle v. Payne, 9 Pa. Dist. 413, 24 Pa. Co. Ct. 305.

Well-digging contract.— In an action to recover in a well-digging contract a jury is warranted in finding a substantial compliance with the contract, where it appears that while finishing the last portion of the work the owner ordered the builder to stop work. Madden v. Oestrich, 46 Minn. 538, 49 N. W. 301.

73. Grube v. Schultheiss, 57 N. Y. 669.

74. Bradford v. Whitcomb, 11 Tex. Civ. App. 221, 32 S. W. 571.

A deviation or omission may be substantial though it does not run through the entire building and can be remedied without disturbing or interfering with the entire building. Oberlies v. Bullinger, 75 Hun (N. Y.) 248, 27 N. Y. Suppl. 19, 57 N. Y. St. 752.

75. Elliott v. Caldwell, 43 Minn. 357, 45 N. W. 845, 9 L. R. A. 52; MacKnight Flintic Stone Co. v. New York, 160 N. Y. 72, 54 N. E. 661 [reversing on other ground 31 N. Y. App. Div. 232, 52 N. Y. Suppl. 747]; Crouch v. Gutmann, 134 N. Y. 45, 31 N. E. 271, 30 Am. St. Rep. 608, 45 N. Y. St. 470; MacKnight Flintic Stone Co. v. New York, 13 N. Y. App. Div. 231, 43 N. Y. Suppl. 139; Gibbons v. Russell, 13 N. Y. Suppl. 879, 37 N. Y. St. 402.

A motion to dismiss or to direct a verdict should be denied.— Gibbons v. Russell, 13 N. Y. Suppl. 879, 37 N. Y. St. 402.

The fact that the owner offers practically no testimony does not alter the rule, since a question of credibility of witnesses cannot be so it is a question of fact whether the builder was wilfully negligent in failing substantially to perform his contract.[76]

3. Skill and Care Required — a. In General. It is the duty of the builder to perform his work in a workmanlike manner;[77] that is, the work should be done as a skilled workman would do it,[78] the law exacting from a builder ordinary care and skill only.[79] Where the builder fails to perform in a workmanlike manner, he is liable for defects resulting from that failure, notwithstanding the work is done according to the best of his skill, knowledge, and ability in accordance with his contract,[80] and, where he agrees to build according to certain specifications and guarantees the sufficiency of the work for its intended purpose, he is liable, in the event of a failure, notwithstanding the owner furnishes the specifications, and that by them the work could not be performed sufficiently.[81]

b. With Respect to Third Parties — (i) In General. It is a builder's duty so to do his work as not to be a source of danger to others lawfully working on the building,[82] and to persons passing along a thoroughfare abutting on the taken from the jury. Harlow v. Homestead, 194 Pa. St. 57, 45 Atl. 87.

76. Hopper v. Cutting, 13 N. Y. Suppl. 820, 37 N. Y. St. 504 [following Byron v. Bell, 16 Daly (N. Y.) 198, 10 N. Y. Suppl. 693, 32 N. Y. St. 323]. See also Johnson v. De Peyster, 50 N. Y. 666.

77. Manuel v. Campbell, 3 Ark. 324; Feagan v. Meredith, 4 Mo. 514; Greene v. State, 8 Ohio 310.

An undertaking to construct in a "substantial and workmanlike manner" implies that the work shall be done perfectly for the character of the job contemplated. Smith v. Clark, 58 Mo. 145.

Where the builder contracts to do work "in a substantial and workmanlike manner," and "in accordance with the plans, specifications and instructions furnished," the mode of accomplishing the work is left to the skill and judgment of the contractor and the "instructions" must be in reference to the kind of structure, design, materials, combinations, and all matters pertaining to the planning of the building. Hunt v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 51 Pa. St. 475.

78. Fitzgerald v. La Porte, 64 Ark. 34, 40 S. W. 261, holding that the manner, considered good and workmanlike by the community of the district where the contract was made, is not a criterion, since an employer is not bound by the habits of local workmen.

Implied agreement to use such skill as is customary.— One undertaking to build impliedly agrees that he will do the work skilfully, according to the approved usages of his trade. Somerby v. Tappan, Wright (Ohio) 229.

79. Doster v. Brown, 25 Ga. 24, 71 Am. Dec. 153; Fletcher v. Seekell, 1 R. I. 267.

As to the degree of care required of bailees for hire in general see BAILMENTS, 5 Cyc. 184, 185, 186.

The highest degree of skill and care, such as the most skilful and careful builders use, is not required. On the other hand the law is not satisfied with the lowest degree, or such as the most ignorant and careless exercise, for this would be gross negligence; the medium, therefore, that is, the average of skill and the average of care, is the rule of skill and care required. Fletcher v. Seekell, 1 R. I. 267.

Perpetual presence of the builder is not required nor is he precluded from employing assistants where he contracts to perform work "under his own personal and immediate superintendence, and not by sub-contract," but he must give the work his personal attention. Reed v. Conway, 26 Mo. 13.

A builder is not responsible for the success of something adopted at his recommendation by his employer, when his employer exercises his own judgment in adopting it. Fletcher v. Seekell, 1 R. I. 267.

80. Manuel v. Campbell, 3 Ark. 324.

81. Bryson v. McCone, 121 Cal. 153, 53 Pac. 637.

Legality of provision guaranteeing work see supra, II, B, 4, c, (IX).

82. Bill v. New York Expanded Metal Co., 60 N. Y. App. Div. 470, 69 N. Y. Suppl. 989; Pasquini v. Lowry, 18 N. Y. Suppl. 284, 44 N. Y. St. 339; Weiler v. Isley, 6 N. Y. St. 595. Compare Gardner v. Friederich, 25 N. Y. App. Div. 521, 49 N. Y. Suppl. 1077.

Where a builder has taken all the usual precautions against danger and there is no evidence as to what caused an object to fall from above a builder is not liable to a person rightfully in the building who is injured by the falling of the object. Van Orden v. Acken, 28 N. Y. App. Div. 160, 50 N. Y. Suppl. 843.

In an action for injuries caused by the falling of a pile of brick from the upper floor of a building, in the course of construction, into the cellar, where plaintiff was working, it appeared that the accident occurred while workmen were moving a derrick past the pile of brick, and that when the derrick reached the point nearest the bricks they began to fall, and that the men then stopped moving the derrick. This evidence was held sufficient to present a question for the jury as to whether the brick were knocked down by the derrick, though there was no direct evidence of that fact. Reilly v. Atlas Iron Constr. Co., 83 Hun (N. Y.) 196, 31 N. Y. Suppl. 618, 64 N. Y. St. 332.

place where building is in operation.[83] Thus, where work is being done by a staging suspended above a thoroughfare the builder should have a sufficient covering or other proper provision to render its use reasonably safe to people that may be expected to pass below,[84] but there is no implied legal obligation to adopt a special precaution to prevent injury from material dropping from a building, where the work is being done on an interior wall, unless there be reason to apprehend that persons may be employed under the staging.[85]

(II) WHILE BUILDING IS PROGRESSING. A builder, carrying on an independent employment and acting in pursuance of a contract with his employer, by which he has agreed to work at specified times in a particular manner and for a stipulated price, is alone liable for injuries to third parties that occur while the work is progressing and which are caused by his negligence;[86] and, for negligence, of the builder not done under the contract but in violation of it the employer is

83. Mayer v. Thompson-Hutchinson Bldg. Co., 116 Ala. 634, 22 So. 859; Angus v. Lee, 40 Ill. App. 304.

Non-compliance with ordinance as to staging legal negligence.—The failure of a builder to comply with the requirements of a reasonable ordinance as to the method of protecting passers-by from injuries resulting from the falling of materials or implements constitutes negligence as a matter of law. Smith v. Milwaukee Builders' etc., Exch., 91 Wis. 360, 64 N. W. 1041, 51 Am. St. Rep. 912, 30 L. R. A. 504.

Non-application of statute as to protective fencing.— A statute requiring a builder to maintain a fence round a building so long as there is danger from materials falling therefrom does not render the builder liable to a person injured when the danger has ceased, even if the fencing be removed. Waterman v. Shepard, 21 R. I. 257, 43 Atl. 661.

84. Angus v. Lee, 40 Ill. App. 304.

85. Angus v. Lee, 40 Ill. App. 304.

86. California.— Frassi v. McDonald, 122 Cal. 400, 55 Pac. 139; Boswell v. Laird, 8 Cal. 469, 68 Am. Dec. 345.

Connecticut.— Geer v. Darrow, 61 Conn. 220, 23 Atl. 1087; Lawrence v. Shipman, 39 Conn. 586.

Illinois.— Alexander v. Mandeville, 33 Ill. App. 589.

Iowa.— Hughbanks v. Boston Invest. Co., 92 Iowa 267, 60 N. W. 640.

Massachusetts.—Conners v. Hennessey, 112 Mass. 96; Brackett v. Lubke, 4 Allen (Mass.) 138, 81 Am. Dec. 694; Hilliard v. Richardson, 3 Gray (Mass.) 349, 63 Am. Dec. 743.

New York.— Burke v. Ireland, 26 N. Y. App. Div. 487, 50 N. Y. Suppl. 369.

Pennsylvania.— Walton v. Bryn Mawr Hotel Co., 160 Pa. St. 3, 28 Atl. 438.

United States.— Crane Elevator Co. v. Lippert, 63 Fed. 942, 24 U. S. App. 176, 11 C. C. A. 521; Doran v. Flood, 47 Fed. 543.

Canada.— Walker v. McMillan, 6 Can. Supreme Ct. 241.

Doctrine of independent contractors see, generally, MASTER AND SERVANT.

Authority to do certain acts to facilitate building does not exempt the builder from liability. Thus an ordinance allowing the placing of a post for the purpose of attaching thereto a guy line stretched across the street will not relieve the builder from an injury caused by the manner of stretching the rope. Larson v. Ring, 43 Minn. 88, 44 N. W. 1078.

Building laws which prescribe the manner in which structures are to be built do not make the owner an absolute guarantor that the building erected should be in compliance with the statute, and accordingly the owner has no obligation to preserve the servants of the contractor or a subcontractor from the negligence of their masters or of fellow servants. Burke v. Ireland, 26 N. Y. App. Div. 487, 50 N. Y. Suppl. 369.

So far as injury to adjoining property from the erection of a building is due to the negligence and carelessness of the builder, and not necessarily incident to the plan of the work or the building contract, the builder, and not the owner, is liable. Laycock v. Parker, 103 Wis. 61, 79 N. W. 327.

A contractor is liable to owner's tenants for damages to their goods. Butts v. J. C. Mackey Co., 72 Hun (N. Y.) 562, 25 N. Y. Suppl. 531, 55 N. Y. St. 137.

Liability of builder for negligence of his subcontractor.— In an action against a builder for injuries caused by the falling of a wall, if it appears that he accepted the wall from a subcontractor with knowledge of its condition and that, at the time of the acceptance, the condition was so defective as to cause the injuries complained of, but that the builder's own servants did certain work which caused the defect the question whether the builder's liability was shifted to the subcontractor is one of fact. Berberich v. Ebach, 131 Pa. St. 165, 25 Wkly. Notes Cas. (Pa.) 272, 18 Atl. 1008.

Liability for injuries caused by act of intruder.— A builder is not liable for injuries caused by articles falling from a properly constructed building, which is temporarily completed, through the act of an intruder or an employee neither in the discharge of any duty nor acting within the scope of his employment, even if he fails to erect a suitable scaffold and maintain it until the permanent completion of the building. Mayer v. Thompson-Hutchinson Bldg. Co., 116 Ala. 634, 22 So. 859.

As to liability of builder to his employees see, generally, MASTER AND SERVANT.

in general not liable,[87] the relationship of master and servant not subsisting between the parties, but only that of contractor and contractee, and the power of directing and controlling the work being parted with by the employer and given to the builder.[88] But on the other hand if the builder is employed generally and the work is to be performed for a reasonable compensation or for a stipulated price,[89] the employer remains liable,[90] because he retains the right and power of directing and controlling the manner and time of executing the work, or of refraining from doing it, if in his opinion necessary or expedient.[91] The builder is not liable for injuries to trespassers on the building,[92] or for injuries occurring to the employees of other contractors where they without request or invitation go upon a scaffold erected by him and such scaffold gives way thereby injuring such employees.[93] The builder and owner are jointly liable, where their negligence directly concurs to produce the injury, although one may have undertaken one part and the other another part of the work, and the negligence occurs in the performance of each of the several parts of the work which directly contributes to produce the injury,[94] and where the building is unlawful.[95] The employer is liable where the builder faithfully performs his contract and a third person is injured by him in the course of its due performance or by its result,[96] for the employer causes the precise act to

87. Lawrence v. Shipman, 39 Conn. 586.

88. Conners v. Hennessey, 112 Mass. 96; Brackett v. Lubke, 4 Allen (Mass.) 138, 81 Am. Dec. 694.

The employment of an architect or engineer by the employer does not so interfere with the conduct of the work by the builder as to render the employer liable for the negligence of the builder. Murphy v. Ottawa, 13 Ont. 334.

Whether builder or employer has control of building operations is a question of fact.— Peard v. Karst, 10 N. Y. Suppl. 463, 32 N. Y. St. 159.

General liability of master for acts of servant see, generally, MASTER AND SERVANT.

89. Brackett v. Lubke, 4 Allen (Mass.) 138, 81 Am. Dec. 694.

Right of employee of builder to recover from the owner for injuries received without fault on his part from the dangerous conditions of premises in the control of the owner see, generally, NEGLIGENCE.

90. Hughbanks v. Boston Invest. Co., 92 Iowa 267, 60 N. W. 640; Hoffnagle v. New York Cent., etc., R. Co., 1 Thomps. & C. (N. Y.) 346.

91. Brackett v. Lubke, 4 Allen (Mass.) 138, 81 Am. Dec. 694.

92. McNeven v. Arnott, 4 N. Y. App. Div. 133, 38 N. Y. Suppl. 759, 74 N. Y. St. 94; Mauer v. Ferguson, 17 N. Y. Suppl. 349, 44 N. Y. St. 372.

93. Maguire v. Magee, (Pa. 1888) 13 Atl. 551.

94. Lawrence v. Shipman, 39 Conn. 586; Consolidated Ice Mach. Co. v. Keifer, 134 Ill. 481, 25 N. E. 799, 23 Am. St. Rep. 688, 10 L. R. A. 696.

The test seems to be whether or not the negligence of each directly contributed in producing the injurious result. Consolidated Ice Mach. Co. v. Keifer, 134 Ill. 481, 25 N. E. 799, 23 Am. St. Rep. 688, 10 L. R. A. 696.

95. Lawrence v. Shipman, 39 Conn. 586; Walker v. McMillan, 6 Can. Supreme Ct. 241.

Where a building is a direct violation of a building law the employer is responsible for the wrong done by the builder or his servants, and is liable to third persons who sustained damage from the doing of that wrong. Walker v. McMillan, 6 Can. Supreme Ct. 241.

Violation of building law legal negligence. — One who, in erecting a building, violates a building law by causing a greater weight to be placed on portions of the foundation than the limit prescribed is negligent as matter of law, and liable for an injury to an innocent person, resulting from a violation of the statute. Pitcher v. Lennon, 12 N. Y. App. Div. 356, 42 N. Y. Suppl. 156. See also Diamond State Iron Co. v. Giles, (Del. 1887) 11 Atl. 189 [affirming 8 Atl. 368]; Smith v. Milwaukee Builders', etc., Exch., 91 Wis. 360, 64 N. W. 1041, 51 Am. St. Rep. 912, 30 L. R. A. 504.

Approval of plans by the building department of a city does not absolve the owner from liability growing out of its construction in violation of a statute. Pitcher v. Lennon, 12 N. Y. App. Div. 356, 42 N. Y. Suppl. 156.

96. Lawrence v. Shipman, 39 Conn. 586; Pye v. Faxon, 156 Mass. 471, 31 N. E. 640.

Material dropping from building.— An instruction in an action to recover for injuries caused by material dropping from a building, charging that so far as material dropped "from the carelessness of the workmen the [employer] is not liable for that; but if it was something necessarily involved in the building of the wall" then the employer is liable to the person injured thereby so far as it is actionable is correct. Pye v. Faxon, 156 Mass. 471, 31 N. E. 640.

Inherent defects in construction.— Where a building is inherently defective and dangerous prima facie the owner is responsible (Burke v. Ireland, 26 N. Y. App. Div. 487, 50 N. Y. Suppl. 369; Fox v. Buffalo Park, 21 N. Y. App. Div. 321, 47 N. Y. Suppl. 788 [affirmed in 163 N. Y. 559, 57 N. E. 1109]; Walton v. Bryn Mawr Hotel Co., 160 Pa. St. 3, 28 Atl.

be done which occasions the injury;[97] and upon the same principle the owner is responsible to persons injured by a builder while employed in doing work which, in the progress of its execution, obviously exposes others to unusual peril.[98] Again, it is generally understood that the owner is liable for the negligence of the builder, where such negligence creates a nuisance,[99] and where an incompetent and untrustworthy builder is employed.[1]

(III) After Completion and Acceptance. After completion and acceptance of a building the liability of the builder for accidents caused by defective construction ceases and the liability attaches to the owner, whether the damage is attributable to his own negligence or to that of the builder.[2]

4. Defects — a. In General. A builder is responsible to his employer for defective performance, and is liable either to an action or to a deduction from the price agreed upon.[3]

438) though he has no actual knowledge of the defect, and employed a contractor for the construction, and a competent architect to oversee it (Fox v. Buffalo Park, 21 N. Y. App. Div. 321, 47 N. Y. Suppl. 788 [affirmed in 163 N. Y. 559, 57 N. E. 1109]), but he must affirmatively show that he did employ a competent architect and acted upon his advice (Burke v. Ireland, 26 N. Y. App. Div. 487, 50 N. Y. Suppl. 369. And see also Pitcher v. Lennon, 12 N. Y. App. Div. 356, 42 N. Y. Suppl. 156).

As to effect of consulting an architect upon liability of owner of a building in course of erection see Olsen v. Mayer, 46 Nebr. 240, 64 N. W. 954.

Reasonable care in obtaining plans and employing a builder to do work does not relieve the owner of a building falling without apparent reason from liability from resulting damage. A building so defectively constructed as to be dangerous is a nuisance and the doctrine of independent contractors does not apply. Wilkinson v. Detroit Steel, etc., Works, 73 Mich. 405, 41 N. W. 490.

97. Lawrence v. Shipman, 39 Conn. 586.

98. Lawrence v. Shipman, 39 Conn. 586, holding that where an owner employed a mason to remove earth from under the owner's tenement and underpin it with stone and the builder did his work negligently, thereby causing the building to fall and injure tenants of the owner inhabiting the building, such work could not be treated as one at all exposing the tenants to unusual peril.

99. Lawrence v. Shipman, 39 Conn. 586; Conners v. Hennessey, 112 Mass. 96.

This principle seems somewhat doubted by Maule, J., in Overton v. Freeman, 3 C. & K. 52, 11 C. B. 867, 16 Jur. 65, 21 L. J. C. P. 52, 73 E. C. L. 867.

1. Lawrence v. Shipman, 39 Conn. 586; Conners v. Hennessey, 112 Mass. 96.

Employment of builder pecuniarily irresponsible.— The principle that an owner employing an incompetent and untrustworthy builder is liable for injuries done to third persons by the builder's carelessness in the execution of his contract does not apply as a general rule to the employment of a person pecuniarily irresponsible, though this fact may be of some weight where the work to be done is hazardous to others. "If a person having an interest in a job which naturally exposes others to peril, should attempt to shield himself from responsibility by contracting with a bankrupt" builder, that person may be subjected for damages done by the builder. Lawrence v. Shipman, 39 Conn. 586.

2. Boswell v. Laird, 8 Cal. 469, 68 Am. Dec. 345; Gorham v. Gross, 125 Mass. 232, 28 Am. Rep. 224.

Should the owner accept a house to his knowledge insufficiently built and allow it to remain in that condition he assumes to third persons who may be concerned its sufficiency for the uses and purposes for which it was constructed. Fanjoy v. Seales, 29 Cal. 243.

Builder's duty only to owner.— A contractor who has completed his work and turned it over to the owner is not liable for accidents caused by the defective construction of the building, since the builder's duty is only to the owner. Curtin v. Somerset, 140 Pa. St. 70, 21 Atl. 244, 23 Am. St. Rep. 220.

3. District of Columbia.— Beha v. Ottenberg, 6 Mackey (D. C.) 348.

Florida.— Livingston v. Anderson, 30 Fla. 117, 11 So. 270.

Indiana.— McKinney v. Springer, 3 Ind. 59, 54 Am. Dec. 470.

Maine.—Hill v. Millburn School Dist. No. 2, 17 Me. 316.

Massachusetts.—Taft v. Montague, 14 Mass. 282, 7 Am. Dec. 215.

Michigan.— Phelps v. Beebe, 71 Mich. 554, 39 N. W. 761.

Missouri.— Globe Light, etc., Co. v. Doud, 47 Mo. App. 439; Austin v. Keating, 21 Mo. App. 30.

New York.— Walker v. Millard, 29 N. Y. 375.

Ohio.— Marshall v. Ames, 11 Ohio Cir. Ct. 363. See also Somerby v. Tappan, Wright (Ohio) 570.

Canada.— Pepin v. Martin, 5 Rev. Lég. 183.

Amount of recovery where performance is defective see infra, VII, D.

An owner who seeks to recover damages for defects in construction should protect himself as far as possible from the damage which would naturally result from the defects, and can only charge the builder with such expenses and efforts, and to the damage which he could not have prevented by the ex-

b. Due to Plans. Where the builder performs his work strictly in conformity with plans and specifications, he is not liable for defects in the work that are due to faulty structural requirements contained in such plans and specifications,[4] and may recover under the contract,[5] unless he has warranted that the plans and specifications are correct;[6] nor is he under any responsibility, in the event of the subsequent destruction of completed work, whether that destruction is caused by its own inherent weakness or from extraneous causes, but if he departs from his ercise of due diligence. Mather v. Butler County, 28 Iowa 253.

An offer made in good faith to correct defects entitles the builder to recover for what he has done under his contract, and an instruction so stating the law is not incorrect because the tender might have been made on condition that sums claimed to be due should first be paid and no reference was made thereto, for in determining whether the tender was made in good faith the jury would have to consider whether the tender was conditional or not. Cass County v. Gibson, 107 Fed. 363, 46 C. C. A. 341.

4. Connecticut.— Hills v. Farmington, 70 Conn. 450, 39 Atl. 795.

Georgia.— Porter v. Wilder, 62 Ga. 520.

Illinois.— Vermont St. M. E. Church v. Brose, 104 Ill. 206; Sperry v. Fanning, 80 Ill. 371.

Indian Territory.— South McAlester Electric Light, etc., Co. v. Eddy, 2 Indian Terr. 645, 53 S. W. 448.

Iowa.— Holland v. Union County, 68 Iowa 56, 25 N. W. 927.

Massachusetts.— Burke v. Dunbar, 128 Mass. 499; Gray v. James, 128 Mass. 110.

Mississippi.— Collins v. Money, 4 How. (Miss.) 11.

New York.— Byron v. New York, 54 N. Y. Super. Ct. 411, 7 N. Y. St. 17; In re Freel, 38 N. Y. Suppl. 143, 73 N. Y. St. 331.

Pennsylvania.— Murphy v. Liberty Nat. Bank, 184 Pa. St. 208, 42 Wkly. Notes Cas. (Pa.) 151, 39 Atl. 143; Beswick v. Platt, 140 Pa. St. 28, 21 Atl. 306; O'Loughlin v. Jefferson County, 56 Pa. St. 62; Bryant v. Stilwell, 24 Pa. St. 314.

Vermont.— Fairman v. Ford, 70 Vt. 111, 39 Atl. 748.

Wisconsin.— Bentley v. State, 73 Wis. 416, 41 N. W. 338.

United States.—Gubbins v. Lautenschlager, 74 Fed. 160.

Illustrations.— Where iron work put in according to the specifications is not sufficient to support that part of the building which it is intended to support the builder is not required to complete the work (Murphy v. Liberty Nat. Bank, 184 Pa. St. 208, 42 Wkly. Notes Cas. (Pa.) 151, 39 Atl. 143); so where the owner directed the builder to use inferior sand in the mortar, the builder was held not liable for a defective wall in the building for which such mortar was used (McLane v. De Leyer, 56 N. Y. 619).

A builder is not liable for defective work caused by a subcontractor's use of a different material from that specified in the contract, by agreement between them and the architect without the knowledge of the contractors. Robinson v. Baird, 165 Pa. St. 505, 35 Wkly. Notes Cas. (Pa.) 561, 30 Atl. 1010.

Building reservoir.—A builder who has constructed a reservoir in accordance with the plans and specifications is not liable for defects therein. Filbert v. Philadelphia, 181 Pa. St. 530, 37 Atl. 545.

It is a question of fact whether an imperfection in construction is attributable to the builder or to a defect in the original plan for which he is not responsible. Gray v. James, 126 Mass. 110.

A builder knowing or having reason to believe that plans are defective, who follows such plans without pointing out the defect to the owner or architect, is not entitled to recover if the building proves insufficient because of such defect. Burke v. Dunbar, 128 Mass. 499.

The fact that plans furnished to builder are defective does not relieve him from liability on a guaranty of his work, where he has previously examined the plans, since before making the contract he should have known that they were defective. Giles v. San Antonio Foundry Co., (Tex. Civ. App. 1893) 24 S. W. 546.

Liability of architect for defect in plans see supra, III, B, 3.

Liability of owner for defective construction see supra, V, B, 3, b.

5. Indian Territory.— South McAlester Electric Light, etc., Co. v. Eddy, 2 Indian Terr. 645, 53 S. W. 448.

Iowa.— Holland v. Union County, 68 Iowa 56, 25 N. W. 927.

Massachusetts.— Burke v. Dunbar, 128 Mass. 499; Gray v. James, 128 Mass. 110.

New York.— Bryon v. New York, 7 N. Y. St. 17.

Wisconsin.— Bentley v. State, 73 Wis. 416, 41 N. W. 338.

United States.— Sickels v. U. S., 1 Ct. Cl. 214.

6. Hills v. Farmington, 70 Conn. 450, 39 Atl. 795.

Guaranty that work is sufficient for specified purpose not guaranty of plan.—An agreement to build in a particular way and to use specified materials, in accordance with a design furnished the builder, which is to be his sole guide, with a guaranty that the work when done in that way will be sufficient for a particular purpose, warrants the construction and material used by the builder but does not guarantee defects in the plan furnished. MacKnight Flintic Stone Co. v. New York, 160 N. Y. 72, 54 N. E. 661 [reversing 31 N. Y. App. Div. 232, 52 N. Y. Suppl. 747].

Validity of provision guaranteeing architect's plan see supra, II, B, 4, c, (IX).

working contract without consent he becomes a guarantor of the strength and safety of the building.[7]

c. Due to Soil or Weather Conditions. As a general rule the builder is responsible for defects caused by defects in the soil or by weather conditions,[8] notwithstanding that he was bound by contract to follow plans and specifications prepared by an architect.[9]

d. Due to Changes Made With Owner's Consent. A builder is not chargeable for defects arising from changes made during the building with the owner's consent,[10] but it must clearly appear that the consent was fairly obtained and given with knowledge of all material circumstances.[11]

e. Due to Other Contractors. A builder who undertakes work independently of other contractors and not having general direction of the work is not liable for defects caused by them.[12]

7. Clark v. Pope, 70 Ill. 128.

8. Michigan.— Schliess v. Grand Rapids, (Mich. 1902) 90 N. W. 700, 9 Detroit Leg. N. 192.

Minnesota.— Stees v. Leonard, 20 Minn. 494.

New Jersey.—Trenton v. Bennett, 27 N. J. L. 513, 72 Am. Dec. 373.

Pennsylvania.— Sinnott v. Mullin, 82 Pa. St. 333.

United States.— Ingle v. Jones, 2 Wall. (U. S.) 1, 17 L. ed. 762; Bitting v. U. S., 25 Ct. Cl. 502.

Canada.— Wardle v. Bethune, 16 L. C. Jur. 85 [confirming 12 L. C. Jur. 321]; Brown v. Laurie, 1 L. C. Rep. 343, 5 L. C. Rep. 65, 3 Quebec Q. B. 27.

Liability of builder for defects in soil under French and Louisiana code.— Under Code Napoleon a builder is liable when a building crumbles in consequence of a defect in the soil on which he has erected it; but in Louisiana the legislature, in adopting the provisions of the French code on the subject, thought proper to leave out that part of it which thus extended the builder's liability and restricted it entirely to cases where loss results from defective workmanship (Fremont v. Harris, 9 Rob. (La.) 23 [citing La. Rev. Civ. Code (1870) art. 2733 (Merrick's Rev. Civ. Code La. (1900), art. 2762)]), and under this provision in an action to recover damages for the falling to ruin of a building the owner must prove that badness of workmanship is the cause of defects (Fremont v. Harris, 9 Rob. (La.) 23).

A builder is not liable for the cracking of walls occasioned by the unfitness of the soil to sustain such walls, when the employer refuses to have the foundation of the wall made sufficiently deep and broad. Powell v. Markham, 18 La. Ann. 581.

Damage by frost.— A builder who undertakes to build a wall in winter time is liable for damage done to the wall by frost existing at the time of building, although before commencing work he notifies the owner that he will not be responsible for damages caused by frost. St. Louis v. Shaw, 2 Dorion (Quebec) 374 [confirmed in 8 Can. Supreme Ct. 385].

Where a builder agrees to complete a partially existing building, his responsibility for the fitness of old walls not contributed by him must depend upon his contract. Gibbons v. U. S., 15 Ct. Cl. 174. A builder is responsible for a defect in the timber of a building on which he undertakes to put a new roof in the same manner as he would be for the unfavorable nature of the ground. Martel v. Syndics, etc., 11 Montreal Leg. N. 82.

9. Brown v. Laurie, 1 L. C. Rep. 343, 5 L. C. Rep. 65, 3 Quebec Q. B. 27.

Construction in accordance with plans and specifications does not relieve a contractor from liability if the building falls before completion, in a case where he has agreed to do everything necessary to erect and complete the building. Stees v. Leonard, 20 Minn. 494.

Under an agreement to build in a good, substantial, and workmanlike manner and to excavate as far as is necessary for a solid foundation, the builder is liable if the foundation be laid at less than the proper depth in wet, swampy ground of such character as to suggest to a man of ordinary prudence that the building would not stand, and cannot escape liability because of the approval of the architect. Chandler v. Wheeler, (Tenn. Ch. 1898) 49 S. W. 278.

As to skill and care required of builder see supra, V, B, 3.

Responsibility for conditions caused by weather.— Where a builder erects a building at the time when he is directed by his employer, in accordance with plans and specifications furnished by the latter, and his contract does not contain a guarantee that the building will stand the weather, he is not responsible for its condition caused by the freezing of the mortar, as such risk was assumed by the employer. Schliess v. Grand Rapids, (Mich. 1902) 90 N. W. 700, 9 Detroit Leg. N. 192.

10. Bryant v. Stilwell, 24 Pa. St. 314.

11. Bryant v. Stilwell, 24 Pa. St. 314.

Where specifications provide for alterations if required, a change made by mutual agreement does not relieve the builder from liability for defects. Gillis v. Cobe, 177 Mass. 584, 59 N. E. 455.

12. Cowen v. Evans, 16 Rev. Lég. 43.

A builder is liable for a defect in another contractor's work which is known to him before he does his own, as he should notify his employer of the other contractor's defective

5. Time of Performance — a. In General. Where the builder stipulated to perform his work by a specified time, the time is generally regarded at law as of the essence of the contract,[13] and it is his duty to observe the stipulation,[14] unless it has been waived;[15] and, with this object in view, he should commence his work work with a view to its immediate remedy. Fletcher v. Seekell, 1 R. I. 267.

13. Allen v. Cooper, 22 Me. 133; Hill v. Millburn School Dist. No. 2, 17 Me. 316; Wood v. Joliet Gaslight Co., 111 Fed. 463, 49 C. C. A. 427.

There are cases in which time is not regarded as of the essence of the contract and equity will relieve against a provision for performance within a limited time. Hill v. Millburn School Dist. No. 2, 17 Me. 316.

Time is not of the essence of the contract as applied to extra work, where the contract provides for completion within a specified time and also for extra work to be paid for at its reasonable value. Ramsburg v. McCahan, 3 Gill (Md.) 341.

14. Allen v. Cooper, 22 Me. 133; Hill v. Millburn School Dist. No. 2, 17 Me. 316; Curtis v. Brewer, 17 Pick. (Mass.) 513.

Where not less than a named time is allowed.— Where a contract provides that the time within which its full performance is requisite shall not be less than a certain time the builder has all of such time in which to complete. Randel v. Chesapeake, etc., Canal Co., 1 Harr. (Del.) 151.

Allowance of reasonable time where builder allows for delay beyond specified time.— Where a contract stipulated that a building should be finished agreeably to the contract in a specified time, and also provided that, if completed before that time, the builder should be paid or allowed for the time anticipated at a certain rate and that, if not finished within the time, the builder should pay or allow for the time extended at the same rate, it was held that the latter clause controlled the former and impliedly allowed a reasonable time beyond that specified for finishing the building upon paying or allowing damages for the delay. Folsom v. McDonough, 6 Cush. (Mass.) 208.

Inconsistency as to time between contract and specifications.— Where a contract provided that the work was to be done "without unnecessary delay" as soon as ordered, and the specifications provided that the building will be completed within three months from the date of the contract, the builder was not compelled to finish his work within three months, since the contract controls the specifications. Boteler v. Roy, 40 Mo. App. 234.

15. Allen v. Cooper, 22 Me. 133; Hill v. Millburn School Dist. No. 2, 17 Me. 316; Smith v. Gugerty, 4 Barb. (N. Y.) 614; Bigler v. New York, etc., Ferry Co., 1 Silv. Supreme (N. Y.) 351, 5 N. Y. Suppl. 347, 24 N. Y. St. 603; Close v. Clark, 16 Daly (N. Y.) 91, 9 N. Y. Suppl. 538, 30 N. Y. St. 671; Mechan v. Williams, 2 Daly (N. Y.) 367; Kugler v. Wiseman, 20 Ohio 361; Hawman v. Yellow House, etc., Turnpike Road Co., 2 Woodw. (Pa.) 332; Van Stone v. Stillwell, etc., Mfg. Co., 142 U. S. 128, 12 S. Ct. 181, 35 L. ed. 961.

Waiver need not be in writing or established by positive testimony but may be inferred from circumstances. Smith v. Gugerty, 4 Barb. (N. Y.) 614. See also Hawman v. Yellow House, etc., Turnpike Road Co., 2 Woodw. (Pa.) 332.

What constitutes waiver.— There is a waiver where the builder is permitted to continue his work after the expiration of the time limited for completion (Gallagher v. Nichols, 16 Abb. Pr. N. S. (N. Y.) 337; Kugler v. Wiseman, 20 Ohio 361; Hawman v. Yellow House, etc., Turnpike Road Co., 2 Woodw. (Pa.) 332), without any expression of disapproval from the employer (Fowlds v. Evans, 52 Minn. 551, 54 N. W. 743), and after completion the employer takes possession of the work and uses it (Hawman v. Yellow House, etc., Turnpike Road Co., 2 Woodw. (Pa.) 332. And see Gallagher v. Nichols, 16 Abb. Pr. N. S. (N. Y.) 337; Kugler v. Wiseman, 20 Ohio 361), though it has been held that the mere fact that the employer takes possession of his own land on which the work has been done does not afford an inference of waiver (Monro v. Butt, 9 E. & B. 738, 4 Jur. N. S. 1231, 93 E. C. L. 737); the fact, however, that a builder failing to perform within a specified time has been allowed to complete the work afterward only operates as a waiver of performance on the date fixed (Snell v. Cottingham, 72 Ill. 161), so there is a waiver where the original plan has been departed from by mutual consent (Close v. Clark, 16 Daly (N. Y.) 91, 9 N. Y. Suppl. 538, 30 N. Y. St. 671), if the departures are necessarily the cause of delay (Kenny v. Monahan, 169 N. Y. 591, 62 N. E. 1096 [affirming 53 N. Y. App. Div. 421, 66 N. Y. Suppl. 10]; Bigler v. New York, etc., Ferry Co., 1 Silv. Supreme (N. Y.) 351, 5 N. Y. Suppl. 347, 24 N. Y. St. 603); and where the work is accepted after the time specified and payment made in accordance with the contract (Paddock v. Stout, 121 Ill. 571, 13 N. E. 182), though a payment made under such circumstances has been held not to be a waiver (Shute v. Hamilton, 3 Daly (N. Y.) 462). Again there is a waiver where the builder has completed except as to certain matters not satisfactory to the employer, who writes to the builder stating that he will be ready to pay for the entire work when unsatisfactory work is remedied (Van Stone v. Stillwell, etc., Mfg. Co., 142 U. S. 128, 12 S. Ct. 181, 35 L. ed. 961), or where a subsequent contract is made after the time has expired to do additional work for extra pay (Cornish v. Suydam, 99 Ala. 620, 13 So. 118); and where a contract provides for completion by a named date, and before such date the contract is modified by reducing the amount within such reasonable time after execution of the contract as will enable him to finish within the time limit.[16]

b. Where No Time Is Specified. Where the contract fails to specify a time for completion, the builder is entitled to reasonable time within which to perform,[17] and it will be implied that a reasonable time for performance was intended;[18] so where a time provision has been waived and the builder was permitted to continue;[19] but the builder is bound to finish within such time.[20]

c. Right to Additional Time. Where the builder is delayed by his employer such additional time as may have been lost by delay should be allowed;[21] so he should be allowed extra time when required to do extra work,[22] where changes of building to be done by that date, and afterward the employer acquiesces in continuance of the work and there is evidence that, at the time of the modification, the employer contemplated that the building might not be completed for some time afterward, the right to insist that time was of the essence of the contract is waived (Barnard v. McLeod, 114 Mich. 73, 72 N. W. 24).

The question of a waiver of a time limitation is one for the jury.— Hawman v. Yellow House, etc., Turnpike Road Co., 2 Woodw. (Pa.) 332.

16. Cannon v. Hunt, 113 Ga. 501, 38 S. E. 983.

Even providential causes that may be an excuse for delay will not be a legal excuse, when it appears that there was sufficient time between the making of the contract and the happening of the cause to perform the work. Cannon v. Hunt, 113 Ga. 501, 38 S. E. 983.

17. Dannat v. Fuller, 120 N. Y. 554, 24 N. E. 815, 31 N. Y. St. 825.

18. Walling v. Warren, 2 Colo. 434; Fowler v. Deakman, 84 Ill. 130; George Lehman, etc., Co. v. Clark, 33 Ill. App. 33; North v. Mallory, 94 Md. 305, 51 Atl. 89; Brodek v. Farnum, 11 Wash. 565, 40 Pac. 189.

What constitutes waiver of time see supra, note 15.

19. Lawson v. Hogan, 93 N. Y. 39; Rode v. Auerbach, 31 Misc. (N. Y.) 765, 64 N. Y. Suppl. 774; Van Stone v. Stillwell, etc., Mfg. Co., 142 U. S. 128, 12 S. Ct. 181, 35 L. ed. 961.

Failure of owner to furnish lines for foundation.— Where a contract provided that the building should be completed on a certain date or for a forfeiture on failure so to do, and the employer was to furnish plaintiff the lines and levels for the foundation before a date prior to the date of the contract, and he failed to do so for some days after such date, the builder, by entering on the work after a breach of the condition precedent, only obligated himself to finish within a reasonable time. Long v. Pierce County, 22 Wash. 330, 61 Pac. 142.

20. Wilderman v. Pitts, 29 Ill. App. 528; Rode v. Auerbach, 31 Misc. (N. Y.) 765, 64 N. Y. Suppl. 774.

21. Starr v. Gregory Consol. Min. Co., 6 Mont. 485, 491, 13 Pac. 195, 198; McGowan v. American Pressed Tan Bark Co., 121 U. S. 575, 7 S. Ct. 1315, 30 L. ed. 1027. But when a contract provides that the building shall be completed at a special time, and that the builder shall be allowed additional time when delayed by the fault or neglect of other contractors, provided he gives notice in writing to the owner of such neglect of other contractors, the builder cannot be allowed additional time in the absence of a written notice. Feeney v. Bardsley, 66 N. J. L. 239, 49 Atl. 443.

Builder should use reasonable diligence where allowed additional time. Starr v. Gregory Consol. Min. Co., 6 Mont. 485, 491, 13 Pac. 195, 198.

Where the contract so provides, delay in completing the building caused by the delays of other contractors, or by the unusual action of the elements, or otherwise, affords proper grounds for action claiming an extension of time. Kelly v. Fejervary, (Iowa 1899) 78 N. W. 828.

A stipulation, that if delays in the completion of the work be occasioned by epidemics, strikes, or providential causes, a reasonable extension of time for the completion of the contract shall be made, if qualified by a condition that timely notice of all such delays shall be given by the builder to the owner, does not relieve the builder from liability for damages resulting to the owner because of delays thus brought about, unless he gives actual notice to the owner of such delays within a reasonable time after their recurrence, and makes thereon proper claims for extensions of time. Florida Northern R. Co. v. Southern Supply Co., 112 Ga. 1, 37 S. E. 130.

22. Texas, etc., R. Co. v. Rust, 19 Fed. 239.

Under a stipulation that, in case the owner shall direct any more work to be done than is mentioned in the agreement, he shall pay therefor a reasonable valuation, the extent and kind of work other than that mentioned in the agreement is discretionary with the owner, and the completion of the building may be, in consequence, postponed beyond the day designated in the contract. Ramsburg v. McCahan, 3 Gill (Md.) 341.

Where the builder contracts to finish building by a certain date but subject to extras, alterations, or additions which may be made, and that the time mentioned for completion shows the essence of the contract the builder must execute not only the work specified but also all alterations within the time prescribed in the contract, there being are made in the original plans.[23] Where a cause for delay ceases the obligation to finish is at once imposed on the builder, and failure then to perform within a reasonable time warrants damages for unreasonable delay thereafter.[24]

d. Liability For Delay. A builder who has not performed his contract in due time is liable in damages for the delay,[25] unless the damages be waived.[26]

6. Acceptance and Waiver — a. What Constitutes. Acceptance may be expressed or implied from the conduct of the employer.[27] Mere naked occupancy or use of a building erected on the land of the owner does not, however, warrant an inference of acceptance of the work as done in compliance with the contract,[28] unless the possession or use be coupled with some act or no implied condition that the alterations should be such as could reasonably be completed within that time. Jones v. St. John's College, L. R. 6 Q. B. 115, 40 L. J. Q. B. 80, 23 L. T. Rep. 803, 19 Wkly. Rep. 276. But see Dodd v. Churton, [1897] 1 Q. B. 562, 66 L. J. Q. B. 477, 76 L. T. Rep. 438, 45 Wkly. Rep. 490 [following Westwood v. Secretary of State, 1 N. R. 262, 7 L. T. Rep. 736, 11 Wkly. Rep. 261, and distinguishing Jones v. St. John's College, L. R. 6 Q. B. 115, 40 L. J. Q. B. 80, 23 L. T. Rep. 803, 19 Wkly. Rep. 276].

23. Wright v. Meyer, (Tex. Civ. App. 1894) 25 S. W. 1122.

24. Graveson v. Tobey, 75 Ill. 540; Pittsburg Iron, etc., Co. v. National Tube Works Co., 184 Pa. St. 251, 39 Atl. 76.

25. Graveson v. Tobey, 75 Ill. 540; Snell v. Cottingham, 72 Ill. 161; Percy v. Peyroux, 5 Rob. (La.) 179; Sinclair v. Tallmadge, 35 Barb. (N. Y.) 602; Weeks v. Little, 47 N. Y. Super. Ct. 1; Hexter v. Knox, 39 N. Y. Super. Ct. 109; Reichenbach v. Sage, 13 Wash. 364, 43 Pac. 354, 52 Am. St. Rep. 51.

Subcontractor liable to builder for delay.— Granniss, etc., Lumber Co. v. Deeves, 72 Hun (N. Y.) 171, 25 N. Y. Suppl. 375, 55 N. Y. St. 674.

As to damages recoverable see infra, VII, D.

In the absence of anything to show that time is of the essence of the contract the employer cannot recover for expenses and losses arising from the builder's failure to complete the contract at a date at which he said he would try to complete it. Gubbins v. Lautenschlager, 74 Fed. 160.

An employer may show that he rented a building for an amount shown to be less than its reasonable rental value, and that, owing to the delay, the tenant was unable to take possession until after the day specified for completion. Consaul v. Sheldon, 35 Nebr. 247, 52 N. W. 1104.

Damages after completion by owner.— A builder who, after having agreed to complete within a certain time, fails so to do and abandons his work without any valid excuse is liable to an owner who, after notice, proceeds to have the building completed for the value of the work and material necessary to complete the building according to the contract, less any unpaid balance of the contract price. Davis v. Ford, 81 Md. 333, 32 Atl. 280. An owner should when it is apparent that a builder will not complete according to contract either take it or abandon it to the builder and, on a failure to decide which he will do in a reasonable time, he cannot recover for reasonable value or for any deterioration in the building during that time. Eaton v. Gladwell, 121 Mich. 444, 80 N. W. 292.

26. Under a contract providing that work should be completed by a certain day if it appears that the employer told the builder there were to be "no damages if it is not done according to the time specified," and it does not appear that the building was wanted for occupancy before it was completed no damages can be claimed for delay. Erskine v. Johnson, 23 Nebr. 261, 36 N. W. 510.

Waiver of delay see supra, V, B, 5, a.

27. Bozarth v. Dudley, 44 N. J. L. 304, 43 Am. Rep. 373.

Whether an owner has shown an acceptance is a question of fact. Gray v. James, 128 Mass. 110; Fuller v. Brown, 67 N. H. 188, 34 Atl. 463; Colby v. Franklin, 15 Wis. 311.

Admissibility of evidence not tending to show acceptance see infra, VII, A, 7.

28. Alabama.— Badders v. Davis, 88 Ala. 367, 6 So. 834.

Arkansas.—Fitzgerald v. La Porte, 64 Ark. 34, 40 S. W. 261; Bertrand v. Byrd, 5 Ark. 651; Manuel v. Campbell, 3 Ark. 324.

Connecticut.— Smith v. Scott's Bridge School Dist., 20 Conn. 312.

Iowa.— Kilbourne v. Jennings, 40 Iowa 473; Corwin v. Wallace, 17 Iowa 374.

Kentucky.— Escott v. White, 10 Bush (Ky.) 169; Morford v. Mastin, 6 T. B. Mon. (Ky.) 609, 17 Am. Dec. 168.

Louisiana.— Gordy v. Veazey, 25 La. Ann. 518.

Maryland.— Hagerstown Presb. Church v. Hoopes Artificial Stone, etc., Co., 66 Md. 598, 8 Atl. 752.

Massachusetts.— Gillis v. Cobe, 177 Mass. 584, 59 N. E. 455; Gray v. James, 128 Mass. 110.

Michigan.— Wildey v. Fractional School Dist. No. 1, 25 Mich. 419.

Missouri.— Haynes v. Second Baptist Church, 88 Mo. 285, 57 Am. Rep. 413.

Montana.— Franklin v. Schultz, 23 Mont. 165, 57 Pac. 1037.

New Jersey.— Bozarth v. Dudley, 44 N. J. L. 304, 43 Am. Rep. 373.

New York.— Walker v. Millard, 29 N. Y. 375; Smith v. Brady, 17 N. Y. 173, 72 Am. Dec. 442; Reed v. Brooklyn, 4 Abb. Dec.

some language from which acceptance or acquiescence may be reasonably (N. Y.) 24, 3 Keyes (N. Y.) 105, 33 How. Pr. (N. Y.) 237; Spence v. Ham, 27 N. Y. App. Div. 379, 50 N. Y. Suppl. 960; Tucker v. Williams, 2 Hilt. (N. Y.) 562; Smith v. Coe, 2 Hilt. (N. Y.) 365; Vanderzee v. Herman, 13 N. Y. Suppl. 164, 35 N. Y. St. 778; Parke v. Franco-American Trading Co., 7 N. Y. St. 498; Crane v. Knubel, 43 How. Pr. (N. Y.) 389.

Ohio.— Bender v. Buehrer, 8 Ohio Cir. Ct. 244.

Pennsylvania.— Bryant v. Stilwell, 24 Pa. St. 314.

Vermont.— Austin v. Wheeler, 16 Vt. 95.

See 11 Cent. Dig. tit. "Contracts," § 1459.

Use and occupation may show that the employer has derived some benefit from the work, thereby rendering him liable to the builder to the extent of that benefit; this, however, is only in a case where deviations from the contract are small and there was an honest intention to substantially perform the contract. A case of a flagrant or radical departure from the contract would be fraudulent and furnish an ample defense to the employer in an action to recover the contract price. Bertrand v. Byrd, 4 Ark. 187.

Acceptance of public bridge not inferred from use by individuals nor from repairs made by public officials. Taft v. Montague, 14 Mass. 282, 7 Am. Dec. 215.

Evidence of acceptance see infra, VII, A, 7.

User is evidence of acceptance.— Hamilton v. Myles, 24 U. C. C. P. 309.

Evidence not admissible to vary terms of acceptance.—Where it appears that the building had been accepted as completed, evidence was not admissible to show that the building had not been substantially completed. Levally v. Harmon, 24 Iowa 592.

Amount of recovery where contract is substantially but not strictly performed see infra, VII, D.

Defenses to action to recover contract price see infra, VII, A, 4.

Any inference of acceptance from occupancy is negatived by the fact that a house is not completed when its owner moves in. Badders v. Davis, 88 Ala. 367, 6 So. 834.

Illustrations of no inferred acceptance.— The fact, that an owner is at or about the house during the progress of building, giving instructions in relation to the building, and not objecting at the time to the manner of construction, is not an acceptance. Mitchell v. Wiscotta Land Co., 3 Iowa 209. Use and occupation under protest and complaint that there is no full performance do not constitute an acceptance. Corwin v. Wallace, 17 Iowa 374. Where an employer points out defects and notifies the builder that, unless remedied, there will be no acceptance, and the builder replies that he wishes for no interference from the employer until the work is done the silence of the owner does not show a waiver. Hill v. Millburn School Dist. No. 2, 17 Me. 316. Use of a building when the builder stops working on it is not an acceptance, where the contract expressly provides that only an order for final payment shall be considered an acceptance. Gillis v. Cobe, 177 Mass. 584, 59 N. E. 455. The use of a building for purposes connected with its construction, such use being contemplated by the contract, does not constitute an acceptance of any part of the work. Haynes v. Second Baptist Church, 88 Mo. 285, 57 Am. Rep. 413.

Mere occupation does not waive strict performance, but must be considered with other circumstances in determining whether there was a waiver. Smith v. Brady, 17 N. Y. 173, 72 Am. Dec. 442.

Possession taken without prejudice to claims against builder.— Where possession of the building is taken by necessity a defect is not waived when an architect or engineer expressly states that possession is taken without prejudice to any claims against the builder and refuses to give a certificate that the work is satisfactory. MacKnight Flintic Stone Co. v. New York, 13 N. Y. App. Div. 231, 43 N. Y. Suppl. 139.

Well-digging contract.— Where an owner uses a well, built under a contract that it should furnish water sufficient for the owner's use, only to test its capacity to furnish sufficient water for the purposes intended, there is no acceptance, and it is erroneous to instruct a jury that if the owner use the well to any extent they should find for the builder. Genni v. Hahn, 82 Wis. 90, 51 N. W. 1096.

When right to withhold payment not waived by possession.— Under a contract providing for payment only on completion of the work an owner does not, by taking possession of the building before completion, waive a right to withhold payment until completion. Bradley Currier Co. v. Bernz, 55 N. J. Eq. 10, 35 Atl. 832.

Effect of occupancy by agreement as waiver. — Where an employer contends that a building is not finished in accordance with the plans, but it is agreed that the employer may occupy the building without waiving claims for non-performance, the right of the employer to insist that the builder cannot recover for extra work without showing that he had made an agreement in writing therefor with the architect as required by the contract is not waived. Long v. Pierce County, 22 Wash. 330, 61 Pac. 142.

Mere use of a building does not waive a latent defect (Morrison v. Cummings, 26 Vt. 486), nor is a latent defect waived because the owner visits his building and points out some defects but is silent when asked if there are others (Eaton v. Gladwell, 108 Mich. 678, 66 N. W. 598).

Taking possession does not waive defects in work. Eberly v. Curtis, 5 Mo. App. 595.

Occupation only waives unintentional omissions unsubstantial in their character, for which a due allowance can be made to the owner. Parke v. Franco-American Trading Co., 7 N. Y. St. 498.

Where defective performance is not the fault of the builder acceptance may be im-inferred,[29] since the owner cannot divest himself of the possession without surrendering a portion of his freehold.[30] So part payment does not, standing by itself, amount to an acceptance or waiver of defects,[31] known to the owner at the time of payment,[32] or defects not known.[33] plied from possession and occupation, notwithstanding a protest by the owner. Gray v. James, 128 Mass. 110.

Notice to complete an election to accept subject to cost of completion.— A notice from the owner to the builder that he will complete the work and deduct the cost from the contract price is an election to accept it subject to the necessary cost of completion. Wilkinson v. Becker, 13 Montg. Co. Rep. (Pa.) 106.

Under statute occupation or use may constitute acceptance.— In California, under Code Civ. Proc. § 1187, occupation or use of a structure by its owner or one representing him constitutes an acceptance of the building as completed, but such occupation or use must be open, entire, and exclusive, and not of such character as would be consistent with the builder's continuance in his work, and whether in any particular case there has been such occupation or use must be determined from the facts in each case. Orlandi v. Gray, 125 Cal. 372, 58 Pac. 15.

29. Bozarth v. Dudley, 44 N. J. L. 304, 43 Am. Rep. 373.

Illustrations of inferred acceptance.—Where the owner of a building in the course of erection takes possession of and occupies a portion of it during the progress of work and afterward takes possession of and occupies the whole building there is an acceptance. Cosby v. Adams, Wils. (Ind.) 342. So where the owner uses the house while being built, inspects it with ordinary care, makes partial payments during progress of the work, takes possession, and expresses satisfaction with the work after its completion. Demoss v. Noble, 6 Iowa 530.

Railroad construction contract.— Where a railroad company leases such portion of a line of railroad as is completed and the lessee operates the railroad, there is an acceptance of such portion for which the company must pay the contract price subject to deduction for defects in the work. Barker v. Troy, etc., R. Co., 27 Vt. 766.

As tending to show an acceptance the fact of taking possession may be considered in connection with all facts and circumstances of the case. Boteler v. Roy, 40 Mo. App. 234.

Possession as waiver of delay in completion. — Delay in completion is not waived by taking possession of and accepting work (Felt v. Smith, 62 Ill. App. 637), but after full completion acceptance waives both delay in completion and the manner of building (Emerson v. Coggswell, 16 Me. 77). See also Nibbe v. Brauhn, 24 Ill. 268, in which case the owner allowed the contractor to proceed after the day fixed for completion, and it was held that by afterward accepting the work he waived performance at the time specified but not other stipulations of the contract.

As to waiver of delay see supra, p. 65, note 15.

30. Manuel v. Campbell, 3 Ark. 324; Morford v. Mastin, 6 T. B. Mon. (Ky.) 609, 17 Am. Dec. 168; Hayward v. Leonard, 7 Pick. (Mass.) 181, 19 Am. Dec. 268; Bozarth v. Dudley, 44 N. J. L. 304, 43 Am. Rep. 373. See also Yeats v. Ballentine, 56 Mo. 530.

The owner is not bound to remove the building or to abstain from using it since, being attached to his land, it becomes his property. Gillis v. Cobe, 177 Mass. 584, 59 N. E. 455.

31. Katz v. Bedford, 77 Cal. 319, 19 Pac. 523, 1 L. R. A. 826; Hattin v. Chase, 88 Me. 237, 33 Atl. 989; Moulton v. McOwen, 103 Mass. 587; Wilkinson v. Becker, 13 Montg. Co. Rep. (Pa.) 106. See also U. S. v. Walsh, 115 Fed. 697.

Part payment is not an acceptance but only an acquiescence in the work to the extent of the payment. Morrison v. Cummings, 26 Vt. 486.

Part payment and a promise to pay the residue is not an acceptance. Feagan v. Meredith, 4 Mo. 514.

Payment may tend to show waiver and acceptance. Hattin v. Chase, 88 Me. 237, 33 Atl. 989.

A certificate of satisfactory performance is not necessarily waived by a payment. Beharrell v. Quimby, 162 Mass. 571, 39 N. E. 407.

Waiver of certificate see infra, VII, A, 3, b.

32. Flannery v. Rohrmayer, 46 Conn. 558, 33 Am. Rep. 36; Hattin v. Chase, 88 Me. 237, 33 Atl. 989; Stewart v. Fulton, 31 Mo. 59; Halleck v. Bresnahen, 3 Wyo. 73, 2 Pac. 537.

But see contra, Hayden v. Madison, 7 Me. 76, in which case the builder was to be paid half of an agreed sum on completion of the work and half some time later, and the employer, without objection, made the first payment knowing that a portion of the work was defective. To the same effect is Meehan v. Williams, 2 Daly (N. Y.) 367.

Part payment may warrant an inference of an intention to waive defects. Flannery v. Rohrmayer, 46 Conn. 558, 33 Am. Rep. 36.

Part payment and promise of balance with knowledge of defects.— An owner who sees during progress of work that all specifications are not being complied with, but pays nearly all the contract price, and after completion promises to pay the balance as soon as he is able waives defects. Diehl v. Schmalacker, 62 N. Y. Suppl. 1080 [affirming 26 Misc. (N. Y.) 835, 57 N. Y. Suppl. 244].

33. Andrews v. Portland, 35 Me. 475; Johnson County v. Lowe, 72 Mo. 637; Stewart v. Fulton, 31 Mo. 59; Cahill v. Heuser, 2 N. Y. App. Div. 292, 37 N. Y. Suppl. 736, 73 N. Y. St. 450; Hartupee v. Pittsburgh, 97 Pa. St. 107.

b. Effect of. Except as to defects that are not apparent,[34] an acceptance by the owner precludes him from refusing to pay a reasonable value for the work performed and materials furnished,[35] or from refusing to pay the contract price;[36] but he is not precluded from showing that the work was done in an unworkmanlike manner and from claiming damages caused by the defects.[37] Nor is he so precluded by the fact that the architect or superintendent has, without authority, accepted the work,[38] or has improperly done so.[39]

7. Excuses For Defective Performance, Non-Performance, and Delay — a. For Defective Performance and Non-Performance — (1) In General. A builder who has improvidently assumed an absolute liability when he might have undertaken a qualified one only[40] is not excused from performing his engagement,

To constitute a waiver there must be both knowledge and acquiescence. Johnson County v. Lowe, 72 Mo. 637.

Payment after approval of architect.— Where an architect might easily have discovered a defect unknown to the builder but approves the work, payment by the owner relieves the builder from liability. Standard Stamping Co. v. Hemminghaus, 157 Mo. 23, 57 S. W. 746.

34. Colorado.— Barker v. Nichols, 3 Colo. App. 25, 31 Pac. 1024.

Georgia.— Monroe Female University v. Broadfield, 30 Ga. 1.

Illinois.— Korf v. Lull, 70 Ill. 420.

Iowa.— Mitchell v. Wiscotta Land Co., 3 Iowa 209.

United States.— U. S. v. Walsh, 115 Fed. 697.

See 11 Cent. Dig. tit. "Contracts," § 1469.

Latent defects not waived by acceptance in ignorance of their existence. Monahan v. Fitzgerald, 164 Ill. 525, 45 N. E. 1013.

35. Cosby v. Adams, Wils. (Ind.) 342.

Right of builder to recover in quantum meruit see infra, VII, A.

36. Illinois.— Vermont St. M. E. Church v. Brose, 104 Ill. 206.

Indiana.— Becker v. Hecker, 9 Ind. 497; Cummings v. Pence, 1 Ind. App. 317, 27 N. E. 631.

Louisiana.—Clark v. Kemper, 3 Rob. (La.) 10.

Maine.— White v. Oliver, 36 Me. 92; Emerson v. Coggswell, 16 Me. 77; Hayden v. Madison, 7 Me. 76.

Missouri.— Dutro v. Walter, 31 Mo. 516.

See 11 Cent. Dig. tit. "Contracts," § 1469.

Well-digging contract.— A person who accepts a well as completed according to contract is estopped from claiming that the contract was not performed. Elwood Natural Gas, etc., Co. v. Baker, 13 Ind. App. 576, 41 N. E. 1063.

37. Kilbourne v. Jennings, 40 Iowa 473; Mitchell v. Wiscotta Land Co., 3 Iowa 209; Stewart v. Fulton, 31 Mo. 59.

Where a house is built upon the property of him who has it built, acceptance and use of the work, knowing it was not done in accordance with the contract, will not constitute a waiver of defects; "the owner is powerless to do anything else, unless he should pull the house down." Mohney v. Reed, 40 Mo. App. 99.

The fact that the owner has expressed his satisfaction with the work and accepted it does not estop him from showing that the employee had failed properly or sufficiently to perform the work. Meyer v. Martin, (Tex. Civ. App. 1899) 50 S. W. 470.

Acceptance upon completion without objection waives slight variations. Mitchell v. Curell, 11 La. 252.

38. Eberly v. Curtis, 5 Mo. App. 595.

As to power of architect to accept work see supra, III, A, 1.

39. Schmidt v. North Yakima, 12 Wash. 121, 40 Pac. 790.

Acceptance by architect not binding on owner.— Acceptance by the architect of a different class of work or of different materials than that called for by the plans and specifications will not bind the owner, even if the contract provides that the work should be subject "to the acceptance or rejection of the architect," such a provision being merely inserted in the contract as an additional safeguard for the benefit of the owner. Lewis v. Yagel, 77 Hun (N. Y.) 337, 28 N. Y. Suppl. 833, 60 N. Y. St. 23.

40. School Dist. No. 1 v. Dauchy, 25 Conn. 530, 68 Am. Dec. 371; Serber v. McLaughlin, 97 Ill. App. 104; Stees v. Leonard, 20 Minn. 494; Ward v. Hudson River Bldg. Co., 1 Silv. Supreme (N. Y.) 341, 5 N. Y. Suppl. 319, 24 N. Y. St. 347.

Where the sole limitation on the absolute character of a building contract was that if completion was delayed by damage caused by fire, lightning, earthquake, cyclone, etc., the time fixed for completion should be extended, it was held that where an unprecedented storm destroyed the building before completion the loss would fall on the builders, notwithstanding the payments were to be made as the work progressed. Bartlett v. Bisbey, (Tex. Civ. App. 1901) 66 S. W. 70.

Conflicts arising from the co-employment of union and non-union labor are matters of such general knowledge that a builder must know of them; accordingly, where he contracts to work without guarding against such conflicts, he assumes the risk of the happening of any contingency that may occur through his men refusing to work. Serber v. McLaughlin, 97 Ill. App. 104.

Strikes as excuses for delay in performance of building contracts see infra, p. 73, notes 61, 62.

unless prevented by the act of God, the law, or his employer;[41] no hardship, no unforeseen hindrance, no difficulty short of absolute impossibility will excuse him from doing what he has expressly agreed to do.[42] Thus, he is not excused from performance because of a latent defect in the soil;[43] or because the building before completion is destroyed by accidental fire,[44] lightning,[45] windstorm,[46] or flood,[47] unless performance has been unreasonably delayed by the employer.[48]

(II) INSOLVENCY OF BUILDER. Personal insolvency of the builder is held not to relieve him from an obligation to perform his contract.[49]

(III) ACTS OF EMPLOYER. Non-performance or defective performance is generally excused where it is owing to the acts of the employer.[50]

b. For Delay. A delay in performance is excused, where it is caused by 41. Illinois.— Schwartz v. Daegling, 55 Ill. 342.

Kentucky.— Shanks v. Griffin, 14 B. Mon. (Ky.) 124.

Massachusetts.— Butterfield v. Byron, 153 Mass. 517, 27 N. E. 667, 25 Am. St. Rep. 654, 12 L. R. A. 571.

Minnesota.— Stees v. Leonard, 20 Minn. 494.

Missouri.—Haynes v. Second Baptist Church, 88 Mo. 285, 57 Am. Rep. 413.

New York.— Tompkins v. Dudley, 25 N. Y. 272, 82 Am. Dec. 349.

Ohio.— Bailey v. Brown, 9 Ohio Cir. Ct. 455, 6 Ohio Cir. Dec. 440.

Texas.— Weis v. Devlin, 67 Tex. 507, 3 S. W. 726, 60 Am. Rep. 38.

United States.— Ingle v. Jones, 2 Wall. (U. S.) 1, 17 L. ed. 762.

See 11 Cent. Dig. tit. "Contracts," § 1409 et seq.

Where performance becomes impossible.— A builder who has agreed to repair or build in a structure destroyed when nearly completed is excused from performance, because performance becomes impossible, and with the principal perishes the incident. Siegel v. Eaton, etc., Co., 165 Ill. 550, 46 N. E. 449 [reversing 60 Ill. App. 639]; Schwartz v. Saunders, 46 Ill. 18; Chicago Edison Co. v. Huyett, etc., Mfg. Co., 66 Ill. App. 222; Butterfield v. Byron, 153 Mass. 517, 27 N. E. 667, 25 Am. St. Rep. 654, 12 L. R. A. 571; Lord v. Wheeler, 1 Gray (Mass.) 282; Bailey v. Brown, 9 Ohio Cir. Ct. 455, 6 Ohio Cir. Dec. 440, 3 Ohio Dec. 120. See also Garretty v. Brazell, 34 Iowa 100.

A builder is not entitled to relief from a provision for liquidated damages because prevented from carrying out his contract by an act of God. Ward v. Hudson River Bldg. Co., 1 Silv. Supreme (N. Y.) 341, 5 N. Y. Suppl. 319, 24 N. Y. St. 347.

42. Lord v. Wheeler, 1 Gray (Mass.) 282; Stees v. Leonard, 20 Minn. 494; Satterlee v. U. S., 30 Ct. Cl. 31.

43. Stees v. Leonard, 20 Minn. 494; Trenton v. Bennett, 27 N. J. L. 513, 72 Am. Dec. 373; Ingle v. Jones, 2 Wall. (U. S.) 1, 17 L. ed. 762.

44. Cutcliff v. McAnnally, 88 Ala. 507, 7 So. 331; Brumby v. Smith, 3 Ala. 123; Lord v. Wheeler, 1 Gray (Mass.) 282; Adams v. Nichols, 19 Pick. (Mass.) 275, 31 Am. Dec. 137; Eaton v. Joint School Dist. No. 3, 33 Wis. 374.

The rule has its foundation in the fact that unless prevented by the act of God, the law, or his employer it always remains possible for a builder to perform his contract, even if the building be partially or wholly destroyed while in an unfinished state and, even though the structure may have been so attached to the land as to become a part of it and therefore the property of the owner of the land, the maxim res perit domino does not apply and the loss is that of the builder and not the owner. Weis v. Devlin, 67 Tex. 507, 3 S. W. 726, 60 Am. Rep. 38.

45. School Dist. No. 1 v. Dauchy, 25 Conn. 530, 68 Am. Dec. 371.

46. Meyer v. Haven, 37 N. Y. App. Div. 194, 55 N. Y. Suppl. 864; Bath Tp. v. Townsend, 63 Ohio St. 514, 59 N. E. 223, 52 L. R. A. 868; Bailey v. Brown, 9 Ohio Cir. Ct. 455, 6 Ohio Cir. Dec. 440; Bartlett v. Bisbey, (Tex. Civ. App. 1901) 66 S. W. 70. See also Dale v. U. S., 14 Ct. Cl. 514. Contra, Board of Education v. Townsend, 15 Ohio Cir. Ct. 674.

A builder agreeing to build under direction of an architect who neglects to brace walls, afterward blown down, more securely, in accordance with the instructions of the architect, is liable for the loss if the direction was feasible and would, if complied with, have saved the building. Schwartz v. Daegling, 55 Ill. 342.

47. Doster v. Brown, 25 Ga. 24, 71 Am. Dec. 153; Shanks v. Griffin, 14 B. Mon. (Ky.) 124; Brecknock, etc., Canal Nav. Co. v. Pritchard, 6 T. R. 750, 3 Rev. Rep. 335.

48. Partridge v. Forsyth, 29 Ala. 200.

49. McConnell v. Hewes, 50 W. Va. 33, 40 S. E. 436.

50. Carroll County v. O'Conner, 137 Ind. 622, 35 N. E. 1006, 37 N. E. 16; Manville v. McCoy, 3 Ind. 148; Bean v. Miller, 69 Mo. 384; McLane v. De Leyer, 56 N. Y. 619; Gibbs v. Girardville School Dist., 195 Pa. St. 396, 46 Atl. 91; Robinson v. Baird, 165 Pa. St. 505, 35 Wkly. Notes Cas. (Pa.) 561, 30 Atl. 1010; Rohrman v. Steese, 9 Phila. (Pa.) 185, 31 Leg. Int. (Pa.) 98.

The fact that work was performed under the orders and directions of his employer has been held not to relieve the builder from liability. Roberge v. Talbot, 4 Quebec 451.

default of the employer to perform the contract on his part,[51] as where the employer has failed to do, or to have done, work that is necessary to be done before the builder can proceed with his own work,[52] or has failed to furnish necessary material agreed to be furnished by him,[53] or has ordered the work to be stopped;[54] so delay is excused by mistakes in the drawings and specifications,[55] or by the acts of the architect,[56] or by alterations in the plans made at the sug-

Right of builder to abandon contract see supra, II, E, 1.

51. California.— White v. Fresno Nat. Bank, 98 Cal. 166, 32 Pac. 979.

Missouri.— Eldridge v. Fuhr, 59 Mo. App. 44.

New York.— Stewart v. Keteltas, 36 N. Y. 388, 2 Transcr. App. (N. Y.) 288; Willis v. Webster, 1 N. Y. App. Div. 301, 37 N. Y. Suppl. 354, 72 N. Y. St. 743; Lauer v. Brown, 30 Barb. (N. Y.) 416; Deeves v. New York, 60 N. Y. Super. Ct. 339, 17 N. Y. Suppl. 460, 44 N. Y. St. 218; Beinhauer v. Gleason, 15 N. Y. St. 227.

Texas.— Wright v. Meyer, (Tex. Civ. App. 1894) 25 S. W. 1122.

United States.— Hart v. Rose, Hempst. (U. S.) 238, 11 Fed. Cas. No. 6,154*a*.

See 11 Cent. Dig. tit. "Contracts," § 1376.

Failure of employer to obtain permit or fix time for commencement.— Where the builder contracted to erect a building and to commence work on such day as should be fixed, and complete within three months thereafter, and the day was not fixed, and the builder was delayed for a long time by the neglect of a board of health to give a necessary permit and also by inclement weather, it was held that as the employer did not have the time fixed or the permit procured the builder could not be held to a strict performance. Deeves v. New York, 60 N. Y. Super. Ct. 339, 17 N. Y. Suppl. 460, 44 N. Y. St. 218.

52. Illinois.— Taylor v. Renn, 79 Ill. 181; Graveson v. Tobey, 75 Ill. 540.

Louisiana.— Haughery v. Thiberge, 24 La. Ann. 442.

New York.— Dannat v. Fuller, 120 N. Y. 554, 24 N. E. 815, 31 N. Y. St. 825; Weeks v. Little, 89 N. Y. 566, 11 Abb. N. Cas. (N. Y.) 415 [reversing 47 N. Y. Super. Ct. 1]; Granniss, etc., Lumber Co. v. Deeves, 72 Hun (N. Y.) 171, 25 N. Y. Suppl. 375, 55 N. Y. St. 674; Highton v. Dessau, 19 N. Y. Suppl. 395, 46 N. Y. St. 922.

Pennsylvania.— Pittsburg, etc., Iron Co. v. National Tube Works Co., 184 Pa. St. 251, 39 Atl. 76; Huckestein v. Kelly, etc., Co., 139 Pa. St. 201, 27 Wkly. Notes Cas. (Pa.) 387, 21 Atl. 78.

United States.— Standard Gaslight Co. v. Wood, 61 Fed. 74, 9 C. C. A. 362, 26 U. S. App. 15; King Iron Bridge, etc., Co. v. St. Louis, 43 Fed. 768, 10 L. R. A. 826.

See 11 Cent. Dig. tit. "Contracts," § 1376.

Failure to prepare piers to receive bridge to be built an excuse for delay. King Iron Bridge, etc., Co. v. St. Louis, 43 Fed. 768, 10 L. R. A. 826.

Failure to build sewer excused by failure of city to open street.— French v. Syracuse, 18 Misc. (N. Y.) 278, 41 N. Y. Suppl. 1036.

Implied duty of employer to have building ready for builder's use.— A person employing another person to do certain work impliedly agrees to keep such work far enough in advance to enable such person to perform his work within the time agreed upon, and the builder is not liable where the owner does not so do. Taylor v. Renn, 79 Ill. 181. See also Granniss, etc., Lumber Co. v. Deeves, 72 Hun (N. Y.) 171, 25 N. Y. Suppl. 375, 55 N. Y. St. 674.

Implied contract of employer to give builder possession see supra, II, C, 1, d.

Right of builder to possession see supra, V, A, 5.

53. Bulkley v. Brainard, 2 Root (Conn.) 5; Vermont St. M. E. Church v. Brose, 104 Ill. 206; Abbott v. Gatch, 13 Md. 314, 71 Am. Dec. 635; Mason v. Rempe, (Tex. Civ. App. 1897) 41 S. W. 694.

Where failure to furnish not an excuse.— Failure to furnish material is not an excuse where the builder does not call for it until the day on which the contract is to be fully performed (Goldnick v. Toelberg, 55 N. Y. Suppl. 954), or fails to do work that can be finished without the material (Mason v. Rempe, (Tex. Civ. App. 1897) 41 S. W. 694).

54. Marsh v. Kauff, 74 Ill. 189; Farnham v. Ross, 2 Hall (N. Y.) 167.

An owner preventing completion cannot claim liquidated damages agreed on in case of failure to finish within a specified time. Farnham v. Ross, 2 Hall (N. Y.) 167.

As to liquidated damages see supra, II, B, 4, c, (x).

55. Sperry v. Fanning, 80 Ill. 371.

Liability of architect for mistakes in plans see supra, III, B, 3.

Builder not responsible for mistakes in plans see supra, V, B, 4, b.

56. Willis v. Webster, 1 N. Y. App. Div. 301, 37 N. Y. Suppl. 354, 72 N. Y. St. 743; White v. Braddock School Dist., 159 Pa. St. 201, 28 Atl. 136; Wright v. Meyer, (Tex. Civ. App. 1894) 25 S. W. 1122.

Delays caused by the wrongful withholding of a monthly estimate for payments are excusable.— Wright v. Meyer, (Tex. Civ. App. 1894) 25 S. W. 1122.

Architect's refusal in bad faith of additional time excuses delay.— Under a contract, providing that the builder should pay for delay, but that, where delay was occasioned by certain causes, additional time should be allowed on an application in writing presented to the architects, the builder is not liable where the architect mala fide re-gestion of the owner,[57] or by the performance of additional work not contemplated when the original contract was made.[58] Delay in performance, however, is not excused because the builder's work is retarded by the happening of a contingency possible at the time the contract was made,[59] such as the difficulty of performance,[60] or the occurrence of a strike,[61] unless there is a provision exempting the builder from the consequences thereof;[62] nor is the delay excused where it resulted from the condemnation of materials furnished by the builder,[63] or from the faultiness of his workmanship,[64] or from the act or omission of a contractor fuses additional time. McDonald v. Patterson, 186 Ill. 381, 57 N. E. 1027 [affirming 84 Ill. App. 326].

Where there is a general custom to apply to the architect for the specifications, delay is not excused on the ground that specifications were not furnished in time by the architect, when the architect does not delay to furnish them when applied for. Murdock v. Jones, 3 N. Y. App. Div. 221, 38 N. Y. Suppl. 461, 73 N. Y. St. 617.

57. McGinley v. Hardy, 18 Cal. 115; Palmer v. Stockwell, 9 Gray (Mass.) 237; Farnham v. Ross, 2 Hall (N. Y.) 167; Anderson v. Meislahn, 12 Daly (N. Y.) 149; Focht v. Rosenbaum, 176 Pa. St. 14, 34 Atl. 1001; White v. Braddock School Dist., 159 Pa. St. 201, 28 Atl. 136.

The fact that the contract requires a written order for any change affecting the time of completion does not render the builder responsible for delay caused by a change in the plans made at the owner's oral request. Focht v. Rosenbaum, 176 Pa. St. 14, 34 Atl. 1001.

Provision that builder should make changes does not make builder liable for delays occasioned by change.— A provision that any change in plans, "either in quantity or quality of the work," should be executed by the contractor, "without holding this contract as violated or void in any other respect," does not render a provision for forfeit for each day that building remains unfinished after a day fixed applicable to delay necessitated by changes ordered by the owners. Lilly v. Person, 168 Pa. St. 219, 32 Atl. 23.

58. Smith v. Gugerty, 4 Barb. (N. Y.) 614; Wilkens v. Wilkerson, (Tex. Civ. App. 1897) 41 S. W. 178; Thornhill v. Neats, 8 C. B. N. S. 831, 2 L. T. Rep. 539.

The mere ordering of extra work does not relieve from consequences of delay.— Harrison v. Trickett, 57 Ill. App. 515.

59. Ingle v. Jones, 2 Wall. (U. S.) 1, 17 L. ed. 762; Texas, etc., R. Co. v. Rust, 19 Fed. 239. Where the builder contracts absolutely to complete on or before a certain date, unforeseen contingencies, no matter of what nature, are not available as an excuse. Ward v. Hudson River Bldg. Co., 125 N. Y. 230, 26 N. E. 256, 34 N. Y. St. 934 [affirming 1 Silv. Supreme (N. Y.) 341, 5 N. Y. Suppl. 319, 24 N. Y. St. 347].

An instruction that a builder hindered by unusual, heavy, and constant rains has a sufficient excuse provided he commenced his work at such time as would enable him to perform within a time limit, under ordinary conditions, is erroneous. Cannon v. Hunt, 113 Ga. 501, 38 S. E. 983.

60. Cannon v. Hunt, 113 Ga. 501, 38 S. E. 983; Reichenbach v. Sage, 13 Wash. 364, 43 Pac. 354, 52 Am. St. Rep. 51; Texas, etc., R. Co. v. Rust, 19 Fed. 239.

Impossibility of procuring certain material as excuse.— Where a person contracts to build a building of a certain kind of stone, and to complete the same within a specified time, the impossibility of procuring the stone, to be an excuse for delay, must have existed when the contract was made. Wright v. Meyer, (Tex. Civ. App. 1894) 25 S. W. 1122.

Severity of the weather insufficient as excuse, if the work could have been carried on by exercise of extra means or effort. Reichenbach v. Sage, 13 Wash. 364, 43 Pac. 354, 52 Am. St. Rep. 51.

61. Hexter v. Knox, 39 N. Y. Super. Ct. 109.

62. McDonald v. Patterson, 186 Ill. 381, 57 N. E. 1027 [affirming 84 Ill. App. 326]; Texas, etc., R. Co. v. Rust, 19 Fed. 239.

How far builder protected by provision against strikes and boycotts.— A provision for completion by a specified time, "contingent upon strikes and boycotts," protects the contractor against liability for unavoidable delay so far as it is due to strikes, and the strikes referred to are not limited to such as occur in the shops of the contractor. Milliken v. Keppler, 4 N. Y. App. Div. 42, 38 N. Y. Suppl. 738, 74 N. Y. St. 257.

Strike caused by builder not within provision for exemption.— Where contract provides for completion by a special date, "providing there be no interference from labor strikes," the fact that mechanics quit work upon a building on account of the builder's failure to pay as agreed does not release the builder. McLeod v. Genius, 31 Nebr. 1, 47 N. W. 473.

Provision exempting builder satisfied where work is impracticable.— A provision that the builder shall not be liable for delay caused by the unusual action of the elements, or otherwise, does not require great and unexpected disturbances of the weather, but is satisfied where events rendering the work impracticable are the cause of delay. McDonald v. Patterson, 84 Ill. App. 326 [affirmed in 186 Ill. 381, 57 N. E. 1027].

63. Mahoney v. St. Paul's Church, 47 La. Ann. 1064, 17 So. 484; White v. Braddock School Dist., 159 Pa. St. 201, 28 Atl. 136.

64. Mahoney v. St. Paul's Church, 47 La. Ann. 1064, 17 So. 484.

employed by him,[65] or from changes in the plan, not of such a nature as to render further time necessary, where it is not agreed that the time for completion should be extended,[66] unless strict performance within such time is waived.[67]

8. COMPLETION OF WORK BY OWNER. An owner who has paid for all the work that has been done on the contract may immediately, upon a default of the builder to complete, take possession of the unfinished building, and if he pleases employ another person to do what the builder had been engaged to do and had refused to do. This right is not affected because the contract provides that the owner may complete the building,[68] but where the owner fails to avail himself of a provision to that effect, work done thereafter is done under the contract.[69] Where the contract provides that, in the event of the builder's refusal or neglect to supply sufficient materials and workmen, the owner may provide what is necessary after notifying the builder in writing to complete his work, the builder not only has a right to the notice but must be given an opportunity to proceed in conformity therewith.[70] When the contract provides that if the contractor fail to complete the building as agreed the owner may do so, and deduct the expense from the contract price, the contractor cannot abandon the work and compel the owner to complete it, and account to him for the balance of the contract price;[71] and, even if the contract also provides that if any balance

65. Reichenbach v. Sage, 13 Wash. 364, 43 Pac. 354, 52 Am. St. Rep. 51. The builder may recover from the subcontractor the amount he is required to pay the owner of the building for the delay, notwithstanding that the subcontractor was unaware of the time within which the builder was required to complete the building. Murdock v. Jones, 3 N. Y. App. Div. 221, 38 N. Y. Suppl. 461, 73 N. Y. St. 617. Whether the failure of a subcontractor or materialman justifies a delay in performance is a question of fact for a jury. McLaren v. Fischer, 45 N. Y. App. Div. 13, 61 N. Y. Suppl. 808.

66. Harrison v. Trickett, 57 Ill. App. 515; Weeks v. Little, 47 N. Y. Super. Ct. 1; Goldnick v. Toelberg, 55 N. Y. Suppl. 954; Tew v. Newbold-on-Avon United Dist. School Board, Cab. & El. 260.

Reservation of right to have additional work done.— Where the builder agreed to have certain work finished by a named date and the owner reserved a right to have additional work done on payment therefor, it was held that if within the specified time the owner elected to have such additional work done, the builder was bound to finish by the named date. Lauer v. Brown, 30 Barb. (N. Y.) 416.

The fact that an architect has power to extend the time for completion in proportion to extra work ordered, but does not do it, does not release the builder from his liability to perform within the specified time. Tew v. Newbold-on-Avon United Dist. School Board, Cab. & El. 260.

67. Weeks v. Little, 47 N. Y. Super. Ct. 1.

Waiver of time specified see supra, V, B, 5.

68. Hammond v. Miller, 2 Mackey (D. C.) 145.

69. Hinkley v. Grafton Hall, 101 Wis. 69, 76 N. W. 1093.

70. Hall v. Bennett, 48 N. Y. Super. Ct. 302.

Necessity of notice.— Although a building contract requires the contractor to remedy any defect in his work after the building has been accepted, the owner may not proceed and remedy defects himself at the contractor's expense, and in his absence, without giving him any notice. Mansfield v. Beard, 82 N. Y. 60.

Sufficiency of notice.— Notice that certain parts are worthless and dangerous, not fit for use, liable to cause damage, their construction in direct violation of the contract, without other specification of the nature of the alleged defects, is insufficient to require the contractor to replace such parts or to defeat his right to recover therefor. Gubbins v. Lautenschlager, 74 Fed. 160.

Effect of notice.— The giving of notice and an attempt to complete the unfinished work at the contractor's expense waives a certificate of the architect as a condition of payment (Holl v. Long, 34 Misc. (N. Y.) 1, 68 N. Y. Suppl. 522. And see Gillen v. Hubbard, 2 Hilt. (N. Y.) 303), and a right to liquidated damages stipulated for in case of delay; thus where the contract provided that should the builder during progress of the work refuse or neglect to supply sufficient materials or workmen, the owner might provide materials and workmen after specified notice given in writing to finish the work, and that the amount paid therefor should be deducted from the amount named in the contract, it was held that the owner, by electing to go on under such clause of the contract, waived his right to insist upon forfeiture for the failure of the contractor (Murphy v. Buckman, 66 N. Y. 297). See also Crawford v. Becker, 13 Hun (N. Y.) 375.

71. Bernz v. Marcus Sayre Co., 52 N. J. Eq. 275. 30 Atl. 21.

Liability of builder for architect's services. — The builder is liable to an owner who completes a building after its abandonment by the builder for the services of an architect employed by him in building it, even though on the contract price remains after completion it shall belong to the builder, or those representing him, the builder has no right thereto if the expense exceed the contract price.[72] Where the contract provides that the employer, in case of the builder's default, may proceed to finish the building himself, and for that purpose make use of materials brought on the ground by the builder, such materials, when appropriated for that purpose by the employer, are so far delivered into his possession as to make them a security for advances made by him to the builder on the contract and to vest in him a qualified right of property in the same.[73]

C. Compensation of Builder — 1. In General. Where there is a special contract to build for a specific price and there has been full performance the compensation of the builder is regulated by the agreement;[74] where, however, there is no special agreement his compensation is the reasonable value of the services rendered by him,[75] as it is where the building plan is abandoned to such an extent that it is impossible to trace the contract in the work done,[76] or where there has been partial performance only and the owner has accepted the work and been benefited by it;[77] where, however, the work is not accepted and the owner derives no benefit from it the builder has no right to any compensation;[78] so where he voluntarily and without justification abandons his work before it is finished.[79]

the builder was an architect and agreed to give his services free of charge. Watson v. De Witt County, 19 Tex. Civ. App. 150, 46 S. W. 1061.

72. Hewlett v. Alexander, 87 Ala. 193, 6 So. 49.

73. Duplan Silk Co. v. Spencer, 115 Fed. 689 [reversing 112 Fed. 638].

74. McDaniel v. Webster, 2 Houst. (Del.) 305. See also Edwards v. Louisa County, 89 Iowa 499, 56 N. W. 656; Hawkins v. Burrell, 69 N. Y. App. Div. 462, 74 N. Y. Suppl. 1003; Hollinsead v. Mactier, 13 Wend. (N. Y.) 276.

75. Baum v. Covert, 62 Miss. 113.

As to compensation for services rendered see, generally, Work and Labor.

76. Hollinsead v. Mactier, 13 Wend. (N. Y.) 276.

77. Alabama.— Bell v. Teague, 85 Ala. 211, 3 So. 861; Kirkland v. Oates, 25 Ala. 465.

Arkansas.— Manuel v. Campbell, 3 Ark. 324; Simpson v. McDonald, 2 Ark. 370.

California.— San Francisco Bridge Co. v. Dunbarton Land, etc., Co., 119 Cal. 272, 51 Pac. 335.

Colorado.— Schaefer v. Gildea, 3 Colo. 15.

District of Columbia.— Hammond v. Miller, 2 Mackey (D. C.) 145.

Indiana.— Becker v. Hecker, 9 Ind. 497; McClure v. Secrist, 5 Ind. 31; Cosby v. Adams, Wils. (Ind.) 342.

Iowa.— Shulte v. Hennessy, 40 Iowa 352.

Kansas.— School Dist. No. 2 v. Boyer, 46 Kan. 54, 26 Pac. 484.

Louisiana.— Joublanc v. Daunoy, 6 La. 656.

Missouri.— Rude v. Mitchell, 97 Mo. 365, 11 S. W. 225; Austin v. Keating, 21 Mo. App. 30.

New Hampshire.— Bailey v. Woods, 17 N. H. 365.

North Carolina.— Moffitt v. Glass, 117 N. C. 142, 23 S. E. 104; Dixon v. Gravely, 117 N. C. 84, 23 S. E. 39; Simpson v. Carolina Cent. R. Co., 112 N. C. 703, 16 S. E. 853.

Texas.— Harris County v. Campbell, 68 Tex. 32, 3 S. W. 243, 2 Am. St. Rep. 467; Jennings v. Willer, (Tex. Civ. App. 1895) 32 S. W. 24.

Utah.— Rhodes v. Clute, 17 Utah 137, 53 Pac. 990.

Wisconsin.— Taylor v. Williams, 6 Wis. 363.

Wyoming.— Hood v. Smiley, 5 Wyo. 70, 36 Pac. 856.

Extent of recovery see infra, VII, D.

Essentiality of acceptance by, and benefit to, owner see supra, V, B, 6.

78. Kentucky.—Morford v. Mastin, 6 T. B. Mon. (Ky.) 609, 17 Am. Dec. 168.

Maine.— Hill v. Millburn School Dist. No. 2, 17 Me. 316.

Massachusetts.— Taft v. Montague, 14 Mass. 282, 7 Am. Dec. 215.

Michigan.— Eaton v. Gladwell, 121 Mich. 444, 80 N. W. 292; Martus v. Houck, 39 Mich. 431, 33 Am. Rep. 409.

Minnesota.— Cornish, etc., Co. v. Antrim Co-operative Dairy Assoc., 82 Minn. 215, 84 N. W. 724.

New York.— Smith v. Brady, 17 N. Y. 173, 72 Am. Dec. 442; D'Amato v. Gentile, 54 N. Y. App. Div. 625, 66 N. Y. Suppl. 833; Zimmermann v. Jourgensen, 70 Hun (N. Y.) 222, 24 N. Y. Suppl. 170, 54 N. Y. St. 13; Pullman v. Corning, 14 Barb. (N. Y.) 174; Tucker v. Williams, 2 Hilt. (N. Y.) 562; Smith v. Coe, 2 Hilt. (N. Y.) 365.

North Carolina.— Byerly v. Kepley, 46 N. C. 35.

Pennsylvania.— Miller v. Phillips, 31 Pa. St. 218.

South Dakota.— Hulst v. Benevolent Hall Assoc., 9 S. D. 144, 68 N. W. 200.

Wisconsin.— Houlahan v. Clark, 110 Wis. 43, 85 N. W. 676.

79. California.— Marchant v. Hayes, 117 Cal. 669, 49 Pac. 840.

2. Time of Payment. In the absence from the contract of any provision on the point the time of making payment is presumed to be on completion of the work only,[80] but the time for making payments may be established and made binding on the parties by mutual conditions.[81]

3. For Additional, Changed, or Extra Work — a. In General. It is well settled that a builder ordered to do extra work, whether caused by changes from the original plans, or by work that is in some way connected with the original contract though substantially independent of it, is entitled to compensation therefor,[82] if the circumstances are such that the proprietor must know the work will cause extra labor and expense to the builder not contemplated by either party in the original contract,[83] unless the original contract expressly provides other-

Connecticut.— Smith v. Scott's Ridge School Dist., 20 Conn. 312.

Indiana.— Forkner v. Purl, 1 Ind. 489.

Massachusetts.— Faxon v. Mansfield, 2 Mass. 147.

Rhode Island.— Carpenter v. Gay, 12 R. I. 306.

Vermont.— Kettle v. Harvey, 21 Vt. 301.

United States.— Ingle v. Jones, 2 Wall. (U. S.) 1, 17 L. ed. 762; Henegan v. U. S., 17 Ct. Cl. 273.

80. Shanks v. Griffin, 14 B. Mon. (Ky.) 124; Smith v. Sheltering Arms, 89 Hun (N. Y.) 70, 35 N. Y. Suppl. 62, 69 N. Y. St. 273; Boody v. Rutland, etc., Co., 3 Blatchf. (U. S.) 25, 3 Fed. Cas. No. 1,635, 34 Vt. 660.

Statutory time of payment.— Twenty-five per cent of the contract price for the protection of lienors must, under Cal. Code Civ. Proc. § 1184, be payable at least thirty-five days after final completion of the contract. West Coast Lumber Co. v. Knapp, 122 Cal. 79, 54 Pac. 533. See also Dunlop v. Kennedy, (Cal. 1893) 34 Pac. 92. As to validity of payment prior to the statutory time as against lienors see, generally, Mechanics' Liens.

81. Howard v. Pensacola, etc., R. Co., 24 Fla. 560, 5 So. 356.

82. Dull v. Bramhall, 49 Ill. 364; Childress v. Smith, (Tex. Civ. App. 1896) 37 S. W. 1076; Fitzgerald v. Walsh, 107 Wis. 92, 82 N. W. 717, 81 Am. St. Rep. 824.

What amounts to extra work.— Extra excavations for foundations, caused by peculiarities in the soil, unknown to either builder or owner at the time the contract was signed, constitute extra work. Anderson v. Meislahn, 12 Daly (N. Y.) 149. Under a contract providing that, if the owner at any time requests any alterations, deviations, additions, or omissions from the contract, he shall be at liberty to make them, and the same shall in no way affect or avoid the contract, but will be added to, or deducted from, the amount of the contract by a fair and reasonable valuation, work done and material furnished upon and for the building agreed to be built by the contract will not be regarded as extra work, although not called for by the contract or the specifications. Alger v. Vanderpoel, 34 N. Y. Super. Ct. 161.

Necessity and requisites of contract.— There must be either an express or implied contract of the employer for extra work in order to entitle the builder to compensation (Niemeyer v. Woods, 72 N. Y. App. Div. 630, 76 N. Y. Suppl. 563. And see Miller v. McCaffrey, 9 Pa. St. 245); but an express agreement is not necessary when the work is ordered by the owner (Childress v. Smith, (Tex. Civ. App. 1896) 37 S. W. 1076); thus, an employer must pay for extra work even if he did not order it, when he was daily at the building and must have seen it, and did not forbid it (Percy v. Peyroux, 5 Rob. (La.) 179), and, if there be no promise to pay, there is a presumption that alterations were agreed to be made and were made without extra charge (Badders v. Davis, 88 Ala. 367, 6 So. 834). A promise of extra pay must, however, be based upon a sufficient consideration. Nelson v. Pickwick Associated Co., 30 Ill. App. 333.

Where a building contract provides for extra compensation failure to make claim at the time the work was ordered is immaterial. Essex v. Murray, (Tex. Civ. App. 1902) 68 S. W. 736.

A builder is entitled to compensation even if the contract was rescinded by the owner because not performed in accordance therewith and the owner has afterward completed the work, provided that the cost of completion be less than the contract price and the value of the extra work, but if the cost of completion be greater than the sum of the contract price and the value of the extra work the builder is not entitled to compensation but is indebted to his employer. Rector v. McDermott, (Ark. 1890) 13 S. W. 334.

83. Fitzgerald v. Walsh, 107 Wis. 92, 84 N. W. 717, 81 Am. St. Rep. 824; Gibbons v. U. S., 15 Ct. Cl. 174.

Duty of builder to notify owner where extra cost will not necessarily result.— A builder should, where the owner orders a change under circumstances warranting an inference of his belief that no extra cost will result therefrom, notify the owner that the change cannot be made without extra cost. Where, however, the change will necessarily cause increased expense no notice to the owner is requisite. Gibbons v. U. S., 15 Ct. Cl. 174.

Inference of no claim for extra compensation.— Where a builder does not exact a promise of payment and does not notify his employer that a change will entail extra expense the latter may well infer that no extra wise.[84] It must, however, clearly appear that the work for which extra compensation is demanded was not embraced in the original contract of employment or in the duties thereby imposed.[85] Where the contract contains conditions in reference to compensation for extras the builder must comply with them or he has no right to compensation,[86] unless the provision be waived by the owner.[87] Thus, where the specifications provide that no extra work shall be allowed except on a written order from the architect, such order must be obtained,[88] a verbal order not being charge will be made. Badders v. Davis, 88 Ala. 367, 6 So. 834.

It is a question of fact whether a change involving extra expense was ordered. Essex v. Murray, (Tex. Civ. App. 1902) 68 S. W. 736.

84. Fitzgerald v. Walsh, 107 Wis. 92, 82 N. W. 717, 81 Am. St. Rep. 824.

85. Illinois.— Dull v. Bramhall, 49 Ill. 364.

Missouri.— Ruecking v. McMahon, 81 Mo. App. 422.

New York.— Brewster v. Hornellsville, 35 N. Y. App. Div. 161, 54 N. Y. Suppl. 904.

Tennessee.— Perkins Oil Co. v. Eberhart, 107 Tenn. 409, 64 S. W. 760.

Wisconsin.—Riesen v. Milwaukee, 112 Wis. 651, 88 N. W. 594.

A builder is not entitled to an allowance for extra work when, at the solicitation of the owner, he gave more time and attention to effect an earlier completion than he would have done without such solicitation, though the building contract required him to "superintend the building and see that the contractors for each and every portion therein shall complete their work in a workmanlike and satisfactory manner, with due diligence," and it does not appear that the work was done any better than the contract required. Kinsley v. Charnley, 33 Ill. App. 553.

Where material is substituted at builder's desire.— A builder who, being unable to obtain the material specified, is given permission by the architect to substitute other material, at his option, is not entitled to compensation for that material as an extra. Bond v. Stewart, 58 N. Y. App. Div. 615, 68 N. Y. Suppl. 586.

86. Abbott v. Gatch, 13 Md. 314, 71 Am. Dec. 635; Eldridge v. Fuhr, 59 Mo. App. 44; Gilbert Blasting, etc., Co. v. Rex, 7 Can. Exch. 221.

87. O'Keefe v. St. Francis' Church, 59 Conn. 551, 22 Atl. 325; Illinois Deaf, etc., Inst. v. Platt, 5 Ill. App. 567.

88. California.— Gray v. La Societe Francaise, etc., 131 Cal. 566, 63 Pac. 848; White v. San Rafael, etc., R. Co., 50 Cal. 417.

Connecticut.— O'Keefe v. St. Francis' Church, 59 Conn. 551, 22 Atl. 325.

Georgia.— Heard v. Dooly County, 101 Ga. 619, 28 S. E. 986.

Illinois.— Illinois Deaf, etc., Inst. v. Platt, 5 Ill. App. 567.

Louisiana.— Monarch v. New Orleans, 49 La. Ann. 991, 22 So. 259.

New York.— L'Hommedieu v. Winthrop, 59 N. Y. App. Div. 192, 69 N. Y. Suppl. 381.

North Dakota.— Northern Light Lodge No. 1, I. O. O. F. v. Kennedy, 7 N. D. 146, 73 N. W. 524.

Texas.— Ferrier v. Knox County, (Tex. Civ. App. 1896) 33 S. W. 896.

Notwithstanding there is a clause providing that alterations and additions may be made by an architect or engineer in charge of the work see White v. San Rafael, etc., R. Co., 50 Cal. 417.

Non-application of provision for orders in writing to other clauses.— A clause, providing that no alterations or extra work may be done without a written order from the architect and an express agreement in writing as to the cost, applies only to orders of the architect and has no relation to clauses providing that the owner may, during progress of the building, request alterations which shall not affect or avoid the contract, but be added or deducted from the contract price, as the case may be, by a fair and reasonable valuation, and that any dispute arising respecting the value of extra work or of work omitted shall be settled by a competent person employed by the owner and a competent person employed by the builder. Cooper v. Hawley, 60 N. J. L. 560, 38 Atl. 964.

In some cases the filing of a claim with an architect before the next ensuing payment is necessary in addition to a written order of the architect. O'Keefe v. St. Francis' Church, 59 Conn. 551, 22 Atl. 325.

An order in writing is not necessary with respect to work not called for in the specifications but required by detailed plans subsequently furnished by the architect. Long v. Pierce County, 22 Wash. 330, 61 Pac. 142.

Whether a written order was waived is a question of fact (Foster v. McKeown, 192 Ill. 339, 61 N. E. 514 [affirming 85 Ill. App. 449]), but the fact that the owner has previously paid for extra work done upon a mere verbal order does not waive the provision (White v. San Rafael, etc., R. Co., 50 Cal. 417).

Provision not effective where order given by owner.— A stipulation that no extra work of any kind will be allowed or paid for, unless authorized by an agreement in writing previously made, is of no effect, where the owner orders the builder to do extra work, outside of and additional to that covered by the written contract. Foley v. Tipton Hotel Assoc., 102 Iowa 272, 71 N. W. 236; Escott v. White, 10 Bush (Ky.) 169; Baum v. Covert, 62 Miss. 113.

Sufficiency of written order.— A certificate for payment is not a written order (Tharsis Sulphur, etc., Co. v. McElroy, 3 A. C. 1040; Brunsdon v. Staines, Cab. & El.

sufficient,[89] unless known to the owner,[90] or the charge for extra work is agreed to by the owner.[91] So the builder is not entitled to compensation for extras ordered by an architect not authorized by the contract to order extra work.[92]

b. Amount, Time, and Manner of Payment. Where the contract provides for the valuation of extra work by an architect whose decision thereon is to be final the builder need not accept his valuation, if the changes ordered be materially different from the plans and specifications.[93] In the absence of any agreement with regard to the time and mode of payment for partial alterations or additions, the time and mode of payment prescribed for the original work, if in their nature applicable to payments for such alterations or changes, control the mode of pay-272); so an unsigned sketch made by the architect is not sufficient (Myers v. Sarl, 7 Jur. N. S. 97, 30 L. J. Q. B. 9, 9 Wkly. Rep. 96); and so too where no written directions were given by architects for additional works, except that letters were signed, some by one of the architects, and others by both, in which allusion was incidentally made to some of the additional works in progress, containing suggestions as to the mode of execution, and save also that long after the works were complete the architects, on the application of the builder, made a valuation of the additional works, it was held that the certificate of satisfaction, the letters, and final valuation of the architects did not amount to a written order (Lamprell v. Billericay Union, 3 Exch. 282, 18 L. J. Exch. 282).

The owner and builder only are affected by Quebec Civ. Code, art. 1690, which requires an authorization in writing to establish a claim for extra labor or material, and not the contractor and his subcontractor. Robert v. Chartrand, 3 Quebec 339.

89. Gray v. La Societe Francaise, etc., 131 Cal. 566, 63 Pac. 848; Monarch v. New Orleans, 49 La. Ann. 991, 22 So. 259; Stuart v. Cambridge, 125 Mass. 102.

It is erroneous to charge that architects may give a verbal order when the contract provides for one that is written. L'Hommedieu v. Winthrop, 59 N. Y. App. Div. 192, 69 N. Y. Suppl. 381.

There must be something beyond an order to entitle the builder to obtain payment for extras not ordered in writing. Franklin v. Darke, 3 F. & F. 65, 6 L. T. Rep. N. S. 291.

In Alabama it seems settled law that, a building contract not being one which the law requires to be evidenced by writing signed, it is not requisite that there should be a written order, even if one be required by the contract, since the parties thereto may mutually alter, modify, or rescind it. Badders v. Davis, 88 Ala. 367, 6 So. 834.

90. Gray v. La Societe Francaise, etc., 131 Cal. 566, 63 Pac. 848.

Knowledge of owner.— Where the architect tells the builder in the presence of the owner to do certain extra work and that he would "see that he got his pay," the builder has a right to compensation. Nelson v. Halfen, 51 Ill. App. 198.

91. Monarch v. New Orleans, 49 La. Ann. 991, 22 So. 259.

Work accepted by owner.— A builder has a right to compensation where the owner has accepted work ordered by an architect to whom superintendence of the work was intrusted, though the price of such work was not agreed on and the contract therefor was not written (Gibson County v. Motherwell Iron, etc., Co., 123 Ind. 364, 24 N. E. 115), but it has been said that if extra work be done without authority the employer's acceptance, with knowledge that extra compensation was demanded, does not raise an implied contract that the extra work will be paid for (Driscoll v. U. S., 34 Ct. Cl. 508).

Part payment may amount to ratification. — Where a contractor did extra work on a verbal order, and monthly estimates were made, and the correctness thereof was certified in writing, and part of the price was paid, there was a ratification in writing sufficient to satisfy the requirement of the contract that all extra work should be done on a written order. Abells v. Syracuse, 7 N. Y. App. Div. 501, 40 N. Y. Suppl. 233 (two judges dissenting).

92. Starkweather v. Goodman, 48 Conn. 101, 40 Am. Rep. 152, holding that the builder cannot extend the architect's power by inference, and that where he furnishes materials for, or performs labor in excess of, the specifications, upon the order of the architect, he assumes the risk of ratification by the owner. See also Carson v. Mitchell, 41 Ill. App. 243, in which case it was held that the fact that the owner told the builder that some person would be on the premises to see that work was done properly and that the builder must look to that person for his orders did not expressly or impliedly authorize such person to allow or direct extra work.

An employer is not estopped by the fact that when a building is nearly completed the owner without objection receives a statement of work and materials not specified in the written contract and which he has not ordered, from denying the architect's authority to order the extra work. Starkweather v. Goodman, 48 Conn. 101, 40 Am. Rep. 152.

93. Cook County v. Harms, 108 Ill. 151.

Where a contract provided that the value of any alteration should be decided by the architect, and that, if either party dissented from his decision, the matter should be referred to arbitrators, but did not specify any time at which the dissent should be made, the builder does not waive a right to dissent, because he does not so do at the time the ment for alterations or additions subsequently made,[94] and deductions must be made if there be also changes lessening the cost of the extra work.[95] Where, however, the changes are such that it is impossible to trace the contract and say to what part of the work it is to be applied,[96] the original contract is no longer a guide for estimating the price,[97] and where no price is agreed upon for extra work the amount of compensation therefor will be what it is reasonably worth.[98]

4. Where There Is Excusable Delay in Performance. The builder is entitled to compensation for his services where his delay in performance is excusable,[99] or the delay has been waived;[1] and for the delay,[2] even if caused by other contractarchitect's computation was submitted to him with the order for the alterations, but a submission to arbitration without raising the objection that the builder lost his right to dissent is a waiver of the objection. Brown v. Farnandis, (Wash. 1902) 67 Pac. 574.

Legality of provisions as to extra work see supra, II, B, 4, c, (VIII).

94. Howard v. Pensacola, etc., R. Co., 24 Fla. 560, 5 So. 356; Jones v. Woodbury, 11 B. Mon. (Ky.) 167; Rude v. Mitchell, 97 Mo. 365, 11 S. W. 225; Wheeden v. Fiske, 50 N. H. 125. See also Mueller v. Rosen, 179 Ill. 130, 53 N. E. 625 [affirming 79 Ill. App. 420]; Boody v. Rutland, etc., R. Co., 3 Blatchf. (U. S.) 25, 3 Fed. Cas. No. 1,635, 24 Vt. 660.

Agreement not to charge more than specified sum.— The builder has agreed that work shall not cost over a certain amount, but after work has commenced proposes to do extra work which would make the whole building not cost over another sum, there is an agreement that if the owner would permit the extra work to be put on the house the builder would not charge more than the latter amount for the entire work. Britney v. Bolding, 28 Miss. 53.

A builder who has completed his work, and claimed payment under the contract, cannot claim for work in excess of the quantities on which it was based, nor for any additions or alterations beyond the amount allowed by the employer's surveyor. Coker v. Young, 2 F. & F. 98.

95. Rude v. Mitchell, 97 Mo. 365, 11 S. W. 225.

96. Wheeden v. Fiske, 50 N. H. 125.

97. Tebbetts v. Haskins, 16 Me. 283.

98. Tebbetts v. Haskins, 16 Me. 283; Baum v. Covert, 62 Miss. 113; Wheeden v. Fiske, 50 N. H. 125.

A provision that the architect may make alterations in the plans, and that any difference in the cost shall be figured by the architects, whose figuring shall be final, does not, where alterations have been made in the plans and extra work done at the request of the architects who did not fix the difference in the cost occasioned thereby, prevent the builder from recovering for the reasonable value of the work. Rude v. Mitchell, 97 Mo. 365, 11 S. W. 225.

There is a waiver of provision that the amount of extra pay is to be agreed upon mutually or referred to arbitrators before the work be done, if the owner orders them but refuses to have the price fixed. Truckee Lodge No. 14, I. O. O. F. v. Wood, 14 Nev. 293.

99. Illinois.— Vermont St. M. E. Church v. Brose, 104 Ill. 206; Taylor v. Renn, 79 Ill. 181.

Kentucky.— Vaughn v. Digman, 19 Ky. L. Rep. 1340, 43 S. W. 251.

Mississippi.— Collins v. Money, 4 How. (Miss.) 11.

New York.— Smith v. Gugerty, 4 Barb. (N. Y.) 614; Stewart v. Keteltas, 9 Bosw. (N. Y.) 261; Anderson v. Meislahn, 12 Daly (N. Y.) 149.

United States.— Erickson v. U. S., 107 Fed. 204; Bitting v. U. S., 25 Ct. Cl. 502.

Loss caused by owner's delay.— It is the duty of the owner to keep another contractor's work in such a state of forwardness as to enable a builder to perform his contract within the time specified, though the contract contains no stipulation to that effect. Haynes v. St. Louis Second Baptist Church, 12 Mo. App. 536; See v. Partridge, 2 Duer (N. Y.) 463.

Terms implied in contract see supra, II, C, 1, d.

Loss caused by rise in price of labor.— A builder may recover for losses sustained on his contract from a rise in the price of labor during a delay caused by the neglect of his employer to furnish building materials as agreed. Bitting v. U. S., 25 Ct. Cl. 502.

When delay in performance is excusable see supra, V, B, 7.

1. Fowlds v. Evans, 52 Minn. 551, 54 N. W. 743; Smith v. Gugerty, 4 Barb. (N. Y.) 614; Meehan v. Williams, 2 Daly (N. Y.) 367; Gallagher v. Nichols, 16 Abb. Pr. N. S. (N. Y.) 337; Kugler v. Wiseman, 20 Ohio 361; Lucas v. Godwin, 3 Bing. N. Cas. 737, 3 Hodges 114, 6 L. J. C. P. 205, 32 E. C. L. 340.

As to form of action see infra, VII, A, 2.

2. Granniss, etc., Lumber Co. v. Deeves, 72 Hun (N. Y.) 171, 25 N. Y. Suppl. 375, 55 N. Y. St. 674.

A clause providing that the builder shall have no claim upon his employer for any delay in delivering material does not apply to delay and expense resulting to the builder from the necessity of altering defective material furnished by the employer, the defects of which cannot be detected until they are being put in place. Wood v. Ft. Wayne, 119 U. S. 312, 7 S. Ct. 219, 30 L. ed. 416.

A builder agreeing to complete within a ors,[3] unless the contract provides that if the builder be delayed by reason of tardiness or want of dispatch on the part of contractors doing other kinds of work upon the building, he is to be entitled to such further time for the completion of the work as the architects shall allow him.[4]

5. Where Full Performance Is Prevented. Where full performance is prevented for a cause not attributable to the builder he is entitled to the compensation provided in the contract as far as his work has been done,[5] so where he is prevented from completing his work because his employer is enjoined from having the work done,[6] or where disabled by sickness.[7] Again, where some portion of the contract price is due under the contract at the time a building is destroyed by inevitable accident not attributable to the builder, he generally has a right to the sum due or at any rate to the reasonable value of his work,[8] though there are decisions to the contrary.[9]

D. Compensation of Subcontractors and Materialmen. As a general rule the builder, and not the owner, is the person liable for services performed by a person or persons under a contract with the builder,[10] and for materials certain time, under a contract authorizing an engineer if at any time he believes the work will not be completed to declare a forfeiture, can recover damages where a forfeiture has been declared, only if he can show corrupt motives on the part of the engineer and that he himself would have completed if the work had proceeded under him. Culbertson v. Ellis, 6 McLean (U. S.) 248, 6 Fed. Cas. No. 3,461.

When right to compensation not waived.— A contractor damaged by delay in the prosecution of his work caused by the owner does not, by receiving the stipulated contract price for performance of his contract, waive a right to proceed against the owner for the damages sustained. Weeks v. Trinity Church, 56 N. Y. App. Div. 195, 67 N. Y. Suppl. 670.

No waiver of damage.—By continuing work until the completion of his contract, a builder does not waive damages occasioned by delay of his employer in furnishing material. Tobey v. Price, 75 Ill. 645.

What amount recoverable see infra, VII, D.

3. State v. Farish, 23 Miss. 483; See v. Partridge, 2 Duer (N. Y.) 463.

A stipulation for further time should delay be caused by other contractors implies that the builder is to have no pecuniary compensation for delay caused by the other contractors. Haydnville Min., etc., Co. v. Art Institute, 39 Fed. 484.

A builder is not entitled to counter-claim against a subcontractor suing for compensation damages caused by delay in performance, where the claim for damages is put in by the employer at the request of the builder for the purpose of reducing the subcontractor's compensation, nor, where he has not paid the owner the penalty imposed in his own contract for such delay or there is not a fixed liability against him for such damages. Fisher v. Edgefield, etc., Mfg. Co., (Tenn. Ch. 1900) 62 S. W. 27.

4. Haydnville Min., etc., Co. v. Art Institute, 39 Fed. 484.

5. Heine v. Meyer, 61 N. Y. 171, in which case the further prosecution of work was forbidden by an authorized building superintendent for a defect not occasioned by the contractor.

6. Doolittle v. Nash, 48 Vt. 441.

7. Hillyard v. Crabtree, 11 Tex. 264, 62 Am. Dec. 475.

8. Alabama.— Hunt v. Toulmin, 1 Stew. & P. (Ala.) 178.

Illinois.— Rawson v. Clark, 70 Ill. 656; Siegel v. Eaton, etc., Co., 60 Ill. App. 639.

Massachusetts.— Cleary v. Sohier, 120 Mass. 210; Lord v. Wheeler, 1 Gray (Mass.) 282.

New York.— Nihlo v. Binsse, 3 Abb. Dec. (N. Y.) 375, 1 Keyes (N. Y.) 476.

Texas.— Weir v. Devlin, 67 Tex. 507, 3 S. W. 726, 60 Am. Rep. 38; Hollis v. Chapman, 36 Tex. 1.

Wisconsin.— Cook v. McCabe, 53 Wis. 250, 10 N. W. 507, 40 Am. Rep. 765.

9. Cutcliff v. McAnally, 88 Ala. 507, 7 So. 331; Brumby v. Smith, 3 Ala. 123; Fildew v. Besley, 54 Mich. 100, 3 N. W. 278, 36 Am. Rep. 433; Lawing v. Rintles, 97 N. C. 350, 2 S. E. 252; Burke v. Purifoy, 21 Tex. Civ. App. 202, 50 S. W. 1089.

10. California.— Adams v. Burbank, 103 Cal. 646, 37 Pac. 640.

Illinois.— Fender v. Kelly, 58 Ill. App. 283.

Indiana.— Mackenzie v. Edinburg, 72 Ind. 189; Floyd v. Indianapolis, etc., R. Co., 8 Ind. 469.

Louisiana.— Pelanne v. Coudreau, 16 La. Ann. 127.

New York.— O'Neil v. Hudson Valley Ice Co., 74 Hun (N. Y.) 163, 26 N. Y. Suppl. 598, 56 N. Y. St. 289 [distinguishing Lawrence v. Fox, 20 N. Y. 268]; Smith v. Ferris, 1 Daly (N. Y.) 18.

United States.— U. S. v. Driscoll, 96 U. S. 421, 24 L. ed. 847.

The doctrine that a party seeing work progress for him, and making no objection thereto to the person doing the same, is liable to the person so working has no application where the entire work is contracted to and placed under the control of another, who has the power to employ him when he pleases. Campbell v. Day, 90 Ill. 363.

Where a building is destroyed by fire while furnished,[11] and subcontractors and materialmen must resort for payment to the former.[12] in course of erection, a settlement between the owner and the contractor, by which the latter is paid for the work as far as done, entitles a subcontractor to be paid by the contractor for work actually done by him, notwithstanding some things of minor importance may not have been performed in accordance with the subcontract, since such failure was waived in the adjustment between the original contractor and the owner. Clark v. Busse, 82 Ill. 515.

A provision made by a contractor in a contract between him and a subcontractor that he shall be entitled to retain in his hands a part of the earnings as a protection against his liability to the persons employed by the subcontractors will not give to the latter or his assignee any right of action against the contractor personally, nor any lien on the fund itself. Wells v. Williams, 39 Barb. (N. Y.) 567.

Where a building contract is modified at the request of the owner and a workman employed separate from the contract with the builder, the owner is liable for his services. McIntosh v. Clannon, 18 La. 469. See also Nial v. Flandrian, 1 N. Y. St. 73.

Where an architect certifies a completion of a certain stage of the work in conformity with the powers conferred on him by the contract, substantial performance is sufficient, and an honest mistake on the part of the builder as to a small matter will not invalidate payment made on the certificate so as to make the employer liable for a second payment to creditors of the builder, on the ground that the first payment was made before due. Sisters of Charity v. Smith, (N. J. 1899) 46 Atl. 598.

An owner is not liable to a subcontractor after the contract price has been paid merely because he does not take advantage of an agreement under which he undertakes to pay him on an indorsement of the account by the builder, although he has paid previous accounts without an indorsement. The payment does not waive the contract requirement. Yahr v. Joint School Dist. No. 2, 99 Wis. 281, 74 N. W. 779.

Workmen or subcontractors employed by the builder have in some jurisdictions a right to have enough reserved out of the money given to the builder to pay them. Hogge v. Taliaferro, 10 La. Ann. 561; Allen v. Wills, 4 La. Ann. 97.

Right of subcontractors and materialmen to recover from sureties on builder's bond see infra, VI, B.

11. Adams v. Burbank, 103 Cal. 646, 37 Pac. 640; Peers v. Board of Education, 72 Ill. 508; Murphy v. Winchester, 35 Barb. (N. Y.) 616; Brown v. Morgan, 2 Bosw. (N. Y.) 485; Hutton v. Gordon, 2 Misc. (N. Y.) 267, 23 N. Y. Suppl. 770.

A provision that the builder, under the direction of the architect, acting as "agents" of the owner, shall provide all materials and perform all work for which the contract provides does not make the owner liable, as the builder's principal, for material ordered by the builder, the use of the plural of agent appearing to be a clerical error. Steele v. McBurney, 96 Iowa 449, 65 N. W. 332.

An owner who says to a materialman, who has already furnished materials to the contractor, that he will pay for all the materials that the contractor might get for the building, is liable, on his promise, for all materials furnished thereafter for the building and charged to him, but not liable for such as had, before the promise, been furnished to the contractor. Owen v. Stevens, 78 Ill. 462. See also Lumaghi v. Neuber, 67 Ill. 250.

Where a builder abandons his work before completion and an owner employs another to finish the building, according to the plans and specifications, which call for material furnished by a third party and stored in the building the owner is liable for the price of such material if used in the building after having been notified by the third party that the material must not be used until paid for. Clore v. Johnson, 21 Ky. L. Rep. 1685, 56 S. W. 5.

Where a materialman stated that he would furnish materials to a building contractor if assured of payment, whereon the owner agreed with the consent of the contractor to retain in its control sufficient of the money due the contractor to protect the materialman the latter was not obliged to await the completion of the contract before he could recover on the agreement. Roussel v. Mathews, 62 N. Y. App. Div. 1, 70 N. Y. Suppl. 886.

Where material is furnished to a building contractor under an agreement that the owner will retain sufficient of the money due the contractor to protect him, and the owner has agreed to accept a certain sum for the contractor's failure to complete minor details, and agreed on the balance due, the materialman may hold the owner responsible for payment. Roussel v. Mathews, 62 N. Y. App. Div. 1, 70 N. Y. Suppl. 886.

12. Cleaves v. Stockwell, 33 Me. 341; International, etc., R. Co. v. Hutchins, 1 Tex. App. Civ. Cas. § 303.

The rule is the same even if the contract provides that the owner may retain from money due the contractor an amount sufficient to meet the claims of those who should have done work or furnished materials, until the contractor should have furnished proof of having paid such claims, unless it is also provided that the owner may pay a claim out of the money retained. Quinlan v. Russell, 47 N. Y. Super. Ct. 212.

Effect of orders for payment given by builder.— A subcontractor may resort to an owner to the extent of any money paid away to his damage after the owner has accepted an order from the builder in favor of the subcontractor agreeing to deduct the amount of the subcontractor's claim out of payments

VI. RIGHTS, DUTIES, AND LIABILITIES OF SURETIES ON BUILDERS' BONDS.[13]

A. In General. Sureties are bound only in the manner and to the extent provided in the obligation;[14] and its terms cannot be changed without their consent, even with a view to avoid ultimate liability.[15] Thus, if payments are made to the builder in excess of the amounts due on the estimates, they will not be liable for the excess,[16] and payment to the builder, without the surety's consent, of a percentage that should under the building contract be reserved until completion of the work for which a bond was given discharges the surety.[17]

due the contractor on completion of the building. Hammond v. Miller, 2 Mackey (D. C.) 145. See also Hafner v. Kirby, 24 Misc. (N. Y.) 390, 53 N. Y. Suppl. 552. An order or draft, if accepted by the owner, amounts to an assignment pro tanto of the fund due under the building contract; and a subsequent assignment from the contractor to a third person of his rights under the contract does not affect the rights thus acquired under said order. Hafner v. Kirby, 24 Misc. (N. Y.) 390, 53 N. Y. Suppl. 552. See also Adams v. Burbank, 103 Cal. 646, 37 Pac. 640. Where the contract provides for payments to the builder as the work progresses, and also that a specific sum is to be reserved for the payment of materialmen, such sums must be reserved from the balance due after completion and the builder is entitled to have the payments made, notwithstanding that the owner has accepted orders drawn in favor of the materialmen, and incurred liabilities therefor in excess of the payments then due. Ford v. Burchard, 130 Mass. 424. Where the owner of a house in process of building accepted an order drawn upon him by the builder in favor of a third person to be paid when the house was finished, and neither the builder nor the owner finished the house, but it was sold by the latter in an unfinished state and afterward completed by the purchaser, the third party doing some work upon it, it was held that he was entitled to recover from the owner. Robbins v. Blodgett, 124 Mass. 279. Orders drawn by the builder on the owners payable when the building has been completed to a certain point, and accepted by the owner, cannot be collected, when the builder has abandoned his contract before completing it to the specified point and it has been completed by the owner at a cost greater than the sum which would be due the contractor if he had completed it, unless the owner has practised force, fraud, or collusion against or with the contractor. Newhall v. Clark, 3 Cush. (Mass.) 376, 50 Am. Dec. 741. The payee of an order accepted by the owner conditionally on the work being done according to the contract has no privity with the owner that will, if payment is refused on the ground of failure to perform, entitle him to maintain an action against the owner on an account annexed for labor and materials. Farquhar v. Brown, 132 Mass. 340.

Right to money retained.— The fact that a contract provided that the owner should retain fifteen per cent of each partial estimate, made as the work progressed, to insure him that all claims for labor and materials were paid by the contractor, and that the building should be completed in accordance with the contract, gives a subcontractor no right of action or claim against the owner for money so retained, though from estimates based on labor and materials furnished by him (Beatrice School Dist. v. Thomas, 51 Nebr. 740, 71 N. W. 731), and persons who have advanced money to the builder with the expectation that it will be used in carrying out the building contract cannot, where some of it has been paid to laborers and materialmen, demand that an owner's right to withhold the funds only in case of non-payment of laborers or materialmen be exercised in their favor. Lawrence v. U. S., 71 Fed. 228.

13. See, generally, BONDS, 5 Cyc. 721.

14. Finney v. Condon, 86 Ill. 78; Gray v. Norfolk School Dist., 35 Nebr. 438, 53 N. W. 377.

Consideration for surety's promise to pay subcontractor.— A promise by a surety to whom the builder has assigned the money to become due under the contract, to pay the claim of a subcontractor, if the subcontractor would do certain work on the premises, is without consideration, unless the work specified was something which the subcontractor was not required by his contract to do. Alley v. Turck, 8 N. Y. App. Div. 50, 40 N. Y. Suppl. 433, 70 N. Y. St. 865.

15. Finney v. Condon, 86 Ill. 78.

Completion by owner on absolute abandonment of work by builder.— A provision that in the event of the builder's failure to supply sufficient skilled workmen or materials of proper quality or to prosecute the work with diligence the employer may, upon securing a certificate of the architect, to these facts upon proper notice, finish the work, contemplates a case where the builder claims to be complying with his obligation, and not one where, before doing any substantial part of the work, he absolutely abandons it and voluntarily surrenders the premises to the owner for its completion; therefore, neither a failure to secure the architect's certificate and give proper notice to the builder, or a waiver of them by the builder releases the surety. George A. Fuller Co. v. Doyle, 87 Fed. 687.

As to suretyship see, generally, PRINCIPAL AND AGENT.

16. Gray v. Norfolk School Dist., 35 Nebr. 438, 53 N. W. 377.

17. Finney v. Condon, 86 Ill. 78, holding that a provision for reservation of payment

B. Compensation of Subcontractors and Materialmen. On default of the builder, in cases where the contract requires him to pay for all labor and material furnished, a right of action directly against the sureties accrues to unpaid laborers, materialmen,[18] and subcontractors;[19] in the absence, however, of this provision the sureties are not liable,[20] unless they have completed the building on his default, and under an agreement with him collected the price from the owner.[21]

C. Changes and Alterations. Sureties on a bond, conditioned for building in accordance with plans, are released by a substantial change in the plans,[22] if the changes are made without their consent;[23] but changes and alterations made by the owner will not release the sureties where the contract permits him, at any time during progress of building operations, to make alterations, changes, or additions without invalidating the contract,[24] or where the bond itself contains a similar provision.[25] is as much for the indemnity of the surety as of the owner.

Where the retention moneys have been paid over and thereby the position of the sureties has been altered, but such change in position has been effected by fraudulent execution of the work, the honest execution of which sureties have guaranteed, the sureties are not discharged, it being a principle of the law of suretyship that a surety cannot claim to be discharged, upon the ground that his position has been altered by the conduct of the person with whom he has contracted, where that conduct has been caused by a fraudulent act or omission, against which the surety, by the contract of suretyship, has guaranteed the person with whom he has contracted. Kingston-Upon-Hull v. Harding, [1892] 2 Q. B. 494, 57 J. P. 85, 62 L. J. Q. B. 55, 67 L. T. Rep. N. S. 539, 4 Reports 7, 41 Wkly. Rep. 19.

18. Fitzgerald v. McClay, 47 Nebr. 816, 66 N. W. 828; Kaufmann v. Cooper, 46 Nebr. 644, 65 N. W. 796.

19. Fitzgerald v. McClay, 47 Nebr. 816, 66 N. W. 828.

20. Stull v. Hance, 62 Ill. 52; Buffalo Cement Co. v. McNaughton, 90 Hun (N. Y.) 74, 35 N. Y. Suppl. 453, 69 N. Y. St. 846; Greenless v. Shinnick, 7 Ohio Dec. (Reprint) 385, 2 Cinc. L. Bul. 282.

Unless there is an intent on the part of the owner to take the bond for his benefit, and an obligation to him which would create a privity of interest. Lyth v. Hingston, 14 N. Y. App. Div. 11, 43 N. Y. Suppl. 653.

A clause providing that if it be required the contractor shall furnish security, and a certificate that no liens have been filed, before he shall be entitled to payment under the contract, is intended for the protection of the owner of the building, and not for a person furnishing materials to the contractor. Hurd v. Johnson Park Invest. Co., 13 Misc. (N. Y.) 643, 34 N. Y. Suppl. 915, 69 N. Y. St. 141.

21. Greenless v. Shinnick, 7 Ohio Dec. (Reprint) 385, 2 Cinc. L. Bul. 282.

But they are liable only to the extent of the amount received by them from the owner. Greenless v. Shinnick, 7 Ohio Dec. (Reprint) 385, 2 Cinc. L. Bul. 282.

22. Morgan County v. McRae, 53 Kan. 358, 36 Pac. 717.

Materiality of alteration.— Where a contract to erect a building "with such stone and brick, timber and other materials of the size, kind and quality as particularly mentioned and set forth in the accompanying specifications" had attached thereto detailed specifications, it was held that an interlineation in the specifications of the words, "sliding doors between hall and parlor," and "bath room," constituted a material alteration and released the surety (Lancaster v. Barrett, 1 Pa. Super. Ct. 9, 37 Wkly. Notes Cas. (Pa.) 251); but a consent to changes, in minor details of the work, given by a builder who does not bind himself to conform to such changes and agree to the modification of the original contract does not discharge the surety (Henricus v. Englert, 17 N. Y. Suppl. 235, 43 N. Y. St. 595), nor was the obligation of the sureties affected, where a contract provided for alterations in the specifications, and that such alterations should not make the contract void, by the fact that the employer under agreement with the contractor changed the window lintels from stone to railroad iron (Howard County v. Baker, 119 Mo. 397, 24 S. W. 200).

Effect of destruction of original specifications.— Where original specifications, exhibited to the sureties with numerous alterations noted therein, were taken by the architect to be copied, and additions upon the copy were not material, the sureties were not released by the inadvertent destruction of the original specifications. McLennan v. Wellington, 48 Kan. 756, 30 Pac. 183.

23. Eldridge v. Fuhr, 59 Mo. App. 44.

24. Morgan County v. McRae, 53 Kan. 358, 36 Pac. 717; McLennan v. Wellington, 48 Kan. 756, 30 Pac. 183; Hayden v. Cook, 34 Nebr. 670, 52 N. W. 165. But see Ashenbroedel Club v. Finlay, 53 Mo. App. 256, holding that the knowledge or consent of the surety to a change in plan or detail was requisite to continue his liability, even if the contract provided that the architect might make such changes without avoiding the contract.

25. Morgan County v. McRae, 53 Kan. 358, 36 Pac. 717.

As to the necessity of filing a building contract or specifications see supra, II, B, 2, c.; and, generally, MECHANICS' LIENS.

D. Effect of Failure to Record Contract. A surety is not discharged from his obligation because a building contract,[26] plans and specifications,[27] or the bond itself[28] have not been filed or recorded as required by statute.

VII. ACTIONS BY OR AGAINST BUILDER.

A. To Recover Compensation Due Builder — 1. ACCRUAL OF RIGHT. The right to sue for recovery of compensation accrues from the time that it is due;[29] but where the contract provides for payment of the balance due within a specified time after completion, inspection, and acceptance by an architect, an action is prematurely brought, if brought within such specified time.[30]

2. FORM OF ACTION. Where there is a special building contract the builder should sue on it,[31] but assumpsit under the common counts will lie, where the builder has not strictly complied with a special building contract, if the owner has had the benefit of his work and accepted it,[32] the doctrine practically resting upon the acceptance of the work by the owner, not as finished according to the con-

26. Summerton v. Hanson, 117 Cal. 252, 49 Pac. 135.

27. Blyth v. Robinson, 104 Cal. 239, 37 Pac. 904.

28. Where a bond covers requirements of a statute designed to protect the owner, and also requirements of a statute designed to protect workmen and materialmen, the mere fact that the bond is not filed does not release the sureties. Evans v. Watson, 8 Kan. App. 144, 55 Pac. 17.

29. West Coast Lumber Co. v. Knapp, 122 Cal. 79, 54 Pac. 533, holding that a statute of limitation begins to run from that date.

30. O'Connor v. Adams, (Ariz. 1889) 59 Pac. 105, holding that whether the architect has accepted or refused to accept is not material.

31. Western v. Sharp, 14 B. Mon. (Ky.) 144. See also McDaniel v. Webster, 2 Houst. (Del.) 305; Gillis v. Cobe, 177 Mass. 584, 59 N. E. 455.

32. Alabama.— Davis v. Badders, 95 Ala. 348, 10 So. 422; Bell v. Teague, 85 Ala. 211, 3 So. 861; Kirkland v. Oates, 25 Ala. 465.

Arkansas.— Simpson v. McDonald, 2 Ark. 370.

California.— Marchant v. Hayes, 117 Cal. 669, 49 Pac. 840; Castagnino v. Balletta, 82 Cal. 250, 23 Pac. 127; Katz v. Bedford, 77 Cal. 319, 19 Pac. 523, 1 L. R. A. 826.

Connecticut.— Blakeslee v. Holt, 42 Conn. 226.

District of Columbia.— Hammond v. Miller, 2 Mackey (D. C.) 145.

Georgia.— Ford v. Smith, 25 Ga. 675.

Illinois.— Taylor v. Renn, 79 Ill. 181.

Indiana.— Becker v. Hecker, 9 Ind. 497; McClure v. Secrist, 5 Ind. 31; Cummings v. Pence, 1 Ind. App. 317, 27 N. E. 631.

Kansas.— School Dist. No. 2 v. Boyer, 46 Kan. 54, 26 Pac. 484.

Kentucky.—Escott v. White, 10 Bush (Ky.) 169; Kiel v. Kline, 15 Ky. L. Rep. 158; Lexington Ice Mfg., etc., Co. v. Farnan, 13 Ky. L. Rep. 270.

Louisiana.— Joublanc v. Daunoy, 6 La. 656.

Maine.— Hattin v. Chase, 88 Me. 237, 33 Atl. 989; White v. Oliver, 36 Me. 92; Jewett v. Weston, 11 Me. 346.

Massachusetts.—Blood v. Wilson, 141 Mass. 25, 2 N. E. 362; Smith v. First Cong. Meeting House, 8 Pick. (Mass.) 178; Hayward v. Leonard, 7 Pick. (Mass.) 181, 19 Am. Dec. 268.

Missouri.— Rude v. Mitchell, 97 Mo. 365, 11 S. W. 225; Dutro v. Walter, 31 Mo. 516; Mash v. Richards, 29 Mo. 99; Heman v. Compton Hill Imp. Co., 58 Mo. App. 480; Globe Light, etc., Co. v. Doud, 47 Mo. App. 439; Gregg v. Dunn, 38 Mo. App. 283; Fleischmann v. Miller, 38 Mo. App. 177; Austin v. Keating, 21 Mo. App. 30.

New Jersey.—Feeney v. Bardsley, 66 N. J. L. 239, 49 Atl. 443; Bozarth v. Dudley, 44 N. J. L. 304, 43 Am. Rep. 373.

North Carolina.—Moffitt v. Glass, 117 N. C. 142, 23 S. E. 104; Dixon v. Gravely, 117 N. C. 84, 23 S. E. 39; Simpson v. Carolina Cent. R. Co., 112 N. C. 703, 16 S. E. 853.

Ohio.— Goldsmith v. Hand, 26 Ohio 101.

Pennsylvania.— White v. Braddock School Dist., 159 Pa. St. 201, 28 Atl. 136.

Tennessee.— Elliott v. Wilkinson, 8 Yerg. (Tenn.) 411.

Texas.— Harris County v. Campbell, 68 Tex. 22, 3 S. W. 243, 2 Am. St. Rep. 467; Carroll v. Welch, 26 Tex. 147; Jennings v. Willer, (Tex. Civ. App. 1895) 32 S. W. 24.

Utah.— Rhodes v. Clute, 17 Utah 137, 53 Pac. 990.

Vermont.— Gilman v. Hall, 11 Vt. 510, 34 Am. Dec. 700.

Wisconsin.— Taylor v. Williams, 6 Wis. 363.

Wyoming.— Hood v. Smiley, 5 Wyo. 70, 36 Pac. 856.

United States.— Ingle v. Jones, 2 Wall. (U. S.) 1, 17 L. ed. 762; Lee v. New Haven, etc., R. Co., 15 Fed. Cas. No. 8,197.

See 11 Cent. Dig. tit. "Contracts," § 1551; also, generally, ASSUMPSIT, ACTION OF, 4 Cyc. 317.

The builder's right is not affected by a provision that compensation shall be payable on completion of the work, and acceptance by the architect. Linnenkohl v. Winkelmeyer, 54 Mo. App. 570.

tract, but in its incomplete condition, and that in such condition it is a benefit to him,[33] and there being an implied contract on his part to pay the builder what his work is reasonably worth.[34] So assumpsit will lie where the contract has been rescinded by the owner,[35] or where the builder is justified in not proceeding further under a contract of which the owner has committed a substantial breach,[36] or there has been a mutual rescission;[37] where, before completion, the builder's work is, without his fault, destroyed by inevitable accident,[38] or by fire,[39] and while under the control of the owner;[40] where the terms of a special contract have been afterward varied by the agreement of both parties;[41] where the work

33. Davis v. Badders, 95 Ala. 348, 10 So. 422, holding that the acceptance need not be express when there is no gross or fraudulent violation or abandonment of the contract, but may be inferred from the use and enjoyment of the property by the owner upon whose land value has been conferred by the erection of the building. So the owner's acquiescence in continuance of work by a builder who has, to the knowledge of the owner, deviated from his contract may amount to an acceptance. Hayward v. Leonard, 7 Pick. (Mass.) 181, 19 Am. Dec. 268; Bailey v. Woods, 17 N. H. 365.

Inference of acceptance see supra, V, B, 6.

Acceptance as a waiver is not a ground upon which courts have allowed recovery.— "It is because the work is of value to the proprietor, and if it is of no value, there can be no recovery." Yeats v. Ballentine, 56 Mo. 530.

There is an admission that the builder's work is of some benefit when the owner takes possession of a building not completed according to contract and finishes the work. Taylor v. Williams, 6 Wis. 363.

34. Simpson v. McDonald, 2 Ark. 370; Hammond v. Miller, 2 Mackey (D. C.) 145.

35. Colorado.— Cochran v. Balfe, 12 Colo. App. 75, 54 Pac. 399.

Connecticut.— Connelly v. Devoe, 37 Conn. 570.

Illinois.— Sexton v. Chicago, 107 Ill. 323.

Maryland.— Rodemer v. Gonder, 9 Gill (Md.) 288.

Massachusetts.— Bassett v. Sanborn, 9 Cush. (Mass.) 58.

New York.— Powers v. Hogan, 6 N. Y. St. 239.

See 11 Cent. Dig. tit. "Contracts," § 1554.

36. San Francisco Bridge Co. v. Dunbarton Land, etc., Co., 119 Cal. 272, 51 Pac. 335; Golden Gate Lumber Co. v. Sahrbacher, 105 Cal. 114, 38 Pac. 635; Adams v. Burbank, 103 Cal. 646, 37 Pac. 640; Dobbins v. Higgins, 78 Ill. 440; Lincoln v. Schwartz, 70 Ill. 134; Forkner v. Purl, 1 Ind. 489.

A builder cannot recover an instalment under the common counts if he has not performed his contract at the time an instalment is due, as no breach is committed by the employer. Golden Gate Lumber Co. v. Sahrbacher, 105 Cal. 114, 38 Pac. 635.

Grounds of justifiable abandonment see supra, II, E, 1.

37. Kirkland v. Oates, 25 Ala. 465.

38. Richardson v. Shaw, 1 Mo. App. 234, holding in a case where the contract provides for payment in instalments as the work progresses that the builder is entitled to be paid instalments that have been earned but not any part of an instalment not fully earned. See also Bailey v. Brown, 9 Ohio Cir. Ct. 455, 6 Ohio Cir. Dec. 440.

39. Cleary v. Sohier, 120 Mass. 210, Galyon v. Ketchen, 85 Tenn. 55, 1 S. W. 508; Wilson v. Knott, 3 Humphr. (Tenn.) 473. But see Fildew v. Besley, 42 Mich. 100, 3 N. W. 278, 36 Am. Rep. 433.

40. Haynes v. Second Baptist Church, 88 Mo. 285, 57 Am. Rep. 413, in which case it was held that Mo. Rev. Stat. § 667, providing that no suit should be maintained against any tenant or other person in whose house or apartment fire should accidentally take place, or should any recompense be made by any such person for any damages occasioned thereby, did not prevent a person who had made improvements for another on a building, accidentally destroyed by fire, from recovering value of his work and the materials furnished in the improvements. To the same effect is Butterfield v. Byron, 153 Mass. 517, 27 N. E. 667, 25 Am. St. Rep. 654, 12 L. R. A. 571; Cook v. McCabe, 53 Wis. 250, 10 N. W. 507, 40 Am. Rep. 765.

Destruction of building as excuse for nonperformance see supra, V, B, 7.

41. Alabama.— Hutchison v. Cullum, 23 Ala. 622.

Arkansas.— Manuel v. Campbell, 3 Ark. 324.

California.— Reynolds v. Jourdan, 6 Cal. 108; De Boom v. Priestly, 1 Cal. 206.

Louisiana.— Joublanc v. Daunoy, 6 La. 656.

Virginia.— Clark v. Franklin, 7 Leigh (Va.) 1.

See 11 Cent. Dig. tit. "Contracts," § 1551.

Partial change in contract.— Where plaintiff contracted to build according to plans and specifications, but during the progress of the work many deviations were mutually assented to but all conditions in the original contract as to times and amounts of payments as the work progressed were strictly complied with and no new express contract was entered into, it was held that the deviations were not such as justified the builder in setting up a claim of quantum meruit except as to extra work done and extra materials furnished. Goodwin v. McCormick, 6 N. Y. Suppl. 662, 25 N. Y. St. 1017.

Effect of partial modification see supra, II, D, 5.

was not performed and materials were not supplied under a special agreement,[42] as where such material departures from plans and specifications are made at the instance of the owner as will result in a different undertaking from that contracted for and partly performed and no agreement is made as to the price for such departures;[43] where by some default of his own the builder is precluded from recovering on a special agreement;[44] or where performance is rendered impossible by the conduct of the owner.[45] Moreover, assumpsit for the value of the work performed and the materials furnished is the only remedy available to a builder who has not complied with his contract.[46] Assumpsit, however, will not lie where the builder has entirely failed to perform his contract,[47] or where the building contract is an entire one, and the builder has performed part of it, and then wilfully refuses without legal excuse, and against the owner's consent, to perform the rest.[48]

3. CONDITIONS PRECEDENT — a. Performance of Work — (I) WHERE ACTION IS FOR CONTRACT PRICE. In accordance with general principles, performance of the work which the builder agreed to do is a condition precedent to his recovery of the contract price, even if performance by him is not expressly provided for in the contract.[49]

42. McDaniel v. Webster, 2 Houst. (Del.) 305; Kline v. Foster, 1 Walk. (Pa.) 250.

43. Manuel v. Campbell, 3 Ark. 324; Wheeden v. Fiske, 50 N. H. 125; Rhodes v. Clute, 17 Utah 137, 53 Pac. 990; Hood v. Smiley, 5 Wyo. 70, 36 Pac. 856.

44. Western v. Sharp, 14 B. Mon. (Ky.) 144; Dermott v. Jones, 23 How. (U. S.) 220, 16 L. ed. 442.

45. Alabama.—Danforth v. Tennessee, etc., Co., 93 Ala. 614, 11 So. 60.

California.— Adams v. Burbank, 103 Cal. 646, 37 Pac. 640; Reynolds v. Jourdan, 6 Cal. 108.

Colorado.— Walling v. Warren, 2 Colo. 434; Cochran v. Balfe, 12 Colo. App. 75, 54 Pac. 399.

Delaware.— McDaniel v. Webster, 2 Houst. (Del.) 305.

Illinois.— Waggeman v. Janssen, 74 Ill. App. 38.

Indiana.— Forkner v. Purl, 1 Ind. 489.

Kentucky.—Escott v. White, 10 Bush (Ky.) 169.

Maryland.— North v. Mallory, 94 Md. 305, 51 Atl. 89.

New York.— Powers v. Hogan, 12 Daly (N. Y.) 444.

Vermont.— Hill v. Hovey, 26 Vt. 109.

See 11 Cent. Dig. tit. "Contracts," § 1554.

Insufficiency of evidence to show prevention by owner.— Evidence that a builder before completion on receipt of a notice from the owner of his election to complete the work thereafter ceases to build does not show that he was prevented by the owner from proceeding with the work so as to entitle him to a quantum meruit. Beecher v. Schuback, 1 N. Y. App. Div. 359, 37 N. Y. Suppl. 325, 72 N. Y. St. 511 [affirmed in 158 N. Y. 687, 53 N. E. 1123].

Conduct of owner affecting performance by builder see supra, V, B, 7, a, (III).

46. Dermott v. Jones, 23 How. (U. S.) 220, 16 L. ed. 442.

What constitutes compliance with contract see supra, V, B.

The contract so far as it can be traced furnishes the rule for damages.— De Boom v. Priestly, 1 Cal. 206; Wheeden v. Fiske, 50 N. H. 125.

Measure of damages see infra, VII, D.

Admissibility of contract in evidence see infra, VII, A, 7.

47. Arkansas.— Fitzgerald v. La Porte, 64 Ark. 34, 40 S. W. 261; Manuel v. Campbell, 3 Ark. 324; Simpson v. McDonald, 2 Ark. 370.

California.— De Boom v. Priestly, 1 Cal. 206.

Connecticut.— Blakeslee v. Holt, 42 Conn. 226.

Illinois.— Springdale Cemetery Assoc. v. Smith, 32 Ill. 252.

Ohio.— Allen v. Curles, 6 Ohio St. 505.

Wisconsin.— Malbon v. Birney, 11 Wis. 107.

England.— Ellis v. Hamlen, 3 Taunt. 52, 12 Rev. Rep. 595.

48. Hammond v. Miller, 2 Mackey (D. C.) 145. See also Cutter v. Powell, 2 Smith Lead. Cas. 1212.

49. Escott v. White, 10 Bush (Ky.) 169; Allen v. Sanders, 7 B. Mon. (Ky.) 593; Morford v. Mastin, 6 T. B. Mon. (Ky.) 609, 17 Am. Dec. 168; Kettle v. Harvey, 21 Vt. 301; Pormann v. Walsh, 97 Wis. 356, 72 N. W. 881, 65 Am. St. Rep. 125.

Performance of conditions precedent in general see ACTIONS, I, N [1 Cyc. 692].

Performance of an express condition precedent imposed by contract see, generally, CONTRACTS.

New agreement by builder condition precedent to recovery on original contract.— Where, on payment to him, on the superintendent's certificate of a part of the contract price, the contractor indorses thereon that he receives such payment with the understanding that certain defective work will be made satisfactory before further payment is made, he thereby makes a new agreement, which must be complied with before he can recover anything more on the original contract. Pormann v. Walsh, 97 Wis. 356, 72 N. W. 881, 65 Am. St. Rep. 125.

(II) Where Action Is For Value of Work or Materials. It has frequently been held by courts of eminent authority that, where there is a special building contract, the builder cannot recover compensation for work and labor done or materials furnished by him, unless he has performed his contract according to the terms thereof, or unless there has been a waiver of strict performance;[50] the hardship, however, of this rule upon a builder, who has undesignedly violated his contract, and the inequitable advantage it gives to an owner who receives and retains the benefit of the builder's labor and materials has led to its qualification,[51] and the weight of authority shows that strict literal performance of a building contract is not a condition precedent to a recovery thereon,[52] a substantial performance being all that is requisite.[53] The doctrine, however, of

Where a contract provides for payment of part of the price previous to performance, and also provides for completion by a certain day, and for payment of the balance when the work is completed, performance is a condition precedent to recovery of any part of the contract price except the amount agreed to be paid without reference to performance (Allen v. Sanders, 7 B. Mon. (Ky.) 593; Kettle v. Harvey, 21 Vt. 301), but where the builder was to receive so much when a portion was completed and the balance to be paid another person when the remainder was completed, it was held that completion of the latter work was not a condition precedent to the builder's right of action (Ford v. Bronaugh, 11 B. Mon. (Ky.) 14); so completion was held not a condition precedent, where the builder agreed to finish building before a specified date in consideration of a certain sum, part of which was to be paid on another date and the balance when the house was finished (Seers v. Fowler, 2 Johns. (N. Y.) 272). See also Beinhauer v. Gleason, 15 N. Y. St. 227.

Necessity of demand for performance.— Where the time specified for performance has been abrogated and the builder has continued his work but was prevented from completing by the fault of the owner, the builder is not entitled to abandon his contract and recover for what he has done in assumpsit without making a demand for performance upon the owner, since the latter had a reasonable time in which to perform. Lawson v. Hogan, 93 N. Y. 39.

50. Connecticut.— Smith v. Scott's Ridge School Dist., 20 Conn. 312.

Maine.— White v. Oliver, 36 Me. 92; Hill v. Millburn School Dist. No. 2, 17 Me. 316.

Mississippi.— Wooten v. Read, 2 Sm. & M. (Miss.) 585.

Missouri.— Helm v. Wilson, 4 Mo. 41, 28 Am. Dec. 336.

North Carolina.— Lawing v. Rintles, 97 N. C. 350, 2 S. E. 252.

England.— Ellis v. Hamlen, 3 Taunt. 52, 12 Rev. Rep. 595.

See 11 Cent. Dig. tit. "Contracts," § 1563.

51. Pinches v. Swedish Evangelical Lutheran Church, 55 Conn. 183, 10 Atl. 264; Smith v. Gugerty, 4 Barb. (N. Y.) 614; Carroll v. Welch, 26 Tex. 147; Hilliard v. Crabtree, 11 Tex. 264, 62 Am. Dec. 475; Bradford v. Whitcomb, 11 Tex. Civ. App. 221, 32 S. W. 571.

52. Pinches v. Swedish Evangelical Lutheran Church, 55 Conn. 183, 10 Atl. 264; Gleason v. Smith, 9 Cush. (Mass.) 484, 57 Am. Dec. 62; Heckmann v. Pinkney, 81 N. Y. 211; Vogel v. Friedman, 68 N. Y. Suppl. 820; Bradford v. Whitcomb, 11 Tex. Civ. App. 221, 32 S. W. 571; Jennings v. Willer, (Tex. Civ. App. 1895) 32 S. W. 24.

53. California.— Marchant v. Hayes, 117 Cal. 669, 49 Pac. 840; Perry v. Quackenbush, 105 Cal. 299, 38 Pac. 740.

Connecticut.— Pinches v. Swedish Evangelical Lutheran Church, 55 Conn. 183, 10 Atl. 264; Smith v. Scott's Ridge School Dist., 20 Conn. 312.

Illinois.— Palmer v. Meriden Britannia Co., 188 Ill. 508, 59 N. E. 247 [affirming 88 Ill. App. 485].

Massachusetts.— Cullen v. Sears, 112 Mass. 299; Gleason v. Smith, 9 Cush. (Mass.) 484, 57 Am. Dec. 62.

Minnesota.— Elliott v. Caldwell, 43 Minn. 357, 45 N. W. 845, 9 L. R. A. 52.

New York.— Lennon v. Smith, 161 N. Y. 661, 57 N. E. 1115 [affirming 23 N. Y. App. Div. 293, 48 N. Y. Suppl. 456]; Crouch v. Gutmann, 134 N. Y. 45, 31 N. E. 271, 45 N. Y. St. 470, 30 Am. St. Rep. 608; Nolan v. Whitney, 88 N. Y. 648; Woodward v. Fuller, 80 N. Y. 312; Sinclair v. Tallmadge, 35 Barb. (N. Y.) 602; Smith v. Gugerty, 4 Barb. (N. Y.) 614; Anderson v. Meislahn, 12 Daly (N. Y.) 149; Ryan v. Voelkl, 26 Misc. (N. Y.) 840, 56 N. Y. Suppl. 1065; Vogel v. Friedman, 68 N. Y. Suppl. 820; Rush v. Wagner, 12 N. Y. Suppl. 2, 34 N. Y. St. 798.

North Dakota.— Anderson v. Todd, 8 N. D. 158, 77 N. W. 599.

Texas.— Linch v. Paris Lumber, etc., Elevator Co., 80 Tex. 23, 15 S. W. 208; Bradford v. Whitcomb, 11 Tex. Civ. App. 221, 32 S. W. 571; Jennings v. Willer, (Tex. Civ. App. 1895) 32 S. W. 24.

United States.— Woodruff v. Hough, 91 U. S. 596, 23 L. ed. 332.

Canada.—Hamilton v. Myles, 24 U. C. C. P. 309.

See 11 Cent. Dig. tit. "Contracts," § 1353.

What constitutes substantial performance see supra, V, B, 2.

"substantial compliance" does not apply when the omissions or departures from the contract are intentional,[54] or so substantial as not to be capable of remedy, so that an allowance out of the contract price would not give the owner substantially what he contracted for,[55] or where the contract must be performed to the satisfaction of the owner or architect.[56]

b. References, Certificates, Decisions, or Estimates. In accordance with general principles,[57] where the contract either expressly or impliedly[58] makes a reference to arbitration, or a certificate, decision, or estimate of an architect a condition precedent to the right of the builder to sue on his contract, the builder must comply with the condition before suing for compensation on the contract, 54. Perry v. Quackenbush, 105 Cal. 299, 38 Pac. 740; Elliott v. Caldwell, 43 Minn. 357, 45 N. W. 845, 9 L. R. A. 52; Anderson v. Todd, 8 N. D. 158, 77 N. W. 599; Ashley v. Henahan, 56 Ohio St. 559, 47 N. E. 573.

55. Anderson v. Pringle, 79 Minn. 433, 82 N. W. 682; Elliott v. Caldwell, 43 Minn. 357, 45 N. W. 845, 9 L. R. A. 52; Crouch v. Gutmann, 134 N. Y. 45, 31 N. E. 271, 45 N. Y. St. 470, 30 Am. St. Rep. 608; Anderson v. Todd, 8 N. D. 158, 77 N. W. 599.

56. Ryan v. Voelkl, 26 Misc. (N. Y.) 840, 56 N. Y. Suppl. 1065; Marshall v. Ames, 11 Ohio Cir. Ct. 363. See also Kane v. Ohio Stone Co., 39 Ohio St. 1.

57. For matters relating to arbitration and award see, generally, ARBITRATION AND AWARD, 3 Cyc. 568.

It is not requisite to submit to arbitration a claim that extra work was not properly done, where the contract provides that a dispute as to the meaning or scope of the specifications, or as to what is extra work outside of the contract, or as to the value of work omitted by the builder, shall be referred to the architect. Gallagher v. Sharpless, 134 Pa. St. 134, 19 Atl. 491.

58. California.— Gray v. La Societe Francaise, etc., 131 Cal. 566, 63 Pac. 848; Scammon v. Denio, 72 Cal. 393, 14 Pac. 98; Holmes v. Richet, 56 Cal. 307, 38 Am. Rep. 54.

Colorado.— Denver, etc., Constr. Co. v. Stout, 8 Colo. 61, 5 Pac. 627.

Illinois.— International Cement Co. v. Beifeld, 173 Ill. 179, 50 N. E. 716 [reversing 67 Ill. App. 110]; Arnold v. Bournique, 144 Ill. 132, 33 N. E. 530, 36 Am. St. Rep. 419, 20 L. R. A. 493; Michaelis v. Wolf, 136 Ill. 68, 26 N. E. 384; Barney v. Giles, 120 Ill. 154, 11 N. E. 206; Fowler v. Deakman, 84 Ill. 130; Coey v. Lehman, 79 Ill. 173; Packard v. Van Schoick, 58 Ill. 79; Mills v. Weeks, 21 Ill. 561; Chicago Athletic Assoc. v. Eddy Electric Mfg. Co., 77 Ill. App. 204; Vincent v. Stiles, 77 Ill. App. 200.

Indiana.— Cosby v. Adams, Wils. (Ind.) 342.

Kansas.— Thurber v. Ryan, 12 Kan. 453.

Maryland.— Gill v. Vogler, 52 Md. 663.

Massachusetts.— Gillis v. Cobe, 177 Mass. 584, 59 N. E. 455; Beharrell v. Quimby, 162 Mass. 571, 39 N. E. 407.

Michigan.— Hanley v. Walker, 79 Mich. 607, 45 N. W. 57, 8 L. R. A. 207.

Minnesota.— Shaw v. Winona First Baptist Church, 44 Minn. 22, 46 N. W. 146.

Missouri.—Dinsmore v. Livingston County, 60 Mo. 241.

New Jersey.— Bradner v. Roffsell, 57 N. J. L. 32, 29 Atl. 317; Byrne v. Sisters of Charity, 45 N. J. L. 213.

New York.— Smith v. Wetmore, 167 N. Y. 234, 60 N. E. 419 [affirming 41 N. Y. App. Div. 290, 58 N. Y. Suppl. 402]; Dwyer v. Board of Education, 165 N. Y. 613, 59 N. E. 1122 [affirming 27 N. Y. App. Div. 87, 50 N. Y. Suppl. 123]; Wangler v. Swift, 90 N. Y. 38; Sherman v. New York, 1 N. Y. 316; Oberlies v. Bullinger, 75 Hun (N. Y.) 248, 27 N. Y. Suppl. 19, 57 N. Y. St. 752; Gillies v. Manhattan Beach Imp. Co., 73 Hun (N. Y.) 507, 26 N. Y. Suppl. 381, 56 N. Y. St. 206; Weeks v. O'Brien, 59 N. Y. Super. Ct. 28, 12 N. Y. Suppl. 720, 35 N. Y. St. 463; Haden v. Coleman, 42 N. Y. Super. Ct. 256; Martin v. Leggett, 4 E. D Smith (N. Y.) 255; Diehl v. Schmalacker, 26 Misc. (N. Y.) 835, 57 N. Y. Suppl. 244; Beecher v. Schuback, 4 Misc. (N. Y.) 54, 23 N. Y. Suppl. 604, 53 N. Y. St. 74; Smith v. Briggs, 3 Den. (N. Y.) 73.

Ohio.— Ashley v. Henahan, 56 Ohio St. 559, 47 N. E. 573.

Oregon.— Ball v. Doud, 26 Oreg. 14, 37 Pac. 70.

Washington.— Schmidt v. North Yakima, 12 Wash. 121, 40 Pac. 790.

Wisconsin.— Boden v. Maher, 95 Wis. 65, 69 N. W. 980; Hudson v. McCartney, 33 Wis. 331; Baasen v. Baehr, 7 Wis. 516.

United States.— Sweeny v. U. S., 15 Ct. Cl. 400.

England.— Morgan v. Birnie, 9 Bing. 672, 23 E. C. L. 754; Clarke v. Watson, 18 C. B. N. S. 278, 34 L. J. C. P. 148, 11 L. T. Rep. N. S. 679, 13 Wkly. Rep. 345; Milner v. Field, 5 Exch. 829, 20 L. J. Exch. 68; Richardson v. Mahon, 4 L. R. Ir. 486.

Canada.— Guilbault v. McGreevy, 18 Can. Supreme Ct. 609.

See 11 Cent. Dig. tit. "Contracts," § 1308.

The rule is the same as well in equity as at law.— Barney v. Giles, 120 Ill. 154, 11 N. E. 206.

Objection that condition precedent was not performed not available for first time on appeal.— An owner, relying on a provision requiring a disagreement between the builder and owner as to the price of extras to be referred to arbitration, cannot object to the omission of a reference for the first time on appeal. Mueller v. Rosen, 179 Ill. 130, 53 N. E. 625 [affirming 79 Ill. App. 420].

his employer being under no liability to pay unless this is done,[59] if there is not sufficient excuse for the builder's failure to refer or obtain such certificate, decision, or estimate,[60] such as a fraudulent,[61] malicious,[62] capricious,[63] or unreasonable[64] refusal to determine the facts or issue the certificate;[65] or a waiver of the condition;[66] or the builder is prevented from obtaining such certificate, 59. Scott v. Liverpool Corp., 3 De G. & J. 334, 5 Jur. N. S. 105, 28 L. J. Ch. 230, 7 Wkly. Rep. 153.

60. Holmes v. Richet, 56 Cal. 307, 38 Am. Rep. 54; International Cement Co. v. Beifeld, 173 Ill. 179, 50 N. E. 716 [reversing 67 Ill. App. 110]; Barney v. Giles, 120 Ill. 154, 11 N. E. 206; Mills v. Weeks, 21 Ill. 561; Martin v. Leggett, 4 E. D. Smith (N. Y.) 255.

Former membership of the architect on the board of directors of an employing corporation is not conclusive on the question whether his conduct was such as to excuse the builder from obtaining his certificate, as required. Chicago Athletic Assoc. v. Eddy Electric Mfg. Co., 77 Ill. App. 204.

61. Illinois.— Michaelis v. Wolf, 136 Ill. 68, 26 N. E. 384; Fowler v. Deakman, 84 Ill. 130.

Michigan.— Hanley v. Walker, 79 Mich. 607, 45 N. W. 57, 8 L. R. A. 207.

Minnesota.— Shaw v. Winona First Baptist Church, 44 Minn. 22, 46 N. W. 146.

Missouri.— Dinsmore v. Livingston County, 60 Mo. 241.

New Jersey.— Bradner v. Roffsell, 57 N. J. L. 32, 29 Atl. 317.

New York.— Beecher v. Schuback, 4 Misc. (N. Y.) 54, 23 N. Y. Suppl. 604, 53 N. Y. St. 74; Fay v. Muhlker, 1 Misc. (N. Y.) 321, 20 N. Y. Suppl. 671, 48 N. Y. St. 699.

Ohio.— Ashley v. Henahan, 56 Ohio St. 559, 47 N. E. 573.

Pennsylvania.—Pittsburg Terra-Cotta Lumber Co. v. Sharp, 190 Pa. St. 256, 44 Wkly. Notes Cas. (Pa.) 5, 42 Atl. 685.

Texas.— Mills v. Paul, (Tex. Civ. App. 1895) 30 S. W. 558.

Washington.— Schmidt v. North Yakima, 12 Wash. 121, 40 Pac. 790.

Wisconsin.— Hudson v. McCartney, 33 Wis. 331.

See 11 Cent. Dig. tit. "Contracts," § 1310.

There is a fraudulent refusal where the architect recommends a particular kind of material which the builder uses and then the architect refuses to give a certificate of completion. Badger v. Kerber, 61 Ill. 328.

Character of mistake that will authorize recovery without certificate.— The mistake must be an intentional misapprehension or ignorance of some material fact which must be clearly shown, and so palpable as to amount to dishonest or arbitrary action. Wendt v. Vogel, 87 Wis. 462, 58 N. W. 764.

That a builder feared to apply for a certificate because he believed the architect to be fraudulently prejudiced against him is not a sufficient excuse for the absence of the certificate. Gilmore v. Courtney, 158 Ill. 432, 41 N. E. 1023 [reversing 54 Ill. App. 417].

62. Dinsmore v. Livingston County, 60 Mo. 241.

63. Shaw v. Winona First Baptist Church, 44 Minn. 22, 46 N. W. 146; Terra Cotta Co. v. Sharp, 7 Pa. Dist. 544; Sullivan v. Byrne, 10 S. C. 122; Bentley v. Davidson, 74 Wis. 420, 43 N. W. 139.

64. MacKnight Flintic Stone Co. v. New York, 160 N. Y. 72, 54 N. E. 661 [reversing 31 N. Y. App. Div. 232, 52 N. Y. Suppl. 747]; Nolan v. Whitney, 88 N. Y. 648; Thomas v. Fleury, 26 N. Y. 26; Fox v. Clark, 44 N. Y. App. Div. 626, 60 N. Y. Suppl. 237; Murdock v. Jones, 3 N. Y. App. Div. 221, 38 N. Y. Suppl. 461, 73 N. Y. St. 617; Van Keuren v. Miller, 71 Hun (N. Y.) 68, 24 N. Y. Suppl. 580, 54 N. Y. St. 229; McConologue v. Larkins, 32 Misc. (N. Y.) 166, 66 N. Y. Suppl. 188; Beecher v. Schuback, 4 Misc. (N. Y.) 54, 23 N. Y. Suppl. 604, 53 N. Y. St. 74; Highton v. Dessau, 19 N. Y. Suppl. 395, 46 N. Y. St. 922; Mitchell v. Dougherty, 90 Fed. 639, 62 U. S. App. 443, 33 C. C. A. 205.

Where there is not a substantial performance of the contract it is not unreasonable to refuse to give an architect's certificate. Weeks v. O'Brien, 59 N. Y. Super. Ct. 28, 12 N. Y. Suppl. 720, 35 N. Y. St. 463.

The unreasonable withholding of a certificate has been said not to justify its nonproduction.— "The best judgment of the architect upon the matter so committed to his determination, has been agreed upon as the test of performance," and the builder cannot reject or repudiate the architect's refusal to give a certificate to the other upon "allegation or testimony tending to show that his action has been 'unreasonable.'" Schenke v. Rowell, 7 Daly (N. Y.) 286.

There is no unreasonable delay in furnishing a certificate, where the building operation consists of an aqueduct many miles in length and involves an outlay of several millions of dollars, and there is a demand at about the same time for a final estimate under several contracts, all of which involve a great amount of figuring, and the certificate is given three months after the work is done. O'Brien v. New York, 139 N. Y. 543, 35 N. E. 323, 55 N. Y. St. 596 [affirmed in 142 N. Y. 671, 37 N. E. 465, 60 N. Y. St. 388].

65. Fowler v. Deakman, 84 Ill. 130.

A demand for a certificate is a prerequisite to suit.—Wangler v. Swift, 90 N. Y. 38.

66. Connecticut.— Healy v. Fallon, 69 Conn. 228, 37 Atl. 495.

Illinois.— Frost v. Rand, 51 Ill. App. 276.

Indiana.— Cosby v. Adams, Wils. (Ind.) 342.

New Jersey.— Byrne v. Sisters of Charity, 45 N. J. L. 213.

New York.— Haden v. Coleman, 42 N. Y. Super. Ct. 256; Diehl v. Schmalacker, 26 Misc. (N. Y.) 835, 57 N. Y. Suppl. 244; Fay decision, or estimate by some cause over which the builder himself has no control whatever.[67]

c. Special Conditions. There must be compliance with conditions requiring

v. Muhlker, 1 Misc. (N. Y.) 321, 20 N. Y. Suppl. 671, 48 N. Y. St. 699.

Ohio.— Ashley v. Henahan, 56 Ohio St. 559, 47 N. E. 573.

Pennsylvania.— Wilkinson v. Becker, 185 Pa. St. 225, 39 Atl. 885.

Wisconsin.— Ashland Lime, etc., Co. v. Shores, 105 Wis. 122, 81 N. W. 136.

See 11 Cent. Dig. tit. "Contracts," § 1317.

Waiver may be express or implied.— Cosby v. Adams, Wils. (Ind.) 342.

What constitutes waiver.—A provision providing for payments to be made on progress certificates that is ignored by both builder and owner from the commencement to the end of operations will be deemed waived (Healy v. Fallon, 69 Conn. 228, 37 Atl. 495; Ashland Lime, etc., Co. v. Shores, 105 Wis. 122, 81 N. W. 136), or where the owner accepts a certificate issued by the architect's assistant but asks for delay in making payment (McEntyre v. Tucker, 10 Misc. (N. Y.) 669, 31 N. Y. Suppl. 672, 64 N. Y. St. 298 [overruling 5 Misc. (N. Y.) 228, 25 N. Y. Suppl. 95, 54 N. Y. St. 826, 23 N. Y. Civ. Proc. 171]); so, where the builder delivers possession of an uncompleted building to the owner who promises to pay therefor (Duell v. McCraw, 86 Hun (N. Y.) 331, 33 N. Y. Suppl. 528, 67 N. Y. St. 163), or the owner's acceptance of a building as under a completed contract (Smith v. Alker, 102 N. Y. 87, 5 N. E. 791; McPherson v. Rockwell, 37 Wis. 159), although mere use does not amount to a waiver (Gillis v. Cobe, 177 Mass. 584, 59 N. E. 455), or taking possession of the premises by the owner after the builder quit work (Hanley v. Walker, 79 Mich. 607, 45 N. W. 57, 8 L. R. A. 207). So the provision is waived where the owner commences an interpleader action to determine his liability under the contract, and alleges the amount which he claims is due because of the cost of completing a building abandoned by the contractor (Edison Electric Illuminating Co. v. Gustavino Fire Proof Constr. Co., 16 N. Y. App. Div. 350, 44 N. Y. Suppl. 1026), or the owner fails to employ an architect to supervise the construction of his building (Diehl v. Schmalacker, 62 N. Y. Suppl. 1080 [affirming 26 Misc. (N. Y.) 835, 57 N. Y. Suppl. 244]), or has paid more than is due of the contract price, without requiring a certificate, and does not afterward demand certificates for the residue of the work (Bannister v. Patty, 35 Wis. 215. And see Vermont St. M. E. Church v. Brose, 104 Ill. 206), but the payment of one instalment without a certificate does not waive a right to exact it before making others (Bradley Currier Co. v. Bernz, 55 N. J. Eq. 10, 35 Atl. 832; Haden v. Coleman, 42 N. Y. Super. Ct. 256; Hartley v. Murtha, 5 N. Y. App. Div. 408, 39 N. Y. Suppl. 212; Barton v. Hermann, 11 Abb. Pr. N. S. (N. Y.) 378; Brown v. Winehill, 3 Wash. 524, 29 Pac. 1037), though a part payment of a sum due without objection or protest may tend to show a waiver of the production of a certificate upon which final payment is dependent (Cosby v. Adams, Wils. (Ind.) 342). Again an assumption of unauthorized power by architect is a waiver (Frost v. Rand, 51 Ill. App. 276), as is the completion of the work by the owner (Early v. O'Brien, 51 N. Y. App. Div. 569, 64 N. Y. Suppl. 848). A failure, however, of the architect to abandon construction is not a waiver. Bradley Currier Co. v. Bernz, 55 N. J. Eq. 10, 35 Atl. 832. But see Haden v. Coleman, 73 N. Y. 567 [reversing 42 N. Y. Super. Ct. 256].

67. Fowler v. Deakman, 84 Ill. 130; Beinhauer v. Gleason, 15 N. Y. St. 227; Whelden v. Boyd, 114 Pa. St. 228, 6 Atl. 384; Brunsden v. Beresford, Cab. & El. 125.

Where the owner has by positive acts prevented full performance on the part of the builder, the latter is relieved from a contractual necessity of procuring a certificate, showing a satisfactory completion according to contract (Justice v. Elwert, 28 Oreg. 460, 43 Pac. 649); thus a discharge of the architect by the owner excuses the builder furnishing a certificate (Fitts v. Reinhart, 102 Iowa 311, 71 N. W. 227).

Where materials furnished by a subcontractor are seized through no fault on his part by attachment against the original contractor, the subcontractor can recover without acceptance of such materials by the architect, since the original contractor has put it beyond the subcontractor's power to furnish evidence of approval by the architect. U. S. v. Jack, 124 Mich. 210, 82 N. W. 1049.

Where the builder frequently requested the owner to have the architect come and make an examination of the building but he did not direct him to come, and the architect would not come without his direction, it was held that a compliance with a condition that the builder furnish a certificate was not essential. McDonald v. Patterson, 186 Ill. 381, 57 N. E. 1027 [affirming 84 Ill. App. 326].

The builder is relieved from an obligation to obtain a certificate by the owner's repudiation of the contract and his refusal to permit the builder to proceed. Smith v. Wetmore, 41 N. Y. App. Div. 290, 58 N. Y. Suppl. 402 [affirmed in 167 N. Y. 234, 60 N. E. 419]. See also Velsor v. Eaton, 14 N. Y. Suppl. 467, 39 N. Y. St. 21.

Where a builder fails to proceed on account of the insolvency of the owner and his inability to further perform the contract, it is not necessary for the builder to get estimates or certificates from the architect in order to sue. Childress v. Smith, (Tex. Civ. App. 1896) 37 S. W. 1076.

Where it is the owner's duty to procure a certificate a failure of the architect to give a certificate is a sufficient excuse. McKone v. Williams, 37 Ill. App. 591.

that the work must arrive at a certain stage before any payment thereon is due,[68] or that work must be done with all possible speed,[69] or that some contingency must occur before payment is due,[70] or that all subcontractors and materialmen must be paid by the builder before payment to him,[71] or that the builder must agree that the final instalment of the contract price will be accepted by him in final settlement of all claims.[72]

4. DEFENSES. Delay in completion is a defense by reason of which the employer may set off damages sustained by reason of plaintiff's failure to complete within the time specified,[73] but is not a defense where extra work requiring additional time was ordered,[74] or where defendant, without objection, permitted the builder to finish after the time stipulated.[75] Non-acceptance by an architect is not a defense, where plaintiff sues on quantum meruit and defendant has been benefited and is in possession.[76] A defense of non-performance is not permissible where defendant has, as authorized by the contract, removed improper material and replaced it at the cost of plaintiff,[77] or, where the work done and materials furnished were approved by an architect, who is sole arbitrator under the contract as to the character of the work done and materials furnished, and whose decision is to be binding and conclusive.[78] A failure of the builder to obtain a certificate is a defense,[79] but a refusal to submit a dispute as to value of work or materials to arbitration is not a defense, where the agreement neither expressly nor by necessary implication made such submission a condition precedent to the institution of an action.[80] Defendant, however, is not precluded from showing

68. Sullivan v. Eusner, 27 N. Y. App. Div. 103, 50 N. Y. Suppl. 93.

69. St. Louis Steam-Heating, etc., Co. v. Bissell, 41 Mo. App. 426.

70. Peery v. Cooper, 8 Mo. 205.

71. Downey v. O'Donnell, 86 Ill. 49; Leverone v. Arancio, 179 Mass. 439, 61 N. E. 45. But see Beinhauer v. Gleason, 15 N. Y. St. 227, in which case a provision of this character was regarded, not as requiring the performance of a condition precedent, but as a covenant for a breach of which the owner might, should he suffer damage, sue.

72. Leverone v. Arancio, 179 Mass. 439, 61 N. E. 45.

73. Cornish v. Snydam, 99 Ala. 620, 13 So. 118.

The owner may set off any amount expended by him in completing, after the builder has refused to complete, upon being notified so to do, the contract authorizing him to finish the building under such circumstances. Scammon v. Denio, 72 Cal. 393, 14 Pac. 98.

Where time is of the essence of a contract an architect's certificate of completion, and the sum due to the contractor, which fails to state completion within the time fixed, will not preclude the owner from insisting upon the damages agreed upon for delay. Downey v. O'Donnell, 86 Ill. 49.

Excuses for delay in completion see supra, V, B, 7.

Amount of deduction see infra, VII, D.

74. Kenny v. Monahan, 53 N. Y. App. Div. 421, 66 N. Y. Suppl. 10.

Right of builder to additional time see supra, V, B, 5, c.

75. Gallagher v. Nichols, 16 Abb. Pr. N. S. (N. Y.) 337.

76. Everroad v. Schwartzkopf, 123 Ind. 35, 23 N. E. 969.

77. Charles v. E. F. Hallack Lumber, etc., Co., 22 Colo. 283, 43 Pac. 548.

Excuses for non-performance see supra, V, B, 7.

78. Vulcanite Paving Co. v. Philadelphia Traction Co., 115 Pa. St. 280, 8 Atl. 777.

79. Hanley v. Walker, 79 Mich. 607, 45 N. W. 57, 8 L. R. A. 207.

Absence of final certificate.— Under a contract for construction providing that payment is to be made in five instalments, four as the work progresses and the fifth a certain number of days after the building is complete, delivered, and accepted, and that the payments are to be made on the certificate of an architect whose certificate is to be final and conclusive that the work done warrants the payments, and also providing that the work should be in strict accordance with plans and specifications, and that the building be delivered clean, in good condition, and complete, upon the understanding that the work will be at the builder's risk until accepted by the employer or his assigns as a whole, the owner is entitled to have the building delivered in good condition according to the specifications, and is not precluded by certificates for partial payment from pleading and proving in reconvention, in an action to recover the final payment, the damages sustained by the failure to deliver it in such condition, whether defects complained of were in fact done before the last of such certificates was given or not, when it does not appear that a certificate for final payment has been given. Blanchard v. Sonnefield, 116 Fed. 257.

Necessity of certificate see supra, VII, A, 3, b.

Legality of provision requiring certificate see supra, II, B, 4, c, (III).

80. Cole Mfg. Co. v. Collier, 91 Tenn. 525, 19 S. W. 672, 30 Am. St. Rep. 898. See also that the contract was not complied with because of a provision rendering a certificate that work has been completed a condition precedent to the builder's right to recover,[81] unless the certificate is made binding on the parties;[82] and where plaintiff claims for extras it is no defense that the contract provided for arbitration of any dispute respecting its value, unless defendant has taken steps to select arbitrators, or demanded or offered arbitration.[83] The fact that an architect's certificate does not comply with the requirements of the contract is not a defense, where defendant did not base his refusal to pay on that ground.[84] A breach of the warranty of the work, given by the builder, is a defense, notwithstanding the architect has certified that the work was done to his satisfaction.[85]

5. Pleading[86] — a. Complaint, Declaration, or Petition — (i) In General. Plaintiff must state facts sufficient to disclose a cause of action,[87] but it is sufficient to allege generally, the execution of a contract, performance of work thereunder by plaintiff, acceptance of the work by defendant, and the amount due thereon with a general prayer for judgment.[88]

(ii) Setting Out Contract, Plans, or Specifications — (a) Contract. Plaintiff need not set out a contract in full.[89]

Waterford v. Richfield Springs First Nat. Bank, 70 Hun (N. Y.) 520, 24 N. Y. Suppl. 392, 54 N. Y. St. 46.

81. Gallagher v. Minturn, 27 N. Y. App. Div. 274, 50 N. Y. Suppl. 491; McAlpine v. St. Clara Female Academy, 101 Wis. 468, 78 N. W. 173.

82. Gallagher v. Minturn, 27 N. Y. App. Div. 274, 50 N. Y. Suppl. 491.

83. Van Note v. Cook, 55 N. Y. App. Div. 55, 66 N. Y. Suppl. 1003.

84. Tilden v. Buffalo Office Bldg. Co., 27 N. Y. App. Div. 510, 50 N. Y. Suppl. 511.

Requisites and sufficiency of certificate see supra, III, B, 2, d, (II).

85. Gay v. Haskins, 11 Misc. (N. Y.) 134, 31 N. Y. Suppl. 1022, 65 N. Y. St. 53.

Warranty by builder see supra, II, B, 4, c, (IX); V, B, 3.

86. See, generally, Pleading.

87. A complaint alleging that plaintiff entered into a contract with defendant to build according to plans and specifications; that all material furnished and work done were subject to the approval of defendant's engineer; that thereafter a bed of quicksand was discovered where the structure was to be built; that a supplemental contract was made by which plaintiff agreed to furnish all material, etc., necessary to make a foundation for the structure; and that the work when completed was accepted by defendant and payment made, except for a balance, to recover for which action was brought, is sufficient. Smith v. Miami County, 6 Ind. App. 153, 33 N. E. 243. So a declaration is sufficient on general demurrer that sets forth a contract whereby plaintiff undertook to do certain work at certain prices in a workmanlike manner and defendant contracted to furnish material as it should be wanted, and alleging that plaintiff entered upon and executed a great part of the work, and as a breach that material was not furnished in consequence of which, after plaintiff had done the work, it was destroyed by the act of God, and that defendant refused to pay plaintiff for work he had done. Clark v. Franklin, 7 Leigh (Va.) 1.

A complaint in quantum meruit sufficiently stated the origin of plaintiff's cause of action, when it is alleged that plaintiff agreed to build at a specific price according to plans and specifications; that no plans or specifications were furnished, and that performance according thereto was practically abandoned; that plaintiff did the work as directed by defendant, frequently protesting that it was insecure, and that when nearly completed the building, without plaintiff's fault, fell to the ground. Siebert v. Leonard, 17 Minn. 433.

An averment that the owner verbally promised to pay the builder for work done in one building, according to the terms of a written contract for another building, sufficiently states a cause of action under the verbal contract, notwithstanding it does not state the terms of the written contract. O'Connor v. Adams, (Ariz. 1899) 59 Pac. 105.

Sufficiency of complaint or statement in justice's court.— In a proceeding in a justice's court it is sufficient if the account sued on or statement filed by plaintiff advises defendant of the nature of the cause of action and is definite enough to bar another action for the same claim. Gregg v. Dunn, 38 Mo. App. 283; Fleischmann v. Miller, 38 Mo. App. 177. See also, generally, Justices of the Peace.

Plaintiff must declare on the contract that was entered into.— Cox v. McLaughlin, 63 Cal. 196.

88. Davenport v. Jennings, 25 Nebr. 87, 40 N. W. 952.

Amendment of pleading.—Where the pleading alleges construction under a written contract and asks a recovery of the contract price it may be amended so as to claim the actual values of material furnished and work performed. Wabaunsee County School Dist. No. 2 v. Boyer, 46 Kan. 54, 26 Pac. 484.

89. Logan v. Berkshire Apartment Assoc., 18 N. Y. Suppl. 164, 46 N. Y. St. 14.

In order to avoid a variance it is usual, where plaintiff declares on a special contract,

(B) Plans or Specifications. Plans or specifications referred to in the contract are not parts of the contract in such sense as to require that they should be filed as exhibits, with a complaint on the contract, in order to authorize their admission in evidence,[90] and it is sufficient to refer to them as parties refer to them in a contract, leaving their identity in case of dispute to be established by parol evidence.[91]

(III) Particular Averments — (A) Conditions Precedent — (1) In General — (a) Necessity of Averment. Where the right of action depends upon a condition precedent its performance must be averred or else a legal reason dispensing with it.[92] Thus, where payments are to be made only upon the certificate or estimate of an architect or engineer, the obtaining of such certificate or estimate,[93] or else a good and sufficient excuse for the not obtaining it must be averred,[94] to add the common counts. Fowler v. Deakman, 84 Ill. 130.

90. Bird v. St. John's Episcopal Church, 154 Ind. 138, 56 N. E. 129.

91. Learmonth v. Veeder, 11 Wis. 138, wherein it was said that the reason of the rule was, that in many cases it would be utterly impracticable since "they consist sometimes of extensive and complicated plates or drawings, which it would often be exceedingly inconvenient, if not utterly impracticable to attach to and make a part of the pleadings in the case." These considerations lead to the conclusion that "plans and specifications, although referred to in the contract, and being so much a part of it that they are material to be known in order to determine what it requires, are yet, from their very nature so far incapable of being inserted in the pleadings."

For forms of declaring by reference to plans and specifications see Learmouth v. Veeder, 11 Wis. 138 [citing 2 Chitty Pl. 331, 332].

92. Schenke v. Rowell, 7 Daly (N. Y.) 286, 3 Abb. N. Cas. (N. Y.) 42.

The performance of a provision as to arbitration need not be alleged where defendant refused to pay, not on the ground that an arbitration was not carried out but for other reasons. Porter v. Swan, 14 Misc. (N. Y.) 406, 35 N. Y. Suppl. 1037, 70 N. Y. St. 758.

93. California.—Tally v. Parsons, 131 Cal. 516, 63 Pac. 833; Cox v. McLaughlin, 63 Cal. 196.

Illinois.— Michaelis v. Wolf, 136 Ill. 68, 26 N. E. 384; Vincent v. Stiles, 77 Ill. App. 200.

Kentucky.— Louisville Trust Co. v. Louisville Fire Proof Constr. Co., 22 Ky. L. Rep. 433, 57 S. W. 506.

Missouri.— Dinsmore v. Livingston County, 60 Mo. 241.

New Hampshire.— Smith v. Boston, etc., R. Co., 36 N. H. 458.

New York.— Weeks v. O'Brien, 141 N. Y. 199, 36 N. E. 185, 56 N. Y. St. 813; Schenke v. Rowell, 7 Daly (N. Y.) 286, 3 Abb. N. Cas. (N. Y.) 42; Fay v. Muhlker, 1 Misc. (N. Y.) 321, 20 N. Y. Suppl. 671, 48 N. Y. St. 699; Smith v. Briggs, 3 Den. (N. Y.) 73.

Oregon.— Meyers v. Pacific Constr. Co., 20 Oreg. 603, 27 Pac. 584.

Wisconsin.— Boden v. Maher, 95 Wis. 65, 69 N. W. 980.

See 11 Cent. Dig. tit. "Contracts," § 1636.

Reason why allegation is necessary.— It should be alleged that the person designated accepted, or was satisfied with, the materials or workmanship, that he measured or ascertained the quantity, or fixed the price, or did any other thing required by the contract, since, until these things are done, or their performance refused, plaintiff has no right of action. Smith v. Boston, etc., R. Co., 36 N. H. 458.

Certificate set out must comply with contract.—A declaration setting out a certificate which does not comply with the contract is insufficient. Smith v. Briggs, 3 Den. (N. Y.) 73.

Necessity of the averment when suing on the common counts on an implied contract to pay for labor and material see, generally, Assumpsit, Action of, 4 Cyc. 317; Work and Labor.

94. Cox v. McLaughlin, 63 Cal. 196; Vincent v. Stiles, 77 Ill. App. 200; Louisville Trust Co. v. Louisville Fire Proof Constr. Co., 22 Ky. L. Rep. 433, 57 S. W. 506; Weeks v. O'Brien, 141 N. Y. 199, 36 N. E. 185, 56 N. Y. St. 813; Schenke v. Rowell, 7 Daly (N. Y.) 286, 3 Abb. N. Cas. (N. Y.) 42; Smith v. Wetmore, 24 Misc. (N. Y.) 225, 52 N. Y. Suppl. 513 [affirmed in 41 N. Y. App. Div. 290, 58 N. Y. Suppl. 402].

Sufficient facts are stated to constitute a sufficient excuse where it is alleged that plaintiff fully performed the contract on his part, except the condition thereof requiring him to obtain the certificate of an architect, and that after the work was finished plaintiff demanded the certificate and notified the owner of such demand, requesting him to cause the certificate to be delivered, but that the same was refused. Bird v. St. John's Episcopal Church, 154 Ind. 138, 56 N. E. 129. See also Louisville Trust Co. v. Louisville Fire Proof Constr. Co., 22 Ky. L. Rep. 433, 57 S. W. 506.

Sufficient allegation of fraud as excuse.— An allegation that the builder demanded a certificate of the architect, and that he, acting in furtherance of a conspiracy with defendant to cheat and defraud plaintiff, fraudulently withheld the same, full compliance with the contract in all other respects being alleged, sufficiently charges fraud. Michaelis v. Wolf, 136 Ill. 68, 26 N. E. 384.

or that such condition requiring such a certificate or estimate was waived or modified.[95]

(b) Sufficiency of Averment. As a rule, a general averment that plaintiff has complied with all the provisions of the contract on his part is sufficient,[96] but it is not sufficient to allege merely the fact of an acceptance by the owner,[97] or that the work was performed substantially,[98] or completely,[99] or that the architect neglected and refused to make an estimate.[1]

It is not proper to aver that the architect's certificate was unreasonably withheld, where defendant undertook the completion of the work himself under a provision of the contract, thereby rendering the architect's certificate unnecessary to enable plaintiff to recover. Weeks v. O'Brien, 141 N. Y. 199, 36 N. E. 185, 56 N. Y. St. 813.

Amendment of complaint omitting allegation.—A complaint that is faulty because a necessary allegation in this regard is omitted may be amended on the trial so as to conform to proof or even on appeal. Smith v. Wetmore, 41 N. Y. App. Div. 290, 58 N. Y. Suppl. 402 [affirming 24 Misc. (N. Y.) 225, 52 N. Y. Suppl. 513].

Provision requiring payments to be made on written certificates.— In an action to recover an unpaid balance due on a building contract, specifying that all payments shall be made upon written certificate of the architects to the effect that such payments have become due, an averment that the architects, at the express direction and request of the owners, have failed, neglected, and refused to furnish plaintiff with further certificates is an equivalent to an averment that the architects, at the express direction and request of defendant and wholly on that account, refused the certificates, and that there was no reason or justification in the facts for such refusal, and is sufficient to entitle plaintiff to recover, especially where there is no motion to make more definite and certain. Wicker v. Messinger, 22 Ohio Cir. Ct. 712, 12 Ohio Cir. Dec. 425.

Though a contract provide that, in case of dispute as to value of extra work, it shall be submitted to arbitration, one suing thereon for extras need allege nothing as to arbitration, where defendant refused to pay, not on the ground that the arbitration clause was not carried out, but for other reasons. Porter v. Swan, 14 Misc. (N. Y.) 406, 35 N. Y. Suppl. 1037, 70 N. Y. St. 758 [affirmed in 51 N. E. 1093].

95. McEntyre v. Tucker, 36 N. Y. App. Div. 53, 55 N. Y. Suppl. 153.

Bill of particulars.— Where the complaint alleges a waiver of a certificate defendant is entitled to a bill of particulars of the acts or statements from which such waiver could, as alleged in the complaint, be implied. Fox v. Davidson, 44 N. Y. App. Div. 283, 60 N. Y. Suppl. 678.

96. Fox v. Cowperthwait, 60 N. Y. App. Div. 528, 69 N. Y. Suppl. 912; Smith v. Wetmore, 24 Misc. (N. Y.) 225, 52 N. Y. Suppl. 513 [affirmed in 41 N. Y. App. Div. 290, 58 N. Y. Suppl. 402].

Sufficiency of general averment under statute.— Under McClelland's Dig. p. 826, § 59 (Fla. Rev. Stat. § 1045), providing that there may be a general averment of performance of a condition precedent, a declaration, setting out a contract providing that no money shall be due, unless certified to by the architect, and alleging a performance of each and every requirement set forth in the contract, is sufficient without alleging a certificate from the architect. Wilcox v. Stephenson, 30 Fla. 377, 11 So. 659. So in Alabama under Ala. Civ. Code (1886) § 3352, Form 9 (Davis v. Badders, 95 Ala. 348, 10 So. 422), and in Missouri under Mo. Rev. Stat. § 3551 (Roy v. Boteler, 40 Mo. App. 213).

97. A mere allegation that the owner has duly accepted the work performed by plaintiff does not extenuate or avoid the necessity of an architect's certificate, without a further allegation that the work was so accepted not only in compliance with the contract but was also received as a full performance. "The acceptance by the architect of any substitute for that which the contract called for, if substantially variant from its terms, could not be justified, (except through authority of the employer), nor can the acceptance by the employer of inferior or different work than such as was contracted for, be deemed or accredited as part or entire performance, except upon some new consideration operating between the parties." Schenke v. Rowell, 7 Daly (N. Y.) 286, 3 Abb. N. Cas. (N. Y.) 42.

98. Since the contractor really makes his compensation dependent, not only upon the substantial performance of the work but upon a subsequent procurement of the certificate, he is not entitled to recover unless he does procure the certificate or give some adequate reason for not obtaining it, and it is not sufficient to allege substantial performance of all work called for by the contract. Smith v. Wetmore, 41 N. Y. App. Div. 290, 58 N. Y. Suppl. 402 [affirming 24 Misc. (N. Y.) 225, 52 N. Y. Suppl. 513].

99. A mere allegation of complete performance of the work does not confer any right of action where a certificate is wanting and the omission is not supplied by an averment that the architect has "unreasonably" refused a certificate. Schenke v. Rowell, 7 Daly (N. Y.) 286, 3 Abb. N. Cas. (N. Y.) 42.

1. Where a contract provides that work to be performed may in certain respects be varied in the discretion of a chief engineer, and that when such changes shall in his opinion materially alter the character of the work he shall estimate the difference in value and make due allowance therefor, the opinion of the engineer that there was such material

(2) PERFORMANCE OF WORK — (a) NECESSITY OF AVERMENT. Where plaintiff has alleged that a proper certificate was obtained, an averment that his work has been performed is not requisite,[2] but where the builder has not fully completed his work his pleading must allege his excuse for non-completion, and a proper offer to perform with a refusal by the owner to accept it,[3] and in all cases, where the contract is an entire one, there must be an averment that the work was performed,[4] or that performance was waived.[5]

(b) SUFFICIENCY OF AVERMENT. Where an averment of performance is necessary, a general allegation that plaintiff performed all conditions on his part to be performed is sufficient,[6] it not being necessary to aver that the work was done according to plans and specifications furnished by the architect under his personal supervision and to his satisfaction as required by the contract.[7]

(B) As to Extras. Where the builder claims for extra work he should allege an independent claim in order to avoid the stipulations of a covenant against any claim for extra work,[8] and should allege a claim for extras where he desires to recover therefor.[9]

(C) Damages. A general allegation that plaintiff has suffered actual damage is sufficient.[10]

change and his estimate of the difference in value are conditions precedent, and a pleading failing to allege that he had such opinion and made such estimate is bad, although it contains an allegation that the engineer had "wholly neglected and refused so to do." Low v. Fisher, 27 Fed. 542.

An averment that an estimate is erroneous and too low is not sufficient to show fraud or bad faith on the part of an architect in making the estimate. Baasen v. Baehr, 7 Wis. 516.

That the owner by his own act or neglect prevented performance of the condition has, if alleged and proved, the same effect as the averment of an award or decision according to the agreement. Smith v. Boston, etc., R. Co., 36 N. H. 458.

Proof of averment see infra, VII, A, 6.

2. Towsley v. Olds, 6 Iowa 526.

3. Chamberlin v. McCalister, 6 Dana (Ky.) 352.

4. Kirkland v. Oates, 25 Ala. 465; Allen v. Sanders, 7 B. Mon. (Ky.) 593.

5. Rode v. Auerbach, 31 Misc. (N. Y.) 765, 64 N. Y. Suppl. 774, holding that otherwise no evidence of waiver was permissible.

Where defendant admits that plaintiff's complete performance was rendered impossible by him, the absence of an averment of waiver is not sufficient reason for reversing a judgment for plaintiff. Wilman v. Wagner, 4 Luz. Leg. Reg. (Pa.) 252, 23 Pittsb. Leg. J. (Pa.) 40.

A narration, defective in not setting out a waiver of performance, is amendable at any time, on motion. Wilman v. Wagner, 4 Luz. Leg. Reg. (Pa.) 252, 23 Pittsb. Leg. J. (Pa.) 40.

6. Bangs v. Berg, 82 Iowa 350, 48 N. W. 90.

Where the contract was to be performed according to certain specifications to the satisfaction of the employer plaintiff need only allege a performance in accordance with the specifications. Kinsley v. Monongalia County Ct., 31 W. Va. 464, 7 S. E. 445.

Necessity of stating facts showing performance.— Under Mo. Rev. Stat. (1879), § 3551, providing "that the language of a pleading should be taken in its plain and ordinary meaning, and such an interpretation given as fairly appears to have been intended by the author," an allegation that plaintiff "has duly kept and performed all the promises, covenants and agreements in said contract, on his part, to the satisfaction and under the direction of said architects," is a sufficient allegation of performance, and it is not necessary to make a special statement of facts showing such performance. Roy v. Boteler, 40 Mo. App. 213.

Performance of modified contract.—A complaint setting forth an agreement, all the conditions of which plaintiff averred he had fulfilled in every respect "except wherein the same were afterwards waived and altered from said written agreements, by the direction, consent or negligence and fault" of defendant is bad. Smith v. Brown, 17 Barb. (N. Y.) 431.

7. Davis v. Badders, 95 Ala. 348, 10 So. 422. But see Learmonth v. Veeder, 11 Wis. 138.

8. Escott v. White, 10 Bush (Ky.) 169, holding that an omission so to do is aided by verdict, especially where the facts established sustain the cause of action.

The amount that is due for extras is properly alleged as due upon an original contract which contemplates a charge for extras and makes provision for settlement of costs arising from changes in the plans. Mueller v. Rosen, 179 Ill. 130, 53 N. E. 625 [affirming 79 Ill. App. 420].

9. Mills v. Hall, (Tex. Civ. App. 1895) 30 S. W. 558.

Sufficiency of averment.—An averment that an estimate is erroneous and too low is not sufficient to sustain an action to recover for extra work above the amount estimated. Baasen v. Baehr, 7 Wis. 516.

10. Case v. Phœnix Bridge Co., 55 N. Y. Super. Ct. 25, 10 N. Y. St. 474.

b. Answer or Plea — (i) In General. The answer or plea must, of course, state a defense,[11] and be responsive to plaintiff's pleading,[12] and the whole thereof, where it purports so to do.[13] Moreover, defendant's pleading must not be double,[14] or waive any defense on which he may afterward desire to insist;[15] thus a defense that the contract between the parties provided that payment should be made on certificate of an engineer, and that his decision and estimate should be final and conclusive, and that plaintiff had not obtained the certificate is not available unless pleaded.[16]

(ii) Special Pleas in Bar. A plea alleging non-performance or defective performance by plaintiff must set out specifically the character and nature of the imperfections,[17] and where unavoidable accidents might excuse plaintiff's non-performance it should be alleged that plaintiff was not prevented from performance by accidents of that character.[18]

(iii) Recoupment, Set-Off, and Counter-Claim. Where defendant pleads a counter-claim for, or seeks to recoup or set off liquidated damages, in case of delay in construction, facts consistent with any condition qualifying the builder's promise to pay liquidated damages must be averred;[19] and where the builder has shown a substantial performance with the building contract, and defendant desires an allowance or deduction on account of slight defects and

Amount of damages recoverable see infra, VII, D.

11. Everroad v. Schwartzkopf, 123 Ind. 35, 23 N. E. 969.

Available defenses see supra, VII, A, 4.

12. Krog v. Rice, 1 Speers (S. C.) 333, in which case plaintiff covenanted to build in a workmanlike manner and defendant agreed to pay a certain sum for the whole work, some of which was to be paid at a particular stage of the work and the balance when the whole work was completed, and plaintiff averred performance of the covenant on his part but that defendant had broken his covenant in not paying the money due under the agreement, and defendant pleaded specially that plaintiff did not and would not build according to minute and particular descriptions contained in his covenant.

13. Everroad v. Schwartzkopf, 123 Ind. 35, 23 N. E. 969, holding that it is not sufficient, where a complaint counts upon a special contract and also for materials furnished and work and labor done, to plead a special contract and allege its breach as an entire defense, since such an answer would not constitute a defense to the common counts.

A sufficient answer.— Where plaintiff alleges a substantial performance, except in respect to certain particulars that are waived by defendant and none of which relate to the quantity of work to be done, an answer denying that plaintiff had performed all conditions of his contract except provisions thereof admitted to have been waived necessarily puts in issue the question whether there was performance of the contract, and not merely whether there had been strict and literal performance thereof. Fox v. Davidson, 36 N. Y. App. Div. 159, 55 N. Y. Suppl. 524.

14. Scott v. Whipple, 6 Me. 425, holding that, where plaintiff covenanted to build within a specified time (unavoidable accidents excepted) in a workmanlike manner, a plea in bar that plaintiff did not within such specified time build in a workmanlike manner was bad.

15. Gubbins v. Lautenschlager, 74 Fed. 160, holding that a defendant, by failing to plead a failure of plaintiff to show that there were no possible liens on the structure and to furnish defendant with a bond as required by the contract, waives provisions of the contract requiring proof that there were no possible liens, and security as a condition of making a final payment, and cannot insist on these defenses upon argument.

Where a duplicate building contract is required by statute defendant cannot raise the question of the validity or a failure to comply with such provision, unless his answer does more than present the theory of an original valid contract, with an attempt to rescind it, even if the defense be supported by evidence to that effect. Kemp v. Sedalia School Dist., 84 Mo. App. 680.

16. Weed v. Draper, 104 Mass. 28; Everard v. New York, 89 Hun (N. Y.) 425, 35 N. Y. Suppl. 315, 69 N. Y. St. 760.

17. Parks v. Holmes, 22 Ill. 522.

That the quality of the work was not that required by the contract, and that by reason of its inferiority and unskilled workmanship the work was worthless and of no benefit to defendant whatever, is sufficient in an action to recover on a contract, providing that the work should be of a certain quality. Nollman v. Evenson, 5 N. D. 344, 65 N. W. 636.

Plaintiff is sufficiently informed as to how work was defective when defendant alleges that rain came in through a window by reason of negligent and unskilful manner of doing the work. Krebs Mfg. Co. v. Brown, 108 Ala. 508, 18 So. 659, 54 Am. St. Rep. 188.

18. Scott v. Whipple, 6 Me. 425.

19. Connelly v. Priest, 72 Mo. App. 673, in which case it was also held that proof that such conditions were complied with was requisite to entitle defendant to even nominal damages.

omissions in the performance of the contract the damages sustained must be alleged.[20]

c. Affidavit of Defense. An affidavit of defense, where requisite, must be definite in its allegations,[21] and sufficiently specific to prevent judgment being taken under the statement of claim,[22] but an affidavit is sufficient to prevent judgment under a statement of claim, making it apparent that there are active elements of serious dispute between the parties, and that work was not prosecuted and not finished by plaintiff to the satisfaction of an owner and architect as required by the contract, when it avers that plaintiff failed to finish building according to contract, and especially failed to finish it to the satisfaction of the architect and owner, as required by the contract.[23]

d. Replication or Reply. A replication or reply is good that does not set up a new cause of action but merely matter which, if true, would explain or avoid the facts stated in the answer;[24] it must, however, afford a good answer to defendant's pleading.[25]

6. Issues, Proof, and Variance. In the absence of an allegation to that effect it is not permissible for plaintiff to show that a certificate was fraudulently withheld,[26]

20. Leeds v. Little, 42 Minn. 414, 40 N. W. 309.

21. Server v. Heppe, 11 Montg. Co. Rep. (Pa.) 171, holding that an affidavit of defense alleging that the contract price is not due because a building is defective, in that its roof leaks, is too indefinite to prevent judgment.

22. An affidavit of defense which alleges that work has not been done in a workmanlike manner to the satisfaction of defendant and his agent, but on the contrary has been so improperly done and in such an unworkmanlike manner as to necessitate expenditure of large sums of money in altering and finishing the work in accordance with the contract, without stating in what particulars the work was defective, is not sufficient; nor is an allegation that checks given by defendant to plaintiff had not been paid for the reason that plaintiff had agreed that one of the checks should be used to pay a materialman to whom plaintiff was indebted and had failed so to apply it sufficient, without a further allegation that the materialman was entitled to a lien against defendant's property, or that defendant was liable to him. Kellett v. Freeman, 8 Del. Cas. (Pa.) 98.

23. Murphy v. Liberty Nat. Bank, 179 Pa. St. 295, 39 Wkly. Notes Cas. (Pa.) 526, 36 Atl. 283, so holding, though it was said that the affidavit might have been more specific as to certain matters.

An affidavit of defense is not sufficient which sets up that the work specified had not been completed according to the plans and specifications of the architect, and had not been accepted by the employer, if it does not aver that the work was not done according to the contract between plaintiff and defendant. U. S. v. Dixey, 71 Fed. 846.

24. Anderson v. Inhoff, 34 Nebr. 335, 51 N. W. 854, holding that, where plaintiff sought to recover for extra material and labor furnished and performed and defendant set up in his answer that extra material and labor had been estimated for by the architect in accordance with the contract and the amount of such estimate tendered plaintiff, a reply was sufficient that the architect's estimate was collusively and fraudulently made, in that it did not make the proper allowance for the material actually furnished and the work actually done by plaintiff, did not set up a new cause of action but merely matter to avoid the provision in the contract in regard to adjustment and certificate of the architect.

25. To a plea, setting out an agreement, under which defendant claims a deduction on the ground that a penalty had attached for non-completion of work by a stipulated day, a replication, to the effect that plaintiff's failure to complete the work, upon which the alleged penalty attached, was occasioned by a subsequent agreement which prevented, and which defendant knew would prevent, performance of the original contract by the day named, is a good legal answer on the ground of waiver; or a good equitable answer on the ground that the original agreement, though not completely rescinded by the subsequent agreement, was rescinded and altered so far as related to the penalty, because it required further work to be done which could not be done within the time limited by the original agreement. Thornhill v. Neats, 8 C. B. N. S. 831, 2 L. T. Rep. N. S. 539, 98 E. C. L. 830.

Necessity of reply in confession and avoidance.— Where a plea avers a failure of plaintiff to perform in the manner required by the contract, and claims liquidated damages provided for in the contract, and another plea avers that the contract provided for a determination by the architect of a question as to the builder's liability for delay, it is not sufficient to join issue on the pleas, but plaintiff should reply in confession and avoidance; unless he so does he cannot show that his failure to complete in time was excusable. Gerald v. Tunstall, 109 Ala. 567, 20 So. 43.

26. Smith v. Boston, etc., R. Co., 36 N. H. 458; Milner v. Field, 5 Exch. 829, 20 L. J. Exch. 68.

Amendment of complaint to conform with or that the contract had been modified,[27] or that, where plaintiff claims for extra work, the owner had waived a provision requiring a written order of the architect for alterations,[28] or that defendant had waived a stipulation as to time of completion, in a case where time is of the essence of the contract;[29] so proof of extra work is incompetent, unless a claim therefor is alleged.[30] Where plaintiff avers performance of a condition precedent, as to the procurance of a decision upon a reference or a certificate, decision, or estimate of an architect, or an excuse for failure to perform such condition, the proof must conform therewith.[31]

7. Evidence[32] — a. Presumptions and Burden of Proof — (I) Presumptions. Where there is a finding that a contract was entered into and that it was performed, it is not presumed that the contract was void because not filed in accordance with a statute providing therefor or for any other reason.[33] So there is no presumption that defendant intended to waive defects in performance, because he did not object thereto when making payments to plaintiff,[34] unless payment was made with knowledge of the defects.[35] There is a presumption, however, that an architect's certificate was executed by him in the honest discharge of his duty, unless defendant has alleged that plaintiff obtained such certificate through the fraud or mistake of the architect.[36] So the falling of a building upon a calm day raises a presumption that it was negligently constructed.[37]

(II) Burden of Proof. Upon plaintiff is thrown the burden of proving what the terms of the contract were;[38] what the plans and specifications were, when building was to be performed according to plans and specifications,[39] and a compliance with them;[40] the cost of remedying unsubstantial defects, where he has shown substantial performance;[41] an excuse for non-performance;[42] that labor and material was used for particular work, where he claims for extra labor and material as having been furnished for such work;[43] and that his work benefited defendant, where that is the sole ground upon which recovery can be had.[44] Again, where, by the specifications, the builder was to allow for the value of old proof.— Where plaintiff was permitted to amend a complaint to conform to the proof by alleging substantial instead of full performance, and defendant's evidence showed the necessary expense of completing the work, plaintiff's omission to prove the expense was supplied by defendant's evidence. Niemeyer v. Woods, 76 N. Y. Suppl. 563.

27. Elting v. Dayton, 17 N. Y. Suppl. 849, 43 N. Y. St. 363.

There is a fatal variance where plaintiff proves another contract essentially different from that declared on. Cox v. McLaughlin, 63 Cal. 196.

28. Essex v. Murray, (Tex. Civ. App. 1902) 68 S. W. 736.

29. Elting v. Dayton, 17 N. Y. Suppl. 849, 43 N. Y. St. 363.

30. Mills v. Hall, (Tex. Civ. App. 1895) 30 S. W. 558.

31. Cox v. McLaughlin, 63 Cal. 196; Michaelis v. Wolf, 136 Ill. 68, 26 N. E. 384; Fowler v. Deakman, 84 Ill. 130; Boden v. Maher, 95 Wis. 65, 69 N. W. 980.

32. See, generally, Evidence.

33. Bridgeport First Nat. Bank v. Perris Irrig. Dist., 107 Cal. 55, 40 Pac. 45.

Necessity of filing building contract see supra, II, B, 2, c; and, generally, Mechanics' Liens.

34. Flannery v. Rohrmayer, 46 Conn. 558, 33 Am. Rep. 36; Hattin v. Chase, 88 Me. 237, 33 Atl. 989; Franklin v. Schultz, 23 Mont. 165, 57 Pac. 1037.

35. Franklin v. Schultz, 23 Mont. 165, 57 Pac. 1037.

36. Mercer v. Harris, 4 Nebr. 77.

37. Martin v. Dufalla, 50 Ill. App. 371.

38. Pattinson v. Luckley, L. R. 10 Exch. 330, 44 L. J. Exch. 180, 33 L. T. Rep. N. S. 360, 24 Wkly. Rep. 224.

39. Lehan v. Kiley, 21 Ky. L. Rep. 1186, 54 S. W. 727.

40. Lehan v. Kiley, 21 Ky. L. Rep. 1186, 54 S. W. 727; Woolreich v. Fettretch, 4 N. Y. Suppl. 326, 21 N. Y. St. 56.

41. Spence v. Ham, 163 N. Y. 220, 57 N. E. 412, 51 L. R. A. 239 [affirming 27 N. Y. App. Div. 379, 50 N. Y. Suppl. 960].

42. Walling v. Warren, 2 Colo. 434.

Insufficiency of another contractor's work. — A builder, under a contractual obligation to erect a wall on a substructure of stone built by another contractor, seeking to be relieved from his obligation on the ground that the stone foundation is defective and insufficient, has the burden of proving the insufficiency of the foundation wall. Evans v. Cowen, 3 Quebec Q. B. 59.

43. Maas v. Hernandez, 48 La. Ann. 264, 19 So. 269.

44. Gillis v. Cobe, 177 Mass. 584, 59 N. E. 455, wherein it was held that proof of the value of material furnished and work performed did not shift the burden to defendant of showing that defects in the building were caused by the failure of plaintiff to perform his agreement.

material, and there is an allegation that such allowance was made by him, plaintiff must show that he had informed defendant or his agent of the fact that such old material had been allowed for.[45] Where there was substantial performance a defendant, claiming a deduction from the agreed price on the ground that performance was only partial, is charged with the burden of proving damages occasioned by slight defects and omissions,[46] or based on the failure of plaintiff to complete within the time agreed;[47] and where plaintiff was prevented from complying with his contract through default of defendant, the burden of proving payments made by him under the contract is upon defendant.[48]

b. Admissibility — (1) In General — (A) On Behalf of Plaintiff. The general rule that evidence is inadmissible to change or modify the express terms of a written contract,[49] but that all proof must correspond to the terms thereof,[50] is applicable to actions on building contracts, but it is admissible for plaintiff to show substantial compliance with his contract,[51] or that the cause of his delay or the failure to so comply was not through his own fault,[52] unless his pleading alleges

45. Harvey v. Lawrence, 15 L. T. Rep. N. S. 571, holding that unless there is proof thereof, the value of the old material must be deducted from the amount of his charge.

46. Leeds v. Little, 42 Minn. 414, 44 N. W. 309; Filbert v. Philadelphia, 181 Pa. St. 530, 37 Atl. 545.

47. Chicago Bridge, etc., Co. v. Olson, 80 Minn. 533, 83 N. W. 461; Edison Electric Illuminating Co. v. Guastavino Fire Proof Constr. Co., 16 N. Y. App. Div. 358, 44 N. Y. Suppl. 1022. See also Bridges v. Hyatt, 2 Abb. Pr. (N. Y.) 449, in which case defendant claimed damages stipulated in the contract for the builder's delay in completing a small part of the work and, it having been shown that the contract was changed by introducing extra work, it was held that defendant was charged with the burden of proving either that the delay was but slightly produced by the change in the contract, or that it was caused by defendant's negligence or fault.

48. Childress v. Smith, (Tex. Civ. App. 1896) 37 S. W. 1076.

49. Hawk v. Walworth, 4 Ark. 577; Graham v. Trimmer, 6 Kan. 230; Devlin v. New York, 4 Duer (N. Y.) 337; Love v. Rempe, (Tex. Civ. App. 1898) 44 S. W. 681; Linch v. Paris Lumber, etc., Co., (Tex. 1890) 14 S. W. 701, the latter case holding that where the contract called for a particular kind of material, which could have been procured, evidence that the substitution therefor was substantially like it would be inadmissible.

Illustrations.— Where the action is on a special contract, evidence of the peculiar adaptation of the building contracted for, both in its design and situation, to the defendant's personal and professional pursuits, would be inadmissible (Van Buren v. Digges, 11 How. (U. S.) 461, 13 L. ed. 771); so it would not be admissible to show that the building did not answer the purposes for which it was intended (Kendall v. Vallejo, 1 Cal. 371); or that defendant had expended certain sums in preparation of plans for building (Hills v. Farmington, 70 Conn. 450, 39 Atl. 795).

50. L'Hommedieu v. Winthrop, 59 N. Y. App. Div. 192, 69 N. Y. Suppl. 381; Williams v. Keech, 4 Hill (N. Y.) 168; Nehurin v. Stone, 37 Ohio St. 49; Gibbs v. Girardville School Dist., 195 Pa. St. 396, 46 Atl. 91; Aldrich v. Wilmarth, 3 S. D. 523, 54 N. W. 811.

Where the defense was that work was improperly done plaintiff cannot show that the work could not have been done in a workmanlike manner for the agreed price. Williams v. Keech, 4 Hill (N. Y.) 168.

51. Porter v. Wilder, 62 Ga. 520, holding that for this purpose the builder may show that the employer recognized the contract as complied with by not making, until some time after its completion, any suggestion to the contrary. See also Worden v. Connell, 196 Pa. St. 281, 46 Atl. 298; Long v. Pierce County, 22 Wash. 330, 61 Pac. 142.

Where only the certificate of satisfactory completion is required to render the contract fully executed, which certificate is refused because the employer has directed the architect not to issue it, evidence explaining the absence of the same is admissible in assumpsit, and the special contract need not be pleaded. Foster v. McKeown, 192 Ill. 339, 61 N. E. 514 [affirming 85 Ill. App. 449].

Evidence that work which the contract called for had been omitted by the express direction of the owner, or that by such directions one kind of work had been substituted for another, or that the parties had changed the plan of construction by mutual consent, is admissible. Smith v. Wetmore, 41 N. Y. App. Div. 290, 58 N. Y. Suppl. 402 [affirming 24 Misc. (N. Y.) 225, 52 N. Y. Suppl. 513].

What constitutes substantial compliance see supra, V, B, 1, b.

52. Campbell v. Russell, 139 Mass. 278, 1 N. E. 345; Willis v. Webster, 1 N. Y. App. Div. 301, 37 N. Y. Suppl. 354, 72 N. Y. St. 743; Beinhauer v. Gleason, 15 N. Y. St. 227; Huckestein v. Kelly, etc., Co., 152 Pa. St. 631, 25 Atl. 747; Van Buren v. Digges, 11 How. (U. S.) 461, 13 L. ed. 771.

Where a defect is discovered after the builder has made considerable progress in his work of alteration he will be permitted to offer in evidence a certificate of the superintendent of buildings showing that the reason that the work was stopped was because of the full performance, in which case such evidence would be inadmissible.[53] So plaintiff cannot show, unless provision was made therefor in his contract, that a delay was caused by bad weather.[54]

(B) On Behalf of Defendant. Where the builder's delay or abandonment is justifiable defendant cannot show that he sustained loss because of the delay,[55] or the amount he expended in the supervision and completion of the work,[56] or the insolvency of the builder.[57] Defendant, however, may generally show a non-compliance with the contract by plaintiff,[58] even if he has taken possession of the property,[59] unless he directed that the work be done under direction of an architect who under the contract is the sole judge of the quality of material and work furnished, in which case evidence of non-compliance is admissible, unless there is an averment of a fraudulent collusion between the builder and the architect.[60]

(II) Acts and Statements of Defendant. For the purpose of showing ownership or interest in the subject-matter of the suit, plaintiff may show that defendant gave orders to others than himself for work or materials for the building;[61] so, that at the time of his discharge the owner promised to pay his demand,[62] or that he refused to admit a party who had been sent by the builder to examine the work.[63] So declarations of defendant tending to show that the fact of his moving into a building was not an admission by him that it had been completed according to contract are admissible on his behalf, if made at the time of his taking possession.[64]

(III) Certificate of Architect or Superintendent. The certificate of an architect or superintendent that work has been done to his satisfaction, or as to the settlement of a dispute by him concerning the quality or value of the material employed by the builder, is, when properly obtained,[65] admissible in so far as defect and not because of the manner in which the builder was doing his work. Heine v. Meyer, 61 N. Y. 171.

Where the cause for the delay in completion was on account of extra work and alterations, the builder may testify as to what he considers extra work, and the time that it would take to do the same. Campbell v. Russell, 139 Mass. 278, 1 N. E. 345.

For this purpose evidence of a subsequent parol agreement for extra work is properly admitted. Huckestein v. Kelly, etc., Co., 152 Pa. St. 631, 25 Atl. 747.

Evidence that alleged defects were supplied after the commencement of the action is competent as bearing on the question of damages. Rancher v. Cronk, 3 N. Y. Suppl. 470, 21 N. Y. St. 529.

Excuses for delay see supra, V, B, 7.

53. Schnaier v. Nathan, 31 N. Y. App. Div. 225, 52 N. Y. Suppl. 812.

54. Cochran v. Peoples' R. Co., 131 Mo. 607, 32 S. W. 177.

Right of builder to protect himself against delays caused by bad weather see supra, II, B, 4, c, (IX).

Bad weather as excuse for delay see supra, V, B, 4, c.

55. San Francisco Bridge Co. v. Dumbarton Land, etc., Co., 119 Cal. 272, 51 Pac. 335.

What justifies abandonment by builder see supra, II, E, 1.

What justifies delay see supra, V, B, 7.

56. Stone v. Assip, 18 N. Y. Suppl. 441, 45 N. Y. St. 271.

57. Howell v. Gould, 2 Abb. Dec. (N. Y.) 418, 3 Keyes (N. Y.) 422, 2 Transcr. App. (N. Y.) 360.

58. Davidson v. Provost, 35 Ill. App. 126; Haist v. Bell, 24 N. Y. App. Div. 252, 48 N. Y. Suppl. 405. See also Brown v. Kriser, (Mich. 1902) 89 N. W. 51, 8 Detroit Leg. N. 999 (holding that under the terms of plaintiff's allegations, such evidence was admissible to show a non-compliance of the contract, if plaintiff relied on the contract, and that if plaintiff relied on an alleged settlement, such evidence would also be admissible to show what the settlement was, and that he had not complied with it); Schuler v. Eckert, 90 Mich. 165, 51 N. W. 198 (holding that it was competent for the owner to show in what particulars the contractors had been inefficient in their work, and how much it had cost him to reconstruct and complete the structure).

59. Gordy v. Veazey, 25 La. Ann. 518.

Taking possession not always an acceptance see supra, V, B, 6.

60. Mercer v. Harris, 4 Nebr. 77.

61. Woodward v. Buchanan, L. R. 5 Q. B. 285, 39 L. J. Q. B. 71, 22 L. T. Rep. N. S. 123.

62. Worden v. Connell, 196 Pa. St. 281, 46 Atl. 298.

63. Bryant v. Stilwell, 24 Pa. St. 314.

64. Badders v. Davis, 88 Ala. 367, 6 So. 834.

65. Young v. Wells Glass Co., 187 Ill. 626, 58 N. E. 605 [affirming 87 Ill. App. 537].

Illustrations.— A certificate as to damages obtained on an ex parte statement of the such certificate of such architect or superintendent concerns matter properly referable to him.[66]

(iv) Comparison With Other Buildings. Evidence of cost of similar structures erected by plaintiff for other parties is inadmissible upon the question of value;[67] but if the question is the quality of material furnished, or grade of workmanship employed, such comparison may be invoked,[68] provided it is shown that the subject-matter is in each case subjected to the same or similar conditions.[69]

(v) Contracts, Writings, and Agreements. Where there is a special contract, but the builder seeks to recover on a general assumpsit, the contract is owner and without notice to the builder is admissible. Young v. Wells Glass Co., 187 Ill. 627, 58 N. E. 605 [affirming 87 Ill. App. 537]. See also Mercer v. Harris, 4 Nebr. 77, holding that an owner who, on completion, received from the architect a writing in effect a certificate of satisfactory performance cannot, in an action brought to recover a balance due, adduce in evidence a writing, made by the architect long afterward, to the effect that it would be detrimental to his reputation to sign a certificate that the work had been done in accordance with the plans and specifications, as such an admission would carry with it strong suspicions of collusion between the owner and the architect.

Necessity and manner of giving certificate, decision, or estimate see supra, III, B, 2, d, (I).

Necessity of notifying parties see supra, III, B, 2, d, (II), (B).

66. Florida.— Wilcox v. Stephenson, 30 Fla. 377, 11 So. 659.

Illinois.— Mills v. Weeks, 21 Ill. 561; Stewart v. Carbray, 59 Ill. App. 397; Matthews v. Rice, 4 Ill. App. 90.

Indiana.— Hamilton County v. Newlin, 132 Ind. 27, 31 N. E. 465.

Kentucky.— Whitehead v. Brothers Lodge I. O. O. F. No. 132, 23 Ky. L. Rep. 29, 62 S. W. 873.

Minnesota.— Swank v. Barnum, 63 Minn. 447, 65 N. W. 722.

Nebraska.— Smith v. White, 5 Nebr. 405.

New York.— New York Bldg., etc., Co. v. Springfield Elevator, etc., Co., 56 N. Y. App. Div. 294, 67 N. Y. Suppl. 887.

Pennsylvania.— Bailey v. Presbyterian Bd., 200 Pa. St. 406, 50 Atl. 160.

United States.—North American R. Constr. Co. v. R. E. McMath Surveying Co., 116 Fed. 169.

See 11 Cent. Dig. tit. "Contracts," § 1809.

The fact that the architect had exceeded his powers with respect to one or more items of non-importance does not render his certificate inadmissible; it being to the effect that the building did not substantially comply with the plans and specifications. Sanders v. Hutchinson, 26 Ill. App. 633.

As to matters referable to architect see supra, III, B, 2, d, (II), (A).

A certificate of satisfaction has been regarded as prima facie evidence of approval only. Bailey v. Presbyterian Bd., 200 Pa. St. 406, 50 Atl. 160.

The architect's decision upon the matter of giving or withholding a certificate is usually conclusive between the parties (Matthews v. Rice, 4 Ill. App. 90), unless shown to have been given or withheld through fraud or collusion or such gross misapprehension or mistake as to amount to fraud (Wilcox v. Stephenson, 30 Fla. 377, 11 So. 659; Smith v. White, 5 Nebr. 405; North American R. Constr. Co. v. R. E. McMath Surveying Co., 116 Fed. 169; Sweeny v. U. S., 15 Ct. Cl. 400). In the absence of an agreement that an architect's certificate should be conclusive the efficiency or inefficiency of work performed or materials furnished may be proven by other evidence. Hamilton v. Myles, 24 U. C. C. P. 309.

Effect of certificate see supra, III, B, 2, d, (III).

Fraudulent withholding of a certificate by the architect may be shown by proving that a building was completed at the time of its inspection (Bradner v. Roffsell, 57 N. J. L. 32, 29 Atl. 317); so conversations of the architect with the builder and his workmen at the time he was acting on the subject-matter tending to show improper reasons for a refusal to grant the certificate are admissible (Tibbits v. Phipps, 30 N. Y. App. Div. 274, 51 N. Y. Suppl. 954).

Fraudulent issuance of a certificate.— In order to show that a certificate was fraudulently given defendant may show that material used by the builder was rotten, a fact of which the architect was well aware before he granted his certificate. Tetz v. Butterfield, 54 Wis. 242, 11 N. W. 531, 41 Am. Rep. 29. See also Brin v. McGregor, (Tex. Civ. App. 1901) 64 S. W. 78.

Fraudulent withholding or fraudulent issuance of certificate as excuse for non-production, or as ground for going behind certificate see supra, VII, A, 3, b.

Sufficiency of evidence to prove fraudulent withholding or fraudulent issuance of certificate see infra, VII, A, 7.

Incompetency of the architect or engineer chosen by the owner may be shown by the builder when the contract is silent as to who the inspecting party shall be. Sweeny v. U. S., 15 Ct. Cl. 400.

67. Gouge v. Roberts, 53 N. Y. 619.

68. Kilbourne v. Jennings, 40 Iowa 473, where it was held error to exclude testimony as to the difference between the buildings in question and others built in a workmanlike manner. See also Van Orden v. Andrews, 9 N. Y. St. 18.

69. Campbell v. Russell, 139 Mass. 278, 1 N. E. 345.

admissible,[70] not only as a guide to the jury in assessing damages,[71] or to show what the parties had agreed on as a reasonable price for that portion of the work embraced in it,[72] but also to show that since its terms had not been complied with no action could be maintained thereon.[73] If, however, the action be to recover for extra work, such contract would be admissible only for the purpose of showing that the work in question was or was not embraced in, or covered by, such contract.[74] For the purpose of showing a parol contract to build, a written instrument, purporting to set out the terms of the contract, signed by the builder and in the handwriting of the owner but not signed by him, is admissible; so too a proposal to build, given by the owner to the builder and accepted by him, is admissible for that purpose.[75]

(VI) Cost or Value of Work. If recovery is sought on the theory of substantial performance, evidence of cost or value of the work is inadmissible;[76] so after an abandonment of the contract through fault of the employer, the builder is, in an action to recover for work and labor, confined to the contract price, unless he can show that, because of the default, the work performed was more expensive or was performed under less favorable circumstances than it otherwise would have been,[77] and where, by the contract, extra work is to be estimated in proportion to the price of the entire work, evidence of the reasonable value of the same would be inadmissible.[78] Where, however, an arbitrator, whose duty it is under the contract to estimate the value of work done, fails or refuses so to do, evidence aliunde of its value is admissible.[79]

(VII) Opinion of Skilled or Experienced Architects or Builders. The testimony of an experienced architect, builder, or contractor is generally admissible[80] as to the probable cost of a building or structure, though he has seen

70. Adams v. Burbank, 103 Cal. 646, 37 Pac. 640; Fowler v. Deakman, 84 Ill. 130.

71. Jewett v. Weston, 11 Me. 346; Ibers v. O'Donnell, 25 Mo. App. 120.

Where the contract fixes the price to be paid for work which may be found necessary, but which is not specified therein, evidence of its cost not showing the amount or its value as measured by the contract is inadmissible as primary evidence. North American R. Constr. Co. v. R. E. McMath Surveying Co., 116 Fed. 169.

72. Terrell Coal Co. v. Lacey, (Ala. 1901) 31 So. 109; Hutchison v. Cullum, 23 Ala. 622; Castagnino v. Balletta, 82 Cal. 250, 23 Pac. 127; Fulton County v. Gibson, (Ind. 1902) 63 N. E. 982.

73. Jewett v. Weston, 11 Me. 346.

74. Baum v. Covert, 62 Miss. 113.

But a paper, prepared by the architect, and containing a list of the extras and their value, would be admissible in such action, in connection with the testimony of the builder and the architect. Foster v. McKeown, 192 Ill. 339, 61 N. E. 514 [affirming 85 Ill. App. 449].

Books of original entry belonging to the builder are admissible to prove the amount in value of work and materials furnished under a special contract rescinded by the builder on account of the owner's conduct. McDaniel v. Webster, 2 Houst. (Del.) 305.

75. Murphy v. Murphy, 22 Mo. App. 18.

Specifications not signed by the parties, but agreed upon by them at the time of making the contract, are admissible to show the manner in which the building was to be constructed. Maxted v. Seymour, 56 Mich. 129, 22 N. W. 219; Myer v. Fruin, (Tex. 1891) 16 S. W. 868.

76. Eaton v. Gladwell, 108 Mich. 678, 66 N. W. 598; Campau v. Moran, 31 Mich. 280.

77. Koon v. Greenman, 7 Wend. (N. Y.) 121. Compare Villalobos v. Mooney, 2 La. 331.

To show increased cost, evidence of the state of the weather, and the lateness of the season, in connection with defendant's explicit directions to continue the work, may be shown. Turner v. Grand Rapids, 20 Mich. 390.

78. Eigemann v. Posey County, 82 Ind. 413.

79. Williams v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 112 Mo. 463, 20 S. W. 631, 34 Am. St. Rep. 403; Boyd v. Whelen, 17 Phila. (Pa.) 270, 41 Leg. Int. (Pa.) 154; Baker v. Herty, 1 Cranch C. C. (U. S.) 249, 2 Fed. Cas. No. 771.

80. The testimony of an architect, while not being accorded the same effect as a certificate, will be accorded the same weight as that of any other witness having the same means of information. Boteler v. Roy, 40 Mo. App. 234.

A plumber who has for many years been out of business, during which time the nature of such work has changed materially, could not be considered an experienced or expert witness with regard to the business at the time his testimony was offered. McEwen v. Bigelow, 40 Mich. 215.

Whether work was done in a manner considered skilful by the workmen in the community in which the building was erected is not a question at issue as a rule, but whether only the plans and specifications,[81] or their exterior;[82] so his testimony that, but for delays caused by the owner or architect, the work could have been completed within the contract time is admissible.[83]

c. Weight and Sufficiency — (I) In General. Evidence impeaching an architect's certificate,[84] or showing a waiver of a provision of the contract requiring that extra work be authorized by the architect must be clear and convincing.[85] Where an architect is employed to supervise the construction in all its details, evidence that deviations from the contract were made with his consent is sufficient to show the consent of the owner.[86] The falling of the building,[87] or the violation of a city ordinance regulating the thickness of the walls thereof is prima facie evidence of negligent construction;[88] but the fact that the kind of building usually constructed to withstand ordinary storms is incapable of withstanding an extraordinary one does not show negligence.[89]

(II) To Authorize Recovery — (A) On Express Contract. If the action is on a special contract, proof of a substantial compliance with the terms of the entire instrument must be offered to entitle the builder to recover;[90] but this does not mean that a compliance with regard to the minutest details is required of him.[91]

it was done in a manner generally considered skilful by those competent to judge of the same, regardless of where the work was performed. Fitzgerald v. La Porte, 64 Ark. 34, 40 S. W. 261.

81. Joske v. Pleasants, 15 Tex. Civ. App. 433, 39 S. W. 586.

82. O'Keefe v. St. Francis' Church, 59 Conn. 551, 22 Atl. 325.

83. Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Donnegan, 111 Ind. 179, 12 N. E. 153.

As to evidence of expert witnesses see, generally, EVIDENCE; WITNESSES.

84. State v. McGinley, 4 Ind. 7; J. G. Wagner Co. v. Cawker, 112 Wis. 532, 88 N. W. 599.

85. Ashley v. Henahan, 56 Ohio St. 559, 47 N. E. 573.

Illustration of sufficiency of such evidence. — Bartlett v. Stanchfield, 148 Mass. 394, 19 N. E. 549, 2 L. R. A. 625.

Express evidence of approval by the architect need not be offered where the owner does not deny such approval, but relies on the absence of a direct evidence of the same, and evidence showing by implication such approval is sufficient. Union Stove Works v. Arnoux, 7 Misc. (N. Y.) 700, 28 N. Y. Suppl. 23, 58 N. Y. St. 367 [affirming 6 Misc. (N. Y.) 64, 26 N. Y. Suppl. 83, 56 N. Y. St. 604].

86. Schnaier v. Nathan, 49 N. Y. App. Div. 298, 63 N. Y. Suppl. 38.

87. Giles v. Diamond State Iron Co., (Del. 1887) 8 Atl. 368.

88. Giles v. Diamond State Iron Co., (Del. 1887) 8 Atl. 368.

89. Giles v. Diamond State Iron Co., (Del. 1887) 8 Atl. 368.

Evidence that cracks in the earth were found in vicinity of a building, and that a number of houses, apparently built in a substantial manner, had seemingly been injured by such openings in the earth, and that the cracks in a particular house resulted from such fissures is sufficient to show that in all probability the defects did not result from bad workmanship or material. Fremont v. Harris, 9 Rob. (La.) 23.

That the builders were not responsible for weak points in a wall which had been blown down by a fierce storm is sufficient evidence to sustain a verdict for them in an action to recover a balance due, the defense being that the wall was blown down because of defective or negligent workmanship. The builder need not show that other walls in the vicinity were blown down by the same storm. South McAlester, etc., Electric Light Co. v. Eddy, 2 Indian Terr. 645, 53 S. W. 448.

90. Alabama. — Kirkland v. Oates, 25 Ala. 465.

California. — Blythe v. Poultney, 31 Cal. 233.

Connecticut. — Coburn v. Hartford, 38 Conn. 290.

Kansas. — Graham v. Trimmer, 6 Kan. 230.

New York. — Cunningham v. Jones, 20 N. Y. 486; Curtice v. West, 50 Hun (N. Y.) 47, 2 N. Y. Suppl. 507, 19 N. Y. St. 511; Levin v. Spero, 33 Misc. (N. Y.) 781, 67 N. Y. Suppl. 931.

Wisconsin. — Jackson v. Cleveland, 19 Wis. 400.

United States. — McNeil v. Armstrong, 81 Fed. 943, 27 C. C. A. 16.

Where time is the essence of the contract it is incumbent upon the builder to show that the building was completed within the time specified. Clayton v. Blake, 26 N. C. 497.

Proof of the value of the work is not, of course, essential, where the builder has substantially performed his contract and brings his action thereon. Lennon v. Smith, 23 N. Y. App. Div. 293, 48 N. Y. Suppl. 456 [affirmed in 161 N. Y. 661, 57 N. E. 1145].

What constitutes substantial compliance see supra, V, B, 2.

91. Killian v. Herndon, 4 Rich. (S. C.) 609.

Performance of work as condition precedent to recovery see supra, VII, A, 3, a.

(B) On Quantum Meruit. Where plaintiff sues on a quantum meruit, he must show, by a fair preponderance of the proof, that the work or material furnished was of the value claimed,[92] over and above the damages resulting from non-compliance with the contract.[93] If the cause of non-compliance is the fault of the employer, the builder need not prove his readiness and ability to perform.[94]

8. TRIAL — a. Questions of Law and Fact. It is for the jury to determine, under proper instructions, when the evidence on that point is conflicting, whether the contract was verbal or written;[95] whether the contract has been modified or not;[96] whether plans or specifications are a part of the building contract;[97] whether the builder was justified in abandoning his contract before completion;[98] whether the contract has been substantially performed by the builder,[99] according

92. Jones, etc., Co. v. Davenport, 74 Conn. 418, 50 Atl. 1028; Barnwell v. Keating, 72 Conn. 732, 43 Atl. 984.

Sufficiency to show abandonment or breach or fault of owner.— Evidence that the contract was abandoned should be of the most satisfactory character, and show that both parties intended to set the contract aside. The mere showing of deviations from the contract is not alone sufficient. O'Keefe v. St. Francis' Church, 59 Conn. 551, 22 Atl. 325. Mere evidence that the contractor, upon receiving notice from the owner that he himself desired to complete the work thereafter, ceased to work upon the building is insufficient to show that he was in fact prevented by the owner from proceeding with the work so as to entitle him to recover upon a quantum meruit. Beecher v. Schuback, 1 N. Y. App. Div. 359, 37 N. Y. Suppl. 325, 72 N. Y. St. 511. And see Yarborough v. Davis, (Tex. App. 1891) 15 S. W. 713, where it was held that the evidence was insufficient to show that the breach was occasioned through the fault of defendant.

The contract price is only prima facie evidence of reasonable value, where the contractor has abandoned the contract and sues on a quantum valebat. Ibers v. O'Donnell, 25 Mo. App. 120.

93. Globe Light, etc., Co. v. Doud, 47 Mo. App. 439.

94. Howell v. Gould, 2 Abb. Dec. (N. Y.) 418; 3 Keyes (N. Y.) 422, 2 Transcr. App. (N. Y.) 360.

95. Jones v. Sherman, 34 Nebr. 452, 51 N. W. 1036.

The court must determine and inform the jury whether a paper or writing introduced is or is not a contract — is or is not that which fixes the liabilities of the parties in the premises. Eyser v. Weissgerber, 2 Iowa 463.

96. Power v. Walker, 18 Ky. L. Rep. 889, 35 S. W. 256, 907.

97. Mallard v. Moody, 105 Ga. 400, 31 S. E. 45.

Whether a certain plan was in existence at the time the contract was executed should be submitted to the jury. Carberry v. Farnsworth, 177 Mass. 398, 59 N. E. 61.

98. Scheible v. Klein, 89 Mich. 376, 50 N. W. 857; Pontifex v. Wilkinson, 2 C. B. 349, 52 E. C. L. 348.

99. Arkansas.— Fitzgerald v. La Porte, 64 Ark. 34, 40 S. W. 261.

Connecticut.— West v. Suda, 69 Conn. 60, 36 Atl. 1015.

Florida.— Livingston v. Anderson, 30 Fla. 117, 11 So. 270.

Illinois.— Fowler v. Deakman, 84 Ill. 130; Estep v. Fenton, 66 Ill. 467.

Maryland.— Annapolis, etc., Short Line R. Co. v. Ross, 68 Md. 310, 11 Atl. 820.

Massachusetts.— Rose v. O'Riley, 111 Mass. 57; Worcester Medical Inst. v. Harding, 11 Cush. (Mass.) 285.

Missouri.— Smith v. Clark, 58 Mo. 145.

New York.—Adamant Mfg. Co. v. Bach, 26 N. Y. App. Div. 255, 50 N. Y. Suppl. 12; Anderson v. Meislahn, 12 Daly (N. Y.) 149; Boughton v. Smith, 22 N. Y. Suppl. 148, 51 N. Y. St. 316, in which latter case the evidence showed that work was not originally done in accordance with the contract but that plaintiff, with defendant's permission, undertook to remedy defects.

Pennsylvania.—Coon v. Citizens Water Co., 152 Pa. St. 644, 31 Wkly. Notes Cas. (Pa.) 457, 25 Atl. 505; Huckestein v. Kelly, etc., Co., 152 Pa. St. 631, 25 Atl. 747.

See 11 Cent. Dig. tit. "Contracts," § 1827.

Whether a deviation from the contract was the fault of the builder is properly left to the jury.— Huckestein v. Kelly, etc., Co., 152 Pa. St. 631, 25 Atl. 747.

Where a contract for construction required the building to be similar to another, and it appeared that, at the time of its alleged completion or at some subsequent date, the other building had iron rods to support it and prevent it from spreading, it is proper for the jury to say whether such rods were in the other building when the contract was entered into, and if so whether they formed a necessary part of the plan of the building. Estep v. Fenton, 66 Ill. 467.

As to extra work.— Where a contract provides that work shall be done to the satisfaction of the architect, that any dispute as to claims for extra work shall be referred to him, and that his decision shall be final, it is error, in an action by the builder on the contract, to refer to the jury questions as to extra work and the performance of the contract, in the absence of evidence of fraud, or if the question of fraud is not submitted to

to the nature and object of the work;[1] whether building was accepted;[2] whether work was done in a reasonable time and with reasonable diligence, where the contract does not specify a time for its completion;[3] whether certain work or materials were extras, where the contract is uncertain in this regard;[4] whether a builder's tender of performance, after being prevented from going on with his contract, was in good faith;[5] whether a certificate of performance was unreasonably withheld;[6] whether special circumstances, causing a delay in completion, were attributable to the builder,[7] and to what extent those circumstances increased the cost of building;[8] whether a provision providing for arbitration has been waived;[9] and as to the time for payment under a verbal contract.[10] When the terms and language of a building contract are ascertained, in the absence of technical phrases or the existence of latent ambiguities rendering the meaning of the contract uncertain and doubtful, the office of construing its meaning belongs to the court alone,[11] and, for the purpose of determining what meaning was placed upon the words used by the parties, the court will look to the nature of the contract, the situation of the parties, and to all surrounding facts and circumstances that throw light upon the intent of the parties.[12]

the jury. Guthat v. Gow, 95 Mich. 527, 55 N. W. 442.

1. Fitzgerald v. La Porte, 64 Ark. 34, 40 S. W. 261.

2. Estep v. Fenton, 66 Ill. 467.

3. Walling v. Warren, 2 Colo. 434.

4. Annapolis, etc., Short Line R. Co. v. Ross, 68 Md. 310, 11 Atl. 820; O'Brien v. Jackson, 42 N. Y. App. Div. 171, 58 N. Y. Suppl. 1044; Mills v. Hall, (Tex. Civ. App. 1895) 30 S. W. 558.

5. Cass County v. Gibson, 107 Fed. 363, 46 C. C. A. 341.

6. Gibbons v. Russell, 13 N. Y. Suppl. 879, 37 N. Y. St. 402.

7. Galbraith v. Chicago Architectural Iron Works, 50 Ill. App. 247.

8. Hough v. Cook, 69 Ill. 581.

9. Preston v. Syracuse, 92 Hun (N. Y.) 301, 36 N. Y. Suppl. 716, 71 N. Y. St. 782.

Waiver of requirement as to architect's certificate.—Where plaintiff avers a waiver of a requirement of an architect's certificate and defendant, besides answering as to the waiver, alleges that the architect was justified in refusing a certificate, and both parties introduced evidence as to the reasonableness of the refusal the issue as to the refusal is a question for the jury, although there is no reply because, under N. Y. Code Civ. Proc. § 522, an allegation of new matter in the answer is deemed controverted by the adverse party. Fox v. Powers, 65 N. Y. App. Div. 112, 72 N. Y. Suppl. 573.

10. Scheible v. Klein, 89 Mich. 376, 50 N. W. 857.

11. O'Connor v. Adams, (Ariz. 1899) 59 Pac. 105, holding that where extra pay was claimed under a parol contract for erecting the walls of a kitchen to a building, and the builder had originally contracted in writing to do all brick work in the walls of the building according to plans not completed but to be finished, and the plans in evidence, which were admitted to be those under which the building was completed, provided for kitchen walls, the court should have charged that the kitchen walls were included in the written contract. See also Annapolis, etc., Short Line R. Co. v. Ross, 68 Md. 310, 11 Atl. 820.

Contract not to be construed by arbiter.—Where it is mutually agreed that all work and materials shall be inspected by a third person, and his decision be final, he cannot give a legal construction of what the contract requires. Brown v. Langner, 25 Ind. App. 538, 58 N. E. 743; Mason v. Bridge, 14 Me. 468, 31 Am. Dec. 66.

When the jury has fixed the meaning of words their legal effect and consequence must be determined by the court. Warnick v. Grosholz, 3 Grant (Pa.) 234.

The meaning of the phrase in a building contract, "when the walls shall be completed," is a question for the court. Worcester Medical Inst. v. Harding, 11 Cush. (Mass.) 285.

Question as to what contract includes one for court.—Where specifications are not contradictory and inconsistent, but the only question is whether the building contract includes the erection of smoke, heat, and ventilating flues and stacks, it is a case for construction by the court. Keefer v. Sunbury School Dist., (Pa. 1902) 52 Atl. 245.

Submission of the construction of a written contract to the jury no ground of exception, if they decide it right. Ricker v. Cutter, 8 Gray (Mass.) 248.

Construction and operation of contract see supra, II, C; and, generally, CONTRACTS.

12. Kelly v. Fejervary, (Iowa 1899) 78 N. W. 828 [reversed on other ground in 111 Iowa 693, 83 N. W. 791].

The facts should be found by a jury, where there is a material conflict in the evidence as to what the surrounding circumstances, relied upon as showing the intention of the parties, were. Kelly v. Fejervary, (Iowa 1899) 78 N. W. 828 [reversed on other grounds in 111 Iowa 693, 83 N. W. 791].

Evidence tending to show meaning of parties admissible.—A clause providing that, where there is a delay in completing a build-

b. Instructions — (I) In General. An instruction given by the court should not invade the province of the jury by withdrawing from its consideration any question of fact,[13] must not be conflicting,[14] ignore material evidence[15] or issues,[16] be misleading,[17] give undue prominence to particular facts,[18] be based upon a mis-ing after a specified date, the contractor shall pay to the owner a named sum for every day thereafter that the said work shall remain unfinished as and for liquidated damages, is somewhat in the nature of an ambiguous expression, and all evidence tending to disclose the true meaning of the parties should be received. Kelly v. Fejervary, 111 Iowa 693, 83 N. W. 791.

Where an owner, after discharging a builder before full performance, employed the foreman of the builder to take charge, and the house was completed under the supervision of the same architect without notifying a subcontractor of any change, it is for the jury to determine whether from the conduct of the parties the owner promised to pay for the work performed and materials furnished by the subcontractor. Blount v. Guthrie, 99 N. C. 93, 5 S. E. 890.

13. Estep v. Fenton, 66 Ill. 467, holding it erroneous to take from the jury a question whether certain matter formed a necessary part of the plan of the building.

An assumption of material facts in issue.— Where plaintiff agreed to build at a certain rate and to make additions, if required, at the same rate, on condition that such additions should not be of a more costly class of work than the contract contemplated, and additions costing more than the agreed rate were made, instructions assuming that the additions were of the class contemplated by the contract were properly refused. Annapolis, etc., Short Line R. Co. v. Ross, 68 Md. 310, 11 Atl. 820.

14. Where a contract gave the employer the right to have its engineer direct force to be applied to any portion of the work which in his judgment required it, and to order an increase or diminution of force at any point he might direct, an instruction in an action by the builder for breach of the contract, that subject to such rights of the employer plaintiff had the right to have the whole work laid out and to work on all parts at once and that delays caused by denying plaintiff such right were not grounds of annulment was improper, as being contradictory. Henderson Bridge Co. v. O'Connor, 88 Ky. 303, 11 Ky. L. Rep. 146, 11 S. W. 18, 957.

15. In an action where defendant sets off a penalty stipulated for plaintiff's failure to complete the building by a certain time, and there is evidence that it was contemplated when the contract was made that defendant should put in a siding to enable plaintiff to unload materials on the spot, it is error to charge that this siding could have been put in in a day or two, when there was evidence that, in order to put the siding in, a grading of the lot was necessary. Huckestein v. Kelly, etc., Co., 139 Pa. St. 201, 27 Wkly. Notes Cas. (Pa.) 387, 21 Atl. 78.

16. Where plaintiff in his declaration alleged that defendant directed what material should be used, and that the same was used, and the structure made as perfect as it could be with such materials, defendant pleaded that he did not designate the materials and direct them to be used. Issue was taken on the plea, and, on trial, defendant moved the court to instruct the jury that the issue was immaterial, and should be disregarded by them. A refusal so to instruct was held correct. McKee v. Brandon, 3 Ill. 339.

An instruction ignoring the necessity of a certificate entirely is erroneous, even though the architect had in fact been discharged before completion. Walsh v. Walsh, 11 Ill. App. 199.

17. Estep v. Fenton, 66 Ill. 467; Henderson Bridge Co. v. O'Connor, 88 Ky. 303, 11 Ky. L. Rep. 146, 11 S. W. 18, 957; Huckestein v. Kelly, etc., Co., 139 Pa. St. 201, 27 Wkly. Notes Cas. (Pa.) 387, 21 Atl. 78.

Misleading instruction as to performance. — An instruction requiring only a substantial compliance with the terms of the building contract and leaving it with the jury to find whether there has been such a performance is improper and well calculated to mislead a jury. Estep v. Fenton, 66 Ill. 467.

An instruction that an estimate is not binding on either party if there is a mistake in it is misleading, because the jury is not informed of the nature of an error or mistake that would avoid the decision or estimate of the architect or engineer. Hot Springs R. Co. v. Maher, 48 Ark. 522.

In the absence of an allegation that the builder's failure to construct according to contract was caused by the owner and of testimony to that effect, it is misleading to charge that the builder is in fault and cannot recover, if the jury finds from the evidence that the building was not in accordance with the contract and the deficiency was caused by the owner. Livingston v. Anderson, 30 Fla. 117, 11 So. 270.

Instruction that builder cannot recover unless agreement is performed not misleading. — It is not misleading to charge, in an action to recover for work and labor in building, that if plaintiff agreed to build for a specific sum and did not perform his agreement he would not be entitled to any credit, because it is the builder's duty to excuse his failure to perform. Walling v. Warren, 2 Colo. 434.

18. Mueller v. Rosen, 179 Ill. 130, 53 N. E. 625 [affirming 79 Ill. App. 420], holding a charge, that if the jury believe "from the evidence in this case, that in addition to the requirements of the plans and specifications the plaintiff placed in the building certain things," then the jury are instructed that "plaintiff is entitled to recover from the de-statement of the evidence before the court,[19] or be in any way prejudicial to either party,[20] and must correctly state the law upon the evidence before the jury.[21]

(II) As to Damages. The court must duly charge the jury as to the manner in which the damages sustained by plaintiff should be estimated and arrived at.[22]

fendants such additional sum" as it may believe "from all the evidence in this case, to be due to the plaintiff because of the additional work, labor and material in so constructing, building and furnishing said extra articles in said building according as the proof shows the agreement was relative thereto, if any," does not give undue prominence to particular facts.

19. Under a provision, that all payments made on the work during its progress on account of the contract or for any extra work must not be construed as an acceptance of the work executed, but the builder shall be liable to all the conditions of the contract until the work is finished and a final certificate given by the superintendent, an instruction that a certificate given by the architect to the builder for payment by the owner is conclusive evidence as against the owner and in favor of the builder, that so much of the material furnished and work done under the contract as originally made, covered, and paid for by said certificate was so furnished and done pursuant to the terms of the contract is prejudicial error, as it directly contravenes the terms of the contract. Clapp v. Bullard, 23 Ill. App. 609. See also Livingston v. Anderson, 30 Fla. 117, 11 So. 270.

20. Estep v. Fenton, 66 Ill. 467.

21. Atchison First Baptist Church v. Sigwald, 39 Kan. 387, 18 Pac. 289; Veazie v. Hosmer, 11 Gray (Mass.) 396.

As to right to additional time.—Where defendant sets off a penalty stipulated by plaintiff's failure to complete a building by a certain time, and the proof shows that the intention of the parties was that defendant should do certain work to enable plaintiff to proceed with his work, it is not error to charge that plaintiff should be allowed additional time on account of defendant's delay to do his work. Huckestein v. Kelly, etc., Co., 139 Pa. St. 201, 27 Wkly. Notes Cas. (Pa.) 387, 21 Atl. 78.

In an action for extras, an instruction that if any of the alleged extras were called for either in the plans or specifications they could not be recovered as extras is proper. Mills v. Hall, (Tex. Civ. App. 1895) 30 S. W. 558.

Refusal to give requested instruction correct where point previously covered.— The court may refuse a request to charge, that if the builder did not do his work under the contract in a workmanlike manner the owner might terminate the contract, where it is charged that a builder failing in the discharge of his duty may rightfully be discharged by his employer, as the latter instruction includes the former. Feaster v. Richland Cotton Mills, 51 S. C. 143, 28 S. E. 301.

Where the jury are instructed that if the work has been only partly done and the owner has availed himself of the work the builder may recover what the work was reasonably worth to the owners, it is erroneous to fail to instruct the jury that the builder must have intentionally failed to finish the work. Veazie v. Hosmer, 11 Gray (Mass.) 396.

Conclusiveness of certificate.— In an action on a building contract providing that the architect's certificates and decisions should be binding in all matters, an instruction that his certificate was conclusive on defendant, in the absence of collusion with plaintiff, is not erroneous, where the answer charges such collusion, and no instruction based on the theory of independent fraud or gross negligence on the part of the architect is requested. Johnson v. White, (Tex. Civ. App. 1894) 27 S. W. 174.

22. Fairfield v. Jeffreys, 68 Ind. 578; Veazie v. Hosmer, 11 Gray (Mass.) 396.

It is erroneous to instruct that the measure of the builder's damages are prima facie what his work would amount to under the contract and that, if plaintiff was thrown out of employment by reason of defendant's refusal to permit him to perform his contract, plaintiff would not be permitted to do anything if other work could be obtained, but that it was his duty to obtain work if he could, and that any sum that plaintiff might have made at other work during that time should be deducted from such damages as he would prima facie be entitled to recover. Fairfield v. Jeffreys, 68 Ind. 578.

A request to charge as to the rule of damages for defective workmanship or poor material is properly refused as too general, where there is also a claim for material not furnished and for delay in performing the contract. Healy v. Bulkley, 10 N. Y. Suppl. 702, 32 N. Y. St. 243.

In an action to recover a balance due on a building contract and for extras, some of which were for variations from the plans, where it appeared that the architect had certified that the contract had been performed and all but a very small balance of the price had been paid, a charge that work under the original contract should be completed in every particular, but that the jury might deduct the difference in value from any variations from the contract, is not erroneous as a whole, the latter part of it referring to disputed extras merely. O'Brien v. Jackson, 42 N. Y. App. Div. 171, 58 N. Y. Suppl. 1044.

Where acceptance by the architect entitled the builder to payment, but the builder was liable to a penalty per day for delay in completion, an instruction to find for plaintiff, at the contract price, if the architect accepted the building, is correct, though the contract called for completion at a date prior to the acceptance as the contract price was

9. VERDICT OR FINDINGS. The verdict or findings must be based upon the evidence before the jury,[23] and be sufficient to support a judgment,[24] but neither a verdict or finding will be disturbed, where there is sufficient evidence to warrant a finding that plaintiff is entitled to recover.[25]

10. JUDGMENT. In a suit to recover for work and material furnished in construction of a house, a judgment not only against the owner of the land on which the house was built but against others is not erroneous, where the others had as much to do with the settlement of the plans and the making of the contract as the owner had.[26]

B. To Recover Damages For Not Being Allowed to Complete — 1. COMPLAINT, DECLARATION, OR PETITION. The complaint, declaration, or petition in an action to recover damages for being prevented from carrying out a building contract must set out a valid contract,[27] and, where the recording of a building contract is required by statute, aver that it was filed for record.[28] It is sufficient, however, to allege an agreement that the owner was to pay a certain price, and that in pursuance of the agreement a building was commenced, and that the builder is ready and willing to complete it, but that defendant prevented plaintiff from so doing and compelled him to desist from the work.[29]

2. ISSUES, PROOF, AND VARIANCE. Plaintiff's evidence must support his complaint, declaration, or petition.[30]

C. To Recover Damages From Builder — 1. INSTITUTION OF SUIT. Notwithstanding the builder is still working under the contract with the owner's consent, an action may be brought by the owner to recover damages from the builder for the breach of a contract to complete by a certain time shortly after the agreed sum, less the proper deduction for delay. Johnson v. White, (Tex. Civ. App. 1894) 27 S. W. 174.

Where the court charged that the contract price should govern, so far as the work was of the character specified in the contract, it properly refused to charge that the price of the extra work should be the price fixed by the contract. Carroll County v. O'Connor, 137 Ind. 622, 35 N. E. 1006, 37 N. E. 16.

Where defendant pleaded payment and payment with leave, and proved that the work had not been approved by the architect, an instruction was held correct which was to the effect that plaintiff was entitled, under the pleading, to recover, upon a proper deduction being made for any deficiency in the work done that caused damage to defendant within a reasonable time after discovery thereof. Normal School v. Hauck, 2 Wkly. Notes Cas. (Pa.) 86.

As to measure of damages see infra, VII, D; and, generally, DAMAGES.

23. Blazo v. Gill, 69 Hun (N. Y.) 69, 23 N. Y. Suppl. 373, 53 N. Y. St. 154.

Where evidence shows that walls are not constructed according to plans and that defendant on several occasions insisted that the defects should be remedied a finding for plaintiff is erroneous. Lynes v. Holl, 60 Minn. 632, 63 N. W. 108.

24. May v. Menton, 18 Misc. (N. Y.) 737, 41 N. Y. Suppl. 650, 75 N. Y. St. 1036.

25. Walsh v. Campbell, 1 N. Y. App. Div. 631, 37 N. Y. Suppl. 362, 72 N. Y. St. 531.

Where there was evidence that a house could not be built without more or less cracking of the walls, a finding refusing to allow defendant for moneys paid to repair the defects in plastering, which were not of an extraordinary kind and not due to bad workmanship, should not be disturbed. Walsh v. Campbell, 1 N. Y. App. Div. 631, 37 N. Y. Suppl. 362, 72 N. Y. St. 531.

26. Weese v. Pearce, 81 Ill. App. 38.

27. Howard v. Maine Industrial School, 78 Me. 230, 3 Atl. 657.

28. Palmer v. White, 70 Cal. 220, 11 Pac. 647.

Necessity of recording building contract see supra, II, B, 2, c.

29. Black v. Woodrow, 39 Md. 194, holding that it is not necessary to specially aver an implied promise on defendant's part to allow the building to be constructed, unless the fact of prevention is alleged as a breach.

30. Stickney v. Cassell, 6 Ill. 418, where a builder contracted to put all his men upon a building at a stipulated sum per diem and then put them at work to complete any other contractor's work that the employer should wish at a specified price. The builder, however, was not allowed by the owner to complete the building and sued to recover damages alleged to have been sustained by reason of the refusal. It did not appear by the contract either expressly or otherwise that defendant bound himself to allow plaintiff to complete the other parties' work, and there was no testimony which tended to show that defendant hindered or prevented plaintiff from completing, and it was held that plaintiff could not recover, since the declaration was not supported by the evidence.

Damages recoverable by builder see infra, VII, D.

a lapse of such time, unless the owner himself has waived his claim for damages.[31]

2. COMPLAINT, DECLARATION, OR PETITION[32] — a. In General. A complaint, declaration, or petition in an action brought by the owner to recover damages from the builder must not improperly unite two or more causes of action,[33] and must properly show a cause of action.[34] Where the cause of action is a failure to perform the declaration must set out a contract that is not so uncertain and indefinite as to be incapable of performance.[35]

b. Particular Averments. Where the cause of action is a failure to construct in a workmanlike manner and with the material contracted for, the plaintiff's pleading should allege wherein the workmanship was faulty or the material furnished by defendant was not such as the contract required.[36] Plaintiff need not allege an offer to pay the amount he had agreed to pay at the time when the building should have been completed, where the cause of action is for non-completion within a time specified.[37]

3. ANSWER OR PLEA. Where the owner seeks to recover damages for the builder's non-performance of his contract upon which the builder was paid, defendant cannot plead that plaintiff was not legally bound by contract to perform his part thereof,[38] or the fact that defendant had nearly completed his work after the time within which he had agreed to complete and was prevented by plaintiff from completing it.[39] Where plaintiff seeks to recover damages for negligent building defendant must allege in his answer or plea any facts showing that the failure in construction was not caused by his fault.[40]

4. REPLICATION OR REPLY. A replication or reply must, where the answer avers an acceptance of the work, allege facts avoiding the acceptance in a case where the acceptance is confessed.[41]

5. ISSUES, PROOF, AND VARIANCE. Where the declaration alleges a failure of the

31. Bryson v. McCone, 121 Cal. 153, 53 Pac. 637.

32. See, generally, PLEADING.

33. A complaint setting forth a contract to build and a failure of defendant to comply therewith, and alleging damages on account of loss of profits and demanding a judgment therefor, and also claiming money paid by plaintiff to defendant on account of work done, which was not completed in accordance with the contract, does not unite the causes of action. Reedy v. Smith, 42 Cal. 245.

34. Paola Bd. of Education v. Shaw, 15 Kan. 34, where the owner sued to recover liquidated damages, and plaintiff's pleading set forth facts showing that the builder constructed in accordance with instructions of an architect and to his satisfaction, and that at the time of the architect's final estimate defendant received a final certificate certifying a proper completion of the building upon which possession was taken by the owner, and also set forth facts showing that the architect had altered the original plans and specifications as he was empowered to do by the contract.

Copy of account.— Under Cal. Code Civ. Proc. § 454, requiring a plaintiff to furnish a copy of his account when demanded, a complaint alleging that a builder did not provide material required by his contract and averring damage in consequence of imperfect construction and the use of improper materials is not demurrable on the ground of uncertainty. Long Beach City School Dist. v. Dodge, 135 Cal. 401, 67 Pac. 499.

35. Lyle v. Jackson County, 23 Ark. 63.

36. Boettler v. Tendick, 73 Tex. 488, 11 S. W. 497, 5 L. R. A. 270.

Statement of particular imperfections.— Under Cal. Code Civ. Proc. § 454, requiring plaintiff to furnish a copy of an account when demanded in writing, a statement of the particular imperfections relied on in an action to recover on a contractor's bond on the ground of imperfect construction and the use of improper materials may be required. Long Beach City School Dist. v. Dodge, 135 Cal. 401, 67 Pac. 499.

37. Lucas v. Snyder, 2 Greene (Iowa) 490.

38. Guilford M. E. Church v. Clarke, 74 Me. 110.

39. Shields v. Perkins, 2 Bibb (Ky.) 227.

40. Stees v. Leonard, 20 Minn. 494, where evidence was offered and excluded, that land on which the building was constructed was not of a character to sustain the building, by reason of which it fell when partly erected, because not pleaded.

41. Petrie v. Grover, 39 Ind. 343, holding that a reply, admitting the execution of a note given by plaintiff in payment of a balance, but averring that its only consideration was defendant's agreement to build in a proper manner with material to be furnished by plaintiff, which was furnished, but that work was defective owing to defendant's unskilfulness, was bad, since it did not allege that the material furnished was sufficient, or builder to build skilfully in accordance with his agreement plaintiff cannot recover for damages resulting from defects in the plan of construction.[42]

6. Evidence[43] — Admissibility. If the action be brought by the owner or employer to recover damages for a forfeiture because of delay in completion, or because of a breach of plans and specifications, evidence of the condition of the building a short time after the breach,[44] or in fact any evidence tending to show the cost and expense which the breach occasioned the owner is admissible.[45] On the other hand, the builder may show that the delay for which the forfeiture is claimed was caused by the architect or owner.[46]

7. Trial[47] — Instructions. Instructions given must duly state the law.[48]

8. Verdict or Findings. The verdict or findings must be duly supported by the evidence before the court.[49]

D. Amount and Extent of Recovery[50] — 1. By Builder — a. In General. A builder may recover for all damages occasioned him by the owners or employers' breach of the contract.[51] Thus he may recover, not merely the sum he may have paid his subcontractors,[52] but for losses caused by his having been compelled to do the work in an unusual and more expensive manner,[53] or in more inclement weather,[54] and for all elements of loss proximately affecting him.[55]

b. Contract Price. If the builder has bona fide attempted to perform his contract, but unintentionally omitted some trifling detail, or performed his work in a slightly defective manner, he may recover the contract price,[56] less such that plaintiff was not aware of the defective work at the time he gave the note.

42. Fairman v. Ford, 70 Vt. 111, 39 Atl. 748.

43. See, generally, Evidence.

44. Shields v. Perkins, 2 Bibb (Ky.) 227.

The necessity of the owner's assumption of the work may be shown by a report of the superintendent of the building as to the condition thereof, coupled with a demand upon the builder to resume work at once, and the correctness of the report is not disputed by the builder. Watson v. De Witt County, 19 Tex. Civ. App. 150, 46 S. W. 1061.

45. National Surety Co. v. T. B. Townsend Brick, etc., Co., 74 Ill. App. 312.

46. Mahoney v. St. Paul's Church, 47 La. Ann. 1064, 17 So. 484; Baasen v. Baehr, 7 Wis. 516.

47. See, generally, Trial.

48. An instruction that if defendant had substantially performed his contract according to plans and specifications plaintiff could not recover, even if there are trivial defects, is erroneous. Boteler v. Roy, 40 Mo. App. 234.

As to character of default warranting forfeiture.—An instruction authorizing the jury to infer that any kind of default might justify a forfeiture is not erroneous, where another portion of the charge made the right of forfeiture dependent on the builder's abandonment, and the court affirmatively charged that unless the builder had abandoned the contract plaintiff had no right to perform the work himself. Watson v. De Witt County, 19 Tex. Civ. App. 150, 46 S. W. 1061.

49. Johnson v. Pugh, 110 Wis. 167, 85 N. W. 641, where it was held that a verdict for damages because of a defect in the building was supported by evidence that defendant, upon receiving his final payment upon the building contract, stated that the support beneath the building was insufficient and by evidence that he had not remedied the defect.

50. See, generally, Damages.

51. Danforth v. Tennessee, etc., R. Co., 93 Ala. 614, 11 So. 60; O'Keefe v. St. Francis' Church, 59 Conn. 551, 22 Atl. 325; Heaver v. Lanahan, 74 Md. 493, 22 Atl. 263; Linch v. Paris Lumber, etc., Elevator Co., 80 Tex. 23, 15 S. W. 208.

The value of the use of tools employed by a builder in doing his work may be recovered, where the contract is abandoned by the owner. O'Keefe v. St. Francis' Church, 59 Conn. 551, 22 Atl. 325.

52. Seaton v. New Orleans, 3 La. Ann. 44; Smith v. U. S., 11 Ct. Cl. 707.

53. Del Genovese v. Third Ave. R. Co., 13 N. Y. App. Div. 412, 43 N. Y. Suppl. 8.

54. Kellogg Bridge Co. v. U. S., 15 Ct. Cl. 206.

55. Illinois.— Cook County v. Sexton, 16 Ill. App. 93.

Kentucky.— Western v. Sharp, 14 B. Mon. (Ky.) 144.

Louisiana.— Seaton v. New Orleans, 3 La. Ann. 44.

Maryland.— Lanahan v. Heaver, 79 Md. 413, 29 Atl. 1036, where a contractor, prevented from completing a building because of the proportion of the land for a street, and who had recovered from the parties certain specified damages therefor, was held to be precluded from subsequently maintaining an action against the owner for a breach of the same contract.

United States.— Smith v. U. S., 11 Ct. Cl. 707.

56. Arkansas.—Manuel v. Campbell, 3 Ark. 324.

amount as will indemnify the owner for the expense of conforming the work to that for which he contracted.[57] Where, however, a contract is fairly entered into by an experienced builder, the fact that a portion of the work proves to be more expensive than was estimated does not entitle the builder, in the absence of fraud or mistake, to any allowance beyond the contract price.[58]

c. For Work and Material Furnished. Though a builder may not be entitled to recover on his express contract yet, if the owner has accepted or is deriving profit or advantage from the work done or material furnished, it is but just and equitable that he should pay for the same,[59] and the builder may, upon abandonment of the contract, or if work or material furnished be of inferior quality, recover their reasonable value not exceeding the contract price,[60] provided the California.— Marchant v. Hayes, 117 Cal. 669, 49 Pac. 840; Perry v. Quackenbush, 105 Cal. 299, 38 Pac. 740.

Connecticut.— Pinches v. Swedish Evangelical Lutheran Church, 55 Conn. 183, 10 Atl. 264; Smith v. Scott's Ridge School Dist., 20 Conn. 312.

Illinois.— Palmer v. Meriden Britannia Co., 188 Ill. 508, 59 N. E. 247 [affirming 88 Ill. App. 485].

Iowa.— Fauble v. Davis, 48 Iowa 462.

Minnesota.— Elliott v. Caldwell, 43 Minn. 357, 45 N. W. 845, 9 L. R. A. 52.

New York.— Lennon v. Smith, 161 N. Y. 661, 57 N. E. 1115 [affirming 48 N. Y. Suppl. 456, 23 N. Y. App. Div. 293]; Crouch v. Gutmann, 134 N. Y. 45, 31 N. E. 271, 45 N. Y. St. 470, 30 Am. St. Rep. 608; Nolan v. Whitney, 88 N. Y. 648; Woodward v. Fuller, 80 N. Y. 312; Smith v. Gugerty, 4 Barb. (N. Y.) 614; Anderson v. Meislahn, 12 Daly (N. Y.) 149; Ryan v. Voelkl, 26 Misc. (N. Y.) 840, 56 N. Y. Suppl. 1065; Vogel v. Friedman, 68 N. Y. Suppl. 820; Rush v. Wagner, 12 N. Y. Suppl. 2, 34 N. Y. St. 798; Rancher v. Cronk, 3 N. Y. Suppl. 470, 21 N. Y. St. 527.

North Dakota.— Anderson v. Todd, 8 N. D. 158, 77 N. W. 599.

Texas.— Linch v. Paris Lumber, etc., Elevator Co., 80 Tex. 23, 15 S. W. 208; Bradford v. Whitcomb, 11 Tex. Civ. App. 221, 32 S. W. 571.

57. California.— Marchant v. Hayes, 117 Cal. 669, 49 Pac. 840; Perry v. Quackenbush, 105 Cal. 299, 38 Pac. 740.

Colorado.— Schaefer v. Gildea, 3 Colo. 15.

Illinois.—Palmer v. Meriden Britannia Co., 188 Ill. 508, 59 N. E. 247 [affirming 88 Ill. App. 485]; Keeler v. Herr, 157 Ill. 57, 41 N. E. 750; School Directors v. Roberson, 65 Ill. App. 298.

Kentucky.— Morford v. Mastin, 6 T. B. Mon. (Ky.) 609, 17 Am. Dec. 168; Panke v. Fisher, 20 Ky. L. Rep. 1167, 48 S. W. 993; Lexington Ice Mfg., etc., Co. v. Farman, 13 Ky. L. Rep. 270.

Maine.— Jewett v. Weston, 11 Me. 346 [citing Thornton v. Place, 1 M. & Rob. 218].

Massachusetts.— Cullen v. Sears, 112 Mass. 299; Walker v. Orange, 16 Gray (Mass.) 193; Smith v. Lowell First Cong. Meeting House, 8 Pick. (Mass.) 178; Hayward v. Leonard, 7 Pick. (Mass.) 181, 19 Am. Dec. 268.

Michigan.— Phelps v. Beebe, 71 Mich. 554, 39 N. W. 761.

Minnesota.— Leeds v. Little, 42 Minn. 414, 44 N. W. 309.

Missouri.— Buschmann v. Bray, 68 Mo. App. 8.

New Hampshire.— Danforth v. Freeman, 69 N. H. 466, 43 Atl. 621.

New York.— Crouch v. Gutmann, 134 N. Y. 45, 31 N. E. 271, 45 N. Y. St. 470, 30 Am. St. Rep. 608; Nolan v. Whitney, 88 N. Y. 648; Woodward v. Fuller, 80 N. Y. 312; Ryan v. Voelkl, 26 Misc. (N. Y.) 840, 56 N. Y. Suppl. 1065; Rush v. Wagner, 12 N. Y. Suppl. 2, 34 N. Y. St. 798; Parke v. Franco-American Trading Co., 7 N. Y. St. 498; Smith v. Clark, 5 N. Y. St. 165.

Ohio.— Kane v. Ohio Stone Co., 39 Ohio St. 1; Goldsmith v. Hand, 26 Ohio St. 101; Johnson v. Slaymaker, 18 Ohio Cir. Ct. 104, 9 Ohio Cir. Dec. 500; Kane v. Wilson, etc., Stone Co., 4 Ohio Dec. (Reprint) 509, 2 Clev. L. Rep. 290.

Pennsylvania.— Filbert v. Philadelphia, 181 Pa. St. 530, 37 Atl. 545; White v. Braddock School Dist., 159 Pa. St. 201, 28 Atl. 136; Liggett v. Smith, 3 Watts (Pa.) 331, 27 Am. Rep. 358.

South Dakota.— Aldrich v. Wilmarth, 3 S. D. 523, 54 N. W. 811.

Texas.— Hillyard v. Crabtree, 11 Tex. 264, 62 Am. Dec. 475; Bradford v. Whitcomb, 11 Tex. Civ. App. 221, 32 S. W. 571.

Vermont.— Austin v. Austin, 47 Vt. 311.

Wisconsin.— Arndt v. Keller, 76 Wis. 274, 71 N. W. 651.

United States.— Philadelphia, etc., R. Co. v. Howard, 13 How. (U. S.) 307, 14 L. ed. 157; Van Buren v. Digges, 11 How. (U. S.) 461, 13 L. ed. 771.

58. Cannon v. Wildman, 28 Conn. 472.

59. Katz v. Bedford, 77 Cal. 319, 19 Pac. 523, 1 L. R. A. 826; Blakeslee v. Holt, 42 Conn. 226; Wabaunsee County School Dist. v. Boyer, 46 Kan. 54, 26 Pac. 484; Austin v. Keating, 21 Mo. App. 30.

Materials not in the building and not tendered to the owner nor in any way used by him cannot be recovered for. Parker v. McGilway, 7 Rob. (La.) 192.

Where no fixed sum is agreed upon as compensation for constructing a building, the allowance of a reasonable price, commensurate with the labor done, is the rule. Manuel v. Campbell, 3 Ark. 324.

60. Estep v. Fenton, 66 Ill. 467; Becker v. Hecker, 9 Ind. 497; McClure v. King, 15 La.

amount expended by the owner in the completion of the structure and the damages to which he is legally entitled do not equal the amount due the builder at the time of default;[61] the amount of which damages should, of course, be deducted.[62]

d. Interest. Interest on capital invested by the builder for material,[63] and on money due to him[64] should be allowed in estimating his damages, notwithstanding the amount he seeks to recover may be reduced because he has deviated from the terms of his contract;[65] but interest should not be allowed on his profits until they are determined by the verdict.[66]

e. Probable Gain or Profits. Where the breach of the contract is caused by some act or fault of the owner or employer, the builder may recover not only for the value of the work or materials furnished,[67] but the profits or gain which he

Ann. 220; Ibers v. O'Donnell, 25 Mo. App. 120; Austin v. Keating, 21 Mo. App. 30.

In computing this amount, the sum which would have been allowed by the terms of the contract for the same amount of work if the contract had been finished, if this amount may be justly proportioned, is usually the amount recoverable (McKinney v. Springer, 3 Ind. 59, 54 Am. Dec. 470); and a builder, in order to recover more than such amount, must show that the proportionment has been unjust (Reynolds v. Welsh, 8 N. Y. St. 404).

The full compensation agreed upon cannot be recovered, where the builder has abandoned his contract, notwithstanding that the owner is able to complete the building for less than the difference between what he agreed to pay and what he had paid (Blythe v. Poultney, 31 Cal. 233), or where he has constructed a building not called for by the contract, though it may be as useful and valuable as the one contracted for (Lewis v. Yagel, 77 Hun (N. Y.) 337, 28 N. Y. Suppl. 833, 60 N. Y. St. 23).

Amount recoverable for extra work.— In some instances the contract provides that payment for extra work shall be governed by the contract price, and in such case the value of the extra work would be determined accordingly (Rounds v. Aiken Mfg. Co., 58 S. C. 209, 36 S. E. 714), and where extra work is furnished at the expense of the architect, who fails, however, to fix the difference in the cost occasioned thereby, the contract price may be taken as the basis of the recovery therefor (Rude v. Mitchell, 97 Mo. 365, 11 S. W. 225); where, however, the price to be paid for extra work and material is not fixed in the contract (Fulton County v. Gibson, (Ind. 1902) 63 N. E. 982), or material departures are, at the request of the owner, made from the original contract (Rhodes v. Clute, 17 Utah 137, 53 Pac. 990), the builder would be entitled to the reasonable value for the extra material and labor furnished; the law implying a promise by the employer to pay therefor (Flather v. Slugging Mach. Economy Co., (N. H. 1902) 52 Atl. 454).

A builder wrongfully prohibited by the owner from using a quantity of material authorized by the contract and required to use a more expensive kind may recover any difference in price, though there has been no formal contract for, nor delivery of, the prohibited material. Brin v. McGregor, (Tex. Civ. App. 1901) 64 S. W. 78.

61. Winamac v. Hess, 151 Ind. 229, 50 N. E. 81; Allen v. Wills, 4 La. Ann. 97.

Where the owner has already recovered damages for the non-performance of the contract, the amount recoverable by the builder would be the actual value of the work and material. Maloney v. Rust, 42 Conn. 236.

62. Massachusetts.— Bassett v. Sanborn, 9 Cush. (Mass.) 58.

Missouri.— Austin v. Keating, 21 Mo. App. 30.

New York.— Charlton v. Rose, 24 N. Y. App. Div. 485, 48 N. Y. Suppl. 1073.

Texas.— Mills v. Hall, (Tex. Civ. App. 1895) 30 S. W. 558.

United States.— Florida R. Co. v. Smith, 21 Wall. (U. S.) 255, 22 L. ed. 513; McDonough v. Evans Marble Co., 112 Fed. 634, 50 C. C. A. 403.

Damages recoverable by owner see infra, VII, D, 2.

63. Kellogg Bridge Co. v. U. S., 15 Ct. Cl. 206.

64. Danforth v. Tennessee, etc., R. Co., 93 Ala. 614, 11 So. 60; Kellogg Bridge Co. v. U. S., 15 Ct. Cl. 206.

65. Healy v. Fallon, 69 Conn. 228, 37 Atl. 495.

66. Swanson v. Andrus, 83 Minn. 505, 86 N. W. 465.

67. McDaniel v. Webster, 2 Houst. (Del.) 305; Black v. Woodrow, 39 Md. 194; Ford v. Burchard, 130 Mass. 424; Moran v. McSwegan, 33 N. Y. Super. Ct. 350.

That material by reason of its design could not be used elsewhere, and therefore must be sold by the contractor at a loss, should be considered in the estimation of damages. Wells v. West Bay City Bd. of Education, 78 Mich. 260, 44 N. W. 267.

Waiver of possible profit.— A builder who, after abandoning the work provided for by the contract, and after the substitution of other work because of a change in the plans, accepts an amount paid, because of the loss of profit on the abandoned work, cannot recover for the profits which he would have made from the substituted work if he had performed it. Gilbert Blasting, etc., Co. v. Rex, 7 Can. Exch. 221.

would have made had he been permitted to complete his contract should be included as an element of the damages recoverable by him;[68] but if the employer may suspend the work, such profits cannot be recovered.[69]

2. Against Builder — a. In General. An owner who has sustained injury by reason of a breach of the contract by the builder, may recover either in an independent action, or as a set-off or counter-claim in an action by the builder, all damages therefor, which are the proximate result of the breach.[70] The amount of such damages is usually the difference between the value of the work furnished or building constructed and that contracted for,[71] or the extra cost occasioned the owner in making the work conform to the contract stipulations,[72] but the owner cannot, in such case, enlarge upon the original contract.[73]

68. Alabama.— Danforth v. Tennessee, etc., R. Co., 93 Ala. 614, 11 So. 60.

Indiana.— Fairfield v. Jeffreys, 68 Ind. 578.

Missouri.— Brandt v. Schuchmann, 60 Mo. App. 70.

Oregon.— Wisner v. Barber, 10 Oreg. 342.

United States.— Cook v. Hamilton County, 6 McLean (U. S.) 612, 6 Fed. Cas. No. 3,158; Skelsey v. U. S., 23 Ct. Cl. 61; Schnieder v. U. S., 19 Ct. Cl. 547.

Compare Clark v. New York, 4 N. Y. 338, 53 Am. Dec. 379.

The amount of such profits is usually determined by determining the amount which the builder would have earned and been entitled to recover on performance of the contract, and the amount which it would have actually cost him to carry out the same. Danforth v. Tennessee, etc., R. Co., 93 Ala. 614, 11 So. 60; Fairfield v. Jeffreys, 68 Ind. 578; Graves v. Hunt, 8 N. Y. St. 308.

69. Warren-Scharf Asphalt Paving Co. v. Laclede Constr. Co., 111 Fed. 695, 49 C. C. A. 552.

A builder cannot recover profits for extra work, the performance of which the engineer might have required of him, but which he had the right to give, and did give, to other persons. Gilbert Blasting, etc., Co. v. Rex, 7 Can. Exch. 221.

70. Colorado.— Schaefer v. Gildea, 3 Colo. 15.

Connecticut.— Maloney v. Rust, 42 Conn. 236.

Illinois.— Estep v. Fenton, 66 Ill. 467.

Kentucky.— Escott v. White, 10 Bush (Ky.) 169.

Pennsylvania.— Blainey v. Presbyterian Bd., 200 Pa. St. 406, 50 Atl. 160.

Effect of payment before knowledge of breach.— The doctrine that an owner who has paid the contract price before discovering the defects cannot recover for such defects, because he has negligently parted with his money without an examination of the structure, applies only where the defects are patent and apparent; where the defects are concealed a recovery may be had regardless of the fact of payment, the foundation of the action being fraud and deceit in the builder. Barker v. Nichols, 3 Colo. App. 25, 31 Pac. 1024.

Remote or speculative damages are not recoverable. Rogers v. Bemus, 69 Pa. St. 432. Thus, damages cannot be allowed an owner for the removing of the shelving from an old store before the new one was ready, which necessitated the piling of the goods upon the floor, and expense of advertising one's removal from one building to another (Walrath v. Whittekind, 26 Kan. 482); or the rent one may possibly be compelled to pay before the completion of his house, or for a possible loss he may sustain by being compelled to make a less advantageous contract for its completion (Jaudes v. Fisher, 5 Ky. L. Rep. 768).

To reduce the amount of the builder's recovery there should not be taken into consideration the relief from risk and anxiety occasioned the builder because he was bound to perform his contract (Joske v. Pleasants, 15 Tex. Civ. App. 433, 39 S. W. 586), or the fact that the contractor had other jobs on hand at the time of the breach occasioned by the owner (Graves v. Hunt, 8 N. Y. St. 308).

Right to withhold payment until liens are paid.—Where the contract provides for the withholding of a certain percentage price until completion of the building, and, in the event of notice of mechanics' lien, claims that the owner may withhold payment until such liens or claims are paid, the owner may withhold the amount until the claims are paid, although they are not procured in compliance with c. 179, acts of the twentieth general assembly. Independent School Dist. v. Mardis, 106 Iowa 295, 76 N. W. 794. See also Mechanics' Liens.

71. White v. McLaren, 151 Mass. 553, 24 N. E. 911; Moulton v. McOwen, 103 Mass. 587; Morton v. Harrison, 52 N. Y. Super. Ct. 305; Chamberlain v. Hibbard, 26 Oreg. 428, 38 Pac. 437.

72. Iowa.— Smith v. Bristol, 33 Iowa 24.

Kentucky.— Kiel v. Kline, 15 Ky. L. Rep. 158.

Minnesota.— Wheaton v. Lund, 61 Minn. 94, 63 N. W. 251.

New York.— Riley v. Kenney, 33 Misc. (N. Y.) 384, 67 N. Y. Suppl. 584 (holding that the owner, in the absence of a showing of negligence, was entitled to deduct the actual amount paid by him for a completion of the contract after a breach thereof, notwithstanding expert testimony that it might have been finished for a smaller amount); Beck v. Catholic University, 32 Misc. (N. Y.) 567, 67 N. Y. Suppl. 305.

Oregon.— Savage v. Glenn, 10 Oreg. 440.

73. Isaacs v. Reeve, (N. J. 1899) 44 Atl. 1, where the owner, upon the abandonment

b. For Delay in Completion — (i) RENTS AND PROFITS. In some instances the delay of the builder is, of course, excusable;[74] but if inexcusable the amount of damages therefor may be governed by stipulations in the contract itself,[75] or, in the absence of such stipulations, the owner is entitled to the value of the use of the building for the time he was deprived thereof by the builder's delay,[76] the amount of which is usually estimated as the fair rental value during such time;[77] unless it clearly appears that the owner could not, during the delay, have rented the same.[78] While in the estimation of the rental value, the owner cannot be allowed the amount which might have been offered by other parties,[79] or the amount received several months after completion,[80] the rental value of the building as adapted to its particular purpose, but not its value for general business purposes may be recovered.[81] of work by a contractor, employed other contractors to finish the same, and it was held that no work, either in connection with the building contemplated by the original contract, or on other buildings contiguous thereto, not provided for in the original contract, could be allowed against the original contractor in a settlement with the owner.

Damages for defective repairing.— The sum paid by a landowner to his tenants for injuries caused by an insufficient roof which had been defectively repaired by a contractor, if not excessive, would be the measure of damages in an action against the contractor. Maloney v. Brady, 18 N. Y. Suppl. 757, 45 N. Y. St. 864.

74. California.— White v. Fresno Nat. Bank, 98 Cal. 166, 32 Pac. 979.

Illinois.— Sperry v. Fanning, 80 Ill. 371; Marsh v. Kauff, 74 Ill. 189.

Louisiana.— Haughery v. Thiberge, 24 La. Ann. 442.

Missouri.— Eldridge v. Fuhr, 59 Mo. App. 44.

New York.— Dannat v. Fuller, 120 N. Y. 554, 24 N. E. 815, 31 N. Y. St. 825; Lauer v. Brown, 30 Barb. (N. Y.) 416; Smith v. Gugerty, 4 Barb. (N. Y.) 614; Deeves v. New York, 60 N. Y. Super. Ct. 339, 17 N. Y. Suppl. 460, 44 N. Y. St. 218; Weeks v. Little, 47 N. Y. Super. Ct. 1; Stewart v. Ketcltas, 9 Bosw. (N. Y.) 261; Farnham v. Ross, 2 Hall (N. Y.) 167; Anderson v. Meislahn, 12 Daly (N. Y.) 149.

United States.— Standard Gaslight Co. v. Wood, 61 Fed. 74, 26 U. S. App. 15, 9 C. C. A. 362.

Excuses for delay in performance see supra, V, B, 7.

75. Nature of stipulations.— Building contracts often have a clause or section therein providing that if the structure be not completed within a certain time the builder shall pay a certain amount per day or per week thereafter until the building be completed; if the sum stated in such stipulation is not disproportionate to the inconvenience which would be occasioned by the delay, which must have been within the contemplation of the parties at the time the contract was executed, and is not otherwise unreasonable or unjust, such sum will be regarded as liquidated damages and recoverable as such. Heard v. Dooly County, 101 Ga. 619, 28 S. E. 986; Collier v. Betterton, 87 Tex. 440, 29 S. W. 467; McNamara v. Skain, 23 Ont. 103 [following Foke v. Andrews, 8 Q. B. D. 428].

Legality of provision for stipulated damages see supra, II, B, 4, c, (x).

As to whether a provision providing for damages is to be regarded as one for a penalty or liquidated damages see supra, II, C, 2.

Where a contract provides liquidated damages for delay in completion the employer cannot show actual damage for such delay (Smith v. Vail, 53 N. Y. App. Div. 628, 65 N. Y. Suppl. 834 [affirmed in 166 N. Y. 611, 59 N. E. 1125]), or retain a percentage as liquidated damages, if he fails on his part to duly keep and perform the covenants as set forth in the contract (Florida Northern R. Co. v. Southern Supply Co., 112 Ga. 1, 37 S. E. 130).

Construction and operation of contract see supra, II, C.

76. Bryson v. McCone, 121 Cal. 153, 53 Pac. 637; White v. McLaren, 151 Mass. 553, 24 N. E. 911; Dengler v. Auer, 55 Mo. App. 548; McConey v. Wallace, 22 Mo. App. 377; Ruff v. Rinaldo, 55 N. Y. 664.

77. Colorado.— McIntire v. Barnes, 4 Colo. 285 [citing Wagner v. Corkhill, 40 Barb. (N. Y.) 175].

Georgia.— Cannon v. Hunt, 113 Ga. 501, 38 S. E. 983.

Illinois.— Korf v. Lull, 70 Ill. 420; Galbraith v. Chicago Architectural Iron Works, 50 Ill. App. 247; Hawley v. Florsheim, 44 Ill. App. 320.

Maryland.— Abbott v. Gatch, 13 Md. 314, 71 Am. Dec. 635.

New York.— Wagner v. Corkhill, 40 Barb. (N. Y.) 175; Ansonia Brass, etc., Co. v. Gerlach, 8 Misc. (N. Y.) 256, 28 N. Y. Suppl. 546, 59 N. Y. St. 197; Scribner v. Jacobs, 9 N. Y. Suppl. 856, 31 N. Y. St. 794.

Oregon.— Savage v. Glenn, 10 Oreg. 440.

Pennsylvania.— Rogers v. Bemus, 69 Pa. St. 432.

78. Wagner v. Corkhill, 40 Barb. (N. Y.) 175. See also Sperry v. Fanning, 80 Ill. 371.

79. Hawley v. Florsheim, 44 Ill. App. 320.

The sum cannot be entirely out of proportion to the contract price of the building and its rental value. McGeary's Estate, 31 Pittsb. Leg. J. (Pa.) 317.

80. Scribner v. Jacobs, 9 N. Y. Suppl. 856, 31 N. Y. St. 794.

81. Cochran v. Peoples' R. Co., 113 Mo. 359, 21 S. W. 6.

(II) WAIVER OF DAMAGES FOR DELAY. The owner may be held to have waived his claim for damages,[82] or for a forfeiture,[83] because of delay.

BUILDING.[1] A fabric or edifice, such as a house, church or the like;[2] a fabric or edifice constructed for use[3] or convenience, as a house, a church, a shop, etc.;[4] a structure; an edifice;[5] an edifice, erected by art, and fixed upon, or over the soil, composed of brick, stone, marble, wood, or other proper substance connected together, and designed for use in the position in which it is so fixed;[6] a fabric built or constructed;[7] an edifice for any use; that which is built, as a 82. St. Louis Nat. Stock Yards v. O'Reilly, 85 Ill. 546; Cook v. Odd Fellows' Fraternal Union, 49 Hun (N. Y.) 23, 1 N. Y. Suppl. 498, 17 N. Y. St. 490, holding that where large payments are made on a contract after the time therefor had expired, and changes were made in the plans, and delays were caused partly by the failure of other contractors, and the owner, a claim for damages for delay must be considered waived. Crawford v. Becker, 13 Hun (N. Y.) 375; Shute v. Hamilton, 3 Daly (N. Y.) 462; Brodek v. Farnum, 11 Wash. 565, 40 Pac. 189. See also Collier v. Betterton, 87 Tex. 440, 29 S. W. 467.

Merely consenting to an extension of time within which a building was to be completed would not constitute a waiver of a claim for damages for such delay. McIntire v. Barnes, 4 Colo. 285 [citing Abbott v. Gatch, 13 Md. 314, 71 Am. Dec. 635]; Oberlies v. Bullinger, 75 Hun (N. Y.) 248, 27 N. Y. Suppl. 19, 57 N. Y. St. 752; Sinclair v. Tallmadge, 35 Barb. (N. Y.) 602.

83. Eyster v. Parrott, 83 Ill. 517; Henderson Bridge Co. v. O'Connor, 88 Ky. 303, 11 Ky. L. Rep. 146, 11 S. W. 18, 957; Gallagher v. Nichols, 60 N. Y. 438; Sinclair v. Tallmadge, 35 Barb. (N. Y.) 602 (holding that under a contract providing a forfeiture for non-compliance, if the owner, saying nothing about a forfeiture, allows the builder to complete the same, there is a waiver of the penalty, and although damages might be allowed for the delay in completion, the penalty could not, under the circumstances, be recovered); Dumke v. Puhlman, 62 Wis. 18, 21 N. W. 820.

1. "The word 'building' has a double significance, and may be employed to express the idea of original construction, or it may serve the purpose of expressing the idea of reconstruction or the building of an annex to an edifice already constructed, which would form so considerable a part of the building originally added to as to constitute a new building." Willis v. Boyd, 103 Ga. 130, 132, 29 S. E. 707.

The word "building" necessarily embraces the foundation on which it rests; and the cellar, if there be one under the edifice, is also included in the term. Davis, J., in Benedict v. Ocean Ins. Co., 31 N. Y. 389, 394. See also Cassiano v. Ursuline Academy, 64 Tex. 673, 675; Wade v. Odle, (Tex. Civ. App. 1899) 54 S. W. 786, 788 (where it is said: "The land upon which the walls of a stone or brick building rest, or, indeed, of any other kind of building which in law is considered as annexed to the soil, and which is not clearly severed therefrom by the terms of the deed itself, must be considered, in our opinion, as part of the building itself").

"'House' and 'building' are synonymous terms." State v. Spiegel, 111 Iowa 701, 706, 83 N. W. 722.

Distinguished from "tenement."—"A 'building' is a 'tenement,' but a 'tenement' may be something different from a 'building.'" Com. v. Bossidy, 112 Mass. 277, 278, where it was held, however, that the words were used in the indictment as synonyms. See also Easthampton v. Hill, 162 Mass. 302, 304, 38 N. E. 502; Com. v. McCaughey, 9 Gray (Mass.) 296, 297 (where it is said: "A 'building' is a 'tenement,' though a 'tenement' may be a part of a 'building,' or something besides a 'building' or a part thereof").

2. Cowdrick v. Morris, 9 Pa. Co. Ct. 312, 314.

3. McGary v. People, 45 N. Y. 153, 161.

4. Connecticut.— State v. Barr, 39 Conn. 40, 44 [quoting Webster Dict.].

Iowa.— State v. Gibson, 97 Iowa 416, 419, 66 N. W. 742.

New Jersey.— Coddington v. Beebe, 31 N. J. L. 477, 484 [quoting Webster Dict.].

Pennsylvania.—Presbyterian Church v. Allison, 10 Pa. St. 413, 416 [quoting Webster Dict.].

Wisconsin.— Clark v. State, 69 Wis. 203, 206, 33 N. W. 436, 2 Am. St. Rep. 732 [quoting Imperial Dict.].

Canada.— Reg. v. Labadie, 32 U. C. Q. B. 429, 431 [quoting Imperial Dict.; Webster Dict.].

5. Century Dict. [quoted in Corbett v. Spring Garden Ins. Co., 40 N. Y. App. Div. 628, 630, 58 N. Y. Suppl. 148; Favro v. State, 39 Tex. Crim. 452, 453, 46 S. W. 932, 73 Am. St. Rep. 950]; Worcester Dict. [quoted in Clark v. State, 69 Wis. 203, 206, 33 N. W. 436, 2 Am. St. Rep. 732].

6. Bouvier L. Dict. [quoted in Rouse v. Catskill, etc., Steamboat Co., 59 Hun (N. Y.) 80, 82, 13 N. Y. Suppl. 126, 35 N. Y. St. 491; Anderson v. State, 17 Tex. App. 305, 310].

7. Century Dict. [quoted in Corbett v. Spring Garden Ins. Co., 40 N. Y. App. Div. 628, 630, 58 N. Y. Suppl. 148; Favro v. State, 39 Tex. Crim. 452, 453, 46 S. W. 932, 73 Am. St. Rep. 950].

dwelling-house, barn, etc.;[8] a fabric or edifice constructed; a thing built;[9] a structure or edifice enclosing a space within its walls and usually covered with a roof, such as a house, a church, a shop, a barn or a shed;[10] a structure in the nature of a house built where it is to stand.[11] As commonly understood, it is a house for residence, business, or public use, or for shelter of animals or storage of goods[12] and imports a structure of considerable size and intended to be permanent or at least to endure for a considerable time.[13] (Buildings: Accidents From Defective, see NEGLIGENCE. Breaking and Entering, see BURGLARY. Burning, see ARSON. Encroachment by, on Adjoining Lands, see ADJOINING LANDOWNERS; ADVERSE POSSESSION. Lien For Work on, see MECHANICS' LIENS. Party-Walls of, see PARTY-WALLS. Public — Generally, see COUNTIES; MUNICIPAL CORPORATIONS; STATES; UNITED STATES; Mechanics' Liens on, see MECHANICS' LIENS. Regulations, see MUNICIPAL CORPORATIONS. Restrictions and Restrictive Agreements Concerning, see COVENANTS; DEEDS. Right of, to Lateral Support, see ADJOINING LANDOWNERS. Separate Ownership of Different Floors of, see ADJACENT LANDOWNERS.)

8. Standard Dict. [quoted in Williams v. State, 105 Ga. 814, 815, 32 S. E. 129, 70 Am. St. Rep. 82; Corbett v. Spring Garden Ins. Co., 40 N. Y. App. Div. 628, 630, 58 N. Y. Suppl. 148].

9. Webster Dict. [quoted in State v. Atlantic City, (N. J. 1902) 53 Atl. 399, 401; Anderson v. State, 17 Tex. App. 305, 310; Clark v. State, 69 Wis. 203, 206, 33 N. W. 436, 2 Am. St. Rep. 732].

10. Nowell v. Boston Academy, 130 Mass. 209, 210 [quoted in Blakemore v. Stanley, (Mass. 1893) 33 N. E. 689, 690].

11. Murray Dict. [quoted in Rouse v. Catskill, etc., Steamboat Co., 59 Hun (N. Y.) 80, 82, 13 N. Y. Suppl. 126, 35 N. Y. St. 491].

12. Iowa.— State v. Gibson, 97 Iowa 416, 419, 66 N. W. 742.

Massachusetts.— Truesdell v. Gay, 13 Gray (Mass.) 311, 312.

New York.— Corbett v. Spring Garden Ins. Co., 40 N. Y. App. Div. 628, 630, 58 N. Y. Suppl. 148 [quoting Century Dict.]; Rouse v. Catskill, etc., Steamboat Co., 59 Hun (N. Y.) 80, 82, 13 N. Y. Suppl. 126, 35 N. Y. St. 491 [quoting Century Dict.]. Compare Wright v. Evans, 2 Abb. Pr. N. S. (N. Y.) 308, holding that a fence may be a building within the meaning of a covenant not to erect a building within a certain distance from a boundary line.

Texas.— Favro v. State, 39 Tex. Crim. 452, 453, 46 S. W. 932, 73 Am. St. Rep. 950 [quoting Century Dict.].

Wisconsin.— La Crosse, etc., R. Co. v. Vanderpool, 11 Wis. 119, 121, 78 Am. Dec. 691.

United States.—Central Trust Co. v. Cameron Iron, etc., Co., 47 Fed. 136.

13. Byles, J., in Stevens v. Gourley, 7 C. B. N. S. 99, 112, 1 F. & F. 498, 6 Jur. N. S. 147, 29 L. J. C. P. 1, 1 L. T. Rep. N. S. 33, 8 Wkly. Rep. 85, 97 E. C. L. 99.

BUILDING AND LOAN SOCIETIES

By Charles V. Bardeen
Justice Supreme Court of Wisconsin

CROSS-REFERENCES

For Matters Relating to:

Association's Right to Mechanic's Lien, see MECHANICS' LIENS.

Corporations:

Generally, see CORPORATIONS.

Organized to Build Particular Buildings, see CORPORATIONS.

Taxation of Association's Capital Stock, see TAXATION.

Voluntary Associations Generally, see ASSOCIATIONS.

I. DEFINITION AND NATURE.

The building association, as now existing,[1] is a private corporation, designed for the accumulation by the members of their money by periodical payments into its treasury, to be invested from time to time in loans to the members upon real estate for home purposes, the borrowing members paying interest and a premium as a preference in securing loans over other members, and continuing their fixed periodical instalments in addition, all of which payments, together with the non-borrower's payments, including fines for failure to pay such fixed instalments, forfeitures for such continued failure of such payments, fees for transferring stock, membership fees required upon the entrance of the member into the society, and such other revenues, go into the common fund until such time as that the instalment payments and profits aggregate the face value of all the shares in the association, when the assets, after payment of expenses and losses, are prorated among all members, which in legal effect cancels the borrower's debt, and gives the non-borrower the amount of his stock.[2]

1. History.— The earliest authentic information regarding building societies fixes their origin in Great Britain about the end of the eighteenth or beginning of the nineteenth century, where they existed as joint-stock companies until about the year 1836, since which time they have been regulated by acts of parliament. About the year 1831 they appeared in this country, and have continued to multiply until they number many thousands. At first they existed as mere private and unincorporated associations. But in nearly, if not all, the states of the Union, they are now authorized and controlled by statutes. Cook v. Equitable Bldg., etc., Assoc., 104 Ga. 814, 30 S. E. 911; Bibb County Loan Assoc. v. Richards, 21 Ga. 592; Security Sav., etc., Assoc. v. Elbert, 153 Ind. 198, 54 N. E. 753; Pfeister v. Wheeling Bldg. Assoc., 19 W. Va. 676; Pratt v. Hutchinson, 15 East 511. See also Davis Handbook Bldg. Soc., 1–5; Endlich Bldg. Assoc. § 6; Rosenthal Manual Bldg. Assoc. §§ 13, 14. The scheme upon which they seem to have been operated, even in the early days of their existence, contemplated the issuing of stock to their members, to be paid for in periodical instalments of small amounts. When a sufficient fund had thus been accumulated, it would be loaned to such members of the association as could give security, who would bid therefor the highest premium. The loan would be treated as an advancement upon their stock, and the premium as payment for the privilege of receiving such an advancement; the object of the loan being to enable the member to acquire or improve a home. The profits thus arising would not be divided out among members of the association from time to time, as dividends are usually declared on stock in other corporations, but they would be held until the stock matured (Cook v. Equitable Bldg., etc., Assoc., 104 Ga. 814, 821, 30 S. E. 911); but it has been said that "building and loan associations, as they now exist, bear little relation or resemblance to the original associations." Atlanta Nat. Bldg., etc., Assoc. v. Stewart, 109 Ga. 80, 101, 35 S. E. 73.

2. Thompson Bldg. Assoc. § 2 [quoted in Cook v. Equitable Bldg., etc., Assoc., 104 Ga. 814, 821, 30 S. E. 911; Washington Invest. Assoc. v. Stanley, 38 Oreg. 319, 335, 63 Pac. 489, 84 Am. St. Rep. 793]. See also Albright v. Lafayette Bldg., etc., Assoc., 102 Pa. St. 411.

Another definition is given in Rhodes v. Missouri Sav., etc., Co., 173 Ill. 621, 629, 50 N. E. 998, 42 L. R. A. 93.

Mutuality is the essential principle of a building association. Schell v. Equitable Loan, etc., Assoc., 150 Mo. 103, 51 S. W. 406; Bertche v. Equitable Loan, etc., Assoc., 147 Mo. 343, 48 S. W. 954, 71 Am. St. Rep. 571; Eversmann v. Schmitt, 53 Ohio St. 174, 41 N. E. 139, 53 Am. St. Rep. 632, 29 L. R. A. 184; Leahy v. National Bldg., etc., Assoc., 100 Wis. 555, 76 N. W. 625, 69 Am. St. Rep. 945; Latimer v. Equitable Loan, etc., Co., 81 Fed. 776.

II. GENERAL CLASSES.

A. Terminating Associations. A terminating association is one which is to terminate at a fixed date or when a result specified in its rules has been attained,[3] and is organized on the presumption that all stock will be subscribed at the outset. This, however, is seldom done, and in order to put all members on a basis of equality, when shares are subsequently taken, a sum is charged equal to the amount already paid in by the original subscribers. If profits have been declared, the taker must pay such additional amount on each share as will correspond to the earnings of the original shares at that time. Under this plan all shares are at all times of equal value. When the amount paid in, with accumulated profits, equals the par value of the stock, it is said to have matured and the association terminates. Each stock-holder receives the full value of his shares either in money or, if a borrower, by credit on and cancellation of his mortgage.[4]

B. Permanent Associations. The earliest departure from the original plan consisted in an arrangement for issuing stock in series. The company would be incorporated with a specified capital and the stock would be divided into series, to be issued monthly, quarterly, or annually according as the originators thought desirable. If the scheme proved successful, by the time the last series was issued, the first would begin to mature. Power to issue new stock was usually given such associations so that, in practical effect, the element of perpetuity was insured. The scheme reached further development when by statute in the different states perpetual charters were granted.[5]

III. ORGANIZATION AND STATUS.

A. In General — 1. How Created. In the absence of a statute expressly authorizing the creation of such associations, building and loan societies may be organized as voluntary associations[6] or formed into corporations under the general law,[7] but where there is a general provision for the incorporation of such societies they must be organized thereunder.[8] A literal compliance with the statutory provisions seems to be unnecessary,[9] but the articles of association must

3. Wurtzburg Bldg. Soc. 2.

The earliest associations were all of this class, among which the Bowkett and Starr-Bowkett societies are varieties. The principle upon which these societies is based is set out in Davis Handbook Bldg. Soc. 28. The founder, Dr. Bowkett, states it thus: "The great principle which lies at the bottom of it is the accumulation at compound interest of money lent without interest." See also Thompson Bldg. Assoc. (2d ed.) § 7.

4. Rosenthal Manual Bldg. Assoc. § 23. See also Cook v. Equitable Bldg., etc., Assoc., 104 Ga. 814, 30 S. E. 911.

5. See Cook v. Equitable Bldg., etc., Assoc., 104 Ga. 814, 30 S. E. 911.

In England this class of societies was defined to be "a society which has not by its rules any such fixed date or specified result at which it shall terminate." 37 & 38 Vict. c. 42, § 5. See also Pfeister v. Wheeling Bldg. Assoc., 19 W. Va. 676.

This scheme differs from the terminating plan in that new subscribers may enter at any time on an equality with the original subscribers, the stock of each dating from time of subscription. No back subscription is required. It is supposed to offer many advantages to both borrowing and investing members not possessed by members under the terminating plan. Endlich Bldg. Assoc. (2d ed.) § 23.

6. Baxter v. McIntire, 13 Gray (Mass.) 168, holding that a voluntary loan fund association, established before the passage of Mass. Stat. (1854), c. 454, authorizing the incorporation of such association, is valid.

7. Goodman v. Durant Bldg., etc., Assoc., 71 Miss. 310, 14 So. 146; Manship v. New South Bldg., etc., Assoc., 110 Fed. 845.

8. Rhoads v. Hoernerstown Bldg., etc., Assoc., 82 Pa. St. 180. See also Booz's Appeal, 109 Pa. St. 592, 1 Atl. 36.

Act not repealed.— The Virginia act of May 29, 1852, providing for the incorporation of building and loan societies was not impliedly repealed by Va. Code (1860), c. 65, § 4 et seq., as amended by Va. Acts (1870–71), c. 277, empowering the circuit courts, in their discretion, on proper certificates, to grant charters to joint-stock companies for the conduct of any enterprise or business which may be lawfully conducted by an individual, etc. Davies v. Creighton, 33 Gratt. (Va.) 696.

9. Filing articles of association.— Where the statute required the filing of a copy of adhere substantially to the statutes[10] and cover generally[11] the objects and purposes of the association,[12] for they fix the rights of stock-holders and of the corporation which neither party is at liberty to violate.[13]

2. By-Laws[14] — a. In General. A building and loan society has no power to make by-laws which are inconsistent with the law of the land, its charter, or the statute under which it was created,[15] but a member is charged with notice of the the articles of association, signed by at least seven members, and certified by the secretary, to be recorded in the office of the county clerk, a certificate of the secretary of an association stating that the copy of the constitution furnished by him was a true copy, and that the "persons whose names are thereto signed are members" of the association, was a sufficient compliance with the statute, although the secretary omitted to certify that the seven members whose names appeared to the articles, did in fact sign the same (Lord v. Essex Bldg. Assoc. No. 4, 37 Md. 320), and where an association filed a certified copy thereof, instead of a duplicate, as required by statute, in the office of the secretary of state, and then assumed the exercise of corporate functions, it was held that the association was a corporation de facto (Williamson v. Kokomo Bldg., etc., Assoc., 89 Ind. 389). The articles filed need not be signed by the trustees, for they are not officers, within the meaning of the statute. Second Manhattan Bldg. Assoc. v. Hayes, 4 Abb. Dec. (N. Y.) 183, 2 Keyes (N. Y.) 192. Whether they need contain the names of the members, quære. West Winsted Sav. Bank, etc., Assoc. v. Rice, 27 Conn. 293; West Winsted Sav., etc., Assoc. v. Ford, 27 Conn. 282, 71 Am. Dec. 66; Peoples Sav. Bank v. Collins, 27 Conn. 142.

Notice of application.— The ordinary privileges granted to building societies by the Pennsylvania act of April 22, 1850, are not "discounting and banking privileges," within public notice where a charter is sought granting such privileges. Mutual Sav. Fund Assoc. v. Seemiller, 3 Phila. (Pa.) 115, 15 Leg. Int. (Pa.) 132.

Paying incorporation tax.— A building society must pay an incorporation tax required by the state constitution. State v. McGrath, 95 Mo. 193, 8 S. W. 425.

A petition for incorporation was held sufficient where taken together with the order granting a charter it showed the intent. Redwine v. Gate City Loan, etc., Assoc., 54 Ga. 474.

Curing defects.— Defects in incorporation proceedings may be cured by statute (Workingmen's Bldg., etc., Assoc. v. Coleman, 89 Pa. St. 428, holding that the fact that an application for the charter of a building society was signed by nine persons instead of ten, as required by the act of 1859, was cured by the Pennsylvania act of May 11, 1874, which is declared to be applicable to such corporations as were transacting business in pursuance and by virtue of charters defective in validity) or by proceedings for that purpose had in pursuance of statute (Spinning v. Home Bldg., etc., Assoc., 26 Ohio St. 483, holding that when a certificate was acknowledged before a notary public instead of a justice of the peace the effect of the correction was to make the society a corporation de jure from the date of its organization, not only as against persons dealing directly with it, but as against all others).

10. Sumrall v. Commercial Bldg. Trust, 20 Ky. L. Rep. 1801, 50 S. W. 69, 44 L. R. A. 659 (holding that a provision making stock preferential is void); Harmony Bldg., etc., Assoc., 6 Phila. (Pa.) 63, 22 Leg. Int. (Pa.) 357.

Including provisions not authorized by statute does not render the charter void but such unauthorized provisions are void or voidable. Smith v. Southern Bldg., etc., Assoc., 111 Ga. 811, 35 S. E. 707; Cook v. Equitable Bldg., etc., Assoc., 104 Ga. 814, 30 S. E. 911; Albright v. Lafayette Bldg., etc., Assoc., 102 Pa. St. 411; Becket v. Uniontown Bldg., etc., Assoc., 88 Pa. St. 211; Matter of Miller, 2 Pearson (Pa.) 348.

Using "National" in the corporate name of such a society is not a violation of U. S. Rev. Stat. (1872), § 5243, prohibiting its use by banking corporations. Lomb v. Pioneer Sav., etc., Co., 106 Ala. 671, 17 So. 670.

11. It need not set out the powers sought to be secured where these are set forth and defined in the statutes which have effect as if embodied in the charter. Sheldon v. Birmingham Bldg., etc., Assoc., 121 Ala. 278, 25 So. 820.

12. The number and value of the shares proposed to be issued must be stated. In re Philadelphia Artisans' Inst., 8 Phila. (Pa.) 229. See also People v. Preston, 140 N. Y. 549, 35 N. E. 979, 56 N. Y. St. 480, 24 L. R. A. 57.

13. Barton v. Enterprise Loan, etc., Assoc., 114 Ind. 226, 16 N. E. 486, 5 Am. St. Rep. 608; Bergman v. St. Paul Mut. Bldg. Assoc. No. 1, 29 Minn. 275, 13 N. W. 120 [followed in Bergman v. St. Paul Mut. Bldg. Assoc. No. 1, 29 Minn. 282, 13 N. W. 122].

14. By-laws relating to withdrawals see infra, V, D.

By-laws relating to dues, fines, and assessments see infra, VI.

15. Wierman v. International Bldg., etc., Union, 67 Ill. App. 550; Martin v. Nashville Bldg. Assoc., 2 Coldw. (Tenn.) 418. Compare Booz's Appeal, 109 Pa. St. 592, 1 Atl. 36, holding that a by-law may be passed in harmony with statutory provisions, although inconsistent with the articles of association, where the articles contain provisions repugnant to statutory provisions upon the same subject-matter.

Bound by the element of mutuality.— An association based on the mutual plan is society's by-laws[16] and is bound by such of them as are not repugnant to the rule stated.[17]

b. Amendments. A society authorized by its charter to make such by-laws as are necessary to effect its objects may amend and change the same,[18] although existing rights are thereby affected;[19] but where the articles do not provide for amendments a member is not bound by the mere adoption of an amendment,[20] and where the constitution provides that a by-law shall not be changed or amended an amendment, unless unanimous, is a nullity.[21]

B. Of Foreign Societies —1. In General. The right of foreign societies of this nature, having substantially the same powers and functions,[22] to do business in another state, upon compliance with prescribed conditions, is generally recognized;[23] and, in the absence of an expressed intention otherwise, such societies may enter the state under a law relating to foreign corporations generally.[24]

2. Effect of Non-Compliance With Prescribed Conditions. If the associations fail to comply with the conditions prescribed[25] by a state with regard to the trans-bound to treat its members equally, and any by-law or contract in contravention of such mutuality is ultra vires and void. Wierman v. International Bldg., etc., Union, 67 Ill. App. 550; Baltimore Bldg., etc., Assoc. v. Powhatan Imp. Co., 87 Md. 59, 39 Atl. 274.

Estoppel to question validity.— The fact that some provisions are not in accord with the statute cannot be questioned by a member who has reaped the advantages and profits of such defect. Mechanics' Bldg., etc., Assoc. v. Minnich, 1 Kulp (Pa.) 513.

16. Columbia Bldg., etc., Assoc. v. Lyttle, (Colo. App. 1901) 66 Pac. 247; Stilwell v. People's Bldg., etc., Assoc., 19 Utah 257, 54 Pac. 14; Columbia Bldg., etc., Assoc. v. Junquist, 111 Fed. 645.

17. Mechanics', etc., Sav. Assoc. v. Vierling, 66 Ill. App. 621 (although the result of their operation be oppressive); Pioneer Sav., etc., Co. v. Brockett, 58 Ill. App. 204; Hundermark v. New South Bldg., etc., Assoc., (Miss. 1901) 29 So. 528; O'Malley v. People's Bldg., etc., Assoc., 13 Misc. (N. Y.) 688, 35 N. Y. Suppl. 14, 69 N. Y. St. 210 (although he has not signed or read them).

Estoppel to question mode of adoption.— Where a member has recognized the validity of by-laws for many years and on the faith of his admissions others have been induced to act, he is estopped to question the mode by which the by-laws were adopted. Morrison v. Dorsey, 48 Md. 461.

How construed.— Where a society and its members have given ambiguous by-laws a uniform and practical construction, that construction, as applied to contracts between the society and said members, will be applied by the court. McDonough v. Hennepin County Catholic Bldg., etc., Assoc., 62 Minn. 122, 64 N. W. 106.

18. Crittenden v. Southern Home Bldg., etc., Assoc., 111 Ga. 266, 36 S. E. 643; Pawlick v. Homestead Loan Assoc., 15 Misc. (N. Y.) 427, 37 N. Y. Suppl. 164, 72 N. Y. St. 474 (holding that a member is bound by an amendment regularly adopted, although he had no notice thereof); Stilwell v. People's Bldg., etc., Assoc., 19 Utah 257, 54 Pac. 14.

19. Schrick v. St. Louis Mut. House Bldg. Co., 34 Mo. 423. See also Seibel v. Victoria Bldg. Assoc. No. 2, 9 Ohio Dec. (Reprint) 422, 13 Cinc. L. Bul. 265, holding that borrowing members are bound by an amendment made in conformity with a statute which in effect amended the society's constitution. Compare Savage v. People's Bldg., etc., Assoc., 45 W. Va. 275, 31 S. E. 991, holding that the association cannot alter its contract with a member so as to impair his vested rights.

Although notice of withdrawal has been given a member is bound in England by subsequent alterations in the rules. Barnard v. Tomson, [1894] 1 Ch. 374, 63 L. J. Ch. 488, 70 L. T. Rep. N. S. 306, 8 Reports 585; Pepe v. City, etc., Permanent Bldg. Soc., [1893] 2 Ch. 311, 62 L. J. Ch. 501, 68 L. T. Rep. N. S. 846, 3 Reports 471, 41 Wkly. Rep. 548; Reg. v. Brabrook, 58 J. P. 117, 69 L. T. Rep. N. S. 718, 10 Reports 1; Davies v. Second Chatham Permanent Ben. Bldg. Soc., 61 L. T. Rep. N. S. 680. See also infra, V, D, 4.

20. Krakowski v. North New York Bldg., etc., Assoc., 7 Misc. (N. Y.) 188, 27 N. Y. Suppl. 314, 57 N. Y. St. 541.

21. McKeown v. Irish Bldg. Assoc. No. 2, 8 Ohio Dec. (Reprint) 17, 5 Cinc. L. Bul. 52.

22. If the foreign society has additional powers to the home one, of not so beneficent a character, it may not be permitted to exercise all the special powers and privileges of the local organization of its nature, although it complies with the statutory requirements with regard to doing business in the state. In other words, if the charter of such foreign society legally invests it with powers not contemplated by, or not in conformity with, the general statutory regulations concerning the home association, it cannot avail itself of all the privileges accorded the home society. Meroney v. Atlanta Bldg., etc., Assoc., 116 N. C. 882, 21 S. E. 924, 47 Am. St. Rep. 841.

23. Interstate Bldg., etc., Assoc. v. Brown, 128 Ala. 462, 29 So. 656.

24. Tootle v. Singer, (Iowa 1901) 88 N. W. 446.

25. For nature of conditions usually required as a prerequisite to the right of foreign action of business therein, their contracts are, in some jurisdictions, held to be void and unenforceable.[26] In others the rule is the opposite,[27] unless the legislature clearly expresses an intention that such contracts should be void.[28] In still others, although the enforcement of the contract in its entirety is not allowed, the society may enforce a claim for money loaned.[29]

IV. MEMBERSHIP.

A. How Acquired and Who May Become Members. As a general rule[30] any person capable of contracting[31] may become a member of such an association by becoming the holder of its stock.[32] It is not necessary that he should subscribe the original articles of association[33] or any agreement whatever.[34] corporations to regularly conduct business within another state see CORPORATIONS.

Conditions not retroactive.— A statute prescribing certain conditions upon compliance with which a loan association might conduct business within a state does not operate retroactively and does not affect the enforcement of contracts already made (Pioneer Sav., etc., Co. v. Cannon, 96 Tenn. 599, 36 S. W. 386, 54 Am. St. Rep. 858, 33 L. R. A. 112) or prevent such association from taking additional security for loans made before its passage (Rhodes v. Missouri Sav., etc., Co., 63 Ill. App. 77).

26. Henni v. Fidelity Bldg., etc., Assoc., 61 Nebr. 744, 86 N. W. 475, 87 Am. St. Rep. 519; Myers Mfg. Co. v. Wetzel, (Tenn. Ch. 1896) 35 S. W. 896; Denson v. Chattanooga Nat. Bldg., etc., Assoc., 107 Fed. 777, 46 C. C. A. 634. See also American Bldg., etc., Assoc. v. Rainbolt, 48 Nebr. 434, 67 N. W. 493, where, although Post, J., uses language directly contrary to the text, the decision hinges upon another point and a part of the court expressly refuses to assent to this dictum.

Enforceable by receiver.— Under the statutes of Indiana, a contract of a building and loan society which has failed to comply with the statutory requirements by reason of which it could not enforce the same may be enforced by a receiver of such society when it has become bankrupt, if such action is necessary to wind up its affairs. Clarke v. Darr, 156 Ind. 692, 60 N. E. 688.

27. Spinney v. Miller, 114 Iowa 210, 86 N. W. 317, holding that whatever the right of the state might be in such case, a mortgagor who had received or obtained benefits under a contract could not be heard to assert its invalidity because of such non-compliance.

28. Eastern Bldg., etc., Assoc. v. Snyder, 98 Va. 710, 37 S. E. 298.

29. Maine Guarantee Co. v. Cox, 146 Ind. 107, 42 N. E. 915, 44 N. E. 932, where under such circumstances the society was allowed to sue for money loaned, and to obtain interest thereon, but was not allowed anything as premiums, dues, or other charges, generally collectable by it under its rules and by-laws.

30. One association cannot become a member of another except by statutory authority. Endlich Bldg. Assoc. § 54. See also Kadish v. Garden City Equitable Loan, etc., Assoc., 151 Ill. 531, 38 N. E. 236, 42 Am. St. Rep. 256.

31. A married woman may hold stock in such an association. Goodrich v. Atlanta Nat. Bldg., etc., Assoc., 96 Ga. 803, 22 S. E. 585; Dilzer v. Beethoven Bldg. Assoc., 103 Pa. St. 86 [distinguishing Wolbach v. Lehigh Bldg. Assoc., 84 Pa. St. 211, decided under an earlier statute]; City Bldg., etc., Assoc. v. Jones, 32 S. C. 308, 10 S. E. 1079. See, generally, HUSBAND AND WIFE.

32. Haynes v. People's Bldg., etc., Assoc., 3 Ohio S. & C. Pl. Dec. 228; National Sav. Fund, etc., Assoc. v. Robinson, 19 Phila. (Pa.) 358, 46 Leg. Int. (Pa.) 5; Setliff v. North Nashville Bldg., etc., Assoc., (Tenn. Ch. 1897) 39 S. W. 546.

One who joins solely to secure a loan is nevertheless a member. Setliff v. North Nashville Bldg., etc., Assoc., (Tenn. Ch. 1897) 39 S. W. 546. See also Mechanics, etc., Mut. Sav. Bank, etc., Assoc. v. Wilcox, 24 Conn. 147.

What constitutes holding stock.— Certificates issued by a building society, conforming to the description of stock mentioned in the by-laws, and in the statute under which the society was organized, and on which dividends were to be paid out of the profits, are certificates of stock, and the holder thereof is a member, subject to all the liabilities imposed by the by-laws or statute. Baker v. U. S. Savings, etc., Assoc., 23 R. I. 243, 49 Atl. 967.

Membership denied.—A purchaser at a foreclosure sale by agreeing to pay the association mortgage at a certain rate per month does not thereby become a member. Capitol Hill Bldg. Assoc. No. 2 v. Hilton, 1 Mackey (D. C.) 107.

33. Concordia Sav., etc., Assoc. v. Read, 93 N. Y. 474.

34. National Sav. Fund, etc., Assoc. v. Robinson, 19 Phila. (Pa.) 358, 46 Leg. Int. (Pa.) 5.

Failure of a member to sign the constitution, if he has acted as a member for a long time, will not prevent the association from enforcing a contract with him which it was authorized to make with none but a member. Parker v. U. S. Building, etc., Assoc., 19 W. Va. 744.

Estoppel to deny membership.— One who

B. Rights and Liabilities of Members[35] — 1. In General — a. Rights. A member not in arrears is entitled to a loan on his stock, where such loan has been duly applied for and the association is in funds properly applicable to that purpose;[36] and each member in good standing[37] is entitled for each share held by him to the same amount of the assets.[38] A member may have an accounting of his profits where charter provisions of the association in force when he became a member have been illegally abrogated by the association, to his injury, and without his consent;[39] may sue to restrain unlawful action by the society,[40] notwithstanding he has pledged his stock as collateral to a loan;[41] or, where a member at the time of the settlement, may invoke the aid of a court of equity to correct the errors and mistakes of fact therein made.[42] Where each shareholder is entitled to one vote for officers, every voter must be the holder of at least one share of stock.[43] A member may be both a shareholder and a creditor.[44]

b. Liabilities. Each member, whether a borrower or non-borrower, is liable to contribute to the expenses[45] and losses[46] of the association incurred during his membership.

gives a bond and mortgage reciting that mortgagor is a member is estopped to deny such membership. Howard Mut. Loan, etc., Assoc. v. McIntyre, 3 Allen (Mass.) 571; Ohio Bldg. Assoc. v. Leyden, 5 Ohio Dec. (Reprint) 344, 4 Am. L. Rec. 765, 7 Ohio Dec. (Reprint) 115, 1 Cinc. L. Bul. 126; Elmira Mut. Bldg. Loan Assoc. v. Wahoo Tribe No. 119, I. O. R. M., 9 Kulp (Pa.) 487. See also Bates v. Peoples' Sav., etc., Assoc., 42 Ohio St. 655.

35. Right of member to withdraw see infra, V, D.

36. See infra, VIII, H, 2.

37. A defaulting member cannot share in the earnings with members who have complied with the obligations of their contracts with the association. Payson v. Iroquois Bldg., etc., Assoc., 93 Ill. App. 621. And see Overby v. Fayetteville Bldg., etc., Assoc., 81 N. C. 41, holding that after a shareholder has redeemed his stock, he cannot participate in the profits of the business without contribution.

38. People v. Lowe, 117 N. Y. 175, 22 N. E. 1016, 27 N. Y. St. 138.

39. Sullivan v. Jackson Bldg., etc., Assoc., 70 Miss. 94, 12 So. 590.

40. Fisher v. Patton, 134 Mo. 32, 33 S. W. 451, 34 S. W. 1096. See also Reg. v. D'Eyncourt, 4 B. & S. 820, 10 Jur. N. S. 513, 28 J. P. 116, 33 L. J. M. C. 89, 9 L. T. Rep. N. S. 712, 3 New Rep. 420, 12 Wkly. Rep. 408, 116 E. C. L. 320.

41. Fisher v. Patton, 134 Mo. 32, 33 S. W. 451, 34 S. W. 1096.

42. Mutual Bldg., etc., Assoc.'s Appeal, (Pa. 1886) 2 Atl. 859.

43. Matter of Provident Bldg., etc., Assoc., 62 N. J. L. 590, 41 Atl. 952.

Representation by proxy.— A stock-holder may legally be represented by proxy at a meeting at which action is taken. Broadwell v. Inter-Ocean Homestead, etc., Assoc., 161 Ill. 327, 43 N. E. 1067; State v. Rohlffs, (N. J. 1890) 19 Atl. 1099. See also Continental Invest., etc., Soc. v. People, 167 Ill. 195, 47 N. E. 381.

44. Hennighausen v. Tischer, 50 Md. 583.

45. Pioneer Bldg., etc., Assoc. v. Jones, 22 Ky. L. Rep. 41, 56 S. W. 657; McGrath v. Hamilton Sav., etc., Assoc., 44 Pa. St. 383.

46. District of Columbia.— Brown v. Sanders, 20 D. C. 455.

Georgia.— Pattison v. Albany Bldg., etc., Assoc., 63 Ga. 373.

Illinois.— Chapman v. Young, 65 Ill. App. 131.

Indiana.— Wohlford v. Citizens' Bldg., etc., Assoc., 140 Ind. 662, 40 N. E. 694, 29 L. R. A. 177.

Kentucky.— Pioneer Bldg., etc., Assoc. v. Jones, 22 Ky. L. Rep. 41, 56 S. W. 657.

Minnesota.— Knutson v. North Western Loan, etc., Assoc., 67 Minn. 201, 69 N. W. 889, 64 Am. St. Rep. 410.

Pennsylvania.—See U. S. Bldg., etc., Assoc. v. Silverman, 85 Pa. St. 394, 4 Wkly. Notes Cas. (Pa.) 546; Wittman v. Concordia Bldg. Assoc. No. 4, 13 Phila. (Pa.) 195, 36 Leg. Int. (Pa.) 72, 7 Wkly. Notes Cas. (Pa.) 80.

Utah.— Betz v. People's Bldg., etc., Assoc., 22 Utah 149, 61 Pac. 334.

See 8 Cent. Dig. tit. "Building and Loan Associations," § 8; and infra, VI, A.

How loss apportioned.— Where no one stock-holder more than another is shown to be chargeable with responsibility for losses, all should bear the burden ratably, as they would have shared in profits had the enterprise been successful. Chapman v. Young, 65 Ill. App. 131.

Release of liability.— Where a member's liability is illegally released, it may be enforced in winding-up proceedings. Cason v. Seldner, 77 Va. 293. In England a company may be formed on such terms as to permit members to withdraw so as to be free from liability in the event of a winding up. In re Borough Commercial, etc., Soc., [1893] 2 Ch. 242, 62 L. J. Ch. 456, 69 L. T. Rep. N. S. 96, 3 Reports 339, 41 Wkly. Rep. 313.

Set-off of advances or liabilities incurred.— Where a member's liability is sought to be enforced he may set off advances made or liabilities incurred for the society's benefit. Remington v. King, 11 Abb. Pr. (N. Y.) 278.

2. Of Non-Residents. The rights and liabilities of non-resident members are governed by the laws governing the association in the state where organized.[47]

C. Termination of. Membership may terminate by withdrawal under the statute,[48] by the death of the member,[49] by the transfer of stock or the maturity thereof, by forfeiture, or by the dissolution of the association;[50] but the fact that a borrowing member assigns his stock to the association as collateral for his loan does not cancel his membership.[51]

V. STOCK.

A. Kinds — 1. In General. The original scheme of such associations contemplated the issue of stock at the time of its subscription, to be paid for by small periodical payments until the dues, with the accretions from interest, fines, and forfeitures make its value equal to its face, and this class of stock is still an essential feature of building and loan societies.[52] Such stock is frequently issued in 47. Haynes v. People's Bldg., etc., Assoc., 3 Ohio S. & C. Pl. Dec. 228; Healy v. Eastern Bldg., etc., Assoc., 17 Pa. Super. Ct. 385.

48. A mere notice of withdrawal is not equivalent to withdrawal. Decatur Bldg., etc., Co. v. Neal, 97 Ala. 717, 12 So. 780. See also infra, V, D, 4.

Withdrawal cannot be compelled.— Unless the statute or by-laws so provide, a member not in default cannot be compelled to withdraw. Bergman v. St. Paul Mut. Bldg. Assoc. No. 1, 29 Minn. 275, 13 N. W. 120 [followed in Bergman v. St. Paul Mut. Bldg. Assoc. No. 1, 29 Minn. 282, 13 N. W. 122].

49. Montgomery Mut. Bldg., etc., Assoc. v. Robinson, 69 Ala. 413; Shahan v. Shahan, 48 W. Va. 477, 37 S. E. 552, 86 Am. St. Rep. 68.

Right of heirs or devisees to succeed to membership.— Under some statutes the heirs or devisees of a deceased member are entitled to succeed to membership in their own right. Montgomery Mut. Bldg., etc., Assoc. v. Robinson, 69 Ala. 413; Licking County Sav., etc., Assoc. v. Bebout, 29 Ohio St. 252.

Amount payable to deceased member's representative.— Where the representatives of a deceased member are entitled to the net value of all the shares held by such deceased member, the proper mode of determining the value of the stock is by ascertaining the market value of the shares themselves. Babcock v. Middlesex Sav. Bank, etc., Assoc., 28 Conn. 302, holding that a statement in the bank-book of the deceased of the computed value of his stock made by the treasurer of the company was not conclusive upon the association, which might show that the computation was based upon the nominal value, and not upon the actual value of the assets. See also Hensel v. International Bldg., etc., Assoc., 85 Tex. 215, 20 S. W. 116, holding that in estimating the amount due from a deceased stock-holder to a building and loan association he should be credited merely with the withdrawal value of his shares, and not with their estimated value. Where, to enable them to receive the proceeds of their decedent's membership, the heirs or legal representatives elect to return a loan made to him, the amount to be returned is the money actually received by the shareholder, together with the premium bid for precedence. Licking County Sav., etc., Assoc. v. Bebout, 29 Ohio St. 252.

50. Thompson Bldg. Assoc. § 39*a*.

51. California.—See McNamara v. Oakland Bldg., etc., Assoc., 131 Cal. 336, 63 Pac. 670, holding that a borrowing member of a building association occupies the dual relation to the corporation of borrower and stock-holder, each of which is distinct from the other.

Georgia.— Boyd v. Robinson, 104 Ga. 793, 31 S. E. 29.

Iowa.— Wilcoxen v. Smith, 107 Iowa 555, 78 N. W. 217, 70 Am. St. Rep. 220.

Kansas.— Massey v. Citizens' Bldg., etc., Assoc., 22 Kan. 624.

Maryland.— Lister v. Log Cabin Bldg. Assoc., 38 Md. 115.

Michigan.— Michigan Bldg., etc., Assoc. v. McDevitt, 77 Mich. 1, 43 N. W. 760.

New Jersey.— Mechanics' Bldg., etc., Assoc. v. Conover, 14 N. J. Eq. 219.

New York.— Breed v. Ruoff, 54 N. Y. App. Div. 142, 66 N. Y. Suppl. 422.

Ohio.—Hagerman v. Ohio Bldg., etc., Assoc., 25 Ohio St. 186.

Pennsylvania.— Freemansburg Building, etc., Assoc. v. Watts, 199 Pa. St. 221, 48 Atl. 1075.

West Virginia.— Young v. Improvement Loan, etc., Assoc., 48 W. Va. 512, 38 S. E. 670.

Wisconsin.— Leahy v. National Bldg., etc., Assoc., 100 Wis. 555, 76 N. W. 625, 69 Am. St. Rep. 945.

United States.— Manship v. New South Bldg., etc., Assoc., 110 Fed. 845; Tilley v. American Bldg., etc., Assoc., 52 Fed. 618.

England.— Bradbury v. Wild, [1893] 1 Ch. 377, 57 J. P. 68, 62 L. J. Ch. 503, 68 L. T. Rep. N. S. 50, 3 Reports 195, 41 Wkly. Rep. 361.

Contra, Bird v. Kendall, 62 S. C. 178, 40 S. E. 142. See also Winchester Bldg. Assoc. v. Gilbert, 23 Gratt. (Va.) 787; White v. Mechanics' Bldg. Fund Assoc., 22 Gratt. (Va.) 233, which hold that the assignment of one's shares to a building association for an advance received by the shareholder is an absolute surrender and not an hypothecation for a loan.

52. Endlich Bldg. Assoc. § 461.

series, each of which should be treated as distinct and financially independent of other series.[53]

2. Definite-Term Stock. The issue of stock to mature at a fixed time is contrary to the general scheme of such associations and is not permissible unless directly authorized by statute,[54] and any time of maturity specified will be considered to be an estimated time.[55]

3. Paid-up Stock. Where the statute forbids paid-up stock cannot be issued,[56] but where the statute so provides or does not expressly prohibit a member may pay in advance the face value of his stock and receive interest or dividends thereon, or may pay in such sum as with anticipated accretions will make the stock par at the end of an estimated period,[57] and such stock may be made preferred.[58]

53. Vierling v. Mechanics, etc., Assoc., 179 Ill. 524, 53 N. E. 979.

54. Colorado.—Columbia Bldg., etc., Assoc. v. Lyttle, (Colo. App. 1901) 66 Pac. 247.

Illinois.— Cantwell v. Stockmen's Bldg., etc., Union, 88 Ill. App. 247 [affirmed in 187 Ill. 275, 58 N. E. 414]; Royal Trust Co. v. Culver, 87 Ill. App. 630; Sullivan v. Spaniol, 78 Ill. App. 125; International Bldg., etc., Union v. King, 68 Ill. App. 640 [affirmed in 170 Ill. 135, 48 N. E. 677]; Wierman v. International Bldg., etc., Union, 67 Ill. App. 550.

Missouri.— Schell v. Equitable Loan, etc., Assoc., 150 Mo. 103, 51 S. W. 406; Bertche v. Equitable Loan, etc., Assoc., 147 Mo. 343, 48 S. W. 954, 71 Am. St. Rep. 571.

New York.— O'Malley v. People's Bldg., etc., Assoc., 92 Hun (N. Y.) 572, 36 N. Y. Suppl. 1016, 72 N. Y. St. 289; Heslin v. Eastern Bldg., etc., Assoc., 28 Misc. (N. Y.) 376, 59 N. Y. Suppl. 572 [affirmed in 61 N. Y. App. Div. 458, 70 N. Y. Suppl. 612].

Pennsylvania.— McKean v. New York Nat. Bldg., etc., Assoc., 10 Pa. Dist. 197, 24 Pa. Co. Ct. 458.

Tennessee.— Province v. Interstate Bldg., etc., Assoc., 104 Tenn. 458, 58 S. W. 265; Miller v. Eastern Bldg., etc., Assoc., (Tenn. Ch. 1899) 53 S. W. 231.

Texas.— See Pioneer Sav., etc., Co. v. Peck, 20 Tex. Civ. App. 111, 49 S. W. 160, holding that when the association induces a stock subscriber by a statement expressly guaranteeing payment of shares at their face value within a specified time, it is estopped to set up that it is a mutual benefit society. But when stock is issued subject to by-laws the association is not estopped to deny representations of an agent as to time of maturity. Interstate Bldg., etc., Assoc. v. Hunter, (Tex. Civ. App. 1899) 51 S. W. 530.

Virginia.— Campbell v. Eastern Bldg., etc., Assoc., 98 Va. 729, 37 S. E. 350; Peoples Bldg., etc., Assoc. v. Tinsley, 96 Va. 322, 31 S. E. 508.

Compare International Bldg., etc., Assoc. v. Bratton, 24 Ind. App. 654, 56 N. E. 105 (holding that an association will not be permitted to say that such a contract was ultra vires where it was not forbidden by statute); Williamson v. Eastern Bldg., etc., Assoc., 54 S. C. 582, 32 S. E. 765, 71 Am. St. Rep. 822 (holding that a certificate of stock and circular of the society relating to definite-term stock will prevail, at the instance of one contracting with reference thereto, over by-laws to the contrary); Hammerquist v. Pioneer Sav., etc., Co., 15 S. D. 70, 87 N. W. 524.

See 8 Cent. Dig. tit. "Building and Loan Associations," § 14.

Members estopped.— Members accepting definite-term stock with knowledge that the association had no right to issue it cannot question its validity on the ground that its issue was ultra vires. Leahy v. National Bldg., etc., Assoc., 100 Wis. 555, 76 N. W. 625, 69 Am. St. Rep. 945.

55. People's Bldg., etc., Assoc. v. Morris, 68 Ark. 24, 56 S. W. 266; Union Mut. Bldg., etc., Assoc. v. Aichele, (Ind. App. 1901) 61 N. E. 11; O'Malley v. People's Bldg., etc., Assoc., 92 Hun (N. Y.) 572, 36 N. Y. Suppl. 1016, 72 N. Y. St. 289; Heslin v. Eastern Bldg., etc., Assoc., 28 Misc. (N. Y.) 376, 59 N. Y. Suppl. 572 [affirmed in 61 N. Y. App. Div. 458, 70 N. Y. Suppl. 612]; McKean v. New York Nat. Bldg., etc., Assoc., 10 Pa. Dist. 197, 24 Pa. Co. Ct. 458.

56. Rhodes v. Missouri Sav., etc., Co., 173 Ill. 621, 50 N. E. 998, 42 L. R. A. 93 [reversing 63 Ill. App. 77]; Patoka Loan, etc., Assoc. v. Holland, 63 Ill. App. 58. See also International, etc., Union v. King, 68 Ill. App. 640 [affirmed in 170 Ill. 135, 48 N. E. 677]; Wierman v. International Bldg., etc., Union, 67 Ill. App. 550.

57. Alabama.— Johnson v. National Bldg., etc., Assoc., 125 Ala. 465, 28 So. 2, 82 Am. St. Rep. 257, although the society's charter contain no express authority therefor.

Georgia.— Kirklin v. Atlas Sav., etc., Assoc., 107 Ga. 313, 33 S. E. 83.

Iowa.— Tootle v. Singer, (Iowa 1901) 88 N. W. 446.

Missouri.— Hohenshell v. Home Sav., etc., Assoc., 140 Mo. 566, 41 S. W. 948.

New York.— People v. Preston, 140 N. Y. 549, 35 N. E. 979, 56 N. Y. St. 480, 24 L. R. A. 57.

Pennsylvania.— Heptasoph Bldg., etc., Assoc. v. Linhart, 4 Pa. Dist. 620, 26 Pittsb. Leg. J. N. S. 94.

United States.—Latimer v. Equitable Loan, etc., Co., 81 Fed. 776.

England.— In re Guardian Permanent Ben. Bldg. Soc., 23 Ch. D. 440, 52 L. J. Ch. 857, 48 L. T. Rep. N. S. 134, 32 Wkly. Rep. 73; Re Reliance Permanent Ben. Bldg. Soc., 61 L. J. Ch. 453, 66 L. T. Rep. N. S. 823.

58. In re Guardian Permanent Ben. Bldg. Soc., 23 Ch. D. 440, 52 L. J. Ch. 857, 48 L. T.

4. Preferred Stock. An association has no power to issue stock that will give the members a preference over other shareholders,[59] unless empowered so to do by law.[60]

B. Limitation on Holdings. Unless restricted by statute, charter, or by-law,[61] a person may hold any number of shares.[62]

C. Assignment or Transfer—1. In General. Ordinarily a member is entitled to transfer his stock by assignment, but a by-law which provides that no share shall be transferred while any due of any kind against the owner thereof remains unpaid creates a lien upon the shares as against the stock-holder for the indebtedness against him.[63]

2. How Made. The formalities relating to such transfer are provided for in the organic law or by rules and regulations duly adopted,[64] and while the title passes by an assignment[65] it is usually not binding upon the association until entered on its books.[66] The association may, however, waive a transfer on its books,[67] and is estopped to deny the validity of any transfer after recognizing its validity for any purpose advantageous to itself.[68]

3. Effect of. A purchaser of stock, to whom the title has been transferred on the books of the association with its consent, becomes vested with the title to

Rep. N. S. 134, 32 Wkly. Rep. 73; Re Reliance Permanent Ben. Bldg. Soc., 61 L. J. Ch. 453, 66 L. T. Rep. N. S. 823. But see Leahy v. National Bldg., etc., Assoc., 100 Wis. 555, 76 N. W. 625, 69 Am. St. Rep. 945, holding that a holder of paid-up stock is not entitled to any preference over other members when the association becomes insolvent. See also infra, X, B, 5, c, (II).

59. Forwood v. Eubank, 106 Ky. 291, 20 Ky. L. Rep. 1842, 50 S. W. 255; Latimer v. Equitable Loan, etc., Co., 81 Fed. 776. See also Cook v. Equitable Bldg., etc., Assoc., 104 Ga. 814, 30 S. E. 911; Daley v. People's Bldg., etc., Assoc., 172 Mass. 533, 52 N. E. 1090; Leahy v. National Bldg., etc., Assoc., 100 Wis. 555, 76 N. W. 625, 69 Am. St. Rep. 945.

60. Preference of paid-up stock see supra, V, A, 3.

61. In Ohio an association cannot authorize or permit a member to hold more than twenty shares in his own right (State v. Greenville Bldg., etc., Assoc., 29 Ohio St. 92) and an executory contract in relation to such excess is ultra vires and cannot be enforced (Simpson v. Building, etc., Assoc., 38 Ohio St. 349).

Effect of over-issue.— The issue of more shares of stock to one person than is permitted by the charter of the association is not of itself fraudulent. The contract for the same may be rescinded and the amounts paid thereon recovered. Douglass v. Kavanaugh, 90 Fed. 373, 62 U. S. App. 38, 33 C. C. A. 107. A shareholder is estopped to deny the validity of an excess of stock above the shares allowed by statute to be held by him. Victoria Bldg. Assoc. v. Arbeiter Bund, 6 Ohio Dec. (Reprint) 1108, 10 Am. L. Rec. 485.

62. Morrison v. Glover, 4 Exch. 430, 14 J. P. 84, 19 L. J. Exch. 20.

63. Wetherell v. Thirty-First St. Bldg., etc., Assoc., 153 Ill. 361, 39 N. E. 143 [affirming 43 Ill. App. 509]. See also Michigan Bldg., etc., Assoc. v. McDevitt, 77 Mich. 1, 43 N. W. 760; La Société, etc. v. Daveluy, 20 Can. Supreme Ct. 449.

64. See Nooloth v. Simplified Permanent Ben. Bldg. Soc., 53 L. T. Rep. N. S. 859, 34 Wkly. Rep. 73.

By-law as to transfer fee.— A by-law that a fee of fifty cents per share shall be paid by the party receiving the transfer may be enforced by the association. McGannon v. Central Bldg. Assoc. No. 2, 19 W. Va. 726. Compare Northwestern Cent. Bldg. Assoc. v. Henderson, 5 Ohio Dec. (Reprint) 581, 6 Am. L. Rec. 755, holding that a rule that each member, on transferring his shares to another, shall pay to the association one dollar on each share transferred does not apply to a member who for his own use subscribed to a number of shares in his own name and in the name of others, and seeks to exercise his right of withdrawal on all by producing proper vouchers from such others.

65. Order not an assignment.— An order directing the association to pay the stock at maturity to a third person is not an assignment. Vance v. Smith, 124 Cal. 219, 56 Pac. 1031.

66. Bank of Commerce's Appeal, 73 Pa. St. 59.

Remedy for refusal to permit transfer.— A purchaser cannot compel a transfer to him by mandamus, for he has an adequate remedy in a suit for damages (State v. People's Bldg., etc., Assoc., 43 N. J. L. 389), the measure thereof being the actual value of the stock at the time of such refusal (German Union Bldg., etc., Assoc. v. Sendmeyer, 50 Pa. St. 67; North America Bldg. Assoc. v. Sutton, 35 Pa. St. 463, 78 Am. Dec. 349).

67. Denison v. Alpena Loan, etc., Assoc., 117 Mich. 98, 75 N. W. 300; Reynolds v. New York Bldg. Loan Banking Co., 89 Hun (N. Y.) 609, 35 N. Y. Suppl. 80, 69 N. Y. St. 259.

68. Prairie State Loan, etc., Assoc. v. Gorrie, 167 Ill. 414, 47 N. E. 739 [affirming 64 Ill. App. 325]; Anchor Bldg., etc., Assoc. v. Blouse, 5 Pa. Dist. 321.

all the accumulations therein as fully as if he had originally subscribed for them and paid the dues thereon,[69] and the original owner cannot destroy the stock in the hands of his assignee.[70] After notice of withdrawal has been given, a transfer of stock to another does not make the latter a stock-holder.[71]

D. Withdrawal of Member — 1. Right to Withdraw — a. In General. The right of withdrawal[72] is absolute and cannot be arbitrarily withheld,[73] and where given by statute cannot be waived even by an express declaration in the certificate,[74] although the right to withdraw under particular proceedings therefor may be.[75] The right to withdraw is, however, a privilege reserved, which may be exercised or not at the pleasure of a member,[76] and, if he elect to exercise it, he must comply with the terms prescribed in the by-laws and voluntarily assumed by him.[77]

69. Mutual Sav., etc., Assoc. v. Owings, 19 Ky. L. Rep. 1325, 43 S. W. 422.

70. Shober v. Accommodation Sav. Fund, 3 Grant (Pa.) 297.

71. St. Louis Loan, etc., Co. v. Yantis, 72 Ill. App. 597 [affirmed in 173 Ill. 321, 50 N. E. 807].

72. In England the right is provided for by 10 & 11 Vict. c. 96 and 12 & 13 Vict. c. 74. Under the Companies Act of 1862, limited companies had no power to provide for the withdrawal of members (Trevor v. Whitworth, 12 App. Cas. 409, 57 L. J. Ch. 28, 57 L. T. Rep. N. S. 457, 36 Wkly. Rep. 145), but unlimited companies had that power, so that the retiring member would be free from liability in the event of a winding up (In re Borough Commercial, etc., Soc., [1893] 2 Ch. 242, 62 L. J. Ch. 456, 69 L. T. Rep. N. S. 96, 3 Reports 339, 41 Wkly. Rep. 313).

Right to withdraw from foreign association. — In Illinois it is held that the right to withdraw of a citizen of that state who is a member of a foreign association is governed by Illinois statutes. Granite State Provident Assoc. v. Sonderman, 145 Ill. 624, 34 N. E. 143 [affirming 48 Ill. App. 433]; Granite State Provident Assoc. v. Lloyd, 145 Ill. 620, 34 N. E. 142 [affirming 48 Ill. App. 429].

73. Enterprise Bldg., etc., Soc. v. Bolin, 12 Colo. App. 304, 55 Pac. 740; Holyoke Bldg., etc., Assoc. v. Lewis, 1 Colo. App. 126, 27 Pac. 872; Louisville German Bldg., etc., Assoc. v. Wissing, 4 Ky. L. Rep. 443; Fuller v. Salem, etc., Loan, etc., Assoc., 10 Gray (Mass.) 94; Wetterwulgh v. Knickerbocker Bldg. Assoc., 2 Bosw. (N. Y.) 381. See also Eyre v. Building Assoc., 17 Leg. Int. (Pa.) 148, holding that where a resolution is passed permitting certain stock-holders to redeem their stock, a subsequent rescission of the resolution will not affect those who filed their application to redeem pursuant to the resolution before its rescission.

Redeemable at option of association. — Where a certificate of shares in a foreign building association recited that it "is redeemable in cash" after certain payments have been made, "the shareholder being entitled to receive the amount paid in on his shares," it was held to be so redeemable only at the option of the association. Peters v. Granite State Provident Assoc., 12 Pa. Co. Ct. 192.

74. Latimer v. Equitable Loan, etc., Co., 81 Fed. 776.

75. Decatur Bldg., etc., Co. v. Neal, 97 Ala. 717, 12 So. 780, holding that knowingly and intentionally participating as a stock-holder in stock-holders' meetings held six and ten months after giving notice of withdrawal constitutes a waiver of the right to withdraw under said notice. See also Schout v. Conkey Ave. Sav., etc., Assoc., 11 Misc. (N. Y.) 454, 32 N. Y. Suppl. 713, 66 N. Y. St. 76 [affirmed in 87 Hun (N. Y.) 568, 34 N. Y. Suppl. 1147, 68 N. Y. St. 880], holding that a stock-holder of an association, which wrongfully loans to members money applicable to the claim of such stock-holder on the withdrawal of his shares, of which he had given notice, is estopped to sue the association on that ground, where it appears that he was a director of the association, and attended meetings at which such loans were made, and approved thereof.

Estoppel of association to assert waiver. — Where an association demands, as a condition of the withdrawal of a borrowing stock-holder, a greater sum than that due to it, and persists in such demand after its attention has been called to the error, it is in no position to urge that the stock-holder has lost his right to withdraw by his non-action for several years thereafter, where he offered to pay the amount actually due the association at the time of his proposed withdrawal, and has been ready and willing to settle on that basis ever since. People's Bldg., etc., Assoc. v. Furey, 47 N. J. Eq. 410, 20 Atl. 890.

76. Where the privilege is to remain open only until a certain date members who fail to avail themselves of their opportunity before the date so determined cannot do so afterward. Booz's Appeal, 109 Pa. St. 592, 1 Atl. 36.

77. Security Loan Assoc. v. Lake, 69 Ala. 456; Carter v. Ætna Loan Co., 61 Mo. App. 218, 1 Mo. App. Rep. 355; Synnott v. Iron Belt Bldg., etc., Assoc., 89 Fed. 292.

The by-laws given him on becoming a member a person is entitled to treat as all the by-laws such association had, and he is not bound to take notice of modifications of such by-laws, with respect to withdrawing, on the record of the company simply, without further notice to him; which notice must be proven by the defendant company to have

b. Conditions Precedent — (I) Association Must Be Going. The right to withdraw can only be exercised when the association has capacity to do business, and if the stock has reached par [78] or the association has become insolvent,[79] withdrawals will not be permitted.

(II) Existence of Available Funds. It is generally provided that only a certain portion of receipts shall be applied to the payment of withdrawals, and in such case only such funds are available for that purpose. It is, moreover, the generally accepted rule that unless there is money in the treasury legally applicable to the payment of his claim, a withdrawing member cannot sue and get judgment thereon,[80] but the unauthorized application by the directors of funds to loans in preference to withdrawals cannot defeat the right of a withdrawing member.[81]

(III) Notice of Withdrawal. A prescribed notice of withdrawal is usually required by the by-laws,[82] but such notice need not be in writing unless so been given. McKenney v. Diamond State Loan Assoc., 8 Houst. (Del.) 557, 18 Atl. 905.

78. Laurel Run Bldg. Assoc. v. Sperring, 106 Pa. St. 334.

79. Illinois.— Gibson v. Safety Homestead, etc., Assoc., 170 Ill. 44, 48 N. E. 580, 39 L. R. A. 202; Dooling v. Smith, 89 Ill. App. 26; Chapman v. Young, 65 Ill. App. 131.

Indiana.— Bingham v. Marion Trust Co., (Ind. App. 1901) 61 N. E. 29.

Minnesota.—Knutson v. Northwestern Loan, etc., Assoc., 67 Minn. 201, 69 N. W. 889, 64 Am. St. Rep. 410.

Missouri.— Hohenshell v. Home Sav., etc., Assoc., 140 Mo. 566, 41 S. W. 948.

Ohio.— Galvin v. Albers, 9 Ohio S. & C. Pl. Dec. 279, 6 Ohio N. P. 273.

Pennsylvania.—See Christian's Appeal, 102 Pa. St. 184; Haney v. Enterprise Sav. Fund, etc., Assoc., 16 Wkly. Notes Cas. (Pa.) 450.

England.— In re Sunderland 36th Universal Bldg. Soc., 24 Q. B. D. 394, 54 J. P. 613, 59 L. J. Q. B. 217, 62 L. T. Rep. N. S. 293, 38 Wkly. Rep. 509; Brownlie v. Russell, 8 App. Cas. 235, 47 J. P. 757, 48 L. T. Rep. N. S. 881; Kemp v. Wright, [1894] 2 Ch. 462.

Test of right to withdraw.— The question whether an investing member may withdraw so as to obtain priority over other members does not depend on the answer to be given to the question whether the society was solvent or insolvent when his notice matured, or whether the members or officers knew that it was insolvent. The line is to be drawn at the time when there is a stoppage of the society's business, or a recognition, by those entitled to form a judgment, that business must be stopped. In re Ambition Invest. Bldg. Soc., [1896] 1 Ch. 89, 65 L. J. Ch. 113, 73 L. T. Rep. N. S. 508, 2 Manson 607, 44 Wkly. Rep. 141. See also Rickert v. Suddard, 80 Ill. App. 204.

80. Heinbokel v. National Sav., etc., Assoc., 58 Minn. 340, 59 N. W. 1050, 49 Am. St. Rep. 519, 25 L. R. A. 215; Engelhardt v. Fifth Ward Permanent Dime Sav., etc., Assoc., 148 N. Y. 281, 42 N. E. 710, 35 L. R. A. 289 [reversing 5 Misc. (N. Y.) 518, 25 N. Y. Suppl. 835, 58 N. Y. St. 92]; Pawlick v. Homestead Loan Assoc., 15 Misc. (N. Y.) 427, 37 N. Y. Suppl. 164, 72 N. Y. St. 474; Healy v. Eastern Bldg., etc., Assoc., 17 Pa. Super. Ct. 385 (construing the New York law); Texas Homestead Bldg., etc., Assoc. v. Kerr, (Tex. 1890) 13 S. W. 1020; Eastern Bldg., etc., Assoc. v. Snyder, 98 Va. 710, 37 S. E. 298. Contra, Huntington County Loan, etc., Assoc. v. Emerick, 23 Ind. App. 175, 55 N. E. 106; U. S. Building, etc., Assoc. v. Silverman, 85 Pa. St. 394, 4 Wkly. Notes Cas. (Pa.) 546 [disapproved in Christian's Appeal, 102 Pa. St. 184]; Hanney v. Enterprise Sav. Fund, etc., Assoc., 16 Wkly. Notes Cas. (Pa.) 450 (holding that although he may obtain judgment against the association he cannot compel payment by execution or attachment to the exclusion of the claims of general creditors). See also Printers' Bldg., etc., Assoc. v. Paxton, (Tex. Civ. App. 1895) 33 S. W. 389, holding that a provision in the charter of an association, that "at no time shall more than one-half of the funds in the treasury be subject to the demand of withdrawing members," does not prevent a member who has given proper notice of his withdrawal from recovering judgment on claim for the amount paid in by him.

81. Wolfe v. Conkey Ave. Sav., etc., Assoc., 75 Hun (N. Y.) 201, 27 N. Y. Suppl. 44, 58 N. Y. St. 656.

82. Hartford v. Coöperative Mut. Homestead Co., 128 Mass. 494; Farnsworth v. Robbins, 36 Minn. 369, 31 N. W. 349; Heslin v. Eastern Bldg., etc., Assoc., 61 N. Y. App. Div. 458, 70 N. Y. Suppl. 612.

Sufficiency of notice.—Notice of withdrawal given by the owner of stock, and received by the secretary without objection, is good, although the transfer of such stock had not been entered on the books of the association (Reynolds v. New York Bldg. Loan Banking Co., 89 Hun (N. Y.) 609, 35 N. Y. Suppl. 80, 69 N. Y. St. 259); and a notice of withdrawal given to the directors at a meeting of the board is not invalid because of the fact that a quorum is not present, the charter merely requiring one month's notice to the directors (William Brown Bldg., etc., Assoc.'s Estate, 12 Wkly. Notes Cas. (Pa.) 207).

The giving of notice was not waived by a required,[88] and even where required the association may waive a written and accept an oral notice.[84]

(iv) REPAYMENT OF LOAN. As a general rule a borrowing member cannot withdraw before his loan is wholly repaid,[85] but the right of withdrawal may exist after an unconditional tender of such repayment in lawful money,[86] or upon the consent of the directors under a by-law.[87]

2. ORDER OF PAYMENT. It is ordinarily provided that payments to withdrawing members shall be made in the order of notice given and by-laws to this effect have been deemed reasonable.[88] This order of payment will prevail in the absence of a statute or by-law regulating the matter.[89]

3. WITHDRAWAL VALUE. A withdrawing member is not entitled to profits except by statute or rule of the association,[90] and where such provisions exist as to the amount payable on withdrawal members are bound thereby;[91] but a member resolution of the stock-holders providing that every stock-holder be considered as giving notice to withdraw at the time of such resolution, it appearing that the resolution was passed in the absence of some of the stock-holders. William Brown Bldg., etc., Assoc.'s Estate, 12 Wkly. Notes Cas. (Pa.) 207.

83. St. Louis Loan, etc., Co. v. Yantis, 173 Ill. 321, 50 N. E. 807.

84. McKenney v. Diamond State Loan Assoc., 8 Houst. (Del.) 557, 18 Atl. 905.

85. California.— McNamara v. Oakland Bldg., etc., Assoc., 131 Cal. 336, 63 Pac. 670.

District of Columbia.— Pabst v. Economical Bldg., Assoc., 1 McArthur (D. C.) 385.

Indiana.— Anderson Bldg., etc., Assoc. v. Thompson, 88 Ind. 405.

Minnesota.— State v. Redwood Falls Bldg., etc., Assoc., 45 Minn. 154, 47 N. W. 540, 10 L. R. A. 752.

Missouri.— Edinger v. Missouri Guarantee Sav., etc., Assoc., 83 Mo. App. 615, holding that otherwise the borrower must continue to pay the monthly due until the stock has reached par value, before he can receive its value or have it applied to his credit on the loan.

Pennsylvania.— Wadlinger v. Washington German Bldg., etc., Assoc., 153 Pa. St. 622, 26 Atl. 647; Laurel Run Bldg. Assoc. v. Sperring, 106 Pa. St. 334; Watkins v. Workingmen's Bldg., etc., Assoc., 97 Pa. St. 514.

United States.— Kinney v. Columbia Sav., etc., Assoc., 113 Fed. 359.

The amount to be paid and the credits to which a borrowing member is entitled are dependent upon the construction of particular by-laws or statutes of which some have been construed in the following cases:

Alabama.— Security Loan Assoc. v. Lake, 69 Ala. 456.

Illinois.— Agnew v. Macomb Bldg., etc., Assoc., 96 Ill. App. 665 [affirmed in 197 Ill. 256, 64 N. E. 260].

Kentucky.— Safety Bldg., etc., Assoc. v. Montjoy, 21 Ky. L. Rep. 1189, 54 S. W. 719.

New Jersey.— People's Bldg., etc., Assoc. v. Furey, 47 N. J. Eq. 410, 20 Atl. 890.

Ohio.—Windhorst v. Germania Bldg. Assoc. No. 3, 8 Ohio Dec. (Reprint) 286, 7 Cinc. L. Bul. 29.

Pennsylvania.— Winterer v. Fairmount Bldg. Assoc., 19 Phila. (Pa.) 426, 44 Leg. Int. (Pa.) 122; Sherman Bldg. Assoc. v. Rock, 9 Phila. (Pa.) 75, 29 Leg. Int. (Pa.) 140.

Texas.— International Bldg., etc., Assoc. v. Biering, (Tex. Civ. App. 1893) 23 S. W. 1025.

West Virginia.— Haigh v. U. S. Building, etc., Assoc., 19 W. Va. 792.

See 8 Cent. Dig. tit. "Building and Loan Associations," § 19.

A member may withdraw and repay his debt at the same time and as a part of one and the same transaction. Southern Bldg., etc., Assoc. v. Harris, 98 Ky. 41, 17 Ky. L. Rep. 721, 32 S. W. 261.

Right to reduce stock.— Where the rules permit a member to reduce the number of shares held by him, he cannot do so until he has paid all dues and arrears on his old certificate. Fulton v. American Bldg., etc., Assoc., 46 Minn. 190, 48 N. W. 781.

86. Anderson Bldg., etc., Assoc. v. Thompson, 88 Ind. 405.

87. McNamara v. Oakland Bldg., etc., Assoc., 131 Cal. 336, 63 Pac. 670.

88. Engelhardt v. Fifth Ward Permanent Dime Sav., etc., Assoc., 148 N. Y. 281, 42 N. E. 710, 35 L. R. A. 289 [reversing 5 Misc. (N. Y.) 518, 25 N. Y. Suppl. 835, 58 N. Y. St. 92]; Pawlick v. Homestead Loan Assoc., 15 Misc. (N. Y.) 427, 37 N. Y. Suppl. 164, 72 N. Y. St. 474; Eastern Bldg., etc., Assoc. v. Snyder, 98 Va. 710, 37 S. E. 298; Brett v. Monarch Invest. Bldg. Soc., [1894] 1 Q. B. 367, 58 J. P. 367, 63 L. J. Q. B. 237, 70 L. T. Rep. N. S. 146, 9 Reports 141, 42 Wkly. Rep. 209.

89. Hoyt v. Interocean Bldg. Assoc., 58 Minn. 345, 60 N. W. 678.

90. Letourneau v. Berlin Bldg., etc., Assoc., 68 N. H. 366, 44 Atl. 532.

91. Colorado.—Hawley v. North Side Bldg., etc., Assoc., 11 Colo. App. 93, 52 Pac. 408.

Delaware.— McKenney v. Diamond State Loan Assoc., 8 Houst. (Del.) 557, 18 Atl. 905.

Indiana.— Anderson Bldg., etc., Assoc. v. Thompson, 88 Ind. 405.

New York.— House v. Eastern Bldg., etc., Assoc., 52 N. Y. App. Div. 163, 66 N. Y. Suppl. 109.

is not bound by an amendment of the by-laws which has been irregularly adopted,[92] nor can vested rights be affected either by change in the statute[93] or by-laws.[94] If, on withdrawing, a member is entitled to a sum in addition to what he has put in, it is an adjusted profit, and not interest on money loaned, and the association cannot withhold a part on the ground of usury, nor can it retain a part thereof to guard against subsequent insolvency.[95]

4. Effect of Withdrawal or Notice Thereof. One whose withdrawal of stock from a solvent association is completed ceases to be a member.[96] It has been held that by giving notice of withdrawal a stock-holder becomes a creditor,[97] but Pennsylvania.— Eaton v. Eastern Bldg., etc., Assoc., 7 Pa. Dist. 440.

South Dakota.—Beach v. Co-operative Sav., Assoc., 10 S. D. 549, 74 N. W. 889.

See 8 Cent. Dig. tit. "Building and Loan Associations," § 19.

Payment in scrip.— A by-law requiring withdrawing members to accept scrip payable at the time when their stock would have matured is a proper and reasonable regulation. Hundermark v. New South Bldg., etc., Assoc., (Miss. 1901) 29 So. 528.

Payment of less than amount paid in.— Under a statute of Minnesota providing that in case of extraordinary losses which have to be charged against capital actually paid in all withdrawing shares shall be subject to a pro rata charge thereof, it has been held that, as long as the assets of the company equaled the amounts paid in on stock, a withdrawing stock-holder was entitled to at least the amount paid in by him, and the company was not justified in making the reduction. Baker v. U. S. Savings, etc., Assoc., 23 R. I. 243, 49 Atl. 967.

Right to interest after notice of withdrawal. — Where the amount due on withdrawal of stock is wrongfully withheld, and an action is brought to recover same, interest from the commencement of the action can be recovered, regardless of a provision of the by-laws that interest shall cease upon notice of withdrawal. Sinteff v. People's Bldg., etc., Assoc., 37 N. Y. App. Div. 340, 57 N. Y. Suppl. 611 [affirmed in 166 N. Y. 630, 60 N. E. 1120]. See also Enterprise Bldg., etc., Soc. v. Bolin, 12 Colo. App. 304, 55 Pac. 740.

Compromising claim.— An association has power to compromise with a member and release him from further obligation to the corporation (State v. Oberlin Bldg., etc., Assoc., 35 Ohio St. 258), and, where the parties to the compromise have acted in good faith, the transaction will not be rescinded because the released member was paid a greater sum than he would have received upon a pro rata distribution of the assets (Wangerien v. Aspell, 47 Ohio St. 250, 24 N. E. 405).

92. Johnson v. Mutual Guarantee Bldg., etc., Assoc., 66 N. J. L. 683, 51 Atl. 150.

93. Enterprise Bldg., etc., Soc. v. Bolin, 12 Colo. App. 304, 55 Pac. 740; Fisher v. Patton, 134 Mo. 32, 33 S. W. 451, 34 S. W. 1096.

94. Sinteff v. People's Bldg., etc., Assoc., 37 N. Y. App. Div. 340, 57 N. Y. Suppl. 611 [affirmed in 166 N. Y. 630, 60 N. E. 1120]; Savage v. People's Bldg., etc., Assoc., 45 W. Va. 275, 31 S. E. 991.

Reducing amount of receipts applicable to withdrawals.—Where, by the original articles and by-laws, the option to withdraw the amount paid, with interest up to the time of application for withdrawal, is unconditional, an amendment providing that only one half of the receipts shall be applicable to withdrawals is not binding on existing shareholders, because it affects not the remedy merely, but the contract. Sinteff v. People's Bldg., etc., Assoc., 37 N. Y. App. Div. 340, 57 N. Y. Suppl. 611 [affirmed in 166 N. Y. 630, 60 N. E. 1120]. Contra, Bearden v. People's Bldg., etc., Assoc., (Tenn. Ch. 1898) 49 S. W. 64.

Estoppel to question by-law.— Where a shareholder knew of an amendment which reduced the withdrawal value of his shares below their actual value, but for two years made no protest, while other members paid their dues on the new basis, he is estopped afterward, on withdrawal from the association, to claim any greater sum than he was entitled to under the amendment. Gardner v. New York Mut. Sav., etc., Assoc., 35 Misc. (N. Y.) 115, 71 N. Y. Suppl. 240 [affirmed in 67 N. Y. App. Div. 141, 73 N. Y. Suppl. 604].

95. Jungkuntz v. West Liberty Bldg. Assoc. No. 1, 8 Ohio Dec. (Reprint) 242, 6 Cinc. L. Bul. 428.

96. Rickert v. Suddard, 184 Ill. 149, 56 N. E. 344 [reversing 80 Ill. App. 204]; In re Sheffield, etc., Permanent Bldg., Soc., 22 Q. B. D. 470, 53 J. P. 375, 58 L. J. Q. B. 265, 60 L. T. Rep. N. S. 186; In re West Riding, etc., Permanent Ben. Bldg. Soc., 45 Ch. D. 463, 59 L. J. Ch. 823, 63 L. T. Rep. N. S. 483, 39 Wkly. Rep. 74. See also Enterprise Bldg., etc., Soc. v. Bolin, 12 Colo. App. 304, 55 Pac. 740, holding that at the expiration of the term of notice a stock-holder's withdrawal is complete, and as between himself and the other shareholders he ceases to be a member and become a creditor of the association to the extent of his legal claim.

97. Browne v. Sanders, 20 D. C. 455; Southern Bldg., etc., Assoc. v. Price, 88 Md. 155, 41 Atl. 53, 42 L. R. A. 206; Lepore v. Twin Cities Nat. Bldg., etc., Assoc., 5 Pa. Super. Ct. 276, 40 Wkly. Notes Cas. (Pa.) 548; William Brown Bldg., etc., Assoc.'s Estate, 12 Wkly. Notes Cas. (Pa.) 207; Moore v. Southern Mut. Bldg., etc., Assoc., 50 S. C. 89, 27 S. E. 543.

Effect of assignment of stock after notice of withdrawal see supra, V, C, 3.

it has also been held that this is not true in an absolute, only in a limited and qualified, sense.[98]

E. Maturity of Stock—1. In General. Stock matures when the fund in which a shareholder has an interest actually amounts to the sum per share specified in the articles of association,[99] at which time borrowers and non-borrowers stand on an equal footing,[1] and the shareholder is entitled to payment without being compelled to bid a premium for the privilege.[2]

2. Dividends. Although a provision for declaring dividends at stated intervals be mandatory the amount of the dividend is discretionary,[3] but each number is entitled to receive such proportion of the earnings as the value[4] of his shares bears to the total value of all the shares.[5]

VI. DUES, FINES, AND ASSESSMENTS.

A. Assessments. It is the duty of each member to bear his share of the losses and expenses of the association,[6] and if the by-laws are expressly made a 98. Heinbokel v. National Sav., etc., Assoc., 58 Minn. 340, 59 N. W. 1050, 49 Am. St. Rep. 519, 25 L. R. A. 215; Pawlick v. Homestead Loan Assoc., 15 Misc. (N. Y.) 427, 37 N. Y. Suppl. 164, 72 N. Y. St. 474; Christian's Appeal, 102 Pa. St. 184; Sibun v. Pearce, 44 Ch. D. 354, 62 L. T. Rep. N. S. 388; Walker v. General Mut. Bldg. Soc., 36 Ch. D. 777, 52 J. P. 278, 57 L. T. Rep. N. S. 574; Davies v. Second Chatham Permanent Ben. Bldg. Soc., 61 L. T. Rep. N. S. 680.

99. Campbell v. Perth Amboy Mut. Loan, etc., Assoc., (N. J. 1901) 50 Atl. 444.

Method of ascertaining maturity.— A provision in the constitution of a building and loan association that "where it shall be ascertained" that the value of each share of stock amounts to two hundred dollars, a meeting of the shareholders shall be convened, at which time a division shall take place, etc., does not obligate a shareholder to abide by any particular mode of computation, or the mode adopted and used by the association in determining the value of his shares. Charles Tyrrell Loan, etc., Assoc. v. Haley, 163 Pa. St. 301, 35 Wkly. Notes Cas. (Pa.) 269, 30 Atl. 154.

1. Mercer v. Amber Bldg., etc., Assoc., 10 Pa. Co. Ct. 51.

2. Deering v. Bishop Bayley Bldg., etc., Assoc. No. 2, (N. J. 1892) 24 Atl. 575; Mechanics', etc., Bldg. Assoc.'s Appeal, (Pa. 1887) 7 Atl. 728; Rodgers v. Southwestern Mut. Sav. Fund, etc., Assoc., 7 Wkly. Notes Cas. (Pa.) 95.

3. Marks v. Monroe County Permanent Sav., etc., Assoc., 22 N. Y. Suppl. 589, 52 N. Y. St. 451, holding that such dividend need not be of the whole of the net profits of the corporation during the quarter included; especially when it does not appear that the debts to become due or the business of the association do not require the detention of money.

Guaranteed dividends on paid-up stock can only be paid out of the surplus profits, without injuring the capital stock. Bingham v. Marion Trust Co., (Ind. App. 1901) 61 N. E. 29.

What constitute earnings see Boone v. Homestead Loan Assoc., 23 N. Y. Suppl. 203, 54 N. Y. St. 63; Marks v. Monroe County Permanent Sav., etc., Assoc., 22 N. Y. Suppl. 589, 52 N. Y. St. 451.

4. What value affords basis of distribution. — The proper basis for distribution of earnings is the amount of dues paid on each share and the other credits to the share, whether or not a loan has been awarded on such a share. Seibel v. Victoria Bldg. Assoc. No. 2, 43 Ohio St. 371, 2 N. E. 417. A borrowing member of a building and loan association who elects to treat all payments as made on the debt is not entitled to dividends on the stock, having by his election paid nothing on the stock. Williams v. National Bldg., etc., Assoc., 22 Ky. L. Rep. 962, 59 S. W. 321. Nor is a borrowing member of a building association who makes payment in advance on the amount borrowed entitled to dividends on such payment, or on any dues, except such as accrued as stated dues at the times for semiannual dividends, but he is entitled to credit on his premium in so far as his payment canceled the loan. Turner Ban-Verein No. 3 v. Woodburn, 11 Ohio Dec. (Reprint) 578, 27 Cinc. L. Bul. 409.

A member may be estopped to question the mode of apportioning earnings by knowingly accepting, through a considerable period, an apportionment on a different basis than that fixed by statute. Ruehlman v. Atlantic Bldg. Assoc. Co., 6 Ohio Cir. Ct. 285.

5. Seibel v. Victoria Bldg. Assoc. No. 2, 9 Ohio Dec. (Reprint) 422, 13 Cinc. L. Bul. 265.

6. See supra, IV, B, 1, b.

In Illinois a loan association may make its assets sufficient by an assessment charged on its books pro rata against the amounts paid in by its members on stock. Continental Invest., etc., Soc. v. People, 167 Ill. 195, 47 N. E. 381; Broadwell v. Inter-Ocean Homestead, etc., Assoc., 161 Ill. 327, 43 N. E. 1067.

In Indiana the board of directors of a building association may assess on the entire amount of the unpaid stock of both its bor-part of the contract or certificate of stock and expressly give the association power to make sufficient assessments so that stock will mature within a fixed time, a stock-holder cannot question the action of the association in making such assessments, where no fraud is practised upon him.[7]

B. Fines — 1. Power to Impose — a. In General. Although some courts regard fines as penalties and will not lend their aid to enforce them independently of statutory enactment,[8] the weight of authority is to the effect that building associations have the right to impose fines whether any express warrant is found for it in the statute under which such associations are incorporated or not.[9]

b. Limitations of Power. Fines must be reasonable in amount and equitable in every respect.[10] The repeated imposition of the same fine, increased upon the rowing and non-borrowing members, when winding up the association, a sum sufficient to pay the indebtedness of the association, including an amount sufficient to equalize the borrowing members who have paid out in due course of time and also the non-borrowing members. Wohlford v. Citizens Bldg., etc., Assoc., 140 Ind. 662, 40 N. E. 694, 29 L. R. A. 177.

7. Pioneer Sav., etc., Co. v. Miller, 58 Ill. App. 211.

A borrowing member on ceasing to pay severs his connection with the association as a stock-holder and cannot thereafter be charged for expenses. Dowell v. Safety Bldg., etc., Co., 21 Ky. L. Rep. 1267, 54 S. W. 845. But in Ohio a borrowing shareholder who has made full payment in dues and dividends of the amount loaned to him is not thereby relieved of personal liability on such shares, until there has been an actual adjustment between the shareholder and the association, but is liable to an assessment. Eversmann v. Schmitt, 53 Ohio St. 174, 41 N. E. 139, 53 Am. St. Rep. 632, 29 L. R. A. 184.

8. Lincoln Bldg., etc., Assoc. v. Graham, 7 Nebr. 173. See also Building Assoc. v. Schuller, 3 Wkly. Notes Cas. (Pa.) 431, holding that fines for unpaid dues can only be imposed when expressly authorized by the charter or by-laws.

9. The imposition of adequate fines is justified in order to prevent default in the punctual payment of dues upon which the success of the association depends, or in case of default that some reasonable equivalent for the consequent damage sustained may be provided.

Arkansas.— Roberts v. American Bldg., etc., Assoc., 62 Ark. 572, 36 S. W. 1085, 54 Am. St. Rep. 309, 33 L. R. A. 744.

Indiana.— Kenner v. Whitelock, 152 Ind. 635, 53 N. E. 232.

Maryland.—Shannon v. Howard Mut. Bldg. Assoc., 36 Md. 383.

Mississippi.— Goodman v. Durant Bldg., etc., Assoc., 71 Miss. 310, 14 So. 146.

New York.— Mutual Ben. Loan, etc., Co. v. Lynch, 54 N. Y. App. Div. 559, 67 N. Y. Suppl. 6.

Ohio.— Hagerman v. Ohio Bldg., etc., Assoc., 25 Ohio St. 186.

Pennsylvania.— Lynn v. Freemansburg Bldg., etc., Assoc., 117 Pa. St. 1, 11 Atl. 537, 2 Am. St. Rep. 639, holding that a right to enact a by-law imposing a fine for the non-payment of dues is a right which building associations possess of enacting suitable by-laws for their government.

Tennessee.— Barrows v. Southern Bldg., etc., Assoc., (Tenn. Ch. 1898) 50 S. W. 665; Hughes v. Farmers' Sav., etc., Assoc., (Tenn. Ch. 1897) 46 S. W. 362; Setliff v. North Nashville Bldg., etc., Assoc., (Tenn. Ch. 1897) 39 S. W. 546.

See 8 Cent. Dig. tit. "Building and Loan Associations," § 26.

10. Arkansas.—Roberts v. American Bldg., etc., Assoc., 62 Ark. 572, 36 S. W. 1085, 54 Am. St. Rep. 309, 33 L. R. A. 744, holding that a provision in the by-laws of a building association imposing on its stock-holders a fine of ten cents per share to be imposed for each and every month that payment is not made is reasonable.

Illinois.— Vierling v. Mechanics', etc., Assoc., 179 Ill. 524, 53 N. E. 979, holding that fines of twenty-five cents per share for failure to pay interest instalments when due, and ten cents per share for delinquent instalments of principal, are oppressive.

Iowa.—Iowa Sav., etc., Assoc. v. Heidt, 107 Iowa 297, 77 N. W. 1050, 70 Am. St. Rep. 197, 43 L. R. A. 689, holding that fines of five cents on each share for the first default, and ten cents for each subsequent default, are not so unreasonable as to be void.

Kentucky.— Safety Bldg., etc., Assoc. v. Montjoy, 21 Ky. L. Rep. 1189, 54 S. W. 719.

Ohio.— Hagerman v. Ohio Bldg., etc., Assoc., 25 Ohio St. 186 [followed in Forrest City United Land, etc., Assoc. v. Gallagher, 25 Ohio St. 208].

Pennsylvania.— Lynn v. Freemansburg Bldg., etc., Assoc., 117 Pa. St. 1, 11 Atl. 537, 2 Am. St. Rep. 639; Harris Bldg., etc., Assoc. v. Simon, 19 Pa. Co. Ct. 110.

Tennessee.— Barrows v. Southern Bldg., etc., Assoc., (Tenn. Ch. 1898) 50 S. W. 665.

West Virginia.— McGannon v. Central Bldg. Assoc. No. 2, 19 W. Va. 726.

England.— Parker v. Butcher, L. R. 3 Eq. 762, 36 L. J. Ch. 552; Re Middlesbrough Bldg. Soc., 49 J. P. 278, 54 L. J. Ch. 592, 51 L. T. Rep. N. S. 743.

Increase of amount.— Where the weekly instalment of premium to be paid for shares purchased in a building association has been fixed in and secured by a mortgage on the property of a member purchasing, it cannot be increased and covered by the mortgage by principle of arithmetical progression, will not be permitted.[11] There are, moreover, authorities to the effect that no more than one fine for the non-payment of the same stated due can be assessed or collected.[12]

2. NATURE. Fines provided for by the by-laws of a building association are not intended as penalties, but are to be considered as liquidated damages fixed by consent of the parties to indemnify the association for the loss it has sustained by reason of the failure of the defaulting member to make prompt payments.[13]

3. FOR WHAT IMPOSED — a. In General. Fines can be imposed only by way of punishment for some delinquency in the performance of a duty which the member may owe to the association by reason of his membership.[14]

b. Default in Payment of Interest. Fines cannot be imposed for default in payment of interest on loans,[15] unless expressly authorized by the statute creating the association.[16]

4. SECURITY FOR PAYMENT.[17] Where a loan is advanced to a member upon his stock it is within the capacity of the association to take security from such member by mortgage or otherwise for the payment of the fines as well as stated dues;[18] but fines imposed by the association upon its members for defaults in the subsequent action of the association, unless the constitution and by-laws of the association confer such authority in plain and unmistakable language. Burke v. Home Bldg. Assoc., 8 Ohio Dec. (Reprint) 341, 7 Cinc. L. Bul. 114.

11. Second New York Bldg. Assoc. v. Gallier [cited in Citizens Mut. Loan, etc., Assoc. v. Webster, 25 Barb. (N. Y.) 263, 272]; Lynn v. Freemansburg Bldg., etc., Assoc., 117 Pa. St. 1, 11 Atl. 537, 2 Am. St. Rep. 639.

A by-law of a building association which provides that each stock-holder who fails to pay his monthly assessments shall be fined for the first and second weeks five cents, for the third week ten cents, and for each succeeding week fifteen cents, for each share of stock he owns, does not allow a fine of more than fifteen cents a week on each share, although there is a failure to pay assessments for several successive months. Gouchenour v. Sullivan Bldg., etc., Assoc., 119 Ind. 441, 21 N. E. 1088. See also Dupuy v. Eastern Bldg., etc., Assoc., 93 Va. 460, 25 S. E. 537, 35 L. R. A. 215, holding that under a by-law of a building association, providing that "borrowing members who shall neglect to pay any instalments as the same become due, shall pay to the Association a fine of twenty cents per month on each $100 that they have borrowed from the Association," the fine for one month is not repeated and added to that of each succeeding month, making the amount increase in arithmetical progression, but only twenty cents on each hundred dollars can be imposed in any one month.

12. Monumental Permanent Bldg., etc., Soc. v. Lewin, 38 Md. 445; Shannon v. Howard Mut. Bldg. Assoc., 36 Md. 383; Forrest City United Land, etc., Assoc. v. Gallagher, 25 Ohio St. 208; Hagerman v. Ohio Bldg., etc., Assoc., 25 Ohio St. 186; Setliff v. North Nashville Bldg., etc., Assoc., (Tenn. Ch. 1897) 39 S. W. 546; McGannon v. Central Bldg. Assoc. No. 2, 19 W. Va. 726. See also Pentz v. Citizens' F. Ins., etc., Co., 35 Md. 73.

13. Roberts v. American Bldg., etc., Assoc., 62 Ark. 572, 36 S. W. 1085, 54 Am. St. Rep. 309, 33 L. R. A. 744; Ocmulgee Bldg., etc., Assoc. v. Thomson, 52 Ga. 427; Shannon v. Howard Mut. Bldg. Assoc., 36 Md. 383; McGannon v. Central Bldg. Assoc. No. 2, 19 W. Va. 726. Compare Lincoln Bldg., etc., Assoc. v. Graham, 7 Nebr. 173.

14. Hagerman v. Ohio Bldg., etc., Assoc., 25 Ohio St. 186; McGannon v. Central Bldg. Assoc. No. 2, 19 W. Va. 726.

15. Maryland.— See Shannon v. Howard Mut. Bldg. Assoc., 36 Md. 383.

North Carolina.— Smith v. Old Dominion Bldg., etc., Assoc., 119 N. C. 257, 26 S. E. 40; Meroney v. Atlanta Bldg., etc., Assoc., 116 N. C. 882, 21 S. E. 924, 47 Am. St. Rep. 841.

Ohio.— Forrest City United Land, etc., Assoc. v. Gallagher, 25 Ohio St. 208; Hagerman v. Ohio Bldg., etc., Assoc., 25 Ohio St. 186.

Tennessee.— Setliff v. North Nashville Bldg., etc., Assoc., (Tenn. Ch. 1897) 39 S. W. 546.

West Virginia.— Parker v. U. S. Building, etc., Assoc., 19 W. Va. 744.

See 8 Cent. Dig. tit. "Building and Loan Associations," § 68.

Interest cannot be imposed on fines.— Kenner v. Whitelock, 152 Ind. 635, 53 N. E. 232; Parker v. Butcher, L. R. 3 Eq. 762, 36 L. J. Ch. 552.

16. Clarksville Bldg., etc., Assoc. v. Stephens, 26 N. J. Eq. 351; Association v. Neurath, 2 Wkly. Notes Cas. (Pa.) 95. See also Gouchenour v. Sullivan Bldg., etc., Assoc., 119 Ind. 441, 21 N. E. 1088; Parker v. Butcher, L. R. 3 Eq. 762, 36 L. J. Ch. 552; In re Middlesbrough Bldg. Soc., 49 J. P. 278, 54 L. J. Ch. 592, 51 L. T. Rep. N. S. 743.

17. See also infra, VIII, H, 5, c, (III).

18. Hagerman v. Ohio Bldg., etc., Assoc., 25 Ohio St. 186. See also Provident Permanent Bldg. Soc. v. Greenhill, 9 Ch. D. 122, 38 L. T. Rep. N. S. 140, 27 Wkly. Rep. 110, holding that fines secured by covenant in a mortgage to a building society form part of payment of dues cannot be collected by foreclosure of a mortgage given to secure payment of a sum borrowed or of dues, unless the parties have agreed that the fines may be so collected.[19]

5. REMISSION. The association may remit or condone fines.[20]

C. Duration and Extent of Liability—1. IN GENERAL. The obligation of a borrowing member to pay dues and fines does not cease on the filing of a bill to foreclose the mortgage given as security for the loan and the payment of dues and fines.[21] It has been held, however, that such obligation ceases upon the foreclosure and sale of the association's lien on such member's stock,[22] or upon his death.[23] It has also been held that the failure of a shareholder to pay his dues is excused by the refusal of the officers of the association to allow him to inspect the books.[24]

2. DISSOLUTION OF ASSOCIATION. All the members of an association, borrowing as well as non-borrowing, must continue to pay their dues and fines until the asso-the principal in taking the account of principal, interest, and costs in a foreclosure suit by the building society, and are payable with interest.

Payment of the principal and interest due on a mortgage given by a member of a loan association conditioned for the payment of a loan and of the monthly dues does not extinguish the mortgage, but it remains as security for the faithful performance of the mortgagor's duties as a member of the association. Hence it can be used to enforce the payment of the monthly dues. Everham v. Oriental Sav., etc., Assoc., 47 Pa. St. 352.

19. Bowen v. Lincoln Bldg., etc., Assoc., 51 N. J. Eq. 272, 28 Atl. 67; Hazel Loan, etc., Assoc. v. Groesbeck, 17 Phila. (Pa.) 242, 41 Leg. Int. (Pa.) 16.

20. People v. Lowe, 117 N. Y. 175, 22 N. E. 1016, 27 N. Y. St. 138. But see Wilson v. Upper Canada Bldg. Soc., 12 Grant Ch. (U. C.) 206, holding that a rule of a building society for the payment of fines cannot be waived by the directors.

Waiver of part of authorized fine.— Where the constitution of a building association prescribes the fines to be imposed on delinquent members, it thereby fixes the limit beyond which the association cannot go, but it may, by by-law, waive some part of the fine so authorized, and impose smaller ones. Dupuy v. Eastern Bldg., etc., Assoc., 93 Va. 460, 25 S. E. 537, 35 L. R. A. 215.

21. Union Bldg. Loan Assoc. v. Masonic Hall Assoc., 29 N. J. Eq. 389. See also Hutchinson v. Straub, 64 Ohio St. 413, 60 N. E. 602, 83 Am. St. Rep. 764 (holding that the filing by a building association mortgages of answer and cross petition in a proceeding brought by an assignee for the benefit of creditors for authority to sell land is not such an election to forfeit the stock of the member as will estop the association from claiming fines for non-payment of dues accruing after the assignment); White v. Mechanics' Bldg. Fund Assoc., 22 Gratt. (Va.) 233 (where it appeared that a shareholder in a building association obtained an advance of money on his shares, and the association thereby acquired the rights of property therein and it was held that the assignment of his shares by such shareholder to the association did not release him from his covenant, as a party to the articles of association, to make his regular monthly payments on shares and on account of fines).

Where settlements with and release of members of a building association by allowing payments in advance or otherwise is contrary to the constitution of the association, such payments and release, although made in good faith, will not release members where it turns out that there will be a deficiency as to non-retiring members. McKeown v. Irish Bldg. Assoc. No. 2, 8 Ohio Dec. (Reprint) 17, 5 Cinc. L. Bul. 52, 9 Ohio Dec. (Reprint) 257, 12 Cinc. L. Bul. 6.

Withdrawal of member.— Under a by-law of a building association providing that a fine may be imposed on shares of a member for redeeming them by paying off the loan for which they are pledged to it, the fine may be imposed, although at the same time the member withdraws the shares, that is returns them to the association, and becomes entitled to receive from it their then value. Safety Co-operative Bldg., etc., Assoc. v. Robinson, 47 N. Y. App. Div. 534, 62 N. Y. Suppl. 511 [affirmed in 170 N. Y. 568, 62 N. E. 1100]. But see Miller v. Second Jefferson Bldg. Assoc., 50 Pa. St. 32, where it appeared that a stock-holder in a building association, under a resolution of the association permitting borrowers to withdraw on the payment of a stipulated amount the stock to be then "withdrawn and canceled," withdrew, having paid off his loans and stock, and the stock was then marked on the books as "canceled" and "withdrawn." It was held that the company could not afterward recover for dues which subsequently accrued thereon.

22. Dakota Bldg., etc., Assoc. v. Logan, (Tex. Civ. App. 1896) 33 S. W. 1088.

On the election of an association to declare a debt due from a borrower the payment of fines ceases. Murphy v. Goodland Bldg., etc., Assoc., 2 Kan. App. 330, 43 Pac. 863.

23. Shahan v. Shahan, 48 W. Va. 477, 37 S. E. 552, 86 Am. St. Rep. 68.

24. Buker v. Leighton Lea Assoc., 164 N. Y. 557, 58 N. E. 1085 [reversing 18 N. Y. App. Div. 548, 46 N. Y. Suppl. 35].

ciation is dissolved or is in a condition to be dissolved.[25] An association is dissolved, or is in a condition to be dissolved, so as to terminate the liability to pay dues and fines upon its ceasing to do business,[26] upon its insolvency,[27] or upon the appointment of a receiver for it.[28]

D. Payment — 1. NOTICE. If the charter or by-laws provide for the time of payment of dues and no provision is made for special notice, a member is not entitled to special notice that a payment is due.[29]

2. MEDIUM OF PAYMENT. If the constitution or by-laws require the payment of all dues in money a payment by a member in checks, afterward fraudulently appropriated by an officer of the company, is invalid.[30]

3. TIME AND PLACE OF PAYMENT. If the constitution or by-laws require payment of dues at regular stated meetings the association is not bound by payments made at other times to the secretary and embezzled by him.[31] If, however, there is

25. Illinois.— Sullivan v. Spaniol, 78 Ill. App. 125.

Indiana.— Wayne International Bldg., etc., Assoc. v. Skelton, 27 Ind. App. 624, 61 N. E. 951. Compare Lime City Bldg., etc., Assoc. v. Wagner, 122 Ind. 78, 23 N. E. 689, 17 Am. St. Rep. 342.

Maryland.— Lister v. Log Cabin Bldg. Assoc., 38 Md. 115.

New Jersey.— Somerset County Bldg., etc., Assoc. v. Camman, 11 N. J. Eq. 382.

New York.— Breed v. Ruoff, 54 N. Y. App. Div. 142, 66 N. Y. Suppl. 422.

North Dakota.— Vermont L. & T. Co. v. Whithed, 2 N. D. 82, 49 N. W. 318.

Ohio.—Seibel v. Victoria Bldg. Assoc. No. 2, 43 Ohio St. 371, 2 N. E. 417.

Pennsylvania.— Freemansburg Bldg., etc., Assoc. v. Watts, 199 Pa. St. 221, 48 Atl. 1075.

Virginia.— Cason v. Seldner, 77 Va. 293.

Canada.— Wilson v. Upper Canada Bldg. Soc., 12 Grant Ch. (U. C.) 206, which holds that although a building society should, if properly managed, have terminated in ten years, yet, if it did not then terminate, borrowing members, as well as non-borrowing members, are bound to continue paying their monthly subscriptions until they reach the full amount of their shares.

26. Number Four Fidelity Bldg., etc., Union v. Smith, 155 Ind. 679, 58 N. E. 70; Blakeley v. El Paso Bldg., etc., Assoc., (Tex. Civ. App. 1894) 26 S. W. 292. See also Cook v. Kent, 105 Mass. 246, holding that the liability of a member for the payment of dues and fines cannot extend beyond the existence of the association.

After liquidation is entered upon, the obligation of both borrowing and non-borrowing members to pay dues ceases, and hence there can be no fines imposed for failure to pay dues. Seventeenth Ward Bldg. Assoc. v. Fitzgerald, 11 Ohio S. & C. Pl. Dec. 133, 8 Ohio N. P. 160. See also Hinman v. Ryan, 3 Ohio Cir. Ct. 529.

27. Connecticut.— Curtis v. Granite State Provident Assoc., 69 Conn. 6, 36 Atl. 1023, 61 Am. St. Rep. 17.

Indiana.— Number Four Fidelity Bldg., etc., Union v. Smith, 155 Ind. 679, 58 N. E. 70.

Iowa.— Hale v. Kline, 113 Iowa 523, 85 N. W. 814.

Maryland.— Low St. Bldg. Assoc. No. 6 v. Zucker, 48 Md. 448.

New Hampshire.— Bank Com'rs v. Granite State Provident Assoc., 68 N. H. 554, 44 Atl. 605.

North Dakota.— Hale v. Cairns, 8 N. D. 145, 77 N. W. 1010, 73 Am. St. Rep. 746, 44 L. R. A. 261.

Pennsylvania.— Strohen v. Franklin Sav. Fund, etc., Assoc., 115 Pa. St. 273, 8 Atl. 843.

West Virginia.— Young v. Improvement Loan, etc., Assoc., 48 W. Va. 512, 38 S. E. 670.

Wisconsin.— Leahy v. National Bldg., etc., Assoc., 100 Wis. 555, 76 N. W. 625, 69 Am. St. Rep. 945.

United States.—Manorita v. Fidelity Trust, etc., Co., 101 Fed. 8.

As to insolvency of association see infra, X, B.

28. Number Four Fidelity Bldg., etc., Union v. Smith, 155 Ind. 679, 58 N. E. 70; Peter's Bldg. Assoc. No. 5 v. Jaecksch, 51 Md. 198; Buist v. Bryan, 44 S. C. 121, 21 S. E. 537, 51 Am. St. Rep. 787, 29 L. R. A. 127.

29. Morrison v. Dorsey, 48 Md. 461.

30. Mueller v. Cohen, 11 Ohio Dec. (Reprint) 575, 27 Cinc. L. Bul. 353. See also People's Bldg., etc., Assoc. v. Wroth, 43 N. J. L. 70, holding that if the dues and fines payable by the members to the association are by the constitution and by-laws to be paid to the treasurer in cash, it is a breach of the duty appertaining to the office of treasurer for him to accept the promise or voucher of any member of the association in place of cash.

Stock of other association.— An agent of a building association, who, with the acquiescence of the association, establishes local boards, solicits stock, negotiates loans, and collects the price of prepaid stock, has no authority to accept stock of another association in payment for prepaid stock. German-American Bldg. Assoc. v. Droge, 14 Ind. App. 691, 43 N. E. 475.

31. Morrow v. James, 4 Mackey (D. C.) 59; Killian v. Building, etc., Assoc., 21 Pa. Co. Ct. 58.

nothing in the constitution or by-laws requiring payments to be made at stated meetings, payment to the proper officer outside thereof is good.[32]

4. To Whom Payable. Dues must be paid to an officer or agent of the association authorized to receive the same.[33]

E. Forfeiture For Non-Payment — 1. In General. It is competent for building and loan associations, in the absence of statutory or charter inhibitions, to provide in their by-laws for a forfeiture of stock of members who fail for a specified period to pay dues, fines, and assessments.[34] Forfeitures, however, are not favored, and must be created by unambiguous language;[35] and they cannot be

32. Schutte v. California Bldg., etc., Assoc., 146 Pa. St. 324, 23 Atl. 336. See also Louchheim v. Richmond Mut. Bldg., etc., Assoc. No. 1, 16 Pa. Super. Ct. 33 (holding that provisions in the by-laws of a building and loan association that stated monthly meetings of the board of directors shall be held on a day specified, at such hour and such place as the board of directors may designate, for the purpose of receiving from the stockholders the money due the association, and that the secretary shall attend at all meetings of the board of directors, and shall receive all moneys due the association, and pay the same to the treasurer as soon as he has made a record of the same, do not prevent the secretary from receiving moneys at other times and places, thereby binding the association); Tyler v. Old Post Bldg. Assoc., 87 Ind. 323 (where it appeared that the by-laws required dues and assessments to be paid to the secretary at weekly meetings, and also required that officer to give a bond for the faithful performance of his duties, and it was held that the bond covered all moneys received by him in his official character, whether paid at the times required or not).

33. Morrow v. James, 3 Mackey (D. C.) 27 (holding that where a stock-holder pays his dues to an officer who has no authority to receive the money, and such officer fails to pay it over to the association, the stock-holder is not discharged); Van Wagenen v. Genesee Falls Permanent Sav., etc., Assoc., 88 Hun (N. Y.) 43, 34 N. Y. Suppl. 491, 68 N. Y. St. 498 (holding that a loan association is not estopped to deny payment to its secretary on the ground that he was unauthorized to receive the same, because the secretary gave a pass-book to the person who gave him money to pay the association, and because on each occasion the secretary returned it to him with an entry, as of the date of the regular meeting, of the amount given him to pay the association); Killian v. Building, etc., Assoc., 21 Pa. Co. Ct. 58.

A director who receives deposits from members who are employees under him without authority directly or indirectly from the company acts as agent of the members, and not as agent of the association. Hasselmeyer v. Avondale Loan, etc., Co., 10 Ohio S. & C. Pl. Dec. 570, 8 Ohio N. P. 195.

Estoppel of association to deny receipt of funds.— Where moneys left with the secretary were placed with him on the theory that they were deposits in the association upon which interest was to be paid, but the association did not, in fact, receive these deposits, or any part of them, and the secretary did not have authority from the association to receive them for it, and was not held out by the association as having such authority, and the association did not authorize their receipt and did not receive the benefit of them, it is not estopped to deny its liability and it is not bound by the unauthorized acts of the secretary. Christopher Columbus Bldg., etc., Assoc. v. Kriete, 192 Ill. 128, 137, 61 N. E. 510.

34. Alabama.— Southern Bldg., etc., Assoc. v. Anniston L. & T. Co., 101 Ala. 582, 15 So. 123, 46 Am. St. Rep. 138, 29 L. R. A. 120.

California.— Occidental Bldg., etc., Assoc. v. Sullivan, 62 Cal. 394.

Illinois.— Freeman v. Ottawa Bldg., etc., Assoc., 114 Ill. 182, 28 N. E. 611.

Indiana.— Lime City Bldg., etc., Assoc. v. Black, 136 Ind. 544, 35 N. E. 829.

Michigan.— People's Bldg., etc., Assoc. v. Billing, 104 Mich. 186, 62 N. W. 373.

Pennsylvania.— Watkins v. Workingmen's Bldg., etc., Assoc., 97 Pa. St. 514.

South Dakota.— Mueller v. Madison Bldg., etc., Assoc., 11 S. D. 43, 75 N. W. 277.

Tennessee.— Barrows v. Southern Bldg., etc., Assoc., (Tenn. Ch. 1898) 50 S. W. 665.

Texas.— Pioneer Sav., etc., Co. v. Oxford, (Tex. Civ. App. 1896) 35 S. W. 1078.

Virginia.— Nickels v. People's Bldg., etc., Assoc., 93 Va. 380, 25 S. E. 8.

England.— Reg. v. D'Eyncourt, 4 B. & S. 820, 10 Jur. N. S. 513, 28 J. P. 116, 33 L. J. M. C. 89, 9 L. T. Rep. N. S. 712, 3 New Rep. 420, 12 Wkly. Rep. 408, 116 E. C. L. 320; Moore v. Rawlins, 6 C. B. N. S. 289, 28 L. J. C. P. 247, 95 E. C. L. 289; Card v. Carr, 1 C. B. N. S. 197, 26 L. J. C. P. 113, 87 E. C. L. 197.

See 8 Cent. Dig. tit. "Building and Loan Associations," § 69.

35. Occidental Bldg., etc., Assoc. v. Sullivan, 62 Cal. 394. See also Mueller v. Madison Bldg., etc., Assoc., 11 S. D. 43, 75 N. W. 277, holding that a by-law providing for arbitrary forfeiture and cancellation of stock for non-payment of dues and fines can be sustained, if at all, only by force of a statute expressly authorizing such proceeding.

Wrongful forfeiture.— An action to recover the value of stock wrongfully forfeited will lie against the association. Carpenter v American Bldg., etc., Assoc., 54 Minn. 403, 56 N. W. 95, 40 Am. St. Rep. 345; Allen v. American Bldg., etc., Assoc., 49 Minn. 544, 42 N. W. 144, 32 Am. St. Rep. 574.

declared without allowing credit on account of payments previously made on the stock.[36]

2. DECLARATION AND NOTICE OF FORFEITURE. Stock will not be deemed to have been forfeited until action declaring the forfeiture is taken by the association.[37] A forfeiture may be declared, however, without notice to the delinquent member.[38]

3. EFFECT OF FORFEITURE. Where a loan association elects under its contract to forfeit a member's stock for non-payment and to declare the debt due, the shareholder's relation as a member is thereby terminated and he cannot be charged with subsequent fines.[39]

4. WAIVER OF FORFEITURE. A building and loan association may waive, either expressly or impliedly, its right to declare a forfeiture of stock.[40]

VII. OFFICERS AND AGENTS.

A. Compensation. An officer is not entitled to compensation unless the sum is fixed by a legal by-law or resolution.[41]

B. Powers. Officers and directors of building and loan societies possess such powers as are granted by statute, charter, and by-laws, and such as are not inconsistent therewith which are necessary to the discharge of their several offices,[42] but any substantial departure therefrom is ultra vires.[43] Each acts, in a way, as 36. Randall v. National Bldg., etc., Union, 43 Nebr. 876, 62 N. W. 252; Rowland v. Old Dominion Bldg., etc., Assoc., 115 N. C. 825, 18 S. E. 965, 116 N. C. 877, 22 S. E. 8; Pollock v. Carolina Interstate Bldg., etc., Assoc., 51 S. C. 420, 29 S. E. 77, 64 Am. St. Rep. 683. See also Tilley v. American Bldg., etc., Assoc., 52 Fed. 618. Contra, Southern Bldg., etc., Assoc. v. Anniston L. & T. Co., 101 Ala. 582, 15 So. 123, 46 Am. St. Rep. 138, 29 L. R. A. 120; Freeman v. Ottawa Bldg., etc., Assoc., 114 Ill. 182, 28 N. E. 611.

In Minnesota and South Dakota a building association cannot forfeit absolutely to its own use the shares of a member who defaults in the payment of instalments, but must sell such shares, and after indemnifying itself out of the proceeds of such sale pay the balance thereof, if any, to the shareholder. Barton v. Pioneer Sav., etc., Co., 69 Minn. 85, 71 N. W. 906, 65 Am. St. Rep. 549; Henkel v. Pioneer Sav., etc., Co., 61 Minn. 35, 63 N. W. 243; Mueller v. Madison Bldg., etc., Assoc., 11 S. D. 43, 75 N. W. 277.

37. Watkins v. Workingmen's Bldg., etc., Assoc., 97 Pa. St. 514.

38. Freeman v. Ottawa Bldg., etc., Assoc., 114 Ill. 182, 28 N. E. 611. See also People's Bldg., etc., Assoc. v. Billing, 104 Mich. 186, 62 N. W. 373, holding that where the bond given by a member in consideration of a loan provides that, on default in payment of dues on his stock transferred as security, the association may, at its option, declare the stock forfeited, and apply its withdrawal value on the bond, a formal foreclosure is not necessary to such application.

39. Armstrong v. Douglas Park Bldg. Assoc., 176 Ill. 298, 52 N. E. 886.

40. Barrows v. Southern Bldg., etc., Assoc., (Tenn. Ch. 1898) 50 S. W. 665. See also Nickels v. People's Bldg., etc., Assoc., 93 Va. 380, 25 S. E. 8, holding that although under the by-laws a member's stock might have been forfeited on default of payment of dues, the association is not obliged to declare a forfeiture, but has the right to continue the stock in force and to apply any payments to the liquidation of any of its dues against the member.

Acceptance of delinquent dues.— The right of a building society under its by-laws to forfeit the stock of one of its members for non-payment of dues and fines is waived by its acceptance of delinquent dues. Lime City Bldg., etc., Assoc. v. Black, 136 Ind. 544, 35 N. E. 829.

41. Fritze v. Equitable Bldg., etc., Soc., 186 Ill. 183, 57 N. E. 873 [affirming 83 Ill. App. 18]; Myers v. Equitable Bldg., etc., Assoc., 92 Ill. App. 27.

42. Illinois.— Citizens' Sav., etc., Assoc. v. Ruhl, 55 Ill. App. 65, holding that the president and secretary have no authority to withdraw funds from the custody of the treasurer and deposit them elsewhere, where by the society's charter they are required to be kept with the treasurer.

Indiana.— Wohlford v. Citizens' Bldg., etc., Assoc., 140 Ind. 662, 40 N. E. 694, 29 L. R. A. 177.

Massachusetts.— Manahan v. Varnum, 11 Gray (Mass.) 405.

Missouri.— St. Louis Domicile, etc., Assoc. v. Augustin, 2 Mo. App. 123, holding that where a committee is authorized by a resolution of the directors to make collections due the association, it may institute proceedings to collect in the name of the association, without an order specifying the mode of collecting the particular indebtedness, or without any more particular authority in reference thereto.

Pennsylvania.— Harmony Bldg. Assoc. v. Goldbeck, 13 Wkly. Notes Cas. (Pa.) 24.

43. Latimer v. Equitable Loan, etc., Assoc., 78 Mo. App. 463; Re Kent Ben. Bldg. Soc., 1 Drew. & Sm. 417, 7 Jur. N. S. 1045, agent for the society and has power to bind it within the scope of the apparent authority possessed.[44]

C. Liabilities. Officers are not liable for bona fide mistakes of judgment,[45] nor are they insurers of property and money coming into their hands, and are not liable therefor if lost without negligence on their part.[46] They are liable, however, for losses resulting from violation of the by-laws of the society.[47]

VIII. FUNCTIONS AND DEALINGS.

A. In General. Building associations can exercise only such powers as are conferred by the legislative body creating them, either by express terms or by necessary implication.[48]

30 L. J. Ch. 785, 4 L. T. Rep. N. S. 610, 9 Wkly. Rep. 686; Grimes v. Harrison, 26 Beav. 435, 5 Jur. N. S. 528, 23 J. P. 421, 28 L. J. Ch. 823. See also Cullerne v. London, etc., Permanent Bldg. Soc., 25 Q. B. D. 485, 55 J. P. 148, 59 L. J. Q. B. 525, 63 L. T. Rep. N. S. 511, 39 Wkly. Rep. 88.

The president and general manager cannot enter into a contract with the association, through its board of directors, which may be and is intended to yield a profit to him at the expense of and to the detriment of the association. Com. v. Penn Germania Bldg., etc., Assoc., 9 Pa. Dist. 617, 3 Dauph. Co. Rep. (Pa.) 226, 6 Lack. Leg. N. (Pa.) 282.

44. Georgia.— Freeman v. Mutual Bldg., etc., Assoc., 90 Ga. 190, 15 S. E. 758.

Illinois.— Prairie State Loan, etc., Assoc. v. Nubling, 64 Ill. App. 329; Prairie State Loan, etc., Assoc. v. Gorrie, 64 Ill. App. 325.

Indiana.— German-American Bldg. Assoc. v. Droge, 14 Ind. App. 691, 43 N. E. 475.

Michigan.— Sawyer v. Menominee Loan, etc., Assoc., 103 Mich. 228, 61 N. W. 521.

Pennsylvania.— Kilpatrick v. Home Bldg., etc., Assoc., 119 Pa. St. 30, 12 Atl. 754; Gass v. Citizens' Bldg., etc., Assoc., 95 Pa. St. 101; Jones v. National Bldg. Assoc., 94 Pa. St. 215.

Wisconsin.— North Hudson Mut. Bldg., etc., Assoc. v. Hudson First Nat. Bank, 79 Wis. 31, 47 N. W. 300, 11 L. R. A. 845.

See 8 Cent. Dig. tit. "Building and Loan Associations," § 29.

Association not bound by expression of opinion.— A statement by an officer as to how many more payments would have to be made on a note given to secure the payment of a series of small sums for an indefinite time, being, of necessity, but a mere opinion, does not estop the association on an injunction to restrain the foreclosure of a trust deed given in security of the note. Hammerslough v. Kansas City Bldg., etc., Assoc., 79 Mo. 80.

Signing or accepting commercial paper.— A treasurer has no power to create liabilities against the association by signing or accepting commercial paper. Jewett v. West Somerville Co-operative Bank, 173 Mass. 54, 52 N. E. 1085, 73 Am. St. Rep. 259. See also Slattery v. North End Sav. Bank, 175 Mass. 380, 56 N. E. 606.

45. Goodrich v. City Loan, etc., Assoc., 54 Ga. 98; Citizens Bldg., etc., Assoc. v. Coriell, 34 N. J. Eq. 383; Bank of Commerce's Appeal, 73 Pa. St. 59; Com. v. Anchor Bldg., etc., Assoc., 10 Pa. Dist. 167, 4 Dauph. Co. Rep. (Pa.) 15; Cullerne v. London, etc., Permanent Bldg. Soc., 25 Q. B. D. 485, 55 J. P. 148, 59 L. J. Q. B. 525, 63 L. T. Rep. N. S. 511, 39 Wkly. Rep. 88; Sheffield, etc., Permanent Bldg. Soc. v. Aizlewood, 44 Ch. D. 412, 59 L. J. Ch. 34, 62 L. T. Rep. N. S. 678.

46. Mowbray v. Antrim, 123 Ind. 24, 23 N. E. 858; Hibernia Bldg. Assoc. v. McGrath, 154 Pa. St. 296, 32 Wkly. Notes Cas. (Pa.) 233, 26 Atl. 377, 35 Am. St. Rep. 828.

47. Citizens Bldg., etc., Assoc. v. Coriell, 34 N. J. Eq. 383; Cross v. Fisher, [1892] 1 Q. B. 467, 56 J. P. 372, 61 L. J. Q. B. 609, 65 L. T. Rep. N. S. 114, 40 Wkly. Rep. 265; Cullerne v. London, etc., Permanent Bldg. Soc., 25 Q. B. D. 485, 55 J. P. 148, 59 L. J. Q. B. 525, 63 L. T. Rep. N. S. 511, 39 Wkly. Rep. 88; Richardson v. Williamson, L. R. 6 Q. B. 276, 40 L. J. Q. B. 145; In re Oxford Ben. Bldg., etc., Soc., 35 Ch. D. 502, 56 L. J. Ch. 98, 55 L. T. Rep. N. S. 598, 35 Wkly. Rep. 116; Blackburn, etc., Ben. Bldg. Soc. v. Cunliffe, 29 Ch. D. 902, 54 L. J. Ch. 1091, 53 L. T. Rep. N. S. 741.

48. Illinois.— Fritze v. Equitable Bldg., etc., Assoc., 186 Ill. 183, 57 N. E. 873; National Home Bldg., etc., Assoc. v. Home Sav. Bank, 181 Ill. 35, 54 N. E. 619, 72 Am. St. Rep. 245.

Kansas.— Massey v. Citizens' Bldg., etc., Assoc., 22 Kan. 624.

Maryland.— Davis v. West Saratoga Bldg. Union, No. 3, 32 Md. 285.

Minnesota.— National Invest. Co. v. National Sav., etc., Assoc., 49 Minn. 517, 52 N. W. 1381.

Ohio.— Vos v. Cedar Grove Land, etc., Assoc., 8 Ohio Dec. (Reprint) 682, 9 Cinc. L. Bul. 194.

Pennsylvania.— Ashland Banking Co. v. Centralia Mut. Sav. Fund Assoc., 1 Kulp (Pa.) 38.

England.— Small v. Smith, 10 App. Cas. 119.

Investment of funds.— It is an abuse of corporate power for a building association to invest all its funds, leaving nothing with which to pay withdrawing members. National Loan, etc., Assoc. v. Hubley, 34 Leg. Int. (Pa.) 6.

May provide for insuring property.— A so-

B. Acquiring and Trading in Real Estate. Where the statute relating to building and loan societies organized under the general law did not abridge the capacity conferred thereby of taking, holding, or conveying real estate, it has been held that they might do either so far as limited by their charters, or, if not so limited, so far as their business might require.[49] In some states, however, it is held that the business of trading in real estate or acquiring the same, except such as has been mortgaged to them, is wholly foreign to the purposes for which such societies have been created.[50]

C. Assigning Mortgages, Bonds, Etc. In the absence of express prohibition a society has implied power to assign its mortgages, bonds, etc., in payment of or as collateral for a debt,[51] but the statute may prohibit their sale,[52] or regulate the manner of their assignment.[53]

D. Borrowing Money. Where there is an express prohibition against borrowing it must be obeyed,[54] and where borrowing is authorized a borrowing within the limits fixed by the statute or rules will be sustained.[55] Where there is no statutory restriction it has generally been held that the society may borrow when it is reasonably necessary in order to carry out the purposes of its organization,[56] although a borrowing not properly incident to the society's business has been held ultra vires,[57] and the right to borrow money to loan has been expressly denied.[58]

E. Dealing in Own Stock. A building and loan society has no power to traffic in shares of its own stock,[59] at least to the prejudice of its creditors.[60]

F. Dividing and Distributing Funds. A building and loan association has no power to divide or distribute its funds among its members in advance of the distribution at the winding up of the corporation.[61]

G. Doing Banking Business. While a building society may be authorized ciety, authorized by its charter to make a loan and provide for the security of the same, may, as an incident of such right, provide for insuring property taken in security, and an action will lie for a breach of the agreement to insure. Chicago Bldg. Soc. v. Crowell, 65 Ill. 453.

May make contracts for erection of homesteads.— A charter of a building and loan association, authorizing it to aid its members in acquiring and improving land, empowers it to make contracts with members for the erection of homesteads. Heady v. Bexar Bldg., etc., Assoc., (Tex. Civ. App. 1894) 26 S. W. 468.

49. Cahall v. Citizens' Mut. Bldg. Assoc., 61 Ala. 232.

50. National Home Bldg., etc., Assoc. v. Home Sav. Bank, 181 Ill. 35, 54 N. E. 619, 72 Am. St. Rep. 245; Vos v. Cedar Grove Land, etc., Assoc., 8 Ohio Dec. (Reprint) 682, 9 Cinc. L. Bul. 194. See also Faulkner's Appeal, 11 Wkly. Notes Cas. (Pa.) 48.

51. Quein v. Smith, 108 Pa. St. 325; North Hudson Mut. Bldg., etc., Assoc. v. Hudson First Nat. Bank, 79 Wis. 31, 47 N. W. 300, 11 L. R. A. 845.

52. Trowbridge v. Hamilton, 18 Wash. 686, 52 Pac. 328.

53. Bowlley v. Kline, (Ind. App. 1901) 60 N. E. 712.

54. Blackburn Bldg. Soc. v. Cunliffe, 22 Ch. D. 61, 52 L. J. Ch. 92, 48 L. T. Rep. N. S. 33, 31 Wkly. Rep. 98.

55. Maury County Bldg., etc., Assoc. v. Cowley, (Tenn. Ch. 1899) 52 S. W. 312; Bosang v. Iron Belt Bldg., etc., Assoc., 96 Va. 119, 30 S. E. 440; Looker v. Wrigley, 9 Q. B. D. 397, 46 J. P. 758; Laing v. Reed, L. R. 5 Ch. 4, 34 J. P. 134, 39 L. J. Ch. 1, 21 L. T. Rep. N. S. 773, 18 Wkly. Rep. 76.

56. Indiana.— Marion Trust Co. v. Crescent Loan, etc., Co., 27 Ind. App. 451, 61 N. E. 688, 87 Am. St. Rep. 257.

Missouri.—Woerheide v. Johnston, 81 Mo. App. 193.

Pennsylvania.— Heptasoph Bldg., etc., Assoc. v. Linhart, 4 Pa. Dist. 620, 26 Pittsb. L. J. N. S. 94.

Wisconsin.— North Hudson Mut. Bldg., etc., Assoc. v. Hudson First Nat. Bank, 79 Wis. 31, 47 N. W. 300, 11 L. R. A. 845.

England.— Blackburn Bldg. Soc. v. Cunliffe, 22 Ch. D. 61, 52 L. J. Ch. 92, 48 L. T. Rep. N. S. 33, 31 Wkly. Rep. 98; Murray v. Scott, 9 App. Cas. 519, 53 L. J. Ch. 745, 51 L. T. Rep. N. S. 462, 33 Wkly. Rep. 173.

57. Blackburn Bldg. Soc. v. Cunliffe, 22 Ch. D. 61, 52 L. J. Ch. 92, 48 L. T. Rep. N. S. 33, 31 Wkly. Rep. 98.

58. State v. Oberlin Bldg., etc., Assoc., 35 Ohio St. 258. See also Columbus Bldg., etc., Assoc. v. Kriete, 87 Ill. App. 51; Stile's Appeal, 95 Pa. St. 122.

59. State v. Oberlin Bldg., etc., Assoc., 35 Ohio St. 258.

60. Heggie v. People's Bldg., etc., Assoc., 107 N. C. 581, 12 S. E. 275.

61. State v. Oberlin Bldg., etc., Assoc., 35 Ohio St. 258.

to receive deposits and the like,[62] it is ultra vires for an association to do what is practically a banking business without such authority.[63]

H. Loans — 1. Authority to Make — a. In General. A building association has implied authority to loan its accumulated funds to its members.[64]

b. To Non-Members. In the absence of express statutory authority [65] a building association cannot make a loan to one not a member of the association.[66]

c. For Other Than Building Purposes. In the absence of statutory restriction [67] a building association may loan its money for other than building purposes.[68]

62. Criswell's Appeal, 100 Pa. St. 488; Looker v. Wrigley, 9 Q. B. D. 397, 46 J. P. 758.

63. Columbus Bldg., etc., Assoc. v. Kriete, 87 Ill. App. 51; Manufacturers', etc., Sav., etc., Co. v. Conover, 5 Phila. (Pa.) 18, 19 Leg. Int. (Pa.) 116.

Exercise of banking and discounting privilege.— The collection of money from and advancing the same to members, by a building and loan association, is not the exercise of banking powers, within the meaning of a constitutional provision declaring that no act authorizing associations with banking powers shall take effect until it shall be submitted to the people. Forrest City United Land, etc., Assoc. v. Gallagher, 25 Ohio St. 208. See also Schober v. Accommodation Sav. Fund, etc., Assoc., 35 Pa. St. 223 (holding that a loan by a saving-fund society to one of its members, for which security is given, deducting the premium agreed upon for the sum advanced, is not a discount, within the prohibition of a constitutional provision); Sweeney v. El Paso Bldg., etc., Assoc., (Tex. Civ. App. 1894) 26 S. W. 290 [distinguishing Anderson v. Cleburne Bldg., etc., Assoc., (Tex. App. 1890) 16 S. W. 298].

64. Massey v. Citizens' Bldg., etc., Assoc., 22 Kan. 624. See also Kelly v. Mobile Bldg., etc., Assoc., 64 Ala. 501, holding, under a statute authorizing a building and loan association to loan money to shareholders on real estate security, subject to the terms and conditions prescribed by its by-laws, that a loan is not ultra vires, although made in violation of the by-laws. But see Young v. Improvement Loan, etc., Assoc., 48 W. Va. 512, 38 S. E. 670, holding that the statute relating to a building association and its by-laws so far as they touch its loans are a part of the contract of loan made by it, and that where the contract of loan violates such statute or by-laws it is void.

65. Mechanics', etc., Mut. Sav. Bank, etc., Assoc. v. Meriden Agency Co., 24 Conn. 159.

66. California.— McNamara v. Oakland Bldg., etc., Assoc., 131 Cal. 336, 63 Pac. 670.

Illinois.— People's Loan, etc., Assoc. v. Keith, 153 Ill. 609, 39 N. E. 1072, 28 L. R. A. 65.

Indiana.— The fact that a building association exceeded its powers in loaning money to one not a member does not bar a recovery against the latter in an action on a note given for the loan. Poock v. Lafayette Bldg. Assoc., 71 Ind. 357.

Kansas.— St. Joseph, etc., Loan Assoc. v. Thompson, 19 Kan. 321.

Massachusetts.— Howard Mutual Loan, etc., Assoc. v. McIntyre, 3 Allen (Mass.) 571.

Michigan.— Although the by-laws provide that no loan shall be made except to members, the fact that, on a loan being made to a member, the joint bond of the member and one not a member is taken, does not open to them the defense of ultra vires. People's Bldg., etc., Assoc. v. Billing, 104 Mich. 186, 62 N. W. 373.

Minnesota.— National Invest. Co. v. National Sav., etc., Assoc., 49 Minn. 517, 52 N. W. 138.

North Dakota.— Vermont L. & T. Co. v. Whithed, 2 N. D. 82, 49 N. W. 318.

Ohio.— State v. Oberlin Bldg., etc., Assoc., 35 Ohio St. 258; State v. Greenville Bldg., etc., Assoc., 29 Ohio St. 92.

Pennsylvania.— Wolbach v. Lehigh Bldg. Assoc., 84 Pa. St. 211.

Texas.— Anderson v. Cleburne Bldg., etc., Assoc., (Tex. App. 1890) 16 S. W. 298, holding that where a building and loan association made a loan to one not a member by taking his note therefor, the transaction was a discounting, and in violation of a provision of its charter that it should not lend money to any person other than its own members.

See 8 Cent. Dig. tit. "Building and Loan Associations," § 37.

Loan for benefit of third person.— The fact that a loan is obtained from a building association by a member, for the use of a third person, and that it is secured by a trust deed given by such third person, does not vitiate the loan as between the original parties, and the giving of the trust deed does not make the third person a member of the association. Kadish v. Garden City Equitable Loan, etc., Assoc., 151 Ill. 531, 38 N. E. 236, 42 Am. St. Rep. 256 [affirming 47 Ill. App. 602].

67. Pfeister v. Wheeling Bldg. Assoc., 19 W. Va. 676, holding that under the provisions of W. Va. Code, c. 54, it is the duty of a building association to see that money paid by its members on loans is used by such members in buying lots or houses or in building or repairing houses.

68. Kadish v. Garden City Equitable Loan, etc., Assoc., 151 Ill. 531, 38 N. E. 236, 42 Am. St. Rep. 256. See also Hagerman v. Ohio Bldg., etc., Assoc., 25 Ohio St. 186; Johnston v. Elizabeth Bldg., etc., Assoc., 104 Pa. St. 394; Juniata Bldg., etc., Assoc. v. Mixell, 84 Pa. St. 313, which hold that building corporations are not required to ascertain the use to which a member who obtains a loan on his stock intends to apply the money.

d. Estoppel to Question. A borrowing member cannot question the authority of the association to make a loan.[69]

2. Right to Loan. A building association cannot refuse a loan to a member entitled to it under the charter and by-laws of the association, if in the possession of funds properly applicable to that purpose.[70]

3. Nature of Transaction. There is much diversity of opinion as to the nature of the transaction by which a building association loans or advances its funds to members. Some courts regard the transaction as a loan.[71] Others deem it to be a dealing in partnership funds.[72] Others hold it to be an advance on the

69. Victoria Bldg. Assoc. v. Arbeiter Bund, 6 Ohio Dec. (Reprint) 1108, 10 Am. L. Rec. 485; Provident Loan, etc., Assoc. v. Carter, 107 Wis. 383, 83 N. W. 655. See also Lurton v. Jacksonville Loan, etc., Assoc., 187 Ill. 141, 58 N. E. 218 (holding that where the loan is one which the association has power to make and is within the scope of its franchise, neither party who has had the benefit of it can set up as a defense that legal formalities were not complied with, or that the power was improperly exercised); Morrison v. Dorsey, 48 Md. 461.

As to defense of ultra vires see infra, IX, A, 4.

70. Bergman v. St. Paul Mut. Bldg. Assoc. No. 1, 29 Minn. 282, 13 N. W. 122 [following Bergman v. St. Paul Mut. Bldg. Assoc. No. 1, 29 Minn. 275, 13 N. W. 120]; State v. Oberlin Bldg., etc., Assoc., 35 Ohio St. 258; State v. Greenville Bldg., etc., Assoc., 29 Ohio St. 92.

Defective security.— Equity will not compel a building association to lend money to one of its members who has bid off such loan, where the title to the lands offered by such member as security therefor by way of mortgage is pronounced by the association's attorney to be defective and the directors for that reason decline to make the loan. Conklin v. Peoples Bldg., etc., Assoc., 41 N. J. Eq. 20, 2 Atl. 615. See also Conway v. Log Cabin Permanent Bldg. Assoc., 52 Md. 136, where it appeared that plaintiff, a member of a building and loan association, executed a mortgage to it for the purpose of procuring a loan. The mortgage was not accepted by the association, but its counselor, without any authority under the by-laws or constitution, had it recorded. It was held that, as plaintiff was a member of the association, he was bound by its constitution and by-laws, and was therefore not entitled to the loan, it appearing that the association never ratified its counselor's act.

Notice of withdrawal.— Where the articles of association provide that, after notice of withdrawal of shares, the amount thereof shall be refunded to such member as soon as the necessary funds are in the treasury, the association cannot lend any of its funds while withdrawal notices are on file. Wolfe v. Conkey Ave. Sav., etc., Assoc., 75 Hun (N. Y.) 201, 27 N. Y. Suppl. 44, 58 N. Y. St. 656.

71. Idaho.— Fidelity Sav. Assoc. v. Shea, (Ida. 1899) 55 Pac. 1022; Stevens v. Home Sav., etc., Assoc., (Ida. 1898) 51 Pac. 779, 986.

Illinois.— Borrowers', etc., Bldg. Assoc. v. Eklund, 190 Ill. 257, 60 N. E. 521, 52 L. R. A. 637; People's Loan, etc., Assoc. v. Keith, 153 Ill. 609, 39 N. E. 1072, 28 L. R. A. 65; Freeman v. Ottawa Bldg., etc., Assoc., 114 Ill. 182, 28 N. E. 611.

Kentucky.— Simpson v. Kentucky Citizens Bldg., etc., Assoc., 101 Ky. 496, 19 Ky. L. Rep. 1176, 41 S. W. 570, 42 S. W. 834; Henderson Bldg., etc., Assoc. v. Johnson, 88 Ky. 191, 10 Ky. L. Rep. 830, 10 S. W. 787, 3 L. R. A. 289; Herbert v. Kenton Bldg., etc., Assoc., 11 Bush (Ky.) 296.

Louisiana.— American Homestead Co. v. Linigan, 46 La. Ann. 1118, 15 So. 369.

Nebraska.— Livingston Loan, etc., Assoc. v. Drummond, 49 Nebr. 200, 68 N. W. 375; Randall v. National Bldg., etc., Union, 42 Nebr. 809, 60 N. W. 1019, 29 L. R. A. 133; Lincoln Bldg., etc., Assoc. v. Graham, 7 Nebr. 173.

North Carolina.—Meroney v. Atlanta Bldg., etc., Assoc., 116 N. C. 882, 21 S. E. 924, 47 Am. St. Rep. 841; Hoskins v. Mechanics' Bldg., etc., Assoc., 84 N. C. 838; Overby v. Fayetteville Bldg., etc., Assoc., 81 N. C. 41.

South Carolina.—Pollock v. Carolina Interstate Bldg., etc., Assoc., 51 S. C. 420, 29 S. E. 77, 64 Am. St. Rep. 683; Buist v. Bryan, 44 S. C. 121, 21 S. E. 537, 51 Am. St. Rep. 787, 29 L. R. A. 127; Mechanics', etc., Bldg., etc., Assoc. v. Dorsey, 15 S. C. 462; Columbia Bldg., etc., Assoc. v. Bollinger, 12 Rich. Eq. (S. C.) 124, 78 Am. Dec. 463.

Texas.— Jackson v. Cassidy, 68 Tex. 282, 4 S. W. 541.

Utah.— Howells v. Pacific States Sav., etc., Co., 21 Utah 45, 60 Pac. 1025, 81 Am. St. Rep. 659.

Washington.— U. S. Savings, etc., Co. v. Parr, 26 Wash. 115, 66 Pac. 109; Hopkins v. Hale, 23 Wash. 790, 63 Pac. 1134; Hale v. Stenger, 22 Wash. 516, 61 Pac. 156, 63 Pac. 554.

72. Maryland.— Robertson v. American Homestead Assoc., 10 Md. 397, 69 Am. Dec. 145.

Massachusetts.— Delano v. Wild, 6 Allen (Mass.) 1, 83 Am. Dec. 605.

New Hampshire.— Shannon v. Dunn, 43 N. H. 194.

United States.— Tilley v. American Bldg., etc., Assoc., 52 Fed. 618; Johnson v. Potomac Bldg. Assoc., 13 Fed. Cas. No. 7,406, 14 Leg. Int. (Pa.) 393, 2 Quart. L. J. 347.

England.— In re Durham County Permanent Invest., etc., Soc., L. R. 12 Eq. 516, 41 stock to which the borrower expects to be entitled at the termination of the association.[73] Still others consider it as a sale by the borrower of his shares of stock to the association.[74]

4. Construction of Contract. Where there is uncertainty or ambiguity in the terms of a contract for a loan a construction most favorable to the borrower will be adopted.[75]

5. Security — a. In General. The power possessed by a building association to loan its funds carries with it, by implication, the power to take security for the loan.[76]

b. Nature of Security. In the absence of statutory restriction[77] a building association has the power to loan money on the same security as individuals.[78] In making a loan, security on the property of a third person may be taken.[79]

c. Mortgages — (i) Power to Take. A building association has implied power to take a mortgage to secure the repayment of a loan made by it.[80]

L. J. Ch. 124, 25 L. T. Rep. N. S. 83; Silver v. Barnes, 6 Bing. N. Cas. 180, 37 E. C. L. 571; Seagrave v. Pope, 1 De G., M. & G. 783, 16 Jur. 1099, 22 L. J. Ch. 258, 50 Eng. Ch. 605; Burbridge v. Cotton, 5 De G. & Sm. 17, 15 Jur. 1070, 21 L. J. Ch. 201, 8 Eng. L. & Eq. 57.

73. Alabama.— Security Loan Assoc. v. Lake, 69 Ala. 456.

Connecticut.—Curtis v. Granite State Provident Assoc., 69 Conn. 6, 36 Atl. 1023, 61 Am. St. Rep. 17.

Minnesota.— Fagan v. People's Sav., etc., Assoc., 55 Minn. 437, 57 N. W. 142.

Mississippi.— Sullivan v. Jackson Bldg., etc., Assoc., 70 Miss. 94, 12 So. 590.

New Jersey.— Clarksville Bldg., etc., Assoc. v. Stephens, 26 N. J. Eq. 351.

Ohio.— Seventeenth Ward Bldg. Assoc. v. Fitzgerald, 11 Ohio S. & C. Pl. Dec. 133, 8 Ohio N. P. 160.

Oregon.— Washington Invest. Assoc. v. Stanley, 38 Oreg. 319, 63 Pac. 489, 84 Am. St. Rep. 793.

Pennsylvania.—Kupfert v. Guttenberg Bldg. Assoc., 30 Pa. St. 465.

Tennessee.—See Patterson v. Workingmen's Bldg., etc., Assoc., 15 Lea (Tenn.) 677, holding that the transaction is in substance a sale by the member to the association of his expected dividend of his subscription at the winding up of the association for a money advance. Compare Martin v. Nashville Bldg. Assoc., 2 Coldw. (Tenn.) 418.

74. Eastern Bldg., etc., Assoc. v. Olmsted, 16 App. Cas. (D. C.) 387; Armstrong v. U. S. Building, etc., Assoc., 15 App. Cas. (D. C.) 1; Pabst v. Economical Bldg. Assoc., 1 McArthur (D. C.) 385; Parker v. Fulton Loan, etc., Assoc., 46 Ga. 166. See also Michigan Bldg., etc., Assoc. v. McDevitt, 77 Mich. 1, 43 N. W. 760; Winchester Bldg. Assoc. v. Gilbert, 23 Gratt. (Va.) 787; White v. Mechanics' Bldg. Fund Assoc., 22 Gratt. (Va.) 233.

75. Eastern Bldg., etc., Assoc. v. Olmsted, 16 App. Cas. (D. C.) 387.

76. Massey v. Citizens' Bldg., etc., Assoc., 22 Kan. 624.

As to security for payment of fines see supra, VI, B, 4.

An assignment of stock in a building association, absolute in terms, may be shown to be made only as collateral security and not in payment of the note, even though the rules of the association required such an assignment to be absolute in terms. Ginz v. Stumph, 73 Ind. 209.

77. Home Sav., etc., Co. v. Maryland Fidelity, etc., Co., (Iowa 1902) 88 N. W. 821, where it appeared that the articles of a building association prohibited a loan on real estate for more than one half its appraised value. It was held that, although the building association could loan money only on the security prescribed by statute, it could, on receiving an application for a loan exceeding twice the value of the real estate offered as security, take a bond conditioned for the erection of such improvements on the land as would make the real estate exceed twice the loan.

The by-laws of a building association provided that borrowers from it must secure the payment of a loan with legal interest by satisfactory bond or mortgage upon real estate. It was held that both securities might be taken, and that the association was not restricted to the pursuit of one before the other. Juniata Bldg., etc., Assoc. v. Hetzel, 103 Pa. St. 507.

78. Union Bldg. Loan Assoc. v. Masonic Hall Assoc., 29 N. J. Eq. 389.

79. Kadish v. Garden City Equitable Loan, etc., Assoc., 151 Ill. 531, 38 N. E. 236, 42 Am. St. Rep. 256; Massey v. Citizens' Bldg., etc., Assoc., 22 Kan. 624 (where it was held that a building association may loan money to one of its members and take the joint note and mortgage of such member and another person, although the property mortgaged belongs to such other person); Pfeister v. Wheeling Bldg. Assoc., 19 W. Va. 676. See also Johnston v. Elizabeth Bldg., etc., Assoc., 104 Pa. St. 394, holding that where a member of a building association gives a mortgage to it to secure a loan to a fellow member, he is as liable as if the loan had been made to himself, and cannot plead usury in an action on the mortgage.

80. Massey v. Citizens' Bldg., etc., Assoc., 22 Kan. 624.

(II) VALIDITY. A mortgage given by a member to secure a loan based on more shares of the stock of the association than the statute permits a member to own is binding on such member.[81]

(III) ITEMS SECURED. The mortgage executed by a borrowing member may cover not only the loan obtained but assessments,[82] dues,[83] and fines.[84] It may also secure the repayment of any insurance[85] or taxes[86] on the property conveyed by it; but a mortgage which by its terms is for the loan, accruing interest, and dues does not include fines.[87]

(IV) FORECLOSURE — (A) Right to Foreclose — (1) IN GENERAL. Where all the members of a building association, which has been mistaken in its basis of business, by common consent stop paying dues, there is no default as to borrowing members in the sense that the maturity of the mortgages is thereby accelerated under the default clause therein.[88]

81. Victoria Bldg. Assoc. v. Arbeiter Bund, 6 Ohio Dec. (Reprint) 1108, 10 Am. L. Rec. 485.

Loan not effected.— A bond and mortgage executed to a building association by one of its members to secure an anticipated loan cannot, if the loan is not made, be retained as security for items owing by the mortgagor, which were to be deducted from the gross amount of the loan when made, where they were neither given nor received as security for such items. Furey v. K. of P. Bldg., etc., Assoc., (N. J. 1896) 34 Atl. 380.

82. Wohlford v. Citizens' Bldg., etc., Assoc., 140 Ind. 662, 40 N. E. 694, 29 L. R. A. 177.

83. Maryland.— McCahan v. Columbian Bldg. Assoc., 40 Md. 226.

Massachusetts.— Baxter v. McIntire, 13 Gray (Mass.) 168.

New York.— Concordia Sav., etc., Assoc. v. Read, 93 N. Y. 474; Franklin Bldg. Assoc. v. Mather, 4 Abb. Pr. (N. Y.) 274.

Ohio.— Hagerman v. Ohio Bldg., etc., Assoc., 25 Ohio St. 186.

West Virginia.— Parker v. U. S. Building, etc., Assoc., 19 W. Va. 769.

Compare Eastern Bldg., etc., Assoc. v. Olmsted, 16 App. Cas. (D. C.) 387; Fagan v. People's Sav., etc., Assoc., 55 Minn. 437, 57 N. W. 142; Beso v. Eastern Bldg., etc., Assoc., 201 Pa. St. 355, 50 Atl. 953.

See 8 Cent. Dig. tit. "Building and Loan Associations," § 72.

Maturity of loan.— Where a mortgage to a building association is conditioned to repay a loan, and also to pay the monthly dues of the mortgagor as a member of the association, and the loan matures and is fully repaid, the association may use the mortgage to enforce the payment of the dues. Loan Co. v. Everham, 5 Phila. (Pa.) 62, 19 Leg. Int. (Pa.) 260.

84. Massachusetts.— Baxter v. McIntire, 13 Gray (Mass.) 168.

Minnesota.— Fagan v. People's Sav., etc., Assoc., 55 Minn. 437, 57 N. W. 142.

New York.— Concordia Sav., etc., Assoc. v. Read, 93 N. Y. 474.

Ohio.— Hagerman v. Ohio Bldg., etc., Assoc., 25 Ohio St. 186.

Pennsylvania.— Everham v. Oriental Sav., etc., Assoc., 47 Pa. St. 352.

West Virginia.— Parker v. U. S. Building, etc., Assoc., 19 W. Va. 769.

England.— Provident Permanent Bldg. Soc. v. Greenhill, 9 Ch. D. 122, 38 L. T. Rep. N. S. 140, 27 Wkly. Rep. 110.

See also supra, VI, B, 4.

85. Parker v. U. S. Building, etc., Assoc., 19 W. Va. 769. But see Butler v. Mutual Aid, etc., Co., 94 Ga. 562, 20 S. E. 101, holding that a building and loan company cannot, in an action on bonds given to it for a loan, recover expenditures for insurance, unless alleged or claimed in the declaration.

86. Huntington Bldg. Assoc. v. Melsheimer, 14 Wkly. Notes Cas. (Pa.) 344; Parker v. U. S. Building, etc., Assoc., 19 W. Va. 769.

87. Bowen v. Lincoln Bldg., etc., Assoc., 51 N. J. Eq. 272, 28 Atl. 67; Hazel Loan, etc., Assoc. v. Groesbeck, 17 Phila. (Pa.) 242, 41 Leg. Int. (Pa.) 16. See also Hamilton Bldg. Assoc. v. Reynolds, 5 Duer (N. Y.) 671, holding that a mortgage to a building association in the usual form is a valid security for the stipulated monthly payments only and not for fines or other dues to the association.

88. Hinman v. Ryan, 3 Ohio Cir. Ct. 529. See also Sumter Bldg., etc., Assoc. v. Winn, 45 S. C. 381, 23 S. E. 29, holding that a building and loan association, which voluntarily closes its business, in violation of its charter and by-laws, requiring its continuance for ten years, unless within that time each share of one hundred dollars shall, by its earnings, reach the value of two hundred dollars, forfeits its right to foreclose a mortgage given to secure the purchase of its stock or to collect monthly instalments subsequently becoming due by the contract of sale.

A building and loan association organized under a void statute cannot enforce a mortgage given by one of its stock-holders to secure a loan, but a receiver may obtain an accounting in equity for the debt. Burton v. Schildbach, 45 Mich. 504, 8 N. W. 497.

Failure to sign constitution.— The failure of one who has for a long time acted as a member of an association to sign the constitution as required by statute will not prevent the association from enforcing a deed of trust executed by him to secure the payment of dues, as well as the repayment of a loan. Parker v. U. S. Building, etc., Assoc., 19 W. Va. 744.

(2) ON DEFAULT. Although the mortgage provides that the entire amount secured thereby shall become at once due and payable on default for a specified time in the payment of interest and instalments, the association is not compelled to act at the expiration of the specified time in order to protect its rights.[89]

(3) ON INSOLVENCY. On the insolvency of the association a mortgage given by a borrowing member to secure a loan becomes due and may be foreclosed.[90]

(B) Time of Foreclosure. Where at the time of borrowing it is estimated that the stock will mature and pay the loan in a certain time and a note is given, payable in such time, a mortgage given to secure such note may be foreclosed at the expiration of such time, even though such stock has not then matured.[91]

(C) Pleading. A complaint by a building and loan association to foreclose a mortgage need not exhibit a copy of its constitution and by-laws.[92]

(D) Evidence. In an action to foreclose, the certificate of stock held by the borrower in the association and which is referred to in the note and mortgage is admissible.[93]

The incorporation of an unincorporated loan-fund association does not affect the right of its trustees to maintain an action on a mortgage bond previously given to them. Merrill v. McIntire, 13 Gray (Mass.) 157.

89. U. S. Savings, etc., Co. v. Cade, 15 Wash. 38, 45 Pac. 656, holding that the association is entitled to an accounting in accordance with the original contract to the time when it elects to foreclose.

90. Home Sav., etc., Assoc. v. Mason, 127 Mich. 676, 87 N. W. 74; Breed v. Ruoff, 54 N. Y. App. Div. 142, 66 N. Y. Suppl. 422; Strauss v. Carolina Inter State Bldg., etc., Assoc., 117 N. C. 308, 23 S. E. 450, 53 Am. St. Rep. 585, 30 L. R. A. 693, 118 N. C. 556, 24 S. E. 116; Buist v. Fitzsimons, 44 S. C. 130, 21 S. E. 610. But see Buist v. Bryan, 44 S. C. 121, 21 S. E. 537, 51 Am. St. Rep. 787, 29 L. R. A. 127, holding that where the monthly payments of dues and interest made by a stock-holder who had bid in an advance of stock, and executed a bond and mortgage for its payment, aggregated, at the time of the appointment of a receiver for the association, a sum equal to that for which the mortgage was given, an action to foreclose the mortgage could not be maintained.

Foreclosure by receiver.— Although the appointment of a receiver for a building and loan association causes the debts due it by borrowing members and the mortgage securities to mature, yet the receivers cannot foreclose the same under the power of sale contained in the mortgage, the association alone being authorized to foreclose by sale. Strauss v. Carolina Inter State Bldg., etc., Assoc., 117 N. C. 308, 23 S. E. 450, 53 Am. St. Rep. 585, 30 L. R. A. 693, 118 N. C. 556, 24 S. E. 116.

91. Kinney v. Columbia Sav., etc., Assoc., 113 Fed. 359.

Limitations.— Where a borrowing member, in order to secure the loan, gave a deed of trust and a note, the note being payable one day after date, and no time for payment fixed in the trust deed, it being understood that the loan should be paid by the maturity of the borrower's stock, limitations did not run against the trust deed until the insolvency of the association; there having been no default in the payment of dues or interest by the borrower prior thereto, and the stock not having reached maturity. Johnston v. Grosvenor, 105 Tenn. 353, 59 S. W. 1028.

Premature foreclosure.—Where the by-laws provided that, in case of non-payment of instalments of interest, premiums, and fines by borrowing stock-holders for the space of six months, the directors may compel payment of principal and interest by proceeding on the bond or mortgage, and the by-law was made a part of defendant's mortgage, and defendant defaulted in the payment of his dues on the second Monday in April, an action to foreclose the mortgage filed on September 21 was premature. Provident Loan, etc., Assoc. v. Carter, 107 Wis. 383, 83 N. W. 655.

92. Newman v. Ligonier Bldg., etc., Assoc., 97 Ind. 295.

In Georgia where a declaration in an action against a borrowing member on a bond secured by deed to land contains a complete statement of the account between the parties, the notice required by Ga. Code, § 3968*a*, as to the status of the account, may be dispensed with. Hawkins v. Americus Nat. Bldg., etc., Assoc., 96 Ga. 206, 22 S. E. 711.

Declaration of default.— Under a by-law of a building association providing that, in case of non-payment of interest and fines by a borrowing stock-holder for a period of six months, payment of the principal, interest, and fines may be enforced by legal proceedings against the security, upon the order of the board of directors, an allegation in a bill to foreclose a mortgage given by a stock-holder that default in making such payments had continued for more than six months, and that by reason thereof the association had elected to declare the whole sum immediately due and payable, is a sufficient allegation that proper action to that end had been taken by the directors, where defendant treats it as sufficient, and by his answer joins issue on the question as one of fact. Cantwell v. Welch, 187 Ill. 275, 58 N. E. 414.

93. U. S. Savings., etc., Assoc. v. Cade, 15 Wash. 38, 45 Pac. 656.

Maturity of stock.— It is error to exclude evidence that the series of stock to which de-

(v) ASSIGNMENT. An agreement whereby a mortgage given to a building and loan association to secure dues, fines, and assessments made on the mortgagor's stock is assigned to a third person, in consideration of his agreement to pay such dues, fines, and assessments, is valid.[94]

d. Recourse to Stock Security. Where a borrowing member gives as security for a loan a mortgage on land belonging to a person not a member and also assigns to the association his stock, recourse must first be had to the stock for payment of the loan.[95]

6. PREMIUMS — a. Definition. A premium is a bonus charged to a member wishing to borrow, for the privilege of anticipating the ultimate value of his stock, by obtaining the immediate use of the money his stock will be worth at the end of the period contemplated by the parties to the transaction.[96]

b. Right to Take. The fact that a member in taking a loan for the amount of his stock agrees to pay a premium, does not, according to some authorities, render the contract usurious.[97] Other authorities, however, hold that the exacfendant belonged had matured and that it was worth a sum equaling the amount of the bond, as these facts, if true, are equivalent to a payment of the bond. Charles Tyrrell Loan, etc., Assoc. v. Haley, 139 Pa. St. 476, 27 Wkly. Notes Cas. (Pa.) 244, 20 Atl. 1063, 23 Am. St. Rep. 199.

94. Eigenman v. Rockport Bldg., etc., Assoc., 79 Ind. 41.

95. Massey v. Citizens Bldg., etc., Assoc., 22 Kan. 624. See also Phillipsburg Mut. Loan, etc., Assoc. v. Hawk, 27 N. J. Eq. 355, holding that where stock is assigned by a shareholder in a loan and building association as collateral security for a loan to him by the association, also secured by a mortgage, which is the first upon the premises mortgaged, such stock must, as between the association and the holder of a second mortgage on the same premises, be applied to the payment of the mortgage before recourse is had to the land; and this equity is not defeated by a levy on the stock under a judgment against the mortgagor.

The right of an association taking an assignment of a member's shares of stock as collateral security for a loan, for which the member had also given a mortgage, to appropriate such shares, at their maturity, to the satisfaction of the loan, instead of exhausting the security furnished by the mortgage, is not affected by an attachment of the stock by a judgment creditor of the member. Hemperley v. Tyson, 170 Pa. St. 385, 37 Wkly. Notes Cas. (Pa.) 301, 32 Atl. 1081. See also Early's Appeal, 89 Pa. St. 411, holding that where a shareholder in a building association has assigned his stock to the association as security for a loan, which is also secured by a judgment, he may elect, on sale of his real estate by the sheriff, to have the value of the stock deducted from the amount of the judgment before such judgment, is permitted to share in the proceeds of the real estate.

96. Curtis v. Granite State Provident Assoc., 69 Conn. 6, 11, 36 Atl. 1023, 61 Am. St. Rep. 17 [citing Endlich Bldg. Assoc. (2d ed.) § 399].

Other definitions are: "The difference, estimated by the association and its borrowing member, between the par value of the member's shares of stock and their present real value." Sullivan v. Jackson Bldg., etc., Assoc., 70 Miss. 94, 99, 12 So. 590 [quoted in Washington Invest Assoc. v. Stanley, 38 Oreg. 319, 334, 63 Pac. 489, 84 Am. St. Rep. 793].

"A bonus which a member agrees to pay, in competition with fellow-members, for the privilege of having an advance made to him, by way of loan, of the par value of his stock." Seventeenth Ward Bldg. Assoc. v. Fitzgerald, 11 Ohio S. & C. Pl. Dec. 133, 134, 8 Ohio N. P. 160.

"A bonus in reality, or a definite fixed sum or amount agreed upon between the contracting parties — the association and the borrower." Washington Invest. Assoc. v. Stanley, 38 Oreg. 319, 335, 63 Pac. 489, 84 Am. St. Rep. 793.

"The conventional difference between the par value of the share advanced and the amount actually received by the borrower." Endlich Bldg. Assoc. § 388 [quoted in Washington Invest. Assoc. v. Stanley, 38 Oreg. 319, 334, 63 Pac. 489, 84 Am. St. Rep. 793].

"The amount which a stockholder, desiring to borrow, is willing to pay for the privilege of anticipating the ultimate value of his stock, by obtaining at once the use of the amount of money his stock will be worth when the association is wound up." Thornton & Blackl. Bldg. & L. Assoc. § 222 [quoted in Washington Invest. Assoc. v. Stanley, 38 Oreg. 319, 334, 63 Pac. 489, 84 Am. St. Rep. 793].

"A bonus charged to a stockholder wishing to borrow, for the privilege of anticipating the ultimate value of his stock by obtaining the immediate use of the money his stock will be worth at the winding up." Wrigley's "The Workingman's Way to Wealth," 67 [quoted in Washington Invest. Assoc. v. Stanley, 38 Oreg. 319, 333, 63 Pac. 489, 84 Am. St. Rep. 793].

97. Alabama.— Beyer v. National Bldg., etc., Assoc., 131 Ala. 369, 31 So. 113; Pioneer Sav., etc., Co. v. Nonnemacher, 127 Ala. 521, 30 So. 79; Sheldon v. Birmingham Bldg., etc., Assoc., 121 Ala. 278, 25 So. 820; Security

tion by the association of such a premium in addition to the legal rate of interest has such effect.[98]

Loan Assoc. v. Lake, 69 Ala. 456; Montgomery Mut. Bldg., etc., Assoc. v. Robinson, 69 Ala. 413.

Arkansas.— Taylor v. Van Buren Bldg. Assoc., 56 Ark. 340, 19 S. W. 918.

Connecticut.— Mechanics', etc., Mut. Sav. Bank, etc., Assoc. v. Wilcox, 24 Conn. 147.

District of Columbia.— Mulloy v. Fifth Ward Bldg. Assoc., 2 McArthur (D. C.) 594.

Georgia.— Redwine v. Gate City Loan, etc., Assoc., 54 Ga. 474; Parker v. Fulton Loan, etc., Assoc., 46 Ga. 166.

Illinois.— Jamieson v. Jurgens, 195 Ill. 86, 62 N. E. 917; Borrowers', etc., Bldg. Assoc. v. Eklund, 190 Ill. 257, 60 N. E. 521, 52 L. R. A. 637; Holmes v. Smythe, 100 Ill. 413; Rhodes v. Missouri Sav., etc., Co., 63 Ill. App. 77; Conservative Bldg., etc., Assoc. v. Cady, 55 Ill. App. 469.

Indiana.— U. S. Savings, etc., Co. v. Rider, 155 Ind. 704, 58 N. E. 674; International Bldg., etc., Assoc. v. Wall, 153 Ind. 554, 55 N. E. 431; Kenner v. Whitelock, 152 Ind. 635, 53 N. E. 232; McLaughlin v. Citizens Bldg., etc., Assoc., 62 Ind. 264.

Kansas.— Massey v. Citizens' Bldg., etc., Assoc., 22 Kan. 624.

Louisiana.—American Homestead Co. v. Linigan, 46 La. Ann. 1118, 15 So. 369.

Massachusetts.— Merrill v. McIntire, 13 Gray (Mass.) 157.

Michigan.— People's Bldg., etc., Assoc. v. Billing, 104 Mich. 186, 62 N. W. 373.

Minnesota.— Central Bldg., etc., Assoc. v. Lampson, 60 Minn. 422, 62 N. W. 544.

Mississippi.— Sullivan v. Jackson Bldg., etc., Assoc., 70 Miss. 94, 12 So. 590.

Missouri.—Fry v. Missouri Guarantee Sav., etc., Assoc., 88 Mo. App. 289; Fowles v. Ætna Loan Co., 86 Mo. App. 103; State v. Stockton, 85 Mo. App. 477; Miller v. Missouri Guarantee Sav., etc., Assoc., 83 Mo. App. 669; Barnes v. Missouri Guarantee Sav., etc., Assoc., 83 Mo. App. 466; Brown v. Archer, 62 Mo. App. 277.

Nebraska.— South Omaha Loan, etc., Assoc. v. Wirrick, (Nebr. 1902) 88 N. W. 694; Livingston Loan, etc., Assoc. v. Drummond, 49 Nebr. 200, 68 N. W. 375.

New Hampshire.— Shannon v. Dunn, 43 N. H. 194.

New Jersey.— Bowen v. Lincoln Bldg., etc., Assoc., 51 N. J. Eq. 272, 28 Atl. 67; People's Bldg., etc., Assoc. v. Furey, 47 N. J. Eq. 410, 20 Atl. 890.

New York.— Concordia Sav., etc., Assoc. v. Read, 93 N. Y. 474; Citizens' Mut. Loan, etc., Assoc. v. Webster, 25 Barb. (N. Y.) 263.

North Dakota.— Vermont L. & T. Co. v. Whithed, 2 N. D. 82, 49 N. W. 318.

Ohio.— State v. Oberlin Bldg., etc., Assoc., 35 Ohio St. 258; State v. Greenville Bldg., etc., Assoc., 29 Ohio St. 92.

Oregon.— Washington Invest. Assoc. v. Stanley, 38 Oreg. 319, 63 Pac. 489, 84 Am. St. Rep. 793.

Pennsylvania.— Stiles' Appeal, 95 Pa. St. 122.

South Dakota.— Co-operative Sav., etc., Assoc. v. Fawick, 11 S. D. 589, 79 N. W. 847.

Tennessee.— McCauley v. Workingman's Bldg., etc., Assoc., 97 Tenn. 421, 37 S. W. 212, 56 Am. St. Rep. 813, 35 L. R. A. 244; Post v. Building., etc., Assoc., 97 Tenn. 408, 37 S. W. 216, 34 L. R. A. 201; Pioneer, etc., Loan Co. v. Cannon, 96 Tenn. 599, 36 S. W. 386, 54 Am. St. Rep. 858, 33 L. R. A. 112; Patterson v. Workingmen's Bldg., etc., Assoc., 14 Lea (Tenn.) 677.

West Virginia.— McConnell v. Cox, 50 W. Va. 469, 40 S. E. 349; Floyd v. National Loan, etc., Co., 49 W. Va. 327, 38 S. E. 653, 87 Am. St. Rep. 805, 54 L. R. A. 536; Gray v. Baltimore Bldg., etc., Assoc., 48 W. Va. 164, 37 S. E. 533, 54 L. R. A. 217.

United States.— Manship v. New South Bldg., etc., Assoc., 110 Fed. 845; Hieronymus v. New York Nat. Bldg., etc., Assoc., 101 Fed. 12 [affirmed in 107 Fed. 1005, 46 C. C. A. 684]; Johnson v. Potomac Bldg. Assoc., 13 Fed. Cas. No. 7,406, 14 Leg. Int. (Pa.) 393, 2 Quart. L. J. 347.

See 8 Cent. Dig. tit. "Building and Loan Associations," § 43.

A foreign building association may contract for premiums and fines in addition to legal interest upon money loaned on stock when so authorized by the law of the state of its creation. Freie v. No. 4 Fidelity Bldg., etc., Union, 166 Ill. 128, 46 N. E. 784, 57 Am. St. Rep. 123.

98. Iowa.— Burlington Mut. Loan Assoc. v. Heider, 55 Iowa 424, 5 N. W. 578, 7 N. W. 686; Hawkeye Ben., etc., Assoc. v. Blackburn, 48 Iowa 385. See also Wilcoxen v. Smith, 107 Iowa 555, 78 N. W. 217, 70 Am. St. Rep. 220; Iowa Sav., etc., Assoc. v. Heidt, 107 Iowa 297, 77 N. W. 1050, 70 Am. St. Rep. 197, 43 L. R. A. 689.

Kentucky.— Safety Bldg., etc., Co. v. Ecklar, 106 Ky. 115, 20 Ky. L. Rep. 1770, 50 S. W. 50; Simpson v. Kentucky Citizens', Bldg., etc., Assoc., 101 Ky. 496, 19 Ky. L. Rep. 1176, 41 S. W. 570, 42 S. W. 834; U. S. Savings, etc., Co. v. Scott, 98 Ky. 695, 17 Ky. L. Rep. 1244, 34 S. W. 235; Gordon v. Winchester Bldg., etc., Assoc., 12 Bush (Ky.) 110, 23 Am. Rep. 713; Bull v. Safety Bldg., etc., Co., 22 Ky. L. Rep. 852, 58 S. W. 984; Mack v. Workingmen's Bldg., etc., Assoc., 5 Ky. L. Rep. 520.

Maryland.— White v. Williams, 90 Md. 719, 45 Atl. 1001; Geiger v. Eighth German Bldg. Assoc., 58 Md. 569; Citizens' Security, etc., Co. v. Uhler, 48 Md. 455.

North Carolina.— Rowland v. Old Dominion Bldg., etc., Assoc., 116 N. C. 877, 22 S. E. 8; Mills v. Salisbury Bldg., etc., Assoc., 75 N. C. 292.

South Carolina.— Mechanics', etc., Bldg., etc., Assoc. v. Dorsey, 15 S. C. 462; Columbia Bldg., etc., Assoc. v. Bollinger, 12 Rich. Eq. (S. C.) 124, 78 Am. Dec. 463.

c. Determination by Competitive Bidding — (I) In General. The rule obtains in some states that if the premium charged for a loan is not the result of open competitive bidding the transaction will be usurious if the total amount paid for the use of the money exceeds the legal rate of interest.[99] Statutes in other states permit a building association to agree with a borrower on a given rate of premium for preference in procuring a loan without bidding therefor.[1]

(II) Manner of Making Bid. A letting of loans may be made as well by written as by oral bids.[2] A prospective borrower may also appoint an agent to bid for him.[3]

d. Interest on Premium. Some authorities hold that interest cannot be collected on the premium, although stipulated for in the contract.[4] Other authori-

Texas.— International Bldg., etc., Assoc. v. Biering, 86 Tex. 476, 25 S. W. 622, 26 S. W. 39; Abbott v. International Bldg., etc., Assoc., 86 Tex. 467, 25 S. W. 620; Bexar Bldg., etc., Assoc. v. Robinson, 78 Tex. 163, 14 S. W. 227, 22 Am. St. Rep. 36, 9 L. R. A. 292; Jackson v. Cassidy, 68 Tex. 282, 4 S. W. 541; State Nat. L. & T. Co. v. Fuller, (Tex. Civ. App. 1901) 63 S. W. 552.

99. Illinois.— Jamieson v. Jurgens, 195 Ill. 86, 62 N. E. 917 [affirming 97 Ill. App. 557]; Borrowers', etc., Bldg. Assoc. v. Eklund, 190 Ill. 257, 60 N. E. 521, 52 L. R. A. 637; Wightman v. Suddard, 93 Ill. App. 142; Forsell v. Suddard, 90 Ill. App. 407.

Iowa.— See Iowa Sav., etc., Assoc. v. Heidt, 107 Iowa 297, 77 N. W. 1050, 70 Am. St. Rep. 197, 43 L. R. A. 689.

Missouri.—Fry v. Missouri Guarantee Sav., etc., Assoc., 88 Mo. App. 289; Fowles v. Ætna Loan Co., 86 Mo. App. 103; State v. Stockton, 85 Mo. App. 477; Clark v. Missouri Guarantee Sav., etc., Assoc., 85 Mo. App. 388; Miller v. Missouri Guarantee Sav., etc., Assoc., 83 Mo. App. 669; Barnes v. Missouri Guarantee Sav., etc., Assoc., 83 Mo. App. 466; Brown v. Archer, 62 Mo. App. 277.

Nebraska.—South Omaha Loan, etc., Assoc. v. Wirrick, (Nebr. 1902) 88 N. W. 694.

Ohio.— State v. Oberlin Bldg., etc., Assoc., 35 Ohio St. 258; State v. Greenville Bldg., etc., Assoc., 29 Ohio St. 92.

Oregon.— Washington Invest. Assoc. v. Stanley, 38 Oreg. 319, 63 Pac. 489, 84 Am. St. Rep. 793.

Pennsylvania.— Stiles' Appeal, 95 Pa. St. 122.

Tennessee.— McCauley v. Workingman's Bldg., etc., Assoc., 97 Tenn. 421, 37 S. W. 212, 56 Am. St. Rep. 813, 35 L. R. A. 244; Post v. Building, etc., Assoc., 97 Tenn. 408, 37 S. W. 216, 34 L. R. A. 201.

United States.— Coltrane v. Baltimore Bldg., etc., Assoc., 110 Fed. 293.

See 8 Cent. Dig. tit. "Building and Loan Associations," § 46.

Estoppel to question.— One who bids for a loan at a specified premium which is accepted and upon which the money is loaned in good faith is estopped to deny the validity of the loan, on the ground that there was no competitive bidding. McNamara v. Oakland Bldg., etc., Assoc., 131 Cal. 336, 63 Pac. 670; Lurton v. Jacksonville Loan, etc., Assoc., 187 Ill. 141, 58 N. E. 218. See also Tootle v. Singer, (Iowa 1901) 88 N. W. 446; State v. Stockton, 85 Mo. App. 477.

Transfer of loan.— Where one obtains a loan from a building association, it is not necessary that on transfer of the debt to another association and the giving it a new note and mortgage there should be a competitive sale of money by the latter association, as in case of a new loan. Palmer v. Bosley, (Tenn. Ch. 1900) 62 S. W. 195.

1. U. S. Savings, etc., Co. v. Rider, 155 Ind. 704, 58 N. E. 674. See also New Jersey Bldg., etc., Co. v. Bachelor, 54 N. J. Eq. 600, 35 Atl. 745; Manship v. New South Bldg., etc., Assoc., 110 Fed. 845.

In South Dakota a building association may fix a premium below which no bid for a loan will be accepted. Co-operative Sav., etc., Assoc. v. Fawick, 11 S. D. 589, 79 N. W. 847.

In West Virginia a building association may fix a minimum premium payable in advance or in periodical instalments, but such premium must be a lump sum, certain and definite, and not a percentage payable indefinitely at fixed periods. McConnell v. Cox, 50 W. Va. 469, 40 S. E. 349; Floyd v. National Loan, etc., Co., 49 W. Va. 327, 38 S. E. 653, 87 Am. St. Rep. 805, 54 L. R. A. 536; Gray v. Baltimore Bldg., etc., Assoc., 48 W. Va. 164, 37 S. E. 533, 54 L. R. A. 217.

Under a statute providing that a building association may loan its funds on such conditions as are prescribed by its by-laws, a building association is not required to loan to the highest bidder or call for bids unless its by-laws so prescribe. Beyer v. National Bldg., etc., Assoc., 131 Ala. 369, 31 So. 113.

2. Farmers Sav., etc., Assoc. v. Kent, 131 Ala. 246, 30 So. 874; Ruppel v. Missouri Guarantee, etc., Assoc., 158 Mo. 613, 59 S. W. 1000; State v. Stockton, 85 Mo. App. 477; Miller v. Missouri Guarantee Sav., etc., Assoc., 83 Mo. App. 669; Edinger v. Missouri Guarantee Sav., etc., Assoc., 83 Mo. App. 615; Barnes v. Missouri Guarantee Sav., etc., Assoc., 83 Mo. App. 466; Hughes v. Farmers' Sav., etc., Assoc., (Tenn. Ch. 1897) 46 S. W. 362.

3. State v. Stockton, 85 Mo. App. 477.

4. Iowa.— Burlington Mut. Loan Assoc. v. Heider, 55 Iowa 424, 5 N. W. 578, 7 N. W. 686; Hawkeye Ben., etc., Assoc. v. Blackburn, 48 Iowa 385.

Mississippi.— Goodman v. Durant Bldg., ties are to the effect that where the taking of premiums is not illegal the reserving of interest thereon is proper.[5]

7. INTEREST AND USURY — a. Right to Reserve Interest. A building association has implied power to reserve interest upon loans made by it.[6]

b. Usury[7] — (I) IN GENERAL. On the question of usury in loans made by building associations the authorities are not harmonious. Some hold that a loan in the usual form is not usurious, although the borrower may be required to pay a greater price for the use of the money advanced to him than would be allowable under the statute regulating the rate of interest.[8] Others are to the effect that a etc., Assoc., 71 Miss. 310, 14 So. 146; Sullivan v. Jackson Bldg., etc., Assoc., 70 Miss. 94, 12 So. 590.

Ohio.— Risk v. Delphos Bldg., etc., Assoc., 31 Ohio St. 517; Forrest City United Land, etc., Assoc. v. Gallagher, 25 Ohio St. 208.

South Carolina.— Columbia Bldg., etc., Assoc. v. Bollinger, 12 Rich. Eq. (S. C.) 124, 78 Am. Dec. 463.

Texas.— Jackson v. Cassidy, 68 Tex. 282, 4 S. W. 541.

Virginia.—Edelin v. Pascoe, 22 Gratt. (Va.) 826.

West Virginia.— Pfeister v. Wheeling Bldg. Assoc., 19 W. Va. 676.

See 8 Cent. Dig. tit. "Building and Loan Associations," § 47.

5. Alabama.— Montgomery Mut. Bldg., etc., Assoc. v. Robinson, 69 Ala. 413.

Connecticut.— West Winsted Sav. Bank, etc., Assoc. v. Ford, 27 Conn. 282, 71 Am. Dec. 66.

Georgia.—Bibb County Loan Assoc. v. Richards, 21 Ga. 592.

Nebraska.— Livingston Loan, etc., Assoc. v. Drummond, 49 Nebr. 200, 68 N. W. 375.

New Jersey.— Bowen v. Lincoln Bldg., etc., Assoc., 51 N. J. Eq. 272, 28 Atl. 67.

New York.— Citizens' Mut. Loan, etc., Assoc. v. Webster, 25 Barb. (N. Y.) 263.

North Dakota.— Vermont L. & T. Co. v. Whithed, 2 N. D. 82, 49 N. W. 318.

Compare Birmingham v. Maryland Land, etc., Assoc., 45 Md. 541.

6. City Bldg., etc., Co. v. Fatty, 1 Abb. Dec. (N. Y.) 347, 4 Transcr. App. (N. Y.) 311.

As to interest on premium see supra, VIII, H, 6, d.

Refusal of application.— A custom of a building association to charge interest on money bid by a borrower whose application for a loan is subsequently refused is not a binding custom. Winterer v. Fairmount Bldg. Assoc., 19 Phila. (Pa.) 426, 44 Leg. Int. (Pa.) 122.

7. As to usury in exaction of premium see supra, VIII, H, 6, b.

8. Alabama.— Farmers Sav., etc., Assoc. v. Kent, 131 Ala. 246, 30 So. 874; Interstate Bldg., etc., Assoc. v. Brown, 128 Ala. 462, 29 So. 656; National Bldg., etc., Assoc. v. Ballard, 126 Ala. 155, 27 So. 971; Johnson v. National Bldg., etc., Assoc., 125 Ala. 465, 28 So. 2, 82 Am. St. Rep. 257; Sheldon v. Birmingham Bldg., etc., Assoc., 121 Ala. 278, 25 So. 820.

Arkansas.— Farmers' Sav., etc., Assoc. v. Ferguson, 69 Ark. 352, 63 S. W. 797; Reeve v. Ladies' Bldg. Assoc., 56 Ark. 335, 19 S. W. 917, 18 L. R. A. 129.

Connecticut.— West Winsted Sav., etc., Assoc. v. Ford, 27 Conn. 282, 71 Am. Dec. 66. Compare Mechanics', etc., Mut. Sav. Bank, etc., Assoc. v. Wilcox, 24 Conn. 147.

District of Columbia.— Burns v. Metropolitan Bldg. Assoc., 3 Mackey (D. C.) 333; Mulloy v. Fifth Ward Bldg. Assoc., 2 McArthur (D. C.) 594; Pabst v. Economical Bldg. Assoc., 1 McArthur (D. C.) 385.

Georgia.—Morgan v. Interstate Bldg., etc., Assoc., 108 Ga. 185, 33 S. E. 964; Cook v. Equitable Bldg., etc., Assoc., 104 Ga. 814, 30 S. E. 911; Goodrich v. Atlanta Nat. Bldg., etc., Assoc., 96 Ga. 803, 22 S. E. 585; Hawkins v. Americus Nat. Bldg., etc., Assoc., 96 Ga. 206, 22 S. E. 711; Parker v. Fulton Loan, etc., Assoc., 46 Ga. 166; Bibb County Loan Assoc. v. Richards, 21 Ga. 592.

Illinois.— Freie v. No. 4 Fidelity Bldg., etc., Union, 166 Ill. 128, 46 N. E. 784, 57 Am. St. Rep. 123; Winget v. Quincy Bldg., etc., Assoc., 128 Ill. 67, 21 N. E. 12; Holmes v. Smythe, 100 Ill. 413; Hedley v. Geissler, 90 Ill. App. 565.

Indiana.— Security Sav., etc., Assoc. v. Elbert, 153 Ind. 198, 54 N. E. 753.

Iowa.— See Iowa Sav., etc., Assoc. v. Heidt, 107 Iowa 297, 77 N. W. 1050, 70 Am. St. Rep. 197, 43 L. R. A. 689. Compare Iowa Cent. Bldg., etc., Assoc. v. Vogt, (Iowa 1901) 87 N. W. 726; Burlington Mut. Loan Assoc. v. Heider, 55 Iowa 424, 5 N. W. 578, 7 N. W. 686.

Kansas.— Massey v. Citizens' Bldg., etc., Assoc., 22 Kan. 624.

Louisiana.— Latchford's Succession, 42 La. Ann. 529, 7 So. 628.

Massachusetts.—Bowker v. Mill River Loan Fund Assoc., 7 Allen (Mass.) 100; Delano v. Wild, 6 Allen (Mass.) 1, 83 Am. Dec. 605; Barker v. Bigelow, 15 Gray (Mass.) 130.

Michigan.— Phelps v. American Sav., etc., Assoc., 121 Mich. 343, 80 N. W. 120; People's Bldg., etc., Assoc. v. Billing, 104 Mich. 186, 62 N. W. 373.

Minnesota.— Central Bldg., etc., Assoc. v. Lampson, 60 Minn. 422, 62 N. W. 544.

Missouri.— Ruppel v. Missouri Guarantee, etc., Assoc., 158 Mo. 613, 59 S. W. 1000; Hammerslough v. Kansas City Bldg., etc., Assoc., 79 Mo. 80.

Nebraska.— Livingston Loan, etc., Assoc. v. Drummond, 49 Nebr. 200, 68 N. W. 375.

loan is usurious if the borrower is liable to pay more than the amount loaned and legal interest.[9] It may, however, be said that whether or not a loan is tainted with usury depends upon the amount agreed in good faith to be paid as interest on the sum made as a loan or advancement on the stock.[10] Accordingly if a

New Hampshire.— Shannon v. Dunn, 43 N. H. 194.

New Jersey.— Franklin Bldg. Assoc. v. Marsh, 29 N. J. L. 225; New Jersey Bldg., etc., Assoc. v. Bachelor, 54 N. J. Eq. 600, 35 Atl. 745; Granite State Provident Assoc. v. Monk, (N. J. 1895) 30 Atl. 872; Bowen v. Lincoln Bldg., etc., Assoc., 51 N. J. Eq. 272, 28 Atl. 67; People's Bldg., etc., Assoc. v. Furey, 47 N. J. Eq. 410, 20 Atl. 890; Red Bank Mut. Bldg., etc., Assoc. v. Patterson, 27 N. J. Eq. 223; Hoboken Bldg. Assoc. v. Martin, 13 N. J. Eq. 427; Somerset County Bldg., etc., Assoc. v. Camman, 11 N. J. Eq. 382.

New York.— City Bldg., etc., Co. v. Fatty, 1 Abb. Dec. (N. Y.) 347, 4 Transcr. App. (N. Y.) 311; Mutual Ben. Loan, etc., Co. v. Lynch, 54 N. Y. App. Div. 559, 67 N. Y. Suppl. 6; Citizens' Mut. Loan, etc., Assoc. v. Webster, 25 Barb. (N. Y.) 263.

North Dakota.— Vermont L. & T. Co. v. Whithed, 2 N. D. 82, 49 N. W. 318.

Oregon.— Washington Invest. Assoc. v. Stanley, 38 Oreg. 319, 63 Pac. 489, 84 Am. St. Rep. 793.

Tennessee.— Patterson v. Workingmen's Bldg., etc., Assoc., 14 Lea (Tenn.) 677.

Virginia.—White v. Mechanics' Bldg. Fund Assoc., 22 Gratt. (Va.) 233.

West Virginia.—Archer v. Baltimore Bldg., etc., Assoc., 45 W. Va. 37, 30 S. E. 241.

England.—Silver v. Barnes, 6 Bing. N. Cas. 180, 37 E. C. L. 571.

See 8 Cent. Dig. tit. "Building and Loan Associations," § 49.

Monthly payments of interest.— Where a borrowing member pays only the maximum rate of interest the contract is not usurious because the association may have secured more by exacting monthly payments of interest. Briggs v. Iowa Sav. Loan Assoc., 114 Iowa 232, 86 N. W. 320.

9. Idaho.— Fidelity Sav. Assoc. v. Shea, (Ida. 1899) 55 Pac. 1022; Stevens v. Home Sav., etc., Assoc., (Ida. 1898) 51 Pac. 779, 986.

Kentucky.— Simpson v. Kentucky Citizens Bldg., etc., Assoc., 101 Ky. 496, 19 Ky. L. Rep. 1176, 41 S. W. 570, 42 S. W. 834; U. S. Savings, etc., Co. v. Scott, 98 Ky. 695, 17 Ky. L. Rep. 1244, 34 S. W. 235; Southern Bldg., etc., Assoc. v. Harris, 98 Ky. 41, 17 Ky. L. Rep. 721, 32 S. W. 261; Herbert v. Kenton Bldg., etc., Assoc., 11 Bush (Ky.) 296; Centennial Bldg., etc., Assoc. v. Mitchell, 5 Ky. L. Rep. 698.

Maryland.— Waverly Mut., etc., Assoc. v. Buck, 64 Md. 338, 1 Atl. 561; Border State Perpetual Bldg. Assoc. v. McCarthy, 57 Md. 555; Peter's Bldg. Assoc. No. 5 v. Jaecksch, 51 Md. 198; Citizens' Security, etc., Co. v. Uhler, 48 Md. 455; Williar v. Baltimore Butchers' Loan, etc., Assoc., 45 Md. 546; Baltimore Permanent Bldg., etc., Soc. v. Taylor, 41 Md. 409.

Mississippi.— Shannon v. Georgia State Bldg., etc., Assoc., 78 Miss. 955, 30 So. 51, 84 Am. St. Rep. 657; Southern Home Bldg., etc., Assoc. v. Tony, 78 Miss. 916, 29 So. 825. See also Hart v. American Bldg., etc., Assoc., (Miss. 1901) 29 So. 999.

North Carolina.—Meroney v. Atlanta Bldg., etc., Assoc., 116 N. C. 882, 21 S. E. 924, 47 Am. St. Rep. 841; Vann v. Fayetteville Bldg., etc., Assoc., 75 N. C. 494; Mills v. Salisbury Bldg., etc., Assoc., 75 N. C. 292.

Ohio.— Bates v. Peoples' Sav., etc., Assoc., 42 Ohio St. 655; State v. Greenville Bldg., etc., Assoc., 29 Ohio St. 92. But see Lucas v. Greenville Bldg., etc., Assoc., 22 Ohio St. 339, holding that a building association may recover from a member interest on a loan made to him at a rate within the limits allowed by the statute under which the association was organized, although it exceeds the maximum rate allowed by the general law. To same effect is Home Bldg. Assoc. v. Boning, 6 Ohio Dec. (Reprint) 1149, 10 Am. L. Rec. 626.

Pennsylvania.—Unincorporated associations cannot recover more than was actually advanced with legal interest. Link v. Germantown Bldg. Assoc., 89 Pa. St. 15; Jarrett v. Cope, 68 Pa. St. 67; Houser v. Hermann Bldg. Assoc., 41 Pa. St. 478; Hansbury v. Pfeiffer, 12 Phila. (Pa.) 250, 35 Leg. Int. (Pa.) 395.

South Carolina.— Mechanics', etc., Bldg., etc., Assoc. v. Dorsey, 15 S. C. 462. But a contract for repayment in instalments of the sum borrowed, although otherwise usurious, is prevented from being illegal, where it stipulates that on final settlement the amount to be retained by the association shall not exceed the sum actually loaned, with interest thereon at the legal rate. Turner v. Interstate Bldg., etc., Assoc., 47 S. C. 397, 25 S. E. 278; Thompson v. Gillison, 28 S. C. 534, 6 S. E. 333.

Texas.— International Bldg., etc., Assoc. v. Biering, 86 Tex. 476, 25 S. W. 622, 26 S. W. 39; Abbott v. International Bldg., etc., Assoc., 86 Tex. 467, 25 S. W. 620; Hensel v. International Bldg., etc., Assoc., 85 Tex. 215, 20 S. W. 116; Jackson v. Cassidy, 68 Tex. 282, 4 S. W. 541; People's Bldg., etc., Assoc. v. Rising, (Tex. Civ. App. 1896) 34 S. W. 147; Dakota Bldg., etc., Assoc. v. Logan, (Tex. Civ. App. 1896) 33 S. W. 1088; Walters v. Texas Bldg., etc., Assoc., 8 Tex. Civ. App. 500, 29 S. W. 51; International Bldg., etc., Assoc. v. Mayers, (Tex. Civ. App. 1894) 25 S. W. 1132.

10. Home Mut. Bldg. Assoc. v. Thursby, 58 Md. 284; Crider v. San Antonio Real Estate, etc., Assoc., 89 Tex. 597, 35 S. W. 1047; International Bldg., etc., Assoc. v. Abbott, 85 so-called payment of dues on stock or the exaction of a premium is a mere device to cover a payment for the use of money of more than the law recognizes as legal interest, the contract is an usurious one.[11]

(11) Loans to Non-Members. Loans made to persons who are not members are subject to the general laws as to interest and usury.[12]

8. Payment — a. In General. A borrowing member on settling a loan with the society should be charged with the amount of the loan with legal interest.[13]

Tex. 220, 20 S. W. 118; Lee v. Ryan, 11 Tex. Civ. App. 11, 31 S. W. 1098; International Bldg., etc., Assoc. v. Biering, (Tex. Civ. App. 1893) 23 S. W. 621; Tilley v. American Bldg., etc., Assoc., 52 Fed. 618. See also Peightal v. Cotton States Bldg. Co., (Tex. Civ. App. 1901) 61 S. W. 428, holding that the fact that the sum taken as interest exceeds the legal rate does not show usury, where the amount of the excess is insignificant and it is apparent that the excess was paid simply for the convenience of the parties with the intention of deducting it from the last payment.

11. Alabama.— Mobile Bldg., etc., Assoc. v. Robertson, 65 Ala. 382.

Connecticut.— Mechanics', etc., Mut. Sav. Bank, etc., Assoc. v. Wilcox, 24 Conn. 147.

Idaho.—Fidelity Sav. Assoc. v. Shea, (Ida. 1899) 55 Pac. 1022; Stevens v. Home Sav., etc., Assoc., (Ida. 1898) 51 Pac. 779, 986.

Illinois.—Rhodes v. Missouri Sav., etc., Co., 173 Ill. 621, 50 N. E. 998, 42 L. R. A. 93.

Iowa.— Wilcoxen v. Smith, 107 Iowa 555, 78 N. W. 217, 70 Am. St. Rep. 220; Hawkeye State Sav., etc., Assoc. v. Johnston, 106 Iowa 218, 76 N. W. 678.

Kansas.— People's Bldg., etc., Assoc. v. Kidder, 9 Kan. App. 385, 58 Pac. 798.

Kentucky.— Watts v. National Bldg., etc., Assoc., 102 Ky. 29, 19 Ky. L. Rep. 1007, 42 S. W. 839; Henderson Bldg., etc., Assoc. v. Johnson, 88 Ky. 191, 10 Ky. L. Rep. 830, 10 S. W. 787, 3 L. R. A. 289.

Maryland.— Waverly Mut., etc., Assoc. v. Buck, 64 Md. 338, 1 Atl. 561; Peter's Bldg. Assoc. No. 5 v. Jaecksch, 51 Md. 198.

Minnesota.— City Loan Co. v. Cheney, 61 Minn. 83, 63 N. W. 250; Central Bldg., etc., Assoc. v. Lampson, 60 Minn. 422, 62 N. W. 544.

Missouri.— Clark v. Missouri Guarantee Sav., etc., Assoc., 85 Mo. App. 388.

Nebraska.— National Mut. Bldg., etc., Assoc. v. Keeney, 57 Nebr. 94, 77 N. W. 442.

New York.— Melville v. American Ben. Bldg. Assoc., 33 Barb. (N. Y.) 103.

Oregon.— Pacific Bldg. Co. v. Hill, (Oreg. 1901) 67 Pac. 103; Western Sav. Co. v. Houston, 38 Oreg. 377, 65 Pac. 611.

Tennessee.— McCauley v. Workingman's Bldg., etc., Assoc., 97 Tenn. 421, 37 S. W. 212, 56 Am. St. Rep. 813, 35 L. R. A. 244.

Texas.— Jackson v. Cassidy, 68 Tex. 282, 4 S. W. 541; American Mut. Bldg., etc., Assoc. v. Daugherty, (Tex. Civ. App. 1901) 66 S. W. 131; State Nat. L. & T. Co. v. Fuller, (Tex. Civ. App. 1901) 63 S. W. 552; Cotton States Bldg. Co. v. Rawlins, (Tex. Civ. App. 1901) 62 S. W. 805.

Utah.—Howells v. Pacific States Sav., etc., Co., 21 Utah 45, 60 Pac. 1025, 81 Am. St. Rep. 659.

United States.— Tilley v. American Bldg., etc., Assoc., 52 Fed. 618.

The fact that a person subscribes to stock only for the purpose of securing a loan is not of itself sufficient to show that the subscription was merely a scheme to disguise usury. Interstate Bldg., etc., Assoc. v. Crawford, (Tex. Civ. App. 1901) 63 S. W. 1071; Leary v. People's Bldg., etc., Assoc., (Tex. Civ. App. 1899) 49 S. W. 632.

12. St. Joseph, etc., Loan, etc., Assoc. v. Thompson, 19 Kan. 321.

As to power to loan to non-members see supra, VIII, H, 1, b.

An association which lends money to one not a member and receives a bonus therefor, besides the lawful rate of interest, can only recover from such borrower the principal sum. Mechanics', etc., Mut. Sav. Bank, etc., Assoc. v. Meriden Agency Co., 24 Conn. 159.

13. Iowa.— Briggs v. Iowa Sav. Loan Assoc., 114 Iowa 232, 86 N. W. 320.

Kansas.— Hekelnkæmper v. German Bldg., etc., Assoc., 22 Kan. 549. See also Salina Bldg., etc., Assoc. v. Nelson, 22 Kan. 751.

Kentucky.— Safety Bldg., etc., Co. v. Ecklar, 106 Ky. 115, 20 Ky. L. Rep. 1770, 50 S. W. 50.

Maryland.— Middle States Loan, etc., Co. v. Hagerstown Mattress, etc., Co., 82 Md. 506, 33 Atl. 886.

Massachusetts.— Delano v. Wild, 6 Allen (Mass.) 1, 83 Am. Dec. 605; Barker v. Bigelow, 15 Gray (Mass.) 130.

Mississippi.— Ricks v. Durant Bldg., etc., Assoc., (Miss. 1895) 18 So. 359.

New Jersey.— People's Bldg., etc., Assoc. v. Furey, 47 N. J. Eq. 410, 20 Atl. 890.

North Carolina.—Meroney v. Atlanta Bldg., etc., Assoc., 116 N. C. 882, 21 S. E. 924, 47 Am. St. Rep. 841; Hanner v. Greensboro Bldg., etc., Assoc., 78 N. C. 188; Mills v. Salisbury Bldg., etc., Assoc., 75 N. C. 292.

Ohio.—Seibel v. Victoria Bldg. Assoc. No. 2, 43 Ohio St. 371, 2 N. E. 417.

South Dakota.— Hale v. Gullick, 13 S. D. 637, 84 N. W. 196.

Tennessee.— Johnston v. Grosvenor, 105 Tenn. 353, 59 S. W. 1028; Bowman v. Cleveland Bldg., etc., Assoc., (Tenn. Ch. 1900) 59 S. W. 669.

See 8 Cent. Dig. tit. "Building and Loan Associations," § 65.

Running of interest.— Although a building association, by agreement of its members, suspended its operations, including payment of monthly dues, until its mortgage securities could be realized on, with the understanding that, in case such securities did not realize a sufficient sum to close up the association as contemplated by its charter, payment of

He should be credited with all amounts paid directly thereon.[14] It has also been held that he should be credited with usurious interest or premiums paid.[15]

b. Charge For Losses and Expenses. The true indebtedness of a member of a building and loan association is not necessarily the difference between the cash received by him and the cash which he has paid in or refunded, but losses and expenses must be taken into consideration, and a member must bear his due proportion thereof.[16] But a building association cannot by an arbitrary provision of its by-laws fix an amount to be retained by it for expenses upon settlement with a borrowing member. The association must exhibit a settlement of accounts for expenses before the borrowing member is chargeable with his proportional part thereof.[17]

c. Payments on Stock. Some authorities hold that all payments made by a borrowing shareholder to the society should be credited on the loan.[18] Others monthly dues was to be resumed, a member must pay interest on the amount of his indebtedness to the association from the date of such agreement to the date of the judgment against him therefor. Thomson v. Ocmulgee Bldg., etc., Assoc., 56 Ga. 350. And where a building association had ceased to do business, and was winding up its affairs, interest on a loan made before that time should be computed to the time of taking the account on foreclosure of the mortgage securing it, and not to the time the association went out of business; the association having done nothing to abrogate the contract under which the interest was due. Bowman v. Cleveland Bldg., etc., Assoc., (Tenn. Ch. 1900) 59 S. W. 669.

14. Iowa.— Spinney v. Miller, 114 Iowa 210, 86 N. W. 317; Wilcoxen v. Smith, 107 Iowa 555, 78 N. W. 217, 70 Am. St. Rep. 220.

Massachusetts.— Delano v. Wild, 6 Allen (Mass.) 1, 83 Am. Dec. 605; Barker v. Bigelow, 15 Gray (Mass.) 130.

Mississippi.— Ricks v. Durant Bldg., etc., Assoc., (Miss. 1895) 18 So. 359.

North Carolina.— Mills v. Salisbury Bldg., etc., Assoc., 75 N. C. 292.

South Dakota.— Hale v. Gullick, 13 S. D. 637, 84 N. W. 196.

Tennessee.— Johnston v. Grosvenor, 105 Tenn. 353, 59 S. W. 1028.

Set-off of assigned claims.— A shareholder in a building association who had executed a mortgage to it may set off against the mortgage debt claims of withdrawing members against the association assigned to him, there being nothing in the constitution of the association making it inequitable to allow such a set-off. Hennighausen v. Tischer, 50 Md. 583.

15. Spinney v. Miller, 114 Iowa 210, 86 N. W. 317; Wilcoxen v. Smith, 107 Iowa 555, 78 N. W. 217, 70 Am. St. Rep. 220; Brown v. Archer, 62 Mo. App. 277; Carpenter v. Richardson, 101 Tenn. 176, 46 S. W. 452; McCauley v. Workingman's Bldg., etc., Assoc., 97 Tenn. 421, 37 S. W. 212, 56 Am. St. Rep. 813, 35 L. R. A. 244; Post v. Mechanics' Bldg., etc., Assoc., 97 Tenn. 408, 37 S. W. 216, 34 L. R. A. 201; Southern Bldg., etc., Assoc. v. Johnson, 111 Fed. 657.

Where a loan is usurious because a bonus has been reserved, the association is entitled to recover from the borrower only the principal of the debt contracted, less the bonus reserved and the payments actually made by the borrower. Lincoln Bldg., etc., Assoc. v. Benjamin, 7 Nebr. 181.

16. Pattison v. Albany Bldg., etc., Assoc., 63 Ga. 373.

As to assessments for losses and expenses see supra, VI, A.

Insurance of mortgaged property.— Where a mortgage to a building and loan association covenanted that the mortgagor would keep the premises insured, and that in case of his failure to do so the mortgagee should have the privilege of placing the insurance, the sums so paid by the mortgagee, in consequence of the mortgagor's failure to insure, are chargeable against the latter upon his withdrawal from the association and a settlement between them. Overby v. Fayetteville Bldg., etc., Assoc., 81 N. C. 41.

17. U. S. Building, etc., Assoc. v. Cassidy, 22 Ky. L. Rep. 726, 58 S. W. 606; Safety Bldg., etc., Assoc. v. Montjoy, 21 Ky. L. Rep. 1189, 54 S. W. 719.

18. California.— Hale v. Barker, 129 Cal. 419, 62 Pac. 168. Compare Homeseekers' Loan Assoc. v. Gleeson, 133 Cal. 312, 65 Pac. 617.

Kentucky.— Safety Bldg., etc., Co. v. Ecklar, 106 Ky. 115, 20 Ky. L. Rep. 1770, 50 S. W. 50; Simpson v. Kentucky Bldg. Citizens', etc., Assoc., 101 Ky. 496, 19 Ky. L. Rep. 1176, 41 S. W. 570, 42 S. W. 834; Johnson v. Bush, 23 Ky. L. Rep. 1399, 64 S. W. 628, 65 S. W. 158.

Maryland.— Middle States Loan, etc., Co. v. Hagerstown Mattress, etc., Co., 82 Md. 506, 33 Atl. 886.

Massachusetts.— Delano v. Wild, 6 Allen (Mass.) 1, 83 Am. Dec. 605; Barker v. Bigelow, 15 Gray (Mass.) 130.

North Carolina.—Meroney v. Atlanta Bldg., etc., Assoc., 116 N. C. 882, 21 S. E. 924, 47 Am. St. Rep. 841; Hanner v. Greensboro Bldg., etc., Assoc., 78 N. C. 188; Mills v. Salisbury Bldg., etc., Assoc., 75 N. C. 292. See also Rowland v. Old Dominion Bldg., etc., Assoc., 118 N. C. 173, 24 S. E. 366.

South Dakota.— Hale v. Gullick, 13 S. D. 637, 84 N. W. 196.

Utah.— Snyder v. Fidelity Sav. Assoc., 23 Utah 291, 64 Pac. 870; Howells v. Pacific States Sav., etc., Co., 21 Utah 45, 60 Pac.

are to the effect that payments on stock are not ipso facto payments on the loan and do not operate of themselves to extinguish it pro tanto.[19] Still others permit the borrower to elect to have stock payments applied on the loan.[20]

1025, 81 Am. St. Rep. 659; People's Bldg., etc., Assoc. v. Fowble, 17 Utah 122, 53 Pac. 999; Sawtelle v. North American Sav., etc., Co., 14 Utah 443, 48 Pac. 211.

Washington.— U. S. Saving, etc., Co. v. Parr, 26 Wash. 115, 66 Pac. 109.

See 8 Cent. Dig. tit. "Building and Loan Associations," § 62.

A junior mortgagee cannot compel a building and loan association to credit on the first mortgage dues, usurious interest, premiums, and fines received by it from the borrower on his debt, unless there is a stipulation to that effect. Bird v. Kendall, 62 S. C. 178, 40 S. E. 142.

19. Alabama.— Southern Bldg., etc., Assoc. v. Anniston L. & T. Co., 101 Ala. 582, 15 So. 123, 46 Am. St. Rep. 138, 29 L. R. A. 120.

Arkansas.— Reeve v. Ladies' Bldg. Assoc., 56 Ark. 335, 19 S. W. 917, 18 L. R. A. 129.

Illinois.—Pioneer Sav., etc., Co. v. Brockett, 58 Ill. App. 204. See also Dooling v. Smith, 89 Ill. App. 26.

Iowa.— See Briggs v. Iowa Sav. Loan Assoc., 114 Iowa 232, 86 N. W. 320.

Kansas.— Hekelnkæmper v. German Bldg., etc., Assoc., 22 Kan. 549.

Missouri.— Sappington v. Ætna Loan Co., 76 Mo. App. 242.

Nebraska.—Randall v. National Bldg., etc., Union, 43 Nebr. 876, 62 N. W. 252.

New Jersey.— Merchantville Bldg., etc., Assoc. v. Zane, (N. J. 1897) 38 Atl. 420; People's Bldg., etc., Assoc. v. Furey, 47 N. J. Eq. 410, 20 Atl. 890; Mechanics' Bldg., etc., Assoc. v. Conover, 14 N. J. Eq. 219.

Ohio.—Seibel v. Victoria Bldg. Assoc. No. 2, 43 Ohio St. 371, 2 N. E. 417.

Pennsylvania.—Harris' Appeal, (Pa. 1886) 3 Atl. 776; Economy Bldg. Assoc. v. Hungerbuehler, 93 Pa. St. 258; Link v. Germantown Bldg. Assoc., 89 Pa. St. 15; Spring Garden Assoc. v. Tradesmen's Loan Assoc., 46 Pa. St. 493; North America Bldg. Assoc. v. Sutton, 35 Pa. St. 463, 78 Am. Dec. 349; Plymouth Bldg. Assoc. v. Mangan, 2 Kulp (Pa.) 210; Laurel Run Bldg. Assoc. v. Bayley, 1 Kulp (Pa.) 215; Saving Fund v. Murray, 14 Leg. Int. (Pa.) 133; Building Assoc. v. Taylor, 13 Wkly. Notes Cas. (Pa.) 13. See also Kelly v. Perseverance Bldg. Assoc., 39 Pa. St. 148.

Tennessee.— Johnston v. Grosvenor, 105 Tenn. 353, 59 S. W. 1028; Carpenter v. Richardson, 101 Tenn. 176, 46 S. W. 452; Post v. Mechanics' Bldg., etc., Assoc., 97 Tenn. 408, 37 S. W. 216, 34 L. R. A. 201; Pioneer, etc., Loan Co. v. Cannon, 96 Tenn. 599, 36 S. W. 386, 54 Am. St. Rep. 858, 33 L. R. A. 112.

Texas.—El Paso Bldg., etc., Assoc. v. Lane, 81 Tex. 369, 17 S. W. 77; Pioneer Sav., etc., Co. v. Everheart, (Tex. Civ. App. 1898) 44 S. W. 885; Dakota Bldg., etc., Assoc. v. Logan, (Tex. Civ. App. 1896) 33 S. W. 1038; Blakeley v. El Paso Bldg., etc., Assoc., (Tex. Civ. App. 1894) 26 S. W. 292; Sweeney v. El Paso Bldg., etc., Assoc., (Tex. Civ. App. 1894) 26 S. W. 290.

United States.— Andruss v. People's Bldg., etc., Assoc., 94 Fed. 575, 36 C. C. A. 336; Tilley v. American Bldg., etc., Assoc., 52 Fed. 618.

Fines paid by a borrowing stock-holder should not be credited on the loan. Mechanics' Bldg., etc., Assoc. v. Conover, 14 N. J. Eq. 219.

Where an association agrees to accept the stock of a defaulting borrower upon condition that he be credited with the amount paid thereon, he is not entitled to receive any credit therefor if the amount paid thereon has been previously deducted from his debt. Mutual Bldg., etc., Assoc. v. Tascott, 143 Ill. 305, 32 N. E. 376.

20. Randall v. National Bldg., etc., Union, 42 Nebr. 809, 60 N. W. 1019, 29 L. R. A. 133, 43 Nebr. 876, 62 N. W. 252; Watkins v. Workingmen's Bldg., etc., Assoc., 97 Pa. St. 514; North America Bldg. Assoc. v. Sutton, 35 Pa. St. 463, 78 Am. Dec. 349; Plymouth Bldg. Assoc. v. Rood, 2 Kulp (Pa.) 246; Plymouth Bldg. Assoc. v. Mangan, 2 Kulp (Pa.) 210; Hazel Loan, etc., Assoc. v. Groesbeck, 17 Phila. (Pa.) 242, 41 Leg. Int. (Pa.) 16. Compare Philadelphia Mercantile Loan Assoc. v. Moore, 47 Pa. St. 233.

Assignment of stock.— A member who has assigned his shares of stock in the association to a third party as collateral security for a debt cannot, when sued upon his mortgage to the association, claim a credit for the value of such shares of stock. Schober v. Accommodation Sav. Fund, etc., Assoc., 35 Pa. St. 223. And where a stock-holder gives the association a judgment on real estate as security for a loan, and also makes an absolute assignment and delivery to it of his certificates of stock, as required by its constitution and by-laws, he cannot, after making a second assignment of such stock to a third person, direct that the payments on such stock shall not be applied by the association on his judgment until after the real estate is exhausted; and such association may first appropriate and apply such payments on the judgment, especially where, by the terms of the assignment to it, he waives and relinquishes all benefits which may thereafter accrue to him. Wadlinger v. Washington German Bldg., etc., Assoc., 153 Pa. St. 622, 26 Atl. 647.

Who may elect.— The mortgagor or the association, by virtue of an assignment of the stock, taken as collateral security for the payment of the mortgage, may apply payments on the stock of a loan association to the payment of the mortgage debt; but, if neither make the application, strangers cannot compel it. Spring Garden Assoc. v. Tradesmen's Loan Assoc., 46 Pa. St. 493. See also Springville Sav. Fund, etc., Assoc. v. Raber, 11 Phila.

d. Where Society Is Insolvent. Three views have been advanced in regard to the relative rights and obligations of the borrowing and the non-borrowing shareholders on the insolvency of the society. The first view is that the relation between the society and the borrowing shareholder has been changed by the circumstances to one subsisting between an ordinary creditor and debtor, and that the borrowing shareholder is to be charged with the amount actually received by him, with interest at the legal rate and credited with all payments made, whether by way of dues, interest, or premium, according to the rule governing partial payments.[21] The second view is, that the borrowing shareholder is entitled to credit upon his loan for the amount of interest and premium paid by him, but is not entitled to have the amount of the dues paid by him on account of stock applied upon his loan.[22] The third view differs from the second in that instead of crediting the borrowing shareholder with the whole premium it credits him (Pa.) 546, 33 Leg. Int. (Pa.) 329; Building Assoc. v. Eshelbach, 7 Phila. (Pa.) 189; Conrow v. Tradesmen's Sav. Fund, etc., Assoc., 21 Leg. Int. (Pa.) 109.

21. Georgia.— City Loan, etc., Assoc. v. Goodrich, 48 Ga. 445.

Maryland.— Waverly Mut., etc., Assoc. v. Buck, 64 Md. 338, 1 Atl. 561; Hampstead Bldg. Assoc. No. 1 v. King, 58 Md. 279; Low St. Bldg. Assoc. No. 6 v. Zucker, 48 Md. 448; Windsor v. Bandel, 40 Md. 172.

Massachusetts.— Cook v. Kent, 105 Mass. 246.

North Carolina.—Williams v. Maxwell, 123 N. C. 586, 31 S. E. 821; Thompson v. North Carolina Bldg., etc., Assoc., 120 N. C. 420, 27 S. E. 118; Strauss v. Carolina Interstate Bldg., etc., Assoc., 117 N. C. 308, 23 S. E. 450, 53 Am. St. Rep. 585, 30 L. R. A. 693.

South Carolina.— Buist v. Bryan, 44 S. C. 121, 21 S. E. 537, 51 Am. St. Rep. 787, 29 L. R. A. 127.

Utah.— Hale v. Thomas, 20 Utah 426, 59 Pac. 241; People's Bldg., etc., Assoc. v. Fowble, 17 Utah 122, 53 Pac. 999.

Washington.— See Hale v. Stenger, 22 Wash. 516, 699, 61 Pac. 156, 63 Pac. 554.

United States.— Miles v. New South Bldg., etc., Assoc., 111 Fed. 946. But he is not entitled to credit for admission fees or fines paid. Coltrane v. Baltimore Bldg., etc., Assoc., 110 Fed. 293.

England.— Brownlie v. Russell, 8 App. Cas. 235, 47 J. P. 757, 48 L. T. Rep. N. S. 881.

See 8 Cent. Dig. tit. "Building and Loan Associations," § 63.

22. Arkansas.— Hale v. Phillips, 68 Ark. 382, 59 S. W. 35.

Connecticut.—Curtis v. Granite State Provident Assoc., 69 Conn. 6, 36 Atl. 1023, 61 Am. St. Rep. 17.

Illinois.— Choisser v. Young, 69 Ill. App. 252. See also Hedley v. Geissler, 90 Ill. App. 565.

Indiana.— Number Four Fidelity Bldg., etc., Union v. Smith, 155 Ind. 679, 58 N. E. 70; James v. Sidwell, 153 Ind. 697, 54 N. E. 752; Huter v. Union Trust Co., 153 Ind. 204, 54 N. E. 755; Marion Trust Co. v. Edwards Lodge I. O. O. F., 153 Ind. 96, 54 N. E. 444; Boice v. Rabb, 24 Ind. App. 368, 55 N. E. 880.

Iowa.— Tootle v. Singer, (Iowa 1901) 88 N. W. 446; Spinney v. Miller, 114 Iowa 210, 86 N. W. 317; Hale v. Kline, 113 Iowa 523, 85 N. W. 814; Wilcoxen v. Smith, 107 Iowa 555, 78 N. W. 217, 70 Am. St. Rep. 220.

Kentucky.—Reddick v. U. S. Building, etc., Assoc., 106 Ky. 94, 20 Ky. L. Rep. 1720, 49 S. W. 1075; Rogers v. Rains, 100 Ky. 295, 18 Ky. L. Rep. 768, 38 S. W. 483; Vinton v. National Bldg., etc., Assoc., 23 Ky. L. Rep. 2021, 66 S. W. 510; Globe Bldg., etc., Co. v. Spillman, 23 Ky. L. Rep. 1431, 65 S. W. 444; U. S. Building, etc., Assoc. v. Brunner, 23 Ky. L. Rep. 1253, 64 S. W. 996; U. S. Bldg., etc., Assoc. v. Green, 23 Ky. L. Rep. 1189, 64 S. W. 962; Columbia Finance, etc., Co. v. Swartz, 23 Ky. L. Rep. 1097, 64 S. W. 743; U. S. Building, etc., Assoc. v. Reed, 23 Ky. L. Rep. 342, 62 S. W. 1020; Globe Bldg., etc., Co. v. Wood, 22 Ky. L. Rep. 1500, 60 S. W. 858; Globe Bldg., etc., Co. v. Stephens, 22 Ky. L. Rep. 1441, 60 S. W. 723; U. S. Building, etc., Assoc. v. Rowland, 22 Ky. L. Rep. 1433, 60 S. W. 707.

Michigan.— Phelps v. American Sav., etc., Assoc., 121 Mich. 343, 80 N. W. 120; Russell v. Pierce, 121 Mich. 208, 80 N. W. 118.

Minnesota.—Knutson v. Northwestern Loan, etc., Assoc., 67 Minn. 201, 69 N. W. 889, 64 Am. St. Rep. 410.

Missouri.— Woerhide v. Johnston, 81 Mo. App. 193; Brown v. Archer, 62 Mo. App. 277. See also Hohenshell v. Home Sav., etc., Assoc., 140 Mo. 566, 41 S. W. 948.

Nebraska.—Anselme v. American Sav., etc., Assoc., (Nebr. 1902) 88 N. W. 665.

New Hampshire.— Bank Com'rs v. Granite State Provident Assoc., 68 N. H. 554, 44 Atl. 605. See also Sullivan v. Ferryall, 69 N. H. 192, 44 Atl. 109.

New Jersey.— Moran v. Gray, (N. J. 1897) 38 Atl. 668; Weir v. Granite State Provident Assoc., 56 N. J. Eq. 234, 38 Atl. 643.

New York.— Breed v. Ruoff, 54 N. Y. App. Div. 142, 66 N. Y. Suppl. 422. Compare Rochester Sav. Bank v. Whitmore, 25 N. Y. App. Div. 491, 49 N. Y. Suppl. 862.

North Dakota.— Hale v. Cairns, 8 N. D. 145, 77 N. W. 1010, 73 Am. St. Rep. 746, 44 L. R. A. 261.

Ohio.— See Eversmann v. Schmitt, 53 Ohio St. 174, 41 N. E. 139, 53 Am. St. Rep. 632, 29 L. R. A. 184.

Pennsylvania.— Strohen v. Franklin Sav., with only the part estimated as unearned.[23] The authorities all agree that the borrower should be charged with the amount loaned to him with interest at the rate fixed by law.[24]

I. Making Promissory Note. It is generally held that the society may make a promissory note in the absence of statutory restriction.[25]

IX. ACTIONS.

A. By Association — 1. Right and Nature of. Building and loan societies may protect and maintain their rights in appropriate actions,[26] like other corporate bodies.[27] etc., Assoc., 115 Pa. St. 273, 8 Atl. 843; Mechanics', etc., Bldg., etc., Assoc. v. Swartz, 5 Pa. Dist. 318; Twin Cities Nat. Bldg., etc., Assoc. v. Lepore, 17 Pa. Co. Ct. 426.

Tennessee.— Johnston v. Grosvenor, 105 Tenn. 353, 59 S. W. 1028; Carpenter v. Richardson, 101 Tenn. 176, 46 S. W. 452; Post v. Mechanics' Bldg., etc., Assoc., 97 Tenn. 408, 37 S. W. 216, 34 L. R. A. 201; Rogers v. Hargo, 92 Tenn. 35, 20 S. W. 430; Williamson v. Globe Bldg., etc., Co., (Tenn. Ch. 1901) 64 S. W. 298; Southern Bldg., etc., Assoc. v. Easley, (Tenn. Ch. 1900) 59 S. W. 440.

Texas.— Price v. Kendall, 14 Tex. Civ. App. 26, 36 S. W. 810.

West Virginia.— Young v. Martinsburg Imp. Loan & Bldg. Assoc., 48 W. Va. 512, 38 S. E. 670.

Wisconsin.— Leahy v. National Bldg., etc., Assoc., 100 Wis. 555, 76 N. W. 625, 69 Am. St. Rep. 945.

United States.— Douglass v. Kavanaugh, 90 Fed. 373, 62 U. S. App. 38, 33 C. C. A. 107; Towle v. American Bldg., etc., Soc., 61 Fed. 446.

23. Dooling v. Smith, 89 Ill. App. 26; Barry v. Downs, 87 Ill. App. 486; Dooling v. Davis, 84 Ill. App. 393; Sullivan v. Spaniol, 78 Ill. App. 125; MacMurray v. Gosney, 106 Fed. 11; Manorita v. Fidelity Trust, etc., Co., 101 Fed. 8; Sullivan v. Stucky, 86 Fed. 491.

24. Connecticut.— Curtis v. Granite State Provident Assoc., 69 Conn. 6, 36 Atl. 1023, 61 Am. St. Rep. 17.

Georgia.— City Loan, etc., Assoc. v. Goodrich, 48 Ga. 445.

Illinois.— Sullivan v. Spaniol, 78 Ill. App. 125.

Indiana.— Marion Trust Co. v. Edwards Lodge I. O. O. F., 153 Ind. 96, 54 N. E. 444.

Iowa.— Tootle v. Singer, (Iowa 1901) 88 N. W. 446; Hale v. Kline, 113 Iowa 523, 85 N. W. 814.

Kentucky.— Rogers v. Rains, 100 Ky. 295, 18 Ky. L. Rep. 768, 38 S. W. 483.

Maryland.— Waverly Mut., etc., Assoc. v. Buck, 64 Md. 338, 1 Atl. 561; Hampstead Bldg. Assoc. No. 11 v. King, 58 Md. 279; Low St. Bldg. Assoc. No. 6 v. Zucker, 48 Md. 448; Windsor v. Bandel, 40 Md. 172.

Michigan.— Phelps v. American Sav., etc., Assoc., 121 Mich. 343, 80 N. W. 120; Russell v. Pierce, 121 Mich. 208, 80 N. W. 118.

Minnesota.—Knutson v. Northwestern Loan, etc., Assoc., 67 Minn. 201, 69 N. W. 889, 64 Am. St. Rep. 410.

Missouri.— Brown v. Archer, 62 Mo. App. 277.

New Hampshire.— Bank Com'rs v. Granite State Provident Assoc., 68 N. H. 554, 44 Atl. 605.

New Jersey.— Moran v. Gray, (N. J. 1897) 38 Atl. 668; Weir v. Granite State Provident Assoc., 56 N. J. Eq. 234, 38 Atl. 643.

North Carolina.—Williams v. Maxwell, 123 N. C. 586, 31 S. E. 821; Strauss v. Carolina Interstate Bldg., etc., Assoc., 117 N. C. 308, 23 S. E. 450, 53 Am. St. Rep. 585, 30 L. R. A. 693.

Pennsylvania.— Strohen v. Franklin Sav., etc., Assoc., 115 Pa. St. 273, 8 Atl. 843; Twin Cities Nat. Bldg., etc., Assoc. v. Lepore, 17 Pa. Co. Ct. 426; State Sav., etc., Assoc. v. Carroll, 15 Pa. Co. Ct. 522.

Tennessee.— Rogers v. Hargo, 92 Tenn. 35, 20 S. W. 430; Southern Bldg., etc., Assoc. v. Easley, (Tenn. Ch. 1900) 59 S. W. 440.

Texas.— Park v. Kribs, (Tex. Civ. App. 1900) 60 S. W. 905.

Wisconsin.— Leahy v. National Bldg., etc., Assoc., 100 Wis. 555, 76 N. W. 625, 69 Am. St. Rep. 945.

United States.—Manorita v. Fidelity Trust, etc., Co., 101 Fed. 8; Douglass v. Kavanaugh, 90 Fed. 373, 62 U. S. App. 38, 33 C. C. A. 107; Sullivan v. Stucky, 86 Fed. 491.

England.— Brownlie v. Russell, 8 App. Cas. 235, 47 J. P. 757, 48 L. T. Rep. N. S. 881.

See 8 Cent. Dig. tit. "Building and Loan Associations," § 66.

25. Marion Trust Co. v. Crescent Loan, etc., Co., 27 Ind. App. 451, 61 N. E. 688, 87 Am. St. Rep. 257; Davis v. West Saratoga Bldg. Union No. 3, 32 Md. 285; Metropolitan Bldg., etc., Assoc. v. Van Pelt, 36 Nebr. 3, 53 N. W. 1031; Grommes v. Sullivan, 81 Fed. 45. Contra, Ashland Banking Co. v. Centralia Mut. Sav. Fund Assoc., 1 Kulp (Pa.) 38.

26. A suit in equity, although a remedy at law exists, may be maintained to compel officers to account for the waste or misapplication of the funds of a building and loan association, as the existence of a remedy at law does not oust a court of equity of its jurisdiction in actions of this nature. Citizens' Loan Assoc. v. Lyon, 29 N. J. Eq. 110.

27. Maintenance after expiration of charter. — Under a statute providing that building

2. PLEADINGS. The complaint in an action on a bond given to a building and loan association is sufficient if it shows that the instalments sued for were due and payable at the time the action was brought.[28] If the action be on a note conditioned for the payment of assessments, the method of making the assessment need not be alleged with particularity.[29]

3. EVIDENCE — PRESUMPTIONS. Where the association sues to recover fines, dues, or assessments from a member or his assignee, evidence tending to show the amount lawfully payable to plaintiff would, of course, be admissible;[30] but where under the charter of an association a borrower is entitled to credit only for the amount paid by him, he cannot, in an action against him to enforce a loan, show the market value of his stock.[31]

4. DEFENSES. As a rule a party who has received the profits incidental to membership in the association or has obtained the benefits of a loan therefrom cannot set up as a defense to an action by such society to enforce its claim against him an irregularity in the adoption of its by-laws, that the whole capital stock had not been taken,[32] or that by reason of non-compliance with some provision of its by-laws or charter the association had no right to make the loan;[33] but where the irregularity alleged amounts to a gross perversion of the spirit and design of such associations may institute, and carry on suits already instituted, for any debt due them, although their charters have expired, a warrant of attorney executed by the officers of an association after the expiration of the charter thereof is sufficient to carry on a suit already instituted. Harmony Bldg. Assoc. v. Berger, 17 Phila. (Pa.) 314, 41 Leg. Int. (Pa.) 280.

28. Buist v. Fitzsimons, 44 S. C. 130, 21 S. E. 610, holding also that where a receiver had been appointed to wind up the affairs of such an association and authorized by the court to bring the action, the mere fact that the association had not carried out its original designs and contracts with defendant would not render the complaint demurrable.

29. Borchus v. Huntington Bldg., etc., Assoc., 97 Ind. 180 [followed in Wohlford v. Citizens' Bldg., Loan & Sav. Assoc., 140 Ind. 662, 40 N. E. 694, 29 L. R. A. 177].

Effect of reference in note to constitution and by-laws.— The fact that a note payable to a building and loan association which is made a part of the complaint contains a stipulation that it was given for money loaned under the constitution, by-laws, and regulations of such association does not by such reference necessitate the inclusion and filing of such by-laws and regulations as a part of the complaint. Anderson Bldg., etc., Assoc. v. Thompson, 88 Ind. 405.

Variance.—Under a complaint drawn on the theory that a member of a building association is in arrears with the principal and interest on his note, and praying a foreclosure of the mortgage securing it, the association cannot recover an assessment made upon the stock of such member, and evidence to this effect will not support the allegation. Cummings v. Citizens' Bldg., etc., Assoc., 142 Ind. 600, 42 N. E. 213.

30. For this purpose the constitution and by-laws of an association, and an order of its board of directors authorizing the assignment of the claim by the holder to the assignee is admissible. Eigenman v. Rockport Bldg., etc., Assoc., 79 Ind. 41, holding also that the secretary of the association might testify to the amount due from defendant without accompanying the statement with data from which it was made, as defendant, if he desired to bring forth the source of the witnesses' information, could do so by cross-examination.

31. Hence evidence of the number of members who had defaulted in the payment of premiums and thereby increased the value of the stock by rendering their stock forfeitable would be wholly irrelevant and inadmissible. Watkins v. Workingmen's Bldg., etc., Assoc., 97 Pa. St. 514.

Presumptions.— In an action by a building association to enforce the payment of premiums and interest by a member, a plea by defendant that the scheme of the association is a device to evade the usury laws must be clearly proved by him, for so long as the transaction between the parties is one of the nature for which the association is chartered, usury will not be presumed. Van Pelt v. Home Bldg., etc., Assoc., 79 Ga. 439, 4 S. E. 501. But on the other hand, a breach of a contract by defendant will not be presumed to aid a complaint of an association, as such breach must be affirmatively alleged and proved as one of the elements of plaintiff's cause of action. Lime City Bldg., etc., Assoc. v. Wagner, 122 Ind. 78, 23 N. E. 689, 17 Am. St. Rep. 342.

32. Morrison v. Dorsey, 48 Md. 461.

33. Indiana.— Poock v. Lafayette Bldg. Assoc., 71 Ind. 357.

Michigan.— Peoples' Bldg., etc., Assoc. v. Billing, 104 Mich. 186, 62 N. W. 373.

Minnesota.— Central Bldg., etc., Assoc. v. Lampson, 60 Minn. 422, 62 N. W. 544.

Ohio.— Hagerman v. Ohio Bldg., etc., Assoc., 25 Ohio St. 186; Victoria Bldg. Assoc. v. Arbeiter Bund, 6 Ohio Dec. (Reprint) 1108, 10 Am. L. Rec. 485.

Tennessee.— Palmer v. Bosley, (Tenn. Ch. 1900) 62 S. W. 195.

organizations,[34] and is ultra vires in that it is in contravention of both statutory and constitutional provisions,[35] the opposite view has been held.

B. Against Association — 1. Right and Nature of. A stock-holder or creditor[36] of a building and loan association is governed in the institution of an action by the laws under which the association was organized,[37] or by conditions in his certificate of membership.[38] Where, however, his right of action exists,[39] the nature thereof will depend upon the relief sought. In some instances he may sue in assumpsit,[40] or in either equity or law at his option;[41] but if an accounting between the members and the association is desired,[42] if illegal acts of association

34. Stiles' Appeal, 95 Pa. St. 122, where it was held that the fact that a building and loan association, having by its charter power to loan only the money in its treasury derived from interest, dues, and fines received from its members, had borrowed money from banks for the purpose of loaning the same, and had also fixed a minimum rate of premium below which they would not accept bids, should be allowed to be shown by the debtor. But it is also held that to constitute such irregularity a good defense, the debtor must show that such acts operate to his detriment, and if it is clear that the minimum rate fixed had nothing to do with the transaction in question it cannot be accepted as a defense. Orangeville Mut. Sav. Fund, etc., Assoc. v. Young, 9 Wkly. Notes Cas. (Pa.) 251.

35. Anderson v. Cleburne Bldg., etc., Assoc., (Tex. App. 1890) 16 S. W. 298.

36. Terms distinguished. — If under the charter and by-laws of a building and loan association the members are mere depositors of money, with the right, after a stated period, to demand a return of the deposits with interest, such members are not, as to the corporation itself and to each other, in any legal sense stock-holders; and after this period is reached and the demand for payment is made, such subscribers are nothing more than ordinary creditors of the association, and hence may demand the enforcement of all equitable remedies appropriate to their demand. Barley v. Gittings, 15 App. Cas. (D. C.) 427.

37. Thus, under a statute providing that not more than one half of the amount received in payment on stock by a building association in a stated period should be used to pay withdrawals without the consent of the board of directors, a member cannot, after having given notice of withdrawal, bring an action for the amount due him, when there are no funds in the treasury legally applicable to the payment of his claim. Heinbokel v. National Sav., etc., Assoc., 58 Minn. 340, 59 N. W. 1050, 49 Am. St. Rep. 519, 25 L. R. A. 215.

Waiver of right by association. — Where, under the by-laws of a building association, it has a right to object to the bringing of an action within sixty days, should it desire further evidence of a claim against it than is furnished in the proof presented, an objection only to the amount due on the claim without any objection to its validity, would constitute a waiver of this right. O'Malley v. People's Bldg., etc., Assoc., 13 Misc. (N. Y.) 688, 35 N. Y. Suppl. 14, 69 N. Y. St. 210.

38. Daley v. People's Bldg., etc., Assoc., 178 Mass. 13, 59 N. E. 452, holding that a condition on the back of a certificate of membership to the effect that an action thereon must be brought in a certain county within the state of New York, which condition was referred to and made a part of the contract, was binding upon the holder, and that the action must be brought as provided by such condition.

39. No right of action exists on certificates of deposits issued by a building association until their maturity, and the fact that the complaint does not show maturity constitutes a good answer to plaintiff's right of action. Emporia Mut. Loan, etc., Assoc. v. Atkinson, 63 Kan. 848, 66 Pac. 995.

The fact that a stock-holder has pledged the stock of a building and loan association as collateral for a loan does not preclude him from suing to restrain unlawful action by the board of directors, as he still has such rights as owner of the equity of redemption as will authorize his interposition. Fisher v. Patton, 134 Mo. 32, 33 S. W. 451, 34 S. W. 1096.

It is unnecessary to surrender the certificates of stock in an action of conversion by the assignee of certain shareholders whose stock had been illegally sold for non-payment of dues and purchased by the association, where the transfer or assignment of such certificates could give the transferee no greater rights than the assignor. Carpenter v. American Bldg. & Loan Assoc., 54 Minn. 403, 56 N. W. 95, 40 Am. St. Rep. 345 [followed in Allen v. American Bldg. & Loan Assoc., 55 Minn. 86, 56 N. W. 577].

40. Haigh v. U. S. Building, etc., Assoc., 19 W. Va. 792, holding that a member who had complied with the constitution and by-laws of the association, and under their provision had duly withdrawn, could recover the amount due him on the common counts in this action, and that no special count was necessary.

41. Fuller v. Salem, etc., Assoc., 10 Gray (Mass.) 94, holding that the statute giving the courts of equity jurisdiction in actions between loan associations and their members was only cumulative, and that a party might proceed at common law where a common-law remedy existed, if he so desired.

42. Myers v. Schoyer, 20 D. C. 254, holding, however, that under such bill the general officials are sought to be restrained,[43] or if the rights and equities of other shareholders are necessarily involved in determining plaintiff's rights,[44] a suit in equity is the proper remedy.

2. PLEADINGS. A complaint stating in substance that plaintiff purchased and paid for a certain number of shares of stock which defendant had neglected and refused to issue, states a sufficient cause of action for a recovery of money paid.[45] So, too, a complaint presumably drawn to recover usury may be sufficient to authorize a recovery for excessive collections.[46] On the other hand, if the contract itself is not usurious at its inception the complaint should allege the existence of facts at that time which would render it so;[47] and if the action be for rescission on the ground of fraudulent representations of the agent, the general rule as to the averment of such representations prevails.[48]

3. EVIDENCE. In an action by a withdrawing member the evidence must be sufficient to show that at the time of the commencement of the action the association had on hand sufficient funds which it could lawfully use for the payment of withdrawals.[49] If the right of a member to withdraw is fixed by the by-laws and certificates of membership issued by the association, evidence that withdrawals had been made in other ways is inadmissible;[50] but a statement of the association's assets prior to the lawful rescission by a stock-holder of his contract would be admissible in his behalf as tending to show the value of his stock.[51]

4. DEFENSES. The fact that an association, while exercising powers analogous to those conferred, may have gone beyond the scope of the statute would not justify its setting up the defense of ultra vires, where it has received the benefit affairs of the association and the rights and liabilities of the members as between themselves or creditors of the association could not be determined.

43. Fisher v. Patton, 134 Mo. 32, 33 S. W. 451, 34 S. W. 1096.

44. Maloney v. Real-Estate Bldg., etc., Assoc., 57 Mo. App. 384; Campbell v. Perth Amboy Mut. Loan, etc., Assoc., (N. J. 1901) 50 Atl. 444. See also O'Rourke v. West Penn. Loan, etc., Assoc., 93 Pa. St. 308 [affirming 14 Phila. (Pa.) 145, 37 Leg. Int. (Pa.) 27].

45. German-American Bldg. Assoc. v. Droge, (Ind. App. 1895) 41 N. E. 397.

46. Pollock v. Carolina Interstate Bldg., etc., Assoc., 48 S. C. 65, 25 S. E. 977, 59 Am. St. Rep. 695.

Allegation for recovery of interest.— Under a provision that a member of a building and loan association may recover the amount paid upon his shares with interest thereon at such rate as the profits or by-laws may have determined, it is necessary, to authorize a recovery of interest, that the rate of interest or a proportion of profits which the by-laws had determined be alleged; but the absence of such allegations would defeat the recovery only for the interest, and not for the amount of the shares. Whitefoot v. National Fraternity Bldg., etc., Assoc., 18 Mont. 164, 44 Pac. 514.

47. Tutwiler v. National Bldg., etc., Assoc., 127 Ala. 103, 28 So. 654.

48. That is that the agent knew them to be false and made them with intent to deceive. Beyer v. National Bldg., etc., Assoc., 131 Ala. 369, 31 So. 113.

Averment of statutory authorization of association.— If, by the provisions of a special statute, a member of an association can recover the amount paid upon his shares only when the association is organized by virtue of this provision, the complaint must allege that the association was formed by virtue of the same. Whitefoot v. National Fraternity Bldg., etc., Assoc., 18 Mont. 164, 44 Pac. 514.

49. Teator v. New York Mut. Sav., etc., Assoc., 59 N. Y. App. Div. 307, 69 N. Y. Suppl. 261, where the evidence as to such showing is examined and held insufficient. See also Broughall v. Savings Fund, 2 Leg. Rec. (Pa.) 384; North Texas Sav., etc., Assoc. v. Jackson, (Tex. Civ. App. 1901) 63 S. W. 344, the latter case holding that evidence that the stock-holder had paid but one hundred and eighty dollars on his stock at the time of the rescission of his contracts, and that the assets of the company were insufficient to bring the value of the stock up to five hundred dollars was insufficient to support a finding that his stock was worth five hundred dollars.

50. American Bldg., etc., Assoc. v. Mordock, 39 Nebr. 413, 58 N. W. 107.

51. Although such statements, when made two years prior to the rescission, would not have great weight as against direct evidence as to the present value. North Texas Sav., etc., Assoc. v. Jackson, (Tex. Civ. App. 1901) 63 S. W. 344.

The constitution, by-laws, and articles of incorporation of a building association may be examined in an action by a stock-holder for a balance due after a sale under foreclosure for the purpose of determining when the mortgage contract terminated. McCahan v. Columbian Bldg. Assoc., 40 Md. 226.

of the transaction.[52] Nor can it plead the improper acts of its officials as a defense against a stock-holder.[53]

5. Judgment. The nature of the judgment rendered is dependent, of course, upon the nature and purpose of plaintiff's action.[54] If of an equitable nature the amount due the association from plaintiff should be ascertained and judgment rendered for the overplus;[55] and where defendant in its answer admits the value of plaintiff's claim, a recovery for that amount is proper, although it be more than the claim alleged by plaintiff.[56]

X. TERMINATION OF ASSOCIATION.

A. In General — 1. By Operation of Law or Agreement. The existence of a building and loan association as a going concern may be terminated by the expiration of its franchise,[57] or upon the accomplishment of the purposes for which it was organized.[58] Such an association may also cease operations by the 52. Peterson v. People's Bldg., etc., Assoc., 124 Mich. 573, 83 N. W. 606, 7 Detroit Leg. N. 344; O'Malley v. People's Bldg., etc., Assoc., 13 Misc. (N. Y.) 688, 35 N. Y. Suppl. 14, 69 N. Y. St. 210.

53. Beethoven Bldg. Assoc. v. Weber, (Pa. 1886) 5 Atl. 235.

The depleted condition of the treasury of an association at the time of the withdrawal of a stock-holder may, under some statutes, preclude him from at once recovering the amount due him, and be pleaded against him as a defense in a suit by him to recover money put in. Male v. Bldg., etc., Assoc., 16 Wkly. Notes Cas. (Pa.) 380. But under this provision it is necessary to aver that the losses and debts by which the amount in the treasury was diminished below a certain amount were incurred before plaintiff withdrew from the association, as he could not be charged with losses occurring after he ceased to be a member thereof. U. S. Building, etc., Assoc. v. Silverman, 85 Pa. St. 394.

54. If the action is for an accounting by members of a loan association and for an allowance of the privilege of remitting loans made by the association to them, the court, after having had an account stated, should render its decree against the members for the amount found to be due from them to the association, and name some reasonable day for its payment, and order the sale of their property on default of such payment. Ricks v. Durant Bldg., etc., Assoc., (Miss. 1895) 18 So. 359.

Judgment by default.— A judgment for want of an affidavit of defense cannot be taken against a building and loan association by a withdrawing member, upon evidence insufficient to entitle him to recover, if only such evidence were placed before a jury. Love v. Building, etc., Assoc., 11 Wkly. Notes Cas. (Pa.) 303. Nor could it be so taken for this reason upon an instrument signed by the association notifying plaintiff that a member had transferred to him a certain number of shares of stock of a specified value, and that notification of withdrawal had been given on the shares and that they would be paid in "regular order of notice," inasmuch as such writing is more in the nature of proof that there was a certificate to which plaintiff was entitled than "an instrument in writing for the payment of money." Newlin v. Milton Bldg., etc., Assoc. No. 2, 9 Wkly. Notes Cas. (Pa.) 220. See also Britton v. American Bldg., etc., Assoc., 12 Phila. (Pa.) 430, 35 Leg. Int. (Pa.) 474.

55. Olliges v. Kentucky Citizens Bldg., etc., Assoc., 23 Ky. L. Rep. 2067, 66 S. W. 617.

56. International Bldg., etc., Assoc. v. Biering, 86 Tex. 476, 25 S. W. 622, 26 S. W. 39.

57. Ferrell v. Evans, 25 Mont. 444, 65 Pac. 714.

A provision that such associations may maintain suits after the expiration of their charter for the purpose of winding up their affairs is not in conflict with the constitutional provision prohibiting the renewal or extension of corporate franchises, inasmuch as such statute does not renew or extend the time of the existence of the association, but simply provides for the collection and distribution of its assets. Cooper v. Oriental Sav., etc., Assoc., 100 Pa. St. 402; Harmony Bldg. Assoc. v. Berger, 17 Phila. (Pa.) 314, 41 Leg. Int. (Pa.) 280.

58. District of Columbia.—Burns v. Metropolitan Bldg. Assoc., 2 Mackey (D. C.) 7, holding that in determining whether or not a building association's assets had reached the aggregate at which its constitution required it to close up, the price bid by the association for real property, bought at public auction, must be taken, as against it, as conclusive of the value thereof, but the real value, if greater, might be shown by witnesses.

Georgia.— Home Bldg., etc., Assoc. v. Van Pelt, 94 Ga. 615, 21 S. E. 606; Van Pelt v. Home Bldg., etc., Assoc., 87 Ga. 370, 13 S. E. 574.

Ohio.— Hagerman v. Ohio Bldg., etc., Assoc., 25 Ohio St. 186.

Pennsylvania.— Laurel Run Bldg. Assoc. v. Sperring, 106 Pa. St. 334.

Virginia.— Cason v. Seldner, 77 Va. 293.

unanimous acquiescence of its members;[59] but unless the charter has expired, or the purpose of organization has been accomplished, the consent of the members must be unanimous,[60] unless the statute authorizes a termination by a lesser number.[61]

2. By Assignment For Benefit of Creditors. While such associations are peculiar in their features,[62] and their affairs, when tangled,[63] may be wound up by a court of equity,[64] there appears to be no good reason why they cannot also make an assignment for the benefit of creditors,[65] and such right has been recognized;[66] but the fact that such assignment has been made is no reason for withholding judgment against the association.[67]

3. Distribution of Assets. While the rights of the members, where there has been a voluntary termination or liquidation, must often be determined by a reference to the charter or by-law provisions of the association,[68] if the affairs are voluntarily wound up before the termination of the charter, or under circum-

59. City Loan, etc., Assoc. v. Goodrich, 48 Ga. 445; Hoboken Bldg. Assoc. v. Martin, 13 N. J. Eq. 427; White Haven Loan, etc., Assoc. v. Kelley, 1 Kulp (Pa.) 9.

60. Barton v. Enterprise Loan, etc., Assoc., 114 Ind. 226, 16 N. E. 486, 5 Am. St. Rep. 608; People v. Love, 47 Hun (N. Y.) 577; Pfaff v. Kensington Bldg. Assoc., 6 Wkly. Notes Cas. (Pa.) 349. To a similar effect see Sumter Bldg., etc., Assoc. v. Winn, 45 S. C. 381, 23 S. E. 29.

61. Eminence Bldg., etc., Assoc. v. Bohannan, 21 Ky. L. Rep. 1589, 55 S. W. 1074, holding that dissolution at the instance of a majority, in pursuance of statute, had the same effect as a termination by expiration of charter.

If the statute requires a two-thirds vote for voluntary liquidation a majority vote is insufficient. Mechanics, etc., Assoc. v. People, 72 Ill. App. 160.

62. Woerheide v. Johnston, 81 Mo. App. 193.

63. The liability to its stock-holders is to be considered in determining whether or not an association is insolvent, so that it may make an assignment for the benefit of creditors (U. S. Building, etc., Assoc. v. Jones, 23 Ky. L. Rep. 853, 64 S. W. 447); and where the association cannot pay the amount due to withdrawing members or obtain funds to lend its stock-holders, and therefore cannot mature its stock, thereby accomplishing the objects for which it was organized, it is insolvent, and may make an assignment (Globe Bldg., etc., Co. v. Wood, 22 Ky. L. Rep. 1500, 60 S. W. 858).

64. See infra, X, B, 1.

65. Woerheide v. Johnston, 81 Mo. App. 193.

66. Globe Bldg., etc., Co. v. Wood, 22 Ky. L. Rep. 1500, 60 S. W. 858; Woerheide v. Johnston, 81 Mo. App. 193; Christian's Appeal, 102 Pa. St. 184; Criswell's Appeal, 100 Pa. St. 488; Kisterbock v. Premium Loan Assoc., 7 Phila. (Pa.) 185.

Directors must be authorized by shareholders.— But the directors have no authority either by statute or at common law to make such assignment without authority from the shareholders, when the association is not in fact insolvent. Powers v. Blue Grass Bldg., etc., Assoc., 86 Fed. 705.

Effect on rights of borrowing member.—An assignment for the benefit of creditors by a building and loan association would preclude the application of payments made by a borrowing stock-holder on his stock subscription, as credits on his loan, although such payments would have been sufficient to extinguish the debt if the stock-holder had sought to have them thus applied prior to the assignment. U. S. Building, etc., Assoc. v. Reed, 23 Ky. L. Rep. 342, 62 S. W. 1020. See also In re National Sav., etc., Assoc., 9 Wkly. Notes Cas. (Pa.) 79, where the general effect of an assignment for the benefit of creditors of such associations and the proper procedure therein is commented upon.

67. Connolly v. Practical Bldg., etc., Assoc., 6 Wkly. Notes Cas. (Pa.) 176.

See, generally, Assignments For Benefit of Creditors.

68. Pioneer Sav., etc., Assoc. v. Wilkins, 14 S. D. 490, 85 N. W. 994 (holding that under the constitution and by-laws of the building association in question it could not be considered as a mutual benefit association, and that therefore a borrower holding a fully matured certificate at the time the association was voluntarily liquidated was entitled to the full amount agreed to be paid thereon, and not to its depreciated value); Brownlie v. Russell, 8 App. Cas. 235, 47 J. P. 757, 48 L. T. Rep. N. S. 881; In re Counties Conservative Permanent Ben. Bldg. Soc. [1900] 2 Ch. 819, 69 L. J. Ch. 798, 49 Wkly. Rep. 71 (where, under the rules of a building society which had been voluntarily wound up, it was held that members whose notices of withdrawal had matured before the winding up were entitled to be paid in full in priority to members whose notices matured after the winding up, and also the members who had given no notice of withdrawal, notwithstanding that such payment would exhaust the whole of the assets of the society); In re Alliance Soc., 28 Ch. D. 559, 54 L. J. Ch. 540, 52 L. T. Rep. N. S. 695.

Effect of charter or by-law provisions in insolvency proceedings see infra, X, B, 5, c, (II).

stances or arrangements whereby the charter provisions are dispensed with, the court endeavors to apportion the expenses, losses, and profits among the members upon the purest principles of equity, as applicable to the facts of each particular case.[69]

B. By Judicial Proceedings — 1. Jurisdiction. Resort may be had to courts of equity not only for the appointment of receivers for building and loan associations, but for the determination of other matters peculiarly applicable to such courts, such as the enforcement of an accounting and the distribution of funds and assets among contending stock-holders.[70]

2. Grounds of Judicial Intervention. While many acts or irregularities do not, of themselves, work a dissolution of the association,[71] they may furnish grounds for the institution of judicial proceedings to restrain the association from further using its corporate rights.[72] So, too, the court will intervene on behalf of a stock-holder or other duly authorized party and appoint a receiver for the association, when it appears that it is unsafe and inexpedient to further continue the business,[73] either because of a loss of public confidence therein,[74] or of its insolvency or mismanagement;[75] but where, by statute, the directors of the association upon

69. Goodrich v. City Loan, etc., Assoc., 54 Ga. 98; City Loan, etc., Assoc. v. Goodrich, 48 Ga. 445 (holding that, even though the rules of the company under the charter were not obnoxious to laws against usury, still, as under the agreement by which the affairs were to be wound up the rules of the charter must be disregarded, it was not competent for the majority to adopt a scheme repudiating the rate of interest prescribed by law between persons having moneyed dealings with each other); Ferrell v. Evans, 25 Mont. 444, 65 Pac. 714 (holding that, where a stock-holder had borrowed from the association, giving a bonus, and the charter of the association had expired before the maturity of the stock, the stock-holder should be credited with so much of the bonus as was unearned, computed by dividing the amount of bonus by the number of months which would be required to mature the stock, and multiplying the quotient by the number of months still to elapse before its maturity); Hoboken Bldg. Assoc. v. Martin, 13 N. J. Eq. 427; People v. Lowe, 117 N. Y. 175, 22 N. E. 1016, 27 N. Y. St. 138 [affirmed in (N. Y. 1890) 23 N. E. 1144].

Priority of deceased members.— Where the rules of a building association contain no provisions as to deceased members, it would seem that whether or not a member gives notice of withdrawal he would, upon his death, cease to be a member, and that therefore his executor would be entitled to be paid in priority to all the members who had given notice of withdrawal subsequent to the death of such member. In re Counties Conservative Permanent Ben. Bldg. Soc., [1900] 2 Ch. 819, 69 L. J. Ch. 798, 49 Wkly. Rep. 71.

70. Sjoberg v. Security Sav., etc., Assoc., 73 Minn. 203, 75 N. W. 1116, 72 Am. St. Rep. 616; Amer v. Union Bldg., etc., Assoc., 50 N. J. Eq. 170, 24 Atl. 552. But see Gormerly v. Port Richmond Bldg., etc., Assoc., 3 Wkly. Notes Cas. (Pa.) 11; Edelin v. Pascoe, 22 Gratt. (Va.) 826.

71. Such as cessation of business (Hoboken Bldg. Assoc. v. Martin, 13 N. J. Eq. 427), neglect to elect officers (St. Louis Domicile, etc., Assoc. v. Augustin, 2 Mo. App. 123; Hoboken Bldg. Assoc. v. Martin, 13 N. J. Eq. 427; Com. v. Cullen, 13 Pa. St. 133, 53 Am. Dec. 450), or a misuser of its franchises (Reg. v. D'Eyncourt, 4 B. & S. 820, 10 Jur. N. S. 513, 28 J. P. 116, 33 L. J. M. C. 89, 9 L. T. Rep. N. S. 712, 3 New Rep. 420, 12 Wkly. Rep. 408, 116 E. C. L. 320).

72. State v. American Sav., etc., Assoc., 64 Minn. 349, 67 N. W. 1.

73. Com. v. Pennsylvania Bldg., etc., Assoc., 20 Pa. Co. Ct. 589.

Appointment discretionary with court.— The general rule that the appointment of a receiver and an order for the winding up of a concern rests largely within the sound discretion of the court applies. Hence such appointment will not be made where no perceptible benefit will result therefrom, or it is not made clear that the intervention of the court is necessary to prevent loss and injury. People v. Union Bldg., etc., Assoc., 127 Cal. 400, 58 Pac. 822, 59 Pac. 692; Steinberger v. Independent Loan, etc., Assoc., 84 Md. 625, 36 Atl. 439; Frostburg Bldg., etc., Assoc. v. Stark, 47 Md. 338; Behrens v. Equality Bldg. Assoc., 3 Ohio S. & C. Pl. Dec. 275; In re Professional, etc., Ben. Bldg. Soc., L. R. 6 Ch. 859, 25 L. T. Rep. N. S. 397, 19 Wkly. Rep. 1153; In re Planet Ben. Bldg., etc., Soc., L. R. 14 Eq. 441, 41 L. J. Ch. 738, 27 L. T. Rep. N. S. 638, 20 Wkly. Rep. 935; In re Second Commercial Bldg. Soc., 48 L. J. Ch. 753; Re London Permanent Ben. Bldg. Soc., 20 L. T. Rep. N. S. 388, 17 Wkly. Rep. 513, 717. See also Barton v. Enterprise Loan, etc., Assoc., 114 Ind. 226, 16 N. E. 486, 5 Am. St. Rep. 608.

74. State v. Phœnix Loan Assoc., 159 Mo. 102, 60 S. W. 74, where, it appearing that the effect of a recent decision of the appellate court was such as to destroy public confidence in the association and jeopardize the rights of its stock-holders, thereby rendering it unsafe and inexpedient to continue the business, a receiver was appointed.

75. Bingham v. Marion Trust Co., (Ind. App. 1901) 61 N. E. 29; Com. v. Penn Germania Bldg., etc., Assoc., 9 Pa. Dist. 617, 6 dissolution for any reason are appointed trustees for the creditors and shareholders, the court will not appoint a receiver, unless it is clear that the complaining party is injured by the action of such trustees.[76]

3. By Whom Instituted. As a rule, an application for the appointment of a receiver and the winding up of the affairs of such association must proceed from persons interested and suing as members,[77] although in some jurisdictions the duty to institute such proceedings is by statute placed upon certain state officials,[78] or the right to so proceed denied the stock-holder until after application and complaint to such official.[79]

4. Pleadings.[80] If the action be to wind up the affairs of the association, all

Lack. Leg. N. (Pa.) 282, 3 Dauph. Co. Rep. (Pa.) 226; Andrews v. Roanoke Bldg. Assoc., etc., Co., 98 Va. 445, 36 S. E. 531, 49 L. R. A. 659; Universal Sav., etc., Co. v. Stoneburner, 113 Fed. 251.

What constitutes insolvency.— The rule in determining whether or not the affairs of a building and loan association are in such condition as to justify its continuance in business is that when its available and collectable assets are not sufficient to pay back to its shareholders who have not filed applications of withdrawal the amount of their actual contributions to the loan fund, and the amount that may be due to withdrawing members that have given notice of withdrawal, the condition is such as to justify a discontinuance of the business unless it appears that such deficiency can readily be made up. People v. National Home Bldg., etc., Assoc., 28 Chic. Leg. N. 207. Or, put in another way, the association is insolvent when it cannot pay back to its stock-holders the amount of their contributions, dollar for dollar. Chapman v. Young, 65 Ill. App. 131; Globe Bldg., etc., Co. v. Wood, 22 Ky. L. Rep. 1500, 60 S. W. 858; Towle v. American Bldg., etc., Soc., 61 Fed. 446. But see Sjoberg v. Security Sav., etc., Assoc., 73 Minn. 203, 75 N. W. 1116, 72 Am. St. Rep. 616; Knutson v. Northwestern Loan, etc., Assoc., 67 Minn. 201, 69 N. W. 889, 64 Am. St. Rep. 410, from which it seems that where there are no general creditors or liabilities of the association except to its stock-holders on account of their stock, the inability of the association to pay back the amount actually paid in by such stock-holders would not constitute insolvency in the sense that the word is used in the statute of that state, providing for the appointment of a receiver.

Effect of subsequent solvency.— If after the institution of proceedings the association has been made solvent by lawful assessments against the stock-holders, which assessments are duly charged to their credits, and the auditor of public accounts and the stock-holders approve of such action, the attorney-general cannot complain of the refusal of the court to order the dissolution. Broadwell v. Inter-Ocean Homestead & Loan Assoc., 161 Ill. 327, 43 N. E. 1067 [followed in Continental Invest., etc., Soc. v. People, 167 Ill. 195, 47 N. E. 381]. See also Com. v. Industrial Bldg., etc., Assoc., 25 Pa. Co. Ct. 11.

76. Ferrell v. Evans, 25 Mont. 444, 65 Pac. 714. See also Sjoberg v. Security Sav., etc., Assoc., 73 Minn. 203, 75 N. W. 1116, 72 Am. St. Rep. 616.

77. Bingham v. Marion Trust Co., (Ind. App. 1901) 61 N. E. 29; Bowker v. Mill River Loan Fund Assoc., 7 Allen (Mass.) 100 (where such application was denied a mere debtor, bound under his agreement to repay in full his obligation); In re Professional, etc., Ben. Bldg. Soc., L. R. 6 Ch. 856, 25 L. T. Rep. N. S. 397, 19 Wkly. Rep. 1153. See also Re National Permanent Bldg. Soc., L. R. 5 Ch. 309, 34 J. P. 341, 22 L. T. Rep. N. S. 284, 18 Wkly. Rep. 388.

78. Ulmer v. Falmouth Loan, etc., Assoc., 93 Me. 302, 45 Atl. 32 (where, under the statute, it was held that the power of invoking the interference of the court was vested in the bank examiner alone, and that he only could pray for an injunction and a receiver); State v. Flitcraft, (Mo. 1896) 36 S. W. 675 (construing the statute by virtue of which the state treasurer was ex officio supervisor of all such associations, and holding that under the provisions thereof the supervisor whose duty it was to institute such proceedings might have the same dismissed or stricken from the docket without the knowledge or consent of the attorney-general whose duty it was to conduct such proceedings; the provision that such suits should be conducted by the attorney-general being construed as not mandatory). See also Kelly v. Building Assoc., 1 Wkly. Notes Cas. (Pa.) 218, where it appears that proceedings for the dissolution of a building association should be instituted by the attorney-general.

79. Waiver of statutory requirements.— A statute of this nature is for the purpose of protecting the association from captious and vexatious litigation, instituted by shareholders, and the association may waive such provision by submitting itself to the jurisdiction of the court. Hence the objection that the statute had not been complied with cannot be made after answer and upon a hearing in the higher court to reverse the action of the chancellor in appointing a receiver. Falls v. Anglo-Teutonia Bldg., etc., Assoc., 105 Tenn. 18, 58 S. W. 325.

80. Intervening petitioners who desire to be declared special creditors in insolvency proceedings will not be held to the same strictness of allegations as the original suitors in the proceedings. Christopher Columbus Bldg., etc., Assoc. v. Kriete, 192 Ill. 128, 61 N. E. 510 [modifying 87 Ill. App. 51].

shareholders should be made parties thereto.[81] If to restrain the continuance of its business because of mismanagement and illegal practice, the acts of mismanagement should be specifically shown, and the failure to correct such practices within the time allowed by law should be averred.[82] If to forfeit the charter, the specific violations of the statute should be alleged.[83]

5. Effect of Insolvency — a. In General. Upon the insolvency of a building and loan association, the obligation of the members for the payment of dues and assessments at once ceases,[84] the debts of the members become due and collectable,[85] the purpose of the organization is abandoned, and nothing remains to be done except to make settlement and distribution.[86]

b. Powers and Duties of Receivers. The receiver of an insolvent building and loan association represents the affairs and interests of both the creditors and stock-holders.[87] He may ascertain the amount of losses and make assessments to meet the same,[88] and, under the approval of the court, may make such settlements with borrowing stock-holders as the association itself could have made had it been a going concern;[89] but as it is his duty to wind up the affairs, rather than to continue the association, he is without authority to collect dues maturing after his appointment.[90] An assignment of the corporate property after his appointment would be void as against him.[91]

c. Distribution of Assets — (1) In General. The interposition of the court necessarily carries with it the power to collect and distribute the assets among the interested parties,[92] whose rights are determined by the law of the state of the association's domicile, where such law has been authoritatively declared.[93] It follows, therefore, that different rules of distribution may be applied in different jurisdictions,[94] and the method which would be applicable were the association solvent does not necessarily apply where it is insolvent,[95] although it has been 81. Arling v. Kenton Bldg., etc., Assoc., 26 Am. L. Reg. N. S. 273; Cason v. Seldner, 77 Va. 293.

82. People v. National Home Bldg., etc., Loan Assoc., 28 Chic. Leg. N. 207.

83. State v. Southern Bldg., etc., Assoc., (Ala. 1902) 31 So. 375.

84. Hinman v. Ryan, 3 Ohio Cir. Ct. 529; Johnston v. Grosvenor, 105 Tenn. 353, 59 S. W. 1028. See also supra, VI, C, 2.

85. Young v. Martinsburg Imp. Loan, etc., Assoc., 48 W. Va. 512, 38 S. E. 670.

86. No. 2 Fidelity Bldg., etc., Sav. Union v. No. 4 Fidelity Bldg., etc., Union, (Ind. App. 1901) 61 N. E. 213 [citing Alexander v. Southern Home Bldg., etc., Assoc., 110 Fed. 267].

87. Bingham v. Marion Trust Co., (Ind. App. 1901) 61 N. E. 29.

88. Eversmann v. Schmitt, 53 Ohio St. 174, 41 N. E. 139, 53 Am. St. Rep. 632, 29 L. R. A. 184.

89. Miles v. New South Bldg., etc., Assoc., 111 Fed. 946, where it is said that where there is a large number of borrowing stockholders it is permissible and advisable in the interest of economical administration and to facilitate settlements without litigation to authorize the receiver in limine to make a uniform allowance to the borrowing stockholders as a credit on their indebtedness, where it is possible to make such allowance without endangering the rights of other parties in interest.

90. Strohen v. Franklin Sav. Fund, etc., Assoc., 115 Pa. St. 273, 8 Atl. 843 [followed in Heyne v. Franklin Sav. Fund, etc., Assoc., (Pa. 1887) 8 Atl. 845].

91. Hinman v. Ryan, 3 Ohio Cir. Ct. 529.

92. Hedley v. Geissler, 90 Ill. App. 565.

93. Coltrane v. Baltimore Bldg., etc., Assoc., 110 Fed. 293.

94. See supra, VIII, H, 8, d.

95. Illinois.— Chapman v. Young, 65 Ill. App. 131.

Indiana.— No. 2 Fidelity Bldg., etc., Union v. No. 4 Fidelity Bldg., etc., Union, (Ind. App. 1901) 61 N. E. 213.

Iowa.— Spinney v. Miller, 114 Iowa 210, 86 N. W. 317, holding that therefore a stipulation in a mortgage to a building and loan association that it is to be non-negotiable and non-collectable by any other person than the association does not preclude a receiver from collecting the same.

Kentucky.— Reddick v. U. S. Building, etc., Assoc., 106 Ky. 94, 20 Ky. L. Rep. 1720, 49 S. W. 1075.

Maryland.— See Waverly Mut., etc., Assoc. v. Buck, 64 Md. 338, 1 Atl. 561, holding that when any alteration in the original relations of the parties had created an exigency demanding the intervention of the court, it will enforce the rights upon equitable grounds.

North Dakota.— Hale v. Cairns, 8 N. D. 145, 77 N. W. 1010, 73 Am. St. Rep. 746, 44 L. R. A. 261.

West Virginia.—Young v. Martinsburg Imp. Loan, etc., Assoc., 48 W. Va. 512, 38 S. E. 670.

United States.— Coltrane v. Baltimore Bldg., etc., Assoc., 110 Fed. 272.

held that the liability of a member to contribute to losses is proportioned to his charter right to share in the profits.[96] After payment of the debts of the association borrowing members are entitled to share the residue on final distribution,[97] pro rata with non-borrowers.[98] If dividends have been paid on certain stock when the association was in fact insolvent, the receiver should deduct such amount in settling with the holders of such stock.[99] In such proceedings the court may also consider the speedy collection of the assets as well as the strict equities of the parties.[1]

(II) PRIORITIES. After the ordinary costs of winding up the association are paid,[2] interested parties occupying the position of general creditors are entitled to be paid in preference to those whose claims are founded upon the relation which they sustain to the association as members thereof,[3] unless the irregular acts of

This does not mean that mere insolvency will justify the abrogation of an express contract between the association and one of its members, and the substitution for such contract of some arrangement which a court may deem equitable, where the party stands ready and willing to perform his part of the contract. Armstrong v. U. S. Building, etc., Assoc., 15 App. Cas. (D. C.) 1. See also Miles v. New South Bldg., etc., Assoc., 111 Fed. 946, holding, where a charter of a building and loan association provided for the division of its capital stock into two classes, the distinction between the two funds was always maintained, and they were kept separate by the association during all the time it was a going concern, that in proceedings to wind up the association, neither class of stock-holders would have any right or interest in the funds so expressly appropriated to the other, or in the assets belonging to such fund.

In England no distinction seems to be made, so far as the prescribed rules by which the rights of the parties are to be determined are concerned, between voluntary and involuntary liquidations. Walton v. Edge, 10 App. Cas. 33, 49 J. P. 468, 54 L. J. Ch. 362, 52 L. T. Rep. N. S. 666, 33 Wkly. Rep. 417; In re Blackburn, etc., Ben. Bldg. Soc., 24 Ch. D. 421, 52 L. J. Ch. 894, 49 L. T. Rep. N. S. 730, 32 Wkly. Rep. 159; Re Norwich, etc., Provident Bldg. Soc., 45 L. J. Ch. 785; Re Middlesbrough, etc., Permanent Ben. Bldg. Soc., 53 L. T. Rep. N. S. 203.

96. In re Building Assoc., 5 Ohio S. & C. Pl. Dec. 556, 7 Ohio N. P. 518.

97. Young v. Martinsburg Imp. Loan, etc., Assoc., 48 W. Va. 512, 38 S. E. 670.

98. Brown v. Archer, 62 Mo. App. 277; Strohen v. Franklin Sav. Fund, etc., Assoc., 115 Pa. St. 273, 8 Atl. 843 [followed in Heyne v. Franklin Sav. Fund, etc., Assoc., (Pa. 1887) 8 Atl. 845]; Post v. Mechanics' Bldg., etc., Assoc., 97 Tenn. 408, 37 S. W. 216, 34 L. R. A. 201.

99. Bingham v. Marion Trust Co., (Ind. App. 1901) 61 N. E. 29.

Where a borrowing stock-holder has made a settlement with the association and is credited with his share of the profits, and thereupon renews his loan for a balance owing the association, the court will not, in the insolvency proceedings, go back of such settlement in computing the amount due the association. Tootle v. Singer, (Iowa 1901) 88 N. W. 446.

1. Alexander v. Southern Home Bldg., etc., Assoc., 110 Fed. 267, where it was held permissible in the winding up of the affairs of an insolvent association to compute the probable dividends which would be payable to the borrowing stock-holders, and to allow the same as credits on their loans rather as a compromise to aid in the speedy collection of the assets than as a matter of right or strict equity. See also Young v. Martinsburg Imp. Loan, etc., Assoc., 48 W. Va. 512, 38 S. E. 670.

2. In re West London, etc., Ben. Bldg. Soc., [1894] 2 Ch. 352, 63 L. J. Ch. 506, 70 L. T. Rep. N. S. 796, 8 Reports 764, 42 Wkly. Rep. 535.

3. Cook v. Emmet Perpetual, etc., Bldg. Assoc., 90 Md. 284, 44 Atl. 1022; Steinberger v. Independent Loan, etc., Assoc., 84 Md. 625, 36 Atl. 439; Christian's Appeal, 102 Pa. St. 184; Criswell's Appeal, 100 Pa. St. 488; McKean v. New York Nat. Bldg., etc., Assoc., 10 Pa. Dist. 197, 24 Pa. Co. Ct. 458, 7 Lack. Leg. N. (Pa.) 28; In re Mutual Aid Permanent Ben. Bldg. Soc., 30 Ch. D. 434, 55 L. J. Ch. 111, 53 L. T. Rep. N. S. 802, 34 Wkly. Rep. 143; In re Blackburn, etc., Ben. Bldg. Soc., 24 Ch. D. 421, 52 L. J. Ch. 894, 49 L. T. Rep. N. S. 730, 32 Wkly. Rep. 159; Re Norwich, etc., Provident Bldg. Soc., 45 L. J. Ch. 785; Re Middlesbrough, etc., Permanent Ben. Bldg. Soc., 53 L. T. Rep. N. S. 203.

What constitutes a creditor.— The holder of a certificate lawfully and authoritatively issued by a building association showing that he had paid a certain sum on which he is entitled to interest, and which is to be redeemable at its face value, and that such holders by the acceptance of the certificate waived all benefits in the earnings of the organization above the interest, is a creditor and entitled to priority of payment before the assets are distributed among the stock-holders, such certificate being a direct obligation for the payment of money, and not a certificate of stock. State v. Phœnix Loan Assoc., 86 Mo. App. 301. So, too, a stock-holder who, upon the maturity of his stock, allows the amount due thereon to remain as a deposit with the association under an agreement with its directors the creditor caused the insolvency;[4] but the courts are inclined to treat the rights of all those holding the relation of stock-holders as equal and to allow no priorities in their claims.[5] This is true, notwithstanding the stock-holder has given notice of withdrawal,[6] although such notice has matured and he has received orders from the treasurer for the payment of the withdrawal value of his stock;[7] but where the rules and by-laws of the association are held to govern the distribution in insolvency the same as when the association was a going concern the rule may be otherwise.[8]

that interest is to be paid thereon, is a creditor and entitled to priority upon the distribution of the assets in insolvency. Com. v. Anchor Bldg., etc., Assoc., 10 Pa. Dist. 167, holding also that the president and directors of such association having become indorsers on notes given by the association, the proceeds of which were applied to its interest, would occupy the position of creditors, notwithstanding the amount borrowed was in excess of that authorized by law.

4. Kisterbock's Appeal, 51 Pa. St. 483, where the cause of the insolvency being the fraudulent acts of the directors in declaring illegal dividends, the claim of a director who had loaned money to the association for the purpose of paying such dividends was postponed until the claims of the stock-holders were satisfied; the court acting on the theory that inasmuch as someone must lose, it should be the participant in the fraud rather than an innocent stock-holder.

5. Illinois.— Christopher Columbus Bldg., etc., Assoc. v. Kriete, 192 Ill. 128, 61 N. E. 510 [modifying 87 Ill. App. 51]; Mutual Loan, etc., Assoc. v. Stolz, 93 Ill. App. 164.

Indiana.— MacMurray v. Sidwell, 155 Ind. 560, 58 N. E. 722, 80 Am. St. Rep. 255; No. 2 Fidelity Bldg., etc., Union v. No. 4 Fidelity Bldg., etc., Union, 27 Ind. App. 325, 61 N. E. 213.

Missouri.— Hohenshell v. Home Sav., etc., Assoc., 140 Mo. 566, 41 S. W. 948.

North Carolina.— Heggie v. People's Bldg., etc., Assoc., 107 N. C. 581, 12 S. E. 275.

Pennsylvania.— Criswell's Appeal, 100 Pa. St. 488 (holding that holders of matured stock would share pro rata with holders of unmatured stock after the claims of depositors and creditors had been satisfied); In re National Sav., etc., Assoc., 9 Wkly. Notes Cas. (Pa.) 79.

Tennessee.— Post v. Mechanics', Bldg., etc., Assoc., 97 Tenn. 408, 37 S. W. 216, 34 L. R. A. 201.

Texas.—Price v. Kendall, 14 Tex. Civ. App. 26, 36 S. W. 810.

Wisconsin.— Leahy v. National Bldg., etc., Assoc., 100 Wis. 555, 76 N. W. 625, 69 Am. St. Rep. 945.

United States.— Coltrane v. Baltimore Bldg., etc., Assoc., 110 Fed. 272; Towle v. American Bldg., etc., Assoc., 75 Fed. 938.

Holders of full-paid or paid-up stock.— A person holding what is known as "full-paid stock," or "paid-up stock," is nevertheless a member of the association, and is entitled to no preference over other members when the association becomes insolvent, in the absence of any stipulations in the charter or by-laws giving such preference. Gibson v. Safety Homestead, etc., Assoc., 170 Ill. 44, 48 N. E. 580, 39 L. R. A. 202; Mutual Union Loan, etc., Assoc. v. Stolz, 93 Ill. App. 164; Hohenshell v. Home Sav., etc., Assoc., 140 Mo. 566, 41 S. W. 948; Leahy v. National Bldg., etc., Assoc., 100 Wis. 555, 76 N. W. 625, 69 Am. St. Rep. 945; Coltrane v. Baltimore Bldg., etc., Assoc., 110 Fed. 272; Towle v. American Bldg., etc., Assoc., 75 Fed. 938. See also supra, V, A, 3.

Where one shareholder has made an advance and has at the same time contributed his share of dues and instalments as they have fallen due, it is plain that from the fund to be distributed he should receive the advance which he has thus made, inasmuch as the other shareholders had in no way contributed to that part of the fund. Munhall v. Boedecker, 44 Ill. App. 131.

6. Gibson v. Safety Homestead, etc., Assoc., 170 Ill. 44, 48 N. E. 580, 39 L. R. A. 202; Dooling v. Smith, 89 Ill. App. 26; Chapman v. Young, 65 Ill. App. 131; Reddick v. U. S. Building, etc., Assoc., 106 Ky. 94, 20 Ky. L. Rep. 1720, 49 S. W. 1075; Coltrane v. Baltimore Bldg., etc., Assoc., 110 Fed. 272; Alexander v. Southern Home Bldg., etc., Assoc., 110 Fed. 267.

7. Provided the withdrawing stock-holder should not be required to share losses resulting from mismanagement after he had ceased to be an active member. Christian's Appeal, 102 Pa. St. 184 [approved in Hohenshell v. Home Sav., etc., Assoc., 140 Mo. 566, 41 S. W. 948].

8. Walton v. Edge, 10 App. Cas. 33, 49 J. P. 468, 54 L. J. Ch. 362, 52 L. T. Rep. N. S. 666, 33 Wkly. Rep. 417; Sibun v. Pearce, 44 Ch. D. 354, 62 L. T. Rep. N. S. 388; In re Blackburn, etc., Ben. Bldg. Soc., 24 Ch. D. 421, 52 L. J. Ch. 894, 49 L. T. Rep. N. S. 730, 32 Wkly. Rep. 159; Re Norwich, etc., Provident Bldg. Soc., 45 L. J. Ch. 785; Re Middlesbrough, etc., Permanent Ben. Bldg. Soc., 53 L. T. Rep. N. S. 203. See also Coltrane v. Baltimore Bldg., etc., Assoc., 110 Fed. 272, 280, where the court, after reviewing the American cases upon the subject, say: "After all the reasoning of the English and American courts is boiled down, it comes very much to this: The American courts say that it is clear that the provisions of the by-laws were not intended to apply to insolvent associations. The provisions of the by-laws governing withdrawals, like many of the pro-

BUILDING ASSOCIATION. See BUILDING AND LOAN SOCIETIES.

BUILDING LEASE. A lease of land for a long term of years, usually ninety-nine, at a rent called a "ground rent," the lessee covenanting to erect certain edifices thereon according to specification, and to maintain the same, etc., during the term.[1]

BUILDING SOCIETY. See BUILDING AND LOAN SOCIETIES.

BUILT. Constructed;[2] completed for the purpose intended.[3]

BULL. The male of the bovine genus of animals.[4] In the language of the stock exchange, one who speculates for a rise in the market.[5] (See, generally, ANIMALS.)

BULLA. The name of the leaden seal which is affixed to the Pope's ordinances or decrees, imparting to them the term by which they are known of Papal Bulls.[6]

BULLION. Uncoined gold and silver in the mass;[7] uncoined gold and silver, either smelted, refined, or in the condition in which it is used for coining.[8] (Bullion: As Medium of Payment, see PAYMENT.)

visions of the by-laws with reference to the borrowing members, are obviously intended and equitably applicable only so long as the association is a going concern, from which all the members may ultimately hope and expect to receive approximately equal benefits. The English courts say that the by-laws do not provide that members whose notices of withdrawal have matured before the association has ceased doing business shall upon its subsequent ceasing to do business be deprived of the right to be paid in full. . . . The real question to be considered, therefore, by this court, is which rule would practically be the most equitable, and the least liable to abuse. Members who have given notice of withdrawal are distinguished from the other members of the association merely by that fact. They are entitled to no extra privileges, because they are exposed to no extra burdens over those of all their fellow stockholders. . . . It is admitted that when the association goes into the hands of a receiver the right to give further notices of withdrawal ceases. Why should not the right cease as well to be paid on notices of withdrawal already given? Equality is equity. . . . The safe and equitable rule, as it seems to me, is that which has in the last few years received rapid and almost general recognition from the American courts, and that is that if a member gives a notice of withdrawal which matures when the association is actually insolvent, although its insolvency may not be known or suspected by the person giving such notice, and before the member giving the notice is paid the withdrawal value of his stock, the association ceases to do business and is wound up in equity as an insolvent corporation, such member has no priority over other stockholders."

1. Black L. Dict.

2. Hutchinson v. Olympia, 2 Wash. Terr. 314, 320, 5 Pac. 606; U. S. v. Dalles Military Road Co., 51 Fed. 629, 636, 7 U. S. App. 297, 2 C. C. A. 419.

3. The Paradox, 61 Fed. 860, 861.

4. State v. McMinn, 34 Ark. 160, 162 [citing Webster Dict.]. The uncastrated animal is so called as distinguished from the castrated animal or STEER, q. v. State v. Royster, 65 N. C. 539.

5. Wharton L. Lex.

6. Counsel v. Vulture Min. Co., 5 Daly (N. Y.) 74, 78, where it is said: "Bulla in the Latin meant any small object rounded by art, such as a boss or stud in a girdle, and was originally the small thin circular plate of gold or other metal, with some insignia or device engraved or stamped upon it, which was worn suspended from the neck by the children of Roman patricians as their distinguishing mark, and afterwards by all Roman children who were of free birth. From this origin it came in time to be used in the Latin for the seal hanging by a band to a legal instrument, or to the executive decrees of sovereigns or other public functionaries, as well as the term for the matrix or die with which a seal was impressed or a coin was stamped."

7. Thalheim v. State, 38 Fla. 169, 204, 20 So. 938; 1 Hale P. C. 188.

8. Counsel v. Vulture Min. Co., 5 Daly (N. Y.) 74, 77, where it is said that it "has, from the earliest period, been associated with or employed as a term denoting money. It is derived from the French word billon, which Savary, in his Dictionnaire Universal de Commerce, defines as a term for money, 'Terme de Monnoye;' and one of the earliest English authorities upon those words that are derived from the French, Cotgrave, in his French and English Dictionary of 1632, defines bullion, 'money, Monnoye de billon.' Bayley, more than a century afterwards, defines it in his English Dictionary of 1763, 'money having no stamp upon it;' and our own contemporary authority, Webster, says, 'the word is often used to denote gold and silver coined and uncoined, when reckoned by weight and in mass, including especially foreign or uncurrent coin' (Webster's Dict. Unabridged of 1864); and Locke, in his paper on Raising the Value of Money, so employs the word in this passage. 'Foreign coin hath no value here for its stamp, and our coin is bullion in foreign countries.'"

BUM-BAILIFF. A person employed to dun one for a debt; the bailiff employed to arrest for debt.[9] (See, generally, BOUND-BAILIFF.)

BURDEN OF PROOF. See CRIMINAL LAW; EVIDENCE.

BURGESS. An inhabitant or freeman of a borough; an elector or voter; a representative or magistrate of a borough.[10] (See, generally, MUNICIPAL CORPORATIONS.)

BURGLARITER. Burglariously. In old criminal pleading a necessary word in indictments for burglary.[11] (See, generally, BURGLARY.)

9. Wharton L. Lex.
10. Burrill L. Dict.
11. Burrill L. Dict.

BURGLARY

By Arthur Lee

CROSS-REFERENCES

For Civil Liability For Unlawful Entry of Premises, see FORCIBLE ENTRY AND DETAINER; TRESPASS.

Criminal Responsibility For Entering Premises Without Intent to Commit Other Offense, see FORCIBLE ENTRY AND DETAINER; TRESPASS.

General Matters Relating to Criminal Law and Criminal Procedure, see CRIMINAL LAW.

I. DEFINITION.

Burglary as a common-law offense is the breaking and entering of the dwelling-house of another, in the night-time, with the intent to commit a felony therein,[1] whether the felony is committed or not.[2] But in most jurisdictions, as will appear in the following subdivisions, the offense has been extended by statute so as to include breaking and entries which were not burglary at common law.[3]

II. NATURE AND ELEMENTS OF THE OFFENSE.

A. In General — 1. At Common Law. At common law burglary is a felony.[4] And it is an offense against the habitation, and not against the property.[5] The following are the essential elements of the offense at common law: (1) a breaking, (2) and entry, (3) of the dwelling-house (4) of another, (5) in the night-time, (6) with intent to commit a felony therein.[6]

2. Under the Statutes — a. In General. There is probably no jurisdiction in which statutes are not now in force extending the offense of burglary beyond the common-law definition. In most jurisdictions it has been extended so as to include breaking and entering shops, warehouses, and other premises, thus

1. Burglary defined.— 4 Bl. Comm. 224; 1 East P. C. 495; 1 Hale P. C. 358, 559; 1 Hawkins P. C. c. 38, § 1; 3 Inst. 63. Among the cases in which burglary has been in substance or literally defined as above see:

Alabama.— Anderson v. State, 48 Ala. 665, 17 Am. Rep. 36; State v. McCall, 4 Ala. 643, 39 Am. Dec. 314.

Maryland.— Robinson v. State, 53 Md. 151, 36 Am. Rep. 399.

Massachusetts.— Com. v. Newell, 7 Mass. 245.

New Jersey.— State v. Wilson, 1 N. J. L. 502, 1 Am. Dec. 216.

New York.— People v. Edwards, 1 Wheel. Crim. (N. Y.) 371.

Tennessee.—Wyatt v. State, 2 Swan (Tenn.) 394.

Texas.— Wilburn v. State, 41 Tex. 237.

Virginia.— Clarke v. Com., 25 Gratt. (Va.) 508.

See 8 Cent. Dig. tit. "Burglary," § 1.

2. See infra, II, G, 5.

"A burglar is he that in the night time breaketh and entereth into a mansion house of another of intent to kill some reasonable creature, or to commit some other felony within the same, whether his felonious intent be executed or not. 3 Inst. 63; In re McVey, 50 Nebr. 481, 70 N. W. 51; Conners v. State, 45 N. J. L. 340; People v. McCloskey, 5 Parker Crim. (N. Y.) 57.

"The word burglary," says Mr. Chitty in his excellent and accurate treatise on criminal law, "is a compound of the Saxon term burgh, a house, and laron, theft; and originally signified no more than the robbery of a dwelling; and it is now defined to be the breaking and entering the house of another in the night-time with intent to commit a felony, whether the felony be actually committed or not." Anderson v. State, 48 Ala. 665, 666, 17 Am. Rep. 36.

3. See infra, II, A, 2.

4. 3 Inst. 63; 4 Bl. Comm. 228; 1 Hawkins P. C. c. 38, § 1.

5. See infra, II, E.

6. See State v. Wilson, 1 N. J. L. 502, 1 Am. Dec. 216; and further as to the elements of the offense, infra, II, B, C, D, F, G.

making it an offense against property, and not merely against the habitation,[7] and so as to include entry without breaking,[8] breaking and entry in the daytime,[9] etc. It is generally a felony under the statutes, but in some states certain housebreakings are misdemeanors only. In some states the offense is divided into different degrees, and the punishment graded according to the circumstances.

b. Construction of the Statutes. Sometimes a statute punishing burglary does not define it, and when this is so the common-law definition applies. When a statute does define the offense it is of course controlling, however much it may restrict or extend the offense,[10] but terms used in the statute, like "breaking," "entry," "dwelling-house," etc., are to be given the same meaning as at common law, unless there is something to show a different intention.[11]

B. The Breaking — 1. Necessity For a Breaking. To constitute burglary at common law, and also under the statutes, unless a contrary intention appears, there must be some breaking of the house, either actual or constructive. An entry through an open door, window, or other aperture, although there may be an intent to commit a felony, is not enough,[12] unless the entry is effected under

7. See infra, II, E.
8. See infra, II, B.
9. See infra, II, D.
10. People v. Barry, 94 Cal. 481, 29 Pac. 1026; Neubrandt v. State, 53 Wis. 89, 9 N. W. 82.
11. Alabama.— Walker v. State, 63 Ala. 49, 35 Am. Rep. 1; Ex p. Vincent, 26 Ala. 145, 62 Am. Dec. 714.
Illinois.— Schwabacher v. People, 165 Ill. 618, 46 N. E. 809.
Indiana.— Sims v. State, 136 Ind. 358, 36 N. E. 278.
Michigan.— Pitcher v. People, 16 Mich. 142.
Nebraska.— McGrath v. State, 25 Nebr. 780, 41 N. W. 780.
New York.— Quinn v. People, 71 N. Y. 561, 27 Am. Rep. 87.
Ohio.— Timmons v. State, 34 Ohio St. 426, 32 Am. Rep. 376.
Virginia.— Finch v. Com., 14 Gratt. (Va.) 643.
Wisconsin.—Nicholls v. State, 68 Wis. 416, 32 N. W. 543, 60 Am. Rep. 870.
England.— Reg. v. Wenmouth, 8 Cox C. C. 348.
See 8 Cent. Dig. tit. "Burglary," § 2.
12. Alabama.—Miller v. State, 77 Ala. 41; Green v. State, 68 Ala. 539; Carter v. State, 68 Ala. 96; Ray v. State, 66 Ala. 281; Stone v. State, 63 Ala. 115; Walker v. State, 63 Ala. 49, 35 Am. Rep. 1; Brown v. State, 55 Ala. 123, 28 Am. Rep. 693; Pines v. State, 50 Ala. 153.
Delaware.— State v. Fisher, 1 Pennew. (Del.) 303, 41 Atl. 208.
Georgia.— White v. State, 51 Ga. 285.
Kentucky.— Rose v. Com., 19 Ky. L. Rep. 272, 40 S. W. 245.
Maine.— State v. Newbegin, 25 Me. 500.
Massachusetts.— See also Com. v. Strupney, 105 Mass. 588, 7 Am. Rep. 556; Com. v. Trimmer, 1 Mass. 476; Com. v. Steward, 7 Dane Abr. 136.
Missouri.— State v. Kennedy, 16 Mo. App. 287.
Nebraska.— McGrath v. State, 25 Nebr. 780, 41 N. W. 780.
New Hampshire.— State v. Moore, 12 N. H. 42.
New Jersey.— State v. Wilson, 1 N. J. L. 502, 1 Am. Dec. 216.
North Carolina.— State v. Whit, 49 N. C. 349; State v. Boon, 35 N. C. 244, 57 Am. Dec. 555.
Ohio.— Timmons v. State, 34 Ohio St. 426, 32 Am. Rep. 376; State v. Rivers, 2 Ohio Dec. (Reprint) 102, 1 West. L. Month. 387.
Tennessee.— Adkinson v. State, 5 Baxt. (Tenn.) 569, 30 Am. Rep. 69.
Texas.— Mathews v. State, 36 Tex. 675; Smith v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1901) 60 S. W. 668. And see St. Louis v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1900) 59 S. W. 889. See infra, II, B, 2, g, (v).
Virginia.—Clarke v. Com., 25 Gratt. (Va.) 908; Hunter v. Com., 7 Gratt. (Va.) 641, 56 Am. Dec. 121.
England.— Rex v. Smith, Car. C. L. 293, 1 Moody 178; Rex v. Hyams, 7 C. & P. 441, 32 E. C. L. 697; Rex v. Lewis, 2 C. & P. 628, 12 E. C. L. 773; Reg. v. Davis, 6 Cox C. C. 369; Rex v. Hughes, 2 East P. C. 491, 1 Leach C. C. 452; Rex v. Spriggs, 1 M. & Rob. 357; 4 Bl. Comm. 226; 1 Hale P. C. 551, 552; 1 Hawkins P. C. c. 38, §§ 3, 4.
Victoria.— Reg. v. Payne, 13 Vict. L. R. 359.
See 8 Cent. Dig. tit. "Burglary," § 1.
For a guest at an inn to enter the bar-room and steal money is not burglary, when there is no breaking or opening of doors to enter. State v. Moore, 12 N. H. 42.
Hole in the roof.— To enter through a hole in the roof of a house, left there for the purpose of light, is not burglary. Rex v. Spriggs, 1 M. & Rob. 357.
Other cases.— The same is true of an entry through an open transom (McGrath v. State, 25 Nebr. 780, 41 N. W. 780); or through a hole left in a cellar window for the purpose of light (Rex v. Lewis, 2 C. & P. 628, 12 E. C. L. 773); or by removing a loose plank in a partition wall (Com. v. Trimmer, 1 Mass. 476); or by putting the hand or an instrument through an existing hole in a corn-crib and removing corn (Miller v. State, 77 Ala. 41).
Window slightly raised by the accused in such circumstances that there is a constructive breaking.[13] The statutes, however, sometimes expressly punish as burglary the entering of a dwelling-house or other building with intent to steal or commit some other felony therein, without requiring that there shall be any breaking at all, or without requiring a breaking when the entry is at night, and in such a case a breaking is not necessary.[14] But a statute making it burglary to enter a house without breaking and commit a crime therein, and then break a door or window to get out, does not make an entry without breaking burglary, where there is no breaking out.[15]

2. SUFFICIENCY OF BREAKING — a. In General. To constitute a breaking there must be some degree of force and a "breaking, removing, or putting aside of something material, which constitutes a part of the dwelling-house and is relied on as a security against intrusion."[16] If a door, window, or transom is open or partly open, it is not burglary to enter, although it has to be pushed further open to admit the body, unless it is punished by statute.[17] And it has been held not to be burglary to enter by removing a loose plank in a partition wall.[18] It is not necessary, however, that any great degree of force shall be used; but the least actual breaking is sufficient. There is a breaking at common law, and generally under the statutes, even when they require a "forcible" breaking and entry, if there is a removal or putting aside of any fastenings, or any material part of the house, intended as a security against intrusion.[19] There is a sufficient breaking at the daytime.— It has been held, however, that the fact that the accused very slightly raised a window in the daytime, so that the bolt which fastened it down would not be effectual, does not prevent his subsequently raising the window and entering in the night-time from being burglary. People v. Dupree, 98 Mich. 26, 56 N. W. 1046.

That the upper part of a door was open and might have been entered without any breaking is immaterial, where the lower part was closed and hooked, and was unhooked and opened in order to enter. Ferguson v. State, 52 Nebr. 432, 72 N. W. 590, 66 Am. St. Rep. 512. And see Webb v. Com., 18 Ky. L. Rep. 220, 35 S. W. 1038.

13. See infra, II, B, 2, g.

14. People v. Barry, 94 Cal. 481, 29 Pac. 1026; State v. Watkins, 11 Nev. 30; State v. Hughes, 86 N. C. 662.

15. Under a New York statute declaring guilty of burglary in the second degree any person who should enter a dwelling-house of another by day or night with intent to commit a crime, or, being in the dwelling-house of another, should commit a crime, and should in the night-time break any outer door, etc., to get out of the house, it was held that one who entered the dwelling-house of another in the daytime through an open window, with intent to commit a crime, but did not break out of the house in the night-time, was not guilty of the offense. People v. Arnold, 6 Park. Crim. (N. Y.) 638.

16. State v. Boon, 35 N. C. 244, 57 Am. Dec. 555.

17. See supra, II, B, 1; and the following cases:

Kentucky.— Rose v. Com., 19 Ky. L. Rep. 272, 40 S. W. 245.

Massachusetts.— Com. v. Strupney, 105 Mass. 588, 7 Am. Rep. 556; Com. v. Steward, 7 Dane Abr. 136.

New Jersey.— State v. Wilson, 1 N. J. L. 502, 1 Am. Dec. 216.

Ohio.— Timmons v. State, 34 Ohio St. 426, 32 Am. Rep. 376; State v. Long, 5 Ohio S. & C. Pl. Dec. 617.

England.— Rex v. Smith, Car. C. L. 293, 1 Moody 178; Rex v. Hyams, 7 C. & P. 441, 32 E. C. L. 697.

"The law on the point is, that if the owner leaves his doors open, or partly open, or his windows raised, or partly raised and unfastened, it will be such negligence or folly on his part, as is calculated to induce or tempt a stranger to enter; and if he does so through the open door or window, or by pushing open the partly opened door, or further raising the window that is a little up, it will not be burglary." Timmons v. State, 34 Ohio St. 426, 32 Am. Rep. 376.

18. Com. v. Trimmer, 1 Mass. 476.

19. Alabama.— Carter v. State, 68 Ala. 96; Walker v. State, 63 Ala. 49, 35 Am. Rep. 1; Fisher v. State, 43 Ala. 17.

Delaware.— State v. Snow, (Del. 1901) 51 Atl. 607.

Georgia.— Grimes v. State, 77 Ga. 762, 4 Am. St. Rep. 112.

Kansas.— State v. Herbert, 63 Kan. 516, 66 Pac. 235; State v. Moon, 62 Kan. 801, 64 Pac. 609.

Massachusetts.— Com. v. Stephenson, 8 Pick. (Mass.) 354.

Nebraska.— Ferguson v. State, 52 Nebr. 432, 72 N. W. 590, 66 Am. St. Rep. 512; Metz v. State, 46 Nebr. 547, 65 N. W. 190.

North Carolina.— State v. Boon, 35 N. C. 244, 57 Am. Dec. 555.

Ohio.— Timmons v. State, 34 Ohio St. 426, 32 Am. Rep. 376; State v. Rivers, 2 Ohio Dec. (Reprint) 102, 1 West. L. Month. 387.

Texas.— Burke v. State, 5 Tex. App. 74. And see infra, II, B, 2, g, (v).

See 8 Cent. Dig. tit. "Burglary," § 7.

common law, and a "forcible breaking" within the meaning of a statute,[20] when a person enters a house by unlocking or unlatching a door, or even by pushing open a door which is shut, but neither locked nor latched, or a window, transom, or trap-door which is entirely closed, although not fastened, but held in place by its weight only, or by pulley weights,[21] and in many other cases where a very slight degree of force is used.[22]

"The degree of force or violence which may be used is not of importance — it may be very slight. The lifting the latch of a door; the picking of a lock, or opening with a key; the removal of a pane of glass, and, indeed, the displacement or unloosing of any fastening, which the owner has provided as a security to the house, is a breaking — an actual breaking — within the meaning of the term as employed in the definition of burglary at common law, and as it is employed in the statute." Walker v. State, 63 Ala. 49, 35 Am. Rep. 1. "The application of the law does not depend upon the degree of the force used, but upon the fact that force of some degree, however slight, was used." Timmons v. State, 34 Ohio St. 426, 32 Am. Rep. 376.

20. The terms "break" and "forcibly break" in a statute defining and punishing burglary are to be given the same meaning as the term "break" at common law, unless a contrary intention appears.

Alabama.— Walker v. State, 63 Ala. 49, 35 Am. Rep. 1.

Indiana.— Sims v. State, 136 Ind. 358, 36 N. E. 278.

Ohio.— Timmons v. State, 34 Ohio St. 426, 32 Am. Rep. 376.

Texas.— State v. Robertson, 32 Tex. 159.

Wisconsin.— Nicholls v. State, 68 Wis. 416, 32 N. W. 543, 60 Am. Rep. 870.

In a statute punishing any one who shall "forcibly break and enter" a dwelling-house, the word "forcibly" only expresses the degree of force that was implied at common law from the word "break," and a breaking sufficient at common law is sufficient under the statute. Timmons v. State, 34 Ohio St. 426, 32 Am. Rep. 376.

21. Alabama.— Hild v. State, 67 Ala. 39.

Delaware.— State v. Snow, (Del. 1901) 51 Atl. 607; State v. Carpenter, 1 Houst. Crim. Cas. (Del.) 367; State v. Manluff, 1 Houst. Crim. Cas. (Del.) 208.

Florida.— May v. State, 40 Fla. 426, 24 So. 498.

Georgia.— Kent v. State, 84 Ga. 438, 11 S. E. 355, 20 Am. St. Rep. 376; Grimes v. State, 77 Ga. 762, 4 Am. St. Rep. 112.

Illinois.— Lyons v. People, 68 Ill. 271.

Iowa.— State v. Conners, 95 Iowa 485, 64 N. W. 295; State v. O'Brien, 81 Iowa 93, 46 N. W. 861; State v. Reid, 20 Iowa 413.

Kansas.— State v. Herbert, 63 Kan. 516, 66 Pac. 235; State v. Moon, 62 Kan. 801, 64 Pac. 609; State v. Groning, 33 Kan. 18, 5 Pac. 446.

Kentucky.— Webb v. Com., 18 Ky. L. Rep. 220, 35 S. W. 1038.

Michigan.— People v. Dupree, 98 Mich. 26, 56 N. W. 1046; Dennis v. People, 27 Mich. 151; People v. Nolan, 22 Mich. 229.

Mississippi.— Frank v. State, 39 Miss. 705.

Missouri.— State v. Woods, 137 Mo. 6, 38 S. W. 722; State v. Hecox, 83 Mo. 531.

Nebraska.— Ferguson v. State, 52 Nebr. 432, 72 N. W. 590, 66 Am. St. Rep. 512.

New Jersey.— State v. Wilson, 1 N. J. L. 502, 1 Am. Dec. 216.

New York.— McCourt v. People, 64 N. Y. 583; Tickner v. People, 6 Hun (N. Y.) 657; People v. Bush, 3 Park. Crim. (N. Y.) 552; People v. Edwards, 1 Wheel. Crim. (N. Y.) 371.

North Carolina.— State v. Fleming, 107 N. C. 905, 12 S. E. 131; State v. Boon, 35 N. C. 244, 57 Am. Dec. 555.

Ohio.— Timmons v. State, 34 Ohio St. 426, 32 Am. Rep. 376.

Tennessee.— Bass v. State, 1 Lea (Tenn.) 444.

Texas.— Hedrick v. State, 40 Tex. Crim. 532, 51 S. W. 252; Wagner v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1898) 47 S. W. 372; Parker v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1897) 38 S. W. 790; Matthews v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1896) 38 S. W. 172; Edwards v. State, 36 Tex. Crim. 387, 37 S. W. 438; Sparks v. State, 34 Tex. Crim. 86, 29 S. W. 264; Nash v. State, 20 Tex. App. 384 (incorrectly reported as Harrison v. State, in 20 Tex. App. 387, 54 Am. Rep. 529). And see infra, II, B, 2, g, (v).

Virginia.— Finch v. Com., 14 Gratt. (Va.) 643.

United States.— U. S. v. Bowen, 4 Cranch C. C. (U. S.) 604, 24 Fed. Cas. No. 14,629.

England.— Rex v. Hyams, 7 C. & P. 441, 32 E. C. L. 697; Brown's Case, 2 East P. C. 487, 2 Leach 1016 note; Rex v. Russell, 1 Moody 377; Rex v. Haines, R. & R. 335; Rex v. Hall, R. & R. 264; 4 Bl. Comm. 226; 1 Hale P. C. 552. Contra, Rex v. Lawrence, 4 C. & P. 231, 19 E. C. L. 490.

See 8 Cent. Dig. tit. "Burglary," § 8.

22. Other cases of actual breaking by slight force.— The following breakings have been held sufficient to constitute burglary:

Breaking or pushing in part of a pane of glass which had been previously cut out, but the whole of which still remained in its place. Reg. v. Bird, 9 C. & P. 44, 38 E. C. L. 38. And see Ryan v. Shilcock, 7 Exch. 72, 15 Jur. 1200, 21 L. J. Exch. 55; Rex v. Robinson, 1 Moody 327; Rex v. Smith, R. & R. 309.

Opening a door by unhooking a chain hooked over a nail. State v. Hecox, 83 Mo. 531.

Removing a window fastening with a knife or other sharp instrument operated from the outside, and lifting the window. State v. Moore, 117 Mo. 395, 22 S. W. 1086.

Removing of a window screen fastened with

b. Statutes Requiring an "Actual" Breaking. In Texas a statute providing that an entry into a house for the purpose of committing theft, unless the same is effected by an "actual" breaking, is not burglary when the same is done by a domestic servant, or other inhabitant of the house,[23] is construed as requiring a real breaking, and not merely such as was sufficient at common law; and an entry by merely opening a closed door by turning a knob or raising a latch is not within the statute.[24]

c. Breaking by Burning. Burning a hole in a house in order to enter for the purpose of committing a felony is a sufficient breaking to constitute burglary, and the breaking is not lost in the consumption of the house by fire.[25]

d. The Thing Broken Must Be a Part of the House. To make one guilty of burglary it is necessary that some part of the house shall be broken.[26] It is not sufficient to break a part of the premises on the outside, but forming no part of nails. Sims v. State, 136 Ind. 358, 36 N. E. 278.

Removing a netting nailed over an otherwise open window. Com. v. Stephenson, 8 Pick. (Mass.) 354.

Removing a wire screen in a window. State v. Herbert, 63 Kan. 516, 66 Pac. 235.

Breaking a canvas covering a window. Grimes v. State, 77 Ga. 762, 4 Am. St. Rep. 112.

Pushing open a screen door, although the inner or permanent door is not closed. State v. Conners, 95 Iowa 485, 64 N. W. 295.

Digging a hole under a building made of logs and which had no floor except the ground. Pressley v. State, 111 Ala. 34, 20 So. 647.

Boring a hole in the floor of a corn-crib from the outside, and drawing corn into a sack. Walker v. State, 63 Ala. 49, 35 Am. Rep. 1. And see State v. Crawford, 8 N. D. 539, 80 N. W. 193, 73 Am. St. Rep. 772, 46 L. R. A. 312.

Removing a board loosely fastened over a hole. Carter v. State, 68 Ala. 96. Compare Com. v. Trimmer, 1 Mass. 476.

Removing a board near the bottom of a corn-crib. Metz v. State, 46 Nebr. 547, 65 N. W. 190.

Removing an iron grating covering an area opposite a cellar window of a store. People v. Nolan, 22 Mich. 229. And see Com. v. Bruce, 79 Ky. 560.

Entering a barn by pulling away rails that were driven into the hay leaving the ends covering an opening. State v. Rivers, 2 Ohio Dec. (Reprint) 102, 1 West. L. Month. 387.

Removing a post leaning against a door to keep it closed. State v. Powell, 61 Kan. 81, 58 Pac. 968.

Removal of props from a warehouse door in order to enter. Rose v. Com., 19 Ky. L. Rep. 272, 40 S. W. 245.

Entering a factory through a hole left for a band in operating machinery, by pushing aside the band to make room for the body. Marshall v. State, 94 Ga. 589, 20 S. E. 432.

As to whether pushing aside a cloth hung over two nails at the top of an open window is a sufficient breaking, the cloth being loose at the bottom see Hunter v. Com., 7 Gratt. (Va.) 641, 56 Am. Dec. 121, where Field, J., was of the opinion that it was not, but the majority of the court declined to express any opinion.

Upper part of door open, but lower closed. — Where a door to a building is in two parts, the upper part being open and the lower part closed, one who enters by unhooking and opening the lower part is guilty of a burglarious breaking and entry, although he might have entered through the upper part and without any breaking. Ferguson v. State, 52 Nebr. 432, 72 N. W. 590, 66 Am. St. Rep. 512. And see Webb v. Com., 18 Ky. L. Rep. 220, 35 S. W. 1038.

23. Tex. Pen. Code, art. 848.

24. Under this statute a domestic servant or other inhabitant of a house is not guilty of burglary in entering by lifting a latch on a door from the outside through a crevice. Neiderluck v. State, 23 Tex. App. 38, 3 S. W. 573. And a servant or other person living in a livery stable is not guilty of burglary in opening the unlocked door of an oat-bin at night and stealing oats therefrom. Peters v. State, 33 Tex. Crim. 170, 26 S. W. 61. The statute does not apply where a boarder in a house enters the room of another boarder and steals therein. Ullman v. State, 1 Tex. App. 220, 28 Am. Rep. 405.

"Domestic servant." — A farm-hand who eats and sleeps outside of his master's house, although he does chores inside the house when directed, is not a domestic servant within the meaning of the statute. Waterhouse v. State, 21 Tex. App. 663, 2 S. W. 889. The statute has no application where a saloon at an hotel is entered, by unlocking the door at night, by one who is employed for certain work in the hotel, where the saloon is operated separately from the hotel, and such employee performs no services therein. Jackson v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1901) 64 S. W. 864.

A domestic servant, conspiring with other persons who are not servants, may be guilty of burglary without the "actual" breaking required by this statute. Neiderluck v. State, 23 Tex. App. 38, 3 S. W. 573.

25. White v. State, 49 Ala. 344.

26. Pressley v. State, 111 Ala. 34, 20 So. 647; Com. v. Bruce, 79 Ky. 560; State v. Wilson, 1 N. J. L. 502, 1 Am. Dec. 216.

the house, the house itself being entered without breaking;[27] or to enter a house without breaking and break into trunks, cupboards, and the like.[28]

e. Breaking an Inner Door or Window. If a person enters a house through an open door or window, and breaks or opens an inner door, window, or other obstruction, with intent to commit a felony, or if a servant, guest, or other person, being lawfully in a house, enters a room which he has no right to enter, with felonious intent, by breaking or opening an inner door, it is as much burglary as if he had entered by breaking an outer door or window.[29] Such a breaking is a breaking and entering of the house.[30] This rule generally applies under statutes punishing the breaking and entering of dwelling-houses and other buildings, as well as at common law;[31] but sometimes a statute defining burglary expressly or impliedly requires that the breaking shall be of an outer door, and

27. Breaking outside of gate, fence, or other structure.—Rex v. Paine, 7 C. & P. 135, 32 E. C. L. 538; Rex v. Davis, R. & R. 239; Rex v. Bennett, R. & R. 214.

A shutter-box projecting from the side of shop window was held not a part of the house so as to make breaking and entering of the same burglary. Rex v. Paine, 7 C. & P. 135, 32 E. C. L. 538.

Cellar grating.— A grating in the street protecting an entrance to the cellar under a storehouse, the cellar being used for the storage of goods, and being connected with the store by a hatchway, was held a part of the store, so as to make it burglary under a statute to remove the grating and enter the cellar with intent to steal. Com. v. Bruce, 79 Ky. 560.

Digging under a building made of logs, and which had no floor other than the ground, has been held sufficient breaking. Pressley v. State, 111 Ala. 34, 20 So. 647.

28. Breaking into trunks, cupboards, etc.— State v. Wilson, 1 N. J. L. 502, 1 Am. Dec. 216; 1 Hale P. C. 554.

29. Alabama.—Carter v. State, 68 Ala. 96; Hild v. State, 67 Ala. 39.

California.— People v. Young, 65 Cal. 225, 3 Pac. 813.

Delaware.— State v. Manluff, 1 Houst. Crim. Cas. (Del.) 208.

Georgia.— Marshall v. State, 94 Ga. 589, 20 S. E. 432; Colbert v. State, 91 Ga. 705, 17 S. E. 840; Daniels v. State, 78 Ga. 98, 6 Am. St. Rep. 238.

New Hampshire.— State v. Scripture, 42 N. H. 485.

New Jersey.— State v. Wilson, 1 N. J. L. 502, 1 Am. Dec. 216.

New York.—Smith's Case, 4 City Hall Rec. (N. Y.) 62.

Pennsylvania.—Rolland v. Com., 85 Pa. St. 66, 27 Am. Rep. 626.

Texas.— Anderson v. State, 17 Tex. App. 305; Martin v. State, 1 Tex. App. 525.

Vermont.— State v. Clark, 42 Vt. 629.

United States.— U. S. v. Bowen, 4 Cranch C. C. (U. S.) 604, 24 Fed. Cas. No. 14,629.

England.— Rex v. Johnson, 2 East P. C. 488; Edmonds' Case, Hutton 20; Rex v. Gray, 1 Str. 481; 4 Bl. Comm. 226, 227; 1 Hale P. C. 553, 554, 556; 1 Hawkins P. C. c. 38, § 4.

See 8 Cent. Dig. tit. "Burglary," § 12.

Illustrations.— Entering an open outer cellar door and breaking an inner cellar door and entering the house is a burglarious breaking and entering. McCourt v. People, 64 N. Y. 583; Smith's Case, 4 City Hall Rec. (N. Y.) 62. An entry into the second story of a mill by passing through the open door of the lower story and then pushing aside a board loosely fastened over a hole in the upper floor is a burglarious breaking and entering. Carter v. State, 68 Ala. 96. Entering the lower story of a gin-house or factory through an open door, and entering into the closed upper stories through a hole left for a band operating machinery, by pushing the band aside to make room for the body, may be a burglarious breaking and entry. Marshall v. State, 94 Ga. 589, 20 S. E. 432.

Felony in a different room.—It is not necessary that he shall commit or intend to commit the felony in the particular room, the door of which is broken. Rolland v. Com., 85 Pa. St. 66, 27 Am. Rep. 626.

Breaking inner door without entering.— It is not burglary to enter a house through an open outer door and to break an inner door without entering, for in such a case there is merely a breaking without an entry. Reg. v. Davis, 6 Cox C. C. 369.

A partition eight or nine feet high in a house, although not reaching to the ceiling, is not sufficient to constitute the inclosed space a room in which burglary may be committed by breaking and entering the same, after entering the building without breaking. People v. Young, 65 Cal. 225, 3 Pac. 813.

A servant lodging in a house is guilty of burglary if he breaks and enters the sleeping-room of his master with intent to kill him. U. S. v. Bowen, 4 Cranch C. C. (U. S.) 604, 24 Fed. Cas. No. 14,629; and cases cited supra, this note.

30. Breaking inner door is breaking of house.— People v. Young, 65 Cal. 225, 3 Pac. 813; Daniels v. State, 78 Ga. 98, 6 Am. St. Rep. 238; State v. Scripture, 42 N. H. 485; and other cases cited supra, notes just preceding.

31. Daniels v. State, 78 Ga. 98, 6 Am. St. Rep. 238, where it was held that it was burglary under a statute to enter an open outer door of a railroad depot, and break and enter an inner door with intent to steal. See also Martin v. State, 1 Tex. App. 525.

entering through an open outer door, followed by a technical breaking by opening a closed inner door, will not constitute the offense.[32]

f. Entering Without Breaking and Breaking Out — (I) At Common Law. Although there was some doubt and difference of opinion on the subject, the weight of authority is to the effect that it was not burglary under the English common law to enter a dwelling-house without breaking with intent to commit a felony, and afterward break out in order to escape.[33] The weight of authority in this country is to the same effect.[34]

(II) By Statute. This difference of opinion in England led to the passage of 12 Anne, which statute, after reciting the doubt existing on the subject, provided that if any person should enter into the dwelling-house of another by day or by night, without breaking the same, with an intent to commit felony, or, being in such house, should commit any felony, and should in the night-time break the said house to get out of the same, he should be guilty of burglary.[35] This statute was repealed, but has been substantially reënacted.[36] By the weight of authority the statute of Anne is not in force in the United States as a part of the common law,[37] but in some states similar statutes have been enacted.[38]

g. Constructive Breaking — (I) Entry by Fraud. Although a person may enter a house without any actual breaking at all, and even through an open door, the circumstances may be such as to make his entry a constructive breaking, so as to render him guilty of burglary. Such is the case when a person effects an entrance into a house by a false hue and cry, or by an abuse of legal process,[39] or

32. See People v. Fralick, Lalor (N. Y.) 63.

33. It was said by Sir Matthew Hale: "If a man enter in the night-time by the doors open, with the intent to steal, and is pursued, whereby he opens another door to make his escape, this I think is not burglary, . . . for fregit et exivit, non fregit et intravit." 1 Hale P. C. 554. And see Clarke's Case, 4 Bl. Comm. 227; 2 East P. C. 490. Lord Bacon's opinion was the contrary. 4 Bl. Comm. 227; Elm. 65.

34. Alabama.— Brown v. State, 55 Ala. 123, 28 Am. Rep. 693.

Georgia.— White v. State, 51 Ga. 285.

North Carolina.— State v. McPherson, 70 N. C. 239, 16 Am. Rep. 769.

Ohio.— Wine v. State, 25 Ohio St. 69.

Pennsylvania.—Rolland v. Com., 82 Pa. St. 306, 22 Am. Rep. 758.

Tennessee.— Adkinson v. State, 5 Baxt. (Tenn.) 569, 30 Am. Rep. 69.

Texas.— Edwards v. State, 36 Tex. Crim. 387, 37 S. W. 438.

Contra.— State v. Ward, 43 Conn. 489, 21 Am. Rep. 665; State v. Manluff, 1 Houst. Crim. Cas. (Del.) 208; In re Guche, 6 City Hall Rec. (N. Y.) 2; State v. Bee, 29 S. C. 81, 6 S. E. 911.

35. 12 Anne, c. 7, § 3; 4 Bl. Comm. 227.

36. 7 & 8 Geo. IV, c. 29, § 11; 24 & 25 Vict. c. 96, § 51. The last cited statute provides that "whosoever shall enter the Dwelling House of another with Intent to commit any Felony therein, or being in such Dwelling House shall commit any Felony therein, and shall in either Case break out of the said Dwelling House in the Night, shall be deemed guilty of burglary."

The breaking to get out need be such only as was a sufficient breaking at common law. Thus opening a door by lifting the latch is a sufficient breaking. Reg. v. Wheeldon, 8 C. & P. 747, 34 E. C. L. 998. See also Rex v. Compton, 7 C. & P. 139, 32 E. C. L. 540; Rex v. Lawrence, 4 C. & P. 231, 19 E. C. L. 490; Brown's Case, 2 East P. C. 487, 2 Leach 1016 note; Rex v. Callan, R. & R. 117. As to the construction of the statute see Reg. v. Wenmouth, 8 Cox C. C. 348.

A servant or lodger in a house is guilty under the statute if he commits a felony therein and then breaks out in order to escape. Reg. v. Wheeldon, 8 C. & P. 747, 34 E. C. L. 998.

37. Brown v. State, 55 Ala. 123, 28 Am. Rep. 693; Rolland v. Com., 82 Pa. St. 306, 22 Am. Rep. 758.

Contra.— State v. Ward, 43 Conn. 489, 21 Am. Rep. 665.

38. See N. Y. Pen. Code, § 498; Minn. Pen. Code, § 385. A statute providing that if "any person who, after having entered" any of the premises made the subject of burglary "with intent to commit a felony, break any such premises, he shall be punished in the same way as if he had broken into the premises in the first instance," is merely declaratory of the common law, by which a breaking of inner doors with intent to commit a felony, after an entry without breaking, is burglary, and does not make it burglary to enter a house without breaking and break out merely to escape. Adkinson v. State, 5 Baxt. (Tenn.) 569, 30 Am. Rep. 69. Entry without breaking and concealing oneself in a house, and breaking out in the night-time, carrying away stolen goods, is not within a statute punishing any one who breaks into and enters a house. Brown v. State, 55 Ala. 123, 28 Am. Rep. 693; White v. State, 51 Ga. 285; Wine v. State, 25 Ohio St. 69.

39. Farr's Case, 2 East P. C. 660, J. Kel. 43; Lemott's Case, 2 East P. C. 485, J. Kel. 42; 4 Bl. Comm. 226; 1 Hale P. C. 552, 553; 1 Hawkins P. C. c. 38, § 5.

by false pretenses or other trick or fraud.[40] A statute punishing any one who shall "forcibly break and enter" only requires such a degree of force as was implied at common law from the word "break," and the statute applies when an entry is effected by trickery or deception, so as to constitute a constructive breaking at common law.[41]

(II) Entry Through Chimney of House. If a person enters by coming down the chimney of a house, with intent to commit a felony, there is a constructive breaking, and a burglary, for a chimney "is as much closed as the nature of things will permit."[42]

(III) Entry Procured by Threats or Intimidation. There is a constructive breaking so as to constitute burglary where a person compels the occupant of a house to open the door by threats or a display of force, and then enters with intent to commit a felony.[43]

(IV) Opening of Door by Servant or Other Person in the House. If a servant or other person in a house opens the door for the purpose of letting in a confederate, and the latter enters with intent to commit a felony, there is a constructive breaking, and both are guilty of burglary.[44]

(V) Entry by "Force, Threats, or Fraud" Under Texas Statute. In Texas it is declared by statute that the offense of burglary is constituted "by entering a house by force, threats or fraud, at night, or in like manner by enter-

40. Delaware.— State v. Carter, 1 Houst. Crim. Cas. (Del.) 402.

Massachusetts.—Com. v. Lowrey, 158 Mass. 18, 32 N. E. 940.

North Carolina.— State v. Mordecai, 68 N. C. 207; State v. Johnson, 61 N. C. 186, 93 Am. Dec. 587; State v. Henry, 31 N. C. 463.

Ohio.— Ducher v. State, 18 Ohio 308.

Pennsylvania.— Johnston v. Com., 85 Pa. St. 54, 27 Am. Rep. 622; Rolland v. Com., 82 Pa. St. 306, 22 Am. Rep. 758.

Texas.— Summers v. State, 9 Tex. App. 396.

Virginia.—Clarke v. Com., 25 Gratt. (Va.) 908.

Wisconsin.—Nicholls v. State, 68 Wis. 416, 32 N. W. 543, 60 Am. Rep. 870.

England.— Cornwall's Case, 2 East P. C. 486, 2 Str. 881; Lemott's Case, 2 East P. C. 485, J. Kel. 42; 4 Bl. Comm. 226; 1 Hale P. C. 552, 553.

See 8 Cent. Dig. tit. "Burglary," § 9.

False pretenses.— There is a constructive breaking so as to constitute burglary if a person procures the door to be opened by false pretense of business or a friendly visit, and enters immediately or soon after with intent to commit a felony. Com. v. Lowrey, 158 Mass. 18, 32 N. E. 940; State v. Johnson, 61 N. C. 186, 93 Am. Dec. 587; Johnston v. Com., 85 Pa. St. 54, 27 Am. Rep. 622; Lemott's Case, 2 East P. C. 485, J. Kel. 42; and cases cited supra, this note. "When a person rings the door-bell of a house, the owner has a right to presume that his visitor calls for the purpose of friendship or business. If, in obedience to the summons, he withdraws his bolts and bars, and the visitor enters to commit a felony, such entry is a deception and fraud upon the owner and constitutes a constructive breaking." Johnston v. Com., 85 Pa. St. 54, 27 Am. Rep. 622.

Delay in entering.— But in such a case the entry must be made within a reasonable time after the door is opened. State v. Henry, 31 N. C. 463, where it was held by a majority of the court that there was no breaking because the prisoner did not enter until after the lapse of some ten or fifteen minutes.

Concealing oneself in a box and thus, by shipment of the box, effecting an entrance into an express car, with intent to steal therein, is a constructive breaking. Nicholls v. State, 68 Wis. 416, 32 N. W. 543, 60 Am. Rep. 870.

41. Timmons v. State, 34 Ohio St. 426, 32 Am. Rep. 376; Ducher v. State, 18 Ohio 308; Nicholls v. State, 68 Wis. 416, 32 N. W. 543, 60 Am. Rep. 870.

42. Olds v. State, 97 Ala. 81, 12 So. 409; Walker v. State, 52 Ala. 376; Donohoo v. State, 36 Ala. 281; State v. Willis, 52 N. C. 190; State v. Boon, 35 N. C. 244, 57 Am. Dec. 555; Rex v. Brice, R. & R. 334; 4 Bl. Comm. 226; 1 Hale P. C. 552; 1 Hawkins P. C. c. 58, § 4.

Entry at night through a chimney into a log cabin occupied as a dwelling, with intent to steal therein, was held burglary, although the chimney was made of logs and sticks, and was in a state of decay, and was only five and one-half feet high. State v. Willis, 52 N. C. 190.

43. State v. Foster, 130 N. C. 666, 40 S. E. 209; Rex v. Swallow, 2 Russ. C. & M. 8; 1 Hale P. C. 553. And see Clarke v. Com., 25 Gratt. (Va.) 908. Where persons, with intent to commit larceny, break into a store, and then, with loaded revolvers pointed at a clerk therein, drive him before them into his sleeping-room opening off of the store, there is a technical breaking into the sleeping-room. State v. Foster, 130 N. C. 666, 40 S. E. 209.

44. State v. Rowe, 98 N. C. 629, 4 S. E. 506; Clarke v. Com., 25 Gratt. (Va.) 908; Cornwall's Case, 2 East P. C. 486, 2 Str. 881; 4 Bl. Comm. 227; 1 Hale P. C. 553; 1 Hawkins P. C. c. 38, § 14.

ing a house during the day, and remaining concealed therein until night, with the intent, in either case, of committing felony or the crime of theft";[45] and it is further declared that the "entry" into a house, within the meaning of the statute, includes every kind of entry but one made by the free consent of the occupant, or of one authorized to give such consent, and that it is not necessary that there shall be any actual breaking except when entry is made in the daytime.[46] It is also declared that the term breaking in the statute means that the entry must be made with actual force, but that the slightest force is sufficient, and that it may be by lifting the latch of a door that is shut, or by raising a window, or entering at a chimney or other unusual place, or by introducing the hand or any instrument to draw out property through an aperture made by the offender for that purpose.[47]

3. Effect of Right to Enter Premises. There is no breaking in entering a house or room, and therefore no burglary, if the person entering has a right to do so, although he may intend to commit and may actually commit a felony, and although he may enter in such a way that there would be a breaking if he had no right to enter.[48] But he is guilty of burglary if he exceeds his rights either with respect to the time of entering or the room into which he enters.[49] And this rule applies not only to entry by servants,[50] but is equally applicable to entry by

45. Tex. Pen. Code, art. 838.
46. Tex. Pen. Code, art. 840.
47. Tex. Pen. Code, art. 842.

Breaking necessary — Entry through open door.— To constitute burglary under this statute, a breaking, actual or constructive, is necessary. The statute does not apply to an entry in the usual way through an open door, without any force against the building or occupant, although with intent to commit a felony or the crime of theft. Matthews v. State, 36 Tex. 675; Smith v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1901) 60 S. W. 668; St. Louis v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1900) 59 S. W. 889; Edwards v. State, 36 Tex. Crim. 387, 37 S. W. 438; Costello v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1893) 21 S. W. 360; Williams v. State, (Tex. App. 1890) 13 S. W. 609; Melton v. State, 24 Tex. App. 287, 6 S. W. 303; Hamilton v. State, 11 Tex. App. 116. If the entry was through an open door of a store at night but during business hours, in the same manner as other persons enter, the case is not within the statute, although the accused intended to remain concealed until close of the store, and although he committed a theft and afterward broke out of the store. Edwards v. State, 36 Tex. Crim. 387, 37 S. W. 438. See also Smith v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1901) 60 S. W. 668; St. Louis v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1900) 59 S. W. 889.

Slightest force sufficient.—Any breaking by actual force is sufficient, as where an entry is effected by turning a lock or lifting a latch and opening a door, or by opening a closed but unfastened door, etc. Hedrick v. State, 40 Tex. Crim. 532, 51 S. W. 252; Wagner v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1898) 47 S. W. 372; Parker v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1897) 38 S. W. 790; Matthews v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1896) 38 S. W. 172; Edwards v. State, 36 Tex. Crim. 387, 37 S. W. 438; Sparks v. State, 34 Tex. Crim. 86, 29 S. W. 264; Nash v. State, 20 Tex. App. 384; Burke v. State, 5 Tex. App. 74. Raising the latch of the door of a store, in the usual way, and entering with intent to commit larceny, is a sufficient breaking within the Texas statute, although the store is open for business. Gonzales v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1899) 50 S. W. 1018.

Entry by fraud — Unusual place of entry. — An entry is effected by fraud within the meaning of the statute where it is effected by means of a ladder through an upper story window. Rogers v. State, 43 Tex. 406. The same is true of an entry of a mill-house by crawling through a small hole under the sill. Knotts v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1895) 32 S. W. 532. And of entry of a corn-crib through openings left for throwing in corn. Painter v. State, 26 Tex. App. 454, 9 S. W. 774. An unusual place of entry is the same whether applied to a burglary committed in the day or night. Green v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1900) 58 S. W. 99. What constitutes an unusual place of entry within the meaning of the statute is a question of fact for the jury. Green v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1900) 58 S. W. 99. The mere fact that the accused took off his shoes when he entered through an open door without the consent of any one does not bring the case within the statute. Hamilton v. State, 11 Tex. App. 116.

48. State v. Moore 12 N. H. 42; Clarke v. Com., 25 Gratt. (Va.) 908.
49. Hild v. State, 67 Ala. 39; Lowder v. State, 63 Ala. 143, 35 Am. Rep. 9.
50. A servant is not guilty of burglary in entering his master's premises, if he has a right to enter by virtue of his employment, although he may intend to commit, and may actually commit, a felony. Lowder v. State, 63 Ala. 143, 35 Am. Rep. 9. But he is guilty if he breaks and enters with such intent at a time when he has no right to enter by virtue of his employment, or if he breaks and enters a room in the house into which he has no right to enter. Hild v. State, 67 Ala. 39; Lowder v. State, 63 Ala. 143, 35 Am. Rep. 9. If a servant has a key to his master's house, guests or lodgers at a hotel or lodging-house,[51] entry by one of several joint occupants of a room,[52] etc.

4. Consent of Occupant, or His Servant, to the Entry — a. In General. Except in cases of constructive breaking, where an entry is effected by fraud or intimidation,[53] there can be no breaking, and therefore there is no burglary, where the occupant of a house, or an agent or servant having authority, expressly or impliedly invites or consents to the entry.[54] This does not apply, however, where a servant gives consent without authority,[55] or where the wife of the occupant of a building consents to another's entry for an unlawful purpose,[56] or where the entry is into another place than that intended in giving the consent.[57] It is not necessary that the occupant of the house shall protest or object to the entry.[58]

b. Cases of Entrapment. It follows from the above that there is no burglary where the occupant of a house, or his servant or agent by his direction, or a public officer or detective with his consent, opens the door or window to admit a suspect, and thereby consents to the entry, or takes active steps to aid the suspect, or to induce him to enter, although this may be done for the purpose of

or an office in which the master sleeps, and opens the door and enters with intent to steal at a time when he has no right to enter, he is guilty of burglary; but it is otherwise if the servant is in the habit of sleeping there, and he enters for such purpose, and afterward forms the intent to steal. Lowder v. State, 63 Ala. 143, 35 Am. Rep. 9. An employee placed on the outside of a house to protect it from fire is not authorized to enter, and he is guilty of burglary if he enters through a window with intent to steal. Morrow v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1894) 25 S. W. 284. The same is true of one who is employed to watch his employer's room and protect it from fire, and who enters a separate building used as a storehouse and steals therefrom. Van Walker v. State, 33 Tex. Crim. 359, 26 S. W. 507.

51. A guest at a hotel or lodging-house does not commit burglary in entering the bar-room or any other public room, if he has a right to enter the same, although he may intend to commit a felony. State v. Moore, 12 N. H. 42. But he is guilty if he breaks into the bar-room after it is closed, with such intent, or if he breaks and enters the room of another guest or lodger with such intent. Colbert v. State, 91 Ga. 705, 17 S. E. 840; Ullman v. State, 1 Tex. App. 220, 28 Am. Rep. 405; State v. Clark, 42 Vt. 629. A statute providing that "an entry into a house for the purpose of committing theft, unless the same is effected by the actual breaking, is not burglary when the same is done by a domestic servant or other inhabitant of such house; and a theft committed by such person after entering a house is only punishable as simple theft," does not cover a case where a boarder in a house enters the room of a fellow boarder and steals therein. Ullman v. State, 1 Tex. App. 220, 28 Am. Rep. 405.

52. Joint occupants of room.— If persons occupy a room jointly, and have the right to enter at any time, neither is guilty of burglary in unlocking the door and entering, although he may enter with intent to steal from the other. Clarke v. Com., 25 Gratt. (Va.) 908.

53. See supra, II, B, 2, g.

54. Allen v. State, 40 Ala. 334, 91 Am. Dec. 477; State v. Stickney, 53 Kan. 308, 36 Pac. 714, 42 Am. St. Rep. 284; Turner v. State, 24 Tex. App. 12, 5 S. W. 511; Rex v. Eggington, 2 B. & P. 508, 2 East P. C. 494, 666, 2 Leach 913, 5 Rev. Rep. 689.

Business buildings — Implied consent.— There is no implied consent that the public may enter a business building outside of business hours and when it is closed, particularly for the purpose of committing larceny therein, and therefore one who enters a closed factory between four and five o'clock in the morning, by undoing a bolt, with intent to steal, is guilty of a burglarious breaking and entry. Kent v. State, 84 Ga. 438, 11 S. E. 355, 20 Am. St. Rep. 376. But where a store was lighted up, and the doors were not fastened to exclude the public, but were merely latched in the usual manner, the clerks being in the store ready to attend customers, it was held that one who, before eight in the evening, carefully lifted the latch and entered the store by the door, with intent to commit larceny, and did so, was not guilty of burglary, since there was a license to the public to enter, and there was therefore no breaking. State v. Newbegin, 25 Me. 500. See also Edwards v. State, 36 Tex. Crim. 387, 37 S. W. 438. But see Gonzales v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1899) 50 S. W. 1018.

55. State v. Abley, 109 Iowa 61, 80 N. W. 225, 77 Am. St. Rep. 520, 46 L. R. A. 862.

56. Forsythe v. State, 6 Ohio 19.

57. Where a person obtains from a warehouseman a key for the purpose of opening and entering an apartment leased to his employer, and uses another key on the same ring to open and enter another apartment, with intent to steal, there is a burglarious breaking and entry. Com. v. Ballard, 18 Ky. L. Rep. 782, 38 S. W. 678.

58. Under a statute punishing any person who shall feloniously break into a dwelling-house, and feloniously take away anything of value, although the owner or any other may not be there, it is immaterial whether or not the owner or other person present at the commission of the offense objects or protests.

apprehending and prosecuting him, and although he may intend to commit a felony in the house.[59] But there is no consent where the occupant or his agent merely lies in wait to apprehend the suspect when the latter breaks and enters, instead of taking steps to prevent the entry,[60] or where a servant opens the door to admit a confederate.[61] And one who breaks into a building with intent to commit a felony and does every act essential to a burglarious breaking and entry cannot escape responsibility merely because a detective was with and apparently assisting him.[62] If the detective alone does the breaking and entering, or the breaking, the suspect is not guilty of burglary, for since the detective has no felonious intent no burglary is committed.[63]

C. The Entry — 1. Necessity For an Entry. Burglary is the "breaking and entering" of a dwelling-house, and therefore, both at common law and generally under the statutes, the offense is not committed unless there is an entry as well as a breaking.[64] A statute, however, may punish as burglary a breaking with intent to commit a felony, although there may be no entry.[65]

2. Sufficiency of the Entry — a. In General. The entry must be made into the house, and not merely into some outside part of the house.[66] But it is not

Duncan v. Com., 85 Ky. 614, 9 Ky. L. Rep. 142, 4 S. W. 321.

59. Alabama.—Allen v. State, 40 Ala. 334, 91 Am. Dec. 477.

Illinois.— Love v. People, 160 Ill. 501, 43 N. E. 710, 32 L. R. A. 139.

Kansas.— State v. Stickney, 53 Kan. 308, 36 Pac. 714, 42 Am. St. Rep. 284.

Michigan.—People v. McCord, 76 Mich. 200, 42 N. W. 1106.

Oklahoma.— Roberts v. Territory, 8 Okla. 326, 57 Pac. 840.

Texas.— Speiden v. State, 3 Tex. App. 156, 30 Am. Rep. 126.

England.— Reg. v. Johnson, C. & M. 218, 41 E. C. L. 123; Rex v. Eggington, 3 B. & P. 508, 2 East P. C. 494, 666, 2 Leach 913, 5 Rev. Rep. 689.

See 8 Cent. Dig. tit. "Burglary," § 23.

Excess of authority by agent or servant.— The agent or servant must not exceed his authority. Where a clerk in a store who had neither the custody nor the right to admit any one thereto, learning that a person intended to commit a burglary, loaned a detective a key in order to allow a duplicate to be made for the use of the suspect, without the knowledge or consent of the owner of the store, it was held that the clerk's consent to the entry of the store by means of the key could not be imputed to the owner, and that the suspect in using the duplicate key and entering to commit larceny was guilty of burglary. State v. Abley, 109 Iowa 61, 80 N. W. 225, 77 Am. St. Rep. 520, 46 L. R. A. 862.

60. Indiana.— Thompson v. State, 18 Ind. 386, 81 Am. Dec. 364.

Iowa.— State v. Abley, 109 Iowa 61, 80 N. W. 225, 77 Am. St. Rep. 520, 46 L. R. A. 862.

Kansas.— State v. Stickney, 53 Kan. 308, 36 Pac. 714, 42 Am. St. Rep. 284.

Missouri.— State v. Hayes, 105 Mo. 76, 16 S. W. 514, 24 Am. St. Rep. 360.

Nebraska.— State v. Sneff, 22 Nebr. 481, 35 N. W. 219.

Texas.— Robinson v. State, 34 Tex. Crim. 71, 29 S. W. 40, 53 Am. St. Rep. 701.

Utah.— People v. Morton, 4 Utah 407, 11 Pac. 512.

61. See supra, II, B, 2, g, (IV).

62. Presence and participation of detective. — State v. Stickney, 53 Kan. 308, 36 Pac. 714, 42 Am. St. Rep. 284; State v. Jansen, 22 Kan. 498; Robinson v. State, 34 Tex. Crim. 71, 29 S. W. 40, 53 Am. St. Rep. 701.

63. People v. Collins, 53 Cal. 185; Love v. People, 160 Ill. 501, 43 N. E. 710, 32 L. R. A. 139; State v. Hayes, 105 Mo. 76, 16 S. W. 514, 24 Am. St. Rep. 360.

Contra.— Com. v. Seybert, 4 Pa. Co. Ct. 152.

64. Walker v. State, 63 Ala. 49, 35 Am. Rep. 1; State v. McCall, 4 Ala. 643, 39 Am. Dec. 314; State v. Fisher, 1 Pennew. (Del.) 303, 41 Atl. 208; State v. Hayes, 105 Mo. 76, 16 S. W. 514, 24 Am. St. Rep. 360 [State v. Staehlin, 16 Mo. App. 559, seems to the contrary, but it is very meagerly reported]; Reg. v. Meal, 3 Cox C. C. 70; Anonymous, 1 Dyer 99*a*; Rex v. Hughes, 2 East P. C. 491, 1 Leach 452; Rex v. Rust, 1 Moody 183; 4 Bl. Comm. 227; 1 Hale P. C. 555; 1 Hawkins P. C. c. 38, § 3.

Contra.— Fielding's Case, Dyer 99*a*, note 58, Beale Cas. Crim. L. 783.

Breaking inner door without entering.— Although it is burglary at common law to enter an outer door without breaking and then break and enter an inner door with felonious intent, it is not burglary to enter an outer door without breaking and afterward break an inner door without entering. Reg. v. Davis, 6 Cox C. C. 369.

65. Entry unnecessary under a statute.— Under a Kentucky statute providing that if any person should break a warehouse with intent to steal, he should be punished, etc., it was held that a person might be punished for breaking a smoke-house with intent to steal meat therefrom, although there was no entry or theft. Mullins v. Com., 14 Ky. L. Rep. 569, 20 S. W. 1035.

66. State v. McCall, 4 Ala. 643, 39 Am. Dec. 314; Rex v. Rust, 1 Moody 183.

Outside blinds.— Breaking and entering necessary that the party shall get his whole body into the house. The least entry of any part of the body is sufficient, as the entry of the hand, or a finger only, or of the head or foot.[67] If a person enters a chimney of a building with intent to steal in the building there is a sufficient entry, although he does not get into any of the rooms.[68] The term "enter" in a statute defining and punishing burglary is to be given the same meaning as at common law, unless the statute shows a contrary intent.[69]

b. Entry by an Instrument Only. It is not even necessary, in order to constitute burglary, that the entry shall be by any part of the body; it may be by an instrument, as in a case where a hook or other instrument is put in with intent to take out goods, or a pistol or gun with intent to kill.[70] But it is necessary that the instrument shall be put within the house,[71] unless it is otherwise provided by statute;[72] and that it shall be inserted for the immediate purpose of committing the felony or aiding in its commission, and not merely for the purpose of making an opening to admit the hand or body, or in other words for the sole purpose of breaking.[73] within outside blinds is not a sufficient entry where the window sash is not broken or opened. State v. McCall, 4 Ala. 643, 39 Am. Dec. 314.

Shutter-box.— Breaking and entering a shutter-box projecting from the outside of a shop window is not a sufficient breaking and entry of the shop. Rex v. Paine, 7 C. & P. 135, 32 E. C. L. 538.

67. Alabama.—Fisher v. State, 43 Ala. 17; State v. McCall, 4 Ala. 643, 39 Am. Dec. 314.

Illinois.— Feister v. People, 125 Ill. 348, 17 N. E. 748.

Kentucky.— Kelley v. Com., 21 Ky. L. Rep. 1306, 54 S. W. 949.

Massachusetts.— Com. v. Glover, 111 Mass. 395.

Texas.— It is so in Texas by express provision of the statute. Tex. Pen. Code, art. 841. And see Franco v. State, 42 Tex. 276; Nash v. State, 20 Tex. App. 384 (incorrectly reported as Harrison v. State, in 20 Tex. App. 387, 54 Am. Rep. 529); Anderson v. State, 17 Tex. App. 305; Burke v. State, 5 Tex. App. 74; Martin v. State, 1 Tex. App. 525.

England.— Rex v. Perkes, 1 C. & P. 300, 12 E. C. L. 180; Reg. v. O'Brien, 4 Cox C. C. 398; Rex v. Gibbons, 2 East P. C. 490; Rex v. Davis, R. & R. 371; Rex v. Bailey, R. & R. 253; 4 Bl. Comm. 227; 1 Hale P. C. 555; 1 Hawkins P. C. c. 38, § 7.

Inside shutters.—Breaking and entering the window of a house is a sufficient entry, although inside shutters are not opened. Rex v. Bailey, R. & R. 253. But compare Rex v. Rust, 1 Moody 183.

Entry of the finger, or the forepart only thereof, on breaking a pane of glass in a window with felonious intent is a sufficient entry. Rex v. Davis, R. & R. 371.

Entry of the arm for the purpose of opening an inner shutter, after breaking the window, is sufficient, although the shutter is not opened. Rex v. Perkes, 1 C. & P. 300, 12 E. C. L. 180.

Pushing up a trap-door in a floor a foot is sufficient to constitute a burglarious entry. Nash v. State, 20 Tex. App. 384 (incorrectly reported as Harrison v. State, in 20 Tex. App. 387, 54 Am. Rep. 529).

Intent.— Where a part of the body enters, as hand or arm, it is none the less burglary because it is merely in the act of breaking, and to make an opening for the body, and not for the immediate purpose of committing the intended felony. See infra, II, G, 4.

68. Olds v. State, 97 Ala. 81, 12 So. 409.

69. Walker v. State, 63 Ala. 49, 35 Am. Rep. 1.

70. Walker v. State, 63 Ala. 49, 35 Am. Rep. 1; State v. McCall, 4 Ala. 643, 39 Am. Dec. 314; State v. Crawford, 8 N. D. 539, 80 N. W. 193, 73 Am. St. Rep. 772, 46 L. R. A. 312; 4 Bl. Comm. 227; 1 Hale P. C. 555; 1 Hawkins P. C. c. 38, § 7.

The term "enter" in a statute, since it is to be given the same meaning as at common law, unless a contrary intent appears, includes entry by an instrument for the purpose of committing a felony. Walker v. State, 63 Ala. 49, 35 Am. Rep. 1.

Boring into corn-crib or granary to steal corn.— One who, intending to steal shelled corn or wheat, bores a hole through the floor or side of a corn-crib or granary from the outside, so that the auger enters, and then draws the corn or wheat into a sack below, is guilty of burglary under a statute making it burglary to break into and enter any building in which goods are kept, with intent to steal. Walker v. State, 63 Ala. 49, 35 Am. Rep. 1. And see State v. Crawford, 8 N. D. 539, 80 N. W. 193, 73 Am. St. Rep. 772, 46 L. R. A. 312.

71. Shooting into a house with intent to kill is not burglary, unless made so by statute, if no part of the weapon is within the house. Resolution, And. 114, Beale Crim. Cas. 782.

72. In Texas, by express statutory provision, the entry "may be constituted by the discharge of fire-arms or other deadly missile into the house, with intent to injure any person therein." Tex. Pen. Code, art. 841.

73. Walker v. State, 63 Ala. 49, 35 Am. Rep. 1; Roberts' Case, 2 East P. C. 487, Car. C. L. 293; Rex v. Hughes, 2 East P. C. 491, 1 Leach 452; Rex v. Rust, 1 Moody 183. Where the prisoner bored a hole through the door of a house with an auger near one of the

D. The Time of Breaking and Entering — 1. In General. At common law burglary is not committed at all unless the breaking and entering are both in the night-time; and this is also true under statutes punishing burglary, except when there is a provision to the contrary.[74] In many jurisdictions, however, there are statutes which also expressly punish as burglary breaking and entering in the daytime.[75]

2. What Constitutes "Night-Time." In the absence of statutory provision to the contrary, the "night-time," within the definition of burglary, is, as was held at common law, that period between sunset and sunrise during which there is not daylight enough by which to discern a man's face.[76] In some jurisdictions, how-bolts, but it did not appear that any instrument, except the point of the auger, or any part of the prisoner's body, was within the house, it was held that there was not such an entry as to constitute burglary, although there was a breaking. Rex v. Hughes, 2 East P. C. 491, 1 Leach C. C. 452. But where a person, intending to steal shelled corn, bored a hole with an auger through the floor of a corn-crib, the auger penetrating to the inside, and thus drew the corn into a sack, it was held that there was a sufficient entry to constitute burglary, as the entry by the auger was not merely for the purpose of effecting an entry of the body or another instrument, but for the immediate purpose of stealing the corn. Walker v. State, 63 Ala. 49, 35 Am. Rep. 1. And see State v. Crawford, 8 N. D. 539, 80 N. W. 193, 73 Am. St. Rep. 772, 46 L. R. A. 312.

74. California.— People v. Griffin, 19 Cal. 578.

Connecticut.—State v. Morris, 47 Conn. 179.

Delaware.— State v. Fisher, 1 Pennew. (Del.) 303, 41 Atl. 208.

Michigan.—People v. Bielfus, 59 Mich. 576, 26 N. W. 771.

Mississippi.— Thomas v. State, 5 How. (Miss.) 20.

Nebraska.— In re McVey, 50 Nebr. 481, 70 N. W. 51.

New Hampshire.— State v. Bancroft, 10 N. H. 105.

North Carolina.— State v. McKnight, 111 N. C. 690, 16 S. E. 319; State v. Whit, 49 N. C. 349; State v. Jim, 7 N. C. 3.

Ohio.— Adams v. State, 31 Ohio St. 462.

Texas.— Levine v. State, 22 Tex. App. 683, 3 S. W. 660.

Utah.— State v. Miller, (Utah 1902) 67 Pac. 790.

Virginia.— Com. v. Weldon, 4 Leigh (Va.) 652.

England.— 4 Bl. Comm. 224; 1 Hale P. C. 549, 550; 1 Hawkins P. C. c. 38, § 2; 3 Inst. 63.

See 8 Cent. Dig. tit. "Burglary," § 13.

Entry consummated after daylight.— An indictment for nocturnal burglary is sustained by proof of any breaking and entering during the night-time, although the entry may not have been fully consummated until after daylight. Com. v. Glover, 111 Mass. 395.

Larceny in daytime after nocturnal entry. — If a house is entered in the night-time with intent to commit larceny therein, the fact that it is daytime when the goods are stolen and carried away does not prevent the offense from being burglary. People v. Gibson, 58 Mich. 368, 25 N. W. 316.

75. See People v. Barnhart, 59 Cal. 381; State v. Neddo, 92 Me. 71, 42 Atl. 253; Butler v. People, 4 Den. (N. Y.) 68; Davis v. State, 3 Coldw. (Tenn.) 77.

Under the Georgia statute burglary may be committed either in the daytime or in the night-time, and no distinction is made with respect to the punishment imposed. Ga. Crim. Code (1895), §§ 149, 150. See Jones v. State, 63 Ga. 141; Bethune v. State, 48 Ga. 505.

Under the Texas statute "the offense of burglary is constituted by entering a house by force, threats or fraud, at night, or in like manner by entering a house during the day and remaining concealed therein until night, with the intent, in either case, of committing felony or the crime of theft;" and "he is also guilty of burglary who, with intent to commit a felony or theft, by breaking, enters a house in the day time." Tex. Pen. Code, art. 839. Actual breaking is not necessary, except when the entry is made in the daytime. Tex. Pen. Code, art. 840. Under this statute where an actual breaking is shown it is altogether immaterial whether the entry was by night or by day. State v. Robertson, 32 Tex. 159; Shaffer v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1901) 65 S. W. 1072; Wilks v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1899) 51 S. W. 902; Sampson v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1892) 20 S. W. 708; Finlan v. State, (Tex. App. 1890) 13 S. W. 866; Buchanan v. State, 24 Tex. App. 195, 5 S. W. 847; Bravo v. State, 20 Tex. App. 188.

76. California.— People v. Griffin, 19 Cal. 578.

Connecticut.—State v. Morris, 47 Conn. 179.

Mississippi.— Thomas v. State, 5 How. (Miss.) 20.

New Hampshire.— State v. Bancroft, 10 N. H. 105.

North Carolina.— State v. McKnight, 111 N. C. 690, 16 S. E. 319.

Vermont.— State v. Clark, 42 Vt. 629.

Wisconsin.— Klieforth v. State, 88 Wis. 163, 59 N. W. 507, 43 Am. St. Rep. 875.

England.— 4 Bl. Comm. 224; 1 Hale P. C. 550, 551; 1 Hawkins P. C. c. 38, § 2; 3 Inst. 63.

Other light than daylight.— It is not the less night-time, within the definition of bur-ever, night-time is defined by the statutes, the definitions varying in the different jurisdictions.[77]

3. Breaking and Entering at Different Times. The breaking and entering need not be at the same time, nor even on the same night. A breaking on one night and entry on another night will constitute burglary, if both are done with intent to commit a felony.[78]

E. The Character of the Premises — 1. In General. At common law burglary is an offense, not against the property merely as property, but against the security of the habitation, and to constitute the offense, the breaking and entering must be of the dwelling-house of another,[79] except in the case of breaking and entering a church[80] or a walled town.[81] The statutes generally punish specifically the breaking and entering of dwelling-houses, but also go further, and punish the breaking and entering of other places, as shops, warehouses, stores, buildings, railroad cars, etc.[82]

2. Dwelling-Houses — a. In General. In order that a house may come within the common-law definition of burglary it must be in fact the dwelling-house of another at the time of the breaking and entry; and the same is true under a statute punishing the breaking and entering of a dwelling-house.[83] The charac-glary, because the street lamps, or reflection from the snow, or the moon, or all together, give sufficient light to discern a man's face, but the test is, whether there is sufficient daylight. State v. Morris, 47 Conn. 179. And see Thomas v. State, 5 How. (Miss.) 20; State v. McKnight, 111 N. C. 690, 16 S. E. 319.

77. Statutory definitions of "night-time." — In England night-time is defined by statute as from nine in the evening to six in the morning. 24 & 25 Vict. c. 96, § 1. In California and Minnesota it is defined from sunset to sunrise. Cal. Pen. Code, § 463; People v. Griffin, 19 Cal. 578; Minn. Pen. Code, § 387. In Texas by statutory provision, the term "daytime" means "any time of the twenty-four hours from thirty minutes before sunrise until thirty minutes after sunset." Tex. Pen. Code, art. 844. And night-time is from thirty minutes after sunset until thirty minutes before sunrise. Laws v. State, 26 Tex. App. 643, 10 S. W. 220.

78. Com. v. Glover, 111 Mass. 395; Rex v. Jordan, 7 C. & P. 432, 32 E. C. L. 693; Rex v. Smith, R. & R. 309; 4 Bl. Comm. 226; 1 Hale P. C. 551, 553. See also People v. Gibson, 58 Mich. 368, 25 N. W. 316.

79. Fuller v. State, 48 Ala. 273; Ex p. Vincent, 26 Ala. 145, 62 Am. Dec. 714; Quinn v. People, 71 N. Y. 561, 27 Am. Rep. 87; Hollister v. Com., 60 Pa. St. 103; Rex v. Lyons, 2 East P. C. 497, 1 Leach 221; Rex v. Martin, R. & R. 80; 4 Bl. Comm. 224; 1 Hale P. C. 550, 556; and other cases cited infra, II, E, 2.

80. See infra, II, E, 5.

81. 4 Bl. Comm. 224; 1 Hale P. C. 556; 1 Hawkins P. C. c. 38, § 17.

A burial-vault is not the subject of burglary at common law. People v. Richards, 108 N. Y. 137, 15 N. E. 371, 2 Am. St. Rep. 373.

82. See infra, II, E, 3.

The Penal Code of Texas, prior to 1899, made no distinction between burglary of dwelling-houses and other houses, but defined burglary as the breaking and entering or entering of "a house," and defined the term "house" as including "any building or structure erected for public or private use, . . . of whatever material it may be constructed." Tex. Pen. Code, arts. 838, 839, 843. But in 1899 the statute was amended by adding sections 839*a*, 845*a*, and 845*b*, defining "the offense of burglary of a private residence as entering a private residence by force, threats or fraud, at night, or in any manner by entering a private residence at any time, either day or night, and remaining concealed therein until night, with intent, in either case, of committing a felony or the crime of theft;" declaring an intention to make this a separate offense and not to affect the provisions of the penal code as to other premises; and imposing a specific punishment. Tex. Acts (1899), p. 318. This amendment makes it a separate and distinct offense to burglarize a private residence at night. It applies only to burglary at night, and burglary of a private residence in the daytime is still governed by the former provisions of the penal code. Williams v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1901) 62 S. W. 1057 [affirming (Tex. Crim. 1901) 61 S. W. 395, and overruling Osborn v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1901) 61 S. W. 491]. See also Fonville v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1901) 62 S. W. 573; Cleland v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1901) 61 S. W. 492; Harvey v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1901) 61 S. W. 492.

83. Alabama.— Fuller v. State, 48 Ala. 273; Ex p. Vincent, 26 Ala. 145, 62 Am. Dec. 714.

Mississippi.— Scott v. State, 62 Miss. 781.

Missouri.— State v. Clark, 89 Mo. 423 1 S. W. 332.

New York.— Quinn v. People, 71 N. Y. 561. 27 Am. Rep. 87.

North Carolina.— State v. Potts, 75 N. C. 129.

Pennsylvania.— Hollister v. Com., 60 Pa. St. 103.

ter of the house is generally immaterial if it is occupied as a dwelling.[84] The house must be occupied as a dwelling-house, and not merely be suitable or intended for such purpose. The owner or occupant, or some member of his family, or a servant, must sleep there.[85] If it is so occupied the temporary absence of the occupant will not prevent it from being the subject of burglary as a dwelling-house;[86] but a house, although furnished as a dwelling-house, loses its character as such for the purposes of burglary, if the occupant leaves it without the intention to return.[87] Occasionally sleeping in a house is not enough to make it a dwelling-house.[88] In some states, by statute, dwelling-houses are the subject of burglary, and may be described as such, whether they are occupied or not.[89]

b. Outhouses and Rooms. Stables, smoke-houses, kitchens, shops, offices, or other outhouses, if they are within the curtilage, and the cellar and all rooms of a dwelling-house are regarded as parts of the dwelling-house, so that it is burglary to break and enter the same with felonious intent, although there may be no entry into the dwelling-house itself, or into those rooms of the dwelling-house in which the occupants sleep; and an outhouse is within the curtilage, so as to

South Carolina.—State v. Sampson, 12 S. C. 567, 32 Am. Rep. 513.

England.— Rex v. Lyons, 2 East P. C. 497, 1 Leach 221; Rex v. Martin, R. & R. 80; 4 Bl. Comm. 224; 1 Hale P. C. 550, 556.

See 8 Cent. Dig. tit. "Burglary," § 15.

The term dwelling-house in a statute defining and punishing burglary is to be given the same meaning as at common law unless a contrary intent on the part of the legislature appears. Ex p. Vincent, 26 Ala. 145, 62 Am. Dec. 714; Pitcher v. People, 16 Mich. 142; Quinn v. People, 71 N. Y. 561, 27 Am. Rep. 87.

84. The cabin of a vessel may be a dwelling-house. Rex v. Humphrey, 1 Root (Conn.) 63.

A log house, described in an indictment as being without flue or fireplace, and with its only window boarded up, built for the use of wood-choppers when working near by, and in which several persons are temporarily staying with the consent of the owner, sleeping and eating there, is a dwelling-house. State v. Weber, 156 Mo. 257, 56 S. W. 893.

Tent or booth.— It has been said, however, that a tent or booth erected at a market or fair is not the subject of burglary at common law, although the owner may lodge therein, "for the law regards thus highly nothing but permanent edifices; . . . and though it may be the choice of the owner to lodge in so fragile a tenement, yet his lodging there no more makes it burglary to break it open, than it would be to uncover a tilted wagon in the same circumstances." 4 Bl. Comm. 226.

85. Alabama.—Fuller v. State, 48 Ala. 273.

Illinois.— Schwabacher v. People, 165 Ill. 618, 46 N. E. 809.

Mississippi.— Scott v. State, 62 Miss. 781.

Missouri.—State v. Meerchouse, 34 Mo. 344, 86 Am. Dec. 109; State v. Williams, 12 Mo. App. 591.

North Carolina.—State v. Jenkins, 50 N. C. 430.

England.— Thompson's Case, 2 East P. C. 498, 2 Leach 893; Harris' Case, 2 East P. C. 498; 2 Leach 701; Rex v. Lyons, 2 East P. C. 497, 1 Leach 221; Rex v. Fuller, 1 Leach 222, note a; Rex v. Martin, R. & R. 80; 4 Bl. Comm. 225.

See 8 Cent. Dig. tit. "Burglary," § 19.

House prepared, but not yet resided in.— In a Pennsylvania case it was held that a house in which the owner had put his furniture, intending to reside there, and which he visited occasionally, was a dwelling-house, and the subject of burglary, although he had never resided there. Com. v. Brown, 3 Rawle (Pa.) 207. But the weight of authority is to the contrary. Thompson's Case, 2 East P. C. 498, 2 Leach 893; Rex v. Harris, 2 East P. C. 498, 2 Leach 808. And see Scott v. State, 62 Miss. 781; State v. Jenkins, 50 N. C. 430.

Taking meals in a house does not make it a dwelling-house, so as to be the subject of burglary. Rex v. Martin, R. & R. 80.

86. Alabama.— Ex p. Vincent, 26 Ala. 145, 62 Am. Dec. 714.

Georgia.— Harrison v. State, 74 Ga. 801.

Illinois.— Schwabacher v. People, 165 Ill. 618, 46 N. E. 809.

Missouri.—State v. Meerchouse, 34 Mo. 344, 86 Am. Dec. 109.

Pennsylvania.— Com. v. Brown, 3 Rawle (Pa.) 207.

West Virginia.— State v. Williams, 40 W. Va. 268, 21 S. E. 721.

England.— 4 Bl. Comm. 225; 1 Hale P. C. 556; 1 Hawkins P. C. c. 38, § 18 [citing Anonymous, Moore, 660, pl. 903].

87. Schwabacher v. People, 165 Ill. 618, 46 N. E. 809; Scott v. State, 62 Miss. 781; State v. Meerchouse, 34 Mo. 344, 86 Am. Dec. 109; Rex v. Flannagan, R. & R. 140.

88. Occasional occupancy.— A house visited about once or twice a year by its owner to eat and sleep in for about a week, and which is unoccupied during the rest of the year, is not a dwelling-house while unoccupied. Scott v. State, 62 Miss. 781. See also State v. Jenkins, 50 N. C. 430. Compare Com. v. Brown, 3 Rawle (Pa.) 207.

89. See State v. Dan, 18 Nev. 345, 4 Pac. 336. State v. Williams, 40 W. Va. 268, 21 S. E. 721.

come within this rule, if it is parcel of or appurtenant to the dwelling and connected therewith by being under the same roof or within the same inclosure,[90] or if it is situated and used as such outhouses usually are, whether there is any actual common inclosure or not.[91] And it makes no difference that there is no direct communication between the dwelling and the place entered.[92] The rule, however, does not apply to outhouses which are not within the curtilage, and an outhouse is not within the curtilage if it is separated from the dwelling by a public highway, or if it is otherwise beyond the common inclosure or cluster of buildings.[93] The term "dwelling-house" in a statute, since it is to be given the same meaning as at common law, includes outhouses within the curtilage.[94] In statutes defining and punishing burglary, the words "buildings within the curti-

90. Alabama.— Wait v. State, 99 Ala. 164, 13 So. 584; Fuller v. State, 48 Ala. 273; Fisher v. State, 43 Ala. 17; State v. McCall, 4 Ala. 643, 39 Am. Dec. 314.

Kentucky.— Price v. Com., 15 Ky. L. Rep. 837, 25 S. W. 1062; Mitchell v. Com., 88 Ky. 349, 10 Ky. L. Rep. 910, 11 S. W. 209.

Maine.— State v. Shaw, 31 Me. 523.

Michigan.— People v. Aplin, 86 Mich. 393, 49 N. W. 148; Pitcher v. People, 16 Mich. 142.

Missouri.— State v. Hecox, 83 Mo. 531.

Nebraska.— Hahn v. State, 60 Nebr. 487, 83 N. W. 674.

New Jersey.— Edwards v. Derrickson, 28 N. J. L. 39.

New York.— See Quinn v. People, 71 N. Y. 561, 27 Am. Rep. 87.

North Carolina.— State v. Mordecai, 68 N. C. 207; State v. Whit, 49 N. C. 349; State v. Wilson, 2 N. C. 242; State v. Twitty, 2 N. C. 102.

South Carolina.— State v. Johnson, 45 S. C. 483, 23 S. E. 619; State v. Sampson, 12 S. C. 567, 32 Am. Rep. 513.

Tennessee.— Fletcher v. State, 10 Lea (Tenn.) 338.

England.— Rex v. Gibson, 2 East P. C. 508, 1 Leach 357; Brown's Case, 2 East P. C. 487, 2 Leach 1016 note; Rex v. Clayburn, R. & R. 268; Rex v. Lithgo, R. & R. 265; Rex v. Chalking, R. & R. 248; Rex v. Hancock, R. & R. 127; 4 Bl. Comm. 225; 1 Hale P. C. 558; 1 Hawkins P. C. c. 38, § 12.

New South Wales.— Reg. v. Nichol, 1 Legge (New South Wales) 233, holding a communicating office a part of a dwelling-house.

See 8 Cent. Dig. tit. "Burglary," § 16.

"A dwelling house is the apartment, building, or cluster of buildings, in which a man with his family resides." Fuller v. State, 48 Ala. 273. "The capital house protects and privileges all its branches and appurtenances, if within the curtilage or homestall." 4 Bl. Comm. 225.

A cellar or basement hallway under a dwelling-house, if it is under the control of the occupants of the house, is a part of the dwelling-house, so as to make it burglary to break and enter the same, and it makes no difference that there is no internal communication, and the entry is from the outside. Mitchell v. Com., 88 Ky. 349, 10 Ky. L. Rep. 910, 11 S. W. 209; Hahn v. State, 60 Nebr. 487, 83 N. W. 674. But this is not true of an underground basement or cellar which is used merely for storage of goods, and which is neither connected internally with the house nor under the control of the occupant of the house. State v. Clark, 89 Mo. 423, 1 S. W. 332.

91. State v. Wilson, 2 N. C. 242; State v. Twitty, 2 N. C. 102; Rex v. Brown, 2 East P. C. 493. Compare State v. Jake, 60 N. C. 80.

92. Direct communication with dwelling not necessary.— Mitchell v. Com., 88 Ky. 349, 10 Ky. L. Rep. 910, 11 S. W. 209; Hahn v. State, 60 Nebr. 487, 83 N. W. 674; Quinn v. People, 71 N. Y. 561, 27 Am. Rep. 87; Rex v. Gibson, 2 East P. C. 508, 1 Leach 357. Although the only communication between a store and the dwelling rooms of the occupant over it was through a fenced yard and by stairs on the outside, the store was held a part of the dwelling-house under a statute providing that no building should be deemed a dwelling-house or any part of a dwelling-house, unless it should be joined to, immediately connected with, and a part of the dwelling-house. Quinn v. People, 71 N. Y. 561, 27 Am. Rep. 87.

93. Michigan.— Curkendall v. People, 36 Mich. 309.

New York.— People v. Parker, 4 Johns. (N. Y.) 424.

North Carolina.— State v. Jake, 60 N. C. 80; State v. Jenkins, 50 N. C. 430; State v. Langford, 12 N. C. 253.

South Carolina.— State v. Anderson, 24 S. C. 109; State v. Sampson, 12 S. C. 567, 32 Am. Rep. 513; State v. Ginns, 1 Nott & M. (S. C.) 583.

Tennessee.— Palmer v. State, 7 Coldw. (Tenn.) 82; Armour v. State, 3 Humphr. (Tenn.) 378.

England.— Rex v. Westwood, R. & R. 368; 4 Bl. Comm. 225.

Entering the back of an outhouse may be burglary if the front of the same is within the common inclosure or curtilage, although the back of it, into which the entry is made, may be outside of the inclosure. Fisher v. State, 43 Ala. 17; State v. Whit, 49 N. C. 349.

94. Pitcher v. People, 16 Mich. 142, and cases cited in the preceding notes. See also Palmer v. State, 7 Coldw. (Tenn.) 82, where it was held that the term "house" in a statute punishing "breaking open the house of lage," or "outhouses within the curtilage," etc., are to be given the same meaning as at common law.[95] In some states the statutes expressly define what outhouses shall be deemed part and parcel of the dwelling-house for the purposes of burglary.[96]

c. Occupancy in Part For Other Purposes. If a house is used by the occupant or a member of his family as a dwelling, it is the subject of burglary, notwithstanding it may also be used for other purposes, as for a shop, warehouse, store, or office; and in such a case the breaking and entering of any part of the house is a breaking and entering of the dwelling-house, although the occupant may not sleep in the particular room broken and entered.[97] The fact that there is no direct internal communication between the room in which the occupant sleeps and the room broken and entered is immaterial.[98] The building, however, must be used habitually, and not merely occasionally as a place to sleep.[99]

d. Occupancy of Servants. If a person habitually sleeps in a house, it is none the less a dwelling-house within the definition of burglary because he is merely a servant of the owner or occupant.[1] And this is true, by the weight of another," means the same as "dwelling-house" at common law, and does not include an outhouse unless it is within the curtilage.

95. Wait v. State, 99 Ala. 164, 13 So. 584; Fisher v. State, 43 Ala. 17.

The section of the Kentucky statute punishing the breaking and entering of any dwelling-house or "any outhouse belonging to or used with any dwelling-house," applies to such outhouses as are used in connection with a dwelling-house. It does not include a barn in a field, at a distance of one hundred yards or more from the dwelling-house, and used for the purpose of storing tobacco, corn, wheat, or other product of the farm. Whalen v. Com., 17 Ky. L. Rep. 921, 32 S. W. 1095; White v. Com., 87 Ky. 454, 10 Ky. L. Rep. 422, 9 S. W. 303. But see McHatton v. Com., 7 Ky. L. Rep. 47. It includes, however, a chicken-house on the same lot as the dwelling-house, and owned and used by the same person. Price v. Com., 15 Ky. L. Rep. 837, 25 S. W. 1062.

96. A statute punishing the breaking and entering of a dwelling-house or any "houses, outhouses, buildings, sheds and erections, which are within two hundred yards of it, and are appurtenant to it" does not apply to a mill in which no one sleeps, seventy-five yards from the owner's dwelling-house, and separated from it by a public highway, unless it is proved to be appurtenant to the dwelling-house. State v. Sampson, 12 S. C. 567, 32 Am. Rep. 513.

97. Alabama.—Ex p. Vincent, 26 Ala. 145, 62 Am. Dec. 714.

Michigan.— People v. Dupree, 98 Mich. 26, 56 N. W. 1046; People v. Griffin, 77 Mich. 585, 43 N. W. 1061; Moore v. People, 47 Mich. 639, 11 N. W. 415.

Missouri.— State v. Hutchinson, 111 Mo. 257, 20 S. W. 34.

New York.— Quinn v. People, 71 N. Y. 561, 27 Am. Rep. 87; People v. Snyder, 2 Park. Crim. (N. Y.) 23; Robertson's Case, 4 City Hall Rec. (N. Y.) 63. Compare In re Mills, 3 City Hall Rec. (N. Y.) 192; In re Jones, 1 City Hall Rec. (N. Y.) 183.

North Carolina.— State v. Pressley, 90 N. C. 730; State v. Williams, 90 N. C. 724, 47 Am. Rep. 541; State v. Potts, 75 N. C. 129; State v. Outlaw, 72 N. C. 598; State v. Mordecai, 68 N. C. 207.

United States.— U. S. v. Johnson, 2 Cranch C. C. (U. S.) 21, 26 Fed. Cas. No. 15,485.

England.— Turner's Case, 2 East P. C. 492, 1 Leach 342; Rex v. Stock, 2 Leach 1015, R. & R. 138, 2 Taunt. 339, 11 Rev. Rep. 605.

Stores, etc., occupied also as dwellings.— A two-story building, the front room of the down-stairs portion of which is used as a store, and the back room of the same story as a sleeping apartment by the proprietor, and the up-stairs rooms of which are used as sleeping-rooms for the clerks in the store, all the occupants of which are single men, who take their meals out, and have their washing done out, is a dwelling-house, both at common law and under a statute punishing the breaking and entering of a dwelling-house. Ex p. Vincent, 26 Ala. 145, 62 Am. Dec. 714. See also Quinn v. People, 71 N. Y. 561, 27 Am. Rep. 87. Breaking and entering a store-room, off of which opens an occupied sleeping apartment, the door between being open, is within a statute making it burglary in the first degree when the offense is committed "in a dwelling-house or in a room used as a sleeping apartment in any building," while actually occupied. State v. Foster, 130 N. C. 666, 40 S. E. 209.

98. State v. Hutchinson, 111 Mo. 257, 20 S. W. 34; Quinn v. People, 71 N. Y. 561, 27 Am. Rep. 87; People v. Snyder, 2 Park. Crim. (N. Y.) 23; Robertson's Case, 4 City Hall Rec. (N. Y.) 63. Compare People v. Van Dam, 107 Mich. 425, 65 N. W. 277; State v. Clark, 89 Mo. 423, 1 S. W. 332.

99. State v. Jenkins, 50 N. C. 430; Rex v. Davis, 2 East P. C. 499, 2 Leach 876.

1. State v. Pressley, 90 N. C. 730; State v. Williams, 90 N. C. 724, 47 Am. Rep. 541; State v. Potts, 75 N. C. 129; State v. Outlaw, 72 N. C. 598; State v. Jake, 60 N. C. 80; U. S. v. Johnson, 2 Cranch C. C. (U. S.) 21, 26 Fed. Cas. No. 15,485; Turner's Case, 2 East P. C. 492, 1 Leach 342; Rex v. Stock, 2 Leach 1015, R. & R. 138, 2 Taunt. 339, 11 Rev. Rep. 605; Rex v. Westwood, R. & R. 368; Rex v. Gibbons, R. & R. 328.

authority, although he may sleep there merely as a watchman and for the purpose of protecting the property.[2] He must sleep there habitually, however, and not merely occasionally.[3]

e. Apartment or Tenement Houses. In an apartment or tenement house each apartment or suite of rooms is the dwelling-house of the occupant, within the definition of burglary.[4] The same was true under the English common law of the chambers in an inn of court or a college.[5] And the occupant of one apartment may be guilty of burglary in breaking and entering another.[6]

f. Hotels, Boarding-Houses, and Lodgings. Hotels and boarding-houses, and houses in which rooms are let to lodgers, are undoubtedly dwelling-houses, so as to make it burglary to break and enter an outer door with felonious intent, or to enter an open outer door, and break and enter an inner door with such intent.[7]

3. Shops, Stores, Warehouses, and Other Buildings and Structures — a. In General. A shop, store, warehouse, office, or other building or structure, used for business purposes or otherwise, is not the subject of burglary in the absence of a statute making it so,[8] unless it is also occupied as a dwelling, so as to be a dwelling-house,[9] or unless it is within the curtilage of a dwelling-house, so as to constitute a part thereof,[10] as explained in preceding sections.

b. Under the Statutes — (I) In General. Perhaps in all jurisdictions, however, the offense of burglary has been extended by express statutory provisions, so as to include the breaking and entering, or the entering without breaking, with intent to steal, or to commit any other felony, of buildings or structures which are not dwelling-houses, nor in any way connected with a dwelling-house. These statutes are to be strictly construed, and extend to such structures only as come clearly and strictly within their meaning.[11] Under a statute punishing the

The fact that the servant sleeping habitually in a storehouse does not take his meals or board with the owner of the store is immaterial. State v. Pressley, 90 N. C. 730.

As to whether the ownership must be alleged in the master or the servant see infra, IV, D, 11, c, (III).

2. State v. Williams, 90 N. C. 724, 47 Am. Rep. 541; State v. Outlaw, 72 N. C. 598; U. S. v. Johnson, 2 Cranch C. C. (U. S.) 21, 26 Fed. Cas. No. 15,485; Rex v. Gibbons, R. & R. 328.

Contra.— State v. Potts, 75 N. C. 129; Rex v. Davis, 2 East P. C. 499, 2 Leach 876; Rex v. Flannagan, R. & R. 140.

3. State v. Jenkins, 50 N. C. 430; Rex v. Davis, 2 East P. C. 499, 2 Leach 876.

4. Mason v. People, 26 N. Y. 200; People v. Bush, 3 Park. Crim. (N. Y.) 552; Ullman v. State, 1 Tex. App. 220, 28 Am. Rep. 405; Turner's Case, 2 East P. C. 492, 1 Leach 342.

5. 4 Bl. Comm. 225; 1 Hale P. C. 556.

6. See supra, II, B, 2, e.

7. California.— People v. St. Clair, 38 Cal. 137.

Georgia.— Colbert v. State, 91 Ga. 705, 17 S. E. 840; Jones v. State, 75 Ga. 825.

Texas.— Ullman v. State, 1 Tex. App. 220, 28 Am. Rep. 405.

Vermont.— State v. Clark, 42 Vt. 629.

Washington.— State v. Burton, (Wash. 1902) 67 Pac. 1097.

England.— Rogers's Case, 2 East P. C. 506, 1 Leach 89; Carrell's Case, 2 East P. C. 506, 1 Leach 272; Turner's Case, 2 East P. C. 492, 1 Leach 342.

As to whether the ownership should be alleged in the innkeeper or proprietor, or in the guest or lodger, as the case may be, see infra, IV, D, 11.

8. New Jersey.— Conners v. State, 45 N. J. L. 340.

New York.— People v. Parker, 4 Johns. (N. Y.) 424; In re Mills, 3 City Hall Rec. (N. Y.) 192; In re Jones, 1 City Hall Rec. (N. Y.) 183.

North Carolina.— State v. Dozier, 73 N. C. 117; State v. Jenkins, 50 N. C. 430; State v. Langford, 12 N. C. 253.

Pennsylvania.— Hollister v. Com., 60 Pa. St. 103.

South Carolina.— State v. Anderson, 24 S. C. 109; State v. Ginns, 1 Nott & M. (S. C.) 583.

Tennessee.— Mathis v. State, 3 Heisk. (Tenn.) 127; Armour v. State, 3 Humphr. (Tenn.) 378.

England.—Rex v. Eggington, 2 B. & P. 508, 2 East P. C. 494, 666, 2 Leach 913, 5 Rev. Rep. 689; Rex v. Martin, R. & R. 80.

See 8 Cent. Dig. tit. "Burglary," § 17; and supra, II, E, 2, a.

9. See supra, II, E, 2, c.

10. See supra, II, E, 2, b.

11. Where the only statute on the subject punishes any person who, with intent to commit a felony, "shall in the night time enter without breaking, or in the day time break and enter," any warehouse, storehouse, etc., an indictment for burglary will not lie for breaking and entering a warehouse or storehouse in the night-time. Com. v. Carrol, 8 Mass. 490.

breaking and entering of a shop, store, or other building with intent to steal, the building need not be within the curtilage of a dwelling-house, unless the statute so provides.[12] Sometimes there are express provisions on this point in the statutes.[13]

(11) "Shop," "Store," "Storehouse," "Warehouse," Etc., Defined. The statutes very generally punish the breaking and entering, or entering without breaking, of any shop, store, storehouse, warehouse, office, etc. These terms in a statute are to be given their ordinary meaning in determining whether the statute applies to a particular structure, in accordance with the general rule of construction,[14] but the rule seems to have been ignored in some cases.[15] In the notes below decisions are referred to in which the courts have construed and applied the terms "shop,"[16] "store" or "storehouse,"[17] "warehouse,"[18]

Building not known when statute was enacted.— A building may be within a statute defining and punishing burglary, although no such building was known at the time the statute was enacted. State v. Bishop, 51 Vt. 287, 31 Am. Rep. 690.

12. Building need not be within the curtilage.— On the trial of an indictment, under a statute making it burglary to enter any building "within the curtilage of a dwelling-house," or "other building" in which any valuable thing is kept, etc., with intent to steal, it is immaterial whether a granary from which valuables are alleged to have been stolen was within the curtilage or not. State v. Hecox, 83 Mo. 531.

13. See Devoe v. Com., 3 Metc. (Mass.) 316; People v. Van Dam, 107 Mich. 425, 65 N. W. 277; People v. Calderwood, 66 Mich. 92, 33 N. W. 23. And see infra, II, E, 3, b, (VI).

14. Metz v. State, 46 Nebr. 547, 65 N. W. 190; State v. Wilson, 47 N. H. 101; State v. Bishop, 51 Vt. 287, 31 Am. Rep. 690; and cases cited infra, note 15 et seq. The fact that a particular kind of structure was not known at the time of the enactment of a statute defining burglaries does not prevent it from falling within the words "store," "office," "warehouse," or other general terms used in the statute. State v. Bishop, 51 Vt. 287, 31 Am. Rep. 690.

15. State v. Carrier, 5 Day (Conn.) 131; Rex v. Humphrey, 1 Root (Conn.) 63; Cool v. Com., 94 Va. 799, 26 S. E. 411.

Banking-house.— In Connecticut a banking-house was held to be within a statute using the words "store, shop, or warehouse." Wilson v. State, 24 Conn. 57.

16. The term "shop" has been held to include the cabin of a vessel. State v. Carrier, 5 Day (Conn.) 131; Rex v. Humphrey, 1 Root (Conn.) 63. But it has been held not to include a mill-house. Cool v. Com., 94 Va. 799, 26 S. E. 411. In Reg. v. Sanders, 9 C. & P. 79, 38 E. C. L. 58, Baron Alderson held that the term "shop" in a statute punishing the breaking and entering of "any shop, warehouse, or counting-house" meant a shop for the sale of articles, and did not include a mere workshop, as a blacksmith's shop. But the contrary was held by Lord Denman in Reg. v. Carter, 1 C. & K. 173, 47 E. C. L. 173.

17. The term "storehouse" has been held to include the following: A building erected on a farm for the storing of husked corn and other farm produce. Metz v. State, 46 Nebr. 547, 65 N. W. 190. A livery-stable in which bridles, buggies, and farming implements are kept. Webb v. Com., 18 Ky. L. Rep. 220, 35 S. W. 1038. A meat-house in which meat is kept. Benton v. Com., 91 Va. 782, 21 S. E. 495. A room occupied as a news depot, in which papers, pamphlets, and the like are kept for sale. Bauer v. State, 25 Ohio St. 70. A room occupied by two men in a storehouse belonging to one of them is a "storehouse" within the meaning of the Kentucky statute punishing as burglary breaking into a warehouse, storehouse, or room in a steam, wharf, or other boat, whether such place is used as a depositary for goods or not. Johnson v. Com., 22 Ky. L. Rep. 282, 57 S. W. 255. It was held that a mill-house was not within a statute punishing the breaking and entering, with intent to steal, of "any office, shop, storehouse, warehouse, or banking house." Cool v. Com., 94 Va. 799, 26 S. E. 411. A small room, forming part of a cellar, and in which a few jugs of wine are kept for family use, is not a "storehouse." Mason v. Com., 101 Ky. 397, 19 Ky. L. Rep. 622, 41 S. W. 305.

The term "store" has been held to include a building including a kitchen, two dining-rooms, a bedroom, and a saloon, in which the occupant sold cigars, beer, and oysters, and maintained a bar in the front room, the entry being into the kitchen, which was the back room. Com. v. Whalen, 131 Mass. 419. But a charge of breaking into a store in which goods were kept for use, sale, or deposit is not sustained by proof of entering an inner room of a building which was not a store, but a mere business office of a board of underwriters, and in which were kept merely furniture, office supplies, etc. People v. Marks, 4 Park. Crim. (N. Y.) 153.

18. The term "warehouse" has been held to include the following places: A railroad depot used for receiving, depositing, and discharging freight. State v. Bishop, 51 Vt. 287, 31 Am. Rep. 690. A granary used for keeping and preserving farming utensils, etc Ray v. Com., 12 Bush (Ky.) 397. A building erected on a farm for the storage of husked corn or other farm produce. Metz v. State,

"granary," [19] "barn," [20] "factory," [21] "outhouse," [22] "room," [23] "office," [24] and "booth." [25]

(III) "House." Under some statutes punishing the breaking and entering of the "house" of another, it has been held that the term "house" should be given the same meaning as "dwelling-house" at common law, so as to include a dwelling-house and outhouses within the curtilage, but not so as to include houses not occupied as a dwelling-house, or outhouses not within the curtilage.[26] In other statutes, however, the term is used in a broader sense, and includes any structure which falls within the ordinary meaning of the term "house," whether it is a dwelling-house or connected with a dwelling-house or not.[27] And in like

46 Nebr. 547, 65 N. W. 190. A livery-stable in which bridles, buggies, and farming implements are kept. Webb v. Com., 18 Ky. L. Rep. 220, 35 S. W. 1038. A covered structure used for storing cotton bales, one side and end of which are planked up, and the others left open, so that wagons can drive under to load and unload, and which, with two acres of land connected with it, is inclosed by a plank fence nine feet high, the gates of which are kept locked. Hagan v. State, 52 Ala. 373; Bennett v. State, 52 Ala. 370. An opera-house used for storage of the stage properties between the times when they are used for entertainments. Hunter v. Com., 20 Ky. L. Rep. 1165, 48 S. W. 1077. But it has been held that the term "warehouse" does not include a building, twenty-one by fifteen feet, placed on a market garden and used for storing agricultural implements, and for storing grain and seed to be sown, fertilizers, etc. State v. Wilson, 47 N. H. 101. And a mill-house was held not to be within a statute punishing the breaking and entering of "any office, shop, storehouse, warehouse, or banking house," with intent to steal. Cool v. Com., 94 Va. 799, 26 S. E. 411. A statute punishing as burglary breaking and entering, with intent to steal, any shop, store, tent, booth, warehouse, or other building in which any goods are kept, etc., was held to apply where the room broken and entered was in the basement of a court-house occupied by a corporation for storing beer, by consent of those having supervision of the building, being separated from other rooms in the basement by partition walls with doors which were kept locked, the keys to which were in the possession of the corporation's agents, and where the defendant entered the basement through an open window into a hall occupied for public purposes, and thence entered the room by breaking through a door. People v. McCloskey, 5 Park. Crim. (N. Y.) 57.

19. "Granary."—It has been held that the term "granary" does not include a building, twenty-one by fifteen feet, placed on a market garden, and used for storing tools and agricultural implements, grain and seed to be sown, fertilizers, etc. State v. Wilson, 47 N. H. 101.

20. The term "barn" in a statute defining burglary includes a tobacco-house, erected upon a farm and used for the purpose of storing and drying tobacco. Ratekin v. State, 26 Ohio St. 420. And it includes a building built for a dwelling-house, but used for the purpose of storing grain on the owner's farm. Barnett v. State, 38 Ohio St. 7.

21. Factory.—An inclosed building commonly called an "ashery," and used "for the purpose of depositing ashes therein and converting the same into potash," is a "factory" within a statute defining burglary. Blackford v. State, 11 Ohio St. 327.

22. "Outhouse."—A barn not connected with a mansion-house, but standing alone several rods distant therefrom, is an "outhouse" within a statute punishing the breaking and entering of "the store, shop, warehouse or outhouse of another, whether parcel of any mansion-house or not, wherein goods, wares, or merchandise are deposited. State v. Brooks, 4 Conn. 446. A district school-house is not an "outhouse" within such a statute. State v. Bailey, 10 Conn. 144.

23. Room.—A partition in a building eight or nine feet high, although not reaching to the ceiling, is sufficient to constitute the inclosed place a "room" in which burglary may be committed. People v. Young, 65 Cal. 225, 3 Pac. 813.

24. The term "office" does not include the passenger room of a railroad station, having within it a separate inclosed room where the books are kept and the tickets sold. Com. v. White, 6 Cush. (Mass.) 181.

25. The term "booth" includes a structure five feet high and five feet long, having a window and door, and erected as a fruit stand against other premises. People v. Hagan, 14 N. Y. Suppl. 233, 37 N. Y. St. 660.

26. Mathis v. State, 3 Heisk. (Tenn.) 127; Palmer v. State, 7 Coldw. (Tenn.) 82.

27. A statute punishing the breaking and entering of "any dwelling-house, or any other house whatever" is broad enough to include buildings of any kind, and used for any purpose. It includes a chicken-house. People v. Stickman, 34 Cal. 242. See also State v. Dan, 18 Nev. 345, 4 Pac. 336.

Wire bird-house.—A structure eight feet high, stationary, inclosed with wire and covered with shingles, and used for the safe-keeping of birds and fowls, is a house. Williams v. State, 105 Ga. 814, 32 S. E. 129, 70 Am. St. Rep. 82.

The Texas statute, using the term "house" in defining burglary, expressly declares the term to mean "any building or structure erected for public or private use, . . . of whatever material it may be constructed." Tex. Pen. Code, art. 843.

A tent or structure seven feet high, made manner in this broader sense the term has been held to include a building of any kind whether it is occupied or not.[28]

(IV) "Building." The term "building" in a statute is broad enough to include any structure which is of such a character as to fall within the ordinary acceptation of that term, and which is capable of sheltering man or animals or property,[29] whether its construction is entirely finished or not.[30] Occupancy of the building is not necessary unless required by the statute.[31]

(V) "Other Building," "Erection," or "Structure." Under some of the statutes defining and punishing burglary, which specifically enumerate certain buildings or structures as the subject of the offense, and follow such enumeration with the words "or other building," or the words "or other erection or by placing two forked poles in the ground, with a ridge-pole thereon, and stretching over this a wagon sheet, the ends of which are brought down to the ground and nailed on each side to planks nailed to stakes in the ground, both ends being closed up, is a house within this statute. Favro v. State, 39 Tex. Crim. 452, 46 S. W. 932, 73 Am. St. Rep. 950.

Fruit stand.— This statute also includes a fruit stand built in the shape of a piano box, but large enough for the proprietor to stand in while making sales. Willis v. State, 33 Tex. Crim. 168, 25 S. W. 1119.

An office built in the corner of a warehouse was held to be a "house" within the Texas statute. Anderson v. State, 17 Tex. App. 305.

Sheriff's office.— The statute also includes a sheriff's office. Bigham v. State, 31 Tex. Crim. 244, 20 S. W. 577.

Portable "header-box."— But it does not include a portable header-box, fourteen feet long, six feet wide, four feet high on one side, and eighteen inches on the other, such as is commonly used with a grain harvester, although it has four sides and is covered over, for it has no permanency of location or fixedness of place, and is not used or intended to be used for any purpose for which houses are ordinarily used. Williamson v. State, 39 Tex. Crim. 60, 44 S. W. 1107, 73 Am. St. Rep. 901.

28. State v. Dan, 18 Nev. 345, 4 Pac. 336.

29. People v. Stickman, 34 Cal. 242; Clark v. State, 69 Wis. 203, 33 N. W. 436, 2 Am. St. Rep. 732; Rex v. Worrall, 7 C. & P. 516, 32 E. C. L. 736.

The term "building" has been held to include a chicken-house (People v. Stickman, 34 Cal. 242; Gillock v. People, 171 Ill. 307, 49 N. E. 712; [but see State v. Schuchmann, 133 Mo. 111, 33 S. W. 35, 34 S. W. 842]), a stable (Orrell v. People, 94 Ill. 456, 34 Am. Rep. 241; Clark v. State, 69 Wis. 203, 33 N. W. 436, 2 Am. St. Rep. 732), a buggy-house (State v. Garrison, 52 Kan. 180, 34 Pac. 751), a court-house (State v. Rogers, 54 Kan. 683, 39 Pac. 219), a saloon (State v. Comstock, 20 Kan. 650), a railroad depot (State v. Edwards, 109 Mo. 315, 19 S. W. 91), and an unfinished structure intended as a cart-shed, boarded up on its sides, having a door with a lock to it, and the frame of a roof with loose gorse thrown upon it, but not thatched (Rex v. Worrall, 7 C. & P. 516, 32 E. C. L. 736).

A "corn-crib" is not necessarily a "building" (Wood v. State, 18 Fla. 967, holding an indictment defective for failure to allege that a structure described as a "corn-crib" was a building); but it may be of such a character as to come within this term (State v. Gibson, 97 Iowa 416, 66 N. W. 742, holding that a corn-crib one hundred and fifty feet long and twelve feet wide, having a roof, the only opening for entrance to which was a place where a board had been left off near the roof, and which was constructed on posts sunk in the ground, on which joists were nailed to support the floor, the sides being constructed by nailing fencing boards to the posts, the boards near the bottom being close together, and the others about one and a half inches apart, was a building within the Iowa statute). See also Roberts v. State, 55 Miss. 421.

An "engine-room" of a railroad company is not necessarily a "building" within the Illinois statute. Kincaid v. People, 139 Ill. 213, 28 N. E. 1060.

A burial vault is not a building within the New York statute. People v. Richards, 108 N. Y. 137, 15 N. E. 371, 2 Am. St. Rep. 373 [reversing 44 Hun (N. Y.) 278].

A canal-boat grounded and frozen fast and occupied by the captain as a dwelling was held not to be a building within a statute punishing the breaking and entering of any dwelling-house or other building. State v. Green, 6 N. J. L. J. 123.

To enter a yard with intent to steal is not within a statute punishing any person who shall break and enter any dwelling-house or other building, or wilfully and maliciously enter without breaking, with intent to commit any felony. Com. v. Taggert, 3 Brewst. (Pa.) 340.

30. An unfinished building in the course of construction, and which is capable of holding tools or other articles of personal property, is within a statute punishing the breaking and entering, with intent to commit larceny or other felony, of any office, shop, "or any other building." Clark v. State, 69 Wis. 203, 33 N. W. 436, 2 Am. St. Rep. 732. See also Grimes v. State, 77 Ga. 762, 4 Am. St. Rep. 112; Reg. v. Manning, L. R. 1 C. C. 338, 12 Cox C. C. 106, 41 L. J. M. C. 11, 25 L. T. Rep. N. S. 573, 20 Wkly. Rep. 102; Rex v. Worrall, 7 C. & P. 516, 32 E. C. L. 736.

31. State v. Dan, 18 Nev. 345, 4 Pac. 336.

inclosure," etc., the courts, applying the general rule of statutory construction, have held that the general words are limited to such buildings or erections as are of the same kind as those specifically enumerated.[32] This rule of construction, however, is only applied for the purpose of ascertaining the intention of the legislature, and the words "other building," etc., will be construed as including any building, of whatever character, and not merely such buildings as are like those specifically enumerated, if such appears to have been the intention of the legislature.[33]

(VI) Buildings Not Adjoining To, or Occupied With, a Dwelling-House. In some states the statute after punishing burglary of a dwelling-house, punishes as a separate offense the breaking and entry of a store or other building "not adjoining to or occupied with a dwelling-house," and to sustain an indictment under the latter section of such a statute it must be shown that the building was within its terms in this respect.[34]

(VII) Buildings in Which Valuable Goods, Etc., Are Kept. In some states the statute punishing the breaking and entering, with intent to steal, of any shop, store, warehouse, etc., or other building, expressly requires that the building

32. See State v. Schuchmann, 133 Mo. 111, 33 S. W. 35, 34 S. W. 842 [overruling State v. Hecox, 83 Mo. 531], holding that a statute punishing the breaking and entering of "any shop, store, booth, tent, warehouse, or other building," did not include a chicken-house. And see State v. South, 136 Mo. 673, 38 S. W. 716, holding that the statute did not include a barn. But this statute has been held to include a railroad depot. State v. Edwards, 109 Mo. 315, 19 S. W. 91. See also People v. Richards, 108 N. Y. 137, 15 N. E. 371, 2 Am. St. Rep. 373, where it was held that a stone vault intended and used for burial of the dead was not within a statute punishing as burglary the breaking and entering of any "building" and declaring that the term building should include "a railway car, vessel, booth, tent, shop, or other erection or inclosure."

33. State v. Johnson, 64 Ohio St. 270, 60 N. E. 219; Clark v. State, 69 Wis. 203, 33 N. W. 436, 2 Am. St. Rep. 732.

Under the Illinois statute punishing the breaking and entering of "any dwelling house, kitchen, office, shop, storehouse, warehouse, malt-house, stilling-house, mill, pottery, factory, wharf-boat, steamboat, or other water-craft," with intent to commit larceny, it was held that the words "or other building" were not limited to other buildings of the same kind as those enumerated, and that an indictment might be maintained for breaking and entering a "chicken-house." Gillock v. People, 171 Ill. 307, 49 N. E. 712. A stable is a building within the Illinois statute. Orrell v. People, 94 Ill. 456, 34 Am. Rep. 241. But an "engine-room" of a railroad company is not necessarily so. Kincaid v. People, 139 Ill. 213, 28 N. E. 1060.

The Kansas statute punishing as burglary the breaking and entering of "any shop, store, booth, tent, warehouse, or other building, or any boat or vessel, in which there shall be at the time some human being, or any goods, wares, or merchandise, or other valuable thing, kept or deposited, with intent," etc., applies to a buggy house (by the term other building) in which goods, wares, merchandise, or any other valuable thing is kept or deposited. State v. Garrison, 52 Kan. 180, 34 Pac. 751. It also applies to a building occupied as a court-house, in which records belonging to the county are kept. State v. Rogers, 54 Kan. 683, 39 Pac. 219. A saloon is a building within the meaning of this statute. State v. Comstock, 20 Kan. 650.

34. Where one statute or section punishes breaking and entering a dwelling-house, etc., and another punishes breaking and entering a shop, etc., "not adjoining to or occupied with a dwelling-house," etc., the latter includes all buildings not so joined to a dwelling-house as to be within the curtilage, or parts of the messuage, at common law, and such buildings only, and the former punishes the breaking and entry of buildings which are within the curtilage. Devoe v. Com., 3 Metc. (Mass.) 316. A statute punishing the breaking and entering any office, shop, store, saloon, etc., "not adjoining to or occupied with a dwelling-house," applies to an office, shop, store, saloon, etc., which is under a separate roof from the dwelling-house of the owner, or which, although under the same roof, is not connected with the dwelling. People v. Van Dam, 107 Mich. 425, 65 N. W. 277; People v. McGra, 1 Mich. N. P. 27. But it does not apply where it is under the same roof and connected with the living rooms by doors and stairways, or where it is under a different roof but connected by a passageway. People v. Dupree, 98 Mich. 26, 56 N. W. 1046; People v. Griffin, 77 Mich. 585, 43 N. W. 1061; People v. Calderwood, 66 Mich. 92, 33 N. W. 23. A description of the building as a store "not adjoining to or occupied with a dwelling-house" is not sustained by proof that the store was the first floor of a building leased by the proprietors as partners, and that one of them occupied the upper part as a dwelling-house and the other lodged with him. Moore v. People, 47 Mich. 639, 11 N. W. 415.

shall be one in which goods, wares, merchandise, or other valuable thing is kept, or is kept for use, sale, or deposit;[35] and the statute does not apply unless the condition or use of the premises broken and entered are such as to bring them strictly within its terms in this respect.[36] Under a statute making it burglary to break and enter a building in which valuable goods are stored the ownership of the goods is immaterial.[37]

(VIII) "Other Place of Business," Etc. In Georgia, and it may be in other states, the statute punishes as burglary "the breaking and entering into the dwelling, mansion, or storehouse, or other place of business of another, where valuable goods, wares, produce, or any other article of value are contained or stored, with intent to commit a felony or larceny."[38] The statute includes any house or building which is the place of business of another, and in which valuable goods, etc., are contained or stored;[39] but it does not include a building which is not a place of business.[40]

4. Railroad Cars. To break into a railroad car with intent to commit larceny is not burglary at common law, but in many jurisdictions it is made so by statute.[41]

5. Churches. It was burglary at common law to break and enter a church in the night-time with intent to commit a felony therein;[42] but it is now generally punished by statute. In England a statute punishes for felony any person who "shall break and enter any church, chapel, meeting-house, or other place of divine worship, and commit any felony therein, or being in any church, chapel, meeting-house, or other place of divine worship shall commit any felony therein and break out of the same;" or who "shall break and enter any . . . church, chapel, meeting-house or other place of divine worship, . . . with intent to commit any felony therein."[43] There have been somewhat similar statutes in this

35. The Alabama statute making it burglary to break and enter, with intent to steal or commit a felony, "a dwelling-house, . . . or into any shop, . . . in which any goods, merchandise or other valuable thing, is kept for use, sale or deposit," is construed as containing two distinct clauses, one of which makes it burglary to break and enter a shop in which any goods, etc., may be kept, and the other of which makes it burglary to break and enter a dwelling-house, whether any goods, etc., are kept therein or not. Potter v. State, 92 Ala. 37, 9 So. 402.

The Maine statute punishing breaking into any dwelling-house, or breaking into any office, bank, shop, etc., in which valuable things are kept, does not require that valuable things shall be kept in a dwelling-house. State v. Neddo, 92 Me. 71, 42 Atl. 253.

Under the Washington statute defining burglary as an entry, with felonious intent, of any "office, shop, store, warehouse, . . . or any building in which any goods, merchandise, or valuable things are kept for use, sale or deposit," burglary may be committed in any of the places specifically enumerated, although no goods, etc., may be kept therein. State v. Sufferin, 6 Wash. 107, 32 Pac. 1021.

36. Rowland v. State, 55 Ala. 210; Kelly v. State, 82 Ga. 441, 9 S. E. 171.

As to the indictment see infra, IV, D, 8.

The produce of a farm lying in a barn not connected with the mansion-house, and standing alone several rods therefrom, are "goods, wares and merchandise deposited" in an outhouse within a statute punishing burglary. State v. Brooks, 4 Conn. 446.

37. Stokes v. State, 84 Ga. 258, 10 S. E. 740.

38. Ga. Crim. Code (1895), § 149.

39. Bethune v. State, 48 Ga. 505, holding that under this statute, breaking into a shop in which the owner does wood-working, and in which are stored buggies and grain, with intent to commit larceny, is burglary.

An incomplete house, protected by outer doors and canvas window frames, in which the carpenters' tools are stored, is within the statute. Grimes v. State, 77 Ga. 762, 4 Am. St. Rep. 112.

40. Thus it has been held that the statute does not apply to a barn in which corn is stored. Bearden v. State, 95 Ga. 459, 20 S. E. 212.

41. Where a general railroad corporation law makes it burglary to break and enter any car of a corporation formed under the act, it does not make it burglary to break and enter a car of a railroad company incorporated under a previous act; nor is the offense so extended by a subsequent act conferring upon all companies incorporated before the passage of such general law all the powers, "privileges," and exemptions granted thereby. Territory v. Stokes, 2 N. M. 161.

42. Reg. v. Baker, 3 Cox C. C. 581; Anonymous, 1 Dyer 99*a*; 1 Hale P. C. 556; 1 Hawkins P. C. c. 38, § 17; 3 Inst. 64. And see People v. Richards, 108 N. Y. 137, 15 N. E. 371, 2 Am. St. Rep. 373.

43. English statutes.— 24 & 25 Vict. c. 96, §§ 50, 57. Former statutes which have been repealed were 1 Edw. VI, c. 12; 23 Hen. VIII, c. 1; 7 & 8 Geo. IV, c. 29, § 16, and 7 country, but generally the breaking and entry of a church is punishable under the general statute punishing the breaking and entering of buildings.

F. The Ownership of the Premises. Burglary at common law is the breaking and entering of the dwelling-house "of another," and the same is true under statutes punishing the breaking and entry of dwelling-houses and other buildings; and the offense is not committed by one who breaks and enters his own dwelling-house or other building, although with felonious intent.[44] But the test, both for the purpose of determining whether the offense has been committed and for the purpose of alleging ownership in the indictment, is not title but occupancy. For the purposes of the offense the occupant of the premises is the owner, so that the lessor of a house may be guilty of burglary in breaking and entering the house while it is occupied by the lessee.[45] The question of ownership will be further considered in treating of the indictment.[46]

G. The Intent and Execution Thereof — 1. Necessity For Felonious Intent. To constitute burglary at common law, and generally under the statutes also, both the breaking and the entry must be with a felonious intent, that is, with intent to commit a felony in the house.[47] It is not burglary, unless it is made so by statute, if the intent is to commit a mere misdemeanor, as an assault and battery,

Wm. IV & 1 Vict. c. 90, § 2. It was held that these statutes did not apply to other churches, chapels, meeting-houses, etc., than those of the church of England. Rex v. Richardson, 6 C. & P. 335, 25 E. C. L. 461; Rex v. Warren, 6 C. & P. 335, note a, 25 E. C. L. 461 (holding that the statute of 7 & 8 Geo. IV did not apply to a dissenting meeting-house); Rex v. Nixon, 7 C. & P. 442, 32 E. C. L. 698 (holding that it did not apply to a Wesleyan chapel).

A church tower, having a separate roof, but no outer door, and only accessible from the body of the church, from which it is not separated by any partition, is a part of the church. Rex v. Wheeler, 3 C. & P. 585, 14 E. C. L. 728.

A vestry is a part of the church, where it is formed out of what was before a porch of the church, and the door thereto can only be unlocked from the inside. Reg. v. Evans, C. & M. 298, 41 E. C. L. 166.

Goods, etc., within the statutes.— Such a statute is not confined to goods within the church used for divine worship, but extends also to tools and articles kept in the church to keep it in repair. Rex v. Rourke, R. & R. 287. The statute only applies to stealing of chattels. It does not cover stealing of fixtures. Reg. v. Baker, 3 Cox C. C. 581. But a box in the church containing money, and temporarily annexed to the building, is not a part of the realty. Reg. v. Wortley, 2 C. & K. 283, 2 Cox C. C. 32, 1 Den. C. C. 162, 61 E. C. L. 283.

44. State v. Trapp, 17 S. C. 467, 43 Am. Rep. 614; Clarke v. Com., 25 Gratt. (Va.) 908.

45. Smith v. People, 115 Ill. 17, 3 N. E. 733; Rex v. Jarvis, 1 Moody 7.

46. See infra, IV, D, 11.

47. Alabama.—Barber v. State, 78 Ala. 19; State v. Chambers, 6 Ala. 855.

Arkansas.— Harvey v. State, 53 Ark. 425, 14 S. W. 645, 22 Am. St. Rep. 229; Harvick v. State, 49 Ark. 514, 6 S. W. 19.

California.— People v. Shaber, 32 Cal. 36; People v. Garnett, 29 Cal. 622; People v. Murray, 8 Cal. 519.

Delaware.— State v. Snow, (Del. 1901) 51 Atl. 607; State v. Eaton, 3 Harr. (Del.) 554.

Florida.— Wood v. State, 18 Fla. 967.

Illinois.— Price v. People, 109 Ill. 109.

Iowa.— State v. Bell, 29 Iowa 316.

Maryland.— Robinson v. State, 53 Md. 151, 36 Am. Rep. 399.

Massachusetts.— Com. v. Newell, 7 Mass. 245.

Nebraska.— Ashford v. State, 36 Nebr. 38, 53 N. W. 1036.

Nevada.— State v. Ryan, 12 Nev. 401, 28 Am. Rep. 802.

New Jersey.— State v. Bullitt, 64 N. J. L. 379, 45 Atl. 773.

New York.— McCourt v. People, 64 N. Y. 583.

Ohio.— State v. Beal, 37 Ohio St. 108, 41 Am. Rep. 490; State v. Lymus, 26 Ohio St. 400, 20 Am. Rep. 772.

Texas.— Portwood v. State, 29 Tex. 47, 94 Am. Dec. 258; Harris v. State, 20 Tex. App. 652; Wilson v. State, 18 Tex. App. 270, 51 Am. Rep. 309; Allen v. State, 18 Tex. App. 120.

Vermont.— State v. Cooper, 16 Vt. 551.

West Virginia.— State v. Shores, 31 W. Va. 491, 7 S. E. 413, 13 Am. St. Rep. 875.

England.— Dobbs' Case, 2 East P. C. 513; Rex v. Knight, 2 East P. C. 510; Rex v. Dannelly, 2 Marsh. 571, R. & R. 230; 4 Bl. Comm. 227; 1 Hale P. C. 559; 1 Hawkins P. C. c. 38, § 18.

See 8 Cent. Dig. tit. "Burglary," § 24.

Where two persons break and enter a house, one with an innocent purpose, the other with intent to commit felony, the latter is guilty of burglary. Gale v. State, 13 Lea (Tenn.) 489.

Statutory felonies.— An intent to commit an offense which is made a felony by statute is sufficient. State v. Boon, 35 N. C. 244, 57 Am. Dec. 555; Dobbs' Case, 2 East P. C. 513; 4 Bl. Comm. 228; 1 Hawkins P. C. c. 38, § 19.

Coercion of wife by husband.— See Reg. v.

or mayhem not amounting to felony;[48] or to take property which is not the subject of larceny,[49] or which is not of sufficient value to make the taking thereof a felony;[50] or to take property without the animus furandi necessary to larceny and robbery;[51] or to have intercourse with a woman with her consent, if it can be obtained, and not otherwise;[52] or to commit adultery where it is not made a felony by statute;[53] or for a person to break and enter as a pretended accomplice of another for the purpose of detecting and apprehending him.[54]

Bolton, 11 Vict. L. R. 776. And see, generally, CRIMINAL LAW.

48. Intent to commit assault and battery or mayhem.— Com. v. Newell, 7 Mass. 245; 1 Hawkins P. C. c. 38, § 18. As to whether mayhem is a felony see MAYHEM. An instruction that defendant is guilty if he broke and entered to assault a person therein with intent to murder her is not erroneous. Stinnett v. State, 32 Tex. Crim. 526, 24 S. W. 908.

49. Intent to take property not the subject of larceny.— State v. Bullitt, 64 N. J. L. 379, 45 Atl. 773; State v. Lymus, 26 Ohio St. 400, 20 Am. Rep. 772.

Intent to steal dogs.— In State v. Lymus, 26 Ohio St. 400, 20 Am. Rep. 772, it was held that an indictment for burglary with intent to steal a dog could not be sustained, as a dog was not the subject of larceny. In some states, however, a dog is expressly made the subject of larceny by statute, or is held to be property and the subject of larceny because it is taxed. See, generally, LARCENY. And in such a case a breaking and entry with intent to steal a dog is burglary. State v. Langford, 55 S. C. 322, 33 S. E. 370, 74 Am. St. Rep. 746. And see State v. Yates, 10 Ohio Dec. (Reprint) 182, 19 Cinc. L. Bul. 150.

Intent to steal gambling instruments.— It has been held that intent to take and carry away a kit of gambling tools did not make a breaking and entry burglary, on the ground that the property was not the subject of larceny. State v. Wilmore, 9 Ohio Dec. (Reprint) 61, 10 Cinc. L. Bul. 321. But this is erroneous, for on a prosecution for larceny it is no defense that the property stolen was acquired or possessed unlawfully or criminally, as in the case of property used for gaming. Bales v. State, 3 W. Va. 685. See, generally, LARCENY.

Intent to carry away fixtures.— It is not burglary at common law to break and enter with intent to sever and immediately carry away fixtures, as this is not larceny at common law. State v. Hall, 5 Harr. (Del.) 492; 1 Hale P. C. 510. See, generally, LARCENY. But in Texas it was held burglary to break and enter a house and remove the doors and windows with intent to steal, since in that state the severance converted the doors and windows into personal property, and made them the subject of larceny, although the severance and removal were parts of the same transaction. Alvia v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1901) 60 S. W. 551.

50. Petit larceny.— Arkansas.— Shaeffer v. State, 61 Ark. 241, 32 S. W. 679; Harvick v. State, 49 Ark. 514, 6 S. W. 19.

California.— People v. Murray, 8 Cal. 519.

Florida.—Wood v. State, 18 Fla. 967.

Montana.— Territory v. Duncan, 5 Mont. 478, 6 Pac. 353.

Texas.— Philbrick v. State, 2 Tex. App. 517.

Compare, however, Stevenson v. State, 5 Baxt. (Tenn.) 681. It may be otherwise under particular statutory provisions. See infra, II, G, 2.

51. Intent to take property without animus furandi.— It is not burglary, but a mere trespass, to break and enter a house with intent to take property under a bona fide claim of right, although the claim may be unfounded, or otherwise without the felonious intent, which is an essential element of larceny or robbery. McCourt v. People, 64 N. Y. 583; State v. Shores, 31 W. Va. 491, 7 S. E. 413, 13 Am. St. Rep. 875. It is not burglary to break and enter with intent to take property for a temporary use and then return it to the owner or leave it where he will get it. Therefore, where the testimony showed that the defendants broke into a tool-house of a railroad company, took from it a hand-car, put it on the track and rode in it for twelve miles, and then left it on the side of the track, it was held that a conviction could not be sustained, as the evidence did not show an intent to steal the car. State v. Ryan, 12 Nev. 401, 28 Am. Rep. 802. And see State v. Bullitt, 64 N. J. L. 379, 45 Atl. 773; Wilson v. State, 18 Tex. App. 270, 51 Am. Rep. 309. Breaking and entering with intent to destroy property out of revenge, and not to steal, is not burglary. State v. Wilmore, 9 Ohio Dec. (Reprint) 61, 10 Cinc. L. Bul. 321.

52. Intent to have intercourse with woman.— McNair v. State, 53 Ala. 453; Robinson v. State, 53 Md. 151, 36 Am. Rep. 399; Com. v. Doherty, 10 Cush. (Mass.) 52; Mitchell v. State, 32 Tex. Crim. 479, 24 S. W. 280, 33 Tex. Crim. 575, 28 S. W. 475. And see infra, VI, C, 5. A person who breaks and enters a house with intent to have sexual intercourse with a woman while she is asleep, and without her conscious consent, is guilty of burglary, if such an act constitutes rape. Harvey v. State, 53 Ark. 425, 14 S. W. 645, 22 Am. St. Rep. 229. In some jurisdictions, however, it is held that the intercourse under such circumstances is not rape. See, generally, RAPE.

53. Intent to commit adultery.— State v. Cooper, 16 Vt. 551. It may be otherwise under particular statutes. State v. Corliss, 85 Iowa 18, 51 N. W. 1154. See infra, II, G, 2.

54. Price v. People, 109 Ill. 109; Rex v. Dannelly, 2 Marsh. 571, R. & R. 230.

2. Intent Under Statutes. The statutes defining burglary generally require that the intent shall be to commit a felony, as at common law,[55] but this is not always the case. There are some statutes which punish as burglary breaking and entering with intent to commit larceny, although the larceny intended is merely a misdemeanor,[56] or with intent to commit any crime, or "any public offense."[57] And the statute sometimes punishes the breaking and entering of a house and commission of an offense therein, without regard to the intent accompanying the breaking and entry.[58]

3. Time of Forming Intent. To constitute burglary the felonious intent must exist at the time of the breaking and entry, and it is not enough if it is formed after the entry, or even before the entry, if after the breaking.[59]

4. Entry to Effect a Further Entry. If the only entry made was by an instrument, the instrument must have been inserted for the purpose of committing a felony, and not merely for the purpose of a further breaking in order to admit the body,[60] but if the hand or any other part of the body entered, it is sufficient if the ultimate intent was to commit a felony, although the immediate intent may have been to make a further opening for the body.[61]

5. Commission of the Offense After Entry. To constitute burglary it is not necessary that the intended felony shall be committed, but the offense is complete as soon as the premises are broken and entered with the necessary felonious intent.[62] And it is no defense, therefore, to an indictment for burglary, that the

55. See supra, II, G, 1.

56. Petit larceny, although a misdemeanor only.— Under statutes making it burglary to break and enter "with intent to commit murder, robbery, mayhem, larceny, or other felony," it has been held that the term "larceny" therein included both grand and petit larceny. People v. Stapleton, 2 Ida. 49, 3 Pac. 6; State v. Keyser, 56 Vt. 622; Pooler v. State, 97 Wis. 627, 73 N. W. 336; Hall v. State, 48 Wis. 688, 4 N. W. 1068. Under a statute making it burglary to break into and enter a building "with intent to steal, or to commit a felony," the intent to steal is equivalent to an intent to commit a felony, although the value of the thing intended to be stolen was so small as to make the larceny thereof a misdemeanor only. Walker v. State, 63 Ala. 49, 35 Am. Rep. 1. And a statute punishing a breaking and entry "with intent to commit a felony or the crime of theft," applies where the intent is to commit any theft. Conoly v. State, 2 Tex. App. 412; Simms v. State, 2 Tex. App. 110.

57. Intent to commit "any public offense" — Adultery.— Under the Iowa statute making it burglary to break and enter with intent to commit "any public offense," and statutes making adultery an indictable offense, a breaking and entering with intent to commit is burglary. State v. Corliss, 85 Iowa 18, 51 N. W. 1154.

Intent to aid prisoner's escape.— State v. Abbott, 16 N. H. 507.

58. Intent immaterial.— Under a statute punishing any person who shall break and enter a mansion-house, in the night-time, in which any person shall reside or dwell, and commit or attempt to commit any personal violence or abuse, the intent with which the entry is made forms no part of the offense. Forsythe v. State, 6 Ohio 19.

59. Lowder v. State, 63 Ala. 143, 35 Am. Rep. 9; Colbert v. State, 91 Ga. 705, 17 S. E. 840; State v. Moore, 12 N. H. 42; Harris v. State, 20 Tex. App. 652.

60. Entry of instrument only.— Walker v. State, 63 Ala. 49, 35 Am. Rep. 1; Roberts' Case, Car. C. L. 293, 2 East P. C. 487; Rex v. Hughes, 2 East P. C. 491, 1 Leach 452; Rex v. Rust, 1 Moody 183. And see supra, II, C, 2, b.

61. Entry of part of body.—Fisher v. State, 43 Ala. 17; Com. v. Glover, 111 Mass. 395; Harrison v. State, 20 Tex. App. 387, 54 Am. Rep. 529; Rex v. Perkes, 1 C. & P. 300, 12 E. C. L. 180; Rex v. Davis, R. & R. 371. And see supra, II, C, 2, a. Entry of the fore part of the finger in breaking a pane of glass is sufficient, where the intent is to enter and commit a felony. Rex v. Davis, R. & R. 371. And so is the entry of the arm for the purpose of opening an inner blind, after breaking the window pane. Rex v. Perkes, 1 C. & P. 300, 12 E. C. L. 180.

62. Arkansas.— Harvick v. State, 49 Ark. 514, 6 S. W. 19; Dodd v. State, 33 Ark. 517; Bradley v. State, 32 Ark. 704.

Connecticut.— Wilson v. State, 24 Conn. 57.

Georgia.— Lanier v. State, 76 Ga. 304; Bush v. State, 65 Ga. 658.

Kentucky.— Olive v. Com., 5 Bush (Ky.) 376.

North Carolina.— State v. McDaniel, 60 N. C. 245; State v. Boon, 35 N. C. 244, 57 Am. Dec. 555.

Ohio.— State v. Beal, 37 Ohio St. 108, 41 Am. Rep. 490.

Texas.— Wilburn v. State, 41 Tex. 237.

England.— 3 Inst. 63, where a burglar is defined, in substance, as one who breaks and enters with intent to commit a felony, "whether his felonious intent be executed or intent was abandoned after the entry.[63] Sometimes, however, a statute punishes as a single and distinct offense the breaking and entering of a house and committing larceny or other offenses therein, and in such a case commission of the offense after the entry is necessary to constitute the crime. Such an offense is something more than burglary.[64]

6. Inability to Commit the Intended Offense. If a person breaks and enters a house with intent to commit a felony therein, as larceny, for example, it is no defense, on a prosecution for burglary, that it was impossible for him to commit the intended felony, because of the absence of property or other circumstances not known to him at the time.[65]

III. Attempt to Commit Burglary.

A person is liable to indictment for the misdemeanor of attempt to commit burglary, if, with intent to break and enter a house under such circumstances that the breaking and entering would amount to burglary, he does any act toward the accomplishment of his purpose, which goes beyond mere preparation, as the turning of a knob with intent to open a door and enter, or the breaking of a window without entering, etc.[66] To constitute an attempt there must be an overt act, and not merely an intent,[67] and the act must be something more than mere preparation.[68] not." And see 4 Bl. Comm. 227, 228; 1 Hale P. C. 561, 562; 1 Hawkins P. C. c. 38, § 1.

See 8 Cent. Dig. tit. "Burglary," § 25.

63. State v. Boon, 35 N. C. 244, 57 Am. Dec. 555, a case of entry with intent to rape.

64. Burglary and larceny.— Thus in Kentucky a statute punishes any one who shall feloniously break into any dwelling-house, and feloniously take away anything of value, and the offense is not committed unless something of value is taken away. Duncan v. Com., 85 Ky. 614, 9 Ky. L. Rep. 142, 4 S. W. 321. The extent of the value of the thing taken is immaterial. Duncan v. Com., 85 Ky. 614, 9 Ky. L. Rep. 142, 4 S. W. 321. Where a dwelling-house was broken and entered and goods were taken from a trunk and packed in a basket, with intent to steal them, although they were not taken from the house, it was held that they were "taken away" within the meaning of this statute. Loving v. Com., 21 Ky. L. Rep. 1379, 55 S. W. 434.

Commission of personal violence or abuse.— There have also been statutes punishing any person who shall break and enter a dwelling-house and commit or attempt to commit any personal violence or abuse. Under such a statute the intent with which the entry was made forms no part of the offense. Forsythe v. State, 6 Ohio 19.

65. Harvick v. State, 49 Ark. 514, 6 S. W. 19; State v. Beal, 37 Ohio St. 108, 41 Am. Rep. 490. Compare Reg. v. McPherson, 7 Cox C. C. 281, Dears. & B. 197, 3 Jur. N. S. 523, 26 L. J. M. C. 134, 5 Wkly. Rep. 525.

66. Georgia.— Griffin v. State, 26 Ga. 493.

Michigan.— People v. Youngs, 122 Mich. 292, 81 N. W. 114, 47 L. R. A. 108; Harris v. People, 44 Mich. 305, 6 N. W. 677.

New York.— People v. Lawton, 56 Barb. (N. Y.) 126.

North Carolina.— State v. Jordan, 75 N. C. 27.

Pennsylvania.— Com. v. Smith, 6 Phila. (Pa.) 305, 24 Leg. Int. (Pa.) 157.

England.— Reg. v. Spanner, 12 Cox C. C. 155.

See 8 Cent. Dig. tit. "Burglary," § 4; and, generally, Criminal Law.

Inability to commit offense.— It has been held that on an indictment for breaking and entering a dwelling-house and stealing certain articles therein, there can be no conviction of an attempt to commit the felony charged, where the articles specified in the indictment were not in the house, on the ground that the defendant's attempt, if it had been carried out, could not constitute the crime charged. Reg. v. McPherson, 7 Cox C. C. 281, Dears. & B. 197, 3 Jur. N. S. 523, 26 L. J. M. C. 134, 5 Wkly. Rep. 525. This, however, is contrary to the well settled doctrine in most jurisdictions. See Com. v. McDonald, 5 Cush. (Mass.) 365; People v. Moran, 123 N. Y. 254, 25 N. E. 412, 33 N. Y. St. 397, 20 Am. St. Rep. 732, 10 L. R. A. 109. And see Criminal Law.

As to the conviction of an accessory as a principal see Reg. v. Esmonde, 26 U. C. Q. B. 152.

67. State v. Colvin, 90 N. C. 717; Reg. v. McCann, 28 U. C. Q. B. 514.

68. Sufficiency of overt acts to constitute attempt.— People v. Youngs, 122 Mich. 292, 81 N. W. 114, 47 L. R. A. 108; Reg. v. McCann, 28 U. C. Q. B. 514. In a Georgia case it was held that one who takes the impression of a key which unlocks the door of a house, for the purpose of making or procuring a false key, with intent to enter the house and steal, or procure another to do so, is guilty of an attempt to break and enter. Griffin v. State, 26 Ga. 493. And in a New York case it was held that entering into an agreement with another to commit a burglary at a particular time and place, and coming to the ap-

IV. INDICTMENT OR INFORMATION.[69]

A. In General. An indictment or information for burglary, whether at common law or under a statute, must allege every fact and circumstance which is pointed place at the appointed time, with burglar's tools, was an attempt, although the accused was prevented from carrying out his purpose because an alarm was raised while he had gone to a blacksmith shop to get a crow-bar with which to break the door of the house. People v. Lawton, 56 Barb. (N. Y.) 126. And entering in the night-time a gate adjoining a dwelling-house, with intent to break and enter the house with felonious intent, was held an attempt to commit burglary. Com. v. Smith, 6 Phila. (Pa.) 305, 24 Leg. Int. (Pa.) 157. The soundness of these decisions admits of doubt. See Reg. v. McCann, 28 U. C. Q. B. 514. In a late Michigan case it was held that one who agreed with another to break and enter a dwelling, met him at a saloon at the time fixed upon, with a revolver and slippers to be used in the house, and went into a drug store to purchase some chloroform to use, being arrested when he came out, was not guilty of an attempt to commit burglary, as his acts did not go beyond mere preparation. People v. Youngs, 122 Mich. 292, 81 N. W. 114, 47 L. R. A. 108.

69. See, generally, INDICTMENTS AND INFORMATIONS.

For forms of indictments or informations for burglary at common law and under particular statutes see the following cases:

Breaking and entering a dwelling-house with intent to commit larceny.

Alabama.— Bowen v. State, 106 Ala. 178, 17 So. 335.

Illinois.— Watson v. People, 134 Ill. 374, 25 N. E. 567.

Missouri.— State v. Yandle, 166 Mo. 589, 66 S. W. 532.

Pennsylvania.— Com. v. Carson, 166 Pa. St. 179, 30 Atl. 985.

Texas.— Ross v. State, 16 Tex. App. 554; Lawson v. State, 13 Tex. App. 264.

Breaking and entering a dwelling-house in the night-time with intent to commit larceny.

California.— People v. Taggart, 43 Cal. 81; People v. Burgess, 35 Cal. 115; People v. Shaber, 32 Cal. 36.

Massachusetts.— Tully v. Com., 4 Metc. (Mass.) 357.

Missouri.— State v. Tutt, 63 Mo. 595; State v. Alexander, 56 Mo. 131.

New Hampshire.— State v. Squires, 11 N. H. 37.

Ohio.—Hartshorn v. State, 29 Ohio St. 635.

Vermont.— State v. Clark, 42 Vt. 629.

Virginia.— Johnson v. Com., 29 Gratt. (Va.) 796.

West Virginia.— State v. McClung, 35 W. Va. 280, 13 S. E. 654; State v. Shores, 31 W. Va. 491, 7 S. E. 413, 13 Am. St. Rep. 875.

Breaking and entering a dwelling-house in the daytime with intent to commit larceny. Harris v. People, 59 N. Y. 599; State v. Miller, 3 Wash. 131, 28 Pac. 375.

Breaking and entering a dwelling-house in the night-time with intent to rape. Bradley v. State, 32 Ark. 704; Com. v. Doherty, 10 Cush. (Mass.) 52; State v. McDaniel, 60 N. C. 245; State v. Ryan, 15 Oreg. 572, 16 Pac. 417.

Breaking and entering a dwelling-house in the night-time with intent to commit an assault. Watts v. State, 5 W. Va. 532. See also State v. Phipps, 95 Iowa 487, 64 N. W. 410.

Breaking and entering a dwelling-house with intent to murder. State v. Johnston, 119 N. C. 883, 26 S. E. 163.

Burglary in the night-time by discharging fire-arms into a house with intent to murder a person therein. Garner v. State, 31 Tex. Crim. 22, 19 S. W. 333.

Breaking and entering in the night-time a dwelling-house, in which there is at the time a human being, with intent to commit larceny (State v. Tutt, 63 Mo. 595; State v. Alexander, 56 Mo. 131); or the same, with intent to rape (State v. Ryan, 15 Oreg. 572, 16 Pac. 417).

Breaking and entering a dwelling-house and taking away something of value. Polin v. Com., 19 Ky. L. Rep. 453, 40 S. W. 927.

Breaking and entering a building with intent to commit arson. People v. Goldsworthy, 130 Cal. 600, 62 Pac. 1074.

Breaking and entering a house with intent to commit larceny. Reed v. State, 66 Ark. 110, 49 S. W. 350.

Entering a dwelling-house without breaking with intent to commit larceny. People v. Hall, 94 Cal. 595, 30 Pac. 7; Watson v. People, 134 Ill. 374, 25 N. E. 567.

Entering a dwelling-house in the night-time without breaking with intent to commit larceny. State v. Hughes, 86 N. C. 662; Shepherd v. State, 42 Tex. 501.

Breaking and entering a shop, store, storehouse, warehouse, etc., with intent to commit larceny.

Connecticut.— Wilson v. State, 24 Conn. 57.

Georgia.— Williams v. State, 46 Ga. 212.

Indiana.— Edwards v. State, 62 Ind. 34.

Iowa.— State v. Ridley, 48 Iowa 370; State v. Hayden, 45 Iowa 11.

Louisiana.— State v. Curtis, 30 La. Ann. 814.

Massachusetts.—Com. v. Darling, 129 Mass. 112.

Missouri.— State v. Watson, 141 Mo. 338, 42 S. W. 726.

Ohio.— Spencer v. State, 13 Ohio 401.

Virginia.— Vaughan v. Com., 17 Gratt. (Va.) 576.

necessary to constitute the offense, and with sufficient certainty as to time, place, and intent, to inform the accused of the particular crime with which he is charged.[70] An indictment will not be rendered bad merely because it is not properly punctuated or is otherwise ungrammatical, if the meaning is clear,[71] but it may be bad by reason of errors in spelling or inadvertent omission of words.[72] An indictment which would be insufficient at common law may be good under a

Washington.— State v. Dolson, 22 Wash. 259, 60 Pac. 653.

Wisconsin.— Martin v. State, 79 Wis. 165, 48 N. W. 119.

Breaking and entering in the night-time a shop adjoining a dwelling-house, with intent to commit larceny. Josslyn v. Com., 6 Metc. (Mass.) 236.

Breaking and entering in the night-time, with intent to commit larceny, a shop, store, etc., not adjoining a dwelling-house. Cole v. People, 37 Mich. 544; People v. Nolan, 22 Mich. 229.

Breaking and entering an outhouse, not adjoining to or occupied with a dwelling-house, with intent to commit larceny. Speers v. Com., 17 Gratt. (Va.) 570; State v. Betsall, 11 W. Va. 703.

Breaking and entering an office in the night-time with intent to commit larceny. Larned v. Com., 12 Metc. (Mass.) 240.

Breaking and entering a city hall in the night-time and stealing therein. Com. v. Williams, 2 Cush. (Mass.) 582.

Breaking and entering a sheriff's office in the daytime, by force or fraud, with intent to commit larceny. Bigham v. State, 31 Tex. Crim. 244, 20 S. W. 577.

Breaking and entering a stable in the night-time, with intent to commit larceny. Dodd v. State, 33 Ark. 517; Blackburn v. State, 50 Ohio St. 428, 36 N. E. 18.

Breaking and entering, with intent to steal, a building in which goods, merchandise, or other valuable thing is kept for use, sale, or deposit.

Alabama.— Hurt v. State, 55 Ala. 214.

Iowa.— State v. Haney, 110 Iowa 26, 81 N. W. 151; State v. Franks, 64 Iowa 39, 19 N. W. 832.

Missouri.— State v. Watson, 141 Mo. 338, 42 S. W. 726; State v. South, 136 Mo. 673, 38 S. W. 716; State v. Taylor, 136 Mo. 66, 37 S. W. 907; State v. Henley, 30 Mo. 509.

South Dakota.— State v. Lewis, 13 S. D. 166, 82 N. W. 406.

Washington.— State v. Dolson, 22 Wash. 259, 60 Pac. 653.

Under the Oregon statute see State v. Wright, 19 Oreg. 258, 24 Pac. 229.

Breaking and entering, with intent to steal, a house which is the place of business of another, where valuable goods, wares, produce, or any other articles of value are contained or stored. Bethune v. State, 48 Ga. 505. See also Williams v. State, 46 Ga. 212.

Breaking and entering a railroad car with intent to commit larceny. Lyons v. People, 68 Ill. 271; State v. McIntire, 59 Iowa 264, 13 N. W. 286; State v. Davis, 138 Mo. 107, 39 S. W. 460.

Indictment against an aider and abettor. Hartshorn v. State, 29 Ohio St. 635; Watts v. State, 5 W. Va. 532.

Indictment for burglary also charging previous convictions for burglary or other offenses, under statutes relating to habitual criminals. Watson v. People, 134 Ill. 374, 25 N. E. 567; Blackburn v. State, 50 Ohio St. 428, 36 N. E. 18.

70. "Every fact and modification of a fact which is legally essential to a prima facie case of guilt, must be stated. In order that a party accused may know what a thing is, it must be charged expressly, and nothing left to intendment. All that is to be proved must be alleged. . . . And the law proceeding in that beneficent spirit which presumes innocence until guilt be established, will presume that what the indictment does not charge does not exist." State v. Dale, 141 Mo. 284, 42 S. W. 722, 64 Am. St. Rep. 513.

The sufficiency of an indictment or information for burglary was passed upon in the following cases, in addition to those hereinabove and hereinafter more specifically cited:

Alabama.— Graves v. State, 63 Ala. 134; Pairo v. State, 49 Ala. 25.

Indiana.— Edwards v. State, 62 Ind. 34.

Kentucky.— Hays v. Com., 17 Ky. L. Rep. 1147, 33 S. W. 1104; Com. v. Wicker, 9 Ky. L. Rep. 474, 5 S. W. 428.

Missouri.— State v. Dooly, 64 Mo. 146.

New York.— People v. Bosworth, 64 Hun (N. Y.) 72, 19 N. Y. Suppl. 114, 45 N. Y. St. 512.

Oregon.— State v. Mack, 20 Oreg. 234, 25 Pac. 639.

Pennsylvania.— Hackett v. Com., 15 Pa. St. 95.

South Dakota.— State v. La Croix, 8 S. D. 369, 66 N. W. 944.

Texas.— State v. Robertson, 32 Tex. 159.

Wisconsin.—Bell v. State, 20 Wis. 599 [citing Rex v. Pearce, 2 Leach 1946, R. & R. 130].

See 8 Cent. Dig. tit. "Burglary," § 31.

71. Erroneous punctuation and other grammatical errors.— Pond v. State, 55 Ala. 196; Ward v. State, 50 Ala. 120; St. Louis v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1900) 59 S. W. 889.

72. Wrong spelling.— An indictment for burglary was held insufficient because it alleged an intent to commit "larcey" instead of larceny. People v. St. Clair, 56 Cal. 406. And so it was held of an indictment alleging that the defendant broke and entered the "dwell-house" of another, instead of "dwelling-house." Parker v. State, 114 Ala. 690, 22 So. 791. But in a late Texas case it was held that an indictment was not bad because, in setting out the theft, the word "fraudulently" was written "frausulently." St.

statute declaring indictments sufficient if the offense is charged with such certainty as to enable a person of common understanding to know what is intended, and other statutes making technical defects immaterial.[73]

B. Following the Language of the Statute. In drawing an indictment under a statute it is always safer to follow the language of the statute, if it states all the essentials of the offense, and thus avoid the danger of omitting to state an essential element;[74] but failure to follow the precise language of the statute will not render the indictment bad, if all the essential elements of the offense are otherwise stated. Equivalent terms may be used.[75] Words in a statute which are not descriptive of the offense need not be followed.[76] An indictment which follows the language of the statute is sufficient if all the facts necessary to constitute the offense are thereby stated, and stated with sufficient certainty.[77] But it is otherwise if the statute does not state all the elements of the offense, but leaves some of them, as the intent, for example, or the ownership of the premises, to be implied by construing the statute in the light of the common law; or if, by merely following the language of the statute, the offense is not thereby alleged with the certainty required in an indictment.[78]

C. The Breaking and Entry — 1. In General. At common law, and under

Louis v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1900) 59 S. W. 889.

Omission of words.— An indictment alleging that the defendant "then and there, by force break and enter," etc., omitting the word "did," was held insufficient. Jester v. State, 26 Tex. App. 369, 9 S. W. 616.

73. Statutes obviating objection for technical defects.— Under a statute providing that an indictment shall be deemed sufficient if it can be understood therefrom that the act charged as the offense is stated with such certainty as to enable a person of common understanding to know what is intended, an indictment charging defendants with burglary, "for at and within the said county, in the night-time unlawfully, feloniously, burglariously did break and enter the dwelling-house of," etc., was sustained against an objection that it did not refer to defendants as the persons who committed the crime. State v. Ryan, 113 Iowa 536, 85 N. W. 812.

74. See Graves v. State, 63 Ala. 134; Rex v. Compton, 7 C. & P. 139, 32 E. C. L. 540.

75. Arkansas.—Shotwell v. State, 43 Ark. 345.

Georgia.— Daniels v. State, 78 Ga. 98, 6 Am. St. Rep. 238.

Kentucky.— Cunningham v. Com., 11 Ky. L. Rep. 783, 13 S. W. 104.

Massachusetts.— Josslyn v. Com., 6 Metc. (Mass.) 236.

Mississippi.— Roberts v. State, 55 Miss. 421.

North Carolina.— State v. Tytus, 98 N. C. 705, 4 S. E. 29.

Pennsylvania.— Com. v. Carson, 166 Pa. St. 179, 30 Atl. 985.

See also, generally, INDICTMENTS AND INFORMATIONS.

76. Words not descriptive of the offense.— Under a statute making it a felony to "break and enter, or shall break with intent to enter, in the night-time, any house, the breaking and entering of which would not constitute burglary," the indictment need not allege that the house was not one, the breaking and entering of which would not constitute burglary, as such clause of the statute is not descriptive of the offense. State v. Bouknight, 55 S. C. 353, 33 S. E. 451, 74 Am. St. Rep. 751.

77. Alabama.— Mason v. State, 42 Ala. 543.

California.— People v. Hall, 94 Cal. 595, 30 Pac. 7; People v. Rogers, 81 Cal. 209, 22 Pac. 592; People v. Murray, 67 Cal. 103, 7 Pac. 178; People v. Lewis, 61 Cal. 366, 367.

Iowa.— State v. Short, 54 Iowa 392, 6 N. W. 584.

Kentucky.— Mitchell v. Com., 88 Ky. 349, 10 Ky. L. Rep. 910, 11 S. W. 209; McRae v. Com., 20 Ky. L. Rep. 1199, 49 S. W. 22; Com. v. Wicker, 9 Ky. L. Rep. 474, 5 S. W. 428; Lee v. Com., 3 Ky. L. Rep. 250.

Louisiana.— State v. Scott, 48 La. Ann. 293, 19 So. 141; State v. Jordan, 39 La. Ann. 340, 1 So. 655.

Missouri.— State v. Higgins, 16 Mo. App. 559.

Nebraska.— Leisenberg v. State, 60 Nebr. 628, 84 N. W. 6.

78. Portwood v. State, 29 Tex. 47, 94 Am. Dec. 258. An indictment alleging a breaking and entry "with the felonious intent then and there a felony to do and commit" is bad for uncertainty, although in the language of the statute, because it fails to describe the felony intended. Portwood v. State, 29 Tex. 47, 94 Am. Dec. 258. See also infra, IV, E, 2. An indictment alleging that the defendant "broke into and entered a shop, store, warehouse, or other building, the property of A, in which goods, merchandise, 'or other valuable thing,' was kept for use, sale, or deposit, with intent to steal," was held bad for uncertainty, although in the language of the statute, because it failed to specify the valuable thing kept in the building, and because it was in the alternative. Danner v. State, 54 Ala. 127, 25 Am. Rep. 662. And see Davis v. State, 54 Ala. 88.

statutes which require a breaking as well as an entry, the indictment must expressly allege both a breaking of the premises and an entry. If it alleges a breaking without alleging an entry,[79] or an entry without alleging a breaking,[80] it is fatally defective. And when a statute requires that the breaking shall be effected in a particular way or by a particular means, making this an element of the offense, the indictment, by using the language of the statute or equivalent words, must charge the offense in such a way as to bring it within the statute in this respect.[81] But it need not in terms allege that the breaking and entering were by "force," although the statute may use such terms, for the term "break" implies force.[82] Of course, if the statute does not require a breaking or an entry or either, as the case may be, they need not be alleged.[83]

2. ENTRY WITHOUT BREAKING AND BREAKING OUT. An indictment under a statute for entering a house without breaking, with intent to commit a felony, and breaking out, must so charge the offense.[84]

3. NON-CONSENT OF OWNER OR OCCUPANT. An indictment for burglary, alleging a breaking and entry, or entry by force, need not allege affirmatively that the breaking and entry, or the entry, were without the consent of the owner or occupant of the building; but consent of the owner or occupant must be negatived in an indictment under a statute punishing an entry without such consent, where no breaking or force is alleged.[85]

79. Pines v. State, 50 Ala. 153; State v. Whitby, 15 Kan. 402, in both of which cases it was held that to allege that the defendant "broke into" a house is not sufficient as an allegation that he entered.

80. Webb v. Com., 87 Ky. 129, 9 Ky. L. Rep. 1007, 7 S. W. 899; Winston v. Com., 9 Ky. L. Rep. 1004, 7 S. W. 900. An allegation that the defendant, in the night-time, entered, feloniously, burglariously, and with force and arms, was held equivalent to an allegation that he feloniously and burglariously broke and entered. People v. Long, 43 Cal. 444.

81. Conner v. State, 14 Mo. 561; People v. Bosworth, 64 Hun (N. Y.) 72, 19 N. Y. Suppl. 114, 45 N. Y. St. 512; People v. Van Gaasbeck, 9 Abb. Pr. N. S. (N. Y.) 328; Fellinger v. People, 15 Abb. Pr. (N. Y.) 128; People v. Burt, 3 Alb. L. J. 96.

"Force and arms."— Under the Texas statute defining burglary at night as an entry "by force, threats, or fraud," an indictment alleging merely that the entry was "with force and arms" is insufficient. Brown v. State, 7 Tex. App. 619.

Entry by "fraud."— An entry by "fraud," within the Texas statute, is not charged by an allegation that defendant "feloniously, fraudulently, and burglariously did break and enter." Sullivan v. State, 13 Tex. App. 462.

82. Shotwell v. State, 43 Ark. 345; Cunningham v. Com., 11 Ky. L. Rep. 783, 13 S. W. 104; Ducher v. State, 18 Ohio 308; Mathews v. State, 36 Tex. 675. A charge that the defendant "feloniously, willfully, and burglariously did break and enter," is equivalent to a charge in the language of the statute, that he "willfully and maliciously and with force did break and enter." Shotwell v. State, 43 Ark. 345.

Under the Texas statute, which makes it burglary to enter a house by force, threats, or fraud, at night, with intent to commit felony or the crime of theft, or to enter a house in the daytime, by breaking, with such intent, and declaring that an entry need not be effected by an actual breaking, except when it is made in the daytime, an indictment alleging that the defendant did, by force, break and enter the house, etc., sufficiently alleges the breaking, whether it was at night or in the daytime. Strange v. State, 33 Tex. Crim. 315, 26 S. W. 406; Buchanan v. State, 24 Tex. App. 195, 5 S. W. 847; Martin v. State, 21 Tex. App. 1, 17 S. W. 430; Carr v. State, 19 Tex. App. 635, 53 Am. Rep. 395.

83. Garner v. State, 31 Tex. Crim. 22, 19 S. W. 333, holding that under the Texas statute declaring that in burglary an actual breaking is unnecessary except when entry is in the daytime, and that entry may be constituted by the discharge of fire-arms into the house with intent to injure a person therein, an indictment for such a burglary need not allege that the defendant broke and entered, but it is sufficient to follow the statute.

84. There can be no conviction of such offense under an indictment charging in the ordinary form a breaking and entry with intent to commit a felony. People v. Arnold, 6 Park. Crim. (N. Y.) 638; State v. McPherson, 70 N. C. 239, 16 Am. Rep. 769. An indictment alleging in one count that the defendant "did break to get out," and in another that he did break and get out was held sufficient under a statute using the words "break out." Rex v. Compton, 7 C. & P. 139, 32 E. C. L. 540.

85. Negativing consent of owner or occupant.— The Texas statute defines burglary as "entering a house by force, threats or fraud at night, or in like manner by entering a house during the day and remaining concealed therein until night, with the intent in either case to commit felony or the crime of theft"; and as entering a house in the daytime, by breaking, with such intent. And it

4. Time of Breaking and Entry. By the weight of authority, both at common law, and under statutes which do not change the common-law offense with respect to the time of the breaking and entering, the indictment must not only allege the day on which the offense was committed, as in the case of other offenses,[86] but it must also allege in express terms, or otherwise show on its face, that the breaking and entering were in the night-time.[87] It has generally been held that when a statute punishes burglary at night and in the daytime as separate offenses, or different degrees of the offense, an indictment for burglary in the night-time must allege that it was in the night-time;[88] but by the weight of authority, an indictment for burglary in the daytime is good without expressly alleging that it is provided that the "entry" into a house, within the meaning of the statute, "includes every kind of entry but one made by the free consent of the occupant, or of one authorized to give such consent." Tex. Pen. Code, arts. 838–840. Under this statute an indictment alleging a breaking and entry need not allege want of the owner's or occupant's consent. Sampson v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1892) 20 S. W. 708; Smith v. State, 22 Tex. App. 350, 3 S. W. 238; Reed v. State, 14 Tex. App. 662; Sullivan v. State, 13 Tex. App. 462 [overruling Brown v. State, 7 Tex. App. 619]. An indictment alleging that the entry was accomplished by force need not allege that the owner or occupant of the premises did not consent. Langford v. State, 17 Tex. App. 445; Buntain v. State, 15 Tex. App. 485; Summers v. State, 9 Tex. App. 396. An indictment charging a burglarious entry without the consent of the occupant of the premises need not further allege that it was without the consent of any one authorized to give consent. Reed v. State, 14 Tex. App. 662; Mace v. State, 9 Tex. App. 110. Want of consent of a firm consisting of K and L, to the entry of a building, is sufficiently alleged by an averment that the entry was "without the consent of the said K, and without the consent of the said L, or either of them." Smith v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1898) 44 S. W. 521.

86. State v. Brown, 24 S. C. 224; Cool v. Com., 94 Va. 799, 26 S. E. 411. And see, generally, Indictments and Informations.

Failure of an indictment to allege the time may be cured by amendment or verdict. State v. Blaisdell, 49 N. H. 81.

87. Connecticut.— Lewis v. State, 16 Conn. 32.

Pennsylvania.— Com. v. Kaas, 3 Brewst. (Pa.) 422.

Tennessee.—Davis v. State, 3 Coldw. (Tenn.) 77.

Vermont.— State v. Mather, N. Chipm. (Vt.) 32.

Virginia.— Com. v. Weldon, 4 Leigh (Va.) 652.

England.—Waddington's Case, 2 East P. C. 513. Contra, Reg. v. Thompson, 2 Cox C. C. 377, 445, holding it sufficient to allege that the offense was committed burglariously, without stating the time of its commission, or even that it was committed in the night-time.

See 8 Cent. Dig. tit. "Burglary," § 34.

An averment that the acts were committed on a specified day "about the hour of twelve in the night of the same day" is sufficient. State v. Seymour, 36 Me. 225; Methard v. State, 19 Ohio St. 363; Shelton v. Com., 89 Va. 450, 16 S. E. 355.

Statement of the hour.— Some authorities hold that the indictment must state the hour, so as to show that it was what the law regards as the night-time, or state that it was between certain hours, specifying them. State v. Bancroft, 10 N. H. 105; State v. G. S., 1 Tyler (Vt.) 295, 4 Am. Dec. 724; Shelton v. Com., 89 Va. 450, 16 S. E. 355; 2 East P. C. 513; 2 Hale P. C. 179. "The reason for this seems to have been, that one might with a felonious intent have broken and entered a building, at a time properly called in popular language 'night-time,' and yet not have committed the crime of burglary; the time in which that offense can be committed being not so far extended as to embrace the night-time, in the ordinary use of that word, but a period when the light of day had so far disappeared, that the face of a person was not discernible by the light of the sun or twilight." Com. v. Williams, 2 Cush. (Mass.) 582, 589. Some courts, however, have held that the hour of the night need not be alleged. People v. Burgess, 35 Cal. 115; State v. Ruby, 61 Iowa 86, 15 N. W. 848; State v. Woods, 31 La. Ann. 267; Leisenberg v. State, 60 Nebr. 628, 84 N. W. 6; State v. Robinson, 35 N. J. L. 71. The hour need not be alleged where the night-time is defined by statute. Com. v. Williams, 2 Cush. (Mass.) 582, where it is said that "whenever 'night-time' is now used in an indictment, as descriptive of the time of the commission of an offense, it is to be understood of the night-time as defined by this statute."

88. Jones v. State, 63 Ga. 141; Hall v. People, 43 Mich. 417, 5 N. W. 449; Davis v. State, 3 Coldw. (Tenn.) 77. But it has been held that a conviction will not be reversed, or judgment arrested, for failure of the indictment to state whether the offense was by day or night, where the statute makes burglary by night burglary in the first degree, and burglary in the daytime burglary in the second degree, and the defendant has been convicted of burglary in the second degree only. People v. Barnhart, 59 Cal. 381; Jones v. State, 63 Ga. 141. See also State v. Blaisdell, 49 N. H. 81. An averment that the offense was committed "on the second day of February, A. D., 1881, and in the night-time of said day," charges a burglary in the night-was in the daytime.[89] The time need not be alleged where the statute makes no distinction between burglary in the night-time and in the daytime, even though a greater punishment may be imposed for burglary in the night-time.[90]

D. Character, Occupancy, Location, and Ownership of Premises — 1. In General. An indictment for burglary, whether at common law or under a statute, must distinctly allege the character and occupancy of the premises, in time and not in the daytime of the day specified. State v. Ruby, 61 Iowa 86, 15 N. W. 848.

Under the California statute declaring a breaking and entry in the night-time to be burglary in the first degree, and a breaking and entering in the daytime to be burglary in the second degree, it is held that the indictment need not allege whether the offense was committed at night or in the daytime, that an indictment charging the offense generally, and without stating the time of the breaking and entry, embraces both degrees, and will sustain a conviction of either, according to the evidence. People v. Barnhart, 59 Cal. 381. And see People v. Jefferson, 52 Cal. 452.

89. State v. Neddo, 92 Me. 71, 42 Atl. 253; Butler v. People, 4 Den. (N. Y.) 68; Nicholls v. State, 68 Wis. 416, 32 N. W. 543, 60 Am. Rep. 870. Compare Jones v. State, 63 Ga. 141.

In Tennessee, however, it was held that an indictment charging the breaking and entering of a dwelling-house with the intent to commit a felony, without specifying the time of the act, does not state an offense, either under the section of the statute punishing such breaking and entry in the night-time, or the section punishing such breaking and entering in the daytime, as time is of the essence of the offense in each case. Davis v. State, 3 Coldw. (Tenn.) 77.

90. People v. Smith, 136 Cal. 207, 68 Pac. 702; Lassiter v. State, 67 Ga. 739; Schwabacher v. People, 165 Ill. 618, 46 N. E. 809.

Under the Illinois statute which defines burglary without regard to whether it is committed in the day or night, and fixes the punishment at from one to twenty years' imprisonment, with a proviso that where the offense is committed in a dwelling-house in the night-time it shall be punished by not less than five, nor more than twenty, years' imprisonment, it is held that the fact that a burglary was committed at night is mere aggravation of the offense, and need not be alleged, and that there may be a conviction of burglary in a dwelling-house in the night-time under an indictment which does not state whether the offense was committed in the day or night. Schwabacher v. People, 165 Ill. 618, 46 N. E. 809.

Louisiana.— An indictment charging a burglarious breaking and entry need not state whether it was in the night or daytime under the Louisiana statute punishing any one who with intent to steal "shall, in the night time enter without breaking, or in the day time break or enter any dwelling house," etc. State v. Anselm, 43 La. Ann. 195, 8 So. 583; State v. Allen, (La. Ann. 1888) 5 So. 531.

In Missouri the indictment need not state whether the offense was committed in the night-time or in the daytime, for the statute makes no distinction, and a statute declares it unnecessary for an indictment to state the time when the offense was committed, when time is not of the essence. Stats v. Hutchinson, 111 Mo. 257, 20 S. W. 34.

In Pennsylvania, under the statute punishing any person who shall wilfully and maliciously enter a dwelling-house with felonious intent, "either by day or by night, with or without breaking," it is not necessary, where a breaking and entering with felonious intent is charged, to state whether it was in the night-time or in the daytime. Com. v. Carson, 166 Pa. St. 179, 30 Atl. 985.

Under the Texas statute, which makes it burglary to enter a house by force, threats, or fraud, at night, or in like manner to enter a house during the day, and remain concealed therein until night, with intent, in either case, to commit felony or the crime of theft, or to enter a house in the daytime, by breaking, with intent to commit a felony or theft, and declaring that an entry need not be effected by an actual breaking, except when it is made in the daytime, it is not necessary, where an indictment alleges a breaking by force, or actual breaking, to state whether it was in the night-time or daytime. Shaffer v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1901) 65 S. W. 1072; Wilks v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1899) 51 S. W. 902; Combs v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1899) 49 S. W. 585; Strange v. State, 33 Tex. Crim. 315, 26 S. W. 406; Sampson v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1892) 20 S. W. 708; Martin v. State, 21 Tex. App. 1, 17 S. W. 430; Finlan v. State, (Tex. App. 1890) 13 S. W. 866; Buchanan v. State, 24 Tex. App. 195, 5 S. W. 847; Bravo v. State, 20 Tex. App. 188; Carr v. State, 19 Tex. App. 635, 53 Am. Rep. 395.

Under the Washington statute making it burglary to unlawfully enter in the night-time, or unlawfully break and enter in the daytime, any dwelling-house, etc., with intent, etc., an indictment charging that the defendant unlawfully broke and entered a dwelling-house "about the hour of four o'clock in the forenoon" of a certain day, was held sufficient, whether the breaking was or was not averred to have been in the night-time. State v. Miller, 3 Wash. 131, 28 Pac. 375.

Under the Wisconsin statute punishing any person who shall enter in the night-time without breaking, or shall break and enter in the daytime, any railroad car, etc., it was held that an indictment charging a breaking and entering of a railroad car, without stating whether it was by night or by day, in effect charged a breaking and entering in the day-such a way as to show on its face that they were the subject of burglary.[91] In some states the statutes expressly allow an indictment to charge the offense in the disjunctive,[92] but such pleading is bad for uncertainty at common law.[93]

2. DWELLING-HOUSES. If the indictment is for burglary at common law or under a statute punishing the breaking and entering of a dwelling-house, it must affirmatively allege that the house was a dwelling-house.[94] If it alleges that the house was the "dwelling-house" of the prosecutor, the allegation is sufficient, for this means that it was his place of residence and was so occupied by him.[95] It is not necessary to allege that any person was in the house at the time.[96]

3. BUILDINGS WITHIN THE CURTILAGE OF A DWELLING-HOUSE, ETC. An indictment at common law, or under statutes punishing the breaking and entering of a dwelling-house, for breaking and entering an outhouse within the curtilage, may describe the premises simply as a dwelling-house, for such outhouses are a part of the dwelling-house.[97] But under a statute specifically punishing burglary of any building "within the curtilage of a dwelling-house," or within a certain distance thereof, the indictment must describe the premises in the terms of the statute or in equivalent words, as they are descriptive of the offense.[98]

4. BUILDINGS NOT ADJOINING TO, OR OCCUPIED WITH, A DWELLING-HOUSE. Under some of the statutes punishing the breaking and entering of a building, or of a shop, office, warehouse, etc., "not adjoining to or occupied with a dwelling-house," the courts have held an indictment fatally defective for failure to describe the place broken and entered as not adjoining to or occupied with a dwelling-house, time. Nicholls v. State, 68 Wis. 416, 32 N. W. 543, 60 Am. Rep. 870.

91. Wood v. State, 18 Fla. 967; Koster v. People, 8 Mich. 431; State v. South, 136 Mo. 673, 38 S. W. 716; State v. Evans, 18 S. C. 137, and cases cited infra, note 92 et seq.

92. Disjunctive.— It is so in Alabama. Ward v. State, 50 Ala. 120, holding an indictment good where it alleged the house broken and entered, in the disjunctive, to have been "a building within the curtilage of a dwelling-house, or a shop, storehouse, warehouse, or other building of" a certain person.

93. See INDICTMENTS AND INFORMATIONS.

94. Thomas v. State, 97 Ala. 3, 12 So. 409; State v. Miller, 3 Wash. 131, 28 Pac. 375; State v. Atkinson, 88 Wis. 1, 58 N. W. 1034.

"Dwell-house" of another, instead of "dwelling-house," was held to render the indictment fatally defective. Parker v. State, 114 Ala. 690, 22 So. 791.

"Mansion-house" is sufficient for "dwelling-house." Com. v. Pennock, 3 Serg. & R. (Pa.) 199.

A description of the premises as a "lodging house, and the same being then and there the dwelling house of" a person named, is sufficient, as the description of the premises as a lodging-house may be rejected as surplusage. State v. Miller, 3 Wash. 131, 28 Pac. 375.

"Sample room" in hotel.— Under a statute punishing burglary of a dwelling-house, an indictment describing the premises merely as "a sample room in the Arlington Hotel a building in" a certain city, is insufficient, as a hotel, or a sample room therein, is not necessarily a dwelling-house. Thomas v. State, 97 Ala. 3, 12 So. 409.

The term "house" instead of "dwelling-house" has been held to be sufficient, on the ground that the word "house," in its common and primary acceptation, means a dwelling-house. Thompson v. People, 3 Park. Crim. (N. Y.) 208.

"Private residence" under Texas statute.— Formerly the Texas statute defined burglary as the breaking and entering or entering of a "house," making no distinction between dwelling-houses and other houses; but by an amendment in 1899, burglary of a "private residence" at night was made a separate and distinct offense. Tex. Acts (1899), p. 318. See supra, II, E, 1. An indictment under this amendment is bad, and will not sustain a conviction, unless it alleges that the premises were a private residence. Williams v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1901) 62 S. W. 1057; Fonville v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1901) 62 S. W. 573; Cleland v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1901) 61 S. W. 492; Harvey v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1901) 61 S. W. 492; Osborn v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1901) 61 S. W. 491. But an indictment will not be quashed because it fails to allege that the premises were a private residence, as it may charge burglary under the other provisions of the statute relating to burglary. Shaffer v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1901) 65 S. W. 1072.

95. State v. Reid, 20 Iowa 413; Bell v. State, 20 Wis. 599. And see infra, IV, D, 7.

96. State v. Reid, 20 Iowa 413.

97. Fletcher v. State, 10 Lea (Tenn.) 338. Compare Draughn v. State, 76 Miss. 574, 25 So. 153. See supra, II, E, 2, b.

98. State v. Schuchmann, 133 Mo. 111, 33 S. W. 35, 34 S. W. 842. And see State v. South, 136 Mo. 673, 38 S. W. 716. A description of premises as "a gin-house, situate within the curtilage of the dwelling-house," etc., is not sufficient under a statute punishing burglary in a building within two hun-or expressly allege this fact.[99] But under other statutes such an allegation has been held unnecessary.[1]

5. Shops, Stores, Warehouses, and Other Buildings. In an indictment under a statute punishing the breaking and entering of other buildings than a dwelling-house, the building must be described so as to show that it is within the statute and so as to identify it.[2] It is generally sufficient to describe the building broken and entered, in the language of the statute, as the "booth,"[3] "storehouse,"[4] "warehouse,"[5] "shop," or "store,"[6] etc. Where a statute punishes the breaking and entering of any shop, store, etc., or other building, an indictment must name and describe the building broken and entered. It is not enough to allege the breaking and entering of a "building," without alleging the kind of building.[7] Under a statute punishing the breaking and entering of any "building" or any "house," it has generally been held that the indictment, if it describe the prem-dred yards of a dwelling-house. State v. Evans, 18 S. C. 137. An indictment for breaking and entering a "gear-house within the curtilage and protection" of a dwelling-house is sufficient under a statute declaring all outhouses within the curtilage or protection of the dwelling-house to be parts of the same. Bryant v. State, 60 Ga. 358.

99. Bickford v. People, 39 Mich. 209; Byrnes v. People, 37 Mich. 515; Koster v. People, 8 Mich. 431. Under a statute punishing the breaking and entering of "any building within the curtilage of a dwelling house, but not forming a part thereof," an indictment charging the breaking and entering of a barn is bad, where it does not show that it was within the curtilage of a dwelling-house, but not forming a part thereof. State v. South, 136 Mo. 673, 38 S. W. 716. An allegation that defendant entered the building of a certain person, which was situate within the curtilage of such person's dwelling, but did not form a part thereof, sufficiently describes the building to bring it within such a statute. State v. Burdett, 145 Mo. 674, 47 S. W. 796.

1. Rimes v. State, 36 Fla. 90, 18 So. 114; Larned v. Com., 12 Metc. (Mass.) 240; Phillips v. Com., 3 Metc. (Mass.) 588; Evans v. Com., 3 Metc. (Mass.) 453; Devoe v. Com., 3 Metc. (Mass.) 316 [but see contra, Com. v. Tuck, 20 Pick. (Mass.) 356]; Gundy v. State, 72 Wis. 1, 38 N. W. 328; State v. Kane, 63 Wis. 260, 23 N. W. 488.

2. Thomas v. State, 97 Ala. 3, 12 So. 409; Kincaid v. People, 139 Ill. 213, 28 N. E. 1060; State v. Fleming, 107 N. C. 905, 12 S. E. 131; Bigham v. State, 31 Tex. Crim. 244, 20 S. W. 577.

Sufficient description.— Since one who enters a room of a house with burglarious intent enters the house with such intent, an allegation that defendant so broke and entered "the building, to wit, the ticket office of" a certain railroad company is sufficient. People v. Young, 65 Cal. 225, 3 Pac. 813.

3. People v. Hagan, 14 N. Y. Suppl. 233, 37 N. Y. St. 660.

4. Hale v. Com., 98 Ky. 353, 17 Ky. L. Rep. 947, 33 S. W. 91. To describe the premises as a "store-room" was held insufficient under a statute using the term "storehouse." Hagar v. State, 35 Ohio St. 268. Description of the premises as "a certain building, to-wit, a certain store room," etc., was held sufficient under the Ohio statute. State v. Johnson, 64 Ohio St. 270, 60 N. E. 219.

5. Spencer v. State, 13 Ohio 401. An indictment under a statute for breaking and entering a warehouse is not defective in describing it as a "warehouse building." State v. Dolson, 22 Wash. 259, 60 Pac. 653. An indictment charging breaking and entry of "the granary warehouse and building" of a certain person, "a building in which divers goods, merchandise and valuable things were then and there kept," was held good as an indictment for burglary in a warehouse, on the ground that the word "granary" was used as an adjective, or that, if used as a noun, it might be rejected as surplusage. State v. Watson, 141 Mo. 338, 42 S. W. 726.

6. Description of the premises as "a certain building, to wit, the shop" of a person named, is good. Com. v. Bowden, 14 Gray (Mass.) 103. Some courts have held "shop" and "store" to be synonymous, so as to permit of their being used interchangeably. State v. Smith, 5 La. Ann. 340. But the better opinion is to the contrary. Com. v. McMonagle, 1 Mass. 517; State v. Canney, 19 N. H. 135. In State v. Canney, 19 N. H. 135, an indictment alleging that defendant broke and entered the "store" of a certain person, and certain goods being then and there in the "shop aforesaid" did steal, etc., was held bad.

7. State v. Dale, 141 Mo. 284, 289, 42 S. W. 722, 64 Am. St. Rep. 513. In this case it was said: "The indictment must charge that the building is a shop, store, tent, etc., giving its correct designation, because in a case of statutory breaking, the indictment must employ the statutory word as shop, store, office, etc. And if to such place the statute adds a descriptive phrase, it must be covered by allegation." Compare, however, Com. v. Johnston, 19 Pa. Super. Ct. 241.

It is sufficient to describe the premises as a "building, to wit, the ticket office" of a certain person or corporation (People v. Young, 65 Cal. 225, 3 Pac. 813); or as a certain building in a city named, "to wit, the office building" of a certain corporation (Com. v. Moriarty, 135 Mass. 540). An allegation that the defendant, in the state and county ises by a term which does not necessarily imply a building or house, must go further and allege that they were a building or house.[8] But this is not necessary where the term used necessarily implies that the premises were a building or house.[9]

6. "OTHER PLACES OF BUSINESS." Under a statute punishing the breaking and entering of certain buildings, enumerating them, or "other place of business" of another, an indictment describing the premises by a term which does not bring them within the terms specifically used in the statute must allege that they were the place of business of another, unless this is necessarily implied from the description.[10]

7. OCCUPANCY OF PREMISES. An indictment for burglary in a dwelling-house sufficiently shows its occupancy as such by describing it as a dwelling-house, and it need not allege that any person was in it at the time,[11] unless a statute makes this an essential element of the offense. Nor need an indictment under a statute for breaking and entering a store allege its actual occupancy at the time, if this is not an essential element under the statute.[12] But when the indictment is under a statute punishing the breaking and entering of a dwelling-house or other building when it is in the actual occupancy of another, or when a person is lawfully in the same, an allegation that it was actually occupied or that a person was in the house is essential.[13] aforesaid, broke and entered "a certain house there situated, and being used and possessed by one John Head," etc., was held sufficient as a description of the house, under a statute making it burglary to break and enter, "a house, tenement, railway car, or other building," etc. Reed v. State, 66 Ark. 110, 49 S. W. 350.

8. See Wood v. State, 18 Fla. 967, where it was held that an indictment for breaking and entering premises described as a "corn-crib" was defective in not alleging that the corn-crib was a building, as a corn-crib may not be a building. Compare, however, Roberts v. State, 55 Miss. 421. See also Kincaid v. People, 139 Ill. 213, 28 N. E. 1060, holding an indictment for breaking and entering the "engine-room" of a railroad company defective on the ground that an engine-room was not necessarily within the terms "other building" in the Illinois statute.

It is not sufficient to describe the premises as certain "stove-works," without alleging them to have been a building, or a room, or a part of a building, as required in the statute. People v. Haight, 54 Hun (N. Y.) 8, 7 N. Y. Suppl. 89, 26 N. Y. St. 33. Where a statute used the word "building," an indictment for breaking and entering a "store" was held bad for failure to allege that it was a building. Com. v. McMonagle, 1 Mass. 517.

9. Under a statute punishing breaking and entry of certain enumerated structures "or other buildings," it was held that an indictment alleging the breaking and entering of a "stable" was not defective, on the ground that it did not allege or show that the stable was a building within the statute. Orrell v. People, 94 Ill. 456, 34 Am. Rep. 241. See also State v. Edwards, 109 Mo. 315, 19 S. W. 91, railroad "depot."

Sufficient descriptions.— An indictment charging a breaking and entering of a "weather-house," shows that the house is one the breaking and entering of which would not constitute burglary, so as to render an allegation to this effect unnecessary. State v. Bouknight, 55 S. C. 353, 33 S. E. 451, 74 Am. St. Rep. 751. An indictment alleging the breaking and entering into the sheriff's office, and also into a vault therein, is sufficient under a statute punishing breaking and entering a "house," without expressly alleging the sheriff's office to have been a house. Bigham v. State, 31 Tex. Crim. 244, 20 S. W. 577. An indictment alleging that the defendant broke and entered "the certain planing mill of one J. A. Murphy, . . in which said mill there was then and there kept for use and deposit by the said J. A. Murphy, goods, wares, and valuable things," sufficiently alleges breaking and entering a "building," within a statute, without alleging expressly that the mill was a building. State v. Haney, 110 Iowa 26, 81 N. W. 151.

10. McElreath v. State, 55 Ga. 562, holding an indictment describing the premises merely as "a mill-house" insufficient.

11. State v. Reid, 20 Iowa 413; Bell v. State, 20 Wis. 599. See also State v. Frank, 41 La. Ann. 596, 7 So. 131; Harris v. People, 44 Mich. 305, 6 N. W. 677.

12. If an indictment alleges that the building was owned by a certain person it need not further allege that it was occupied by him, or was under his charge. Wilson v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1897) 42 S. W. 290.

13. Louisiana.— State v. Frank, 41 La. Ann. 596, 7 So. 131, holding that a charge of breaking and entering a storehouse, used as a dwelling-house, in which a person was at the time residing, is equivalent to an allegation that such person was lawfully in the house at the time.

North Carolina.— State v. Fleming, 107 N. C. 905, 12 S. E. 131.

Ohio.— Forsythe v. State, 6 Ohio 19.

8. Averments as to Property in the Building. An indictment for burglary with intent to steal need not allege that there was any property in the building, unless this is made an element of the offense by the statute.[14] But under statutes punishing as burglary the breaking and entering of a shop, store, warehouse, or other building in which goods, merchandise, or other valuable thing is kept for use, sale, or deposit, the indictment, after describing the building, must allege that goods, merchandise, or some other valuable thing was kept therein for use, sale, or deposit, as this is one of the elements of the offense.[15] It is not enough to allege that "a valuable thing" was kept in the building, but the thing must be specified, and the allegation must not be in the alternative.[16] It must expressly allege that the thing or things kept in the building were of value, unless the description necessarily implies value.[17] But the value in dollars or cents need not be stated.[18] And it is sufficient to allege that the goods, etc., were "then and there" kept in the building or place, for use, etc., without alleging when they were deposited there, or otherwise when they were kept there.[19]

Oregon.— State v. Mack, 20 Oreg. 234, 25 Pac. 639.

Wisconsin.— Bell v. State, 20 Wis. 599.

14. Charles v. State, 36 Fla. 691, 18 So. 369; State v. Emmons, 72 Iowa 265, 33 N. W. 672; Hale v. Com., 98 Ky. 353, 17 Ky. L. Rep. 947, 33 S. W. 91; State v. Sufferin, 6 Wash. 107, 32 Pac. 1021. Compare, however, Winslow v. State, 26 Nebr. 308, 41 N. W. 1116.

15. Thomas v. State, 97 Ala. 3, 12 So. 409; Rowland v. State, 55 Ala. 210; Crawford v. State, 44 Ala. 382; Lee v. State, 56 Ga. 477. As to the sufficiency of the indictment in this respect see State v. Johns, 15 Oreg. 27, 13 Pac. 647.

Illustrations.— Under a statute punishing the breaking and entering of any shop, warehouse, or other structure in which any goods, merchandise, or other valuable thing is kept for use, sale, or deposit, an indictment describing the premises merely as "a sample room in the 'Arlington Hotel' a building in" a certain city, is insufficient. Thomas v. State, 97 Ala. 3, 12 So. 409. A description of the premises as a certain store in which goods, etc., things of value, "were" kept for use, etc., sufficiently shows that things of value were kept therein at the time of the offense. Williams v. State, 67 Ala. 183. Under a statute punishing breaking and entering any building "in which any goods . . . shall be kept for use, sale or deposit, with intent to steal therein," an indictment alleging the breaking and entering of a building where goods were kept "for use and safety," with intent to take, steal, etc., is sufficient, as the words used are equivalent to those in the statute. Roberts v. State, 55 Miss. 421. Where an indictment for burglary alleged that a certain person owned the building, that goods and chattels were "then and there in said building found"; that these belonged to him; and that the breaking and entering was with intent to steal, it was held that it might be inferred that the goods were kept in the building "for use, sale, or deposit," as required by the statute. State v. Burns, 109 Iowa 436, 80 N. W. 545.

16. Under a statute punishing the breaking and entering of a house or building in which any goods, merchandise, "or other valuable thing," is kept for use, sale, or deposit, with intent to steal, an indictment must specify the valuable thing, and must not be made in the alternative. For both reasons, an indictment alleging, in the language of the statute, that the defendant broke and entered a place "in which goods, merchandise, or other valuable thing, was kept for use, sale, or deposit, with intent to steal," was held bad. Danner v. State, 54 Ala. 127, 25 Am. Rep. 662. And see Davis v. State, 54 Ala. 88, and cases cited infra, note 17.

17. Allegation as to value, etc.— Under a statute punishing the breaking and entering of a building "in which any goods, merchandise, or other valuable thing is kept for use, sale, or deposit," with intent to steal, etc., an indictment is bad if it merely alleges generally that some "other valuable thing" was kept in the building. It must describe the particular thing, and must allege that it was of value, unless value is necessarily implied from the description. Henderson v. State, 70 Ala. 23, 45 Am. Rep. 72; Pickett v. State, 60 Ala. 77; Rowland v. State, 55 Ala. 210; Danner v. State, 54 Ala. 127, 25 Am. Rep. 662; Davis v. State, 54 Ala. 88; Neal v. State, 53 Ala. 465; Robinson v. State, 52 Ala. 587; Webb v. State, 52 Ala. 422; Norris v. State, 50 Ala. 126. It is sufficient to allege that "goods" or "merchandise," or "property" were kept in the building, without expressly alleging that they were of value, as these words import value. Henderson v. State, 70 Ala. 23, 45 Am. Rep. 72; Pickett v. State, 60 Ala. 77; Webb v. State, 52 Ala. 422; Norris v. State, 50 Ala. 126; Wicks v. State, 44 Ala. 398. See also Boose v. State, 10 Ohio St. 575. But "cotton," "cotton in the seed," or "lint cotton" do not necessarily import value, and an allegation of value is necessary. Robinson v. State, 52 Ala. 587; Webb v. State, 52 Ala. 422; Norris v. State, 50 Ala. 126. See also Rowland v. State, 55 Ala. 210.

18. Matthews v. State, 55 Ala. 65. See also Pickett v. State, 60 Ala. 77; Hurt v. State, 55 Ala. 214.

19. State v. Turner, 106 Mo. 272, 17 S. W. 304.

9. Railroad and Express Cars. An indictment under a statute for breaking and entering a railroad or express car with intent to commit larceny must so describe the car and its condition as to bring it within the terms of the statute.[20] Under a statute punishing the breaking and entering of a car in which goods are kept "for transportation as freight," an indictment alleging merely that the goods in the car were kept "for transportation," is bad.[21]

10. Location of Premises. At common law it was required that an indictment for burglary should not only state the county in which the offense was committed, but also the particular parish, vill, hamlet, or other place within the county, in which the premises were situated, and this still seems to be the rule in England.[22] In the United States, however, it has repeatedly been held that it is only necessary to give the county, as in the case of other offenses.[23]

11. Ownership of the Premises — a. Necessity to State Ownership. Except in so far as the rule may be changed by statute, an indictment for burglary, whether at common law or under a statute, must allege the ownership of the dwelling-house or other building broken and entered, if it is known, or it will be fatally defective, and it must do so accurately, so that there will be no variance between the allegation and the proof.[24] If the ownership is not known it need

20. Graves v. State, 63 Ala. 134. See Hamilton v. State, 26 Tex. App. 206, 9 S. W. 687.

Illustrations.— The words "box car" in an information for burglary are equivalent to the words "rail car" in a statute defining burglary. State v. Green, 15 Mont. 424, 39 Pac. 322. The indictment need not state whether the car was a box, closed, flat, or open car, unless this is rendered material by the terms of the statute. Aguillar v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1894) 26 S. W. 405. The words "freight and express car of the American Express Company" sufficiently describe a "railroad freight car or passenger car." Nicholls v. State, 68 Wis. 416, 32 N. W. 543, 60 Am. Rep. 870. Where a statute punished the wilful and malicious entering of a railroad car "without force, (the doors and windows being open,) . . . with intent to commit" larceny, the court held an indictment alleging the entering of a railroad car, "then and there being open," sufficient after trial and conviction, but expressed no opinion as to whether it would have been sufficient on demurrer or motion to quash. Brennan v. People, 110 Ill. 535.

21. Graves v. State, 63 Ala. 134.

22. Reg. v. Brookes, C. & M. 544, 41 E. C. L. 296; Reg. v. St. John, 9 C. & P. 40, 38 E. C. L. 36; Rex v. Bullock, 1 Moody 324, note a; 1 Chit. Crim. L. 196.

Applications of common-law rule.— An indictment alleging that the defendant "late of the parish of Pontypool, in the county of Monmouth, . . . at the parish aforesaid, in the county aforesaid, the dwelling-house of the guardians of the Pontypool Union, there situate," feloniously did break and enter, etc., sufficiently gives the location of the house in the parish named. Reg. v. Frowen, 4 Cox C. C. 266. It is sufficient to allege that the burglary was committed at a certain place, naming it, as "at Norton-juxta-Kempsey, in the county aforesaid," without describing the place as a parish, town, village, or the like. Reg. v. Brookes, C. & M. 544, 41 E. C. L. 296. Under the English rule, it was held that if a house was partly in one parish and partly in another it was properly described as in that parish in which the part broken and entered was situated. Reg. v. Howell, 1 Cox C. C. 190.

23. Arkansas.—Reed v. State, 66 Ark. 110, 49 S. W. 350.

Colorado.— Hamilton v. People, 24 Colo. 301, 51 Pac. 425.

Iowa.— State v. Reid, 20 Iowa 413.

Kentucky.— Hale v. Com., 98 Ky. 353, 17 Ky. L. Rep. 947, 33 S. W. 91.

Missouri.— State v. Burdette, 145 Mo. 674, 47 S. W. 796.

Ohio.— Spencer v. State, 13 Ohio 401.

Sufficient designations of location.— Where an indictment alleged: "The grand jury of the county of Dubuque, in the name and by the authority of the State of Iowa, accuse" the defendant of entering "the dwelling house of William L. Bradley, there situate," etc., it was held that the words "there situate" referred to the county of D, and that the venue was sufficiently stated. State v. Reid, 20 Iowa 413. To give the location as in a certain city has been held sufficient. Com. v. Moriarty, 135 Mass. 540.

24. Alabama.—Thomas v. State, 97 Ala. 3, 12 So. 409; Beall v. State, 53 Ala. 460; Ward v. State, 50 Ala. 120.

California.— People v. Parker, 91 Cal. 91, 27 Pac. 537.

Connecticut.— State v. Keena, 63 Conn. 329, 28 Atl. 522.

Florida.— Pells v. State, 20 Fla. 774.

Iowa.— State v. Morrissey, 22 Iowa 158.

Kansas.— State v. Fockler, 22 Kan. 542.

Massachusetts.— Com. v. Perris, 108 Mass. 1; Com. v. Hartnett, 3 Gray (Mass.) 450.

Mississippi.— James v. State, 77 Miss. 370, 29 So. 929, 78 Am. St. Rep. 527.

Nebraska.— Winslow v. State, 26 Nebr. 308, 41 N. W. 1116.

not be stated,[25] but in such a case that it is not known must be alleged.[26] In some states the statutes defining burglary are such that the courts have held that the question of ownership is not material, and that an indictment alleging the ownership in such a way as to enable the prosecution to identify the building is sufficient, although the allegation might not be sufficient at common law, and in a few states the allegation of ownership is rendered unnecessary by statute.[27]

b. Mode of Stating Ownership. In alleging ownership no particular form of words is necessary.[28] It is sufficient to describe the premises as "belonging to" a person or corporation named,[29] or as the dwelling-house, shop, office, building, etc., "of" a certain person,[30] or as "the property of" a certain person.[31] In some states it is sufficient to allege that the premises were "occupied" by a person named.[32]

c. In Whom the Ownership Should Be Laid — (1) GENERALLY. The test, for the purpose of determining in whom the ownership of the premises should be laid in an indictment for burglary, is not the title, but the occupancy or posses-

New York.— Woodford v. People, 62 N. Y. 117, 20 Am. Rep. 464; Smith's Case, 5 City Hall Rec. (N. Y.) 167.

Ohio.— Wilson v. State, 34 Ohio St. 199.

South Carolina.— State v. Trapp, 17 S. C. 467, 43 Am. Rep. 614.

West Virginia.— State v. Hupp, 31 W. Va. 355, 6 S. E. 919; State v. Reece, 27 W. Va. 375.

Wisconsin.— Jackson v. State, 55 Wis. 589, 13 N. W. 448.

England.— Rex v. Rawlins, 7 C. & P. 150, 32 E. C. L. 546; White's Case, 2 East P. C. 513, 780, 1 Leach 252; Rogers' Case, 2 East P. C. 506, 1 Leach 89; Rex v. Stock, 2 Leach 1015, R. & R. 138, 2 Taunt. 339, 11 Rev. Rep. 605; Rex v. Woodward, 1 Leach 287 note; Rex v. Belstead, R. & R. 304; 2 Hale P. C. 244.

See 8 Cent. Dig. tit. "Burglary," § 55.

Reasons for statement of ownership.— "There are only two reasons for requiring the ownership of the house to be stated in an indictment for burglary: 1st. For the purpose of showing on the record that the house alleged to have been broken into was not the dwelling house of the accused, inasmuch as one cannot commit the offence of burglary by breaking into his own house. 2d. For the purpose of so identifying the offence, as to protect the accused from a second prosecution for the same offence." State v. Trapp, 17 S. C. 467, 470, 43 Am. Rep. 614.

25. Jackson v. State, 102 Ala. 167, 15 So. 344; State v. Clifton, 30 La. Ann. 951.

26. State v. Morrissey, 22 Iowa 158.

27. State v. Wright, 19 Oreg. 258, 24 Pac. 229. And see State v. Emmons, 72 Iowa 265, 33 N. W. 672.

28. State v. Fox, 80 Iowa 312, 45 N. W. 874, 20 Am. St. Rep. 425; State v. Tyrrell, 98 Mo. 354, 11 S. W. 734. A description of the premises as "a certain mill-house not adjoining to or occupied with the dwelling-house of F.," was held a sufficient allegation of F's ownership of the mill-house. Webster v. Com., 80 Va. 598. And see Butler v. Com., 81 Va. 159. Contra, State v. Hupp, 31 W. Va. 355, 6 S. E. 919. A description of premises as "the St. Bridget's Church and meeting house" is not a sufficient allegation of ownership, as these words are merely descriptive of the church. Wilson v. State, 34 Ohio St. 199.

29. State v. Fox, 80 Iowa 312, 45 N. W. 874, 20 Am. St. Rep. 425.

30. State v. Tyrrell, 98 Mo. 354, 11 S. W. 734, where it is held that an allegation of breaking and entering a certain building "of" a certain person, naming him, "the same being used and occupied by the said" person, naming him, "as a saloon," is a sufficient allegation of ownership. See also State v. Watson, 102 Iowa 651, 72 N. W. 283; Butler v. Com., 81 Va. 159; Webster v. Com., 80 Va. 598. Describing a building as "the city hall of the city of Charlestown," is sufficient. Com. v. Williams, 2 Cush. (Mass.) 582.

31. State v. Johnson, 64 Ohio St. 270, 60 N. E. 219.

32. In California, under a statute declaring it sufficient for an indictment to state the acts constituting the offense in ordinary and concise language, it is held that an allegation that the building was occupied by a certain person is sufficient without stating that it was owned by him. People v. Rogers, 81 Cal. 209, 22 Pac. 592. And in Texas, description of a house as one "then and there occupied and controlled" by a certain person is sufficient. Sullivan v. State, 13 Tex. App. 462. An allegation that the defendant broke and entered into a certain room occupied by a certain company in a certain building is sufficient, without alleging the ownership of the building. State v. Simas, 25 Nev. 432, 62 Pac. 242. An allegation that the building was owned by a certain person implies that it was occupied by him. Price v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1900) 58 S. W. 83.

Ownership of land on which house stands. — In charging burglary it is not necessary to allege that the occupant of the house owned the land on which the house stood. Favro v. State, 39 Tex. Crim. 452, 46 S. W. 932, 73 Am. St. Rep. 950.

Omission of words.—An indictment describing the house as "occupied S.," leaving out the word "by," is fatally defective. Scroggins v. State, 36 Tex. Crim. 117, 35 S. W. 968.

sion at the time the offense was committed. The general rule is that the ownership should be laid in the occupant at the time the offense was committed, unless he was a mere servant,[33] and not in the holder of the legal title, who was not in possession.[34] The ownership is properly laid in the actual occupant, although his possession may have been wrongful as against the holder of the legal title.[35]

(II) Landlord and Tenant. If premises are in the possession and occupancy of a tenant at the time of a burglary, the ownership may be laid in the tenant, and at common law it must be so laid, or there will be a fatal variance.[36] This is true of a tenant at will.[37] The rule does not apply where the house is burglariously broken and entered after the tenant has surrendered the possession.[38] And if part of a house is let to a tenant and the rest is reserved by the owner for other purposes, the part reserved cannot be described as the dwelling-house of the tenant.[39] In some states the ownership may be laid either in the tenant or in the landlord.[40]

(III) Master and Servant, and Principal and Agent. As a general rule, when a house or room is occupied by a servant as the house of his master, and in the course of his master's employment, and not as a tenant, an indictment for burglary should lay the ownership in the master, and not in the servant, for

33. See infra, IV, D, 11, c, (III).

34. Alabama.— Hale v. State, 122 Ala. 85, 26 So. 236; Thomas v. State, 97 Ala. 3, 12 So. 409.

California.— People v. Rogers, 81 Cal. 209, 22 Pac. 592.

Georgia.— Houston v. State, 38 Ga. 165.

Indiana.— McCrillis v. State, 69 Ind. 159.

Iowa.— State v. Burns, 109 Iowa 436, 80 N. W. 545; State v. Rivers, 68 Iowa 611, 27 N. W. 781.

Nevada.— State v. Simas, 25 Nev. 432, 62 Pac. 242.

Texas.— Favro v. State, 39 Tex. Crim. 452, 46 S. W. 932, 73 Am. St. Rep. 950; Sullivan v. State, 13 Tex. App. 462.

England.—Reg. v. Bridges, 1 Cox C. C. 261; Rex v. Wallis, 1 Moody 344; Rex v. Collett, R. & R. 371.

Sufficient allegation.— An allegation that the building was the office of a certain railroad company is sustained by proof that it was occupied by the company. State v. Watson, 102 Iowa 651, 72 N. W. 283.

35. Houston v. State, 38 Ga. 165; Rex v. Wallis, 1 Moody 344.

36. Alabama.— Hale v. State, 122 Ala. 85, 26 So. 236; Thomas v. State, 97 Ala. 3, 12 So. 409; Johnson v. State, 73 Ala. 483; Matthews v. State, 55 Ala. 65; Webb v. State, 52 Ala. 422.

Florida.— Leslie v. State, 35 Fla. 171, 17 So. 555.

Illinois.— Smith v. People, 115 Ill. 17, 3 N. E. 733.

Indiana.— Kennedy v. State, 81 Ind. 379; McCrillis v. State, 69 Ind. 159.

Iowa.— State v. Lee, 95 Iowa 427, 64 N. W. 284; State v. Rivers, 68 Iowa 611, 27 N. W. 781; State v. Golden, 49 Iowa 48.

Massachusetts.— Com. v. Bowden, 14 Gray (Mass.) 103.

Nebraska.—Winslow v. State, 26 Nebr. 308, 41 N. W. 1116.

New Hampshire.— State v. Rand, 33 N. H. 216.

New York.—Mason v. People, 26 N. Y. 200.

Ohio.— State v. Buechler, 57 Ohio St. 95, 48 N. E. 507.

West Virginia.—State v. Betsall, 11 W. Va. 703.

England.— Rex v. Collett, R. & R. 371.

See 8 Cent. Dig. tit. "Burglary," § 58.

One of several compartments of a building under a continuous roof, entirely separated from the others, and being in the exclusive possession of a tenant of the owner of the whole building as a poultry-house, is properly described as the tenant's poultry-house. State v. Buechler, 57 Ohio St. 95, 48 N. E. 507.

Possession by sheriff.— Ownership of a house may be laid in one who held the goods therein as sheriff, under a writ of attachment, and occupied the house under a rental contract, paying the rent out of the proceeds of the goods sold; and it is not necessary to allege that he held the goods and occupied the house as sheriff. Linhart v. State, 33 Tex. Crim. 504, 27 S. W. 260.

37. Rex v. Collett, R. & R. 371. But it was held that the ownership of a corn-crib was properly laid in the actual owner, although he had permitted another to store his corn therein. Painter v. State, 26 Tex. App. 454, 9 S. W. 774.

38. Harrison v. State, 74 Ga. 801, holding that where the owner of a house temporarily leaves it in possession of a tenant, leaving his household goods therein, and intending to return, and it is broken and entered, and his goods stolen before his return, but after the tenant has given up possession, the ownership is properly laid in him.

39. Rex v. Wilson, R. & R. 86. And see Reed v. State, 34 Tex. Crim. 597, 31 S. W. 404; Rex v. Jenkins, R. & R. 182. Compare Rex v. Witt, 1 Moody 248.

40. Kennedy v. State, 81 Ind. 379. In Com. v. Ballard, 18 Ky. L. Rep. 782, 38 S. W. 678, it was held that an indictment for breaking into the warehouse of an ice company was supported by evidence that the defendant broke into an apartment in the warehouse, the master occupies it by the servant, and this is true whether the master is present or absent at the time of the offense, and whether he lives under the same roof or not.[41] It has been held, however, that where a servant lives with his family in a separate house, of which he has the exclusive occupation, the ownership may be laid in him, although the house is on the same premises as that of the master,[42] or it seems it may be laid in the master.[43] And if a servant lives in a house of his master as a tenant at a yearly rent, the ownership must be laid in the servant, and not in the master.[44] In some states it is held that when a person occupies premises as the mere agent of another person or a corporation, the ownership must be laid in the principal.[45] But in other states it is held that the agent, if he has entire control, has such special ownership and possession that the ownership may be laid in him.[46]

(IV) Occupants of Apartments. Each apartment in a tenement or apartment house is the dwelling-house of the occupant, and in an indictment for the use of which was leased by the ice company to a brewing company.

41. Alabama.— Aldridge v. State, 88 Ala. 113, 7 So. 48, 16 Am. St. Rep. 23.

New York.— Rodgers v. People, 86 N. Y. 360, 40 Am. Rep. 548.

North Carolina.— State v. Davis, 77 N. C. 490; State v. Outlaw, 72 N. C. 598.

Texas.— Daggett v. State, 39 Tex. Crim. 5, 44 S. W. 148, 842; Buchanan v. State, 24 Tex. App. 195, 5 S. W. 847.

United States.— U. S. v. Johnson, 2 Cranch C. C. (U. S.) 21, 26 Fed. Cas. No. 15,485.

England.— Reg. v. Ashley, 1 C. & K. 198, 47 E. C. L. 198; Rex v. Rawlins, 7 C. & P. 150, 32 E. C. L. 546; Reg. v. Courtenay, 5 Cox C. C. 218; 1 East P. C. 500.

Partnership.— A house owned by a partnership may be deserihed as the dwelling-house of the partners, if their servant lives there merely in the course of his employment. State v. Davis, 77 N. C. 490.

42. Ashton v. State, 68 Ga. 25; Rodgers v. People, 86 N. Y. 360, 40 Am. Rep. 548; Rex v. Rees, 7 C. & P. 568, 32 E. C. L. 762 (where a gardener lived with his family in a cottage distinct from his master's house, although on his premises); Rex v. Witt, 1 Moody 248; Rex v. Camfield, 1 Moody 42; Rex v. Johling, R. & R. 391. Where an indictment described the premises as the dwelling-house of A, and it appeared that A was foreman of the plantation on which the house was, and occupied one room therein most of the time, it was held that the whole house might be regarded as his dwelling-house, although the owner of the plantation frequently occupied a room there, and when there was master. Ashton v. State, 68 Ga. 25.

43. Rex v. Rees, 7 C. & P. 568, 32 E. C. L. 762. But where an employee had exclusive possession and control of a chicken-house and its contents, situated eight miles from the owner's residence, and an interest in the increase of the fowls, it was held that the proof did not sustain an indictment for burglary laying the ownership and possession in the owner. Daggett v. State, 39 Tex. Crim. 5, 44 S. W. 148, 842.

44. This is true although the house is situated on the premises where the master's business is carried on, and the servant has it because of his services. Rex v. Jarvis, 1 Moody 7. And see Turner's Case, 2 East P. C. 492, 1 Leach 342. It has been held, however, that if a servant has part of a house only and the rest is reserved by the master for other purposes, the part so reserved cannot be described as the servant's, for it is not a part of his dwelling-house. Rex v. Wilson, R. & R. 86. And see Rex v. Jenkins, R. & R. 182. Contra, Rex v. Witt, 1 Moody 248.

45. Aldridge v. State, 88 Ala. 113, 7 So. 48, 16 Am. St. Rep. 23, holding that the ownership of premises belonging to a corporation, and occupied for it by its business manager, must be laid in the corporation and not in the manager.

46. Hahn v. State, 60 Nebr. 487, 83 N. W. 674; People v. Smith, 1 Park. Crim. (N. Y.) 329.

In Texas it is held that the ownership of premises may be laid in one who has the possession and entire control of the same, although merely as agent of another, on the ground that he has sufficient special property to support the allegation. Alvia v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1901) 60 S. W. 551; McAnally v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1900) 57 S. W. 832; Ricks v. State, 41 Tex. Crim. 676, 56 S. W. 928; Daggett v. State, 39 Tex. Crim. 5, 44 S. W. 148, 842; Smith v. State, 34 Tex. Crim. 124, 29 S. W. 775.

It was held that there was no variance where an indictment alleged that the building was owned by S, and the proof showed that it was owned by a corporation of which S was the manager, but that he was in the actual possession, and had control of the clerks employed there, as the possession of S created a special ownership in him. Ricks v. State, 41 Tex. Crim. 676, 56 S. W. 928. And see McAnally v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1900) 57 S. W. 832.

A deputy sheriff placed in charge of premises to watch the property is not such a special owner that the ownership may be laid in him. Linhart v. State, 33 Tex. Crim. 504, 27 S. W. 260.

Ownership of a building may be laid in a person having possession and control for nonresident owners. Hahn v. State, 60 Nebr. 487, 83 N. W. 674.

breaking and entering an apartment, therefore, the ownership should be laid in the occupant, and not in the owner of the building,[47] although he may also live in the building.[48]

(v) Innkeepers and Guests. As a rule, an indictment for burglary in breaking and entering the room of a guest at an inn must lay the ownership in the innkeeper and not in the guest.[49] But it has been held that this rule does not apply where a person rents a room in a hotel by the week, so as to acquire an interest therein, as he is not then a mere guest.[50] And in some states, by statute, the ownership may be laid in the guest.[51]

(vi) Lodgers. If an entire building is let to lodgers the separate door to each room or apartment is to be deemed the outer door of the occupant's dwelling-house within the definition of burglary, and for the purpose of alleging ownership.[52] But if the owner of a house lets to lodgers some of his rooms, retaining for his own inhabitation the residue, the whole is to be considered the dwelling-house of the owner,[53] unless the rule is changed by statute.[54]

(vii) Joint Owners or Tenants. Unless it is otherwise provided by statute, where premises are owned or leased and occupied by two persons as joint tenants, the ownership must be laid in both jointly, according to the fact, and an indictment laying the ownership in one of them only is defective.[55] In some states, however, the statutes allow the ownership to be laid in any one or more of

47. Smith v. People, 115 Ill. 17, 3 N. E. 733; Mason v. People, 26 N. Y. 200; People v. Bush, 3 Park. Crim. (N. Y.) 552; Ullman v. State, 1 Tex. App. 220, 28 Am. Rep. 405; Rex v. Bailey, 1 Moody 23.

48. Smith v. People, 115 Ill. 17, 3 N. E. 733, where it is held that this is true where the owner of an ordinary house lets one of the floors to another, and lives on the floor above.

49. Rodgers v. People, 86 N. Y. 360, 40 Am. Rep. 548; State v. Clark, 42 Vt. 629; State v. Burton, (Wash. 1902) 67 Pac. 1097; Prosser's Case, 2 East P. C. 502; 1 East P. C. 500; 1 Hale P. C. 557. This is true although the innkeeper may reside with his family in a house separate from the inn. Rodgers v. People, 86 N. Y. 360, 40 Am. Rep. 548.

50. State v. Burton, (Wash. 1902) 67 Pac. 1097 (holding that an information charging burglary of certain rooms in a hotel is sufficient if it describes the rooms simply as the dwelling-house of the occupants, without expressly alleging the leasing of the rooms for any definite period); State v. Johnson, 4 Wash. 593, 30 Pac. 672.

51. Jones v. State, 75 Ga. 825. And see People v. St. Clair, 38 Cal. 137.

Under the Georgia statute declaring "a hired room or apartment in a public tavern, inn or boarding-house" to be the dwelling-house of "the person or persons occupying or hiring the same," a room in a hotel occupied by one of the servants or waiters is his dwelling-house; and it may be so described in an indictment, notwithstanding another occupies it with him. Jones v. State, 75 Ga. 825.

52. Ullman v. State, 1 Tex. App. 220, 28 Am. Rep. 405; Turner's Case, 2 East P. C. 492, 1 Leach 342; Rex v. Bailey, 1 Moody 23.

Lofts over stables and coach-houses converted into lodging rooms, and leased to servants of the owners at an annual rental, are the dwelling-houses of the lodgers, if there is an outer door. Turner's Case, 2 East P. C. 492, 1 Leach 342.

A garret used as a workshop, and let by the week with a sleeping-room to a lodger and used by him, is the dwelling-house of the lodger, if the owner sleeps elsewhere. Carrell's Case, 2 East P. C. 506, 1 Leach 272.

53. Ullman v. State, 1 Tex. App. 220, 28 Am. Rep. 405; Trapshaw's Case, 2 East P. C. 506, 780, 1 Leach 427; Rogers' Case, 2 East P. C. 506, 1 Leach 89.

Ownership of a house is properly laid in the person having possession and control, although some of the rooms are let to lodgers, and some are used for other purposes. Hahn v. State, 60 Nebr. 487, 83 N. W. 674.

54. Under the statute in California it was held that the ownership of a room in a house occupied by a lodger might be laid in him, although the lodging-house keeper lived in the house and had general supervision and control. People v. St. Clair, 38 Cal. 137.

55. Webb v. State, 52 Ala. 422; Saxton's Case, 2 Harr. (Del.) 533; Rex v. Jenkins, R. & R. 182. Contra, Com. v. Thompson, 9 Gray (Mass.) 108. If a house is let to A, who resides there, and a warehouse under the same roof, and with an internal communication with the house, is let to A and B, the warehouse cannot be described as the dwelling-house of A. Rex v. Jenkins, R. & R. 182. An allegation that the premises were occupied by A and B was held sufficient, without alleging that they were partners or that they owned the building. People v. Rogers, 81 Cal. 209, 22 Pac. 592. The mere fact that the owner and occupant of premises permits another to partly occupy the same with him does not make it necessary to lay the ownership in both. State v. Betsall, 11 W. Va. 703. See Painter v. State, 26 Tex. App. 454, 9 S. W. 774. A room is properly described as the premises of a person occupying it and having exclusive use and control at the several joint owners or occupants.[56] And in other states, although there is no such provision, the statutes are such as to render a variance in this respect immaterial.[57]

(VIII) Corporations. If the premises alleged to have been broken and entered were owned or occupied by a corporation, the ownership should be laid in the corporation, describing it by its corporate name.[58] In most jurisdictions there will be a fatal variance if the ownership is laid in the officer, agent, or servant having possession or control as the representative of the corporation, either individually, or as officer, agent, or servant,[59] or if the ownership is laid in the members of the corporation individually.[60] It has been held in some states that it is necessary, in addition to describing the corporation by its corporate name, to allege its incorporation, but the weight of authority is to the contrary.[61] time of the burglary, although another person occupied it in common with him at other times during the day. Bauer v. State, 25 Ohio St. 70.

56. White v. State, 72 Ala. 195; Jones v. State, 75 Ga. 825.

In Texas, where a statute provides that where property is owned in common or jointly by two or more persons, ownership may be alleged in all or either of them, an indictment laying the ownership of a house in one person is sustained by proof that it was occupied by him and another as tenants in common, although the ownership was in a third person. Cogshall v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1900) 58 S. W. 1011; Tidwell v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1898) 45 S. W. 1015.

57. Thus it has been held that a variance in this respect is immaterial under a statute providing that a variance in respect to the description of any matter is not ground for acquittal, unless material or prejudicial. Mulrooney v. State, 26 Ohio St. 326. Or under a statute providing that an erroneous allegation as to the person injured is not material. People v. Bitancourt, 74 Cal. 188, 15 Pac. 744; People v. Edwards, 59 Cal. 359; State v. Jelinek, 95 Iowa 420, 64 N. W. 259.

58. Alabama.— Aldridge v. State, 88 Ala. 113, 7 So. 48, 16 Am. St. Rep. 23; Emmonds v. State, 87 Ala. 12, 6 So. 54.

Georgia.— Hatfield v. State, 76 Ga. 499; Crawford v. State, 68 Ga. 822.

Massachusetts.— Com. v. Moriarty, 135 Mass. 540.

Mississippi.— James v. State, 77 Miss. 370, 26 So. 929, 78 Am. St. Rep. 527.

New Jersey.— Fisher v. State, 40 N. J. L. 169.

England.—Hawkins' Case, 2 East P. C. 501; Maynard's Case, 2 East P. C. 501; Picket's Case, 2 East P. C. 501. Compare People v. Henry, 77 Cal. 445, 19 Pac. 830.

See 8 Cent. Dig. tit. "Burglary," § 60.

Sufficiency of allegations.— An indictment laying the ownership in a corporation by name need not give the names of its officers or its domicile. State v. Smith, 104 La. 464, 29 So. 20. It need not be stated whether the corporation is a foreign or domestic corporation. Nor need it be alleged that the defendant was not a stock-holder. Bailey v. State, 116 Ala. 437, 22 So. 918.

A dwelling-house owned by a corporation and occupied by its servant as his dwelling is properly described as the house of a corporation, "though an aggregate corporate body cannot be said to inhabit anywhere, yet they may have a mansion-house for the habitation of their servants." Hawkins' Case, 2 East P. C. 501.

Workhouse of poor-law union.— In Reg. v. Frowen, 4 Cox C. C. 266, it was held that in an indictment for burglary in the workhouse of the poor law union, the workhouse might be described as the dwelling-house of the guardians of the poor of the union. It was intimated that it could not be described as the dwelling-house of the master of the workhouse.

A railroad depot in the exclusive possession and control of two railroad companies is properly alleged to have been the depot of such two corporations. State v. Scripture, 42 N. H. 485.

59. Where an indictment for breaking and entering a storehouse belonging to a corporation laid the ownership in "B, business manager of" the corporation, and it appeared that B was merely in charge of the store as a salaried agent of the company, it was held that the variance was fatal. Aldridge v. State, 88 Ala. 113, 7 So. 48, 16 Am. St. Rep. 23. Compare supra, IV, D, 11, c, (VIII). It has been held, however, that a house occupied by an agent of a company as a residence may be described as his, although the company pays the rent and holds the lease. Rex v. Margetts, 2 Leach 930. And see Rex v. Witt, 1 Moody 248.

60. See Rex v. Patrick, 2 East P. C. 1059, 1 Leach 287.

61. Alabama.— Bailey v. State, 116 Ala. 437, 22 So. 918.

California.— People v. Henry, 77 Cal. 445, 19 Pac. 830.

Georgia.— Hatfield v. State, 76 Ga. 499; Crawford v. State, 68 Ga. 822.

Iowa.— State v. Watson, 102 Iowa 651, 72 N. W. 283.

Missouri.— State v. Shields, 89 Mo. 259, 1 S. W. 336.

New Jersey.— Fisher v. State, 40 N. J. L. 169.

Compare Emmonds v. State, 87 Ala. 12, 6 So. 54, where it was held that in an indictment for burglary in breaking and entering a building described as the storehouse of the Perry Mason Shoe Company, it was necessary either to allege that the said company was a

It is not necessary to allege the capacity of the corporation to own the premises alleged to have been broken and entered.[62]

(IX) PARTNERSHIPS. Where a building is occupied by a partnership for business, and either one or both of the partners also live in it, or their servant lives in it in the course of his employment, an indictment for burglary should lay the ownership in all the partners.[63] Stores, warehouses, etc., occupied by a partnership, whether owned or merely leased by the partnership, may and must be described as the premises of the partners.[64] An indictment laying the ownership of premises in a partnership by simply giving the firm name is bad. It should name the individual partners, showing that the defendant was not one of them.[65] In some states, by statute, the ownership may be laid in one only of several partners;[66] and in other states the statute is such as to make a variance in this respect immaterial.[67]

(X) HUSBAND AND WIFE. The ownership of a dwelling-house and outhouses should be laid in the husband, although the title may be in the wife, where they are living together in the house.[68] And this is true at common law, even when a wife is living separate from her husband in a leased house for which she pays the rent out of her equitable separate estate.[69] But under the statutes corporation, or, if it was a partnership, to allege such fact and name the partners, showing that the defendant was not one of them.

Under a statute declaring an indictment sufficient if it clearly and distinctly sets forth the offense in ordinary and concise language, and in such manner as to enable a person of common understanding to know what is intended, it has been held that an indictment for burglary laying the ownership in a certain company by name need not allege that the company was either a corporation or a partnership. State v. Simas, 25 Nev. 432, 62 Pac. 242.

62. Bailey v. State, 116 Ala. 437, 22 So. 918.

63. Quinn v. People, 71 N. Y. 561, 27 Am. Rep. 87; State v. Davis, 77 N. C. 490; Saxton's Case, 2 Harr. (Del.) 533; Hawkins' Case, Foster 38; Rex v. Stock, 2 Leach 1015, R. & R. 138, 2 Taunt. 339, 11 Rev. Rep. 605; Rex v. Athea, 1 Moody 329; Rex v. Jenkins, R. & R. 182. Compare Jones' Case, 2 East P. C. 504, where parts of the premises were separately occupied by partners. And see Reg. v. Nichol, 1 Legge (New South Wales) 233. An indictment laying the ownership of a dwelling-house in two persons as partners is sustained by proof that one of them furnished a certain sum as capital and the other furnished the house and labor, in pursuance of a partnership agreement. State v. Davis, 77 N. C. 490.

64. State v. Rivers, 68 Iowa 611, 27 N. W. 781.

65. Emmonds v. State, 87 Ala. 12, 6 So. 54, where the indictment described the premises as the storehouse of the Perry Mason Shoe Company. See also Davis v. State, 54 Ala. 88.

Contra.—Under the California statute making it sufficient for an indictment to state the acts constituting the offense in ordinary and concise language. People v. Henry, 77 Cal. 445, 19 Pac. 830. See also Hatfield v. State, 76 Ga. 499; Fisher v. State, 40 N. J. L. 169.

66. White v. State, 72 Ala. 195; Coates v. State, 31 Tex. Crim. 257, 20 S. W. 585. And supra, IV, D, 11, i.

67. People v. Bitancourt, 74 Cal. 188, 15 Pac. 744; People v. Edwards, 59 Cal. 359; State v. Jelinek, 95 Iowa 420, 64 N. W. 259; Mulrooney v. State, 26 Ohio St. 326. And see supra, IV, D, 11, c, (IX).

68. Title in wife.— Richardson v. State, 115 Ala. 113, 22 So. 558 [see also Jackson v. State, 102 Ala. 167, 15 So. 344]; Young v. State, 100 Ala. 126, 14 So. 872; Yarborough v. State, 86 Ga. 396, 12 S. E. 650; Harrison v. State, 74 Ga. 801; State v. Short, 54 Iowa 392, 6 N. W. 584; Rex v. Smyth, 5 C. & P. 201, 24 E. C. L. 526. An indictment for burglary in a smoke-house used in connection with a dwelling-house occupied by husband and wife may lay the ownership in the husband, although the title to the whole premises is in the wife, where the smoke-house is subject to the ordinary family uses, and the husband carries the key thereto, and owns the meat therein. Richardson v. State, 115 Ala. 113, 22 So. 558. The fact that a wife has inchoate dower and homestead rights in a house does not make it improper to lay the ownership in the husband alone. State v. Wincroft, 76 N. C. 38.

Title in husband.— Where a man owns or leases a house and lives in it with his family, the ownership cannot be laid in his wife. Jackson v. State, 102 Ala. 167, 15 So. 344; Morgan v. State, 63 Ga. 307.

69. Wife living separate.— Rex v. French, R. & R. 365. See also Rex v. Smyth, 5 C. & P. 201, 24 E. C. L. 526. In Rex v. Wilford, R. & R. 385, it was held that the house of a husband, in which he allowed his wife to live separate from him, was properly described as the house of the husband, although the wife lived there in adultery with another man, who paid the housekeeping expenses, and although the husband suspected the criminal intercourse. But in Tilly v. State, 21 Fla. 242, it was held that ownership of a dwelling-house might be laid in a married woman, where removing the disability of married women it has been held that ownership of a dwelling-house or other premises may be laid in a married woman living separate from her husband, and having the occupancy and control.[70] And it has been held in some states that where a married woman, who has a separate estate under the married women's act, leases a dwelling-house and pays the rent, or owns the same, the ownership may be laid in her, although her husband also lives in the house.[71]

(xi) Executors and Estates of Deceased Persons. It has been said at common law that if one die in a house, and his executors put servants in it and keep them there at board wages, an indictment for burglary may lay ownership in the executors.[72] An indictment alleging that the building was "the property of the estate of" a person who had owned the same, but had died before the offense was committed, does not sufficiently allege the ownership,[73] except, perhaps, in those states in which there are statutes allowing less strictness in this respect than was allowed at common law.[74]

(xii) Railroad Cars. An indictment under a statute for breaking and entering a railroad or express car must allege the ownership of the car,[75] but the ownership may be laid in the company having at the time the possession and control, although the car may have been actually owned by another company.[76]

E. The Intent — 1. In General. It is essential that an indictment for burglary shall allege that the house was broken and entered with intent to commit a felony therein, whether the indictment is for burglary at common law or under a statute,[77] unless it is under a statute which does not require such an intent to she had possession and control and lived therein separate from her husband, although the title was in him.

70. Under married women's acts.— Ducher v. State, 18 Ohio 308. The ownership of a store is properly laid in a married woman where she is separated from her husband, and owns and is conducting the business herself. State v. Perkins, 1 Ohio Dec. (Reprint) 55, 1 West. L. J. 394.

71. State v. Trapp, 17 S. C. 467, 43 Am. Rep. 614; State v. Peach, 70 Vt. 283, 40 Atl. 732.

72. 3 Chit. Crim. Law 1102; 2 East P. C. 499.

73. Beall v. State, 53 Ala. 460 [overruling Murray v. State, 48 Ala. 675; Anderson v. State, 48 Ala. 665, 17 Am. Rep. 36].

74. See State v. Franks, 64 Iowa 39, 19 N. W. 832, where such an allegation of ownership was sustained.

75. Johnson v. State, 73 Ala. 483; Darter v. Com., 9 Ky. L. Rep. 277, 5 S. W. 48; James v. State, 77 Miss. 370, 26 So. 929, 78 Am. St. Rep. 527; State v. Davis, 138 Mo. 107, 39 S. W. 460. See Pyland v. State, 33 Tex. Crim. 382, 26 S. W. 621.

Insufficient allegation.— To allege that a car was "on the Glasgow branch of the Louisville & Nashville road, at the depot near the town of Glasgow," is not sufficient as an allegation of ownership of the car. Darter v. Com., 9 Ky. L. Rep. 277, 5 S. W. 48.

As to averments of ownership in corporations see supra, IV, D, 11, c, (VIII).

76. State v. McIntire, 59 Iowa 264, 13 N. W. 286; State v. Parker, 16 Nev. 79; Smith v. State, 34 Tex. Crim. 124, 29 S. W. 775.

An averment that the car was in the "possession, care, control, and custody" of a certain railroad company is sufficient. State v. McIntire, 59 Iowa 264, 13 N. W. 286.

Ownership of an express car is properly laid in an express company having exclusive occupancy and control thereof. Nicholls v. State, 68 Wis. 416, 32 N. W. 543, 60 Am. Rep. 870.

The ownership may be laid in the real owner, although it may have been in the possession of another at the time of the offense. Johnson v. State, 73 Ala. 483.

77. Alabama.—Barber v. State, 78 Ala. 19; Bell v. State, 48 Ala. 684, 17 Am. Rep. 40; Murray v. State, 48 Ala. 675.

Arkansas.— Reed v. State, 66 Ark. 110, 49 S. W. 350; Shotwell v. State, 43 Ark. 345.

California.— People v. Nelson, 58 Cal. 104.

Delaware.— State v. Eaton, 3 Harr. (Del.) 554.

Georgia.— State v. Lockhart, 24 Ga. 420.

Louisiana.— State v. Gay, 25 La. Ann. 472.

Michigan.— People v. Stewart, 44 Mich. 484, 7 N. W. 71.

Mississippi.— State v. Buchanan, 75 Miss. 349, 22 So. 875.

Nebraska.—Winslow v. State, 26 Nebr. 308, 41 N. W. 1116.

New Hampshire.— Jones v. State, 11 N. H. 269.

Texas.— State v. Robertson, 32 Tex. 159; Portwood v. State, 29 Tex. 47, 94 Am. Dec. 258; Rodriguez v. State, 12 Tex. App. 552; Webster v. State, 9 Tex. App. 75; Reeves v. State, 7 Tex. App. 276.

Vermont.— State v. Brady, 14 Vt. 353.

England.— Rex v. Vandercomb, 2 East P. C. 514, 517, 2 Leach 708; Dobbs' Case, 2 East P. C. 513.

See 8 Cent. Dig. tit. "Burglary," § 40 et seq.

Failure to demur to an indictment for burconstitute the offense charged, in which case the intent required by the statute must be charged,[78] or unless there is a statute in the particular jurisdiction rendering it unnecessary to allege the intent.[79] In most jurisdictions, however, it is held that an allegation of a breaking and entry and actual commission of a felony is a sufficient allegation of a breaking and entry with intent to commit a felony, on the ground that the commission of the felony is evidence of an intent to commit it.[80] In some states this rule is not recognized.[81]

2. DESCRIPTION OF THE FELONY OR OTHER OFFENSE INTENDED. It is not enough to allege generally an intent to commit "a felony" or "an offense," but it is necessary, in order that the charge may be certain, to state the particular felony or other offense intended.[82] In a few states the indictment must go further and glary does not waive the objection that it does not allege the intent to commit a felony. People v. Nelson, 58 Cal. 104.

"Then and there."—An indictment for burglary is not bad for failure to use the words "then and there" in alleging the intent, where the charge as to the intent is connected with the charge of breaking, etc., by the word "and." Smith v. State, 36 Tex. Crim. 442, 37 S. W. 743.

78. An indictment alleging the breaking and entering of a jail, described as the dwelling-house of the jailer, etc., with an "intent the county jail to break open, and to set free the said Chase therein confined, so that he might escape therefrom," etc., sufficiently charges an intent to aid in C's escape. State v. Abbott, 16 N. H. 507.

79. Under the Washington statute, which, in a prosecution for burglary, casts the burden of proving innocence of entry on the defendant, it is held unnecessary for an information for burglary to state the particular offense which the defendant intended to commit. State v. Wilson, 9 Wash. 218, 37 Pac. 424; Linbeck v. State, 1 Wash. St. 336, 25 Pac. 452.

80. Alabama.—Barber v. State, 78 Ala. 19. But see Bell v. State, 48 Ala. 684, 17 Am. Rep. 40.

Delaware.— Saxton's Case, 2 Harr. (Del.) 533.

Kentucky.— Olive v. Com., 5 Bush (Ky.) 376.

Maine.— State v. Neddo, 92 Me. 71, 42 Atl. 253.

Massachusetts.— Com. v. Hersey, 2 Allen (Mass.) 173; Com. v. Hope, 22 Pick. (Mass.) 1.

Missouri.— State v. Taylor, 136 Mo. 66, 37 S. W. 907.

New Hampshire.— Jones v. State, 11 N. H. 269.

North Carolina.— State v. Johnston, 119 N. C. 883, 26 S. E. 163.

Pennsylvania.— Com. v. Brown, 3 Rawle (Pa.) 207.

Tennessee.—Pardue v. State, 4 Baxt. (Tenn.) 10; Davis v. State, 3 Coldw. (Tenn.) 77.

England.— Dobbs' Case, 2 East P. C. 513; Rex v. Furnival, R. & R. 331.

See 8 Cent. Dig. tit. "Burglary," § 42.

81. In Texas it is held that the indictment must specifically allege the intent to commit a felony or the crime of theft, which the statute makes an essential element of burglary, and that an allegation of the actual commission of a felony or the crime of theft is not sufficient. Hammons v. State, 29 Tex. App. 445, 16 S. W. 99; Reeves v. State, 7 Tex. App. 276. Compare State v. Robertson, 32 Tex. 159. It was held, therefore, in Hammons v. State, 29 Tex. App. 445, 16 S. W. 99, that an indictment alleging that the defendant broke and entered, "and did, with malice aforethought, make an assault upon said R. A. Anderson, . . . with the intent then and there to murder," etc., did not charge burglary.

And in Alabama it was held that an indictment charged grand larceny only, and not burglary, where it merely alleged that the defendant "broke into and entered" a certain building, and "feloniously took and carried away" certain property "of the value of more than one hundred dollars," without alleging that the breaking and entry were "with intent to steal or to commit a felony" therein. Bell v. State, 48 Ala. 684, 17 Am. Rep. 40. Compare, however, Barber v. State, 78 Ala. 19.

82. California.— People v. Nelson, 58 Cal. 104.

Delaware.— State v. Eaton, 3 Harr. (Del.) 554.

Georgia.— State v. Lockhart, 24 Ga. 420.

Kentucky.— Kyle v. Com., 23 Ky. L. Rep. 708, 63 S. W. 782 [overruling Slaughter v. Com., 15 Ky. L. Rep. 569, 24 S. W. 622].

Mississippi.— State v. Buchanan, 75 Miss. 349, 22 So. 875.

New York.— Mason v. People, 26 N. Y. 200.

Tennessee.— State v. Williamson, 3 Heisk. (Tenn.) 483.

Texas.— Wilburn v. State, 41 Tex. 237; Portwood v. State, 29 Tex. 47, 94 Am. Dec. 258.

England.— See Rex v. Vandercomb, 2 East P. C. 514, 517, 2 Leach 708.

See 8 Cent. Dig. tit. "Burglary," § 43.

It is not sufficient to allege a breaking and entry "with the felonious intent then and there a felony to do and commit." Portwood v. State, 29 Tex. 47, 94 Am. Dec. 258.

Intended offense unknown.— An indictment charging the breaking and entering of a dwelling-house "with the wilful, felonious and burglarious intent then and there to commit some crime to the jurors aforesaid unknown," is fatally defective for failure to state the crime intended. State v. Buchanan, 75 Miss. 349, 22 So. 875.

set forth the elements of the intended felony, as would be necessary in an indictment for such felony, so that the court can say whether the offense intended was a felony or not.[83] In most states, however, this is not necessary, but it is enough to state the intended offense generally, as by alleging an intent to steal, to rape, to commit arson, etc.[84] As a rule an indictment or information for burglary with

Failure to demur to an indictment alleging generally intent to commit a felony does not waive the objection that it fails to state the particular felony intended. People v. Nelson, 58 Cal. 104.

83. This is the rule in Indiana.— Thus it is there held that an allegation of intent to steal, without alleging to "feloniously steal," etc., is bad. Smith v. State, 93 Ind. 67; Scudder v. State, 62 Ind. 13. An indictment for burglary with intent to commit larceny, alleging a felonious and burglarious breaking and entering of the barn of a certain person, with intent feloniously and burglariously to take, steal, and carry away certain pieces of meat, etc., was held defective in not alleging that the meat was owned by another than the accused, which would have been essential to larceny. Barnhart v. State, 154 Ind. 177, 56 N. E. 212.

In Mississippi an indictment alleging a breaking and entry of a dwelling-house, with intent to commit the crime of larceny therein, was held insufficient for failure to allege an intent feloniously and burglariously to take and carry away the goods and chattels in said house. Draughn v. State, 76 Miss. 574, 25 So. 153.

In Texas the facts necessary to constitute the intended felony must be stated. Wilburn v. State, 41 Tex. 237; Portwood v. State, 29 Tex. 47, 94 Am. Dec. 258; Taylor v. State, 23 Tex. App. 639, 5 S. W. 141; Treadwell v. State, 16 Tex. App. 643; Reed v. State, 14 Tex. App. 662; White v. State, 1 Tex. App. 211. An allegation of breaking and entering "with intent then and there to commit the crime of rape" is insufficient for failure to set out the elements of rape. State v. Williams, 41 Tex. 98; Allen v. State, 18 Tex. App. 120. But an allegation of "intent then and there unlawfully, feloniously and burglariously, and against the will and consent of A, her, the said A, to ravish and carnally know," etc., is sufficient. Burke v. State, 5 Tex. App. 74. As to the sufficiency of allegations to charge intent to commit theft under the Texas statute see West v. State, 35 Tex. 89; Williams v. State, 24 Tex. App. 69, 5 S. W. 838; Webster v. State, 9 Tex. App. 75. In Texas an indictment for burglary with intent to commit theft must negative the consent of the owner of the property intended to be stolen. Taylor v. State, 23 Tex. App. 639, 5 S. W. 141; Treadwell v. State, 16 Tex. App. 643. If it is alleged that the intent was to steal the property of two or more owners, the indictment must negative the consent of such owners, not conjointly, but of either of them. An indictment alleging intent to take the property of A and B without their consent is bad. Taylor v. State, 23 Tex. App. 639, 5 S. W. 141. And see Jones v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1892) 20 S. W. 395. In an indictment charging burglary and the taking of property belonging to two owners, with intent to take the property from the possession of such owners or either of them, and without their consent, the word "their" refers to the owners collectively, and the indictment is bad because it does not charge a burglary with intent to take the property without the consent of either of them. Young v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1900) 59 S. W. 890. An indictment for burglary in the premises of a partnership alleging want of consent of each member of the firm is sufficient. Mixon v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1895) 31 S. W. 408. An indictment for burglary with intent to commit theft is fatally defective if it fails to allege that the entry was with the fraudulent intent to take the property from the possession of the owner, and if, in charging the theft, it fails to allege that it was taken from the possession of the owner. O'Brien v. State, 27 Tex. App. 448, 11 S. W. 459. Where an indictment for burglary also sufficiently charges the actual theft of particular articles, setting forth all the elements of theft in such charge, an allegation that the breaking and entry were "with intent to commit theft" is sufficient without setting out with the allegation of intent the essential elements of theft. Bigham v. State, 31 Tex. Crim. 244, 20 S. W. 577; Williams v. State, 24 Tex. App. 69, 5 S. W. 838. The words "malice aforethought" are unnecessary in Texas in charging burglary by firing a pistol into a house with intent to murder, and if used may be rejected as surplusage. Garner v. State, 31 Tex. Crim. 22, 19 S. W. 333. If such words be regarded as necessary, an allegation that the defendant discharged a pistol into a house with intent to commit a felony, to wit, he, with malice aforethought, discharged the pistol into the house with intent to murder certain persons therein, sufficiently applies these words to the intent in shooting into the house. Garner v. State, 31 Tex. Crim. 22, 19 S. W. 333.

84. Arkansas.— Shotwell v. State, 43 Ark. 345.

California.— People v. Goldsworthy, 130 Cal. 600, 62 Pac. 1074; People v. Burns, 63 Cal. 614.

Georgia.— Houser v. State, 58 Ga. 78.

Iowa.— State v. Watson, 102 Iowa 651, 72 N. W. 283; State v. Mecum, 95 Iowa 433, 64 N. W. 286.

Kansas.— State v. Powell, 61 Kan. 81, 58 Pac. 968.

Kentucky.— McRae v. Com., 20 Ky. L. Rep. 1199, 49 S. W. 22; Miller v. Com., 14 Ky. L. Rep. 225, 20 S. W. 198.

Louisiana.— State v. Gay, 25 La. Ann. 472.

Massachusetts.— Com. v. Doherty, 10 Cush. (Mass.) 52.

intent to commit larceny need not describe the particular goods which the defendant intended to steal, or allege their value or ownership;[85] but there may be something in the particular statute under which an indictment is drawn to render Missouri.— State v. Carr, 146 Mo. 1, 47 S. W. 790.

Tennessee.— State v. Shelton, 90 Tenn. 539, 18 S. W. 253.

Intent to commit larceny.— Thus it has been held sufficient to allege an intent to steal certain property, without setting out the elements of larceny. Houser v. State, 58 Ga. 78; State v. Powell, 61 Kan. 81, 58 Pac. 968; McRae v. Com., 20 Ky. L. Rep. 1199, 49 S. W. 22; Miller v. Com., 14 Ky. L. Rep. 225, 20 S. W. 198; State v. Carr, 146 Mo. 1, 47 S. W. 790. Under a statute making it burglary to break and enter "with intent to commit grand or petit larceny, or any felony," an indictment for burglary with intent to commit larceny need not state the degree of larceny intended. People v. Smith, 86 Cal. 238, 24 Pac. 988. As to sufficiency of allegation of intent to commit larceny see also State v. Taylor, 136 Mo. 66, 37 S. W. 907; State v. McGraw, 87 Mo. 161; State v. Henley, 30 Mo. 509; State v. Shelton, 90 Tenn. 539, 18 S. W. 253.

Intent to commit arson.— An allegation of intent "then and there to commit arson," is sufficient. Shotwell v. State, 43 Ark. 345; People v. Goldsworthy, 130 Cal. 600, 62 Pac. 1074. But an allegation that the breaking and entry were "with intent to set fire to or burn," etc., without averring that the intent was "wilfully to set fire to," etc., is bad. Pairo v. State, 49 Ala. 25.

Intent to commit "public offense" — Iowa statute.— An indictment under the Iowa statute, charging a burglarious entry "with intent to commit a public offense, to wit, adultery," need not state the facts necessary in an indictment for adultery. State v. Mecum, 95 Iowa 433, 64 N. W. 286.

Intent to kill.— An indictment alleging a breaking and entry with intent to kill is sufficient without setting forth the name of the person whom it was intended to kill, and without negativing an "assault" or "being armed." State v. Newton, 30 La. Ann. 1253.

Intent to rape.— An indictment for burglary with intent to rape need not state the elements of the crime of rape. State v. Gay, 25 La. Ann. 472; Com. v. Doherty, 10 Cush. (Mass.) 52. An information alleging an intent to commit rape is not defective for failure to state under which set of circumstances specified in the statute defining rape the defendant intended to commit it. People v. Burns, 63 Cal. 614.

85. Alabama.— Bowen v. State, 106 Ala. 178, 17 So. 335; Kelly v. State, 72 Ala. 244; Matthews v. State, 55 Ala. 65.

California.— People v. Shaber, 32 Cal. 36; People v. Ah Ye, 31 Cal. 451. Compare People v. Murray, 8 Cal. 519.

Florida.— Jones v. State, 18 Fla. 889.

Georgia.— Stokes v. State, 84 Ga. 258, 10 S. E. 740; Lanier v. State, 76 Ga. 304; Houser v. State, 58 Ga. 78.

Idaho.— People v. Stapleton, 2 Ida. 49, 3 Pac. 6.

Indiana.— Short v. State, 63 Ind. 376; Hunter v. State, 29 Ind. 80.

Iowa.—State v. Ray, 79 Iowa 765, 44 N. W. 800; State v. Jennings, 79 Iowa 513, 44 N. W. 799; State v. Morrissey, 22 Iowa 158; State v. Jones, 10 Iowa 206.

Massachusetts.— Com. v. Williams, 2 Cush. (Mass.) 582; Larned v. Com., 12 Metc. (Mass.) 240.

Mississippi.— James v. State, 77 Miss. 370, 26 So. 929, 78 Am. St. Rep. 527; Brown v. State, 72 Miss. 990, 18 So. 431; Harris v. State, 61 Miss. 304.

Missouri.— State v. Yandle, 166 Mo. 589, 66 S. W. 532; State v. Tyrrell, 98 Mo. 354, 11 S. W. 734; State v. Beckworth, 68 Mo. 82.

Ohio.— State v. Beal, 37 Ohio St. 108, 41 Am. Rep. 490; Spears v. State, 2 Ohio St. 583; Spencer v. State, 13 Ohio 401.

South Carolina.— State v. Langford, 55 S. C. 322, 33 S. E. 370, 74 Am. St. Rep. 746.

Tennessee.—Womack v. State, 6 Lea (Tenn.) 146.

Texas.— Hamilton v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1893) 24 S. W. 32; Davis v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1893) 23 S. W. 687; Bigham v. State, 31 Tex. Crim. 244, 20 S. W. 577; Neiderluck v. State, 23 Tex. App. 38, 3 S. W. 573; Green v. State, 21 Tex. App. 64, 17 S. W. 262; Collins v. State, 20 Tex. App. 197; Washington v. State, 17 Tex. App. 197; Summers v. State, 9 Tex. App. 396; Coleman v. State, 2 Tex. App. 512; Martin v. State, 1 Tex. App. 525.

Vermont.— State v. Clark, 42 Vt. 629.

Virginia.— Wright v. Com., 82 Va. 183.

Wisconsin.— State v. Kane, 63 Wis. 260, 23 N. W. 488; Hall v. State, 48 Wis. 688, 4 N. W. 1068.

England.— Reg. v. Clarke, 1 C. & K. 421, 47 E. C. L. 421; Reg. v. Lawes, 1 C. & K. 62, 47 E. C. L. 62; Reg. v. Nicholas, 1 Cox C. C. 218. Compare Reg. v. Andrews, C. & M. 121, 41 E. C. L. 72.

See 8 Cent. Dig. tit. "Burglary," § 47.

An allegation of intent to steal the "goods and chattels" is sufficient without using the word "personal." Choen v. State, 85 Ind. 209. An allegation of intent to steal the goods, chattels, "and property" of a certain person is not bad for uncertainty, on the ground that the word "property" includes both real and personal property. Sims v. State, 136 Ind. 358, 36 N. E. 278.

Where the indictment also charges larceny, it is not good as to that offense unless it alleges the ownership and value of the property and otherwise describes it, as is necessary in an indictment for larceny alone. State v. Hill, 1 Houst. Crim. Cas. (Del.) 421; Wimbish v. State, 89 Ga. 294, 15 S. E. 325; Com. v. Williams, 2 Cush. (Mass.) 582; People v. Stewart, 44 Mich. 484, 7 N. W. 71. See, generally, LARCENY.

such description or allegation necessary in order to state the offense charged.[86] Misspelling and clerical errors or omissions in charging the intent may render the indictment defective, but will not necessarily have such effect.[87] It is not necessary to use the language of the statute if equivalent words are used.[88]

3. Allegations in the Alternative. In the absence of a statute, an indictment for burglary is bad for uncertainty if it alleges the intent in the same count in the alternative, as by alleging that the breaking and entry were with intent to steal "or" rape,[89] but in some jurisdictions such an allegation is permitted by statute.[90]

4. "Feloniously." At common law an indictment for burglary, like other indictments for felony, must allege that the accused broke and entered "feloniously,"[91] but by statute in some jurisdictions the use of this technical term is no longer necessary.[92]

5. "Burglariously." It is also necessary at common law that an indictment for burglary shall allege that the breaking and entering was done "burglariously," the form of allegation being that the accused "feloniously and burglariously did break and enter," etc.[93] But the use of the term "burglariously" is not neces-

86. Kelly v. State, 72 Ala. 244; Henderson v. State, 70 Ala. 23, 45 Am. Rep. 72; Williams v. State, 67 Ala. 183; Territory v. Duncan, 5 Mont. 478, 6 Pac. 353. See supra, II, E, 3, b, (VII).

Value of property.—Where by statute petit larceny is a misdemeanor, and breaking and entering with intent to commit petit larceny is not burglary, an indictment alleging an intent to commit larceny must allege the value of the goods to show that the intent was to commit grand larceny. Territory v. Duncan, 5 Mont. 478, 6 Pac. 353. See also People v. Murray, 8 Cal. 519; Philbrick v. State, 2 Tex. App. 517. It is otherwise where by statute it is burglary to break and enter with intent to commit either grand or petit larceny. Hall v. State, 48 Wis. 688, 4 N. W. 1068. Where a statute divides larceny into grand and petit, and the former only is a felony, and a statute defines all larceny as "the felonious stealing . . . the personal property of another," an indictment for burglary with intent to commit larceny (an intent to commit a felony being essential to burglary) must show intent to commit grand larceny, and an indictment alleging a breaking and entry, "with the felonious and burglarious intent, the personal property of the said John Head, being in said house, feloniously and burglariously to steal," was held insufficient. Reed v. State, 66 Ark. 110, 49 S. W. 350.

Ownership of property.— When it is necessary to state the ownership of the property intended to be stolen, the ownership may be laid either in the general or special owner. Wimbish v. State, 89 Ga. 294, 15 S. E. 325; Lamater v. State, 38 Tex. Crim. 249, 42 S. W. 304; Humphrey v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1897) 40 S. W. 489; Smith v. State, 34 Tex. Crim. 124, 29 S. W. 775. A charge of intent to steal the goods of a certain person is sustained by proof that they were owned by such person and another, who was his dormant partner. Spradling v. State, 17 Ala. 440. An allegation of burglary with intent to steal the property of a certain person is sustained by proof that the property was that of the county, but was in such person's possession as county treasurer. Huling v. State, 17 Ohio St. 583. An indictment for burglary with intent to steal the separate property of a married woman under the control of her husband may lay the ownership in the husband. Combs v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1899) 49 S. W. 585.

87. In People v. St. Clair, 56 Cal. 406, it was held that an allegation of intent to commit "larcey," instead of "larceny," was insufficient. But in St. Louis v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1900) 59 S. W. 889, it was held that an indictment for burglary was not bad because in setting out the theft the word "fraudulently" was written "frausulently," as the meaning was clear. See also supra, IV, A.

88. An allegation that the intent was to feloniously "steal, take, and carry away the goods and chattels of," etc., was held sufficient, although the statute used the words "with intent to commit the crime of larceny." Josslyn v. Com., 6 Metc. (Mass.) 236. And an indictment charging intent to commit "larceny" is sufficient, though the statute uses the words, "with intent to commit a felony or other infamous crime." State v. Tytus, 98 N. C. 705, 4 S. E. 29. On this point see supra, IV, B.

89. See Indictments and Informations.

90. Dismukes v. State, 83 Ala. 287, 3 So. 671.

91. State v. Curtis, 30 La. Ann. 814; State v. McDonald, 9 W. Va. 456. And see Indictments and Informations.

92. People v. Rogers, 81 Cal. 209, 22 Pac. 592; Tilly v. State, 21 Fla. 242; State v. Lewis, 13 S. D. 166, 82 N. W. 406; Reed v. State, 14 Tex. App. 662. And see Indictments and Informations.

93. State v. Curtis, 30 La. Ann. 814; Portwood v. State, 29 Tex. 47, 94 Am. Dec. 258; State v. Cottrell, 45 W. Va. 837, 32 S. E. 162; State v. McClung, 35 W. Va. 280, 13 S. E. 654; State v. Meadows, 22 W. Va. 766; State v. McDonald, 9 W. Va. 456; 2 Hale P. C. 172, 184; 2 Hawkins P. C. c. 25, § 55.

sary in an indictment under a statute which describes the offense by enumerating the acts necessary to constitute it. In such a case it is sufficient if the indictment follows the language of the statute.[94]

6. "MALICIOUSLY." Under a statute punishing any person who should "willfully and maliciously and with force break and enter," etc., it was held that the word "maliciously" did not add anything to the offense as known to the common law, and that an indictment alleging that the accused "feloniously, willfully, and burglariously did break and enter," etc., was sufficient.[95]

7. ALLEGING SEVERAL INTENTS. An indictment for burglary may lay the offense with several intents, as with intent to steal and intent to murder or rape, either by alleging the several intents conjunctively in the same count,[96] or by alleging them in separate counts.[97]

F. Commission of Offense After Entry. Ordinarily, it is not necessary that an indictment for burglary shall allege the actual commission of the intended offense after the entry, as this is not necessary to constitute the offense;[98] but it is otherwise under a statute which makes the actual commission of an offense after the entry an essential element of the offense punished.[99]

G. Aggravating Circumstances. Under a statute imposing increased punishment for burglary when it is accompanied by certain aggravating circumstances, the aggravating circumstances must, as a rule, be alleged in the indictment, in order that the increased punishment may be imposed.[1] This is true under statutes imposing increased punishment for a second or third offense.[2] But

And see Reg. v. Cass, 3 C. A. (New Zealand) 53. As to the rejection of this term as surplusage see Reg. v. Cass, 3 C. A. (New Zealand) 53.

94. California.— People v. Rogers, 81 Cal. 209, 22 Pac. 592.

Florida.— Tilly v. State, 21 Fla. 242.

Illinois.— Lyons v. People, 68 Ill. 271.

Iowa.— State v. Short, 54 Iowa 392, 6 N. W. 584.

Louisiana.— State v. Jordan, 39 La. Ann. 340, 1 So. 655; State v. Newton, 30 La. Ann. 1253; State v. Curtis, 30 La. Ann. 814.

Massachusetts.— Tully v. Com., 4 Metc. (Mass.) 357.

South Dakota.— State v. Lewis, 13 S. D. 166, 82 N. W. 406.

Texas.— State v. Robertson, 32 Tex. 159; Jones v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1900) 55 S. W. 491; Reed v. State, 14 Tex. App. 662; Sullivan v. State, 13 Tex. App. 462.

West Virginia.— State v. McDonald, 9 W. Va. 456. And see State v. Meadows, 22 W. Va. 766.

See 8 Cent. Dig. tit. "Burglary," § 35.

95. Shotwell v. State, 43 Ark. 345 [citing Tully v. Com., 4 Metc. (Mass.) 357]; Lyons v. People, 68 Ill. 271. The offense of "willfully and maliciously" entering a dwelling with felonious intent, punished by the Pennsylvania statute, is sufficiently charged by an indictment using the word "feloniously" in the place of "maliciously." Com. v. Carson, 166 Pa. St. 179, 30 Atl. 985.

96. State v. Fox, 80 Iowa 312, 45 N. W. 874, 20 Am. St. Rep. 425; State v. Christmas, 101 N. C. 749, 8 S. E. 361.

97. Rex v. Thompson, 2 East P. C. 515, 2 Leach 1015 note.

98. Bradley v. State, 32 Ark. 704; Clark v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1894) 26 S. W. 68. And see supra, II, G, 5.

99. An indictment under a statute for burglary and striking must charge both the burglary and the striking, and must charge the striking according to the fact. Reg. v. Parfitt, 8 C. & P. 288, 34 E. C. L. 739.

Under the Kentucky statute punishing any person who shall feloniously break into any dwelling-house, and "feloniously take away anything of value," the indictment must allege that the thing taken was "of value." Duncan v. Com., 85 Ky. 614, 9 Ky. L. Rep. 142, 4 S. W. 321; Polin v. Com., 19 Ky. L. Rep. 453, 40 S. W. 927. But the extent of the value is immaterial. Duncan v. Com., 85 Ky. 614, 9 Ky. L. Rep. 142, 4 S. W. 321. An indictment in the language of this statute is not defective because it does not further allege that the taking was with the felonious intent to deprive the owner permanently of his property and convert it to the taker's use without the owner's consent. Mitchell v. Com., 88 Ky. 349, 10 Ky. L. Rep. 910, 11 S. W. 209; McRae v. Com., 20 Ky. L. Rep. 1199, 49 S. W. 22.

1. Hobbs v. State, 44 Tex. 353. And see INDICTMENTS AND INFORMATIONS. The increased punishment fixed by a statute for use of violence or other aggravating circumstances in effecting a burglary cannot be imposed unless the violence or other aggravating circumstances is alleged in the indictment. Wilcox v. State, 45 Tex. 146; Hobbs v. State, 44 Tex. 353.

2. Second or third offense.— Under a statute prescribing punishment by imprisonment for life on a second conviction of burglary it is necessary, in order that such punishment may be imposed, that the record shall show that the defendant received judgment of imprisonment at hard labor, etc., for his first offense. A mere statement in the indictment that the defendant was convicted on the an indictment for a less offense need not negative the aggravating circumstances necessary to the higher offense.[3]

H. Degrees of Offense. An indictment for burglary need not state the degree of the offense.[4] But there can be no conviction of a particular degree of burglary unless the indictment states the facts required by the statute to bring the offense within the particular degree.[5] An indictment for a lesser degree need not negative the facts necessary to constitute a higher degree.[6]

I. Duplicity — 1. In General. An indictment which charges more than one offense in a single count is bad for duplicity on motion to quash or demurrer, and under some circumstances on motion in arrest of judgment or appeal,[7] and an indictment for burglary is subject to this objection if it charges in a single count two distinct offenses, described in two distinct sections of a statute.[8] But an indictment is not double because it charges the breaking and entering and the intent,[9] or because it describes the premises by a number of terms used in a single section of the statute describing a single offense,[10] or because it alleges several felonious intents in breaking and entering.[11]

2. Charging Intent to Commit Offense and Actual Commission. It is held in most jurisdictions that an indictment is not bad for duplicity because it charges a breaking and entry with intent to commit a felony or other offense and its former indictment and that "the court gave judgment" is insufficient. Smith v. Com., 14 Serg. & R. (Pa.) 69. See also Indictments and Informations.

3. State v. Neddo, 92 Me. 71, 42 Atl. 253.

4. People v. Shaver, 107 Mich. 562, 65 N. W. 538; State v. La Croix, 8 S. D. 369, 66 N. W. 944.

5. An indictment for burglary should allege the manner in which the offense was committed where, as in New York, the offense is by statute divided into degrees, and punished differently according to the circumstances under which it was committed. People v. Van Gaasbeck, 9 Abb. Pr. N. S. (N. Y.) 328. And see People v. Bosworth, 64 Hun (N. Y.) 72, 19 N. Y. Suppl. 114, 45 N. Y. St. 512. In a Michigan case, however, it was held that an indictment for burglary may charge the offense generally as at common law, without referring to the special facts so as to bring it within one of the statutory degrees of punishment provided for burglary. People v. Shaver, 107 Mich. 562, 65 N. W. 538.

6. Under a statute grading the punishment for burglary according to whether a person is lawfully in the dwelling and put in fear, an indictment for the lesser offense need not negative the existence of such aggravating circumstances. State v. Neddo, 92 Me. 71, 42 Atl. 253.

7. See, generally, Indictments and Informations.

If the offenses are similar in kind and do not require distinct punishments, the objection cannot be raised for the first time after verdict. State v. Nagel, 136 Mo. 45, 37 S. W. 821. And see Indictments and Informations.

Under a statute punishing any person who shall break and enter, or who shall be found by night in, any building, with intent to commit a felony or other infamous crime therein, an indictment alleging in the same count both a breaking and entry, and being found by night in a building, etc., is good after verdict against an objection on the ground of duplicity. State v. Tytus, 98 N. C. 705, 4 S. E. 29.

8. Where one section of a statute punished breaking and entering a dwelling-house with intent to commit a felony, and another section punished breaking and entering any warehouse containing goods or other valuables, etc., with intent to steal or commit a felony, an indictment charging that the defendant broke and entered a dwelling-house, etc., said dwelling-house being then and there occupied as a warehouse, etc., was held bad for duplicity. State v. Huffman, 136 Mo. 58, 37 S. W. 797.

9. It is clearly not duplicity to charge in one count breaking and entering with intent to commit larceny (People v. Smith, 86 Cal. 238, 24 Pac. 988; People v. Henry, 77 Cal. 445, 19 Pac. 830), or breaking and entering with felonious intent to set fire to and burn, etc. (State v. Ely, 35 La. Ann. 895).

10. Thus it was held that an indictment alleging that the defendant broke and entered "the house, room, apartment, tenement, shop, warehouse, store, and building of" the S. Company, "with the intent then and there to commit larceny" therein, did not charge more than one offense. People v. Henry, 77 Cal. 445, 19 Pac. 830.

11. State v. Fox, 80 Iowa 312, 45 N. W. 874, 20 Am. St. Rep. 425. Under a statute punishing as burglary a breaking and entering "with intent to commit grand or petit larceny, or any felony," an indictment alleging intent "to commit grand and petit larceny" does not charge more than one offense. People v. Hall, 94 Cal. 595, 30 Pac. 7. An indictment alleging in the same count an intent to steal the goods of A, and also an intent to steal the goods of B, is not objectionable on the ground of duplicity. State v. Christmas, 101 N. C. 749, 8 S. E. 361.

actual commission. This rule has generally been applied to a charge of burglary with intent to commit larceny and actual larceny,[12] but it has also been applied in other cases.[13] Some of the courts regard the allegation of larceny (or other offense) in addition to burglary merely as a way of alleging the intent, and treat the indictment as charging burglary only.[14] Others hold that both burglary

12. Alabama.— Bailey v. State, 116 Ala. 437, 22 So. 918; Walker v. State, 97 Ala. 85, 12 So. 83; Barber v. State, 78 Ala. 19; Gordon v. State, 71 Ala. 315; Adams v. State, 55 Ala. 143; Snow v. State, 54 Ala. 138; Wolf v. State, 49 Ala. 359; Murray v. State, 48 Ala. 675.

Iowa.— State v. Shaffer, 59 Iowa 290, 13 N. W. 306; State v. Hayden, 45 Iowa 11.

Kansas.— State v. Brandon, 7 Kan. 106.

Kentucky.—Farris v. Com., 90 Ky. 637, 12 Ky. L. Rep. 592, 14 S. W. 681; Maden v. Com., 4 Ky. L. Rep. 45.

Louisiana.— State v. Morgan, 39 La. Ann. 214, 1 So. 456; State v. Nicholls, 37 La. Ann. 779; State v. King, 37 La. Ann. 662; State v. Johnson, 34 La. Ann. 48; State v. Christian, 30 La. Ann. 367.

Maine.— State v. Neddo, 92 Me. 71, 42 Atl. 253.

Massachusetts.— Jennings v. Com., 105 Mass. 586; Josslyn v. Com., 6 Metc. (Mass.) 236; Devoe v. Com., 3 Metc. (Mass.) 316; Com. v. Hope, 22 Pick. (Mass.) 1; Com. v. Tuck, 20 Pick. (Mass.) 356.

Mississippi.—Harris v. State, 61 Miss. 304; Roberts v. State, 55 Miss. 421.

Missouri.— In this state there is an express statutory provision allowing both burglary and larceny to be charged and a conviction had of either or both. State v. Woods, 137 Mo. 6, 38 S. W. 722; State v. Nagel, 136 Mo. 45, 37 S. W. 821; State v. Kennedy, 88 Mo. 341; State v. Owens, 79 Mo. 619; State v. Kelsoe, 76 Mo. 505; State v. Davis, 73 Mo. 129; State v. Dooly, 64 Mo. 146; State v. Alexander, 56 Mo. 131; State v. Henley, 30 Mo. 509; State v. Smith, 16 Mo. 550; State v. McCoy, 12 Mo. App. 589.

Nebraska.— Cunningham v. State, 56 Nebr. 691, 77 N. W. 60; Lawhead v. State, 46 Nebr. 607, 65 N. W. 779; Aiken v. State, 41 Nebr. 263, 59 N. W. 888.

Nevada.— State v. Ah Sam, 7 Nev. 127.

New Hampshire.— State v. Ayer, 23 N. H. 301; State v. Moore, 12 N. H. 42; Jones v. State, 11 N. H. 269; State v. Squires, 11 N. H. 37.

Ohio.— Breese v. State, 12 Ohio St. 146, 80 Am. Dec. 340.

Pennsylvania.—Becker v. Com., (Pa. 1887) 9 Atl. 510; Stoops v. Com., 7 Serg. & R. (Pa.) 491, 10 Am. Dec. 482.

Rhode Island.— State v. Colter, 6 R. I. 195.

South Carolina.— State v. Crawford, 38 S. C. 330, 17 S. E. 36.

Tennessee.—Davis v. State, 3 Coldw. (Tenn.) 77.

Texas.— Hobbs v. State, 44 Tex. 353; Shepherd v. State, 42 Tex. 501; West v. State, 35 Tex. 89; Wilcox v. State, 31 Tex. 586; Turner v. State, 22 Tex. App. 42, 2 S. W. 619; Dunham v. State, 9 Tex. App. 330.

Vermont.— State v. Brady, 14 Vt. 353.

Virginia.— Benton v. Com., 91 Va. 782, 21 S. E. 495; Butler v. Com., 81 Va. 159; Vaughan v. Com., 17 Gratt. (Va.) 576; Speers v. Com., 17 Gratt. (Va.) 570.

West Virginia.— State v. Flanagan, 48 W. Va. 115, 35 S. E. 862; State v. Williams, 40 W. Va. 268, 21 S. E. 721; State v. McClung, 35 W. Va. 280, 13 S. E. 654.

Wyoming.— Ackerman v. State, 7 Wyo. 504, 54 Pac. 228.

England.— Rex v. Withal, 1 Leach 102; Rex v. Butterworth, R. & R. 387; 2 East P. C. 515, 516; 1 Hale P. C. 547, 560.

The contrary has been held under statutes providing that an indictment shall not charge more than one offense. Williams v. State, 60 Ga. 88; Territory v. Fox, 3 Mont. 440; State v. Smith, 2 N. D. 515, 52 N. W. 320.

Carrying stolen property into another county.— Where a statute provides that when property taken in one county by burglary has been brought into another county the jurisdiction of the offense is in either, an indictment for burglary charging a breaking and entry and larceny in one county, and that the defendant brought the stolen property to another county in which the venue is laid is not bad as charging both burglary and larceny. People v. Jochinsky, 106 Cal. 638, 39 Pac. 1077.

Forms of indictments or informations charging burglary and larceny in the same count see the following cases:

Alabama.— Bowen v. State, 106 Ala. 178, 17 So. 335.

Iowa.— State v. Ridley, 48 Iowa 370; State v. Hayden, 45 Iowa 11.

Missouri.— State v. Yandle, 166 Mo. 589, 66 S. W. 532; State v. Davis, 138 Mo. 107, 39 S. W. 460; State v. Taylor, 136 Mo. 66, 37 S. W. 907.

Pennsylvania.— Com. v. Carson, 166 Pa. St. 179, 30 Atl. 985.

Texas.— Shepherd v. State, 42 Tex. 501.

Virginia.— Johnson v. Com., 29 Gratt. (Va.) 796; Vaughan v. Com., 17 Gratt. (Va.) 576; Speers v. Com., 17 Gratt. (Va.) 570.

West Virginia.— State v. McClung, 35 W. Va. 280, 13 S. E. 654; State v. Betsall, 11 W. Va. 703.

13. Burglary and assault, or assault to murder or rape. State v. Phipps, 95 Iowa 487, 64 N. W. 410; Smith v. State, 57 Miss. 822; State v. Johnston, 119 N. C. 883, 26 S. E. 163.

Burglary and rape.— State v. Ryan, 15 Oreg. 572, 16 Pac. 417.

14. State v. Shaffer, 59 Iowa 290, 13 N. W. 306; State v. Hayden, 45 Iowa 11; Farris v. Com., 90 Ky. 637, 12 Ky. L. Rep. 592, 14 S. W. 681; Stoops v. Com., 7 Serg. & R. (Pa.) 491, 10 Am. Dec. 482; State v. Crawford, 38 S. C.

and larceny are charged, that this is not improper, and that there may be a conviction of either according to the evidence.[15] In some states there may be a conviction of either or both.[16]

J. Joinder of Counts. An indictment for burglary may charge the burglary in different ways in different counts to meet the evidence and avoid a variance, as by charging in separate counts a different intent,[17] or a different ownership of the premises,[18] or of the goods stolen or intended to be stolen,[19] or by describing the premises differently,[20] or by charging breaking and entering at night in one count and breaking and entering in the daytime in another,[21] or a breaking and entering in one count and a breaking without entering in another;[22] and in such cases as a rule the court will not require the state to elect.[23] Further than this, in the absence of a statute, and subject to the general rules governing the joinder of offenses in different counts,[24] an indictment may contain counts charging different offenses arising out of the same transaction, as burglary and larceny,[25] burglary, 330, 17 S. E. 36. So also of an indictment charging burglary and assault with intent to murder or rape (State v. Phipps, 95 Iowa 487, 64 N. W. 410; Smith v. State, 57 Miss. 822); or charging burglary and rape (State v. Ryan, 15 Oreg. 572, 16 Pac. 417).

15. Alabama.— Gordon v. State, 71 Ala. 315.

Kansas.— State v. Brandon, 7 Kan. 106.

Louisiana.— State v. Morgan, 39 La. Ann. 214, 1 So. 456; State v. Christian, 30 La. Ann. 367. There can be no conviction of petit larceny under such an indictment. State v. Robertson, 48 La. Ann. 1024, 1026, 20 So. 166, 167; State v. Ford, 30 La. Ann. 311.

Maine.— State v. Neddo, 92 Me. 71, 42 Atl. 253.

Massachusetts.— Jennings v. Com., 105 Mass. 586; Com. v. Hope, 22 Pick. (Mass.) 1.

Nebraska.— Aiken v. State, 41 Nebr. 263, 59 N. W. 888.

New Hampshire.— State v. Squires, 11 N. H. 37.

Ohio.— Breese v. State, 12 Ohio St. 146, 80 Am. Dec. 340.

Texas.— Shepherd v. State, 42 Tex. 501; Dunham v. State, 9 Tex. App. 330.

Virginia.— Benton v. Com., 91 Va. 782, 21 S. E. 495.

West Virginia.— State v. McClung, 35 W. Va. 280, 13 S. E. 654.

Wyoming.— Ackerman v. State, 7 Wyo. 504, 54 Pac. 228.

England.— Rex v. Withal, 1 Leach 102.

16. See Harris v. State, 61 Miss. 304.

In Missouri a statute expressly allows both burglary and larceny to be charged, and the defendant to be convicted of either or both. See Missouri cases cited supra, note 12.

17. Charging different intents.— Rex v. Thompson, 2 East P. C. 515, 2 Leach 1015 note. Different intents may be charged in the same count. See supra, IV, I, 1. An indictment for burglary may charge in separate counts the offense of breaking and entering with intent to steal and rob and that of breaking and entering with intent to kill and murder, punished by the same statute. State v. Conway, 35 La. Ann. 350.

18. Charging different ownership of premises.— People v. Thompson, 28 Cal. 214. And see INDICTMENTS AND INFORMATIONS. Where an indictment contains two counts, in both of which the venue or place and the house entered are the same in name, it will be presumed that they are the same in fact. People v. Thompson, 28 Cal. 214.

19. Charging different ownership of goods stolen.— People v. Thompson, 28 Cal. 214; State v. Hill, 1 Houst. Crim. Cas. (Del.) 421.

20. Description of premises.— An indictment in two counts, one for breaking into the dwelling-house of a person, and the other for breaking into his storehouse, is good, where it is evident on its face that the two counts relate to the same transaction and are made to meet the proof that the dwelling-house and storehouse are in the same building. State v. Shores, 31 W. Va. 491, 7 S. E. 413, 13 Am. St. Rep. 875.

21. Night-time and daytime.— Willis v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1900) 55 S. W. 829; Green v. State, 21 Tex. App. 64, 17 S. W. 262. Compare People v. Taggart, 43 Cal. 81; State v. Bouknight, 55 S. C. 353, 33 S. E. 451, 74 Am. St. Rep. 751.

22. Breaking and entering and breaking without entry.—State v. Flanagan, 48 W. Va. 115, 35 S. E. 862.

23. Election.— Willis v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1900) 55 S. W. 829; Green v. State, 21 Tex. App. 64, 17 S. W. 262. It has been held, however, that where the indictment in different counts charges the burglary to have been committed in different ways or at different times, so as to charge offenses under different sections of the statute, the court may in its discretion require the state to elect upon which count it will go to the jury. State v. Bouknight, 55 S. C. 353, 33 S. E. 451, 74 Am. St. Rep. 751.

24. See, generally, INDICTMENTS AND INFORMATIONS.

25. Burglary and larceny.— Alabama.— Rose v. State, 117 Ala. 77, 23 So. 638.

Arkansas.— Toliver v. State, 35 Ark. 395; Dodd v. State, 33 Ark. 517. Contra, by statute, Crook v. State, 59 Ark. 326, 27 S. W. 229.

Colorado.— Parker v. People, 13 Colo. 155, 21 Pac. 1120, 4 L. R. A. 803.

Illinois.— Love v. People, 160 Ill. 501, 43 larceny, and receiving stolen goods,[26] burglary with intent to kill and stabbing with intent to kill, etc.,[27] or burglary and conspiracy to commit a burglary.[28] In some states joinder of counts charging different offenses, although in the same transaction, is prevented by statute.[29]

K. Attempt to Commit Burglary. An indictment for an attempt to commit burglary must not only allege the attempt and intent but it is essential that it also allege the overt acts relied upon as constituting the attempt.[30]

N. E. 710, 32 L. R. A. 139; Lyons v. People, 68 Ill. 271.

Indiana.— Reed v. State, 147 Ind. 41, 46 N. E. 135; McCollough v. State, 132 Ind. 427, 31 N. E. 1116.

Louisiana.— State v. Huey, 48 La. Ann. 1382, 20 So. 915; State v. Depass, 31 La. Ann. 487.

Massachusetts.— Josslyn v. Com., 6 Metc. (Mass.) 236.

Missouri.— It is so by express statutory provision. State v. Turner, 63 Mo. 436; State v. Smith, 16 Mo. 550.

Nebraska.— Cunningham v. State, 56 Nebr. 691, 77 N. W. 60.

New York.— People v. Wilson, 151 N. Y. 403, 45 N. E. 862; People v. Rose, 15 N. Y. Suppl. 815, 39 N. Y. St. 291.

Pennsylvania.— Com. v. Birdsall, 69 Pa. St. 482, 8 Am. Rep. 283; Com. v. Church, 17 Pa. Super. Ct. 39.

South Carolina.— State v. Crawford, 38 S. C. 330, 17 S. E. 36.

Virginia.— Speers v. Com., 17 Gratt. (Va.) 570.

West Virginia.— State v. Flanagan, 48 W. Va. 115, 35 S. E. 862.

United States.— Ex p. Peters, 2 McCrary (U. S.) 403, 12 Fed. 461.

Forms.— Joinder of counts generally see Watson v. People, 134 Ill. 374, 25 N. E. 567; Martin v. State, 79 Wis. 165, 48 N. W. 119. Joinder of counts for burglary and larceny see Dodd v. State, 33 Ark. 517; Josslyn v. Com., 6 Metc. (Mass.) 236.

Petit larceny.— But where counts for felony and misdemeanor cannot be joined (see INDICTMENTS AND INFORMATIONS), an indictment for burglary cannot join a count for petit larceny, if objection is properly raised. Adams v. State, 55 Ala. 143. Compare State v. Nelson, 14 Rich. (S. C.) 169, 94 Am. Dec. 130.

Under a statute allowing an indictment for larceny to contain a count charging burglary, the count for burglary need not describe the goods intended to be stolen as the same goods described in the count for larceny. Reed v. State, 147 Ind. 41, 46 N. E. 135.

26. Burglary, larceny, and receiving stolen goods.— People v. Wilson, 151 N. Y. 403, 45 N. E. 862. This rule is not changed by the provisions of the New York statute that an indictment must charge but one crime, except that when the acts complained of may constitute different crimes such crimes may be charged in different counts. People v. Wilson, 151 N. Y. 403, 45 N. E. 862.

Form.— Joinder of counts for burglary, larceny, and receiving or aiding in concealment of stolen goods see Com. v. Darling, 129 Mass. 112.

27. Burglary and assault.— In State v. Scott, 48 La. Ann. 293, 19 So. 141, it was held that a count for entering a dwelling with intent to kill and a count for stabbing a person therein with intent to kill might be joined in the same indictment. But in State v. Fitzsimon, 18 R. I. 236, 27 Atl. 446, 49 Am. St. Rep. 766, it was held that burglary and assault with intent to rape, since they are not cognate offenses, could not be joined in separate counts in the same indictment, although both offenses arose out of the same transaction. On this point see also INDICTMENTS AND INFORMATIONS.

28. Burglary and conspiracy.—Dill v. State, 35 Tex. Crim. 240, 33 S. W. 126, 60 Am. St. Rep. 37.

29. Arkansas.— Crook v. State, 59 Ark. 326, 27 S. W. 229.

California.— People v. Taggart, 43 Cal. 81; People v. Garnett, 29 Cal. 622.

Iowa.— State v. McFarland, 49 Iowa 99.

Montana.— Territory v. Fox, 3 Mont. 440.

North Dakota.— State v. Smith, 2 N. D. 515, 52 N. W. 320.

30. State v. Colvin, 90 N. C. 717; Fonville v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1901) 62 S. W. 573.

Sufficient allegations.— An allegation that the defendant feloniously with intent, "feloniously and burglariously to break and enter" a certain dwelling-house, "did insert between the upper and under sash of an outside window of said dwelling house a certain instrument, to wit, a knife," etc., sufficiently charges an attempt. Harris v. People, 44 Mich. 305, 6 N. W. 677. An indictment for attempt to commit burglary is sufficient where it alleges that the defendant "in the nighttime, feloniously did attempt to break and enter, with intent the goods and chattels in said building, then and there being found, then and there feloniously to steal, take, and carry away, and in such attempt" did certain acts, "but was then and there intercepted and prevented in the execution of said offence." Com. v. Shedd, 140 Mass. 451, 5 N. E. 254. As to the sufficiency of an indictment for attempt to commit burglary under the Illinois statute see White v. People, 179 Ill. 356, 53 N. E. 570.

Forms.— Attempt to break and enter a dwelling-house in the night-time with intent to commit larceny see Com. v. Shedd, 140 Mass. 451, 5 N. E. 254. See also White v. People, 179 Ill. 356, 53 N. E. 570; State v. Jordan, 75 N. C. 27; Hackett v. Com., 15 Pa. St. 95.

Attempt to break and enter a house with

L. Variance Between Complaint and Information. An information charging burglary with intent to commit rape is not bad on the ground of variance, because the complaint at the preliminary examination of the defendant charged burglary with intent to steal, for both charge the same offense — burglary — notwithstanding the difference as to the intent.[31]

V. VARIANCE BETWEEN THE ALLEGATIONS AND THE PROOF.

A. Effect in General. On the trial of an indictment for burglary, the allegations must be sustained by the proof. In the absence of a statute changing the common-law rule, a material variance between an essential allegation of the indictment and the proof will entitle the defendant to an acquittal.[32] And the same is true with respect to an allegation which, although it may have been unnecessary, is descriptive of the offense.[33] But a variance between the proof and an unnecessary allegation which is not descriptive of the offense, and which may be rejected as surplusage, is immaterial.[34]

B. Particular Allegations — 1. Description of the Premises. There can be no conviction under an indictment at common law or under a statute for breaking and entering a dwelling-house, unless the proof shows that the premises were a dwelling-house or a part thereof,[35] or unless the description as a dwelling-house is mere surplusage.[36] And an indictment under a statute for breaking and entering a shop, store, warehouse, or other building is not sustained unless the proof brings the building within the description.[37] An immaterial variance, however, intent to rape see Fonville v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1901) 62 S. W. 573.

31. Alderman v. State, 24 Nebr. 97, 38 N. W. 36.

32. People v. Barnes, 48 Cal. 551; Draughn v. State, 76 Miss. 574, 25 So. 153; Reg. v. Parfitt, 8 C. & P. 288, 34 E. C. L. 739. And see the other cases cited specifically infra, notes 33 et seq.

33. Gilmore v. State, 99 Ala. 154, 13 So. 536; Spradling v. State, 17 Ala. 440; State v. Dale, 141 Mo. 284, 42 S. W. 722, 64 Am. St. Rep. 513. See, generally, INDICTMENTS AND INFORMATIONS.

34. Georgia.— McCrary v. State, 96 Ga. 348, 23 S. E. 409.

Kentucky.— Duncan v. Com., 85 Ky. 614, 9 Ky. L. Rep. 142, 4 S. W. 321.

Massachusetts.— Com. v. Reynolds, 122 Mass. 454.

Michigan.— Harris v. People, 44 Mich. 305, 6 N. W. 677.

Mississippi.—Brown v. State, 72 Miss. 990, 18 So. 431.

Missouri.— State v. Hutchinson, 111 Mo. 257, 20 S. W. 34.

Texas.—Collins v. State, 20 Tex. App. 197; Burke v. State, 5 Tex. App. 74.

England.— Reg. v. Clarke, 1 C. & K. 421, 47 E. C. L. 421.

See 8 Cent. Dig. tit. "Burglary," § 67; and, generally, INDICTMENTS AND INFORMATIONS.

35. Fuller v. State, 48 Ala. 273; Draughn v. State, 76 Miss. 574, 25 So. 153. As to what is sufficient proof to show that premises were a dwelling-house see supra, II, E, 2.

Outhouses.— Proof of breaking and entering a smoke-house or other outhouse within the curtilage of a dwelling-house and appurtenant thereto sustains an indictment for breaking and entering the dwelling-house. Fletcher v. State, 10 Lea (Tenn.) 338. Compare Draughn v. State, 76 Miss. 574, 25 So. 153.

"Private residence" — Texas statute.— Since the Texas act of 1899, p. 318, adding sections 839*a* and 845*a* to the Penal Code, and punishing as a distinct offense burglary of a "private residence" (see supra, II, E, 1; IV, D, 2), there can be no conviction of burglary of a private residence without such a description of the premises in the indictment, although the proof may show that the premises were a private residence. Williams v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1901) 61 S. W. 395, 62 S. W. 1057; Fonville v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1901) 62 S. W. 573; Cleland v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1901) 61 S. W. 492; Harvey v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1901) 61 S. W. 492; Osborn v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1901) 61 S. W. 491.

36. Surplusage.— An indictment for breaking and entering "a certain building, to wit, the dwelling-house" of A, is sustained by proof of breaking and entering an unoccupied house of A, the indictment being under a statute, for breaking and entering a building, and not for breaking and entering a dwelling-house. Com. v. Reynolds, 122 Mass. 454.

37. Alabama.— Wait v. State, 99 Ala. 164, 13 So. 584.

Arkansas.— Green v. State, 56 Ark. 386, 19 S. W. 1055.

California.— People v. Barnes, 48 Cal. 551.

Florida.— Givens v. State, 40 Fla. 200, 23 So. 850.

Michigan.— Moore v. People, 47 Mich. 639, 11 N. W. 415.

Ohio.— Thalls v. State, 21 Ohio St. 233.

See 8 Cent. Dig. tit. "Burglary," § 71; and supra, II, E, 3, b; IV, D, 4–6.

between the allegations in an indictment for burglary and the proof may be disregarded.[38]

2. Location of the Premises. Where the location of the premises is necessarily stated in the indictment a material variance between the allegation and the proof will be fatal,[39] but in this country the location need not be stated further than by giving the county.[40] It must appear that the offense was committed in the county, as alleged.[41]

3. Ownership of the Premises. A material variance between the allegation and the proof with respect to the ownership of the premises is fatal, and entitles the defendant to an acquittal,[42] unless as is sometimes the case, a statute makes an unprejudicial variance in this respect immaterial, and the variance is not

Material variance.— An indictment for breaking and entering a "building, to-wit: A store-house, the property of one Mrs. Pons," is not sustained by proof of breaking and entering a gin-house of A, a building separate and distinct from his store-house. Givens v. State, 40 Fla. 200, 23 So. 850. A description of the premises as a "still-house" is not sustained by proof that they had been a still-house, but had been abandoned as such and thereafter used for other purposes. Thalls v. State, 21 Ohio St. 233.

Stores.—Proof of breaking into a counting-room merely does not sustain an indictment describing the premises as a store where goods were kept for use, sale, or deposit. People v. Marks, 4 Park. Crim. (N. Y.) 153.

"Shop" and "store."— It has been held that an indictment for breaking and entering a "shop" is sustained by proof of breaking and entering a "store," and vice versa. State v. Smith, 5 La. Ann. 340. Contra, Com. v. McMonagle, 1 Mass. 517; State v. Canney, 19 N. H. 135.

Different room.— An indictment for breaking and entering a particular room is not sustained by proof of breaking and entering a different room. People v. Barnes, 48 Cal. 551. But it was held that an indictment for breaking and entering a building used as a printing-office with intent to steal was sustained by proof that the defendant broke and entered the printing-office, and passed through a partition door into a post-office, for which the building was also used, and stole money and stamps therein. State v. Burns, 109 Iowa 436, 80 N. W. 545. There is no variance between an allegation of entry into a "basement room" of a certain building and proof of entry into a "cellar" of the building. People v. Goldsworthy, 130 Cal. 600, 62 Pac. 1074.

"House."— A description of the premises as a "house" is sustained by proof that they were a building with walls, roof, and door, used as a smoke-house. Albritton v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1894) 26 S. W. 398. See supra, II, E, 3, b, (III).

38. Immaterial variance.— There is no material variance between an allegation that the building was a two-story building and proof that it was three stories. State v. Porter, 97 Iowa 450, 66 N. W. 745. Where an indictment for burglary unnecessarily alleged that there were goods of value in the house, it was held that the allegation must be proved, as the averment was descriptive of the house. Gilmore v. State, 99 Ala. 154, 13 So. 536.

39. Reg. v. St. John, 9 C. & P. 40, 38 E. C. L. 36; Rex v. Bullock, 1 Moody 324, note a.

40. See supra, IV, D, 10. Where the building is otherwise identified, proof that it was situated over a mile from S, but within the county, whereas it was alleged to have been situated at S, is not a fatal variance. People v. Geiger, 116 Cal. 440, 48 Pac. 389.

41. An indictment for burglary alleging the offense to have been committed in A county is not sustained by proof that the burglary was committed in B county and the stolen goods carried into A county, although by statute either county has jurisdiction. People v. Scott, 74 Cal. 94, 15 Pac. 384.

42. Alabama.— Jackson v. State, 102 Ala. 167, 15 So. 344; Aldridge v. State, 88 Ala. 113, 7 So. 48, 16 Am. St. Rep. 23; Johnson v. State, 73 Ala. 483.

Delaware.— Saxton's Case, 2 Harr. (Del.) 533.

Georgia.— Berry v. State, 92 Ga. 47, 17 S. E. 1006; Morgan v. State, 63 Ga. 307.

Indiana.— Doan v. State, 26 Ind. 495.

Mississippi.— James v. State, 77 Miss. 370, 26 So. 929, 78 Am. St. Rep. 527.

New York.— Rodgers v. People, 86 N. Y. 360, 40 Am. Rep. 548.

Rhode Island.— State v. McCarthy, 17 R. I. 370, 22 Atl. 282.

England.— Rex v. Rawlins, 7 C. & P. 150, 32 E. C. L. 546.

See 8 Cent. Dig. tit. "Burglary," § 72.

As to the proper person in whom to lay the ownership see supra, IV, D, 11.

Ownership alleged in "John Doe."— Where an indictment charges a burglarious entry of a house, described by number, etc., "belonging to John Doe, whose real name is unknown," proof that the house belonged to a woman does not constitute a fatal variance. People v. White, 116 Cal. 17, 47 Pac. 771.

"Second" and "junior."— There is no variance between a description of the owner as "William Read, the second of that name," and proof of ownership in "William Read, Junior." Com. v. Parmenter, 101 Mass. 211.

prejudicial.[43] Allegation of ownership of a car or other premises in a corporation and proof of ownership in a different corporation is a fatal variance.[44] But by the weight of authority failure to prove that the alleged corporation was legally incorporated is not a fatal variance, it being sufficient to show that it was a de facto corporation or that it assumed to be a corporation and was so treated.[45]

4. The Breaking and Entering. The allegations in the indictment as to the breaking and entering must be sustained by the proof,[46] except as to immaterial

43. California.— People v. Edwards, 59 Cal. 359.

Iowa.— State v. Porter, 97 Iowa 450, 66 N. W. 645; State v. Emmons, 72 Iowa 265, 33 N. W. 672.

Kentucky.— Johnson v. Com., 87 Ky. 189, 10 Ky. L. Rep. 100, 7 S. W. 927.

Missouri.— State v. Hutchinson, 111 Mo. 257, 20 S. W. 34; State v. Nelson, 101 Mo. 477, 14 S. W. 718, 10 L. R. A. 39.

New York.— People v. Hagan, 14 N. Y. Suppl. 233, 37 N. Y. St. 660.

Ohio.— Mulrooney v. State, 26 Ohio St. 326.

Under a statute providing that a variance in respect to the description of any matter is not ground for acquittal unless material and prejudicial, the variance between an indictment laying the ownership in a certain person and proof of ownership in such person and another jointly has been held immaterial. Mulrooney v. State, 26 Ohio St. 326. And under statutes providing that an erroneous allegation as to the description of anything in an indictment, or as to the person injured, is not material unless prejudicial, convictions have been sustained notwithstanding an allegation of ownership of the premises in one person and proof of ownership in such person and another as partners or joint tenants. People v. Bitancourt, 74 Cal. 188, 15 Pac. 744; People v. Edwards, 59 Cal. 359; State v. Jelinek, 95 Iowa 420, 64 N. W. 259. Under such a statute variance in the christian name of the person alleged to have been the owner of the building was held immaterial, in the absence of prejudice to the accused. State v. Wrand, 108 Iowa 73, 78 N. W. 788. And so it was held of a variance between an indictment charging defendant with breaking and entry of the warehouse of W and evidence that he broke and entered a room occupied by W and R jointly in a warehouse belonging to R. Johnson v. Com., 22 Ky. L. Rep. 282, 57 S. W. 255. Under a statute allowing amendment of an indictment for variance in respect to the name or description of anything, if the defendant cannot be thereby prejudiced in his defense on the merits, a slight variance in the name of the owner of the premises may be cured by amendment. People v. Hagan, 14 N. Y. Suppl. 233, 37 N. Y. St. 660.

44. State v. Hill, 48 W. Va. 132, 35 S. E. 831.

There is no variance between an allegation that the premises belonged to a certain corporation, naming it, and proof that the company was so named by an amendment of its charter before the burglary, although it was originally incorporated by a different name. Brown v. State, 115 Ala. 74, 22 So. 458. There is no material variance between an allegation of ownership in the C. S. "Railroad" Co., and proof of ownership in the C. S. "Railway" Co. Davis v. State, 105 Ga. 808, 32 S. E. 158. Where a corporation in which the ownership of a car is laid has the title, proof that its stock was owned by another company does not constitute a variance. Johnson v. State, 98 Ala. 57, 13 So. 503.

45. Georgia.— Berry v. State, 92 Ga. 47, 17 S. E. 1006; Crawford v. State, 68 Ga. 822.

Indiana.— Norton v. State, 74 Ind. 337.

Mississippi.— James v. State, 77 Miss. 370, 26 So. 929, 78 Am. St. Rep. 527.

Nevada.— State v. Simas, 25 Nev. 432, 62 Pac. 242.

Ohio.— Hamilton v. State, 34 Ohio St. 82; Burke v. State, 34 Ohio St. 79.

Compare, however, Johnson v. State, 73 Ala. 483.

It is only necessary to show de facto existence of a corporation alleged to be the owner of the premises, where a statute provides that in criminal prosecutions the existence of any corporation may be proved by general reputation, or by the printed statute book, etc., and that it is not necessary to produce a certified copy of the charter or act of incorporation. State v. Thompson, 23 Kan. 338, 33 Am. Rep. 165.

46. Reg. v. Davis, 6 Cox C. C. 369. See supra, II, B.

Breaking out.— Proof of an entry without breaking, and breaking out, although it may be punished by statute as burglary, will not sustain a conviction where the indictment alleges a breaking and entering. People v. Arnold, 6 Park. Crim. (N. Y.) 638; State v. McPherson, 70 N. C. 239, 16 Am. Rep. 769. See supra, II, B, 2, f; IV, C, 2.

Constructive breaking.—As a rule an indictment alleging a breaking and entering is sustained by proof of an entry under such circumstances as to constitute a constructive breaking. Nicholls v. State, 68 Wis. 416, 32 N. W. 543, 60 Am. Rep. 870. See the cases cited supra, II, B, 2, g. But compare cases cited infra, note 48. In some jurisdictions, by statute, an actual breaking must be proved. See supra, II, B, 2, b.

Breaking inner door.— An allegation of breaking and entering a house or other building is sustained by proof of entering an open outer door or window and breaking a closed inner door. People v. Young, 65 Cal. 225, 3 Pac. 813; Daniels v. State, 78 Ga. 98, 6 Am. St. Rep. 238; State v. Scripture, 42 N. H. 485. And see supra, II, B, 2, e.

averments.[47] And when the mode of effecting the entry is material under a statute it must be proved as alleged.[48]

5. Time of Breaking and Entry. Of course, both at common law and under a statute punishing burglary in the night-time, it must be both alleged and proved that the breaking and entry were in the night-time.[49] And even when a statute punishes as burglary a breaking and entry in the daytime as well as at night, but as distinct offenses, proof of breaking and entering in the daytime will not sustain an indictment for breaking and entering at night, or vice versa.[50] It is not necessary to prove that the offense was committed on the precise day named in the indictment.[51]

6. The Intent. The intent must be proved as laid in the indictment. An allegation of breaking and entering with intent to commit a particular felony is not sustained by proof of a breaking and entering with intent to commit some other felony.[52] It is not necessary, however, to prove the whole intent, if enough

47. State v. Huntley, 25 Oreg. 349, 35 Pac. 1065, as to which see infra, note 48.

48. Breaking and entering by force.—Generally, both at common law and under statutes, an allegation of breaking and entering by "force" is sustained by proof of such force as was sufficient to constitute a breaking at common law. Timmons v. State, 34 Ohio St. 426, 32 Am. Rep. 376; State v. Huntley, 25 Oreg. 349, 35 Pac. 1065; Nicholls v. State, 68 Wis. 416, 32 N. W. 543, 60 Am. Rep. 870. And see supra, II, B, 2, a. Under an indictment charging a forcible entry by breaking windows, it is sufficient to show that the entry was an unlawful one and made under such circumstances as to show a breaking within the definition of burglary. State v. Huntley, 25 Oreg. 349, 35 Pac. 1065.

In Texas where by statute force is made an element of burglary under certain circumstances, the statute punishing an entry "by force, threats, or fraud," an allegation of an entry by force, or an attempt to enter by force, is not supported by evidence of an entry, or attempt to enter, without proof of force. Finlan v. State, (Tex. App. 1890) 13 S. W. 866; Ross v. State, 16 Tex. App. 554; Buntain v. State, 15 Tex. App. 485; Weeks v. State, 13 Tex. App. 466. And see supra, II, B, 2, g, (v).

49. People v. Smith, 136 Cal. 207, 68 Pac. 702; People v. Griffin, 19 Cal. 578; Waters v. State, 53 Ga. 567. And see supra, II, D.

It is not necessary to prove the exact hour of the night even when alleged, but it is enough to prove that the offense was committed at some hour in the night-time. People v. Burgess, 35 Cal. 115; State v. Tazwell, 30 La. Ann. 884; State v. Bancroft, 10 N. H. 105; 2 East P. C. 513; 2 Hale P. C. 179.

50. Bromley v. People, 150 Ill. 297, 37 N. E. 209. And see People v. Smith, 136 Cal. 207, 68 Pac. 702; Hollister v. Com., 60 Pa. St. 103; Guynes v. State, 25 Tex. App. 584, 8 S. W. 667; Reg. v. Nicholas, 1 Cox C. C. 218. But it has been held that where a statute punishes burglary, whether committed by night or by day, imposing a greater punishment when committed by night, there may be a conviction and punishment for burglary in the daytime under an indictment so charging the offense, although the evidence shows burglary in the night-time. Schwabacher v. People, 165 Ill. 618, 46 N. E. 809. And see Shaffer v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1901) 65 S. W. 1072.

51. Day of offense.— It is sufficient if it is proved that it was committed, in the night-time when this is essential, "on or about" the day alleged, or on any day before the finding of the indictment and within the time limited by statute for the prosecution of such crime. State v. Johnson, 35 La. Ann. 842; Ferguson v. State, 52 Nebr. 432, 72 N. W. 590, 66 Am. St. Rep. 512; State v. Dawkins, 32 S. C. 17, 10 S. E. 1072; State v. Branham, 13 S. C. 389. And see Indictments and Informations.

52. Arkansas.— Starchman v. State, 62 Ark. 538, 36 S. W. 940.

California.— People v. Crowley, 100 Cal. 478, 35 Pac. 84; People v. Mulkey, 65 Cal. 501, 4 Pac. 507; People v. Young, 65 Cal. 225, 3 Pac. 813; People v. Soto, 53 Cal. 415.

Delaware.— State v. Fisher, 1 Pennew. (Del.) 303, 41 Atl. 208; State v. Eaton, 3 Harr. (Del.) 554; State v. Carpenter, 1 Houst. Crim. Cas. (Del.) 367.

Florida.— Davis v. State, 22 Fla. 633.

Iowa.— State v. Worthen, 111 Iowa 267, 82 N. W. 910.

Louisiana.— State v. Meche, 42 La. Ann. 273, 7 So. 573.

Maryland.— Robinson v. State, 53 Md. 151, 36 Am. Rep. 399.

Missouri.— State v. Taylor, 136 Mo. 66, 37 S. W. 907.

Montana.— State v. Carroll, 13 Mont. 246, 33 Pac. 688.

Nebraska.— Ashford v. State, 36 Nebr. 38, 53 N. W. 1036.

Nevada.— State v. Cowell, 12 Nev. 337.

New York.— People v. Marks, 4 Park. Crim. (N. Y.) 153.

North Carolina.— State v. Halford, 104 N. C. 874, 10 S. E. 524.

Texas.— Ford v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1899) 54 S. W. 761; Mitchell v. State, 32 Tex. Crim. 479, 24 S. W. 280, 33 Tex. Crim. 575, 28 S. W. 475; Walton v. State, 29 Tex. App. 163, 15 S. W. 646; Black v. State, 18 Tex. App. 124.

Wisconsin.— Neubrandt v. State, 53 Wis. 89, 9 N. W. 824.

England.— Jenks' Case, 2 East P. C. 514, 2 is proved to make out the offense.[53] In some states in an indictment for burglary with intent to commit larceny it is necessary to describe the property intended to be stolen, and in such a case it must be proved as alleged.[54] But in most states a description of the property is not necessary and may be rejected as surplusage.[55] When it is necessary to allege the ownership of goods which it is alleged defendant intended to steal, or stole, the ownership must be proved as laid;[56] but according to the better opinion, when such an allegation is unnecessary, and the conviction is for burglary only, and not larceny, the allegation of ownership is surplusage, and a variance is immaterial.[57]

7. COMMISSION OF OFFENSE AFTER ENTRY. On the question of intent, actual commission of the felony alleged to have been intended may be shown, although Leach 774; Rex v. Vandercomb, 2 East P. C. 514, 517, 2 Leach 708; 1 Hale P. C. 561.

See 8 Cent. Dig. tit. "Burglary," § 68.

As to the sufficiency of the evidence to show a particular intent see infra, VI, C, 5.

Larceny and robbery.— It has been held, however, that where the indictment alleges intent to commit larceny, and the proof shows intent to commit robbery, there is no material variance, as the intent alleged and that proved is substantially the same. People v. Crowley, 100 Cal. 478, 35 Pac. 84; State v. Halford, 104 N. C. 874, 10 S. E. 524; State v. Cody, 60 N. C. 197.

53. Need not prove whole intent alleged.— Under an indictment alleging an intent to commit "grand and petit larceny," an intent to commit either of which is sufficient under the statute, an intent to commit both need not be shown. People v. Hall, 94 Cal. 595, 30 Pac. 7.

54. See supra, IV, E, 2. Proof of intent to steal bank-notes and money sustains an allegation of intent to steal goods and chattels, particularly when a statute provides that they shall be considered as personal goods of which larceny may be committed. Garfield v. State, 74 Ind. 60.

55. See supra, IV, E, 2; State v. Dale, 141 Mo. 284, 42 S. W. 722, 64 Am. St. Rep. 513, holding that where there was a conviction for burglary only, and not of larceny, a misdescription of the property which it was alleged was stolen was immaterial. But in State v. Carroll, 13 Mont. 246, 33 Pac. 688, it was held that a charge of intent to steal an overcoat must be proved. And in Rush v. State, 114 Ga. 113, 39 S. E. 941, it was held that a conviction would not be sustained where there was an allegation of intent to steal a specific article, and there was no evidence that such article was ever in the house, or that defendant had any reason to believe it was.

The value of the property which it is alleged the defendant intended to steal, if unnecessarily alleged, need not be proved. McCrary v. State, 96 Ga. 348, 23 S. E. 409; Collins v. State, 20 Tex. App. 197. And see Duncan v. Com., 85 Ky. 614, 9 Ky. L. Rep. 142, 4 S. W. 321.

56. See supra, IV, E, 2.

57. James v. State, 77 Miss. 370, 26 So. 929, 78 Am. St. Rep. 527; Brown v. State, 72 Miss. 990, 18 So. 431; Harris v. State, 61 Miss. 304; State v. Hutchinson, 111 Mo. 257, 20 S. W. 34; Reg. v. Clarke, 1 C. & K. 421, 47 E. C. L. 421.

There are some cases, however, in which it has been held that where the indictment unnecessarily alleges a specific intent to steal the goods of a particular person, not the owner of the building, it must be proved as laid. Spradling v. State, 17 Ala. 440; Com. v. Moore, 130 Mass. 45; Neubrandt v. State, 53 Wis. 89, 9 N. W. 824; Jenks' Case, 2 East P. C. 514, 2 Leach 774. And see State v. Lee, 1 Houst. Crim. Cas. (Del.) 335.

Conviction of larceny.—Of course where the conviction is not of burglary merely, but of burglary and larceny, or of larceny only, under an indictment charging burglary and larceny, the larceny must be proved as laid, both with respect to the description of the property and its ownership. State v. Lee, 1 Houst. Crim. Cas. (Del.) 335; State v. Ellison, 58 N. H. 325. See, generally, LARCENY. An allegation that the property stolen was the property of A and B is not sustained by proof that the property was all in the possession of A, and belonged some to A and some to B. State v. Ellison, 58 N. H. 325.

General and special owner.— Even where a variance as to ownership of the property is material there is no variance because the evidence shows that the person named as owner was the general owner and that the property was in the possession of another as bailee; nor, on the other hand, because the evidence shows that the person named as owner was not the general owner, but merely a bailee, for the ownership may properly be laid either in the general or special owner. See supra, IV, E, 2; and Wimbish v. State, 89 Ga. 294, 15 S. E. 325; Lamater v. State, 38 Tex. Crim. 249, 42 S. W. 304; Humphrey v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1897) 40 S. W. 489; Smith v. State, 34 Tex. Crim. 124, 29 S. W. 775; Neubrandt v. State, 53 Wis. 89, 9 N. W. 824.

Husband and wife.— An indictment for burglary which charges larceny of a chattel laid as the property of a husband is not defective because the chattel was the separate property of his wife, where it was used by the family in common, as the husband has a special property as bailee. State v. Matthews, 76 N. C. 41; State v. Wincroft, 76 N. C. 38. Where an indictment for burglary with intent to commit larceny alleged that the goods were the property of A, who was also alleged mere intent to commit it is alleged.[58] But actual commission of the offense need not be proved, although alleged,[59] unless it is an essential element of the offense charged, as under a statute punishing as a single crime burglary with intent to commit a particular offense and its actual commission, in which case the offense must be proved as alleged.[60]

C. Attempt. In a prosecution for attempt to commit burglary a variance between the allegations of the indictment and the proof has the same effect as in a prosecution for burglary.[61]

VI. EVIDENCE.

A. Burden of Proof and Presumptions. Since every person under indictment is presumed to be innocent until the contrary is proved beyond a reasonable doubt, the burden of proof is on the state, on the trial of an indictment for burglary, to prove every fact which is alleged in the indictment and is essential to constitute the crime charged, and no essential fact can be presumed.[62] But this does not prevent the inference of facts from the circumstances proved.[63]

B. Admissibility of Evidence — 1. In General. On a trial for burglary the state may introduce evidence of any fact which tends to prove the commission of the offense,[64] the corpus delicti,[65] including the various elements of the

to be the owner of the building, and the evidence showed that while he owned the building the title to the goods was in his wife, it was held that there was no variance. Kidd v. State, 101 Ga. 528, 28 S. E. 990.

58. Stokes v. State, 84 Ga. 258, 10 S. E. 740; Com. v. McGorty, 114 Mass. 299; Allen v. State, 12 Lea (Tenn.) 424. See infra, VI, C, 5.

59. See supra, II, G, 5.

60. Where an indictment under a statute for burglary and striking alleges the burglary and the striking of A, and the proof shows the striking of B, the conviction can be for the burglary only. Reg. v. Parfitt, 8 C. & P. 288, 34 E. C. L. 739.

Value of property.—Since the extent of the value is immaterial under a statute punishing any person who shall feloniously break into a dwelling-house, and feloniously take away anything of value, an indictment alleging a breaking and taking away of property of the value of five dollars is supported by proof that the thing taken was of less value than five dollars. Duncan v. Com., 85 Ky. 614, 9 Ky. L. Rep. 142, 4 S. W. 321.

61. Under the Texas statute an allegation of attempt to enter by force is not sustained by proof of an attempt to enter without proof of force. Weeks v. State, 13 Tex. App. 466.

62. People v. Barry, 94 Cal. 481, 29 Pac. 1026; People v. Marks, 4 Park. Crim. (N. Y.) 153; Jones v. State, 25 Tex. App. 226, 7 S. W. 669; and cases cited infra, VI, C.

Consent of owner.— But where an indictment for burglary laid ownership of the property intended to be stolen in two persons jointly, but one of them had exclusive possession and control, it was held unnecessary for the state to prove that the other did not consent to the taking, on the ground that if the accused had such consent the burden was on him to prove it. Payne v. State, 40 Tex. Crim. 290, 50 S. W. 363.

Intent.— The intent must be affirmatively proved. People v. Marks, 4 Park. Crim. (N. Y.) 153; Reg. v. Tucker, 1 Cox C. C. 73. And see infra, VI, C, 5. Although the intent need not be proved by direct evidence, it is incumbent upon the prosecution to prove facts from which it may be inferred, and therefore it is error to charge the jury that the prosecution is not bound to prove the intent affirmatively. People v. Marks, 4 Park. Crim. (N. Y.) 153.

Proof of an attempted larceny while in a store does not make out a prima facie case of burglary, so as to cast on the defendant the burden of proving his innocence, and it is error to refuse a request to so charge. People v. Barry, 94 Cal. 481, 29 Pac. 1026.

The breaking must be affirmatively proved. A breaking and force are not presumed from the fact of entry. Jones v. State, 25 Tex. App. 226, 7 S. W. 669; Reg. v. Payne, 13 Vict. L. R. 359. And see infra, VI, C, 2.

Time of offense.— It will not be presumed that the breaking and entry were in the nighttime, but facts must be proved from which this fact may be inferred.

California.— People v. Griffin, 19 Cal. 578.

Connecticut.— State v. Leaden, 35 Conn. 515.

Georgia.— Waters v. State, 53 Ga. 567.

Michigan.—People v. Bielfus, 59 Mich. 576, 26 N. W. 771.

North Carolina.— State v. Whit, 49 N. C. 349.

Ohio.— Adams v. State, 31 Ohio St. 462.

England.— Reg. v. Nicholas, 1 Cox C. C. 218.

And see infra, VI, C, 3.

63. See infra, VI, C.

64. See cases cited infra, notes 65–76.

65. Order of approving corpus delicti.— The state may prove the corpus delicti before showing the defendant's connection with the crime. Therefore, if two of three defendants charged with burglary plead guilty, the fact of the breaking and entering and the larceny offense, as the breaking and entering,[66] the time of the offense,[67] the character, occupancy, or ownership of the premises or the property which it was intended to steal,[68] the intent,[69] etc., and of any fact which legitimately tends to connect the defendant with its commission,[70] including admissions and declarations of the of certain goods may be proved by their testimony, although they testify that the crime was committed by themselves, and that the third defendant had no connection with it. State v. Harrison, 66 Vt. 523, 29 Atl. 807, 44 Am. St. Rep. 864.

66. Evidence of breaking and entry.— The state may show the condition of the premises before and after the alleged offense. Com. v. Hagan, 170 Mass. 571, 49 N. E. 922. It may be shown that the doors were usually kept closed, and that they were closed and latched ten minutes or so before the alleged burglary. People v. Bush, 3 Park. Crim. (N. Y.) 552. See also infra, VI, C, 2. Evidence having been admitted to show the condition of the doors and windows of the building shortly after the burglary, it is admissible to show the condition of the premises at or just before the time of the burglary. State v. Marshall, 105 Iowa 38, 74 N. W. 763. The owner of the premises may testify how the window through which the burglar entered might be opened from without, as tending to show the grade of the offense. State v. Moore, 117 Mo. 395, 22 S. W. 1086. A witness, after testifying that he saw defendant open a door and enter the house, may be asked how defendant got in through the door, and it is proper to allow an answer that he does not know, but that he found a key near where the defendant was arrested. Vallereal v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1892) 20 S. W. 557. As to the exclusion of testimony of a statement made by the prosecuting witness that he did not know whether he had left his house open or closed at the time of the alleged burglary see Torey v. State, 41 Tex. Crim. 543, 56 S. W. 60.

Consent to entry.— On the question of consent to the entry by the defendant, the premises having been in the possession of a tenant, in whom the indictment lays the occupancy, evidence that the owner told defendant to stay away is inadmissible. Trevenio v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1897) 42 S. W. 594. The defendant cannot complain of evidence on behalf of the state showing that the entry was not made with the consent of the owner. Buchanan v. State, 24 Tex. App. 195, 5 S. W. 847.

67. Time of offense.— An almanac is admissible to show at what time the sun set on the evening in question, although the court might take judicial notice of the fact. State v. Morris, 47 Conn. 179.

68. Ownership, occupancy, and character of premises or property.— That the person in whom ownership of the premises is laid had the lawful possession as against the burglars may be shown by parol evidence. Houston v. State, 38 Ga. 165. On a trial for burglarizing a railroad car with intent to steal property therein, admission of evidence of the character and ownership of the stolen property is not error. Pyland v. State, 33 Tex. Crim. 382, 26 S. W. 621. On the question of the ownership of the property alleged to have been taken it may be shown that the person alleged to have been the owner, and admitted to have been so at one time, was induced to part with the possession by false and fraudulent representations, but for which he would not have parted with the same. Charles v. State, 36 Fla. 691, 18 So. 369.

Value of property — Harmless error.— Admission of evidence of the value of the property stolen at the time of the burglary, although unnecessary, is harmless. Farley v. State, 127 Ind. 419, 26 N. E. 898.

69. See infra, VI, B, 2.

70. Evidence connecting defendant with offense.— It was held competent to prove that defendant was one of a band of runaway slaves encamped in a swamp near where the burglary was committed. State v. Bill, 51 N. C. 34. Where the evidence tended to identify with the goods stolen at the time of the burglary certain goods found in an uninhabited house less than a mile from defendant's residence, and showed that similar goods were found in defendant's possession, that the tracks of two men were seen near the burglarized premises the morning after the offense, and that the defendant and another person suspected of being implicated both wore a number nine shoe, the state may show that two pair of men's number nine shoes were found in the uninhabited house. England v. State, 89 Ala. 76, 8 So. 146. It cannot be shown by the state that hats, coats, and shoes of the size of those stolen would fit the defendant. Henderson v. Com., 16 Ky. L. Rep. 289, 27 S. W. 808.

Tracks, etc.— The state may show that there were tracks near the burglarized house, and that they were such as would have been made by the defendant. McLain v. State, 30 Tex. App. 482, 17 S. W. 1092, 28 Am. St. Rep. 934, again cited infra, note 73. Where a witness testifies that he saw a man running from the burglarized house, it may be shown by another witness that the defendant's shoes corresponded with tracks found at the place of the burglary, although it is not shown that the tracks were made by the man who was seen running from the house. People v. Rowell, 133 Cal. 39, 65 Pac. 127. It may be shown that immediately after the burglary four men were tracked from the house to another house, and that at the latter were found four men, including defendant, and also goods stolen from the house burglarized, and burglarious instruments. State v. Harrold, 38 Mo. 496. But where the entry was proved to have been effected by breaking open a window at the back of the house, it was held inadmissible to prove that the defendant's defendant,[71] subject, of course, to the general rules in relation to the competency of evidence, as the rule excluding secondary evidence,[72] hearsay and opinion evidence,[73] etc. On the other hand, any competent evidence is admissible on the shoe corresponded with an impression in the front garden not proved to have been made on the night of the alleged burglary. Reg. v. Coots, 2 Cox C. C. 188.

Connection with accomplice.— Evidence that on the morning after the burglary the defendant was seen in company with his alleged accomplice is admissible. Lamater v. State, 38 Tex. Crim. 249, 42 S. W. 304. Where it appeared that the defendant and another person, previously convicted of the alleged burglary, occupied a rented room together both before and after the offense, and were seen together on the evening of the offense, it was held admissible to show that they were seen together a week before the offense. People v. Burns, 67 Mich. 537, 35 N. W. 154. The state may prove interviews the day after the burglary between the defendant and one on whom the stolen goods were found. Langford v. State, 17 Tex. App. 445.

Burning of premises after burglary.— It is competent to show that after the burglary the defendant burned the building to conceal the evidence of the breaking. Roberson v. State, 40 Fla. 509, 24 So. 474.

Knowledge of property in building, etc.— The state may prove at a trial for burglary with intent to steal a conversation between the defendant and a person living in the house before the burglary, tending to show a belief that there was money in the house. Gilmore v. State, 99 Ala. 154, 13 So. 536. See also State v. Ward, 103 N. C. 419, 8 S. E. 814. Although the indictment charges intent to commit an assault and battery, yet where there are circumstances tending to show an intent to commit larceny or robbery also, the state may show that defendant knew there was money in the house, as bearing on the question whether he is the person who broke and entered. State v. Kepper, 65 Iowa 745, 23 N. W. 304.

Acts in connection with excluded confession.— The state may prove acts of the accused, performed in connection with a confession, not allowed to be proved, made to an officer having him in custody, and who promised to release him if he would show where he got the property found on him. Mountain v. State, 40 Ala. 344. And see, generally, CRIMINAL LAW.

Refusal of defendant to allow search.— It cannot be shown that the defendant refused to allow his house to be searched without a warrant, as such an assertion of his constitutional right cannot be construed into a criminative circumstance. Murdock v. State, 68 Ala. 567.

71. Admissions and declarations of defendant which constitute part of the res gestæ, or which tend to connect him with the commission of the offense, may be proved. Gilmore v. State, 99 Ala. 154, 13 So. 536; State v. Kepper, 65 Iowa 745, 23 N. W. 304; State v. Cowen, 56 Kan. 470, 43 Pac. 687; Langford v. State, 17 Tex. App. 445. And see, generally, CRIMINAL LAW. The state may show that the defendant had been in the house before the burglary, that he had inquired as to the weapons in the house, and that he had said he knew there was money there. State v. Ward, 103 N. C. 419, 8 S. E. 814. See also Gilmore v. State, 99 Ala. 154, 13 So. 536. An admission by the defendant that he went with another to the scene of the burglary and saw him enter and take from the house goods which he afterward bought may be looked to by the jury as a circumstance to be considered in determining whether the defendant is guilty of the burglary, and it is not error to so charge. Kidd v. State, 101 Ga. 528, 28 S. E. 390.

72. Best and secondary evidence.— See, generally, CRIMINAL LAW. On trial of an indictment for burglary from freight-cars, waybills accompanying such cars, made out by clerks in the line of their duty, and entries made by them in checking the packages in the cars, are admissible as original evidence to prove that the articles therein mentioned were shipped in such cars; and if they are beyond the jurisdiction of the court parol evidence of their contents is admissible. It is not necessary to produce the clerks who made out the way-bills, or the persons who loaded the cars. Dawson v. State, 32 Tex. Crim. 535, 25 S. W. 21, 40 Am. St. Rep. 791. On a trial for burglary and larceny in a railroad depot, a witness may testify from memory, after a personal examination of the goods, what amount of the particular class alleged to have been stolen was shipped and stored in the depot, and what quantity was missing after the burglary, although he has way-bills of the goods in his custody. Davis v. State, 105 Ga. 808, 32 S. E. 158.

73. Opinion and hearsay evidence.— See, generally, CRIMINAL LAW. A witness cannot testify that, from a description of the property given to him by the person from whom it was stolen, he recognized property found as his. Reed v. State, 66 Ark. 110, 49 S. W. 350. Defendant cannot, to show commission of the offense by another, prove that such other person on the night of the offense applied to the witness for a loan, offering to return the money in corn, which was the article stolen by the burglar, as such testimony is hearsay. State v. Clary, 24 S. C. 116.

As to footprints.— It is error to allow a witness to testify that certain footprints, described to him by the owner of the premises in which the alleged burglary was committed, would have been made by certain shoes received by him from the defendant, as the testimony is opinion and hearsay. Bluitt v. State, 12 Tex. App. 39, 41 Am. Rep. 666. But a witness may testify that he measured the foot-tracks found at the place of the burglary; that he also examined the shoes that part of the defendant which tends to show that he did not commit the acts charged.[74] He may show physical incapacity,[75] or that the crime was committed by another person.[76]

2. THE INTENT. As a general rule the state may prove any conduct on the part of the defendant, or other fact or circumstance, by competent evidence, which tends to show that the accused broke and entered with the felonious intent alleged in the indictment, for generally the intent can only be shown by circumstantial evidence.[77] Declarations of the defendant are admissible for this purpose,[78] and under some circumstances evidence of other offenses is admissible.[79] Evidence of actual commission of a felony by the defendant after entry is admissible as tending to show that he intended to commit it at the time of breaking and entering.[80] On the other hand, the defendant may himself testify that his intent was other than that alleged,[81] or prove any circumstance tending to negative the existence of such intent.[82]

the defendant had on just after the burglary; and that upon placing the shoes in the tracks he found that they fitted exactly. McLain v. State, 30 Tex. App. 482, 17 S. W. 1092, 28 Am. St. Rep. 934.

74. Defendant's evidence in rebuttal.— Where the defendant claimed that the goods found on him were won by him from the prosecutor in gambling, and that he and the prosecutor were on friendly terms and frequently gambled together, which was denied by the prosecutor's testimony, it was held error to exclude evidence that before and after the alleged burglary the defendant and the prosecutor were seen gambling in the latter's store, and that the prosecutor was seen drunk there both before and after the alleged offense. Grantham v. State, 95 Ga. 459, 22 S. E. 281.

75. Drunkenness.— The defendant may show that he was so drunk at the time the burglary was committed that he was not physically able to commit it. Ingalls v. State, 48 Wis. 647, 4 N. W. 785.

76. Commission of offense by another.— But defendant's offer to prove that another person had made a key which would unlock the store alleged to have been entered is properly rejected, where there is no offer to show any overt act by the other toward the commission of the offense. State v. Taylor, 136 Mo. 66, 37 S. W. 907.

77. Gilmore v. State, 99 Ala. 154, 13 So. 536; State v. Woods, 31 La. Ann. 267; People v. Marks, 4 Park. Crim. (N. Y.) 153.

Intent to steal or rob.— Evidence of previous preparations to commit a robbery on the owner of the house is admissible on the question of intent to steal alleged in the indictment. State v. Cowell, 12 Nev. 337. Where the indictment is for burglary with intent to commit larceny, it may be shown that the defendant knew or believed that there was property in the building. Gilmore v. State, 99 Ala. 154, 13 So. 536; State v. Worthen, 111 Iowa 267, 82 N. W. 910. In rebuttal of defendant's claim that he entered and took the property in the belief that it was his, the state may introduce the record of an action in replevin brought by defendant for the property and dismissed for want of prosecution. Charles v. State, 36 Fla. 691, 18 So. 369.

Intent to rape.— On the question whether the entry was with intent to rape, as alleged, the state may prove the effect of the force used on a woman assaulted in the house. Com. v. Doherty, 10 Cush. (Mass.) 52.

Intent to kill.— On a trial for burglary with intent to kill it is error to allow an occupant of the house to testify that she was afraid defendant would kill her, where no threatening acts or words are shown. Trevenio v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1897) 42 S. W. 594.

78. People v. Marks, 4 Park. Crim. (N. Y.) 153.

Where the evidence is sufficient to identify defendant as the person who broke into the house, evidence of what he said to procure entrance is admissible as part of the res gestæ. State v. Kepper, 65 Iowa 745, 23 N. W. 304.

79. See infra, VI, B, 3.

80. Georgia.— Stokes v. State, 84 Ga. 258, 10 S. E. 740.

Kentucky.— Maden v. Com., 4 Ky. L. Rep. 45.

Louisiana.— State v. Woods, 31 La. Ann. 267.

Massachusetts.— Com. v. McGorty, 114 Mass. 299.

Pennsylvania.— Com. v. Tadrick, 1 Pa. Super. Ct. 555, 38 Wkly. Notes Cas. (Pa.) 215 [reversing 1 Lack. Leg. N. (Pa.) 402].

Tennessee.— Allen v. State, 12 Lea (Tenn.) 424.

Texas.— Moseley v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1902) 67 S. W. 414.

See 8 Cent. Dig. tit. "Burglary," § 84; and infra, VI, B, 3, 4.

81. State v. Meche, 42 La. Ann. 273, 7 So. 573; People v. Griffin, 77 Mich. 585, 43 N. W. 1061. On a charge of breaking and entering a dwelling-house through the cellar with intent to commit a felony, defendant's statement that he fell into the cellar should be considered with the other evidence. People v. Griffin, 77 Mich. 585, 43 N. W. 1061.

82. Intent to rape.— On the question whether an entry was with intent to commit rape upon a woman in the house, evidence is admissible on the part of the defendant that

3. OTHER OFFENSES. On a trial for burglary, the state as a general rule cannot prove the commission by the defendant or others of other burglaries, larcenies, or other offenses, not in any way connected with the offense charged in the indictment.[83] But evidence of another burglary than that charged, or of any other offense, is admissible, if both offenses are in reality parts of the same transaction or otherwise connected, or if the evidence shows the whereabouts of the defendant at the time alleged in the indictment, or otherwise tends to connect him with the offense charged.[84] And such evidence is admissible for the purpose of showing a regular system of crime organized and carried on by the defendant, or by the woman was a lewd woman, and that he had previously had intercourse with her. Robinson v. State, 53 Md. 151, 36 Am. Rep. 399.

Intent to steal.— Where the defendant claims to have acted merely as a detective for the purpose of entrapping his co-defendants, he may show that when he was asked by them to join in the offense he went to a justice of the peace and talked with him, and prove the conversation. Price v. People, 109 Ill. 109.

Intent to kill.— On an indictment under a statute for burglary with intent to kill, being armed at the time with dangerous weapons, it appearing that defendants entered the house armed with pistols, and when fired upon by the occupant returned the fire, defendants may prove that they were an unlawful organization known as "White Caps," and that they entered the premises with the intent to break up an unlawful cohabitation between the occupant and a woman by whipping the woman, as this tends to rebut the allegation of intent to kill. State v. Meche, 42 La. Ann. 273, 7 So. 573.

Drunkenness.— On a prosecution for burglary the defendant may show that he was so drunk that he was incapable of entertaining the necessary felonious intent. Schwabacher v. People, 165 Ill. 618, 46 N. E. 809; State v. Bell, 29 Iowa 316. Contra, State v. Shores, 31 W. Va. 491, 7 S. E. 413, 13 Am. St. Rep. 875.

Evidence held inadmissible.— Where the evidence shows that the defendant entered the house with intent to steal, it is proper to exclude evidence that he possessed large means and was in good financial condition. Coates v. State, 31 Tex. Crim. 257, 20 S. W. 585. Where the evidence clearly showed defendant's guilt, it was held not to be error to refuse to allow a witness who saw the defendant and an accomplice at the window of the building after the burglary, to testify to a conversation between them showing that they were trying to close the window. Ezzell v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1894) 26 S. W. 204. Evidence as to the character of the defendant's work when acting as a detective on the police force is not admissible, either as tending to show that he was present at the commission of the burglary merely as a detective or as showing his general reputation. State v. Coates, 22 Wash. 601, 61 Pac. 726.

83. California.—People v. McNutt, 64 Cal. 116, 28 Pac. 64.

Florida.— Roberson v. State, 40 Fla. 509, 24 So. 474.

Louisiana.— State v. Johnson, 38 La. Ann. 686.

Michigan.— People v. Henry, (Mich. 1901) 88 N. W. 77.

Missouri.— State v. Hale, 156 Mo. 102, 56 S. W. 881.

New York.—People v. White, 3 N. Y. Crim. 366.

Pennsylvania.— Swan v. Com., 104 Pa. St. 218.

Texas.— Hunt v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1901) 60 S. W. 965; Denton v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1901) 60 S. W. 670; Long v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1898) 47 S. W. 363; Ware v. State, 36 Tex. Crim. 597, 38 S. W. 198; Marshall v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1893) 22 S. W. 878.

And see, generally, CRIMINAL LAW.

Illustrations.— On a prosecution for breaking into a wheat bin of a certain person and bringing the wheat to a certain city for sale, it was held that the state could not show that shortly before the offense charged the defendant broke into wheat bins of other persons in the neighborhood and brought the wheat to the same city for sale. Long v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1898) 47 S. W. 363. Evidence on behalf of the state that search of the stolen goods found in the defendant's possession was instituted under another and different warrant, for another crime in no way connected with the burglary charged, is inadmissible. Roberson v. State, 40 Fla. 509, 24 So. 474.

84. Alabama.— Ray v. State, 126 Ala. 9, 28 So. 634.

California.— People v. McGilver, 67 Cal. 55, 7 Pac. 49.

Florida.— Roberson v. State, 40 Fla. 509, 24 So. 474.

Indiana.— Frazier v. State, 135 Ind. 38, 34 N. E. 817.

Iowa.— State v. Wrand, 108 Iowa 73, 78 N. W. 788.

Michigan.— People v. Gibson, 58 Mich. 368, 25 N. W. 316; People v. Mead, 50 Mich. 228, 15 N. W. 95.

Rhode Island.— State v. Fitzsimon, 18 R. I. 236, 27 Atl. 446, 49 Am. St. Rep. 766.

South Carolina.— State v. Robinson, 35 S. C. 340, 14 S. E. 766.

Texas.— Gass v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1900) 56 S. W. 73; Fielder v. State, 40 Tex. Crim. 184, 49 S. W. 376; Lega v. State, 36 Tex. Crim. 38, 34 S. W. 926, 35 S. W. 381; Hamilton v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1893) 24 S. W. 32.

Washington.— State v. Norris, (Wash. 1902) 67 Pac. 983.

England.— Reg. v. Cobden, 3 F. & F. 833.

the defendant and others.[85] Evidence of other burglaries and larcenies by the defendant in the same house, or in a different house, at about the same time, is admissible on the question of intent.[86] The defendant cannot show that other burglaries were committed at about the same time as that with which he is charged, as the evidence is irrelevant.[87]

4. Possession of Stolen Property and Explanation — a. In General. As tending to connect the defendant with the burglary, it is admissible for the state to prove that he was afterward found in possession of property stolen at the time of the burglary, and to introduce the property itself in evidence,[88] if the breaking

Connecting defendant with offense charged. — On a prosecution for burglary, evidence that at the time defendants were arrested they were attempting another burglary, and that there was found in their possession property stolen at the time of the burglary charged, is admissible to identify the defendants as the persons who committed the burglary charged. People v. McGilver, 67 Cal. 55, 7 Pac. 49. Other burglaries on the same night may be proved in connection with proof that one of the tracks at each of the burglarized houses corresponded with tracks made by defendant, to show identity. Frazier v. State, 135 Ind. 38, 34 N. E. 817.

Showing whereabouts of defendant. — If the evidence shows that the defendant twice entered the house on the same night within the space of two hours it is not error to refuse to rule that this constituted two separate burglaries and compel the prosecutor to elect upon which he will go to the jury. Even if the breakings were separate and distinct felonies, evidence of the second breaking is competent to show the whereabouts of the defendant during the night in question. State v. Fitzsimon, 18 R. I. 236, 27 Atl. 446, 49 Am. St. Rep. 766. See also State v. Norris, (Wash. 1902) 67 Pac. 983.

Conversation of defendant. — The state is not prevented from proving a conversation between the defendants on the night of the alleged burglary in reference to their acts on such night, because of the fact that in such conversation they admitted the commission of other larcenies not connected with the burglary charged. State v. Cowen, 56 Kan. 470, 43 Pac. 687.

Burning of premises. — The state may show that the defendant burned the premises after the burglary. Roberson v. State, 40 Fla. 509, 24 So. 474.

85. Alabama. — Mason v. State, 42 Ala. 532.

Kansas. — State v. Adams, 20 Kan. 311.

Massachusetts. — Com. v. Scott, 123 Mass. 222, 25 Am. Rep. 81.

Texas. — Dawson v. State, 32 Tex. Crim. 535, 25 S. W. 21, 40 Am. St. Rep. 791.

Washington. — State v. Norris, (Wash. 1902) 67 Pac. 983.

England. — Reg. v. Cohden, 3 F. & F. 833.

In Touchston v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1899) 53 S. W. 854, declarations of the defendant as to the commission of other offenses prior to the burglary were held admissible to corroborate the testimony of an alleged accomplice, and to show system in stealing and disposing of stolen goods.

86. Kentucky. — Maden v. Com., 4 Ky. L. Rep. 45; Thomas v. Com., 1 Ky. L. Rep. 122.

Missouri. — State v. Franke, 159 Mo. 535, 60 S. W. 1053.

New York. — Osborne v. People, 2 Park. Crim. (N. Y.) 583.

Pennsylvania. — Com. v. Shepherd, 2 Pa. Dist. 345.

South Carolina. — State v. Weldon, 39 S. C. 318, 17 S. E. 688, 24 L. R. A. 126.

Vermont. — State v. Valwell, 66 Vt. 558, 29 Atl. 1018.

Compare, however, People v. McNutt, 64 Cal. 116, 28 Pac. 64; State v. Johnson, 38 La. Ann. 686; People v. Henry, (Mich. 1901) 88 N. W. 77.

Where the defense on an indictment for burglary is intoxication, the state may show in rebuttal that a person was robbed by the defendant in the evening of the day of the burglary. State v. Harris, 100 Iowa 188, 69 N. W. 413.

87. State v. Smarr, 121 N. C. 669, 28 S. E. 549. The defendant, in whose possession the stolen goods were found shortly after the alleged burglary, cannot prove other burglaries and the finding of other stolen goods in other persons' houses and other arrests of other persons in the same neighborhood at or about the same time. Roberson v. State, 40 Fla. 509, 24 So. 474.

88. Alabama. — Walker v. State, 97 Ala. 85, 12 So. 83.

California. — People v. Lowrey, 70 Cal. 193, 11 Pac. 605.

Florida. — Roberson v. State, 40 Fla. 509, 24 So. 474.

Georgia. — Moncrief v. State, 99 Ga. 295, 25 S. E. 735; Rusher v. State, 94 Ga. 363, 21 S. E. 593, 47 Am. St. Rep. 175; Cornwall v. State, 91 Ga. 277, 18 S. E. 154; Stokes v. State, 84 Ga. 258, 10 S. E. 740.

Illinois. — Smith v. People, 115 Ill. 17, 3 N. E. 733.

Indiana. — Frazier v. State, 135 Ind. 38, 34 N. E. 817.

Iowa. — State v. Russell, 90 Iowa 493, 58 N. W. 890; State v. Shaffer, 59 Iowa 290, 13 N. W. 306; State v. Golden, 49 Iowa 48.

Kansas. — State v. Conway, 56 Kan. 682, 44 Pac. 627.

Kentucky. — Branson v. Com., 92 Ky. 330, 13 Ky. L. Rep. 614, 17 S. W. 1019; Webb v. Com., 18 Ky. L. Rep. 220, 35 S. W. 1038.

and entry are proved,[89] and if the property is sufficiently identified;[90] and evidence is admissible for the purpose of such identification.[91] The state may also prove Massachusetts.— Com. v. McGorty, 114 Mass. 299; Com. v. Parmenter, 101 Mass. 211.

Michigan.— People v. Wood, 99 Mich. 620, 58 N. W. 638; People v. Carroll, 54 Mich. 334, 20 N. W. 66; Cummins v. People, 42 Mich. 142, 3 N. W. 305; Cole v. People, 37 Mich. 544.

Missouri.— State v. Harrold, 38 Mo. 496. And see State v. Yandle, 166 Mo. 589, 66 S. W. 532.

North Carolina.— State v. Graves, 72 N. C. 482.

Oklahoma.— Johnson v. Territory, 5 Okla. 695, 50 Pac. 90.

Texas.— Prince v. State, 44 Tex. 480; Boersh v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1901) 62 S. W. 1060; Dawson v. State, 32 Tex. Crim. 535, 25 S. W. 21, 40 Am. St. Rep. 791; Medicus v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1893) 22 S. W. 878; Woodruff v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1892) 20 S. W. 573; Jackson v. State, 28 Tex. App. 370, 13 S. W. 451, 19 Am. St. Rep. 839.

Vermont.— State v. Fitzgerald, 72 Vt. 142, 47 Atl. 403; State v. Peach, 70 Vt. 283, 40 Atl. 732; State v. Harrison, 66 Vt. 523, 29 Atl. 807, 44 Am. St. Rep. 864.

Virginia.—Walker v. Com., 28 Gratt. (Va.) 969; Hall's Case, 3 Gratt. (Va.) 565.

Wisconsin.— Neubrandt v. State, 53 Wis. 89, 9 N. W. 824.

United States.— Considine v. U. S., 112 Fed. 342, 50 C. C. A. 272.

England.— Reg. v. Coots, 2 Cox C. C. 188.

See 8 Cent. Dig. tit. "Burglary," § 91; and infra, VI, C, 6.

The proof of the defendant's possession.— The evidence as to the stolen goods cannot be admitted and considered as against the defendant unless they are traced to his possession, Mann v. State, 27 Tex. App. 580, 11 S. W. 640; Reg. v. Coots, 2 Cox C. C. 188; or to the possession of one who is shown to be an accomplice of the defendant. See infra, VI, B, 4, c.

Evidence to prove possession by defendant. — Evidence that defendant claimed clothing in a trunk which was in the room in which he was arrested is admissible to show his possession of stolen property found in the trunk. State v. Yandle, 166 Mo. 589, 66 S. W. 532. Evidence that the stolen goods were found in defendant's sleeping-room is admissible to show possession by him. Gass v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1900) 56 S. W. 73. Evidence that the stolen goods were found shortly after the burglary in an outhouse on a lot belonging to the defendant's father is admissible. Lamater v. State, 38 Tex. Crim. 249, 42 S. W. 304. A witness who testifies that she bought a dress which it appears was stolen at the time of the burglary may describe the person from whom she bought it, and testify as to his declarations at the time, to identify the defendant as that person. Ryan v. State, 83 Wis. 486, 53 N. W. 836. On the question whether the defendant owned a trunk found at a certain place, and in which some of the stolen property was secreted, a witness may be asked whether he knew if "defendant had any trunks around" such place. People v. Sears, 119 Cal. 267, 51 Pac. 325. Where articles of jewelry, being part of the property stolen at the time of the burglary, were found in the defendant's house, evidence as to whether he is married or unmarried is admissible. Fisher v. State, 62 Ga. 174.

The time which elapsed between the burglary and the finding of the stolen goods in the defendant's possession, and the defendant's explanation of his possession, are material for the consideration of the jury. Tarver v. State, 95 Ga. 222, 21 S. E. 381.

Property not included in the indictment.— Evidence is admissible to show that an article not included in the property alleged in the indictment to have been stolen at the time of the burglary was stolen with the other property, and was afterward seen in the defendant's possession. Foster v. People, 63 N. Y. 619 [affirming 3 Hun (N. Y.) 6, 5 Thomps. & C. (N. Y.) 670, 49 How. Pr. (N. Y.) 69]. See also State v. Wrand, 108 Iowa 73, 78 N. W. 788. The fact that the indictment alleges intent to steal the goods of A does not render inadmissible evidence that shortly after the burglary other property which belonged to B, and was stolen at the same time from the house, was found in defendant's possession. Neubrandt v. State, 53 Wis. 89, 9 N. W. 824.

89. Fuller v. State, 48 Ala. 273.

90. Identity of property.—Walker v. State, 97 Ala. 85, 12 So. 83; King v. State, 99 Ga. 686, 26 S. E. 480, 59 Am. St. Rep. 251; Cornwall v. State, 91 Ga. 277, 18 S. E. 154. Where four ten-dollar gold-pieces were stolen, it was held that evidence that the accused when arrested had on his person a five-dollar gold-piece, and that about that time he handed ten silver dollars to a person with him to hold was admissible in connection with evidence that he also handed a ten-dollar gold-piece with the silver, and had had opportunity to change the pieces. Hicks v. State, 99 Ala. 169, 13 So. 375.

91. Evidence to identify property.— See State v. Russell, 90 Iowa 493, 58 N. W. 890. On indictment for burglary and larceny of watches, the bills for watches which were stolen, giving their numbers, offered by the clerk who had charge of the store, are admissible, in connection with his testimony, on the question of the identity of watches traced to the defendant's possession after the burglary. State v. Fitzgerald, 72 Vt. 142, 47 Atl. 403. A miller, on an indictment for burglary in his mill, may testify that a sample of flour found in defendant's possession is the same as that manufactured at the mill. People v. Wood, 99 Mich. 620, 58 N. W. 638. Testimony as to the tabs or labels on goods is admissible on the question of identity, although the witness has to examine the handwriting on the same to recognize them. Cole the declarations and conduct of the defendant with respect to the property, and may prove the circumstances attending the finding of the property, whether the defendant was present or not.[92] Evidence of the possession of the stolen property is not rendered inadmissible by the fact that the defendant was compelled by those having him in custody, by operating on his fears or hopes, to point out the place where the property was concealed.[93]

b. Explanation of Possession. The defendant may introduce any competent evidence tending to explain his possession.[94]

c. Joint Possession and Possession of Others. The state may show possession of the stolen property by the defendant jointly with another,[95] particularly where they are jointly indicted and tried.[96] And the possession of another than the defendant may be shown if a conspiracy between them is proved, or if there is evidence tending to connect them as accomplices,[97] or if the evidence shows that

v. People, 37 Mich. 544. Goods alleged to have been stolen from the house at the time of the burglary, and afterward found in defendant's possession, are admissible for comparison with other similar goods purchased at the same time with such goods by an inmate of the house, both being of a particular make and patent, with certain numbers stamped thereon. Woodruff v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1892) 20 S. W. 573. Bottles of goods bought at the time of the trial from a store alleged to have been burglarized are admissible to identify similar bottles found in defendant's possession. People v. Van Dam, 107 Mich. 425, 65 N. W. 277. Where it appeared that when defendant, who occupied rooms with a woman, was arrested, he handed something to a man, and told him to "take it to his wife," it was held admissible to show that on the same evening the woman left five hundred dollars with her employer's cashier and did not return, as tending to show that the money was the article sent by the defendant to his wife. People v. Wilson, 7 N. Y. App. Div. 326, 40 N. Y. Suppl. 107. Evidence that the owner of the premises showed to certain persons samples of goods taken therefrom, and that such persons afterward found similar goods on the defendant's premises, was held inadmissible on the question of the identity of the goods found with those stolen. Crane v. State, 111 Ala. 45, 20 So. 590.

The value of the property stolen may be shown, although not alleged in the indictment, where the evidence is material in identifying property found in the possession of the defendant. Tarver v. State, 95 Ga. 222, 21 S. E. 381.

92. Jackson v. State, 28 Tex. App. 370, 13 S. W. 451, 19 Am. St. Rep. 839.

It is admissible to show that the defendant on being allowed to go by the officer who arrested him, did not return as he promised to do, and never made claim to the goods seized by the officer, since it tends to show that he did not obtain the goods innocently. People v. Ashmead, 118 Cal. 508, 50 Pac. 681.

Offer to dispose of property.— It may be shown that the defendant offered to dispose of the property at less than its value. State v. Graves, 72 N. C. 482.

Contradictory statements.— And it may be shown that he made contradictory statements as to how he got the property. State v. Graves, 72 N. C. 482.

93. The fact that the defendant, after his arrest for burglary, was compelled by the officer to point out the place where property stolen at the time of the burglary had been concealed by him, by operating on his hopes or fears, but not by use of unlawful violence, does not contravene the constitutional provision that "no person shall be compelled to give testimony tending in any manner to criminate himself," so as to render evidence of the finding of the property and the defendant's acts and declarations in connection therewith inadmissible against him. Rusher v. State, 94 Ga. 363, 21 S. E. 593, 47 Am. St. Rep. 175. See also CRIMINAL LAW; WITNESSES.

94. Henderson v. State, 70 Ala. 23, 45 Am. Rep. 72; Crawford v. State, 44 Ala. 45; Roberson v. State, 40 Fla. 509, 24 So. 474. And see infra, VI, C, 6.

Declarations of defendant.— Where part of the stolen goods were found in the defendant's house shortly after the burglary, and there was some evidence that he was out of the state at the time of the offense, it was held that he could prove that on discovering the property after his return he asked his wife whose it was and how it came there. Henderson v. State, 70 Ala. 23, 45 Am. Rep. 72.

95. Moncrief v. State, 99 Ga. 295, 25 S. E. 735.

96. Roberson v. State, 40 Fla. 509, 24 So. 474; Terry v. State, 39 Tex. Crim. 628, 47 S. W. 654.

97. Indiana.— Frazier v. State, 135 Ind. 38, 34 N. E. 817.

Iowa.— State v. Wrand, 108 Iowa 73, 78 N. W. 788.

Kentucky.— Branson v. Com., 92 Ky. 330, 13 Ky. L. Rep. 614, 17 S. W. 1019.

Texas.— Terry v. State, 39 Tex. Crim. 628, 47 S. W. 654; Jackson v. State, 28 Tex. App. 370, 13 S. W. 451, 19 Am. St. Rep. 839.

Vermont.— State v. Harrison, 66 Vt. 523, 29 Atl. 807, 44 Am. St. Rep. 864.

Wisconsin.— Murphy v. State, 86 Wis. 626, 57 N. W. 367.

It may be shown that property stolen at the time of the burglary was found in the possession of one with whom the defendant frequently associated both before and after the other could not have come into possession except through the defendant.[98] But such evidence is not admissible unless the other evidence tends to connect the defendant with such other person and the commission of the offense.[99]

d. Possession of Other Property. The state may prove possession by the defendant of property stolen in another burglary or on another occasion, if the offenses are sufficiently connected, or if the evidence is relevant on the question of intent,[1] but not otherwise.[2]

5. Possession or Use of Burglarious Implements. After preliminary proof of a burglary, it is competent for the state to prove that the defendant was found in the possession of burglarious tools or implements shortly after the alleged burglary, and to introduce the tools or implements in evidence.[3] And it may be the burglary, in connection with other evidence that the defendant was present at the burglary. Frazier v. State, 135 Ind. 38, 34 N. E. 817.

On proof of conspiracy.— When a conspiracy between two to commit a burglary is established, evidence of the finding of the fruits of the crime at the house of either of them after the burglary, and of what transpired at the time, is admissible against the other, although neither of them were present when the fruits of the crime were found. Jackson v. State, 28 Tex. App. 370, 13 S. W. 370, 19 Am. St. Rep. 839.

98. Riding v. State, 40 Tex. Crim. 452, 50 S. W. 698.

99. Jackson v. State, 28 Tex. App. 143, 12 S. W. 701.

But it may be shown that the goods were found in the trunk or otherwise in the possession of the defendant's wife, who was living with him at the time of the burglary. Medicus v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1893) 22 S. W. 878.

1. People v. McGilver, 67 Cal. 55, 7 Pac. 49; State v. Robinson, 35 S. C. 340, 14 S. E. 766. And see State v. Wrand, 108 Iowa 73, 78 N. W. 788.

Illustrations.— In State v. Franke, 159 Mo. 535, 60 S. W. 1053, it was held that evidence that a gun stolen on another occasion was found in the defendant's home was competent on the question of intent. And in Hamilton v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1893) 24 S. W. 32, it was held admissible to prove that property found under defendant's house was stolen from other persons in the neighborhood on the night of the burglary, and that on that night the defendant went on a general stealing expedition. Where the defendant had possession of property stolen at the time of the burglary, and also of other stolen property, it is proper to refuse to exclude a witness's testimony as to the latter, on the ground that it shows another and distinct crime, where it is necessary for him to refer to it in order to give a complete account of a transaction between him and defendant as to the other property. Ray v. State, 126 Ala. 9, 28 So. 634.

2. Denton v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1901) 60 S. W. 670; Marshall v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1893) 22 S. W. 878.

3. California.— People v. Hope, 62 Cal. 291; People v. Winters, 29 Cal. 658.

Georgia.— Cornwall v. State, 91 Ga. 277, 18 S. E. 154.

Illinois.— Williams v. People, 196 Ill. 173, 63 N. E. 681.

Iowa.— State v. Franks, 64 Iowa 39, 19 N. W. 832.

Kansas.— State v. Wayne, 62 Kan. 636, 64 Pac. 69.

Massachusetts.— Com. v. Day, 138 Mass. 186; Com. v. Wilson, 2 Cush. (Mass.) 590; Com. v. Williams, 2 Cush. (Mass.) 582.

Missouri.— State v. Dubois, 49 Mo. 573; State v. Harrold, 38 Mo. 496.

New York.— Foster v. People, 63 N. Y. 619 [affirming 3 Hun (N. Y.) 6, 5 Thomps. & C. (N. Y.) 67, 49 How. Pr. (N. Y.) 69]; People v. Larned, 7 N. Y. 445, Seld. Notes (N. Y.) 10; People v. Wilson, 7 N. Y. App. Div. 326, 40 N. Y. Suppl. 107; People v. Clark, 2 Hun (N. Y.) 520, 5 Thomps. & C. (N. Y.) 33; People v. Myers, 2 Hun (N. Y.) 6, 4 Thomps. & C. (N. Y.) 292.

North Dakota.— State v. Campbell, 7 N. D. 58, 72 N. W. 935.

Texas.— Edmunds v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1901) 63 S. W. 871; Miller v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1899) 50 S. W. 704.

See 8 Cent. Dig. tit. "Burglary," § 92.

Implements not used.— Such instruments are admissible, although they are new and never have been used, where there is evidence of an admission by defendant that he threw away or concealed the instruments used. Cornwall v. State, 91 Ga. 277, 18 S. E. 154. All tools found in defendant's possession are admissible in evidence, although part are not adapted to the commission of the particular offense charged. Com. v. Williams, 2 Cush. (Mass.) 582. Compare, however, Com. v. Wilson, 2 Cush. (Mass.) 590.

Explosives and the like.— On a trial for burglary in entering a bank building and blowing open a safe with explosives, such instruments as percussion caps and the like, adapted to the commission of the crime, although not used exclusively for the purpose, may be shown to have been in defendant's possession several months before the burglary, and may be admitted in evidence. State v. Wayne, 62 Kan. 636, 64 Pac. 69. See also Edmunds v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1901) 63 S. W. 871.

Chloroform.— Where chloroform was used in committing the burglary, evidence that chloroform was found in the house where shown that the defendant had used the same or similar tools on other occasions for the purpose of burglary.[4] The proof of possession by defendant may be circumstantial.[5] The state may also show possession of burglarious implements by another than the defendant, where there is evidence tending to connect them in the commission of the burglary.[6] Implements found in or near the burglarized building, which did not belong there, and which might have been used to break in the manner shown by the evidence, are admissible in evidence.[7]

C. Weight and Sufficiency of Evidence — 1. In General. To convict of burglary it is essential, in the first place, that the state shall prove beyond a reasonable doubt the corpus delicti — that the offense charged in the indictment has been committed by someone.[8] Every essential element of the offense charged must be proved,[9] and it must be shown beyond a reasonable doubt that the offense was committed by the defendant.[10] The evidence, however, need not the defendant boarded is admissible, the defendant having admitted bringing it there, but claimed that it was given to him by another. Miller v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1899) 50 S. W. 704.

4. Com. v. Day, 138 Mass. 186. Compare, as to proof of other offenses, supra, VI, B, 3.

5. Circumstantial proof of possession by defendant.—Tools found near defendant, who was concealed near the place of the burglary shortly after its commission, are admissible in evidence. State v. Campbell, 7 N. D. 58, 72 N. W. 935. Where the evidence showed that a safe in the burglarized premises was exploded with powder, and that defendant had a bottle on him when arrested, which was not taken from him, and no bottle was afterward found on him, a bottle of powder found near the route the defendant traveled when taken to jail was held admissible in evidence. Edmunds v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1901) 63 S. W. 871.

6. People v. Clark, 2 Hun (N. Y.) 520, 5 Thomps. & C. (N. Y.) 33.

Evidence that one of several defendants had burglar's tools in his possession when arrested is admissible, where all of them were arrested while together shortly after the burglary. State v. Franks, 64 Iowa 39, 19 N. W. 832.

7. State v. Campbell, 7 N. D. 58, 72 N. W. 935.

8. Starchman v. State, 62 Ark. 538, 36 S. W. 940; Turner v. State, 24 Tex. App. 12, 5 S. W. 511; Brooks v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1901) 65 S. W. 924 (holding evidence insufficient to prove burglary from a railroad car).

The corpus delicti may be established by circumstantial evidence. State v. Munson, 7 Wash. 239, 34 Pac. 932; and cases cited infra, note 10 et seq.

Calling owner of premises as a witness.—But proof that the building was broken open and goods stolen should be made by the testimony of the person in the immediate possession of the building and goods, or a satisfactory excuse should be given why he is not called as a witness. People v. Caniff, 2 Park. Crim. (N. Y.) 586.

9. See the cases specifically cited infra, VI, C, 2–6.

10. Arizona.— Territory v. Booth, (Ariz. 1894) 36 Pac. 38.

Arkansas.— Starchman v. State, 62 Ark. 538, 36 S. W. 940.

California.— People v. Brady, (Cal. 1901) 65 Pac. 823.

Florida.—Washington v. State, 21 Fla. 328.

Georgia.— Gravitt v. State, 114 Ga. 841, 40 S. E. 1003; Tarpe v. State, 95 Ga. 457, 20 S. E. 217; Kelly v. State, 82 Ga. 441, 9 S. E. 171; Phillips v. State, 56 Ga. 28; Carter v. State, 46 Ga. 637.

Indiana.— Cavender v. State, 126 Ind. 47, 25 N. E. 875.

Kentucky.— Henderson v. Com., 16 Ky. L. Rep. 289, 27 S. W. 808.

Michigan.— People v. Butler, 55 Mich. 408, 21 N. W. 385.

Mississippi.— James v. State, 77 Miss. 370, 26 So. 929, 78 Am. St. Rep. 527.

Nebraska.— Wright v. State, 21 Nebr. 496, 32 N. W. 576.

New York.— People v. Cronk, 40 N. Y. App. Div. 206, 58 N. Y. Suppl. 13.

Pennsylvania.— Swan v. Com., 104 Pa. St. 218.

Texas.— Ridge v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1902) 66 S. W. 774; Stevens v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1902) 66 S. W. 549; Brooks v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1901) 65 S. W. 924; Grant v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1900) 58 S. W. 1025; Porter v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1899) 50 S. W. 380; Munson v. State, 34 Tex. Crim. 498, 31 S. W. 387; Kelly v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1893) 22 S. W. 588; Coleman v. State, 26 Tex. App. 252, 9 S. W. 609; Turner v. State, 24 Tex. App. 12, 5 S. W. 511.

Virginia.— Bundick v. Com., 97 Va. 783, 34 S. E. 454; Hite v. Com., 88 Va. 882, 14 S. E. 696; Prather v. Com., 85 Va. 122, 7 S. E. 178; Johnson v. Com., 29 Gratt. (Va.) 796.

Corroboration of accomplice see the following cases:

Alabama.— Johnson v. State, 92 Ga. 577, 20 S. E. 8.

Kentucky.—Murray v. Com., 16 Ky. L. Rep. 389, 28 S. W. 480.

Missouri.— State v. Jackson, 106 Mo. 174, 17 S. W. 301.

Texas.— Price v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1900) 58 S. W. 83; Rocha v. State, 38 Tex. Crim. 69, 41 S. W. 611; Martin v. State, 21 Tex. App. 1, 17 S. W. 430.

Washington.— State v. Coates, 22 Wash. 601, 61 Pac. 726.

be direct. Circumstantial evidence is sufficient if it excludes, beyond a reasonable doubt, every other hypothesis except that of the defendant's guilt.[11]

2. Breaking and Entry. To prove the corpus delicti, the evidence must be sufficient to show affirmatively, and beyond a reasonable doubt, that there was such a breaking and entry as are necessary to constitute burglary.[12] But cir-

And see, generally, Criminal Law.

Confession.—As to evidence of a confession corroborated by the circumstances see Hackett v. State, 89 Ga. 418, 15 S. E. 532.

Attempt to commit burglary.— Fonville v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1901) 62 S. W. 573; Reg. v. McCann, 28 U. C. Q. B. 514. Compare cases cited infra, note 11.

11. Arizona.— Territory v. Booth, (Ariz. 1894) 36 Pac. 38.

California.— People v. Sears, 119 Cal. 267, 51 Pac. 325; People v. Flynn, 73 Cal. 511, 15 Pac. 102.

Georgia.— Holland v. State, 112 Ga. 540, 37 S. E. 887; Burks v. State, 92 Ga. 461, 17 S. E. 619; Matthews v. State, 86 Ga. 782, 804, 13 S. E. 16; Steadman v. State, 81 Ga. 736, 8 S. E. 420; Gregory v. State, 80 Ga. 269, 7 S. E. 222.

Illinois.— Williams v. People, 196 Ill. 173, 63 N. E. 681; White v. People, 179 Ill. 356, 53 N. E. 570; Spahn v. People, 137 Ill. 538, 27 N. E. 688.

Iowa.— State v. Marshall, 105 Iowa 38, 74 N. W. 763; State v. Fox, 80 Iowa 312, 45 N. W. 874, 20 Am. St. Rep. 425.

Kentucky.— Boyer v. Com., 14 Ky. L. Rep. 167, 19 S. W. 845; Johnson v. Com., 12 Ky. L. Rep. 873, 15 S. W. 671.

Michigan.—People v. Hogan, 123 Mich. 233, 81 N. W. 1096.

Minnesota.— Maroney v. State, 8 Minn. 218.

Mississippi.— Cook v. State, (Miss. 1900) 28 So. 833.

Missouri.— State v. Turner, 110 Mo. 196, 19 S. W. 645, 106 Mo. 272, 17 S. W. 304.

Nebraska.— Seling v. State, 18 Nebr. 548, 26 N. W. 254.

Nevada.— State v. Watkins, 11 Nev. 30.

New Jersey.— State v. Wines, 65 N. J. L. 31, 46 Atl. 702.

New York.— People v. Lyons, 29 N. Y. App. Div. 174, 51 N. Y. Suppl. 811; People v. Noonan, 14 N. Y. Suppl. 519, 38 N. Y. St. 854.

North Carolina.— State v. Christmas, 101 N. C. 749, 8 S. E. 361.

Oregon.— State v. Tucker, 36 Oreg. 291, 61 Pac. 894, 51 L. R. A. 246.

Pennsylvania.— Swan v. Com., 104 Pa. St. 218.

Texas.— Cogshall v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1900) 58 S. W. 1011; Harraway v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1897) 40 S. W. 262. See also Whitworth v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1902) 67 S. W. 1019; King v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1902) 67 S. W. 410; Hollengshead v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1902) 67 S. W. 114.

Vermont.— State v. Fitzgerald, 72 Vt. 142, 47 Atl. 403.

Washington.— State v. Norris, (Wash. 1902) 67 Pac. 983.

Wisconsin.— Hunt v. State, 103 Wis. 559, 79 N. W. 751.

New Zealand.— See Reg. v. Fowler, 3 L. R. (New Zealand) 64.

Tracks and corroborating circumstances.— Similarity of tracks found at the place of the burglary with tracks of the prisoner made voluntarily in court, slightly corroborated by the fact that these were bits of paper found at the scene of the crime and similar paper was found in defendant's possession, will sustain a finding that the defendant was the person who did the act. Gregory v. State, 80 Ga. 269, 7 S. E. 222. And see Burks v. State, 92 Ga. 461, 17 S. E. 619. Compare, however, Wright v. State, 21 Nebr. 496, 32 N. W. 576; Hite v. Com., 88 Va. 882, 14 S. E. 696; Prather v. Com., 85 Va. 122, 7 S. E. 178.

Attempt to commit burglary.— As to the sufficiency of the evidence to show attempt to commit burglary see People v. Lowen, 109 Cal. 381, 42 Pac. 32; White v. People, 179 Ill. 356, 53 N. E. 570; Com. v. Clark, 10 Pa. Co. Ct. 444; Adams v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1901) 62 S. W. 1059. Compare Fonville v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1901) 62 S. W. 573; Reg. v. McCann, 28 U. C. Q. B. 514. Evidence that at three o'clock in the morning the accused and another were seen coming from the immediate vicinity of a store, the door of which was fifteen minutes later found broken open and ajar, whereas half an hour before it had been tried and found closed; that the accused had previously been convicted of burglary on his own confession; and that, on seeing the officers, he fled, was held sufficient to sustain a conviction of an attempt to commit burglary. State v. Carr, 146 Mo. 1, 47 S. W. 790.

Burglary or attempt.— A conviction of attempt to commit burglary will not be set aside on the ground that the offense, if any, was burglary, where the evidence shows that the door of the building was found broken open a short time after it is proved to have been closed, and there is no evidence that there was an entry or that anything was stolen. State v. Carr, 146 Mo. 1, 47 S. W. 790.

12. Alabama.— Lowder v. State, 63 Ala. 143, 35 Am. Rep. 9.

Georgia.— Fisher v. State, 93 Ga. 309, 20 S. E. 329; Kelly v. State, 82 Ga. 441, 9 S. E. 171; Williams v. State, 52 Ga. 580.

Kansas.— See State v. Moon, 62 Kan. 801, 64 Pac. 609, under Kansas statute.

Michigan.— People v. McCord, 76 Mich. 200, 42 N. W. 1106.

Mississippi.— Prescott v. State, (Miss. 1895) 18 So. 683.

Nebraska.—McGrath v. State, 25 Nebr. 780, 41 N. W. 780.

cumstantial evidence may be sufficient to show both a breaking[13] and an entry.[14]

3. Time of Offense. When the offense is alleged to have been committed in the night-time, and this element is essential, as at common law, the fact that it was committed in the night-time must be affirmatively proved beyond a reasonable doubt.[15] And the same is true when it is sought to convict under a statute

New Jersey.— State v. Wilson, 1 N. J. L. 502, 1 Am. Dec. 216.

Texas.—Martin v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1897) 40 S. W. 270; Williams v. State, (Tex. App. 1890) 13 S. W. 609; Jones v. State, 25 Tex. App. 226, 7 S. W. 669.

Victoria.— Reg. v. Payne, 13 Vict. L. R. 359.

See 8 Cent. Dig. tit. "Burglary," § 97.

It should appear that the doors and windows were shut. Kelly v. State, 82 Ga. 441, 9 S. E. 171; Williams v. State, 52 Ga. 580; State v. Wilson, 1 N. J. L. 502, 1 Am. Dec. 216; Reg. v. Payne, 13 Vict. L. R. 359, and cases cited supra, this note.

As to sufficiency of the evidence on this question see Martin v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1897) 40 S. W. 270. A breaking and force under the Texas statute cannot be presumed from the mere fact of entry. Jones v. State, 25 Tex. App. 226, 7 S. W. 669.

13. Georgia.— Holland v. State, 112 Ga. 540, 37 S. E. 887; Pritchett v. State, 92 Ga. 33, 18 S. E. 350. Compare Ramsey v. State, 69 Ga. 771.

Kansas.— State v. Cash, 38 Kan. 50, 16 Pac. 144.

Kentucky.— Boyer v. Com., 14 Ky. L. Rep. 167, 19 S. W. 845.

Massachusetts.— Com. v. Hagan, 170 Mass. 571, 49 N. E. 922; Com. v. Merrill, Thach. Crim. Cas. (Mass.) 1.

Michigan.— People v. Curley, 99 Mich. 238, 58 N. W. 68; People v. Robinson, 86 Mich. 415, 49 N. W. 260.

Missouri.— State v. Warford, 106 Mo. 55, 16 S. W. 886, 27 Am. St. Rep. 322; State v. Kenney, 101 Mo. 160, 14 S. W. 187.

New York.— Foster v. People, 63 N. Y. 619 [affirming 3 Hun (N. Y.) 6, 5 Thomps. & C. (N. Y.) 670, 49 How. Pr. (N. Y.) 69]; People v. Gartland, 30 N. Y. App. Div. 534, 52 N. Y. Suppl. 352; People v. Block, 15 N. Y. Suppl. 229, 39 N. Y. St. 477. But it has been held that the fact of breaking should be proved by the direct testimony of the person in the occupancy of the premises, or a satisfactory excuse should be given for not calling him as a witness. People v. Caniff, 2 Park. Crim. (N. Y.) 586.

North Carolina.— State v. Christmas, 101 N. C. 749, 8 S. E. 361.

South Carolina.— State v. Bee, 29 S. C. 81, 6 S. E. 911.

Texas.—Painter v. State, 26 Tex. App. 454, 9 S. W. 774.

Washington.— State v. Munson, 7 Wash. 239, 34 Pac. 932.

United States.— U. S. v. Lantry, 30 Fed. 232.

14. State v. Watkins, 11 Nev. 30.

Circumstances of entry — Being armed.— On a prosecution for burglary when so armed as to indicate violent intentions, evidence that the defendant was so armed when he left the house where the offense was committed is sufficient to warrant a finding that he was so armed when he committed the offense. State v. Morris, 47 Conn. 179.

Non-consent of owner or occupant.— Circumstantial evidence is not sufficient to show non-consent of the owner of the premises, where he was a witness and could have testified directly. Ridge v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1902) 66 S. W. 774. Want of consent by a firm is not shown by the testimony of one of the partners that he did not consent, where the other partner, although a witness, did not testify directly and positively to his want of consent. Wisdom v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1901) 61 S. W. 926. Where the state has proved that the entry was without the consent of the owner of the premises, who also had actual control and management, it is not required to further prove want of consent of his servants or assistants, for such consent, if it existed, is matter of defense. Willis v. State, 33 Tex. Crim. 168, 25 S. W. 1119; Vallereal v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1892) 20 S. W. 557. Nor is it necessary to prove want of consent of one who, although owning an interest in the property stolen, was not in possession of the property in the house. Hurley v. State, 35 Tex. Crim. 282, 33 S. W. 354.

15. California.— People v. Griffin, 19 Cal. 578. See also People v. Smith, 136 Cal. 207, 68 Pac. 702.

Georgia.—Waters v. State, 53 Ga. 567.

Iowa.— State v. Frahm, 73 Iowa 355, 35 N. W. 451.

Michigan.— People v. Bielfus, 59 Mich. 576, 26 N. W. 771.

Nebraska.— Leisenberg v. State, 60 Nebr. 628, 84 N. W. 6; Ashford v. State, 36 Nebr. 38, 53 N. W. 1036.

Nevada.— State v. Gray, 23 Nev. 301, 46 Pac. 801.

North Carolina.— State v. Whit, 49 N. C. 349.

Ohio.— Adams v. State, 31 Ohio St. 462.

Texas.— Levine v. State, 22 Tex. App. 683, 3 S. W. 660.

Utah.— State v. Miller, (Utah 1902) 67 Pac. 790.

England.— See Reg. v. Nicholas, 1 Cox C. C. 218.

See 8 Cent. Dig. tit. "Burglary," § 98.

A charge of burglary in a barn in the night-time and stealing therefrom a saddle is not sustained by evidence that the saddle was in the barn at six o'clock in the evening, and was gone at seven o'clock in the morning, unof burglary in the daytime, where the time is an essential element of the offense.[16] The time of the offense, however, may be proved by circumstantial evidence.[17]

4. Character, Occupancy, and Ownership of Premises. It is also necessary that the evidence shall show beyond a reasonable doubt that the premises were of such a character, and were occupied in such a manner or for such a purpose, as to be the subject of the offense charged.[18] And the ownership of the premises as alleged in the indictment must be sufficiently established by the evidence.[19]

5. The Intent. As the felonious intent alleged in the indictment is an essender a statute defining the night-time as the period between sunset and sunrise. State v. Gray, 23 Nev. 301, 46 Pac. 801.

Particular hour at night.— It is sufficient if it appears that the offense was committed at some hour of the night, and the particular hour need not be proved. State v. Tazwell, 30 La. Ann. 884.

Accessory before the fact.— To convict one as accessory before the fact to breaking and entering at night with intent to steal, it is not necessary to show that the defendant knew the crime was to be committed at night. Com. v. Glover, 111 Mass. 395.

16. See supra, IV, C, 4; V, B, 5.

Daytime burglary.— An instruction to the effect that if the proof satisfies the jury that the crime may have been committed either in the day or night, and left them in doubt as to whether it was committed in the day or night, then they should find the defendant guilty of burglary in the daytime, is erroneous. The defendant can only have the benefit of the doubt by an acquittal. Jones v. State, 63 Ga. 141. In Iowa, however, where burglary in the daytime is punished as a less offense than burglary in the night-time, it was held that a conviction of burglary in the daytime is proper on an indictment alleging a burglary at night, where the evidence leaves the time of the offense uncertain. State v. Jordan, 87 Iowa 86, 54 N. W. 63.

17. Arizona.— Taylor v. Territory, (Ariz. 1901) 64 Pac. 423.

California.— People v. McCarty, 117 Cal. 65, 48 Pac. 984; People v. Getty, 49 Cal. 581.

Georgia.— Williams v. State, 60 Ga. 445; Brown v. State, 59 Ga. 456; Houser v. State, 58 Ga. 78.

Louisiana.— State v. Taylor, 37 La. Ann. 40.

Michigan.— People v. Tracy, 121 Mich. 318, 80 N. W. 21; People v. Dupree, 98 Mich. 26, 56 N. W. 1046; People v. Taylor, 93 Mich. 638, 53 N. W. 777.

Minnesota.— State v. Johnson, 33 Minn. 34, 21 N. W. 843.

New Hampshire.— State v. Bancroft, 10 N. H. 105.

New York.— People v. Edwards, 1 Wheel. Crim. (N. Y.) 371.

North Carolina.— State v. McKnight, 111 N. C. 690, 16 S. E. 319.

18. State v. Teeter, 69 Iowa 717, 27 N. W. 485. See supra, II, E.

As to the sufficiency of the evidence to show that a building was a "smoke-house," as alleged in the indictment (see Wait v. State, 99 Ala. 164, 13 So. 584); to show that the building was a "butcher's shop" (see Green v. State, 56 Ark. 386, 19 S. W. 1055).

Dwelling-house.— To sustain a conviction for burglarizing a dwelling-house the evidence must show that some one resided in the house. Fuller v. State, 48 Ala. 273. And see supra, II, E, 2. Where the owner of a house had left it, and been absent for several months, when it was broken and entered, and some of the household effects had been packed in boxes, and the more valuable articles removed, but the beds, carpets, and curtains had been left in their place, and it did not appear that she established a home elsewhere or intended to do so, but she in fact returned and occupied the house after the entry, it was held that the jury were justified in finding that the house was a dwelling-house. Schwabacher v. People, 165 Ill. 618, 46 N. E. 809.

Goods in building.— Where the indictment is under a statute for breaking and entering a building in which goods were kept for sale or deposit, etc., with intent to steal, the evidence must show beyond a reasonable doubt that there were valuable goods in the house. Kelly v. State, 82 Ga. 441, 9 S. E. 171; Bergeron v. State, 53 Nebr. 752, 74 N. W. 253. And see supra, II, E, 3, b, (VII).

19. See supra, II, F; V, B, 3.

Illustrations.— It was held that an allegation that the building was the dwelling-house of "William Drake" was not sustained by evidence that it was the "Drake House," that it was "a house kept by Mr. Drake," and that "Mr. Drake lives there." Jackson v. State, 55 Wis. 589, 13 N. W. 448. But where an indictment laid the ownership of the house in H. Wempe and one G. Wempe testified that his father owned the house, without giving evidence as to his first name, it was held that the jury might presume that the name of witness's father was H. Wempe, and that he was in possession. People v. McGilver, 67 Cal. 55, 7 Pac. 49. Evidence that the person alleged in an indictment for burglary to have been the owner of the building supervised its construction, and gave instructions, and that the person having custody and control was his agent and acted under his instructions is sufficient to support the allegation of ownership. Runnels v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1898) 47 S. W. 470. Where an indictment laid the ownership of the premises in A B and C D, partners, doing business in the firm name of B & D, it was held that proof of ownership in the firm name of B & D, without any proof of the christian names of the partners, was not sufficient to sustain a conviction. Doan v. State, 26 Ind. 495. As tial element of the offense, it must be affirmatively established by the evidence beyond a reasonable doubt,[20] unless there is a statute allowing presumption of intent from the breaking and entry.[21] The intent, however, may and generally must be proved by circumstantial evidence, for as a rule it is not susceptible of direct proof.[22] The existence at the time of the breaking and entering of an

to the sufficiency of the evidence to prove ownership of a store in certain persons as a firm, as alleged in the indictment see Henderson v. Com., 98 Va. 794, 34 S. E. 881.

20. Arkansas.— Starchman v. State, 62 Ark. 538, 36 S. W. 940.

California.— People v. Crowley, 100 Cal. 478, 35 Pac. 84; People v. Mulkey, 65 Cal. 501, 4 Pac. 507; People v. Young, 65 Cal. 225, 3 Pac. 813.

Delaware.—State v. Fisher, 1 Pennew. (Del.) 303, 41 Atl. 208; State v. Carter, 1 Houst. Crim. Cas. (Del.) 402; State v. Carpenter, 1 Houst. Crim. Cas. (Del.) 367; State v. Eaton, 3 Harr. (Del.) 554.

Florida.— Davis v. State, 22 Fla. 633.

Georgia.— Rush v. State, 114 Ga. 113, 39 S. E. 941.

Illinois.— Price v. People, 109 Ill. 109.

Iowa.— State v. Bell, 29 Iowa 316.

Massachusetts.— Com. v. Doherty, 10 Cush. (Mass.) 52.

Minnesota.— State v. Riggs, 74 Minn. 460, 77 N. W. 302.

Montana.— State v. Carroll, 13 Mont. 246, 33 Pac. 688.

Nebraska.— Ashford v. State, 36 Nebr. 38, 53 N. W. 1036.

New Jersey.— State v. Wilson, 1 N. J. L. 502, 1 Am. Dec. 216.

New York.—People v. Marks, 4 Park. Crim. (N. Y.) 153.

Texas.— Ford v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1899) 54 S. W. 761; Moore v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1896) 37 S. W. 747; Mitchell v. State, 32 Tex. Crim. 479, 24 S. W. 280, 33 Tex. Crim. 575, 28 S. W. 475; Walton v. State, 29 Tex. App. 163, 15 S. W. 646; Coleman v. State, 26 Tex. App. 252, 9 S. W. 609; Black v. State, 18 Tex. App. 124; Allen v. State, 18 Tex. App. 120; Hamilton v. State, 11 Tex. App. 116. See also King v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1902) 67 S. W. 410; Dickson v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1901) 64 S. W. 1043.

See 8 Cent. Dig. tit. "Burglary," § 96.

Intent to rape.— To sustain an indictment for intent to rape, it must appear beyond a reasonable doubt that the defendant intended to use force. Com. v. Doherty, 10 Cush. (Mass.) 52; McNair v. State, 53 Ala. 453; Mitchell v. State, 32 Tex. Crim. 479, 24 S. W. 280, 33 Tex. Crim. 575, 28 S. W. 475; Robinson v. State, 53 Md. 151, 36 Am. Rep. 399. And see supra, II, G. On a trial for burglary with intent to rape, a charge authorizing a conviction if the defendant broke and entered "with intent upon his part to gratify his passion upon the person of the female, either by force or by surprise, and against her consent," is error, as it authorizes a conviction, although there may have been no intent to commit rape, for which force, actual or constructive, is essential. McNair v. State, 53 Ala. 453.

Proof of intent to commit robbery will sustain an indictment alleging intent to steal. People v. Crowley, 100 Cal. 478, 35 Pac. 84; State v. Halford, 104 N. C. 874, 10 S. E. 524; State v. Cody, 60 N. C. 197.

Value of property.— Ordinarily it is not necessary to prove the value of the property which it is alleged that the defendant intended to steal. McCrary v. State, 96 Ga. 348, 23 S. E. 409; Collins v. State, 20 Tex. App. 197. But a statute may render the question of value material. See supra, II, E, 3, b, (VII). Under a statute punishing the breaking and entering of a building in which there is valuable property, with intent to steal, it is necessary to prove that the property was of some value. Bergeron v. State, 53 Nebr. 752, 74 N. W. 253. On an indictment for breaking and entering a corn-crib and stealing corn, the jury may infer that the corn was of value from proof that it was used for feeding stock. Miller v. State, 77 Ala. 41. The fact that a witness, on a trial for burglary, did not place any particular value on the goods taken is immaterial, where the goods were produced at the trial and submitted to examination by the jury. State v. Peach, 70 Vt. 283, 40 Atl. 732.

21. State v. Wilson, 9 Wash. 218, 37 Pac. 424; Linbeck v. State, 1 Wash. 336, 25 Pac. 452.

22. California.— People v. Winters, 93 Cal. 277, 28 Pac. 946; People v. Soto, 53 Cal. 415.

Florida.— Clifton v. State, 26 Fla. 523, 7 So. 863.

Georgia.— Steadman v. State, 81 Ga. 736, 8 S. E. 420; Woodward v. State, 54 Ga. 106.

Illinois.— Feister v. People, 125 Ill. 348, 17 N. E. 748.

Indiana.— Burrows v. State, 84 Ind. 529.

Iowa.— State v. Worthen, 111 Iowa 267, 82 N. W. 910; State v. Mecum, 95 Iowa 433, 64 N. W. 286; State v. Fox, 80 Iowa 312, 45 N. W. 874, 20 Am. St. Rep. 425; State v. Teeter, 69 Iowa 717, 27 N. W. 485; State v. Maxwell, 42 Iowa 208.

Kansas.— State v. Moon, 62 Kan. 801, 64 Pac. 609; State v. Cash, 38 Kan. 50, 16 Pac. 144.

Kentucky.— Hill v. Com., 12 Ky. L. Rep. 914, 15 S. W. 870.

Louisiana.— State v. Woods, 31 La. Ann. 267.

Massachusetts.— Com. v. Shedd, 140 Mass. 451, 5 N. E. 254; Com. v. Hope, 22 Pick. (Mass.) 1.

Michigan.— People v. Curley, 99 Mich. 238, 58 N. W. 68.

New Hampshire.— State v. Moore, 12 N. H. 42.

intent to commit larceny, rape, murder, or other felony may be inferred as a fact from proof that the felony was actually committed or attempted after the entry.[23] And even where the felony was not actually committed, an intent to commit the same may be inferred from the time and manner at and in which the entry was made, or the conduct of the accused after the entry, or both.[24]

New Jersey.— State v. Wilson, 1 N. J. L. 502, 1 Am. Dec. 216.

New York.—In re Corcoran, 34 Misc. (N. Y.) 332, 69 N. Y. Suppl. 569, 15 N. Y. Crim. 392; People v. Calvert, 22 N. Y. Suppl. 220, 51 N. Y. St. 186; People v. Marks, 4 Park. Crim. (N. Y.) 153.

North Carolina.— State v. Christmas, 101 N. C. 749, 8 S. E. 361; State v. McBryde, 97 N. C. 393, 1 S. E. 925; State v. Powell, 94 N. C. 965; State v. McDaniel, 60 N. C. 245; State v. Boon, 35 N. C. 244, 57 Am. Dec. 555.

Texas.—Franco v. State, 42 Tex. 276; Dickson v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1901) 64 S. W. 1043; Mullens v. State, 35 Tex. Crim. 149, 32 S. W. 691; Alexander v. State, 31 Tex. Crim. 359, 20 S. W. 756.

Utah.— People v. Morton, 4 Utah 407, 11 Pac. 512.

Washington.— State v. Anderson, 5 Wash. 350, 31 Pac. 969.

West Virginia.— State v. Caddle, 35 W. Va. 73, 12 S. E. 1098.

23. Delaware.— State v. Manluff, 1 Houst. Crim. Cas. (Del.) 208.

Florida.— Clifton v. State, 26 Fla. 523, 7 So. 863.

Iowa.— State v. Maxwell, 42 Iowa 208.

Kansas.— State v. Cash, 38 Kan. 50, 16 Pac. 144.

Louisiana.— State v. Woods, 31 La. Ann. 267.

Massachusetts.— Com. v. Hope, 22 Pick. (Mass.) 1.

Michigan.— People v. Curley, 99 Mich. 238, 58 N. W. 68.

New Hampshire.— State v. Moore, 12 N. H. 42; Jones v. State, 11 N. H. 269.

New Jersey.— State v. Wilson, 1 N. J. L. 502, 1 Am. Dec. 216.

Texas.— State v. Robertson, 32 Tex. 159.

West Virginia.—State v. Caddle, 35 W. Va. 73, 12 S. E. 1098.

24. In a late Iowa case, where an intent to commit larceny was alleged, it was said: "One who breaks into the dwelling-house of another in the night-time, in the absence of any explanation of the act, will be presumed to have intended to commit a public offense. His silence as to his intent is evidence that it was to commit a crime. The character of the house entered,— a dwelling; the time of entering — at night; and the absence of explanation of the act,— raise a presumption of an intent to commit a public offense." State v. Fox, 80 Iowa 312, 45 N. W. 874, 20 Am. St. Rep. 425. And see other cases cited infra, this note.

Intent to steal.— Thus an intent to commit larceny may be inferred from the fact that there were valuables in the house, particularly where defendant knew of this fact, and that the defendant, having no reason for entering, broke and entered at a late hour of the night. For cases in which circumstantial evidence of this character has been held sufficient to convict see the following:

California.— People v. Winters, 93 Cal. 277, 28 Pac. 946; People v. Soto, 53 Cal. 415.

Florida.— Clifton v. State, 26 Fla. 523, 7 So. 863.

Georgia.— Steadman v. State, 81 Ga. 736, 8 S. E. 420; Woodward v. State, 54 Ga. 106. Compare Rush v. State, 114 Ga. 113, 39 S. E. 941.

Illinois.— Feister v. People, 125 Ill. 348, 17 N. E. 748.

Indiana.— Burrows v. State, 84 Ind. 529.

Iowa.— State v. Worthen, 111 Iowa 267, 82 N. W. 910; State v. Teeter, 69 Iowa 717, 27 N. W. 485.

Kansas.— State v. Cash, 38 Kan. 50, 16 Pac. 144.

Kentucky.— Hill v. Com., 12 Ky. L. Rep. 914, 15 S. W. 870.

Massachusetts.— Com. v. Shedd, 140 Mass. 451, 5 N. E. 254.

Michigan.— People v. Curley, 99 Mich. 238, 58 N. W. 68.

New York.— People v. Calvert, 22 N. Y. Suppl. 220, 51 N. Y. St. 186; People v. Marks, 4 Park. Crim. (N. Y.) 153. See also In re Corcoran, 34 Misc. (N. Y.) 332, 69 N. Y. Suppl. 569, 15 N. Y. Crim. 392.

North Carolina.— State v. Christmas, 101 N. C. 749, 8 S. E. 361; State v. McBryde, 97 N. C. 393, 1 S. E. 925.

Texas.— Franco v. State, 42 Tex. 276; Pilot v. State, 38 Tex. Crim. 515, 43 S. W. 112, 1024; Mullens v. State, 35 Tex. Crim. 149, 32 S. W. 691; Alexander v. State, 31 Tex. Crim. 359, 20 S. W. 756.

Utah.— People v. Morton, 4 Utah 407, 11 Pac. 512.

Washington.— State v. Dolson, 22 Wash. 259, 60 Pac. 653; State v. Anderson, 5 Wash. 350, 31 Pac. 969.

West Virginia.—State v. Caddle, 35 W. Va. 73, 12 S. E. 1098.

For cases in which circumstantial evidence has been held insufficient to establish an intent to steal see Rush v. State, 114 Ga. 113, 39 S. E. 941; Price v. People, 109 Ill. 109; Ford v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1899) 54 S. W. 761. See also State v. Riggs, 74 Minn. 460, 77 N. W. 302, where the evidence showed that the defendant was drunk, and there were other circumstances tending to rebut the inference of intent to steal.

Intent to rape.— An intent to rape may be inferred, in the absence of evidence to the contrary, from the fact that the defendant broke and entered through the window of the sleeping-room of a girl, put his hand upon her person, and, upon her awakening, left hurriedly without any explanation, or from

6. Possession of Stolen Goods. Proof of possession by the defendant shortly after the burglary of goods stolen at the time of the burglary is to be considered by the jury, and if unexplained, and if breaking and entry by someone is shown, will be sufficient, when accompanied by other circumstances tending to connect him with the commission of the offense, to warrant a conviction, although the other evidence might not alone be sufficient.[25] Some of the courts, but not all, other circumstances of a similar character. State v. Boon, 35 N. C. 244, 57 Am. Dec. 555. See also Harvey v. State, 53 Ark. 425, 14 S. W. 645, 22 Am. St. Rep. 229; State v. Moon, 62 Kan. 801, 64 Pac. 609; State v. McBryde, 97 N. C. 393, 1 S. E. 925; State v. Powell, 94 N. C. 965; Dickson v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1901) 64 S. W. 1043; Ford v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1899) 54 S. W. 761.

For cases in which the evidence has been held insufficient to show intent to rape see State v. Fisher, 1 Pennew. (Del.) 303, 41 Atl. 208; Davis v. State, 22 Fla. 633; Mitchell v. State, 32 Tex. Crim. 479, 24 S. W. 280, 33 Tex. Crim. 575, 28 S. W. 475; Walton v. State, 29 Tex. App. 163, 15 S. W. 646; Coleman v. State, 26 Tex. App. 252, 9 S. W. 609; Allen v. State, 18 Tex. App. 120; Hamilton v. State, 11 Tex. App. 116.

Intent to rape and to steal.—An indictment for burglary with intent to rape and to steal is not sustained by evidence that two women were sleeping up-stairs in the house, and had some personal property there, and that defendant climbed a post to the outside gallery of the second story, and fled when discovered, where it appears that the house had only been occupied a few days, and defendant testifies that he thought it was vacant, and climbed to the gallery to sleep. Moore v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1896) 37 S. W. 747.

Intent to rape or to steal.— Proof that the defendant entered the sleeping-room of two girls and placed his hands on their persons, and fled on their making an outcry, does not raise a presumption of an intent to rape or assault, but whether his intent was to rape or to steal is to be determined from all the circumstances of the case. State v. Worthen, 111 Iowa 267, 82 N. W. 910. Where the evidence showed that defendant entered a bedroom through a window late at night, after the lamps were extinguished, seized a woman by the throat, threw himself across the bed, and fled upon her making an outcry, it was held sufficient to warrant a finding that the intent was to steal, although the woman testified that she believed the purpose was to have sexual intercourse. People v. Soto, 53 Cal. 415. See also Davis v. State, 22 Fla. 633. Compare Ford v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1899) 54 S. W. 761.

An intent to rob, rather than to commit a simple larceny, may be inferred from the fact that the defendant broke and entered the house noisily. Lowe v. State, 14 Lea (Tenn.) 204.

Intent to commit adultery may be inferred from the fact that the defendant was found in bed with the wife of the owner of the house, both being undressed. State v. Mecum, 95 Iowa 433, 64 N. W. 286.

25. For cases in which evidence of possession of stolen property with other circumstances has been held sufficient to sustain a conviction see the following:

Arkansas.— Dodd v. State, 33 Ark. 517.

California.— People v. Joy, (Cal. 1901) 66 Pac. 964; People v. Brady, (Cal. 1901) 65 Pac. 823; People v. Sears, 119 Cal. 267, 51 Pac. 325; People v. Jochinsky, 106 Cal. 638, 39 Pac. 1077; People v. Abbott, 101 Cal. 645, 36 Pac. 129; People v. Arthur, 93 Cal. 536, 29 Pac. 126; People v. Getty, 49 Cal. 581.

Georgia.— Holland v. State, 112 Ga. 540, 37 S. E. 887; Jones v. State, 105 Ga. 649, 31 S. E. 574; Moncrief v. State, 99 Ga. 295, 25 S. E. 735; Rusher v. State, 94 Ga. 363, 21 S. E. 593, 47 Am. St. Rep. 175; Boswell v. State, 92 Ga. 581, 17 S. E. 805; Murks v. State, 92 Ga. 449, 17 S. E. 266; Miller v. State, 91 Ga. 186, 16 S. E. 985; Wright v. State, 91 Ga. 80, 16 S. E. 259; Gaines v. State, 89 Ga. 366, 15 S. E. 477; Matthews v. State, 86 Ga. 782, 804, 13 S. E. 16; Harris v. State, 84 Ga. 269, 10 S. E. 742; Eubanks v. State, 82 Ga. 62, 9 S. E. 424; Grimes v. State, 77 Ga. 762, 4 Am. St. Rep. 112; Wilkerson v. State, 73 Ga. 799; Smith v. State, 62 Ga. 663; Bryan v. State, 62 Ga. 179; Bilinglea v. State, 56 Ga. 686; Wilson v. State, 55 Ga. 324.

Illinois.— Magee v. People, 139 Ill. 138, 28 N. E. 1077; Langford v. People, 134 Ill. 444, 25 N. E. 1009. See also Williams v. People, 196 Ill. 173, 63 N. E. 681.

Indiana.— Dawson v. State, 65 Ind. 442.

Iowa.— State v. Marshall, 105 Iowa 38, 74 N. W. 763.

Kansas.— State v. Powell, 61 Kan. 81, 58 Pac. 968; State v. Conway, 56 Kan. 682, 44 Pac. 627.

Kentucky.— Anderson v. Com., 18 Ky. L. Rep. 99, 35 S. W. 542; Johnson v. Com., 12 Ky. L. Rep. 873, 15 S. W. 671.

Michigan.—People v. Hogan, 123 Mich. 233, 81 N. W. 1096; People v. Wood, 99 Mich. 620, 58 N. W. 638; People v. Burns, 67 Mich. 537, 35 N. W. 154.

Mississippi.— Cook v. State, (Miss. 1900) 28 So. 833; Frank v. State, 39 Miss. 705.

Missouri.— State v. Bryant, 134 Mo. 246, 35 S. W. 597.

Nevada.— State v. Jones, 19 Nev. 365, 11 Pac. 317; State v. Watkins, 11 Nev. 30.

New York.— Knickerbocker v. People, 43 N. Y. 177 [affirming 57 Barb. (N. Y.) 365]; People v. Lyons, 29 N. Y. App. Div. 174, 51 N. Y. Suppl. 811; People v. Hagan, 14 N. Y. Suppl. 233, 37 N. Y. St. 660; Jones v. People, 6 Park. Crim. (N. Y.) 126.

Texas.— Prince v. State, 44 Tex. 480; Rogers v. State, 43 Tex. 406; McGee v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1898) 46 S. W. 930; Jackson v. State, 28 Tex. App. 370, 13 S. W. 451, 19 go further than this and hold that such proof is alone prima facie proof of burglary by the defendant, as it is of larceny,[26] if a breaking and entry is proved, and if the possession is not explained at all, or the explanation given by the defendant is unreasonable or shown to be false.[27] Proof of defendant's unexplained pos-

Am. St. Rep. 839; Langford v. State, 17 Tex. App. 445.

Vermont.— State v. Fitzgerald, 72 Vt. 142, 47 Atl. 403; State v. Harrison, 66 Vt. 523, 29 Atl. 807, 44 Am. St. Rep. 864.

Virginia.— Gravely v. Com., 86 Va. 396, 10 S. E. 431; Wright v. Com., 82 Va. 183.

Washington.— State v. Norris, (Wash. 1902) 67 Pac. 983.

Wisconsin.— Murphy v. State, 86 Wis. 626, 57 N. W. 367; Ryan v. State, 83 Wis. 486, 53 N. W. 836; Neubrandt v. State, 53 Wis. 89, 9 N. W. 824; Ingalls v. State, 48 Wis. 647, 4 N. W. 785.

United States.— Considine v. U. S., 112 Fed. 342, 50 C. C. A. 272.

See 8 Cent. Dig. tit. "Burglary," § 104.

Corroboration of accomplice.—Possession of the stolen property by the defendant, if not reasonably explained, is sufficient to corroborate the testimony of an accomplice to defendant's guilt. Boswell v. State, 92 Ga. 581, 17 S. E. 805.

26. See LARCENY.

27. Alabama.—Randolph v. State, 100 Ala. 139, 14 So. 792; Cooper v. State, 87 Ala. 135, 6 So. 303; Ross v. State, 82 Ala. 65, 2 So. 139; Henderson v. State, 70 Ala. 23, 45 Am. Rep. 72; Neal v. State, 53 Ala. 465; Crawford v. State, 44 Ala. 45.

Florida.— Roberson v. State, 40 Fla. 509, 24 So. 474; Tilly v. State, 21 Fla. 242.

Georgia.— Davidson v. State, 104 Ga. 761, 30 S. E. 946; Brooks v. State, 96 Ga. 353, 23 S. E. 413; Fletcher v. State, 93 Ga. 180, 18 S. E. 555; Gaines v. State, 89 Ga. 366, 15 S. E. 477; Mangham v. State, 87 Ga. 549, 13 S. E. 558; Falvey v. State, 85 Ga. 157, 11 S. E. 607; Wynn v. State, 81 Ga. 744, 7 S. E. 689; Grimes v. State, 77 Ga. 762, 4 Am. St. Rep. 112; Davis v. State, 76 Ga. 16; Harrison v. State, 74 Ga. 801; Wilkerson v. State, 73 Ga. 799; Lundy v. State, 71 Ga. 360; Brown v. State, 61 Ga. 311; Houser v. State, 58 Ga. 78.

Illinois.— Magee v. People, 139 Ill. 138, 28 N. E. 1077; Langford v. People, 134 Ill. 444, 25 N. E. 1009; Smith v. People, 115 Ill. 17, 3 N. E. 733. See also Williams v. People, 196 Ill. 173, 63 N. E. 681.

Massachusetts.— Com. v. McGorty, 114 Mass. 299; Com. v. Millard, 1 Mass. 6. See also Com. v. Parmenter, 101 Mass. 211.

Mississippi.— Cook v. State, (Miss. 1900) 28 So. 833; Harris v. State, 61 Miss. 304.

Missouri.— State v. Yandle, 166 Mo. 589, 66 S. W. 532; State v. Dale, 141 Mo. 284, 42 S. W. 722, 64 Am. St. Rep. 513; State v. Wilson, 137 Mo. 592, 39 S. W. 80; State v. Belcher, 136 Mo. 135, 37 S. W. 800; State v. Blue, 136 Mo. 41, 37 S. W. 796; State v. Bryant, 134 Mo. 246, 35 S. W. 597; State v. Moore, 117 Mo. 395, 22 S. W. 1086; State v. Owsley, 111 Mo. 450, 20 S. W. 194; State v. Warford, 106 Mo. 55, 16 S. W. 886, 27 Am. St. Rep. 322; State v. Owens, 79 Mo. 619; State v. Wheeler, 79 Mo. 366; State v. Babb, 76 Mo. 501; State v. Butterfield, 75 Mo. 297.

New York.— Knickerbocker v. People, 43 N. Y. 177 [affirming 57 Barb. (N. Y.) 365 and distinguishing and limiting Jones v. People, 6 Park. Crim. (N. Y.) 126; Davis v. People, 1 Park. Crim. (N. Y.) 447; People v. Frazier, 2 Wheel. Crim. (N. Y.) 55]. See also People v. Wilson, 7 N. Y. App. Div. 326, 40 N. Y. Suppl. 107. Compare People v. White, 3 N. Y. Crim. 366.

North Carolina.— State v. Graves, 72 N. C. 482.

Pennsylvania.— Com. v. Frew, 3 Pa. Co. Ct. 492.

Texas.— Binyon v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1900) 56 S. W. 339; Willis v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1900) 55 S. W. 829; Favro v. State, 39 Tex. Crim. 452, 46 S. W. 932, 73 Am. St. Rep. 950; McGee v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1898) 46 S. W. 930; Glover v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1898) 46 S. W. 824; McDaniel v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1896) 37 S. W. 324; Dawson v. State, 32 Tex. Crim. 535, 25 S. W. 21, 40 Am. St. Rep. 791; McKinney v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1895) 29 S. W. 271; Lightfoot v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1894) 24 S. W. 650; Thomas v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1893) 22 S. W. 144; Christian v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1893) 21 S. W. 252; Trent v. State, 31 Tex. Crim. 251, 20 S. W. 547; Jackson v. State, 28 Tex. App. 370, 13 S. W. 451, 19 Am. St. Rep. 839; Morgan v. State, 25 Tex. App. 513, 8 S. W. 487; Payne v. State, 21 Tex. App. 184, 17 S. W. 463.

England.— See Reg. v. Coots, 2 Cox C. C. 188; Reg. v. Exall, 4 F. & F. 922.

Some courts hold that proof of unexplained possession by the defendant shortly after the burglary is not prima facie proof that he committed the burglary, but that it is alone sufficient to authorize the jury to convict if they are convinced of his guilt beyond a reasonable doubt under all the circumstances.

Iowa.— State v. Jennings, 79 Iowa 513, 44 N. W. 799; State v. Shaffer, 59 Iowa 290, 13 N. W. 306. And see State v. Ham, 98 Iowa 60, 66 N. W. 1038; State v. La Grange, 94 Iowa 60, 62 N. W. 664; State v. Dimmitt, 88 Iowa 551, 55 N. W. 531; State v. Yobe, 87 Iowa 33, 53 N. W. 1088; State v. Ray, 79 Iowa 765, 44 N. W. 800; State v. Frahm, 73 Iowa 355, 35 N. W. 451; State v. Rivers, 68 Iowa 611, 27 N. W. 781; State v. Walker, 41 Iowa 217; State v. Reid, 20 Iowa 413. Evidence of possession of property stolen at the time of the burglary has been held sufficient to support a conviction, notwithstanding the testimony of a person that defendant was in his company at the time and did not go near the place of the crime, where the witness was shown to be a man of bad moral character. State v. Dimmitt, 88 Iowa 551, 55 session, however, does not raise a presumption of guilt as a matter of law — a legal presumption — but is merely evidence from which the jury may convict. By the weight of authority, the question of guilt on such evidence is for the jury under all the circumstances.[28] Such evidence is not sufficient if the possession of the defendant is otherwise reasonably explained by him, unless the explanation is shown to be false.[29] The evidence must clearly show possession by the defend-

N. W. 531. See also Gaines v. State, 89 Ga. 366, 15 S. E. 477.

Kentucky.— See Branson v. Com., 92 Ky. 330, 13 Ky. L. Rep. 614, 17 S. W. 1019; Hunter v. Com., 20 Ky. L. Rep. 1165, 48 S. W. 1077; Anderson v. Com., 18 Ky. L. Rep. 99, 35 S. W. 542; Cox v. Com., 10 Ky. L. Rep. 597, 9 S. W. 804.

Nebraska.— Metz v. State, 46 Nebr. 547, 65 N. W. 190 [overruling Whitman v. State, 42 Nebr. 841, 60 N. W. 1025].

New Hampshire.— See State v. Hodge, 50 N. H. 510.

Virginia.— Porterfield v. Com., 91 Va. 801, 22 S. E. 352; Gravely v. Com., 86 Va. 396, 10 S. E. 431; Taliaferro v. Com., 77 Va. 411.

Other courts hold that such evidence is prima facie proof of the burglary by the defendant, if the jury find that the goods were stolen at the time of the burglary and by the same person, but not otherwise. People v. Wood, 99 Mich. 620, 58 N. W. 638; Stuart v. People, 42 Mich. 255, 3 N. W. 863; People v. Gordon, 40 Mich. 716.

And still other courts have held that such evidence alone is not only not prima facie evidence that the defendant is guilty of burglary, but that it is not sufficient to sustain a conviction.

California.—People v. Hannon, 85 Cal. 374, 24 Pac. 706; People v. Flynn, 73 Cal. 511, 15 Pac. 102; People v. Beaver, 49 Cal. 57.

Kansas.— State v. Powell, 61 Kan. 81, 58 Pac. 968; State v. Conway, 56 Kan. 682, 44 Pac. 627.

Nevada.— See State v. Jones, 19 Nev. 365, 11 Pac. 317.

Utah.— People v. Hart, 10 Utah 204, 37 Pac. 330.

Wisconsin.— Ryan v. State, 83 Wis. 486, 53 N. W. 836.

Statutory provision as to failure to testify. — In Utah, under a statute providing that a defendant's refusal to testify shall in no manner prejudice him, it is held that a defendant's failure to explain his possession of property stolen at the time of a recent burglary can raise no presumption against him. People v. Hart, 10 Utah 204, 37 Pac. 330.

28. Alabama.— Crawford v. State, 44 Ala. 45.

California.—People v. Hannon, 85 Cal. 374, 24 Pac. 706.

Georgia.— Falvey v. State, 85 Ga. 157, 11 S. E. 607; Lundy v. State, 71 Ga. 360; Houser v. State, 58 Ga. 78.

Illinois.— Smith v. People, 115 Ill. 17, 3 N. E. 733.

Iowa.— State v. Rivers, 68 Iowa 611, 27 N. W. 781; State v. Walker, 41 Iowa 217; State v. Reid, 20 Iowa 413.

Kansas.— State v. Gillespie, 62 Kan. 469, 63 Pac. 742, 84 Am. St. Rep. 411.

Massachusetts.— Com. v. McGorty, 114 Mass. 299.

Michigan.— People v. Wood, 99 Mich. 620, 58 N. W. 638; People v. Gordon, 40 Mich. 716. See also People v. Bielfus, 59 Mich. 576, 26 N. W. 771.

Mississippi.— See Stokes v. State, 58 Miss. 677, 680.

Nebraska.— Metz v. State, 46 Nebr. 547, 65 N. W. 190.

New Hampshire.—State v. Hodge, 50 N. H. 510.

New York.— People v. White, 3 N. Y. Crim. 366.

North Carolina.— State v. Graves, 72 N. C. 482.

Ohio.— Methard v. State, 19 Ohio St. 363.

Oklahoma.— Johnson v. Territory, 5 Okla. 695, 50 Pac. 90.

Pennsylvania.— Com. v. Frew, 3 Pa. Co. Ct. 492.

Texas.— Prince v. State, 44 Tex. 480.

Virginia.— Taliaferro v. Com., 77 Va. 411; Walker v. Com., 28 Gratt. (Va.) 969. See also Porterfield v. Com., 91 Va. 801, 22 S. E. 352; Gravely v. Com., 86 Va. 396, 10 S. E. 431.

Wisconsin.— Ingalls v. State, 48 Wis. 647, 4 N. W. 785. See also Ryan v. State, 83 Wis. 486, 53 N. W. 836.

29. Alabama.—Henderson v. State, 70 Ala. 23, 45 Am. Rep. 72; Crawford v. State, 44 Ala. 45.

Florida.— Leslie v. State, 35 Fla. 171, 17 So. 555.

Georgia.— King v. State, 99 Ga. 686, 26 S. E. 480, 59 Am. St. Rep. 251; Phillips v. State, 56 Ga. 28.

Kansas.— State v. Gillespie, 62 Kan. 469, 63 Pac. 742, 84 Am. St. Rep. 411.

Missouri.— State v. Dashman, 153 Mo. 454, 55 S. W. 69.

Nebraska.— Metz v. State, 46 Nebr. 547, 65 N. W. 190.

Texas.—Knight v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1901) 65 S. W. 88; Alvia v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1901) 60 S. W. 551; Williams v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1897) 38 S. W. 989; Jackson v. State, 28 Tex. App. 143, 12 S. W. 701; Morgan v. State, 25 Tex. App. 498, 8 S. W. 488; Field v. State, 24 Tex. App. 422, 6 S. W. 200; Ross v. State, 16 Tex. App. 554.

England.— Reg. v. Exall, 4 F. & F. 922.

See 8 Cent. Dig. tit. "Burglary," § 107.

Unreasonable or contradictory explanation by the defendant, or an explanation contradicted by other evidence, need not be believed by the jury, and will not as a matter of law prevent a conviction.

ant,[30] and the possession must have been personal and exclusive, or if joint with another, there must be something else in the evidence to connect the defendant with the offense.[31] The defendant's possession must not be too remote in point of time.[32] And of course the property must be sufficiently identified as that stolen at the time of the burglary.[33] Evidence of the possession of the stolen

California.— People v. Sears, 119 Cal. 267, 51 Pac. 325.

Georgia.— Fletcher v. State, 93 Ga. 180, 18 S. E. 555.

Illinois.— Williams v. People, 196 Ill. 173, 63 N. E. 681; Magee v. People, 139 Ill. 138, 28 N. E. 1077.

Iowa.— State v. Marshall, 105 Iowa 38, 74 N. W. 763.

Texas.— Whitworth v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1902) 67 S. W. 1019; Binyon v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1900) 56 S. W. 339; Lightfoot v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1894) 24 S. W. 650; Thomas v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1893) 22 S. W. 144; Payne v. State, 21 Tex. App. 184, 17 S. W. 463.

Washington.— Mooney v. State, 2 Wash. 487, 28 Pac. 363.

30. The proof of possession by the defendant.— Reg. v. Coots, 2 Cox C. C. 188; Mann v. State, 27 Tex. App. 580, 11 S. W. 640. That the stolen property was found in a place near a new house into which the accused was moving does not show possession by him of the property, and does not of itself warrant conviction. Washington v. State, 21 Fla. 328. Evidence tending to prove that articles resembling those stolen were seen in a room not occupied by the accused, although in the same house in which he lived, is not sufficient to convict. Carter v. State, 46 Ga. 637. Proof that the goods were found in a room occupied by the defendant and another is not conclusive that they were in the possession of either. Shropshire v. State, 69 Ga. 273. Possession of the stolen property by the wife of the defendant a year after the burglary, and when the defendant is in jail on another charge, is evidence to go to the jury, it further appearing that on a search of the house just prior to the defendant's arrest none of the stolen property was found. Randolph v. State, 100 Ala. 139, 14 So. 792. Testimony of a gunsmith, in whose possession a pistol stolen at the time of the burglary was shortly afterward found, that it was brought to him by the defendant for repairs, is sufficient to sustain a conviction, although contradicted by the testimony of the defendant. Richardson v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1897) 42 S. W. 996. If the circumstances render it reasonably certain that the defendant placed the goods where they were found it need not be shown by positive testimony that he was in actual possession of them. McDaniel v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1896) 37 S. W. 324.

31. Georgia.— Sparks v. State, 111 Ga. 830, 35 S. E. 654; Shropshire v. State, 69 Ga. 273.

Iowa.— State v. Tilton, 63 Iowa 117, 18 N. W. 716.

Missouri.— State v. Belcher, 136 Mo. 135, 37 S. W. 800; State v. Warford, 106 Mo. 55, 16 S. W. 886, 27 Am. St. Rep. 322.

Nevada.— State v. Jones, 19 Nev. 365, 11 Pac. 317.

New York.—People v. Wilson, 7 N. Y. App. Div. 326, 40 N. Y. Suppl. 107.

Texas.— Jackson v. State, 28 Tex. App. 143, 370, 12 S. W. 701.

Virginia.— Taliaferro v. Com., 77 Va. 411. Compare Com. v. Parmenter, 101 Mass. 211.

Although defendant's possession may have been jointly with others, it may be considered by the jury in connection with other evidence tending to connect him with the offense. Moncrief v. State, 99 Ga. 295, 25 S. E. 735. See also Cogshall v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1900) 58 S. W. 1011.

Possession of others may be sufficient if a conspiracy is shown. Murphy v. State, 86 Wis. 626, 57 N. W. 367. And see State v. Norris, (Wash. 1902) 67 Pac. 983.

On a prosecution of a man and his wife for burglary, it was held that evidence that some of the stolen property was found thirteen months after the burglary in the wife's possession, the husband then being in jail on another charge, was sufficient to go to the jury, it further appearing that on a search of the house just prior to the husband's arrest, none of the stolen property was found. Randolph v. State, 100 Ala. 139, 14 So. 792.

32. Alabama.—White v. State, 72 Ala. 195.

Georgia.— Brooks v. State, 96 Ga. 353, 23 S. E. 413; Turver v. State, 95 Ga. 222, 21 S. E. 381.

Iowa.— State v. Tilton, 63 Iowa 117, 18 N. W. 716; State v. Walker, 41 Iowa 217.

Missouri.— State v. Warford, 106 Mo. 55, 16 S. W. 886, 27 Am. St. Rep. 322.

Nebraska.— Metz v. State, 46 Nebr. 547, 65 N. W. 190.

North Carolina.—State v. Graves, 72 N. C. 482.

As to remoteness of possession see Considine v. U. S., 112 Fed. 342, 50 C. C. A. 272.

Circumstance for jury.— But remote possession by the defendant of the stolen property is a circumstance to be considered by the jury. Randolph v. State, 100 Ala. 139, 14 So. 792; Bryan v. State, 62 Ga. 179; Com. v. Parmenter, 101 Mass. 211.

Where, on the trial of two persons for burglary and larceny, the evidence tended to show that the defendant and another had joint possession of the stolen property, but it appeared that such possession did not commence until five or six weeks after the larceny, it was held too remote to raise a presumption that either of the defendants were guilty of burglary. State v. Warford, 106 Mo. 55, 16 S. W. 886, 27 Am. St. Rep. 322.

33. Georgia.— King v. State, 99 Ga. 686, 26 S. E. 480, 59 Am. St. Rep. 251; Brooks v. State, 96 Ga. 353, 23 S. E. 413; Rusher v.

goods by the defendant will not support a conviction for burglary unless the breaking and entering are clearly shown.[34]

7. Necessity to Trace Goods to Defendant. It is not necessary to a conviction of burglary with intent to commit larceny to trace the stolen property to the possession of the defendant if there is sufficient evidence without this to connect him with the offense.[35]

VII. TRIAL.

A. In General. In most respects the trial of an indictment for burglary is governed by the same principles of law as any other criminal prosecution.[36]

B. Questions of Law and Fact. It is for the court to determine and instruct the jury, as a question of law, what is necessary to constitute a breaking and entry, what must be the character of the premises to render them the subject of the offense, what is night-time, what intent is necessary, and as to the other elements which are necessary in law to constitute the offense; but it is for the jury to determine, as a question of fact, whether the evidence brings the case within the definition of the offense as given by the court, and whether the offense was committed by the defendant.[37]

State, 94 Ga. 363, 21 S. E. 593, 47 Am. St. Rep. 175; Carter v. State, 46 Ga. 637.

Michigan.—People v. Bielfus, 59 Mich. 576, 26 N. W. 771.

Nebraska.— Wright v. State, 21 Nebr. 496, 32 N. W. 576.

Texas.—Stevens v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1902) 66 S. W. 549; Green v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1895) 31 S. W. 386; Morgan v. State, 25 Tex. App. 498, 8 S. W. 488.

Virginia.— Bundick v. Com., 97 Va. 783, 34 S. E. 454.

Sufficiency of identification.— See Branson v. Com., 92 Ky. 330, 13 Ky. L. Rep. 614, 17 S. W. 1019; People v. Boujet, 2 Park. Crim. (N. Y.) 11. Identification of money see Rusher v. State, 94 Ga. 363, 21 S. E. 593, 47 Am. St. Rep. 175. Evidence of similarity may be sufficient. Langford v. People, 134 Ill. 444, 25 N. E. 1009; State v. Babb, 76 Mo. 501; Gravely v. Com., 86 Va. 396, 10 S. E. 431. Compare Green v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1895) 31 S. W. 386. Unexplained possession by the defendant shortly after the burglary of certain tobacco similar to that stolen is sufficient to support a conviction, without positive proof that it was part of the tobacco stolen. State v. Dale, 141 Mo. 284, 42 S. W. 722, 64 Am. St. Rep. 513. Property found in the defendant's possession is sufficiently identified as that stolen, where the owner testifies that he believes them to be the same, and positively identifies a key to his store found in defendant's possession. State v. Babb, 76 Mo. 501. The fact that flour alleged to have been stolen from a mill at the time of a burglary was found in sacks labeled with the name of the mill and the grade tends to show that it was of the quality stolen. People v. Wood, 99 Mich. 620, 58 N. W. 638. The mere fact that there is some conflict in the evidence as to the identity of the goods found in defendant's possession with those stolen does not necessarily entitle the defendant to an acquittal. Branson v. Com., 92 Ky. 330, 13 Ky. L. Rep. 614, 17 S. W. 1019. Compare, however, People v. Bielfus, 59 Mich. 576, 26 N. W. 771.

34. Alabama.—Fuller v. State, 48 Ala. 273.

Georgia.— Lester v. State, 106 Ga. 371, 32 S. E. 335; Mangham v. State, 87 Ga. 549, 13 S. E. 558.

Michigan.—People v. Bielfus, 59 Mich. 576, 26 N. W. 771; People v. Gordon, 40 Mich. 716.

Nebraska.— Metz v. State, 46 Nebr. 547, 65 N. W. 190.

New York.—People v. Caniff, 2 Park. Crim. (N. Y.) 586. And see Dawson v. State, 32 Tex. Crim. 535, 25 S. W. 21, 40 Am. St. Rep. 791.

35. Garrity v. People, 107 Ill. 162.

36. This is true of principles governing the reception of evidence, arguments of counsel, instructions, verdict, etc. See, generally, Criminal Law. In this section it is intended to refer to those cases only in which the application of the general rules has reference more peculiarly to the subject of burglary.

37. Breaking and entry.—The court should tell the jury what acts constitute a breaking, as that is a question of law. Rose v. Com., 19 Ky. L. Rep. 272, 40 S. W. 245. Under the Texas statute, providing that there is a breaking within the meaning of the statute, where the entry is at a chimney or other "unusual place," what constitutes an unusual place, so as to bring a case within the statute, is a question of fact for the jury. Green v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1900) 58 S. W. 99.

Owner's consent to the entry.— Whether a person who left the door of his place unlocked, in order that one who had planned to commit a burglary might enter by simply lifting the latch, and be arrested, consented to the entry, was held a proper question for the jury. State v. Jansen, 22 Kan. 498.

Character and occupancy of the premises.— Whether the thing or place broken and entered was a part of the house, or so connected with it as to render the breaking and entry burglary, is a question of law for the court.

C. Instructions — 1. In General. In the charge to the jury the court must define the offense,[38] and must instruct the jury clearly as to every essential element,[39] as the breaking and entry,[40] the time of the offense,[41] the felonious

Com. v. Bruce, 79 Ky. 560. Whether a store alleged to have been broken and entered adjoined a dwelling-house, or was occupied as such, is a question of fact for the jury. People v. Smith, 92 Mich. 10, 52 N. W. 67; People v. Shaughnessy, 89 Mich. 130, 50 N. W. 645. It is a question for the jury whether the owner of a residence had left the same without any intention of returning. Schwabacher v. People, 165 Ill. 618, 46 N. W. 809. Whether a corn-house and its fastenings were such as to be the subject of burglary is for the jury. It is error for the court to instruct that they were as a matter of law; it should merely instruct as to principles, and leave the question for the jury. State v. Williamson, 42 Conn. 261. It is for the jury to pass upon the credibility of evidence as to the family's presence in the house at the time of the entry, so as to determine whether the offense was burglary in the first degree. State v. Alston, 113 N. C. 666, 18 S. E. 692.

Night-time.— It is for the court to instruct the jury, as a question of law, what is the night-time at common law, or under a statute, but it is for the jury to apply the definition and say, as a question of fact, whether the offense was committed in the night-time.

California.— People v. McCarty, 117 Cal. 65, 48 Pac. 984.

Connecticut.— State v. Leaden, 35 Conn. 515.

Georgia.— Waters v. State, 53 Ga. 567.

Louisiana.— State v. Taylor, 37 La. Ann. 40.

Michigan.— People v. Dupree, 98 Mich. 26, 56 N. W. 1046; People v. Taylor, 93 Mich. 638, 53 N. W. 777.

The identity of money or property found in the defendant's possession with that stolen is a question of fact for the jury. Com. v. Chilson, 2 Cush. (Mass.) 15.

Intent.— Whether a person found drunk in the house of another was in a condition to be capable of a felonious intent in breaking and entering is a question for the jury. State v. Bell, 29 Iowa 316.

38. State v. Clary, 24 S. C. 116.

39. Arkansas.— Shaeffer v. State, 61 Ark. 241, 32 S. W. 679.

California.— People v. Jenkins, 16 Cal. 431.

Iowa.— State v. Yohe, 87 Iowa 33, 53 N. W. 1088.

Michigan.—People v. Bielfus, 59 Mich. 576, 26 N. W. 771.

Montana.— State v. Green, 15 Mont. 424, 39 Pac. 322.

Nebraska.—Bergeron v. State, 53 Nebr. 752, 74 N. W. 253.

Texas.— Castenada v. State, 11 Tex. App. 390.

West Virginia.—State v. Caddle, 35 W. Va. 73, 12 S. E. 1098.

See 8 Cent. Dig. tit. "Burglary," § 111.

40. Breaking and entry.— As to the propriety and sufficiency of instructions in this respect see State v. Yohe, 87 Iowa 33, 53 N. W. 1088; State v. Fleming, 107 N. C. 905, 12 S. E. 131; Peryda v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1896) 35 S. W. 981. It is error for the court to refuse a defendant's request to instruct, where the evidence warrants the instruction, that "the fact that a person attempts to steal while in a building is not sufficient, without other circumstances proved, to cast on him the burden of proving himself not guilty of burglary." People v. Barry, 94 Cal. 481, 29 Pac. 1026. Where the defendant's evidence clearly shows that the door of the house was open, he is entitled to a special charge to acquit if the jury have a reasonable doubt whether the door was closed, and refusal of his request for such a charge is not cured by the fact that the general charge instructed the jury to convict if they believed beyond a reasonable doubt that the defendant broke and entered the house by force without the owner's consent. Duke v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1900) 57 S. W. 652. Failure to define the degree of force necessary to constitute a breaking further than to say that it must be by force is not error, where the evidence shows that the entry must have been made by breaking the lock. Young v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1898) 44 S. W. 835. In instructing as to the degree of force necessary to constitute a burglary in the daytime under the Texas statute, it is not error to use the statutory illustrations, although there is no evidence that the particular character of the force mentioned in the illustrations was used. Sparks v. State, 34 Tex. Crim. 86, 29 S. W. 264. Where the evidence for the state was such as to make it impossible for the jury not to conclude that the window through which defendant entered was an outside window, it was held unnecessary for the court to specially instruct the jury that they could not convict unless they found this fact. State v. Butterfield, 75 Mo. 297.

41. Time of offense — "Night-time."— An instruction or charge purporting to state all the elements of the offense is fatally defective if it fails to state that the breaking and entry must have been in the night-time, when this is essential. People v. Bielfus, 59 Mich. 576, 26 N. W. 771; Bergeron v. State, 53 Nebr. 752, 74 N. W. 253. But on a prosecution for burglary by breaking into a house with intent to steal, it is not necessary for the court to define night-time, where by statute, as in Texas, it is equally burglary, where an actual breaking is charged, whether the offense is committed by night or by day. Lane v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1894) 28 S. W. 468. And see Smith v. State, 34 Tex. Crim. 124, 29 S. W. 775. Where the indictment charges a breaking and entering in the night-time, an instruction to convict if the jury find that the defendant broke and entered as charged in the indictment refers to the whole indictment, and is not erroneous in not charging more intent,[42] etc. When the indictment is based upon a statute, it is proper and sufficient to define the offense in the language of the statute, if the statute states all the essential elements of the offense.[43] The charge of the court must conform to and be limited by the specific offense charged in the indictment.[44] A charge given is erroneous, and a request to charge is properly refused, if it is merely argumentative,[45] if it is in conflict with the evidence,[46] if there is no evidence in the case specifically that the breaking and entry must have been in the night-time. Clifton v. State, 26 Fla. 523, 7 So. 863. As to the definition of night-time see supra, II, D, 2. When night-time is defined by statute an instruction defining night-time in the language of the statute is sufficient. Jackson v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1897) 38 S. W. 990.

42. The felonious intent.—Shaeffer v. State, 61 Ark. 241, 32 S. W. 679; State v. Caddle, 35 W. Va. 73, 12 S. E. 1098. On an indictment for entering a car with intent to steal, it is error to charge that a "mere entering is sufficient," without expressly charging that the entry must have been made with such intent. State v. Green, 15 Mont. 424, 39 Pac. 322. An instruction to convict if the jury find from the evidence that the defendant entered the premises in the night-time and took therefrom sundry goods and chattels is erroneous, because it ignores the character of the entry and the intent in entering. People v. Jenkins, 16 Cal. 431. A charge that the breaking and entry must have been "for the purpose" of committing theft, instead of with "intent" to commit theft, is not objectionable. Phillips v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1898) 45 S. W. 709. An instruction is not erroneous in defining burglary as a breaking, etc., "with a view" to commit a felony, instead of using the words "with intent to," as the meaning is the same. State v. Clary, 24 S. C. 116.

Intent to commit larceny.— On a trial for burglary with intent to commit larceny it is necessary to instruct the jury on the law of larceny. State v. Yobe, 87 Iowa 33, 53 N. W. 1088; Castenada v. State, 11 Tex. App. 390. As to the propriety and sufficiency of instructions on intent to steal see Charles v. State, 36 Fla. 691, 13 So. 369. An instruction defining burglary is not erroneous because it uses the words, "intention of stealing," instead of "intention of committing grand or petit larceny." People v. Urquidas, 96 Cal. 239, 31 Pac. 52.

Intent to commit rape.— On indictment for burglary with intent to commit rape, which intent must be proved, the court must instruct the jury as to what is necessary to constitute rape. Mitchell v. State, 32 Tex. Crim. 479, 24 S. W. 280, 33 Tex. Crim. 575, 28 S. W. 475; Walton v. State, 29 Tex. App. 163, 15 S. W. 646.

Intent to murder.— On a prosecution for burglary with intent to murder the court need not define the degrees of murder. Stinnett v. State, 32 Tex. Crim. 526, 24 S. W. 908.

Intent not alleged.— An instruction or request to charge is erroneous if it authorizes a conviction on proof of a different intent than that charged. See infra, note 44.

Time of existence of intent.— It is proper to refuse to charge that the intent to steal (or to commit the other felony that may be alleged) must have existed "before and not after" the defendant entered the house, as it is sufficient if the intent exists at the time of the entry, and further, if it exists at the time, it is immaterial whether or not it exists afterward. Jackson v. State, 102 Ala. 167, 15 So. 344.

43. People v. Young, 65 Cal. 225, 3 Pac. 813; State v. Willis, 43 La. Ann. 407, 9 So. 11; State v. Huntley, 25 Oreg. 349, 35 Pac. 1065.

A charge defining night-time in the language of the statute is sufficient on this point. Jackson v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1897) 38 S. W. 990.

44. Lott v. State, 17 Tex. App. 598.

Intent.—Where the indictment charges burglary with intent to commit larceny only, it is error to charge that the defendant may be convicted if he intended to commit any felony, for the intent must be proved as alleged. People v. Mulkey, 65 Cal. 501, 4 Pac. 507; People v. Young, 65 Cal. 225, 3 Pac. 813; State v. Taylor, 136 Mo. 66, 37 S. W. 907. And see supra, V, B, 6. It is therefore proper to refuse to charge, on such an indictment, that defendant cannot be convicted unless he broke and entered "with intent to commit some felony," as this would imply that he could be convicted if he intended to commit any felony. People v. Young, 65 Cal. 225, 3 Pac. 813.

45. See, generally, CRIMINAL LAW.

It is proper to refuse as merely argumentative a request to instruct the jury that they may look to the fact that defendant worked for the owner of the house after the alleged offense, to see whether it shows guilty conscience on his part, and if they think it tends to show innocence they should consider it and give defendant the benefit of all proper inferences. Riley v. State, 88 Ala. 188, 7 So. 104.

46. Instruction in conflict with evidence.— Where a breaking is shown it is proper to refuse to instruct as to larceny from the house. Tarver v. State, 95 Ga. 222, 21 S. E. 381. And see, generally, CRIMINAL LAW. Where, on an indictment for burglary, the uncontradicted evidence shows a breaking and burglary, it is not error to refuse to submit to the jury the statute punishing as a misdemeanor entry of a building under circumstances not amounting to burglary. People v. Meegan, 104 N. Y. 529, 11 N. E. 48. Under an indictment charging burglary by force, on which to base it, although it may be correct in the abstract,[47] if it singles out particular evidence or facts and authorizes a conviction or a particular finding thereon, or tells the jury that they cannot convict thereon, ignoring other evidence or facts which might authorize a different conclusion.[48] When the evidence is circumstantial the court must instruct the jury as to the law applicable to circumstantial evidence.[49] And where the indictment charges both burglary and larceny, the court should instruct the jury as to their authority to convict or acquit with respect to both offenses.[50] Where the evidence shows that the offense if any was as charged in one only of several counts, the jury are properly limited to that count.[51] Inaccurate or erroneous instructions to the jury are no ground for reversing a judgment of conviction, if the defendant could not have been prejudiced thereby.[52] The charge of the court and charges given at the request of the defendant and the state must be considered together, as a whole, in determining whether they are correct.[53]

2. Invading Province of Jury. On a trial for burglary, as in other cases, an instruction is erroneous, and will generally be ground for setting aside a conviction, if it invades the province of the jury as the judges of the facts,[54] as by expressing an opinion or commenting on the weight of the evidence or credibility threats, and fraud, under the Texas statute, an instruction as to an entry effected by each of such means is reversible error, where the evidence conclusively shows that it was accomplished by force alone. Miller v. State, 28 Tex. App. 445, 13 S. W. 646.

47. California.— People v. Abbott, 107 Cal. 645, 36 Pac. 129.

Iowa.— State v. Worthen, 111 Iowa 267, 82 N. W. 910.

Nebraska.— Ferguson v. State, 52 Nebr. 432, 72 N. W. 590, 66 Am. St. Rep. 512.

New York.— Knickerbocker v. People, 43 N. Y. 177.

Texas.—Riding v. State, 40 Tex. Crim. 452, 50 S. W. 698; Vallereal v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1892) 20 S. W. 557; Neiderluck v. State, 23 Tex. App. 38, 3 S. W. 573; Levine v. State, 22 Tex. App. 683, 3 S. W. 660; Lott v. State, 17 Tex. App. 598. See also King v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1902) 67 S. W. 410.

48. Alabama.— Cooper v. State, 88 Ala. 107, 7 So. 47.

California.— People v. Jenkins, 16 Cal. 431.

Missouri.— State v. Edwards, 109 Mo. 315, 19 S. W. 91; State v. North, 95 Mo. 615, 8 S. W. 799.

Nebraska.— Bergeron v. State, 53 Nebr. 752, 74 N. W. 253.

New Jersey.— State v. Bullitt, 64 N. J. L. 379, 45 Atl. 773.

North Carolina.— State v. Christmas, 101 N. C. 749, 8 S. E. 361.

Vermont.— State v. Fitzgerald, 72 Vt. 142, 47 Atl. 403.

And see, generally, Criminal Law.

An instruction that to constitute a "breaking" there need not have been an entrance of the whole body, but that "breaking of an outside shutter and a pane of glass, and the introduction of an arm into the house," is sufficient, is not objectionable as calling attention to a particular part of the testimony, although the definition so given fits the testimony. Kelley v. Com., 21 Ky. L. Rep. 1306, 54 S. W. 949.

49. Robertson v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1894) 26 S. W. 728. And see, generally, Criminal Law.

50. On an indictment charging both burglary and larceny, under a statute allowing a conviction of both offenses, the court should instruct the jury that they may convict of burglary and acquit of larceny, or convict of larceny and convict of burglary, or convict or acquit of both. State v. Brinkley, 146 Mo. 37, 47 S. W. 793. See supra, IV, I, J.

51. Coates v. State, 31 Tex. Crim. 257, 20 S. W. 585, holding that where the indictment contains two counts, one charging burglary at night and the other charging burglary in the daytime, and the evidence shows that the offense was committed at night, it is proper for the court, by instruction, to limit the jury to a consideration of the first count.

52. Pritchett v. State, 92 Ga. 33, 18 S. E. 350; Schwabacher v. People, 165 Ill. 618, 46 N. E. 809; Ferguson v. State, 52 Nebr. 432, 72 N. W. 590, 66 Am. St. Rep. 512; Hehn v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1899) 51 S. W. 1118. And see, generally, Criminal Law. Where an indictment charged burglary with intent to commit larceny, and the evidence showed that larceny was committed, but the jury found defendant guilty as charged in the indictment, it was held that it would not be presumed that they intended to find him guilty of the larceny, so as to render misleading an instruction which told the jury that defendant was charged with having broken into a certain store with intent to commit a felony, and that he was charged, further, with having committed larceny after breaking and entering. People v. Marks, 90 Mich. 555, 51 N. W. 638.

53. People v. Flynn, 73 Cal. 511, 15 Pac. 102; Clifton v. State, 26 Fla. 523, 7 So. 863. And see, generally, Criminal Law.

54. See, generally, Criminal Law.

It is proper to refuse an instruction that the jury may consider the fact that defendant voluntarily tried his feet in tracks said of the witnesses, etc.,[55] or upon the inferences or presumptions of fact to be drawn therefrom,[56] or by assuming as proven facts upon which the evidence is conflicting or is for the jury.[57]

3. As to Possession of Stolen Property. The court must properly instruct the jury as to the effect as evidence of the defendant's possession of property stolen at the time of the burglary, when there is such evidence before them,[58] to be his as a circumstance in his favor. Potter v. State, 92 Ala. 37, 9 So. 402.

55. California.—People v. Ah Sing, 59 Cal. 400.

Connecticut.—State v. Williamson, 42 Conn. 261; State v. Leaden, 35 Conn. 515.

Michigan.—People v. McCord, 76 Mich. 200, 42 N. W. 1106.

North Carolina.—State v. Alston, 113 N. C. 666, 18 S. E. 692.

Texas.— Hines v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1897) 42 S. W. 299; Scott v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1896) 36 S. W. 276; Searcy v. State, 1 Tex. App. 440.

And see, generally, Criminal Law; and infra, VII, C, 3.

But it was held that an instruction that certain evidence, if true, established a breaking and entry, and the commission of a crime, was not objectionable, where the court added, in conclusion, that those questions were for the jury to determine. People v. Hagan, 14 N. Y. Suppl. 233, 37 N. Y. St. 660.

Undisputed evidence.— Where the evidence shows beyond dispute that the burglary, if committed at all, was committed in the nighttime, and was therefore burglary in the first degree, an instruction that if the defendant is guilty he is guilty of burglary in the first degree is not error. People v. Kruger, 100 Cal. 523, 35 Pac. 88. Where the undisputed evidence shows the place broken and entered to have been a house as alleged in the indictment and required by the statute it is not error to charge that it was a house. Willis v. State, 33 Tex. Crim. 168, 25 S. W. 1119.

56. State v. Leaden, 35 Conn. 515.

57. Michigan.— People v. McCord, 76 Mich. 200, 42 N. W. 1106.

Missouri.— State v. Wheeler, 79 Mo. 366.

Nebraska.— Ferguson v. State, 52 Nebr. 432, 72 N. W. 590, 66 Am. St. Rep. 512; Metz v. State, 46 Nebr. 547, 65 N. W. 190.

North Carolina.—State v. Alston, 113 N. C. 666, 18 S. E. 692.

Texas.— Hines v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1897) 42 S. W. 299; Searcy v. State, 1 Tex. App. 440.

On an indictment for burglary of a dwelling-house an instruction stating in effect that the state charges that the defendant did enter the chicken-house, the same being within the curtilage or protection of the dwelling-house, is not erroneous as assuming such fact, where the evidence shows that the house entered was in fact a chicken-house within the inclosure and under the protection of the dwelling-house, and a statute declares that all outhouses contiguous to or within the curtilage or protection of the dwelling-house shall be considered as parts of the same. King v. State, 99 Ga. 686, 26 S. E. 480, 59 Am. St. Rep. 251.

On an indictment for breaking and entering a "warehouse," where the evidence shows that the house was an opera-house, but that it was a warehouse within the meaning of the statute, an instruction that if the defendant broke and entered the "opera-house," etc., he is guilty is not erroneous. Hunter v. Com., 20 Ky. L. Rep. 1165, 48 S. W. 1077.

58. As to the sufficiency and propriety of such instructions and of requests to charge see the following cases:

Alabama.— Hale v. State, 122 Ala. 85, 26 So. 236; Hicks v. State, 99 Ala. 169, 13 So. 375; Dodson v. State, 86 Ala. 60, 5 So. 485; Crawford v. State, 44 Ala. 45.

California.— People v. Brady, (Cal. 1901) 65 Pac. 823; People v. Abbott, 101 Cal. 645, 36 Pac. 129; People v. Hannon, 85 Cal. 374, 24 Pac. 706.

Georgia.— Davidson v. State, 104 Ga. 761, 30 S. E. 946; Cornwall v. State, 91 Ga. 277, 18 S. E. 154; Falvey v. State, 85 Ga. 157, 11 S. E. 607.

Iowa.— State v. Ryan, 113 Iowa 536, 85 N. W. 812.

Kentucky.— Johnson v. Com., 12 Ky. L. Rep. 873, 15 S. W. 671.

Michigan.— Stuart v. People, 42 Mich. 255, 3 N. W. 863.

Mississippi.— Harris v. State, 61 Miss. 304.

Missouri.— State v. Owsley, 111 Mo. 450, 20 S. W. 194; State v. Scott, 109 Mo. 226, 19 S. W. 89. See also State v. Dashman, 153 Mo. 454, 55 S. W. 69.

Nebraska.— Metz v. State, 46 Nebr. 547, 65 N. W. 190; Whitman v. State, 42 Nebr. 841, 60 N. W. 1025.

New York.— Knickerbocker v. People, 43 N. Y. 177; People v. White, 3 N. Y. Crim. 366; Jones v. People, 6 Park. Crim. (N. Y.) 126.

North Carolina.— State v. Graves, 72 N. C. 482.

Texas.— Torres v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1900) 55 S. W. 828; Scott v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1896) 36 S. W. 276; Franks v. State, 36 Tex. Crim. 149, 35 S. W. 977; Hayes v. State, 36 Tex. Crim. 146, 35 S. W. 983; Williams v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1895) 33 S. W. 371; Threadgill v. State, 32 Tex. Crim. 451, 24 S. W. 511; Marshall v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1893) 24 S. W. 25; Jackson v. State, 28 Tex. App. 143, 12 S. W. 701; Ayres v. State, 21 Tex. App. 399, 17 S. W. 253; Payne v. State, 21 Tex. App. 184, 17 S. W. 463; Eley v. State, (Tex. App. 1890) 13 S. W. 998.

Virginia.— Porterfield v. Com., 91 Va. 801, 22 S. E. 352.

but such instruction must be warranted by and in accordance with the evidence,[59] and the court must also submit to the jury any explanation of such possession given by the defendant or arising out of the other evidence.[60] In giving such instructions the court must not invade the province of the jury,[61] as by charging on the weight of the evidence,[62] or assuming that a burglary has been committed,[63] etc. And it is error to single out the fact of possession of the stolen property, when there is other evidence in the case, and authorize a conviction thereon.[64]

United States.—Considine v. U. S., 112 Fed. 342, 50 C. C. A. 272.

And see cases cited supra, VI, C, 6; and 8 Cent. Dig. tit. "Burglary," § 118.

It is error to charge that the jury must be satisfied that the defendant did not get possession of the stolen goods found in his possession by any burglary or larceny, but that he got possession in an honest way, for he may have gotten possession in a dishonest way and yet not be guilty of the burglary. Falvey v. State, 85 Ga. 157, 11 S. E. 607. And see Cornwall v. State, 91 Ga. 279, 18 S. E. 154; State v. Dashman, 153 Mo. 454, 55 S. W. 69.

It is proper to refuse an instruction to acquit the defendant, although he was found in possession of the stolen goods, if the jury have a reasonable doubt as to whether he stole them, or as to whether he broke and entered with intent to steal, as requiring an acquittal of burglary on a reasonable doubt of the actual stealing. Hale v. State, 122 Ala. 85, 26 So. 236.

Instruction as to circumstantial evidence. — Where the only evidence of defendant's guilt is proof that five days after the burglary he pawned property stolen from the house at the time of the burglary, it is error for the court to fail to instruct the jury as to the law applicable to circumstantial evidence. Robertson v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1894) 26 S. W. 728.

Harmless error.— An instruction as to the effect of proof of defendant's possession of the stolen property, although verbally incorrect, will not be ground for reversal of a conviction, if the defendant was not prejudiced thereby. Pritchett v. State, 92 Ga. 33, 18 S. E. 350.

59. Accord with the evidence.— People v. Abbott, 101 Cal. 645, 36 Pac. 129; Goldsmith v. State, 32 Tex. Crim. 112, 22 S. W. 405. Where the defendant has denied possession by him of the stolen property, testified to by another witness, failure to charge the jury on the effect of possession of recently stolen property is not error. Richardson v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1897) 42 S. W. 996. It is proper to refuse an instruction as to the effect of mere possession by the defendant of property stolen at the time of the burglary, without other evidence of guilt, where there is other evidence tending to show guilt. Hicks v. State, 99 Ala. 169, 13 So. 375. An instruction on the hypothesis that the defendant had individual and exclusive possession of stolen goods is not warranted by evidence that they were found in his mother's house, where he, being a minor, resided as a member of the family. Sparks v. State, 111 Ga. 830, 35 S. E. 654.

60. Failure to do so will generally constitute reversible error. Knight v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1901) 65 S. W. 88; Alvia v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1901) 60 S. W. 551; Williams v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1897) 38 S. W. 989; Hays v. State, 30 Tex. App. 472, 17 S. W. 1063; Shuler v. State, 23 Tex. App. 182, 4 S. W. 581. See Lamater v. State, 38 Tex. Crim. 249, 42 S. W. 304, holding a charge sufficient on this point.

And see supra, VI, C, 6.

61. See supra, VII, B, C, 2; Crawford v. State, 44 Ala. 45. The identity of money or property found on the defendant with that stolen is a question for the jury. Com. v. Chilson, 2 Cush. (Mass.) 15.

62. Crawford v. State, 44 Ala. 45; People v. Ah Sing, 59 Cal. 400; Scott v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1896) 36 S. W. 276.

For instructions held not to be objectionable as being on the weight of the evidence see Marshall v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1893) 24 S. W. 25; Payne v. State, 21 Tex. App. 184, 17 S. W. 463.

It is not reversible error to charge that the unexplained possession of stolen property by the defendant is a "guilty circumstance," and that defendant is bound to explain such possession, in order to remove its effect as a circumstance to be considered with other suspicious facts disclosed by the evidence, instead of saying that it is "a circumstance tending to show guilt." People v. Abbott, 101 Cal. 645, 34 Pac. 500, 36 Pac. 129.

63. In Metz v. State, 46 Nebr. 547, 65 N. W. 190, an instruction in the words: "If you believe from the evidence, beyond a reasonable doubt, that soon after the burglary of the storehouse," etc., the stolen property was in the defendant's possession, etc., was held erroneous as assuming commission of the alleged burglary.

64. Singling out fact of possession.—Franks v. State, 36 Tex. Crim. 149, 35 S. W. 977. An instruction as to the inference of guilt from unexplained possession of property stolen at the time of the burglary must be comprehensive enough to include the effect of proof of an alibi, of which there is evidence, to rebut such inference. State v. Edwards, 109 Mo. 315, 19 S. W. 91; State v. North, 95 Mo. 615, 8 S. W. 799. An instruction authorizing conviction on evidence of defendant's unexplained possession of goods stolen at the time of the burglary is erroneous, where it fails to call attention to evidence of defendant's good

D. Verdict. On the trial of an indictment for burglary, a general verdict of guilty is sufficient, in the absence of a special statutory provision to the contrary, and is a conviction of the highest offense charged in the indictment.[65] In some states, however, it is provided by statute that whenever a crime is distinguished in degrees the jury, if they convict the defendant, must find the degree of the crime of which he is guilty, and where burglary is divided into degrees, a general verdict of guilty, without specifying the degree, is insufficient.[66] The verdict must be responsive to the indictment,[67] and must be intelligible.[68] Where the jury are authorized or required to fix the punishment, a verdict fixing a punishment not authorized by law is void.[69] In most jurisdictions, on an indictment for burglary, the jury may convict of attempt to commit burglary,[70] and on an indictment for burglary in the first degree they may convict of burglary in a less degree, or other included offense.[71] In some jurisdictions, where the indictment charges both burglary and larceny, there may be a conviction of either or both.[72] character and submit that also to the jury. State v. Fitzgerald, 72 Vt. 142, 47 Atl. 403.

65. Mountain v. State, 40 Ala. 344. And see, generally, CRIMINAL LAW.

A general verdict of guilty of burglary is not vitiated by the addition of the words, "and find that the offense was committed since the first day of June 1866 by agreement of counsel," such day being the day when the new penal code went into operation. Mountain v. State, 40 Ala. 344. A general verdict is sufficient under an indictment having several counts charging the ownership of the premises and the goods stolen in different persons, where all the counts manifestly relate to the same burglary. Towns v. State, 111 Ala. 1, 20 So. 598. A verdict finding the defendant guilty of breaking and entering the store of a certain firm, without setting forth the names of the individuals composing it, as alleged in the indictment, is sufficient. Henderson v. Com., 98 Va. 794, 34 S. E. 881.

66. See, generally, CRIMINAL LAW.

Degrees of offense.— Under an indictment charging attempt to commit burglary, but not stating the time of the offense nor specifying the degree, a general verdict of "guilty as charged" is insufficient, where a statute makes every burglary in the night-time burglary in the first degree, and every burglary in the daytime burglary in the second degree, and a general statute provides that whenever a crime is distinguished into degrees the jury, if they convict the defendant, must find the degree of the crime of which he is guilty. People v. Travers, 73 Cal. 580, 15 Pac. 293.

67. A verdict of "guilty of breaking" is not responsive to an indictment charging burglary. State v. Evans, 49 La. Ann. 329, 21 So. 546. An indictment for burglary will not support a verdict of "guilty of stealing from the dwelling house." State v. Maloney, R. M. Charlt. (Ga.) 84; State v. Thompson, R. M. Charlt. (Ga.) 80.

68. On indictment for burglary a verdict of guilty of "Burgerally & Theft as charged in the indictment," is so unintelligible as to be void. Haney v. State, 2 Tex. App. 504. And see, generally, CRIMINAL LAW.

69. Murphy v. State, 7 Coldw. (Tenn.) 516. And see infra, VIII.

70. Donaldson v. State, 10 Ohio Cir. Ct. 613. And see, generally, INDICTMENTS AND INFORMATIONS.

71. Com. v. Hurd, 22 Ky. L. Rep. 509, 58 S. W. 369; State v. Fleming, 107 N. C. 905, 12 S. E. 131; Rex v. Compton, 3 C. & P. 418, 14 E. C. L. 640; Hungerford's Case, 2 East P. C. 518, 1 Leach 88; Rex v. Withal, 2 East P. C. 515, 517, 1 Leach 88. And see, generally, CRIMINAL LAW.

Conviction of less degree or included offense. — In Iowa where a statute provides that on an indictment for an offense consisting of different degrees the jury may find the defendant not guilty of the offense charged but guilty of some inferior degree, there may be a conviction of breaking and entering in the daytime, under an indictment charging a breaking and entering in the night-time. State v. Jordan, 87 Iowa 86, 54 N. W. 63. Contra, in Nebraska, In re McVey, 50 Nebr. 481, 70 N. W. 51. On an indictment for burglary in the first degree by breaking and entering a house actually occupied at the time, the jury may convict of burglary in the second degree by breaking and entering an unoccupied house. State v. Fleming, 107 N. C. 905, 12 S. E. 131. A statute providing that when the indictment charges burglary in the first degree, the jury may render a verdict in the second degree, if they deem it proper to do so, does not authorize a verdict in the second degree, where the evidence shows that the offense was in the first degree. State v. Johnston, 119 N. C. 883, 26 S. E. 163; State v. Alston, 113 N. C. 666, 18 S. E. 692; State v. Fleming, 107 N. C. 905, 12 S. E. 131.

72. State v. Sprague, 149 Mo. 409, 50 S. W. 901. See supra, IV, I, J.

Indictment charging burglary and larceny. — In a prosecution for burglary and larceny charged in the same count as permitted by a statute, a verdict of "guilty in manner and form as charged in the indictment," and assessing the punishment, is sufficient, although it does not say of which of said offenses the defendant is guilty. State v. Butterfield, 75 Mo. 297. The accused may be convicted of burglary without also being convicted of larceny, although the indictment charges and the evidence shows both burglary and larceny.

VIII. PUNISHMENT.

At common law burglary was a felony and punishable by death, but within the benefit of clergy. Early statutes, however, took away the benefit of clergy and made the offense punishable in all cases by death.[73] In all jurisdictions, no doubt, the punishment is now fixed by statute at imprisonment in the state prison for a certain term, or within certain terms.[74]

IX. HAVING POSSESSION OF BURGLARIOUS TOOLS OR IMPLEMENTS.

In some jurisdictions statutes have been enacted punishing any person who shall have possession of burglarious tools or implements with intent to use them in the commission of burglary or larceny, etc.[75] The gist of the offense is the having possession of the burglarious implements with intent to use them for a purpose specified in the statute, and the offense is complete as soon as they are procured with a design to so use them.[76] It is not necessary that the implements shall have been originally made and intended for burglarious use, but it is sufficient if they are suitable and intended by the possessor for such use.[77] The intention need not have been to use them in the county in which the defendant is prosecuted,[78]

State v. Burdett, 145 Mo. 674, 47 S. W. 796. It has been held that where an indictment charges burglary and larceny, a general verdict is a conviction of the burglary only, and is sufficient. State v. McClung, 35 W. Va. 280, 13 S. E. 654. And see State v. Williams, 40 W. Va. 268, 21 S. E. 721. But in England, where, on indictment for burglary and also for stealing in a dwelling-house, the defendant was acquitted of the burglary, but found guilty of the stealing, it was held that the verdict should be "not guilty of breaking and entering the dwelling-house in the night, but guilty of stealing," etc. Hungerford's Case, 2 East P. C. 518, 1 Leach 88.

Joint indictment.—On an indictment of two persons for burglary and larceny, one of them may be found guilty of the burglary and larceny, and the other of the larceny only. Rex v. Butterworth, R. & R. 387.

73. 4 Bl. Comm. 228.

74. For the construction of particular statutes fixing the punishment for burglary or burglary and larceny see Wilde v. Com., 2 Metc. (Mass.) 408; Hackett v. Com., 15 Pa. St. 95. Where the statute makes burglary punishable by death, but provides that the jury may commute the punishment to imprisonment for not less than ten nor more than twenty-one years, a verdict of guilty, fixing the punishment at imprisonment for five years, is void, and no judgment can be entered upon it. Murphy v. State, 7 Coldw. (Tenn.) 516.

As to forfeiture of property of the person convicted see Com. v. Pennock, 3 Serg. & R. (Pa.) 199.

Excessive punishment.— Seven years' imprisonment for burglary of a dwelling-house in the night-time is not excessive punishment. State v. O'Lacy, 55 Iowa 749, 7 N. W. 646; State v. Foster, 55 Iowa 748, 7 N. W. 643. And see, as to excessiveness of sentences, State v. Burton, (Wash. 1902) 67 Pac. 1097.

75. A statute prohibiting a person from making or mending burglars' tools, or from having the same in his possession, does not violate the constitutional provision that no person shall be deprived of his life, liberty, or property without due process of law. Ex p. Roberts, 166 Mo. 207, 65 S. W. 726.

76. Com. v. Tivnon, 8 Gray (Mass.) 375, 69 Am. Dec. 248.

An intent to commit a felony is not an essential ingredient of the offense of being "found by night, having in possession without lawful excuse any pick-lock, key, crow, jack, bit, or other implement of house-breaking," punished by the English statute of 14 & 15 Vict. c. 19. Reg. v. Bailey, 6 Cox C. C. 241, Dears. 244, 17 Jur. 1106, 23 L. J. M. C. 13, 2 Wkly. Rep. 64.

To convict under a statute punishing any person who "shall have or keep in his possession" burglarious tools, etc., "with the intention of using such tools or implements burglariously," it must be shown that the accused had such tools in his possession, knowing them to be such, with the general intent to use them burglariously; but it is not necessary to show a specific intent to use them at a particular time, or in a particular manner, or at any particular place. Nor is it necessary to show that the accused intended to use them himself; it is sufficient if use by another was intended. State v. Hahn, 11 Ohio S. & C. Pl. Dec. 311, 8 Ohio N. P. 101.

77. Com. v. Tivnon, 8 Gray (Mass.) 375, 69 Am. Dec. 248.

A common key may be within a statute punishing the having possession of any "pick-lock key, crow, jack, bit, or other implement of housebreaking," etc. Reg. v. Oldham, 5 Cox C. C. 551, 2 Den. C. C. 472, 16 Jur. 505, 21 L. J. M. C. 134.

78. People v. Jones, 124 Mich. 177, 82 N. W. 806. Compare Reg. v. Jarrald, 9 Cox C. C. 307, 9 Jur. N. S. 629, L. & C. 301, 32 or even within the state,[79] unless the statute so requires. In the notes below will be found decisions of the courts as to the sufficiency of indictments or informations,[80] as to the admissibility[81] and the sufficiency[82] of evidence, and as

L. J. M. C. 258, 8 L. T. Rep. N. S. 515, 11 Wkly. Rep. 787.

79. Davis v. State, 87 Ala. 10, 6 So. 266; People v. Reilly, 164 N. Y. 600, 59 N. E. 1128 [affirming 49 N. Y. App. Div. 218, 63 N. Y. Suppl. 18, 14 N. Y. Crim. 458].

80. See Ryan v. Com., 5 Ky. L. Rep. 177.

Sufficiency of indictment.— An indictment alleging possession by the defendants of burglarious implements with intent to use them for the purpose of breaking and entering a building or other depository of money or goods, in order to steal therefrom, may allege the intent generally, and need not allege an intent to use them in a particular place, or for a special purpose, or in any definite manner. Com. v. Tivnon, 8 Gray (Mass.) 375, 69 Am. Dec. 248. In England, under a statute punishing any person who shall be found by night armed with any dangerous or offensive weapon or instrument, with intent to break or enter into any dwelling-house or other building, it was held necessary for the indictment to state and the prosecutor to prove the ownership of the building. Reg v. Jarrald, 9 Cox C. C. 307, L. & C. 301, 32 L. J. M. C. 258, 9 Jur. N. S. 629, 8 L. T. Rep. N. S. 515, 11 Wkly. Rep. 787. Generally, however, the statutes are such that it is not necessary to allege or prove the building intended to be broken and entered or the owner thereof. People v. Edwards, 93 Mich. 636, 53 N. W. 778. Under a statute punishing the having possession of burglar's tools adapted to break open places of deposit, in order to take therefrom any money or property, with intent to use them for such purpose, an information alleging possession with the intent to break open places of deposit in general, and take property therefrom, without specifying any particular place or property, is sufficient. Scott v. State, 91 Wis. 552, 65 N. W. 61. Under a statute punishing the having possession of burglar's tools "designed and intended to aid in the commission of burglary or larceny in this State or elsewhere," the place where it is intended to commit burglary is no part of the offense, and need not be stated in the indictment. Davis v. State, 87 Ala. 10, 6 So. 266. And see supra, notes 78, 79.

Forms of indictments for having possession of burglarious tools and implements see Com. v. Day, 138 Mass. 186; Com. v. Tivnon, 8 Gray (Mass.) 375, 69 Am. Dec. 248; People v. Jones, 124 Mich. 177, 82 N. W. 806; State v. Hahn, 11 Ohio S. & C. Pl. Dec. 311, 8 Ohio N. P. 101.

Joint possession and indictment.— Possession of burglarious implements may be joint as well as several, and where the guilty intent of several is manifested by their joint act it becomes a joint offense. In such a case all who join may be indicted jointly or severally. Com. v. Tivnon, 8 Gray (Mass.) 375, 69 Am. Dec. 248. And see Reg. v. Thompson, 11 Cox C. C. 362, 21 L. T. Rep. N. S. 397.

81. Admissibility of evidence.— On a trial for having possession of a burglar's tool knowingly and with intent to use it in committing burglary it is not admissible, in order to prove intent, to show that several months before such possession the defendants were seen covertly loitering about a dwelling-house at night under suspicious circumstances, and that at another time they were convicted of larceny. Leonard v. State, 60 N. J. L. 8, 41 Atl. 561. But on a prosecution for having possession of burglar's tools designed and intended for use for burglarious purposes, it may be shown that the defendant, on two occasions prior to the offense charged, committed burglary by the use of similar tools, for the purpose of showing the knowledge and intent alleged. Com. v. Day, 138 Mass. 186. And it may be shown that the defendant had possession of other burglar's tools than those mentioned in the indictment, as showing the character of the possession of those mentioned. Com. v. Day, 138 Mass. 186. See also State v. Hahn, 11 Ohio S. & C. Pl. Dec. 311, 8 Ohio N. P. 101. The state may show the purpose for which the tools found in the defendant's possession are adapted. People v. Jones, 124 Mich. 177, 82 N. W. 806. On the question of intent, where there is evidence that defendant had said that he had not been in the safe business long, and would have quit it if he had not met one B, who persuaded him to go out and do some work for him, and that defendant had burglar's tools in his possession, it may be shown that B was a burglar, safe-blower, pickpocket, and chief. People v. Howard, 73 Mich. 10, 40 N. W. 789.

82. Sufficiency of evidence.— As to the sufficiency of the evidence to sustain a conviction of having possession of burglar's tools with intent to use them in committing burglary see People v. Reilly, 164 N. Y. 600, 59 N. E. 1128 [affirming 49 N. Y. App. Div. 218, 63 N. Y. Suppl. 18, 14 N. Y. Crim. 458]; People v. Thompson, 33 N. Y. App. Div. 177, 53 N. Y. Suppl. 497, 13 N. Y. Crim. 273; People v. Morgan, 13 N. Y. Suppl. 448, 35 N. Y. St. 643; Scott v. State, 91 Wis. 552, 65 N. W. 61. To support a conviction it is not necessary to prove that all of the implements described in the indictment were in the possession of the defendant, or were suitable for burglarious use, but it is sufficient if it is proved that some of them were. Com. v. Tivnon, 8 Gray (Mass.) 375, 69 Am. Dec. 248. Where two defendants are indicted jointly for possession of burglarious implements with intent to use them for burglary, and possession by one is proved, the other cannot be convicted, although it may appear that both intended to use them in a joint undertaking. Com. v. Tivnon, 8 Gray (Mass.) 375, 69 Am. Dec. 248.

to the trial in prosecutions for the offense of having possession of burglarious tools with intent to use them in committing burglary, larceny, etc.[83]

BURGLARY INSURANCE. See THEFT INSURANCE.

BURIAL. The act of interring the dead.[1] (Burial: Generally, see CEMETERIES; DEAD BODIES. Liability For Expenses of, see EXECUTORS AND ADMINISTRATORS; HUSBAND AND WIFE.)

BURKING. The practice of killing persons for the purpose of selling their bodies for dissection.[2]

BURN. To consume with fire.[3] (Burn: Civil Liability For Causing to, see NEGLIGENCE; RAILROADS. Criminal Liability For Causing to, see ARSON.)

BURNING FLUID. A mixture of camphene and alcohol.[4]

BURNING IN THE HAND. See BRANDING.

BURNT-RECORD ACT. See RECORDS.

BURSAR. A treasurer of a college.[5]

BURST. To break or rend by force or violence.[6]

BURYING ALIVE. The ancient punishment of sodomites, and those who contracted with Jews.[7]

BURYING GROUND. See CEMETERIES.

BUSHEL. See WEIGHTS AND MEASURES.

BUSHWACKER. In the civil war of the United States, a person not a part of any regular army, and not answerable to any discipline, but who was a mere lawless bandit, engaged in plundering, robbery, murder, and all conceivable crimes.[8]

BUSINESS.[9] That which occupies the time, attention and labor of men for the purpose of a livelihood or profit;[10] that which occupies the time, attention

83. Questions for jury.— The intent of a person shown to have had possession of burglar's tools is a question of fact for the jury. Reg. v. Oldham, 5 Cox C. C. 551, 2 Den. C. C. 472, 16 Jur. 505, 21 L. J. M. C. 134.

Argument of counsel.— An assertion by the prosecuting attorney in his argument that the defendant is a thief, and a ruling by the court that the assertion is warranted by the evidence, is ground for reversing a conviction, where the only evidence is that the defendant had possession of burglar's tools when arrested. Scott v. State, 91 Wis. 552, 65 N. W. 61.

1. Wharton L. Lex.

2. 4 Redf. Surr. (N. Y.) 540, where it is said that the term takes its name from a man named Burke who was convicted and executed for the crime in Scotland in 1829.

3. People v. Haggerty, 46 Cal. 354, 355 [quoting Bishop Crim. L. § 325]; Hester v. State, 17 Ga. 130, 132 [quoting Webster Dict.].

4. Putnam v. Commonwealth Ins. Co., 18 Blatchf. (U. S.) 368, 4 Fed. 753, 764.

5. Wharton L. Lex.

At some American colleges the title is still employed. See Davidson Coll. Cat. (1902) 5; Harvard Univ. Cat. (1902–3) 17.

6. Webster Dict. [quoted in Evans v. Columbian Ins. Co., 44 N. Y. 146, 151, 4 Am. Rep. 650, where it is said to be synonymous with "explode"].

7. Burrill L. Dict.

8. Curry v. Collins, 37 Mo. 324, 328.

9. Distinguished from "good will."— "The good will of a business is not the business but is one result springing out of it." McGowan v. Griffin, 69 Vt. 168, 172, 37 Atl. 298. Compare Middall v. Garsed, 125 Pa. St. 358, 361, 17 Atl. 418, where it is said: "The 'transfer of the business' is an uncertain, equivocal expression, and may mean property, or it may mean good will."

Distinguished from "stock," "machinery," and "capital."— "Business does not mean stock, or machinery, or capital and the like. While business cannot be done without these, in commercial language it is as distinct from them as labor is from capital. In speaking of the business that may be done by a merchant, banker or railroad company, the mind does not contemplate or dwell upon the character or quality of the means used, but of the operations, whether great or small, complex or simple, numerous or few, for one or the other of these conditions may arise from much or little stock or capital. In other words, 'business' does not mean dry-goods, nor cash, nor iron rails and coaches. Business is not these lifeless and dead things, but the activities in which they are employed. When in motion, then the owners are said to be in business; and then it is that merchants and others speak of the profits of the business." Braeutigam v. Edwards, 38 N. J. Eq. 542, 545.

10. Abel v. State, 90 Ala. 631, 633, 8 So. 760; Martin v. State, 59 Ala. 34, 36 [quoted in Lyons-Thomas Hardware Co. v. Perry Stove Mfg. Co., 86 Tex. 143, 153, 24 S. W. 16, 22 L. R. A. 802]; Harris v. State, 50 Ala.

and labor of men for the purpose of profit or improvement;[11] that employment which occupies the time, attention and labor;[12] that which busies, or that which occupies the time, attention, or labor of one as his principal concern, whether for a longer or shorter time;[13] that which busies or occupies one's time, attention and labor as his chief concern; that which one does for a livelihood;[14] a calling for the purpose of a livelihood;[15] the employment or occupation in which a person is engaged to procure a living;[16] any particular occupation or employment for a livelihood or gain;[17] employment;[18] occupation;[19] trade or calling;[20] mercantile transactions or traffic in general; concern; right or occasion of making one's self busy; affair;[21] transaction,[22] used in an indefinite sense, and modified by the connected words.[23] The word is of large signification,[24] and in its broadest sense includes nearly all the affairs in which either an individual or a corporation can be actors.[25] (Business: Exemption of Implements Used in, see EXEMPTIONS. Homestead Used in, see HOMESTEADS. Hours For Presentment of Bill or Note, see COMMERCIAL PAPER. License, see LICENSES. Place of — For Presentment of Bill or Note, see COMMERCIAL PAPER; For Service of Process, see PROCESS. Prohibition of, on Sunday, see SUNDAY. Suspension of, on Non-Business Day, see HOLIDAYS; SUNDAY.)

BUSINESS SECTION. That part of a community which is mainly and chiefly

127, 130; Moore v. State, 16 Ala. 411, 414 [quoted in Weil v. State, 52 Ala. 19, 21]; State v. Boston Club, 45 La. Ann. 585, 589, 12 So. 895, 20 L. R. A. 185.

11. Webster Dict. [quoted in Shryock v. Latimer, 57 Tex. 674, 677].

12. Stephenson v. Primrose, 8 Port. (Ala.) 155, 167, 33 Am. Dec. 281 [quoted in Adam v. Musson, 37 Ill. App. 501, 503]. See also Hickey v. Thompson, 52 Ark. 234, 237, 12 S. W. 475; Netterville v. Barber, 52 Miss. 168, 171.

13. Webster Dict. [quoted in Territory v. Harris, 8 Mont. 140, 143, 19 Pac. 286; Lyons-Thomas Hardware Co. v. Perry Stove Mfg. Co., 86 Tex. 143, 153, 24 S. W. 16, 22 L. R. A. 802].

14. Century Dict. [quoted in Waggener v. Haskell, 89 Tex. 435, 437, 35 S. W. 1].

15. Moore v. State, 16 Ala. 411, 414 [quoted in Weil v. State, 52 Ala. 19, 21]; State v. Boston Club, 45 La. Ann. 585, 589, 12 So. 895, 20 L. R. A. 185.

16. Brush Electric Light, etc., Co. v. Wills, 110 Ga. 192, 198, 35 S. E. 365; Goddard v. Chaffee, 2 Allen (Mass.) 395, 79 Am. Dec. 796 [quoted in Lyons-Thomas Hardware Co. v. Perry Stove Mfg. Co., 86 Tex. 143, 153, 24 S. W. 16, 22 L. R. A. 802]; Hacheny v. Leary, 12 Oreg. 40, 44, 7 Pac. 329.

17. Webster Dict. [quoted in Territory v. Harris, 8 Mont. 140, 143, 19 Pac. 286].

18. Sterne v. State, 20 Ala. 43, 46; Territory v. Harris, 8 Mont. 140, 143, 19 Pac. 286 [quoting Webster Dict.]; Waggener v. Haskell, 89 Tex. 435, 437, 35 S. W. 1 [quoting Century Dict.]; Lyons-Thomas Hardware Co. v. Perry Stove Mfg. Co., 86 Tex. 143, 153, 24 S. W. 16, 22 L. R. A. 802 [quoting Webster Dict.]; Raines v. Watson, 2 W. Va. 371, 390 [citing Walker Dict.; Webster Dict.].

19. Territory v. Harris, 8 Mont. 140, 143, 19 Pac. 286 [quoting Webster Dict.]; Hoagland v. Segur, 38 N. J. L. 230, 237; Waggener v. Haskell, 89 Tex. 435, 437, 35 S. W. 1 [quoting Century Dict.]; Lyons-Thomas Hardware Co. v. Perry Stove Mfg. Co., 86 Tex. 143, 153, 24 S. W. 16, 22 L. R. A. 802 [quoting Webster Dict.].

20. People v. Warden City Prison, 144 N. Y. 529, 538, 39 N. E. 686, 64 N. Y. St. 51, 27 L. R. A. 718.

21. Webster Dict. [quoted in Territory v. Harris, 8 Mont. 140, 143, 19 Pac. 286].

22. De Forth v. Wisconsin, etc., R. Co., 52 Wis. 320, 328, 9 N. W. 17, 38 Am. Rep. 737 [citing Webster Dict.].

23. Webster Dict. [quoted in Territory v. Harris, 8 Mont. 140, 143, 19 Pac. 286].

24. Goddard v. Chaffee, 2 Allen (Mass.) 395, 79 Am. Dec. 796 [quoted in Lyons-Thomas Hardware Co. v. Perry Stove Mfg. Co., 86 Tex. 143, 153, 24 S. W. 16, 22 L. R. A. 802]; Hacheny v. Leary, 12 Oreg. 40, 44, 7 Pac. 329.

Broader than "trade." — The word has a more extensive meaning than "trade" (Harris v. Amery, L. R. 1 C. P. 148, 154, H. & R. 357, 1 Hop. & Ph. 294, 12 Jur. N. S. 165, 35 L. J. C. P. 89, 13 L. T. Rep. N. S. 504, 14 Wkly. Rep. 199), but must be limited when used in connection therewith (Bohnsack v. McDonald, 26 Misc. (N. Y.) 493, 496, 56 N. Y. Suppl. 347).

25. People v. Tax Com'rs, 23 N. Y. 242, 244; People v. New York, 22 How. Pr. (N. Y.) 143, 147; In re Alabama, etc., R. Co., 9 Blatchf. (U. S.) 390, 1 Fed. Cas. No. 124, 6 Am. L. Rev. 577, 5 Am. L. T. Rep. 76, 6 Nat. Bankr. Reg. 107. See also Bloom v. Richards, 2 Ohio St. 387, 403.

"When applied to a public corporation, signifies the conduct of the usual affairs of the corporation, and the conduct of such affairs as commonly engage the attention of township and county officers." Jackson County v. State, 147 Ind. 476, 487, 46 N. E. 908; Mount v. State, 90 Ind. 29, 31, 47 Am. Rep. 192.

devoted to business purposes or uses and in which stores, factories, offices, shops, and the like predominate.[26]

BUT. Except;[27] except that;[28] without this;[29] on the contrary; on the other hand;[30] in addition; to boot;[31] yet; still;[32] moreover.[33] It is an appropriate term to indicate the intention of those who use it, to limit or restrain the sense or effect of something which had before been said;[34] a proviso, condition or qualification;[35] or that what follows is an exception to that which has gone before, and is not to be controlled by it.[36]

BUTCHER. One who slaughters animals or dresses their flesh for market; one whose occupation is to kill animals for food;[37] one who slaughters animals for market; one whose occupation is to kill animals for the table;[38] a person who kills animals to sell their flesh;[39] but the word may and often does include the person who cuts up and sells meat.[40] (Butcher: License of, see LICENSES. Place of Business of, as Nuisance, see NUISANCE. Regulation of Business of, see HEALTH.)

BUTCHERED. Killed in an unusual, cruel or wanton manner.[41]

BUTT. A measure of wine containing at least one hundred and twenty-six gallons.[42]

BUTTALS. See ABUTTALS.

BUTTER. See ADULTERATION; FOOD.

BUTTS. Short pieces of land left unplowed at the ends of fields where the plow was turned about.[43]

BUTTS AND BONDS. A phrase sometimes used in conveyancing, where a particular piece of land is described by enumerating the several lands or parcels which adjoin it, or upon which it abuts, on the different sides.[44]

BUY IN. To purchase, at public sale, property which is one's own or which one has caused or procured to be sold.[45]

26. Capital City Gaslight Co. v. Des Moines, 93 Iowa 547, 557, 61 N. W. 1066, where it is said: "The word 'business' is here used in contradiction from the word 'resident' or 'dwelling,' or 'vacant' or 'unoccupied.' The great majority of men have one place in which they perform their daily labor, and another in which they live,— their homes. For convenience, business usually concentrates itself, and the place or area of such concentration is the 'business' section of a city. On the contrary, the homes or residences of the inhabitants spread themselves over a wide area, and the latter is the 'residence' section of a city."

27. Chesapeake, etc., R. Co. v. Miller, 19 W. Va. 408, 436; Rock Springs First Nat. Bank v. Foster, 9 Wyo. 157, 165, 61 Pac. 466, 467, 63 Pac. 1056, 54 L. R. A. 549; Abbott v. Middleton, 21 Beav. 143, 145, 7 H. L. Cas. 68, 5 Jur. N. S. 717, 28 L. J. Ch. 110.

28. Robert v. Sliffe, 41 Ohio St. 225, 231; State v. McAllister, 38 W. Va. 485, 502, 18 S. E. 770, 24 L. R. A. 343.

29. Abbott v. Middleton, 21 Beav. 143, 145, 7 H. L. Cas. 68, 5 Jur. N. S. 717, 28 L. J. Ch. 110.

30. Sterling Gas Co. v. Higby, 134 Ill. 557, 565, 25 N. E. 660.

31. Abbott v. Middleton, 21 Beav. 143, 145, 7 H. L. Cas. 68, 5 Jur. N. S. 717, 28 L. J. Ch. 110.

32. Adams v. Yazoo, etc., R. Co., 75 Miss. 275, 284, 22 So. 824.

33. Adams v. Yazoo, etc., R. Co., 75 Miss. 275, 284, 22 So. 824; Abbott v. Middleton, 21 Beav. 143, 145, 7 H. L. Cas. 68, 5 Jur. N. S. 717, 28 L. J. Ch. 110.

34. Stonestreet v. Harrison, 5 Litt. (Ky.) 161, 164.

35. Leggett v. Firth, 132 N. Y. 7, 11, 29 N. E. 950, 42 N. Y. St. 851.

36. Western Union Tel. Co. v. Harris, (Tenn. Ch. 1899) 52 S. W. 748, 752.

37. Webster Dict. [quoted in Rockville v. Merchant, 60 Mo. App. 365, 369].

38. Cleaver v. Bacon, 4 Times Rep. 27, 28 [quoting Imperial Dict.].

39. Eastman v. Jackson, 10 Lea (Tenn.) 162, 163.

40. Green v. State, 56 Ark. 386, 387, 19 S. W. 1055 [citing Browne Judicial Interpret. 57]; Rockville v. Merchant, 60 Mo. App. 365; Doe v. Spry, 1 B. & Ald. 617, 620, 19 Rev. Rep. 404. See also District of Columbia v. Oyster, 4 Mackey (D. C.) 285, 287, 54 Am. Rep. 275; Wiest v. Luyendyk, 73 Mich. 661, 665, 41 N. W. 839, 840 (holding that "butcher shop" and "meat market" are interchangeably used, and commonly used as synonymous terms). But compare Henback v. State, 53 Ala. 523, 526, 25 Am. Rep. 650.

41. State v. Gile, 8 Wash. 12, 22, 35 Pac. 417.

42. Burrill L. Dict.

43. Littleton Rep. 13, where they are also called "headlands."

44. Burrill L. Dict., where it is said that properly these words have "nearly or quite the same sense as the more technical expression 'metes and bounds.'"

45. Black L. Dict.

BY.[46] Along the line of;[47] near;[48] besides; passing; in presence;[49] on;[50] at;[51] not later than;[52] as soon as;[53] as early as;[54] before;[55] on or before;[56] to;[57] through the means, act or instrumentality of;[58] according to.[59] (See also BYE.)

BY-BIDDING. Making fictitious bids on property at an auction, under a secret arrangement with the owner or auctioneer, for the purpose of misleading and stimulating other persons who are bidding in good faith.[60] (See, generally, AUCTIONS AND AUCTIONEERS.)

BYE or BY. An habitation;[61] a township.[62]

BY ESTIMATION. A phrase used in conveyances, in describing the quantity of land conveyed, where it is not precisely ascertained by measurement.[63]

BY GOD AND MY COUNTRY. In old English criminal practice, the established formula of reply by a prisoner, when arraigned at the bar, to the question, "Culprit, how wilt thou be tried?"[64]

BY-LAWS. The law of the inhabitants of the corporate place or district, made by themselves or the authorized body, in distinction from the general law of the country, or the statute law of the particular state;[65] the orders and regulations which a corporation, as one of its legal incidents, has power to make, and which is usually exercised to regulate its own action and concerns, and the rights and duties of its members amongst themselves;[66] a rule or law of a corporation for its government;[67] the private laws of corporations or other boards or bodies.[68]

46. Use in description of boundaries see BOUNDARIES, 5 Cyc. 869, note 4.

47. Bailey v. White, 41 N. H. 337, 343; Peaslee v. Gee, 19 N. H. 273, 277.

48. Wilson v. Inloes, 6 Gill (Md.) 121, 153; Rix v. Johnson, 5 N. H. 520, 522, 22 Am. Dec. 472; Rankin v. Woodworth, 3 Penr. & W. (Pa.) 48; Ferguson v. Coleman, 3 Rich. (S. C.) 99, 100, 45 Am. Dec. 761.

49. Rankin v. Woodworth, 3 Penr. & W. (Pa.) 48.

50. Reese v. Billing, 9 Ala. 263, 265; Wachsmuth v. Routledge, (Oreg. 1897) 51 Pac. 443, 444.

51. Reese v. Billing, 9 Ala. 263, 265; Ferguson v. Coleman, 3 Rich. (S. C.) 99, 100, 45 Am. Dec. 761.

52. Elizabeth City Cotton Mills v. Dunstan, 121 N. C. 12, 16, 27 S. E. 1001, 61 Am. St. Rep. 654 [quoting Century Dict.; Standard Dict.; Webster Dict.].

53. Elizabeth City Cotton Mills v. Dunstan, 121 N. C. 12, 16, 27 S. E. 1001, 61 Am. St. Rep. 654 [quoting Webster Dict.].

54. Elizabeth City Cotton Mills v. Dunstan, 121 N. C. 12, 16, 27 S. E. 1001, 61 Am. St. Rep. 654 [quoting Standard Dict.].

55. Express Pub. Co. v. Aldine Press, 126 Pa. St. 347, 352, 17 Atl. 608; Miller v. Phillips, 31 Pa. St. 218, 221; Wilson v. Rodeman, 30 S. C. 210, 213, 8 S. E. 855 [citing Webster Dict.].

56. Higley v. Gilmer, 3 Mont. 433, 438; Coonley v. Anderson, 1 Hill (N. Y.) 519, 522; Ferguson v. Coleman, 3 Rich. (S. C.) 99, 100, 45 Am. Dec. 761.

57. Com. v. Griffin, 105 Mass. 175.

58. O'Brien v. East River Bridge Co., 36 N. Y. App. Div. 17, 21, 55 N. Y. Suppl. 206 [reversed, on other grounds, in 161 N. Y. 539, 56 N. E. 74, 48 L. R. A. 122].

59. Haubert v. Haworth, 78 Pa. St. 78, 83 [citing Webster Dict.].

60. Black L. Dict.

61. Hanna v. Nassau Electric R. Co., 18 N. Y. App. Div. 137, 142, 45 N. Y. Suppl. 437.

62. Board of Health v. Copcutt, 71 Hun (N. Y.) 87, 24 N. Y. Suppl. 625, 54 N. Y. St. 311. See also infra, note 65.

63. Burrill L. Dict. See also Hays v. Hays, 126 Ind. 92, 93, 25 N. E. 600, 11 L. R. A. 376; Jenkins v. Bolgiano, 53 Md. 407, 420; Tarbell v. Bowman, 103 Mass. 341, 344; Weart v. Rose, 16 N. Y. Eq. 290, 297.

64. Black L. Dict.

65. Hanna v. Nassau Electric R. Co., 18 N. Y. App. Div. 137, 142, 45 N. Y. Suppl. 437.

"The terms 'by-law,' 'ordinance' and 'municipal regulation' have substantially the same meaning, and are defined 'to be the laws of the corporate district, made by the authorized body, in distinction from the general law of the state." State v. Lee, 29 Minn. 445, 451, 13 N. W. 913 [quoted in Rutherford v. Swink, 96 Tenn. 564, 567, 35 S. W. 554]. See also Bills v. Goshen, 117 Ind. 221, 225, 20 N. E. 115, 3 L. R. A. 261; National Bank of Commerce v. Grenada, 44 Fed. 262, 263.

"Their history is briefly this: When the Danes acquired possession of a shire in England, the township was often called a 'by,' and as they enacted laws of their own they were called by-laws or town laws." Board of Health v. Copcutt, 71 Hun (N. Y.) 87, 24 N. Y. Suppl. 625, 54 N. Y. St. 311.

66. Com. v. Turner, 1 Cush. (Mass.) 493, 496.

67. Drake v. Hudson River R. Co., 7 Barb. (N. Y.) 508, 539.

68. Board of Health v. Copcutt, 71 Hun (N. Y.) 87, 24 N. Y. Suppl. 625, 54 N. Y. St. 311.

They are properly subordinate rules for the government of the body passing them.[69] (By-Laws of: Banking Corporations, see BANKS AND BANKING. Building and Loan Associations, see BUILDING AND LOAN SOCIETIES. Clubs, see CLUBS. Corporations, see CORPORATIONS. Exchanges, see EXCHANGES. Insurance Companies, see INSURANCE. Municipal Corporations, see MUNICIPAL CORPORATIONS. Mutual Benefit Insurance Associations, see MUTUAL BENEFIT INSURANCE. Unincorporated Associations, see ASSOCIATIONS.)

BY-ROAD. An unfrequented path; an obscure road;[70] a private, unfrequented, or obscure road;[71] an obscure or neighborhood road in its earlier existence not used to any great extent by the public, yet so far a public road that the public have, of right, free access to it at all times;[72] a road used by the inhabitants but not laid out.[73] (See, generally, PRIVATE ROADS.)

BYSTANDER. One who stands near; one who has no concern with the business transacting.[74] (Bystander: Signing Bill of Exceptions, see APPEAL AND ERROR. Summoning For Juryman, see JURIES.)

BY THE BYE. Incidentally.[75]

BY VIRTUE OF. By or through the authority of.[76]

BY VOTE. By vote of the majority, unless a different intent is shown by express terms.[77]

BY WAY OF. As for the purpose of; in character of; as being.[78]

C. See CENT.

CABALLERIA. In Spanish law, an allotment to a horse soldier of land acquired by conquest, being a strip one hundred feet wide and two hundred feet deep.[79]

CABINET. The advisory board or counsel of a chief executive;[80] a room set apart and devoted to the preservation of articles of antiquity;[81] a set of boxes or drawers for curiosities; any place in which things of value are hidden; a closet; a small room.[82]

CABLE. See SHIPPING; TELEGRAPHS AND TELEPHONES.

CABLE-ROAD. See STREET RAILROADS.

CABOOSE CAR. See CARRIERS.

CACHEPOLUS or CACHERELLUS. An inferior bailiff; a catchpole.[83]

CACICAZGOS. In Spanish-American law, property entailed on the caciques, or heads of Indian villages, and their descendants.[84]

CADASTRE. In Spanish law, an official statement of the quantity and value

69. Kirkpatrick v. Keota United Presby. Church, 63 Iowa 372, 376, 19 N. W. 272, where it is said that a by-law "may be a rule subordinate to a charter or articles of incorporation, but it may as well be a rule subordinate to mere articles of association, such as mere unincorporated clubs and societies adopt for their government." See also Taylor v. Lambertville, 43 N. J. Eq. 107, 111, 10 Atl. 809.

70. Worcester Dict. [quoted in Stevens v. Allen, 29 N. J. L. 68, 71].

71. Perrine v. Farr, 22 N. J. L. 356, 372 [citing Johnson Dict.; Webster Dict.].

72. Wood v. Hurd, 34 N. J. L. 87, 89 [quoted in State v. Ridgewood, 46 N. J. L. 508, 509].

73. Van Blarcom v. Frike, 29 N. J. L. 516, 517, where it is said they are often called "drift-ways."

74. State v. Jones, 102 Mo. 305, 307, 14 S. W. 946, 15 S. W. 556 [quoting Webster Dict.].

75. Burrill L. Dict.

A term used in former English practice to denote the method of filing a declaration against a defendant who was already in the custody of the court at the suit of a different plaintiff or of the same plaintiff in another cause. Black L. Dict.

76. Bassett v. Mills, 89 Tex. 162, 166, 34 S. W. 93 [quoting Century Dict.].

77. Bean v. Glover School Dist. No. 11, 38 Vt. 177, 178.

78. Jersey City Gas-Light Co. v. United Gas Imp. Co., 46 Fed. 264, 266.

79. Strother v. Lucas, 12 Pet. (U. S.) 410, 442 note, 9 L. ed. 1137.

80. Black L. Dict.

81. In re Glaenzer, 55 Fed. 642, 644, 5 C. C. A. 225 [citing Century Dict.].

82. Worcester Dict. [quoted in In re Glaenzer, 67 Fed. 532, 533].

83. Jacob L. Dict.

84. Burrill L. Dict. [citing Schmidt Civ. L. 309].

of real property in any district, made for the purpose of justly apportioning the taxes payable on such property.[85]

CADASTU. In French law, the same as CADASTRE,[86] q. v.

CADE. A cask containing five hundred herrings or one thousand sprats.[87]

CADET. A student at the military academy at West Point[88] and formerly at the naval academy at Annapolis;[89] one who is trained for the English army at Woolwich, previously to obtaining a commission; a younger brother.[90] (See, generally, ARMY AND NAVY.)

CADI. The name of a Turkish civil magistrate.[91]

CADUCARY. Having the character of escheat.[92]

CADUCITY. In Louisiana, lapse; failure to take effect.[93] (See, generally, DESCENT AND DISTRIBUTION.)

CÆSAREAN OPERATION. A surgical operation whereby the fœtus, which can neither make its way into the world by the ordinary and natural passage, nor be extracted by the attempts of art, whether the mother and fœtus be yet alive, or whether either of them be dead, is, by a cautious and well-timed operation, taken from the mother, with a view to save the lives of both, or either of them.[94]

CÆTERIS TACENTIBUS. The others being silent; the other judges expressing no opinion.[95]

CAIRNS' ACT. An English statute[96] for enabling the court of chancery to award damages.[97]

CALCULATE. To compute or reckon.[98]

CALCULATED. Fitted; adapted;[99] suited;[1] adapted by design.[2]

CALEFAGIUM. A right to take fuel yearly.[3]

CALENDAR. The division of time into years, months, weeks and days, and a register of them;[4] a list or enumeration of causes arranged for trial in court.[5] (Calendar: Month, see MONTH. Of Causes—For Trial, see CRIMINAL LAW; TRIAL; On Appeal, see APPEAL AND ERROR. Of Prisoners, see CALENDAR OF PRISONERS.)

CALENDAR OF PRISONERS. In English practice, a list kept by the sheriffs, containing the names of all the prisoners in their custody, with the several judgments against each in the margin.[6]

CALENDS. The first day of each Roman month.[7]

CALF. The young of the bovine species.[8]

85. Strother v. Lucas, 12 Pet. (U. S.) 410, 428 note, 9 L. ed. 1137.

86. Black L. Dict.

87. Wharton L. Lex.

88. U. S. Rev. Stat. (1872), 1309.

89. See 22 U. S. Stat. at L. 285, where such students are styled "naval cadets." But by the act of congress of July 1, 1902, this title was changed to "midshipman."

90. Wharton L. Lex.

91. Black L. Dict.

92. Burrill L. Dict.

Used in the expression "It became a sort of caducary succession" by Ld. Mansfield in Burgess v. Wheate, 1 Eden 177, 228, 1 W. Bl. 123.

93. Century Dict. See also Merrick Rev. Civ. Code La. (1900), p. 951.

94. Black L. Dict.

95. Burrill L. Dict.

Used in the old reports as in the sentence "Ch. J. and Eyres (cæteris tacentibus) that the action lieth" in Stockton v. Collison, Comb. 186.

96. 21 & 22 Vict. c. 27.

97. Wharton L. Lex.

98. Oakes v. Mitchell, 15 Me. 360, 362.

99. Smallwood v. Com., 19 Ky. L. Rep. 344, 40 S. W. 248.

1. Smallwood v. Com., 19 Ky. L. Rep. 344, 40 S. W. 248; Gerrish v. Norris, 9 Cush. (Mass.) 167, 170.

2. Gerrish v. Norris, 9 Cush. (Mass.) 167, 170.

3. Burrill L. Dict.

4. Rives v. Guthrie, 46 N. C. 84, 86.

The word is derived from the verb calare, — to proclaim, from the fact that, among the Romans, it was the duty of the Pontifex Maximus, on the first day of every month, to proclaim the month, with the festivals occurring in it, and the time of the new moon. Rives v. Guthrie, 46 N. C. 84, 86.

5. Titley v. Kaehler, 9 Ill. App. 537, 539, where it is said: "It may or may not be synonymous with the statutory word 'docket.'"

6. Burrill L. Dict.

7. Rives v. Guthrie, 46 N. C. 84, 87.

8. Milligan v. Jefferson County, 2 Mont. 543, 547.

CALL. An official declaration that sums subscribed are required to be paid,[9] sometimes termed assessments;[10] a privilege of calling or not calling for property bought;[11] the designation, in an entry, patent, or grant of lands, of a visible natural object as a limit or boundary;[12] a summons to the parties entitled to meet, directing them to meet.[13] In the Presbyterian church, an instrument issuing from the congregation, which may be signed either by the elders and deacons, by the trustees, or by a select committee, and attested by the moderator of the meeting, inviting a minister to become their pastor.[14]

CALLED FOR TRIAL. The stage of the cause when both parties have announced that they are ready, or when a continuance, having been applied for, has been denied.[15] (See also CALLING A CASE FOR TRIAL.)

CALLING. Employment;[16] profession; trade;[17] usual occupation, profession, or employment; vocation.[18]

CALLING A CASE FOR TRIAL. An announcement or declaration by the court that the cause has been reached in its order, and that the judicial examination of the issues of law or fact upon which the decision of the cause depends is about to begin.[19] (See also CALLED FOR TRIAL.)

CALLING THE PLAINTIFF. An old term for a nonsuit.[20]

CALLING TO THE BAR. Conferring the dignity or degree of barrister at law upon a member of one of the Inns of Court.[21]

CALLING UPON A PRISONER. ALLOCUTION,[22] q. v.

CALUMNY. In the civil law, an unjust prosecution or defense of a suit.[23]

CAMBIPARTIA. In old English law, champerty.[24]

CAMBIPARTICEPS. In old English law, a champertor.[25]

CAMBIST. A person skilled in exchanges; a dealer in promissory notes and bills of exchange.[26]

CAMERA. In old English law, a chamber, room, or apartment; a judge's chamber; a treasury; a chest or coffer.[27]

9. Braddock v. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co., 45 N. J. L. 363, 365 [quoted in American Alkali Co. v. Campbell, 113 Fed. 398, 400]; Germania Iron Min. Co. v. King, 94 Wis. 439, 441, 69 N. W. 181, 36 L. R. A. 51. See, generally, CORPORATIONS.

"The term 'call' is susceptible of three meanings. It may signify the resolution itself, or the time of notification, or the day on which the money is made payable." Ambergate, etc., R. Co. v. Mitchell, 4 Exch. 540, 19 L. J. Exch. 89, 6 R. & Can. Cas. 235. See also Germania Iron Min. Co. v. King, 94 Wis. 439, 442, 69 N. W. 181, 36 L. R. A. 51 [quoting Cook Stock, § 104]; Newry, etc., R. Co. v. Edmunds, 2 Exch. 119, 17 L. J. Exch. 102, 5 R. & Can. Cas. 275; Reg. v. Londonderry, etc., R. Co., 13 Q. B. 998, 13 Jur. 939, 18 L. J. Q. B. 343, 6 R. & Can. Cas. 1, 66 E. C. L. 998.

10. Arroyo Ditch, etc., Co. v. Los Angeles Super. Ct., 92 Cal. 47, 50, 28 Pac. 54, 27 Am. St. Rep. 91; Santa Cruz R. Co. v. Spreckles, 65 Cal. 193, 196, 3 Pac. 661, 802; Stewart v. Walla Walla Printing, etc., Co., 1 Wash. 521, 522, 20 Pac. 605.

11. Minnesota Lumber Co. v. Whitebreast Coal Co., 160 Ill. 85, 97, 43 N. E. 774, 31 L. R. A. 529; Pearce v. Foote, 113 Ill. 228, 234, 55 Am. Rep. 414; Pixley v. Boynton, 79 Ill. 351, 353; Miles v. Andrews, 40 Ill. App. 155, 172; Carroll v. Holmes, 24 Ill. App. 453, 456; Miller v. Bensley, 20 Ill. App. 528, 530; Osgood v. Bander, 75 Iowa 550, 556, 39 N. W. 887, 1 L. R. A. 655.

12. Burrill L. Dict. See, generally, BOUNDARIES.

13. Paola, etc., R. Co. v. Anderson County, 16 Kan. 302, 307.

14. Paddock v. Brown, 6 Hill (N. Y.) 530, 532 [citing Const. Presby. Church (Ed. 1842) 436]. See, generally, RELIGIOUS SOCIETIES.

15. Shaw v. State, 17 Tex. App. 225.

16. Raines v. Watson, 2 W. Va. 371, 390 [citing Walker Dict.; Webster Dict.].

17. Shryock v. Latimer, 57 Tex. 674, 677.

18. Century Dict. [quoted in Waggener v. Haskell, 89 Tex. 435, 437, 35 S. W. 1].

19. Moore v. Sargent, 112 Ind. 484, 488, 14 N. E. 466.

20. Sweet L. Dict.

21. Burrill L. Dict.

22. Sweet L. Dict.

23. Lanning v. Christy, 30 Ohio St. 115, 117, 27 Am. Rep. 431, where it is said: "The phrase is still said to be used in the courts of Scotland and the ecclesiastical and admiralty courts of England, though we do not find cases of the kind in the reports."

24. Black L. Dict.

25. Burrill L. Dict.

26. Wharton L. Lex.

27. Black L. Dict.

CAMERA SCACCARII. The exchequer chamber.[28]

CAMERA STELLATA. The Star Chamber.[29]

CAMPBELL'S ACT. The English statute[30] by which an action for damages was given for the benefit of certain relatives of a person whose death has been caused by a wrongful act, neglect, or default, for which he himself could, if death had not ensued, have recovered damages from the wrong-doer.[31] (See, generally, DEATH.)

CAMPFIGHT. The fighting of two champions or combatants in the field; the judicial combat or duellum.[32] (See also ACRE FIGHT; BATTEL.)

CAMPHENE. Turpentine purified by repeated distillation.[33]

28. Burrill L. Dict. See also Bretherton v. Wood, 3 B. & B. 54, 6 Moore C. P. 141, 9 Price 408, 23 Rev. Rep. 556.
29. Wharton L. Lex.
30. 9 & 10 Vict. c. 93.
31. Sweet L. Dict.
32. Burrill L. Dict.
33. Putnam v. Commonwealth Ins. Co., 18 Blatchf. (U. S.) 368, 4 Fed. 753, 764.

CANALS

By Robert M. Heath

CROSS-REFERENCES

For Matters Relating to:
Canals:
As Boundaries, see BOUNDARIES.
For Drainage, see DRAINS.
For Irrigation, see WATERS.
Right to Cut Ice in, see WATERS.
Riparian Rights of Owners Bounded by, see NAVIGABLE WATERS.
Taxation of, see TAXATION.
Improvement of Navigable Waters, see NAVIGABLE WATERS.
Jurisdiction of Admiralty Over Canals and Canal-Boats, see ADMIRALTY.

I. DEFINITION.

A canal has been defined as "a trench or excavation in the earth, for conducting water and confining it to narrow limits."[1] The term includes the excavation, banks, and other parts of the general structure, as well as the stream itself.[2]

II. ESTABLISHMENT, CONSTRUCTION, AND MAINTENANCE.

A. Location. In locating a canal it is the duty of a company to carry out as far as possible the object for which its franchise was granted,[3] but the company can select the route within the limits of its charter.[4]

B. Acquisition of Property — 1. MANNER OF ACQUIRING — a. In General. The acquisition of property of all kinds for the construction or maintenance of canals must be in the particular way provided by the law or charter.[5]

1. Bishop v. Seeley, 18 Conn. 389, 394 [quoting Webster Dict.]. See also Agawam Canal Co. v. Edwards, 36 Conn. 476, 501.

Canals for purposes of navigation are alone considered in this article. For drainage canals see DRAINS; for irrigation canals see WATERS.

2. Connecticut.—Agawam Canal Co. v. Edwards, 36 Conn. 476; Bishop v. Seeley, 18 Conn. 389.

New Jersey.— State v. Betts, 24 N. J. L. 555.

New York.— Genesee Valley Canal R. Co. v. Slaight, 49 Hun (N. Y.) 35, 1 N. Y. Suppl. 554, 17 N. Y. St. 241, 14 N. Y. Civ. Proc. 420.

Ohio.— Hatch v. Cincinnati, etc., R. Co., 18 Ohio St. 92.

Pennsylvania.— Pennsylvania Canal Co. v. Harris, 101 Pa. St. 80.

Ponds from overflow not part of canal.— A pond formed in low grounds by overflow from a canal is not a part thereof. Brookville Hydraulic Co. v. Butler, 91 Ind. 134, 46 Am. Rep. 580.

3. Binney's Case, 2 Bland (Md.) 99; Chesapeake, etc., Canal Co. v. Key, 3 Cranch C. C. (U. S.) 599, 5 Fed. Cas. No. 2,649.

4. Chesapeake, etc., Canal Co. v. Baltimore, etc., R. Co., 4 Gill & J. (Md.) 1; Chesapeake, etc., Canal Co. v. Key, 3 Cranch C. C. (U. S.) 599, 5 Fed. Cas. No. 2,649.

5. Farnum v. Blackstone Canal Corp., 1 Sumn. (U. S.) 46, 8 Fed. Cas. No. 4,675.

Right of canal company as riparian owner. — A canal company purchased riparian lands, and by act of parliament was authorized to take water for canal purposes from all streams within a certain distance of the canal. A mill company having a mill upon the banks of the same stream on which the lands bought by the canal company were situated used the stream not only for mill purposes but also to supply a town with water. It was held that the canal company had greater rights as riparian owner than others and could prevent the mill company from taking more water than it was entitled to as riparian owner. Swindon Waterworks Co. v. Wilts, etc., Canal Nav. Co., L. R. 7 H. L. 697, 45 L. J. Ch. 638,

b. By Eminent Domain — (I) In General. The state having the power to build canals itself and to grant to others franchises so to do can authorize the acquisition of property of all kinds needed in making and maintaining canals.[6] In exercising this right of eminent domain no more property can be taken than is necessary for the canal purpose;[7] and the appropriation must be directly for canal purposes,[8] and must be so definite that the parties to be affected thereby can know what is taken and how their rights are affected.[9]

(II) Possession and Use. Where the law authorizes it the appropriation of property may be made by taking possession of it and using the same,[10] but where property is so appropriated the acts must be performed by or under the direction of the particular officials designated by the law or charter.[11]

33 L. T. Rep. N. S. 513, 24 Wkly. Rep. 284.

6. Lands may be thus acquired upon which canals may be dug and the necessary water to fill the same can be taken and appropriated in the manner required for such purpose. Such waters may be accumulated by dams and reservoirs and conveyed by feeders and cuts or otherwise into the canal. Blair v. Kiger, 111 Ind. 193, 12 N. E. 293; Wabash, etc., Canal v. State, 7 Ind. 180; Butler v. State, 6 Ind. 165; Wright v. Shanahan, 149 N. Y. 495, 44 N. E. 74; Silsby Mfg. Co. v. State, 104 N. Y. 562, 11 N. E. 264; Walrath v. Barton, 11 Barb. (N. Y.) 382; Lynch v. Stone, 4 Den. (N. Y.) 356; Varick v. Smith, 5 Paige (N. Y.) 137, 28 Am. Dec. 417; Cooper v. Williams, 5 Ohio 391, 24 Am. Dec. 299; Spangler's Appeal, 64 Pa. St. 387.

Right of condemnation lost by change of route.—Where the right of condemning property at a certain point once existed such right was lost by a change in the route of the canal. People v. Illinois, etc., Canal, 14 Ill. 292.

Right to appropriate for enlargements.—Where the law or charter contemplates enlargements of the canal, appropriations of property therefor may be made as the necessities arise. Wright v. Shanahan, 149 N. Y. 495, 44 N. E. 74; Bruce v. Delaware, etc., Canal Co., 19 Barb. (N. Y.) 371.

7. No more water can be taken than is necessary for navigation.— A surplus cannot be taken for the purpose of selling or leasing water-power, and leakage and wastage should be prevented. Silsby Mfg. Co. v. State, 104 N. Y. 562, 11 N. E. 264; Varick v. Smith, 5 Paige (N. Y.) 137, 28 Am. Dec. 417; Buckingham v. Smith, 10 Ohio 288; Cooper v. Williams, 4 Ohio 253, 22 Am. Dec. 475 [affirmed in 5 Ohio 391, 24 Am. Dec. 299].

In crossing highways or streets a canal company can only take so much of the public easement as may be reasonably necessary for the canal purposes. Lehigh Valley R. Co. v. Orange Water Co., 42 N. J. Eq. 205, 7 Atl. 659.

Extension of street.— Where a street and a canal each terminated at a river and the canal company was authorized to build wharves, it could not fill in land in front of the terminus of the street and thus cut off the street from the river. The public were held to be entitled to the extension of the street to the river. Jersey City v. Morris Canal, etc., Co., 12 N. J. Eq. 547.

8. Thus where an act of the legislature provided that, upon the owner of a certain mill releasing all damages arising from the construction of a canal, the canal commissioners should dig a race to supply the mill with water, it was held that this race could not be constructed on the property of third persons without their consent. McArthur v. Kelly, 5 Ohio 139.

9. Thus an appropriation of "the water and lands necessary for said feeder" was held void for uncertainty. Hayden v. State, 132 N. Y. 533, 30 N. E. 961, 44 N. Y. St. 911. See also Waller v. State, 144 N. Y. 579, 39 N. E. 680, 64 N. Y. St. 220, holding that the appropriation of the waters of a lake and outlet did not affect the rights of lower riparian owners on the outlet because the general words of the appropriation had been used with reference to certain plans which only showed certain lands and the owners thereof, not being the lands in question.

10. Blair v. Kiger, 111 Ind. 193, 12 N. E. 293; Turrell v. Norman, 19 Barb. (N. Y.) 263; Rexford v. Knight, 15 Barb. (N. Y.) 627 [affirmed in 11 N. Y. 308]; Baker v. Johnson, 2 Hill (N. Y.) 342; State v. Pittsburg, etc., Co., 53 Ohio St. 189, 41 N. E. 205; Merrill v. Currier, 3 Ohio S. & C. Pl. Dec. 153, 2 Ohio N. P. 52.

Persons entering to take materials not trespassers.— The laws of the particular states under which state canals have been constructed have provided for taking materials from adjacent property to be used in the construction or repair of such canals. In entering upon lands and taking such materials the canal officials are not trespassers. Ten Broeck v. Sherrill, 71 N. Y. 276; Wheelock v. Young, 4 Wend. (N. Y.) 647; Jerome v. Ross, 7 Johns. Ch. (N. Y.) 315, 11 Am. Dec. 484; Bliss v. Hosmer, 15 Ohio 44.

11. St. Peter v. Denison, 58 N. Y. 416, 17 Am. Rep. 258; Lyon v. Jerome, 26 Wend. (N. Y.) 485, 37 Am. Dec. 271; Bliss v. Hosmer, 15 Ohio 44.

Giving notice of authority under which officer acts.— A canal official in appropriating water required for a state canal was held not bound to give notice of the authority under which he acted, the statutes not requiring it. Walrath v. Redfield, 18 N. Y. 457 [affirming 11 Barb. (N. Y.) 382].

2. Payment For Property Taken — a. In General. Unless there be a constitutional provision forbidding the same, property can be taken for canal purposes, under laws authorizing it, without previous payment therefor, if provision is made for payment by the law or charter;[12] and it has been held that damages claimed for property taken for a canal can be offset and paid by benefits derived by the owner of the property from the canal.[13]

b. Limitations. Limitations as to the time within which claims arising out of the construction or maintenance of state canals should be presented have been often imposed by law,[14] and similar limitations have been made as to claims against private canal companies in their charters.[15]

3. Extent of Interest Acquired. The government through its laws or the charters granted by it determines as to the character of the interest to be taken in the property to be acquired for a canal, which interest may be either the fee or an easement.[16] In acquiring property by contract, the rights of the state or of a canal company depend upon the terms of such contract, but it may be construed in the light of the general laws in reference to the construction of canals.[17] All

Presumptions as to taking.— Where property is acquired for the canal by taking possession and using the same the presumption is that the acts were regular, that the estate acquired was of the character contemplated by the law or charter (Wyoming Coal, etc., Co. v. Price, 81 Pa. St. 156; Ligat v. Com., 19 Pa. St. 456), and that all the property necessary for the canal purpose was taken, as land for berm-banks and towing-paths (Hatch v. Cincinnati, etc., R. Co., 18 Ohio St. 92; Pennsylvania Canal Co. v. Harris, 101 Pa. St. 80).

12. Blair v. Kiger, 111 Ind. 193, 12 N. E. 293; Kimble v. White Water Valley Canal Co., 1 Ind. 285; Hankins v. Lawrence, 8 Blackf. (Ind.) 266; Den v. Morris Canal, etc., Co., 24 N. J. L. 587; Gridley v. Darcey, 11 N. J. L. 292; Eldridge v. Binghamton, 42 Hun (N. Y.) 202 [affirmed in 120 N. Y. 309, 24 N. E. 462, 30 N. Y. St. 1007]; Turrell v. Norman, 19 Barb. (N. Y.) 263; Birdsall v. Cary, 66 How. Pr. (N. Y.) 358; Baker v. Johnson, 2 Hill (N. Y.) 342; Brinckerhoff v. Wemple, 1 Wend. (N. Y.) 470; Robinson v. West Pennsylvania R. Co., 72 Pa. St. 316.

Payment in scrip.— Where the law provided for payment in scrip there was no recourse upon the state for the difference between the cost and face value of the scrip. State v. Beard, Smith (Ind.) 276.

Settlement by appraisers or arbitration.— Where the acts provided for settlement of claims against the state by canal appraisers or by arbitration the state auditor could not dispute such settlement or award but was obliged to pay drafts drawn in payment thereof. People v. Thayer, 63 N. Y. 348; People v. Newell, 13 Barb. (N. Y.) 86.

13. Eldridge v. Binghamton, 120 N. Y. 309, 24 N. E. 462, 30 N. Y. St. 1007 [affirming 42 Hun (N. Y.) 202]; Rexford v. Knight, 15 Barb. (N. Y.) 627 [affirmed in 11 N. Y. 308]; People v. Brooklyn, 4 N. Y. 419, 55 Am. Dec. 266. Contra, Jacob v. Louisville, 9 Dana (Ky.) 114, 33 Am. Dec. 533.

14. Nelson v. Fleming, 56 Ind. 310; Benedict v. State, 120 N. Y. 228, 24 N. E. 314, 30 N. Y. St. 651; Eldridge v. Binghamton, 42 Hun (N. Y.) 202 [affirmed in 120 N. Y. 309, 24 N. E. 462, 30 N. Y. St. 1007]; Birdsall v. Cary, 66 How. Pr. (N. Y.) 358.

After a long lapse of time presumptions arise that such claims have been paid or waived. Blair v. Kiger, 111 Ind. 193, 12 N. E. 293.

15. Heard v. Middlesex Canal, 5 Metc. (Mass.) 81.

16. Indiana.— Cromie v. Wabash, etc., Canal, 71 Ind. 208; Nelson v. Fleming, 56 Ind. 310; Indianapolis Water Works Co. v. Burkhart, 41 Ind. 364.

Massachusetts.— Dingley v. Boston, 100 Mass. 544.

New York.—Heyward v. New York, 7 N. Y. 314; Rexford v. Knight, 15 Barb. (N. Y.) 627 [affirmed in 11 N. Y. 308].

Ohio.— Malone v. Toledo, 34 Ohio St. 541.

Pennsylvania.— Craig v. Allegheny, 53 Pa. St. 477.

To give an absolute title technical words are not necessary if the language of the statute or charter be sufficiently broad. Brooklyn Park Com'rs v. Armstrong, 45 N. Y. 234, 6 Am. Rep. 70.

Where the language is equivocal and the object of the statute or charter would be as well accomplished, an easement is regarded as appropriated. U. S. v. Harris, 1 Sumn. (U. S.) 21, 26 Fed. Cas. No. 15,315.

Where the statute or charter authorized property to be entered upon, taken, and used for the canal purpose, the estate acquired thereunder was regarded simply as an easement which would terminate with the existence of the canal. New Jersey Zinc, etc., Co. v. Morris Canal, etc., Co., 44 N. J. Eq. 398, 15 Atl. 227, 1 L. R. A. 133; Barnett v. Johnson, 15 N. J. Eq. 481; McCombs v. Stewart, 40 Ohio St. 647; Corwin v. Cowan, 12 Ohio St. 629; Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co. v. Bruce, 102 Pa. St. 23.

17. Thus, where the instrument is not otherwise certain and its language is consistent with such idea, it will be regarded as conveying the same estate whether a fee or an easement as the general law contemplated to be held for the canal purpose. Derby v. Hall, grants by a state are, however, subject to the right of eminent domain to be thereafter exercised, unless such right be expressly relinquished;[18] but title by prescription cannot be claimed against the state as to property connected with state canals where a grant from the state could not be presumed.[19]

C. Right to State Aid. The right of canals to receive public aid is dependent upon the construction placed upon various constitutional provisions.[20]

D. How Constructed and Maintained — 1. In General — a. Following Statute or Charter Provisions. The canal must be constructed in the manner pointed out by the statute or charter under which it is built.[21] In constructing a

2 Gray (Mass.) 236; Craig v. Allegheny, 53 Pa. St. 477; Haldeman v. Pennsylvania Cent. R. Co., 50 Pa. St. 425; Union Canal Co. v. Young, 1 Whart. (Pa.) 410, 30 Am. Dec. 212.

18. Illinois, etc., Canal v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 14 Ill. 314; Pennsylvania Canal Co. v. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co., 2 Pearson (Pa.) 354; Tuckahoe Canal Co. v. Tuckahoe, etc., R. Co., 11 Leigh (Va.) 42, 36 Am. Dec. 374. Compare State v. Jersey City, 58 N. J. L. 262, 33 Atl. 740, holding that where an act authorized a city when it deemed proper to acquire "water, water rights or property within or without said city for the purpose of supplying said city with water" the language was not strong enough to authorize the taking of the water rights and privileges of a canal corporation so that its franchise would be extinguished.

19. Burbank v. Fay, 5 Lans. (N. Y.) 397 [affirmed in 65 N. Y. 57].

Title by prescription cannot be gained to the use of water from a public canal, as the canal corporation would thereby be deprived of control of the canal. Such a claim would be against the right of the public. Waterloo Woolen Mfg. Co. v. Shanahan, 128 N. Y. 345, 28 N. E. 358, 40 N. Y. St. 95, 14 L. R. A. 481; Rochdale Canal Co. v. Radcliffe, 18 Q. B. 287, 21 L. J. Q. B. 297, 83 E. C. L. 287; Staffordshire, etc., Canal Nav. Co. v. Birmingham Canal Nav. Co., L. R. 1 H. L. 254, 35 L. J. Ch. 757.

20. In Illinois a constitutional provision that "the General Assembly shall never loan the credit of the State, or make appropriations from the treasury thereof, in aid of railroads or canals" was held not to prevent the state from improving the navigation of a river by locks and slack water so as to pass canal-boats. People v. Kankakee River Imp. Co., 103 Ill. 491.

In Louisiana, where the constitution provided "that State aid shall not be given to companies," and declared that swamp lands granted by congress to the state to aid in leveeing and draining them should not be diverted from the purposes for which they were granted, it was held that the state could grant a right of preëmption of such lands, fixing the price and providing that the parties should cut a canal through them. The act allowed the parties to use the land contiguous to the canal for its benefit, but such lands and the canal were to revert to the state at the end of fifty years. State v. Burgess, 23 La. Ann. 225.

21. Farnum v. Blackstone Canal Corp., 1 Sumn. (U. S.) 46, 8 Fed. Cas. No. 4,675.

Discretion in awarding contracts.— Under the New York act of July 10, 1851, directing the canal board to cause the board of canal commissioners and the state and division engineers to award contracts for the doing of canal work on such terms as the board shall approve, it was held that the canal board had discretion as to such matters and that they would not be compelled by mandamus to approve or disapprove of proposed contracts. People v. State Canal Board, 13 Barb. (N. Y.) 432.

Lowest bidder.— N. Y. Const. art. 7, § 3, requiring all contracts for work or materials on any state canal to "be made with the person who shall offer to do or provide the same at the lowest price with adequate security for their performance," it was held that, where such a contract was awarded to the lowest bidder and he failed to complete it, the contract could not be awarded to the next lowest bidder under the same advertisement. People v. Fay, 3 Lans. (N. Y.) 398. After awarding the contract to the lowest bidder the canal board could not increase the price even if authorized to do so by an act of the legislature. People v. Canal Board, 4 Lans. (N. Y.) 272. The constitutional provision, however, was merely a restriction upon the state officials, it having been held that the legislature itself could make additional compensation where the claim therefor was proper. People v. Dayton, 55 N. Y. 367; People v. Canal Board, 1 Thomps. & C. (N. Y.) 309; People v. Densmore, 1 Thomps. & C. (N. Y.) 280.

Prescribing terms of contract.—N. Y. Laws (1854), c. 329, § 10, subs. 3, required that the terms of the contract into which successful bidders for canal work would be required to enter should be "prescribed by the contracting board." It was held that the terms should be prescribed before the bidding, so that all bidders would be apprised of the kind of contract. People v. Contracting Board, 33 N. Y. 382 [affirming 33 Barb. (N. Y.) 510 (reversing 20 How. Pr. (N. Y.) 206)].

Bound only to charter obligations.— Where a canal is operated under a charter the canal company is liable only to the obligations imposed thereby. Thus where the charter does not require it the canal company is not bound to erect railings or fences along the margin of the canal (Barnes v. New Orleans Canal, etc., Banking Co., 9 La. Ann. 366; Binks v.

canal its banks should be made strong enough to retain the water in its channel not only against the adjacent land in the condition it then is but also against any lawful use that such land may be put to,[22] and a canal company should furnish pure water for the navigation of its canal. The use of foul polluted water being a nuisance, it is no excuse that others caused the foulness.[23]

b. Bridges — (i) In General. Charters of canal companies sometimes provide that bridges shall be constructed over the canal when it divides lands of individuals. These requirements cannot be dispensed with,[24] but such provisions do not apply where the right of way was acquired by deed or agreement.[25]

(ii) Over Highways. Where a canal is constructed under a charter[26] it must be bridged where it crosses an existing[27] public highway[28] and the duty to build and maintain bridges at such points exists whether it is specifically imposed by the charter or not.[29] Since where a canal is constructed upon a street the South Yorkshire R., etc., Co., 3 B. & S. 244, 32 L. J. Q. B. 26, 7 L. T. Rep. N. S. 350, 11 Wkly. Rep. 56, 113 E. C. L. 244) or to build levees (New Orleans v. Carondelet Canal, etc., Co., 42 La. Ann. 6, 7 So. 63).

22. Staffordshire, etc., Canal Nav. Co. v. Hallen, 6 B. & C. 317, 9 D. & R. 266, 5 L. J. K. B. O. S. 154, 30 Rev. Rep. 333, 13 E. C. L. 151, where the owner of land who dug clay pits thereon, thus weakening the canal banks and causing them to give way, was held not liable.

23. Reg. v. Bradford Nav. Co., 6 B. & S. 631, 11 Jur. N. S. 769, 34 L. J. Q. B. 191, 13 Wkly. Rep. 892, 118 E. C. L. 631; Atty.-Gen. v. Bradford Canal Nav. Co., 35 L. J. Ch. 619, 15 L. T. Rep. N. S. 9, 14 Wkly. Rep. 579.

24. Delaware, etc., Canal Nav. Co. v. Mifflin, 1 Yeates (Pa.) 430.

25. Perry v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 55 N. J. L. 178, 26 Atl. 829; Brearley v. Delaware, etc., Canal Co., 20 N. J. L. 236.

26. Where constructed and maintained by a state, the state determines for itself where the canal shall be bridged and it cannot be forced to furnish bridges at other points or wherever roads intersect the canal. People v. Canal Trustees, 14 Ill. 402.

Grantee of state.— The state built a public bridge over a canal and assumed the duty of keeping it in repair and afterward sold the canal. This sale was "subject to all contracts and arrangements heretofore made by Act of Assembly, or otherwise, for and in respect to the use of such works." It was held that as the purchaser had assumed the duty of the state he could be forced to replace the bridge after it fell. Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Duquesne, 46 Pa. St. 223.

27. Highways made after canal.— Where a canal is in existence and highways and streets are subsequently laid out the canal company is not bound to bridge the canal at the intersection of such highways and streets. Lowell v. Proprietors Merrimack River Locks, etc., 7 Metc. (Mass.) 1, 104 Mass. 18; Morris Canal, etc., Co. v. State, 24 N. J. L. 62; Oswego v. Oswego Canal Co., 6 N. Y. 257. See also Erie v. Erie Canal Co., 59 Pa. St. 174, where it was held that, there being no reserved power to alter the charter, a subsequent law could not impose upon the canal company the obligation to construct or repair bridges over highways subsequently laid out.

Expense cannot be increased.— A canal company was required by its charter to build and keep in repair bridges over public and private roads. A road was subsequently converted into a state road. The travel on the road and the expense of maintaining bridges was thereby greatly increased. It was held that the canal company was no longer bound to keep up the bridge on such road. Union Canal Co. v. Pinegrove Tp., 6 Watts & S. (Pa.) 560.

28. Private road.— The duty to bridge also exists where the canal crosses a private road. State v. Savannah, etc., Canal Co., 26 Ga. 665.

29. Fresno County v. Fowler Switch Canal Co., 68 Cal. 359, 9 Pac. 309; State v. Savannah, etc., Canal Co., 26 Ga. 665; Franklin County v. White Water Valley Canal Co., 2 Ind. 162; Chesapeake, etc., Canal Co. v. Allegany County, 57 Md. 201, 40 Am. Rep. 430; Eyler v. Allegany County, 49 Md. 257, 33 Am. Rep. 249; Leopard v. Chesapeake, etc., Canal Co., 1 Gill (Md.) 222, in which last case, plaintiff having conveyed land upon which a canal was built, it was held that he was not precluded by the deed from insisting that the highway at such point divided by the canal should be bridged.

Not exonerated because others liable.— Where canal companies are liable to repair bridges crossing its canal such liability continues although others may become liable also. Thus where a street railroad was liable by law for repairs between its tracks and failed to make them where the tracks crossed a canal bridge the canal company was held liable to a city that had made the repairs. Lowell v. Proprietors Merrimack River Locks, etc., 104 Mass. 18. See also Eyler v. Allegany County, 49 Md. 257, 33 Am. Rep. 249; Ammerman v. Wyoming Canal Co., 40 Pa. St. 256.

Pleading.— Where a suit is instituted by a county against a canal company based on its failure to build a bridge over the canal at the intersection of a highway the declaration must allege a special damage. Franklin County v. White Water Valley Canal Co., 2 Ind. 162.

rights of the public therein continue as far as consistent with its use as a canal; the canal may be bridged by the city and sewers run under it,[30] but such bridges must be so constructed as not to materially obstruct the navigation of the canal.[31]

e. Liability For Damages — (I) In General — (A) Of Canal Company — (1) In General. A canal corporation not being a public corporation its liabilities are those of individuals generally.[32] In constructing a canal the owners thereof are liable for damages resulting from its negligent and improper construction.[33]

(2) Discharge of Water. The owners of a canal are liable for injuries caused by the discharge of water therefrom,[34] although the same was done with prudence and care;[35] but water coming into a canal from outside sources may be excluded, although damages to others result therefrom.[36]

(3) Diverting or Blocking Stream. Canal companies are liable to a

Prosecution for failure to repair.— Where the charter of a canal company makes it the duty of the company to erect and maintain bridges over the canal where any public road crosses the canal it is an indictable offense to permit such a bridge to decay and become unsafe. State v. Morris Canal, etc., Co., 22 N. J. L. 537. An information against canal trustees for maintaining a nuisance by failing to keep a bridge in repair so as to be safe for public travel should show by what right the defendants became possessed of the bridge and were charged with any duty as to it. Butler v. State, 17 Ind. 450.

30. Ft. Wayne v. Coombs, 107 Ind. 75, 7 N. E. 743, 57 Am. Rep. 82.

31. Korch v. Ottawa, 32 Ill. 121, 83 Am. Dec. 255; Tuckahoe Canal Co. v. Tuckahoe, etc., R. Co., 11 Leigh (Va.) 43, 36 Am. Dec. 374.

32. Connecticut.— Hooker v. New Haven, etc., Co., 15 Conn. 312, 322.

Maryland.— Brady v. State, 26 Md. 290.

Michigan.— People v. Lake Superior Ship Canal, etc., Co., 32 Mich. 233.

New Jersey.— Ten Eyck v. Delaware, etc., Canal Co., 18 N. J. L. 200, 37 Am. Dec. 233.

Pennsylvania.— Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co. v. Bruce, 102 Pa. St. 23.

33. Morris Canal, etc., Co. v. Ryerson, 27 N. J. L. 457; Silsby Mfg. Co. v. State, 104 N. Y. 562, 11 N. E. 264; Selden v. Delaware, etc., Canal Co., 29 N. Y. 634; Delaware, etc., Canal Co. v. Goldstein, 125 Pa. St. 246, 17 Atl. 442.

Accidental breaches in canal.—A canal company is not liable for an accidental breach in the canal where the company is without fault. Higgins v. Chesapeake, etc., Canal Co., 3 Harr. (Del.) 411.

Percolations.— Where a canal was properly constructed and maintained it was held there was no liability arising from percolations of water therefrom on adjoining premises. Cuddeback v. Delaware, etc., Canal Co., 20 N. Y. Wkly. Dig. 454.

Pleading.— Where a canal has not been constructed of the prescribed dimensions or was not kept in proper repair its owner is not liable to a person who has suffered no special damage thereby apart from that sustained by the general public. Moore v. Wabash, etc., Canal, 7 Ind. 462; Quincy Canal v. Newcomb, 7 Metc. (Mass.) 276, 39 Am. Dec. 778.

Suits for compensation must include all damage, present or prospective.—Where property is taken to build a canal or lands are flooded by the construction of such canal, its dams, or reservoirs, any action to recover compensation should include all damage, prospective as well as present. Subsequent actions cannot be brought to recover remote or unforeseen damages. Chesapeake, etc., Canal Co. v. Grove, 11 Gill & J. (Md.) 398; Heard v. Middlesex Canal, 5 Metc. (Mass.) 81; Woods v. Nashua Mfg. Co., 5 N. H. 467; Lehigh Valley R. Co. v. McFarlan, 43 N. J. L. 605; Van Schoick v. Delaware, etc., Canal Co., 20 N. J. L. 249. Damages caused by the construction of a canal must be estimated as of that time. A subsequent purchaser cannot claim them. Zimmerman v. Union Canal Co., 1 Watts & S. (Pa.) 346.

Evidence.— The fact that damages have been occasioned by the construction or operation of a canal can be shown by circumstantial as well as by direct evidence. Morris Canal, etc., Co. v. Ryerson, 27 N. J. L. 457; Morris Canal, etc., Co. v. Seward, 23 N. J. L. 219; Delaware, etc., Canal Co. v. Goldstein, 125 Pa. St. 246, 17 Atl. 442. In an action for a continuous nuisance or damage to property caused by a canal the condition of the property at the time of trial may be shown in evidence in order to furnish the most precise and reliable information as to the nature and extent of the injury complained of.

34. McKee v. Delaware, etc., Canal Co., 125 N. Y. 353, 26 N. E. 305, 35 N. Y. St. 12, 21 Am. St. Rep. 740, where a canal company having constructed a dam across a stream upon its own land and used the stream, which ran through plaintiff's premises, as a feeder to the canal, it was held that the canal company could not discharge water from the dam into the stream in greater quantities than it would naturally carry, and that a liability existed for flooding land by the discharge of greater quantities.

35. Hooker v. New Haven, etc., Co., 14 Conn. 146, 36 Am. Dec. 477, 15 Conn. 312.

36. Nield v. London, etc., R. Co., L. R. 10 Exch. 4, 44 L. J. Exch. 15, 23 Wkly. Rep. 60.

riparian owner for the diversion and use of the waters of a stream,[37] and where natural streams and drains are stopped by the construction of a canal so as to cause injury by overflow or otherwise.[38]

(4) Obstructions in Canal. A canal company in maintaining its canal is bound only to the exercise of reasonable care that it shall be navigable without danger and is not liable for accidents not resulting from the want of such reasonable care.[39]

(B) Of Canal Officials. By statute the officials[40] of a state canal or parties connected therewith[41] are sometimes made liable for damages resulting from their neglect of duties.[42]

37. Illinois, etc., Canal v. Haven, 10 Ill. 548, 11 Ill. 554; Adams v. Slater, 8 Ill. App. 72.

38. Mabire v. Canal Bank, 11 La. 83, 30 Am. Dec. 710; Delaware, etc., Canal Co. v. Lee, 22 N. J. L. 243.

Use of stream as part of canal.— Where a stream was used as part of a canal and a dam was erected therein, it was held that the owners of land upon the opposite bank of the stream could recover damages occasioned by overflows caused by the dam. Ten Eyck v. Delaware, etc., Canal Co., 18 N. J. L. 200, 37 Am. Dec. 233.

Evidence.— Where a canal divided a tract of land and overflowed a part thereof it was held that evidence could be introduced to show the cost of bridging the canal so as to connect the land and of draining the overflowed part of the land. State v. Beackmo, 6 Blackf. (Ind.) 488. Where a canal company was sued for damages caused by sand being washed on land by means of a canal dam, evidence that sand was carried on other land below the dam was held not admissible to prove that the dam had not caused the damage complained of. Morris Canal, etc., Co. v. Ryerson, 27 N. J. L. 457.

39. Watts v. Savannah, etc., Canal Co., 64 Ga. 88, 37 Am. Rep. 53; Riddle v. Proprietors Merrimack River Locks, etc., 7 Mass. 169, 5 Am. Dec. 35; Exchange F. Ins. Co. v. Delaware, etc., Canal Co., 10 Bosw. (N. Y.) 180; Pennsylvania Canal Co. v. Burd, 90 Pa. St. 281, 35 Am. Rep. 659; Schuylkill Nav. Co. v. McDonough, 33 Pa. St. 73.

Where accidents result from hidden obstructions in a canal, as rocks, sunken logs, etc., no liability exists against the canal company if the existence of such obstructions was unknown and reasonable care had been exercised in the supervision of the canal (Bryne v. Chicago, 80 Ill. 195; Weitner v. Delaware, etc., Canal Co., 4 Rob. (N. Y.) 234; Exchange F. Ins. Co. v. Delaware, etc., Canal Co., 10 Bosw. (N. Y.) 180; Pennsylvania Canal Co. v. Burd, 90 Pa. St. 281, 35 Am. Rep. 659); but a canal company is liable for negligence where it allows such obstructions to remain in the channel of the canal and damage results (Pajewski v. Carondelet Canal, etc., Co., 11 Fed. 313; Parnaby v. Lancaster Canal Co., 11 A. & E. 223, 9 L. J. Exch. 338, 3 P. & D. 162, 1 R. & Can. Cas. 696, 39 E. C. L. 139). A floating storehouse permanently moored in a canal is prima facie a nuisance as an obstruction to navigation. Hart v. Albany, 3 Paige (N. Y.) 213.

In removing obstructions to navigation property cannot be destroyed unless absolutely necessary. Hicks v. Dorn, 1 Lans. (N. Y.) 81, 54 Barb. (N. Y.) 172 [affirmed in 42 N. Y. 47].

40. In Wright v. Shanahan, 149 N. Y. 495, 44 N. E. 74, it was held that the canal commissioner should have removed the flush boards from the crest of a canal dam at the close of canal navigation. The court said it is "the settled law of the state that the negligent omission of a public officer to perform a ministerial duty, or an improper discharge thereof, renders him liable to be enjoined and to respond in damages to the injured party."

Illegality of appointment no defense.— A statute prohibited the employment on state canals as superintendent or agent of any person connected with any hydraulic works dependent upon the state for their water supply. Where such a disqualified person was made an agent it was held he could not plead his agency as a defense to an action brought against him by the owner of lands which had been overflowed by raising the flush boards on a canal dam. Such party could not claim he had discretionary authority to close or open the canal gates or to regulate the flush boards. Shaver v. Eldred, 38 Hun (N. Y.) 632.

41. Canal contractors.— Persons who contract to keep canals in repair or to remove obstacles therefrom are liable for the damages resulting from their failure to perform their contracts. Johnson v. Belden, 47 N. Y. 130; Fulton F. Ins. Co. v. Baldwin, 37 N. Y. 648, 5 Transcr. App. (N. Y.) 180; Robinson v. Chamberlain, 34 N. Y. 389, 90 Am. Dec. 713.

42. Discretion of canal official.— It is the duty of a canal commissioner to examine the banks of that part of the canal committed to his care and to judge as to the necessity of repairs thereto. As to such matters he is not liable if he act in good faith, although his judgment be in fact wrong and the banks gave way because not strengthened. On the other hand the duties of such officer are imperative as to the removal of obstructions in the canal which endanger or impede navigation. Griffith v. Follett, 20 Barb. (N. Y.) 620; Adsit v. Brady, 4 Hill (N. Y.) 630, 40 Am. Dec. 305; Shepherd v. Lincoln, 17 Wend. (N. Y.) 250.

(c) Of State. While a state cannot take property for a public use without compensation, it is not liable for consequential damages where it has not assumed to pay them;[43] but in constructing and maintaining canals states have often, by special laws, assumed liability that would not otherwise exist.[44]

(11) How Enforced — (A) In General. Where a charter authorizes the construction of a canal and provides a method of redress for those injured in their property or rights by the natural effect of such construction the charter remedy

Pleading.— Where a canal officer is sued for damages resulting from his neglect to repair the banks of a canal or in not removing obstructions from the channel of the canal the declaration need not allege that such officer had public funds in his hands sufficient to have enabled him to have performed his duties (Griffith v. Follett, 20 Barb. (N. Y.) 620; Adsit v. Brady, 4 Hill (N. Y.) 630, 40 Am. Dec. 305); and in a suit for injuries sustained by his neglect to remove obstructions from the channel of a canal the declaration need not allege that the neglect was wilful or malicious (Adsit v. Brady, 4 Hill (N. Y.) 630, 40 Am. Dec. 305).

43. Rexford v. State, 105 N. Y. 229, 11 N. E. 514; Hoffer v. Pennsylvania Canal Co., 87 Pa. St. 221; Delaware Division Canal Co. v. McKeen, 52 Pa. St. 117. See also Stone v. State, 138 N. Y. 124, 33 N. E. 733, 51 N. Y. St. 718.

Constitutional limitations requiring compensation for property taken apply to the property taken, not to consequential damages. Bruce v. Delaware, etc., Canal Co., 19 Barb. (N. Y.) 371; West Branch, etc., Canal Co. v. Mulliner, 68 Pa. St. 357; Spangler's Appeal, 64 Pa. St. 387.

Canal feeder used as highway.— The state constructed a canal feeder on its land and covered it with timber and earth. The feeder was used as a highway for more than twenty years, but it was never laid out as a street. A person knowing of the feeder, its construction, and use in walking thereupon broke through the covering of the feeder. The state was held not to be liable for the resulting damage, as no dedication of the feeder as a street could be inferred and its use as a highway had been merely by sufferance. Donahue v. State, 112 N. Y. 142, 19 N. E. 419, 20 N. Y. St. 243, 2 L. R. A. 576.

44. Break in canal.— Where a break occurred in a canal owing to the negligence of parties in charge the state was held liable for damages resulting to a bridge. Bidelman v. State, 110 N. Y. 232, 18 N. E. 115, 18 N. Y. St. 107, 1 L. R. A. 258.

Canal dams.— Where the erection of canal dams or increasing their height causes land to be overflowed the state is liable whether such dams be temporary or permanent. Wright v. Shanahan, 149 N. Y. 495, 44 N. E. 74; Benedict v. State, 120 N. Y. 228, 24 N. E. 314, 30 N. Y. St. 651; Stewart v. State, 105 N. Y. 254, 11 N. E. 652; Heacock v. State, 105 N. Y. 246, 11 N. E. 638.

Continuous injuries.— Injuries caused by water seeping through the side of a defectively constructed canal reservoir are continuous in their nature. Such injuries are not complete at their inception. Actions therefor may be brought at any time within the statutory period of limitation prior to their commencement. Folts v. State, 118 N. Y. 406, 23 N. E. 567, 29 N. Y. St. 42; Reed v. State, 108 N. Y. 407, 15 N. E. 735.

Defective canal reservoir.— In constructing a canal reservoir a gravel bed was uncovered and left as a side thereto. Water seeped through the gravel causing damage for which the state was liable. Reed v. State, 108 N. Y. 407, 15 N. E. 735.

Land, materials, and crops.— The state is liable for land and materials taken by it to construct its canals and for loss of crops occasioned by removing fences in getting such materials. Wheelock v. Young, 4 Wend. (N. Y.) 647.

Lateral support of land.—Where in digging a canal the adjacent land caved, it was held that such land in its natural state was entitled to the support of the land dug away in making the canal and that the state was liable for withdrawing such support. People v. Canal Board, 2 Thomps. & C. (N. Y.) 275.

Negligence of canal employees.— The state was held liable for damage resulting from the negligent conduct of parties engaged in tending the canal and its locks. Bidelman v. State, 110 N. Y. 232, 18 N. E. 115, 18 N. Y. St. 107, 1 L. R. A. 258; Silsby Mfg. Co. v. State, 104 N. Y. 562, 11 N. E. 264; Sipple v. State, 99 N. Y. 284, 1 N. E. 892, 3 N. E. 657.

Obstructed drain.— The state constructed a sewer to drain its canal and allowed parties to connect therewith. The sewer became obstructed and damage resulted from back water and the state was held liable. Ballou v. State, 111 N. Y. 496, 18 N. E. 627, 19 N. Y. St. 82.

Seepage from defective canal.—Lands were flooded by seepage from an improperly constructed canal. The state was held liable for the cost of draining the land and putting it in a tillable condition. Sayre v. State, 123 N. Y. 291, 25 N. E. 163, 33 N. Y. St. 156.

Waste of water.— The walls, locks, and gates of a canal were not kept in a proper condition and water leaked and was wasted. The state was held liable to a riparian owner who had suffered damage by the waste of water. Silsby Mfg. Co. v. State, 104 N. Y. 562, 11 N. E. 264.

Evidence.— Where a claim was filed against the state of New York for damages resulting from the overflow of land caused by the state not maintaining proper canal banks and an award was made by the board of claims in is generally exclusive;[45] but where the claim is based upon the negligence and wrongful conduct of the canal company the remedy provided in the charter of such company specifying how compensation may be recovered for property taken does not apply and resort may be had to other remedies.[46]

(B) Against State. Where a state has assumed liabilities in reference to state canals and passed laws prescribing how and when claims on account thereof should be presented and prosecuted, the requirements of these laws must be followed as the sovereign can be sued only to the extent of and in the manner indicated by such laws.[47]

2. ENLARGING. After their construction, canals may be enlarged, where such enlargement is contemplated by the law or charter as being necessary or advisable,[48] and the height of dams connected with canals may be increased and their capacity augmented.[49]

III. REGULATION AND OPERATION.

A. In General. State canals are operated through the instrumentality of officers appointed by the state, whose powers and duties are derived from and governed by the particular laws under which they are appointed.[50] Private canals built upon private property are subject to the control of their owners. The use of such canals being merely permissive the public acquire no vested rights therein.[51]

B. Rules as to Use. Where the canal is a state canal[52] the state by its laws favor of claimant, it was held that such award could not be used as evidence in favor of another claimant having a similar claim to show liability of the state. Stone v. State, 138 N. Y. 124, 33 N. E. 733, 51 N. Y. St. 718.

45. Hazen v. Essex Co., 12 Cush. (Mass.) 475; Stevens v. Middlesex Canal, 12 Mass. 466; Lehigh Valley R. Co. v. McFarlan, 43 N. J. L. 605; Fehr v. Schuylkill Nav. Co., 69 Pa. St. 161. See, however, Selden v. Delaware, etc., Canal Co., 24 Barb. (N. Y.) 362, where a canal was enlarged and lands were overflowed thereby and it was held that the owner was not confined to the charter remedy for the taking of land but might maintain a common-law action for his injury.

In absence of express provision it was held that upon an appeal from the adjustment of damages by arbitrators under the act incorporating the Warren Canal company, the cause must be proceeded in by proper pleading, and an issue to a jury as in other cases. Cooper v. Warren Canal Co., 7 Ohio 242.

46. Delaware, etc., Canal Co. v. Lee, 22 N. J. L. 243; McKee v. Delaware, etc., Canal Co., 125 N. Y. 353, 26 N. E. 305, 35 N. Y. St. 12, 21 Am. St. Rep. 740; Fehr v. Schuylkill Nav. Co., 69 Pa. St. 161; Schuylkill Nav. Co. v. McDonough, 33 Pa. St. 73; Schuylkill Nav. Co. v. Loose, 19 Pa. St. 15.

47. Illinois, etc., Canal v. Daft, 56 Ill. 121. See also People v. Wells, 12 Ill. 102; Benedict v. State, 120 N. Y. 228, 24 N. E. 314, 30 N. Y. St. 651; Stewart v. State, 105 N. Y. 254, 11 N. E. 652; Heacock v. State, 105 N. Y. 246, 11 N. E. 638.

48. Bruce v. Delaware, etc., Canal Co., 19 Barb. (N. Y.) 371; Rex v. Glamorganshire, 7 B. & C. 722, 14 E. C. L. 325.

Such enlargement may be by increasing the depth as well as width of the canal, and the increase of depth may be by excavations from the bottom of the canal or by raising the banks, or by both. Selden v. Delaware, etc., Canal Co., 24 Barb. (N. Y.) 362.

49. Shaver v. Eldred, 114 N. Y. 236, 21 N. E. 411, 23 N. Y. St. 293; Wright v. Eldred, 46 Hun (N. Y.) 12; Freeland v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 2 Leg. Gaz. (Pa.) 85.

50. Clark v. State, 142 N. Y. 101, 36 N. E. 817, 58 N. Y. St. 444; Shaver v. Eldred, 114 N. Y. 236, 21 N. E. 411, 23 N. Y. St. 293; Robinson v. Chamberlain, 34 N. Y. 389, 90 Am. Dec. 713; People v. Schoonmaker, 13 N. Y. 238; Wright v. Eldred, 46 Hun (N. Y.) 12; People v. Bristol, 1 Lans. (N. Y.) 45; People v. McCumber, 27 Barb. (N. Y.) 632; State v. Buttles, 3 Ohio St. 309; Com. v. Canal Com'rs, 9 Watts (Pa.) 466.

Revenues not to be anticipated.— Under a provision that "the remainder of the revenues of the said canals shall, in each fiscal year, be applied, in such manner as the legislature shall direct, to the completion of the Erie Canal enlargement, and the Genesee Valley and Black River canals, until the said canals shall be completed," it was held that these revenues could not be anticipated and appropriated before the periods fixed by the constitution. Newell v. People, 7 N. Y. 9; Rodman v. Munson, 13 Barb. (N. Y.) 63.

51. Harvey v. Potter, 19 La. Ann. 264, 92 Am. Dec. 532; Potter v. Indiana, etc., R. Co., 95 Mich. 389, 54 N. W. 956; Ward v. Warner, 8 Mich. 508.

Obstruction of canal.— A part owner of the land on which a private canal is constructed cannot obstruct the navigation thereof by driving piles in it. Page v. Young, 106 Mass. 313.

52. United States canal.—In U. S. v. Ormsbee, 74 Fed. 207, it was held that congress prescribes the rules and regulations as to the use of the canal.[53] The owners of a private canal situated upon private property can make such rules as to its use as they see fit, and, where the canal is operated under a charter, rules and regulations as to its use may be made and enforced by the canal company. The discretion allowed as to such matters is not, however, an arbitrary one, and regulations must be reasonable and must be exercised with a proper regard for the rights of others.[54]

C. Disposition of Surplus Water. After taking such water only as may be necessary for canal purposes the state or canal company may[55] lease or dispose of water if the navigation of the canal is not thereby interfered with.[56] Provision may be made by law or in the contract for the resumption of the water so disposed of if its use becomes necessary to the canal or its resumption is desired;[57] and where successive leases of water-power are made and the supply of surplus water afterward becomes inadequate for all, the water should be supplied in the order in which the leases were executed.[58]

D. Implied Agreement as to Navigability. Where a boat is induced by a canal company to enter a canal in the expectation that for compensation it shall have a passage through, the law implies an agreement on the part of the canal company that the boat shall get through the canal in a reasonable time.[59] could delegate to the secretary of war power to prescribe rules and regulations for the use, administration, and navigation of canals owned or operated by the United States.

53. Under the laws of New York passenger boats have the preference over other boats in passing the locks of canals. This right may be enforced by a passenger boat by any means short of a breach of the peace, as by pulling back the boat over which it has such preference and forcing itself forward. Houghton v. Walce, 64 Barb. (N. Y.) 613; Farnsworth v. Groot, 6 Cow. (N. Y.) 698.

54. Sheldon v. New Orleans Canal, etc., Co., 9 Rob. (La.) 360; Pennsylvania Coal Co. v. Delaware, etc., Canal Co., 31 N. Y. 91.

Must allow facilities for navigation.— A canal company in maintaining its canal as a navigable highway must allow the use of the ordinary facilities for the navigation thereof. Thus where tugs were necessary to propel vessels through the canal a vessel could not be excluded by forbidding the use of a tug that owed tolls for other passages of the canal by it. Buffalo Bayou Ship Channel Co. v. Milby, 63 Tex. 492, 51 Am. Rep. 668.

Sunday navigation.— A regulation of a canal company forbade boats passing its locks on Sunday "without a written permit from the superintendent or his assistant" which permit would not be granted "unless in cases of actual necessity." The regulation was held unreasonable and void, as the officer might not be accessible when the permit was needed. The court further held that the boat owner had the right to determine for himself whether Sunday navigation was necessary, he being subject to liability under the statute for unnecessary navigation. McArthur v. Green Bay, etc., Canal Co., 34 Wis. 139.

Use of boats propelled by steam.— In Case v. Midland R. Co., 27 Beav. 247, 5 Jur. N. S. 1017, 28 L. J. Ch. 727, it was held that there was a public right of user of a canal by boats propelled by steam, if they occasioned no more injury to the canal than traction by horses would occasion. See also Sheldon v. New Orleans Canal, etc., Co., 9 Rob. (La.) 360, as to right to exclude steam vessels from a canal if they occasioned injury thereto.

55. Ordinarily the canal company is not bound to lease out or dispose of such surplus waters. Binney v. Chesapeake, etc., Canal Co., 8 Pet. (U. S.) 201, 8 L. ed. 917. Where, however, the company had held itself out as a source of water supply, and expensive machinery had been set up along the banks of the canal upon the faith of obtaining such water-power, it was held that it must be furnished if it was reasonably within the power of the canal company so to do. Millers v. Augusta, 63 Ga. 772. And in French v. Gapen, 105 U. S. 509, 26 L. ed. 951, it was held that it was the duty of the state to lease out certain water-powers of a state canal, as the legislature had provided that the contractors who had erected the water-power were to be paid out of rents.

56. Armstrong v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 38 N. J. L. 1; Hoppock v. United New Jersey R., etc., Co., 27 N. J. Eq. 286; Little Miami Elevated Co. v. Cincinnati, 30 Ohio St. 629; Buckingham v. Smith, 10 Ohio 288; Cooper v. Williams, 4 Ohio 253, 22 Am. Dec. 745, 5 Ohio 391, 24 Am. Dec. 299; Kaukauna Water Power Co. v. Green Bay, etc., Canal Co., 142 U. S. 254, 12 S. Ct. 173, 35 L. ed. 1004.

Such leases may embrace the bare use of passing water. Thus where the state erected a canal dam and leased surplus waters it was held that the lessee could only use the water as it passed over the dam and could not divert it to the injury of a riparian owner upon the stream below the dam. Varick v. Smith, 5 Paige (N. Y.) 137, 28 Am. Dec. 417.

57. Dermott v. State, 99 N. Y. 101, 1 N. E. 242; Mattoon v. Munroe, 21 Hun (N. Y.) 74; Ex p. Miller, 2 Hill (N. Y.) 418; State v. Board Public Works, 42 Ohio St. 607.

58. Wabash, etc., Canal v. Reinhart, 22 Ind. 463.

59. Muir v. Louisville, etc., Canal Co., 8 Dana (Ky.) 161, holding that, in a suit against a canal company for delay in passing

E. Tolls — 1. In General. Private persons owning canals constructed upon private property can charge tolls for the use thereof and fix the rate of the same;[60] but where canals are constructed by a state or under charters granted by it only such tolls can be charged for the use thereof as the law under which the canals are built or such charters expressly authorize.[61]

2. Discrimination. Where canals are operated under charters no discrimination in favor of particular persons can be made in charging tolls.[62]

3. Use of Canal Entitling Company to Charge. Parties using a canal must pay the tolls exacted for such use. They cannot deny liability on the ground that the canal was not constructed as required by its charter.[63] On the other hand a canal company after receiving tolls cannot claim that the boat or craft was improperly in the canal.[64]

IV. PROTECTION.

The general laws of particular states in which canals are situated furnish remedies for the protection of canals and their operation,[65] but special laws have also been passed by the different states for the protection of canals.[66] a boat through a canal, an averment that the canal company agreed for a "reasonable reward" that the boat should pass is a sufficient averment of a consideration.

60. Harvey v. Potter, 19 La. Ann. 264, 92 Am. Dec. 532.

61. Sturgeon Bay, etc., Ship Canal, etc., Co. v. Leatham, 62 Ill. App. 386 [affirmed in 164 Ill. 239, 45 N. E. 422]; Myers v. Foster, 6 Cow. (N. Y.) 567; Perrine v. Chesapeake, etc., Canal Co., 9 How. (U. S.) 172, 13 L. ed. 92; Stourbridge Canal v. Wheeley, 2 B. & Ad. 792, 22 E. C. L. 333; Leeds, etc., Canal Co. v. Hustler, 1 B. & C. 424, 2 D. & R. 556, 8 E. C. L. 181; Barrett v. Stockton, etc., R. Co., 11 Cl. & F. 590, 8 Eng. Reprint 1225, 2 M. & G. 134, 2 Scott N. R. 337, 40 E. C. L. 528.

Effect of change in classification of goods. — Where goods were heavy goods when a canal act was passed and a lower rate of tolls was fixed on them than on light goods by the act, it was held that the same tolls should be charged on such goods, though they were afterward classed as light goods by the custom of the country where the canal was situated. Staffordshire, etc., Canal Nav. Co. v. Trent, etc., Nav. Co., 6 Taunt. 151, 1 E. C. L. 551.

Rate dependent on rate of another company. — Where an act provided that a canal company should charge no higher rate of tolls than those charged by another company, and such latter company by resolution reduced the rate of tolls, it was held that the former company could not question collaterally the validity of the resolution but were bound by it as long as it was acted under. Monmouthshire Canal Nav. Co. v. Kendall, 4 B. & Ald. 453, 6 E. C. L. 557.

Where a maximum rate is prescribed a lower rate may be legally charged. Delaware, etc., Canal Co. v. Pennsylvania Coal Co., 21 Pa. St. 131.

Impairment of right. — The rights of a canal company under its charter are not impaired by the diminution of revenues occasioned by the construction of a railroad in the same territory as the canal, although the legislature had not reserved the right to decrease tolls (Illinois, etc., Canal v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 14 Ill. 314); but where creditors were secured by the revenues of a canal in which the United States was principally interested it was held that congress could not impair their rights by reducing tolls and making the canal unprofitable (U. S. v. Louisville, etc., Canal Co., 4 Dill. (U. S.) 601, 1 Flipp. (U. S.) 260, 26 Fed. Cas. No. 15,633, 1 Centr. L. J. 101).

62. Covenant not to allow others same drawbacks. — Where a company covenanted that it would not allow to others the same drawback from established rates on transportation of merchandise that it agreed to allow to the covenantee, it was held that the agreement to allow such drawback to the covenantee was valid, but that the covenant not to allow it to others was void. Stewart v. Lehigh Valley R. Co., 38 N. J. L. 505.

Covenant to pay less than others. — A covenant that covenantee should pay twenty per cent less than whatever rate should be charged others was held void. Messenger v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 37 N. J. L. 531, 18 Am. Rep. 754. See also Com. v. Delaware, etc., Canal Co., 43 Pa. St. 295.

63. Quincy Canal v. Newcomb, 7 Metc. (Mass.) 276, 39 Am. Dec. 778.

64. Riddle v. Proprietors Merrimack River Locks, etc., 7 Mass. 169, 5 Am. Dec. 35.

65. Thus where sawdust was discharged from a sawmill in such a way as to enter a canal it was held to be a nuisance (Delaware, etc., Canal Co. v. Torrey, 33 Pa. St. 143), and the owner of a factory was held liable for damages where he permitted a steam-pipe therefrom to extend so near a canal as to blow dust and air across the towing-path, thereby frightening animals used in towing boats (Conklin v. Phœnix Mills, 62 Barb. (N. Y.) 299).

66. Depositing material washed into canal. — Where a statute provided that any one depositing earth, sand, gravel, or other mate-

V. TRANSFER AND DISCONTINUANCE.

A. In General. The properties of canal companies may be encumbered by transfers thereof by way of mortgage or otherwise, under the powers given in their charters or under laws passed in regard to such matters;[67] but the alienation of state canals has been forbidden by some state constitutions.[68] Laws have been passed by the various states authorizing the abandonment and discontinuance of canals, whether state canals or not, and providing for sales of canal properties.[69]

B. Conveyance of Canal. In conveying a canal it is not necessary to describe land specifically — everything essential to the beneficial use and enjoyment of the property will pass under the general words of the conveyance.[70] Where the canal was to be discontinued as such and to be filled up the title of a purchaser thereof extended only to the highest water-line.[71]

C. Effect of Discontinuance — 1. Upon Canal Laws. Upon the abandonment of a canal, laws passed for the protection thereof sometimes cease to be applicable.[72] rial whereby any substance was washed into a canal to its injury should be fined, it was held that defendants who had deposited on their own land waste from their factory which by unusual, extraordinary, and unexpected floods were washed into the canal were not liable. People v. Utica Cement Co., 22 Ill. App. 159.

Driving along banks of canal.—A statute making it an offense subject to penalty for persons to drive along the banks of a canal for purposes not connected with the use of the canal, it was held, in an action to recover such penalty, to be no defense that defendant had approached the canal at a point where there was a bridge over it, and the bridge being broken there was no other way than along the canal banks to reach a place where the canal could be crossed except by a very circuitous route. White v. State, 14 Ohio 468.

Tapping canal and taking water.— Under a statute providing that no one should tap and take water from a canal without the written permission of certain canal officials it was held to be no defense in a suit for a penalty under the act that a verbal permission had been granted to take water. Losh v. Pennsylvania Canal Co., 103 Pa. St. 515.

Boat owners liable for acts of servants.— The owners of boats navigating canals have been held liable for penalties imposed by law for the protection of canals, where they have been violated by the servants or agents of such owners. Davis v. Bemis, 40 N. Y. 453 note; State v. Lyon, 1 Ohio Dec. (Reprint) 251, 5 West. L. J. 463.

Who may sue for penalty.—Where canal properties had been conveyed by the state to trustees it was held that the beneficial interest remained in the people and that they could still maintain actions for penalties imposed by former statutes for trespasses. People v. Nichols, 9 Ill. 307. Where the injury complained of is to the business transacted by the canal proprietor and not to the canal property itself, the lessees of a state canal can sue in their own names. Public Works v. Cleveland, 4 Ohio Dec. (Reprint) 378, 2 Clev. L. Rep. 58.

67. Canal Co.'s Case, 83 Md. 549, 35 Atl. 131, 354, 581; State v. Brown, 73 Md. 484, 21 Atl. 374; Virginia v. State, 32 Md. 501; Brady v. State, 26 Md. 290.

Effect of assignment.— An assignment by a canal company to a contractor, of all its moneys in hand, together with future tolls and revenues, for the purpose of securing a necessary improvement and repair of the canal, passes the title thereto to the contractor, and the moneys so assigned cannot be diverted from the purposes for which it was assigned by a judgment creditor of the canal company in satisfaction of his judgment. Sedam v. Cincinnati, etc., Canal Co., 2 Disn. (Ohio) 309.

68. But such provision did not prevent a disposition of the property upon the abandonment or discontinuance of a canal (People v. Stephens, 13 Hun (N. Y.) 17), the use of water from a lake which the state had acquired for canal purposes (Comstock v. Syracuse, 129 N. Y. 643, 27 N. E. 1081, 29 N. E. 289, 41 N. Y. St. 649; Sweet v. Syracuse, 129 N. Y. 316, 29 N. E. 289, 41 N. Y. St. 649), or the releasing of certain tolls that had been imposed by law upon freight carried by railroads where they had been payable "to the commissioners of the canal fund" (People v. New York Cent. R. Co., 34 Barb. (N. Y.) 123 [affirmed in 24 N. Y. 485]).

69. Chase v. Sutton Mfg. Co., 4 Cush. (Mass.) 152; Whitney v. State, 96 N. Y. 240; State v. George, 34 Ohio St. 657; Pennsylvania Canal Co. v. Manning, 87 Pa. St. 240.

70. Indiana Cent. Canal Co. v. State, 53 Ind. 575; Sheets v. Selden, 2 Wall (U. S.) 177, 17 L. ed. 822.

71. Morgan v. Bass, 14 Fed. 454.

72. Thus, in a prosecution for maliciously cutting the bank of a canal reservoir, evidence that the canal had fallen into disuse and the

2. Upon Condition of Property. Upon the discontinuance and abandonment of a canal as such the canal company is not bound to restore property to the condition in which it originally was.[73] Rights may, however, exist in respect to the property in the condition in which it then exists.[74]

3. Upon Duties to Public. Where a canal company is authorized by law to abandon its canal and does so[75] its duties to the public cease.[76]

4. Upon Leases of Surplus Water. The discontinuance of a state canal terminates leases made by the state of surplus water or water privileges.[77]

5. Upon Title to Property — a. Where Fee Was Acquired. Where the state or canal company acquired the absolute title to canal property it does not revert to the original owners upon the discontinuance and abandonment of the canal.[78]

b. Where Easement Was Acquired. Where the right acquired in property by the state or canal company was a mere easement the easement generally terminates when the canal is discontinued and abandoned, and the rights of parties originally interested in the property then revive.[79] Where, however, the ease-reservoir was unnecessary was held to be admissible to rebut a malicious intent. State v. Bush, 29 Ind. 110. See, however, State v. Doig, 2 Rich. (S. C.) 179, where a party was indicted for injuring a waste weir and taking materials therefrom. The statute forbade any one to "wilfully and maliciously throw down, break or destroy, any lock, dam, bank, waste weir," etc., of any canal. It was held to be no defense that the canal was abandoned or not in use and defendant was held guilty, although he took the materials openly and with the expectation of paying for the same if called upon so to do.

73. Agawam Canal Co. v. Edwards, 36 Conn. 476.

74. Thus where land was condemned for the right of way of a canal and embankments were erected to protect a riparian owner, on the abandonment of the canal such owner was entitled to have the embankment remain. Burk v. Simonson, 104 Ind. 173, 2 N. E. 309, 3 N. E. 826, 54 Am. Rep. 304. And where a person to whom compensation was due agreed to release his damages in consideration of an agreement of the canal company to supply his mill with water through a waste weir and the canal was abandoned and lands of the company bought at an execution sale, it was held that while the purchaser was not bound to continue the canal he could not prevent or impair the flow of water through the waste weir as long as it would flow for the use of the mill. Beaver Falls Water-power Co. v. Wilson, 83 Pa. St. 83.

75. Where portions of a canal are abandoned under a law authorizing abandonment of all or parts of a canal the obligation to keep the balance of the canal in repair continues. State v. Pennsylvania, etc., Canal Co., 23 Ohio St. 121.

76. Thus, after an abandonment bridges over such canals connecting highways do not have to be kept up and maintained by the canal company. Pennsylvania, etc., Canal Co. v. Portage County, 27 Ohio St. 14.

77. Hoagland v. New York, etc., R. Co., 111 Ind. 443, 12 N. E. 83, 13 N. E. 572; Wabash, etc., Canal v. Brett, 25 Ind. 409; Little Miami Elevator Co. v. Cincinnati, 30 Ohio St. 629; Hubbard v. Toledo, 21 Ohio St. 379; Erkenbrecher v. Cincinnati, 2 Cinc. Super. Ct. (Ohio) 412; Com. v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 51 Pa. St. 351; Fox v. Cincinnati, 104 U. S. 783, 26 L. ed. 928.

78. Frank v. Evansville, etc., Co., 111 Ind. 132, 12 N. E. 105; Indianapolis Water Works Co. v. Burkhart, 41 Ind. 364; Rexford v. Knight, 11 N. Y. 308; Genesee Valley Canal R. Co. v. Slaight, 49 Hun (N. Y.) 36, 1 N. Y. Suppl. 554, 17 N. Y. St. 241, 14 N. Y. Civ. Proc. 420; Birdsall v. Cary, 66 How. Pr. (N. Y.) 358; Craig v. Allegheny, 53 Pa. St. 477; Haldeman v. Pennsylvania Cent. R. Co., 50 Pa. St. 425; Mason v. Lake Erie, etc., R. Co., 9 Biss. (U. S.) 239, 1 Fed. 712. See also Whitney v. State, 96 N. Y. 240, holding that where a state appropriated land for a state canal which was paid for as allowed by law in benefits the owner received from the canal, no claim on his behalf existed against the state when the canal was abandoned and the land occupied by it released to a city for a street. If the state had acquired a fee in the land no claim existed. If only an easement had been acquired which had terminated the remedy was against the city.

79. Barnett v. Johnson, 15 N. J. Eq. 481; Corwin v. Cowan, 12 Ohio St. 629.

Effect on streets.— The state in constructing the Wabash and Erie canal through the streets of Logansport paid no damages and no rights were released by any one. Upon abandonment of the canal it was held that the rights of the public and of the abutting landowners in the streets revived. Logansport v. Shirk, 88 Ind. 563. See also Ft. Wayne v. Coombs, 107 Ind. 75, 7 N. E. 743, 57 Am. Rep. 82. It was held, however, in Williamsport v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 8 Pa. Co. Ct. 350, that the state of Pennsylvania, under its laws, had acquired a fee-simple estate in the property occupied by its canals, and that upon the abandonment of a canal a railroad company purchasing the canal property could not be prevented from laying tracks upon the streets traversed by such canal.

Effect on river used as part of canal.— A ment when originally acquired was regarded as permanent, the discontinuance of the canal will not terminate the easement unless it can also be regarded as abandoned.[80]

VI. CANAL COMPANIES.

A. Right to Incorporate. The right of a canal company to incorporate is dependent upon the provision of law of each state.[81]

B. Privileges and Franchises. The existence and extent of a canal company's privileges and franchises and of the duties resulting therefrom depend upon the particular law or charter creating the same, and such general constitutional and statutory provisions as may relate thereto. The franchise may be exclusive in its nature, and if so all interference therewith will be prevented.[82] The words of the charter will not be construed in their most restricted sense but so as to carry out its object.[83]

C. Forfeiture of Franchise — Waiver. The state by its legislature may waive the right of forfeiture of a canal company's franchise.[84]

CANCEL.[1] To blot out or obliterate; to annul or destroy;[2] to cross out;[3] to annul;[4] doing away with.[5]

CANCELLARIA. Chancery; the court of chancery.[6]

CANCELLARIUS. Chancellor.[7]

CANCELLATION. The act of crossing out a writing; the manual operation of tearing or destroying a written instrument.[8] (Cancellation: Of Instruments, see CANCELLATION OF INSTRUMENTS.)

canal company had used the bed and waters of a river as part of its canal. The company was dissolved by order of court and it was held that the rights of the public in the river revived and could not be conveyed away. Day v. Pittsburg, etc., R. Co., 44 Ohio St. 406, 7 N. E. 528.

80. Thus, where a railroad company by purchase had succeeded to the rights of a canal company and the state had not questioned the right of the railroad company to operate its road on the property so purchased, it was held that the easement had not been abandoned but still existed, as the general purposes of the use were the same. Hatch v. Cincinnati, etc., R. Co., 18 Ohio St. 92. See also Chase v. Sutton Mfg. Co., 4 Cush. (Mass.) 152.

Non-user of easement.— Where the easement was acquired by grant or its equivalent no length of mere non-user will destroy it. Curran v. Louisville, 83 Ky. 628.

81. Where the power to incorporate was under a statute authorizing the formation of private corporations of different kinds named, including canals for irrigation or manufacturing purposes and "for any other purpose intended for mutual profit" it was held that the general clause did not include and allow the incorporation of a canal company, where the canal was to be used for purposes of navigation. Texas, etc., Canal, etc., Co. v. Galveston County, 45 Tex. 272.

82. Singer v. Carondelet Canal, etc., Co., 39 La. Ann. 478, 2 So. 102.

83. Thus, where the charter gave authority to "continue the canal to the waters of the Hudson, at or near the city of Jersey" it was held that the piers and basin of the canal which were in the Hudson river were parts of the canal, it not being bound to terminate at the line of high or low water mark of the river. State v. Betts, 24 N. J. L. 555. And where a canal company was authorized "to discontinue or alter any part of a public road or highway" this included a turnpike. Rogers v. Bradshaw, 20 Johns. (N. Y.) 735.

84. Where an act suspended the collection of tolls by a navigation company "until all obstructions shall be removed or said channel deepened to the depth heretofore specified," it was held that this was a waiver of the right to forfeit the franchise, because the channel of the canal had become so obstructed as to impede navigation, and especially so if the obstructions were temporary in their character. State v. Morris, 73 Tex. 435, 11 S. W. 392.

1. Derivation.— "The Latin verb, from which the term 'cancel' is derived, means to make lattice work, and the corresponding noun in Latin, in the plural, cancelli, signifies lattice work; and when applied to marks, means marks made in the form of lattice work." Warner v. Warner, 37 Vt. 356, 362. See also 2 Bl. Comm. 309.

2. Auburn City Bank v. Leonard, 40 Barb. (N. Y.) 119, 134.

3. Townshend v. Howard, 86 Me. 285, 288, 29 Atl. 1077.

4. Golden v. Fowler, 26 Ga. 451, 464.

5. Winton v. Spring, 18 Cal. 451, 455.

6. Black L. Dict.

7. Burrill L. Dict.

8. Black L. Dict.

CANCELLATION OF INSTRUMENTS

By John Norton Pomeroy, 2d.*

* Editor of the second edition of Pomeroy's "Equity Jurisprudence," of the third edition of Pomeroy's "Code Remedies," and of the second edition of Pomeroy's "Specific Performance"; and sometime instructor in the law departments of Leland Stanford, Jr., University, of Washington and Lee University, and of Yale University.

CROSS-REFERENCES

For Cancellation of Instrument:

In Proceedings Not in Equity, see BONDS; CHATTEL MORTGAGES; COMMERCIAL PAPER; CONTRACTS; DEEDS; MORTGAGES; VENDOR AND PURCHASER; and the like.

In Suit Not Brought to Cancel or Rescind, see CREDITORS' SUITS; EQUITY; QUIETING TITLE; SPECIFIC PERFORMANCE; TRESPASS TO TRY TITLE.

Of Particular Character, see BONDS; BOUNDARIES; CHATTEL MORTGAGES; COMMERCIAL PAPER; CONTRACTS; DEEDS; INSURANCE; MORTGAGES; VENDOR AND PURCHASER; WILLS; and the like.

Confidential or Fiduciary Relation as Ground For Cancellation, see APPRENTICES; CORPORATIONS; EXECUTORS AND ADMINISTRATORS; GUARDIAN AND WARD; HUSBAND AND WIFE; PARENT AND CHILD; PARTNERSHIP; PRINCIPAL AND AGENT; TRUSTS; and the like.

Effect of Canceled Conveyance as Color of Title, see ADVERSE POSSESSION.

Reformation of Instrument, see REFORMATION OF INSTRUMENTS.

Removal of Cloud on Title, see QUIETING TITLE.

Setting Aside Fraudulent Conveyances, see FRAUDULENT CONVEYANCES.

I. IN GENERAL.

A. What Included in the Remedy. Cancellation, rescission, surrender up, and discharge of instruments are one and the same remedy; the decree for cancellation generally includes a direction for surrender up, and, if necessary, for a discharge of record.[1]

B. Rescission at Law Distinguished from Rescission in Equity. A court of equity entertains a suit for the express purpose of procuring a contract or conveyance to be canceled, and renders a decree conferring in terms that exact relief. A court of law entertains an action for the recovery of the possession of chattels, or, under some circumstances, for the recovery of land, or for the recovery of damages, and although nothing is said concerning it, either in the pleading or in

1. Pomeroy Eq. Jur. §§ 1375, 1377, notes. See also infra, XI, A, 1.
Compare statutory provision in California. Cal. Civ. Code, § 3406, which provides for a judgment of rescission without cancellation in certain cases.

the judgment, a contract or conveyance, as the case may be, is virtually rescinded; the recovery is based upon the fact of such rescission, and could not have been granted unless the rescission had taken place.[2]

II. JURISDICTION.

A. Equitable Jurisdiction Is Exclusive. Although the facts which are the occasion of the equitable remedy of cancellation are usually grounds for some legal action or defense, cancellation is properly classed in the exclusive jurisdiction of equity, since it is a remedy which equity courts alone are able to confer.[3]

B. Grounds For Cancellation — 1. In General. When courts are called upon to set aside contracts there must be some substantial reasons shown, and a court of chancery, particularly, will not act, when it is kept in the dark as to the reasons or purposes of the transaction in reference to which relief is sought.[4]

2. Mistake. Cancellation of an instrument embodying an agreement or transaction is a proper remedy either when the minds of both parties have failed to meet upon the same matters, so that no agreement at all has really been made, or else the agreement or transaction is different, with respect to its subject-matter or terms, from that which was intended.[5]

3. Misrepresentations and Fraud — a. In General. Fraud in its various forms is the most frequent ground for the cancellation of instruments.[6]

b. Constructive Fraud[7] — (1) Inadequacy of Consideration and Improvidence. A contract or conveyance which is improvident, or based on an inadequate consideration will not be set aside for these reasons alone, unless, as the rule is generally stated, the improvidence or inadequacy is so great as to furnish of itself convincing evidence of fraud.[8]

2. Pomeroy Eq. Jur. § 110.

The fact that the same word, "rescission," is used to designate both the equitable remedy of cancellation, and the termination of a contract by the act of a party, has been productive of no little confusion. "In many of the cases for rescission in equity language is used from which it might be inferred that precisely the same principles govern in suits in equity that are applied to determine the right of the party to sue at law." Brown v. Norman, 65 Miss. 369, 4 So. 293, 7 Am. St. Rep. 663. See infra, IV, B, 6, b; and also Contracts.

3. Pomeroy Eq. Jur. § 138.

Under the Iowa statute of limitations the action for cancellation is an action "solely cognizable in equity." Relf v. Eberly, 23 Iowa 467.

4. Scanlan v. Gillan, 5 Cal. 182, an action which had for its object the cancellation of a bill of sale of an interest in a mining claim.

5. Pomeroy Eq. Jur. § 870. For the requisites to relief on the ground of mistake see, generally, Contracts; Equity. See also Dietrich v. Hutchinson, 73 Vt. 134, 50 Atl. 810, 87 Am. St. Rep. 698.

Reformation is the proper relief where the instrument, by mistake, fails to express the agreement actually made. See, generally, Reformation of Instruments; also Schelling v. Bischoff, 61 N. Y. Super. Ct. 68, 18 N. Y. Suppl. 859, 46 N. Y. St. 536.

Accident can hardly ever be a ground for cancellation, except in the case of relief against judgments, where the defendant was prevented by accident from setting up a defense to the action. See, generally, Judgments.

6. See Barrington v. Ryan, 88 Mo. App. 85; and infra, II, C.

The various elements that make up the complex conception of fraud are treated elsewhere. See, generally, Bonds; Chattel Mortgages; Commercial Paper; Contracts; Deeds; Mortgages; Vendor and Purchaser; and the like.

The element of scienter is not generally considered necessary to relief in equity; the general rule in equity being that any contract may be rescinded for an innocent misrepresentation which was a sufficient inducement thereto. Baptiste v. Peters, 51 Ala. 158. See also Brooks v. Hamilton, 15 Minn. 26.

A promise made with an intention not to perform it has sometimes been held to constitute a fraud for which a contract may be rescinded. Hodsden v. Hodsden, 69 Minn. 486, 72 N. W. 562; Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Titterington, 84 Tex. 218, 19 S. W. 472, 31 Am. St. Rep. 39.

7. For a full discussion of the grounds for cancellation coming under this head see, generally, Bonds; Chattel Mortgages; Commercial Paper; Contracts; Deeds; Mortgages; Vendor and Purchaser; and the like.

8. California.— Barry v. St. Joseph's Hospital, etc., (Cal. 1897) 48 Pac. 68.

Colorado.— Smith v. McCourt, 8 Colo. App. 146, 45 Pac. 239.

Delaware.— Wiest v. Garman, 3 Del. Ch. 422.

(II) TOTAL OR PARTIAL INCAPACITY. Contracts and conveyances have been set aside for mental weakness of which an inequitable advantage has been taken,[9] although a degree of mental weakness that is consistent with an understanding of the nature of the transaction, and is unaccompanied with any inequitable incident is not a ground for cancellation.[10] Undue influence, either alone or in combination with other inequitable elements, is of course a very frequent ground.[11]

(III) CONFIDENTIAL OR FIDUCIARY RELATIONS. Confidential or fiduciary relations of the parties to a contract or transaction as grounds for its rescission are not within the scope of this article.[12]

(IV) CONVEYANCES AND CONTRACTS IN FRAUD OF CREDITORS, ETC. Such conveyances and contracts are not within the scope of this article.[13]

4. ILLEGALITY. Illegality is a frequent ground for cancellation.[14]

5. CLOUD ON TITLE TO REAL PROPERTY. Equity has jurisdiction to cancel, when the instrument is a deed or other document concerning real estate, which although inoperative if suffered to remain uncanceled, would throw a cloud upon the plaintiff's title to the lands which it embraces, or to which it refers.[15]

Florida.— Stephens v. Orman, 10 Fla. 9.

Maryland.— Goodwin v. White, 59 Md. 503.

Missouri.— Schields v. Hickey, 26 Mo. App. 194.

New York.— Dunn v. Chambers, 4 Barb. (N. Y.) 376; Coster v. Griswold, 4 Edw. (N. Y.) 364.

North Carolina.—Potter v. Everitt, 42 N. C. 152; Green v. Thompson, 37 N. C. 365.

West Virginia.— Korne v. Korne, 30 W. Va. 1, 3 S. E. 17.

United States.— Morton v. Morris, 72 Fed. 392, 36 U. S. App. 550, 18 C. C. A. 611.

England.— Harrison v. Guest, 6 De G. M. & G. 424, 2 Jur. N. S. 911, 25 L. J. Ch. 544, 4 Wkly. Rep. 585, 55 Eng. Ch. 331.

Compare Richards v. Reeves, (Ind. App. 1896) 45 N. E. 624.

See 8 Cent. Dig. tit. "Cancellation of Instruments," § 3.

9. Tomlinson v. Tomlinson, 103 Iowa 740, 72 N. W. 664; Harris v. Wamsley, 41 Iowa 671; Esham v. Lamar, 10 B. Mon. (Ky.) 43; Clark v. Lopez, 75 Miss. 932, 23 So. 648, 957; Mays v. Prewett, 98 Tenn. 474, 40 S. W. 483.

Mere pecuniary necessity, of which an unfair advantage has been taken, has sometimes been treated as warranting the remedy of cancellation; but such cases are exceptional. Butler v. Duncan, 47 Mich. 94, 10 N. W. 123, 41 Am. Rep. 711; Fitzgerald v. Fitzgerald, etc., Constr. Co., 44 Nebr. 463, 62 N. W. 899; Hough v. Hunt, 2 Ohio 495, 15 Am. Dec. 569.

10. Harris v. Wamsley, 41 Iowa 671; Sprague v. Duel, 11 Paige (N. Y.) 480; Fidelity Title, etc., Co. v. Weitzel, 152 Pa. St. 498, 31 Wkly. Notes Cas. (Pa.) 414, 25 Atl. 569; Travis' Appeal, (Pa. 1887) 8 Atl. 601.

Other species of incapacity such as coverture (see HUSBAND AND WIFE), infancy (see INFANTS), insanity (see INSANE PERSONS; Fitzgerald v. Reed, 9 Sm. & M. (Miss.) 94), duress (see CONTRACTS; Fry v. Piersol, 166 Mo. 429, 66 S. W. 171), intoxication (see CONTRACTS; Hotchkiss v. Fortson, 7 Yerg. (Tenn.) 66), and the disabilities of heirs, expectants, and reversioners (see ASSIGNMENTS, 4 Cyc. 14 et seq.; CONTRACTS) are treated elsewhere.

11. Alabama.— Smith v. Pearson, 24 Ala. 355.

Georgia.— Walker v. Hunter, 27 Ga. 336.

Illinois.— Dorsey v. Wolcott, 173 Ill. 539, 50 N. E. 1015.

Kentucky.— Brannin v. Sherley, 91 Ky. 450, 12 Ky. L. Rep. 977, 16 S. W. 94.

Maryland.— Central Bank v. Copeland, 18 Md. 305, 81 Am. Dec. 597.

Ohio.— Truman v. Lore, 14 Ohio St. 144.

United States.— Harding v. Handy, 11 Wheat. (U. S.) 103, 6 L. ed. 429.

See also DEEDS.

12. Confidential or fiduciary relations between the parties to a contract or transaction as grounds for its rescission see GUARDIAN AND WARD; PARENT AND CHILD; PRINCIPAL AND AGENT; TRUSTS; and the like.

13. Conveyances and contracts in fraud of creditors, subsequent purchasers, etc., see FRAUDULENT CONVEYANCES.

14. Henderson v. Palmer, 71 Ill. 579, 22 Am. Rep. 117; Dickson v. Valentine, 57 N. Y. Super. Ct. 128, 6 N. Y. Suppl. 540, 24 N. Y. St. 957; Place v. Conklin, 23 Misc. (N. Y.) 40, 51 N. Y. Suppl. 407; Arden v. Patterson, 5 Johns. Ch. (N. Y.) 44; Porter v. Jones, 6 Coldw. (Tenn.) 313; Johnson v. Cooper, 2 Yerg. (Tenn.) 523, 24 Am. Dec. 502. See also infra, V; and CHAMPERTY AND MAINTENANCE; CONTRACTS; GAMING.

15. Field v. Holbrook, 6 Duer (N. Y.) 597, 14 How. Pr. (N. Y.) 103 [quoted in Lewis v. Tobias, 10 Cal. 575, and citing Van Doren v. New York, 9 Paige (N. Y.) 388; Pettit v. Shepherd, 5 Paige (N. Y.) 493, 28 Am. Dec. 437; Atty.-Gen. v. Morgan, 2 Russ. 306, 26 Rev. Rep. 81, 3 Eng. Ch. 306; Hayward v. Dimsdale, 17 Ves. Jr. 111; Jackman v. Mitchell, 13 Ves. Jr. 581, 9 Rev. Rep. 229]; Morton v. Morris, (Tex. Civ. App. 1901) 66 S. W. 94. See also Angus v. Craven, 132 Cal. 691, 64 Pac. 1001; and, generally, QUIETING TITLE.

Adverse claim for money or personal property is a ground for cancellation under the

6. Negotiability of the Instrument. A ground for cancellation exists, when the instrument is negotiable in its character, as a bill of exchange, and the putting it into circulation by the holder would be a fraudulent act.[16]

7. Danger of Loss of Evidence. Equitable jurisdiction to cancel may be exerted, where the plaintiff claims to have a defense valid at law, but which rests upon evidence which he is in danger of losing, if the adverse party is suffered to delay the prosecution of his claims.[17]

8. Multiplicity of Suits. The avoidance of a multiplicity of suits is, by the preponderance of authority, a sufficient ground for invoking the jurisdiction of equity, when claims depending on the same questions of fact or law, are urged or threatened by numerous persons against a single individual.[18]

9. Non-Performance. Non-performance by the defendant has occasionally been treated as a sufficient ground for rescission of a contract by decree in equity;[19] but the weight of authority is against this view.[20] Thus a conveyance of land in consideration of the grantee's agreement to support and care for the grantor during the remainder of his life will not, according to the weight of statutes of certain states. Thus in Minnesota an overdue note was canceled under a statute which reads: "An action may be brought by one person against another, for the purpose of determining an adverse claim, which the latter makes against the former, for money or property upon an alleged obligation." Miller v. Rouse, 8 Minn. 124. See also Quieting Title.

16. Field v. Holbrook, 6 Duer (N. Y.) 597, 14 How. Pr. (N. Y.) 103 [quoted in Lewis v. Tobias, 10 Cal. 575]. And see infra, II, C, 5; and, generally, Commercial Paper.

17. Field v. Holbrook, 6 Duer (N. Y.) 597, 14 How. Pr. (N. Y.) 103 [quoted in Lewis v. Tobias, 10 Cal. 575, and citing Hamilton v. Cummings, 1 Johns. Ch. (N. Y.) 517]. And see infra, II, C, 6; and, generally, Contracts.

But compare Loggie v. Chandler, 95 Me. 220, 49 Atl. 1059, holding that where a chattel mortgage has been paid the fact that the continued existence in the possession of the mortgagee of the mortgage makes it necessary for the mortgagor to carefully preserve the evidence of such payment is not sufficient ground for a decree in equity requiring the cancellation or surrender of the instrument.

18. See Pomeroy Eq. Jur. §§ 243–275. See also Bill of Peace; Equity; Injunctions.

Injunction or cancellation.— Injunction is here the remedy most frequently used; but cancellation may also be appropriate. Springport v. Teutonia Sav. Bank, 75 N. Y. 397; Scott v. McFarland, 70 Fed. 280; Louisville R. Co. v. Ohio Valley Imp., etc., Co., 57 Fed. 42, 69 Fed. 431 [affirmed in 174 U. S. 552, 19 S. Ct. 823, 43 L. ed. 1081]; Ulman v. Iaeger, 67 Fed. 980. See also Rodgers v. Stern, 112 Ga. 624, 37 S. E. 877.

19. Illinois.— Fabrice v. Von der Brelie, 190 Ill. 460, 60 N. E. 835.

Kansas.— Winfield v. Winfield Water Co., 51 Kan. 70, 32 Pac. 663, where there was, however, insufficient notice and demand by plaintiff.

Kentucky.— See Kentucky River Nav. Co. v. Com., 13 Bush (Ky.) 435, rescission of a lease for breach of covenants by the lessee, where the defendant was insolvent, and actual physical performance was the only substantial interest the commonwealth could have in the lease, and irremediable mischief would result from either imperfect or non-performance. See also Thomas v. Sweet, 23 Ky. L. Rep. 1599, 63 S. W. 787, cancellation of deed for total failure of consideration.

Michigan.— Grand Haven v. Grand Haven Waterworks Co., 99 Mich. 106, 57 N. W. 1075.

Mississippi.— Light, etc., Co. v. Jackson, 73 Miss. 598, 19 So. 771.

Ohio.— Kirby v. Harrison, 2 Ohio St. 326, 59 Am. Dec. 677.

United States.— Farmers' L. & T. Co. v. Galesburg, 133 U. S. 156, 10 S. Ct. 316, 33 L. ed. 573 [approved in Ferris v. Hoglan, 121 Ala. 240, 25 So. 834; Winfield v. Winfield Water Co., 51 Kan. 70, 32 Pac. 663; Grand Haven v. Grand Haven Waterworks, 99 Mich. 106, 57 N. W. 1075; Light, etc., Co. v. Jackson, 73 Miss. 598, 19 So. 771; Palestine Water, etc., Co. v. Palestine, 91 Tex. 548, 44 S. W. 814, 40 L. R. A. 203], where an agreement of a water company to furnish a city with water in stipulated quantities was canceled at the suit of the city for non-performance, the circumstances rendering a suit for damages a wholly inadequate remedy.

See also 33 Am. L. Rev. 702.

20. Shaw v. Horner, 7 Colo. App. 83, 42 Pac. 689; Harrington v. Rutherford, 38 Fla. 321, 21 So. 283; Field v. Holbrook, 6 Duer (N. Y.) 597, 14 How. Pr. (N. Y.) 103; Rutland Marble Co. v. Ripley, 10 Wall. (U. S.) 339, 19 L. ed. 955; Blake v. Pine Mountain Iron, etc., Co., 76 Fed. 624, 43 U. S. App. 490, 22 C. C. A. 430, "because, acting upon it [defective performance] the parties may voluntarily abandon or rescind the contract, and successfully sue or defend at law for non-performance, it does not follow that a court of equity will also rescind for non-performance." See also 33 Am. L. Rev. 702; and also infra, notes 21, 22.

A contemporaneous parol agreement by the grantee to destroy the deed within a certain time, which has not been carried out, authority, be canceled for the mere failure of the grantee to fulfil his contract,[21] unless such failure amounts to the breach of a condition subsequent, in which case the deed may be canceled.[22]

10. Where Specific Performance Cannot Be Decreed. The fact that the contract is such that specific performance must be refused to one party is not of itself a sufficient ground for rescinding the contract at the suit of the other party.[23] is not, in the absence of mistake or of fraudulent intent on the part of the grantee, a ground for its cancellation. Stacey v. Walter, 125 Ala. 291, 28 So. 89, 82 Am. St. Rep. 235 [citing Pomeroy Eq. Jur. § 854, and note].

Breach of grantor's promise, forming the inducement to the purchase, does not entitle the grantee to cancellation of the contract of purchase. Moore v. Cross, 87 Tex. 557, 29 S. W. 1051 [reversing (Tex. Civ. App.) 1894, 26 S. W. 122].

Failure of grantor's title.— Defect of title alone without fraud will not usually authorize a cancellation at the suit of the grantee, as his remedy upon the covenants of warranty is adequate. See infra, II, C, 7, b.

Forfeiture of insurance policy.— A life-insurance policy not fraudulently obtained will not be canceled during the life of the assured on the ground of a forfeiture occurring after the making of the contract. Connecticut Mut. L. Ins. Co. v. Bear, 26 Fed. 582.

Non-performance of grantee's agreement.— So a deed of right of way to a railroad company will not be canceled for non-performance of the grantee's agreement as to the construction of the road and the location of a station on the land granted (Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Titterington, 84 Tex. 218, 19 S. W. 472, 31 Am. St. Rep. 39); nor a deed conveying land to a manufacturing company in consideration of its agreement to establish its works thereon and operate them for a stated time, because of the company's failure to operate the works for the stipulated time (Piedmont Land Imp. Co. v. Piedmont Foundry, etc., Co., 96 Ala. 389, 11 So. 332). On the other hand it was held in Boyes v. Green Mountain Falls Town, etc., Co., 3 Colo. App. 295, 33 Pac. 77, that the breach of the grantee's agreement to make certain improvements on the land authorized the grantor to rescind and either sue at law for the breach or in equity for cancellation. See also Willard v. Ford, 16 Nebr. 543, 20 N. W. 859.

21. Alabama.— Gardner v. Knight, 124 Ala. 273, 27 So. 298.

Georgia.— Brand v. Power, 110 Ga. 522, 36 S. E. 53; Lindsey v. Lindsey, 62 Ga. 546.

Kentucky.— Powers v. Powers, 19 Ky. L. Rep. 266, 39 S. W. 825; Graves v. George, 18 Ky. L. Rep. 453, 37 S. W. 59.

Missouri.— Anderson v. Gaines, 156 Mo. 664, 57 S. W. 726.

North Carolina.—Murray v. King, 42 N. C. 19.

Tennessee.— A contract to convey a tract of land at the plaintiff's death in consideration of the defendant's agreement to support the plaintiff during the rest of his life will not be canceled for the defendant's failure to perform. Hale v. Witt, 1 Heisk. (Tenn.) 567.

See also, generally, Deeds.

Cancellation was decreed, however, in Penfield v. Penfield, 41 Conn. 474; Lane v. Lane, 21 Ky. L. Rep. 9, 50 S. W. 857; Cash v. Cash, 19 Ky. L. Rep. 686, 41 S. W. 579; Reid v. Burns, 13 Ohio St. 49; Lowman v. Crawford, 99 Va. 688, 40 S. E. 17.

See also Bogie v. Bogie, 41 Wis. 209, where it is held that courts of equity have power, in proper cases, to rescind conveyances and agreements of this character and to grant such relief as is necessary to prevent a fraud upon the party seeking the cancellation, especially in the case of aged and infirm persons who have conveyed their property to their children in consideration of support, where the grantees neglect to perform their duty in that respect.

In Illinois such conveyances have been frequently canceled, the courts proceeding upon the theory that they were made in the first instance with a fraudulent intent on the part of the grantee not to carry out the agreement. See McClelland v. McClelland, 176 Ill. 83, 51 N. E. 559; Cooper v. Gum, 152 Ill. 471, 39 N. E. 267; Kusch v. Kusch, 143 Ill. 353, 32 N. E. 267; Jones v. Neely, 72 Ill. 449; Oard v. Oard, 59 Ill. 46; Frazier v. Miller, 16 Ill. 48. It is too late on the trial to set aside a deed given in consideration of support to the grantor, which the grantees have failed to furnish, for the grantees to offer to take care of the grantor and give security for performance of such obligation. Fabrice v. Von der Brelie, 190 Ill. 460, 60 N. E. 835.

In Oregon, while refusing cancellation, equity will take jurisdiction in order to prevent a multiplicity of suits for damages, and will make the support a charge upon the premises. Patton v. Nixon, 33 Oreg. 159, 52 Pac. 1048; Watson v. Smith, 7 Oreg. 448.

22. Teague v. Teague, 22 Tex. Civ. App. 443, 54 S. W. 632; Knutson v. Bostrak, 99 Wis. 469, 75 N. W. 156.

23. Alabama.— Beck v. Simmons, 7 Ala. 71.

New Jersey.— Young Lock Nut Co. v. Brownley Mfg. Co., (N. J. 1896) 34 Atl. 947.

Ohio.— Watkins v. Collins, 11 Ohio 31.

Virginia.— Thompson v. Jackson, 3 Rand. (Va.) 504, 15 Am. Dec. 721.

United States.— Jackson v. Ashton, 11 Pet. (U. S.) 229, 9 L. ed. 698.

But see Kirby v. Harrison, 2 Ohio St. 326, 59 Am. Dec. 677.

Yet it has been broadly asserted that "if a case is made out which will justify the court in declaring a contract at an end, it

11. Absence of Authority of Plaintiff's Agent. The absence of authority of plaintiff's agent to make the contract has been considered sufficient ground for the cancellation of the contract.[24]

C. Inadequacy of the Legal Remedy — 1. General Rule. While the existence of the jurisdiction to cancel an instrument does not depend upon the inadequacy of the complainant's legal remedy,[25] the jurisdiction, as a general rule, will not be exercised when his remedy at law, by way either of action or defense, is plain, adequate, and complete.[26]

2. Where Instrument Is Void. The fact that an instrument is void is no reason why it should not be canceled,[27] but an instrument whose invalidity is apparwill in general be ordered to be delivered up to be cancelled." Wilson v. Getty, 57 Pa. St. 266.

That a deed was based upon a consideration that could not be specifically enforced was held to be a sufficient ground for its rescission at the suit of the grantor, in Grimmer v. Carlton, 93 Cal. 189, 28 Pac. 1043, 27 Am. St. Rep. 171. This extraordinary and wholly unprecedented decision is sharply criticized by the editor of the American State Reports who says (27 Am. St. Rep. 174): "According to this decision, if our publisher should convey us a tract of land in consideration of our agreement to edit a volume of these reports to the best of our skill, he might at once pursue us in a court of equity for having perpetrated a fraud on him in procuring the conveyance in consideration of our agreement, because no court would undertake to compel us to edit anything; and he might obtain a decree canceling his conveyance, though we were willing to render the services as agreed."

24. Meridian Waterworks Co. v. Marks, (Miss. 1894) 16 So. 357 [overruling Meridian Waterworks Co. v. Schulherr, (Miss. 1892) 17 So. 167], holding that where the agent of a water company, without authority, executes a contract to furnish water at rates below the company's regular tariff rates, the court of chancery has jurisdiction of a suit by the company to cancel the contract, although complainant can obtain redress by refusing to carry out the contract. See also Field v. Holbrook, 6 Duer (N. Y.) 597, 14 How. Pr. (N. Y.) 103, 105 [quoted in Lewis v. Tobias, 10 Cal. 574], holding that equity has jurisdiction to cancel an instrument "when the plaintiff alleges that the instrument, which he prays may be surrendered or cancelled, is void upon grounds of which a court of equity alone can take cognizance."

25. Gefken v. Graef, 77 Ga. 340; Pomeroy Eq. Jur. §§ 221, 911, 914, 1377. See also infra, II, C, 7.

26. See cases cited infra, note 27 et seq.

The exercise of the jurisdiction is discretionary, but this discretion must be used in conformity with established principles. Shaeffer v. Sleade, 7 Blackf. (Ind.) 178.

Where no injury at all is caused or threatened to the complainant by the existence of the instrument uncanceled and in other hands, a court of equity will not interfere.

California.— Fitch v. Bunch, 30 Cal. 208.

Georgia.— Johnson v. Johnson, 59 Ga. 613.

Iowa.— Huff v. Jennings, Morr. (Iowa) 454.

Kentucky.— Morris v. McMillen, 3 A. K. Marsh. (Ky.) 565.

Massachusetts.— Jewett v. Davis, 10 Allen (Mass.) 68.

Missouri.— Culligan v. Wingerter, 57 Mo. 241.

New Jersey.— McArthur v. McArthur, (N. J. 1890) 19 Atl. 1094.

New York.— Johnson v. Crane, 40 Barb. (N. Y.) 78.

See 8 Cent. Dig. tit. "Cancellation of Instruments," § 2.

But a grantor cannot defend a suit for cancellation grounded on mistake as to the subject-matter, by showing that the tract conveyed is as valuable as the tract bargained for. Clapp v. Greenlee, 100 Iowa 586, 69 N. W. 1049.

27. Alabama.— Smith v. Pearson, 24 Ala. 355.

Arkansas.— Breathwit v. Rogers, 32 Ark. 758.

Illinois.— Moore v. Munn, 69 Ill. 591.

Indiana.— Hardy v. Brier, 91 Ind. 91; Huston v. Schindler, 46 Ind. 38; Huston v. Roosa, 43 Ind. 517.

Iowa.— Gray v. Coan, 23 Iowa 344.

Maryland.— Singery v. Atty.-Gen., 2 Harr. & J. (Md.) 487.

Mississippi.— Sessions v. Jones, 6 How. (Miss.) 123.

New York.— Remington Paper Co. v. O'Dougherty, 81 N. Y. 474; Arden v. Patterson, 5 Johns. Ch. (N. Y.) 44.

West Virginia.— Hoopes v. Devaughn, 43 W. Va. 447, 27 S. E. 251; Alexander v. Davis, 42 W. Va. 465, 26 S. E. 291, forged deed.

United States.—Rich v. Braxton, 158 U. S. 375, 16 S. Ct. 1006, 39 L. ed. 1022; Bunce v. Gallagher, 5 Blatchf. (U. S.) 481, 4 Fed. Cas. No. 2,133, 7 Am. L. Reg. N. S. 32.

England.— In re Cooper, 20 Ch. Div. 611, 51 L. J. Ch. 862, 47 L. T. Rep. N. S. 89, 30 Wkly. Rep. 648 (forged mortgages); Hayward v. Dimsdale, 17 Ves. Jr. 111; Jackman v. Mitchell, 13 Ves. Jr. 581, 9 Rev. Rep. 229; St. John v. St. John, 11 Ves. Jr. 526; Colchester v. Lawten, 1 Ves. & B. 226, 12 Rev. Rep. 216.

See 8 Cent. Dig. tit. "Cancellation of Instruments," § 11.

ent upon its face will not, by a rule almost universally held, but often severely criticized,[28] be relieved against in equity.[29]

3. Where Instrument Was Obtained by Fraud. In England, by an unbroken line of authority from the earliest days, jurisdiction is held by courts of equity in all cases of fraud, and the exercise of the jurisdiction is not dependent upon the inadequacy of the legal remedy.[30] This broader view of the jurisdiction in cases of fraud has been entertained by a number of courts in this country.[31]

28. See the following cases:

New York.— Hamilton v. Cummings, 1 Johns. Ch. (N. Y.) 517.

Rhode Island.— Linnell v. Battey, 17 R. I. 241, 21 Atl. 606, 1 Keener Cas. Eq. Jur. 387.

Tennessee.— Almony v. Hicks, 3 Head (Tenn.) 38; Jones v. Perry, 10 Yerg. (Tenn.) 58, 30 Am. Dec. 430.

Texas.— Day Land, etc., Co. v. State, 68 Tex. 526, 4 S. W. 865, 1 Keener Cas. Eq. Jur. 364; Norton v. Morris, (Tex. Civ. App. 1901) 66 S. W. 94.

West Virginia.— Simpson v. Edmiston, 23 W. Va. 675. See also, generally, Quieting Title; and Pomeroy Eq. Jur. § 1399, where the criticism, as regards a cloud upon the title to realty, is based upon the fact that such an instrument, if left uncanceled, may depreciate the market value of the land quite as much as one whose invalidity must be established by extrinsic evidence.

29. California.— Oakland v. Carpenter, 21 Cal. 642.

District of Columbia.— O'Connell v. Noonan, 1 App. Cas. (D. C.) 332.

Maine.— Briggs v. Johnson, 71 Me. 235.

Missouri.— Benton County v. Morgan, 163 Mo. 661, 64 S. W. 119.

New York.— Venice v. Woodruff, 62 N. Y. 462, 20 Am. Rep. 495; Levy v. Hart, 54 Barb. (N. Y.) 248; Field v. Holbrook, 6 Duer (N. Y.) 597, 14 How. Pr. (N. Y.) 103.

Wisconsin.— S. L. Sheldon Co. v. Mayers, 81 Wis. 627, 51 N. W. 1082, counter-claim seeking cancellation of the contract sued upon.

United States.— Peirsoll v. Elliott, 6 Pet. (U. S.) 95, 8 L. ed. 332; Elliott v. Peirsoll, 1 McLean (U. S.) 11, 8 Fed. Cas. No. 4,395.

England.—Simpson v. Howden, 3 Myl. & C. 97, 14 Eng. Ch. 97; Smyth v. Griffin, 13 Sim. 245, 36 Eng. Ch. 245; Gray v. Mathias, 5 Ves. Jr. 286, 5 Rev. Rep. 48.

See 8 Cent. Dig. tit. "Cancellation of Instruments." § 12.

Equity will not interfere in case of an instrument invalid on its face, nor where its invalidity will appear upon the proofs of the party claiming under it. Springport v. Teutonia Sav. Bank, 75 N. Y. 397; Venice v. Woodruff, 62 N. Y. 462, 20 Am. Rep. 495; Marsh v. Brooklyn, 59 N. Y. 280; Ward v. Dewey, 16 N. Y. 519; Cox v. Clift, 2 N. Y. 118. See also, generally, Quieting Title.

30. See Pomeroy Eq. Jur. § 912. See also London, etc., Ins. Co. v. Seymour, L. R. 17 Eq. 85, 2 Aspin. 169, 43 L. J. Ch. 126, 29 L. T. Rep. N. S. 641, 22 Wkly. Rep. 201; Hoare v. Bremridge, L. R. 14 Eq. 522, L. R. 8 Ch. 22, 42 L. J. Ch. 1, 27 L. T. Rep. N. S. 503, 21 Wkly. Rep. 43; Bartlett v. Salmon, 60 De G., M. & G. 33, 1 Jur. N. S. 277, 55 Eng. Ch. 26; Jenning v. Broughton, 5 De G., M. & G. 126, 23 L. J. Ch. 999, 54 Eng. Ch. 102.

31. Either expressly or implicitly in the following cases:

Alabama.— Merritt v. Ehrman, 116 Ala. 278, 22 So. 514; Waddell v. Lanier, 62 Ala. 347.

Arkansas.— Brittin v. Crabtree, 20 Ark. 309.

Kentucky.— Mershon v. Commonwealth Bank, 6 J. J. Marsh. (Ky.) 438; Bradberry v. Keas, 5 J. J. Marsh. (Ky.) 446; Caldwell v. Caldwell, 1 J. J. Marsh. (Ky.) 53; Ashley v. Denton, 1 Litt. (Ky.) 86.

Maine.— Clark v. Robinson, 58 Me. 133.

Maryland.— Baltimore Sugar Refining Co. v. Campbell, etc., Co., 83 Md. 36, 34 Atl. 369 (purchase of chattels); Taymon v. Mitchell, 1 Md. Ch. 496.

Massachusetts.— Nathan v. Nathan, 166 Mass. 294, 44 N. E. 221; Fuller v. Percival, 126 Mass. 381.

Michigan.— John Hancock Mut. L. Ins. Co. v. Dick, 114 Mich. 337, 72 N. W. 179, 43 L. R. A. 566; Cogswell v. Mitts, 90 Mich. 353, 51 N. W. 514.

Mississippi.— Garrett v. Mississippi, etc., R. Co., Freem. (Miss.) 70.

New Jersey.—Crane v. Conklin, 1 N. J. Eq. 346, 22 Am. Dec. 519.

New York.— Ranney v. Warren, 13 Hun (N. Y.) 11; Thompson v. Graham, 1 Paige (N. Y.) 384.

United States.— Patton v. Glatz, 56 Fed. 367.

See 8 Cent. Dig. tit. "Cancellation of Instruments," § 7.

In Massachusetts the courts have adopted this English view of the jurisdiction in cases of fraud in consequence of the statute conferring full equity jurisdiction. Mass. Pub. Stat. c. 151, § 4; Nathan v. Nathan, 166 Mass. 294, 44 N. E. 221; Billings v. Mann, 156 Mass. 203, 30 N. E. 1136; Holden v. Hoyt, 134 Mass. 181, bill by owner of a promissory note, and a mortgage securing it, to restrain a sale of the property covered by the mortgage and to compel the surrender of the note and mortgage by a person claiming to hold them under a transfer fraudulently made to him by an agent of the owner; remedy by writ of entry, or by replevin, not adequate. Under the restricted view of the jurisdiction which prevailed in Massachusetts previous to the above statute (see Pomeroy Eq. Jur. § 318) it was held that there was no jurisdiction of a suit on behalf of

4. Where Instrument Creates Cloud on Title. Where the instrument sought to be canceled creates a cloud upon the complainant's title to land, and the instrument is valid upon its face, his legal remedy is usually inadequate.[32]

5. Negotiable Instruments. Where cancellation is sought of a negotiable instrument, before its maturity, on the ground of fraud, mistake, etc., jurisdiction is freely exercised, for the reason that by the negotiation of the instrument to a bona fide purchaser, the complainant may lose the benefit of his defense.[33]

6. Other Instruments; Where Defense Exists Against Action on Instrument. As a general rule, sustained by a preponderance of authority, a suit will not be sustained to cancel a non-negotiable instrument, to which a defense may be made in an action at law thereon, unless some substantial reason is assigned showing that the defense at law is an insufficient protection.[34] This is especially true where an the grantor to set aside a deed of land procured from him by fraud, since the land could be recovered by writ of entry. White v. Thayer, 121 Mass. 226; Boardman v. Jackson, 119 Mass. 161.

32. See cases cited supra, note 27; and, generally, Quieting Title. For the rule in Pennsylvania see Gans v. Drum, 24 Pa. Co. Ct. 481; Andrews v. Emery, 24 Pa. Co. Ct. 210, 31 Pittsb. Leg. N. S. (Pa.) 138.

Plaintiff's possession.— It is generally held that the plaintiff, in order to obtain cancellation in case of a cloud upon a legal title, must be in possession. Arnett v. Bailey, 60 Ala. 435; Polk v. Pendleton, 31 Md. 118; Buck Mountain Coal Co. v. Conrad, 6 Phila. (Pa.) 111, 22 Leg. Int. (Pa.) 373; Christian v. Vance, 41 W. Va. 754, 24 S. E. 596. See also Wilkinson v. Wilkinson, 129 Ala. 279, 30 So. 578. See, however, Hogueland v. Arts, 113 Iowa 634, 85 N. W. 818; Bunce v. Gallagher, 5 Blatchf. (U. S.) 481, 4 Fed. Cas. No. 2,133, 7 Am. L. Reg. N. S. 32.

But possession is not required where the plaintiff is seeking to clear an equitable title (Fox v. Blossom, 17 Blatchf. (U. S.) 352, 9 Fed. Cas. No. 5,008, suit by second mortgagee to cancel first mortgage on the ground that it is barred by the statute of limitations), or where he holds the legal title under such circumstances that the law cannot furnish him full and complete relief (Sneathen v. Sneathen, 104 Mo. 201, 16 S. W. 497, 24 Am. St. Rep. 326; Beedle v. Mead, 81 Mo. 297), or where other distinct grounds of equity jurisdiction are averred (Shipman v. Furniss, 69 Ala. 555, 44 Am. Rep. 528; Crane v. Conklin, 1 N. J. Eq. 346, 22 Am. Dec. 519; Hoopes v. Devaughn, 43 W. Va. 447, 27 S. E. 251). See also Pomeroy Eq. Jur. § 1399 note; and, generally, Quieting Title.

33. Arkansas.— Breathwit v. Rogers, 32 Ark. 758.

Georgia.—Hairalson v. Carson, 111 Ga. 57, 36 S. E. 319.

Michigan.— Maclean v. Fitzsimons, 80 Mich. 336, 45 N. W. 145.

Missouri.— Cass County v. Green, 66 Mo. 498, negotiable bonds.

New Jersey.— Paterson v. Baker, 51 N. J. Eq. 49, 26 Atl. 324; Meiler v. Meiler, 19 N. J. Eq. 457, 18 N. J. Eq. 270.

Wisconsin.— Scott v. Menasha, 84 Wis. 73, 54 N. W. 263.

United States.— White v. Clarke, 5 Cranch C. C. (U. S.) 102, 29 Fed. Cas. No. 17,540.

England.— Minshaw v. Jordan, 3 Bro. Ch. 17, note a; Jervis v. White, 7 Ves. Jr. 413; Winchester v. Fournier, 2 Ves. 445.

See 8 Cent. Dig. tit. "Cancellation of Instruments," § 13.

In such cases an injunction against the transfer of the instrument is frequently granted. See cases cited supra, this note; and, generally, Injunctions.

When injunction and cancellation refused. — But an injunction and cancellation of a negotiable note fraudulently altered after its execution and therefor invalidated in the hands of a bona fide holder was refused in Erickson v. Oakland First Nat. Bank, 44 Nebr. 622, 62 N. W. 1078, 48 Am. St. Rep. 753, 28 L. R. A. 577. See also Trimble v. Minnesota Thresher Mfg. Co., 10 Okla. 578, 64 Pac. 8.

Where a note secured by chattel mortgage was procured by fraud, and the note was not yet due, the maker of the note might sue to cancel the note and mortgage and incidentally to restrain the foreclosure of the latter. Hodson v. Eugene Glass Co., 156 Ill. 397, 40 N. E. 971 [affirming 54 Ill. App. 248].

34. Springport v. Teutonia Sav. Bank, 75 N. Y. 397; Grand Chute v. Winegar, 15 Wall. (U. S.) 373, 21 L. ed. 174; Pomeroy Eq. Jur. § 914 note.

"If the mere fact that a defence exists to a written instrument were sufficient to authorize an application to a court of equity to decree its surrender and cancellation, it is obvious that every controversy in which the claim of either party was evidenced by a writing could be drawn to the equity side of the court, and tried in the mode provided for the trial of equitable actions, instead of being disposed of in the ordinary manner by a jury." Venice v. Woodruff, 62 N. Y. 462, 467, 20 Am. Rep. 495.

That there has been a full trial on the merits of the suit for cancellation, and findings in favor of the plaintiff, are important circumstances in influencing the court to exercise its discretionary power, notwithstanding the adequacy of the legal defense. See Crump v. Ingersoll, 47 Minn. 179, 49 N. W. 739; Glastenbury v. McDonald, 44 Vt. 450.

action at law upon the instrument is actually pending.[35] As to what circumstances will render the defense in a future action upon the instrument an inadequate protection there is a great lack of unanimity among the decisions;[36] that

35. Alabama.— Dickinson v. Lewis, 34 Ala. 638.

California.— Shain v. Belvin, 79 Cal. 262, 21 Pac. 747; Smith v. Sparrow, 13 Cal. 596.

Georgia.— Trammell v. Marks, 44 Ga. 166.

Minnesota.— Turnbull v. Crick, 63 Minn. 91, 65 N. W. 135.

New York.— Crane v. Bunnell, 10 Paige (N. Y.) 333.

Ohio.— Quebec Bank v. Weyand, 30 Ohio St. 126; Guardian Mut. L. Ins. Co. v. Sandal, 7 Ohio Dec. (Reprint) 503, 3 Cinc. L. Bul. 559.

Tennessee.— McLin v. Marshall, 1 Heisk. (Tenn.) 678.

United States.— Grand Chute v. Winegar, 15 Wall. (U. S.) 373, 21 L. ed. 174; Phœnix Mut. L. Ins. Co. v. Bailey, 13 Wall. (U. S.) 616, 20 L. ed. 501; Ætna L. Ins. Co. v. Smith, 73 Fed. 318.

See also Pomeroy Eq. Jur. § 179; and 8 Cent. Dig. tit. "Cancellation of Instruments," §§ 8, 13.

Limits of rule.— But where the plaintiff in the legal action might at any time withdraw it and bring another at his convenience, the defense at law was not considered an adequate protection. Domingo v. Getman, 9 Cal. 97; Buxton v. Broadway, 45 Conn. 540; Ferguson v. Fisk, 28 Conn. 501; Porter v. Jones, 6 Coldw. (Tenn.) 313. As to other circumstances warranting exercise of the discretion of the court of equity to intervene see Glastenbury v. McDonald, 44 Vt. 450.

36. Negotiable instruments after maturity have been canceled: For mistake, giving concurrent jurisdiction with courts of law. Fitzmaurice v. Mosier, 116 Ind. 363, 16 N. E. 175, 19 N. E. 180, 9 Am. St. Rep. 854. For fraud, giving concurrent jurisdiction, and because delay in settling the affairs of a partnership would result from awaiting a suit upon the note. Fuller v. Percival, 126 Mass. 381. For fraud, where the case has been tried on its merits. Glastenbury v. McDonald, 44 Vt. 450. For forgery, rendering delay undesirable, because the defendant is likely to be unscrupulous in his use of evidence. Hardy v. Brier, 91 Ind. 91; Huston v. Schindler, 46 Ind. 38; Huston v. Roosa, 43 Ind. 517. For failure of consideration, though an action at law was pending on the instrument, this fact being regarded as of no importance, as the action might at any time be withdrawn by the plaintiff therein and another brought at his convenience. Ferguson v. Fisk, 28 Conn. 501. See also Domingo v. Getman, 9 Cal. 97. A note pledged as security for a usurious loan may be canceled under N. Y. Code Civ. Proc. § 1911. Dickson v. Valentine, 57 N. Y. Super. Ct. 128, 6 N. Y. Suppl. 540, 24 N. Y. St. 957.

Negotiable instruments after maturity not canceled.— In the absence of fraud the mere existence of the following defenses was held insufficient: Accord and satisfaction. Lewis v. Tobias, 10 Cal. 574. Illegality. Cincinnati, etc., R. Co. v. McKeen, 64 Fed. 36, 24 U. S. App. 218, 12 C. C. A. 14. That the notes in question were made by a married woman for the accommodation of her husband. Hoffman v. Treadwell, 39 N. Y. Super. Ct. 183. Duress, where it did not appear that the defense in an action pending at law was in any way embarrassed. McLin v. Marshall, 1 Heisk. (Tenn.) 678. See also Black v. Miller, 173 Ill. 489, 50 N. E. 1009.

Non-negotiable notes were canceled in the following cases: Notes discharged by payment. Garrett v. Mississippi, etc., R. Co., Freem. (Miss.) 70. Note procured by fraud, and having ten years to run at the time of the suit, on account of the probable loss of evidence. Buxton v. Broadway, 45 Conn. 540. Note procured by fraud, on ground that action thereon may be delayed until evidence to establish complainant's defense at law is not available. Merritt v. Ehrman, 116 Ala. 278, 22 So. 514. Note void for illegality of consideration (and action thereon enjoined) on the ground of the capacity of the court of equity to administer more effectual relief. Porter v. Jones, 6 Coldw. (Tenn.) 313.

Non-negotiable notes not canceled.— Payment of notes was held no ground for their cancellation. Mercantile Bank v. Pettigrew, 74 N. C. 326. So also in the well-considered case of Butler v. Durham, 2 Ga. 413, where cancellation was sought of fourteen different notes, but no danger was shown of loss of evidence of payment, and it was not apparent that the defendant intended to harass the complainant. Want of consideration was held not to be a ground for cancellation in Burlington Tp. v. Cross, 15 Kan. 74.

Forged note.—A federal court of equity has jurisdiction of a suit for the cancellation of a forged note brought by the purported maker against the payee, who is alleged to be asserting the validity of such note and attempting to negotiate the same, where under the state statute an action to recover on said note will not be barred for more than eleven years; the complainant's remedy at law in such case by defending against the note when sued thereon not being as practical and efficient as that in equity, and therefore not adequate and complete, so as to exclude the jurisdiction of equity. Schmidt v. West, 104 Fed. 272. See also Hardy v. Brier, 91 Ind. 91; Huston v. Schindler, 46 Ind. 38; Huston v. Roosa, 43 Ind. 517; Patterson v. Smith, 4 Dana (Ky.) 153; Bunce v. Gallagher, 5 Blatchf. (U. S.) 481, 4 Fed. Cas. No. 2,133, 7 Am. L. Reg. N. S. 32.

Bonds.— In a suit to enjoin an action on certain municipal bonds, and for cancellation thereof, allegations that the bonds were unauthorized, in violation of law and in fraud of the town, and that the obligee was not a the instrument was obtained by fraud is, as has been seen, such a circumstance, bona fide holder for value, constitute a complete defense at law; hence, as no difficulty in establishing these facts was suggested, the remedy at law was adequate. Grand Chute v. Winegar, 15 Wall. (U. S.) 373, 21 L. ed. 174. See also Venice v. Woodruff, 62 N. Y. 462, 20 Am. Rep. 495 [followed in Farmington Village Corp. v. Sandy River Nat. Bank, 85 Me. 46, 26 Atl. 965]. But in a later New York case it was held that where extrinsic proof was necessary to establish a defense to actions to recover on such bonds, the existence of such defense, combined with the risk of losing evidence, and the apprehension of a multiplicity of suits, established a proper case for equitable relief. Springport v. Teutonia Sav. Bank, 75 N. Y. 397. In an early New York case it was said "that the habit of this court is not to cancel bonds or other instruments because they have no validity as matters of legal obligation or cognizance." Noah v. Webb, 1 Edw. (N. Y.) 604. See also Brown v. Boyd, 158 Mass. 470, 33 N. E. 568. In Patterson v. Smith, 4 Dana (Ky.) 153, it was held that a party whose name has been forged as surety in a replevin bond may maintain a bill to have the bond canceled, so far as it purports to bind him. In general, that the grounds upon which the jurisdiction is invoked may avail the party as a defense in an action at law is not a sound objection to the exercise of the jurisdiction to cancel a bond, unless a suit at law has been commenced, or the defense is of a character plain and palpable, and within the command of the party at any time. Cornish v. Bryan, 10 N. J. Eq. 146. See also Canon v. Ballard, 62 N. J. Eq. 383, 50 Atl. 178 [reversed on other grounds in 52 Atl. 352].

Contract for purchase of land.— In a suit by the vendee to rescind such a contract on the ground of defect in title or want of power in the vendor to sell, relief was refused, as the vendee had a perfect defense to any action brought against him on the contract. Bruner v. Meigs, 64 N. Y. 506.

Contract of marriage.—An instrument purporting to be a written contract of marriage, alleged to be forged or fraudulent, was held a proper subject for cancellation, for the reason that evidence to prove its fictitious character lay peculiarly within the knowledge of the complainant, and was liable to be lost by his death. Sharon v. Hill, 20 Fed. 1.

County warrants.— An action cannot be maintained to cancel county warrants alleged to have been illegally issued, when there exists an adequate remedy at law under a statute providing that an action may be brought by one person against another for the purpose of determining an adverse claim which the latter makes against the former for moneys or property upon an alleged obligation. Ada County v. Bullen Bridge Co., (Ida. 1896) 47 Pac. 818, 36 L. R. A. 367 [distinguishing Andrews v. Pratt, 44 Cal. 309].

Deed — Warranty clause fraudulently inserted by the grantee may be canceled at the suit of the grantor, although it may be avoided in an action upon it at law. Maise v. Carner, Mart. & Y. (Tenn.) 382, 17 Am. Dec 817.

Lease.— The fact that the premises were unfit for use by reason of latent defects, being a good defense to an action for rent, was held not a reason for cancellation in Reedy v. Chicago Vinegar, etc., Co., 30 Ill. App. 153.

Insurance policies.— Traill v. Baring, 4 De G. J. & S. 318, 69 Eng. Ch. 247; Whittingham v. Thornburgh, 2 Vern. 206. See also John Hancock Mut. L. Ins. Co. v. Dick, 114 Mich. 337, 72 N. W. 179, 43 L. R. A. 566, where a suit at law which had been brought on a life-insurance policy fraudulently obtained was enjoined and the policy decreed to be canceled. In Security Trust Co. v. Tarpey, 66 Ill. App. 589, suit was brought in the lifetime of the assured to cancel a similar policy, and jurisdiction was held not to be taken away by his death during the pendency of the suit. In Commercial Mut. Ins. Co. v. McLoon, 14 Allen (Mass.) 351, a bill to cancel a marine insurance policy on the ground of fraud was sustained, without any special reasons being assigned, but it appears from the allegations of the bill that there was unusual danger of loss of evidence. On the other hand it was held in Phœnix Mut. L. Ins. Co. v. Bailey, 13 Wall. (U. S.) 616, 20 L. ed. 501, and in Globe Mut. L. Ins. Co. v. Reals, 79 N. Y. 202, that a suit to cancel a life-insurance policy on the ground of fraud brought after the death of the insured will not be sustained in the absence of special circumstances rendering the remedy in equity necessary to prevent irreparable injury. See also Ætna L. Ins. Co. v. Smith, 73 Fed. 318; Home Ins. Co. v. Stanchfield, 2 Abb. (U. S.) 1, 1 Dill. (U. S.) 424, 12 Fed. Cas. No. 6.660, 5 Am. L. Rev. 564, 4 Am. L. T. Rep. (U. S. Cts.) 171, 3 Chic. Leg. N. 97. When no fraud was shown in the procurement of a fire-insurance policy, the fact that the insured set fire to the property was not a ground for its cancellation. Imperial F. Ins. Co. v. Gunning, 81 Ill. 236.

Insurance adjustment obtained by fraud was held not a proper subject for cancellation in Manchester F. Assur. Co. v. Stockton Combined Harvester, etc., Works, 38 Fed. 378.

Judgment note.—In Ginsberg v. Rubinowitz, 20 Pa. Co. Ct. 230, the surrender was compelled of a note with warrant of attorney authorizing confession of judgment, of which the payee had no right to make any use whatsoever, on the ground that the note might be used for the harassment and distress of the complainant.

Patents.— See Hughes v. U. S., 4 Wall. (U. S.) 232, 18 L. ed. 303. An agreement whereby the plaintiffs granted to the defendants the exclusive right to sell and dispose of certain patented machines throughout the Pacific coast, on the condition that the grantee in the view of a few courts only;[37] and the mere ordinary danger of losing evidence to establish the defense is not, in many states, regarded as sufficient, standing alone.[38]

7. When a Remedy by Action at Law Exists — a. In General. The same absence of a general criterion for determining the adequacy of the complainant's legal remedy is found in this class of cases also, where the complainant may take the initiative as plaintiff in an action of deceit, or for the recovery of the consideration paid, etc.[39]

b. Action on Covenants. It is the general rule that a purchaser of land, who would make faithful efforts to sell the machines within the same territory, having been violated by the defendants, the latter claimed that notwithstanding their violation they possessed all the rights conferred by the agreement, and disputed the right of the plaintiffs to terminate it, and threatened that they would endeavor to enjoin the plaintiffs from disposing of the machines within the specified territory. It was held that the fact that the plaintiffs might successfully defend an injunction suit, or suits, in the various states covered by the agreement, was no objection to the remedy for cancellation of the agreement. Bradley v. Anglo-American Gas Control Co., 102 Cal. 627, 36 Pac. 1011.

Where an obligation was obtained from plaintiff by fraudulent representations, and both defendants claimed to own it by assignment, and each commenced an action against him claiming in hostility to each other, it was held that the plaintiff might, during the pendency of the actions against him, bring a suit against both claimants to be relieved from the contract, as otherwise he would be subjected to the expense of the double litigation and the hazard of a double recovery. McHenry v. Hazard, 45 N. Y. 580.

A writing which might be used as evidence of a gift of slaves by the complainant to the defendant procured by fraud was canceled, although the fraud might have been set up in defense to an action on the writing. Johnson v. Hendley, 5 Munf. (Va.) 219.

37. See cases cited supra, note 31.

38. It seems to be held sufficient in Alabama. Merritt v. Ehrman, 116 Ala. 278, 288, 22 So. 514, where it is said: "Before it can be said that the remedy at law is full and complete, it must appear that the defrauded party can obtain immediate relief, either by affirmative or defensive action." Compare cases cited infra, this note.

Effect of statutes for the perpetuation of testimony.— It has been said that the effect of these statutes has been wholly to dispense with the necessity of resorting to equity on the ground of the danger of the loss of the plaintiff's evidence to establish his defense to the instrument. Brown v. Boyd, 158 Mass. 470, 33 N. E. 568; Erickson v. Oakland First Nat. Bank, 44 Nebr. 622, 62 N. W. 1078, 48 Am. St. Rep. 753, 28 L. R. A. 577; Venice v. Woodruff, 62 N. Y. 462, 20 Am. Rep. 495. But this argument was rejected by the eminent judge who advanced it in the case last mentioned, in Springport v. Teutonia Sav. Bank, 75 N. Y. 397; in Hardy v. Brier, 91 Ind. 91; and in Schmidt v. West, 104 Fed. 272.

39. See, generally, EQUITY; VENDOR AND PURCHASER; and the illustrations infra, this note.

Rescission at suit of purchases of realty.— In Boyce v. Grundy, 3 Pet. (U. S.) 210, 7 L. ed. 655, it was held that fraudulent representations as to the nature, quality, and quantity of the land, affecting the whole subject-matter of the contract, entitled the purchaser to rescission, and did not present a case for compensation merely. But it was explained in Buzard v. Houston, 119 U. S. 347, 7 S. Ct. 249, 30 L. ed. 451, that this decision rested on the ground of the multiplicity of suits to which the vendee might be subjected for the recovery of instalments of the purchase-money. Rescission should not be decreed for mere deficiency in quantity of the land, if adequate compensation can be made. Anderson v. Snyder, 21 W. Va. 632. Rescission was decreed on ground of failure of title and vendor's insolvency (Griggs v. Woodruff, 14 Ala. 9); but refused where vendor, though non-resident, is solvent (Parks v. Brooks, 16 Ala. 529); and the vendor's insolvency is unimportant where the purchase-money note for the part of the land the title to which has failed was expressly conditioned on a good title (Graham v. Nesmith, 18 Ala. 763). Cancellation on the ground of vendor's breach of the conditions of the title bond was refused. Shoup v. Cook, 1 Ind. 135.

Rescission at suit of vendor of realty.— A bill to cancel, on the ground of plaintiff's mental incapacity, a contract by which the plaintiffs gave defendant a half interest in a lot and allowed him to control the rents and profits, and which provided that it should not be sold within ten years without his consent, was sustained, as the remedy at law by recovery of possession of the lot was inadequate. Luffboro v. Foster, 92 Ala. 477, 9 So. 281. Cancellation on ground of failure of payment was decreed in Allread v. Harris, 75 Ga. 687, but refused in Brainard v. Holsaple, 4 Greene (Iowa) 485.

Contract of sale of chattels does not present a subject of equitable cognizance as a general rule. Davis v. Moorefield, 40 Ga. 185; Gore v. Kramer, 117 Ill. 176, 7 N. E. 504; Deveraux v. Cooper, 15 Vt. 88. But see Bohannon v. Kerr, 1 B. Mon. (Ky.) 87, under Kentucky statute of 1838 respecting fraudulent purchases. Nor does a contract of purchase of county bonds induced by false rep-is in possession under a warranty deed, cannot, in the absence of fraud, have relief in equity against his contract on the mere ground of defect in his title, but must resort to a common-law action on the covenants in his deed;[40] but where there has been fraud on the part of his vendor he may maintain an action to rescind the sale.[41]

c. In Case of Stock Subscriptions. A stock-holder whose contract of subresentations, when the county denies the validity of the bonds, present such a question. U. S. Bank v. Lyon County, 46 Fed. 514.

The relation of trust between the parties was a feature of the case that was decisive in favor of the exercise of the jurisdiction in Cohen v. Ellis, 16 Abb. N. Cas. (N. Y.) 320.

Agreement to arbitrate.—Where a contract contained a provision that either party might terminate it upon proper notice, whereupon arbitrators should be appointed to determine the terms upon which the contract should be rescinded and the compensation be awarded, equity would not entertain a bill to cancel the contract; such bill being in itself a violation of the provision for arbitration. Young Lock Nut Co. v. Brownley Mfg. Co., (N. J. 1896) 34 Atl. 947. See also Naugle v. Yerkes, 83 Ill. App. 310 [affirmed in 187 Ill. 388, 58 N. E. 310].

Assignment of contract to purchase chattels.— The plaintiffs alleged that they made a contract by which the defendant was to deliver to them a certain number of cattle; that subsequently the defendant induced them to accept an assignment of a contract in his favor by another person to deliver the cattle; that thereupon the plaintiffs paid defendant fifteen thousand dollars, which he had paid to such third party, gave him their obligation to pay him a sum which represented a profit on his sale to them, and returned to him the original contract with him; that they were induced to accept such assignment, to pay said sum, and to give the obligation, by the false and fraudulent representations of the defendant as to such third party's solvency and business standing; and praying for a discovery, for the rescission and cancellation of the assignment and of the plaintiff's obligation, for a reinstatement and confirmation of the original contract and its enforcement; or if that could not be done, that the defendant be compelled to repay the fifteen thousand dollars paid him, and to pay the damages sustained. It was held that the bill stated a case for which an action of deceit could be maintained at law and would afford a full, complete, and adequate remedy. Buzard v. Houston, 119 U. S. 347, 7 S. Ct. 249, 30 L. ed. 451.

Suit to cancel settlement.— Where the settlement would be no bar to an action at law in disregard of the settlement, as a general rule an equitable action will not lie. Balestier v. Mechanics' Nat. Bank, 15 N. Y. St. 46; Jaffrey v. Bear, 42 Fed. 569. Compare Metropolitan El. R. Co. v. Manhattan El. R. Co., 11 Daly (N. Y.) 373, 14 Abb. N. Cas. (N. Y.) 103, where the plaintiff's success depends on making one a party to the suit who could not be joined as co-defendant in the legal action in disregard of the instrument, suit in equity may be maintained.

40. Alabama.— Parker v. Parker, 93 Ala. 80, 9 So. 426.

Arkansas.— Peay v. Wright, 22 Ark. 198.

Illinois.— Beebe v. Swartwout, 8 Ill. 162.

Kentucky.— Upshaw v. Debow, 7 Bush (Ky.) 442; Campbell v. Whittington, 5 J. J. Marsh. (Ky.) 96, 20 Am. Dec. 241; Hieronymus v. Hicks, 3 J. J. Marsh. (Ky.) 701; Miller v. Long, 3 A. K. Marsh. (Ky.) 334.

Minnesota.—Miller v. Miller, 47 Minn. 546, 50 N. W. 612, and cases cited.

Missouri.— Hart v. Hannibal, etc., R. Co., 65 Mo. 509.

New York.— Ryerson v. Willis, 81 N. Y. 277 [affirming 8 Daly (N. Y.) 462]; Abbott v. Allen, 2 Johns. Ch. (N. Y.) 519, 7 Am. Dec. 554.

South Carolina.— Maner v. Washington, 3 Strobb. Eq. (S. C.) 171, and cases cited.

Tennessee.—Stipe v. Stipe, 2 Head (Tenn.) 168; Young v. Butler, 1 Head (Tenn.) 639; Barnett v. Clark, 5 Sneed (Tenn.) 435.

Virginia.— Thompson v. Jackson, 3 Rand. (Va.) 504, 15 Am. Dec. 721.

Wisconsin.— Reuter v. Lawe, 86 Wis. 106, 56 N. W. 472, same rule, where there is nothing to prevent the purchaser from taking possession.

See 8 Cent. Dig. tit. "Cancellation of Instruments," § 21.

41. Alabama.— Lindsey v. Veasy, 62 Ala. 421; Calloway v. McElroy, 3 Ala. 406; Perry v. Boyd, 126 Ala. 162, 28 So. 711, 85 Am. St. Rep. 17.

Arkansas.— Yeates v. Pryor, 11 Ark. 58.

Connecticut.— Sherwood v. Salmon, 5 Day (Conn.) 439, 5 Am. Dec. 167.

Kentucky.— Campbell v. Whittington, 5 J. J. Marsh. (Ky.) 96, 20 Am. Dec. 241; Breeding v. Flannery, 12 Ky. L. Rep. 609, 14 S. W. 907.

Mississippi.— English v. Benedict, 25 Miss. 167.

New York.— Wright v. Deniston, 9 Misc. (N. Y.) 79, 29 N. Y. Suppl. 718, 59 N. Y. St. 549.

So also where the vendor's assertions of title were mistaken but not fraudulent. Baptiste v. Peters, 51 Ala. 158. And where the grantee alleges that he has been prevented from taking possession of the premises by reason of possession by a third party under a prior lease from the grantor, with an agreement to convey at the end of the term, and denies any knowledge of the encumbrance, he may have rescission. Smith v. Scribner, 59 Vt. 96, 7 Atl. 711. But where, at or before the final hearing, the vendor makes and tendscription for shares was obtained by fraud may maintain an action to cancel his subscription, and to have his name removed from the books of the corporation.[42]

III. ESTOPPEL, RATIFICATION, OR LACHES.

A. Effect of Estoppel. The doctrine of equitable estoppel is frequently invoked in suits for cancellation.[43]

B. Effect of Ratification — 1. In General. When a party, with knowledge of facts entitling him to rescission of a contract or conveyance, afterward, without fraud or duress, ratifies the same, he has no claim to the relief of cancellation. An express ratification is not required in order thus to defeat his remedy; any acts of recognition of the contract as subsisting or any conduct inconsistent with an intention of avoiding it, have the effect of an election to affirm.[44] "This doctrine seems to rest not upon the principle of a new contract between the parties, ers a perfect title, no rescission will generally be decreed. Kimball v. West, 15 Wall. (U. S.) 377, 21 L. ed. 95.

42. Damages in an action of deceit would not be an adequate remedy, as the plaintiff would still remain a stock-holder, subject as such to certain liabilities and responsibilities imposed by law. Negley v. Hagerstown Mfg., etc., Co., 86 Md. 692, 39 Atl. 506; Bosley v. National Mach. Co., 123 N. Y. 550, 25 N. E. 990, 34 N. Y. St. 277; Higgins v. Crouse, 63 Hun (N. Y.) 134, 17 N. Y. Suppl. 696, 44 N. Y. St. 151; Benton v. Ward, 47 Fed. 253.

As incident to the remedy for the wrongful transfer of stock, in favor of the person entitled thereto, to compel the issue of certificates to himself, where the loss of the stock cannot be adequately compensated in a common-law action, he may have cancellation of the certificates wrongfully issued. Walker v. Detroit Transit R. Co., 47 Mich. 338, 11 N. W. 187.

43. See, generally, EQUITY; ESTOPPEL. See also Cooley v. Wilson, 42 Iowa 425 (defendant in execution estopped by his conduct at the execution sale to set the sale aside for mistake in the description of the property); Howell v. Earp, 21 Hun (N. Y.) 393 (owner of property who allows another to sell it and recovers a judgment against him for its value, cannot set aside the transfer).

An admission, in order to amount to estoppel, must injure the other party; hence a person is not estopped to claim that certain notes were forged, by an admission of their genuineness made after their purchase by the defendant. Ehrler v. Braun, 22 Ill. App. 391 [affirmed in 120 Ill. 503, 12 N. E. 996].

Presence at execution of instrument.— The devisee of a mortgagor seeking to cancel the mortgage on the ground of the mortgagor's insanity is not estopped by the fact that he was present when the mortgage was executed. Brigham v. Fayerweather, 144 Mass. 48, 10 N. E. 735.

44. Alabama.— Baker v. Maxwell, 99 Ala. 558, 14 So. 468; Howle v. North Birmingham Land Co., 95 Ala. 389, 11 So. 15; Dent v. Long, 90 Ala. 172, 7 So. 640; Lockwood v. Fitts, 90 Ala. 150, 7 So. 467; Garrett v. Lynch, 45 Ala. 204; Pierce v. Wilson, 34 Ala. 596; Harrison v. Deramus, 33 Ala. 463; Thompson v. Lee, 31 Ala. 292; Bryant v. Boothe, 30 Ala. 311, 68 Am. Dec. 117; Sadler v. Robinson, 2 Stew. (Ala.) 520.

Arkansas.— Yeates v. Pryor, 11 Ark. 58.

California.— Olivas v. Olivas, 61 Cal. 382.

Illinois.— McClelland v. McClelland, 176 Ill. 83, 51 N. E. 559; Day v. Ft. Scott Invest., etc., Co., 153 Ill. 293, 38 N. E. 567 [affirming 53 Ill. App. 165]; Perry v. Pearson, 135 Ill. 218, 25 N. E. 636 [affirming 30 Ill. App. 389].

Indiana.—Thompson v. Thompson, 132 Ind. 288, 31 N. E. 529; Tarkington v. Purvis, 128 Ind. 182, 25 N. E. 879, 9 L. R. A. 607; Patten v. Stewart, 24 Ind. 332; Scarce v. Indiana, etc., R. Co., 17 Ind. 193; Gatling v. Newell, 9 Ind. 572.

Iowa.— Blackman v. Wright, 96 Iowa 541, 65 N. W. 843; Kraner v. Chambers, 92 Iowa 681, 61 N. W. 373; Evans v. Montgomery, 50 Iowa 325; Montgomery v. Gibbs, 40 Iowa 652.

Kansas.— Bell v. Keepers, 39 Kan. 105, 17 Pac. 785; Knaggs v. Mastin, 9 Kan. 532.

Kentucky.—McCulloch v. Scott, 13 B. Mon. (Ky.) 172, 56 Am. Dec. 561; Lacey v. McMillen, 9 B. Mon. (Ky.) 523; Jones v. Evans, 7 Dana (Ky.) 96; Collier v. Thompson, 4 T. B. Mon. (Ky.) 81; Cocke v. Hardin, Litt. Sel. Cas. (Ky.) 374; Carr v. Callaghan, 3 Litt. (Ky.) 365; Edwards v. Handley, Hard. (Ky.) 602, 3 Am. Dec. 745; Northrup v. Mollett, 18 Ky. L. Rep. 89, 35 S. W. 268.

Louisiana.— Meyers v. Henderson, 49 La. Ann. 1547, 16 So. 729.

Maryland.— Kerby v. Kerby, 57 Md. 345; Foley v. Crow, 37 Md. 51.

Massachusetts.— Childs v. Stoddard, 130 Mass. 110; Montgomery v. Pickering, 116 Mass. 227.

Michigan.— De Armand v. Phillips, Walk. (Mich.) 186.

Minnesota.—Parsons v. McKinley, 56 Minn. 464, 57 N. W. 1134; Paine v. Harrison, 38 Minn. 346, 37 N. W. 588.

Mississippi.—Georgia Pac. R. Co. v. Brooks, 66 Miss. 583, 6 So. 467; Hanson v. Field, 41 Miss. 712; Johnson v. Jones, 13 Sm. & M. (Miss.) 580; Edwards v. Roberts, 7 Sm. & M. (Miss.) 544; Ayres v. Mitchell, 3 Sm. & M. (Miss.) 683; Pintard v. Martin, Sm. & M. Ch. (Miss.) 126.

nor yet upon the ordinary principle of estoppel in pais, but rather upon a distinct principle of public policy, that all that justice or equity requires for the relief of a party having such cause to impeach a contract is that he should have but one fair opportunity, after full knowledge of the rights, to decide whether he will affirm and take the benefits of the contract or disaffirm it and demand the consequent redress. Any other rule would be regarded as unjust, even toward the party guilty of the wrong out of which grows the right to rescind." [45]

2. What Amounts to Ratification — a. In General. The following acts on the part of the party claiming to be injured have been held to be acts of recognition affirming the transaction: On the part of a vendee, payment of purchase-money after knowledge of the fraud;[46] receipt of purchase-money on the part of a vendor;[47] voluntary dismissal of a suit brought to set aside the instrument;[48] failure of vendee to repudiate the contract when the fraudulent vendor demanded the price;[49] where the ground of cancellation was non-performance by the vendor, Missouri.— Thiemann v. Heinze, 120 Mo. 630, 25 S. W. 533; Taylor v. Short, 107 Mo. 384, 17 S. W. 970; McClure v. Lewis, 72 Mo. 314.

New Jersey.— Arnold v. Hagerman, 45 N. J. Eq. 186, 17 Atl. 93, 14 Am. St. Rep. 712; Dennis v. Jones, 44 N. J. Eq. 513, 14 Atl. 913, 6 Am. St. Rep. 899.

New York.— Cherry Creek v. Becker, 123 N. Y. 161, 25 N. E. 369, 33 N. Y. St. 411 [affirming 2 N. Y. Suppl. 514, 18 N. Y. St. 485]; Myers v. King, 48 Hun (N. Y.) 106, 15 N. Y. St. 482; Howell v. Earp, 21 Hun (N. Y.) 393; Wager v. Reid, 3 Thomps. & C. (N. Y.) 332; La Follette v. Noble, 13 Misc. (N. Y.) 574, 34 N. Y. Suppl. 955; Cohen v. Ellis, 16 Abb. N. Cas. (N. Y.) 320; Treacy v. Hecker, 51 How. Pr. (N. Y.) 69; Lawrence v. Dale, 3 Johns. Ch. (N. Y.) 23.

North Carolina.— Allen v. Wilmington, etc., R. Co., 106 N. C. 515, 11 S. E. 576, 826; Moore v. Reed, 37 N. C. 580.

Tennessee.— Johnson v. Lellyett, 12 Heisk. (Tenn.) 723; Knuckolls v. Lea, 10 Humphr. (Tenn.) 576; Blackman v. Stone, 3 Tenn. Ch. 370.

Texas.— Tom v. Wollhoefer, 61 Tex. 277; Temple Nat. Bank v. Warner, (Tex. Civ. App. 1895) 31 S. W. 239; Ellis v. Ellis, 5 Tex. Civ. App. 46, 23 S. W. 996.

Virginia.— Dickenson v. Farley, 84 Va. 240, 4 S. E. 375; Robertson v. Tapscott, 81 Va. 533; Pollard v. Rogers, 4 Call (Va.) 239; Broddus v. McCall, 3 Call (Va.) 546.

Wisconsin.— Knutson v. Bostrak, 99 Wis. 469, 75 N. W. 156.

United States.— Litchfield v. Browne, 70 Fed. 141, 36 U. S. App. 130, 17 C. C. A. 28; Bement v. La Dow, 66 Fed. 185; Mudsill Min. Co. v. Watrous, 61 Fed. 163, 22 U. S. App. 12, 9 C. C. A. 415; Watts v. British, etc., Mortg. Co., 60 Fed. 483, 23 U. S. App. 257, 9 C. C. A. 98; Scheftel v. Hays, 58 Fed. 457, 19 U. S. App. 220, 7 C. C. A. 308; Hatch v. Ferguson, 57 Fed. 972; Richardson v. Walton, 49 Fed. 888; Gross v. George W. Scott Mfg. Co., 48 Fed. 35; Hough v. Richardson, 3 Story (U. S.) 659, 12 Fed. Cas. No. 6,722.

England.—Wright v. Vanderplank, 8 De G., M. & G. 133, 2 Jur. N. S. 599, 2 Kay & J. 1, 25 L. J. Ch. 753, 4 Wkly. Rep. 410, 57 Eng. Ch. 104; Savery v. King, 5 H. L. Cas. 627, 2 Jur. N. S. 503, 25 L. J. Ch. 482, 4 Wkly. Rep. 571.

See 8 Cent. Dig. tit. "Cancellation of Instruments," § 23.

45. Emma Silver Min. Co. v. Emma Silver Min. Co. of New York, 7 Fed. 401, by Choate, District J.

46. Alabama.— Howle v. North Birmingham Land Co., 95 Ala. 389, 11 So. 15, part payment, and two years' delay.

Kansas.— Bell v. Keepers, 39 Kan. 105, 17 Pac. 785, part payment and the sale by the plaintiff of one of the tracts conveyed to him.

Kentucky.— Lacey v. McMillen, 9 B. Mon. (Ky.) 523, payments, with long delay, and sale of part of the land.

Mississippi.—Ayres v. Mitchell, 3 Sm. & M. (Miss.) 683.

New Jersey.— Dennis v. Jones, 44 N. J. Eq. 513, 14 Atl. 913, 6 Am. St. Rep. 899, payments, with continued use of the property.

Tennessee.— Johnson v. Lellyett, 12 Heisk. (Tenn.) 723 (payments, and retaining possession for two years after discovery of the fraud); Knuckolls v. Lea, 10 Humphr. (Tenn.) 576.

See 8 Cent. Dig. tit. "Cancellation of Instruments," § 23.

Payment of interest on town bonds for six years without questioning their validity was one of the reasons for refusing cancellation of the bonds at the suit of the town. Cherry Creek v. Becker, 123 N. Y. 161, 25 N. E. 369, 33 N. Y. St. 411 [affirming 2 N. Y. Suppl. 514, 18 N. Y. St. 485].

47. Oaks v. Harrison, 24 Iowa 179; Litchfield v. Browne, 70 Fed. 141, 36 U. S. App. 130, 17 C. C. A. 28 (receipt of deferred payments, and delay for three years after discovery of the fraud); Hatch v. Ferguson, 57 Fed. 972; Richardson v. Walton, 49 Fed. 888. But where the money was paid to the defrauded grantor's general agent, his mere receipt of it from the agent does not prove his acquiescence in the fraud. McLean v. Clark, 47 Ga. 24.

48. Kerby v. Kerby, 57 Md. 345.

49. Parsons v. McKinley, 56 Minn. 464, 57 N. W. 1134.

giving an extension of time for the removal of encumbrances;[50] and, in general, any transactions with the defendant relating to the subject-matter of the contract, and inconsistent with an intention to rescind.[51]

b. Receipt of Benefits. Receipt of benefits under the contract, or acts of dominion or ownership exercised over the property received under the contract, after knowledge of the ground of rescission, amount to a ratification.[52] Among such acts are the continued possession and use of the property,[53] and receipt of rents and profits,[54] and making improvements thereon.[55] So the sale of a portion

50. Kraner v. Chambers, 92 Iowa 681, 61 N. W. 373.

51. Alabama.— Harrison v. Deramus, 33 Ala. 463; Sadler v. Robinson, 2 Stew. (Ala.) 520.

Illinois.— Day v. Ft. Scott Invest., etc., Co., 153 Ill. 293, 38 N. E. 567 [affirming 53 Ill. App. 165]; Perry v. Pearson, 135 Ill. 218, 25 N. E. 636.

Indiana.— Scarce v. Indiana, etc., R. Co., 17 Ind. 193.

Iowa.— Blackman v. Wright, 96 Iowa 541, 65 N. W. 843.

Kansas.— Knaggs v. Mastin, 9 Kan. 532.

Maryland.— Foley v. Crow, 37 Md. 51.

Michigan.— De Armand v. Phillips, Walk. (Mich.) 186.

Minnesota.— Paine v. Harrison, 38 Minn. 346, 37 N. W. 588.

Mississippi.—Georgia Pac. R. Co. v. Brooks, 66 Miss. 583, 6 So. 467; Pintard v. Martin, Sm. & M. Ch. (Miss.) 126.

New York.—Treacy v. Hecker, 51 How. Pr. (N. Y.) 69.

Tennessee.— Bostick v. Haynie, (Tenn. Ch. 1896) 36 S. W. 856; Blackman v. Stone, 3 Tenn. Ch. 370.

Texas.— Tom v. Wollhoefer, 61 Tex. 277; Ellis v. Ellis, 5 Tex. Civ. App. 46, 23 S. W. 996.

United States.— St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Terre Haute, etc., R. Co., 33 Fed. 440; Hough v. Richardson, 3 Story (U. S.) 659, 12 Fed. Cas. No. 6,722.

See 8 Cent. Dig. tit. "Cancellation of Instruments," § 23.

Instances of conduct amounting to acquiescence.— Entering into new stipulations regarding the contract. Sadler v. Robinson, 2 Stew. (Ala.) 520. Vendee, who is entitled to rescind his contract of purchase because of partial failure of title, accepting a conveyance without objection (Harrison v. Deramus, 33 Ala. 463); or agreeing to accept an abatement in the price as compensation for the deficiency (Foley v. Crow, 37 Md. 51). Grantors, with knowledge of the fraud, becoming tenants of their grantee and paying him rent for a term of years. Knaggs v. Mastin, 9 Kan. 532. Grantor, after the undue influence is removed, treating the land as the grantees' and expressing a desire to his lawyer of confirming their title. Ellis v. Ellis, 5 Tex. Civ. App. 46, 23 S. W. 996. Vendor, having ground for rescission in vendees' non-performance, shows acquiescence by executing deed. Northup v. Mollett, 18 Ky. L. Rep. 89, 35 S. W. 268.

52. Foley v. Crow, 37 Md. 51; Bement v. La Dow, 66 Fed. 185.

This is especially true if the plaintiff, with knowledge of his right to rescind, has so dealt with the property as to make restoration thereof impossible without an accounting. Dent v. Long, 90 Ala. 172, 7 So. 640; Myers v. King, 48 Hun (N. Y.) 106, 15 N. Y. St. 482. See also infra, IV.

Illustrations.— If the vendor sues for damages for deceit he thereby elects to affirm the contract. Stuart v. Hayden, 72 Fed. 402, 36 U. S. App. 462, 18 C. C. A. 618. A lessee's prosecution of a suit for rents against a sublessee is a waiver of the former's right to rescind the lease. Meyers v. Henderson, 49 La. Ann. 1547, 16 So. 729. A mortgagee discharged his mortgage and received a new one in ignorance that an intervening mortgage was on record; after learning the facts he relied upon and enforced his second mortgage; this was held to be a waiver of his right to have the discharge of his first mortgage canceled for mistake. Childs v. Stoddard, 130 Mass. 110. But the commencement and prosecution of an action at law against the agents of the vendor, to recover damages for deceit in inducing the plaintiff to purchase property, is not necessarily an election to affirm the sale, so as to preclude the plaintiff from maintaining a subsequent suit to rescind the sale. Such an action is not an election to affirm, where there is nothing in the complaint showing that the sale has been adopted and affirmed, and where the ad damnum in the complaint is the alleged price paid for the property. Emma Silver Min. Co. v. Emma Silver Min. Co. of New York, 7 Fed. 401.

53. Alabama.— Garrett v. Lynch, 45 Ala. 204.

Indiana.— Gatling v. Newell, 9 Ind. 572.

Iowa.— Montgomery v. Gibbs, 40 Iowa 652.

Kentucky.—McCulloch v. Scott, 13 B. Mon. (Ky.) 172, 56 Am. Dec. 561; Cocke v. Hardin, Litt. Sel. Cas. (Ky.) 374.

Mississippi.— Pintard v. Martin, Sm. & M. Ch. (Miss.) 126.

Missouri.— Thiemann v. Heinze, 120 Mo. 630, 25 S. W. 533.

New Jersey.—Dennis v. Jones, 44 N. J. Eq. 513, 14 Atl. 913, 6 Am. St. Rep. 899.

Texas.— Temple Nat. Bank v. Warner, (Tex. Civ. App. 1895) 31 S. W. 239.

See 8 Cent. Dig. tit. "Cancellation of Instruments," § 26.

54. Montgomery v. Gibbs, 40 Iowa 652.

55. Dent v. Long, 90 Ala. 172, 7 So. 640; Montgomery v. Gibbs, 40 Iowa 652.

of the property,[56] or a contract to sell the property may constitute a ratification of the contract or transaction.[57]

c. Conduct Must Be Unequivocal. Equivocal acts, which do not clearly evince a purpose, with complete knowledge of the fraud, to retain the property as his own, will not defeat the right of the person defrauded to rescind.[58]

C. Effect of Laches — 1. In General. It is not within the scope of this article to attempt to reconcile the various judicial utterances on the subject of laches.[59] On the one hand are found statements emphasizing the necessity of prompt election by the plaintiff on discovering the ground of rescission, in order to avoid the imputation of acquiescence.[60] On the other hand statements abound

56. Alabama.— Dent v. Long, 90 Ala. 172, 7 So. 640.

Illinois.— Day v. Ft. Scott Invest., etc., Co., 153 Ill. 293, 38 N. E. 567 [affirming 53 Ill. App. 165].

Kansas.— Bell v. Keepers, 39 Kan. 105, 17 Pac. 785.

Kentucky.— Lacey v. McMillen, 9 B. Mon. (Ky.) 523.

Michigan.— Bedier v. Reaume, 95 Mich. 518, 55 N. W. 366.

57. La Follette v. Noble, 13 Misc. (N. Y.) 574, 34 N. Y. Suppl. 955.

But mere unavailing efforts to dispose of the thing purchased do not constitute ratification on the part of a defrauded vendee who has perfected his right to claim a rescission in a court of equity by a timely offer to rescind and tender of the property. Pierce v. Wilson, 34 Ala. 596.

Merely advertising land for sale under a mortgage, after filing a bill to rescind the mortgage for fraud, is not an affirmance of the mortgage, where no attempt to sell under the advertisement was made. Watts v. British, etc., Mortg. Co., 60 Fed. 483, 23 U. S. App. 257, 9 C. C. A. 98.

58. Tarkington v. Purvis, 128 Ind. 182, 25 N. E. 879, 9 L. R. A. 607. See also McLean v. Clark, 47 Ga. 24; McClelland v. McClelland, 176 Ill. 83, 51 N. E. 559; Allen v. Wilmington, etc., R. Co., 106 N. C. 515, 11 S. E. 576, 826; Knutson v. Bostrak, 99 Wis. 469, 75 N. W. 156; Watts v. British, etc., Mortg. Co., 60 Fed. 483, 23 U. S. App. 257, 9 C. C. A. 98.

Such use of property as is necessary to ascertain its defects, or to furnish evidence of fraud, does not evidence a ratification. See infra, III, E, I.

Where subsequent acts are relied upon as a defense in a case where fraud is clearly established, it is said the acts must stand upon the clearest evidence, and must evince a purpose to waive or forgive the fraud, and must amount to a clear election not to rescind. If what is done is merely for the purpose of saving the plaintiff from further loss, without any purpose to give up whatever right he may have either at law or in equity to rescind, the right of rescission will not be affected. Tarkington v. Purvis, 128 Ind. 182, 25 N. E. 879, 9 L. R. A. 607; Montgomery v. Pickering, 116 Mass. 227; Morse v. Royal, 12 Ves. Jr. 355, 8 Rev. Rep. 338.

59. See, generally, EQUITY. See also Dean v. Oliver, 131 Ala. 634, 30 So. 865; Vermilion County Children's Home v. Varner, 192 Ill. 594, 61 N. E. 830; Lewis v. McGrath, 191 Ill. 401, 61 N. E. 135; Edgell v. Smith, 50 W. Va. 349, 40 S. E. 402; De Roux v. Girard, 105 Fed. 798 [affirmed in 112 Fed. 89, 50 C. C. A. 136]; and cases cited infra, note 60 et seq.

60. "Where a party desires to rescind upon the ground of mistake or fraud, he must, upon the discovery of the facts, at once announce his purpose and adhere to it. If he be silent, and continue to treat the property as his own, he will be held to have waived the objection, and will be conclusively bound by the contract, as if the mistake or fraud had not occurred. He is not permitted to play fast and loose. Delay and vacillation are fatal to the right which had before subsisted. These remarks are peculiarly applicable to speculative property like that here in question, which is liable to large and constant fluctuations in value." Grymes v. Sanders, 93 U. S. 55, 23 L. ed. 798 [citing Thomas v. Bartow, 48 N. Y. 193; Minturn v. Main, 7 N. Y. 220; Saratoga, etc., R. Co. v. Row, 24 Wend. (N. Y.) 74, 35 Am. Dec. 598; Lloyd v. Brewster, 4 Paige (N. Y.) 537, 27 Am. Dec. 88; Diman v. Providence, etc., R. Co., 5 R. I. 130]; Campbell v. Fleming, 1 A. & E. 40, 3 L. J. K. B. 136, 3 N. & M. 834, 28 E. C. L. 44; Jennings v. Broughton, 5 De G., M. & G. 126, 23 L. J. Ch. 999, 54 Eng. Ch. 102; Flint v. Woodin, 9 Hare 618, 16 Jur. 719, 41 Eng. Ch. 618]. "It is usually necessary for a party who desires to rescind a contract, to make his application as soon as he discovers the ground of rescission." Ayres v. Mitchell, 3 Sm. & M. (Miss.) 683; Pintard v. Martin, Sm. & M. Ch. (Miss.) 126.

Other cases less empathic in their language establish "reasonable diligence" as the criterion. Gatling v. Newell, 9 Ind. 572; Carroll v. Rice, Walk. (Mich.) 373; Grewing v. Minneapolis Threshing Mach. Co., 12 S. D. 127, 80 N. W. 176.

"The rule of equity is that a man who seeks the aid of the court must assert his claim with reasonable diligence. What is reasonable diligence is not and cannot be defined by any general rule. No precise or definite limit of time can be stated within which the interposition of the court must be sought. What is reasonable time must in a great measure depend upon the exercise of the sound discretion of the court, under the circumstances of each particular case." Sears v. Hicklin, 13 Colo. 143, 21 Pac. 1022 [citing in the opinions of eminent judges which, taken literally, would seem to excuse any delay short of the period of the statute of limitations which has not worked to the prejudice of the defendant.[61] To adopt the language of one of the most learned equity judges of the present day,[62] "Laches, in legal significance, is not mere delay, but delay that works a disadvantage to another. So long as parties are in the same condition, it matters little whether one presses a right promptly or slowly, within limits allowed by law; but when, knowing his rights, he takes no step to enforce them until the condition of the other party has, in good faith, become so changed that he cannot be restored to his former state, if the rights be then enforced, delay becomes inequitable and operates as estoppel against the assertion of the right. The disadvantage may come from loss of evidence, change of title, intervention of equities, and other causes; but when a court sees negligence on one side and injury therefrom on the other it is a ground for denial of Hawley v. Cramer, 4 Cow. (N. Y.) 717; Wade v. Pettibone, 11 Ohio 57, 37 Am. Dec. 408; Piatt v. Vattier, 9 Pet. (U. S.) 405, 9 L. ed. 173]. The court, in the principal case, further says that "the time in which the courts have treated demands as stale varies from four to twenty years, depending upon the character of the case." If this is meant to fix upon four years as the shortest time upon which laches have ever been predicated the accuracy of the statement may be doubted.

Reasonable diligence, whether a question of fact or of law.— In an action to rescind a contract on the ground of fraud, the question whether the offer to rescind was made within a reasonable time after the fraud was discovered is purely a question of law if there is no dispute as to the facts; but is a mixed question of law and fact if the time of the discovery of the fraud is a disputed question. Gatling v. Newell, 9 Ind. 572.

61. See, generally, EQUITY.

62. Stiness, J., in Chase v. Chase, 20 R. I. 202, 203, 204, 37 Atl. 804, where it is also said: "The rule as thus stated is recognized in the following citations: In Wollaston v. Tribe, L. R. 9 Eq. 44, 21 L. T. Rep. N. S. 449, 18 Wkly. Rep. 83, Lord Romilly said: 'Great stress was laid on the lapse of time; but I think nothing of that, because all the persons interested are in the same state now as they were then. If there had been any dealing which had altered the state of matters, that might have raised a question; but there is nothing of the sort.' See also Daggers v. Van Dyck, 37 N. J. Eq. 130. Sir Barnes Peacock said, in Lindsay Petroleum Co. v. Hurd, L. R. 5 P. C. 221, 239: 'The doctrine of laches in courts of equity is not an arbitrary or technical doctrine. Where it would be practically unjust to give a remedy, either because the party has, by his conduct, done that which might fairly be regarded as equivalent to a waiver of it, or where by his conduct and neglect he has, though perhaps not waiving that remedy, yet put the other party in a situation in which it would not be reasonable to place him if the remedy were afterwards to be asserted, in either of these cases, lapse of time and delay are most material.'" "Where, however, an equitable action must be brought, by analogy a court of equity will follow the period fixed in law cases by statute. Peele v. Gurney, L. R. 6 H. L. 377, 43 L. J. Ch. 19, 22 Wkly. Rep. 29. Of course, if the delay in the preservation of the equitable right has involved the other party, by causing an alteration of the status of the parties, which alteration was known to the plaintiff, and he blindly allowed such status interfered with, a court of equity would punish such plaintiff for his want of diligence." Du Pont v. Du Bos, 52 S. C. 244, 252, 29 S. E. 665. "Staleness or laches is founded upon acquiescence in the assertion of adverse rights and unreasonable delay on complainant's part in not asserting her own to the prejudice of the adverse party." Treadwell v. Torbert, 122 Ala. 297, 25 So. 216. "Enactment of statutes of express limitation upon distinctively equitable actions has modified the position of the courts to some extent. In some aspects such statutes absolutely control the court's action, as where the full statutory term has run and the excuses offered are not those recognized by the statute. In other respects such statutes serve to suggest a general policy, or an analogy to which courts of equity yield voluntary compliance. For example, it is not probable that a court would now consider mere lapse of time less than the statutory period sufficient to exclude a suitor if wholly free from any circumstances of negligence or of embarrassment to the defendant. . . . Nevertheless, the proper exercise by a court of equity of its judgment, subject to the limitations above suggested, whether delay with its attendant circumstances is such that a plaintiff ought not to be permitted to invoke its beneficent jurisdiction, is by no means taken away by such statutes." McCann v. Welch, 106 Wis. 142, 149, 81 N. W. 996 [citing Cross v. Bowker, 102 Wis. 497, 78 N. W. 564; Ellis v. Southwestern Land Co., 102 Wis. 400, 78 N. W. 747; Frederick v. Douglas County, 96 Wis. 411, 71 N. W. 798; Coon v. Seymour, 71 Wis. 340, 37 N. W. 243; Pomeroy Eq. Jur. § 419]. See also Great West Min. Co. v. Woodmas, etc., Min. Co., 12 Colo. 46, 20 Pac. 771, 13 Am. St. Rep. 204; Newman v. Newman, 152 Mo. 398, 54 S. W. 19; Bradshaw v. Yates, 67 Mo. 221; Richardson v. Green, 61 Fed. 423, 15 U. S. App. 488, 9 C. C. A. 565.

relief." In whatever language the doctrine of laches, as applied to the remedy of cancellation, may have been expressed, there can be no doubt that relief has been given in spite of unexplained delay on the plaintiff's part, amounting in some cases to several years;[63] and on the other hand that courts have frequently refused relief on the ground of great delay alone, without basing their refusal on the ground of prejudice sustained by the plaintiff's inaction.[64]

2. CHANGE IN RELATIVE POSITION OF PARTIES. Change in the relative condition of the parties resulting from the delay is an element of great weight with the court in determining whether the delay shall be fatal to the plaintiff's suit.[65] Thus relief has been refused where the property received as consideration by the plaintiff, and which he must return to the defendant as a condition precedent to relief, has depreciated in value,[66] or become worthless;[67] or where the value of the property conveyed and sought to be recovered has increased,[68] especially where the

63. Alabama.— Treadwell v. Torbert, 122 Ala. 297, 25 So. 216 (three years); Foster v. Gressett, 29 Ala. 393 (one year).

Colorado.— Sears v. Hicklin, 13 Colo. 143, 21 Pac. 1022 (sixteen months); Great West. Min. Co. v. Woodmas, etc., Min. Co., 12 Colo. 46, 20 Pac. 771, 13 Am. St. Rep. 204; Harker v. Scudder, 15 Colo. App. 69, 61 Pac. 197 (sixteen months).

Georgia.— Carbine v. McCoy, 85 Ga. 185, 11 S. E. 651 (two years); Gardner v. Crockett, 58 Ga. 603 (five years).

Illinois.— Ross v. Payson, 160 Ill. 349, 43 N. E. 399 (eleven years); Ward v. Armstrong, 84 Ill. 151 (one year).

Iowa.— O'Connor v. O'Connor, 100 Iowa 476, 69 N. W. 676, four years.

Maryland.— Canton v. McGraw, 67 Md. 583, 11 Atl. 287 (three years); Highberger v. Stiffler, 21 Md. 338, 83 Am. Dec. 593.

Massachusetts.— Merriam v. Boston, etc., R. Co., 117 Mass. 241, eighteen months.

Michigan.— Tabor v. Michigan Mut. L. Ins. Co., 44 Mich. 324, 6 N. W. 830, two months.

Mississippi.— Bonner v. Bynum, 72 Miss. 442, 18 So. 82; Gilpin v. Smith, 11 Sm. & M. (Miss.) 109, less than two years.

Missouri.— Newman v. Newman, 152 Mo. 398, 54 S. W. 19, delay less than the statutory period.

South Carolina.— Du Pont v. Du Bos, 52 S. C. 244, 29 S. E. 665, fourteen months.

South Dakota.— Grewing v. Minneapolis Threshing Mach. Co., 12 S. D. 127, 80 N. W. 176, five months.

United States.— Allore v. Jewell, 94 U. S. 506, 24 L. ed. 260 (nearly seven years); Northern Pac. R. Co. v. Kindred, 3 McCrary (U. S.) 627, 14 Fed. 77 (three months); Smith v. Babcock, 2 Woodb. & M. (U. S.) 246, 22 Fed. Cas. No. 13,009 (one year after the discovery of the fraud).

England.— Savery v. King, 5 H. L. Cas. 627, 2 Jur. N. S. 503, 25 L. J. Ch. 482, 4 Wkly. Rep. 571 (twelve years); Gresley v. Mousley, 4 De G. & J. 78, 5 Jur. N. S. 583, 28 L. J. Ch. 620, 7 Wkly. Rep. 427, 61 Eng. Ch. 63 (eighteen years).

See 8 Cent. Dig. tit. "Cancellation of Instruments," § 49.

64. Alabama.— Kern v. Burnham, 28 Ala. 428 (five years); Johnson v. Johnson, 5 Ala. 90.

Georgia.— MacIntyre v. Cotton States L. Ins. Co., 82 Ga. 478, 9 S. E. 1124 (fifteen years); Nunn v. Burger, 76 Ga. 705 (nearly twenty years).

Illinois.— Kerfoot v. Billings, 160 Ill. 563, 43 N. E. 804 (seventeen years); Brown v. Brown, 154 Ill. 35, 39 N. E. 983 (seven years); Eberstein v. Willets, 134 Ill. 101, 24 N. E. 967 (three years); Hall v. Fullerton, 69 Ill. 448 (six years).

Indiana.— Valentine v. Wysor, 123 Ind. 47, 23 N. E. 1076, 7 L. R. A. 788, fourteen years.

Louisiana.— Mendelsohn v. Armstrong, 52 La. Ann. 1300, 27 So. 735, nineteen years.

Maryland.— Hewitt's Appeal, 55 Md. 509, ten years.

Michigan.— Earle v. Humphrey, 121 Mich. 518, 80 N. W. 370, two and a half years.

Mississippi.— Jones v. Smith, 33 Miss. 215, three years and eight months.

New York.— Boyer v. East, 161 N. Y. 580, 56 N. E. 114, 76 Am. St. Rep. 290, eight years.

Tennessee.— McDonald v. Allen, 8 Baxt. (Tenn.) 446, three years.

Texas.— Haskins v. Wallet, 63 Tex. 213, fourteen years.

United States.— Rugan v. Sabin, 53 Fed. 415, 10 U. S. App. 519, 3 C. C. A. 578, seven years.

See 8 Cent. Dig. tit. "Cancellation of Instruments," § 49.

65. See cases cited infra, note 66 et seq.

66. Cunningham v. Fithian, 7 Ill. 650 (five years); Carroll v. Rice, Walk. (Mich.) 373; Pintard v. Martin, Sm. & M. Ch. (Miss.) 126; Hudson v. Waugh, 93 Va. 518, 25 S. E. 530.

67. Sears v. Smith, 2 Mich. 243, outlawed note.

68. Goree v. Clements, 94 Ala. 337, 10 So. 906 (six years); Sheffield Land, etc., Co. v. Neill, 87 Ala. 158, 6 So. 1 (two years and seven months); Connely v. Rue, 148 Ill. 207, 35 N. E. 824 (over three years; great rise in value); Hamilton v. Beall, 2 Harr. & J. (Md.) 414 (seven years); Hatch v. Ferguson, 57 Fed. 959 (short delay, but great increase in value).

increase is due to permanent improvements placed upon it by the defendant.[69] Speculative delay is to be discouraged,[70] particularly in the case of property that is subject to great and sudden fluctuations in value.[71]

3. Impairment of Evidence. The death of important witnesses or the loss or impairment of evidence frequently turns the scales in the defendant's favor. After the lapse of considerable time the evidence will be subjected to a severer scrutiny.[72]

4. May Be Excuses For Delay. There may exist an excuse for a delay which would under ordinary circumstances constitute laches.[73] Thus laches cannot be imputed to an infant.[74] Coverture is sometimes held to be an excuse,[75] or at least a fact to be reckoned with.[76] A remainderman, it is said, cannot be guilty of laches during the continuance of the preceding estate, if the statute of limitations

69. Alabama.— Goree v. Clements, 94 Ala. 337, 10 So. 906 (six years); Dent v. Long, 90 Ala. 172, 7 So. 640 (six years).

Illinois.— Speck v. Pullman Palace Car Co., 121 Ill. 33, 12 N. E. 213, over three years.

Michigan.— Sears v. Smith, 2 Mich. 243.

Missouri.— Landrum v. Union Bank, 63 Mo. 48, eight years.

United States.— Cockrill v. Cockrill, 79 Fed. 143 (seven years); Kinne v. Webb, 49 Fed. 512 (seven years); Murphy v. Paynter, 1 Dill. (U. S.) 333, 17 Fed. Cas. No. 9,952 (twelve years).

See 8 Cent. Dig. tit. "Cancellation of Instruments," § 50.

70. Askew v. Hooper, 28 Ala. 634 (thirteen or fourteen years); Lion v. McClory, 106 Cal. 623, 40 Pac. 12 (two years); Chapman v. Wilson, 4 Woods (U. S.) 30, 5 Fed. 305 (nine years).

71. Mineral land, exposed to utmost fluctuations in value. Kinne v. Webb, 49 Fed. 512, seven years.

Defendant's change of position, consequent upon the complainant's delay.— The general principle is well illustrated by the case of Chase v. Chase, 20 R. I. 202, 208, 37 Atl. 804. There a grantor, mentally incompetent, conveyed land in consideration of the grantee's agreement to live with and support the grantor and his wife as long as either should live. The agreement was carried out for sixteen years until the death of the wife, thirteen years after the death of the grantor. A bill brought shortly thereafter by the grantor's heirs to set the conveyance aside was dismissed, because of laches, though complainants offered to pay the grantee for services rendered by him under the contract. It was said: "Clearly an allowance for board, and sewing, and use of carriage, and general and special services and attendance, such as can now be recalled, would fall far short of equitable compensation. We cannot know, indeed we can hardly believe, that the service would have been undertaken on such a basis of payment. Sixteen years is a long part of a man's life to be given to the execution of a contract. What opportunities may have been lost by being tied to one place, and to the care of those who proposed to reward the service in another way, no one can tell. The respondent, Alfred W. Chase, was a school teacher, and this arrangement necessarily narrowed the field in which he could follow his profession," etc.

72. See infra, IX, B, 2. "The suggestion in the brief that the complainant rather than the defendant has been injured by the delay through the death of witnesses, is a begging of the question. We cannot know this: we can only know that there has been delay until of necessity the facts have become obscure or the proof of them lost; but whether this would tend to the prejudice of one party rather than the other is matter of conjecture merely. It is sufficient to justify a denial of relief that the moving party is responsible for the delay." Cooley, C. J., in Haff v. Haff, 54 Mich. 511, 513, 20 N. W. 563. See also Haff v. Haff, 54 Mich. 511, 20 N. W. 563 (twelve years); Lafferty v. Lafferty, 42 W. Va. 783, 26 S. E. 262; McCann v. Welch, 106 Wis. 142, 81 N. W. 996; Cockrill v. Cockrill, 79 Fed. 143 (seven years); Chapman v. Wilson, 4 Woods (U. S.) 30, 5 Fed. 305 (nine years).

73. See cases cited infra, note 74 et seq.

Failure on the part of stock-holders to bring suit to have certain illegal issues of bonds canceled until nearly twelve years had elapsed since the illegal issue of the bonds does not amount to laches, where in the meantime the railroad company had no assets, the bonds had never in the meantime been asserted against the company, and the project of building the road had utterly fallen through. Chicago v. Cameron, 120 Ill. 447, 11 N. E. 899.

In a suit to set aside a will as a forgery (in a state where the validity of the will cannot be contested in probate proceedings), laches cannot be imputed to the plaintiff until the will is probated. Richardson v. Green, 61 Fed. 423, 15 U. S. App. 488, 9 C. C. A. 565.

74. Sims v. Snyder, 86 Ind. 602; Sims v. Bardoner, 86 Ind. 87, 44 Am. Rep. 263; Kroenung v. Grehri, 112 Mo. 641, 20 S. W. 661. See, generally, Infants.

75. Sims v. Snyder, 86 Ind. 602; Sims v. Bardoner, 86 Ind. 87, 44 Am. Rep. 263. See, generally, Husband and Wife.

76. Merriam v. Boston, etc., R. Co., 117 Mass. 241.

does not run against him.[77] In an action to set aside a deed made between parties standing in a confidential relation with each other, the defense of laches is not usually regarded with favor.[78] On the other hand the fact that the parties are near relatives and have desired to avoid family quarrels does not excuse a protracted delay.[79] The complainant's poverty and inability to secure the service of counsel is no excuse,[80] nor the fact that he is a habitual drunkard, if in his sober intervals he possesses sufficient mind to understand his rights and move for their enforcement.[81] Continual assertion of a claim, unaccompanied by any act to give effect to it, will not keep alive a right which would otherwise be barred by laches;[82] but laches, it seems, is not attributable to a grantor who remains in possession.[83]

5. Statute of Limitations. The analogy of the statute of limitations applicable to the corresponding legal remedy is generally followed in fixing the time in excess of which delay will not be excused.[84] In many states the statutes of limitations expressly apply to actions in equity.[85] The question has frequently arisen whether, when the effect of the decree would be to restore the possession of land to the complainant, the action for cancellation is governed by the statute of limitations applicable to actions for the recovery of real property.[86]

D. Where Original Duress Is Continued. Where the ground of relief is

77. Borders v. Hodges, 154 Ill. 498, 39 N. E. 597, referring to Ill. Rev. Stat. c. 83, § 3.

78. Ross v. Payson, 160 Ill. 349, 43 N. E. 399, eleven years' delay. See also Sears v. Hicklin, 13 Colo. 143, 21 Pac. 1022; Gardner v. Crockett, 58 Ga. 603.

79. Haff v. Haff, 54 Mich. 511, 20 N. W. 563. In Hemphill v. Holford, 88 Mich. 293, 50 N. W. 300, however, it was held that the children of a grantor were not guilty of laches in waiting until his death before attacking his conveyance on the ground of his incompetency instead of having his incompetency adjudged before his death. See also, to the same effect, Ring v. Lawless, 190 Ill. 520, 60 N. E. 881.

80. Lumley v. Wabash R. Co., 71 Fed. 21, three and a half years.

81. Wright v. Fisher, 65 Mich. 275, 32 N. W. 605, 8 Am. St. Rep. 886, twenty years.

82. Kerfoot v. Billings, 160 Ill. 563, 43 N. E. 804.

83. Treadwell v. Torbert, 122 Ala. 297, 25 So. 216, three years.

84. Scruggs v. Decatur Mineral, etc., Co., 86 Ala. 173, 5 So. 440; Askew v. Hooper, 28 Ala. 634; Davis v. Tarwater, 15 Ark. 286; Valentine v. Wysor, 123 Ind. 47, 23 N. E. 1076, 7 L. R. A. 788, and supra, cases cited note 62.

Federal courts sitting in equity adopt the statute of limitations of the state. Rugan v. Sabin, 53 Fed. 415, 10 U. S. App. 519, 3 C. C. A. 578. See, generally, Limitations of Actions.

85. California.— Castro v. Geil, 110 Cal. 292, 42 Pac. 804, 52 Am. St. Rep. 84.

Colorado.— Walker v. Pogue, 2 Colo. App. 149, 29 Pac. 1017.

Kentucky.— Woods v. James, 87 Ky. 511, 9 S. W. 513; Carneals v. Parker, 7 J. J. Marsh. (Ky.) 455.

Missouri.—Barrett v. Allegheny Nat. Bank, 6 Mo. App. 317.

New York.— Sears v. Shafer, 6 N. Y. 268 [affirming 1 Barb. (N. Y.) 408].

South Carolina.—Brown v. Brown, 44 S. C. 378, 22 S. E. 412; Kibler v. McIlwain, 16 S. C. 550; Shannon v. White, 6 Rich. Eq. (S. C.) 96, 60 Am. Dec. 115.

Texas.— Cooper v. Lee, 1 Tex. Civ. App. 9, 21 S. W. 998.

See 8 Cent. Dig. tit. "Cancellation of Instruments," § 54; and, generally, Limitations of Actions.

Against remaindermen.— The statute of limitations, it has been held, does not run against a remainderman during the continuance of the life-estate. McCann v. Welch, 106 Wis. 142, 81 N. W. 996.

86. Holding that the suit is one for recovery of real property see Oakland v. Carpentier, 13 Cal. 540; Barrett v. Allegheny Nat. Bank, 6 Mo. App. 317.

Contra.— McMillan v. Cheeney, 30 Minn. 519, 16 N. W. 404; Morgan v. Morgan, 10 Wash. 99, 38 Pac. 1054.

An action to remove a cloud on title, brought by one in possession of the land, is not an action "to procure a judgment other than for a sum of money on the ground of fraud," under N. Y. Code Civ. Proc. § 382, subd. 5. Schoener v. Lissauer, 107 N. Y. 111, 13 N. E. 741 [reversing 36 Hun (N. Y.) 100].

An action to set aside a tax-deed taken by one who was under obligation to the plaintiff to pay the taxes is an action for relief on the ground of fraud, under Kan. Code, § 18, subd. 3. Doyle v. Doyle, 33 Kan. 721, 7 Pac. 615.

A suit to set aside a deed executed in payment of a gaming loss is not affected by a statute limiting the time for bringing actions to recover specific property lost and delivered in a gaming transaction, as such statute applies only to legal actions. Johnson v. Cooper, 2 Yerg. (Tenn.) 523, 24 Am. Dec. 502.

duress or undue influence, so long as the original pressure continues, the conduct of the plaintiff cannot be construed against him as a confirmation or as acquiescence,[87] nor can laches be imputed to him because of his delay in moving to set aside the transaction.[88]

E. With Respect to Knowledge of the Facts — 1. As Affecting Laches or Ratification. No act of a party will amount to a confirmation of a fraudulent transaction, or acquiescence therein, unless done with full knowledge of the fraud[89] and while he is free from its influence.[90] The plaintiff's ignorance of his rights also, as a general rule, negatives any laches on his part,[91] but this rule is subject to the principle that notice of acts and circumstances which would put a man of ordinary prudence and intelligence on inquiry is, in the eye of the law, equivalent to knowledge of all the facts a reasonably diligent inquiry would disclose.[92] A

87. Gowland v. De Faria, 17 Ves. Jr. 20, 25, 11 Rev. Rep. 9, where it is said: "There is I believe no case, in which during the continuance of the same situation, in which the party entered into the contract, acquiescence has ever gone for any thing: it has always been presumed, that the same distress which pressed him to enter into the contract, prevented him from coming to set it aside; that it is only when he is relieved from that distress that he can be expected to resist the performance of the contract." See also Thompson v. Lee, 31 Ala. 292; Thompson v. Thompson, 132 Ind. 288, 31 N. E. 529; McClure v. Lewis, 72 Mo. 314.

Thus where a wife, under the coercion of her husband, made a deed to her step-son, the fact that nothing was said or done about the matter for three years after, during which she continued to live with her husband as a dutiful wife, does not amount to a ratification. Thompson v. Thompson, 132 Ind. 288, 31 N. E. 529.

88. Bell v. Campbell, 123 Mo. 1, 25 S. W. 359, 45 Am. St. Rep. 505; Bradshaw v. Yates, 67 Mo. 221.

It seems that in New York the continuance of the undue influence does not prolong the time of running of the statute of limitations, as undue influence is not one of the disabilities mentioned by the statute as having this effect. Piper v. Hoard, 65 How. Pr. (N. Y.) 228.

89. Alabama.— Baker v. Maxwell, 99 Ala. 558, 14 So. 468.

Kentucky.— Carr v. Callaghan, 3 Litt. (Ky.) 365.

New York.— Wager v. Reid, 3 Thomps. & C. (N. Y.) 332; Cohen v. Ellis, 16 Abb. N. Cas. (N. Y.) 320.

Virginia.—Broddus v. McCall, 3 Call (Va.) 546.

United States.—Pence v. Langdon, 99 U. S. 578, 25 L. ed. 420; Mudsill Min. Co. v. Watrous, 61 Fed. 163, 22 U. S. App. 12, 9 C. C. A. 415.

England.— Savery v. King, 5 H. L. Cas. 627, 2 Jur. N. S. 503, 25 L. J. Ch. 482, 4 Wkly. Rep. 571.

See 8 Cent. Dig. tit. "Cancellation of Instruments," §§ 27, 53.

90. McLean v. Clark, 47 Ga. 24; Montgomery v. Pickering, 116 Mass. 227.

91. Sutherland v. Reeve, 151 Ill. 384, 38 N. E. 130; Whitridge v. Whitridge, 76 Md. 54, 24 Atl. 645; Pence v. Langdon, 99 U. S. 578, 25 L. ed. 420; Mudsill Min. Co. v. Watrous, 61 Fed. 163, 22 U. S. App. 12, 9 C. C. A. 415; Rawlins v. Wickham, 3 De G. & J. 304, 5 Jur. N. S. 278, 28 L. J. Ch. 188, 7 Wkly. Rep. 145, 60 Eng. Ch. 237. See also Pinkston v. Boykin, 130 Ala. 483, 30 So. 398.

92. Alabama.— Yeates v. Pryor, 11 Ark. 58.

Georgia.— De Give v. Healey, 60 Ga. 391.

Indiana.— Patten v. Stewart, 24 Ind. 332; Parks v. Evansville, etc., R. Co., 23 Ind. 567; Barton v. Simmons, 14 Ind. 49.

United States.— Scheftel v. Hays, 58 Fed. 457, 19 U. S. App. 220, 7 C. C. A. 308; Farrar v. Walker, 3 Dill. (U. S.) 506 note, 8 Fed. Cas. No. 4,679, 2 Centr. L. J. 670, 13 Nat. Bankr. Reg. 82, 1 N. Y. Wkly. Dig. 229.

England.— Rawlins v. Wickham, 3 De G. & J. 304, 5 Jur. N. S. 278, 28 L. J. Ch. 188, 7 Wkly. Rep. 145, 60 Eng. Ch. 237.

See 8 Cent. Dig. tit. "Cancellation of Instruments," §§ 27, 53.

Illustrations.— Thus, the failure of vendee for eight years to examine his title, although the records were easily accessible, is a lack of reasonable diligence, showing acquiescence in a fraudulent representation as to his title. Patten v. Stewart, 24 Ind. 332. A defrauded vendee who has received notice sufficient to put him on guard cannot evade the duty of speedy and diligent inquiry by merely calling on the chief perpetrator to reiterate or prove his false statements. Scheftel v. Hays, 58 Fed. 457, 19 U. S. App. 220, 7 C. C. A. 308. Where a person was induced by the false and fraudulent representations of the officers to take stock in a corporation two years before its bankruptcy, for which he gave in payment his note secured by deed of trust on real estate, and during that period made no inquiry as to the true condition of the corporation, but suffered his note to be held out to the public as an asset of the corporation, the lapse of time is too long to allow the fraud to be pleaded against the creditors of the corporation, as represented by the assignee in bankruptcy, in avoidance of the obligation expressed in the note. Farrar v. Walker, 3 Dill. 506 note, 8 Fed. Cas. No. 4,679, 2 Centr. L. J. 670, 13 Nat. Bankr. Reg. 82, 1 N. Y. Wkly. Dig. 229.

As to what constitutes reasonable diligence in the pursuit of inquiries see Hopkins v. Snedaker, 71 Ill. 449; Whitridge v. Whitreasonable time is allowed the plaintiff for the purpose of making inquiries and taking advice of counsel,[93] and for experiment to ascertain whether the representations are true;[94] and a vendee's dealing with the property for the mere purpose of verifying his suspicions of fraud, and learning facts which would justify a demand for rescission, does not constitute an acquiescence or waiver so as to defeat rescission.[95]

2. As Affecting Running of the Statute of Limitations. Statutes of limitation, in cases of fraud, do not begin to run until the discovery of the fraud,[96] or, at least, until the receipt of information by the plaintiff which would enable him by the exercise of ordinary diligence to discover the fraud.[97]

IV. PERFORMANCE AND RESTITUTION BY COMPLAINANT.

A. Complainant's Performance. Where rescission of a contract is sought on the ground of defendant's non-performance, it will not generally be granted unless plaintiff has done, or shown himself ready to do, all that he stipulated to do under the contract.[98]

B. Restoration of the Status Quo — 1. In General. As a condition to his obtaining relief, complainant must, as a general rule, restore defendant as far as possible to the position which he occupied before the transaction which is sought to be rescinded.[99] The remedy of cancellation, like other forms of equitable relief, is subject to the maxim: "He who seeks equity must do equity."

ridge, 76 Md. 54, 24 Atl. 645; Pairo v. Vickery, 37 Md. 467; Baker v. Lever, 67 N. Y. 304, 309, 23 Am. Rep. 117 [affirming 5 Hun (N. Y.) 114], where it is said: "It might well be that opportunities to ascertain the fraud would be of no avail to a person unfamiliar with the business transactions of corporations, as was probably the fact here, and the authorities do not hold that a mere want of diligence without knowledge of the fraud is sufficient to deprive a party of his legal right to rescind a fraudulent contract."

Discovery of new features of the fraud does not revive a right to rescind which has once been waived. Taylor v. Short, 107 Mo. 384, 17 S. W. 970; Campbell v. Fleming, 1 A. & E. 40, 3 L. J. K. B. 136, 3 N. & M. 834, 28 E. C. L. 44; Fry Spec. Perf. §§ 703, 704.

93. Du Pont v. Du Bos, 52 S. C. 244, 29 S. E. 665; Erlanger v. New Sombrero Phosphate Co., 3 App. Cas. 1218, 39 L. T. Rep. N. S. 269, 26 Wkly. Rep. 65.

94. Taylor v. Fleet, 1 Barb. (N. Y.) 471.

95. Mudsill Min. Co. v. Watrous, 61 Fed. 163, 22 U. S. App. 12, 9 C. C. A. 415. In this case complainant purchased a silver mine from defendant and afterward discovered that the samples by which he had been induced to purchase had been "salted." He at once requested defendant to take the property back, but he refused to do so. Complainant then erected a small mill in order to make more complete tests of the quality of the ore, and also sought to discover evidence to convict defendant of the "salting." He did not reach conviction on this point until a year after the sale was consummated, and then at once filed a bill for rescission. It was held that he had not waived his right to rescind, and was not guilty of laches.

96. Crowther v. Rowlandson, 27 Cal. 376.

See also, generally, Limitations of Actions.

In a few states the statute also provides an absolute bar, in a specified number of years after the act complained of. See Packard v. Beaver Valley Land, etc., Co., 96 Ky. 249, 16 Ky. L. Rep. 451, 28 S. W. 779.

97. Alabama.— Scruggs v. Decatur Mineral, etc., Co., 86 Ala. 173, 5 So. 440.

Kentucky.— Woods v. James, 87 Ky. 511, 10 Ky. L. Rep. 531, 9 S. W. 513.

South Carolina.— Brown v. Brown, 44 S. C. 378, 22 S. E. 412; Shannon v. White, 6 Rich Eq. (S. C.) 96, 60 Am. Dec. 115.

Tennessee.— Peck v. Bullard, 2 Humphr. (Tenn.) 41.

Texas.— Cooper v. Lee, 1 Tex. Civ. App. 9, 21 S. W. 998.

See also, generally, Limitations of Actions.

98. Duncan v. Jeter, 5 Ala. 604, 39 Am. Dec. 342; Hester v. Hooker, 7 Sm. & M. (Miss.) 768; Mitchell v. Sherman, Freem. (Miss.) 120; Pryor v. Hunter, 31 Nebr. 678, 48 N. W. 736.

Contra.—Buchanan v. Lorman, 3 Gill (Md.) 51, vendee asking rescission for failure of title need not offer payment.

99. Alabama.—Loxley v. Douglas, 121 Ala. 575, 25 So. 998; George v. New England Mortg. Security Co., 109 Ala. 548, 20 So. 331; Ross v. New England Mortg. Security Co., 101 Ala. 362, 13 So. 564; Grider v. American Freehold Land Mortg. Co., 99 Ala. 281, 12 So. 775, 42 Am. St. Rep. 58; New England Mortg. Security Co. v. Powell, 97 Ala. 483, 12 So. 55; American Freehold Land, etc., Co. v. Sewell, 92 Ala. 163, 9 So. 143, 13 L. R. A. 299; Orendorff v. Tallman, 90 Ala. 441, 7 So. 821; Thompson v. Sheppard, 85 Ala. 611, 5 So. 334; Ellis v. Ellis, 84 Ala. 348, 4 So. 868; Miller v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., 83 Ala. 274, 4 So. 842, 3 Am. St. Rep. 722; Martin v. Martin, 35 Ala. 560; Garner v. Leverett, 32 Ala. 410; Bailey v. Jordan, 32 Ala. 50; Foster v.

2. When Complete Restoration Is Impossible. If by the act of the fraudulent party complete restoration is made impossible, "if he has so entangled himself in Gressett, 29 Ala. 393; Read v. Walker, 18 Ala. 323; Parks v. Brooks, 16 Ala. 529; Elliott v. Boaz, 9 Ala. 772; Duncan v. Jeter, 5 Ala. 604, 39 Am. Dec. 342; Kennedy v. Kennedy, 2 Ala. 571.

Arkansas.— Buckner v. Pacific, etc., R. Co., 53 Ark. 16, 13 S. W. 332; Bozeman v. Browning, 31 Ark. 364; Freeman v. Reagan, 26 Ark. 373; Johnson v. Walker, 25 Ark. 196; Davis v. Tarwater, 15 Ark. 286; Bennett v. Owen, 13 Ark. 177; Byers v. Fowler, 12 Ark. 218, 54 Am. Dec. 271.

California.— Larkin v. Mullen, 128 Cal. 449, 60 Pac. 1091; Barry v. St. Joseph's Hospital, etc., (Cal. 1897) 48 Pac. 68; Buena Vista Fruit, etc., Co. v. Tuohy, 107 Cal. 243, 40 Pac. 386; Freeman v. Kieffer, 101 Cal. 254, 35 Pac. 767; Fountain v. Semitropic Land, etc., Co., 99 Cal. 677, 34 Pac. 497; Goodrich v. Lathrop, 94 Cal. 56, 29 Pac. 329, 28 Am. St. Rep. 91; Hick v. Thomas, 90 Cal. 289, 27 Pac. 208, 376; More v. Calkins, 85 Cal. 177, 24 Pac. 729; Wilson v. Moriarty, 77 Cal. 596, 20 Pac. 134; Potter v. Roeth, (Cal. 1885) 7 Pac. 762; Herman v. Haffenegger, 54 Cal. 161; Oakland v. Carpentier, 21 Cal. 642; Watts v. White, 13 Cal. 321.

Colorado.— Elder v. Schumacher, 18 Colo. 433, 33 Pac. 175 (dissenting opinion); Pershing v. Wolfe, 6 Colo. App. 410, 40 Pac. 856; Travelers' Ins. Co. v. Redfield, 6 Colo. App. 190, 40 Pac. 195; Godding v. Decker, 3 Colo. App. 198, 32 Pac. 832.

Connecticut.— Penfield v. Penfield, 41 Conn. 474; Ashmead v. Colby, 26 Conn. 287.

Georgia.— Bowden v. Achor, 95 Ga. 243; 22 S. E. 254; Dotterer v. Freeman, 88 Ga. 479, 14 S. E. 863; Macon v. Huff, 60 Ga. 221; Miller v. Cotten, 5 Ga. 341; Coffee v. Newsom, 2 Ga. 442.

Illinois.— Wenegar v. Bollenbach, 180 Ill. 222, 54 N. E. 192; Franklin v. Walker, 171 Ill. 405, 49 N. E. 556; McParland v. Larkin, 155 Ill. 84, 39 N. E. 609; Rigdon v. Walcott, 141 Ill. 649, 31 N. E. 158; Rogers v. Rogers, 141 Ill. 226, 30 N. E. 542; Dillman v. Nadlehoffer, 119 Ill. 567, 7 N. E. 88; Strong v. Lord, 107 Ill. 25; Stone v. Wood, 85 Ill. 603; Wickiser v. Cook, 85 Ill. 68; Oard v. Oard, 59 Ill. 46; Underwood v. West, 52 Ill. 397; Miller v. Whittaker, 23 Ill. 400; Edmunds v. Myers, 16 Ill. 207; Duncan v. Humphries, 58 Ill. App. 440. See also O'Connell v. O'Conor, 191 Ill. 215, 60 N. E. 1063.

Indiana.— Thrash v. Starbuck, 145 Ind. 673, 44 N. E. 543; Cree v. Sherfy, 138 Ind. 354, 37 N. E. 787; Hormann v. Hartmetz, 128 Ind. 353, 27 N. E. 731; Tarkington v. Purvis, 128 Ind. 182, 25 N. E. 879, 9 L. R. A. 607; Peck v. Vinson, 124 Ind. 121, 24 N. E. 726; Westhafer v. Patterson, 120 Ind. 459, 22 N. E. 414, 16 Am. St. Rep. 330; Bengett v. Teal, 91 Ind. 260; Fulwider v. Ingels, 87 Ind. 414; Vance v. Schroyer, 79 Ind. 380; Axtel v. Chase, 77 Ind. 74; Martin v. Bolton, 75 Ind. 295; Watson Coal, etc., Co. v. Casteel, 68 Ind. 476; Johnson v. Cookerly, 33 Ind. 151; Patten v. Stewart, 24 Ind. 332; Parks v. Evansville, etc., R. Co., 23 Ind. 567; Teter v. Hinders, 19 Ind. 93; Shepherd v. Fisher, 17 Ind. 229; Gatling v. Newell, 9 Ind. 572; Colson v. Smith, 9 Ind. 8; Osborn v. Dodd, 8 Blackf. (Ind.) 467; Shaeffer v. Sleade, 7 Blackf. (Ind.) 178; Long v. Johnson, 15 Ind. App. 498, 44 N. E. 552; Norris v. Scott, 6 Ind. App. 18, 32 N. E. 103.

Iowa.— Hale v. Kobbert, 109 Iowa 128, 80 N. W. 308; Jackson v. Lynan, 94 Iowa 151, 62 N. W. 704, 58 Am. St. Rep. 386; McCorkell v. Karhoff, 90 Iowa 545, 58 N. W. 913; Seymour v. Shea, 62 Iowa 708, 16 N. W. 196; Stringer v. Keokuk, etc., R. Co., 59 Iowa 277, 13 N. W. 308; Ashcraft v. De Armond, 44 Iowa 229; Mitchell v. Moore, 24 Iowa 394; Corbit v. Smith, 7 Iowa 60, 71 Am. Dec. 431; Rynear v. Neilin, 3 Greene (Iowa) 310. See also Harkness v. Cleaves, 113 Iowa 140, 84 N. W. 1033.

Kansas.— Thayer v. Knote, 59 Kan. 181, 52 Pac. 433; State v. Williams, 39 Kan. 517, 18 Pac. 727; Gribben v. Maxwell, 34 Kan. 8, 7 Pac. 584, 55 Am. Rep. 233; Jeffers v. Forbes, 28 Kan. 174; Burlington Tp. v. Cross, 15 Kan. 74.

Kentucky.— Halley v. Winchester Diamond Lodge, 97 Ky. 438, 17 Ky. L. Rep. 293, 30 S. W. 999; Mosely v. Miller, 13 Bush (Ky.) 408; Barbour v. Morris, 6 B. Mon. (Ky.) 120; Keltner v. Keltner, 6 B. Mon. (Ky.) 40; Abel v. Cave, 3 B. Mon. (Ky.) 159; Sneed v. Waring, 2 B. Mon. (Ky.) 522; Slaughter v. Huling, 4 Dana (Ky.) 424; Williams v. Wilson, 1 Dana (Ky.) 157; Edwards v. Hanna, 5 J. J. Marsh. (Ky.) 18; Davis v. James, 4 J. J. Marsh. (Ky.) 8; Tennell v. Roberts, 2 J. J Marsh. (Ky.) 577; Camplin v. Burton, 2 J. J. Marsh. (Ky.) 216; Tibbs v. Timberlake, 4 Litt. (Ky.) 12; Clay v. Turner, 3 Bibb (Ky.) 52; Gray v. Shaw, 17 Ky. L. Rep. 61, 30 S. W. 402; Brill v. Rack, 15 Ky. L. Rep. 383, 23 S. W. 511; Anderson v. McDaniel, 15 Ky. L. Rep. 151, 22 S. W. 647; Worthington v. Campbell, 8 Ky. L. Rep. 416, 1 S. W. 714.

Louisiana.— Bryant v. Stothart, 46 La. Ann. 485, 15 So. 76; Ackerman v. McShane, 43 La. Ann. 507, 9 So. 483; West Carroll v. Gaddis, 34 La. Ann. 928; Blake v. Nelson, 29 La. Ann. 245; Stewart v. Presley, 22 La. Ann. 514; Lee v. Taylor, 21 La. Ann. 514; Latham v. Hicky, 21 La. Ann. 425; Millard v. Farley, 15 La. Ann. 518; McDonald v. Vaughan, 14 La. Ann. 716; Matta v. Henderson, 14 La. Ann. 473; Thompson v. Kilcrease, 14 La. Ann. 340; Simon v. Burnett, 8 La. Ann. 84; Tippett v. Jett, 3 Rob. (La.) 313; Walden v. New Orleans City Bank, 2 Rob. (La.) 165.

Maine.— Chase v. Hinckley, 74 Me. 181.

Maryland.— Linthicum v. Thomas, 59 Md. 574; Smith v. Townshend, 27 Md. 368, 92 Am. Dec. 637; Cumberland Coal, etc., Co. v.

the meshes of his own knavish plot that the defrauded party cannot unloose him,"

Sherman, 20 Md. 117; Long v. Long, 9 Md. 348; Griffith v. Frederick County Bank, 6 Gill & J. (Md.) 424.

Massachusetts.—Thomas v. Beals, 154 Mass. 51, 27 N. E. 1004.

Michigan.— Jandorf v. Patterson, 90 Mich. 40, 51 N. W. 352; Gates v. Cornett, 72 Mich. 420, 40 N. W. 740; Place v. Brown, 37 Mich. 575; Hanold v. Bacon, 36 Mich. 1.

Minnesota.— Nelson v. Carlson, 54 Minn. 90, 55 N. W. 821; Knappen v. Freeman, 47 Minn. 491, 50 N. W. 533.

Mississippi.— Powell v. Plant, (Miss. 1898) 23 So. 399; American Freehold Land, etc., Co. v. Jefferson, 69 Miss. 770, 12 So. 464, 30 Am. St. Rep. 587; Watts v. Bonner, 66 Miss. 629, 6 So. 187; Brown v. Norman, 65 Miss. 369, 4 So. 293, 7 Am. St. Rep. 663; Bowdre v. Carter, 64 Miss. 221, 1 So. 162; Deans v. Robertson, 64 Miss. 195, 1 So. 159; Hanson v. Field, 41 Miss. 712; Ezelle v. Parker, 41 Miss. 520; Shipp v. Wheeless, 33 Miss. 646; White v. Trotter, 14 Sm. & M. (Miss.) 30, 53 Am. Dec. 112; Martin v. Broadus, Freem. (Miss.) 35.

Missouri.— McKenzie v. Donnell, 151 Mo. 431, 52 S. W. 214; Bell v. Campbell, 123 Mo. 1, 25 S. W. 359, 45 Am. St. Rep. 505; Blount v. Spratt, 113 Mo. 48, 20 St. W. 967; Sayer v. Devore, 99 Mo. 437, 13 S. W. 201; McClure v. Lewis, 72 Mo. 314.

Montana.— Waite v. Vinson, 14 Mont. 405, 36 Pac. 828; Maloy v. Berkin, 11 Mont. 138, 27 Pac. 442.

Nebraska.— Miller v. Gunderson, 48 Nebr. 715, 67 N. W. 769.

New Hampshire.— Sanborn v. Batchelder, 51 N. H. 426.

New Jersey.— Eaton v. Eaton, 37 N. J. L. 108, 18 Am. Rep. 716; Pidcock v. Swift, 51 N. J. Eq. 405, 27 Atl. 470; Henninger v. Heald, 51 N. J. Eq. 74, 26 Atl. 449, 52 N. J. Eq. 431, 29 Atl. 190; Crandall v. Grow, 41 N. J. Eq. 482, 5 Atl. 136; Thornton v. Ogden, 41 N. J. Eq. 345, 7 Atl. 619; Alexander v. Berney, 28 N. J. Eq. 90; Warnock v. Campbell, 25 N. J. Eq. 485.

New York.— Alexander v. Donohoe, 143 N. Y. 203, 38 N. E. 263, 62 N. Y. St. 153; Kley v. Healy, 127 N. Y. 555, 28 N. E. 593, 40 N. Y. St. 215; Graham v. Meyer, 99 N. Y. 611, 1 N. E. 143; Bissell v. Kellogg, 65 N. Y. 432; Venice v. Woodruff, 62 N. Y. 462, 20 Am. Rep. 495; Hammond v. Pennock, 61 N. Y. 145; Mumford v. American Ins., etc., Co., 4 N. Y. 463; Littlejohn v. Leffingwell, 40 N. Y. App. Div. 13, 57 N. Y. Suppl. 839; Daiker v. Strelinger, 28 N. Y. App. Div. 220, 50 N. Y. Suppl. 1074; Reynolds v. Westchester F. Ins. Co., 8 N. Y. App. Div. 193, 40 N. Y. Suppl. 336; Weill v. Malone, 91 Hun (N. Y.) 261, 36 N. Y. Suppl. 114, 71 N. Y. St. 62; Hay v. Hay, 13 Hun (N. Y.) 315; Wilson v. Lawrence, 8 Hun (N. Y.) 593; Bedell v. Bedell, 3 Hun (N. Y.) 580, 6 Thomps. & C. (N. Y.) 324; Bissell v. Kellogg, 60 Barb. (N. Y.) 617; Gillet v. Moody, 5 Barb. (N. Y.) 185; Bruen v. Hone, 2 Barb. (N. Y.) 586; Metropolitan El. R. Co. v. Manhattan El. R. Co., 11 Daly (N. Y.) 373, 14 Abb. N. Cas. (N. Y.) 103; Smith v. Howlett, 21 Misc. (N. Y.) 386, 47 N. Y. Suppl. 1002; Mason v. Wheeler, 2 Misc. (N. Y.) 523, 24 N. Y. Suppl. 879; Spencer v. Clark, 1 N. Y. Suppl. 533, 15 N. Y. St. 949; Francis v. New York, etc., El. R. Co., 17 Abb. N. Cas. (N. Y.) 1; Cohen v. Ellis, 16 Abb. N. Cas. (N. Y.) 320; Beecher v. Ackerman, 1 Abb. Pr. N. S. (N. Y.) 141; McDonald v. Neilson, 2 Cow. (N. Y.) 139, 14 Am. Dec. 431.

Ohio.— Columbus, etc., R. Co. v. Steinfeld, 42 Ohio St. 449; Waters v. Lemmon, 4 Ohio 229.

Oklahoma.— Ellison v. Beannabia, 4 Okla. 347, 46 Pac. 477; Day v. Mooney, 3 Okla. 608, 41 Pac. 142.

Oregon.— State v. Blize, 37 Oreg. 404, 61 Pac. 735.

Pennsylvania.— Bird's Appeal, 91 Pa. St. 68; Bell v. Hartman, 9 Phila. (Pa.) 1, 29 Leg. Int. (Pa.) 44.

South Carolina.— Du Pont v. Du Bos, 52 S. C. 244, 29 S. E. 665; McKenzie v. Sifford, 52 S. C. 104, 29 S. E. 388; Adams v. Kibler, 7 S. C. 47.

South Dakota.— Lovell v. McCaughey, 8 S. D. 471, 66 N. W. 1085.

Tennessee.— Cox v. Building, etc., Assoc., 101 Tenn. 490, 48 S. W. 226; Wright v. Dufield, 2 Baxt. (Tenn.) 218; Smithson v. Inman, 2 Baxt. (Tenn.) 88; Wiley v. Heidell, 12 Heisk. (Tenn.) 98; Coffee v. Ruffin, 4 Coldw. (Tenn.) 487; Coppedge v. Threadgill, 3 Sneed (Tenn.) 577; Work v. Walker, 1 Tenn. Ch. 487. See also Palmer v. Bosley, (Tenn. Ch. 1900) 62 S. W. 195.

Texas.— Folts v. Ferguson, 77 Tex. 301, 13 S. W. 1037; Chaney v. Coleman, 77 Tex. 100, 13 S. W. 850; Moore v. Giesecke, 76 Tex. 543, 13 S. W. 290; Stewart v. Houston, etc., R. Co., 62 Tex. 246; Coddington v. Wells, 59 Tex. 49; Terrill v. Dewitt, 20 Tex. 256; Hatch v. Garza, 7 Tex. 60; Wells v. Houston, 23 Tex. Civ. App. 629, 57 S. W. 584; Davis v. Van Wie, (Tex. Civ. App. 1894) 30 S. W. 492; Teague v. Williams, 6 Tex. Civ. App. 468, 25 S. W. 1048; Garza v. Scott, 5 Tex. Civ. App. 289, 24 S. W. 89; Dawson v. Sparks, 1 Tex. Unrep. Cas. 735.

Utah.— Adams v. Reed, 11 Utah 480, 40 Pac. 720; Kelly v. Kershaw, 5 Utah 295, 14 Pac. 804.

Virginia.— Nalle v. Virginia Midland R. Co., 88 Va. 948, 14 S. E. 759; Walker v. Beauchler, 27 Gratt. (Va.) 511.

West Virginia.— Christian v. Vance, 41 W. Va. 754, 24 S. E. 596; Worthington v. Collins, 39 W. Va. 406, 19 S. E. 527.

Wisconsin.— Prickett v. Muck, 74 Wis. 199, 42 N. W. 256; O'Dell v. Burnham, 61 Wis. 562, 21 N. W. 635; Rietz v. Foeste, 30 Wis. 693; Hollenback v. Shoyer, 16 Wis. 499.

United States.— Thackrah v. Haas, 119 U. S. 499, 7 S. Ct. 311, 30 L. ed. 486; Neb-the equitable remedy will not thereby be defeated;[1] but if cancellation is sought on other grounds than that of fraud, a change of defendant's situation which prevents a restoration of the status quo as to him will also prevent complainant's success.[2]

3. When Consideration Is Valueless. The consideration, as a general rule, need not be returned or tendered when it is of no value[3] at the time of bringing suit.[4]

lett v. Macfarland, 92 U. S. 101, 23 L. ed. 471; Harding v. Handy, 11 Wheat. (U. S.) 103, 6 L. ed. 429; Reeves v. Corning, 51 Fed. 774; Billings v. Aspen Min., etc., Co., 51 Fed. 338, 10 U. S. App. 1, 2 C. C. A. 252; Courtright v. Burnes, 48 Fed. 501; Gross v. George W. Scott Mfg. Co., 48 Fed. 35; New Castle Northern R. Co. v. Simpson, 23 Fed. 214; McNett v. Cooper, 13 Fed. 586; Schneider v. Foote, 23 Blatchf. (U. S.) 511, 27 Fed. 581; McAlister v. Barry, Brunn. Col. Cas. (U. S.) 24, 15 Fed. Cas. No. 8,656, 3 N. C. 290; Des Moines, etc., R. Co. v. Alley, 3 McCrary (U. S.) 589, 16 Fed. 732; Harding v. Wheaton, 2 Mason (U. S.) 378, 11 Fed. Cas. No. 6,051.

England.— Great Luxembourg R. Co. v. Magnay, 25 Beav. 586, 4 Jur. N. S. 829, 6 Wkly. Rep. 711; Savery v. King, 5 H. L. Cas. 627, 2 Jur. N. S. 503, 25 L. J. Ch. 482, 4 Wkly. Rep. 571; Bellamy v. Sabine, 2 Phil. 425, 22 Eng. Ch. 425; Niell v. Morley, 9 Ves. Jr. 478.

See 8 Cent. Dig. tit. "Cancellation of Instruments," § 32.

Entire contract.—Plaintiff must restore the whole consideration, where the contract was entire; he cannot rescind in part and affirm in part. Johnson v. Cookerly, 33 Ind. 151; Patten v. Stewart, 24 Ind. 332; Nalle v. Virginia Midland R. Co., 88 Va. 948, 14 S. E. 759; Worthington v. Collins, 39 W. Va. 406, 19 S. E. 527.

When the grantor was fraudulently induced to sign the deed in the belief that it was an instrument of a different nature, and in the belief that the money paid him by the grantee as consideration of the conveyance was paid for a different purpose, the grantor need not make restitution. Ellison v. Beannabia, 4 Okla. 347, 46 Pac. 477. See also Mullen v. Old Colony R. Co., 127 Mass. 86, 34 Am. Rep. 349.

1. As where defendant, after knowledge of plaintiff's repudiation of the transaction, has made it impossible for him to restore the status quo. Metropolitan El. R. Co. v. Manhattan El. R. Co., 11 Daly (N. Y.) 373, 14 Abb. N. Cas. (N. Y.) 103; Coffee v. Ruffin, 4 Coldw. (Tenn.) 487.

It is no defense that the wrong-doer has by his own act made a full restoration impossible on plaintiff's part, or has entered into obligations to others. He cannot prevent a restoration, as far as is within his power, by showing that he has himself done acts which prevent his being restored to his original position. Hammond v. Pennock, 61 N. Y. 145 [followed in Paquin v. Milliken, 163 Mo. 79, 63 S. W. 417, 1092].

When plaintiff exchanged a farm for defendant's interest in a firm, relying on the latter's representations that the firm was solvent and prosperous, and the firm proved insolvent, and its affairs were soon turned over to a receiver, the fact that the status quo cannot be restored as to defendant will not prevent a rescission. Brown v. Norman, 65 Miss. 369, 4 So. 293, 7 Am. St. Rep. 663 [followed in Paquin v. Milliken, 163 Mo. 79, 63 S. W. 417, 1092].

2. Thus, a deed of a right of way to a railroad, made on the faith of certain promises, on the part of the railroad company, will not be set aside for its failure to perform such promises, if the road has already graded and constructed its track upon the right of way so granted; the grantor will be left to his action for damages. Stringer v. Keokuk, etc., R. Co., 59 Iowa 277, 13 N. W. 308. See also Buckner v. Pacific, etc., R. Co., 53 Ark. 16, 13 S. W. 332.

A vendee sued to rescind a sale for mistake, and to enjoin a judgment on a purchase-money note assigned to the defendants; as the defendants on the faith of the note had relinquished a lien on the land, and the status quo could not be restored, rescission was refused. Bennett v. Owen, 13 Ark. 177.

The case of Bedell v. Bedell, 3 Hun (N. Y.) 580, 6 Thomps. & C. (N. Y.) 324, seems a somewhat harsh application of the rule as to restoration. Plaintiff and her sister, under the will of their mother, received the mother's entire estate, the brothers of plaintiff receiving nothing. The brothers threatened to contest the will, and stated to plaintiff that the mother's family physician had told them that the mother was insane when she made it. This was untrue, but plaintiff was induced to transfer to them certain securities belonging to the estate, in consideration of which they withdrew their opposition, and the will was admitted to probate. Plaintiff then brought an action to rescind the transfer for fraud. It was held that, not being able to restore the brothers to the position they occupied before the transfer, so as to enable them to contest the will, plaintiff could not be allowed to rescind her contract.

3. Freeman v. Reagan, 26 Ark. 373; Adams v. Reed, 11 Utah 480, 40 Pac. 720.

4. Long v. Johnson, 15 Ind. App. 498, 44 N. E. 552. But it has been held that the mere fact that the securities received as consideration have been declared invalid by the courts does not dispense with an offer to return them. Perry County v. Stebbins, 66 Ill. App. 427. And in a case where a part of the con-

4. Restoration Need Not Be Exact — a. In General. The fact that the parties cannot be precisely put in statu quo as to the subject-matter of the contract will not preclude a decree for rescission; if it could, no executed contract could be so rescinded.[5]

b. Where Consideration Has Fallen in Value or Is Perishable. It is no objection to a restoration of property received on a fraudulent sale that it has fallen in value since the date of the transaction.[6] Nor if the property is of a perishable nature is the holder bound to keep it in a state of preservation until the bill is filed.[7] And when the property is lost in whole or in part through some inherent defect that existed at the time of its conveyance, plaintiff is called upon to restore only what he can.[8]

c. Where Complainant Has Parted With a Portion of Consideration — (1) Before Discovery. Where a return of all the property received by complainant is rendered impossible by reason of his having parted with a portion of the property so received before discovery of the fraud, it would seem that the requirements of justice should be satisfied by a return of the part of the property retained with compensation for the remainder;[9] but the strict rule of restitution sideration received for a mortgage sought to be canceled was certain town lots, the title to which was worthless, the court, in remanding the case on other grounds, directed that judgment for plaintiff be conditioned on a conveyance of the lots or an offer to convey them to defendant; "while it is extremely probable that such a reconveyance will confer nothing of value upon defendant, there may be some collateral rights or interests which will be protected or made available thereby." Carlton v. Hulett, 49 Minn. 308, 51 N. W. 1053. An offer to reconvey land situated in another state, received in exchange by plaintiff, is not excused by the fact that his grantor's title to the land is defective for want of conformity to the law of that state, if this defect is not fatal. Westhafer v. Patterson, 120 Ind. 459, 22 N. E. 414, 16 Am. St. Rep. 330.

5. Gatling v. Newell, 9 Ind. 572.

As to time and use.— Parties cannot be put in statu quo as to time, for the plaintiff is entitled to a reasonable time after he discovers the fraud; nor as to use necessary for discovery of the fraud; though if any benefit is received from such use the plaintiff must account for it. Gatling v. Newell, 9 Ind. 572.

Return in substance.— If the party defrauded can return to the other in substance what he received, affected only by time and legitimate experimental use, and is willing to take the value of what he conveyed to the defrauding party, he can do so. Gatling v. Newell, 9 Ind. 572.

6. Goodrich v. Lathrop, 94 Cal. 56, 29 Pac. 329, 28 Am. St. Rep. 91; Cohen v. Ellis, 16 Abb. N. Cas. (N. Y.) 320 (consideration is bonds whose value has depreciated owing to the obligor's insolvency, but without plaintiff's fault); Neblett v. Macfarland, 92 U. S. 101, 23 L. ed. 471; Veazie v. Williams, 8 How. (U. S.) 134, 12 L. ed. 1018; Blake v. Mowatt, 21 Beav. 613.

When the consideration was the surrender of a bond executed by the complainant, and held by the defendant, the decree properly provided for the return of the bond, and not for its payment as a condition of relief. Neblett v. Macfarland, 92 U. S. 101, 23 L. ed. 471.

7. Scott v. Perrin, 4 Bibb (Ky.) 360; Dawson v. Sparks, 1 Tex. Unrep. Cas. 735; Neblett v. Macfarland, 92 U. S. 101, 23 L. ed. 471.

8. Where one has traded for lands and is entitled to a rescission of the contract because of insanity, but a portion of the lands for which he traded has meanwhile been washed away by the return of a river to an old channel which adjoined the land, and to which the river was liable at any time to return, a rescission will be decreed, though complete restoration cannot be made. Hale v. Kobbert, 109 Iowa 128, 80 N. W. 308 [citing Strodder v. Southern Granite Co., 99 Ga. 595, 27 S. E. 174; Wright v. Dickinson, 67 Mich. 580, 35 N. W. 164, 11 Am. St. Rep. 602; Henninger v. Heald, 51 N. J. Eq. 74, 26 Atl. 449; Hilton v. Advance Thresher Co., 8 S. D. 412, 66 N. W. 816; Neblett v. Macfarland, 92 U. S. 101, 23 L. ed. 471].

9. In a suit to rescind a contract for the purchase of land on the ground of fraud, it is not necessary to offer to restore the property where the bill alleged that such property has been sold under a prior existing lien, thus making it impossible to restore the same. Henninger v. Heald, 51 N. J. Eq. 74, 26 Atl. 449. And complainant will only be required to restore so much of the property in specie as he reasonably can, and the full consideration for so much of it as he may have disposed of before discovering the fraud. Henninger v. Heald, 52 N. J. Eq. 431, 29 Atl. 190. See also Ashmead v. Colby, 26 Conn. 287, where the land which was the consideration has been sold on execution reconveyance not necessary.

The impossibility of complete restoration does not destroy plaintiff's right of action to rescind an agreement for fraud. Baker v. Ziegler, 56 Hun (N. Y.) 405, 10 N. Y. Suppl. 249, 31 N. Y. St. 466.

is frequently enforced in such a case, and the equitable relief of cancellation refused to the complainant.[10]

(II) AFTER DISCOVERY. Parting with a portion of the consideration after discovery of the ground of rescission, not only is evidence of a ratification of the transaction,[11] but may also deprive plaintiff of the power to place defendant in statu quo.[12]

5. WHEN PLAINTIFF IS ENTITLED TO RETAIN CONSIDERATION IN EVENT OF HIS SUCCESS. One who attempts to rescind a transaction on the ground of fraud is not required to restore that which in any event he would be entitled to retain, either by virtue of the contract sought to be set aside or of an original liability.[13] The considera-

10. Edwards v. Hanna, 5 J. J. Marsh. (Ky.) 18; Bruen v. Hone, 2 Barb. (N. Y.) 586; Francis v. New York, etc., El. R. Co., 17 Abb. N. Cas. (N. Y.) 1; Stewart v. Houston, etc., R. Co., 62 Tex. 246. In Strong v. Lord, 107 Ill. 25, plaintiff, a purchaser of land, contracted to convey an undivided interest therein to one who, after making full payment, died, leaving an infant heir entitled to a deed. It was held that plaintiff's inability to place his vendor in statu quo could not be aided by a decree directing a conveyance by the infant.

When the consideration was a certificate of membership in a mutual benefit society, which had become forfeited for non-payment of certain dues which plaintiff was bound to pay, he was clearly not entitled to relief. Anderson v. McDaniel, 15 Ky. L. Rep. 151, 22 S. W. 647.

Rescission was denied where the chattels which formed the consideration had been "mutilated and disfigured" by plaintiff and could not be restored in the same condition as that in which they were received. Shaeffer v. Sleade, 7 Blackf. (Ind.) 178.

11. See supra, III, B, 2, c.

12. Alabama.— Betts v. Gunn, 31 Ala. 219.

Illinois.— Cunningham v. Fithian, 7 Ill. 650.

Indiana.— Watson Coal, etc., Co. v. Casteel, 68 Ind. 476, extracting minerals from the land.

Kentucky.— Collier v. Thompson, 4 T. B. Mon. (Ky.) 81.

New York.— Myers v. King, 48 Hun (N. Y.) 106, 15 N. Y. St. 482.

North Carolina.— Moore v. Reed, 36 N. C. 418, 37 N. C. 580.

13. Winter v. Kansas City Cable Co., 160 Mo. 159, 61 S. W. 606; Kley v. Healy, 127 N. Y. 555, 28 N. E. 593, 40 N. Y. St. 215; Littlejohn v. Leffingwell, 40 N. Y. App. Div. 13, 57 N. Y. Suppl. 839, 47 N. Y. App. Div. 377, 62 N. Y. Suppl. 79; Reynolds v. Westchester F. Ins. Co., 8 N. Y. App. Div. 193, 40 N. Y. Suppl. 336; Hollenback v. Shoyer, 16 Wis. 499.

This rule is of frequent application in suits to cancel releases or compromises fraudulently obtained, and is in contrast with the rule of restoration recognized by courts of law in actions based on rescission by the act of plaintiff. Gould v. Cayuga County Nat. Bank, 86 N. Y. 75. Thus, in a suit to set aside the release of a judgment as having been procured by the fraud of defendant judgment debtor, plaintiff need not offer to return the costs paid by defendant as a consideration of such release, for in either event plaintiff is entitled to such costs. Kley v. Healy, 127 N. Y. 555, 28 N. E. 593, 40 N. Y. St. 215. In an action to cancel for fraud a settlement of a claim against defendant insurance company, it is sufficient for plaintiff to request in her complaint that the amount received by her under the settlement be credited and allowed to defendant on the amount due plaintiff on her policy. Reynolds v. Westchester F. Ins. Co., 8 N. Y. App. Div. 193, 40 N. Y. Suppl. 336. The same principle was applied in a suit to set aside the discharge of a mortgage. Hollenback v. Shoyer, 16 Wis. 499. A judgment debtor who, pretending to purchase for a third person with the latter's money, induces his creditor to assign his judgment, on a trifling consideration paid by himself, has no right to insist that such creditor shall, before suing to set aside the assignment, return to him the consideration paid. Pidcock v. Swift, 51 N. J. Eq. 405, 27 Atl. 470. On the same principle where plaintiff was seized in fee of two pieces of land, and was induced by fraudulent representations as to his title to relinquish one piece in consideration of a deed to the other, upon discovery of the fraud, in order to maintain an action to set aside his conveyance of the one piece, it was not necessary to restore the other so as to put the parties in statu quo, it being his property. Du Pont v. Du Bos, 52 S. C. 244, 29 S. E. 665.

Where an infant sought to rescind his curator's settlement for less than the amount due on his judgment against a railroad company, on the ground of fraud and want of consideration, he was not obliged to tender the amount paid, to recover the balance due, since he was entitled to this in any event. Winter v. Kansas City Cable R. Co., 160 Mo. 159, 61 S. W. 606.

The rule appears to fail where, in the event of plaintiff's success in his suit for cancellation, it remains uncertain whether he is entitled to the amount received; thus, where there was a compromise of a judgment claim while a writ of error from the judgment was pending, the judgment creditor seeking to set aside the compromise as fraudulent must return the amount he has received under the compromise, with interest, and restore defendant as far as may be in position to prose-tion, if money, need not be returned where, in case of a decree in favor of plaintiffs, defendant will be required to account for a greater sum.[14]

6. Whether Restoration Must Be Offered Before Suit — a. View That Offer Is Necessary — (I) In General. On this question there is no little confusion among the cases, even among cases in the same jurisdiction. The numerical weight of authority appears to be slightly in favor of the position that restoration or an offer to restore the consideration or benefits received under the contract must be made before suit; that an offer in the bill or complaint to do equity comes too late.[15]

(II) There Need Not Be a Technical Tender. The offer of restoration, it has been held, need not be a technical tender such as would be required as a condition precedent to an action at law.[16] cute the writ of error. Graham v. Meyer, 99 N. Y. 611, 1 N. E. 143. See also Littlejohn v. Leffingwell, 47 N. Y. App. Div. 377, 62 N. Y. Suppl. 79.

14. Wilson v. Moriarity, 77 Cal. 596, 20 Pac. 134; Watts v. White, 13 Cal. 321; McParland v. Larkin, 155 Ill. 84, 39 N. E. 609; Thackrah v. Haas, 119 U. S. 499, 7 S. Ct. 311, 30 L. ed. 486; Billings v. Aspen Min., etc., Co., 51 Fed. 338, 10 U. S. App. 1, 2 C. C. A. 252.

15. Arkansas.— Davis v. Tarwater, 15 Ark. 286.

California.— Buena Vista Fruit, etc., Co. v. Tuohy, 107 Cal. 243, 40 Pac. 386; Herman v. Haffenegger, 54 Cal. 161.

Colorado.— Godding v. Decker, 3 Colo. App. 198, 32 Pac. 832.

Georgia.— Bowden v. Achor, 95 Ga. 243, 22 S. E. 254; Dotterer v. Freeman, 88 Ga. 479, 14 S. E. 863.

Illinois.— Edmunds v. Myers, 16 Ill. 207; Duncan v. Humphries, 58 Ill. App. 440.

Indiana.— Burgett v. Teal, 91 Ind. 260; Vance v. Schroyer, 79 Ind. 380; Patten v. Stewart, 24 Ind. 332; Parks v. Evansville, etc., R. Co., 23 Ind. 567; Teter v. Hinders, 19 Ind. 93.

Iowa.— Harkness v. Cleaves, 113 Iowa 140, 84 N. W. 1033.

Kansas.— State v. Williams, 39 Kan. 517, 18 Pac. 727; Gribben v. Maxwell, 34 Kan. 8, 7 Pac. 584, 55 Am. Rep. 233.

Kentucky.— Sneed v. Waring, 2 B. Mon. (Ky.) 522.

Louisiana.— Bryant v. Stothart, 46 La. Ann. 485, 15 So. 76.

Mississippi.— Hanson v. Field, 41 Miss. 712.

Pennsylvania.— Bird's Appeal, 91 Pa. St. 68.

United States.— Reeves v. Corning, 51 Fed. 774; Kinne v. Webb, 49 Fed. 512; Des Moines, etc., R. Co. v. Alley, 3 McCrary (U. S.) 589, 16 Fed. 732.

The rule has been distinctly held to be the same in equity as at law (Davis v. Tarwater, 15 Ark. 286), and to be "too well settled to justify citations" (Reeves v. Corning, 51 Fed. 774). The complaint must show that plaintiff has performed or offered to perform every act necessary to put defendant in statu quo, according to Buena Vista Fruit, etc., Co. v. Tuohy, 107 Cal. 243, 40 Pac. 386.

A grantee who has entered into possession must tender a reconveyance to his vendor, and offer to restore him to the possession, before commencing his action. Patten v. Stewart, 24 Ind. 332. And such surrender must be made to the grantor himself or to a person authorized to receive it. Davis v. Tarwater, 15 Ark. 286.

If a vendor is plaintiff he must before suit have tendered to the defendant the purchase-money or other consideration received.

California.— Herman v. Haffenegger, 54 Cal. 161.

Indiana.— Vance v. Schroyer, 79 Ind. 380 (must have offered to restore the purchase-money notes); Parks v. Evansville, etc., R. Co., 23 Ind. 567 (must have tendered certificate of stock received as consideration); Teter v. Hinders, 19 Ind. 93.

Kansas.— Gribben v. Maxwell, 34 Kan. 8, 7 Pac. 584, 55 Am. Rep. 233.

Mississippi.— Hanson v. Field, 41 Miss. 712.

United States.— Des Moines, etc., R. Co. v. Alley, 3 McCrary (U. S.) 589, 16 Fed. 732.

It is not a sufficient excuse that the vendees have concealed the amount of purchase-money paid in order to avoid a tender, when the plaintiffs might have learned the amount from other sources. Burgett v. Teal, 91 Ind. 260.

Tender before suit is required of mortgagor seeking cancellation of the mortgage (Dotterer v. Freeman, 88 Ga. 479, 14 S. E. 863); of assignee of patent rights (Edmunds v. Myers, 16 Ill. 207; Reeves v. Corning, 51 Fed. 774).

16. Tarkington v. Purvis, 128 Ind. 182, 25 N. E. 879, 9 L. R. A. 607. In a suit to rescind an exchange of lands and cancel the deeds, plaintiff's expression of willingness, before suit, to restore to defendant all he had received from him in the exchange, upon the defendant's reconveying the land received, was a sufficient tender. Mitchell v. Moore, 24 Iowa 394. A grantor, on demanding rescission, need not tender to the grantee a reconveyance for the latter's signature. Peck v. Vinson, 124 Ind. 121, 24 N. E. 726. Where the consideration was the assignment of a mortgage, a tender of the mortgage to de-

(iii) When Necessity of Offer Is Dispensed With. Such offer is not necessary when there is no one entitled to receive it,[17] and in the classes of cases mentioned above, where restoration of the consideration is not required as a price of affirmative relief, the idle ceremony of an offer before suit may be dispensed with.[18]

b. View That Offer Is Unnecessary. On the other hand, the courts of many states have held, in numerous well considered cases, that no offer of restoration before bringing suit is necessary.[19] These courts advert to the distinction, so often lost sight of, between the equitable remedy of rescission or cancellation, where the avoidance of the contract, with its indispensable adjunct of restoration, is accomplished by the decree of the court, and legal rescission, where the act of plaintiff in avoiding the contract reinvests him with his legal title or right to sue, and must therefore be accompanied with restitution of the thing received by him.[20] fendant, without tender of a reassignment, was sufficient; though such reassignment must be provided for in the decree. Chase v. Hinckley, 74 Me. 181.

Personal tender of a chattel is not necessary, if on the purchaser's application to be relieved from the contract the seller has declared that he will not receive the property. Tibbs v. Timberlake, 4 Litt. (Ky.) 12.

A partner who has purchased the interest of his copartner is not bound to give up the possession or tender back the property, in order to rescind the purchase for fraud; it is sufficient if he give notice of disaffirmance to his vendor. Slaughter v. Huling, 4 Dana (Ky.) 424.

17. Cree v. Sherfy, 138 Ind. 354, 37 N. E. 787.

18. See supra, IV, B, 2–5.

Tender excused — Insanity.—One who takes a conveyance from a person whom he knows to be of unsound mind is not entitled to a tender of the price as a prerequisite to an avoidance of the instrument. Thrash v. Starbuck, 145 Ind. 673, 44 N. E. 543. In a suit by the guardian of an insane grantee, whose insanity was not known to his vendor at the time of the contract, to set aside the purchase, the impossibility of a reconveyance by act of the grantee or his guardian is no objection, if the parties can be placed in statu quo by the action of the court. Fulwider v. Ingels, 87 Ind. 414.

Where a deed is procured by fraud from a grantor who is incompetent and a spendthrift, some money being paid as consideration, the court should not refuse to decree a rescission until such money is repaid, since the inability of such grantor to pay back the money is the natural result of defendant's act in advancing money to one so irresponsible. More v. More, 133 Cal. 489, 65 Pac. 1044.

Where plaintiff believed that tender would be unavailing, and pleads this belief in excuse and alleges a readiness to repay the money with interest, his failure to make the tender is not fatal to his bill. Gross v. George W. Scott Mfg. Co., 48 Fed. 35.

When the consideration has been forfeited to plaintiff by the terms of the contract no tender thereof is necessary. Jackson v. Lynn, 94 Iowa 151, 62 N. W. 704, 58 Am. St. Rep. 386.

If a contract is obtained by bribery of state officials it seems that the state may obtain a cancellation of the contract without returning or offering to return the money paid by the briber upon the contract. State v. Cross, 38 Kan. 696, 17 Pac. 190.

19. Alabama.— Martin v. Martin, 35 Ala. 560.

Georgia.— Coffee v. Newsom, 2 Ga. 442.

Illinois.— Wenegar v. Bollenbach, 180 Ill. 222, 54 N. E. 192; Wickiser v. Cook, 85 Ill. 68, semble.

Iowa.— McCorkell v. Karhoff, 90 Iowa 545, 58 N. W. 813; Taylor v. Ormsby, 66 Iowa 109, 23 N. W. 288; Binford v. Boardman, 44 Iowa 53.

Kansas.— Thayer v. Knote, 59 Kan. 181, 52 Pac. 433.

Massachusetts.— Thomas v. Beals, 154 Mass. 51, 27 N. E. 1004.

Michigan.— Jandorf v. Patterson, 90 Mich. 40, 51 N. W. 352.

Minnesota.— Nelson v. Carlson, 54 Minn. 90, 55 N. W. 821; Carlton v. Hulett, 49 Minn. 308, 51 N. W. 1053; Knappen v. Freeman, 47 Minn. 491, 50 N. W. 533; Kiefer v. Rogers, 19 Minn. 32.

Montana.— Maloy v. Berkin, 11 Mont. 138, 27 Pac. 442.

New York.— Gould v. Cayuga County Nat. Bank, 86 N. Y. 75; Allerton v. Allerton, 50 N. Y. 670; Beecher v. Ackerman, 1 Abb. Pr. N. S. (N. Y.) 141.

Oklahoma.— Day v. Mooney, 3 Okla. 608, 41 Pac. 142.

Tennessee.— Wiley v. Heidell, 12 Heisk. (Tenn.) 98.

Texas.— Wells v. Houston, 23 Tex. Civ. App. 629, 57 S. W. 584; Garza v. Scott, 5 Tex. Civ. App. 289, 24 S. W. 89.

Wisconsin.— O'Dell v. Burnham, 61 Wis. 562, 21 N. W. 635; Dunn v. Amos, 14 Wis. 106. See also the important case of Ludington v. Patton, 111 Wis. 208, 86 N. W. 571.

United States.— See Crocker v. Oakes, 106 Fed. 760.

England.— Barker v. Walters, 8 Beav. 92; Jervis v. Berridge, L. R. 8 Ch. 351.

20. An estimate of the comparative value of the competing rules on this subject should not overlook the fact that the decisions enumerated supra, note 15, show on a careful reading that the courts rendering them did

7. Restoration by Insane Person. A conveyance or contract obtained from an insane person by one who was ignorant of the insanity and acted in good faith will not be set aside unless the parties can be restored to their original position.[21]

8. Restoration by Mortgagor. In pursuance of the principle of restitution, the mortgagor seeking cancellation of the mortgage must pay to the mortgagee the amount which is due under the mortgage, with lawful interest.[22]

9. Restoration by Vendee. The vendee of land, who has entered under the contract, must give up possession of the land, and if he has received conveyance of the title must reconvey.[23] not have their attention directed to this distinction between the legal and equitable aspects of rescission. See also supra, I, B.

21. Illinois.— Ronan v. Bluhin, 173 Ill. 277, 50 N. E. 694.

Iowa.— Ashcraft v. De Armond, 44 Iowa 229.

Kansas.— Gribben v. Maxwell, 34 Kan. 8, 7 Pac. 584, 55 Am. Rep. 233.

Kentucky.—Rusk v. Fenton, 14 Bush (Ky.) 490, 29 Am. Rep. 413.

Missouri.— McKenzie v. Donnell, 151 Mo. 431, 461, 52 S. W. 214, 222; Blount v. Spratt, 113 Mo. 48, 20 S. W. 967.

North Carolina.—Riggan v. Green, 80 N. C. 175, 30 Am. Rep. 77.

England.— Nicll v. Morley, 9 Ves. Jr. 478.

But where the grantee knows of the insanity restoration is not a condition precedent. Thrash v. Starbuck, 145 Ind. 673, 44 N. E. 543. And see Gibson v. Soper, 6 Gray (Mass.) 279, 66 Am. Dec. 414; Dewey v. Allgire, 37 Nebr. 6, 55 N. W. 276, 40 Am. St. Rep. 468. See also Pomeroy Eq. Jur. § 946; Insane Persons; and supra, note 18.

22. Alabama.— George v. New England Mortg. Security Co., 109 Ala. 548, 20 So. 331; Ross v. New England Mortg. Security Co., 101 Ala. 362, 13 So. 564; Grider v. American Freehold Land Mortg. Co., 99 Ala. 281, 12 So. 775, 42 Am. St. Rep. 58; New England Mortg. Security Co. v. Powell, 97 Ala. 483, 12 So. 55; American Freehold Land Mortg. Co. v. Sewell, 92 Ala. 163, 9 So. 143, 13 L. R. A. 299.

California.— More v. Calkins, 85 Cal. 177, 24 Pac. 729.

Colorado.—Pershing v. Wolfe, 6 Colo. App. 410, 40 Pac. 856; Travelers' Ins. Co. v. Redfield, 6 Colo. App. 190, 40 Pac. 195.

Georgia.—Dotterer v. Freeman, 88 Ga. 479, 14 S. E. 863.

Indiana.— Hormann v. Hartmetz, 128 Ind. 353, 27 N. E. 731.

Kansas.—Burlington Tp. v. Cross, 15 Kan. 74.

Kentucky.— Brill v. Rack, 15 Ky. L. Rep. 383, 23 S. W. 511.

Louisiana.— Pugh v. Cantey, 33 La. Ann. 786.

Michigan.— Hanold v. Bacon, 36 Mich. 1.

Mississippi.— Pounds v. Clarke, 70 Miss. 263, 14 So. 22; American Freehold Land, etc., Co. v. Jefferson, 69 Miss. 770, 12 So. 464, 30 Am. St. Rep. 587; Watts v. Bonner, 66 Miss. 629, 6 So. 187; Deans v. Robertson, 64 Miss. 195, 1 So. 159.

Nebraska.— Miller v. Gunderson, 48 Nebr. 715, 67 N. W. 769.

New York.— Bissell v. Kellogg, 65 N. Y. 432 [affirming 60 Barb. (N. Y.) 617]; Spencer v. Clark, 1 N. Y. Suppl. 533, 15 N. Y. St. 949.

Texas.— Folts v. Ferguson, 77 Tex. 301, 13 S. W. 1037.

Utah.— Kelly v. Kershaw, 5 Utah 295, 14 Pac. 804.

See 8 Cent. Dig. tit. "Cancellation of Instruments," § 36.

23. Alabama.— Crendorff v. Tallman, 90 Ala. 441, 7 So. 821; Thompson v. Sheppard, 85 Ala. 611, 5 So. 334; Garner v. Leverett, 32 Ala. 410; Bailey v. Jordan, 32 Ala. 50; Foster v. Gressett, 29 Ala. 393; Read v. Walker, 18 Ala. 323; Parks v. Brooks, 16 Ala. 529; Elliott v. Boaz, 9 Ala. 772; Duncan v. Jeter, 5 Ala. 604, 39 Am. Dec. 342.

Arkansas.— Johnson v. Walker, 25 Ark. 196; Davis v. Tarwater, 15 Ark. 286; Bennett v. Owen, 13 Ark. 177.

California.— Buena Vista Fruit, etc., Co. v. Tuohy, 107 Cal. 243, 40 Pac. 386; Goodrich v. Lathrop, 94 Cal. 56, 29 Pac. 329, 28 Am. St. Rep. 91.

Colorado.— Godding v. Decker, 3 Colo. App. 198, 32 Pac. 832.

Connecticut.— Ashmead v. Colby, 26 Conn. 287.

Georgia.— Coffee v. Newsom, 2 Ga. 442.

Illinois.— Strong v. Lord, 107 Ill. 25; Underwood v. West, 52 Ill. 397.

Indiana.—Westhafer v. Patterson, 120 Ind. 459, 22 N. E. 414, 16 Am. St. Rep. 330; Fulwider v. Ingels, 87 Ind. 414; Patten v. Stewart, 24 Ind. 332; Osborn v. Dodd, 8 Blackf. (Ind.) 467.

Iowa.— Mitchell v. Moore, 24 Iowa 394.

Kansas.— Jeffers v. Forbes, 28 Kan. 174.

Kentucky.—Abel v. Cave, 3 B. Mon. (Ky.) 159; Slaughter v. Huling, 4 Dana (Ky.) 424; Davis v. James, 4 J. J. Marsh. (Ky.) 8; Tibbs v. Timberlake, 4 Litt. (Ky.) 12.

Louisiana.— Formento v. Robert, 27 La. Ann. 489; Matta v. Henderson, 14 La. Ann. 473; Simon v. Burnett, 8 La. Ann. 84.

Maryland.— Buchanan v. Lorman, 3 Gill (Md.) 51.

Michigan.— Jandorf v. Patterson, 90 Mich. 40, 51 N. W. 352.

Mississippi.— Shipp v. Wheeless, 33 Miss. 646; Martin v. Broadus, Freem. (Miss.) 35.

Missouri.— Bell v. Campbell, 123 Mo. 1, 25 S. W. 359, 45 Am. St. Rep. 505.

New Jersey.—Henninger v. Heald, 51 N. J.

10. Restoration by Vendor. The vendor or grantor seeking cancellation of a contract of sale or of a conveyance must restore the cash payment which has been made.[24]

11. Restoration in Case of Usurious or Other Illegal Contract. The maxim, "He who seeks equity must do equity," has a striking illustration in suits brought by the borrower to be relieved from mortgages or other securities infected by usury. Unless the statute expressly directs that relief in such cases shall be unconditional[25] a court of equity will require plaintiff to repay what is justly due with lawful interest.[26] The same principle applies to all cases where cancellation is sought on the ground of illegality.[27]

Eq. 74, 26 Atl. 449, 52 N. J. Eq. 431, 29 Atl. 190.

Ohio.— Waters v. Lemmon, 4 Ohio 229.

Utah.— Adams v. Reed, 11 Utah 480, 40 Pac. 720.

Virginia.— Nalle v. Virginia Midland R. Co., 88 Va. 948, 14 S. E. 759.

West Virginia.— Worthington v. Collins, 39 W. Va. 406, 19 S. E. 527.

See 8 Cent. Dig. tit. "Cancellation of Instruments," § 35.

See also infra, XI, B, 2, for other relief on cancellation by vendee.

24. Alabama.— Miller v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., 83 Ala. 274, 4 So. 842, 3 Am. St. Rep. 722.

Arkansas.— Buckner v. Pacific, etc., R. Co., 53 Ark. 16, 13 S. W. 332; Bozeman v. Browning, 31 Ark. 364; Freeman v. Reagan, 26 Ark. 373.

California.— Hick v. Thomas, 90 Cal. 289, 27 Pac. 208, 376; Herman v. Haffenegger, 54 Cal. 161; Oakland v. Carpentier, 21 Cal. 642; Watts v. White, 13 Cal. 321.

Georgia.— Bowden v. Achor, 95 Ga. 243, 22 S. E. 254; Miller v. Cotten, 5 Ga. 341.

Illinois.— McParland v. Larkin, 155 Ill. 84, 39 N. E. 609; Rigdon v. Walcott, 141 Ill. 649, 31 N. E. 158; Wickiser v. Cook, 85 Ill. 68.

Indiana.— Thrash v. Starbuck, 145 Ind. 673, 44 N. E. 543; Cree v. Sherfy, 138 Ind. 354, 37 N. E. 787; Peck v. Vinson, 124 Ind. 121, 24 N. E. 726; Burgett v. Teal, 91 Ind. 260; Vance v. Schroyer, 79 Ind. 380; Parks v. Evansville, etc., R. Co., 23 Ind. 567; Teter v. Hinders, 19 Ind. 93; Shepherd v. Fisher, 17 Ind. 229; Colson v. Smith, 9 Ind. 8.

Iowa.— Jackson v. Lynn, 94 Iowa 151, 62 N. W. 704, 58 Am. St. Rep. 386; Stringer v. Keokuk, etc., R. Co., 59 Iowa 277, 13 N. W. 308; Ashcraft v. De Armond, 44 Iowa 229; Corbit v. Smith, 7 Iowa 60, 71 Am. Dec. 431.

Kansas.— State v. Williams, 39 Kan. 517, 18 Pac. 727; Gribben v. Maxwell, 34 Kan. 8, 7 Pac. 584, 55 Am. Rep. 233.

Kentucky.— Barbour v. Morris, 6 B. Mon. (Ky.) 120; Keltner v. Keltner, 6 B. Mon. (Ky.) 40; Sneed v. Waring, 2 B. Mon. (Ky.) 522; Gray v. Shaw, 17 Ky. L. Rep. 61, 30 S. W. 402; Anderson v. McDaniel, 15 Ky. L. Rep. 151, 22 S. W. 647.

Louisiana.— Bryant v. Stothart, 46 La. Ann. 485, 15 So. 76; Savoie v. Meyers, 40 La. Ann. 677, 4 So. 882; West Carroll v. Gaddis, 34 La. Ann. 928; Lee v. Taylor, 21 La. Ann. 514; Latham v. Hicky, 21 La. Ann. 425; Thompson v. Kilcrease, 14 La. Ann. 340.

Maine.— Chase v. Hinckley, 74 Me. 181.

Maryland.— Smith v. Townshend, 27 Md. 368, 92 Am. Dec. 637; Cumberland Coal, etc., Co. v. Sherman, 20 Md. 117; Long v. Long, 9 Md. 348.

Massachusetts.— Thomas v. Beals, 154 Mass. 51, 27 N. E. 1004.

Michigan.— Place v. Brown, 37 Mich. 575.

Minnesota.— Knappen v. Freeman, 97 Minn. 491, 50 N. W. 533.

Mississippi.— Hanson v. Field, 41 Miss. 712; Ezelle v. Parker, 41 Miss. 520; White v. Trotter, 14 Sm. & M. (Miss.) 30, 53 Am. Dec. 112.

Missouri.— Blount v. Spratt, 113 Mo. 48, 20 S. W. 967.

Montana.— Waite v. Vinson, 14 Mont. 405, 36 Pac. 828; Maloy v. Berkin, 11 Mont. 138, 27 Pac. 442.

New Jersey.— Eaton v. Eaton, 37 N. J. L. 108, 18 Am. Rep. 716.

New York.— Wilson v. Lawrence, 8 Hun (N. Y.) 593; Francis v. New York, etc., El. R. Co., 17 Abb. N. Cas. (N. Y.) 1.

North Carolina.— Riggan v. Green, 80 N. C. 175, 30 Am. Rep. 77.

Tennessee.— Wiley v. Heidell, 12 Heisk. (Tenn.) 98; Coppedge v. Threadgill, 3 Sneed (Tenn.) 577.

Texas.— Coddington v. Wells, 59 Tex. 49; Terrill v. Dewitt, 20 Tex. 256; Davis v. Van Wie, (Tex. Civ. App. 1894) 30 S. W. 492; Teague v. Williams, 6 Tex. Civ. App. 468, 25 S. W. 1048; Georza v. Scott, 5 Tex. Civ. App. 289, 24 S. W. 89.

Wisconsin.— O'Dell v. Burnham, 61 Wis. 562, 21 N. W. 635.

See 8 Cent. Dig. tit. "Cancellation of Instruments," § 34.

See also infra, XI, B, 3, 4, for other relief to vendee.

25. See Bissell v. Kellogg, 65 N. Y. 432 [affirming 60 Barb. (N. Y.) 617]; N. Y. Stat. (1837), c. 430.

26. New England Mortg. Security Co. v. Powell, 97 Ala. 483, 12 So. 55; American Freehold Land Mortg. Co. v. Sewell, 92 Ala. 163, 9 So. 143, 13 L. R. A. 299; American Frechold Land, etc., Co. v. Jefferson, 69 Miss. 770, 12 So. 464, 30 Am. St. Rep. 587; Beecher v. Ackerman, 1 Abb. Pr. N. S. (N. Y.) 141; Rietz v. Foeste, 30 Wis. 693. See also Pomeroy Eq. Jur. § 391.

27. George v. New England Mortg. Security Co., 109 Ala. 548, 20 So. 331; Ross v.

V. APPLICATION OF MAXIM, "HE WHO COMES INTO EQUITY MUST COME WITH CLEAN HANDS."[28]

A. In General. It is a well-established rule of courts of equity not to assist one wrong-doer against another — a doctrine expressed in the maxim, "He who comes into equity must come with clean hands." The rule is a broad one; it includes within its operation several other maxims, as, "Ex turpi causa, non actio oritur;" "Ex dolo malo non oritur actio;" "In pari delicto potior est conditio defendentis." It applies to all cases, including the cancellation of instruments,[29] where the party seeking the aid of the courts has been guilty of conduct in violation of the principles of equity jurisprudence with reference to the subject-matter of litigation. In all such cases equity leaves the parties in the position in which they have placed themselves, refusing all affirmative aid to either of the participants in the fraud, illegality, or other misconduct.[30]

B. Plaintiff In Pari Delicto — 1. ILLUSTRATIONS. Relief is refused to the plaintiff where the contract or other act sought to be avoided is substantially a fraud upon the rights, interests, or intentions of third parties;[31] as where he asks

New England Mortg. Security Co., 101 Ala. 362, 13 So. 564; Bowdre v. Carter, 64 Miss. 221, 1 So. 162 (maxim not applicable to complainant answering cross-bill based on an illegal contract); Deans v. Robertson, 64 Miss. 195, 1 So. 159; Shipp v. Wheeless, 33 Miss. 646; Martin v. Broadus, Freem. (Miss.) 35; Mumford v. American L. Ins., etc., Co., 4 N. Y. 463; New Castle Northern R. Co. v. Simpson, 23 Fed. 214 (ultra vires contract). See also Pomeroy Eq. Jur. § 391.

28. See, generally, EQUITY.

29. Arkansas.— Shattuck v. Watson, 53 Ark. 147, 13 S. W. 516, 7 L. R. A. 551.

California.— Lawton v. Gordon, 34 Cal. 36, 91 Am. Dec. 670.

Connecticut.— Barnes v. Starr, 64 Conn. 136, 28 Atl. 980.

Illinois.— Paige v. Hieronymus, 180 Ill. 637, 54 N. E. 583; Tyler v. Tyler, 126 Ill. 525, 21 N. E. 616, 9 Am. St. Rep. 642 [reversing 25 Ill. App. 333]; Baehr v. Wolf, 59 Ill. 470; Fitzgerald v. Forristal, 48 Ill. 228; Dunning v. Bathrick, 41 Ill. 425.

Indiana.— Overshiner v. Wisehart, 59 Ind. 135; Swain v. Bussell, 10 Ind. 438.

Iowa.— Williams v. Collins, 67 Iowa 413, 25 N. W. 682; Allison v. Hess, 28 Iowa 388.

Kentucky.— Harper v. Harper, 85 Ky. 160, 8 Ky. L. Rep. 820, 3 S. W. 5, 7 Am. St. Rep. 583; Anderson v. Merideth, 82 Ky. 564; Marksbury v. Taylor, 10 Bush (Ky.) 519; Deatly v. Murphy, 3 A. K. Marsh. (Ky.) 472.

Maryland.— Brown v. Reilly, 72 Md. 489, 20 Atl. 239; Gotwalt v. Neal, 25 Md. 434; Wilson v. Watts, 9 Md. 356; Long v. Long, 9 Md. 348.

Massachusetts.— Bryant v. Peck, etc., Co., 154 Mass. 460, 28 N. E. 678; Belding v. Smythe, 138 Mass. 530.

Michigan.—Poppe v. Poppe, 114 Mich. 649, 72 N. W. 612, 68 Am. St. Rep. 503; Cedar Springs v. Schlich, 81 Mich. 405, 45 N. W. 994, 8 L. R. A. 851; Gage v. Gage, 36 Mich. 229; Welles v. River Raisin, etc., R. Co., Walk. (Mich.) 35.

Mississippi.— O'Conner v. Ward, 60 Miss. 1025; Prewett v. Coopwood, 30 Miss. 369.

Missouri.— Bell v. Campbell, 123 Mo. 1, 25 S. W. 359, 45 Am. St. Rep. 505; Poston v. Balch, 69 Mo. 115.

New Jersey.— Brown v. Carpenter, 57 N. J. Eq. 23, 41 Atl. 562; Ruckman v. Ruckman, 32 N. J. Eq. 259; Cannon v. Cannon, 26 N. J. Eq. 316.

New York.— Boyd v. De la Montagnie, 73 N. Y. 498, 29 Am. Rep. 197; Watkins v. Jones, 78 Hun (N. Y.) 496, 29 N. Y. Suppl. 557, 61 N. Y. St. 237; Bolt v. Rogers, 3 Paige (N. Y.) 154.

North Carolina.— Blossom v. Van Amringe, 62 N. C. 133; Jones v. Gorman, 42 N. C. 21.

South Carolina.—Booker v. Wingo, 29 S. C. 116, 7 S. E. 49.

Tennessee.— Copeland v. Long, (Tenn. Ch. 1896) 41 S. W. 866.

Texas.— Teague v. Williams, 6 Tex. Civ. App. 468, 25 S. W. 1048.

Virginia.— Jeffries v. Southwest Virginia Imp. Co., 88 Va. 862, 14 S. E. 661; Helsley v. Fultz, 76 Va. 671.

Washington.— Rozell v. Vansyckle, 11 Wash. 79, 39 Pac. 270.

West Virginia.— Goldsmith v. Goldsmith, 46 W. Va. 426, 33 S. E. 266; Corrothers v. Harris, 23 W. Va. 177.

Wisconsin.— Clemens v. Clemens, 28 Wis. 637, 9 Am. Rep. 520; Swartzer v. Gillett, 2 Pinn. (Wis.) 238, 1 Chandl. (Wis.) 207.

United States.— McCutcheon v. Merz Capsule Co., 71 Fed. 787, 37 U. S. App. 586, 19 C. C. A. 108 [affirming 67 Fed. 414]; Schermerhorn v. De Chambrun, 64 Fed. 195, 26 U. S. App. 212, 12 C. C. A. 81.

30. See, generally, EQUITY.

31. Connecticut.—Barnes v. Starr, 64 Conn. 136, 28 Atl. 980.

Illinois.— Dunning v. Bathrick, 41 Ill. 425.

Indiana.— Overshiner v. Wisehart, 59 Ind. 135.

Maryland.— Wilson v. Watts, 9 Md. 356.

New York.— Bolt v. Rogers, 3 Paige (N. Y.) 154.

Virginia.— Jeffries v. Southwest Virginia Imp. Co., 88 Va. 862, 14 S. E. 661.

the court to aid him in consummating a breach of trust.[32] The court will not aid a particeps criminis to an illegal transaction,[33] for example, one who has conveyed his land to a lottery company cannot ask that his deed be canceled on the ground that he was defrauded.[34]

2. Exceptions to Rule — a. Public Policy. The rule that when parties are in pari delicto the court will lend its aid to neither is subject to certain exceptions. Thus, where the public interest requires its intervention, relief will be granted, though the result may be that the property will be restored to or a benefit derived by a plaintiff who is in equal guilt with the defendant.[35]

b. Executory Contract. A second exception is that the affirmative relief of cancellation or injunction may be extended to one of the parties in pari delicto, where the contract is still executory,[36] provided that his remedy by defense to an action at law that might be brought upon the contract by the other party would not be equally certain and adequate.[37]

3. Inequality of Turpitude. Although both parties are chargeable with knowledge that their agreement is contrary to some rule of law, yet, if one of them acts under duress, or what the law regards as undue influence on the part of the other, they do not stand on an equal footing; and the weaker one may be granted affirmative relief.[38] This is especially true where the parties stand in a

West Virginia.— Corrothers v. Harris, 23 W. Va. 177, fraudulent scheme to prevent bidding at a trustee's sale.

See 8 Cent. Dig. tit. "Cancellation of Instruments," § 43.

Barnes v. Starr, 64 Conn. 136, 28 Atl. 980, is a case somewhat peculiar in its facts. The plaintiff made an antenuptial agreement for the release of her dower, with the understanding that it should be shown by her intended husband to his heirs for the purpose of inducing them to cease their opposition to the marriage, and should then be destroyed. The agreement accomplished this purpose, but was never destroyed. It was held that the plaintiff could not maintain an action to cancel the agreement, as she had been a party to the imposition upon the heirs.

32. Helsley v. Fultz, 76 Va. 671. In this case plaintiff joined with the trustee of an estate in a devastavit by paying a debt, well secured by a mortgage, in Confederate money. In a suit many years afterward to cancel the mortgage it was held that both he and the trustee were wrong-doers, and that he was entitled to no assistance at the hands of a court of equity.

33. Marksbury v. Taylor, 10 Bush. (Ky.) 519 (executed contract for sale of lands, based upon consideration of illicit sexual intercourse); Cedar Springs v. Schlich, 81 Mich. 405, 45 N. W. 994, 8 L. R. A. 851 (suit by town to cancel an illegal issue of bonds, where it was held that as plaintiff secured permission from the state legislature to issue these bonds under the pretense that the money was to be used in public improvements it should be left to its defense at law).

The plaintiff's belief that the transaction was illegal does not make it illegal. Thus, putting the title to one's land in the name of another, with the avowed intention of escaping liability to be drafted under the enrolment act of congress, was not in contravention of the policy of that act, as no property qualification was thereby required to make one liable to be drafted. Cannon v. Cannon, 26 N. J. Eq. 316. And a transfer to evade the confiscation acts of the Confederate government was not illegal, as that government was a public enemy. Blossom v. Van Amringe, 62 N. C. 133.

34. Swain v. Bussell, 10 Ind. 738.

35. In such case the guilt of the respective parties is not considered by the court, which looks only to the higher right of the public, the guilty party to whom relief is granted being only the instrument by which the public is served. O'Conner v. Ward, 60 Miss. 1025; Jackman v. Mitchell, 13 Ves. Jr. 581, 9 Rev. Rep. 229. See also Pomeroy Eq. Jur. § 941.

36. McCutcheon v. Merz Capsule Co., 71 Fed. 787, 37 U. S. App. 586, 19 C. C. A. 108 [affirming 67 Fed. 414].

37. Booker v. Wingo, 29 S. C. 116, 7 S. E. 49, the instrument being a negotiable note, the plaintiff's defense might be lost by transfer of the note. See also Pomeroy Eq. Jur. § 940.

38. Illinois.— Baehr v. Wolf, 59 Ill. 470.

Kentucky.— Anderson v. Merideth, 82 Ky. 564; Deatly v. Murphy, 3 A. K. Marsh. (Ky.) 472.

Maryland.— Long v. Long, 9 Md. 348.

Massachusetts.— Bryant v. Peck, etc., Co., 154 Mass. 460, 28 N. E. 678.

Mississippi.— Prewett v. Coopwood, 30 Miss. 369.

Missouri.— Bell v. Campbell, 123 Mo. 1, 25 S. W. 359, 45 Am. St. Rep. 505.

New York.— Loomis v. Cline, 4 Barb. (N. Y.) 453.

Tennessee.— Copeland v. Long, (Tenn. Ch. 1896) 41 S. W. 866.

See 8 Cent. Dig. tit. "Cancellation of Instruments," § 46.

Thus where a party indicted for an alleged crime conveyed his property to another as security for becoming his bail, and for the pur-relation of trust or confidence, and the conveyance or other instrument was obtained from the plaintiff by means of that relation.[39]

4. Compounding Felony. The in pari delicto rule has frequent application in suits to cancel conveyances or contracts made with the view to compounding a felony; neither party in such a case can obtain relief in a court of equity.[40] Where, however, such contract or conveyance was obtained by duress or undue influence, the parties do not stand in pari delicto, and the one subjected to such duress or undue influence has therein a ground for cancellation.[41]

5. Conveyances in Fraud of Creditors. Conveyances in fraud of creditors furnish the most frequent application of the rule. Where a person makes a fraudulent conveyance of his property to another, for the purpose of defeating his creditors, equity will not interfere as between the parties themselves to set aside the conveyance.[42] Here, again, if the parties were not in pari delicto, if the conveyance or mortgage was obtained by undue influence exercised by the grantee or mortgagee, or through abuse of a confidential relation, the reason of the rule fails, and the less guilty party may have the relief of cancellation.[43] pose of assisting the former to flee from justice, the conveyance being obtained by undue influence, equity will relieve the grantor by canceling the deed. Baehr v. Wolf, 59 Ill. 470.

39. Kentucky.— Harper v. Harper, 85 Ky. 160, 8 Ky. L. Rep. 820, 3 S. W. 5, 7 Am. St. Rep. 583.

Massachusetts.— Belding v. Smythe, 138 Mass. 530.

Mississippi.— O'Conner v. Ward, 60 Miss. 1025.

Missouri.— Poston v. Balch, 69 Mo. 115.

New York.— Boyd v. De la Montagnie, 73 N. Y. 498, 29 Am. Rep. 197; Watkins v. Jones, 78 Hun (N. Y.) 496, 29 N. Y. Suppl. 557, 61 N. Y. St. 237.

Washington.— Rozell v. Vansyckle, 11 Wash. 79, 39 Pac. 270.

See 8 Cent. Dig tit. "Cancellation of Instruments," § 46.

Relation of attorney and client.— But the mere fact that the defendant was the plaintiff's attorney does not make the plaintiff the less guilty party to a transfer of property by the plaintiff to defendant in fraud of creditors, if the transfer was not made on the attorney's suggestion and advice. Schermerhorn v. De Chambrun, 64 Fed. 195, 26 U. S. App. 212, 12 C. C. A. 81.

40. Arkansas.— Shattuck v. Watson, 53 Ark. 147, 13 S. W. 516, 7 L. R. A. 551.

Illinois.— Paige v. Hieronymus, 180 Ill. 637, 54 N. E. 583.

Iowa.— Allison v. Hess, 28 Iowa 388.

Maryland.— Gotwalt v. Neal, 25 Md. 434.

South Carolina.— Booker v. Wingo, 29 S. C. 116, 7 S. E. 49.

Texas.— Teague v. Williams, 6 Tex. Civ. App. 468, 25 S. W. 1048.

Wisconsin.— Swartzer v. Gillett, 2 Pinn. (Wis.) 238, 1 Chandl. (Wis.) 207.

See 8 Cent. Dig. tit. "Cancellation of Instruments," § 44.

41. Bryant v. Peck, etc., Co., 154 Mass. 460, 28 N. E. 678; Bell v. Campbell, 123 Mo. 1, 25 S. W. 359, 45 Am. St. Rep. 505; Loomis v. Cline, 4 Barb. (N. Y.) 453.

42. California.—Lawton v. Gordon, 34 Cal. 36, 91 Am. Dec. 670.

Illinois.— Tyler v. Tyler, 126 Ill. 525, 21 N. E. 616, 9 Am. St. Rep. 642 [reversing 25 Ill. App. 333]; Dunaway v. Robertson, 95 Ill. 419; Fitzgerald v. Forristal, 48 Ill. 228.

Michigan.— Poppe v. Poppe, 114 Mich. 649, 72 N. W. 612, 68 Am. St. Rep. 503; Gage v. Gage, 36 Mich. 229.

New Jersey.— Brown v. Carpenter, 57 N. J. Eq. 23, 41 Atl. 562; Ruckman v. Ruckman, 32 N. J. Eq. 259.

North Carolina.— Jones v. Gorman, 42 N. C. 21.

West Virginia.— Goldsmith v. Goldsmith, 46 W. Va. 426, 33 S. E. 266. See also Edgell v. Smith, 50 W. Va. 349, 40 S. E. 402.

United States.—Schermerhorn v. De Chambrun, 64 Fed. 195, 26 U. S. App. 212, 12 C. C. A. 81.

See 8 Cent. Dig. tit. "Cancellation of Instruments," § 45.

Grantees of a fraudulent mortgagor stand in no better position. Brown v. Carpenter, 57 N. J. Eq. 23, 41 Atl. 562.

The character of the act must be determined by the circumstances that existed when the act was done; the fact that the plaintiff has subsequently paid his creditors does not relieve him from the operation of the rule. Brown v. Reilly, 72 Md. 489, 20 Atl. 239.

The doctrine was questioned in Clemens v. Clemens, 28 Wis. 637, 9 Am. Rep. 520. See also, generally, Fraudulent Conveyances.

43. Kentucky.— Harper v. Harper, 85 Ky. 160, 8 Ky. L. Rep. 820, 3 S. W. 5, 7 Am. St. Rep. 583; Anderson v. Merideth, 82 Ky. 564; Deatly v. Murphy, 3 A. K. Marsh. (Ky.) 472.

Mississippi.— O'Conner v. Ward, 60 Miss. 1025; Prewett v. Coopwood, 30 Miss. 369.

Missouri.— Poston v. Balch, 69 Mo. 115.

New York.— Boyd v. De la Montagnie, 73 N. Y. 498, 29 Am. Rep. 197; Watkins v. Jones, 78 Hun (N. Y.) 496, 29 N. Y. Suppl. 557, 61 N. Y. St. 237.

Tennessee.— Copeland v. Long, (Tenn. Ch. 1896) 41 S. W. 866.

VI. BONA FIDE PURCHASERS.

The relief of cancellation will not be granted against a bona fide purchaser for value, and without notice of the fraud or other ground for cancellation.[44]

VII. PARTIES.[45]

A. In General. It is the general rule, in suits for rescission or cancellation, that all persons whose rights, interests, or relations with or through the subject-matter of the suit would be affected by the cancellation or rescission should be brought before the court, so that they can be heard in their own behalf.[46]

B. Plaintiffs — 1. In Suits to Cancel Conveyances — a. In General. The heirs[47]

Washington.— Rozell v. Vansyckle, 11 Wash. 79, 39 Pac. 270.

Reformation.— In Clemens v. Clemens, 28 Wis. 637, 9 Am. Rep. 520, land was conveyed for the purpose of defrauding creditors, and by mistake of the grantor, and the fraud of the grantee, the former's homestead was included in the deed. It was held that while the grantor could not recover the land intended to be fraudulently conveyed he was entitled to a decree correcting the deed in accordance with such intention.

44. Illinois.—Henson v. Westcott, 82 Ill. 224.

Indiana.— Somers v. Pumphrey, 24 Ind. 231.

Kentucky.— Rusk v. Fenton, 14 Bush (Ky.) 490, 29 Am. Rep. 413.

Louisiana.— Thomas v. Mead, 8 Mart. N. S. (La.) 341, 19 Am. Dec. 187.

North Carolina.— Dixon v. Wilmington Sav., etc., Co., 115 N. C. 274, 20 S. E. 464.

Texas.— Cook v. Moore, 39 Tex. 255; Goree v. Goree, 22 Tex. Civ. App. 470, 54 S. W. 1036.

See 8 Cent. Dig. tit. "Cancellation of Instruments," § 48.

As to who is a bona fide purchaser see CHATTEL MORTGAGES; COMMERCIAL PAPER; MORTGAGES; NOTICE; VENDOR AND PURCHASER. That payment of a valuable consideration is necessary to bring the purchaser within the protection of the doctrine see Reddin v. Dunn, 2 Colo. App. 518, 31 Pac. 947; Baker v. Lever, 67 N. Y. 304, 23 Am. Rep. 117; Settle v. Stephens, 18 Tex. Civ. App. 695, 45 S. W. 969. That absence of notice is requisite see Lockwood v. Tate, 96 Ala. 353, 11 So. 406 (notice by putting on inquiry); Jordan v. McNeil, 25 Kan. 459; Brice v. Brice, 5 Barb. (N. Y.) 533 (notice from possession); Hofecker v. Pfeil, 193 Pa. St. 288, 44 Atl. 421; Taylor v. Dakota Nat. Bank, 6 S. D. 511, 62 N. W. 99; Goree v. Goree, 22 Tex. Civ. App. 470, 54 S. W. 1036; Sullivan v. Crouch, 10 Tex. Civ. App. 404, 32 S. W. 144 (notice from recitals). That a purchaser with notice who has sold the property to a bona fide purchaser and afterward reacquires it is not protected see Lockwood v. Tate, 96 Ala. 353, 11 So. 406; Pomeroy Eq. Jur. § 754. That the assignee of a mortgage is not protected by the doctrine, but takes the mortgage subject to equities between mortgagor and mortgagee see Rapps v. Gottlieb, 142 N. Y. 164, 36 N. E. 1052, 58 N. Y. St. 636 [affirming 67 Hun (N. Y.) 115, 22 N. Y. Suppl. 52, 51 N. Y. St. 195]. See, generally, MORTGAGES. That an innocent purchaser from an insane person may retain his purchase unless he can be put in statu quo see Somers v. Pumphrey, 24 Ind. 231; Rusk v. Fenton, 14 Bush (Ky.) 490, 29 Am. Rep. 413. And that if restitution be made to the lunatic's grantee, no restoration need be made to a bona fide purchaser from the latter see Dewey v. Allgire, 37 Nebr. 6, 55 N. W. 276, 40 Am. St. Rep. 468. See supra, IV, B, 7; and, generally, INSANE PERSONS.

A mortgage by a married woman of her separate estate, induced by false representations on the part of her husband, of which the mortgagee was innocent and ignorant, cannot be canceled. Pacific Guano Co. v. Anglin, 82 Ala. 492, 1 So. 852; Vancleave v. Wilson, 73 Ala. 387; Finnegan v. Finnegan, 3 Tenn. Ch. 510; Paxton v. Marshall, 18 Fed. 361.

Negotiable paper.—Cancellation will not be decreed of negotiable paper in the hands of a bona fide purchaser for value before maturity. Mayes v. Robinson, 93 Mo. 114, 5 S. W. 611; Cheney v. Janssen, 20 Nebr. 128, 29 N. W. 289.

45. See, generally, EQUITY; PARTIES.

46. Pomeroy Code Rem. § 379. For the general principles of equity relating to parties see EQUITY.

Assignability of the cause of action.— The assignment of a mere right of action to procure a transaction to be set aside on the ground of fraud is not permitted, as violating the policy of the law against champerty or maintenance. See Pomeroy Eq. Jur. § 1276; Illinois Land, etc., Co. v. Speyer, 138 Ill. 137, 27 N. E. 931. See CHAMPERTY AND MAINTENANCE.

47. Webb v. Janney, 9 App. Cas. (D. C.) 41; Foxworth v. Bullock, 44 Miss. 457; Keenan v. Keenan, 12 N. Y. Suppl. 747, 34 N. Y. St. 996. So, in a suit by a widow to set aside a deed by her deceased husband and herself conditioned on their support, the children are proper co-plaintiffs. Lane v. Lane, 21 Ky. L. Rep. 9, 50 S. W. 857. See also Brown v. Brown, 62 Kan. 666, 64 Pac. 599.

and devisees[48] of the deceased grantor are usually necessary parties; his executor[49] or administrator is not a necessary party, having no interest in the land.[50] When the land was devised in trust, the beneficiary was permitted to sue, instead of the trustee, to set aside a conveyance made by the testator, when the trustee had been the latter's confidential adviser, had prepared the deed himself, and was not in a position to attack the transaction.[51] When a person obtained a conveyance by fraud, the grantors may disregard it and convey to a third party, who may establish the fraud in equity and have the same relief which the grantors, but for their conveyance, would have had.[52] The assignee of a purchase-money mortgage, void on account of defective execution, does not, by virtue of such assignment, succeed to the grantor's right to avoid the sale for failure of consideration.[53] When the life-tenant and remainderman make a joint deed, the former must be joined, either as plaintiff or defendant, in a suit for cancellation by the latter, as the grantor might have an interest in resisting a partial rescission;[54] and, in general, all the owners who joined in a deed are necessary parties to an action to set it aside.[55]

But an heir who has alienated his inheritance has no interest in the subject-matter of the suit. Martin v. Martin, 15 La. Ann. 585; McCalla v. Bane, 45 Fed. 828.

The children and grandchildren of a living ancestor cannot sue on the ground of his incompetency, to set aside his conveyance. Sellman v. Sellman, 63 Md. 520. And where a deed conditioned on the support of the grantor contained a provision that on breach of the condition the land should revert to his wife, his children have no interest in the land entitling them to sue for cancellation of the deed on the ground of non-performance. Hensley v. Hensley, 17 Ky. L. Rep. 122, 30 S. W. 613. Where A contracted that the land should belong to B and B's children after A's death, and afterward conveyed to C, B's children are necessary parties to a suit by B to enforce the contract and cancel the conveyance to C. Barnett v. Geisinger, 148 Ill. 98, 35 N. E. 354.

48. Webb v. Janney, 9 App. Cas. (D. C.) 41; Foxworth v. Bullock, 44 Miss. 457.

49. Webb v. Janney, 9 App. Cas. (D. C.) 41.

50. Keenan v. Keenan, 12 N. Y. Suppl. 747, 34 N. Y. St. 996.

51. Le Gendre v. Goodridge, 46 N. J. Eq. 419, 19 Atl. 543.

52. Whitney v. Roberts, 22 Ill. 381; Paine v. Baker, 15 R. I. 100, 23 Atl. 141.

A deed having been made to the wrong person by his fraud, the proper plaintiff is the one to whom the grantor had bargained and intended to convey. Bellair v. Wool, 35 Mich. 440.

53. Camden v. Vail, 24 Cal. 392.

54. Brinker v. Haydon, 3 Dana (Ky.) 156.

Contra.— In a suit by the assignee of a remainderman to set aside, as to the remainder, a deed executed by the life-tenant and remainderman, it was held that the life-tenant was not a necessary party. Gandy v. Fortner, 119 Ala. 303, 24 So. 425.

55. Robinson v. Kind, 23 Nev. 330, 47 Pac. 977. The title to real estate on which a building loan was made was in the name of plaintiff, but there was evidence that it belonged to her husband, who joined in notes given for borrowed money, and in a trust deed on the property to secure the same. The money secured by the deed was not all paid to the owners. Held, that an alternative decree, in an action by the wife to set aside the trust deed, that the deed and notes should be surrendered by a certain time, or that plaintiff should have a money judgment for the money secured by the deed, must be reversed, where the husband was not a party, since the decree would not conclude the husband. Chandler v. Ward, 83 Ill. App. 315 [reversed on other grounds in 188 Ill. 322, 58 N. E. 919].

A husband cannot sue alone to avoid a release of a right of homestead executed by himself and his wife, since without her presence no decree can be rendered affecting her rights in the premises. Eyster v. Hatheway, 50 Ill. 521, 99 Am. Dec. 537. But if the wife have no interest or estate in the land, she is not a necessary or a proper party plaintiff to a suit by the husband to cancel a mortgage of the homestead. Pounds v. Clarke, 70 Miss. 263, 14 So. 22. But the fact that the plaintiff's relief may be conditioned on a conveyance to the defendant by himself and his wife, of her property, does not render her a necessary party to his suit for cancellation of an exchange of lands; the rights of the defendant are not affected by the failure to make the wife a party. Stevens v. Thompson, 98 Mich. 9, 56 N. W. 1041.

Heirs of the grantor's deceased wife, who had a "community" interest in the land when sold, are not necessary parties to his suit for cancellation, as a judgment in his favor would not be conclusive of any rights of theirs against him. Gibson v. Fifer, 21 Tex. 260.

Members of church.— In a suit to set aside a conveyance made by a trustee of land held for church purposes, all the members of the church should be made parties, either as plaintiffs or defendants, unless this be impracticable. Whitney v. Mayo, 15 Ill. 251.

b. Particular Conveyances — (I) LEASE. It has been held that the right to quiet title against a lease, on the ground of duress, is personal, and does not pass to the lessor's grantee.[56]

(II) MORTGAGE. One of several vendees who have given a joint mortgage to secure their separate notes for their several shares of the purchase-money may sue to set aside the mortgage as to himself, but not for the others.[57] In an action to set aside a chattel mortgage, executed by the plaintiff and his wife on her separate property, she is a necessary party.[58]

(III) MORTGAGE AND NOTE. The maker of a note joined with another in executing a mortgage to secure it on the latter's land; their interests were so united and blended that they properly joined in an action to cancel the note and mortgage.[59] A mortgagor, suing to cancel notes and a mortgage, on the ground that the contract was usurious, and that the debt, exclusive of the usury, had been paid, properly joins with him as plaintiff one who has no present pecuniary interest in the transaction, but who is still liable on the notes, and might, if they should be assigned, be involved in expense.[60]

2. IN SUITS BY VENDEE OR IN HIS RIGHT. A grantee's heirs are necessary parties; his executor cannot sue without joining them.[61] One of several grantees in the same deed cannot prosecute a suit in the name of the other purchasers, without their consent, to rescind the sale as to them.[62] The vendee's surety,[63] or joint obligor,[64] in his bond for the purchase-money is a necessary party; and his surety who executes a note and mortgage to secure the payment of the price is the person most injured by the vendor's fraud, and may sue for cancellation of the note and mortgage.[65]

3. IN OTHER SUITS. In a suit by a principal to cancel a contract appointing three persons as agents, on the ground of fraud perpetrated by two of them, the third, who is an essential party to the suit, but was ignorant of and repudiates the fraud, is properly joined as plaintiff.[66] Two subscribers to stock may join in an action to cancel their subscriptions for false representations, when they acted jointly in the whole transaction, the representations were made to them jointly or to one of them acting for both, and the money paid for the stock was drawn out of a former copartnership between them.[67]

C. Defendants — 1. IN GENERAL. A person whom the defendant, in the

56. Schee v. McQuilken, 59 Ind. 269. The fact that A had been negotiating with B to obtain a lease of B's premises, and that B, under the mistaken impression that he was still dealing with A, leased the premises to C, gives A no standing to attack the lease. Stiner v. Stiner, 58 Barb. (N. Y.) 643.

57. Moulton v. Lowe, 32 Me. 466.

A married woman is a proper co-complainant in a bill filed by her testamentary trustee, which seeks to set aside and cancel a mortgage of her property executed by her and her husband to secure a recited indebtedness. Tatum v. Walker, 77 Ala. 563.

58. Beane v. Givens, (Ida. 1898) 51 Pac. 987.

59. Bowman v. Germy, 23 Kan. 306.

60. Valentine v. Fish, 45 Ill. 462.

Parties in interest.— M and another owned a tile and brick mill, and, to secure their joint note, mortgaged the mill. Thereafter M sold his interest to his co-mortgagor, who, in part consideration, assumed the note and mortgage, but, becoming insolvent, never paid the same. He sold to T and another, receiving in part payment their note payable when the mortgage was satisfied. T afterward bought his partner's interest, assuming the note last mentioned, and, to protect his title on foreclosure of the mortgage, procured an assignment of the foreclosure judgment. It was held that T and M each had an interest in the subject of an action to cancel the former's note and have the amount thereof applied in payment of the judgment assigned to T, and hence were properly united as plaintiffs. Troxel v. Thomas, 155 Ind. 519, 58 N. E. 725.

61. Haggins v. Peck, 10 B. Mon. (Ky.) 210.

62. Moulton v. Lowe, 32 Me. 466.

63. Cummins v. Boyle, 1 J. J. Marsh. (Ky.) 480.

64. Crittenden v. Craig, 2 Bibb (Ky.) 474.

One of three joint makers of a note for the purchase-money may join in the suit to rescind the sale, although he be estopped from obtaining any relief against the holder of the note. Lanier v. Hill, 25 Ala. 554.

65. Waterbury v. Andrews, 67 Mich. 281, 34 N. W. 575.

66. Crump v. Ingersoll, 44 Minn. 84, 46 N. W. 141.

67. Sherman v. American Stove Co., 85 Mich. 169, 48 N. W. 537.

event of the plaintiff's success, will have a right to call on for reimbursement, is a necessary party to the determination of the whole controversy.[68] But a person holding by paramount title, under whom neither party claims, is not a proper party, as the decree cannot affect his rights.[69]

2. IN SUIT TO CANCEL CONVEYANCES — a. In General. The grantor, if not a plaintiff in the suit, should be joined as defendant,[70] and in a suit by certain of the grantor's heirs all the heirs who are not joined as plaintiffs are at least proper parties defendant,[71] and are necessary parties if they can be brought before the court, before it can proceed to a final decree setting aside the deed and directing a sale.[72] All persons claiming under the deed,[73] or holding the title to a part of the land

68. Alexander v. Horner, 1 McCrary (U. S.) 634, 1 Fed. Cas. No. 169, 9 Centr. L. J. 111, holding that in a suit by the payee of a note against the maker, who has paid it to a fraudulent indorsee, with notice of the fraud, to set aside such assignment and recover from the maker the indorsee is a necessary party. See also Daniell Ch. Pr. 281, 282.

An assignor, all of whose interest has been transferred, is not a necessary party to a bill for relief against the assignee alone. Mullins v. McCandless, 57 N. C. 425.

Both the assignor and the assignee are necessary parties to an action for canceling the assignment of a contract alleged to be fraudulent, if either objects to the other being omitted. Miller v. Mahaffy, 45 Iowa 289.

In an action to annul a conveyance to one and his assigns, the assigns need not be made parties, as unknown assigns or otherwise, unless it appear that the grantee has transferred the property. Smith v. Cornelius, 41 W. Va. 59, 23 S. E. 599, 30 L. R. A. 747.

In a suit by a stock-holder for the cancellation of certain bonds of a railroad company secured by mortgage to a trust company, the latter is a necessary party. "It is a trustee for the bondholders, and not merely an agent of the railway company . . . has a right to be heard upon the question of the disposition which is to be made of the bonds, and is an indispensable party to a controversy in which its right to dispose of them as it deems lawful is assailed." Mayer v. Denver, etc., R. Co., 41 Fed. 723, 724.

In a suit for the cancellation of an alleged fraudulent assignment of a patent, and to expunge such assignment from the records of the patent office, the parties by and to whom the assignment is made are necessary parties; their interest is such that a final decree cannot be made without affecting that interest. Backus Portable Steam Heater Co. v. Simonds, 2 App. Cas. (D. C.) 290.

In a suit to cancel a note on the ground of payment to a previous holder, the person to whom payment was made is a necessary party defendant. Walker v. Smith, 8 Yerg. (Tenn.) 237. But in an action to cancel a non-negotiable note on the ground of fraud, after an assignment to a mala fide purchaser, an intermediate indorser is neither a proper nor necessary party. Campodonico v. Grossini, 66 Cal. 358, 5 Pac. 609. In a suit by the maker of a note on the ground of fraud, his joint maker who participated in the fraud is properly joined as defendant, not as complainant, as it is his interest to resist the bill. Williams v. Nicholson, 25 Ga. 560.

In a suit to set aside an insurance policy, infants who have a contingent interest in the proceeds of the policy are necessary defendants. Equitable L. Assur. Soc. v. Patterson, 1 Fed. 126.

In a suit to set aside satisfaction of a judgment, all the judgment defendants are necessary parties, because if one were not joined, the satisfaction would remain valid as to him and hence would operate a release as to all, and the plaintiff's decree would thus be a nullity. Humberd v. Kerr, 8 Baxt. (Tenn.) 291.

To a bill by a distributee to set aside an assignment of his distributive interest in a decedent's estate, the other distributees are not proper parties, and the misjoinder of such distributees is fatal on demurrer. Marsh v. Richardson, 99 Ala. 430.

Where defendant holds the instrument as bailee or depositary, the real owner not being joined as defendant, cancellation cannot be decreed. Edwards v. Brightly, (Pa. 1888) 12 Atl. 91.

69. Scott v. Moore, 4 Ill. 306.

70. Malone v. Kelly, 101 Ga. 194, 28 S. E. 689; Hannibal, etc., R. Co. v. Nortoni, 154 Mo. 142, 55 S. W. 220; Fairchild v. Fairchild, (N. J. 1899) 44 Atl. 944.

71. Canton v. McGraw, 67 Md. 583, 11 Atl. 287.

72. Harding v. Handy, 11 Wheat. (U. S.) 103, 6 L. ed. 429.

73. House v. Mullen, 22 Wall. (U. S.) 42, 22 L. ed. 838.

A partner is a proper party to a suit to set aside a conveyance to the partnership obtained by the fraud of his copartner. Palmer v. Searing, 12 N. Y. St. 559.

Partnership transactions. — Partnership rights cannot be finally determined as to anybody without the presence of all the parties. Hence, to a bill against one of the members of a partnership to set aside partnership transactions, and to vacate a conveyance of real estate, assets of the partnership — but held in the name of one of the partners for the benefit of the firm — and for an account, all the partners are indispensable parties. Bell v. Donohoe, 8 Sawy. (U. S.) 435, 17 Fed. 710. A was induced by the defendant, his partner, to sell the firm property, at an in-conveyed,[74] are properly joined, though each defendant may have a separate interest in the fruits of the fraud in which they combined, and appropriate relief is prayed for against each.[75] On the question whether a grantee who has conveyed all his interest is a necessary party defendant the cases are divided.[76] Subsequent grantees of the original grantee are, as a general rule, properly joined with him as defendants.[77] A mere agent to effect the sale, who had no participation in the fraud, has no interest in the proceeding to cancel the deed.[78]

b. Deeds of Trust.[79] In suits to cancel deeds of trust the trustee[80] or his adequate price, to defendant and to B, C, and D, who did not participate in the fraud. Payment was made in the notes of B, C, and D. It was held that the latter are not necessary parties to a bill brought to settle all the affairs of the old firm, and incidentally to set aside the sale so far as the price has been fixed by agreement, and to charge the defendant with the fair value of the property. Palmer v. Stevens, 100 Mass. 461.

The wife of the holder of the title is a proper, though not a necessary, defendant. Swihart v. Harless, 93 Wis. 211, 67 N. W. 413.

74. Morgan County v. Braner, 71 Ill. 546.

75. Bowden v. Achor, 95 Ga. 243, 22 S. E. 254.

But all the heirs of the grantee need not be joined, when the relief sought is only that the deed be canceled as to the interests of those who are actually made defendants; the several interests of the heirs are not interdependent. Ellesworth v. McCoy, 95 Ga. 44, 22 S. E. 39.

The administrator of the grantee's estate is not a necessary party, when there is nothing to show that his intestate was insolvent at the time of his death, or any right on the administrator's part to administer the real estate of his intestate. Ellesworth v. McCoy, 95 Ga. 44, 22 S. E. 39.

76. That such grantee is not a necessary party see Crooks v. Whitford, 40 Mich. 599; Dailey v. Kinsler, 31 Nebr. 340, 47 N. W. 1045. That he is a proper, if not a necessary, party see West v. Duncan, 42 Fed. 430. That he or his heirs are necessary parties see Hill v. Lewis, 45 Kan. 162, 25 Pac. 589 (where in a suit to cancel a conveyance made to H and his wife, and a conveyance made by them to P, H and P were made defendants, it was held that H's wife was a necessary party defendant, as it was the right of P, who must ultimately look to the covenants of his grantors, that both of them should be made co-defendants); Bradley v. Souther, 12 N. C. 427.

Suit by vendor to cancel deed of trust executed by vendee.— Under a contract for the purchase of realty the grantor was to make a deed when it was fully paid for. The grantee took possession, and made a payment, and subsequently, being notified that grantor would annul the contract unless the remainder of the purchase-price was paid within a certain time, he executed a deed of trust on the property. It was held that such grantee was a necessary party to a bill to cancel the deed of trust on the ground that the notice to the grantee had annulled his purchase and determined the interest of the parties under the trust deed, since his rights under his contract of purchase could not be adjudicated in a proceeding in which he was not a party. Burroughs v. Jones, 78 Miss. 235, 28 So. 944.

77. Ross v. Hobson, 131 Ind. 166, 23 N. E. 775; Free v. Buckingham, 57 N. H. 95; Silberg v. Pearson, 75 Tex. 287, 12 S. W. 850. But they are not necessary parties if their rights are not affected by the decree (Silberberg v. Pearson, 75 Tex. 287, 12 S. W. 850), as where the plaintiff asks judgment for the money value of the land conveyed by his immediate grantee (Edwards v. Richards, 95 Ga. 655, 22 S. E. 690; Muzzy v. Tompkinson, 2 Wash. 616, 27 Pac. 456, 28 Pac. 652).

78. Cooley v. Scarlett, 38 Ill. 316, 87 Am. Dec. 298.

Participant in the fraud.—A person instrumental in the fraud, but having no interest in the property, is not a proper party, unless it is necessary to hold such person for costs. Seiferd v. Mulligan, 36 N. Y. App. Div. 33. 55 N. Y. Suppl. 140, 28 N. Y. Civ. Proc. 373. But a notary public who took part in the forgery of the deed sought to be canceled, and certified a false certificate of acknowledgment of the deed to "his own interest and advantage" is a proper party. Alexander v. Davis, 42 W. Va. 465, 26 S. E. 291. A bill joined two persons as defendants, with allegations of fraudulent representations made by them, and a general confederating clause. There was no averment that they or either of them were agents or attorneys of the grantee, or that the grantee held the title in whole or in part for their benefit, or that they had or expected any interest in the land conveyed, and no relief was prayed against them. It was held that they were not proper parties. Smith v. Green, 37 Fed. 424.

79. Mortgages.— The mortgagor is a necessary party to a suit by a purchaser of land to cancel a mortgage thereon. Beeler v. Pope, 4 Bibb (Ky.) 26. In a suit to cancel a mortgage on the ground of payment of the debt, which is represented by three notes payable jointly to certain persons, all these persons are necessary defendants. Beach v. Mosgrove, 4 McCrary (U. S.) 50, 16 Fed. 305. In a suit to cancel a trust deed, the note secured thereby and referred to therein having been surrendered and canceled, an assignee of the trust deed is not a necessary party. Sullivan v. Crouch, 10 Tex. Civ. App. 404, 32 S. W. 144.

80. Barth v. Deuel, 11 Colo. 494, 19 Pac. 471; Erisman v. Erisman, 59 Mo. 367.

heirs[81] holding the legal title are necessary parties, as otherwise the title cannot be divested. All the beneficiaries named in the deed are usually necessary parties.[82]

3. In Suit by Vendee to Rescind Contract of Purchase. Where defect of the vendor's title is the ground of rescission, it is not necessary to join as defendants other parties for the purpose of ascertaining whether or not a title could be made to the vendor.[83] If the vendee has alienated the land, the second vendee is a necessary party.[84] The surety in the bond for purchase-money is a necessary party.[85] The vendor's agent in effecting the purchase is a proper, though not a necessary, party.[86] A mortgagee of the vendor is not a proper party, as he is not concerned in the transaction between the vendor and the vendee.[87]

VIII. PLEADING.[88]

A. Complaint or Bill[89] — 1. Grounds For Cancellation — a. In General. The bill should allege the special circumstances justifying the exercise of the court's 81. Lawrence v. Lawrence, 181 Ill. 248, 54 N. E. 918.

82. Voorhis v. Gamble, 6 Mo. App. 1; Conkling v. Davies, 53 How. Pr. (N. Y.) 409. But rule does not apply to contingent remaindermen, as their interests are represented by the trustees. Temple v. Scott, 143 Ill. 290, 32 N. E. 366. H executed a deed of trust to indemnify two sureties, A and B, who were jointly liable. A sale was made by the trustee and the property bought by A. To a bill brought by H against A to cancel the sale and for a reconveyance of the property, the trustee, against whom no charges are made and no relief sought, was not a necessary party; but B was a necessary party, the bill alleging that the debt for which he was jointly bound has been discharged, and this being an inquiry in which he has an interest. Hoffman v. Shields, 8 W. Va. 32.

Heirs of beneficiaries.— In a suit to set aside a deed executed to a trustee as security against any claim that might be made by the beneficiary on account of a certain sale by the trustee to plaintiff, the heirs of the beneficiary are proper parties. Quibell v. Morris, 71 Hun (N. Y.) 38, 24 N. Y. Suppl. 498, 53 N. Y. St. 873.

Where land was conveyed to one for the benefit of another both are proper parties. Miller v. Whittaker, 23 Ill. 453; Ross v. Hobson, 131 Ind. 166, 26 N. E. 775.

Where notes secured have been transferred. — Where a suit is brought to cancel a trust deed, and negotiable notes secured thereby, and the grantee has sold such notes, the holders thereof are necessary parties. Chandler v. Ward, 83 Ill. App. 315 [reversed on other grounds in 188 Ill. 322, 58 N. E. 919].

83. Prewitt v. Graves, 5 J. J. Marsh. (Ky.) 114.

But where vendor had an equitable title by contract with a person deceased, it was held that no rescission could be had without making the deceased's heirs and widow parties. Stimson v. Thorn, 25 Gratt. (Va.) 278.

If another person than the vendor named in the agreement is interested in the subject-matter of the sale, and is to receive part of the purchase-money, he is a necessary party. Atkins v. Billings, 72 Ill. 597.

84. Yoder v. Swearingen, 6 J. J. Marsh. (Ky.) 518.

85. Cummins v. Boyle, 1 J. J. Marsh. (Ky.) 480.

86. Freeman v. Kieffer, 101 Cal. 254, 35 Pac. 767.

Distinct matters.— In a suit by A and B, vendees of C, to rescind the contract of sale, it is improper to join D for the purpose of rescinding a separate contract between D and B with which A has no connection. Richardson v. McKinson, Litt. Sel. Cas. (Ky.) 320, 12 Am. Dec. 308.

In a suit by a lessee to cancel the lease and notes given for the rent, when the lease was executed by, and the notes to, a person who assumed to be the agent of the owner, in his own name, and there was no responsible principal, such person is a proper defendant. Potter v. Bassett, 35 Mo. App. 417.

87. Since the land is always subject to his claim. Orendorff v. Tallman, 90 Ala. 441, 7 So. 821.

88. See, generally, Equity; Pleading.

89. So far as applicable the ordinary rules of pleading govern actions to cancel instruments. See, generally, Equity; Pleading.

Plaintiff's title.— A bill to cancel a deed need not state the history of the title prior to the conveyance by such deed. Wilson v. Miller, 16 Iowa 111.

Defendant's interest.— A complaint in an action to set aside a deed which alleges that the defendant "has or claims to have some interest in the property," without further allegations as to his title, is sufficient against a general demurrer. Quibell v. Morris, 71 Hun (N. Y.) 38, 24 N. Y. Suppl. 498, 53 N. Y. St. 873 [citing Townsend v. Bogert, 126 N. Y. 370, 27 N. E. 555, 37 N. Y. St. 488, 22 Am. St. Rep. 835].

Value of the land need not be alleged, in an action by the vendor to rescind a sale thereof, as would be necessary in an action for damages. Ross v. Hobson, 131 Ind. 166, 26 N. E. 775.

discretionary power to decree a cancellation.[90] Where, however, the courts exercise jurisdiction to cancel instruments whose invalidity appears on their face, and the instrument is made a part of the bill, and appears upon its face to be invalid, a specification of the grounds of its invalidity is not essential.[91]

b. Mistake. Mistake as a ground of cancellation must be alleged with precision.[92]

c. Actual Fraud. The plaintiff must aver, fully and explicitly, the facts constituting the alleged fraud; mere conclusions will not avail.[93] It is, however,

Injury to the complainant.— A bill by a second mortgagee, before the debt is due, to compel a first mortgagee to surrender his mortgage, alleging that it had been paid, but not showing that the existence of the first mortgage is a prejudice to the plaintiff's security, rendering it less valuable, is demurrable. Jones v. Myers, 7 Blackf. (Ind.) 340.

90. Field v. Holbrook, 14 How. Pr. (N. Y.) 103.

Inadequacy of consideration.— An allegation to substantiate an averment of inadequacy of consideration in the sale of city real estate, that the property "was soon thereafter sold for more than eight times" the consideration named in the deed, but not stating how soon after, was insufficient, as such property might fluctuate largely in value within a short time. Rhino v. Emery, 65 Fed. 826.

Transactions between persons in confidential relations.— Complaints in suits to cancel such conveyances or contracts were approved in the following cases:

California.— Alaniz v. Casenave, 91 Cal. 41, 27 Pac. 521.

Michigan.— Carney v. Carney, 63 Mich. 382, 29 N. W. 875.

Minnesota.— Pinger v. Pinger, 40 Minn. 417, 42 N. W. 289.

Missouri.— Sayer v. Devore, 99 Mo. 437, 13 S. W. 201.

New Jersey.— Le Gendre v. Byrnes, 44 N. J. Eq. 372, 14 Atl. 621.

Texas.— Hickman v. Stewart, 69 Tex. 255, 5 S. W. 833; Cooper v. Lee, 1 Tex. Civ. App. 9, 21 S. W. 998.

Wisconsin.— Creamer v. Ingalls, 89 Wis. 112, 61 N. W. 82.

Non-delivery of deed as ground for cancellation thereof was sufficiently alleged in McGrath v. Hyde, 81 Cal. 38, 22 Pac. 293.

Want of proper acknowledgment.—For sufficient averment that probating officer did not examine a married woman touching her knowledge of the contents of the instrument see Fenton v. Bell, (Tenn. Ch. 1899) 53 S. W. 984.

Breach of condition subsequent in deed, as ground of cancellation, was sufficiently averred in Teague v. Teague, 22 Tex. Civ. App. 443, 54 S. W. 632.

Non-performance of promise which formed consideration of conveyance was sufficiently pleaded in Willard v. Ford, 16 Nebr. 543, 20 N. W. 859.

Failure of title.— Having received a conveyance and taken and enjoyed undisturbed possession, the vendee seeking a rescission must in his bill show clearly the defect of title which he alleges to exist. Moss v. Davidson, 1 Sm. & M. (Miss.) 112. An allegation that his vendor has no title and is unable to make one is insufficient. Alexander v. Moye, 38 Miss. 640.

Want of consideration.— The complaint in a suit to cancel a promissory note for want of consideration, in that it was given to secure the dismissal of an unfounded suit, should allege that this was the only consideration for the note. Moon v. Martin, 122 Ind. 211, 23 N. E. 668. A complaint to rescind a conveyance for false representations as to certain notes, which does not distinctly show that the notes were the consideration for the conveyance, is insufficient. Turner v. Engle, 121 Ind. 143, 22 N. E. 880. Complaint approved, for failure of consideration in the indorsement of a negotiable note see Maclean v. Fitzsimons, 80 Mich. 336, 45 N. W. 145.

Usury in mortgage was sufficiently pleaded in Baum v. Thoms, 150 Ind. 378, 50 N. E. 357, 65 Am. St. Rep. 368.

Payment of trust deed.— The petition need not allege the time, place, or manner of payment, where it sets out circumstances from which a presumption of payment might arise, and avers that the plaintiff has no actual knowledge as to the payment, in a suit by an administrator to cancel his intestate's trust deed. Johnson v. Lockhart, 20 Tex. Civ. App. 596, 50 S. W. 955.

Want of agent's authority.— In a suit to cancel the release of a mortgage for want of authority in the person who made the release, this is sufficiently shown by an allegation that the debt was unpaid, and that the property was released without the plaintiff's knowledge or consent. Lincoln University v. Richardson, 11 Colo. App. 151, 52 Pac. 682.

91. Simpson v. Edmiston, 23 W. Va. 675.

92. Stover v. Poole, 67 Me. 217; Salinas v. Stillman, 66 Fed. 677, 30 U. S. App. 40, 14 C. C. A. 50.

For form of complaint approved see Carbine v. McCoy, 85 Ga. 185, 11 S. E. 651.

93. Alabama.— Pinkston v. Boykin, 130 Ala. 483, 30 So. 398; Birmingham Warehouse, etc., Co. v. Elyton Land Co., 93 Ala. 549, 9 So. 235; Penny v. Jackson, 85 Ala. 67, 4 So. 720.

Illinois.— Murphy v. Murphy, 189 Ill. 360, 59 N. E. 796; Smith v. Brittenham, 98 Ill. 188.

Kansas.— Leavenworth, etc., R. Co. v. Douglas County, 18 Kan. 169.

neither necessary nor proper to detail minutely the conversations by which the fraudulent representations are proven.[94] So a complaint grounded on fraudulent promises should sufficiently aver the defendant's intention, existing at the time of making the promises, of not fulfilling them.[95] The averment of the untruth of the representations should be definite;[96] and the bill must show that injury has resulted to the complainant from the misrepresentations.[97]

d. Incapacity — (1) GENERALLY. A decree setting aside a deed for mental incompetency of the grantor cannot be sustained, unless the bill alleges such incompetency so as to put it in issue.[98] It has been held that an allegation that Mississippi.— Memphis, etc., R. Co. v. Neighbors, 51 Miss. 412.

New York.— Butler v. Viele, 44 Barb. (N. Y.) 166.

Rhode Island.— Corey v. Howard, 19 R. I. 723, 37 Atl. 946.

Tennessee.— Upchurch v. Anderson, (Tenn. Ch. 1900) 62 S. W. 1115.

United States.— Bartol v. Walton, etc., Co., 92 Fed. 13.

See 8 Cent. Dig. tit. "Cancellation of Instruments," § 78.

The word "fraudulent" cannot be considered as forming any specific charge. McCaleb v. Peery, 5 Hayw. (Tenn.) 88.

Particularity of statement excused.—A bill brought by the guardian of a lunatic to have a deed executed by her to her son set aside, which charges that defendant fraudulently procured the deed from his mother, either while she was non compos or when her mind was deranged or unsound or weak, or by undue influence exerted by him over her, describes with sufficient particularity the acts relied on as invalidating the deed, since the charge that he fraudulently procured the deed is specifically set forth, and the guardian could not have knowledge of the peculiar and special phase of fraud adopted. Mott v. Mott, 49 N. J. Eq. 192, 22 Atl. 997.

It is not necessary that fraud should be alleged in totidem verbis; the charge may be substantially made by stating the facts from which the fraud would be necessarily implied. Grove v. Rentch, 26 Md. 367.

94. Hick v. Thomas, 90 Cal. 289, 27 Pac. 208, 276.

Allegations of the occurring of various distinct acts, conversations, omissions, and intentions of the defendant, tending to show that he obtained the conveyance by fraud, should, on motion, be stricken out as redundant. Wooden v. Strew, 10 How. Pr. (N. Y.) 48. Such allegations, it is said, are also open to the objection, under code pleading, that they tend to make the complaint a bill of discovery, which is prohibited by the code.

95. Birmingham Warehouse, etc., Co. v. Elyton Land Co., 93 Ala. 549, 9 So. 235; Harrington v. Rutherford, 38 Fla. 321, 21 So. 283.

For pleadings held to be sufficient see Lawrence v. Gayetty, 78 Cal. 126, 20 Pac. 382, 12 Am. St. Rep. 29; Newman v. Smith, 77 Cal. 22, 18 Pac. 791.

96. Thus in a complaint to cancel notes given for the purchase-price of a machine, alleging a representation that the machine would do good work, a mere general averment that the machine would not do good work, and is worthless to the complainant, is not definite enough. Aultman v. Seichting, 126 Ind. 137, 25 N. E. 894. But in a suit by a vendee, grounded on false representations of title by the vendor, an allegation that the title is in another is sufficient, without averring facts to show the defendant's want of title. Orendorff v. Tallman, 90 Ala. 441, 7 So. 821.

97. Bailey v. Fox, 78 Cal. 389, 20 Pac. 868; Smith v. Brittenham, 98 Ill. 188; Srader v. Srader, 151 Ind. 339, 51 N. E. 479; Crittenden v. Craig, 2 Bibb (Ky.) 474.

Illustrations of sufficient allegations.— In the following cases the allegations respecting various elements of misrepresentation were held sufficient:

Alabama.— Baker v. Maxwell, 99 Ala. 558, 14 So. 468.

Georgia.— Armstrong v. Penn, 105 Ga. 229, 31 S. E. 158.

Indiana.— Ross v. Hobson, 131 Ind. 166, 26 N. E. 775, holding that an allegation that the plaintiffs relied upon certain representations made by defendant and were deceived thereby sufficiently showed that plaintiffs were ignorant of the truth of the matters represented.

Kentucky.— Grundy v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., 98 Ky. 117, 17 Ky. L. Rep. 669, 32 S. W. 392.

New York.— Kley v. Healy, 127 N. Y. 555, 28 N. E. 593, 40 N. Y. St. 215 (sufficient averments to show plaintiff's reliance and right to rely on the representations made to him); Fieseler v. Stege, 86 Hun (N. Y.) 595, 33 N. Y. Suppl. 749, 66 N. Y. St. 571 (the word "assurance" equivalent in meaning to "representation").

Wisconsin.— Weirich v. Dodge, 101 Wis. 621, 77 N. W. 906.

United States.— Patton v. Glatz, 56 Fed. 367; Gross v. George W. Scott Mfg. Co., 48 Fed. 35 (where the misrepresentations were made by defendant's agent — sufficient allegations to show that defendant knew of his agent's statements to plaintiff and caused them to be made); Benton v. Ward, 47 Fed. 253 (averment that the representations made as an inducement to the contract were known to be false when made not necessary).

98. Harding v. Handy, 11 Wheat. (U. S.) 103, 6 L. ed. 429.

the plaintiff was "of unsound mind" at the time of making the contract pleads an ultimate fact and not a conclusion of law, and is therefore sufficient.[99]

(II) INTOXICATION. Where intoxication is the ground for cancellation, it has been held that the bill must distinctly allege that the plaintiff was incapacitated from doing business by the intoxication.[1]

(III) MENTAL WEAKNESS CONNECTED WITH OTHER FACTS. When mental weakness, not amounting to incapacity, is to be connected with other facts tending to establish fraud, in giving character to the transaction, and rendering it fraudulent, it is essential to good pleading that the indicia of fraud be alleged.[2]

e. Undue Influence. The complaint must aver, in substance, the facts which show the domination of the will of the person claimed to have been unduly influenced by the will of another;[3] but it is not necessary to state all the facts going to establish the fact of undue influence; such facts are, for the most part, evidentiary.[4] Undue influence need not be expressly averred, if it is an inference from the facts alleged.[5]

2. DESCRIPTION OF INSTRUMENT. It has been held that the bill should either set out a copy of the instrument sought to be canceled, or describe the same with such certainty that it can be identified by an officer of the court upon execution.[6]

99. Riggs v. American Tract Soc., 84 N. Y. 330 [reversing 19 Hun (N. Y.) 481]; Boynton v. Reese, 112 Ga. 354, 37 S. E. 437, in which case a petition for the cancellation of an instrument purporting to be a deed, averring that at the time of its execution the alleged maker was non compos mentis and totally incapable of contracting, is neither strengthened, nor, as to the real gravamen thereof, materially affected, by an additional allegation that the person named in the instrument as grantee procured its execution "by false and fraudulent means and artful practices." While such an allegation may be open to the objection that it is irrelevant, it does not render the petition subject to a special demurrer calling upon the plaintiff to set forth the particular acts constituting the alleged fraud. An allegation that a person "was of unsound mind and incapable from mental incapacity to transact business" was approved in Fulwider v. Ingels, 87 Ind. 414. On the other hand, the following allegations have been held not to raise an issue as to incompetency: That a person was of "weak and feeble intellect, and incapable of taking care of himself" (Lawrence v. Willis, 75 N. C. 471); that he was "old and infirm, and therefore incapacitated from attending properly to business" (Riley v. Riley, 34 Wis. 372). "Although a more direct and positive allegation that Comfort Wheaton was incapable of transacting business, would have been more satisfactory than the detail of circumstances from which the conclusion is drawn, yet, we think that the averment of his incompetency is sufficiently explicit to make it a question in the cause." Harding v. Handy, 11 Wheat. (U. S.) 103, 6 L. ed. 429. For further examples of pleading of mental incapacity see Mark v. North, 155 Ind. 575, 57 N. E. 902 (averments sufficient); Stockmeyer v. Tobin, 139 U. S. 176, 11 S. Ct. 504, 35 L. ed. 123 (averments insufficient under Civil Code of Louisiana).

Time of the incapacity.— The complaint must clearly show that the incapacity, if not amounting to insanity, existed at the time of the transaction sought to be annulled. Carnagie v. Diven, 31 Oreg. 366, 49 Pac. 891. But where the complaint showed that the alleged mental incapacity of the grantor was due to his old age, it is not demurrable for failure to allege that he continued to be of unsound mind until his death, or that he disaffirmed the deed after he became of sound mind, as there is no presumption that time gives relief from unsoundness of mind caused by old age. Raymond v. Wathen, 142 Ind. 367, 41 N. E. 815.

1. Hutchinson v. Brown, 1 Clarke (N. Y.) 408.

2. Darnell v. Rowland, 30 Ind. 342.

For forms of complaints sufficiently alleging mental weakness, together with inadequacy of consideration and fraud see Wilson v. Moriarty, 77 Cal. 596, 20 Pac. 134; Peck v. Vinson, 124 Ind. 121, 24 N. E. 726.

3. Jackson v. Rowell, 87 Ala. 685, 6 So. 95, 4 L. R. A. 637.

4. Ashmead v. Reynolds, 134 Ind. 139, 33 N. E. 763, 39 Am. St. Rep. 238.

5. Brice v. Brice, 5 Barb. (N. Y.) 533; Whelan v. Whelan, 3 Cow. (N. Y.) 537.

Forms of complaint.— The complaints in the following cases were held to contain sufficient averments of undue influence and mental weakness. Hick v. Thomas, 90 Cal. 289, 27 Pac. 208, 376; Yount v. Yount, 144 Ind. 133, 43 N. E. 136; Tucker v. Roach, 139 Ind. 275, 38 N. E. 822; Ashmead v. Reynolds, 134 Ind. 139, 33 N. E. 763, 39 Am. St. Rep. 238; Hounshell v. Sams, 10 Ky. L. Rep. 485, 9 S. W. 410; Probasco v. Probasco, 30 N. J. Eq. 63.

6. Nation v. Cameron, 2 Dak. 347, 11 N. W. 525. See also Cobb v. Baker, 95 Me. 89, 49 Atl. 425.

The complaint is insufficient which merely refers to the contract as an exhibit attached to the complaint, since the contract should be incorporated in, or stated in substance in, the

The instrument need not be set out in hæc verba, but it may be pleaded by its legal effect.[7]

3. Excuse For Laches. Where the bill is filed after a considerable lapse of time,[8] and especially after the exercise by the plaintiff of the powers of an owner over the property received by him in the transaction sought to be avoided, the bill should state sufficient reasons for the delay.[9]

4. Statute of Limitations. If fraud is the ground of action, the plaintiff must not allege that the fraud was committed beyond the statute period, unless he brings himself within the exception by alleging that the discovery of the fraud was made within the statutory period.[10]

5. Negativing Bona Fide Purchase. A bill to cancel negotiable securities is not demurrable because it fails to show that defendants are not bona fide holders for value, as in such case the burden of proof is on them;[11] and facts which complaint. Barnett v. Bryce Furnace Co., (Ind. App. 1901) 60 N. E. 363 [appeal denied in 157 Ind. 572, 62 N. E. 6].

The bill is sufficient if it furnishes data from which the identity of the land described in the instrument may be fixed with certainty by evidence aliunde. Pinkston v. Boykin, 130 Ala. 483, 30 So. 398.

7. Anderson v. Gaines, 156 Mo. 664, 57 S. W. 726.

Illustrations.— A petition describing a deed simply as a "conveyance," and failing to allege any consideration, or to aver that the deed was one of gift, is not bad on demurrer as not stating a cause of action. Poe v. Domec, 48 Mo. 441. It is not necessary to state that a contract to purchase land was in writing, as the allegation of the making of the contract implies that it was in writing. McDonald v. Mission View Homestead Assoc., 51 Cal. 210. Under the Code provision that "instruments in writing upon which the complainant's bill is founded" should be annexed to the bill, in a bill to cancel a deed certificates of stock which were the consideration for the land are not such instruments. Carey v. Cincinnati, etc., R. Co., 5 Iowa 357. And it seems that a copy of the note sought to be canceled need not be filed with the complaint, as the note itself is presumably in the possession of the adverse party; at any rate, a cross complaint to cancel a note sued on need not set out a copy of the note. Gardner v. Fisher, 87 Ind. 369.

The failure to set out the conveyance sought to be canceled could only be reached by motion to make the complaint more definite and certain, not by general demurrer. Bishop v. Aldrich, 48 Wis. 619, 4 N. W. 775. And a petition describing the deed simply as a "conveyance," and failing to allege any consideration, or to aver that the deed was one of gift, is informal, and subject to correction on motion to make more definite; but defendant, having gone to trial upon answer, waived the informality, and the allegation is sufficient to let in evidence and sustain a judgment. Poe v. Domec, 48 Mo. 441. It was held that a bill to cancel a deed, which failed to show the name of the grantee or person claiming adversely under it, was fatally defective. Nation v. Cameron, 2 Dak. 347, 11 N. W. 525. But where it was averred that the deed sought to be canceled was executed to the complainant, when it is apparent that the defendant was intended, the defect was cured by a copy of the deed attached to the bill as a part thereof, from which the name of the proper grantee was made to appear. Such a defect, being amendable, would not be considered on motion to dismiss the bill for want of equity. Piedmont Land Imp. Co. v. Piedmont Foundry, etc., Co., 96 Ala. 389, 11 So. 332.

8. Scruggs v. Decatur Mineral, etc., Co., 86 Ala. 173, 5 So. 440; Kerfoot v. Billings, 160 Ill. 563, 43 N. E. 804; Axtel v. Chase, 77 Ind. 74.

9. Fisher v. Boody, 1 Curt. (U. S.) 206, 9 Fed. Cas. No. 4,814. It is not necessary, however, for plaintiff, in a suit to cancel a deed obtained from him, through undue influence, when insane, to negative, by way of recital in his complaint, any confirmation of, or long acquiescence in, such transaction after recovering his mental capacity, in order to entitle him to prove that he acted with reasonable promptness on being restored to reason. Parszyk v. Mach, 10 S. D. 555, 74 N. W. 1027.

Ratification is a matter to be pleaded as a defense, and established by proof; that it need not be negatived by the bill see Northern Pac. R. Co. v. Kindred, 3 McCrary (U. S.) 627, 14 Fed. 77.

10. Le Roy v. Mulliken, 59 Cal. 281; Sublette v. Tinney, 9 Cal. 423; Walker v. Pogue, 2 Colo. App. 149, 29 Pac. 1017; Woods v. James, 87 Ky. 511, 10 Ky. L. Rep. 531, 9 S. W. 513; Carneals v. Parker, 7 J. J. Marsh. (Ky.) 455; Morrill v. Little Falls Mfg. Co., 60 Minn. 405, 62 N. W. 548. In a suit by a vendee to rescind the purchase for fraud, an averment that the fraud was not discovered "until long after the purchase," though indefinite, was held sufficient to bring the case within the exception, where the statutory period was six years, and the suit was commenced six years and twenty-three days after the purchase was consummated. Matlock v. Todd, 25 Ind. 128. See, further, as to pleading an exception to the statute, Embree v. Patrick, 72 Mo. 173.

11. Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Ohio Valley Imp., etc., Co., 57 Fed. 42.

entitle defendant to the rights of a purchaser of real estate for value and without notice of an infirmity in the title of his grantor are matters of defense which need not be excluded by the averments of the petition.[12]

6. Restitution or Tender Before Suit. In those jurisdictions where the complainant is required to make an offer to restore the consideration or benefits received under the contract before bringing suit to rescind the same the bill must show that a sufficient offer was made,[13] or must allege a sufficient excuse for failure to make it.[14]

7. Offer to Do Equity. In nearly all jurisdictions a bill is demurrable in which the complainant does not offer to return any consideration which it shows that he received, or otherwise place defendant in statu quo, or sufficiently excuse himself from that duty.[15] A few courts, however, hold to the contrary and say

12. Gwynne v. Jones, 5 Ohio Cir. Ct. 298. But see Root v. Bancroft, 8 Gray (Mass.) 619 (a bill by a grantor, to avoid a deed which he has been induced to execute by fraud of the owners of other interests in the land, cannot be sustained without averring that the grantee had notice of the fraud or paid no valuable consideration for the deed); Garza v. Scott, 5 Tex. Civ. App. 289, 24 S. W. 89. See also, generally, Notice.

13. Arkansas.— Davis v. Tarwater, 15 Ark. 286.

California.—Buena Vista Fruit, etc., Co. v. Tuohy, 107 Cal. 243, 40 Pac. 386; Hick v. Thomas, 90 Cal. 289, 27 Pac. 208, 376, holding that an allegation made in the language of the statute is sufficient against a general demurrer.

Colorado.—Godding v. Decker, 3 Colo. App. 198, 32 Pac. 832.

Georgia.— Dotterer v. Freeman, 88 Ga. 479, 14 S. E. 863.

Indiana.— Westhafer v. Patterson, 120 Ind. 459, 22 N. E. 414, 16 Am. St. Rep. 330; Burgett v. Teal, 91 Ind. 260; Vance v. Schroyer, 79 Ind. 380.

United States.— Des Moines, etc., R. Co. v. Alley, 3 McCrary (U. S.) 589, 16 Fed. 732.

See 8 Cent. Dig. tit. "Cancellation of Instruments," § 72; and also supra, IV, B, 6, a.

In Wisconsin in a suit in equity for the rescission of a contract on the ground of fraud, failure to show by the complaint willingness to restore what had been received thereon does not go to the cause of action, unless taken advantage of by a special demurrer. Ludington v. Patton, 111 Wis. 208, 86 N. W. 571.

14. Orendorff v. Tallman, 90 Ala. 441, 7 So. 321 (bill need not aver relinquishment of possession by vendee when it alleges that he never had possession); Thrash v. Starbuck, 145 Ind. 673, 44 N. E. 543 (that grantor was insane, and this was known to the grantees); Martin v. Bolton, 75 Ind. 295 (that no consideration was received); Gross v. George W. Scott Mfg. Co., 48 Fed. 35 (that complainant believed a tender would be unavailing); Des Moines, etc., R. Co. v. Alley, 3 McCrary (U. S.) 589, 16 Fed. 732 (that the deed was wholly without consideration). See also supra, IV, B, 2-6.

15. Alabama.—Loxley v. Douglas, 121 Ala. 575, 25 So. 998; Martin v. Martin, 35 Ala. 560; Betts v. Gunn, 31 Ala. 219.

Arkansas.— Johnson v. Walker, 25 Ark. 196.

California.— Buena Vista Fruit, etc., Co. v. Tuohy, 107 Cal. 243, 40 Pac. 386; Potter v. Roeth, (Cal. 1885) 7 Pac. 762.

Colorado.— Travelers' Ins. Co. v. Redfield, 6 Colo. App. 190, 40 Pac. 195.

Illinois.— Dillman v. Nadlehoffer, 119 Ill. 567, 7 N. E. 88; Miller v. Whittaker, 23 Ill. 453; Edmunds v. Myers, 16 Ill. 207.

Indiana.— Westhafer v. Patterson, 120 Ind. 459, 22 N. E. 414, 16 Am. St. Rep. 330; Axtel v. Chase, 77 Ind. 74.

Iowa.— Seymour v. Shea, 62 Iowa 708, 16 N. W. 196; Montgomery v. Gibbs, 40 Iowa 652.

Mississippi.— Shipp v. Wheeless, 33 Miss. 646.

Missouri.— Fry v. Piersol, 166 Mo. 429, 66 S. W. 171.

Montana.— Waite v. Vinson, 14 Mont. 405, 36 Pac. 828.

New York.— Spencer v. Clark, 1 N. Y. Suppl. 533, 15 N. Y. St. 949.

North Carolina.— Martin v. Cook, 59 N. C. 199.

Texas.— Cates v. Sparkman, 73 Tex. 619, 11 S. W. 846, 15 Am. St. Rep. 806; Coddington v. Wells, 59 Tex. 49; Hatch v. Garza, 7 Tex. 60.

United States.— Des Moines, etc., R. Co. v. Alley, 3 McCrary (U. S.) 589, 16 Fed. 732.

See 8 Cent. Dig. tit. "Cancellation of Instruments," § 73.

A bill by a mortgagor to cancel the mortgage must offer to repay the principal and legal interest or whatever is justly due. Grider v. American Freehold Land Mortg. Co., 99 Ala. 281, 12 So. 775, 42 Am. St. Rep. 58; American Freehold Land Mortg. Co. v. Sewell, 92 Ala. 163, 9 So. 143, 13 L. R. A. 299; American Freehold Land, etc., Co. v. Jefferson, 69 Miss. 770, 12 So. 464, 30 Am. St. Rep. 587; Deans v. Robertson, 64 Miss. 195, 1 So. 159. An averment in such a case "that the complainant is not indebted to the defendant in any sum, but offers, if he is mistaken in this, to pay the defendant whatever sum the court may adjudge is due" is in substantial compliance with the rule as to the offer to do equity (New England Mortg. Security Co.

that the offer on the part of the complainant to do equity is purely a formal requirement, and may be dispensed with.[16]

8. WAIVER OR CURE OF DEFECTS. It has been held that an omission to aver a tender or readiness to return the consideration received by the plaintiff, if not taken advantage of by demurrer or answer, is not fatal to the action.[17] When a complaint is defective in some material allegation, and that defect is supplied by the answer, the defect in the complaint is cured.[18]

B. Special Demurrer or Motion to Make More Certain. The following objections, it has been held, must be raised by motion to make the complaint more certain, or by special,[19] not by general, demurrer: A failure to set out in the complaint the conveyance sought to be canceled;[20] that the allegation of offer to

v. Powell, 97 Ala. 483, 12 So. 55); while an averment that "if said interest notes past due are held valid in any event, complainant hereby offers, and is able and willing and ready, to pay the same" is insufficient (Ross v. New England Mortg. Security Co., 101 Ala. 362, 13 So. 564).

A bill by a vendor to cancel the title bond on the ground of non-performance by the vendee must offer to refund what the complainant has received, or show that the vendee has had an equivalent from the use and occupation of the property, or otherwise. Terrill v. Dewitt, 20 Tex. 256.

If the bill avers a disaffirmance and tender before suit on the part of the complainant, a vendor, it need not offer to bring the money into court, as that need only be done as a condition to the final relief. Miller v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., 83 Ala. 274, 4 So. 842, 3 Am. St. Rep. 722.

If the bill shows that no consideration was received by the plaintiff, it is obvious that no offer of restoration is necessary. Larkin v. Mullen, 128 Cal. 449, 60 Pac. 109 (pleadings taken together show that nothing was received by plaintiff); Cumberland Coal, etc., Co. v. Sherman, 20 Md. 117; Des Moines, etc., R. Co. v. Alley, 3 McCrary (U. S.) 589, 16 Fed. 732.

Where a bill filed to vacate a sale of land for fraud averred that defendant had received rents and profits more than sufficient to repay him the amount paid in the purchase, but that, if not, plaintiff offered to pay any sum which should finally appear to be due and owing the defendant, and to perform such other things as the court may determine, fully submitting himself to the equity of the court, there was a sufficient offer on plaintiff's part to do equity. Pinkston v. Boykin, 130 Ala. 483, 30 So. 398.

Where an accounting was also sought, in a suit by a vendor, an averment that the defendant owes the plaintiff more than the amount paid to the plaintiff is equivalent to an offer to credit the defendant with that amount, and is therefore sufficient. Watts v. White, 13 Cal. 321.

Where the bill alleged that the consideration was worthless at the time of the contract, it must either offer to return the stock or show that it is still worthless. Long v. Johnson, 15 Ind. App. 498, 44 N. E. 552.

Where the consideration was the assignment to plaintiff of a patent right, the bill should offer to reconvey the patent right to the defendant. Miller v. Whittaker, 23 Ill. 453.

16. Knappen v. Freeman, 47 Minn. 491, 50 N. W. 533 (holding that the offer to do equity does not constitute part of the plaintiff's cause of action, and that it therefore cannot be required under the code system of pleading); Hay v. Hay, 13 Hun (N. Y.) 315. See also Coffee v. Newsom, 2 Ga. 442; Beecher v. Ackerman, 1 Abb. Pr. N. S. (N. Y.) 141 [citing Schermerhorn v. Talman, 14 N. Y. 93]; Wiley v. Heidell, 12 Heisk. (Tenn.) 98; Jones v. Galbraith, (Tenn. Ch. 1900) 59 S. W. 350.

17. McCormick v. Malin, 5 Blackf. (Ind.) 509; Springport v. Teutonia Sav. Bank, 75 N. Y. 397; Hollenback v. Shoyer, 16 Wis. 499; Dunn v. Amos, 14 Wis. 106.

Timely objection must be made.— If a bill for the discovery, production, and cancellation of a deed and a will was defective in not stating the time when complainants first knew of the existence of the disputed documents, timely objections should have been made by demurrer or otherwise. It is too late to urge such objection for the first time on the argument. Green v. Terwilliger, 56 Fed. 384.

18. Richardson v. Green, 61 Fed. 423, 15 U. S. App. 488, 9 C. C. A. 565 [citing Vernam v. Smith, 15 N. Y. 327; White v. Joy, 13 N. Y. 83; Bate v. Graham, 11 N. Y. 237; Pomeroy Rem. & Rem. Rights, § 579]. In the principal case the court said: "It is true, these decisions arose under the code pleading, but I see no reason why the same rule should not apply under any system of pleading. It would seem highly technical for a court to reverse a cause, and compel a new trial, when all the facts necessary for the proper determination of the cause are before it in the record. I find the same principle is maintained in the federal courts" [citing Cavender v. Cavender, 114 U. S. 464, 5 S. Ct. 955, 29 L. ed. 212; Johnson v. Waters, 111 U. S. 640, 4 S. Ct. 619, 28 L. ed. 547].

19. As to demurrers and motions to make more specific see, generally, EQUITY; PLEADING.

20. Bishop v. Aldrich, 48 Wis. 619, 4 N. W. 775.

return the consideration does not specify when such offer was made;[21] that the time of discovery of the ground of rescission is not alleged with certainty.[22]

C. Plea or Answer. The general rules of equity pleading, so far as applicable, govern the pleas and answers in actions to cancel instruments.[23] If a plea is ambiguous it will be construed as intended to be in conformity with the leave to plead.[24]

D. Counter-Claim or Cross-Bill. Affirmative relief cannot be given to defendant except on counter-claim or cross-bill.[25] A counter-claim for cancellation of a contract cannot be allowed in an action on such contract, where equity would not, on an original complaint, set it aside or restrain assertion of it.[26] By 21. Newman v. Smith, 77 Cal. 22, 18 Pac. 791.

22. Cohen v. Ellis, 16 Abb. N. Cas. (N. Y.) 320.

Defense that petition shows a ratification by acquiescence, with the knowledge of the fraud, it has been said, must be raised by special demurrer or plea, and cannot be reached by general demurrer or motion in arrest of judgment. Moore v. Cross, (Tex. Civ. App. 1894) 26 S. W. 122.

Inconsistency.— In an action to cancel a deed, the complaint stated that the deed was made without consideration, and procured by undue influence, but further showed that there was a sufficient consideration, which had failed, and stated no facts in regard to the exercise of undue influence. It was held sufficient to support a decree for plaintiff, when advantage of the defects was not taken by special demurrer. De Pedrorena v. Hotchkiss, 95 Cal. 636, 30 Pac. 787.

23. See, generally, EQUITY; PLEADING.

Consistency of defenses.— Under the Missouri code provision permitting defendant to set up as many consistent defenses as he may have, legal or equitable, the consistency need be of fact merely. In an action to set aside a deed on the ground of no delivery, there is no inconsistency in pleading in defense the execution and delivery of a prior deed of the same land, in which there was a misdescription of the property, and that the deed attacked was executed to correct the mistake. Crowder v. Searcy, 103 Mo. 97, 15 S. W. 346.

In a suit to set aside deed on the ground of fraud on the part of grantee, by taking advantage of confidential relations between himself and the grantor, where these relations are admitted, the answer must set forth facts going to show that the deed did not result from such confidential relations, and it should also appear that the grantor had independent advice. An answer stating that defendant does not know whether grantor "yielded to the persuasions or solicitations or directions, so fraudulently, as alleged, made by said Van B. De Lashmutt on account of, or by reason of her said alleged confidence in him," etc., is to be construed as an admission that the conveyance was made as a result of the confidential relations, persuasions, etc. German Sav., etc., Soc. v. De Lashmutt, 83 Fed. 33; Starr v. De Lashmutt, 76 Fed. 907.

Where, in a suit for cancellation by vendor on ground of fraud, the defense was that the defendant had made improvements on the land, it was held that the improvements should have been described and their value alleged, and that failing in this the answer was bad. Roy v. Haviland, 12 Ind. 364.

In a suit by a vendee for rescission of the contract of purchase on the ground of the vendor's defective title, the answer of the vendor should set forth his title. Topp v. White, 12 Heisk. (Tenn.) 165.

24. So, where a plea may be construed as a plea of affirmance of a contract sought to be avoided, by the election to affirm the same by adopting remedies inconsistent with its disaffirmance, or as a plea of laches and of acquiescence in the contract; and such plea was filed under leave given to file several pleas, leave to file a plea of laches and general acquiescence being refused by the court, it will be construed as a plea of affirmance by election of inconsistent remedies. Emma Silver Min. Co. v. Emma Silver Min. Co. of New York, 7 Fed. 401.

25. Where affirmative relief sought is cancellation, a cross-bill for that purpose is necessary. Bay v. Shrader, 50 Miss. 326.

In action to cancel deed, where defendant pleads no counter-claim, and prays only that the case be dismissed, it is error to give him a judgment for money expended on the premises, where he merely pleaded such expenditure in connection with other facts which he alleged estopped plaintiff to deny the validity of the deed. Walker v. Walker, 93 Iowa 643, 61 N. W. 930.

26. S. L. Sheldon Co. v. Mayers, 81 Wis. 627, 51 N. W. 1082.

Counter-claim for cancellation.— Where plaintiff sues on coupons, a counter-claim asking cancellation of both bonds and coupons on the ground of fraud is "a cause of action arising out of the contract which is the foundation of plaintiff's claim." Scott v. Menasha, 84 Wis. 73, 54 N. W. 263.

Effect of dismissal of the complaint.—In an action to foreclose a mortgage, the answer prayed for cancellation of the mortgage, but gave no description of the notes and mortgage. Held, that while, after a trial and finding for the defendant the record would suffice to support a decree of cancellation, no such decree could be made when the plaintiff dismissed his complaint upon the filing of the answer. Union Nat. Bank v. Carr, 49 Iowa 359.

the rule in some jurisdictions, persons who are not parties in the original bill cannot be introduced in a cross-bill seeking cancellation.[27]

E. Amendments. The rules relating to amendments under equity practice generally control amendments of pleadings in actions to cancel instruments.[28] Under the code provisions, amendments to pleadings have been allowed which conform the pleadings to the proof and do not substantially change the claim or defense.[29]

F. Variance — 1. In General. On a bill, complaint, or petition, to cancel an instrument on the single ground of the grantor's mental unsoundness and incom-

Counter-claim and cross complaint in action for cancellation.— In a suit to set aside a deed as being a security for a usurious loan, and for an accounting for rents, defendant may set up a counter-claim for rents due from the plaintiff for the use of part of the premises, while the defendant held under such deed; as such counter-claim "tends to diminish the plaintiff's recovery," and "arises out of the transaction set forth as the foundation of the plaintiff's claim," viz., the execution of the deed and contract, and is "connected with the subject of the action," viz.: the real estate in question. Barnes v. Gilmore, 6 N. Y. Civ. Proc. 286.

In a suit to cancel a note and mortgage, and for the recovery of personal property a cross complaint seeking to settle title to real estate to which no claim is made, and the title to which cannot be affected by any judgment which can be properly rendered, is not a proper pleading. Washburn v. Roberts, 72 Ind. 213.

27. Shaw v. Millsaps, 50 Miss. 380; and see EQUITY.

28. See, generally, EQUITY; PLEADING. A petition for the cancellation of a deed on the ground of a breach of a promise by the grantee forming the consideration of the deed is not amendable so as to make a case for cancellation either on the ground that the grantor was mentally incapable of contracting, or was induced by fraud to execute the conveyance. Brand v. Power, 110 Ga. 522, 36 S. E. 53. Where the original bill prayed to have a mortgage canceled, as inoperative and void, an amendment asking, in the alternative, for an account and redemption under the mortgage cannot be allowed. Tatum v. Walker, 77 Ala. 563.

A bill to cancel two mortgages as having been made in evasion of a statute should be amended, before or at the final hearing, to conform to proofs showing the validity of one of the mortgages because the mortgagee had no notice of the attempted evasion. Allen v. McCullough, 99 Ala. 612, 12 So. 810.

An amendment was properly allowed before final decree, which simply made the complainants technically aver a fact which everybody admitted without controversy, and which abundantly appeared in the whole case. Hill v. Nash, 73 Miss. 849, 19 So. 707.

Leave asked, many years after an administrator's sale, to amend a bill to set it aside by introducing new matter presenting a new ground of relief, which would require a rehearing on a new answer, and further testimony, properly refused. Goodbody v. Goodbody, 95 Ill. 456.

The action by the original complainant set up duress by threats to take the complainant's life; an amendment to a supplemental bill by his administrator to show that the threats were carried out is improper, as such killing is only admissible as evidence to establish the allegations of the original bill, and should not be pleaded. Lyster v. Stickney, 4 McCrary (U. S.) 109, 12 Fed. 609. In the same case an amendment showing that the original complainant was insolvent and that the conveyance in question was void against his creditors, who are now represented by the administrator, was allowed.

Under a rule prohibiting amendment of the bill after replication filed, except upon proof that the proposed amendment could not, with reasonable diligence, have been sooner introduced into the bill, plaintiff in a bill to enforce a resulting trust after replication filed was not permitted to amend so as to set up that the deed for the property in question was fraudulent, and to pray for its cancellation, as this was to introduce a new and inconsistent cause of action. Toomey v. Hughes, 8 Pa. Co. Ct. 384.

29. See, generally, PLEADING.

Though complaint to cancel note and mortgage did not state an equitable cause of action, or that plaintiff had no adequate remedy at law, yet, if the proof showed such facts, the answer not having denied them, the trial court could conform the pleadings to the proofs, and grant the relief sought. Palmer v. Jones, 69 Hun (N. Y.) 240, 23 N. Y. Suppl. 584, 53 N. Y. St. 355.

Where complaint was based on undue influence, and the proofs disclosed that the relation of attorney and client existed between defendant and grantor, an amendment was permitted in order to show this. Carter v. West, 93 Ky. 211, 14 Ky. L. Rep. 191, 19 S. W. 592. And in a suit based on undue influence an amendment alleging that the plaintiff was a person of weak understanding, and at the time of the transaction was in financial distress, does not materially change the issue or plead a new cause of action or ground of relief. Clough v. Adams, 71 Iowa 17, 32 N. W. 10.

Where complaint was grounded on mistake by the plaintiff and fraudulent representations by the defendant, and the proof showed the defendant's misrepresentations to have been made innocently, an amendment to conform to the proofs does not change the plain-petency no other question, such as the question of non-delivery of the deed[30] or of undue influence[31] can be considered.[32] A decree based on evidence of usury in the instrument is not warranted by a complaint praying for cancellation on the ground of failure of consideration,[33] or of full compliance with the obligations of the instrument.[34]

2. Where Fraud Is Ground Alleged. When the bill sets up a case of actual fraud, and makes that the ground of the prayer for relief the complainant is not, in general, entitled to a decree by establishing some one or more of the facts, quite independent of fraud, which might by themselves create a case under a distinct head of equity from that which would be applicable to the case of fraud originally.[35] Thus, a bill for rescission on the ground of fraud, it is held, is not sustained by evidence which shows only an honest mistake or innocent misrepresentations.[36] The plaintiff cannot rely on other misrepresentations than those tiff's claim, as the plaintiff's right to a rescission is precisely the same whether the defendant's misrepresentations were made honestly or dishonestly. Knapp v. Fowler, 30 Hun (N. Y.) 512.

30. Snodgrass v. Knight, 43 W. Va. 294, 27 S. E. 233.

31. Averments that grantor was of unsound mind, and that the grantees, by means of false representations, took advantage thereof and caused him to execute the instrument, can raise no issue as to undue influence. Snider v. Wilson, (Iowa 1899) 78 N. W. 802.

32. A bill to set aside a partnership partition on the ground of the complainant's mental unsoundness does not warrant a decree in his favor upon evidence that the partition was so unequal as, in connection with the complainant's incapacity, to raise a presumption of fraud. Doughty v. Doughty, 7 N. J. Eq. 643.

33. Bang v. Phelps, etc., Windmill Co., 96 Tenn. 361, 34 S. W. 516.

34. Schell v. Equitable Loan, etc., Assoc., 150 Mo. 103, 51 S. W. 406. See, generally, Pleading.

Variance as to instrument sought to be canceled.— In the following cases such variance was held to be fatal: On a bill to set aside a deed, where, by the findings and decree, the instrument is found to be a mortgage made to secure a debt to third persons (Cole v. Bean, 1 Ariz. 364, 25 Pac. 537); on a bill to set aside a mortgage as fraudulent, where neither the mortgage nor the bill nor the answer contained any reference to the accompanying note, the existence of such note was not involved in the issue, and evidence with respect to it, which was objected to when taken, must be disregarded at the hearing (Bloomer v. Henderson, 8 Mich. 395, 77 Am. Dec. 453). In the following cases the variance was immaterial: Where a bill for rescission of a purchase of land alleged a conveyance to two of the complainants, while the deed, which was made an exhibit to the bill, conveyed the lands to one of the complainants only. Lanier v. Hill, 25 Ala. 554. A bill to set aside an assignment of judgment on the ground that it was given as security for a debt and alleging that defendant's title was fraudulent because of inadequacy of consideration was held sufficient to support a decree setting aside the assignment on the latter ground, and findings that the sale was absolute, since the bill may be treated as having a double aspect. Morrison v. Smith, 130 Ill. 304, 23 N. E. 241.

Variance as to relief prayed, and relief authorized by the general prayer see infra, XI, A, 1, and note.

35. District of Columbia.— Bailor v. Daly, 7 Mackey (D. C.) 175.

New Jersey.— Hoyt v. Hoyt, 27 N. J. Eq. 399 [affirmed in 28 N. J. Eq. 485].

New York.— Patterson v. Patterson, 1 Rob. (N. Y.) 184.

North Carolina.—McCraw v. Gwin, 42 N. C. 55.

England.— Montesquieu v. Sandys, 18 Ves. Jr. 302, 11 Rev. Rep. 197; 1 Daniell Ch. Pr. 328.

See 8 Cent. Dig. tit. "Cancellation of Instruments," § 96.

"Plaintiffs are not in general allowed to fall back upon any secondary equity — Adams Eq. 164, (176) and they are never allowed to do so, unless such secondary equity is distinctly set out in the bill and relied on as an alternative, so as to give to the defendant full notice and an opportunity to meet the bill in both of its aspects." McCraw v. Gwin, 42 N. C. 55.

If the bill charges fraud and the charge fails there can be no relief under the prayer for general relief. But when the bill (to set aside a trustee's sale) also has such serious allegations as would if true establish that there was no legal sale at all the court may consider such allegations. Bailor v. Daly, 7 Mackey (D. C.) 175.

Where bill was to cancel conveyances for fraud, proof that they constitute a mortgage from which the plaintiff has a right to redeem is a fatal variance. Patterson v. Patterson, 1 Rob. (N. Y.) 184.

Compare Hoagland v. Titus, 16 N. J. Eq. 44, where a bill charging fraud was retained for the purpose of reargument on the ground of surprise.

36. Porter v. Collins, 90 Ala. 510, 8 So. 80; Williams v. Sturdevant, 27 Ala. 598; Belknap v. Sealey, 14 N. Y. 143, 67 Am. Dec. 120 [af- alleged in the bill,[37] and a bill filed to declare a deed false, forged, or counterfeit is not sustained by evidence that it was procured by fraud.[38]

IX. PROOF.[39]

A. Burden of Proof — 1. In General. The rule that the burden to prove a fact is upon him who alleges it applies to proof in actions to cancel instruments.[40] Where, however, the plaintiff grounds his right to relief upon a negative allegation, it is a disputed question whether the onus probandi is upon him or upon defendant.[41]

2. As to Fraud, Mistake, or Undue Influence. Where no confidential relations existed between the parties, the burden of proving that the contract or conveyance was obtained by fraud, mistake, duress, or undue influence rests upon the party attacking it.[42]

firming 2 Duer (N. Y.) 570 (but the variance not considered on appeal, where the objection was not properly taken at the trial)]; Grabush v. Goodman, 1 N. Y. Suppl. 864, 16 N. Y. St. 910. Contra, Lanier v. Hill, 25 Ala. 554; Powell v. Plant, (Miss. 1898) 23 So. 399; St. Francis Church v. Hargous, 39 N. J. Eq. 339.

37. Touchstone v. Staggs, (Tex. Civ. App. 1897) 39 S. W. 189; Wren v. Moncure, 95 Va. 369, 28 S. E. 588, and cases cited. But see Miller v. Bedell, 21 La. Ann. 573, for the rule under the Louisiana practice.

38. Stafford v. Stafford, 1 N. J. Eq. 525.

Variance as to nature of mistake.— A complainant alleged that he was induced to execute certain deeds by the false representations of the defendants, and also through his own ignorance of the fact that the lands had been owned by his mother, and devised by her to him. The evidence utterly failed to substantiate the bill. It was held that he could not be allowed to claim relief on the ground that, although he voluntarily executed the deeds to the defendants, he did so under a mistake as to the extent of his interest in the lands conveyed. Pasman v. Montague, 30 N. J. Eq. 385 [citing Midmer v. Midmer, 27 N. J. Eq. 548; Hoyt v. Hoyt, 27 N. J. Eq. 399; Brantingham v. Brantingham, 12 N. J. Eq. 160; Hickson v. Lombard, L. R. 1 H. L. 324; Ferraby v. Hobson, 16 L. J. Ch. 499, 2 Phil. 255, 22 Eng. Ch. 255; Glascott v. Lang, 11 Jur. 642, 16 L. J. Ch. 429, 2 Phil. 310, 22 Eng. Ch. 310; Montesquieu v. Sandys, 18 Ves. Jr. 302, 11 Rev. Rep. 197; Wilde v. Gibson, 1 H. L. Cas. 605, 12 Jur. 527; Archbold v. Ireland Charitable Donation, etc., Comrs., 2 H. L. Cas. 440].

39. See, generally, Evidence.

40. As to burden of proof generally see Evidence.

Where failure of consideration is the ground for cancellation of a deed made in consideration of the support and maintenance of the grantor the burden of proof is on plaintiff. McCartney v. Bolyard, 22 W. Va. 641.

Non-delivery of deed — Burden of proving the grantee's wrongful possession of the deed is on the grantor. Ward v. Ward, 43 W. Va. 1, 26 S. E. 542.

Burden of proof is on one claiming to be a bona fide purchaser to establish his defense. Colton Imp. Co. v. Richter, 26 Misc. (N. Y.) 26, 55 N. Y. Suppl. 486 [citing Pomeroy Eq. Jur. § 785]. See also, generally, Notice.

Statute of limitations.— Whether the burden of proof is on the defendant interposing the defense of the statute to show that the plaintiff had knowledge of the fraud for longer than the statutory period before the commencement of the action (Shannon v. White, 6 Rich. Eq. (S. C.) 96, 60 Am. Dec. 115), or is on the plaintiff to show that the fraud was not discovered until within the statutory period (Baldwin v. Martin, 14 Abb. Pr. N. S. (N. Y.) 9) is a question that is differently answered in different jurisdictions. See, generally, Limitations of Actions. The burden of proof that the case is within an exception to the statute, relating to the defendant's non-residence, is on the party who invokes the aid of the exception. Evans v. Montgomery, 50 Iowa 325.

Admissions in the answer.— While the general rule of equity pleading is that an answer puts complainant to the proof of those facts which it does not admit, there may be an implied as well as an express admission, dispensing with proof by the plaintiff. Thus, where the bill by a grantee alleged that the grantor had no title, and that he made false representations that he had a perfect title, and the answer did not deny the allegation that the defendant had no title, but relied on the defense that no representations of title were made, the complainant was not obliged to introduce evidence of the negative fact of want of title. Shook v. Proctor, 27 Mich. 377.

41. Thus, when it was part of the plaintiff's cause of action that a deed was never executed, it was incumbent on him to prove the non-execution. Kerr v. Freeman, 33 Miss. 292. While in a suit by vendee to rescind a contract to purchase lands of a prescribed quality, to be chosen by the vendee, the burden was on the vendor to show that he owned lands of such quality. Lynch v. Johnson, 2 Litt. (Ky.) 98.

42. Arkansas.— Blanks v. Clark, 68 Ark. 98, 56 S. W. 1063.

Illinois.— Arnhorst v. National Union, 179

3. In Case of Fiduciary Relations. Where a fiduciary relation existed between the parties to the transaction, the party who held the position of superiority and influence by virtue of the relation has the burden of proving the compliance of the transaction with equitable requisites.[43]

4. As to Mental Incompetency. The burden of proving a grantor's mental incompetency is on those who assail the conveyance.[44] Where the incapacity was not continuous there is a conflict of authority as to the shifting of the burden of proof; some cases holding that it remains on the plaintiff to show the incapacity at the time the instrument was executed, if the deed is in itself reasonable and proper;[45] others holding that the burden is shifted as soon as it is shown that the Ill. 486, 53 N. E. 988 [reversing 74 Ill. App. 482].

Iowa.— Oaks v. Harrison, 24 Iowa 179.

Kentucky.— Wicks v. Dean, 103 Ky. 69, 19 Ky. L. Rep. 1708, 44 S. W. 397.

Louisiana.— Couder v. Oteri, 34 La. Ann. 694.

Massachusetts.— Taylor v. Buttrick, 165 Mass. 547, 43 N. E. 507, 52 Am. St. Rep. 530.

Missouri.— Hatcher v. Hatcher, 139 Mo. 614, 39 S. W. 479; Taylor v. Crockett, 123 Mo. 300, 27 S. W. 620; Brown v. Foster, 112 Mo. 297, 20 S. W. 611. See also Fry v. Piersol, 166 Mo. 429, 66 S. W. 171, duress.

New York.— Spicer v. Spicer, 54 N. Y. Super. Ct. 280; Sims v. May, 1 N. Y. Suppl. 671, 16 N. Y. St. 780.

Ohio.— Lore v. Truman, 1 Ohio Dec. (Reprint) 510, 10 West. L. J. 250.

Pennsylvania.— Williams v. Thomas, 7 Kulp (Pa.) 371.

Wisconsin.— Cooper v. Reilly, 90 Wis. 427, 63 N. W. 885.

United States.— Teakle v. Bailey, 2 Brock. (U. S.) 43, 23 Fed. Cas. No. 13,811.

England.— Harrison v. Guest, 6 De G., M. & G. 424, 2 Jur. N. S. 911, 25 L. J. Ch. 544, 4 Wkly. Rep. 585, 55 Eng. Ch. 331.

See 8 Cent. Dig. tit. "Cancellation of Instruments," § 100.

Extent of rule.— The burden of proof rests upon a complainant to prove fraud alleged in the bill as a ground for setting aside a conveyance, notwithstanding the fact that because of want of personal knowledge by defendants the answer lacks the probative force of an answer under oath made upon actual knowledge. De Roux v. Girard, 112 Fed. 89, 50 C. C. A. 136.

43. In support of the general principle see the following cases:

Alabama.— Burke v. Taylor, 94 Ala. 530, 10 So. 129, principal and agent.

Illinois.— Thomas v. Whitney, 186 Ill. 225, 57 N. E. 808 [affirming 83 Ill. App. 247].

Indiana.— Givan v. Masterson, 152 Ind. 127, 51 N. E. 237.

Michigan.—Whiteley v. Whiteley, 120 Mich. 30, 78 N. W. 1009, gift from parent to child.

New York.— Ten Eyck v. Whitbeck, 156 N. Y. 341, 50 N. E. 963 [reversing 91 Hun (N. Y.) 636, 35 N. Y. Suppl. 1013, 70 N. Y. St. 672, deed from parent to child]; Disbrow v. Disbrow, 31 N. Y. App. Div. 624, 52 N. Y. Suppl. 471; Anderson v. Carter, 24 N. Y. App. Div. 462, 49 N. Y. Suppl. 255; Hayes v. Kerr, 19 N. Y. App. Div. 91, 45 N. Y. Suppl. 1050; Marden v. Dorthy, 12 N. Y. App. Div. 176, 42 N. Y. Suppl. 834, client and attorney.

North Dakota.— Brummond v. Krause, 8 N. D. 573, 80 N. W. 686, parent to child.

Pennsylvania.— Stepp v. Frampton, 179 Pa. St. 284, 36 Atl. 177.

Virginia.— Todd v. Sykes, 97 Va. 143, 33 S. E. 517, parent to child.

Wisconsin.— Doyle v. Welch, 100 Wis. 24, 75 N. W. 400; Cole v. Getzinger, 96 Wis. 559, 71 N. W. 75, deed from dependent father to daughter.

United States.— Starr v. De Lashmutt, 76 Fed. 907.

See 8 Cent. Dig. tit. "Cancellation of Instruments," § 100.

What relations are fiduciary, and what equitable requisites of fairness, independent advice, etc., must be proved in order that the transaction may stand, are questions foreign to the scope of this article. See Pomeroy Eq. Jur. §§ 956, ff.; and supra, II, B, 3, b, (III).

That the mere relation of parent and child does not of itself give rise to a presumption against the validity of a deed from the former to the latter see Hatcher v. Hatcher, 139 Mo. 614, 39 S. W. 479; Doherty v. Noble, 138 Mo. 25, 39 S. W. 458. Compare Whiteley v. Whiteley, 120 Mich. 30, 78 N. W. 1009, where the gift was set aside on what appears to have been very slight evidence of an actual fiduciary relation.

44. Alabama.— Chancellor v. Donnell, 95 Ala. 342, 10 So. 910.

Indiana.— Achey v. Stephens, 8 Ind. 411.

Michigan.— Gibbons v. Dunn, 46 Mich. 146, 9 N. W. 140; Brown v. Brown, 39 Mich. 792.

New Jersey.— Swayze v. Swayze, 37 N. J. Eq. 180.

North Carolina.—Smith v. Smith, 108 N. C. 365, 12 S. E. 1045, 13 S. E. 113.

Ohio.— Lore v. Truman, 1 Ohio Dec. (Reprint) 510, 10 West. L. J. 250.

See 8 Cent. Dig. tit. "Cancellation of Instruments," § 100.

Intoxication.— The burden of proof is on the person alleging intoxication as a ground for cancellation. Conant v. Jackson, 16 Vt. 335.

45. Trimbo v. Trimbo, 47 Minn. 389, 50 N. W. 350; Stewart v. Flint, 59 Vt. 144, 8 Atl. 801.

party was insane prior to the date of the contract, and that those claiming under the contract must prove that it was executed during a lucid interval.[46]

B. Sufficiency of Proof — 1. In General. The cancellation of an executed contract is an exertion of the most extraordinary power of a court of equity, which ought not to be exercised except in a clear case, and never for an alleged fraud, unless the fraud be made clearly to appear.[47] Similarly, cancellation on 46. Achey v. Stephens, 8 Ind. 411; McNett v. Cooper, 13 Fed. 586. See also, generally, Insane Persons.

That the preliminary action of the court in appointing next friends to conduct an action to set aside a power of attorney for mental incapacity of the person executing it does not shift from the plaintiff the burden of proving the insanity see Smith v. Smith, 108 N. C. 365, 12 S. E. 1045, 13 S. E. 113.

47. Atlantic Delaine Co. v. James, 94 U. S. 207, 24 L. ed. 112. See also the following cases:

Alabama.— Johnson v. Rogers, 112 Ala. 576, 20 So. 929.

Illinois.— Condit v. Dady, 56 Ill. App. 545.

Indiana.— Sherrin v. Flinn, 155 Ind. 422, 58 N. E. 549.

Iowa.— Coughlin v. Richmond, 77 Iowa 188, 41 N. W. 613.

Maryland.— Goodwin v. White, 59 Md. 503.

Michigan.— Hunter v. Hopkins, 12 Mich. 227.

Minnesota.— McCall v. Bushnell, 41 Minn. 37, 42 N. W. 545.

Mississippi.—Hall v. Thompson, 1 Sm. & M. (Miss.) 443.

Missouri — Jackson v. Wood, 88 Mo. 76; Bryan v. Hitchcock, 43 Mo. 527.

New Jersey.— Freeman v. Staats, 9 N. J. Eq. 816.

New York.— Taylor v. Fleet, 4 Barb. (N. Y.) 95.

Ohio.— Christmas v. Spink, 15 Ohio 600; Steele v. Worthington, 2 Ohio 182.

Pennsylvania.— Campbell v. Patterson, 95 Pa. St. 447; Schmidt v. Baizley, 6 Pa. Dist. 36, 19 Pa. Co. Ct. 83; In re Yohn, 17 Lanc. L. Rev. 52; Simon's Estate, 9 Pa. Dist. 59.

Tennessee.— Mayberry v. Nichol, (Tenn. Ch. 1896) 39 S. W. 881; Walton v. Blackman, (Tenn. Ch. 1896) 36 S. W. 195.

Wisconsin.— Lavassar v. Washburne, 50 Wis. 200, 6 N. W. 516.

United States.— Lenox v. Notrebe, Hempst. (U. S.) 251, 15 Fed. Cas. No. 8246*c*; Morgan v. New Orleans, etc., R. Co., 2 Woods (U. S.) 244, 17 Fed. Cas. No. 9,804.

See 8 Cent. Dig. tit. "Cancellation of Instruments," § 102.

The cases abound in emphatic expressions as to the necessity of strong evidence to justify cancellation. Many such are collected in Mayberry v. Nichol, (Tenn. Ch. 1896) 39 S. W. 881. A few quotations are given simply as examples. "To justify a court in rescinding a contract . . . upon the ground that it was procured by fraud, the testimony must be of the strongest and most cogent character, and the case a clear one." Condit v. Dady, 56 Ill. App. 545. "It is inexpedient, upon grounds of public policy, that a solemnly executed instrument, known at the time to have been executed for the very purpose of embodying and evidencing the agreements and accomplishing the purposes of the parties, should be set aside upon the ground of fraud, unless the proof be clear and strong." McCall v. Bushnell, 41 Minn. 37, 42 N. W. 545, citing cases. The evidence must be "clear and convincing . . . ; a court of equity cannot grant such relief upon a probability, nor even upon a mere preponderance of the evidence." Johnson v. Rogers, 112 Ala. 576, 20 So. 929. The fraud must be established "beyond controversy," or by "the clearest and most satisfactory evidence" or "to the entire satisfaction of the court." Mayberry v. Nichol, (Tenn. Ch. 1896) 39 S. W. 881. It has been said that the evidence must "bring the mind to the conclusion, without a rational doubt," that the fraudulent representations were made. Coughlin v. Richmond, 77 Iowa 188, 41 N. W. 613. But it may be questioned whether this expression is not too strong. See Southard v. Curley, 134 N. Y. 148, 31 N. E. 330, 45 N. Y. St. 778, 30 Am. St. Rep. 642, 16 L. R. A. 561, reviewing a great number of cases on the analogous question of the degree of proof necessary to warrant reformation of an instrument. It has been held that cancellation will not be decreed on the plaintiff's own uncorroborated testimony. Simon's Estate, 9 Pa. Dist. 59; Schmidt v. Baizley, 6 Pa. Dist. 36, 19 Pa. Co. Ct. 83.

That the degree of proof required is the same as in an action to reform an instrument for mistake see Lavassar v. Washburne, 50 Wis. 200, 6 N. W. 516. Contra, Martin v. Hill, 41 Minn. 337, 43 N. W. 337, where it was declared that no greater amount of evidence is required to establish the facts, in an action to rescind a contract on the ground of false representations, than is required to establish similar facts in any other kind of action; that herein the action for rescission differs from that for reformation and from the action to declare a deed absolute on its face to be a mortgage.

To obtain cancellation of an instrument on the ground of its alteration since execution, the plaintiff must prove the fact of alteration; he cannot rest his case upon a technical presumption arising from suspicious circumstances. Putnam v. Clark, 33 N. J. Eq. 338.

Sufficiency of proof of duress.— Where, in an action to set aside and cancel a deed, plaintiff shows that the deed was executed the ground of mistake will not be decreed except upon strong and conclusive proof.[48] In general, to justify the cancellation of a contract requires a stronger case than is required to resist a specific performance.[49]

2. EFFECT OF DELAY. When there has been a long delay on the plaintiff's part in the assertion of his rights, the courts are emphatic in their declarations that he must "make out a case plain, clear and decisive," [50] especially where important witnesses have in the meantime died.[51]

X. QUESTIONS OF LAW AND FACT.

The following have been held to be proper questions of fact for the jury: [52] Whether the instrument was made because the defendant's representations were believed by the plaintiff; [53] whether the defendant at the time of making promises alleged to be fraudulent had no intention of performing them; [54] and whether a contract was ratified by plaintiff after discovery of the fraud.[55] The question whether an offer to rescind was made within a reasonable time after the discovery of the fraud, where there are no facts involved, except the simple fact of the length of time that has elapsed, is a question of law; but where disputed facts involving questions of excuse, of time of discovery of the fraud, etc., are to be passed upon, the question is a mixed one of law and fact.[56] by her without consideration other than an agreement not to prosecute her husband for an alleged crime, and under threats of prosecution and punishment if she did not sign it, a sufficient case is made to put defendant on his defense, and a motion for a nonsuit should be denied. Gorringe v. Read, 23 Utah 120, 63 Pac. 902.

Insufficiency of evidence of fraud to warrant submission to jury.— See Cutler v. Roanoke R., etc., Co., 128 N. C. 477, 39 S. E. 30, discussing also the question of plaintiff's negligence in relying on the misrepresentation.

48. Maine.— Stover v. Poole, 67 Me. 217.
Maryland.— Beall v. Greenwade, 9 Md. 185.
New York.—Taylor v. Fleet, 4 Barb. (N. Y.) 95.
Texas.— Hirsch v. Jones, (Tex. Civ. App. 1897) 42 S. W. 604.
West Virginia.— Weidebusch v. Hartenstein, 12 W. Va. 760.
See 8 Cent. Dig. tit. "Cancellation of Instruments," § 102.

49. Stearns v. Beckham, 31 Gratt. (Va.) 379.

50. Iowa.— Robinson v. Gould, 26 Iowa 89.
Michigan.— Richardson v. Medbury, 107 Mich. 176, 65 N. W. 4.
Missouri.— Davis v. Fox, 59 Mo. 125.
Pennsylvania.— Richard's Appeal, 100 Pa. St. 51; Waterman v. Brown, 31 Pa. St. 161.
West Virginia.— Weidebusch v. Hartenstein, 12 W. Va. 760.
United States.— See Jenkins v. Pye, 12 Pet. (U. S.) 241, 9 L. ed. 1070; Lenox v. Notrebe, Hempst. (U. S.) 251, 15 Fed. Cas. No. 8,246c.
See 8 Cent. Dig. tit. "Cancellation of Instruments," § 103; and, generally, supra, III, C, 3.

51. Robinson v. Gould, 26 Iowa 89; Richardson v. Medbury, 107 Mich. 176, 65 N. W. 4; Jenkins v. Pye, 12 Pet. (U. S.) 241, 9 L. ed. 1070.

52. See, generally, as to the functions of a jury in suits in equity, EQUITY; TRIAL.
Generally, neither party can demand a jury trial as a matter of right, but the court may, in its discretion, order any issue or issues of fact to be tried by a jury. Maclellan v. Seim, 57 Kan. 471, 46 Pac. 959. The verdict is generally merely advisory. Goodloe v. McLanathan, 6 T. B. Mon. (Ky.) 310. That a general verdict will not support a decree in a suit for cancellation on the ground of fraud see Crow v. Holland, 12 N. C. 481.
Proper submission.— Where the chancellor in a suit to rescind a sale and conveyance of real estate submits hypothetical statements of facts which the evidence tends to establish, and states the law applicable thereto, it is not error to submit the issue whether the sale and conveyance were fraudulent, though such issue raises a mixed question of law and fact. McElya v. Hill, 105 Tenn. 319, 59 S. W. 1025.
Refusal to submit, when proper.— Where suit is brought to rescind the sale and conveyance of real estate for the fraud of the vendor, it is not error to refuse to submit issues which attempt to make each separate fact tending to show fraud the basis of a separate issue. McElya v. Hill, 105 Tenn. 319, 59 S. W. 1025.

53. McCormick Harvesting Mach. Co. v. Mays, (Tex. Civ. App. 1896) 33 S. W. 883.

54. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Titterington, 84 Tex. 218, 19 S. W. 472, 31 Am. St. Rep. 39.

55. Evans v. Goggan, 5 Tex. Civ. App. 129, 23 S. W. 854.

56. Gatling v. Newell, 9 Ind. 572.
A petition to cancel a deed of homestead, alleging that such deed, in connection with a contemporaneous agreement to reconvey, is in effect a mortgage, and therefore void, but not averring that it was intended as a security, rests entirely on the legal effect of the instruments, and presents no question for

XI. RELIEF GRANTED.

A. To Complainant — 1. Cancellation or Rescission — a. In General. A general prayer for relief will authorize cancellation.[57]

b. And Discharge of Record. When a deed is set aside, the decree may, as a matter of public convenience, direct that the fact be entered on the margin of the deed books where these instruments are recorded.[58]

c. And Reconveyance. Where a deed is set aside, it is usual to direct a reconveyance from the party claiming under it, with covenants against his own acts.[59]

d. And Surrender of Instrument. Surrender or delivery up of the instrument is usually an incident of cancellation, but a decree adjudging the instrument to be null and void as against the plaintiff, and leaving it in the defendant's hands, may sometimes be the more appropriate relief.[60] the jury. Kuhn v. Foster, 16 Tex. Civ. App. 465, 41 S. W. 716.

Issues which only involved matters of evidence bearing on the main issue were submitted erroneously, as such issues tended to obscurity and confusion. Timmons v. Westmoreland, 72 N. C. 587.

57. Laverty v. Sexton, 41 Iowa 435 (action to quiet title); Bolware v. Craig, 1 Litt. Sel. Cas. (Ky.) 407 (action by vendee for discovery of vendor's title and recovery of purchase-money); Prewit v. Graves, 5 J. J. Marsh. (Ky.) 114; Polk v. Rose, 25 Md. 153, 89 Am. Dec. 773 (bill quia timet; void tax deed under which defendant claimed, canceled under the general prayer for relief); Clagett v. Hall, 9 Gill & J. (Md.) 80. In a suit by a grantor to cancel the deed, under the prayer for general relief it is proper to order a deed made by one defendant to a co-defendant to be canceled also. McClun v. McClun, 176 Ill. 376, 52 N. E. 928.

Damages not specially prayed for.—The absence from a complaint, to cancel a conveyance for fraud, of a formal demand for judgment for an amount claimed to be due plaintiffs from defendant will not prevent a judgment from being rendered therefor on the law side of the court, where the complaint contains other allegations sufficient to warrant its rendition. Sires v. Sires, 43 S. C. 266, 21 S. E. 115. See also Triggs v. Jones, 46 Minn. 277, 48 N. W. 1113.

Decree treating deed as a mortgage.—An issue tendered by the plaintiff and accepted by defendant, as to the invalidity of a deed on the grounds of fraud, undue influence, and insanity of the grantor, does not support a decree based on the ground that the deed was valid as a mortgage, and directing a sale of the land. Ross v. Ross, 81 Mo. 84. On a bill to set aside a deed on the ground of fraud, with no allegation that the deed was a mortgage, nor prayer to redeem, a decree fixing a time within which complainant must redeem or leave the deed absolute is far more favorable to complainant than it was entitled to receive under the allegations of its bill, and it has no just ground of complaint that the decree did not order the premises sold, with the statutory right of redemption. Chicago, etc., Rolling Mill Co. v. Scully, 141 Ill. 408, 30 N. E. 1062 [affirming 43 Ill. App. 622].

In an action to set aside a mortgage for fraud, where the evidence shows merely that plaintiff had been fraudulently induced to create a greater liability than was intended, plaintiff is entitled to relief against such excess. Ritter v. Devine, 80 Hun (N. Y.) 303, 30 N. Y. Suppl. 155, 62 N. Y. St. 29.

On a petition to cancel a note and trust deed securing it for fraud, asking merely for the cancellation of the note, where the note and deed had been transferred by the defendant to a bona fide purchaser, who is not a party, a money judgment against the defendant for the amount of the note and interest was held to be unwarranted. Crawford v. Aultman, 139 Mo. 262, 40 S. W. 952.

The proper decree where a mortgagor files a bill to cancel a mortgage past due, which his adversary is seeking to foreclose, and the court finds the mortgage to be valid, is a decree for redemption. Every such bill is regarded as in the alternative a bill to redeem, upon the principle that a complainant seeking equity must be prepared to do equity. Goodenow v. Curtis, 33 Mich. 505.

58. Fenton v. Way, 44 Iowa 438; Jones v. Porter, 59 Miss. 628.

59. Dey v. Dunham, 2 Johns. Ch. (N. Y.) 182; Clark v. Malpas, 4 De G., F. & J. 410, 65 Eng. Ch. 310.

Otherwise when the title did not pass to the defendant, the deed being void in its inception; in such case the decree should be that the deed be delivered up and canceled. Upton v. Archer, 41 Cal. 85, 10 Am. Rep. 266.

When a bill is filed by a prior purchaser of real estate to avoid a subsequent conveyance by his vendor made in fraud of his rights it is not proper to require the subsequent purchaser to convey his title to the complainant. The proper decree is to declare the title of the subsequent purchaser void, and the complainant must look to his vendor alone for a conveyance. Coari v. Olsen, 91 Ill. 273.

60. As in a suit by one whose name has been forged to a negotiable instrument against the indorsee, where the decree left the note in the defendant's hands, in order to

e. Partial Cancellation or Rescission. It is a general rule, subject to some exceptions,[61] that a court of equity will not decree a partial rescission of an entire contract.[62]

2. Additional or Alternative Relief — a. In General. Where the court has obtained jurisdiction to cancel an instrument or rescind a contract, it may and often does give complete relief in the premises.[63] Thus the court may in a proper case award an injunction,[64] direct an accounting,[65] order a sale of property.[66] So enable him to enforce whatever rights he might have against his indorser. Huston v. Roosa, 43 Ind. 517.

61. Prewit v. Graves, 5 J. J. Marsh. (Ky.) 114. See infra, XI, A, 2, b, c.

Cancellation as to one of the complainants. — A decree setting aside a deed in toto for defect in the acknowledgment of the wife, and vesting her with all the rights of the grantee, was held to be erroneous, the proper decree being simply to set aside the deed as to her. Mays v. Pryce, 95 Mo. 603, 8 S. W. 731. Where a mortgage by husband and wife of the wife's separate property was obtained by duress practised on the wife, or was defectively acknowledged by her, it is error to cancel the instrument entirely, but it should be left operative as to the husband's interest. Ferebee v. Hinton, 102 N. C. 99, 8 S. E. 922; Ware v. Nesbit, 94 N. C. 664.

Cancellation as to several tracts of land. — Where plaintiffs sued to cancel a deed to a certain part of a tract of land, alleging that tract to have been unintentionally included with a tract which the grantor intended to convey, a decree canceling the deed as to both tracts was erroneous. Benn v. Pritchett, 163 Mo. 560, 63 S. W. 1103.

62. Gatling v. Newell, 9 Ind. 572; Prewit v. Graves, 5 J. J. Marsh. (Ky.) 114; Step v. Alkire, 2 A. K. Marsh. (Ky.) 257; Johnston v. Mitchell, 1 A. K. Marsh. (Ky.) 225, 10 Am. Dec. 727; York v. Gregg, 9 Tex. 85; Bailey v. James, 11 Gratt. (Va.) 468, 62 Am. Dec. 659.

A contract must be rescinded, if at all, in toto; and though its rescission cannot leave the parties in every respect as they were at the making of the contract, yet, as to the contract itself they may be so — that is, as not being contracting parties, nor under any liabilities on account of having been such. Gatling v. Newell, 9 Ind. 572. See also supra, IV, B, 1. But see Paquin v. Milliken, 163 Mo. 79, 63 S. W. 417, 1092; in this case a partnership engaged in the manufacture of anti-toxine for tuberculosis, and the conducting of experiments therefor, was dissolved; the withdrawing partner agreeing not to engage in the same business or experiments for a year thereafter, and receiving notes as part of the consideration for his interest in the firm. In a suit to cancel the notes, and for an accounting, for the fraud of the withdrawing partner in having experimented for the discovery of such anti-toxine, made during the year after the dissolution, a decree canceling the notes was entered. It was held that such decree was not erroneous as not rescinding the contract in toto, and restoring defendant to the status quo existing when the contract was made, as such rescission and restoration were rendered impossible by the nature of the circumstances and defendant's fraud.

63. As to jurisdiction of courts of equity see, generally, EQUITY.

Contracts in general. — A court of equity, when it has jurisdiction to cancel a contract, has power to order repayment of the consideration of the contract. Cohen v. Ellis, 16 Abb. N. Cas. (N. Y.) 320.

Lien of municipal assessment. — Where the court has obtained jurisdiction to cancel such lien as a cloud on plaintiff's title to real estate it will grant all the relief in the premises to which the plaintiff is entitled. Sewall v. St. Paul, 20 Minn. 511.

Sheriff's deed. — Where land equitably belonging to the separate estate of a married woman was sold under execution against her husband, equity having jurisdiction to cancel the deed, will give full and complete relief by decreeing possession to the wife. Woodsworth v. Tanner, 94 Mo. 124, 7 S. W. 104 [citing Pomeroy Eq. Jur. § 177].

Sale of chattels. — When the court took jurisdiction to rescind the contract on the ground of the defendant's refusal to comply with his part of the agreement, the vendor could recover no more than the real value of the articles delivered under the contract. Steele v. Nashville, 10 Yerg. (Tenn.) 295. Under the Kentucky act of 1838, authorizing bills in equity to rescind fraudulent sales of chattels, or for compensation, if the property purchased be so changed that it cannot be restored in kind, a decree may be made for the payment of full compensation in money. Bohannon v. Kerr, 1 B. Mon. (Ky.) 87.

64. See, generally, INJUNCTIONS.

Injunction. — Where the court has obtained jurisdiction to cancel a mortgage on the ground of payment of the note secured thereby, it may give complete relief by enjoining the collection of a judgment tortiously obtained upon the note. Rickle v. Dow, 39 Mich. 91.

65. See, generally, ACCOUNTS AND ACCOUNTING.

Accounting. — Where the plaintiff obtains a decree from a court of equity setting aside a release of his interest in the estate of defendant's intestate, the court will give complete relief by ordering an accounting and will not turn the plaintiff over to the surrogate. Busch v. Busch, 12 Daly (N. Y.) 476.

66. See, generally JUDICIAL SALES.

in a proper case, the court may order a partition of realty where it has obtained jurisdiction to cancel or rescind a conveyance.[67]

b. Awarded to Grantor or Vendor—(I) COMPENSATION WHERE GRANTEE CANNOT RECONVEY. Where the grantee has conveyed the property, or part of it, to another, or for other reason cannot restore it, the plaintiff is entitled to a money judgment for the value of the land, the restoration of which is thus impossible;[68] such relief being given on the principle that the court having obtained jurisdiction will retain the case for the purpose of giving complete relief.

(II) WHERE INSTRUMENT WAS MADE IN CONSIDERATION OF SUPPORT. In several cases, where grounds for the cancellation of deeds made by aged parents to their children in consideration of maintenance and support were not established sufficiently to warrant a decree of cancellation, the defendants were ordered to pay a suitable allowance for the support of the grantors,[69] or other suitable arrangements were directed to be made for that purpose through the intervention of a master.[70]

(III) RECOVERY OF RENTS AND PROFITS. Where the grantor is entitled to cancellation of the deed on the ground of fraud, he is also entitled to the rents and profits of the land for the time that the grantee was wrongfully in possession.[71] But when the ground for cancellation was mutual mistake, and no demand was made by the grantor previous to filing his bill, rents and profits were decreed to the plaintiff only from that time.[72]

Sale of trust property.— The court, having taken jurisdiction to set aside a release of a debt secured by a trust deed, granted full relief by entering a personal decree against the debtor for the unpaid balance of the debt, and ordering a sale of the trust property to pay such balance. Fleshman v. Hoylman, 27 W. Va. 728.

67. See, generally, PARTITION.

Partition.— A bill sought to set aside, for fraud, a deed of partition and to have a new partition made, not only of the land embraced in such deed, but also of other land owned in common by the plaintiff and defendant. The charge of fraud was not established. Held that the bill would be retained to make a partition of the land not embraced in the deed. Masterson v. Finnigan, 2 R. I. 316.

68. Alabama.— Bullock v. Tuttle, 90 Ala. 435, 8 So. 69.

Georgia.— Atlanta, etc., R. Co. v. Hodnett, 36 Ga. 669.

Illinois.— Long v. Fox, 100 Ill. 43; Hopkins v. Snedaker, 71 Ill. 449; Underwood v. West, 52 Ill. 397.

Minnesota.— Erickson v. Fisher, 51 Minn. 300, 53 N. W. 638.

New York.— Daiker v. Strelinger, 28 N. Y. App. Div. 220, 50 N. Y. Suppl. 1074; Valentine v. Richards, 13 N. Y. Suppl. 417, 35 N. Y. St. 641.

Tennessee.— Coleman v. Satterfield, 2 Head (Tenn.) 259.

See 8 Cent. Dig. tit. "Cancellation of Instruments," § 115.

This rule applies, where a part or all of the land has been conveyed to a bona fide purchaser (Hopkins v. Snedaker, 71 Ill. 449; Underwood v. West, 52 Ill. 397; Valentine v. Richards, 13 N. Y. Suppl. 417, 35 N. Y. St. 641; Coleman v. Satterfield, 2 Head (Tenn.) 259); or where the grantee has made extensive improvements on the land, and a restoration of status quo is therefore impossible (Bullock v. Tuttle, 90 Ala. 435, 8 So. 69).

In a suit by the donor of a right of way to a railroad to cancel the conveyance for fraudulent representations, the judgment confirmed the title in the railroad company, and allowed the plaintiff the value of the property when originally taken, together with damages for the use and occupation. Atlanta, etc., R. Co. v. Hodnett, 36 Ga. 669.

In a suit against an insane person's grantee who mortgaged the land to a bona fide mortgagee a personal decree that the grantee pay the mortgage is proper. Long v. Fox, 100 Ill. 43.

What compensation secured by lien.— Where the plaintiff received as compensation a cash payment and an interest in other lands, and proves fraudulent representations as to the latter, but rescission of the exchange was impossible, the decree directed a reconveyance of the interest in the lands received by plaintiff, and that a vendor's lien for the estimated value of such interest be declared in plaintiff's favor on the lands which he had originally conveyed to the defendant. Bullock v. Tuttle, 90 Ala. 435, 8 So. 69. See also Hopkins v. Snedaker, 71 Ill. 449.

69. Fitz Patrick v. Fitz Patrick, 91 Mich. 394, 51 N. W. 1058; Patton v. Nixon, 33 Oreg. 159, 52 Pac. 1048 (such allowance made a charge on the property conveyed); Keeler v. Baker, 1 Heisk. (Tenn.) 639.

70. Keltner v. Keltner, 6 B. Mon. (Ky.) 40.

71. Atlanta, etc., R. Co. v. Hodnett, 36 Ga. 669; Mosely v. Miller, 13 Bush (Ky.) 408; Wampler v. Wolfinger, 13 Md. 337; Hack v. Norris, 46 Mich. 587, 10 N. W. 104. See also Fabrice v. Von der Brelie, 190 Ill. 460, 60 N. E. 835.

72. Irick v. Fulton, 3 Gratt. (Va.) 184.

(iv) Where Vendor Seeks to Cancel Contract of Sale. Where the vendor seeks cancellation of the contract of sale on the ground of the vendee's default in payment of the purchase-money, it is proper for the court to make a decree canceling the contract unless, within a reasonable time fixed by the court, payment shall be made of all which may be due at such time, including a sum not due at the time the decision is made.[73]

c. Awarded to Grantee or Vendee — (i) Compensation in Place of Rescission. Where a defect in the land or title was fraudulently concealed by the vendor,[74] it was held that the vendee might either have the whole contract set aside, or have compensation for the defect.[75] Where the title to a portion of the land was defective, and that portion was not of such consequence relatively to the whole that the plaintiff would not have bought the land at all without it, he was entitled to a diminution of the price only;[76] but where the vendor could not give title to a part which formed a principal inducement to the purchase, the contract should be rescinded altogether and not enforced with a ratable deduction of the purchase-money.[77]

(ii) Vendee's Lien. Where rescission is decreed at the suit of the vendee, the court may declare a lien on the land for the repayment of the purchase-money, and order a sale of the land if the money is not repaid by a specified day.[78]

(iii) Cancellation of Purchase-Money Notes. Cancellation of the purchase-money notes which are still outstanding,[79] or injunction against their collection, unless they have passed into the hands of a bona fide holder in the course of trade,[80] as well as recovery of the portion of the purchase-money already paid,[81] is proper relief to be awarded on a decree for rescission at the suit of the vendee.

(iv) Where Consideration Consists of Personalty. Where the consid-

73. Nelson v. Hanson, 45 Minn. 543, 48 N. W. 410.

Where vendor has exercised the right, conferred on him by the contract, to terminate the vendee's equitable estate in the land for default in payments, his only remedy is cancellation, and not a decree for the sale of such equitable estate. Derickson v. Chicago South Branch Dock Co., 18 Ill. App. 531.

74. But where the representation as to the condition of the land were innocently made, and a small sum of money would supply the defect, payment of that sum was decreed in place of rescission. Downes v. Bristol, 41 Conn. 274.

75. Jopling v. Dooley, 1 Yerg. (Tenn.) 289, 24 Am. Dec. 450.

76. Robbins v. Martin, 43 La. Ann. 488, 9 So. 108; Sadler v. Wilson, 40 N. C. 296.

77. York v. Gregg, 9 Tex. 85. And see Bailey v. James, 11 Gratt. (Va.) 468, 62 Am. Dec. 659.

Alternative relief.— In an action to foreclose a mortgage, defendants pleaded fraud in the sale to them of the mortgaged premises, consisting of a farm devoted to grape culture, and asked damages and for a rescission of the sale. The defendants had destroyed a considerable portion of the grape vines and the premises were not in as good condition as when purchased. It was held that a rescission should not be decreed, but that plaintiff should be given his option to accept the amount due on the mortgage, less the damages assessed, or to rescind, and return the purchase-money, less such sum as would compensate him for the deterioration in the value of the farm. Lurch v. Holder, (N. J. 1893) 27 Atl. 81. Where the plaintiff failed to establish a case for reformation or cancellation, it was held that the court had no jurisdiction to enter a pecuniary judgment in his favor for money advanced by him under the contract, or for damages resulting from the defendant's fraudulent representations and breach of warranty of title. Betts v. Gunn, 31 Ala. 219; Robertson v. Hogsheads, 3 Leigh (Va.) 667.

Rents and profits.— In a suit to rescind on the ground of vendor's delay in making a conveyance, where rescission was refused on account of the plaintiff's default in making payments, the defendant, who had retained possession of the land, was ordered to account for the rents and profits from the time when possession was to have been given to the plaintiff. Mason v. Chambers, 3 T. B. Mon. (Ky.) 318.

78. McWilliams v. Jenkins, 72 Ala. 480; Foster v. Gressett, 29 Ala. 393; Bibb v. Prather, 1 Bibb (Ky.) 313 (vendee entitled to hold the land subject to reimbursement of the money he has paid out); Pilcher v. Smith, 2 Head (Tenn.) 208.

79. Although there is a complete defense at law against the notes. Scruggs v. Driver, 31 Ala. 274.

80. Without regard to the vendor's solvency. Lanier v. Hill, 25 Ala. 554.

81. Although there is an adequate remedy at law for the recovery of the money. Lanier v. Hill, 25 Ala. 554.

eration consists of personal property, which the vendor is unable to restore, the vendee may recover its fair value.[82]

(v) Improvements. If the vendee was justified in retaining possession up to the final decree, he is entitled to a fair allowance for any improvements made by him upon the land, either before or after the filing of the bill, which were necessary to render the possession beneficial and profitable.[83]

3. Where Cancellation Has Become Impossible Since Suit Commenced. Where cancellation has become impossible since the suit was instituted, the court may retain jurisdiction to grant other relief, if sufficient remains to warrant equitable interference.[84]

B. To Defendant — 1. In General. The general principles relating to the restoration of the status quo have been already treated.[85]

2. Accounting of Rents and Profits. If the complainant is a vendee, seeking rescission of his contract of purchase, he must account to his vendor for his use and occupation of the land from the time when he received possession,[86] and for any waste committed by him.[87]

3. Allowance For Improvements and Expenditures. In a suit for rescission by the vendor, the vendee is generally entitled to an allowance for the value of permanent and valuable improvements placed by him upon the land [88] and to the

82. Smade v. Mann, (Ark. 1890) 14 S. W. 1095 (such compensation decreed as alternative to a return of the chattels, together with the value of their use, and damages done to them beyond the ordinary wear); Harper v. Terry, 70 Ind. 264.

83. Foster v. Gressett, 29 Ala. 393. But compare Peyton v. Butler, 3 Hayw. (Tenn.) 140.

84. State v. McKay, 43 Mo. 594.

For further instances of damages given in place of cancellation see Edwards v. Hanna, 5 J. J. Marsh. (Ky.) 18; Carroll v. Rice, Walk. (Mich.) 373.

85. See supra, IV, B.

Illustrations of relief to defendant.—Where the decree in favor of complainant in a suit to cancel notes and a trust deed requires the complainant to pay the money received thereon, it is erroneous if it fails to require the payment of interest thereon. Chandler v. Ward, 83 Ill. App. 315 [reversed on other grounds in 188 Ill. 322, 58 N. E. 919]. Complainant deeded a farm to a son, in consideration of his agreement to pay his parents' debts, care for them during life, and pay certain sums to his brothers in ten years, for which he gave notes. After complying satisfactorily with the conditions for some years, the son died, leaving his wife, the defendant, but no children. His brothers quitclaimed their interest as his heirs to the complainant, who sued to determine defendant's interest in the farm and recover the title. The court granted such relief on condition that defendant be paid five hundred dollars, and plaintiff restore to her the notes given by her husband to his brothers. It was held that such condition was proper and equitable. Coe v. Dickerson, (Mich. 1901) 87 N. W. 1028, 8 Detroit Leg. N. 838. Where a bill to rescind transfers of realty and personalty prayed that defendant be ordered to deliver the personal property he received as far as possible, defendant, on decree against him, is entitled to deliver up any particular property found to have been wrongfully obtained, and receive credit for the amount charged against him on account of those particular articles. Parker v. Simpson, 180 Mass. 334, 62 N. E. 401.

86. Connecticut.— Penfield v. Penfield, 41 Conn. 474.

Illinois.— Underwood v. West, 52 Ill. 397.

Indiana.— Axtel v. Chase, 77 Ind. 74.

Mississippi.— Shipp v. Wheeless, 33 Miss. 646.

North Carolina.— Wood v. Wheeler, 106 N. C. 512, 11 S. E. 590; Reed v. Exum, 84 N. C. 430.

South Carolina.— Adams v. Kibler, 7 S. C. 47.

West Virginia.—Worthington v. Collins, 39 W. Va. 406, 19 S. E. 527.

See 8 Cent. Dig. tit. "Cancellation of Instruments," § 123.

But see Halley v. Winchester Diamond Lodge, 97 Ky. 438, 17 Ky. L. Rep. 293, 30 S. W. 999.

The vendee may be held to account for the actual annual rental value of the land, whether rented or not, from the time when he came into possession. Worthington v. Campbell, 8 Ky. L. Rep. 416, 1 S. W. 714.

The amount paid by the vendee for taxes may be deducted from the rents and profits (Worthington v. Collins, 39 W. Va. 406, 19 S. E. 527); but not his counsel fees in the suit for rescission (Garner v. Leverett, 32 Ala. 410).

When the vendor is proceeding independently at law to recover the rents and profits, the vendee is not required to account for them in the suit for rescission. Tennell v. Roberts, 2 J. J. Marsh. (Ky.) 577.

87. Worthington v. Collins, 39 W. Va. 406, 19 S. E. 527; Adams v. Kibler, 7 S. C. 47.

88. District of Columbia.— McIntire v. Pryor, 10 App. Cas. (D. C.) 432.

Georgia.— Macon v. Huff, 60 Ga. 221, reimbursement to lessee.

reimbursement of money expended by him in good faith in order to protect the title.[89]

4. Lien in Favor of Defendant. In a decree rescinding a sale of land at the suit of the grantor or vendor, a lien is frequently declared on the land to secure the repayment of the purchase-money[90] or the allowance for improvements;[91] and in canceling a mortgage it may be allowed to stand as security for the mortgagee's actual advances and charges.[92]

Illinois.— Oard v. Oard, 59 Ill. 46. See also Fabrice v. Von der Brelie, 190 Ill. 460, 60 N. E. 835.

Maryland.— Smith v. Townshend, 27 Md. 368, 92 Am. Dec. 637.

Missouri.— McClure v. Lewis, 72 Mo. 314.

Oregon.— Tyler v. Cate, 29 Oreg. 515, 45 Pac. 800.

Texas.— Chaney v. Coleman, 77 Tex. 100, 13 S. W. 850.

United States.—McAlister v. Barry, Brunn. Col. Cas. (U. S.) 24, 15 Fed. Cas. No. 8,656.

See 8 Cent. Dig. tit. "Cancellation of Instruments," § 124.

But see Moore v. Giesecke, 76 Tex. 543, 13 S. W. 290; Knox v. Earbee, (Tex. Civ. App. 1896) 35 S. W. 186; Prickett v. Muck, 74 Wis. 199, 42 N. W. 256.

In case of fraud on the vendee's part in obtaining the conveyance, some authorities hold that he is entitled to no allowance for improvements. Ames v. Witbeck, 179 Ill. 458, 53 N. E. 969; Mosely v. Miller, 13 Bush (Ky.) 408; Linthicum v. Thomas, 59 Md. 574. But compare Fabrice v. Von der Brelie, 190 Ill. 460, 60 N. E. 835.

In case of grantor's mental incapacity.— The grantee in a deed which is vacated on the ground of the grantor's want of mental capacity is not entitled to repayment of the consideration named in the deed and cost of his improvements, when no consideration was in fact paid, and the improvements do not exceed in value the rent for his use of the land. Ring v. Lawless, 190 Ill. 520, 60 N. E. 881. The grantee in a deed, which is set aside for the grantor's mental incapacity, is not entitled to compensation for his improvements, when made in bad faith, and their value is fully covered by his use of the land. Lillard v. Coffee, (Tenn. Ch. 1901) 61 S. W. 1037.

Set off for improvements.— A number of cases assert a right on the vendee's part merely to have the value of the improvements set off against the rents and profits (Byers v. Fowler, 12 Ark. 218, 54 Am. Dec. 271; McIntire v. Pryor, 10 App. Cas. (D. C.) 432; Reed v. Exum, 84 N. C. 430); unless the improvements have been made on the faith of the vendor's acquiescence in the vendee's claim (Walker v. Beauchler, 27 Gratt. (Va.) 511).

Value of improvements.— It is held that the sum to be allowed the defendant for improvements is not their cost, but the amount by which they have actually increased the permanent value of the land. Thornton v. Ogden, 41 N. J. Eq. 345, 7 Atl. 619; Reed v. Exum, 84 N. C. 430; Smithson v. Inman, 2 Baxt. (Tenn.) 88.

Where there was no counter-claim, and facts as to the improvements were pleaded in the answer merely to show that the plaintiff was estopped to deny the validity of the deed, it was held that compensation and a lien for the improvements should not be awarded. Walker v. Walker, 93 Iowa 643, 61 N. W. 930.

89. Alabama.—Kennedy v. Kennedy, 2 Ala. 571.

Connecticut.— Penfield v. Penfield, 41 Conn. 474, taxes and interest on a mortgage.

Illinois.— Stone v. Wood, 85 Ill. 603, judgment and costs which were a lien on the land.

Mississippi.—White v. Trotter, 14 Sm. & M. (Miss.) 30, 53 Am. Dec. 112.

New Jersey.— Warnock v. Campbell, 25 N. J. Eq. 485, taxes.

See 8 Cent. Dig. tit. "Cancellation of Instruments," § 124.

In an action against A and B, B is not entitled to an allowance for taxes paid by A, who has ceased to be a party to the suit. Seymour v. Shea, 62 Iowa 708, 16 N. W. 196.

In a suit for cancellation of a mortgage the mortgagee must be reimbursed for such expenditures as he has made, and indemnified as to such liabilities as in good faith he has incurred, on the faith of such mortgage. Miller v. Gunderson, 48 Nebr. 715, 67 N. W. 769.

90. Barbour v. Morris, 6 B. Mon. (Ky.) 120; Costen v. McDowell, 107 N. C. 546, 12 S. E. 432; Futrill v. Futrill, 58 N. C. 61; Wright v. Dufield, 2 Baxt. (Tenn.) 218; Wiley v. Heidell, 12 Heisk. (Tenn.) 98; Work v. Walker, 1 Tenn. Ch. 487. Compare Domling v. Domling, (Mich. 1901) 87 N. W. 788, 8 Detroit Leg. N. 786.

Extent of rule.— Where a deed is set aside on the ground of fraud, the consideration for such deed will be declared a lien on the land, but a sale therefor will not be directed. Jones v. Galbraith, (Tenn. Ch. 1900) 59 S. W. 350.

91. Murray v. Hill, 60 Ill. App. 80; Tyler v. Cate, 29 Oreg. 515, 45 Pac. 800.

92. Gates v. Cornett, 72 Mich. 420, 40 N. W. 740; Harding v. Handy, 11 Wheat. (U. S.) 103, 6 L. ed. 429; Harding v. Wheaton, 2 Mason (U. S.) 378, 11 Fed. Cas. No. 6,051.

Where the evidence of fraud was not so convincing as to justify a decree declaring void a deed made in pursuance of an improvident sale, yet the court might direct that the deed stand as security for the defendant's indemnity, in respect to the sum actually due. Dunn v. Chambers, 4 Barb. (N. Y.) 376; Friedman v. Hirsch, 18 N. Y. Suppl. 85, 87, 44 N. Y. St. 199; Boyd v. Dunlap, 1 Johns. Ch. (N. Y.) 478.

XII. EFFECT OF DECREE.

A decree vacating a title to land virtually condemns all titles derived therefrom after service of process.[93] It defeats contingent remainders depending on estates determined by the decree.[94] Whether a decree canceling a deed has the effect of a reconveyance from the defendant to the plaintiff[95] or not[96] is a matter as to which the practice in different jurisdictions varies.[97] A decree rescinding a purchase of land, in favor of the vendee, rescinds a mortgage given to secure the purchase-money.[98] A decree pro confesso against one of two co-defendants does not authorize the complainant to take the allegations of the bill as true against the other defendant, who has answered.[99]

XIII. COSTS.[1]

To entitle plaintiff to costs in a suit to set aside a conveyance by him for fraud on the part of the grantee, he must show a tender before suit of the consideration paid, or a valid excuse for failure to make such tender.[2] Costs have also been imposed upon the complainant where by his unbusiness-like methods he had made a suit necessary to determine the ownership of the instruments;[3] where the defendant before the filing of the bill offered the complainant all the relief which the court decreed, and the complainant refused to accept it;[4] and where the mortgage sought to be canceled was held to be good as to the greater part of the amount secured by it, though void as to the residue.[5]

93. The commissioner's deed, pursuant to the decree, relates back to such service. Shotwell v. Lawson, 30 Miss. 27, 64 Am. Dec. 145. See LIS PENDENS. But a judgment canceling a deed for fraud does not affect the title of one who purchased the land conveyed before the suit was brought, if he purchased without notice of the fraud. Burt, etc., Lumber Co. v. Bailey, 22 Ky. L. Rep. 1264, 60 S. W. 485. See supra, VI.

94. Campbell v. Watson, 8 Ohio 498.

95. That such decree has the effect of a quitclaim deed from the defendant to plaintiff see Hoyt v. Jones, 31 Wis. 389.

96. That the court must appoint a commissioner to make conveyance to the plaintiff, upon failure of the defendant to convey see Walker v. Williams, 30 Miss. 165.

97. See, generally, EQUITY.

98. Hence it is error for the decree to subject the mortgaged premises to sale for any damages resulting to the vendor from the rescission, as a defendant in execution has the right to select what land seized under the execution shall first be sold. Coffman v. Huck, 19 Mo. 435.

99. Holloway v. Moore, 4 Sm. & M. (Miss.) 594.

1. See, generally COSTS.

For the power of the court to review a referee's decision as to costs under N. Y. Code Civ. Proc. § 3230 see Couch v. Millard, 8 N. Y. Civ. Proc. 431.

2. Dunbar v. Severance, 50 Kan. 395, 31 Pac. 1055; Fares v. Gleason, 14 Wash. 657, 45 Pac. 314. Compare Gray v. Bowman, (N. J. 1888) 14 Atl. 905, holding that absence of demand before suit, while not decisive, is influential in determining question of costs.

So in a suit to set aside a tax deed as a cloud on title, in order to relieve himself from the payment of the costs of suit, complainant must, before suit, have made a tender of the taxes, costs, and interest. Gage v. Goudy, 141 Ill. 215, 30 N. E. 320; Cotes v. Rohrbeck, 139 Ill. 532, 28 N. E. 1110; Mecartney v. Morse, 137 Ill. 481, 24 N. E. 576, 26 N. E. 376 [following Gage v. Arndt, 121 Ill. 491, 13 N. E. 138]; Springer v. Bartle, 46 Iowa 688; Corning Town Co. v. Davis, 44 Iowa 622.

3. Plaintiff had left the notes in question for safe-keeping with a person whose administrator claimed them as evidence of debt against the maker. Andrews v. Hunt, 7 Mackey (D. C.) 311.

4. Gallagher v. Witherington, 29 Ala. 420; Daniell Ch. Pr. 1532.

5. Rood v. Winslow, 2 Dougl. (Mich.) 68.

Intoxication of plaintiff's ancestor being ground for a cancellation of the deed obtained by defendants, they were charged with the costs of suit. Prentice v. Achorn, 2 Paige (N. Y.) 30. But where a grantee had not connived at the grantor's intoxication, but had sought, as a relative to the grantor by marriage, to save the property from being squandered, the complainant was not allowed costs on cancellation of the deed. Warnock v. Campbell, 25 N. J. Eq. 485.

In an action by grantor to set aside sale for fraud of vendees' agent who made the purchase, the vendees, by setting up a defense, make the conduct of the agent their own, and are not therefore entitled to a decree for

XIV. REVIEW.[6]

The findings of the trial court upon controverted questions of fact, where the evidence is conflicting and the decision is not clearly against the weight of evidence, will not be disturbed upon appeal.[7]

CANDIDATE.[1] One who seeks or aspires to some office or privilege, or who offers himself for the same;[2] a person offering himself to the suffrage of the electors;[3] one put forward for election, whether with or against his own will.[4] (Candidate: Nomination of, see ELECTIONS.)

CANDLEMAS-DAY. A festival appointed by the church to be observed on the second day of February in every year, in honor of the purification of the Virgin Mary, being forty days after her miraculous delivery.[5]

CANFARA. A trial by hot iron, formerly used in England.[6]

CANON. A law, rule, or ordinance in general,[7] and of the church in particular;[8] a residentiary member of a cathedral chapter;[9] the annual charge or rent which is paid in recognition of the dominium utile by the person who holds the dominium utile.[10] (Canon: Law, see CANON LAW.)

CANON LAW. A collection of ecclesiastical constitutions for the regulation of the polity and discipline of the church of Rome.[11] In England there is also a kind of national canon law, composed of legatine and provincial constitutions enacted therein prior to the reformation, and adapted to the exigencies of the English church and kingdom;[12] but this system never became a part of American law.[13]

CANONS OF DESCENT or OF INHERITANCE. Rules by which inheritances are regulated and according to which estates are transmitted by descent from the ancestor to the heir.[14] (See, generally, DESCENT AND DISTRIBUTION.)

CANT. A mode of dividing estates held in common; LICITATION,[15] q. v. (See, generally, PARTITION.)

CANTRED. A district containing a hundred villages; a hundred.[16] costs against him. Williams v. Kerr, 152 Pa. St. 560, 25 Atl. 618.

6. See, generally, APPEAL AND ERROR, 2 Cyc. 474; REVIEW.

7. See Henry v. Mayer, (Ariz. 1898) 53 Pac. 590; Smith v. Smith, 138 Ill. 41, 27 N. E. 857; Hoobler v. Hoobler, 128 Ill. 645, 21 N. E. 571; Bahan v. Turnbull, 86 Mich. 347, 48 N. W. 959; Moran v. Moran, 19 N. Y. Suppl. 673, 46 N. Y. St. 554; and, generally, APPEAL AND ERROR, XVII, G [3 Cyc. 345].

1. Distinguished from "nominee." — "The persons voted for are called 'candidates,' or, with reference to their selection as 'candidates,' 'nominees.'" Century Dict. [quoted in State v. Hirsch, 125 Ind. 207, 210, 24 N. E. 1062, 9 L. R. A. 170].

2. Leonard v. Com., 112 Pa. St. 607, 624, 4 Atl. 220 [quoting Webster Dict.].

3. Morris v. Burdett, 2 M. & S. 212, 217, 14 Rev. Rep. 639.

4. Reg. v. Chisholm, 5 Ont. Pr. 328, 331.

5. Wharton L. Lex.

"This festival is no day in court, for the judges sit not; and it is the grand day in that term of all the inns of court, whereon the judges anciently observed many ceremonies, and the societies seemed to vie with each other, in sumptuous entertainments, accompanied with music, and almost all kinds of diversions." Jacob L. Dict.

6. Burrill L. Dict.

7. See Jardine v. Reichert, 39 N. J. L. 165, 170.

8. Burrill L. Dict.

9. Wharton L. Lex.

10. Esriche Dict. [quoted in Hart v. Burnett, 15 Cal. 530, 556].

11. Burrill L. Dict.

The Corpus Juris Canonici consists in the collections called the Decretum Gratiani (1139–1142); Decretalia Gregorii (1234); the Sext (1298); the Clementines (1317); and the Extravagants (1500). Pollock & M. Hist. Eng. L. 112–114.

12. 1 Bl. Comm. 82.

The authority of the canon law in England depends upon 25 Hen. VIII, c. 19, revised and confirmed by 1 Eliz. c. 1, which enacted that a review should be had of the canon law; and that until such review should be made, all canons, constitutions, ordinances, and synodals provincial, being then already made, and not repugnant to the law of the land or the king's prerogative, should still be used and executed. No such review has ever been perfected. 1 Bl. Comm. 83.

13. Andrews Am. L. § 214.

14. 2 Bl. Comm. 208.

15. Hayes v. Cuny, 9 Mart. (La.) 87, 89.

16. Black L. Dict.

CANVASS. To go about (a region or district) to solicit votes, orders, subscriptions, or the like; traverse (a district or region) for inquiry, or in the effort to obtain something;[17] to examine thoroughly; to search or scrutinize;[18] to examine searchingly; ascertain the number or the facts concerning each, going over in detail; scrutinize; sift;[19] a close inspection to know the state of;[20] an official scrutiny;[21] the act of examining the returns of votes for public officers;[22] all the proceedings for determining the result of an election from the closing of the polls to the formal declaration of who are elected.[23] (Canvass: Of Votes, see ELECTIONS.)

CANYON. A deep gorge, ravine or gulch between high, steep banks, worn by water-courses.[24]

CAPACITY. Strength;[25] ability; power; qualification or competency of persons, natural or artificial, for the performance of civil acts depending on their state and condition as defined or fixed by law.[26] (Capacity: Contractual, see BONDS; COMMERCIAL PAPER; CONTRACTS; DEEDS; INFANTS; INSANE PERSONS. Fiduciary, see TRUSTS. Testamentary, see WILLS.)

CAPAX DOLI. Capable of committing crime.[27]

CAPAX NEGOTII. Capable of transacting affairs.[28]

CAPE. A garment or part of a garment used for covering the shoulders of the wearer; a neck or narrow strip or point of land exteuding some distance into a body of water;[29] a point of land extending into a lake; projecting into the water; a headland; a piece of land jutting into the lake beyond the rest of the coast line; a promontory;[30] the coping of a wall; ears of corn broken off in threshing;[31] a judicial writ concerning lands or tenements, formerly in use in England, and so termed from the emphatic word with which it began.[32] It is also employed as an adjective descriptive of a kind of wine made at the Cape of Good Hope.[33]

CAPIAS AD AUDIENDUM JUDICIUM. Literally, "You take to hear judgment." In English practice, a writ which is awarded and issued to bring in a defendant who has been found guilty of a misdemeanor, to receive his judgment.[34]

CAPIAS AD COMPUTANDUM. Literally, "You take to account." A writ to compel a defendant to appear personally before auditors and make his accounts

In Wales the counties were divided into cantreds as in England into hundreds. Burrill L. Dict.

17. Standard Dict. [quoted in Price Co. v. Atlanta, 105 Ga. 358, 366, 31 S. E. 619].

18. Webster Dict. [quoted in Bowler v. Eisenhood, 1 S. D. 577, 580, 48 N. W. 136, 12 L. R. A. 705]. See also State v. Nerland, 7 S. C. 241, 259 [quoted in Ex p. Mackey, 15 S. C. 322, 332], where it is said: "'Canvassing' implies 'search,' 'scrutiny,' 'investigation,' 'examination.'"

19. Standard Dict. [quoted in Clark v. Tracy, 95 Iowa 410, 412, 64 N. W. 290].

20. Webster Dict. [quoted in owler v. Eisenhood, 1 S. D. 577, 580, 48 N. W. 136, 12 L. R. A. 705].

21. Standard Dict. [quoted in Clark v. Tracy, 95 Iowa 410, 412, 64 N. W. 290].

22. Bouvier L. Dict. [quoted in Bowler v. Eisenhood, 1 S. D. 577, 580, 48 N. W. 136, 12 L. R. A. 705].

23. Bowler v. Eisenhood, 1 S. D. 577, 580, 48 N. W. 136, 12 L. R. A. 705.

24. Webster Dict. [quoted in Montana Cent. R. Co. v. Helena, etc., R. Co., 6 Mont. 416, 433, 12 Pac. 916].

25. Hamilton v. Myles, 24 U. C. C. P. 309, 320.

26. Bouvier L. Dict. [quoted in Hronek v. People, 134 Ill. 139, 152, 24 N. E. 861, 23 Am. St. Rep. 652, 8 L. R. A. 837].

27. Wharton L. Lex.

28. Black L. Dict.

29. Waller v. People, 175 Ill. 221, 222, 51 N. E. 900.

30. U. S. v. McNelly, 28 Fed. 609, 611.

31. Waller v. People, 175 Ill. 221, 222, 51 N. E. 900, where it is said: "No such meanings are given the word except in certain restricted localities in the northern part of England."

32. Burrill L. Dict.

It was divided into cape magnum, or the grand cape, which lay before appearance to summon the tenant to answer the default, and also over to the demandment; the cape ad valentiam was a species of grand cape; and cape parvum, or petit cape, after appearance or view granted, summoning the tenant to answer the default only. Wharton L. Lex.

33. Waller v. People, 175 Ill. 221, 222, 51 N. E. 900.

34. Burrill L. Dict.

in the action of account render, after judgment of quod computet.[35] (See, generally, ACCOUNTS AND ACCOUNTING.)

CAPIAS AD RESPONDENDUM. Literally, "You take to answer." The writ by which an ordinary action was commenced under the old practice in common-law actions.[36] (See, generally, ARREST.)

CAPIAS AD SATISFACIENDUM. Literally, "You take to satisfy." A judicial writ of execution, which issues out on the record of a judgment and by which the sheriff is commanded to take the body of the defendant in execution, and him safely to keep, so that he have his body in court at the return of the writ to satisfy the plaintiff his debt and damages.[37] It is usually termed for brevity a ca. sa.[38] (See, generally, EXECUTIONS.)

CAPIAS IN WITHERNAM. Literally, "You take in withernam." A writ which lies where cattle or goods distrained have been driven or carried out of the county, so that the sheriff cannot take them on a writ of replevin, commanding him to take other cattle or goods of the distrainor, as a second or reciprocal distress, in lieu of the distress formerly taken and withheld.[39] (See, generally, REPLEVIN.)

CAPIAS PRO FINE. Literally, "You take for the fine." In English practice, a writ by which a party condemned to pay a fine to the king was taken and imprisoned until he paid it.[40]

CAPITA. Heads; persons individually considered, without relation to others, as distinguished from stirpes or stocks of descent.[41] (Capita: Taking Per, or Per Stirpes, see DESCENT AND DISTRIBUTION; WILLS.)

CAPITAL. The sum of money which a merchant, banker, or trader adventures in any undertaking, or which he contributes to the common stock of a partnership;[42] the fund of money or property on which a merchant or voluntary association of persons for conducting a business does business;[43] the fund dedicated to a business to support its credit, to provide for contingencies, to suffer diminution from losses, and to derive accretion from gains and profits;[44] property taken from other investments or uses and set apart for and invested in the special business, and in the increase, proceeds or earnings of which property, beyond expenditures incurred in its use, consists the profits made in the business;[45] the actual estate, whether in money or property, which is owned by an individual or a corporation.[46] As used with respect to corporations, it signifies the aggregate of the sums subscribed for, and either paid in or agreed to be paid in by the stock-holders;[47] but

35. Black L. Dict.

36. Sweet L. Dict.

37. People v. Hoffman, 97 Ill. 234, 236 [citing Jacob L. Dict.].

38. Burrill L. Dict.

39. Burrill L. Dict.

40. Burrill L. Dict.

This writ was abolished in trespass, ejectment, assault, and false imprisonment by 5 & 6 Wm. III, c. 12. Lyndsey v. Clerke, 5 Mod. 285.

41. Burrill L. Dict.

42. Bouvier L. Dict. [quoted in Pearce v. Augusta, 37 Ga. 597, 599; People v. Feitner, 167 N. Y. 1, 10, 60 N. E. 265, 82 Am. St. Rep. 698 [affirming 56 N. Y. App. Div. 280, 284, 67 N. Y. Suppl. 893].

"It is called 'capital' from the Latin caput, a head, because it is the chief thing — the head, beginning and basis of an undertaking or enterprise." San Francisco v. Spring Valley Water Works, 63 Cal. 524, 530 [citing Burrill L. Dict.].

43. San Francisco v. Spring Valley Water Works, 63 Cal. 524, 529 [citing Abbott L. Dict.; Burrill L. Dict.; Imperial Dict.; Webster Dict.; Worcester Dict.].

44. Lyon v. Zimmer, 30 Fed. 401, 410 [quoted in People v. Feitner, 167 N. Y. 1, 10, 60 N. E. 265, 82 Am. St. Rep. 698]. See also Webb v. Armistead, 26 Fed. 70, 71.

45. Bailey v. Clark, 21 Wall. (U. S.) 284, 286, 22 L. ed. 651 [quoted in San Francisco v. Spring Valley Water Works, 63 Cal. 524, 529; People v. Feitner, 56 N. Y. App. Div. 280, 284, 67 N. Y. Suppl. 893].

46. People v. New York, 23 N. Y. 192, 219. See also Christensen v. Eno, 106 N. Y. 97, 12 N. E. 648, 60 Am. Rep. 429.

47. State v. Norwich, etc., R. Co., 30 Conn. 290, 296; Wetherbee v. Baker, 35 N. J. Eq. 501, 505 [citing Boone Corp. § 105]; Iron R. Co. v. Lawrence Furnace Co., 49 Ohio St. 102, 30 N. E. 616; Bailey v. Clark, 21 Wall. (U. S.) 284, 286, 22 L. ed. 651 [quoted in San Francisco v. Spring Valley Water Works, 63 Cal. 524, 529]. See also People v. Roberts, 66 N. Y. App. Div. 157, 159, 72 N. Y. Suppl. 950, where it is defined as the "property of the corporation contributed by its shareholdit is also in general use as signifying the sums paid in by the subscribers, with the addition of all gains or profits realized, with such diminutions as have resulted from losses incurred in transacting business.[48] As an adjective the word "capital" signifies "punishable by death;[49] chief; principal."[50] (Capital: Offenses, see CRIMINAL LAW; HOMICIDE; PIRACY; RAPE; TREASON. Of — Banks, see BANKS AND BANKING; Corporations, Generally, see CORPORATIONS; Insurance Companies, see INSURANCE; Joint-Stock Companies, see JOINT-STOCK COMPANIES; Partnerships, see PARTNERSHIP; Railroad Companies, see RAILROADS. Stock, see CAPITAL STOCK. Taxation of, see TAXATION.)

CAPITAL STOCK.[51] The sum fixed by the corporate charter as the amount paid in, or to be paid in, by the stockholders, for the prosecution of the business of the corporation, and for the benefit of corporate creditors;[52] the nominal capital;[53] the actual property of the corporation contributed by the shareholders.[54]

ers or otherwise obtained by it to the extent required by its charter."

This is strictly capital stock (see infra, CAPITAL STOCK), and although the terms "capital" and "capital stock" are used convertibly (Kohl v. Lilienthal, 81 Cal. 378, 385, 20 Pac. 401, 22 Pac. 689, 6 L. R. A. 520; San Francisco v. Spring Valley Water Works, 63 Cal. 524, 530; Iowa State Sav. Bank v. Burlington, 98 Iowa 737, 739, 61 N. W. 851; New Orleans City Gas Light Co. v. Board of Assessors, 31 La. Ann. 475, 477; People v. Coleman, 126 N. Y. 433, 27 N. E. 818, 38 N. Y. St. 237, 12 L. R. A. 762; Christensen v. Eno, 106 N. Y. 97, 12 N. E. 648, 60 Am. Rep. 429; People v. Feitner, 31 Misc. (N. Y.) 433, 434, 65 N. Y. Suppl. 523; Iron R. Co. v. Lawrence Furnace Co., 49 Ohio St. 102, 30 N. E. 616; State v. Cheraw, etc., R. Co., 16 S. C. 524, 528; Foster v. Stevens, 63 Vt. 175, 182, 22 Atl. 78, 13 L. R. A. 166), there is a difference between them. "Capital stock," in its strict signification, exists only nominally (Hannibal, etc., R. Co. v. Shacklett, 30 Mo. 550, 558) and remains fixed, while the "capital" or actual property of the corporation varies in value, and is constantly increasing or diminishing in amount (State v. Morristown F. Assoc., 23 N. J. L. 195, 196; Tradesman Pub. Co. v. Car Wheel Co., 95 Tenn. 634, 654, 32 S. W. 1097, 49 Am. St. Rep. 943, 31 L. R. A. 593; Wells v. Green Bay, etc., Canal Co., 90 Wis. 442, 64 N. W. 69).

48. Wetherbee v. Baker, 35 N. J. Eq. 501, 505; People v. New York, 23 N. Y. 192, 219; Tradesman Pub. Co. v. Car Wheel Co., 95 Tenn. 634, 653, 32 S. W. 1097, 49 Am. St. Rep. 943, 31 L. R. A. 593.

49. Ex p. Dusenberry, 97 Mo. 504, 507, 11 S. W. 217; Walker v. State, 28 Tex. App. 503, 504, 13 S. W. 860 [quoting Bouvier L. Dict.].

50. Burrill L. Dict.

51. Distinguished from "capital" see CAPITAL.

52. Cook Stock & Stockh. [quoted in Commercial F. Ins. Co. v. Montgomery County, 99 Ala. 1, 4, 14 So. 490, 42 Am. St. Rep. 17; Security Co. v. Hartford, 61 Conn. 89, 101, 23 Atl. 699; American Pig Iron Storage Co. v. State Bd. of Assessors, 56 N. J. L. 389, 392, 29 Atl. 160; Tradesman Pub. Co. v. Car Wheel Co., 95 Tenn. 634, 656, 32 S. W. 1097, 49 Am. St. Rep. 943, 31 L. R. A. 593]. See also Farrington v. Tennessee, 95 U. S. 679, 686, 24 L. ed. 558.

Other definitions are: "The amount fixed upon by the partners or associates as their stake in the concern." Hightower v. Thornton, 8 Ga. 486, 500, 52 Am. Dec. 412 [quoted in Reid v. Eatonton Mfg. Co., 40 Ga. 98, 103, 2 Am. Rep. 563].

"The amount of money paid or promised to be paid for the purposes of the corporation." Thompson v. Reno Sav. Bank, 19 Nev. 103, 111, 7 Pac. 68, 3 Am. St. Rep. 797.

"The amount of capital to be contributed by the stockholders for purposes of the corporation." State v. Morristown F. Assoc., 23 N. J. L. 195, 196 [quoted in People v. Roberts, 154 N. Y. 101, 107, 47 N. E. 980; Williams v. Western Union Tel. Co., 93 N. Y. 162, 188].

"That money or property, which is put into a single corporate fund, by those, who by subscription therefor, become members of the corporate body." Burrall v. Bushwick R. Co., 75 N. Y. 211, 216.

"The fund or property belonging to a firm or corporation, and used to carry on its business." Com. v. Lehigh Ave. R. Co., 129 Pa. St. 405, 414, 18 Atl. 414, 498, 5 L. R. A. 367. See also State v. Cheraw, etc., R. Co., 16 S. C. 524, 528, where the court, per Simpson, C. J., said: "In this general sense it is money invested in business operations, whether that business be conducted by a single individual, a partnership, a corporation, or government; and it makes no difference how the money is obtained, whether by labor, by borrowing, or otherwise."

53. Excelsior Water, etc., Co. v. Pierce, 90 Cal. 131, 140, 27 Pac. 44.

54. Excelsior Water, etc., Co. v. Pierce, 90 Cal. 131, 140, 27 Pac. 44; Christensen v. Eno, 106 N. Y. 97, 12 N. E. 648, 60 Am. Rep. 429; Burrall v. Bushwick R. Co., 75 N. Y. 211, 216 [quoted in San Francisco v. Spring Valley Water Works, 63 Cal. 524, 529; Williams v. Western Union Tel. Co., 93 N. Y. 162, 188]; Barry v. Merchants' Exch. Co., 1 Sandf. Ch. (N. Y.) 280, 307 [quoted in Williams v. Western Union Tel. Co., 93 N. Y. 162, 188]; Lee v. Sturges, 46 Ohio St. 153, 160, 19 N. E. 560, 2 L. R. A. 556; Jones v. Davis, 35 Ohio St. 474; State Bank v. Milwaukee, 18 Wis. 281, 284.

Occasionally, however, under the terms of taxation statutes which have been drawn without regard to the technical meaning of words, the courts will construe the capital stock to mean all the actual property of the corporation.[55] (See, generally, CAPITAL.)

CAPITATIM. By the head.[56]

CAPITATION or CAPITATION TAX.[57] A poll-tax or tax upon the person simply, without any reference to his property, real or personal, or to any business in which he may be engaged, or to any employment which he may follow.[58] (Capitation Tax: For Highways, see STREETS AND HIGHWAYS. Generally, see TAXATION.)

CAPITE. See IN CAPITE.

CAPITULATION. The treaty which determines the conditions under which a place besieged is abandoned to the commanding officer of the besieging army.[59] (See, generally, WAR.)

CAPTATION. The act of one who succeeds in controlling the will of another, so as to become master of it.[60] (Captation: Effect of on Validity of — Contract, see CONTRACTS; Deed, see DEEDS; Gift, see GIFTS; Will, see WILLS.)

CAPTION. A taking, seizure, or arrest of a person; the title or heading of a legal document;[61] the heading of a legal document, in which is shown the time when, the place where, and the person by whose authority it was prepared or executed;[62] the title of an act of the legislature.[63] (Caption: Of Affidavit, see AFFIDAVITS. Of Bill — Of Exceptions, see APPEAL AND ERROR; In Equity, see EQUITY. Of Deposition, see DEPOSITIONS. Of Indictment, see INDICTMENTS AND INFORMATIONS.)

CAPTOR. In international law, one who takes or seizes property in time of war; one who takes the property of an enemy. In a stricter sense, one who takes a prize at sea.[64]

CAPTURE.[65] The act, specially applicable to a taking by men of war or by 55. California.— Martin v. Zellerbach, 38 Cal. 300, 309, 99 Am. Dec. 365 [approved in San Francisco v. Spring Valley Water Works, 63 Cal. 524, 531].

Connecticut.— Security Co. v. Hartford, 61 Conn. 89, 101, 23 Atl. 699 [citing Cook Stock & Stockh.]; New Haven v. City Bank, 31 Conn. 106, 109.

Illinois.— Ohio, etc., R. Co. v. Weber, 96 Ill. 443, 448; Pacific Hotel Co. v. Lieb, 83 Ill. 602, 610 [following Porter v. Rockford, etc., R. Co., 76 Ill. 561].

New York.— Buffalo Mut. Ins. Co. v. Erie County, 4 N. Y. 442.

Tennessee.— Tradesman Pub. Co. v. Car Wheel Co., 95 Tenn. 634, 656, 32 S. W. 1097, 49 Am. St. Rep. 943, 31 L. R. A. 593 [quoting 1 Cook Stockh. § 9].

56. Burrill L. Dict.

Used in the expression "You cannot deliver capitatim to each individual," etc., per Lord Ellenborough, C. J., in Rex v. Commerell, 4 M. & S. 203, 206.

57. The terms are used interchangeably. Century Dict.

58. Gardner v. Hall, 61 N. C. 21, 22; Hylton v. U. S., 3 Dall. (U. S.) 171, 175, 1 L. ed. 556; The Head-Money Cases, 21 Blatchf. (U. S.) 460, 18 Fed. 135, 139.

59. Wharton L. Lex.

60. Zerega v. Percival, 46 La. Ann. 590, 606, 15 So. 476 [citing Bouvier L. Dict.], where it is said: "'Captation' takes place by those demonstrations of attachment and friendship, by those assiduous attentions, by those amenities, by those caresses, by those ready services, by those officious little presents, usual among friends, and by all those methods which, ordinarily, render us agreeable to others, and enable us to secure their good will."

"'Suggestion' is often used as a synonym for 'captation,' but it is applied specially to those means of persuasion employed to alter the will of a testator, and to prompt him to make a disposition different from that which he had in view." Zerega v. Percival, 46 La. Ann. 590, 606, 15 So. 476.

61. Burrill L. Dict.

62. Anth. [Anderson] Dict. L. 148 [quoted in Taylor v. Smith, (Tenn. Ch. 1896) 36 S. W. 970, 976].

63. Shelton v. State, 96 Tenn. 521, 526, 32 S. W. 967; State v. Yardley, 95 Tenn. 546, 557, 32 S. W. 481, 34 L. R. A. 656; State v. Runnels, 92 Tenn. 320, 322, 21 S. W. 665.

64. Burrill L. Dict.

65. "Capture," "seizure," and "detention," distinguished. — "These words, though sometimes used synonymously, differ in the extent of their meaning — each embracing the one that follows it, but not the one that precedes it. Every 'capture' is a 'seizure' and a 'detention,' and every 'seizure' is a 'detention.' But there may be a 'seizure,' as for some violation of revenue laws, which is not privateers,[66] of taking or taking by force;[67] a seizure as prize, with the intent or expectation of obtaining a condemnation;[68] a taking by the enemy of vessel or cargo as prize, in time of open war, or, by way of reprisal, with intent to deprive the owner of it;[69] the taking of property by one belligerent from another.[70] (Captnre: Generally, see WAR. In Insurance Policies, see MARINE INSURANCE.)

CAR.[71] A vehicle running upon rails;[72] a vehicle adapted to the rails of a railroad;[73] a carriage for running on the rails of a railway;[74] any wheeled carriage used for carrying goods or passengers upon a railroad, whether the road be a tramway over the streets of a city, to be operated by horses, or a more extended road to be worked by steam tractors.[75] (Car: Trusts, see RAILROADS.)

CARBONACEOUS. Pertaining to carbon; made of carbon.[76]

CARDINAL. A dignitary of the Roman Catholic church, next in rank to the pope.[77]

CARDS. See GAMING.

CARE. Custody; charge; safe-keeping; preservation; security.[78]

CARELESSNESS.[79] NEGLIGENCE,[80] q. v.

CARGO. The lading of a ship or vessel,[81] of whatever it consists;[82] the lading or freight of a ship;[83] the goods, merchandise, or whatever is conveyed in a ship a 'capture'; and there may be a 'detention,' as by an embargo, which is neither a 'capture' nor a 'seizure.'" Dole v. Merchants' Mut. Mar. Ins. Co., 51 Me. 465, 472.

Distinguished from "seizure."—"A 'capture,' in technical language, is a taking by military power; a 'seizure,' a taking by civil authority." U. S. v. Athens Armory, 35 Ga. 344, 351, 2 Abb. (U. S.) 129, 24 Fed. Cas. No. 14,473.

"The word 'prise' is used in the same sense as 'capture' in our language." Dole v. New England Mut. Mar. Ins. Co., 6 Allen (Mass.) 373, 388.

66. Fifield v. State Ins. Co., 47 Pa. St. 166, 187, 86 Am. Dec. 523.

67. Dole v. New England Mut. Mar. Ins. Co., 6 Allen (Mass.) 373, 386.

68. Richardson v. Maine F. & M. Ins. Co., 6 Mass. 102, 109, 4 Am. Dec. 92.

69. Mauran v. Insurance Cos., 6 Wall. (U. S.) 1, 10, 18 L. ed. 836.

70. Whitfield's Case, 11 Ct. Cl. 444, 456.

71. "In definition a 'car,' or 'coach,' or 'stage,' or a 'stage coach,' is the same. They are vehicles that turn, or that run by turning on wheels. Place boards over or between wheels and we have a platform car adapted to freigbt; place benches or chairs upon the platform and we still have a car, but adapted to passengers, and then easily termed a carriage. Instead of benches or chairs put on the platform the body of a 'stage coach' and we have such a 'railroad car' as served at the inauguration of the earliest railroad in our state. It is plain that by adaptation and improvement 'the modern railway car has been evolved from the old-fashioned stage coach.' (The American Railway, 231.) In common language, a railroad carriage designed for passengers is called indifferently a 'coach' or 'car.' In every collection of words arranged according to the ideas which they express, these, and others with them, will be found classed together as having the same signification." New York v. Third Ave. R. Co., 117 N. Y. 404, 410, 22 N. E. 755, 27 N. Y. St. 170.

72. Century Dict. [quoted in Kansas City, etc., R. Co. v. Crocker, 95 Ala. 412, 422, 11 So. 262].

73. Webster Dict. [quoted in Kansas City, etc., R. Co. v. Crocker, 95 Ala. 412, 423, 11 So. 262]; Perez v. San Antonio, etc., R. Co., (Tex. Civ. App. 1902) 67 S. W. 137, 139.

74. Webster Dict. [quoted in Nicholls v. State, 68 Wis. 416, 423, 32 N. W. 543, 60 Am. Rep. 870].

75. State v. Lang, 14 Mo. App. 247, 249.

76. Pittsburgh Reduction Co. v. Cowles Electric Smelting, etc., Co., 55 Fed. 301, 323.

77. Black L. Dict.

78. Ker v. People, 110 Ill. 627, 649, 51 Am. Rep. 706.

79. Supplying criminal intent in prosecution for injuring animal see ANIMALS, 2 Cyc. 434, note 67.

80. Steele v. Central R. Co., 43 Iowa 109, 112; Turner v. Cross, 83 Tex. 218, 228, 18 S. W. 578, 15 L. R. A. 262; Allen v. Dillingham, 60 Fed. 176, 184, 23 U. S. App. 167, 8 C. C. A. 544.

Distinguished from "misconduct."—"'Misconduct' is a violation of definite law; 'carelessness,' an abuse of discretion under an indefinite law. 'Misconduct' is a forbidden act; 'carelessness,' a forbidden quality of an act, and is necessarily indefinite." Citizens' Ins Co. v. Marsh, 41 Pa. St. 386, 394.

81. Flanagan v. Demarest, 3 Rob. (N. Y.) 173, 182; The Governor Cushman, 1 Abb. (U. S.) 14, 17, 1 Biss. (U. S.) 490, 10 Fed. Cas. No. 5,646, 5 Am. L. Reg. N. S. 286.

82. Macy v. Whaling Ins. Co., 9 Metc. (Mass.) 354, 366.

83. Richardson Dict.; Webster Dict. [quoted in Kreuger v. Blanck, L. R. 5 Exch. 179, 183, 39 L. J. Exch. 160, 23 L. T. Rep. N. S. 128, 18 Wkly. Rep. 813].

or other merchant vessel;[84] the merchandise or wares contained and conveyed in a ship or vessel;[85] all the merchandises and effects which are laden on board a ship, exclusive of the soldiers, crew, rigging, ammunition, provisions, guns, etc.;[86] the entire quantity of goods loaded on board a vessel on freight for a particular voyage;[87] the entire load of the ship which carries it.[88] (Cargo: Generally, see SHIPPING. Insurance of, see MARINE INSURANCE.)

CARICATURE. See LIBEL AND SLANDER.

CARLISLE TABLES. Life and annuity tables, compiled at Carlisle, England, about 1780.[89] (Carlisle Tables: As Evidence, see DEATH; EVIDENCE.)

CARNALITER. In old criminal law, carnally.[90]

CARNAL KNOWLEDGE. Sexual intercourse;[91] sexual bodily connection by a man with a woman.[92] (See, generally, INCEST; RAPE.)

CARRIAGE. The act of carrying;[93] that in which anything is carried[94] or that which carries, especially on wheels;[95] that which carries or conveys on wheels;[96] that which is used for carrying or transporting, especially on or over a solid surface;[97] a vehicle,[98] especially for pleasure or for passengers, but sometimes for burdens;[99] a wheeled vehicle for the conveyance of persons;[1] any vehicle on wheels, especially a vehicle of pleasure, or for the conveyance of passengers;[2] manner of carrying one's self.[3]

CARRIED. Transported.[4]

84. Webster Dict. [quoted in Kreuger v. Blanck, L. R. 5 Exch. 179, 183, 39 L. J. Exch. 160, 23 L. T. Rep. N. S. 128, 18 Wkly. Rep. 813].

85. The Governor Cushman, 1 Abb. (U. S.) 14, 17, 1 Biss. (U. S.) 490, 10 Fed. Cas. No. 5,646, 5 Am. L. Reg. N. S. 286.

86. Wolcott v. Eagle Ins. Co., 4 Pick. (Mass.) 429, 433 [quoted in Thwing v. Great Western Ins. Co., 103 Mass. 401, 406, 4 Am. Rep. 567].

87. Borrowman v. Drayton, 2 Ex. D. 15, 19, 46 L. J. Exch. 273, 35 L. T. Rep. N. S. 727, 24 Wkly. Rep. 194.

88. Pinckney v. Dambmann, 72 Md. 173, 182, 19 Atl. 450. See also Sargent v. Reed, 2 Str. 1228.

89. Black L. Dict.

90. Burrill L. Dict.

91. Noble v. State, 22 Ohio St. 541, 545; Burk v. State, 8 Tex. App. 336, 342 [quoted in Lujano v. State, 32 Tex. Crim. 414, 419, 24 S. W. 97].

92. Com. v. Squires, 97 Mass. 59, 61.

93. Anderson L. Dict.

94. Johnson Dict. [quoted in Cream City R. Co. v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 63 Wis. 93, 98, 23 N. W. 425, 53 Am. Rep. 267].

95. Imperial Dict. [quoted in Cream City R. Co. v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 63 Wis. 93, 98, 23 N. W. 425, 53 Am. Rep. 267]. Compare Conway v. Jefferson, 46 N. H. 521, 523, where the word is said "to include whatever carried the load, whether upon wheels or runners."

96. Webster Dict. [quoted in Cream City R. Co. v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 63 Wis. 93, 98, 23 N. W. 425, 53 Am. Rep. 267].

97. Century Dict. [quoted in Davis v. Petrinovich, 112 Ala. 654, 657, 21 So. 344, 36 L. R. A. 615].

98. Imperial Dict.; Johnson Dict. [quoted in Cream City R. Co. v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 63 Wis. 93, 98, 23 N. W. 425, 53 Am. Rep. 267].

99. Webster Dict. [quoted in Cream City R. Co. v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 63 Wis. 93, 98, 23 N. W. 425, 53 Am. Rep. 267].

The word is understood to refer to vehicles for the conveyance of persons rather than for the transportation of property. Snyder v. North Lawrence, 8 Kan. 82, 84.

1. Century Dict. [quoted in Davis v. Petrinovich, 112 Ala. 654, 657, 21 So. 344, 36 L. R. A. 615].

2. Worcester Dict. [quoted in Cream City R. Co. v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 63 Wis. 93, 98, 23 N. W. 425, 53 Am. Rep. 267].

3. Anderson L. Dict.

4. Ogdensburgh, etc., R. Co. v. Pratt, 22 Wall. (U. S.) 123, 22 L. ed. 827 [quoted in Dunbar v. Port Royal, etc., R. Co., 36 S. C. 110, 117, 15 S. E. 357, 31 Am. St. Rep. 860].

CARRIERS

By Emlin McClain
Associate Justice of Supreme Court of Iowa

CROSS-REFERENCES

For Matters Relating to:
Carriage:
By Water, see FERRIES; SHIPPING; TOWAGE.
Of Diseased Animals, see ANIMALS.
Of Mail, see POST-OFFICE.
Corporations Generally, see CORPORATIONS.
Prohibited Transportation Combinations, see MONOPOLIES.
Regulations of Commerce Affecting Carriers, see COMMERCE.
Rights as Between Carrier and Employee, see MASTER AND SERVANT.
Taxation of Carrier's Property, see TAXATION.
Telegraphs and Telephones, see TELEGRAPHS AND TELEPHONES.
Towage, see TOWAGE.
Traffic Arrangements in Restraint of Trade, see CONTRACTS.
See also, generally, RAILROADS; STREET RAILROADS.

I. INTRODUCTION.

A. Definition and Kinds of Carriers. A carrier is one who undertakes the transportation of persons or movable property,[1] and the authorities, both elementary and judicial, recognize two kinds or classes of carriers, viz., private carriers and common carriers.[2] While a common carrier has been defined as one who holds himself out to the public to carry persons or freight for hire,[3] the term did not, at the common law, embrace a carrier of passengers,[4] and is commonly confined to carriers of goods,[5] as distinguished from common carriers of passengers.[6] A private carrier is one who, without being engaged in such business as a public employment, undertakes to deliver goods in a particular case for hire or reward.[7] A common carrier differs from a private carrier in two important respects: (1) In respect of duty, he being obliged by law to undertake the charge of transportation, which no other person, without a special agreement, is.[8] (2) In respect of risk, the former being regarded by the law as an insurer, the latter being liable like ordinary bailees.[9]

B. Applicability of Law of Bailments — 1. To Carriage of Goods. As already pointed out[10] the rules of liability applicable to private carriers of goods are those which are in general applicable to ordinary bailees, and the law as to common carriers of goods is a branch of the law covering the subject of bailments.[11] That is, the carrier of goods is a bailee, and, aside from any considerations of public policy which affect the liability of a carrier conducting a public employment, his duties and liabilities are in general those of an ordinary bailee;[12] but these considerations of public policy[13] have led to the recognition by the courts, from an early period in the history of the common law, of rules respecting the duty of the common carrier as to serving the public, and as to liability for goods intrusted to his care which do not apply to private carriers of goods.[14]

2. To Carriage of Passengers. A carrier of passengers is not, as to the person of the passenger, a bailee,[15] and in this respect the law of carriers of passengers is not a part of the subject of bailments; but inasmuch as those who hold themselves out as prosecuting the business of carrying passengers for hire are

1. Abbott L. Dict.
2. Varble v. Bigley, 14 Bush (Ky.) 698, 702, 29 Am. Rep. 435; Verner v. Sweitzer, 32 Pa. St. 208, 212.
3. Naugatuck R. Co. v. Waterbury Button Co., 24 Conn. 468.
4. Georgia Cent. R. Co. v. Lippman, 110 Ga. 665, 672, 36 S. E. 202, 50 L. R. A. 673; Elkins v. Boston, etc., R. Co., 23 N. H. 275, 284 [citing Sharp v. Grey, 9 Bing. 457, 2 Moore & S. 621, 23 E. C. L. 659; Astor v. Heaven, 2 Esp. 533, 5 Rev. Rep. 750].
5. See infra, II, A, 1, a.
6. See infra, III, A, 1, a.
7. Pennewill v. Cullen, 5 Harr. (Del.) 238, 242. See also Varble v. Bigley, 14 Bush (Ky.) 698, 703, 29 Am. Rep. 435 [quoting Angell Carriers, § 46]; Fish v. Clark, 49 N. Y. 122; Allen v. Sackrider, 37 N. Y. 341, 4 Transcr. App. (N. Y.) 396; Piedmont Mfg. Co. v. Columbia, etc., R. Co., 19 S. C. 353; Coggs v. Bernard, 2 Ld. Raym. 909, 917.
8. Varble v. Bigley, 14 Bush (Ky.) 698, 29 Am. Rep. 435 [quoting Angell Carriers, § 67].

Duty of common carrier to serve all see infra, II, B, 1; III, A, 2, a.

9. Varble v. Bigley, 14 Bush (Ky.) 698, 29 Am. Rep. 435 [quoting Angell Carriers, § 67]; Fish v. Clark, 49 N. Y. 122; —— v. Jackson, 2 N. C. 19; Verner v. Sweitzer, 32 Pa. St. 208.

Common-law liability of common carrier see infra, II, D.

10. See supra, I, A.
11. Coggs v. Bernard, 2 Ld. Raym. 909, 917.
12. Thus the liability of common or public carriers with reference to goods received by them as such is the same as that of ordinary bailees where they carry without compensation (Treleven v. Northern Pac. R. Co., 89 Wis. 598, 62 N. W. 536. And see infra, II, C); where they hold the goods as warehousemen after their duties as common carriers have been performed (see infra, II, J, 4); or where they have lawfully limited their liability, so as to relieve themselves from the exceptional rules applicable to public carriers (see infra, II, E, 2).
13. The common or public carrier of goods exercises a sort of public office, and his business is therefore affected with a public interest. Munn v. Illinois, 94 U. S. 113, 24 L. ed. 77.

Right of legislature to regulate rates by reason of the public nature of the business of common carrier see infra, II, N, 1, c.

14. See 11 Harv. L. Rev. 158.
15. See infra, III, A, 1, a.

regarded as undertaking a public duty, they are properly classed in this respect with public carriers of goods, and it is proper to treat them under the general heading of "Carriers." Moreover, public carriers of passengers are deemed common carriers as to the baggage accepted by them for transportation as a part of the business of transporting passengers.[16]

II. CARRIERS OF GOODS.

A. Who Are Common Carriers of Goods —1. Definition and General Nature —a. Definition. A common carrier has been defined as "one who undertakes for hire or reward, to transport the goods of such as choose to employ him from place to place."[17]

16. See infra, III, I, 2.

17. Alabama.— Babcock v. Herbert, 3 Ala. 392, 396, 37 Am. Dec. 695.

Illinois.— Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Frankenberg, 54 Ill. 88, 95, 5 Am. Rep. 92.

Kentucky.— Robertson v. Kennedy, 2 Dana (Ky.) 430, 431, 26 Am. Dec. 466 [quoted in Hall v. Renfro, 3 Metc. (Ky.) 51, 53].

Massachusetts.— Dwight v. Brewster, 1 Pick. (Mass.) 50, 53, 11 Am. Dec. 133 [quoted in Lake Shore, etc., R. Co. v. Perkins, 25 Mich. 329, 333; Christenson v. American Express Co., 15 Minn. 270, 2 Am. Rep. 122; Allen v. Sackrider, 37 N. Y. 341, 342, 4 Transcr. App. (N. Y.) 396].

New Hampshire.— Shelden v. Robinson, 7 N. H. 157, 163, 26 Am. Dec. 726 [quoting Story Bailm. 322].

New York.— Alexander v. Greene, 7 Hill (N. Y.) 533, 544 [quoting Story Bailm. § 495].

Oregon.—Honeyman v. Oregon, etc., R. Co., 13 Oreg. 352, 353, 10 Pac. 628, 57 Am. Rep. 20.

Pennsylvania.—Beckman v. Shouse, 5 Rawle (Pa.) 179, 187, 28 Am. Dec. 653.

South Carolina.— Bamberg v. South Carolina R. Co., 9 S. C. 61, 67, 30 Am. Rep. 13.

Wisconsin.— Doty v. Strong, 1 Pinn. (Wis.) 313, 326, 40 Am. Dec. 773.

United States.— The Neaffie, 1 Abb. (U. S.) 465, 467, 17 Fed. Cas. No. 10,063.

Other definitions, slightly differing in language, are: "One who undertakes to transport from place to place for hire, the goods of such persons as think fit to employ him." Fish v. Chapman, 2 Ga. 349, 352, 46 Am. Dec. 393.

"A person who undertakes to transport from place to place for hire, the goods of those who choose to employ him." Elkins v. Boston, etc., R. Co., 23 N. H. 275, 284; Spears v. Lake Shore, etc., R. Co., 67 Barb. (N. Y.) 513, 517.

"Every person who undertakes to carry, for a compensation, the goods of all persons indifferently." Mershon v. Hobensack, 22 N. J. L. 372, 377; Orange Bank v. Brown, 3 Wend. (N. Y.) 158, 161 [quoted in Allen v. Sackrider, 37 N. Y. 841, 342, 4 Transcr. App. (N. Y.) 396].

"One who, by virtue of his calling, undertakes, for compensation, to transport personal property from one place to another for all such as may choose to employ him." Jackson Architectural Iron Works v. Hurlbut, 158 N. Y. 34, 38, 52 N. E. 665, 70 Am. St. Rep. 432.

"One who undertakes for hire to carry from place to place the goods of all persons indifferently." Maslin v. Baltimore, etc., R. Co., 14 W. Va. 180, 188, 35 Am. Rep. 748.

"One who makes it a business to transport goods, either by land or water, for hire, and holds himself ready to carry them for all persons who apply and pay the hire." The Huntress, 2 Ware (U. S.) 89, 12 Fed. Cas. No. 6,914, 24 Am. Jur. 486, 4 Hunt. Mer. Mag. 83, 4 West. L. J. 38.

"One who offers to carry goods for any person between certain termini or on a certain route, and who is bound to carry for all who tender him goods and the price of carriage." The Neaffie, 1 Abb. (U. S.) 465, 467, 17 Fed. Cas. No. 10,063.

"Any man undertaking for hire to carry the goods of all persons indifferently." Gisbourn v. Hurst, 1 Salk. 249, 250 [quoted in Hale v. New Jersey Steam Nav. Co., 15 Conn. 539, 543, 39 Am. Dec. 398; Allen v. Sackrider, 37 N. Y. 341, 342, 4 Transcr. App. (N. Y.) 396; Gordon v. Hutchinson, 1 Watts & S. (Pa.) 285, 286, 37 Am. Dec. 464].

"One whose business, occupation, or regular calling it is to carry chattels for all persons who may choose to employ and remunerate him." Bouvier L. Dict. [quoted in Georgia Cent. R. Co. v. Lippman, 110 Ga. 665, 672, 36 S. E. 202, 50 L. R. A. 673].

"Any person undertaking to carry goods, either by land or by water, of all persons indifferently." 2 Chitty Bl. (Am. ed. 1830) 451, note 22 [quoted in Alexander v. Greene, 7 Hill (N. Y.) 533, 564].

"One who undertakes as a business, for hire or reward, to carry from one place to another the goods of all persons who may apply for such carriage." Hutchinson Carriers, § 47 [quoted in Georgia Cent. R. Co. v. Lippman, 110 Ga. 665, 673, 36 S. E. 202, 50 L. R. A. 673].

"A person who undertakes to carry the goods of all persons indifferently for hire." 1 Leigh N. P. 507 [quoted in Alexander v. Greene, 7 Hill (N. Y.) 533, 564].

"One who offers to carry goods for any person between certain termini, or on a certain route." 1 Parsons Shipping & Adm.

b. Must Be a Holding Out to Carry as a Public Employment — (i) In General. A common carrier is one who holds himself out as ready to engage in the transportation of goods for hire as a public employment, and not as a casual occupation.[18] It is sometimes said that one who undertakes for a single occasion only to carry goods for any person who desires to employ him for that occasion is a common carrier for that transportation.[19] But the cases of this kind will be found to be those in which, whilst the business of carriage is not the exclusive or perhaps the principal business of the one sought to be charged as carrier, it is incidentally his business for the time being. In general the liability of carrier does not attach to one who does not hold himself out as pursuing that business, but in the particular case, and in each particular case, acts only in consequence of a special employment.[20]

245 [quoted in Varble v. Bigley, 14 Bush (Ky.) 698, 703, 29 Am. Rep. 435].

"A person who undertakes to transport from place to place, for hire, the goods of such persons as think fit to employ him." 1 Smith Lead. Cas. 101 [quoted in Alexander v. Greene, 7 Hill (N. Y.) 533, 564].

"One who undertakes for hire to transport the goods of such as choose to employ him, from place to place." Smith Merc. Law 168 [quoted in Alexander v. Greene, 7 Hill (N. Y.) 533, 564].

"One who, as a regular business, undertakes for hire or reward to transport the goods of such as choose to employ him, from place to place." Story Bailm. § 495 [quoted in Blanchard v. Isaacs, 3 Barb. (N. Y.) 388, 389].

Questions of law and fact.— What constitutes a common carrier is a question of law. Whether the person comes under the definition is one of fact. Pennewill v. Cullen, 5 Harr. (Del.) 238. Whether a contract of carriage changes the relation of the carrier from that of a common carrier to that of a private carrier is one of law. Kimball v. Rutland, etc., R. Co., 26 Vt. 247, 62 Am. Dec. 567; Kentucky Bank v. Adams Express Co., 93 U. S. 174, 23 L. ed. 872. Whether the facts shown establish the legal position of common carrier is a question for the jury. Avinger v. South Carolina R. Co., 29 S. C. 265, 7 S. E. 493, 13 Am. St. Rep. 716. Evidence that one sought to be charged did "business for years as a common carrier with all that called" held sufficient, prima facie, to show that he was a common carrier. Haslam v. Adams Express Co., 6 Bosw. (N. Y.) 235.

18. Fish v. Chapman, 2 Ga. 349, 46 Am. Dec. 393; Brind v. Dale, 8 C. & P. 207, 2 M. & Rob. 80, 34 E. C. L. 692; Roussel v. Aumais, 18 Quebec Super. Ct. 474.

As to duty to serve all persons see infra, II, B.

19. Alabama.— Steele v. McTyer, 31 Ala. 667, 70 Am. Dec. 516.

Mississippi.— Harrison v. Roy, 39 Miss. 396.

Pennsylvania.— Gordon v. Hutchinson, 1 Watts & S. (Pa.) 285, 37 Am. Dec. 464.

Tennessee.—Moss v. Bettis, 4 Heisk. (Tenn.) 661, 13 Am. Rep. 1.

Texas.— Haynie v. Baylor, 18 Tex. 498; Chevallier v. Straham, 2 Tex. 115, 47 Am. Dec. 639.

See 9 Cent. Dig. tit. "Carriers," § 462.

To make owner of vessel liable as a common carrier it is not essential that the trips should be regular between the same points, but it is enough if he is engaged in carrying for others generally to and from any point. Pennewill v. Cullen, 5 Harr. (Del.) 238.

Transportation beyond usual points of destination.—Where a common carrier by water agreed to carry to a point beyond his regular trip, it was held that he was a common carrier as to the additional transportation. Tuckerman v. Stephens, etc., Transp. Co., 32 N. J. L. 320.

So held also as to a city transfer company taking goods for a point beyond the usual range of its business. Farley v. Lavary, 21 Ky. L. Rep. 1252, 54 S. W. 840, 47 L. R. A. 383. As to acceptance by railroad companies for points beyond limits of line see infra, II, M, 2.

20. Louisiana.— Flautt v. Lashley, 36 La. Ann. 106.

New York.— Fish v. Clark, 49 N. Y. 122; Allen v. Sackrider, 37 N. Y. 341, 4 Transcr. App. (N. Y.) 396; Satterlee v. Groat, 1 Wend. (N. Y.) 272.

Ohio.— Samms v. Stewart, 20 Ohio 69, 55 Am. Dec. 445.

United States.—Sumner v. Caswell, 20 Fed. 249.

Canada.— Roussel v. Aumais, 18 Quebec Super. Ct. 474.

See 9 Cent. Dig. tit. "Carriers," § 468.

Public employment distinguished from special employment.— "We see no reason why the law applicable to a common carrier should be applied to a farmer who makes a personal application to a merchant for a load of goods on his return trip from market. . . . Nor do we suppose it would make any difference how many applications of this kind had been made by the party thus carrying, or to how many different persons they have been made." Samms v. Stewart, 20 Ohio 69, 55 Am. Dec. 445. But one who holds himself out to undertake employment as a common carrier becomes liable as such on his first trip as much as on his second or any subsequent trip. Fuller v. Bradley, 25 Pa. St. 120. Evidence of one transaction not in accordance with the usual course of business will not show that

(II) With Respect to Particular Kinds of Goods— (A) In General. A carrier is not bound to carry for every person tendering goods of any description, but his obligation is to carry according to his public profession.[21]

(B) Money and Other Valuables. It seems to have been thought at one time that, apart from some custom or contract, those who held themselves out for the transportation of goods and merchandise were not common carriers as to money and bank-bills;[22] but even as to such persons it was early determined that if such property was received with knowledge that the drivers of the coaches or the masters of the steamboats were in the habit of carrying parcels of money, bank-bills, or other valuable property for compensation, and that the persons intrusting such parcels had reason to suppose that the carriage was in behalf of the general carrier, the latter would be liable therefor as common carrier.[23]

as to such transaction the carrier was a common carrier. Levi v. Lynn, etc., R. Co., 11 Allen (Mass.) 300, 87 Am. Dec. 713; Elkins v. Boston, etc., R. Co., 23 N. H. 275.

21. Tunnel v. Pettijohn, 2 Harr. (Del.) 48; Fish v. Chapman, 2 Ga. 349, 46 Am. Dec. 393; Johnson v. Midland R. Co., 4 Exch. 367, 18 L. J. Exch. 366, 6 R. & Can. Cas. 61. So held where the master of a vessel engaged in carrying naval stores took in charge a box of jewelry. Pender v. Robbins, 51 N. C. 207. Thus a common carrier may refuse to become liable for articles of glass, or contained in glass. Toy v. Long Island R. Co., 26 Misc. (N. Y.) 792, 56 N. Y. Suppl. 182.

Dangerous articles.— The carrier may refuse to become carrier of dangerous articles, and one who induces the carriage of such articles by concealing their nature becomes liable for damage resulting to the carrier or others. California Powder Works v. Atlantic, etc., R. Co., 113 Cal. 329, 45 Pac. 691, 36 L. R. A. 648; Farrant v. Barnes, 11 C. B. N. S. 553, 8 Jur. N. S. 868, 31 L. J. C. P. 137, 103 E. C. L. 553; Alston v. Herring, 11 Exch. 822, 25 L. J. Exch. 177.

Live stock.— It is said that the obligation of a common carrier does not necessarily extend to the carriage of live stock, where that is not a part of the business which the carrier holds himself out to transact. Lake Shore, etc., R. Co. v. Perkins, 25 Mich. 329, 12 Am. Rep. 275; Michigan Southern, etc., R. Co. v. McDonough, 21 Mich. 165, 4 Am. Rep. 466. But one who received a dog for transportation for hire was held to be a common carrier with reference thereto. Southern Express Co. v. Ashford, 126 Ala. 591, 28 So. 732. That carriers of live stock are common carriers see infra, II, A, 9.

22. Illinois.— Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Thompson, 19 Ill. 578.

Kentucky.— Lee v. Burgess, 9 Bush (Ky.) 652.

Louisiana.— Sulakowski v. Flint, 22 La. Ann. 6.

United States.— Kuter v. Michigan Cent. R. Co., 1 Biss. (U. S.) 35, 14 Fed. Cas. No. 7,955, 1 Pittsb. Leg. J. (Pa.) 30, 10 West. L. J. 416.

England.— Butler v. Basing, 2 C. & P. 613, 12 E. C. L. 764.

But a carrier may be a common carrier of money.— Allen v. Sewall, 2 Wend. (N. Y.) 327.

23. Alabama.— Garey v. Meagher, 33 Ala. 630; Hosea v. McCrory, 12 Ala. 349.

Massachusetts.—Dwight v. Brewster, 1 Pick. (Mass.) 50, 11 Am. Dec. 133.

Mississippi.— Powell v. Mills, 30 Miss. 231, 64 Am. Dec. 158.

Pennsylvania.— Beckman v. Shouse, 5 Rawle (Pa.) 179, 28 Am. Dec. 653.

England.— Syms v. Chaplin, 5 A. & E. 634, 5 Dowl. P. C. 429, 6 L. J. K. B. 25, 1 N. & P. 129, 31 E. C. L. 761.

See 9 Cent. Dig. tit. "Carriers," § 473.

Custom and usage.— Where the custom shown was to carry sealed packages of money without charge, when delivered to the clerk of the boat for that purpose, it was held that it might be properly left to the jury to say whether such package belonged to that class of goods which the owner of the boat undertook to carry for hire. Knox v. Rives, 14 Ala. 249, 48 Am. Dec. 97. Where the custom shown was to deliver packages of money to the master of the boat and to pay him individually a compensation therefor, it was thought that the general carrier was not liable. Sewall v. Allen, 6 Wend. (N. Y.) 335 [overruling 2 Wend. (N. Y.) 327; Citizens' Bank v. Nantucket Steam-boat Co., 2 Story (U. S.) 16, 5 Fed. Cas. No. 2,730]. The custom of allowing the captain of a boat to carry packages of money without compensation was held not to charge the owner as common carrier. Chouteau v. Steamboat St. Anthony, 16 Mo. 216. But it was thought the fact that the officer of a boat was allowed to retain the compensation would not necessarily relieve the owner from the liability of common carrier in such case. Farmers', etc., Bank v. Champlain Transp. Co., 23 Vt. 186, 56 Am. Dec. 68. And that the usage which would render the owner of the boat liable must be such as had grown up with his knowledge. Cincinnati, etc., Mail Line Co. v. Boal, 15 Ind. 345. Accordingly it was said that one instance of transportation of goods by a passenger train, for which freight was paid to the baggage-master, was not sufficient evidence of a custom to thus transport goods, or of knowledge of such custom on the part of the railroad company. Elkins v. Boston, etc., R. Co., 23 N. H. 275.

2. Railroad Companies. Railroad companies are responsible as common carriers for goods delivered to them for transportation,[24] even though not specifically stated in their charters.[25] Even before the road is completed goods received for transportation on construction trains are deemed to have been received for transportation by the company as a common carrier.[26]

3. Carriers by Boat or Vessel. The owner of a general ship carrying goods for hire, whether employed in internal, in coasting, or in foreign commerce, is a common carrier as to goods received for transportation in that manner.[27] This rule applies to steamboats on inland rivers.[28] It is also applicable to canal-boats.[29]

4. Ferrymen. The owners of public ferry-boats are common carriers as to goods received for transportation.[30] But one who keeps a ferry for his own use

An arrangement between the carrier and his servant, by which the latter is to be paid for the carriage of particular parcels, will not exempt the carrier from responsibility for the loss of them, unless such arrangement is known to the owner thereof. Mayall v. Boston, etc., R., 19 N. H. 122, 49 Am. Dec. 149.

As to delivery to servant as binding carrier see infra, II, F, 3.

24. Alabama.— South-Western R.. Co. v. Webb, 48 Ala. 585 [citing Selma, etc., R. Co. v. Butts, 43 Ala. 385, 94 Am. Dec. 694].

Georgia.— East Tennessee, etc., R. Co. v. Whittle, 27 Ga. 535, 73 Am. Dec. 741.

Indiana.— Bansemer v. Toledo, etc., R. Co., 25 Ind. 434, 87 Am. Dec. 367.

New York.— Heineman v. Grand Trunk R. Co., 31 How. Pr. (N. Y.) 430.

West Virginia.— Maslin v. Baltimore, etc., R. Co., 14 W. Va. 180, 35 Am. Rep. 748.

United States.— Helliwell v. Grand Trunk R. Co., 10 Biss. (U. S.) 170, 7 Fed. 68.

Carriers of mail.— A railroad company transporting mail cars under contract with the United States government is not liable as carrier for mail matter transported in such cars. Boston Ins. Co. v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., (Iowa 1902) 92 N. W. 88; Bankers' Mut. Casualty Co. v. Minneapolis, etc., R. Co., 117 Fed. 434 [affirming 113 Fed. 414].

25. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Thompson, 19 Ill. 578.

26. Little Rock, etc., R. Co. v. Glidewell, 39 Ark. 487.

27. Liverpool, etc., Steam Co. v. Phenix Ins. Co., 129 U. S. 397, 9 S. Ct. 469, 32 L. ed. 788. And see the following cases:

Connecticut.— Hale v. New Jersey Steam Nav. Co., 15 Conn. 539, 39 Am. Dec. 398; Crosby v. Fitch, 12 Conn. 410, 31 Am. Dec. 745.

Georgia.— Brown v. Clayton, 12 Ga. 564; Fish v. Chapman, 2 Ga. 349, 46 Am. Dec. 393.

New York.— Orange Bank v. Brown, 3 Wend. (N. Y.) 158; Allen v. Sewall, 2 Wend. (N. Y.) 327; Elliott v. Rossell, 10 Johns. (N. Y.) 1, 6 Am. Dec. 306.

South Carolina.— Swindler v. Hilliard, 2 Rich. (S. C.) 286, 45 Am. Dec. 732.

United States.— The Montana, 22 Blatchf. (U. S.) 372, 22 Fed. 715; The Gold Hunter, Blatchf. & H. (U. S.) 300, 10 Fed. Cas. No. 5,513.

See 9 Cent. Dig. tit. "Carriers," § 463; and, generally, Shipping; Towage.

This rule seems to have been doubted in Aymar v. Astor, 6 Cow. (N. Y.) 266.

Even where only a part of a ship is available to the public, by reason of the other portion being taken up by a cargo shipped under special charter, the owner is still a common carrier. Gage v. Tirrell, 9 Allen (Mass.) 299.

28. Bennett v. Filyaw, 1 Fla. 451; Faulkner v. Wright, Rice (S. C.) 107; Porterfield v. Humphreys, 8 Humphr. (Tenn.) 497.

29. Arnold v. Halenbake, 5 Wend. (N. Y.) 33; Spencer v. Daggett, 2 Vt. 92. See also, generally, Canals.

The same rule is applicable to boatmen.— Harrington v. Lyles, 2 Nott & M. (S. C.) 88.

30. Alabama.— Babcock v. Herbert, 3 Ala. 392, 37 Am. Dec. 695.

Arkansas.— Harvey v. Rose, 26 Ark. 3, 7 Am. Rep. 595.

California.— May v. Hanson, 5 Cal. 360, 63 Am. Dec. 135.

Iowa.— Slimmer v. Merry, 23 Iowa 90; Whitmore v. Bowman, 4 Greene (Iowa) 148.

Massachusetts.— Le Barron v. East Boston Ferry Co., 11 Allen (Mass.) 312, 87 Am. Dec. 717.

Missouri.— Pomeroy v. Donaldson, 5 Mo. 36.

Ohio.— Wilson v. Hamilton, 4 Ohio St. 722.

Pennsylvania.— Smith v. Seward, 3 Pa. St. 342.

Tennessee.— Sanders v. Young, 1 Head (Tenn.) 218, 73 Am. Dec. 175.

Texas.— Albright v. Penn, 14 Tex. 290.

England.— Walker v. Jackson, 12 L. J. Exch. 165, 10 M. & W. 161.

See 9 Cent. Dig. tit. "Carriers," § 467; and, generally, Ferries.

Extent and limits of rule.— The liability of a ferryman as common carrier attaches only to goods or merchandise put into his custody, and not retained under the control of the owner. If the owner takes his property with him upon the ferry-boat, not putting it into the custody of the officers of the boat, the ferryman is only bound to due care and diligence. White v. Winnisimmet Co., 7 Cush. (Mass.) 155; New York v. Starin, 106 N. Y. 1, 12 N. E. 631.

and for the convenience of his own customers, in connection with another business, and charges no ferriage, is liable only for gross negligence.[31]

5. CARTMEN, DRAYMEN, TRUCKMEN, LIGHTERMEN, ETC. Persons who engage in the business of draymen or truckmen for transportation of goods and merchandise within a city are common carriers.[32] One who employs messengers to deliver parcels is a common carrier as to goods received for delivery in that way.[33] So the proprietor of a line of omnibuses and baggage wagons is a common carrier as to baggage received for transportation.[34] Similarly lightermen and hoymen may be common carriers.[35] But where the carriage is in pursuance of a special contract to serve one person only, the employment being therefore private and not public, the person so employed is not liable as common carrier for the goods transported.[36]

6. EXPRESS AND TRANSPORTATION COMPANIES. An express company is a common carrier of the goods which it receives and undertakes to transport.[37] So called

31. Self v. Dunn, 42 Ga. 528, 5 Am. Rep. 544.

But even the owner of a private ferry, operated to accommodate those passing over a road which is not a public highway, may, by undertaking for hire to carry all persons indifferently, render himself liable as a common carrier. Hall v. Renfro, 3 Metc. (Ky.) 51; Littlejohn v. Jones, 2 McMull. (S. C.) 365, 39 Am. Dec. 132.

32. Fish v. Chapman, 2 Ga. 349, 46 Am. Dec. 393; Robertson v. Kennedy, 2 Dana (Ky.) 430, 26 Am. Dec. 466; Cayo v. Pool, 21 Ky. L. Rep. 1600, 55 S. W. 887, 49 L. R. A. 251; Farley v. Lavary, 21 Ky. L. Rep. 1252, 54 S. W. 840, 47 L. R. A. 383; Jackson Architectural Iron Works v. Hurlbut, 158 N. Y. 34, 52 N. E. 665, 70 Am. St. Rep. 432; Robinson v. Cornish, 13 N. Y. Suppl. 577.

A regular tariff of charges is not essential to render such person a common carrier. Jackson Architectural Iron Works v. Hurlbut, 158 N. Y. 34, 52 N. E. 665, 70 Am. St. Rep. 432.

33. Feiber v. Manhattan Dist. Tel. Co., 15 Daly (N. Y.) 62, 3 N. Y. Suppl. 116, 4 N. Y. Suppl. 555, 20 N. Y. St. 95, 22 Abb. N. Cas. (N. Y.) 121.

34. Georgia.— Dibble v. Brown, 12 Ga. 217, 56 Am. Dec. 460.

Illinois.— Parmelee v. Lowitz, 74 Ill. 116, 24 Am. Rep. 276; Parmelee v. McNulty, 19 Ill. 556.

New York.— Cole v. Goodwin, 19 Wend. (N. Y.) 251, 32 Am. Dec. 470; Hollister v. Nowlen, 19 Wend. (N. Y.) 234, 32 Am. Dec. 455.

Ohio.— Jones v. Voorhees, 10 Ohio 145.

Pennsylvania.—Beckman v. Shouse, 5 Rawle (Pa.) 179, 28 Am. Dec. 653.

A city express company carrying parcels and packages is a common carrier. Richards v. Westcott, 2 Bosw. (N. Y.) 589.

35. Fish v. Chapman, 2 Ga. 349, 46 Am. Dec. 393; Liver Alkali Co. v. Johnson, L. R. 9 Exch. 338, 43 L. J. Exch. 216, 31 L. T. Rep. N. S. 95; Ingate v. Christie, 3 C. & K. 61; Maving v. Todd, 4 Campb. 225, 1 Stark. 72, 16 Rev. Rep. 779, 2 E. C. L. 37; Dale v. Hall, Wils. Ch. 281; Trent, etc., Nav. Co. v. Wood, 4 Dougl. 287, 3 Esp. 127, 1 T. R. 28 note, 26 E. C. L. 479.

36. Faucher v. Wilson, 68 N. H. 338, 38 Atl. 1002, 39 L. R. A. 431.

So where one as warehouseman undertakes to receive property for storage and return it, the transportation being merely incidental to the business of warehouseman, he does not become liable as common carrier. Armfield v. Humphrey, 12 Ill. App. 90.

37. This is so for the reason that the business of an express company, as usually conducted, involves continuous custody of goods received as bailee from the time of their receipt until their final delivery, although the transportation thereof is to be effected by means of vehicles belonging to and controlled by others; the person furnishing the transportation being an employee in that respect of the express company.

Alabama.— Southern Express Co. v. Hess, 53 Ala. 19; Southern Express Co. v. Crook, 44 Ala. 468, 4 Am. Rep. 140.

District of Columbia.— Galt v. Adams Express Co., MacArthur & M. (D. C.) 124, 48 Am. Rep. 742.

Georgia.— Southern Express Co. v. Newby, 36 Ga. 635, 91 Am. Dec. 783.

Illinois.— Gulliver v. Adams Express Co., 38 Ill. 503.

Indiana.— American Express Co. v. Hockett, 30 Ind. 250, 95 Am. Dec. 691.

Massachusetts.— Buckland v. Adams Express Co., 97 Mass. 124, 93 Am. Dec. 68.

Minnesota.— Christenson v. American Express Co., 15 Minn. 270, 2 Am. Rep. 122.

Missouri.— Kirby v. Adams Express Co., 2 Mo. App. 369.

New York.— Belger v. Dinsmore, 51 N. Y. 166, 10 Am. Rep. 575; Landsberg v. Dinsmore, 4 Daly (N. Y.) 490; Place v. Union Express Co., 2 Hilt. (N. Y.) 19.

Ohio.— U. S. Express Co. v. Backman, 28 Ohio St. 144.

United States.— Southern Express Co. v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 3 McCrary (U. S.) 147, 10 Fed. 210, 869.

See 9 Cent. Dig. tit. "Carriers," §§ 1, 465.

Considered as forwarders merely.— It has been said that in such a case the express transportation or dispatch companies or fast freight lines which contract for through transportation of goods in cars which are taken upon various lines of road to the destination of the goods are common carriers.[38]

7. Forwarding Agents. A mere forwarding agent, who does not receive goods into his custody, but as agent for the shipper merely contracts for their transportation by carriers, and who has no interest in the freight, but receives compensation from the shipper as his agent, is not a common carrier.[39] But where a carrier undertakes to transport goods to their destination, deliver them to a purchaser, and return the money received therefor to the consignor, he is a carrier as to the transportation of the goods and an agent as to the sale, and a carrier again as to the money while transporting it to such consignor, and for loss of the money he is liable therefore, not only in case of negligence, but under the same conditions that would charge liability upon a carrier.[40]

8. Tugboats, Special Trains, Etc. It is evident that motive power in connection with the transportation of goods may be furnished by others who have no custody of the goods, and therefore, not being bailees, are not common carriers. It is therefore held that owners of tugboats are not common carriers of the goods on vessels which they tow,[41] and a railroad company which furnishes men company may be considered only a forwarder. Hersfield v. Adams, 19 Barb. (N. Y.) 577. But this is contrary to the weight of authority, and it has been held that such a company cannot, by calling itself an express forwarder, avoid liability as a common carrier. Buckland v. Adams Express Co., 97 Mass. 124, 93 Am. Dec. 68. See also infra, II, A, 7.

An agreement between a railroad and an express company for transportation of light freight on passenger trains held not to relieve the company from liability as a common carrier to one who had no notice that the business was not being done by the railroad company. Langworthy v. New York, etc., R. Co., 2 E. D. Smith (N. Y.) 195.

Statutory provisions.— In Indiana express companies are by statute made common carriers. American Express Co. v. Hockett, 30 Ind. 250, 95 Am. Dec. 691. And failure of such company to comply with the provision of the act will not relieve it from responsibility. U. S. Express Co. v. Rush, 24 Ind. 403.

38. Read v. Spaulding, 5 Bosw. (N. Y.) 395; Mercantile Mut. Ins. Co. v. Chase, 1 E. D. Smith (N. Y.) 115; Merchants' Dispatch Transp. Co. v. Bloch, 86 Tenn. 392, 6 S. W. 881, 6 Am. St. Rep. 847.

39. Roberts v. Turner, 12 Johns. (N. Y.) 232, 7 Am. Dec. 311.

Where, however, the goods are received by the carrier for transportation and delivered to a connecting carrier, the first carrier is not a mere forwarding agent. Buckland v. Adams Express Co., 97 Mass. 124, 93 Am. Dec. 68; Simmons v. Law, 3 Keyes (N. Y.) 217, 4 Abb. Dec. (N. Y.) 241; Teall v. Sears, 9 Barb. (N. Y.) 317; Read v. Spaulding, 5 Bosw. (N. Y.) 395; Pontifex v. Hartley, 62 L. J. Q. B. 196, 4 Reports 245. A carrier undertaking to transport from a place within to a place without the realm held a common carrier. Crouch v. London, etc., R. Co., 14 C. B. 255, 2 C. L. R. 188, 18 Jur. 148, 23 L. J. C. P. 73, 7 R. & Can. Cas. 717, 2 Wkly. Rep. 166, 78 E. C. L. 255. See also infra, II, M, 3.

40. Kemp v. Coughtry, 11 Johns. (N. Y.) 107; Harrington v. McShane, 2 Watts (Pa.) 443, 27 Am. Dec. 321.

But with reference to custody of goods at destination, such person may be bailee only. Williams v. O'Daniels, 35 Tex. 542.

The carrier will not be liable for the failure of its agent to account for the money, unless it appears that he had authority to act in that capacity. Taylor v. Wells, 3 Watts (Pa.) 65.

As to carriage C. O. D. see, generally, infra, II, L, 7.

41. Illinois.—Knapp v. McCaffrey, 178 Ill. 107, 52 N. E. 898, 69 Am. St. Rep. 290.

Kentucky.— Varble v. Bigley, 14 Bush (Ky.) 698, 29 Am. Rep. 435.

Maryland.— Pennsylvania, etc., Steam Nav. Co. v. Dandridge, 8 Gill & J. (Md.) 248, 29 Am. Dec. 543.

New York.— Wells v. Steam Nav. Co., 2 N. Y. 204; Emiliusen v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 30 N. Y. App. Div. 203, 51 N. Y. Suppl. 606; Caton v. Rumney, 13 Wend. (N. Y.) 387. To same effect see Alexander v. Greene, 3 Hill (N. Y.) 9, concerning which the court in Wells v. Steam Nav. Co. said: "It is true that the judgment . . . was reversed by the court of errors. (7 Hill (N. Y.) 533.) But what particular point or principle of law was decided by the court or what the majority of the members thought upon any particular question of law no one can tell."

Pennsylvania.— Leonard v. Hendrickson, 18 Pa. St. 40, 55 Am. Dec. 587.

United States.— The Neaffie, 1 Abb. (U. S.) 465, 17 Fed. Cas. No. 10,063; The Oconto, 5 Biss. (U. S.) 460, 18 Fed. Cas. No. 10,421; The Stranger, 1 Brown Adm. (U. S.) 281, 23 Fed. Cas. No. 13,525, 4 Am. L. T. Rep. 161, 3 Chic. Leg. N. 217, 13 Int. Rev. Rec. 150.

Contra.— Bussey v. Mississippi Valley Transp. Co., 24 La. Ann. 165, 13 Am. Rep.

and motive power for the transportation of special trains, such as a circus train, belonging to the person for whom the service is rendered,[42] is not a common carrier with reference to the property transported on such train.[43] So a bridge company, owning a bridge and its approaches, which is used by a railway company, is not a common carrier as to goods hauled over the bridge by the railway company.[44]

9. Carriers of Live Stock. In view of the fact that animals have some volition and propensities of their own which may lead to loss or damage regardless of the control exercised by those who undertake their transportation, it has been held in some cases that carriers of live stock are not liable as common carriers, but are only bound to transport with ordinary care and skill.[45] But the decided weight of authority is that a carrier receiving live stock for transportation does so under the usual liabilities which attach to the carriers of goods,[46] subject to the rule applicable in case of other goods, that he is not accountable for loss resulting from the inherent nature of the property, and not due to any negligence or fault on his part.[47]

10. Receivers and Trustees. A receiver appointed by the court to operate a 120; Smith v. Pierce, 1 La. 349; Walston v. Myers, 50 N. C. 174. See also White v. Steam-Tug Mary Ann, 6 Cal. 462, 65 Am. Dec. 523; Ashmore v. Pennsylvania Steam Towing, etc., Co., 28 N. J. L. 180; Vanderslice v. The Superior, 28 Fed. Cas. No. 16,843, 4 Pa. L. J. Rep. 388, 2 Am. L. J. N. S. 347, 13 Law Rep. 399.

See, generally, Towage.

42. But the mere fact that the car in which the property is being transported belongs to the owner of the property will not relieve the railroad company from the ordinary liability of a carrier. Fordyce v. McFlynn, 56 Ark. 424, 19 S. W. 961. Although a special contract between the company and the owner of the property as to liability for loading and unloading may be valid. Central R., etc., Co. v. Anderson, 58 Ga. 393; East Tennessee, etc., R. Co. v. Whittle, 27 Ga. 535, 73 Am. Dec. 741; Ohio, etc., R. Co. v. Dunbar, 20 Ill. 623, 71 Am. Dec. 291.

If a railroad company hires or charters cars to any one absolutely, the hirer cannot look to the company for damages in case of injury to his property as a common carrier. His remedy for injuries must be on contract of hire, and the implied undertaking of the company, that the hired cars are substantial and will be duly carried to their point of destination. East Tennessee, etc., R. Co. v. Whittle, 27 Ga. 535, 73 Am. Dec. 741.

43. Coup v. Wabash, etc., R. Co., 56 Mich. 111, 22 N. W. 215, 56 Am. Rep. 374; Kimball v. Rutland, etc., R. Co., 26 Vt. 247, 62 Am. Dec. 567; Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Wallace, 66 Fed. 506, 24 U. S. App. 589, 14 C. C. A. 257, 30 L. R. A. 161.

It has been held otherwise in a case where cars of the person for whom the service was being rendered were injured while the train in which they were being hauled was under the control of the conductor as agent of the railroad company, and were injured in the operation of the road. Mallory v. Tioga R. Co., 39 Barb. (N. Y.) 488.

A railroad company engaged in switching cars for the purpose of transferring them to or from its own line may be a common carrier (Missouri Pac. R. Co. v. Wichita Wholesale Grocery Co., 55 Kan. 525, 40 Pac. 899); but not where the service is being rendered for other carriers, and not in consequence of the duty of the railroad company as carriers of the goods (Kentucky, etc., Bridge Co. v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., 37 Fed. 567, 2 L. R. A. 289).

44. Kentucky, etc., Bridge Co. v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., 37 Fed. 567, 2 L. R. A. 289.

45. Heller v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 109 Mich. 53, 66 N. W. 667, 63 Am. St. Rep. 541; Baker v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., 10 Lea (Tenn.) 304.

Rule stated and criticized.— "The liability of a carrier of animals is essentially different from that of a carrier of merchandise or other inanimate property." Penn v. Buffalo, etc., R. Co., 49 N. Y. 204, 10 Am. Rep. 355. The common-law duty of a carrier to transport goods has been held not to require transportation of cattle for which special arrangements were necessary. Lake Shore, etc., R. Co. v. Perkins, 25 Mich. 329, 12 Am. Rep. 275; Michigan Southern, etc., R. Co. v. McDonough, 21 Mich. 165, 4 Am. Rep. 466. This theory was perhaps adopted in analogy to that under which a carrier of slaves was held not to be a common carrier of goods, inasmuch as slaves had volition and were not under the complete control of the carrier. Boyce v. Anderson, 2 Pet. (U. S.) 150, 7 L. ed. 379.

46. Kansas.— Kansas Pac. R. Co. v. Nichols, 9 Kan. 235, 12 Am. Rep. 494.

Nebraska.— Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Williams, 61 Nebr. 608, 85 N. W. 832; Atchison, etc., R. Co. v. Washburn, 5 Nebr. 117.

Ohio.— Wilson v. Hamilton, 4 Ohio St. 722.

Oregon.— See Honeyman v. Oregon, etc., R. Co., 13 Oreg. 352, 10 Pac. 668, 57 Am. Rep. 20.

Pennsylvania.— Ritz v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 3 Phila. (Pa.) 82, 15 Leg. Int. (Pa.) 75.

Vermont.— Kimball v. Rutland, etc., R. Co., 26 Vt. 247, 62 Am. Dec. 567.

See 9 Cent. Dig. tit. "Carriers," § 920.

47. See, generally, infra, II, D, 2, c, (II).

railroad is a common carrier, the same as the corporation which he represents, so far as he transacts the business of carrying goods,[48] and the same rule applies to trustees taking possession of a railroad and operating it under a trust deed or mortgage.[49]

B. Public Employment; Duty to Serve All — 1. In General. Common carriers owe to the public the duty of carrying indifferently for all who may employ them, and in the order in which the application is made, and without discrimination as to terms.[50] They may, however, restrict their business so as to exclude particular classes of goods, and they are not bound to receive dangerous articles, such as nitro-glycerine, dynamite, gunpowder, oil of vitriol, matches, etc.[51] But as to kinds of property which the carrier is in the habit of carrying in the prosecution of his business, he is bound to serve all customers alike.[52]

2. Duty to Furnish Cars — a. In General. A railroad company, engaged in the business of transporting freight as a common carrier, is bound to furnish suitable cars as required by customers,[53] upon reasonable notice,[54] whenever it can

48. Paige v. Smith, 99 Mass. 395; Newell v. Smith, 49 Vt. 255; Beers v. Wabash, etc., R. Co., 34 Fed. 244. And see, as cases where a receiver has been held liable as common carrier of goods or passengers, Nichols v. Smith, 115 Mass. 332; Bartlett v. Kein, 50 N. J. L. 260, 13 Atl. 7; Melendy v. Barbour, 78 Va. 544. See also, generally, Receivers.

49. Rogers v. Wheeler, 43 N. Y. 598; Faulkner v. Hart, 44 N. Y. Super. Ct. 471. See also, generally, Trusts.

50. State v. Cincinnati, etc., R. Co., 47 Ohio St. 130, 138, 23 N. E. 928, 7 L. R. A. 319. And see Ayres v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 71 Wis. 372, 37 N. W. 432, 5 Am. St. Rep. 226; Doty v. Strong, 1 Pinn. (Wis.) 313, 40 Am. Dec. 773; Atchison, etc., R. Co. v. Denver, etc., R. Co., 110 U. S. 667, 4 S. Ct. 185, 28 L. ed. 291; Walker v. Jackson, 10 M. & W. 161, 16 L. J. Exch. 165.

Carriers are bound to receive and transport all freight tendered, according to the custom and usage of their business. Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Frankenberg, 54 Ill. 88, 5 Am. Rep. 92; Galena, etc., R. Co. v. Rae, 18 Ill. 488, 68 Am. Dec. 574.

It is the specific duty of carriers to serve all alike. Favors and preferences are to be avoided. A common carrier cannot carry for one and refuse to carry for another. A railroad is without right to grant privileges where the public is concerned. Cumberland Telephone, etc., Co. v. Texas, etc., R. Co., 52 La. Ann. 1850, 28 So. 284.

One railroad company is not justified in refusing to permit the owner of a coal mine to ship coal over its road because such owner also ships coal from the same mine over the road of another railroad company. It is the duty of a railroad company to carry any freight that is offered, provided its legal charges for such carriage are paid. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Suffern, 129 Ill. 274, 287, 21 N. E. 824.

It is not necessary to prove any special undertaking in an action for refusal to carry goods. Doty v. Strong, 1 Pinn. (Wis.) 313, 40 Am. Dec. 773.

The action for refusal to carry, being founded on a public duty and not on special contract, arises ex delicto. Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co. v. Morton, 61 Ind. 539, 28 Am. Rep. 682.

Under Texas statute, apparently stating the common-law rule, held that a carrier was liable for receiving the goods of one shipper after rejecting those of a prior applicant. Houston, etc., R. Co. v. Smith, 63 Tex. 322.

A railway company is not bound to receive goods at a point on its line where it has no facilities for receiving them for transportation. Oxlade v. North Eastern R., 15 C. B. N. S. 680, 109 E. C. L. 680; Johnson v. Midland R. Co., 4 Exch. 367, 18 L. J. Exch. 366, 6 R. & Can. Cas. 61.

51. Therefore carriers may impose conditions with reference to the carriage of such articles which amount to a discrimination as between them and ordinary goods and merchandise. California Powder Works v. Atlantic & P. R. Co., 113 Cal. 329, 45 Pac. 691, 36 L. R. A. 648. So held as to fragile goods, such as glassware. People v. Babcock, 16 Hun (N. Y.) 313.

52. Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Queen City Coal Co., 13 Ky. L. Rep. 832.

If the goods cannot lawfully be transported in the state, as, for instance, intoxicating liquors, which are subject to police regulation, a refusal to transport will be justified. Milwaukee Malt Extract Co. v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 73 Iowa 98, 34 N. W. 761; State v. Goss, 59 Vt. 266, 9 Atl. 829, 59 Am. Rep. 706; Bluthenthal v. Southern R. Co., 84 Fed. 920.

53. It is reasonable accommodation for goods ready for shipment which the railroad is required to furnish, and it is not bound to provide cars for coal not yet mined, into which the shipper may hoist his coal as dug (Illinois, etc., R. Co. v. People, 19 Ill. App. 141), or cars for live stock not yet ready for loading within a reasonable time before the departure of the train (Frazier v. Kansas City, etc., R. Co., 48 Iowa 571).

54. It is entitled to reasonable time in which to furnish cars after requisition is made by the shipper. Huston v. Wabash R. Co., 63 Mo. App. 671.

After cars have been provided, in response do so with reasonable diligence without jeopardizing its other business,[55] and it cannot discriminate between shippers at points where it competes with other lines and those at points where there is no such competition.[56] But it is not bound to provide in advance for extraordinary occasions or an unusual influx of freight on its road.[57]

b. Excuses For Not Furnishing Cars. In accordance with the principles already stated it is clear that inability to furnish cars,[58] except by undue interference with the general business of the railroad company, and the rights of other shippers, will constitute a defense in an action for failure to furnish cars when requested,[59] unless otherwise provided by statute.[60]

3. Elevator and Stock-Yard Cases. A railroad company cannot discriminate between elevators which may be reached from its line, and by agreement undertake to deliver grain in bulk at one elevator while refusing to accept it for delivery at another.[61] So a railroad company may be compelled by mandamus to deliver cattle at stock-yards which are accessible over its line.[62] to notice from the shipper, the carrier will not be relieved from liability for refusing to accept the property offered for transportation in such cars, on the ground that there is an unusual and unprecedented demand at that time and place by others. Cross v. McFaden, 1 Tex. Civ. App. 461, 20 S. W. 846.

55. Newport News, etc., Co. v. Mercer, 96 Ky. 475, 16 Ky. L. Rep. 555, 29 S. W. 301; Ayres v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 71 Wis. 372, 37 N. W. 432, 5 Am. St. Rep. 226.

A reasonable tender of cars is all that can be required of a railroad company. Cumberland Telephone, etc., Co. v. Texas, etc., R. Co., 52 La. Ann. 1850, 28 So. 284.

56. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Wolcott, 141 Ind. 267, 39 N. E. 451, 50 Am. St. Rep. 320.

Mandamus.— The duty to furnish cars without discrimination may be enforced by mandamus. Cumberland Telephone, etc., Co. v. Texas, etc., R. Co., 52 La. Ann. 1850, 28 So. 284; Covington Stock-Yards Co. v. Keith, 139 U. S. 128, 11 S. Ct. 128, 35 L. ed. 73. See also, generally, MANDAMUS.

57. Galena, etc., R. Co. v. Rae, 18 Ill. 488, 68 Am. Dec. 574. See also Cross v. McFaden, 1 Tex. Civ. App. 461, 20 S. W. 846.

58. Strikes.— Interference with the business of a railroad company by strikers, who have quit the company's employ, may also constitute an excuse. Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co. v. Hollowell, 65 Ind. 188, 32 Am. Rep. 63. So if, by reason of a strike, the company has been compelled to take the coal trains usually used for accommodating shippers of coal in order to haul coal to supply its own engines, this will constitute a defense. Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Queen City Coal Co., 99 Ky. 217, 18 Ky. L. Rep. 126, 35 S. W. 626. But a reduction in wages which causes a strike, and which disables the company from carrying on its business, will not excuse the company for failure to furnish accommodations. Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co. v. Hollowell, 65 Ind. 188, 32 Am. Rep. 63.

That railroad has been placed under military control will excuse it for failure to furnish accommodations to those who have not a military permit. Phelps v. Illinois Cent. R. Co., 94 Ill. 548; Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Hornberger, 77 Ill. 457.

59. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Wolcott, 141 Ind. 267, 39 N. E. 451, 50 Am. St. Rep. 320; Newport News, etc., Co. v. Mercer, 96 Ky. 475, 16 Ky. L. Rep. 555, 29 S. W. 301.

Negligence a question for jury.— Whether the company is negligent, in view of its general business, in not furnishing cars as requested, is for the jury. Hastings v. New York, etc., R. Co., 3 Silv. Supreme (N. Y.) 422, 6 N. Y. Suppl. 836, 25 N. Y. St. 249. So is the question as to whether the negligence of the shipper in receiving previous shipments at point of destination is an excuse to the carrier for refusing subsequent shipments. Cobb v. Illinois Cent. R. Co., 38 Iowa 601.

60. The liability of a carrier for failure to furnish transportation is founded in general on his refusal to make the facilities which he has available to all without discrimination, and not on the inadequacy of his accommodations to enable him to supply facilities as required. But by statute in Texas a railroad company is required to furnish reasonable facilities, and it is liable in damages for not doing so. Texas, etc., R. Co. v. Fambrough, (Tex. Civ. App. 1900) 55 S. W. 188; Houston, etc., R. Co. v. Campbell, 91 Tex. 551, 45 S. W. 2, 43 L. R. A. 225; Davis v. Texas, etc., R. Co., 91 Tex. 505, 44 S. W. 822; Galveston, etc., R. Co. v. Schmidt, (Tex. Civ. App. 1894) 25 S. W. 452; Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. McCorquodale, 71 Tex. 41, 9 S. W. 80.

Statute strictly construed.— Such a statute, being penal in its nature, will be strictly construed. Houston, etc., R. Co. v. Campbell, 91 Tex. 551, 45 S. W. 2, 43 L. R. A. 225.

61. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. People, 56 Ill. 365, 8 Am. Rep. 690; People v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 55 Ill. 95, 8 Am. Rep. 631.

A company may refuse to receive grain for an elevator which cannot be reached from its line of road, or which can be reached only by arrangements with other railroads. People v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 55 Ill. 95, 8 Am. Rep. 631; Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co. v. Morton, 61 Ind. 539, 28 Am. Rep. 682.

62. And this is true, notwithstanding the railroad company has a contract with another stock-yard company to deliver to the latter all live stock transported to that place.

4. Prepayment of Charges as Condition to Right to Have Transportation. A carrier may make prepayment of freight a condition of furnishing transportation.[63]

5. Special Privileges to Express Companies. It is not the duty of a railroad company as common carrier to carry the goods of an express company and the messengers in charge of them.[64] Such privileges are acquired by the express company, if at all, as the result of special contract, and therefore a railroad company is not bound to furnish equal facilities to all express companies who do business over its line of road.[65]

6. Transportation to Points Beyond Line. A railroad company cannot be required to transport goods to a point beyond its line,[66] unless it holds itself out to do so.[67]

7. What Constitutes Refusal to Transport. In order that there be a refusal which will render a carrier liable in damages there must be a tender of goods for shipment.[68] Refusal by an agent will render the carrier liable if the agent is permitted by the carrier to hold himself out as authorized to receive freight in such manner as to justify the belief that he has such authority.[69] If there is a regulation as to the time when goods should be tendered it must be reasonable.[70]

It cannot by such contract restrict itself to delivery to a particular company furnishing facilities for the handling of live stock. Covington Stock Yards Co. v. Keith, 139 U. S. 128, 11 S. Ct. 128, 35 L. ed. 73.

63. Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Frankenberg, 54 Ill. 88, 5 Am. Rep. 92; Galena, etc., R. Co. v. Rae, 18 Ill. 488, 68 Am. Dec. 574; Wilder v. St. Johnsbury, etc., R. Co., 66 Vt. 636, 30 Atl. 41.

But unless prepayment is required, failure to tender charges in advance will not be an excuse for refusing to transport. Galena, etc., R. Co. v. Rae, 18 Ill. 488, 68 Am. Dec. 574.

If bill of lading provides for payment of charges at end of transportation, failure to tender such charges in advance will not be a defense for refusal to receive. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Wolcott, 141 Ind. 267, 39 N. E. 451, 50 Am. St. Rep. 320.

64. Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Keefer, 146 Ind. 21, 44 N. E. 796, 58 Am. St. Rep. 348, 38 L. R. A. 93.

65. Pfister v. Central Pac. R. Co., 70 Cal. 169, 11 Pac. 686, 59 Am. Rep. 404; Sargent v. Boston, etc., R. Corp., 115 Mass. 116; Memphis, etc., R. Co. v. Southern Express Co., 117 U. S. 1, 6 S. Ct. 542, 628, 29 L. ed. 791. And see Old Colony R. Co. v. Tripp, 147 Mass. 35, 17 N. E. 89, 9 Am. St. Rep. 661. Contra, New England Express Co. v. Maine Cent. R. Co., 57 Me. 188, 2 Am. Rep. 31; McDuffee v. Portland, etc., R. Co., 52 N. H. 430, 13 Am. Rep. 72.

As to special privileges at depots and on trains, in connection with the carriage of passengers see infra, III, B, 3.

Rule does not apply to telegraph companies.— But it is said that a contract between a railroad company and a telegraph company, by which the railroad gives special privileges to the telegraph company with reference to the transportation and distribution of poles and other material along its line, and whereby it agrees not to give similar special privileges to another telegraph company, is against public policy and void. Cumberland Telephone, etc., Co. v. Morgan's Louisiana, etc., R. Co., 51 La. Ann. 29, 24 So. 803, 72 Am. St. Rep. 442.

66. People v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 55 Ill. 95, 8 Am. Rep. 631; Cobb v. Illinois Cent. R. Co., 38 Iowa 601.

67. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Wolcott, 141 Ind. 267, 39 N. E. 451, 50 Am. St. Rep. 320.

If an express company establishes limits in a city beyond which it will not call for nor deliver packages, one outside the limits thus reasonably fixed cannot complain, although in another direction the limits extend further from the company's office. Bullard v. American Express Co., 107 Mich. 695, 65 N. W. 551, 61 Am. St. Rep. 358, 33 L. R. A. 66.

Branch line operated under lease.— The duty of a railroad company to transport to points on its line does not necessarily extend to a branch line operated under a lease. Avinger v. South Carolina R. Co., 29 S. C. 265, 7 S. E. 493, 13 Am. St. Rep. 716.

68. Little Rock, etc., R. Co. v. Conatser, 61 Ark. 560, 33 S. W. 1057.

To constitute a tender it is not essential that the shipper prepare and offer his freight ready for shipment after the company has refused to furnish him transportation. Houston, etc., R. Co. v. Campbell, 91 Tex. 551, 45 S. W. 2, 43 L. R. A. 225.

69. Seasongood, etc., Co. v. Tennessee, etc., Transp. Co., 21 Ky. L. Rep. 1142, 54 S. W. 193, 49 L. R. A. 270.

Refusal by the agent, on the ground of personal animosity between himself and the shipper, will render the carrier liable. Lanning v. Sussex R. Co., 1 N. J. L. J. 21.

70. Alsop v. Southern Express Co., 104 N. C. 278, 10 S. E. 297, 6 L. R. A. 271.

So as to regulations as to employment of workmen see Johnson v. Three Hundred and Eighteen Tons of Coal, 44 Conn. 548, 14 Blatchf. (U. S.) 453, 23 Fed. Cas. No. 14,010, 4 Law & Eq. Rep. 105.

8. What Damages Recoverable For Refusal to Receive. The damages for which a carrier is liable for refusal to receive property for transportation include loss occasioned by the necessary delay in securing transportation, and the cost of keeping the goods during the delay,[71] also the difference between the value of the property where it was tendered for transportation and its value at the place to which it was to be taken, less expense of transportation;[72] also reasonable profits that could have been earned in the shipper's business, of which he has been deprived by inability to secure transportation;[73] also loss of the benefit of a contract which the shipper was undertaking to perform by shipment of the goods in question.[74] The carrier wrongfully refusing to accept property for transportation is liable to the shipper for the expense of protecting such property, as well as the proximate damages for delay in its transportation,[75] and for deterioration of the property during such delay, and proximately resulting therefrom.[76] So the carrier is liable for the expense of delivering the property a second time for transportation,[77] and for loss of the property by theft, where the shipper has had no reasonable opportunity to make a safe disposition of the goods refused.[78] But refusal of a carrier to receive goods for a particular consignee gives rise to a right of action by the shipper, and not by the consignee, and the latter cannot recover for damages suffered.[79] If the refusal is the result of ill-will, or wilful disregard of the rights of the person tendering the goods for transportation, exemplary damages may be given.[80]

C. Transportation Must Be For Hire. No person is a common carrier in the sense of the law who performs the service without hire.[81] But it is not necessary that there be an express contract for compensation.[82] Nor is it neces-

71. Houston, etc., R. Co. v. Smith, 63 Tex. 322.

72. People v. New York, etc., R. Co., 22 Hun (N. Y.) 533; Inman v. St. Louis Southwestern R. Co., 14 Tex. Civ. App. 39, 37 S. W. 37.

Evidence of fluctuations in market price is admissible. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Wolcott, 141 Ind. 267, 39 N. E. 451, 50 Am. St. Rep. 320. If the refusal is not of specific property, but generally to transport a particular kind of property for complainant, market value is immaterial. Central, etc., R. Co. v. Morris, 68 Tex. 49, 3 S. W. 457. In such a case loss to complainant's business may be shown. Central R. Co. v. Logan, 77 Ga. 804, 2 S. E. 465.

73. Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Queen City Coal Co., 13 Ky. L. Rep. 832.

74. Houston, etc., R. Co. v. Campbell, 91 Tex. 551, 45 S. W. 2, 43 L. R. A. 225, also holding it to be immaterial whether the carrier had knowledge of such contract.

75. St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Neel, 56 Ark. 279, 19 S. W. 963.

76. Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co. v. Morton, 61 Ind. 539, 28 Am. Rep. 682.

77. Inman v. St. Louis Southwestern R. Co., 14 Tex. Civ. App. 39, 37 S. W. 37.

78. Seasongood, etc., Co. v. Tennessee, etc., Transp. Co., 21 Ky. L. Rep. 1142, 54 S. W. 193, 49 L. R. A. 270.

79. Lafaye v. Harris, 13 La. Ann. 553. So failure of a carrier to provide facilities for the shipment of a commodity, whereby the party is prevented from selling such commodity to others for shipment, does not give rise to a right of action against the carrier. Little Rock, etc., R. Co. v. Conatser, 61 Ark. 560, 33 S. W. 1057.

80. Avinger v. South Carolina R. Co., 29 S. C. 265, 7 S. E. 493, 13 Am. St. Rep. 716.

81. Choteau v. Steamboat St. Anthony, 16 Mo. 216; Citizens' Bank v. Nantucket Steam Boat Co., 2 Story (U. S.) 16, 5 Fed. Cas. No. 2,730.

One who carries property gratuitously is liable for gross negligence only. Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Gerson, 102 Ala. 409, 14 So. 873; Dudley v. Camden, etc., Ferry Co., 42 N. J. L. 25, 36 Am. Rep. 501.

Where a carrier receives a special class of property, which he is not bound to carry, only on condition that no charge shall be made therefor and no responsibility incurred, he does not become liable as common carrier in case of loss. Fay v. Steamer New World, 1 Cal. 348.

The definition already given involves the element of transportation for hire, and the liability of common carrier does not arise as to goods transported without compensation. Payment of freight on the part of the shipper, or at any rate the right of the carrier to sue for and recover compensation, lies at the foundation of the carrier's liability. Knox v. Rives, 14 Ala. 249, 48 Am. Dec. 97. See also supra, II, A, 1.

82. If by reason of usage, or the general nature of the business, the right to compensation arises by implication, the carrier is liable as a carrier for hire. Gray v. Missouri River Packet Co., 64 Mo. 47; Kirtland v. Montgomery, 1 Swan (Tenn.) 452.

That carrier intended to carry goods gratuitously, without having indicated that insary that compensation be provided for under an express or implied agreement to pay for the particular service.[83]

D. Liability in General, Aside From Contract — 1. General Rule; Insurer. The general rule as to the common carrier's liability with reference to the goods in his possession as carrier, and regardless of any contractual exceptions, is that he is liable for all loss or destruction of or injury to such goods,[84] not occasioned by the act of God[85] or the public enemy.[86] Therefore, where the loss is not due to the excepted cases, proof of negligence is immaterial,[87] and the carrier cannot escape liability by proving reasonable care and diligence.[88] In the English cases, by which the rule of exceptional liability was first established, it was said that the carrier was an insurer of the goods as against all loss or injury not resulting from the excepted cases,[89] and in some of the cases in the United States the term "insurer" is used;[90] but nothing more is meant by this expression than that the carrier is absolutely liable, with only the exceptions recognized in the rule as above stated. The general rule as to the carrier's liability is illustrated by cases holding the carrier liable for loss of goods by fire,[91] tention to the shipper, will not relieve the carrier from his usual liability. Gray v. Missouri River Packet Co., 64 Mo. 47.

83. If the transportation is a part of an undertaking on the part of the carrier for which there is a valid consideration, it will be a carriage for hire, although it is agreed that in connection with the general advantage resulting to the carrier from the entire transaction this particular part of the service is to be rendered without charge. Spears v. Lake Shore, etc., R. Co., 67 Barb. (N. Y.) 513; Pierce v. Milwaukee, etc., R. Co., 23 Wis. 387.

So where it was customary for the carrier to transport baggage free for his employees, held that the transportation of such baggage was not gratuitous in such sense as to relieve the carrier from his common-law liability. Gott v. Dinsmore, 111 Mass. 45.

84. California.— Bohannan v. Hammond, 42 Cal. 227; Jackson v. Sacramento Valley R. Co., 23 Cal. 268.

Connecticut.— Williams v. Grant, 1 Conn. 487, 7 Am. Dec. 235.

Georgia.— Central R., etc., Co. v. Hines, 19 Ga. 203.

Illinois.— U. S. Express Co. v. Hutchins, 67 Ill. 348; Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. People, 56 Ill. 365, 8 Am. Rep. 690; Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Frankenberg, 54 Ill. 88, 5 Am. Rep. 92.

Louisiana.— Thomas v. Ship Morning Glory, 13 La. Ann. 269, 71 Am. Dec. 509.

Massachusetts.— Gage v. Tirrell, 9 Allen (Mass.) 299.

Minnesota.— Christenson v. American Express Co., 15 Minn. 270, 2 Am. Rep. 122.

Mississippi.—Powell v. Mills, 30 Miss. 231, 64 Am. Dec. 158.

Missouri.— Davis v. Wabash, etc., R. Co., 89 Mo. 340, 1 S. W. 327; Wolf v. American Express Co., 43 Mo. 421, 97 Am. Dec. 406.

New Hampshire.—Moses v. Norris, 4 N. H. 304.

North Carolina.— Harrell v. Owens, 18 N. C. 273.

Pennsylvania.— Gordon v. Little, 8 Serg. & R. 533, 11 Am. Dec. 632.

South Carolina.—Porcher v. North Eastern R. Co., 14 Rich. (S. C.) 181; Ewart v. Street, 2 Bailey (S. C.) 157, 23 Am. Dec. 131; Campbell v. Morse, Harp. (S. C.) 468.

Tennessee.— Watson v. Memphis, etc., R. Co., 9 Heisk. (Tenn.) 255; Turney v. Wilson, 7 Yerg. (Tenn.) 340, 27 Am. Dec. 515; Craig v. Childress, Peck (Tenn.) 270, 14 Am. Dec. 751.

Texas.— Arnold v. Jones, 26 Tex. 335, 82 Am. Dec. 617.

Virginia.—Murphy v. Staton, 3 Munf. (Va.) 239.

Wisconsin.— Klauber v. American Express Co., 21 Wis. 21, 91 Am. Dec. 452.

England.— Riley v. Horne, 5 Bing. 217, 2 M. & P. 331, 30 Rev. Rep. 576, 15 E. C. L. 549; Nugent v. Smith, 1 C. P. D. 423, 45 L. J. C. P. 697, 34 L. T. Rep. N. S. 827, 25 Wkly. Rep. 117; Trent, etc., Nav. Co. v. Wood, 4 Dougl. 287, 3 Esp. 127, 1 T. R. 28 note, 26 E. C. L. 479; Oakley v. Portsmouth, etc., Steam-packet Co., 11 Exch. 618, 25 L. J. Exch. 99, 4 Wkly. Rep. 236.

See 9 Cent. Dig. tit. "Carriers," § 481.

85. See infra, II, D, 2, a.

86. See infra, II, D, 2, b.

87. McCall v. Brock, 5 Strobh. (S. C.) 119.

88. Agnew v. Steamer Contra Costa, 27 Cal. 425, 87 Am. Dec. 87; Mershon v. Hobensack, 22 N. J. L. 372; Bearse v. Ropes, 1 Sprague (U. S.) 331, 2 Fed. Cas. No. 1,192, 19 Law Rep. 548.

89. Riley v. Horne, 5 Bing. 217, 2 M. & P. 331, 30 Rev. Rep. 576, 15 E. C. L. 549; Harris v. Packwood, 3 Taunt. 264, 272, 15 Rev. Rep. 755. But in the latter of these cases it is said by Lawrence, J., that the word "insurance," used in this connection, "is a very foolish word."

90. Hooper v. Wells, 27 Cal. 11, 85 Am. Dec. 211; Costigan v. Michael Transp. Co., 33 Mo. App. 269.

91. Illinois.— Porter v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 20 Ill. 407, 71 Am. Dec. 286.

Kentucky.— Farley v. Lavary, 21 Ky. L. Rep. 1252, 54 S. W. 840, 47 L. R. A. 383.

Maine.— Parker v. Flagg, 26 Me. 181, 45 Am. Dec. 101.

Missouri.— McFadden v. Missouri Pac. R.

water,[92] or other accidental cause,[93] or by negligence or wrong of the carrier's servants or third persons.[94] However, in the fuller development of the rule of carrier's liability it has been held that he is not liable for loss or damage due to the intrinsic qualities of the goods carried,[95] or the act or fault of the shipper,[96] and therefore the rule might now be more fully stated as being that the common carrier is liable for all loss or injury not due to the act of God or the public enemy, the inherent nature or qualities of the goods, or the act or fault of the owner or shipper,[97] it being understood that as to all of these excepted cases the carrier may be liable by reason of his own negligence or that of his agents, servants, or employees.[98] This general rule of liability is applicable to carriers by water as well as those who carry by land transportations.[99]

2. EXCEPTIONS — a. Act of God. The term "act of God," used to express a cause of loss or damage, for the consequences of which the carrier will not be liable, means some casualty not due to human agency.[1] The terms "inevitable accident" and "unavoidable accident" are sometimes used as synonymous with "act of God,"[2] but they lack the suggestion that the loss is due to other than

Co., 92 Mo. 343, 4 S. W. 689, 1 Am. St. Rep. 721.

New York.— Miller v. Steam Nav. Co., 10 N. Y. 431, Seld. Notes (N. Y.) 64.

Ohio.— Minnesota Min. Co. v. Chapman, 2 Ohio Dec. (Reprint) 207, 2 West. L. Month. 75.

See 9 Cent. Dig. tit. "Carriers," § 481.

92. Fish v. Chapman, 2 Ga. 349, 46 Am. Dec. 393; Campbell v. Morse, Harp. (S. C.) 468; Philleo v. Sanford, 17 Tex. 227, 67 Am. Dec. 654; The Zenobia, Abb. Adm. (U. S.) 80, 30 Fed. Cas. No. 18,209.

93. Brousseau v. Ship Hudson, 11 La. Ann. 427.

94. Mershon v. Hobensack, 22 N. J. L. 373; Howe v. Oswego, etc., R. Co., 56 Barb. (N. Y.) 121; Schieffelin v. Harvey, 6 Johns. (N. Y.) 170, 5 Am. Dec. 206.

95. Hall v. Renfro, 3 Metc. (Ky.) 51; Rixford v. Smith, 52 N. H. 355, 13 Am. Rep. 42. And see infra, II, D, 2, d.

96. See infra, II, D, 2, c.

97. Clark v. Richards, 1 Conn. 54.

98. As to the liability of a carrier for negligence in the excepted cases of loss see infra, II, E, 2, b.

99. Alabama.— Jones v. Pitcher, 3 Stew. & P. (Ala.) 135, 24 Am. Dec. 716.

Connecticut.— Hale v. New Jersey Steam Nav. Co., 15 Conn. 539, 39 Am. Dec. 398; Richards v. Gilbert, 5 Day (Conn.) 415.

Missouri.— Daggett v. Shaw, 3 Mo. 264, 25 Am. Dec. 439.

South Carolina.— Harrington v. Lyles, 2 Nott & M. (S. C.) 88; McClures v. Hammond, 1 Bay (S. C.) 99, 1 Am. Dec. 598.

United States.— The Ship Maggie Hammond v. Morland, 9 Wall. (U. S.) 435, 19 L. ed. 772; The Propeller Niagara v. Cordes, 21 How. (U. S.) 7, 16 L. ed. 41; Tompkins v. The Dutchess of Ulster, 24 Fed. Cas. No. 14,087*a*.

See 9 Cent. Dig. tit. "Carriers," § 482.

Thus the owners of a steamboat are liable for loss of goods by robbery (The Steamboat Belfast v. Boon, 41 Ala. 50; Boon v. Steamboat Belfast, 40 Ala. 184, 88 Am. Dec. 761), or theft (Schieffelin v. Harvey, 6 Johns. (N. Y.) 170, 5 Am. Dec. 206). But this was denied in two earlier cases in this country. Aymer v. Astor, 6 Cow. (N. Y.) 266; Eveleigh v. Sylvester, 2 Brev. (S. C.) 178.

Under the civil law in force in Louisiana the common carrier was not held to the same strict liability as under the common law. Hunt v. Morris, 6 Mart. (La.) 676.

Carriers on inland waters.— The general rule of liability applies to carriers navigating inland waters. Steamboat Belfast v. Boon, 41 Ala. 50; McArthur v. Sears, 21 Wend. (N. Y.) 190.

Usage.— Some cases suggest a limitation of the liability of carriers by water, growing out of established usage, but in none of them is it held that any such usage is shown. Singleton v. Hilliard, 1 Strobh. (S. C.) 203; Patton v. Magrath, Dudley (S. C.) 159, 31 Am. Dec. 552; Crosby v. Grinnell, 6 Fed. Cas. No. 3,422, 9 N. Y. Leg. Obs. 281.

1. It means the action of the forces of nature, in opposition to the act of man, such as lightning, storms, earthquakes, and the like.

Colorado.— Blythe v. Denver, etc., R. Co., 15 Colo. 333, 25 Pac. 702, 22 Am. St. Rep. 403, 11 L. R. A. 615.

Georgia.— Central Line of Boats v. Lowe, 50 Ga. 509; Fish v. Chapman, 2 Ga. 349, 46 Am. Dec. 393.

Virginia.—Friend v. Woods, 6 Gratt. (Va.) 189, 52 Am. Dec. 119.

United States.—Dibble v. Morgan, 1 Woods (U. S.) 406, 7 Fed. Cas. No. 3,881; Tompkins v. The Dutchess of Ulster, 24 Fed. Cas. No. 14,087*a*.

England.— Forward v. Pittard, 1 T. R. 27, 1 Rev. Rep. 142.

See 9 Cent. Dig. tit. "Carriers," § 523; and, generally, ACT OF GOD, 1 Cyc. 758.

2. Walpole v. Bridges, 5 Blackf. (Ind.) 222; Neal v. Saunderson, 2 Sm. & M. (Miss.) 572, 41 Am. Dec. 609; Fowler v. Davenport, 21 Tex. 626. See also, generally, ACT OF GOD, 1 Cyc. 758.

human agency, and therefore their use is not satisfactory. Indeed, it has been said that "act of God" is distinguishable from "inevitable accident."[3] In the civil law the carrier is said to be excused by "vis major," and also by "casus fortuitous,"[4] but the rule of carrier's liability by the civil law is not the same as by the common law,[5] and these terms are not equivalent to "act of God." To constitute act of God the casualty must be not only the direct result of natural causes, but one which is in no way contributed to by human agency.[6] Thus, a loss due to collision,[7] or the stranding of a vessel,[8] will not come within the exception. So where loss is due to the vessel in which the goods are being carried striking a hidden anchor,[9] or mast,[10] the carrier is liable. But the striking of a vessel on a rock or snag not generally known, and not actually known to the master of the vessel, has been held to be act of God.[11] Cases of this kind are, however, doubtful, and some of them are to be explained as having reference to an exception in the bill of lading of "perils of navigation," or like clause.[12] The general rule undoubtedly is that for injuries due to the vessel running against rocks on the shore, no matter how the officers may have been misled, the carrier is liable.[13] In accordance with the general rule it has uniformly been held that the carrier is liable for loss by fire (due to some human agency, and not lightning, spontaneous combustion, or some other operation of nature), even though originating outside of the premises controlled by the carrier, and not due to any act or fault of the carrier or his servants, and of such nature that by no human skill or foresight on the part of the carrier or his servants could the loss have been avoided.[14] A flood, however, of such extraordinary character that it could not have been seen or provided against is an act of God, and the carrier is not responsible for loss of goods in his possession resulting therefrom.[15] So it is said that a snow-storm which blocks up a railway and prevents the moving of trains

3. Merritt v. Earle, 29 N. Y. 115, 86 Am. Dec. 292; Proprietors Trent, etc., Nav. Co. v. Wood, 4 Dougl. 297, 3 Esp. 127, 1 T. R. 28 note, 26 E. C. L. 479.

4. Brousseau v. Ship Hudson, 11 La. Ann. 427.

5. Hunt v. Morris, 6 Mart. (La.) 676.

6. New Brunswick Steamboat, etc., Transp. Co. v. Tiers, 24 N. J. L. 697, 64 Am. Dec. 394; Merritt v. Earle, 29 N. Y. 115, 86 Am. Dec. 292.

7. Mershon v. Hobensack, 22 N. J. L. 372; Hays v. Kennedy, 41 Pa. St. 378, 80 Am. Dec. 627.

8. McArthur v. Sears, 21 Wend. (N. Y.) 190.

9. Trent, etc., Nav. Co. v. Wood, 4 Dougl. 287, 3 Esp. 127, 1 T. R. 28 note, 26 E. C. L. 479.

10. Merritt v. Earle, 29 N. Y. 115, 86 Am. Dec. 292.

11. Williams v. Grant, 1 Conn. 487, 7 Am. Dec. 235; Smyrl v. Nielson, 2 Bailey (S. C.) 421, 23 Am. Dec. 146; Turney v. Wilson, 7 Yerg. (Tenn.) 340, 27 Am. Dec. 515.

12. Friend v. Woods, 6 Gratt. (Va.) 189, 52 Am. Dec. 119. And see Hays v. Kennedy, 41 Pa. St. 378, 80 Am. Dec. 627.

13. Ferguson v. Brent, 12 Md. 9, 71 Am. Dec. 582; McArthur v. Sears, 21 Wend. (N. Y.) 190; Craig v. Childress, Peck (Tenn.) 270, 14 Am. Dec. 751.

14. Gilmore v. Carman, 1 Sm. & M. (Miss.) 279, 40 Am. Dec. 96; Miller v. Steam Nav. Co., 10 N. Y. 431, Seld. Notes (N. Y.) 64; Parsons v. Monteath, 13 Barb. (N. Y.) 353; Gould v. Hill, 2 Hill (N. Y.) 623; Chevallier v. Straham, 2 Tex. 115, 47 Am. Dec. 639; Forward v. Pittard, 1 T. R. 27, 1 Rev. Rep. 142. And see supra, II, D, 1.

The great Chicago fire.— Thus it was held that goods in the hands of carriers destroyed in the great Chicago fire of 1871 were not lost by act of God, and that the carriers were liable therefor. Merchants' Despatch Co. v. Smith, 76 Ill. 542.

15. Smith v. Western R. Co., 91 Ala. 455, 8 So. 754, 24 Am. St. Rep. 929, 11 L. R. A. 619; Wallace v. Clayton, 42 Ga. 443; Read v. Spaulding, 30 N. Y. 630, 86 Am. Dec. 426.

Johnstown flood.— Thus destruction of goods in the carriers' possession by the catastrophe known as the "Johnstown Flood" was held not to render the carriers liable. Wald v. Pittsburg, etc., R. Co., 162 Ill. 545, 44 N. E. 888, 53 Am. St. Rep. 332, 35 L. R. A. 356; Long v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 147 Pa. St. 343, 23 Atl. 459, 30 Am. St. Rep. 732, 14 L. R. A. 741. It is true that the immediate cause of this catastrophe was the breaking of a dam, which let loose a great volume of water, sweeping away the railway trains on tracks in the valley below the dam, but the cause of the breaking of the dam was a flood in the stream above, and this brought the case within the exception. It is said that accidents arising from the breaking of dams on canals by reason of a flood are of such exceptional nature as to be denominated act of God. Morrison v. McFadden, 10 Pa. L. J. Rep. 462.

is an act of God.[16] The carrier is not liable for the results of a tornado of unprecedented and unforeseen violence,[17] nor for loss due to an earthquake.[18]

b. Act of the Public Enemy — (i) ARMED FORCES. Destruction by the military forces of a public enemy, or by pirates, who are deemed to be public enemies of all nations, are universally mentioned as within the exceptions to the carrier's liability.[19] But the question of the liability of a railroad company for loss of goods, due to the seizure of the road by the military power and its operation for military purposes, depends on other principles. In such a case it is said that the railroad company ceases to be a common carrier, and the seizure of the goods by the military authorities relieves it from further liability therefor.[20]

(ii) MOBS. Where the loss is due to depredations or acts of violence of mobs, rioters, strikers, or other bodies of men not organized and operating as a military force against the government, the carrier is liable. Such bodies of men do not come within the description of "the public enemy."[21]

c. Acts or Negligence of Shipper — (i) IN GENERAL. A common carrier is not responsible for injury to or destruction of the property while in course of transportation, caused by some act of the owner.[22] Of course the carrier is not liable for loss of the goods due to the negligent or wrongful act of the shipper, or a violation by him of reasonable rules made by the carrier and brought to his

16. Ballentine v. North Missouri R. Co., 40 Mo. 491, 93 Am. Dec. 315; Black v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 30 Nebr. 197, 46 N. W. 428. These cases do not, however, involve liability for loss of goods but for damage to stock due to delay in transportation.

17. Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Compton, (Tex. Civ. App. 1896) 38 S. W. 220.

So where an express car was blown from the track by a gale, and as a consequence thereof took fire, and the goods therein were destroyed, the carrier was held not liable. Blythe v. Denver, etc., R. Co., 15 Colo. 333, 25 Pac. 702, 22 Am. St. Rep. 403, 11 L. R. A. 615. In a rather doubtful case it was said that where the officer navigating a vessel became unable to control her by reason of the sudden cessation of the wind, and she was wrecked on the shore, the owners were not liable, the loss being due to act of God. Colt v. McMechen, 6 Johns. (N. Y.) 160, 5 Am. Dec. 200. The fact that an accidental fire is so driven by the wind as to reach goods in the hands of the carrier, which but for the wind would have escaped, will not relieve the carrier from liability for the loss. Miller v. Steam Nav. Co., 10 N. Y. 431, Seld. Notes (N. Y.) 64.

18. Slater v. South Carolina R. Co., 29 S. C. 96, 6 S. E. 936.

19. Morse v. Slue, 2 Keb. 866, 3 Keb. 72, 112, 135, 2 Lev. 69, 1 Mod. 85, T. Raym. 220, 1 Vent. 190, 238. And see cases stating the general rule of carrier's liability supra, II, D, 1.

Illustrations.— But few actual adjudications applying this exception are found, save those arising out of the destruction of goods in the carrier's possession by military operations during the Civil War in the United States. In these cases it was held that as to goods in the possession of a common carrier operating within territory under the control of the Federal government, destruction by the Confederate forces was a destruction by the public enemy, for which the carrier would not be responsible. Frank v. Keith, 2 Bush (Ky.) 123; Bland v. Adams Express Co., 1 Duv. (Ky.) 233, 85 Am. Dec. 623; Hubbard v. Harnden Express Co., 10 R. I. 244; Lewis v. Ludwick, 6 Coldw. (Tenn.) 368, 98 Am. Dec. 454. Likewise it was held that destruction by the Federal troops of goods in the possession of a carrier operating within Confederate lines was destruction by the public enemy. Nashville, etc., R. Co. v. Estis, 7 Heisk. (Tenn.) 622; Southern Express Co. v. Womack, 1 Heisk. (Tenn.) 256. On the other hand it was held that destruction by the Confederate military authorities of goods received by a carrier within the Confederate lines for transportation was not destruction by the public enemy. Patterson v. North Carolina R. Co., 64 N. C. 147; Nashville, etc., R. Co. v. Estes, 10 Lea (Tenn.) 749; Nashville, etc., R. Co. v. Estis, 7 Heisk. (Tenn.) 622. So of course destruction by the Federal military authorities of goods held by the carrier within the Federal lines would not be a destruction by the public enemy. Seligman v. Armijo, 1 N. M. 459.

20. Nashville, etc., R. Co. v. Estes, 10 Lea (Tenn.) 749; East Tennessee, etc., R. Co. v. Hurst, 11 Heisk. (Tenn.) 625; Nashville, etc., R. Co. v. Estis, 7 Heisk. (Tenn.) 622.

As to delay due to military control see infra, II, I, 3, e, (v).

21. Missouri Pac. R. Co. v. Nevill, 60 Ark. 375, 30 S. W. 425, 46 Am. St. Rep. 208, 28 L. R. A. 80; Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Levi, (Tex. 1889) 12 S. W. 677; Sherman v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 21 Fed. Cas. No. 12,769, 8 Wkly. Notes Cas. (Pa.) 269.

Strikes as preventing the furnishing of cars see supra, II, B, 2, b.

22. There is no consideration of policy which demands that he should be held to account for an injury occasioned by the own-knowledge.[23] If in case of shipment of animals the shipper accompanies them, by arrangement with the carrier, for the purpose of giving them necessary care, the carrier is not liable for loss or injury due to the shipper's own fault.[24]

(II) Concealment of Nature or Value of Goods. A fraudulent concealment by the shipper of the nature and value of the goods, for the purpose of avoiding payment of increased reasonable charges for transportation, will relieve the carrier from liability.[25] And while the carrier should no doubt make inquiry as to the value, if material to him,[26] yet, if by label or description the shipper dissuades the carrier from further inquiry, and thereby actively misleads the carrier as to the nature and value to his prejudice, the shipper is precluded from recovery.[27]

(III) Improper Packing. If goods are insufficiently packed,[28] and the defect is not known to the carrier,[29] he is not liable for loss due to such defect, if himself without fault.[30]

(IV) Misdirection. If loss of the goods is due to improper marking or direction as to their destination, the carrier is not liable.[31] But such fault on the part of the shipper is available to excuse delay or injury due to the inherent nature of the goods resulting from the delay, rather than to excuse the carrier from liability for loss of the goods by misdelivery or their destruction.[32]

(V) Negligence in Loading and Unloading. In general the loading and er's own act, and it is immaterial whether such act of the owner causing the injury amounts to negligence or not. Hart v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 69 Iowa 485, 29 N. W. 597. And see Choate v. Crowninshield, 3 Cliff. (U. S.) 184, 5 Fed. Cas. No. 2,691.

23. Pratt v. Ogdensburg, etc., R. Co., 102 Mass. 557.

24. Grieve v. Illinois Cent. R. Co., 104 Iowa 659, 74 N. W. 192; Hart v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 69 Iowa 485, 29 N. W. 597; Heller v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 109 Mich. 53, 66 N. W. 667, 63 Am. St. Rep. 541; Wilsons v. Hamilton, 4 Ohio St. 722.

Interference of owner.— The carrier is not liable for injuries to animals occasioned by improper interference of the owner with the carrier's management of the transportation. Roderick v. Baltimore, etc., R. Co., 7 W. Va. 54.

As to care of stock during transportation see infra, II, I, 2.

25. Magnin v. Dinsmore, 62 N. Y. 35, 20 Am. Rep. 442; Richards v. Westcott, 2 Bosw. (N. Y.) 589; Relf v. Rapp, 3 Watts & S. (Pa.) 21, 37 Am. Dec. 528; Gibbon v. Paynton, 4 Burr. 2298; Bradley v. Waterhouse, 3 C. & P. 318, M. & M. 154, 14 E. C. L. 587; Clay v. Willan, 1 H. Bl. 298; Walker v. Jackson, 10 M. & W. 161, 12 L. J. Exch. 165.

26. Phillips v. Earle, 8 Pick. (Mass.) 182; Sewall v. Allen, 6 Wend. (N. Y.) 335.

27. Relf v. Rapp, 3 Watts & S. (Pa.) 21, 37 Am. Dec. 528. And see infra, II, E, 4, c.

The reasonable basis of the rule in this respect is that by reason of the active concealment and misrepresentation of the shipper the carrier has in fact not accepted or undertaken to carry the goods delivered to him. Charleston, etc., R. Co. v. Moore, 80 Ga. 522, 5 S. E. 769.

28. The owner is not required to cover the goods so as to make them safe against external injuries, such as rain, wind, or fire. Klauber v. American Express Co., 21 Wis. 21, 91 Am. Dec. 452.

29. But if the improper condition of the goods, for the purpose of shipment, is apparent or observable in the exercise of reasonable care, then the carrier should refuse to receive the goods, and, having received them, he is liable for the loss. The David & Caroline, 5 Blatchf. (U. S.) 266, 7 Fed. Cas. No. 3,593. Hence, in general it is said that the fact that the goods were not properly packed does not relieve the carrier from liability. Union Express Co. v. Graham, 26 Ohio St. 595.

30. Iowa.— Thompson v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 27 Iowa 561.

Minnesota.—Shriver v. Sioux City, etc., R. Co., 24 Minn. 506, 31 Am. Rep. 353.

New York.— Nelson v. Stephenson, 5 Duer (N. Y.) 538.

Oregon.— Goodman v. Oregon R., etc., Co., 22 Oreg. 14, 28 Pac. 894.

Wisconsin.— Klauber v. American Express Co., 21 Wis. 21, 91 Am. Dec. 452.

United States.—Zerega v. Poppe, Abb. Adm. (U. S.) 397, 30 Fed. Cas. No. 18,213.

See 9 Cent. Dig. tit. "Carriers," § 533.

31. Erie R. Co. v. Wilcox, 84 Ill. 239, 25 Am. Rep. 451; Southern Express Co. v. Kaufman, 12 Heisk. (Tenn.) 161; Congar v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 24 Wis. 157, 1 Am. Rep. 164; The Huntress, 2 Ware (U. S.) 89, 12 Fed. Cas. No. 6,914, 24 Am. Jur. 486, 4 Hunt. Mer. Mag. 83, 4 West. L. J. 38.

32. Forsythe v. Walker, 9 Pa. St. 148; The Huntress, 2 Ware (U. S.) 89, 12 Fed. Cas. No. 6,914, 24 Am. Jur. 486, 4 Hunt. Mer. Mag. 83, 4 West. L. J. 38.

If carrier's agent is aware of the proper destination, or of the defective direction, the carrier will be liable. O'Rourke v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 44 Iowa 526; Downing v. Outerbridge, 79 Fed. 931, 25 C. C. A. 244.

unloading of the goods are under the carrier's control, and he is responsible for any loss or injury incident thereto.[33] But if the shipper assumes the responsibility of loading and unloading, the carrier is thereby relieved from liability for loss in that connection.[34]

d. Loss From Inherent Nature of the Goods — (I) In General. Where the destruction of or injury to the goods is due to their inherent nature and qualities, or defects therein, the carrier is not liable if his own negligence did not occasion or contribute to the injury.[35] And perhaps it may be stated as a general proposition that the carrier is not liable for loss happening from the operation of natural causes.[36]

(II) Live Stock. In general, as already stated, a common carrier of live stock is subject to the same rule of liability as a common carrier of other goods or property,[37] but if there is loss or injury due to the peculiar nature and propensities of the animals, then, under the principle stated in the preceding paragraph, the carrier is excused,[38] unless the loss or injury could have been prevented

33. As to live stock see infra, II, I, 2, d.

34. Alabama.— McCarthy v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., 102 Ala. 193, 14 So. 370, 48 Am. St. Rep. 29.

Illinois.— Pennsylvania Co. v. Kenwood Bridge Co., 170 Ill. 645, 49 N. E. 215.

Massachusetts.— Loveland v. Burke, 120 Mass. 139, 21 Am. Rep. 507.

New York.— Jackson Architectural Iron Works v. Hurlbut, 158 N. Y. 34, 52 N. E. 665, 70 Am. St. Rep. 432.

Vermont.— Ross v. Troy, etc., R. Co., 49 Vt. 364, 24 Am. Rep. 144.

Wisconsin.— Miltimore v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 37 Wis. 190.

See 9 Cent. Dig. tit. "Carriers," § 533.

But if the improper loading was apparent to the carrier's servant from ordinary observation, the carrier will be liable. McCarthy v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., 102 Ala. 193, 14 So. 370, 48 Am. St. Rep. 29.

Concurrent negligence.— There seems to be a conflict in the cases on the question as to whether in case of concurrent negligence of the shipper and the carrier the former can recover. It is apparently held in Ross v. Troy, etc., R. Co., 49 Vt. 364, 24 Am. Rep. 144, that the negligence of the shipper will defeat his recovery, although the servants of the carrier are also negligent; while in McCarthy v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., 102 Ala. 193, 14 So. 370, 48 Am. St. Rep. 29, it seems to be thought that if the servants of the carrier are negligent, the concurring contributory negligence of the shipper will be immaterial. But if the consignee, after discovering the carrier's negligence, fails to use reasonable care to avoid injury resulting therefrom, he cannot recover. Belcher v. Kansas, etc., R. Co., 92 Tex. 593, 50 S. W. 559.

35. Brown v. Clayton, 12 Ga. 564; Rixford v. Smith, 52 N. H. 355, 13 Am. Rep. 42; The Ship Howard v. Wissman, 18 How. (U. S.) 231, 15 L. ed. 363; Lamb v. Parkman, 1 Sprague (U. S.) 343, 14 Fed. Cas. No. 8,020, 20 Law Rep. 186; Janney v. Tudor Co., 3 Fed. 814.

Decayed fruit.— Thus a carrier is not liable for decay of fruit in transportation without his fault, fruit being inherently subject to decay. Lawrence v. Denbreens, 1 Black (U. S.) 170, 17 L. ed. 89.

36. Faucher v. Wilson, 68 N. H. 338, 38 Atl. 1002, 39 L. R. A. 431 [citing as an analogous case, Farrar v. Adams, Bull. N. P. 69].

Fermentation.— Accordingly it was held that the carrier was not liable for the bursting of a hogshead of molasses due to fermentation. Faucher v. Wilson, 68 N. H. 338, 38 Atl. 1002, 39 L. R. A. 431.

Freezing weather, such as is likely to cause injury to fruit, vegetables, fruit-trees, and like property is not deemed an act of God, but the carrier will not be liable for loss from such cause unless by some fault or negligence on his part. Vail v. Pacific R. Co., 63 Mo. 230; Wolf v. American Express Co., 43 Mo. 421, 97 Am. Dec. 406; Wing v. New York, etc., R. Co., 1 Hilt. (N. Y.) 235; McGraw v. Baltimore, etc., R. Co., 18 W. Va. 361, 41 Am. Rep. 696; The Aline, 19 Fed. 875.

Warm weather.— So the shipper of lard in the summer months takes the risk of loss occasioned by heat incident to the season, unless there is some neglect or fault on the part of the carrier. Nelson v. Woodruff, 1 Black (U. S.) 156, 17 L. ed. 97. But where a consignment of butter was injured by reason of warm weather, held that the connecting carrier, having impliedly undertaken to transport it safely, was liable for failure to put it in a refrigerator car, it having been shipped over the line of the first carrier in such a car. Beard v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 79 Iowa 527, 44 N. W. 803; Beard v. Illinois Cent. R. Co., 79 Iowa 518, 44 N. W. 800, 18 Am. St. Rep. 381, 7 L. R. A. 280.

37. Cooper v. Raleigh, etc., R. Co., 110 Ga. 659, 36 S. E. 240. See supra, II, A, 9.

38. Alabama.— South, etc., Alabama R. Co. v. Henlein, 52 Ala. 606, 23 Am. Rep. 578.

Georgia.— Cooper v. Raleigh, etc., R. Co., 110 Ga. 659, 36 S. E. 240.

Iowa.— McCoy v. Keokuk, etc., R. Co., 44 Iowa 424.

Massachusetts.—Evans v. Fitchburg R. Co., 111 Mass. 142, 15 Am. Rep. 19.

Minnesota.— Lindsley v. Chicago, etc., R.

by the exercise of reasonable foresight, vigilance, and care on the part of the carrier.[39]

e. Proximate Cause — (i) In General. Where the carrier relies on one of the exceptions to his common-law liability, it must appear, in order to excuse him, that the exceptional cause, such as act of God, or the like, was the immediate or proximate, and not the remote, cause of the loss.[40] If the proximate cause of the loss is act of God, the carrier is not liable, although, preceding the loss, he has Co., 36 Minn. 539, 33 N. W. 7, 1 Am. St. Rep. 692.

Missouri.— Cash v. Wabash R. Co., 81 Mo. App. 109.

New York.— Mynard v. Syracuse, etc., R. Co., 71 N. Y. 180, 27 Am. Rep. 28; Penn v. Buffalo, etc., R. Co., 49 N. Y. 204, 10 Am. Rep. 355; Clarke v. Rochester, etc., R. Co., 14 N. Y. 570, 67 Am. Dec. 205.

South Carolina.— Bamberg v. South Carolina R. Co., 9 S. C. 61, 30 Am. Rep. 13.

Tennessee.— Felton v. Clarkson, 103 Tenn. 457, 53 S. W. 733.

See 9 Cent. Dig. tit. "Carriers," § 929.

Fright.— Carrier is not liable for damage caused from the fright or nervousness of the animal. Coupland v. Housatonic R. Co., 61 Conn. 531, 23 Atl. 870, 15 L. R. A. 534; Nugent v. Smith, 1 C. P. D. 423, 45 L. J. C. P. 697, 34 L. T. Rep. N. S. 827, 25 Wkly. Rep. 117.

Viciousness.— Carrier is not liable for damages caused by an animal's own viciousness, or the viciousness of other animals shipped with it.

Illinois.— Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Brelsford, 13 Ill. App. 251.

Kentucky.— Hall v. Renfro, 3 Metc. (Ky.) 51.

Massachusetts.—Evans v. Fitchburg R. Co., 111 Mass. 142, 15 Am. Rep. 19.

Mississippi.— Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Scruggs, 69 Miss. 418, 13 So. 698; Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Bigger, 66 Miss. 319, 6 So. 234.

England.— Blower v. Great Western R. Co., L. R. 7 C. P. 655, 41 L. J. C. P. 268, 26 L. T. Rep. N. S. 883, 20 Wkly. Rep. 776; Kendall v. London, etc., R. Co., L. R. 7 Exch. 373, 41 L. J. Exch. 184, 26 L. T. Rep. N. S. 735, 20 Wkly. Rep. 886.

See 9 Cent. Dig. tit. "Carriers," § 929.

Want of vitality.— Loss or injury due to death or sickness of the animal, resulting from its want of vitality, is not chargeable to the carrier, unless he has been in some way at fault. Southern Express Co. v. Ashford, 126 Ala. 591, 28 So. 732; Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Harmon, 12 Ill. App. 54; Indianapolis, etc., R. Co. v. Jurey, 8 Ill. App. 160; Hayman v. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co., 8 N. Y. St. 86.

In the transportation of mares with foal the carrier incurs no liability for loss by reason of their condition, unless the condition is known to the carrier or he is chargeable with knowledge thereof, and he fails to exercise reasonable and necessary care. Missouri Pac. R. Co. v. Fagan, 72 Tex. 127, 9 S. W. 749, 13 Am. St. Rep. 776, 2 L. R. A. 75; Missouri Pac. R. Co. v. Fagan, (Tex. Civ. App. 1894) 27 S. W. 887.

39. Kinnick v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 69 Iowa 665, 29 N. W. 772.

Duty and care required.— In general the carrier of live stock is bound to furnish cars of sufficient strength and skilful employees, and to exercise that degree of care which the nature of the property requires. Burke v. U. S. Express Co., 87 Ill. App. 505. Where it appeared that hogs being transported were killed by crowding together toward the doors of the car where there was better ventilation than in other portions of the car, and this crowding happened while the cars were not in motion, the carrier was liable for not anticipating this danger from the natural propensities of the animals and providing against it. Kinnick v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 69 Iowa 665, 29 N. W. 772. In such cases the carrier is relieved from responsibility if he can show that he has provided all suitable means of transportation and exercised that degree of care which the nature of the property requires. Cragin v. New York Cent. R. Co., 51 N. Y. 61, 10 Am. Rep. 559.

40. Alabama.— Sprowl v. Kellar, 4 Stew. & P. (Ala.) 382; Jones v. Pitcher, 3 Stew. & P. (Ala.) 135, 24 Am. Dec. 716.

Maryland.— Ferguson v. Brent, 12 Md. 9, 71 Am. Dec. 582; Boyle v. McLaughlin, 4 Harr. & J. (Md.) 291.

New Jersey.— New Brunswick Steamboat, etc., Transp. Co. v. Tiers, 24 N. J. L. 697, 64 Am. Dec. 394.

New York.—Merritt v. Earle, 29 N. Y. 115, 86 Am. Dec. 292.

Tennessee.— Adams Express Co. v. Jackson, 92 Tenn. 326, 21 S. W. 666.

United States.— King v. Shepherd, 3 Story (U. S.) 349, 14 Fed. Cas. No. 7,804, 7 Law Rep. 275, 2 West. L. J. 424.

See 9 Cent. Dig. tit. "Carriers," § 525.

Rule applied.— The same principle is applicable where the loss is from a cause as to which the carrier has by valid contract exempted himself from liability. Richmond, etc., R. Co. v. Benson, 86 Ga. 203, 12 S. E. 357, 22 Am. St. Rep. 446; Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. McFadden, 89 Tex. 138, 33 S. W. 853. If the negligence of the carrier is the occasion of loss by act of God then he is not excused. Richmond, etc., R. Co. v. White, 88 Ga. 805, 15 S. E. 802; Campbell v. Morse, Harp. (S. C.) 468; St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Bland, (Tex. Civ. App. 1896) 34 S. W. 675. If the original cause of the loss is an accidental fire, for which, therefore, the carrier is liable, the fact that the destruction of the goods by such fire resulted from a wind which drove the fire in such direction that the goods were lost will not relieve the carrier from lia-been negligent, and but for that negligence the goods would not have been exposed to the peril resulting in their destruction. Thus it has been held, by a decided preponderance of authority, that negligent delay in transporting or delivering the goods will not render the carrier liable for subsequent loss thereof by act of God, where the peril was not reasonably to have been anticipated.[41] But there are cases the other way, and the question is a mooted one.[42] And it is said that even if the loss is caused by act of God, if the negligence of the carrier mingles with it as an active and coöperative cause, the carrier is still liable.[43] Of course it must be true, as a general proposition, that though the carrier is in some way negligent, if such negligence does not contribute to the loss, which is due to an excepted cause, the carrier is not liable.[44] On the other hand, although there is a delay or interruption in the transportation, due to an excepted cause, yet for loss subsequently occurring by reason of an independent cause the carrier will be liable.[45] In general the burden of proof is on the carrier to show that the loss was due to act of God, or other excepted cause, rather than fault on the part of the carrier.[46]

(II) Loss Occurring During Deviation. If the carrier in transporting the goods unnecessarily deviates from the usual and ordinary route contemplated in the undertaking he will be liable for any loss occurring during such deviation, although such loss is within the recognized exception to the carrier's liability.[47] Indeed, it is said that in departing from the established route the carrier is guilty of misfeasance, and is liable for the value of the goods on the theory of conversion.[48] The carrier is equally liable where, having expressly contracted for a bility. Miller v. Steam Nav. Co., 10 N. Y. 431, Seld. Notes (N. Y.) 64.

41. In such case it is said that there is no relation of cause and effect between the negligent delay and the destruction of the goods by the excepted cause.

Louisiana.— Dalzell v. Steamboat Saxon, 10 La. Ann. 280.

Massachusetts.— Denny v. New York Cent. R. Co., 13 Gray (Mass.) 481, 74 Am. Dec. 645.

Mississippi.— Yazoo, etc., R. Co. v. Millsaps, 76 Miss. 855, 25 So. 672, 71 Am. St. Rep. 543.

Missouri.— Clark v. Pacific R. Co., 39 Mo. 184, 90 Am. Dec. 458.

Pennsylvania.— Morrison v. Davis, 20 Pa. St. 171, 57 Am. Dec. 695.

Tennessee.— Lamont v. Nashville, etc., R. Co., 9 Heisk. (Tenn.) 58.

United States.— Memphis, etc., R. Co. v. Reeves, 10 Wall. (U. S.) 176, 19 L. ed. 909; Thomas v. Lancaster Mills, 71 Fed. 481, 34 U. S. App. 404, 19 C. C. A. 88; Scott v. Baltimore, etc., Steam Boat Co., 19 Fed. 56.

See 9 Cent. Dig. tit. "Carriers," § 525.

42. Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Gidley, 119 Ala. 523, 24 So. 753; Hernsheim v. Newport News, etc., Co., 18 Ky. L. Rep. 227, 35 S. W. 1115; Armentrout v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 1 Mo. App. 158; Read v. Spaulding, 30 N. Y. 630, 86 Am. Dec. 426; Michaels v. New York Cent. R. Co., 30 N. Y. 564, 86 Am. Dec. 415; Dunson v. New York Cent. R. Co., 3 Lans. (N. Y.) 265.

43. Wolf v. American Express Co., 43 Mo. 421, 97 Am. Dec. 406; Caldwell v. Southern Express Co., 1 Flipp. (U. S.) 85, 4 Fed. Cas. No. 2,303, 3 Centr. L. J. 416.

44. Hill v. Sturgeon, 35 Mo. 212, 86 Am. Dec. 149; Hill v. Sturgeon, 28 Mo. 323; Chalk v. Charlotte, etc., R. Co., 85 N. C. 423; Hart v. Allen, 2 Watts (Pa.) 114.

45. Lang v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 154 Pa. St. 342, 26 Atl. 370, 35 Am. St. Rep. 346, 20 L. R. A. 360. But it is only negligence of the carrier in not avoiding the threatened loss which will thus render him liable. Scott v. Allegheny Valley R. Co., 172 Pa. St. 646, 33 Atl. 712.

46. Davis v. Wabash, etc., R. Co., 13 Mo. App. 449; Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Manning, 23 Nebr. 552, 37 N. W. 462; The Majestic, 166 U. S. 375, 17 S. Ct. 597, 41 L. ed. 1039.

As to proximate cause in case of contract limiting liability see infra, II, E, 3, f.

47. Crosby v. Fitch, 12 Conn. 410, 31 Am. Dec. 745; Powers v. Davenport, 7 Blackf. (Ind.) 497, 43 Am. Dec. 100; Constable v. National Steamship Co., 154 U. S. 51, 14 S. Ct. 1062, 38 L. ed. 903. So where a railroad company, in carrying goods to the destination designated, took them through Chicago, which was not the usual route, and they were destroyed by the Chicago fire, held that the carrier was liable, irrespective of whether or not the loss was by act of God. Merchants' Despatch Transp. Co. v. Kahn, 76 Ill. 520.

This is on the theory that the carrier, being in the wrong and it being impossible to certainly determine that the loss would have occurred had the usual course been followed, he must answer for the consequences. Davis v. Garrett, 6 Bing. 716, 8 L. J. C. P. O. S. 253, 4 M. & P. 540, 31 Rev. Rep. 524, 19 E. C. L. 321.

48. Georgia R. Co. v. Cole, 68 Ga. 623; Phillips v. Brigham, 26 Ga. 617, 71 Am. Dec. 227; Sleat v. Fagg, 5 B. & Ald. 342, 24 Rev. Rep. 407, 7 E. C. L. 191.

particular route, mode, or manner of transportation, he transports goods otherwise than as stipulated, and they are lost or damaged.[49] Thus, if a carrier leaves goods at a point short of their destination, he becomes absolutely liable for loss or injury.[50] It may become necessary for the carrier, by reason of some emergency not contemplated at the time of shipment, to change the route or method of transportation, and if so he will not be liable for subsequent loss or injury for which he is in general not responsible by law or contract.[51] But if it is practicable in such case, without risk to the goods, to notify the shipper, the carrier should do so rather than to depart from the terms of the contract, and await further directions.[52] There is some uncertainty as to whether, when a deviation from the usual or stipulated route or method of transportation is shown, the carrier may excuse himself by proof that subsequent loss or damage for which he would not, but for the deviation, have been liable, would have occurred had there been no deviation. But at any rate it is incumbent on the carrier to clearly and satisfactorily establish that fact, which usually he will be unable to do.[53]

(III) Negligence in Not Avoiding Loss or Injury. It is clear from what has already been said[54] that if the carrier might, by reasonable care or foresight, have avoided loss by act of God, or other excepted cause, he will be liable. The duty also rests upon him, as far as possible, to avoid or lessen the damage resulting from such cause, and negligence in not doing so will render him liable.[55]

49. Illinois.— Dunseth v. Wade, 3 Ill. 285.

Louisiana.—Levy v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., 35 La. Ann. 615.

Michigan.— Merrick v. Webster, 3 Mich. 268.

Minnesota.— Brown, etc., Co. v. Pennsylvania Co., 63 Minn. 546, 65 N. W. 961.

New York.— Hinckley v. New York Cent., etc., R. Co., 56 N. Y. 429; Maghee v. Camden, etc., R. Transp. Co., 45 N. Y. 514, 6 Am. Rep. 124; Goodrich v. Thompson, 44 N. Y. 324; Johnson v. New York Cent. R. Co., 33 N. Y. 610, 88 Am. Dec. 416; Michaels v. New York Cent. R. Co., 30 N. Y. 564, 86 Am. Dec. 415.

Tennessee.— Adams Express Co. v. Jackson, 92 Tenn. 326, 21 S. W. 666.

United States.— Campion v. Canadian Pac. R. Co., 43 Fed. 775, 11 L. R. A. 128.

See 9 Cent. Dig. tit. "Carriers," § 488.

Illustrations.— Thus, if the contract is for transportation by rail, without change of cars, and the carrier transfers the goods without necessity into other cars than those in which they are shipped, and the goods are subsequently, in course of transportation, destroyed, the carrier is liable without regard to exceptions. Robinson v. Merchants' Despatch Transp. Co., 45 Iowa 470; Galveston, etc., R. Co. v. Allison, 59 Tex. 193. If the carrier takes the goods by a more hazardous route than that indicated by the shipper, he is guilty of negligence with reference to subsequent injury due to the more hazardous transportation. U. S. Express Co. v. Kountze, 8 Wall. (U. S.) 342, 19 L. ed. 457.

50. Cassilay v. Young, 4 B. Mon. (Ky.) 265, 39 Am. Dec. 505; Watts v. Steamboat Saxon, 11 La. Ann. 43; S. D. Seavey Co. v. Union Transit Co., 106 Wis. 394, 82 N. W. 285; Marande v. Texas, etc., R. Co., 102 Fed. 246, 42 C. C. A. 317.

51. Johnson v. New York Cent. R. Co., 33 N. Y. 610, 88 Am. Dec. 416; Hand v. Baynes, 4 Whart. (Pa.) 204, 33 Am. Dec. 54.

52. Goodrich v. Thompson, 44 N. Y. 324; Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Odil, 96 Tenn. 61, 33 S. W. 611, 54 Am. St. Rep. 820.

53. Maghee v. Camden, etc., R. Transp. Co., 45 N. Y. 514, 6 Am. Rep. 124; Davis v. Garrett, 6 Bing. 716, 8 L. J. C. P. O. S. 253, 4 M. & P. 540, 31 Rev. Rep. 524, 19 E. C. L. 321.

As to deviation under contract limiting liability see infra, II, E, 3, e.

54. See supra, II, D, 2, a, b, c, d.

55. Georgia.— Savannah, etc., R. Co. v. Commercial Guano Co., 103 Ga. 590, 30 S. E. 555.

Missouri.— Bird v. Cromwell, 1 Mo. 81, 13 Am. Dec. 470.

Nebraska.— Black v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 30 Nebr. 197, 46 N. W. 428.

South Carolina.— Ewart v. Street, 2 Bailey (S. C.) 157, 23 Am. Dec. 131; Charleston, etc., Steam Boat Co. v. Bason, Harp. (S. C.) 262.

Texas.— St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Bland, (Tex. Civ. App. 1896) 34 S. W. 675.

United States.—Woodward v. Illinois Cent. R. Co., 1 Biss. (U. S.) 403, 30 Fed. Cas. No. 18,006; Caldwell v. Southern Express Co., 1 Flipp. (U. S.) 85, 4 Fed. Cas. No. 2,303, 3 Centr. L. J. 416.

Applications of rule.—Thus it was held that where grain in the course of transportation became wet by inevitable accident, it was the duty of the carrier to dry it on board the boat if he could do so, by proper exertions, without delaying the voyage. Steamboat Lynx v. King, 12 Mo. 272, 49 Am. Dec. 135. So held also as to furs which had become wet. Chouteaux v. Leech, 18 Pa. St. 224, 57 Am. Dec. 602. So if the delay is caused without

E. Common-Law Liability as Affected by Contract — 1. Extending Common-Law Liability. By a special contract the carrier may extend his common-law liability so as to be answerable for loss or damage for which he would not be accountable under the common-law rule.[56]

2. Limiting Common-Law Liability — a. In General — (1) Contract Sustained. While considerations of public policy have been potent in determining the courts to recognize a rule of liability in the case of common carriers much stricter than that recognized as applying in the case of ordinary bailees, the courts have not thought it necessary to deny the parties to a contract of carriage the right to exonerate the carrier from his extraordinary liability, and the general proposition has been almost universally recognized that by special agreement, or by notice to the shipper acquiesced in by him, the common carrier may limit his liability to that of a private carrier.[57] It is therefore stated as a general proposition in fault of the carrier he will still be liable for negligence in regard to the custody of the goods during such delay. Lipford v. Charlotte, etc., R. Co., 7 Rich. (S. C.) 409.

That contracts limiting liability for negligence are not valid see infra, II, E, 2, b.

56. Gaither v. Barnet, 2 Brev. (S. C.) 488; Southern Express Co. v. Glenn, 16 Lea (Tenn.) 472, 1 S. W. 102. The implication of exception from loss occasioned by inevitable accident may be repelled by evidence that the carrier, by advertisements and circulars, held himself out to insure the safe delivery without exception. Morrison v. Davis, 20 Pa. St. 171, 57 Am. Dec. 695.

Rule applied.— The mere fact that by the bill of lading one only of the common-law exceptions is preserved will not give rise to the inference that other exceptions are not to be relied on. Gage v. Tirrell, 9 Allen (Mass.) 299. Where in the bill of lading receipt of the goods in good order and well conditioned was acknowledged, and it was agreed that they were to be delivered "in like good order and condition . . . (unavoidable damages of fire, navigation and collision only excepted)," it was held that the common-law liability of the carrier was thereby extended to all loss not covered by the exceptions specified. McCauley v. Davidson, 10 Minn. 418, 13 Minn. 162. General language as to deducting damage or deficiency from the charges to be collected should be limited to such damage as the carrier would be liable for under the common law, and not to constitute an extension of the carrier's liability. Price v. Hartshorn, 44 N. Y. 94, 4 Am. Rep. 645. An agreement in the bill of lading to deliver the goods at destination, no exception being made, will not cut off the common-law exemptions. Neal v. Saunderson, 2 Sm. & M. (Miss.) 572, 41 Am. Dec. 609.

57. Kansas.— Kallman v. U. S. Express Co., 3 Kan. 205.

Louisiana.—Thomas v. Ship Morning Glory, 13 La. Ann. 269, 71 Am. Dec. 509.

Pennsylvania.— Farnham v. Camden, etc., R. Co., 55 Pa. St. 53; American Express Co. v. Sands, 55 Pa. St. 140.

Tennessee.— Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Gilbert, 88 Tenn. 430, 12 S. W. 1018, 7 L. R. A. 162.

Vermont.—Kimball v. Rutland, etc., R. Co., 26 Vt. 247, 62 Am. Dec. 567.

United States.— New Jersey Steam Nav. Co. v. Boston Merchants' Bank, 6 How. (U. S.) 344, 12 L. ed. 465.

See 9 Cent. Dig. tit. "Carriers," § 637.

Rule upheld.— Thus in New York Cent. R. Co. v. Lockwood, 17 Wall. (U. S.) 357, 21 L. ed. 627, the court say: "As the duties and responsibilities of public carriers were prescribed by public policy, it has been seriously doubted whether the courts did wisely in allowing that policy to be departed from without legislative interference, by which needed modifications could have been introduced into the law. But the great hardship on the carrier in certain special cases, where goods of great value or subject to extra risk were delivered to him without notice of their character, and where losses happened by sheer accident without any possibility of fraud or collusion on his part, such as by collisions at sea, accidental fire, etc., led to a relaxation of the rule to the extent of authorizing certain exemptions from liability in such cases to be provided for, either by public notice brought home to the owners of the goods, or by inserting exemptions from liability in the bill of lading, or other contract of carriage. A modification of the strict rule of responsibility, exempting the carrier from liability for accidental losses, where it can be safely done, enables the carrying interest to reduce its rates of compensation; thus proportionally relieving the transportation of produce and merchandise from some of the burden with which it is loaded."

There have been a few expressions of opinion contrary to this proposition, as in Fish v. Chapman, 2 Ga. 349, 46 Am. Dec. 393, where it is said that the common carrier is liable at all events but for the act of God and the king's enemy, and he cannot limit or vary that liability; and in Gould v. Hill, 2 Hill (N. Y.) 623, where it is said that a common carrier cannot limit his common-law liability by contract [but this case has been departed from in that state since the decision by the supreme court of the United States in New Jersey Steam Nav. Co. v. Boston Merchants' Bank, 6 How. (U. S.) 344, 12 L. ed. 465; Moore v. Evans, 14 Barb. (N. Y.) 524; many cases that the common carrier may by contract limit his liability, except for damages or loss resulting from the negligence of the carrier or his agents or servants.[58]

(11) In Case of Loss by Fire. In accordance with the general rule announced in the preceding paragraph it is well settled that a contract exempting the carrier from liability for loss or damage by fire, not due to the carrier's negligence, is valid.[59]

Parsons v. Monteath, 13 Barb. (N. Y.) 353]. In Wilson v. Shulkin, 51 N. C. 375, the validity of a contract limiting the carrier's common-law liability was doubted.

58. Alabama.— Grey v. Mobile Trade Co., 55 Ala. 387, 28 Am. Rep. 729; South, etc., Alabama R. Co. v. Henlein, 52 Ala. 606, 23 Am. Rep. 578.

Illinois.—Merchants' Despatch Transp. Co. v. Leysor, 89 Ill. 43; Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Jonte, 13 Ill. App. 424.

Indiana.— Bartlett v. Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co., 94 Ind. 281; Thayer v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 22 Ind. 26, 85 Am. Dec. 409; Indianapolis, etc., R. Co. v. Forsythe, 4 Ind. App. 326, 29 N. E. 1138.

Louisiana.— Newman v. Smoker, 25 La. Ann. 303; Roberts v. Riley, 15 La. Ann. 103, 77 Am. Dec. 183.

Mississippi.—Southern Express Co. v. Hunnicutt, 54 Miss. 566, 28 Am. Rep. 385.

Missouri.— Craycroft v. Atchison, etc., R. Co., 18 Mo. App. 487; Kirby v. Adams Express Co., 2 Mo. App. 369.

New York.— Belger v. Dinsmore, 51 N. Y. 166, 10 Am. Rep. 575; Penn v. Buffalo, etc., R. Co., 49 N. Y. 204, 10 Am. Rep. 355; Blossom v. Dodd, 43 N. Y. 264, 3 Am. Rep. 701; Dorr v. New Jersey Steam Nav. Co., 11 N. Y. 485, 62 Am. Dec. 125; Stedman v. Western Transp. Co., 48 Barb. (N. Y.) 97; Moore v. Evans, 14 Barb. (N. Y.) 524; Sunderland v. Westcott, 2 Sweeny (N. Y.) 260, 40 How. Pr. (N. Y.) 468; Stoddard v. Long Island R. Co., 5 Sandf. (N. Y.) 180; Landsberg v. Dinsmore, 4 Daly (N. Y.) 490; Mercantile Mut. Ins. Co. v. Chase, 1 E. D. Smith (N. Y.) 115; Slocum v. Fairchild, 7 Hill (N. Y.) 292.

Ohio.— Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co. v. Barrett, 36 Ohio St. 448; Gaines v. Union Transp., etc., Co., 28 Ohio St. 418; Davidson v. Graham, 2 Ohio St. 131.

Pennsylvania.— Farnham v. Camden, etc., R. Co., 55 Pa. St. 53; Bingham v. Rogers, 6 Watts & S. (Pa.) 495, 40 Am. Dec. 581.

South Carolina.— Swindler v. Hilliard, 2 Rich. (S. C.) 286, 45 Am. Dec. 732.

West Virginia.— Baltimore, etc., R. Co. v. Skeels, 3 W. Va. 556.

Wisconsin.— Ullman v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 112 Wis. 150, 88 N. W. 41.

United States.—Seller v. The Pacific, Deady (U. S.) 17, 21 Fed. Cas. No. 12,644, 1 Oreg. 409; Leitch v. Union R. Transp. Co., 15 Fed. Cas. No. 8,224, 7 Chic. Leg. N. 291; Ormsby v. Union Pac. R. Co., 8 McCrary (U. S.) 48, 4 Fed. 706.

See 9 Cent. Dig. tit. "Carriers," § 637.

Doctrine explained — Reason of rule.— In York Mfg. Co. v. Illinois Cent. R. Co., 3 Wall. (U. S.) 107, 18 L. ed. 170, the supreme court of the United States says that it perceives no good reason on principle why parties should not be permitted to contract for a limited responsibility. The transaction concerns them only, it involves simply rights of property, and the public can have no interest in requiring the responsibility of insurance to accompany the service of transportation in the face of a special agreement for its relinquishment. By the special agreement the carrier becomes, with reference to the particular transaction, an ordinary bailee and private carrier for hire. In Graham v. Davis, 4 Ohio St. 362, 62 Am. Dec. 285, the reason of the general rule of the common carrier's exceptional liability is stated at length, and it is held that considerations of public policy do not prevent the conclusion that the stipulation expressly assented to by the shipper, limiting the carrier's liability for loss not due to his own negligence, is valid, inasmuch as it affects only the rights and interests of the owner of the goods. In Camp v. Hartford, etc., Steamboat Co., 43 Conn. 333, the rule is announced, as supported by the decisions of the American courts generally, that a contract which does not attempt to exempt the carrier from the consequences of his own negligence will be sustained. The duty of the carrier to deliver at the place designated may be limited by contract. Field v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 71 Ill. 458. And so may the liability for goods sent C. O. D. Pacific Express Co. v. Wallace, 60 Ark. 100, 29 S. W. 32.

The burden is upon the carrier relying on such contract as a defense to show himself free from negligence. South, etc., Alahama R. Co. v. Henlein, 52 Ala. 606, 23 Am. Rep. 578; Adams Express Co. v. Stettaners, 61 Ill. 184, 14 Am. Rep. 57; Texas, etc., R. Co. v. Richmond, 94 Tex. 571, 63 S. W. 619. Contra, Insurance Co. of North America v. Lake Erie, etc., R. Co., 152 Ind. 333, 53 N. E. 382.

The shipper need not sue on the special contract, but may leave the carrier to set it up in defense and show that the loss is within the exemption. Southern Pac. R. Co. v. Arnett, 111 Fed. 849, 50 C. C. A. 17. And see infra, II, R, 2.

The question of the reasonableness of the contract and its invalidity when the effect is to limit liability for negligence will be hereafter considered. See infra, II, E, 2, b.

59. Alabama.— Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Oden, 80 Ala. 38.

Arkansas.—Little Rock, etc., R. Co. v. Talbot, 39 Ark. 523.

Louisiana.— Levy v. Pontchartrain R. Co., 23 La. Ann. 477; New Orleans Mut. Ins. Co.

(III) In Case of Transportation by Water. In accordance with the same principle the carrier by water may exempt himself from liability for casualties of navigation not due to his negligence or that of his servants.[60]

(IV) Injuries to Live Stock. The exceptional nature of the property and of the loss or damage which may result during its transportation are held to particularly justify a contract by a carrier of live stock limiting his liability, except for such loss or damage as may result from his own negligence or that of his agents or servants.[61]

b. Not Valid as Against Negligence of Carrier or His Servants — (I) Car-

v. New Orleans, etc., R. Co., 20 La. Ann. 302; Oakey v. Gordon, 7 La. Ann. 235.

Massachusetts.— Hoadley v. Northern Transp. Co., 115 Mass. 304, 15 Am. Rep. 106.

Michigan.— Smith v. American Express Co., 108 Mich. 572, 66 N. W. 479.

New Hampshire.— Rand v. Merchants Dispatch Transp. Co., 59 N. H. 363.

New York.— New York Cent., etc., R. Co. v. Standard Oil Co., 87 N. Y. 486; Germania F. Ins. Co. v. Memphis, etc., R. Co., 72 N. Y. 90, 28 Am. Rep. 113; Parsons v. Monteath, 13 Barb. (N. Y.) 353.

North Carolina.—Hornthal v. Roanoke, etc., Steamboat Co., 107 N. C. 76, 11 S. E. 1049.

Pennsylvania.— Colton v. Cleveland, etc., R. Co., 67 Pa. St. 211, 5 Am. Rep. 424.

Tennessee.— Dillard v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., 2 Lea (Tenn.) 288.

Vermont.— Davis v. Central Vermont R. Co., 66 Vt. 290, 29 Atl. 313, 44 Am. St. Rep. 852.

Wisconsin.— Schaller v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 97 Wis. 31, 71 N. W. 1042.

United States.— Van Schaak v. Northern Transp. Co., 3 Biss. (U. S.) 394, 28 Fed. Cas. No. 16,876, 7 Am. L. Rev. 565, 5 Chic. Leg. N. 181, 4 Leg. Op. (Pa.) 537; York Mfg. Co. v. Illinois Cent. R. Co., 3 Wall. (U. S.) 107, 18 L. ed. 170.

Canada.— McMorrin v. Canadian Pac. R. Co., 1 Ont. L. Rep. 561.

See 9 Cent. Dig. tit. "Carriers," § 656.

Thus, where a shipping receipt was stamped "at owner's risk of fire" held that the carrier was not liable for the loss of the goods by fire while in his possession, if the persons in charge of the train took all reasonable precautions in the management and conduct of the train, and if the car containing the goods was reasonably tight and suitable for their transportation. Levering v. Union Transp., etc., Co., 42 Mo. 88, 97 Am. Dec. 320.

60. Adams Express Co. v. Fendrick, 38 Ind. 150; Gordon v. Little, 8 Serg. & R. (Pa.) 533, 11 Am. Dec. 632.

Illustrations.— Liability for loss from collision (Burroughs v. Norwich, etc., R. Co., 100 Mass. 26, 1 Am. Rep. 78), from leakage and breakage (The Jefferson, 31 Fed. 489), from rust or corrosion (Wolff v. The Vanderland, 18 Fed. 733), from heating (The New Orleans, 26 Fed. 44), from improper stowage, unless negligent (Glengoil Steamship Co. v. Pilkington, 28 Can. Supreme Ct. 146; Trainor v. Black Diamond Steamship Co., 16 Can. Supreme Ct. 156), and by thieves or robbers (The Saratoga, 20 Fed. 869) may thus be excepted.

As to negligence in these cases see infra, II, E, 2, b.

61. Alabama.— South, etc., Alabama R. Co. v. Henlein, 52 Ala. 606, 23 Am. Rep. 578.

Georgia.— Cooper v. Raleigh, etc., R. Co., 110 Ga. 659, 36 S. E. 240; Central R. Co. v. Bryant, 73 Ga. 722; Georgia R. Co. v. Spears, 66 Ga. 485, 42 Am. Rep. 81.

Missouri.— St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Cleary, 77 Mo. 634, 46 Am. Rep. 13.

New York.— Steiger v. Erie R. Co., 5 Hun (N. Y.) 345.

Wisconsin.— Morrison v. Phillips, etc., Constr. Co., 44 Wis. 405, 28 Am. Rep. 599; Betts v. Farmers' L. & T. Co., 21 Wis. 80, 91 Am. Dec. 460.

England.— McCance v. London, etc., R. Co., 3 H. & C. 343, 10 Jur. N. S. 1058, 34 L. J. Exch. 39, 11 L. T. Rep. N. S. 426, 12 Wkly. Rep. 1086.

See 9 Cent. Dig. tit. "Carriers," § 933.

Illustrations.— Thus a carrier of animals may, for a good consideration, stipulate with the shipper for exemption from liability by reason of overloading, suffocation, heat, fire, and the like, disconnected and apart from the running of its trains. Mitchell v. Georgia R. Co., 68 Ga. 644; Georgia R. Co. v. Beatie, 66 Ga. 438, 42 Am. Rep. 75. But he cannot exempt himself from all liabilities of a carrier of live stock not resulting from defective trucks, wheels, or axles. Union Pac. R. Co. v. Rainey, 19 Colo. 225, 34 Pac. 986. The carrier may by contract provide that the shipper shall go with the stock and take care of it, and see to the loading and unloading of the same. Ormsby v. Union Pac. R. Co., 2 McCrary (U. S.) 48, 4 Fed. 706.

By statute.— Even where there is a statute forbidding a carrier to relieve himself by contract from his common-law liability he may provide that the shipper assumes the duty of caring for the stock and thus escape liability for any loss resulting from improper care, provided such loss is not due to failure to furnish proper facilities. Burgher v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 105 Iowa 335, 75 N. W. 192; Grieve v. Illinois Cent. R. Co., 104 Iowa 659, 74 N. W. 192; Texas, etc., R. Co. v. Davis, (Tex. Civ. App. 1897) 40 S. W. 167; Texas, etc., R. Co. v. Stribling, (Tex. Civ. App. 1896) 34 S. W. 1002.

Further as to care of stock see infra, II, I, 2.

RIER'S OWN NEGLIGENCE. The proposition amplified in the last subdivision that a common carrier may by contract reduce his liability to that of a bailee for hire is not to be extended so as to authorize him as such bailee for hire to exempt himself from liability for negligence. Whatever may be the rule as to ordinary bailees, it is well settled that it is contrary to public policy to allow a common carrier to relieve himself in any capacity from liability for negligence or misconduct.[62] A different conclusion has been reached by the New York courts, and it has been held in a line of cases which are out of harmony with the great current of authority that, inasmuch as the shipper has a right to insist on the common-law liability of the carrier if he sees fit, a contract exempting the carrier from liability for his own negligence will be sustained.[63] Outside of New York the current of authorities is almost unbroken that for reasons of public policy carriers cannot exempt themselves by any contract, notice, or stipulation from liability for the consequences of their own negligence.[64]

62. Levering v. Union Transp., etc., Co., 42 Mo. 88, 97 Am. Dec. 320; York Mfg. Co. v. Illinois Cent. R. Co., 3 Wall. (U. S.) 107, 18 L. ed. 170; Glengoil Steamship Co. v. Pilkington, 28 Can. Supreme Ct. 146.

Common carrier distinguished from ordinary bailee.— In New York Cent. R. Co. v. Lockwood, 17 Wall. (U. S.) 357, 376, 21 L. ed. 627, it is said: "The theory occasionally announced, that a special contract as to the terms and responsibilities of carriage changes the nature of the employment, is calculated to mislead. The responsibilities of a common carrier may be reduced to those of an ordinary bailee for hire, whilst the nature of his business renders him a common carrier still. . . . A common carrier may, undoubtedly, become a private carrier, or a bailee for hire, when, as a matter of accommodation or special engagement, he undertakes to carry something which it is not his business to carry. . . . But when a carrier has a regularly established business for carrying all or certain articles, and especially if that carrier be a corporation created for the purpose of the carrying trade, and the carriage of the articles is embraced within the scope of its charter powers, it is a common carrier, and a special contract about its responsibility does not devest it of the character."

Reason for rule — Public policy.—In South, etc., Alabama R. Co. v. Henlein, 52 Ala. 606, 23 Am. Rep. 578, it is said that the common carrier may by special contract with the shipper limit his common-law liability, but no limitation can relieve him from liability for loss or injury resulting from his own negligence. Such a limitation would be adverse to the policy of the law fixing his liability, and cannot be regarded as just and reasonable when the relative position of the carrier and shipper is considered. "It is settled in the courts of the United States that exemptions limiting carriers from responsibility for the negligence of themselves or their servants are both unjust and unreasonable, and will be deemed as wanting in the element of voluntary assent; and, besides, that such conditions are in conflict with public policy." The Kensington, 183 U. S. 263, 268, 22 S. Ct. 102, 46 L. ed. 190.

63. Cragin v. New York Cent. R. Co., 51 N. Y. 61, 10 Am. Rep. 559; Campe v. Weir, 58 N. Y. Suppl. 1082, 28 Misc. (N. Y.) 243.

Qualification of New York rule.— Even the courts of New York regard the rule they have adopted as so anomalous that they qualify it by the further rule that a general contract of exemption from loss, even from loss of a particular description, will not be interpreted as an exemption from loss due to the carrier's own negligence unless it is expressly so stipulated. Wilson v. New York Cent., etc., R. Co., 97 N. Y. 87; Holsapple v. Rome, etc., R. Co., 86 N. Y. 275; Mynard v. Syracuse, etc., R. Co., 71 N. Y. 180, 27 Am. Rep. 28; Stoddard v. Long Island R. Co., 5 Sandf. (N. Y.) 180. In Nicholas v. New York Cent., etc., R. Co., 89 N. Y. 370, 372, the New York doctrine is thus stated: "The practice of common carriers making special acceptances, exempting them from their ordinary responsibility, though contrary to the policy of the common law, liable to abuse, and productive of inconvenience, has obtained too long to be now questioned. In this State it has been extended so as to authorize a special acceptance, exempting them from liability for their own negligence. But a contract exempting a bailee for hire from the obligation of care on his part, in respect to the goods in his custody, is, to say the least, unreasonable, and, while the law does not go to the extent of making it void on that ground, yet the qualification that to have that effect it must be plainly and distinctly expressed, so that it cannot be misunderstood by the shipper, is so obviously just, in view of the methods of business, and the want of knowledge of the force and construction of contracts, on the part of the great mass of persons dealing with the transportation lines of the country, that it ought not to be relaxed." And compare, as in line with the weight of authority elsewhere, Gleadell v. Thomson, 56 N. Y. 194; Lamb v. Camden, etc., R., etc., Co., 46 N. Y. 271, 7 Am. Rep. 327; Dorr v. New Jersey Steam Nav. Co., 4 Sandf. (N. Y.) 136.

64. Alabama.—South, etc., Alabama R. Co. v. Henlein, 56 Ala. 368; Steele v. Townsend, 37 Ala. 247, 79 Am. Dec. 49.

(II) Negligence of Servants. The rule prohibiting limitation by contract against negligence is often stated as a prohibition of any contract relieving the carrier from loss or damage caused by his own negligence or misfeasance or that of his servants,[65] and it is specially decided in many cases that no contract limitation will relieve the carrier from liability for the consequences of the negligence,

District of Columbia.— Galt v. Adams Express Co., MacArthur & M. (D. C.) 124, 48 Am. Rep. 742.

Georgia.— Georgia R. Co. v. Gann, 68 Ga. 350; Berry v. Cooper, 28 Ga. 543.

Illinois.— Adams Express Co. v. Stettaners, 61 Ill. 184, 14 Am. Rep. 57; Cleveland, etc., R. Co. v. Newlin, 74 Ill. App. 638; Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Chapman, 30 Ill. App. 504.

Indiana.— Rosenfeld v. Peoria, etc., R. Co., 103 Ind. 121, 2 N. E. 344, 53 Am. Rep. 500; Parrill v. Cleveland, etc., R. Co., 23 Ind. App. 638, 55 N. E. 1026.

Kentucky.— Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Plummer, 18 Ky. L. Rep. 228, 35 S. W. 1113; Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Rogers, 10 Ky. L. Rep. 726; Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Spalding, 8 Ky. L. Rep. 355; Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Betz, 7 Ky. L. Rep. 606; Crawford v. Adams Express Co., 7 Ky. L. Rep. 362; Adams Express Co. v. Marshall, 6 Ky. L. Rep. 291.

Louisiana.— Newman v. Smoker, 25 La. Ann. 303; Simon v. Steamship Fung Shuey, 21 La. Ann. 363.

Maine.— Sager v. Portsmouth, etc., R. Co., 31 Me. 228, 50 Am. Dec. 659.

Massachusetts.— Cox v. Central Vermont R. Co., 170 Mass. 129, 49 N. E. 97.

Minnesota.— Ortt v. Minneapolis, etc., R. Co., 36 Minn. 396, 31 N. W. 519.

Mississippi.—Mobile, etc., R. Co. v. Weiner, 49 Miss. 725; Southern Express Co. v. Moon, 39 Miss. 822.

Missouri.— Ketchum v. American Merchants Union Express Co., 52 Mo. 390; D. Klass Commission Co. v. Wabash R. Co., 80 Mo. App. 164; Kirby v. Adams Express Co., 2 Mo. App. 369.

New Jersey.— Ashmore v. Pennsylvania Steam Towing, etc., Co., 28 N. J. L. 180.

North Carolina.— Gardner v. Southern R. Co., 127 N. C. 293, 37 S. E. 328.

Ohio.— Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co. v. Sheppard, 56 Ohio St. 68, 46 N. E. 61, 60 Am. St. Rep. 732.

Pennsylvania.— Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Raiordan, 119 Pa. St. 577, 13 Atl. 324, 4 Am. St. Rep. 670; Grogan v. Adams Express Co., 114 Pa. St. 523, 7 Atl. 134, 60 Am. Rep. 360; Goldey v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 30 Pa. St. 242, 72 Am. Dec. 703; Camden, etc., R. Co. v. Baldauf, 16 Pa. St. 67, 55 Am. Dec. 481; Ritz v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 3 Phila. (Pa.) 82, 15 Leg. Int. (Pa.) 75.

South Carolina.— Wallingford v. Columbia, etc., R. Co., 26 S. C. 258, 2 S. E. 19.

Texas.— International, etc., R. Co. v. Foltz, 3 Tex. Civ. App. 644, 22 S. W. 541.

Vermont.— Urann v. Birchard, 40 Vt. 326, 94 Am. Dec. 398.

United States.— U. S. Express Co. v. Kountze, 8 Wall. (U. S.) 342, 19 L. ed. 457; Thomas v. Wabash, etc., R. Co., 63 Fed. 200; May v. Steam-Ship Powhatan, 5 Fed. 375; Ormsby v. Union Pac. R. Co., 2 McCrary (U. S.) 48, 4 Fed. 706.

See 9 Cent. Dig. tit. "Carriers," § 654.

Rule applied.— Where the stipulation was that the carrier should not be liable for unavoidable dangers of navigation, held that the exemption should be limited to dangers unavoidable by the carrier in the exercise of all the precaution, care, and skill that the law usually demands of common carriers. Hays v. Kennedy, 3 Grant (Pa.) 351. The carrier cannot by special contract defeat an action in tort for loss due to the failure to use diligence. Clark v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 64 Mo. 440. A stipulation against the presumption of negligence which would arise from proof of certain facts is unreasonable as an abrogation of the rules of evidence. Southern Pac. Co. v. Phillipson, (Tex. Civ. App. 1897) 39 S. W. 958.

65. Alabama.— Southern Express Co. v. Crook, 44 Ala. 468, 4 Am. Rep. 140.

Arkansas.— St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Lesser, 46 Ark. 236.

Colorado.— Overland Mail, etc., Co. v. Carroll, 7 Colo. 43, 1 Pac. 682.

Kentucky.— Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Brownlee, 14 Bush (Ky.) 590.

Maine.— Little v. Boston, etc., R. Co., 66 Me. 239; Willis v. Grand Trunk R. Co., 62 Me. 488.

Massachusetts.— Medfield School Dist. v. Boston, etc., R. Co., 102 Mass. 552, 3 Am. Rep. 502.

Minnesota.— Christenson v. American Express Co., 15 Minn. 270, 2 Am. Rep. 122.

Missouri.— Schureman v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 88 Mo. App. 183; Kirby v. Adams Express Co., 2 Mo. App. 369.

New Hampshire.— Durgin v. American Express Co., 66 N. H. 277, 20 Atl. 328, 9 L. R. A. 453.

New York.— Stedman v. Western Transp. Co., 48 Barb. (N. Y.) 97.

North Carolina.— Phifer v. Carolina Cent. R. Co., 89 N. C. 311, 45 Am. Rep. 687.

Pennsylvania.—Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Butler, 57 Pa. St. 335; American Express Co. v. Sands, 55 Pa. St. 140; Farnham v. Camden, etc., R. Co., 55 Pa. St. 53.

West Virginia.— Maslin v. Baltimore, etc., R. Co., 14 W. Va. 180, 35 Am. Rep. 748.

United States.— New York Cent. R. Co. v. Lockwood, 17 Wall. (U. S.) 357, 21 L. ed. 627; May v. Steam-Ship Powhatan, 5 Fed. 375; Rintoul v. New York Cent., etc., R. Co., 21 Blatchf. (U. S.) 439, 17 Fed. 905; Ormsby v. Union Pac. R. Co., 2 McCrary (U. S.) 48, 4 Fed. 706.

See 9 Cent. Dig. tit. "Carriers," § 654.

unskilfulness, or carelessness of its employees.[66] It is as to exemptions from liability for servants' negligence that the New York courts have most clearly departed from the weight of authority, by holding that such a contract is valid.[67]

66. Alabama.— Montgomery, etc., R. Co. v. Edmonds, 41 Ala. 667.

Iowa.— Hudson v. Northern Pac. R. Co., 92 Iowa 231, 60 N. W. 608, 54 Am. St. Rep. 550.

Louisiana.— Roberts v. Riley, 15 La. Ann. 103, 77 Am. Dec. 183.

Missouri.— Doan v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 38 Mo. App. 408.

United States.— Stevens v. Navigazione Generale Italiana, 39 Fed. 562; The Montana, 22 Blatchf. (U. S.) 372, 22 Fed. 715; The Colon, 9 Ben. (U. S.) 354, 6 Fed. Cas. No. 3,023.

See 9 Cent. Dig. tit. "Carriers," § 654.

Rule explained and applied.— In New York Cent. R. Co. v. Lockwood, 17 Wall. (U. S.) 357, 21 L. ed. 627, the following pertinent language is used on this subject: "But it is contended that though a carrier may not stipulate for his own negligence, there is no good reason why he should not be permitted to stipulate for immunity for the negligence of his servants, over whose actions, in his absence, he can exercise no control. If we advert for a moment to the fundamental principles on which the law of common carriers is founded, it will be seen that this objection is inadmissible. In regulating the public establishment of common carriers, the great object of the law was to secure the utmost care and diligence in the performance of their important duties — an object essential to the welfare of every civilized community. Hence the common-law rule which charged the common carrier as an insurer. Why charge him as such? Plainly for the purpose of raising the most stringent motive for the exercise of carefulness and fidelity in his trust. In regard to passengers the highest degree of carefulness and diligence is expressly exacted. In the one case the securing of the most exact diligence and fidelity underlies the law, and is the reason for it; in the other it is directly and absolutely prescribed by the law. It is obvious, therefore, that if a carrier stipulate not to be bound to the exercise of care and diligence, but to be at liberty to indulge in the contrary, he seeks to put off the essential duties of his employment. And to assert that he may do so seems almost a contradiction in terms. Now, to what avail does the law attach these essential duties to the employment of the common carrier, if they may be waived in respect to his agents and servants, especially where the carrier is an artificial being, incapable of acting except by agents and servants? It is carefulness and diligence in performing the service which the law demands, not an abstract carefulness and diligence in proprietors and stockholders who take no active part in the business. To admit such a distinction in the law of common carriers, as the business is now carried on, would be subversive of the very object of the law." A provision that when the carrier furnishes the shipper with laborers to assist in loading and unloading they shall be deemed the shipper's servants while so engaged, and that the carrier shall not be responsible for their acts is an attempt to release the carrier from responsibility for the negligence of his own servants, and is void. Missouri Pac. R. Co. v. Smith, (Tex. 1891) 16 S. W. 803. Where a carrier contracts for transportation over a connecting line it cannot relieve itself from liability for the negligence of such contracting line, as such a stipulation would be with reference to the negligence of a servant of the contracting carrier in performing its obligation for transportation. Craycroft v. Atchison, etc., R. Co., 18 Mo. App. 487; Merchants' Dispatch Transp. Co. v. Bloch, 86 Tenn. 392, 6 S. W. 881, 6 Am. St. Rep. 847. So a stipulation by an express company that it will not be liable for any loss or damage by fire will not relieve it from liability for the result by fire due to the negligence of a railroad company transporting the goods under contract with the express company. Muser v. American Express Co., 17 Blatchf. (U. S.) 412, 1 Fed. 382; Kentucky Bank v. Adams Express Co., 93 U. S. 174, 23 L. ed. 872. But it is said that a railroad company contracting for the transportation of cotton may by contract relieve itself from liability for negligence of a compress company to which the cotton is delivered to be prepared for transportation. Deming v. Merchants', etc., Co., 90 Tenn. 306, 17 S. W. 89, 13 L. R. A. 518. A clause in the bill of lading exempting the carrier from liability for loss from perils of the sea will not relieve it from liability for such loss occasioned by a peril to which the negligence of its servants contributes. Liverpool, etc., Steam Co. v. Phenix Ins. Co., 129 U. S. 397, 9 S. Ct. 469, 32 L. ed. 788. Nor will a stipulation in a bill of lading be valid which exempts a ship-owner from the consequences of the negligence of master or mariners. The Saratoga, 20 Fed. 869; The Montana, 17 Fed. 377.

67. Spinetti v. Atlas Steamship Co., 80 N. Y. 71, 36 Am. Rep. 579; Magnin v. Dinsmore, 62 N. Y. 35, 20 Am. Rep. 442; Heineman v. Grand Trunk R. Co., 1 Sheld. (N. Y.) 95; Knell v. U. S., etc., Steamship Co., 33 N. Y. Super. Ct. 423; and New York cases cited supra, note 63.

In Michigan some such doctrine seems to have been recognized also in an early case in which it is said that a carrier may by contract restrict his liability for the misconduct of subordinate agents. McMillan v. Michigan Southern, etc., R. Co., 16 Mich. 79, 93 Am. Dec. 208.

In England it is held that a limitation of liability is valid as to wrongful acts of servants outside the scope of their authority. Shaw v. Great Western R. Co., [1894] 1

(III) Negligence in Transportattion of Live Stock. The attempt on the part of carriers to limit their liability as against their own negligence or that of their servants has been particularly persistent where the contract of transportation is with reference to live stock, but such limitations have been uniformly held ineffectual.[68] Nor can the carrier by stipulation relieve himself from liability for loss of or damage to stock due to defective cars or appliances for loading and unloading.[69]

(IV) Gross Negligence, Misconduct, and Fraud. Some courts which have been inclined to recognize the validity of contracts relieving carriers from liability for negligence have drawn a distinction between ordinary negligence and gross negligence, and have sustained exemptions so far as they did not exonerate the carrier from gross or wilful neglect or fraud on his own part or on the part of his servants.[70] This assumed distinction is by the best authorities unequivo-

Q. B. 373, 58 J. P. 318, 70 L. T. Rep. N. S. 218, 10 Reports 85, 42 Wkly. Rep. 285.

Qualification of New York rule.—Here also the New York courts have practically qualified their own peculiar rule by holding that a general exemption will not be sufficient to relieve the carrier from the consequences of its servants' negligence, and that a stipulation to have this effect must specifically refer to the servants' negligence as such. Mynard v. Syracuse, etc., R. Co., 71 N. Y. 180, 27 Am. Rep. 28.

68. Boehl v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 44 Minn. 191, 46 N. W. 333; Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Witty, 32 Nebr. 275, 49 N. W. 183, 29 Am. St. Rep. 436; Atchison, etc., R. Co. v. Washburn, 5 Nebr. 117; Powell v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 32 Pa. St. 414, 75 Am. Dec. 564; Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Eddins, 7 Tex. Civ. App. 116, 26 S. W. 161.

Loading and unloading at shipper's risk.—A special contract by which the shipper assumed all risk of loss and injury to the animals shipped in loading and unloading, conveying and otherwise, whether arising from the negligence, default, or misconduct on the part of defendant's servants, agents, or officers was held not to relieve the carrier from liability for injury resulting from defective cars. Hawkins v. Great Western R. Co., 17 Mich. 57, 97 Am. Dec. 179. A stipulation for loading and unloading at shipper's risk is not to be construed as relieving the carrier from liability for his servant's negligence. Candee v. New York, etc., R. Co., (Conn. 1901) 49 Atl. 17.

Refusing opportunity to feed and water.—Where the stipulation was against liability for injuries to the stock, though caused by the negligence of the carrier's servants, held that the carrier was liable for injury to the stock due to the refusal of the trainmen to allow the person in charge of the stock opportunity to seasonably feed and water the animals. Abrams v. Milwaukee, etc., R. Co., 87 Wis. 485, 58 N. W. 780, 41 Am. St. Rep. 55.

Statutes authorizing a railroad company to contract specially for the transportation of live stock are held not to authorize a contract relieving the carrier from liability for negligence in such transportation. Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Hedger, 9 Bush (Ky.) 645, 15 Am. Rep. 740.

69. Arkansas.— St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Lesser, 46 Ark. 236.

Kentucky.— Rhodes v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., 9 Bush (Ky.) 688.

Maine.— Sager v. Portsmouth, etc., R. Co., 31 Me. 228, 50 Am. Dec. 659.

Mississippi.— Kansas City, etc., R. Co. v. Holland, 68 Miss. 351, 8 So. 516.

Missouri.— Potts v. Wabash, etc., R. Co., 17 Mo. App. 394.

Ohio.— Welsh v. Pittsburg, etc., R. Co., 10 Ohio St. 65, 75 Am. Dec. 490.

Pennsylvania.— Goldey v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 30 Pa. St. 242, 72 Am. Dec. 703.

Virginia.—Chesapeake, etc., R. Co. v. American Exch. Bank, 92 Va. 495, 23 S. E. 935, 44 L. R. A. 449.

Wisconsin.— Leonard v. Whitcomb, 95 Wis. 646, 70 N. W. 817; Loeser v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 94 Wis. 571, 69 N. W. 372.

See 9 Cent. Dig. tit. "Carriers," § 943.

70. District of Columbia.— Galt v. Adams Express Co., MacArthur & M. (D. C.) 124, 48 Am. Rep. 742.

Georgia.— Cooper v. Raleigh, etc., R. Co., 110 Ga. 659, 36 S. E. 240.

Illinois.— Wabash R. Co. v. Brown, 152 Ill. 484, 39 N. E. 273; Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Chapman, 133 Ill. 96, 24 N. E. 417, 23 Am. St. Rep. 587, 8 L. R. A. 508; Adams Express Co. v. Stettaners, 61 Ill. 184, 14 Am. Rep. 57; Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Morrison, 19 Ill. 136; U. S. Express Co. v. Council, 84 Ill. App. 491; Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Miller, 79 Ill. App. 473; Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Grimes, 71 Ill. App. 397.

Kansas.— St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Tribbey, 6 Kan. App. 467, 50 Pac. 458; Kallman v. U. S. Express Co., 3 Kan. 205.

Kentucky.— Adams Express Co. v. Spalding, 10 Ky. L. Rep. 540; Mount v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., 2 Ky. L. Rep. 221.

New York.—Root v. New York, etc., R. Co., 83 Hun (N. Y.) 111, 31 N. Y. Suppl. 357, 63 N. Y. St. 841.

Pennsylvania.— Pennsylvania R. Co. v. McCloskey, 23 Pa. St. 526.

England.— Knox v. Great Northern R. Co., [1896] 2 Ir. R. 632.

See 9 Cent. Dig. tit. "Carriers," §§ 654, 934.

cally repudiated, and all attempted exemptions from liability on account of negligence, whether gross or ordinary, are held to be ineffectual.[71] Possibly the suggestion of gross negligence which the carrier cannot exempt himself from liability for by contract grew out of the use of that expression by the English courts.[72]

3. Validity and Effect of Contracts Limiting Liability — a. In General. Where the express language or evident purpose of the stipulation relieving the carrier from common-law liability is to exempt him from liability for his own

In a New York case it is said that a railroad company may limit its liability as carrier by express contract so as not to be liable for casualties not arising from fraud, wilfulness, recklessness, or gross neglect. Boswell v. Hudson River R. Co., 5 Bosw. (N. Y.) 699, 10 Abb. Pr. (N. Y.) 442.

In a West Virginia case this language was used: "It is competent for a common carrier to diminish and restrict his common law liabilities by special contract, and he may by express stipulations, also absolve himself from all liability resulting from any and every degree of negligence however gross, (if it fall short of misfeasance or fraud,) provided the terms and language of the contract are so clear and definite as to leave no doubt that such was the understanding and intention of the parties." Baltimore, etc., R. Co. v. Rathbone, 1 W. Va. 87, 106, 88 Am. Dec. 664. And see Zouch v. Chesapeake, etc., R. Co., 36 W. Va. 524, 15 S. E. 185, 17 L. R. A. 116.

In a Wisconsin case it is said to be well settled that a common carrier of persons or property cannot by any agreement, however plain and explicit, wholly relieve itself from liability for injury resulting from its gross negligence or fraud, and that in order to exempt the carrier from liability, or to limit the extent of its liability for injury caused by its own negligence of any kind, the contract must expressly so provide. Black v. Goodrich Transp. Co., 55 Wis. 319, 13 N. W. 244, 42 Am. Rep. 713.

71. Alabama.— Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Grant, 99 Ala. 325, 13 So. 599; Alabama Great Southern R. Co. v. Thomas, 83 Ala. 343, 3 So. 802.

Indiana.— Michigan Southern, etc., R. Co. v. Heaton, 37 Ind. 448, 10 Am. Rep. 89; Baltimore, etc., R. Co. v. Ragsdale, 14 Ind. App. 406, 42 N. E. 1106.

Kentucky.—Orndorff v. Adams Express Co., 3 Bush (Ky.) 194, 96 Am. Dec. 207.

Minnesota.— Moulton v. St. Paul, etc., R. Co., 31 Minn. 85, 16 N. W. 497, 47 Am. Rep. 781; Shriver v. Sioux City, etc., R. Co., 24 Minn. 506, 31 Am. Rep. 353.

Mississippi.— Johnson v. Alabama, etc., R. Co., 69 Miss. 191, 11 So. 104, 30 Am. St. Rep. 534.

Nebraska.— Atchison, etc., R. Co. v. Washburn, 5 Nebr. 117.

New York.— Parsons v. Monteath, 13 Barb. (N. Y.) 353.

See 9 Cent. Dig. tit. "Carriers," §§ 654, 934.

Better doctrine explained.— In New York Cent. R. Co. v. Lockwood, 17 Wall. (U. S.) 357, 21 L. ed. 627, the court uses this language: "The defendants endeavor to make a distinction between gross and ordinary negligence, and insist that the judge ought to have charged that the contract was at least effective for excusing the latter. We have already adverted to the tendency of judicial opinion adverse to the distinction between gross and ordinary negligence. Strictly speaking, these expressions are indicative rather of the degree of care and diligence which is due from a party and which he fails to perform, than of the amount of the inattention, carelessness, or stupidity which he exhibits. If very little care is due from him, and he fails to bestow that little, it is called gross negligence. If very great care is due, and he fails to come up to the mark required, it is called slight negligence. And if ordinary care is due, such as a prudent man would exercise in his own affairs, failure to bestow that amount of care is called ordinary negligence. In each case, the negligence, whatever epithet we give it, is failure to bestow the care and skill which the situation demands; and hence it is more strictly accurate, perhaps, to call it simply 'negligence.' And this seems to be the tendency of modern authorities." In East Tennessee, etc., R. Co. v. Johnston, 75 Ala. 596, 605, 51 Am. Rep. 489, the court says: "A carrier can not, by contract, relieve himself of the degree of care and diligence exacted by the common law. Any want of such care and diligence is negligence. He can exempt himself only from liability for loss or injury, not caused by his own or his servant's negligence."

Amount of proof.— The carrier cannot evade responsibility by stipulation as to amount of proof required to fix his liability. Cox v. Central Vermont R. Co., 170 Mass. 129, 49 N. E. 97.

The burden is on the carrier to show the existence of a contract limiting his liability. Bonfiglio v. Lake Shore, etc., R. Co., 125 Mich. 476, 84 N. W. 722.

72. Riley v. Horne, 5 Bing. 217, 2 M. & P. 331, 30 Rev. Rep. 576, 15 E. C. L. 549.

Gross negligence is simply failure to use reasonable care and skill. Beal v. South Devon R. Co., 3 H. & C. 337, 11 L. T. Rep. N. S. 184, 12 Wkly. Rep. 1115. See also, generally, Bailments, V, A, 2, c [5 Cyc. 181]; Negligence.

But even in England it has been said that there is no distinction between negligence and negligence or that of his servants or agents, the stipulation is against public policy, and is therefore void and of no effect.[73] Therefore, if the stipulation is against all liability, it is invalid, for the manifest purpose of such a general stipulation must be to relieve from negligence as well as from other grounds of loss.[74] But if the contract provides for exemption from certain forms of loss which do not necessarily involve negligence of the carrier or his servants, it will not be held to be totally void, but simply ineffectual, where the loss appears to have been due to negligence. Thus a contract exempting the carrier from liability for loss by fire, though in general valid, will not exempt him from loss by fire due to the failure to use ordinary diligence and care in protecting the goods intrusted to him.[75] So a stipulation against liability for leakage or breakage will not relieve the carrier from liability for losses of this character due to the carrier's negligence.[76] And the same general rule applies to exemption from liability for loss gross negligence, the latter being the same thing as the former, "with the addition of a vituperative epithet." Wilson v. Brett, 12 L. J. Exch. 264, 11 M. & W. 113.

73. California.— Pierce v. Southern Pac. Co., 120 Cal. 156, 47 Pac. 874, 52 Pac. 302, 40 L. R. A. 350.

Connecticut.— Welch v. Boston, etc., R. Co., 41 Conn. 333.

Indiana.— Michigan, Southern, etc., R. Co. v. Heaton, 37 Ind. 448; Indianapolis, etc., R. Co. v. Allen, 31 Ind. 394.

Missouri.— Vaughn v. Wabash R. Co., 62 Mo. App. 461; Blanchard v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 60 Mo. App. 267; Potts v. Wabash, etc., R. Co., 17 Mo. App. 394.

Nebraska.—Atchison, etc., R. Co. v. Lawler, 40 Nebr. 356, 58 N. W. 968.

New York.— Dorr v. New Jersey Steam Nav. Co., 4 Sandf. (N. Y.) 136.

Pennsylvania.— Willock v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 166 Pa. St. 184, 30 Atl. 948, 45 Am. St. Rep. 674, 27 L. R. A. 228; Armstrong v. U. S. Express Co., 159 Pa. St. 640, 28 Atl. 448.

Tennessee.— Bird v. Southern R. Co., 99 Tenn. 719, 42 S. W. 451, 63 Am. St. Rep. 856.

Texas.— Atchison, etc., R. Co. v. Grant, 6 Tex. Civ. App. 674, 26 S. W. 286.

United States.— The Guildhall, 58 Fed. 796; The Iowa, 50 Fed. 561; The Hadji, 20 Fed. 875.

See 9 Cent. Dig. tit. "Carriers," § 637 et seq.

74. Crawford v. Southern R. Co., 56 S. C. 136, 34 S. E. 80; Woodburn v. Cincinnati, etc., R. Co., 40 Fed. 731. And see supra, II, E, 2, b (1).

75. Alabama.— Grey v. Mobile Trade Co., 55 Ala. 387, 28 Am. Rep. 729.

Arkansas.— Little Rock, etc., R. Co. v. Talbot, 47 Ark. 97, 14 S. W. 471.

Connecticut.— Lawrence v. New York, etc., R. Co., 36 Conn. 63.

Georgia.— Berry v. Cooper, 28 Ga. 543.

Indiana.— Insurance Co. of North America v. Lake Erie, etc., R. Co., 152 Ind. 333, 53 N. E. 382.

Louisiana.— Maxwell v. Southern Pac. R. Co., 48 La. Ann. 385, 19 So. 287.

New York.— Lamb v. Camden, etc., R. Co., 46 N. Y. 271, 7 Am. Rep. 327.

Ohio.—Erie R. Co. v. Lockwood, 28 Ohio St. 358.

South Carolina.— Swindler v. Hilliard, 2 Rich. (S. C.) 286, 45 Am. Dec. 732.

Texas.— Houston, etc., R. Co. v. Davis, 11 Tex. Civ. App. 24, 31 S. W. 308.

United States.— New Jersey Steam Nav. Co. v. Boston Merchants' Bank, 6 How. (U. S.) 344, 12 L. ed. 465; Liverpool, etc., Ins. Co. v. McNeill, 89 Fed. 131, 59 U. S. App. 499, 32 C. C. A. 173; Insurance Co. of North America v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 9 Fed. 811; Woodward v. Illinois Cent. R. Co., 1 Biss. (U. S.) 477, 30 Fed. Cas. No. 18,007; Woodward v. Illinois Cent. R. Co., 1 Biss. (U. S.) 403, 30 Fed. Cas. No. 18,006; Scruggs v. Baltimore, etc., R. Co., 5 McCrary (U. S.) 590, 18 Fed. 318.

See 9 Cent. Dig. tit. "Carriers," § 656.

Fire caused by sparks from locomotive.— If the goods are destroyed by fire kindled from sparks from the locomotive the railroad company is not relieved if it has been negligent in failing to apply to the locomotive apparatus known and actually in use which would prevent the emission of sparks. But it is not necessary that the company use every precaution and adopt all contrivances known to science to protect the goods intrusted to it for transportation from such danger. Steinweg v. Erie R. Co., 43 N. Y. 123, 3 Am. Rep. 673. In New Orleans, etc., R. Co. v. Faler, 58 Miss. 911, it seems to have been thought that it was the duty of the railroad company under such circumstances to use the best appliances to arrest the escape of fire and to employ cars constructed to afford the greatest protection to the goods transported. There is no conflict, however, as to the general duty to place the goods in cars such as are commonly in use for transporting goods of that kind, and if they are liable to be set on fire by sparks, then to place them in an open car instead of a box car, such as is generally used, would be negligence. New Orleans, etc., R. Co. v. Faler, 58 Miss. 911.

76. Alabama.— Steele v. Townsend, 37 Ala. 247, 79 Am. Dec. 49.

Kansas.— Missouri Valley R. Co. v. Caldwell, 8 Kan. 244.

Kentucky.— Reno v. Hogan, 12 B. Mon. (Ky.) 63, 54 Am. Dec. 513.

due to dangers of navigation,[77] and other causes.[78] The general principle that a contract relieving the carrier from liability for negligence will not be valid is applicable also where it is sought to escape responsibility for goods held for delivery, or the like.[79] An attempt by the carrier to determine the measure of damage by fixing the place as to which the value of the goods shall be estimated

New York.— Hutkoff v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 29 Misc. (N. Y.) 770, 61 N. Y. Suppl. 254; Morris v. Wier, 20 Misc. (N. Y.) 586, 46 N. Y. Suppl. 413.

United States.— The Svend, 1 Fed. 54; Nelson v. National Steamship Co., 7 Ben. (U. S.) 340, 17 Fed. Cas. No. 10,112; The David & Caroline, 5 Blatchf. (U. S.) 266, 7 Fed. Cas. No. 3,593; Merriman v. The May Queen, Newb. Adm. (U. S.) 464, 17 Fed. Cas. No. 9,481; Dedekam v. Vose, 3 Blatchf. (U. S.) 44, 7 Fed. Cas. No. 3,729.

Canada.— Glengoil Steamship Co. v. Pilkington, 28 Can. Supreme Ct. 146.

See 9 Cent. Dig. tit. "Carriers," § 654½.

77. Graham v. Davis, 4 Ohio St. 362, 62 Am. Dec. 285; Davidson v. Graham, 2 Ohio St. 131. See also, generally, SHIPPING.

78. A special contract exempting the carrier from liability will not prevent the shipper maintaining an action of tort based on the carrier's legal duty and a breach thereof by negligence. Nicoll v. East Tennessee, etc., R. Co., 89 Ga. 260, 15 S. E. 309. Where the shipper failed to comply with a statutory requirement to give notice of the nature of the goods, if consisting of pictures contained in any package or trunk, held that he could recover nevertheless if the loss was due to the carrier's negligence. Wheeler v. Oceanic Steam Nav. Co., 125 N. Y. 155, 26 N. E. 248, 34 N. Y. St. 866, 21 Am. St. Rep. 729.

Damage done by vermin.— The exemption of liability for damage done by vermin does not exonerate the carrier from liability for injuries by rats due to negligence in omitting to fumigate the ship before loading. Stevens v. Navigazione Generale Italiana, 39 Fed. 562.

Delay due to mobs, etc.— A provision that the shipper assumes all risk of damage by reason of delay due to mobs, strikes, or threatened violence will not exempt the carrier from liability for negligence in that respect. Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Bell, 13 Ky. L. Rep. 393.

Failure to seal package.— Where it appeared to be the custom of express companies to seal valuable packages, it was held that such a company would be liable for loss due to failure to comply with this custom, notwithstanding a general limitation of liability. Overland Mail, etc., Co. v. Carroll, 7 Colo. 43, 1 Pac. 682.

Loss by sweating.— Where the exception was as to damage by reason of sweating, or otherwise, it was held that the carrier was liable for negligently stowing the goods away in such manner as to subject them to such damage. Paturzo v. Compagnie Francaise, 31 Fed. 611.

Loss by theft.— The exception against loss by thieves or robbers will not relieve the carrier from liability for theft due to the failure to use reasonable vigilance in protecting the property. The Saratoga, 20 Fed. 869.

Loss by water, accidental decay, etc.— Stipulations against liability for loss occasioned by water, accidental decay, etc., in case of fruit, will not relieve the carrier from liability for such loss due to negligence. Merchants' Dispatch, etc., Co. v. Cornforth, 3 Colo. 280, 25 Am. Rep. 757; Giles v. Fargo, 60 N. Y. Super. Ct. 117, 17 N. Y. Suppl. 476, 43 N. Y. St. 65.

Loss of market.— A stipulation that the carrier shall not be liable for loss of market does not exempt him from liability where the loss of market is caused by negligence. Jennings v. Grand Trunk R. Co., 52 Hun (N. Y.) 227, 5 N. Y. Suppl. 140, 23 N. Y. St. 15.

Surrender to attaching officer.—Where loss of the goods was due to the act of the carrier in surrendering them to a person claiming to be an officer authorized to seize them under an attachment, but it did not appear that such person had any authority to make the levy, held that the surrender was negligence on the part of the carrier for which he was liable. Nickey v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 35 Mo. App. 79.

Where carrier had option of two routes, one of which was peculiarly dangerous on account of being infested with predatory bodies of Confederate soldiers, held that he was liable for the loss due to such peculiar danger, although such danger was expressly excepted. U. S. Express Co. v. Kountze, 8 Wall. (U. S.) 342, 19 L. ed. 457.

79. Western R. Co. v. Little, 86 Ala. 159, 5 So. 563; Pacific Express Co. v. Wallace, 60 Ark. 100, 29 S. W. 32; Aaronson v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 23 Misc. (N. Y.) 666, 52 N. Y. Suppl. 95; Tarbell v. Royal Exch. Shipping Co., 110 N. Y. 170, 17 N. E. 721, 17 N. Y. St. 153, 6 Am. St. Rep. 350; Springs v. South Bound R. Co., 46 S. C. 104, 24 S. E. 166.

Illustrations.— A carrier may by contract determine the character under which it shall hold the goods when in its warehouse at the place of delivery, so long as it does not attempt to relieve itself from liability for negligence. Feige v. Michigan Cent. R. Co., 62 Mich. 1, 28 N. W. 685. A stipulation exempting the carrier from loss while the property is at the place of transshipment will not relieve the carrier if the loss is occasioned by negligent exposure during delay in transportation. Thomas v. Lancaster Mills, 71 Fed. 481, 34 U. S. App. 404, 19 C. C. A. 88. But a limitation of liability for the goods after they have reached their destination will not apply to a case where goods are held for delivery to a connecting carrier. Ayres v. Western R. Corp., 14 Blatchf. (U. S.) 9, 2 Fed. Cas. No. 689.

will not be valid in case of a loss due to negligence on the part of the carrier or his servants.[80]

b. As Forwarder and Special Carrier. The attempt has sometimes been made to escape liability by a stipulation that the carrier shall be liable as a forwarder only, but such a stipulation is of no avail as against a loss due to negligence.[81] As has already been indicated[82] a railroad company supplying only motive power for transportation of special cars furnished and controlled by the owner of the goods contained therein is not a common carrier, and therefore a contract in such a case, providing that the railroad company does not assume liability as a common carrier, will be valid, but even under such circumstances the company will be liable for loss due to negligence.[83] It seems, however, that as to goods which the carrier is under no obligation to transport, because of a class which he is justified in refusing to receive because outside of the scope of his business, he may even limit his liability for negligence.[84]

c. Consideration. Inasmuch as the carrier is by law bound to carry at a reasonable rate for all who may apply without any limitation of common-law liability, a stipulation relieving him to any extent from the liability imposed by law will not be valid unless supported by some consideration, which is usually sought to be furnished by the granting of a reduced rate of charge in return for the exemption acceded to by the shipper. Without some such consideration the stipulation will not be valid.[85] The shipper must have an opportunity to accept

80. Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Bogard, 78 Miss. 11, 27 So. 879; Erie Dispatch v. Johnson, 87 Tenn. 490, 11 S. W. 441.

81. Hooper v. Wells, 27 Cal. 11, 85 Am. Dec. 211; Galt v. Adams Express Co., MacArthur (D. C.) 124, 48 Am. Rep. 742; Kallman v. U. S. Express Co., 3 Kan. 205; Christenson v. American Express Co., 15 Minn. 270. 2 Am. Rep. 122.

Further as to liability of carrier as forwarder see infra, II, M, 3, c.

82. See supra, II, A, 8.

83. Coup v. Wabash, etc., R. Co., 56 Mich. 111, 22 N. W. 215, 56 Am. Rep. 374; Kimball v. Rutland, etc., R. Co., 26 Vt. 247, 62 Am. Dec. 567; Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Wallace, 66 Fed. 506, 24 U. S. App. 589, 14 C. C. A. 257, 30 L. R. A. 161.

84. So held as to transportation of gunpowder (California Powder Works v. Atlantic, etc., R. Co., 113 Cal. 329, 45 Pac. 691, 36 L. R. A. 648); and as to glassware (Toy v. Long Island R. Co., 26 Misc. (N. Y.) 792, 56 N. Y. Suppl. 182). And see supra, II, A, 1, b, (II).

A railway company may as private carrier require exemption from liability for negligence as a condition to undertaking the transportation of express matter for express companies. Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co. v. Mahoney, 148 Ind. 196, 46 N. E. 917, 47 N. E. 464, 62 Am. St. Rep. 503, 40 L. R. A. 101.

85. Alabama.— Mouton v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., 128 Ala. 537, 29 So. 602; Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Odin, 80 Ala. 38.

Georgia.— Georgia R., etc., Co. v. Reid, 91 Ga. 377, 17 S. E. 934.

Illinois.— Baltimore, etc., R. Co. v. Crawford, 65 Ill. App. 113.

Massachusetts.— Squire v. New York Cent. R. Co., 98 Mass. 239, 93 Am. Dec. 162; Gage v. Tirrell, 9 Allen (Mass.) 299.

Missouri.— Paddock v. Missouri Pac. R. Co., 60 Mo. App. 328; Duvenick v. Missouri Pac. R. Co., 57 Mo. App. 550; Crow v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 57 Mo. App. 135; Hance v. Wabash Western R. Co., 56 Mo. App. 476.

New York.— Nelson v. Hudson River R. Co., 48 N. Y. 498; Jennings v. Grand Trunk R. Co., 52 Hun (N. Y.) 227, 5 N. Y. Suppl. 140, 23 N. Y. St. 15; Rubens v. Ludgate Hill Steamship Co., 20 N. Y. Suppl. 481, 48 N. Y. St. 732; Lee v. Marsh, 43 Barb. (N. Y.) 102, 28 How. Pr. (N. Y.) 275.

North Carolina.— Gardner v. Southern R. Co., 127 N. C. 293, 37 S. E. 328.

Tennessee.— Dillard v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., 2 Lea (Tenn.) 288.

West Virginia.— Berry v. West Virginia, etc., R. Co., 44 W. Va. 538, 30 S. E. 143, 67 Am. St. Rep. 781.

United States.— York Mfg. Co. v. Illinois Cent. R. Co., 3 Wall. (U. S.) 107, 18 L. ed. 170.

England.— Wyld v. Pickford, 8 M. & W. 443.

See 9 Cent. Dig. tit. "Carriers," § 643.

Presumption as to consideration.— If the charges and services rendered as a rule are the same in all respects without, as with, the special contract, such contract is void for want of consideration; but the presumption is that the rates of charge are made having regard to the risks assumed, and that the rate specified in the special contract when made was intended to support the entire contract. Hence the want of consideration to support the limitation of liability must be affirmatively established by the party seeking to avoid it. Schaller v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 97 Wis. 31, 71 N. W. 1042.

Receiving and undertaking to carry no consideration.— The receipt of and undertaking to carry goods being a duty imposed on the carrier by law do not constitute a consideration to support the special contract; there the limited liability at a reduced rate or have his goods transported without limitation of liability at a lawful and reasonable rate.[86]

d. Must Be Reasonable. The validity of stipulations limiting the carrier's liability is to be determined by their reasonableness and their conformity to the sound public policy, in accordance with which the obligations of the carrier to the public are settled.[87]

e. Deviation. If the carrier deviates from the course or method of shipment must be some other. That is generally furnished by some concession in rates. Wehmann v. Minneapolis, etc., R. Co., 58 Minn. 22, 59 N. W. 546. This doctrine was not, however, recognized in the earlier case of Hutchinson v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 37 Minn. 524, 35 N. W. 433, where it was held that delivery and acceptance of animals for carriage was a sufficient mutual consideration to sustain an agreement as to the extent of defendant's liability.

Reduced rate.— If the carrier seeks to evade liability on the ground that a reduced rate was made in return for a limitation of liability, it must be made to appear that the carrier had another and higher rate for those not acceding to the limitation. Paddock v. Missouri Pac. R. Co., 60 Mo. App. 328.

The recital in the special contract of a reduced rate is merely prima facie evidence of that fact, and may be contradicted or explained by parol evidence. Bowring v. Wabash R. Co., 77 Mo. App. 250. If the shipping contract containing the limitation is blank as to the rate to be paid the limitation will be void. Kellerman v. Kansas City, etc., R. Co., 68 Mo. App. 255. Although the special contract recites that it is given in consideration of a special rate, yet, if the evidence shows that the rate charged was the regular rate, the limitation will be invalid. Ward v. Missouri Pac. R. Co., 158 Mo. 226, 58 S. W. 28.

Where by reason of the establishment of a tariff of joint rates by connecting carriers for interstate commerce, deduction from such established rates would be prohibited by the interstate commerce law, there can be no consideration for the limitation of liability. Wehmann v. Minneapolis, etc., R. Co., 58 Minn. 22, 59 N. W. 546.

86. Stewart v. Cleveland, etc., R. Co., 21 Ind. App. 218, 52 N. E. 89; Atchison, etc., R. Co. v. Dill, 48 Kan. 210, 29 Pac. 148; Kansas Pac. R. Co. v. Reynolds, 17 Kan. 251; Atchison, etc., R. Co. v. Mason, 4 Kan. App. 391, 46 Pac. 31; Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Lancashire Ins. Co., 79 Miss. 114, 30 So. 43; Paddock v. Missouri Pac. R. Co., 155 Mo. 524, 56 S. W. 453; McFadden v. Missouri Pac. R. Co., 92 Mo. 343, 4 S. W. 689, 1 Am. St. Rep. 721; Paddock v. Missouri Pac. R. Co., 60 Mo. App. 328.

87. Alabama.— Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Oden, 80 Ala. 38.

Louisiana.— Berje v. Texas, etc., R. Co., 37 La. Ann. 468.

Maryland.— McCoy v. Erie, etc., Transp. Co., 42 Md. 498.

Missouri.— Potts v. Wabash, etc., R. Co., 17 Mo. App. 394.

North Carolina.— Gardner v. Southern R. Co., 127 N. C. 293, 37 S. E. 328.

Texas.— Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Graves, (Tex. App. 1890) 16 S. W. 102.

United States.— Pacific Coast Steamship Co. v. Bancroft-Whitney Co., 94 Fed. 180, 36 C. C. A. 135.

England.— Peck v. North Staffordshire R. Co., 10 H. L. Cas. 473, 9 Jur. N. S. 914, 32 L. J. Q. B. 241, 8 L. T. Rep. N. S. 768, 11 Wkly. Rep. 1023.

In order that the contract be reasonable and fair, and therefore not against public policy, it is necessary that the shipper have the option to enter into it if he sees fit, or if he does not see fit, have his goods carried without other limitations of liability than those recognized by the common law. If no such option is afforded him, and he is practically compelled to accept the terms of the contract limiting liability, or refrain from employing the common carrier in the business involved in his public calling, then the contract is invalid.

Arkansas.— Little Rock, etc., R. Co. v. Cravens, 57 Ark. 112, 20 S. W. 803, 38 Am. St. Rep. 230, 18 L. R. A. 527.

Kansas.— Atchison, etc., R. Co. v. Mason, 4 Kan. App. 391, 46 Pac. 31.

Mississippi.— Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Lancashire Ins. Co., 79 Miss. 114, 30 So. 43.

Tennessee.— Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Craig, 102 Tenn. 298, 52 S. W. 164; Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Gilbert, 88 Tenn. 430, 12 S. W. 1018, 7 L. R. A. 162.

England.— Lewis v. Great Western R. Co., 3 Q. B. D. 195, 47 L. J. Q. B. 131, 37 L. T. Rep. N. S. 774, 26 Wkly. Rep. 255; McNally v. Lancashire, etc., R. Co., 8 L. R. Ir. 81; Manchester, etc., R. Co. v. Brown, 8 App. Cas. 703, 48 J. P. 388, 53 L. J. Q. B. 124, 50 L. T. Rep. N. S. 281, 32 Wkly. Rep. 207.

It is for the court to determine whether a carrier's special contract restricting liability is reasonable. South, etc., Alabama R. Co. v. Henlein, 52 Ala. 606, 23 Am. Rep. 578.

Unreasonable stipulation.— The rule that stipulations insisted on by carriers or other persons who stand in such a position toward their customers as enables them to compel compliance with their demand or destroy their customers' business should be judged of by their fairness and be held void whenever they are unreasonable or oppressive is one of general acceptance. Public policy compels its acceptance in all civilized countries. Willock v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 166 Pa. St. 184, 30 Atl. 948, 45 Am. St. Rep. 674, 27 L. R. A. 228.

stipulated for in the contract he will deprive himself of the benefit of any exemption from liability found in such contract.[88]

f. Exempt Cause Must Be Proximate. The loss must be the proximate result of a cause as to which the carrier has exempted himself from liability in order that he shall be relieved under such exemption,[89] and the excepted cause of liability must be the sole cause of the loss, for if the negligence of the carrier mingles with it as an active and coöperative cause, the carrier will be responsible.[90]

g. Requiring Shipper to Insure. Another method sometimes resorted to for the purpose of avoiding liability for negligence is that of requiring the shipper to take insurance upon the property as against loss. It is true that a contract of insurance taken by the carrier on goods in his custody will be valid, and under it the carrier may recover against an insurance company for loss due to negligence,[91] and a stipulation in the bill of lading by which the carrier shall have the advantage of any insurance held by the shipper will be valid, and will cut off any right of subrogation on the part of the insurance company to the claim of the shipper against the carrier.[92] But to require as a condition of acceptance of the goods that the shipper shall insure them against all loss is to throw the burden of liability for the carrier's negligence upon the shipper, and such a contract is invalid.[93]

h. Where Statutes Prohibit Contract. In some of the states carriers are expressly prohibited from limiting their liability by contract, and any attempted limitation will therefore be void.[94]

88. Illinois.— Dunseth v. Wade, 3 Ill. 285.
Michigan.— Merrick v. Webster, 3 Mich. 268.
New York.— Robertson v. National Steamship Co., 139 N. Y. 416, 34 N. E. 1053, 54 N. Y. St. 689; Rawson v. Holland, 59 N. Y. 611, 17 Am. Rep. 394; Maghee v. Camden, etc., R. Transp. Co., 45 N. Y. 514, 6 Am. Rep. 124; Uptegrove v. Central R. Co., 16 Misc. (N.) 14, 37 N. Y. Suppl. 650, 73 N. Y. St. 278; Robertson v. National Steamship Co., 14 N. Y. Suppl. 313.
Pennsylvania.— Hand v. Baynes, 4 Whart. (Pa.) 204, 33 Am. Dec. 54.
United States.— Hostetter v. Park, 137 U. S. 30, 11 S. Ct. 1, 34 L. ed. 568.
Canada.— Grand Trunk R. Co. v. Fitzgerald, 5 Can Supreme Ct. 204.
See 9 Cent. Dig. tit. "Carriers," § 718½.
If the carrier stipulates for through transportation without change of cars he will be liable for loss by fire, notwithstanding a limitation of liability from that danger. Robinson v. Merchants' Despatch Transp. Co., 45 Iowa 470. And under similar contract for transportation without change of cars, held that the carrier could not avail himself of a stipulation against responsibility for damage beyond his own line, where there had been a change of cars after the goods left the possession of the contracting carrier. Galveston, etc., R. Co. v. Allison, 59 Tex. 193.
Where a carrier transported property by freight instead of by passenger train, as provided in the contract of shipment, held that he was not entitled to the exemption in the contract. Pavitt v. Lehigh Valley R. Co., 153 Pa. St. 302, 25 Atl. 1107.
In general as to deviation see supra, II, D, 2, e, (II).

89. Reid v. Evansville, etc., R. Co., 10 Ind. App. 385, 35 N. E. 703.

90. Read v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 60 Mo. 199; Condict v. Grand Trunk R. Co., 54 N. Y. 500.
If by negligence of the carrier the goods have been subjected to the special peril the carrier will be liable. Pierce v. Southern Pac. Co., 120 Cal. 156, 47 Pac. 874, 52 Pac. 302, 40 L. R. A. 350; U. S. Express Co. v. Kountze, 8 Wall. (U. S.) 342, 19 L. ed. 457; The Tan Bark Case, Brown Adm. (U. S.) 131, 23 Fed. Cas. No. 13,742.
As to proximate cause in general see supra, II, D, 2, e.

91. Copeland v. New England Mar. Ins. Co., 2 Metc. (Mass.) 432; Phœnix Ins. Co. v. Erie, etc., Transp. Co., 117 U. S. 312, 29 L. ed. 873; Waters v. Merchants' Louisville Ins. Co., 11 Pet. (U. S.) 213, 9 L. ed. 691; Walker v. Maitland, 5 B. & Ald. 171, 24 Rev. Rep. 320, 7 E. C. L. 101.

92. Jackson Co. v. Boylston Mut. Ins. Co., 139 Mass. 508, 2 N. E. 103, 52 Am. Rep. 728; Wager v. Providence Ins. Co., 150 U. S. 99, 14 S. Ct. 55, 37 L. ed. 1013; Phœnix Ins. Co. v. Erie, etc., Transp. Co., 117 U. S. 312, 6 S. Ct. 750, 1176, 29 L. ed. 873.

93. Willock v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 166 Pa. St. 184, 30 Atl. 948, 45 Am. St. Rep. 674, 27 L. R. A. 228; The Hadji, 16 Fed. 861 [affirmed in 20 Fed. 875]. But it is said that a clause exempting the carrier from liability for any damage capable of being covered by insurance is valid. The Titania, 19 Fed. 101.

94. Iowa.— Davis v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 83 Iowa 744, 49 N. W. 77; Stewart v. Merchants' Despatch Transp. Co., 47 Iowa 229, 29 Am. Rep. 476; McCoy v. Keokuk, etc., R. Co., 44 Iowa 424; Brush v. Sabula, etc., R. Co., 43 Iowa 554.
Kansas.— St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Tribbey, 6 Kan. App. 467, 50 Pac. 458.

4. LIMITATION OF LIABILITY TO STIPULATED AMOUNT OR AGREED VALUATION — a. Stipulated Amount. There is a great diversity of view as to the validity of a contract stipulating that the carrier shall not be liable for loss of or damage to the goods beyond an amount named. Of course, so far as a contract limiting common-law liability is valid, such restriction might take the form of a limitation of the amount of liability, as well as of an entire exemption from liability. But the difficulty has arisen in regard to the question whether, in cases where liability cannot be entirely evaded, as, for instance, where the loss is due to negligence of the carrier or his servants, a partial evasion of liability, by limiting its extent to an amount less than the value of the goods, will be valid. In some cases it has been said that a limitation to a sum or value specified in the bill of lading or shipping receipt will be valid, even in case of loss by negligence, provided, of course, the contract is reasonable and based on a valid consideration or inducement for the restricted liability.[95] But in a great majority of the cases in which the question

Mississippi.—Mobile, etc., R. Co. v. Franks, 41 Miss. 494.

Nebraska.— Pennsylvania Co. v. Kennard Glass, etc., Co., 59 Nebr. 435, 81 N. W. 372; St. Joseph, etc., R. Co. v. Palmer, 38 Nebr. 463, 56 N. W. 957, 22 L. R. A. 335; Missouri Pac. R. Co. v. Vandeventer, 26 Nebr. 222, 41 N. W. 998, 3 L. R. A. 129.

Texas.— Missouri Pac. R. Co. v. International Mar. Ins. Co., 84 Tex. 149, 19 S. W. 459; Missouri Pac. R. Co. v. Sherwood, 84 Tex. 125, 19 S. W. 455, 17 L. R. A. 643; Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Trawick, 68 Tex. 314, 4 S. W. 567, 2 Am. St. Rep. 494; Houston, etc., R. Co. v. Burke, 55 Tex. 323, 40 Am. Rep. 808; International, etc., R. Co. v. Parish, 18 Tex. Civ. App. 130, 43 S. W. 1066; Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Wood, (Tex. Civ. App. 1895) 30 S. W. 715.

United States.— The City of Clarksville, 94 Fed. 201.

See 9 Cent. Dig. tit. "Carriers," § 637.

Consideration immaterial.—As against the statutory prohibition it is immaterial that there is a consideration for the limitation of liability in a reduced rate of transportation. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Solan, 169 U. S. 133, 18 S. Ct. 289, 42 L. ed. 688.

By what law governed.— The contract for limitation of liability will be construed in accordance with the law of the place where it is made, and if there it is prohibited by statute it will be invalid, even though it relates to interstate commerce. Solan v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 95 Iowa 260, 63 N. W. 692, 58 Am. St. Rep. 430, 28 L. R. A. 718; McDaniel v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 24 Iowa 412; Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Solan, 169 U. S. 133, 18 S. Ct. 289, 42 L. ed. 688. If, however, the contract is valid where made, it will be recognized in any other state into which the goods are transported, even though by the laws of the latter a special contract is prohibited. Robinson v. Merchants' Despatch Transp. Co., 45 Iowa 470.

Notwithstanding such statutory prohibition a contract for the shipment of stock, by which the shipper is to accompany the stock and take care of them, and the carrier is not to be liable in damages for failing to feed, water, and care for the stock in the cars is valid, so far as such loss is not the result of negligence of the carrier. Burgher v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 105 Iowa 335, 75 N. W. 192; Grieve v. Illinois Cent. R. Co., 104 Iowa 659, 74 N. W. 192.

The statutory prohibition does not extend to a contract exempting a railroad company from liability for buildings erected on its right of way by its permission and destroyed by negligence in the operation of its road. Griswold v. Illinois Cent. R. Co., 90 Iowa 265, 57 N. W. 843, 24 L. R. A. 647.

The fact that by charter a railroad company is made liable as common carrier does not prevent a limitation of its liability by contract. Michigan Southern, etc., R. Co. v. McDonough, 21 Mich. 165, 4 Am. Rep. 466; McMillan v. Michigan Southern, etc., R. Co., 16 Mich. 79, 93 Am. Dec. 208; Michigan Cent. R. Co. v. Hale, 6 Mich. 243; Michigan Cent. R. Co. v. Ward, 2 Mich. 538.

The Texas statute is applicable only to carriers within the state. Texas, etc., R. Co. v. Richmond, 94 Tex. 571, 63 S. W. 619; Missouri Pac. R. Co. v. Sherwood, 84 Tex. 125, 19 S. W. 455, 17 L. R. A. 643; Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Gatewood, 79 Tex. 89, 14 S. W. 913, 10 L. R. A. 419; Texas, etc., R. Co. v. Payne, 15 Tex. Civ. App. 58, 38 S. W. 366; Atchison, etc., R. Co. v. Bryan, (Tex. Civ. App. 1894) 28 S. W. 98.

The English statute requires the limitation to be reasonable. Peek v. North Staffordshire R. Co., 10 H. L. Cas. 473, 9 Jur. N. S. 914, 32 L. J. Q. B. 241, 8 L. T. Rep. N. S. 768, 11 Wkly. Rep. 1023; Grand Trunk R. Co. v. Vogel, 11 Can. Supreme Ct. 612.

95. Arkansas.— St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Weakly, 50 Ark. 397, 8 S. W. 134, 7 Am. St. Rep. 104.

Indiana.— Rosenfeld v. Peoria, etc., R. Co., 103 Ind. 121, 2 N. E. 344, 53 Am. Rep. 500.

Missouri.— Duvenick v. Missouri Pac. R. Co., 57 Mo. App. 550; Brown v. Wabash, etc., R. Co., 18 Mo. App. 568.

New York.— Zimmer v. New York Cent., etc., R. Co., 137 N. Y. 460, 33 N. E. 642, 51 N. Y. St. 269.

Virginia.— Richmond, etc., R. Co. v. Payne, 86 Va. 481, 10 S. E. 749, 6 L. R. A. 849.

West Virginia.— Zouch v. Chesapeake, etc., has arisen the courts have looked upon an arbitrary limitation of value, where the carrier has sought to invoke it as against a loss due to negligence, as merely an attempt to evade to some extent a liability which cannot be entirely evaded, and have held the carrier liable to the full value of the property lost by negligence, regardless of the limitation inserted in the contract.[96] An arbitrary limitation of

R. Co., 36 W. Va. 524, 15 S. E. 185, 17 L. R. A. 116.

United States.— Metropolitan Trust Co. v. Toledo, etc., R. Co., 107 Fed. 628; Jennings v. Smith, 106 Fed. 139, 45 C. C. A. 249.

Canada.—Robertson v. Grand Trunk R. Co., 24 Can. Supreme Ct. 611.

See 9 Cent. Dig. tit. "Carriers," § 663.

In South Dakota by statute this is the rule. Hazel v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 82 Iowa 477, 48 N. W. 926.

Rule applied and explained.— If there is a valid limitation of liability to a stipulated amount, as to the entire shipment, the carrier should have a pro-rata exemption as to a portion of the goods lost or damaged. St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Lesser, 46 Ark. 236; Goodman v. Missouri, etc., R. Co., 71 Mo. App. 460. Where one package was received containing three cases, and the limitation of liability was to fifty dollars on "the article forwarded," held that the shipper was not entitled to recover fifty dollars on each of the cases contained in the package. Wetzell v. Dinsmore, 54 N. Y. 496. But where the limitation in a receipt for a trunk was to "one hundred dollars upon any article," held that the carrier's liability under the receipt extended to one hundred dollars on each article in the trunk. Hopkins v. Westcott, 6 Blatchf. (U. S.) 64, 12 Fed. Cas. No. 6,692, 7 Am. L. Reg. N. S. 533. Where the stipulation was that the carrier should not be liable for goods of any description which were above the value of one hundred dollars per package, unless the value was expressed, etc., held that recovery was limited to one hundred dollars for each package of the entire quantity of goods shipped. Calderon v. Atlas Steamship Co., 64 Fed. 874. In Zouch v. Chesapeake, etc., R. Co., 36 W. Va. 524, 15 S. E. 185, 17 L. R. A. 116, it is said that such a stipulation is valid as against loss or damage by negligence, provided the negligence is not gross, wanton, or wilful. Liability as carrier otherwise than for negligence may be limited to a stipulated sum. Bermel v. New York, etc., R. Co., 62 N. Y. App. Div. 389, 70 N. Y. Suppl. 804.

96. Alabama.— Alabama Great Southern R. Co. v. Little, 71 Ala. 611; Southern Express Co. v. Armstead, 50 Ala. 350; Southern Express Co. v. Crook, 44 Ala. 468, 4 Am. Rep. 140.

Colorado.— Overland Mail, etc., Co. v. Carroll, 7 Colo. 43, 1 Pac. 682.

Georgia.— Georgia Cent. R. Co. v. Murphey, 113 Ga. 514, 38 S. E. 970, 53 L. R. A. 720; Savannah, etc., R. Co. v. Sloat, 93 Ga. 803, 20 S. E. 219.

Indiana.— Baltimore, etc., R. Co. v. Ragsdale, 14 Ind. App. 406, 42 N. E. 1106.

Iowa.— Lucas v. Burlington, etc., R. Co., 112 Iowa 594, 84 N. W. 673.

Kansas.— St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Sherlock, 59 Kan. 23; Kansas City, etc., R. Co. v. Simpson, 30 Kan. 645, 2 Pac. 821, 46 Am. Rep. 104.

Kentucky.— Ohio, etc., R. Co. v. Tabor, 98 Ky. 503, 17 Ky. L. Rep. 568, 32 S. W. 168, 36 S. W. 18, 34 L. R. A. 685; Baughman v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., 94 Ky. 150, 14 Ky. L. Rep. 775, 21 S. W. 757; Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Owen, 93 Ky. 201, 14 Ky. L. Rep. 118, 19 S. W. 590; Adams Express Co. v. Hoeing, 88 Ky. 373, 10 Ky. L. Rep. 999, 11 S. W. 205; Orndorff v. Adams Express Co., 3 Bush (Ky.) 194, 96 Am. Dec. 207; Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Radford, 23 Ky. L. Rep. 886, 64 S. W. 511; Cincinnati, etc., R. Co. v. Graves, 21 Ky. L. Rep. 684, 52 S. W. 961; Cincinnati, etc., R. Co. v. Grover, 11 Ky. L. Rep. 236; Adams Express Co. v. Hoeing, 9 Ky. L. Rep. 814; Adams Express Co. v. Crawford, 8 Ky. L. Rep. 619; Hoeing v. Adams Express Co., 8 Ky. L. Rep. 154; Southern Express Co. v. Gutman, 6 Ky. L. Rep. 587, 654.

Louisiana.— Kember v. Southern Express Co., 22 La. Ann. 158, 2 Am. Rep. 719.

Mississippi.— Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Abels, 60 Miss. 1017.

Missouri.— Harvey v. Terre Haute, etc., R. Co., 74 Mo. 538; Harvey v. Terre Haute, etc., R. Co., 6 Mo. App. 585; Kirby v. Adams Express Co., 2 Mo. App. 369.

New York.— Vroman v. American Merchants' Union Express Co., 2 Hun (N. Y.) 512, 5 Thomps. & C. (N. Y.) 22; Magnin v. Dinsmore, 35 N. Y. Super. Ct. 182; Marquis v. Wood, 29 Misc. (N. Y.) 590, 61 N. Y. Suppl. 251.

North Carolina.— Gardner v. Southern R. Co., 127 N. C. 293, 37 S. E. 328.

Ohio.— U. S. Express Co. v. Backman, 28 Ohio St. 144; Jacobson v. Adams Express Co., 1 Ohio Cir. Ct. 381; Ambach v. Baltimore, etc., R. Co., 4 Ohio S. & C. Pl. Dec. 467.

Pennsylvania.— Ruppel v. Allegheny Valley R. Co., 167 Pa. St. 166, 31 Atl. 478, 46 Am. St. Rep. 636; Weiller v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 134 Pa. St. 310, 19 Atl. 702, 19 Am. St. Rep. 700; Adams Express Co. v. Holmes, (Pa. 1887) 9 Atl. 166; Grogan v. Adams Express Co., 114 Pa. St. 523, 7 Atl. 134, 60 Am. Rep. 360.

Tennessee.—Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Wynn, 88 Tenn. 320, 14 S. W. 311.

Texas.— Galveston, etc., R. Co. v. Ball, 80 Tex. 602, 16 S. W. 441; Southern Pac. R. Co. v. Maddox, 75 Tex. 300, 12 S. W. 815; Southern Pac. R. Co. v. Anderson, (Tex. Civ. App. 1900) 63 S. W. 1023; St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Robbins, (Tex. Civ. App. 1889) 14 S. W. 1075.

Virginia.— Virginia, etc., R. Co. v. Sayers, 26 Gratt. (Va.) 328.

Wisconsin.— Ullman v. Chicago, etc., R.

the amount of recovery is simply a form of contract reducing the carrier's common-law liability, and must therefore, like a general contract limiting common-law liability,[97] be supported by a special consideration, to be found in reduced rates, or the like.[98] But of course in states where such a limitation is not valid as against loss by negligence, the fact that a reduced rate is charged will not support the contract.[99]

b. Agreed Valuation. Although there has been difficulty in distinguishing between a bona fide agreed valuation, which is made the basis of the assumption of the duty to transport on the one hand, and the rate of consideration to be paid on the other, and an arbitrary limitation of liability to a stipulated amount, such a distinction manifestly exists.[1] And the weight of authority is in support of the proposition that a valuation mutually agreed upon as furnishing the basis of the liability assumed and the compensation to be paid is valid.[2] The rule thus strongly supported has not, however, been universally accepted, and there are a

Co., 112 Wis. 150, 88 N. W. 41; Abrams v. Milwaukee, etc., R. Co., 87 Wis. 485, 58 N. W. 780, 41 Am. St. Rep. 55; Black v. Goodrich Transp. Co., 55 Wis. 319, 13 N. W. 244, 42 Am. Rep. 713.

United States.— Eells v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 52 Fed. 903; Scruggs v. Baltimore, etc., R. Co., 5 McCrary (U. S.) 590, 18 Fed. 318.

See 9 Cent. Dig. tit. "Carriers," § 663 et seq.

Where the relation is such that the carrier is bailee only and not carrier proper, for instance, where he is holding them as warehouseman, the limitation to a fixed value is immaterial as he will in such case only be liable for negligence in any event. Union Pac. R. Co. v. Moyer, 40 Kan. 184, 19 Pac. 639, 10 Am. St. Rep. 183; Rosenthal v. Weir, 170 N. Y. 148, 63 N. E. 65.

97. See supra, II, E, 3.

98. Adams Express Co. v. Harris, 120 Ind. 73, 21 N. E. 340, 16 Am. St. Rep. 315, 7 L. R. A. 214; Baughman v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., 94 Ky. 150, 14 Ky. L. Rep. 775, 21 S. W. 757; Richardson v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 149 Mo. 311, 50 S. W. 782; Kellerman v. Kansas City, etc., R. Co., 136 Mo. 177, 34 S. W. 41, 37 S. W. 828; McFadden v. Missouri Pac. R. Co., 92 Mo. 343, 4 S. W. 689, 1 Am. St. Rep. 721; Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Levi, 18 Ohio Cir. Ct. 873, 8 Ohio Cir. Dec. 373.

99. U. S. Express Co. v. Backman, 28 Ohio St. 144.

1. The supreme court of the United States has recognized this distinction in holding that where the valuation of animals shipped is graded according to their nature, and the rate of compensation is agreed upon with reference to such valuation, and it does not appear that an unreasonable price would have been charged on a higher valuation, the owner is estopped by the terms of the contract thus entered into in good faith from recovering on the basis of a greater valuation than that fixed in the contract, such a stipulation being a proper and lawful method of securing a due proportion between the amount for which the carrier may be responsible and the freight he receives, and to protect him against extravagant and fanciful valuations. Hart v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 112 U. S. 331, 5 S. Ct. 151, 28 L. ed. 717.

2. Alabama.— Western R. Co. v. Harwell, 91 Ala. 340, 8 So. 649; Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Sherrod, 84 Ala. 178, 4 So. 29; South, etc., Alabama R. Co. v. Henlein, 52 Ala. 606, 23 Am. Rep. 578, 56 Ala. 368.

California.— Pierce v. Southern Pac. Co., (Cal. 1897) 47 Pac. 874.

Indiana.— Rosenfeld v. Peoria, etc., R. Co., 103 Ind. 121, 2 N. E. 344, 53 Am. Rep. 500.

Kentucky.— Adams Express Co. v. Hoeing, 9 Ky. L. Rep. 814.

Massachusetts.—Hill v. Boston, etc., R. Co., 144 Mass. 284, 10 N. E. 836; Graves v. Lake Shore, etc., R. Co., 137 Mass. 33, 50 Am. Rep. 282; Squire v. New York Cent. R. Co., 98 Mass. 239, 93 Am. Dec. 162.

Minnesota.— Alair v. Northern Pac. R. Co., 53 Minn. 160, 54 N. W. 1072, 39 Am. St. Rep. 588, 19 L. R. A. 764.

Ohio.— Evansville, etc., R. Co. v. Simon, 15 Ohio Cir. Ct. 123.

Pennsylvania.— Roos v. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co., 199 Pa. St. 378, 49 Atl. 344.

Rhode Island.— Ballou v. Earle, 17 R. I. 441, 22 Atl. 1113, 33 Am. St. Rep. 881, 14 L. R. A. 433.

South Carolina.— Johnstone v. Richmond, etc., R. Co., 39 S. C. 55, 17 S. E. 512.

Tennessee.— Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Sowell, 90 Tenn. 17, 15 S. W. 837 [distinguishing Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Wynne, 88 Tenn. 320, 14 S. W. 311, in which a contrary view is expressed].

Wisconsin.— Ullman v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 112 Wis. 150, 88 N. W. 41; Loeser v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 94 Wis. 571, 69 N. W. 372.

United States.— The Lydian Monarch, 23 Fed. 298; Hart v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 2 McCrary (U. S.) 333, 7 Fed. 630.

In case of partial loss of animals upon which an agreed valuation has been fixed, the carrier is liable to the total loss up to such agreed valuation, and not merely for the difference between the value of the animal after the injury and its stipulated value. Starnes v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., 91 Tenn. 516, 19 S. W. 675.

number of cases in which a contrary view is expressed, although it is believed that an examination of these cases will develop the fact that the real point involved in sustaining an agreed valuation has not been fairly apprehended.[3] Of course where the pretended agreed valuation is not such in fact, but is simply a cloak for a limitation of liability to a fixed sum, which is less than the real value, the contract will not be valid as against a loss due to negligence.[4] It is to be noticed that the doctrine of limitation to an agreed valuation is not based on the theory of reduction of liability by contract,[5] and therefore no new consideration for the agreement as to the value is essential. This view has been overlooked when it has been held that there must be a specific consideration for the limitation to an agreed value.[6]

c. Limitation of Liability to Invoice Price or Value at Place of Shipment. A regulation that the liability of the carrier in case of loss shall be limited to the invoice value of the goods is a reasonable regulation as to the damage to be recovered and is valid.[7] So a stipulation that the liability for loss shall be measured by the value at place of shipment is generally upheld.[8] But such a

3. Kansas City, etc., R. Co. v. Simpson, 30 Kan. 645, 2 Pac. 821, 46 Am. Rep. 104; Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Abels, 60 Miss. 1017; Southern Express Co. v. Moon, 39 Miss. 822; Southern Pac. R. Co. v. Maddox, 75 Tex. 300, 12 S. W. 815; Houston, etc., R. Co. v. Williams, (Tex. Civ. App. 1895) 31 S. W. 556; Black v. Goodrich Transp. Co., 55 Wis. 319, 13 N. W. 244, 42 Am. Rep. 713.

4. Georgia R., etc., Co. v. Keener, 93 Ga. 808, 21 S. E. 287, 44 Am. St. Rep. 197.

Where the contract in terms purports to relieve the carrier from liability, and at the same time limits his liability to a certain price per head for the animals accepted for transportation, and it is apparent that it was not the purpose of the parties to liquidate the damages recoverable with reference to the value of the property consigned to the carrier, such limitation will not be effectual in case of loss from the carrier's negligence. Moulton v. St. Paul, etc., R. Co., 31 Minn. 85, 16 N. W. 497, 47 Am. Rep. 781.

Where it is understood that the sum agreed on is less than the value of the goods, the limitation of liability to that amount, while it may be valid as a limitation of the carrier's liability for loss not due to negligence, is not available to him where the loss is due to negligence. U. S. Express Co. v. Backman, 28 Ohio St. 144.

Where there is fraud or gross negligence.— Values may be agreed upon, but they will not be binding on the shipper in case of perfidy or gross negligence of the carrier. Georgia Pac. R. Co. v. Hughart, 90 Ala. 36, 8 So. 62.

5. Rests upon doctrine of estoppel.— A limitation to an agreed valuation rests upon the doctrine of estoppel, and is supported on the same principle as that in accordance with which recovery is denied when the carrier has been misled as to the value of the goods by fraud or concealment of the shipper. See supra, II, E, 4, a.

6. See for instance McFadden v. Missouri Pac. R. Co., 92 Mo. 343, 4 S. W. 689, 1 Am. St. Rep. 721.

As to consideration for contract limiting liability to a stipulated sum see supra, II, E, 4, a.

7. Pierce v. Southern Pac. Co., 120 Cal. 156, 47 Pac. 874, 52 Pac. 302, 40 L. R. A. 350; The Hadji, 18 Fed. 459.

Meaning of this limitation.— The limitation to the invoice value is to be applied to each article contained in the shipment, but the carrier is not to be allowed as to goods which are damaged the advantage of the actual value while he restricts the shipper to the invoice value. The true meaning of such a stipulation is that the carrier is not to be liable or accountable for more than the invoice value of the goods damaged or lost, and where there is a partial injury the damage is to be computed upon the basis of the invoice value of the goods damaged. Whatever is realized for the damaged goods must be credited upon the invoice value the same as though the goods were abandoned to the carrier, and the sale of the damaged goods were made by him. Pearse v. Quebec Steam-Ship Co., 24 Fed. 285. And if the shipper has received from the sale of the damaged goods the invoice price, after deducting the cost of importation, sale, etc., he cannot recover anything. The Lydian Monarch, 23 Fed. 298. Where the goods are damaged to an amount less than the invoice value, but after the damage are worth the invoice value with the cost of importation added, the carrier is not to be entirely relieved from liability, but the limitation as to value is applicable only, if at all, to restrict his liability in any event to the invoice price. Brown v. Cunard Steamship Co., 147 Mass. 58, 16 N. E. 717.

8. Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Oden, 80 Ala. 38; Tibbits v. Rock Island, etc., R. Co., 49 Ill. App. 567; Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Harmon, 17 Ill. App. 640; Rogan v. Wabash R. Co., 51 Mo. App. 665.

Delay or detention.— But such a stipulation is of no effect as against a claim for damages by reason of delay or detention. Albrecht v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., 10 Ky. L. Rep. 449; D. Klass Commission Co. v. Wabash R. Co., 80 Mo. App. 164.

stipulation is thought not to be good if so worded as to deny to the shipper any recovery in case of loss for freight paid in addition to the value of the goods.[9]

d. Limitation Where Value Not Stated. It has already been suggested that where by fraudulent concealment of the shipper for the purpose of avoiding payment of increased charges for transportation the carrier is induced to accept goods under the belief that they are of ordinary character and value, while in fact they are of such exceptional character or value as that a higher rate would have been charged if the facts had been known, the transaction constitutes such a fraud as to relieve the carrier from liability for the exceptional value.[10] And in accordance with this principle it is generally held competent for the carrier by contract or notice brought to the attention of the shipper to stipulate that he shall not be liable for the goods beyond a certain named sum, unless the value in excess of that sum is disclosed to the carrier and an increased compensation paid in accordance with the increased value, and such a stipulation will be valid, even in case of loss by negligence.[11] Under such circumstances it is not the duty of 9. Shea v. Minneapolis, etc., R. Co., 63 Minn. 228, 65 N. W. 458; Horner v. Missouri Pac. R. Co., 70 Mo. App. 285. But where the stipulation was that the liability for loss or damage should be computed at the value of the property at the place and time of shipment, held that it was valid, inasmuch as it did not exclude recovery of charges for transportation paid by the consignor or incurred by the consignee. Davis v. New York, etc., R. Co., 70 Minn. 37, 72 N. W. 823.

In Texas, however, a stipulation fixing the value at the place of shipment as the basis for estimating the measure of recovery is held to be a violation of the state statute prohibiting the carrier from making a contract limiting his liability. Ft. Worth, etc., R. Co. v. Greathouse, 82 Tex. 104, 17 S. W. 834; Southern Pac. R. Co. v. Maddox, 75 Tex. 300, 12 S. W. 815; Taylor, etc., R. Co. v. Sublett, (Tex. App. 1891) 16 S. W. 182; Taylor, etc., R. Co. v. Montgomery, (Tex. App. 1891) 16 S. W. 178; Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Booton, (Tex. App. 1891) 15 S. W. 909; Houston, etc., R. Co. v. Davis, 11 Tex. Civ. App. 24, 31 S. W. 308; International, etc., R. Co. v. Anderson, 3 Tex. Civ. App. 8, 21 S. W. 691. In cases of interstate shipment, to which the state statute is not applicable, a contract limiting the carrier's liability to the value at place of shipment is valid in case of loss not due to negligence. Southern Pac. Co. v. Phillipson, (Tex. Civ. App. 1897) 39 S. W. 958. But such a stipulation is unreasonable and invalid where the loss is due to negligence. Houston, etc., R. Co. v. Williams, (Tex. Civ. App. 1895) 31 S. W. 556. However, even in case of negligence, where there is such a stipulation the shipper should not be allowed as damages a greater amount than the price for which he has sold the property to the consignee. Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Key, (Tex. App. 1891) 16 S. W. 106.

10. See supra, II, D, 2, c, (II).

11. California.— Michalitschke v. Wells, 118 Cal. 683, 50 Pac. 847.

Connecticut.— Lawrence v. New York, etc., R. Co., 36 Conn. 63.

District of Columbia.— Galt v. Adams Express Co., MacArthur & M. (D. C.) 124, 48 Am. Rep. 742.

Illinois.— Oppenheimer v. U. S. Express Co., 69 Ill. 62, 18 Am. Rep. 596.

Kansas.— Pacific Express Co. v. Foley, 46 Kan. 457, 26 Pac. 665, 26 Am. St. Rep. 107, 12 L. R. A. 799.

Louisiana.— Baldwin v. Collins, 9 Rob. (La.) 468.

Michigan.— Smith v. American Express Co., 108 Mich. 572, 66 N. W. 479.

Minnesota.— J. J. Douglas Co. v. Minnesota Transfer R. Co., 62 Minn. 288, 64 N. W. 899, 30 L. R. A. 860.

New Hampshire.— Durgin v. American Express Co., 66 N. H. 277, 20 Atl. 328, 9 L. R. A. 453.

New York.— Magnin v. Dinsmore, 70 N. Y. 410, 26 Am. Rep. 608; Belger v. Dinsmore, 51 N. Y. 166, 10 Am. Rep. 575; Huntington v. Dinsmore, 6 Thomps. & C. (N. Y.) 195; Ghormley v. Dinsmore, 51 N. Y. Super. Ct. 196; Toy v. Long Island R. Co., 26 Misc. (N. Y.) 792, 56 N. Y. Suppl. 182.

Rhode Island.— Ballou v. Earle, 17 R. I. 441, 22 Atl. 1113, 33 Am. St. Rep. 881, 14 L. R. A. 433.

Wisconsin.— Boorman v. American Express Co., 21 Wis. 152.

United States.— Calderon v. Atlas Steamship Co., 69 Fed. 574, 35 U. S. App. 587, 16 C. C. A. 332; The Bermuda, 23 Blatchf. (U. S.) 554, 29 Fed. 399; Muser v. American Express Co., 17 Blatchf. (U. S.) 412, 1 Fed. 382; Earnest v. Southern Express Co., 1 Woods (U. S.) 573, 8 Fed. Cas. No. 4,248. And see U. S. Rev. Stat. (1878), § 4281.

See 9 Cent. Dig. tit. "Carriers," § 665.

Failure of shipper to declare the real value constitutes a fraud on the carrier and deprives him of his adequate reward, misleading him as to the degree of care and security which he should provide in the custody and transportation of the property, and he is thereby relieved, even in case of negligence, from liability beyond the amount named in the contract or notice. Magnin v. Dinsmore, 62 N. Y. 35, 20 Am. Rep. 442. Apparently contra, without a discussion of the failure of the carrier to make inquiry as to the value, but the duty of the shipper to disclose the value if he seeks to hold the carrier liable beyond the stipulated sum.[12] But if it appears that the real value was known to the carrier to be in excess of the stipulated amount, then in case of negligence he will be liable for the real value, notwithstanding the stipulation.[13] But in a few cases a stipulation such as we have been considering has been held to be against public policy and void so far as its effect is to limit the carrier's liability for negligence.[14]

5. What Constitutes Contract Limiting Liability — a. Notice. In England a custom was early recognized on the part of carriers of limiting liability by special acceptance, effected by means of a general notice brought home to the shipper, and the shipper was held to be bound by the limitation contained in such general notice.[15] It may well be that the carrier can adopt reasonable regulations as to the method of doing his business, which, if made public in a general way, will bind those who deal with him, so that the shipper cannot complain if he has not taken the steps reasonably necessary under the well-known regulations of the carrier to charge the latter with a duty in reference to the goods.[16] But it was the shipper to disclose as constituting fraud see Westcott v. Fargo, 61 N. Y. 542, 19 Am. Rep. 300.

Such a stipulation is reasonable and consistent with public policy. Magnin v. Adams Express Co., 50 How. Pr. (N. Y.) 457. Nor is it in violation of a statute prohibiting a carrier from limiting his common-law liability. Mather v. American Express Co., 9 Biss. (U. S.) 293, 2 Fed. 49.

12. Kallman v. U. S. Express Co., 3 Kan. 205; Duntley v. Boston, etc., R. Co., 66 N. H. 263, 20 Atl. 327, 49 Am. St. Rep. 610, 9 L. R. A. 449.

13. Van Winkle v. Adams Express Co., 3 Rob. (N. Y.) 59.

So if the stipulation has reference to "packages, contents unknown," it will not be applicable to a shipment of goods in bulk, the nature of which is perfectly apparent and the value capable of estimation. Southern Express Co. v. Crook, 44 Ala. 468, 4 Am. Rep. 140; McCoy v. Erie, etc., Transp. Co., 42 Md. 498; Rosenstein v. Missouri Pac. R. Co., 16 Mo. App. 225.

Stipulation in the bill of lading that the weight, contents, and material are unknown to the carrier will not affect his liability in case of misdelivery of a part of the goods to one not the consignee. The Nora, 14 Fed. 429.

Stipulation that carrier shall not be liable for goods above the value of one hundred dollars per package, in the absence of a special agreement, does not exclude all liability for packages exceeding one hundred dollars in value, but merely limits the liability for each package to that amount. Calderon v. Atlas Steamship Co., 69 Fed. 574, 35 U. S. App. 587, 16 C. C. A. 332.

14. Conover v. Pacific Express Co., 40 Mo. App. 31; The City of Norwich, 4 Ben. (U. S.) 271, 5 Fed. Cas. No. 2,761.

Absence of fraud.— Where the failure to disclose the true nature and value of the goods appeared not to have been the result of fraud, and it was not pretended that a knowledge of the true contents would have induced a higher freight rate or a greater watchfulness, held that the attempted limitation was ineffectual. Fassett v. Ruark, 3 La. Ann. 694.

Fraud of consignor how affects consignee. — Where it appeared that the consignor had misdescribed the character of the goods, in order to get them carried at a lower rate, it was held that this did not defeat the consignee's right of action for loss of the goods, but that the carrier was entitled to an allowance of the amount of freight evaded. Rice v. Indianapolis, etc., R. Co., 3 Mo. App. 27.

15. Betson v. Donovan, 4 B. & Ald. 21, 22 Rev. Rep. 599, 6 E. C. L. 373; Riley v. Horne, 5 Bing. 217, 2 M. & P. 331, 30 Rev. Rep. 576, 15 E. C. L. 549; Brooke v. Pickwick, 4 Bing. 218, 5 L. J. C. P. O. S. 158, 12 Moore C. P. 447, 13 E. C. L. 475; Nicholson v. Willan, 5 East 507, 2 Smith K. B. 107, 15 Rev. Rep. 745; Leeson v. Holt, 1 Stark. 186, 18 Rev. Rep. 758, 2 E. C. L. 77; Maving v. Todd, 4 Campb. 225, 1 Stark. 72, 16 Rev. Rep. 779, 2 E. C. L. 37; Harris v. Packwood, 3 Taunt. 264, 15 Rev. Rep. 755.

16. Hollister v. Nowlen, 19 Wend. (N. Y.) 234, 32 Am. Dec. 455.

It is intimated in Judson v. Western R. Corp., 6 Allen (Mass.) 486, 493, 83 Am. Dec. 646, that common carriers may, by general notice brought home to the shipper, qualify and limit their responsibility to a certain extent and within certain limits, and the court says: "Doubtless they may by such notice require that information shall be given to them of the nature and value of property which they are required to carry, in order that they may exercise a needful degree of care in its transportation, and may ascertain and demand a reasonable sum for its carriage. So they may give notice that property above a certain amount in value will not be transported for ordinary rates of freight, but that the price for its carriage will be regulated by the nature of the articles and the aggregate value of each package. In like manner they may by a general notice protect themselves against early settled in this country that not only must the notice be brought directly home to the shipper,[17] but also that limitation by notice will be ineffectual unless the shipper expressly assents thereto, so as to give rise to the mutual obligations necessary to constitute a contract.[18] And it may be regarded as the well-established American rule, that a notice of limitation of liability, even though brought directly home to the shipper, will not constitute a contract of limitation without the shipper's assent.[19]

b. Stipulation in Shipping Receipt. Where a stipulation for a valid limitation of the carrier's liability is embodied in a receipt, delivered by the carrier to the shipper, and accepted by the latter, the assent of the shipper to such stipulation is presumed, and the limitation thus embodied will be binding upon him as a liability for loss or injury of merchandise, unless it is properly packed or arranged for transportation, so that it may with reasonable diligence and care be safely and securely carried. These and other similar notices would be reasonable and perfectly consistent with the nature of the employment of a common carrier, and the rules of law by which it is regulated, and they would be valid and binding on all to whom they were brought home, without any express assent."

As to fraudulent concealment of the nature of the goods see supra, II, D, 2, c, (II).

As to failure to disclose value when required see supra, II, E, 4, d.

17. Connecticut.— Peck v. Weeks, 34 Conn. 145; Derwort v. Loomer, 21 Conn. 245.

Georgia.— Fish v. Chapman, 2 Ga. 349, 46 Am. Dec. 393.

Illinois.— Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Frankenberg, 54 Ill. 88, 5 Am. Rep. 92.

Louisiana.— Baldwin v. Collins, 9 Rob. (La.) 468.

Maine.— Sager v. Portsmouth, etc., R. Co., 31 Me. 228, 50 Am. Dec. 659.

Maryland.—Barney v. Prentiss, 4 Harr. & J. (Md.) 317, 7 Am. Dec. 670.

New Hampshire.— Moses v. Boston, etc., R. Co., 24 N. H. 71, 55 Am. Dec. 222.

See 9 Cent. Dig. tit. "Carriers," § 675.

18. Judson v. Western R. Corp., 6 Allen (Mass.) 486, 83 Am. Dec. 646; Hollister v. Nowlen, 19 Wend. (N. Y.) 234, 32 Am. Dec. 455.

This principle rests on the sound reason that the shipper has the right to have his goods transported by the carrier without limitation of liability, except so far as liability is limited by the common law itself, and that if the carrier seeks to impose additional limitations he must do so by the shipper's assent, which is not to be presumed from mere failure to object to the attempted limitation, for it is more reasonable to suppose that the shipper, not assenting, intended to insist on the carrier's full common-law duty, than that he intended to assent to a limitation of such duty. Judson v. Western R. Corp., 6 Allen (Mass.) 486, 83 Am. Dec. 646.

19. Connecticut.— Hale v. New Jersey Steam Nav. Co., 15 Conn. 539, 39 Am. Dec. 398.

Georgia.— Rome R. Co. v. Sullivan, 14 Ga. 277.

Illinois.— Western Transp. Co. v. Newhall, 24 Ill. 466, 76 Am. Dec. 760.

Maine.— Fillebrown v. Grand Trunk R. Co., 55 Me. 462, 92 Am. Dec. 606.

Maryland.—Baltimore, etc., R. Co. v. Brady, 32 Md. 333.

Massachusetts.— Gott v. Dinsmore, 111 Mass. 45.

Michigan.— McMillan v. Michigan Southern, etc., R. Co., 16 Mich. 79, 93 Am. Dec. 208.

Mississippi.— Mobile, etc., R. Co. v. Weiner, 49 Miss. 725.

New Hampshire.— Moses v. Boston, etc., R. Co., 32 N. H. 523, 64 Am. Dec. 381.

New York.—Blossom v. Dodd, 43 N. Y. 264, 3 Am. Rep. 701; Dorr v. New Jersey Steam Nav. Co., 11 N. Y. 485, 62 Am. Dec. 125; Slocum v. Fairchild, 7 Hill (N. Y.) 292; Hollister v. Nowlen, 19 Wend. (N. Y.) 234, 32 Am. Dec. 455.

Ohio.— Davidson v. Graham, 2 Ohio St. 131.

Texas.— Ryan v. Missouri, etc., R. Co., 65 Tex. 13, 57 Am. Rep. 589.

Vermont.— Blumenthal v. Brainerd, 38 Vt. 402, 91 Am. Dec. 349; Kimball v. Rutland, etc., R. Co., 26 Vt. 247, 62 Am. Dec. 567; Farmers', etc., Bank v. Champlain Transp. Co., 23 Vt. 186, 56 Am. Dec. 68.

West Virginia.— Brown v. Adams Express Co., 15 W. Va. 812.

See 9 Cent. Dig. tit. "Carriers," § 691.

The fact that consignor has previously accepted contracts restricting carrier's liability in a certain manner will not amount to a contract limiting liability in a particular case in the absence of express assent. McMillan v. Michigan Southern, etc., R. Co., 16 Mich. 79, 93 Am. Dec. 208.

Even though notice is indorsed on the margin or back of a receipt or bill of lading for the goods, which is delivered to and received by the shipper, it will not become a part of the contract, in the absence of evidence that the shipper assented thereto. Western Transp. Co. v. Newhall, 24 Ill. 466, 76 Am. Dec. 760; Michigan Cent. R. Co. v. Hale, 6 Mich. 243; Fibel v. Livingston, 64 Barb. (N. Y.) 179; Limburger v. Westcott, 49 Barb. (N. Y.) 283; Prentice v. Decker, 49 Barb. (N. Y.) 21; Sunderland v. Wescott, 2 Sweeny (N. Y.) 260, 40 How. Pr. (N. Y.) 468; Knell v. U. S., etc., Steamship Co., 33 N. Y. Super. Ct. 423; Michigan Cent. R. Co. v. Mineral Springs special contract, in the absence of any evidence of fraud, imposition, or deceit practised by the carrier.[20]

c. Stipulation in Bill of Lading. The nature of the bill of lading as constituting a contract between the carrier and the shipper will be discussed hereafter.[21] It is to be assumed for present purposes that the terms of shipment are usually embodied in such a bill of lading, if one be issued, and that a proper purpose of such instrument is to state the limitations, if any, under which the goods are received by the carrier for transportation. However, the contract may be oral, and it is open to the shipper to show that by such agreement a limitation was made.[22] If a formal bill of lading is executed by the carrier and delivered to the shipper, as evidence of the terms of shipment, valid stipulations embodied therein, limiting the carrier's liability, will be binding on the shipper, and no formal assent to the limitation of liability by signature to the bill of lading, or otherwise, is essential on the part of the shipper.[23] It is not necessary that the stipulation

Mfg. Co., 16 Wall. (U. S.) 318, 21 L. ed. 297; New York, etc., R. Co. v. Sayles, 87 Fed. 444, 58 U. S. App. 18, 32 C. C. A. 485; Ayres v. Western R. Corp., 14 Blatchf. (U. S.) 9, 2 Fed. Cas. No. 689; Seller v. The Pacific, Deady (U. S.) 17, 21 Fed. Cas. No. 12,644, 1 Oreg. 409; Ormsby v. Union Pac. R. Co., 2 McCrary (U. S.) 48, 4 Fed. 706.

20. California.— Michalitschke v. Wells, 118 Cal. 683, 50 Pac. 847.

Maryland.— Brehme v. Dinsmore, 25 Md. 328.

Missouri.— Snider v. Adams Express Co., 63 Mo. 376; Kirby v. Adams Express So., 2 Mo. App. 369.

New Hampshire.— Durgin v. American Express Co., 66 N. H. 277, 20 Atl. 328, 9 L. R. A. 453.

New York.—Kirkland v. Dinsmore, 62 N. Y. 171, 20 Am. Rep. 475; McMahon v. Macy, 51 N. Y. 155; Springer v. Westcott, 78 Hun (N. Y.) 365, 29 N. Y. Suppl. 149, 60 N. Y. St. 713; Gibson v. American Merchants' Union Express Co., 1 Hun (N. Y.) 387; Giles v. Fargo, 60 N. Y. Super. Ct. 117, 17 N. Y. Suppl. 476, 43 N. Y. St. 65.

Wisconsin.— Boorman v. American Express Co., 21 Wis. 152.

United States.— Hopkins v. Westcott, 6 Blatchf. (U. S.) 64, 12 Fed. Cas. No. 6,692, 7 Am. L. Reg. N. S. 533.

See 9 Cent. Dig. tit. "Carriers," § 687.

Where the shipper relies on stipulations of a receipt as against the carrier, he is bound by limitations of liability found therein. Burroughs v. Norwich, etc., R. Co., 100 Mass. 26, 1 Am. Rep. 78.

It is said, however, that the possession of a receipt by the shipper is but prima facie evidence of his assent to stipulations contained therein, and parol evidence is admissible to show that he never in fact accepted the paper as a contract between himself and the carrier. Walker v. Platt, 34 Misc. (N. Y.) 799, 69 N. Y. Suppl. 943; Strohn v. Detroit, etc., R. Co., 21 Wis. 554, 94 Am. Dec. 564; Boorman v. American Express Co., 21 Wis. 152.

Where a mere written receipt is given, the shipper will not be bound by terms usually embodied by the carrier in his formal receipts. Southern Express Co. v. Womack, 1 Heisk. (Tenn.) 256.

Of course, if by statute the carrier is prohibited from limiting his liability by notice or by entry on receipts given, the entry of a limitation upon a receipt will not constitute such a contract as will be binding on the shipper. Southern Express Co. v. Shea, 38 Ga. 519; Mosher v. Southern Express Co., 38 Ga. 37; Southern Express Co. v. Barnes, 36 Ga. 532.

As to how far a person accepting a formal instrument purporting to contain the terms of the contract of shipment is bound thereby see infra, II, E, 5, c.

Further as to shipping receipts see infra, II, G, 1.

21. See infra, II, G, 2.

22. Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co. v. Barrett, 36 Ohio St. 448.

If there is an oral contract as to terms, and a written receipt or bill of lading is subsequently delivered to the shipper, he has the right to assume that it embodies the terms of the oral agreement, and if additional limitations have been inserted therein without his knowledge he may avoid them on the ground of fraud. Boorman v. American Express Co., 21 Wis. 152.

23. Alabama.— Steele v. Townsend, 37 Ala. 247, 79 Am. Dec. 49.

Connecticut.— Lawrence v. New York, etc., R. Co., 36 Conn. 63.

Illinois.— Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Simon, 160 Ill. 648, 43 N. E. 596; Field v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 71 Ill. 458; The Anchor Line v. Dater, 68 Ill. 369; Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Montford, 60 Ill. 175; Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Frankenberg, 54 Ill. 88, 5 Am. Rep. 92; Adams Express Co. v. Haynes, 42 Ill. 89.

Kansas.— Kallman v. U. S. Express Co., 3 Kan. 205.

Kentucky.— Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Brownlee, 14 Bush (Ky.) 590.

Massachusetts.—Grace v. Adams, 100 Mass. 505, 97 Am. Dec. 117, 1 Am. Rep. 131.

Michigan.— Hengstler v. Flint, etc., R. Co., 125 Mich. 530, 84 N. W. 1067; Smith v. American Express Co., 108 Mich. 572, 66 N. W. 479; Feige v. Michigan Cent. R. Co., 62 Mich. 1, 28 N. W. 685; McMillan v. Mich-limiting the carrier's liability be expressly called to the shipper's attention. It will be presumed that the shipper was apprised of the contents of the instrument, and assented to its terms.[24] The rule applicable to other formal contracts is applied here, and the shipper who has accepted a bill of lading is conclusively presumed, in the absence of evidence of fraud, to have thereby assented to the terms of the instrument, and he will not be heard to say that stipulations therein limiting the carrier's liability were not known and assented to by him. He cannot show to defeat the exemption that he did not read the instrument.[25] This view, although supported by the great weight of authority, has not been accepted without opposition, and in some cases it has been held that it is incumbent on the carrier relying on an exemption from liability contained in a receipt or bill of lading to show that such exemption was brought to the attention of the shipper and expressly assented to by him.[26] igan Southern, etc., R. Co., 16 Mich. 79, 93 Am. Dec. 208.

Minnesota.— Christenson v. American Express Co., 15 Minn. 270, 2 Am. Rep. 122.

New York.— Landsberg v. Dinsmore, 4 Daly (N. Y.) 490; Wetzell v. Dinsmore, 4 Daly (N. Y.) 193.

United States.— Jennings v. Smith, 106 Fed. 139, 45 C. C. A. 249; The Santee, 7 Blatchf. (U. S.) 186, 21 Fed. Cas. No. 12,330.

See 9 Cent. Dig. tit. "Carriers," § 691 et seq.

Contemplated shipment.— Provisions of a bill of lading issued for a contemplated shipment will be binding if the shipment is made thereunder. Rowley v. Bigelow, 12 Pick. (Mass.) 307, 23 Am. Dec. 607; The Bark Delaware v. Oregon Iron Co., 14 Wall. (U. S.) 579, 20 L. ed. 779; Robinson v. Memphis, etc., R. Co., 16 Fed. 57.

24. McMillan v. Michigan Southern, etc., R. Co., 16 Mich. 79, 93 Am. Dec. 208; East Tennessee, etc., R. Co. v. Brumley, 5 Lea (Tenn.) 401; Dillard v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., 2 Lea (Tenn.) 288.

Knowledge of fact that such stipulation is usually contained in the bill of lading or receipt issued by the carrier will affect the shipper with notice thereof in a particular case. Ghormley v. Dinsmore, 53 N. Y. Super. Ct. 36; Rubens v. Ludgate Hill Steamship Co., 20 N. Y. Suppl. 481, 48 N. Y. St. 732.

25. Alabama.—Western R. Co. v. Harwell, 91 Ala. 340, 8 So. 649; Jones v. Cincinnati, etc., R. Co., 89 Ala. 376, 8 So. 61.

Arkansas.— St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Weakly, 50 Ark. 397, 8 S. W. 134, 7 Am. St. Rep. 104.

Iowa.— Mulligan v. Illinois Cent. R. Co., 36 Iowa 181, 14 Am. Rep. 514.

Massachusetts.—Grace v. Adams, 100 Mass. 505, 97 Am. Dec. 117, 1 Am. Rep. 131.

Minnesota.— Hutchinson v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 37 Minn. 524, 35 N. W. 433.

Missouri.— Kellerman v. Kansas City, etc., R. Co., 136 Mo. 177, 34 S. W. 41, 37 S. W. 828.

New York.— Hill v. Syracuse, etc., R. Co., 73 N. Y. 351, 29 Am. Rep. 163; Germania F. Ins. Co. v. Memphis, etc., R. Co., 72 N. Y. 90, 28 Am. Rep. 113.

North Carolina.— Phifer v. Carolina Cent. R. Co., 89 N. C. 311, 45 Am. Rep. 687.

South Carolina.— Johnstone v. Richmond, etc., R. Co., 39 S. C. 55, 17 S. E. 512.

Texas.— Ryan v. Missouri, etc., R. Co., 65 Tex. 13, 57 Am. Rep. 589.

Vermont.— Davis v. Central Vermont R. Co., 66 Vt. 290, 29 Atl. 313, 44 Am. St. Rep. 852.

United States.—Leitch v. Union R. Transp. Co., 15 Fed. Cas. No. 8,224, 7 Chic. Leg. N. 291.

See 9 Cent. Dig. tit. "Carriers," § 693.

The statutory provision that the carrier's liability cannot be limited by stipulations in a receipt will not prevent his being bound by the terms of a formal contract, such as a bill of lading. Jennings v. Smith, 99 Fed. 189.

26. Adams Express Co. v. Hoeing, 88 Ky. 373, 10 Ky. L. Rep. 999, 11 S. W. 205; Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Owen, 12 Ky. L. Rep. 716; Southern Express Co. v. Moon, 39 Miss. 822; Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co. v. Blakemore, 1 Ohio Cir. Ct. 42; The Guildhall, 58 Fed. 796; Seller v. The Pacific, Deady (U. S.) 17, 21 Fed. Cas. No. 12,644, 1 Oreg. 409.

This is especially true in Illinois, where there is a line of decisions in which it is held that the mere acceptance by the shipper of a bill of lading containing limitations of liability will not be sufficient in itself to show assent, and that the burden is on the carrier to establish such assent by other evidence. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Callumet Stock Farm, 194 Ill. 9, 61 N. E. 1095; Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Simon, 160 Ill. 648, 43 N. E. 596; Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Davis, 159 Ill. 53, 42 N. E. 382, 50 Am. St. Rep. 143; Boscowitz v. Adams Express Co., 93 Ill. 523, 34 Am. Rep. 191; Erie, etc., Transp. Co. v. Dater, 91 Ill. 195, 33 Am. Rep. 51; Merchants' Despatch Transp. Co. v. Jœsting, 89 Ill. 152; Merchants' Despatch Transp. Co. v. Leysor, 89 Ill. 43; Merchants' Despatch Transp. Co. v. Theilbar, 86 Ill. 71; Adams Express Co. v. Stettaners, 61 Ill. 184, 14 Am. Rep. 57; American Merchants' Union Express Co. v. Schier, 55 Ill. 140; Adams Express Co. v. Haynes, 42 Ill. 89; Wabash R. Co. v. Harris, 55 Ill. App. 159; Western Transit Co. v. Hosking, 19 Ill. App. 607; Lake Shore, etc., R. Co. v. Davis, 16 Ill. App. 425; Adams Express Co. v. King, 3 Ill. App. 316. But if the parties specially contract with reference to limitation of liability, the shipper is bound by the instrument, and can-

d. Stipulation in Bill of Lading or Receipt Delivered After Shipment. To be binding as a part of the contract of shipment the stipulation limiting liability must be embodied in the contract made at the time the goods are shipped. If without any receipt or bill of lading being issued the goods are accepted by the carrier for transportation his common-law liability attaches, and the subsequent delivery to and acceptance by the shipper or his agent of a receipt or bill of lading containing such stipulation will not constitute a part of a binding contract, for in such case there is no consideration for the subsequent agreement.[27] The doctrine that acceptance of a receipt or bill of lading containing stipulations limiting liability implies assent thereto has no application in such a case.[28] If, however, there is an understanding arising out of the course of business by which bills of lading are to be delivered for goods shipped which contain stipulations limiting liability, then it may be presumed that the shipment in such course of business is made on the terms of such a bill of lading, and the stipulations therein will be binding.[29] not relieve himself from its terms by reason of ignorance thereof. Coles v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., 41 Ill. App. 607; Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Hale, 2 Ill. App. 150.

In Georgia a somewhat similar result has been reached by reason of a statutory provision which prohibits the carrier from limiting the liability imposed upon him by law by reason of any notice or entry to that effect in the receipt or bill of lading, and it has been accordingly held in that state that such a limitation can only be made by special contract (Georgia R. Co. v. Spears, 66 Ga. 485, 42 Am. Rep. 81; Southern Express Co. v. Purcell, 37 Ga. 103, 92 Am. Dec. 53; Southern Express Co. v. Newby, 36 Ga. 635, 91 Am. Dec. 783; Southern Express Co. v. Barnes, 36 Ga. 532; Purcell v. Southern Express Co., 34 Ga. 315), and that stipulations in a bill of lading with reference to exemption from liability must be expressly assented to (Georgia Cent. R. Co. v. Lippman, 110 Ga. 665, 36 S. E. 202, 50 L. R. A. 673; Central R. Co. v. Hasselkus, 91 Ga. 382, 17 S. E. 838, 44 Am. St. Rep. 37; Georgia R. Co. v. Gann, 68 Ga. 350; Georgia R. Co. v. Spears, 66 Ga. 485, 42 Am. Rep. 81), and further, that a mere acceptance of the bill of lading containing such stipulation will not be sufficient to show assent. Central R. Co. v. Hasselkus, 91 Ga. 382, 17 S. E. 838, 44 Am. St. Rep. 37. But where the shipper himself filled out the blanks in the bill and then tendered it to the carrier for signature, it was held that, when signed and delivered to the shipper, it created a special contract as to limitation of liability which was binding on the shipper. Wallace v. Matthews, 39 Ga. 617, 99 Am. Dec. 473.

In Dakota, the provisions of the civil code on the subject have received a similar interpretation. Hartwell v. Northern Pac. Express Co., 5 Dak. 463, 41 N. W. 732, 3 L. R. A. 342.

27. German v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 38 Iowa 127; Southard v. Minneapolis, etc., R. Co., 60 Minn. 382, 62 N. W. 442, 619.

28. Alabama.— Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Meyer, 78 Ala. 597.

Georgia.— Central R. Co. v. Dwight Mfg. Co., 75 Ga. 609.

Illinois.— Merchants' Despatch Transp. Co. v. Furthman, 149 Ill. 66, 36 N. E. 624, 41 Am. St. Rep. 265; Michigan Cent. R. Co. v. Boyd, 91 Ill. 268; American Express Co. v. Spellman, 90 Ill. 455.

Massachusetts.— Perry v. Thompson, 98 Mass. 249.

Nebraska.— Union Pac. R. Co. v. Marston, 30 Nebr. 241, 46 N. W. 485.

New York.— Lamb v. Camden, etc., R. Co., 4 Daly (N. Y.) 483.

Ohio.— Gaines v. Union Transp., etc., Co., 28 Ohio St. 418; Welsh v. Pittsburg, etc., R. Co., 10 Ohio St. 65, 75 Am. Dec. 490.

Texas.— Galveston, etc., R. Co. v. Botts, 22 Tex. Civ. App. 609, 55 S. W. 514; Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Carter, 9 Tex. Civ. App. 677, 29 S. W. 565.

See 9 Cent. Dig. tit. "Carriers," § 696.

29. Shelton v. Merchants' Dispatch Transp. Co., 59 N. Y. 258; Ft. Worth, etc., R. Co. v. Wright, 24 Tex. Civ. App. 291, 58 S. W. 846. But the shipper will not be bound by mere usage to issue bills containing a limitation. See infra, II, E, 6.

In the absence of any such understanding the acceptance of a shipping receipt or bill of lading will not be deemed to be a merger of a previous oral agreement under which the goods were shipped, so as to preclude proof of such oral agreement in contradiction of the terms of the written instrument. Bostwick v. Baltimore, etc., R. Co., 45 N. Y. 712; Hamilton v. Western North Carolina R. Co., 96 N. C. 398, 3 S. E. 164.

Whether shipment was in pursuance of a prior oral contract, or under the terms of a written bill of lading which the shipper contends was supposed by him to be a mere memorandum as to the right of his agent to accompany the goods, should be determined as a question of fact. Black v. Wabash, etc., R. Co., 111 Ill. 351, 53 Am. Rep. 628.

Where shipper surrendered a shipping receipt while the goods were supposed to be in transit, and accepted a bill of lading containing a stipulation limiting liability for loss by fire, and it subsequently appeared that the goods had already been destroyed by fire, and that that fact was known to the carrier,

e. Owner Bound by Assent of Person Authorized to Act For Him — (I) In General. One who has authority to ship goods for another has thereby implied authority to make a contract for their shipment involving a limitation of the carrier's liability.[30] Even though the delivery to the carrier is by a cartman or teamster, if by the usual course of business between the shipper and the carrier it is customary for the cartman or teamster to accept the shipping contract, valid stipulations therein limiting the carrier's liability will be binding on the shipper.[31]

(II) Consignor Contracting For Consignee. Where the goods belong to the consignee, and the consignor in making the shipment acts under the consignee's direction in doing so, he may bind the consignee by a contract for the shipment which limits the carrier's liability.[32]

6. Custom as Affecting Carrier's Liability. A general usage which is known to the parties may be considered in determining the construction of stipulations limiting the carrier's liability, as, for instance, where it is shown that "dangers of the river" is understood as covering loss by fire.[33] But it is not competent by proof of usage or custom to impose a limitation of liability not provided for in held that the stipulation in the bill of lading was not binding on the owner of the goods. Wilde v. Merchants' Despatch Transp. Co., 47 Iowa 247, 29 Am. Rep. 479.

30. Jennings v. Grand Trunk R. Co., 52 Hun (N. Y.) 227, 5 N. Y. Suppl. 140, 23 N. Y. St. 15; Soumet v. National Express Co., 66 Barb. (N. Y.) 284; Moriarty v. Harnden's Express, 1 Daly (N. Y.) 227; Meyer v. Harnden's Express Co., 24 How. Pr. (N. Y.) 290.

The power of the agent in such case to bind the owner by an agreement to limit the carrier's liability will be presumed. Craycroft v. Atchison, etc., R. Co., 18 Mo. App. 487.

Authority to deliver goods for transportation includes all the necessary and usual means of carrying it into effect. As it can only be executed by obtaining the consent of the carrier to receive them, the agent is authorized to stipulate for the terms of transportation. Nelson v. Hudson River R. Co., 48 N. Y. 498.

Where a shipper of live stock sends his agent in charge of the property, the agent stands in the position of the owner, and his contract limiting the liability of the carrier is binding on the owner, in the absence of fraud. Squire v. New York Cent. R. Co., 98 Mass. 239, 93 Am. Dec. 162.

31. Nelson v. Hudson River R. Co., 48 N. Y. 498; Shelton v. Merchants' Despatch Transp. Co., 59 N. Y. 258; Van Schaack v. Northern Transp. Co., 3 Biss. (U. S.) 394, 28 Fed. Cas. No. 16,876, 7 Am. L. Rev. 565, 5 Chic. Leg. N. 181, 4 Leg. Op. (Pa.) 537.

Absence of authority.— But if the person who purports to act for the shipper has no authority to do so of course the limitation is invalid. Ohio, etc., R. Co. v. Hamlin, 42 Ill. App. 441.

The burden of proof is on the carrier to show an agreement binding on the shipper. Merriman v. The May Queen, Newb. Adm. (U. S.) 464, 17 Fed. Cas. No. 9,481.

Where shipper and carrier have previously made a contract as to the transportation of goods, the person who delivers them to the carrier in pursuance of such contract is not to be presumed to have authority to waive its terms. Jennings v. Grand Trunk R. Co., 127 N. Y. 438, 28 N. E. 394, 40 N. Y. St. 318.

But in the absence of any knowledge on the part of the shipper that his employee has been in the habit of accepting receipts containing a stipulation limiting the carrier's common-law liability the shipper will not be bound thereby. Buckland v. Adams Express Co., 97 Mass. 124, 93 Am. Dec. 68.

32. Illinois.— Brown v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., 36 Ill. App. 140.

Iowa.— Robinson v. Merchants' Despatch Transp. Co., 45 Iowa 470.

Kentucky.— Adams Express Co. v. Marshall, 6 Ky. L. Rep. 291.

Minnesota.— Christenson v. American Express Co., 15 Minn. 270, 2 Am. Rep. 122.

New York.— Donovan v. Standard Oil Co., 155 N. Y. 112, 49 N. E. 678; Zimmer v. New York Cent., etc., R. Co., 137 N. Y. 460, 33 N. E. 642, 51 N. Y. St. 269; Nelson v. Hudson River R. Co., 48 N. Y. 498.

Pennsylvania.— Farnham v. Camden, etc., R. Co., 55 Pa. St. 53.

Texas.— Ryan v. Missouri, etc., R. Co., 65 Tex. 13, 57 Am. Rep. 589.

United States.— York Mfg. Co. v. Illinois Cent. R. Co., 3 Wall. (U. S.) 107, 18 L. ed. 170.

See 9 Cent. Dig. tit. "Carriers," § 685.

Even if bill of lading is issued in name of one who is neither consignor nor consignee, yet if it is issued under an agreement with the real owner limitations therein will be binding upon him. Fast v. Canton, etc., R. Co., 77 Miss. 498, 27 So. 525.

33. Boon v. Steamboat Belfast, 40 Ala. 184, 88 Am. Dec. 761; McClure v. Cox, 32 Ala. 617, 70 Am. Dec. 552; Hibler v. McCartney, 31 Ala. 501; Ezell v. Miller, 6 Port. (Ala.) 307; Sampson v. Gazzam, 6 Port. (Ala.) 123, 30 Am. Dec. 578.

the contract of shipment.[34] Nor will a general custom or usage on the part of the carrier to issue bills of lading with a stipulation therein for limitation of liability be sufficient to show that in a particular case in which no such contract is accepted by the shipper he is bound thereby.[35]

7. Construction of Contracts Limiting Liability. A contract relied on as limiting the carrier's common-law liability must be unequivocal and unambiguous;[36] and as restrictions of the carrier's liability in receipts or bills of lading, drawn up and executed by them, are for their benefit and are interposed for the purpose of escaping a liability which would otherwise be imposed by law, they are to be strictly construed as against the carrier and in favor of the shipper.[37] Furthermore, as a construction which interprets such a contract as a limitation of the liability of the carrier for negligence would render it invalid,[38] such a contract will not be construed so as to protect the carrier from the consequences of his own negligence, or that of his agents or servants, unless such construction is required by the language used.[39] Thus a stipulation that the goods are accepted by the carrier at the owner's risk is not to be construed as relieving the carrier from any liability for loss due to negligence.[40] And it may be said that in construing

Thus a general usage at the port in accordance with which goods after delivery and assortment on the wharf are at the owner's risk may be shown. Pickering v. Weld, 159 Mass. 522, 34 N. E. 1081.

34. Illinois.— Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Smyser, 38 Ill. 354, 87 Am. Dec. 301.

New York.— Robinson v. New York, etc., Steamship Co., 63 N. Y. App. Div. 211, 71 N. Y. Suppl. 424; Little v. Fargo, 43 Hun (N. Y.) 233.

Ohio.— Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co. v. Barrett, 36 Ohio St. 448.

Pennsylvania.— Coxe v. Heisley, 19 Pa. St. 243.

Tennessee.— Turney v. Wilson, 7 Yerg. (Tenn.) 340, 27 Am. Dec. 515.

United States.— The Reeside, 2 Sumn. (U. S.) 567, 20 Fed. Cas. No. 11,657.

See 9 Cent. Dig. tit. "Carriers," § 681.

35. McMillan v. Michigan Southern, etc., R. Co., 16 Mich. 79, 93 Am. Dec. 208; Reed v. Fargo, 4 Silv. Supreme (N. Y.) 174, 7 N. Y. Suppl. 185, 26 N. Y. St. 587; Singleton v. Hilliard, 1 Strobh. (S. C.) 203; Farmers', etc., Bank v. Champlain Transp. Co., 18 Vt. 131. Apparently contra, see Cooper v. Berry, 21 Ga. 526, 68 Am. Dec. 468.

A bill of lading issued and accepted after shipment may be binding so far as it contains usual limitations if the shipper had knowledge of the usual terms. See supra, II, E, 5, d.

36. Hooper v. Wells, 27 Cal. 11, 85 Am. Dec. 211; Rosenfeld v. Peoria, etc., R. Co., 103 Ind. 121, 2 N. E. 344, 53 Am. Rep. 500; Edsall v. Camden, etc., R., etc., Co., 50 N. Y. 661. As to the New York cases see supra, II, E, 2.

37. California.— Hooper v. Wells, 27 Cal. 11, 85 Am. Dec. 211.

Indiana.— Rosenfeld v. Peoria, etc., R. Co., 103 Ind. 121, 2 N. E. 344, 53 Am. Rep. 500; St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Smuck, 49 Ind. 302.

Missouri.— E. O. Stanard Milling Co. v. White Line Cent. Transit Co., 122 Mo. 258, 26 S. W. 704.

New Hampshire.— Barter v. Wheeler, 49 N. H. 9, 6 Am. Rep. 434.

New York.— Edsall v. Camden, etc., R., etc., Co., 50 N. Y. 661.

Wisconsin.— Cream City R. Co. v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 63 Wis. 93, 23 N. W. 425, 53 Am. Rep. 267.

United States.— Menzell v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 1 Dill. (U. S.) 531, 17 Fed. Cas. No. 9,429, 4 Am. L. T. Rep. 58, 5 West. Jur. 61.

See 9 Cent. Dig. tit. "Carriers," § 697.

38. See supra, II, E, 2, b.

39. Alabama.— Grey v. Mobile Trade Co., 55 Ala. 387, 28 Am. Rep. 729.

Connecticut.— Welch v. Boston, etc., R. Co., 41 Conn. 333.

Minnesota.— Christenson v. American Express Co., 15 Minn. 270, 2 Am. Rep. 122.

New York.— Sherman v. Inman Steamship Co., 26 Hun (N. Y.) 107.

Pennsylvania.— Goldey v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 30 Pa. St. 242, 72 Am. Dec. 703.

United States.— The Colon, 9 Ben. (U. S.) 354, 6 Fed. Cas. No. 3,023; Dedekam v. Vose, 3 Blatchf. (U. S.) 44, 7 Fed. Cas. No. 3,729.

See 9 Cent. Dig. tit. "Carriers," § 699.

40. Alabama.— South, etc., Alabama R. Co. v. Wilson, 78 Ala. 587.

Massachusetts.— Medfield School Dist. v. Boston, etc., R. Co., 102 Mass. 552, 3 Am. Rep. 502.

Missouri.— McFadden v. Missouri Pac. R. Co., 92 Mo. 343, 4 S. W. 689, 1 Am. St. Rep. 721.

New York.—Moore v. Evans, 14 Barb. (N. Y.) 524.

Pennsylvania.— Empire Transp. Co. v. Wamsutta Oil Refining, etc., Co., 63 Pa. St. 14, 3 Am. Rep. 515.

Tennessee.— Nashville, etc., R. Co. v. Jackson, 6 Heisk. (Tenn.) 271.

West Virginia.— Baltimore, etc., R. Co. v. Rathbone, 1 W. Va. 87, 88 Am. Dec. 664.

United States.— New Jersey Steam Nav. Co. v. Boston Merchants' Bank, 6 How. (U. S.) 344, 12 L. ed. 465.

contracts limiting a carrier's liability the courts will apply such rules of interpretation as control the operation and effect of contracts in general.[41]

8. CONFLICT OF LAWS AS TO VALIDITY OF CONTRACTS LIMITING LIABILITY. The gen-

41. Loss at place of transshipment.— Exemption from liability for loss while in depot or place of transshipment is not applicable to loss at the depot where the goods have been received. Amory Mfg. Co. v. Gulf, etc., R. Co., 89 Tex. 419, 37 S. W. 856, 59 Am. St. Rep. 65; Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Pepperell Mfg. Co., (Tex. Civ. App. 1896) 37 S. W. 965. But a stipulation limiting liability for loss by fire while the goods are awaiting transshipment releases the carrier from liability for loss by fire in a depot while awaiting transfer to another depot. Brown v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., 36 Ill. App. 140.

Loss awaiting delivery.— A limitation of liability for the goods while awaiting delivery does not apply to a loss after the goods have reached their destination, but before they have been placed in position for delivery to the consignee. McKinney v. Jewett, 90 N. Y. 267. A stipulation relieving the carrier from liability for negligence of the pilot master or mariners does not apply to negligence of the servants of the carrier while the goods are in his possession for delivery. Gleadell v. Thomson, 56 N. Y. 194.

Loss by fire.— "Dangers of fire and navigation" and "unavoidable accidents of navigation and fire" mean the same thing, and liability for loss by fire under such stipulation is not restricted to fire originating from the furnace of a boat. Swindler v. Hilliard, 2 Rich. (S. C.) 286, 45 Am. Dec. 732. Exemption from liability for loss by fire does not cover loss by theft, although the car from which the goods were stolen was afterward burned. Merchants' Dispatch Transp. Co. v. Hoskins, 19 Ky. L. Rep. 799, 41 S. W. 31, 44 S. W. 362.

Loss by fire due to the action of a mob is within the exception of "loss by fire or other casualty." Hall v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 14 Phila. (Pa.) 414, 37 Leg. Int. (Pa.) 64; Hall v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 1 Fed. 226; Sherman v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 21 Fed. Cas. No. 12,769, 8 Wkly. Notes Cas. (Pa.) 269.

Loss by reason of leakage and breakage.— A bill of lading exempting a carrier from responsibility for leakage does not relieve him where a cask received in good order is broken during transportation. Brauer v. Barque Almoner, 18 La. Ann. 266. Leakage does not cover shortage due to some unknown cause. The Bellona, 4 Ben. (U. S.) 503, 3 Fed. Cas. No. 1,277. Leakage due to failure of the carrier to properly care for the casks is not covered by an exception of liability for leakage. Hunnewell v. Taber, 2 Sprague (U. S.) 1, 12 Fed. Cas. No. 6,880. A general exception of breakage does not cover the breaking of an animal's leg. Coupland v. Housatonic R. Co., 61 Conn. 531, 23 Atl. 870, 15 L. R. A. 534.

Loss caused by unavoidable dangers.— An exemption of liability for damages caused by unavoidable dangers and accidents does not restrict the carrier's general liability, as such exemption amounts to no more than the common-law limitation for act of God. Walpole v. Bridges, 5 Blackf. (Ind.) 222; Union Mut. Ins. Co. v. Indianapolis, etc., R. Co., 1 Disn. (Ohio) 480, 12 Ohio Dec. (Reprint) 745. But such an exemption does not cover damage due to goods falling from a boat into the water by reason of a defective rod intended to restrain the goods on deck. Central Line of Boats v. Lowe, 50 Ga. 509.

Loss due to climatic changes.— Where a carrier has failed to use a refrigerator car, as required by the contract, he cannot be relieved under a stipulation against liability for heat. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Davis, 159 Ill. 53, 42 N. E. 382, 50 Am. St. Rep. 143. An exemption from loss occasioned by "effect of climate" does not exempt the carrier of fruit from liability for loss by temporary frost while the fruit is being discharged from the vessel. The Aline, 19 Fed. 875. Damage from humidity while the goods are being transported by a ship in a warm climate is within an exemption of heat and sweating. Mendelsohn v. The Louisiana, 3 Woods (U. S.) 46, 17 Fed. Cas. No. 9,421.

Loss during transit.— A stipulation that the carrier shall not be liable for loss or damage during transit does not relieve him from liability for non-delivery. Stafford v. Walter, 67 Ill. 83.

Loss from dangers of navigation.— An exception of "casualties of river navigation and of steam" covers loss due to explosion of a boiler. Adams Express Co. v. Fendrick, 38 Ind. 150. "Loss or damage on the lakes or rivers" does not cover loss by the sinking of a wharf-boat on which the goods have been placed awaiting their transfer to a steamer. St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Smuck, 49 Ind. 302. "Dangers of the river navigation" cover damage due to collision. Hays v. Kennedy, 3 Grant (Pa.) 351. A stipulation in a bill of lading issued by a railroad company that it should "not be liable for any damages by fire or collision on the rivers and sea" held to cover loss by fire occurring on the water only. Little Rock, etc., R. Co. v. Talbot, 39 Ark. 523.

Negligence of carrier employed by forwarder.— A carrier cannot by a stipulation that he is "not to be responsible except as forwarder" relieve himself from liability for negligence of employees of another carrier by whom the contract for transportation by the first carrier is performed. Hooper v. Wells, 27 Cal. 11, 85 Am. Dec. 211.

Other exceptional clauses.— A clause excusing the carrier from accountability for "weight, contents, packing, marks and damage" held to refer to damage of the goods at the time of their receipt, and not to injuries received subsequently on the voyage. The Tommy, 16 Fed. 601. An exemption from liability for loss due to accidents of boiler or machinery held not to cover damage caused by the breaking of a car axle, inasmuch as the general language of the exemption indicated eral proposition that the validity of a contract is to be determined by the law of the place where the contract is made and not by that of the forum [42] is applied in the construction of contracts made in this country for transportation of goods to another country, and a limitation of liability which is invalid where the contract is made will not be given effect in our courts, although the provision would have been valid if made in the country to which the goods are shipped.[43] The converse of the general proposition is equally true, that if a limitation of liability is valid where the contract of shipment is made for transportation from that state or country to another state or country, the validity of such stipulation will be upheld in the courts of a state or country where such limitation would be invalid.[44] Thus, a limitation in a contract of shipment made in one state for transportation of goods from that state into another will be upheld in the courts of the latter state if valid where made, although, if the limitation had been made in the state of the forum, it would have been invalid by reason of statutory prohibition or of the general rule of construction with reference to such contracts.[45] And the fact that a contract limiting the liability of a railroad com-that it was applicable only to machinery connected with the boiler and steam supplies. Fairbank v. Cincinnati, etc., R. Co., 81 Fed. 289, 47 U. S. App. 744, 22 C. C. A. 402. A general release from liability for damage from leakage, decay, breakage, or any other cause not the result of collision of trains held not to apply to and exempt the carrier from total loss by fire while the goods were stored in the carrier's warehouse awaiting transshipment. Menzell v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 1 Dill. (U. S.) 531, 17 Fed. Cas. No. 9,429, 4 Am. L. T. Rep. 58, 5 West. Jur. 61. An exemption of liability for injuries to animals from certain specified causes, "or in any way," held not to cover injury due to collision of the engine with another train. Zimmer v. New York Cent., etc., R. Co., 16 N. Y. Suppl. 631, 42 N. Y. St. 63. An exemption of liability for "all baggage" held not to cover loss of a package received for carriage for compensation. Dwight v. Brewster, 1 Pick. (Mass.) 50, 11 Am. Dec. 133. A shipping contract limiting the measure of recovery for "each horse, mule," etc., does not cover the loss of a "jack." Richardson v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 149 Mo. 311, 50 S. W. 782. Where the bill of lading contained clauses as to exemption from liability, with the further provision that "cotton is excepted from any clause herein on the subject of fire," held that cotton was thereby excluded from the clauses relating to exemption from liability from other causes. Texas, etc., R. Co. v. Callendar, 98 Fed. 538, 39 C. C. A. 154. An exemption from liability for carriages held not to cover loss of a street railway car. Cream City R. Co. v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 63 Wis. 93, 23 N. W. 425, 53 Am. Rep. 267.

Two contracts.—Where a bill of lading for the transportation of animals and a stipulation as to the owner accompanying and taking care of them were separately signed, held that the stipulation in one of the contracts that any question arising under it should be determined by the law of a certain state did not govern in the construction of the other. Brockway v. American Express Co., 171 Mass. 158, 50 N. E. 626.

42. As to the application of this general principle to shipping contracts see infra, II, G, 4.

43. Liverpool, etc., R. Co. v. Phenix Ins. Co., 129 U. S. 397, 9 S. Ct. 469, 32 L. ed. 788.

This general principle is applied as rendering invalid in the courts of a state contracts made in that state for transportation of goods to another state containing stipulations contrary to the law of the state where the contract is made. McDaniel v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 24 Iowa 412. It is also applied in the courts of other states than that in which the contract was made. Brockway v. American Express Co., 168 Mass. 257, 47 N. E. 87; Knowlton v. Erie R. Co., 19 Ohio St. 260, 2 Am. Rep. 395; Pittman v. Pacific Express Co., (Tex. Civ. App. 1900) 59 S. W. 949. In a state where such limitation is prohibited, it will be presumed, in absence of proof to the contrary, that a contract in another state containing such stipulation is contrary to law. Southern Pac. Co. v. Anderson, (Tex. Civ. App. 1901) 63 S. W. 1023. Where by the law of the state where the contract is made special assent to a stipulation in the bill of lading or shipping receipt exempting the carrier from his common-law liability is necessary, a contract of shipment containing such a stipulation not specially assented to will not be recognized in the courts of another state. Hartmann v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., 39 Mo. App. 88. Where, however, the state statute prohibiting limitation of liability is applicable only to contracts for transportation within the state, such a limitation with reference to interstate shipments will be recognized as valid in other states. Otis Co. v. Missouri Pac. R. Co., 112 Mo. 622, 20 S. W. 676. For the Texas cases holding that a state statute prohibiting limitation of liability is not applicable to interstate shipments see supra, II, E, 3, h.

44. The Carib Prince, 63 Fed. 266.

45. Georgia.— Western, etc., R. Co. v. Exposition Cotton Mills, 81 Ga. 522, 7 S. E. 916, 2 L. R. A. 102.

Illinois.— Brown v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., 36 Ill. App. 140.

Iowa.— Hazel v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 82

pany is invalid by statute in the state where the company is incorporated will have no effect in determining the validity of a contract by such company made in a state where the limitation of liability is valid with reference to transportation into another state than that where the company is incorporated.[46] Some countenance was given in an English case[47] to the idea that parties making a contract of shipment in one country might do so with reference to the law of another country, so that such contract would be construed with reference to the law of the latter country, rather than the law of the former, but the courts of this country have not countenanced the idea that the parties may thus select the law of some other country as determining the validity of a limitation of liability in a contract made here,[48] and it has been held that in contracts made in this country for transportation of goods to another country it cannot be stipulated that the validity of the contract shall be determined by the law of the "flag" under which the ship sails. Such a provision will not be effectual to incorporate the law of the ship's country into the contract so as to make it valid if it would not be valid where made.[49] The rule that the validity of limitations is to be determined by the law of the country where the contract of shipment is made seems to be subject to this qualification, that the courts of this country will not recognize as valid a limitation in such contract of shipment from another country to this, even though valid where the contract is made, if the limitation is contrary to the general policy of the law of this country.[50] And accordingly it has been said that a limitation of liability in a shipping contract, valid in the state where made, for transportation to another state, will not be recognized in the courts of the latter if contrary to the general policy of that state.[51]

F. Delivery and Acceptance to Charge Carrier — 1. Delivery and Acceptance Essential. In order that the carrier may be charged with reference to the custody, care, and transportation of goods, it is evidently essential that as bailee he shall have come into possession of the goods, which, of course, involves a delivery by the shipper and an acceptance by the carrier, and until there has been such delivery and acceptance, by which the possession of the goods has been transferred from the shipper to the carrier, no liability of the carrier with reference to such goods arises.[52]

Iowa 477, 48 N. W. 926; Talbott v. Merchant's Despatch Transp. Co., 41 Iowa 247, 20 Am. Rep. 589.

Pennsylvania.— Fairchild v. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co., 148 Pa. St. 527, 24 Atl. 79; Forepaugh v. Delaware, etc., R. Co., 128 Pa. St. 217, 18 Atl. 503, 15 Am. St. Rep. 672, 5 L. R. A. 508.

Texas.— Ryan v. Missouri, etc., R. Co., 65 Tex. 13, 57 Am. Rep. 589.

See 9 Cent. Dig. tit. "Carriers," § 650.

46. Tecumseh Mills v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., 22 Ky. L. Rep. 264, 57 S. W. 9, 49 L. R. A. 557; Thomas v. Wabash, etc., R. Co., 63 Fed. 200.

Where the statutes of the state where the contract is made prohibiting limitation of liability relate to contracts for shipment in that state, they will not be given any effect as to a contract made in the state with reference to transportation to another state. Platt v. Richmond, etc., R. Co., 108 N. Y. 358, 15 N. E. 393.

47. Robinson v. Bland, 1 W. Bl. 234, 2 Burr. 1077.

48. Liverpool, etc., Steam Co. v. Phenix Ins. Co., 129 U. S. 397, 9 S. Ct. 469, 32 L. ed. 788.

49. The Hugo, 57 Fed. 403; Lewisohn v. National Steamship Co., 56 Fed. 602; The Energia, 56 Fed. 124; The Iowa, 50 Fed. 561; The Brantford City, 29 Fed. 373. So where a contract of shipment was made in Massashusetts by a New York corporation, it was held that a limitation of liability therein was to be construed in accordance with the law of Massachusetts, regardless of the fact that the shippers also resided in New York and the goods were to be delivered in New York. Grand v. Livingston, 4 N. Y. App. Div. 589, 38 N. Y. Suppl. 490, 73 N. Y. St. 646.

50. The Kensington, 183 U. S. 263, 22 S. Ct. 102, 46 L. ed. 190.

51. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Gardiner, 51 Nebr. 70, 70 N. W. 508.

52. Connecticut.— Trowbridge v. Chapin, 23 Conn. 595; Merriam v. Hartford, etc., R. Co., 20 Conn. 354, 52 Am. Dec. 344.

Delaware.— Truax v. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co., 3 Houst. (Del.) 233.

Georgia.— Southern Express Co. v. Newby, 36 Ga. 635, 91 Am. Dec. 783.

Louisiana.— Williams v. Peytavin, 4 Mart. (La.) 304.

Massachusetts.—Pitlock v. Wells, 109 Mass. 452.

2. Actual or Constructive Delivery — a. What Constitutes Delivery. To constitute actual delivery it is not enough that the goods be placed in a position from which they might readily be taken by the agent of the carrier, but there must be notice to him of the delivery, with intention to place them in the care and custody of such carrier.[53] Even the placing of the goods on the vehicle of the carrier, whether it be a wagon or a car, ready for transportation, will not constitute sufficient delivery, where this is not done in pursuance of any previous understanding, and the agent has no notice from which an acceptance can be inferred.[54] But no formal acceptance is necessary where the agent has knowledge of the delivery of the goods with the intention that they be shipped, and makes no objection thereto. It is not essential that there be any written receipt or bill of lading.[55] The liability of the carrier as common carrier begins with the actual delivery of the goods for transportation, and not merely with the formal execution of a receipt or bill of lading.[56]

b. Constructive Delivery. Actual knowledge on the part of the agent of the carrier that the goods have been delivered, ready for shipment, is not, however,

Michigan.—Michigan Southern, etc., R. Co. v. McDonough, 21 Mich. 165, 4 Am. Rep. 466.

New York.— Grosvenor v. New York Cent. R. Co., 39 N. Y. 34, 6 Transcr. App. (N. Y.) 311, 5 Abb. Pr. N. S. (N. Y.) 345; Blanchard v. Isaacs, 3 Barb. (N. Y.) 388; Ball v. New Jersey Steamboat Co., 1 Daly (N. Y.) 491.

See 9 Cent. Dig. tit. "Carriers," § 100.

The deposit of goods along the line of a railway, made for the convenience of the owner, where the carrier has never assumed possession and control of the goods, nor accepted them for transportation, does not give rise to any liability on the part of the carrier with reference to such goods. Wilson v. Atlanta, etc., R. Co., 82 Ga. 386, 9 S. E. 1076.

Where the shipper of fruit used the warehouse of a railway company for the purpose of assorting such fruit and preparing it for shipment, held that the carrier's liability for the fruit did not attach until the exclusive possession and control thereof for shipment had been delivered to the carrier. Reed v. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co., 3 Houst. (Del.) 176.

Although carrier has taken possession of the goods, if freight is to be prepaid, he may refuse to carry them until payment is made. Stewart v. Bremer, 63 Pa. St. 268.

53. Alabama.— O'Bannon v. Southern Express Co., 51 Ala. 481; South Western R. Co. v. Webb, 48 Ala. 585.

New York.— Grosvenor v. New York Cent. R. Co., 39 N. Y. 34, 6 Transcr. App. (N. Y.) 311, 5 Abb. Pr. N. S. (N. Y.) 345.

North Carolina.—Wells v. Wilmington, etc., R. Co., 51 N. C. 47, 72 Am. Dec. 556.

Pennsylvania.—Spofford v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 11 Pa. Super. Ct. 97.

United States.— The Willie D. Sandhoval, 92 Fed. 286.

See 9 Cent. Dig. tit. "Carriers," § 102.

Roadside deposits at a place where there is no regular station and no agent will not charge the carrier until the goods are actually taken possession of. Wells v. Wilmington, etc., R. Co., 51 N. C. 47, 72 Am. Dec. 556.

The loading of goods upon a car at a switch where there is no agent or station, although the cars are placed there by request for the purpose of being loaded, will not constitute a delivery. Kansas City, etc., R. Co. v. Lilly, (Miss. 1891) 8 So. 644.

54. Houston, etc., R. Co. v. Hodde, 42 Tex. 467; Yoakum v. Dryden, (Tex. Civ. App. 1894) 26 S. W. 312; Ft. Worth, etc., R. Co. v. Riley, (Tex. Civ. App. 1886) 1 S. W. 446; Glass v. Goldsmith, 22 Wis. 488.

55. Meloche v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 116 Mich. 69, 74 N. W. 301; Coyle v. Western R. Corp., 47 Barb. (N. Y.) 152; Berry v. Southern R. Co., 122 N. C. 1002, 30 S. E. 14.

Where an oil company furnished its tank cars to the carrier in which oil was regularly transported to the market, the cars being returned without additional charge, held that the carrier was liable for the cars, although no express contract had been made with reference thereto. Spears v. Lake Shore, etc., R. Co., 67 Barb. (N. Y.) 513.

56. Arkansas.— St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Neel, 56 Ark. 279, 19 S. W. 963.

Illinois.— Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Smyser, 38 Ill. 354, 87 Am. Dec. 301.

New York.— Lakeman v. Grinnell, 5 Bosw. (N. Y.) 625.

Texas.—Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Compton, (Tex. Civ. App. 1896) 38 S. W. 220.

United States.—Snow v. Carruth, 1 Sprague (U. S.) 324, 22 Fed. Cas. No. 13,144, 19 Law Rep. 198; Brower v. The Water Witch, 4 Fed. Cas. No. 1,971, 19 How. Pr. (N. Y.) 241, 42 Hunt. Mer. Mag. 67, 16 Leg. Int. (Pa.) 349.

See 9 Cent. Dig. tit. "Carriers," § 102.

Thus where goods were in accordance with custom put on cars on a side-track, held that the company became liable therefor, although destroyed before issuance of a bill of lading. Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Smyser, 38 Ill. 354, 87 Am. Dec. 301.

Even where the statute provided that liability commences with issuance of bill of lading, actual delivery and acceptance are sufficient to bind the carrier. International, etc., R. Co. v. Dimmit County Pasture Co., 5 Tex. Civ. App. 186, 23 S. W. 754.

always essential to charge the carrier. Delivery may be constructive.[57] By custom or usage the placing of the goods in the usual place for delivery to the carrier may amount to a sufficient delivery and acceptance, although no notice to the agent or assent by him is shown.[58] Constructive delivery may also be made by delivering to the carrier the receipt of a warehouseman or cotton press company, from whose custody the goods are to be taken by the carrier, and the issuance of a bill of lading by the carrier's agent in consequence thereof.[59]

c. When Carrier's Liability Attaches. If something remains to be done by the shipper after the goods are put into the hands of the agent of the carrier before they are to be transported, the carrier does not become liable as carrier until the goods are ready for shipment.[60] But if the thing to be done is something which it is the duty of the agent to do without further act on the part of the shipper, then the liability of the carrier attaches at once.[61] The risk of the carrier begins on receipt of the goods for immediate transportation.[62] After the carrier has received the goods for transportation he is liable as common carrier, not merely as warehouseman, though they have not yet been laden for immediate carriage.[63]

57. Merriam v. Hartford, etc., R. Co., 20 Conn. 354, 52 Am. Dec. 344.

58. Alabama.— Montgomery, etc., R. Co. v. Kolb, 73 Ala. 396, 49 Am. Rep. 54.

Connecticut.— Merriam v. Hartford, etc., R. Co., 20 Conn. 354, 52 Am. Dec. 344.

District of Columbia.— Bowie v. Baltimore, etc., R. Co., 1 MacArthur (D. C.) 94.

Indiana.— Evansville, etc., R. Co. v. Keith, 8 Ind. App. 57, 35 N. E. 296.

Louisiana.— Meyer v. Vicksburg, etc., R. Co., 41 La. Ann. 639, 6 So. 218, 17 Am. St. Rep. 408.

Maine.— Witzler v. Collins, 70 Me. 290, 35 Am. Rep. 327.

Texas.— Ft. Worth, etc., R. Co. v. Martin, 12 Tex. Civ. App. 464, 35 S. W. 21.

See 9 Cent. Dig. tit. "Carriers," § 104.

59. Deming v. Merchants' Cotton-Press, etc., Co., 90 Tenn. 306, 17 S. W. 89, 13 L. R. A. 518.

But the mere delivery of a warehouse receipt, with order for delivery of the goods to the carrier, is not a constructive delivery where the goods are destroyed in the warehouse before removal by the carrier. Stewart v. Gracy, 93 Tenn. 314, 27 S. W. 664.

Where cotton intended for shipment was destroyed while yet on the compress company's platform, held that the carrier was not liable, although a bill of lading had been issued. Amory Mfg. Co. v. Gulf, etc., R. Co., 89 Tex. 419, 37 S. W. 856, 59 Am. St. Rep. 65.

It is not negligence on the part of the shipper of goods by rail to leave the goods on the company's platform unguarded, so as to defeat recovery on an insurance policy covering the goods. St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Philadelphia F. Assoc., 55 Ark. 163, 18 S. W. 43.

60. Kansas City, etc., R. Co. v. Barnett, 69 Ark. 150, 61 S. W. 919; Dixon v. Georgia Cent. R. Co., 110 Ga. 173, 35 S. E. 369; Elkins v. Boston, etc., R. Co., 23 N. H. 275; Spade v. Hudson River R. Co., 16 Barb. (N. Y.) 383.

61. Grand Tower Mfg., etc., Co. v. Ullman, 89 Ill. 244; Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Smyser, 38 Ill. 354, 87 Am. Dec. 301; Berry v. Southern R. Co., 122 N. C. 1002, 30 S. E. 14. Thus, if the goods are put upon railroad cars with notice to the agent that they are ready for shipment, the delivery is as effectual as though made at a regular depot of the company. St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Murphy, 60 Ark. 333, 30 S. W. 419, 46 Am. St. Rep. 202; Dixon v. Georgia Cent. R. Co., 110 Ga. 173, 35 S. E. 369; Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Smyser, 38 Ill. 354, 87 Am. Dec. 301.

Where delay in shipment was due to failure of the company to furnish cars it was held that the carrier was liable for the goods, though by the shipping contract the shipper was required to load the freight. London, etc., F. Ins. Co. v. Rome, etc., R. Co., 114 N. Y. 200, 39 N. E. 79, 63 N. Y. St. 73, 43 Am. St. Rep. 752.

Where a railroad company was under military control, held that the mere fact that the goods were allowed to be delivered on the cars of the company did not give rise to liability for them as common carrier, where permission to ship was necessary to be secured before the transporation could commence. Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Hornberger, 77 Ill. 457; Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Ashmead, 58 Ill. 487. But the fact of military control alone will not relieve the railroad company accepting goods for transportation from liability therefor as common carrier. Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Cobb, 64 Ill. 128; Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. McClellan, 54 Ill. 58, 5 Am. Rep. 83.

62. Arkansas.— St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Murphy, 60 Ark. 333, 30 S. W. 419, 46 Am. St. Rep. 202.

Massachusetts.— Merritt v. Old Colony, etc., R. Co., 11 Allen (Mass.) 80.

New York.— O'Neill v. New York Cent., etc., R. Co., 60 N. Y. 138.

North Carolina.— Berry v. Southern R. Co., 122 N. C. 1002, 30 S. E. 14.

Tennessee.— Watson v. Memphis, etc., R. Co., 9 Heisk. (Tenn.) 255.

See 9 Cent. Dig. tit. "Carriers," § 110.

63. Greenwood v. Cooper, 10 La. Ann. 796; Barrett v. Salter, 10 Rob. (La.) 434; Fitchburg, etc., R. Co. v. Hanna, 6 Gray (Mass.) 539, 66 Am. Dec. 427.

3. Authority of Carrier's Agent to Receive. If there is a question as to whether the delivery in a particular instance was to the conductor of the train, or driver of the coach, or captain of the boat in his individual capacity, or as agent for his employer, then to charge the carrier it must appear that the goods were received by him with authority to act as agent of the employer, and with the understanding that he was acting in that capacity.[64] But where by custom or usage the person to whom the goods are intrusted is one recognized by the carrier as the proper person to receive such goods for transportation the carrier will be liable, no matter what particular relation the person may otherwise bear to the carrier.[65] Even though there is a freight agent authorized to receive goods for shipment, the captain of the boat on which they are to be shipped may also have authority by usage to accept the goods for carriage.[66] The same person may, however, act as agent for the carrier to receive, as well as agent for the shipper to deliver, and in such case the question of delivery will depend upon whether such person has acted in the capacity of agent for the carrier in receiving or not.[67] The agent may have authority to receive at another place than that ordinarily designated for the receipt of goods, and if he does receive within the scope of his authority the carrier will be bound, although the place of receipt is not the place where goods are usually delivered for transportation.[68]

As to liability of the carrier as warehouseman see infra, II, J, 4.

Sufficiency of delivery to charge the carrier see Jasper Trust Co. v. Kansas City, etc., R. Co., 99 Ala. 416, 14 So. 546, 42 Am. St. Rep. 75; Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Echols, 97 Ala. 556, 12 So. 304; South Western R. Co. v. Webb, 48 Ala. 585; Union Pac. R. Co. v. Hepner, 3 Colo. App. 313, 33 Pac. 72; Lewis v. Van Horn, 24 Misc. (N. Y.) 765, 53 N. Y. Suppl. 546; Abrams v. Platt, 23 Misc. (N. Y.) 637, 52 N. Y. Suppl. 153; Pacific Express Co. v. Black, 8 Tex. Civ. App. 363, 27 S. W. 830.

64. Elkins v. Boston, etc., R. Co., 23 N. H. 275; Blanchard v. Isaacs, 3 Barb. (N. Y.) 388; Farmers', etc., Bank v. Champlain Transp. Co., 23 Vt. 186, 56 Am. Dec. 68.

Delivery must be made to an agent or servant authorized to receive goods and not to a servant engaged in other duties. Blanchard v. Isaacs, 3 Barb. (N. Y.) 388.

If the person to whom the delivery is made is not the person intrusted in general with the duty of receiving goods for transportation, delivery to him will not be sufficient prima facie to charge the carrier, especially in case of property such as the carrier is not in the habit of receiving for transportation, such as money and like goods of special value. Chouteau v. Steamboat St. Anthony, 16 Mo. 216.

Delivery to the individual master, driver, or conductor will not charge the carrier in the absence of some evidence of authority. Sewall v. Allen, 6 Wend. (N. Y.) 335; Pumphry v. Steamboat Parkersburgh, 2 Ohio Dec. (Reprint) 356, 2 West. L. Month. 491. And see supra, II, A, 1, b.

The mere delivery to deck hands of a steamboat has been held to be insufficient to charge the owner, in the absence of evidence that such persons were authorized to receive freight, or that there was some special contract or usage by which they had that authority. Ford v. Mitchell, 21 Ind. 54.

65. Alabama.— Hosea v. McCrory, 12 Ala. 349.

Missouri.— Chouteau v. Steamboat St. Anthony, 11 Mo. 226.

New Hampshire.— Mayall v. Boston, etc., R. Co., 19 N. H. 122, 49 Am. Dec. 149; Bean v. Sturtevant, 8 N. H. 146, 28 Am. Dec. 389.

New York.— Rogers v. Wheeler, 52 N. Y. 262; Ball v. New Jersey Steamboat Co., 1 Daly (N. Y.) 491; Rogers v. Long Island R. Co., 38 How. Pr. (N. Y.) 289.

South Carolina.— McClure v. Richardson, 1 Rice (S. C.) 215, 33 Am. Dec. 105.

Vermont.— Landon v. Proctor, 39 Vt. 78; Farmers', etc., Bank v. Champlain Transp. Co., 23 Vt. 186, 56 Am. Dec. 68.

See 9 Cent. Dig. tit. "Carriers," §§ 104, 107.

Advertisement by a carrier that a special messenger is sent in charge of goods does not show authority of such messenger to contract for or receive freight. Thurman v. Wells, 18 Barb. (N. Y.) 500.

66. Witbeck v. Schuyler, 44 Barb. (N. Y.) 469, 31 How. Pr. (N. Y.) 97.

Where a driver was not authorized to receive goods, and there was no custom that he should do so, held that his act in accepting goods for transportation was not binding on the carrier. Jenkins v. Pickett, 9 Yerg. (Tenn.) 480.

67. Barter v. Wheeler, 49 N. H. 9, 6 Am. Rep. 434; Sumner v. Charlotte, etc., R. Co., 78 N. C. 289; The Guiding Star, 53 Fed. 936.

68. Phillips v. Earle, 8 Pick. (Mass.) 182; Cronkite v. Wells, 32 N. Y. 247; Thurman v. Wells, 18 Barb. (N. Y.) 500; Southern Express Co. v. McVeigh, 20 Gratt. (Va.) 264. But to render a railroad company liable as carrier for goods claimed to have been delivered to its agent at a distance from the line of the road, to be carried by him to the road and thence transported on its line, the authority of such agent to bind the company

G. Shipping Receipts, Bills of Lading, and Special Contracts — 1. Receipts. The validity of stipulations contained in shipping receipts by which it is attempted to limit the liability of the carrier has already been discussed.[69] In accordance with the general principles elaborated in that connection it is usually held that a receipt given by the carrier to the shipper, so far as it contains stipulations as to the transportation, constitutes the contract under which the goods are to be transported, and its terms are binding on both parties.[70] And therefore its terms cannot be varied or added to by parol evidence, as, for instance, that the goods were sent C. O. D.,[71] or that, where by the terms of the receipt the goods are sent C. O. D., it was not agreed between the parties that there should be any collection made before delivery,[72] or that the rate of transportation agreed upon was different from that named in the receipt.[73] But even in this light a carrier's receipt is not conclusive evidence of the contract,[74] for parol evidence is admissible to show that the written instrument never had any legal existing or binding force, and was given under such circumstances that it failed to state the agreement of the parties.[75] The fact is that so far as such an instrument is and purports to be only an acknowledgment of the receipt of the goods it is not a contract at all. If it purports to contain a stipulation with reference to the transportation it may of course constitute a contract and be binding, but if it purports to be a receipt only, even though it contains a memorandum as to the rate of freight, it will not be conclusive.[76] Where a receipt is delivered after shipment under an oral agreement, it will not supersede the agreement under which the shipment was made.[77] On the other hand, if the receipt indicates that a subsequent bill of lading is to be issued containing the contract, then it will be superseded by the bill of lading when issued, so far as its terms are different from those in the ordinary bill of lading.[78] As a receipt merely, showing the delivery of the goods to the carrier and reciting that they were received in apparent good must be shown. Missouri Coal, etc., Co. v. Hannibal, etc., R. Co., 35 Mo. 84.

Authority of agents to make contracts will be hereafter considered. See infra, II, G, 5.

69. See supra, II, E, 5, b.

70. Collender v. Dinsmore, 55 N. Y. 200, 14 Am. Rep. 224; Huntington v. Dinsmore, 4 Hun (N. Y.) 66, 6 Thomps. & C. (N. Y.) 195; Soumet v. National Express Co., 66 Barb. (N. Y.) 284; Falkenan v. Fargo, 35 N. Y. Super. Ct. 332, 44 How. Pr. (N. Y.) 325.

Where the receipt was in the usual form, and stated that the goods were to be delivered at a point on another road, it was held that there was an implied agreement on the part of the carrier to take the goods to their destination. Landes v. Pacific R. Co., 50 Mo. 346. And see infra, II, G, 3.

71. Smith v. Southern Express Co., 104 Ala. 387, 16 So. 62.

Application of rules relating to bills of lading.— What is to be said hereafter as to varying bills of lading by parol so far as such instruments constitute receipts for the goods is applicable here (see infra, II, G, 2, b); and some of the questions discussed in this paragraph are further elucidated in a subsequent paragraph relating to carriers' contracts in general (see infra, II, G, 3).

72. American Express Co. v. Lesem, 39 Ill. 312.

Further as to transportation C. O. D. see infra, II, L, 7.

73. Niles v. Culver, 8 Barb. (N. Y.) 205.

74. Pereira v. Central Pac. R. Co., 66 Cal. 92, 4 Pac. 988.

75. Purcell v. Southern Express Co., 34 Ga. 315.

Ambiguous terms in the receipt may be explained by parol evidence (Savannah, etc., R. Co. v. Collins, 77 Ga. 376, 3 S. E. 416, 4 Am. St. Rep. 87); for instance, where the letters "C. O. D." are used parol evidence is admissible to explain their meaning (American Express Co. v. Lesem, 39 Ill. 312; Collender v. Dinsmore, 55 N. Y. 200, 14 Am. Rep. 224).

76. Wood v. Steamboat Fleetwood, 22 Mo. 560.

Independent oral agreement.— It may be shown that there was an independent and collateral oral agreement outside of or superseding the terms of the receipt. The evidence as to the whole transaction should be considered in determining what the contract was. Union R., etc., Co. v. Riegel, 73 Pa. St. 72.

77. Strohn v. Detroit, etc., R. Co., 21 Wis. 554, 94 Am. Dec. 564.

78. Merchants' Despatch Transp. Co. v. Furthmann, 149 Ill. 66, 36 N. E. 624, 41 Am. St. Rep. 265; Blanchard v. Page, 8 Gray (Mass.) 281.

Even if the receipt has the form of a bill of lading it will not constitute the contract of shipment if it was not understood to have been delivered and received with that intention. Flash v. New Orleans, etc., R. Co., 23 La. Ann. 353.

order, it is not conclusive, but constitutes merely an admission, subject to explanation.[79]

