Your Selling Cost is Reduced by Our Advertising

It costs you so much to sell every cigar that goes out of your store. This selling cost comes out of your gross profit and reduces your net profit. Naturally you want to keep your selling cost as low in proportion to sales as you possibly can.

For this reason, you will find it more profitable to handle a cigar that is widely known and widely advertised.

The Rigoletto Cigar

is easier to sell in larger quantities because it is widely and favorably known by means of our national advertising. Every smoker knows it now or will know it because we shall keep on advertising till every one is reached. It is easier to sell a man a cigar he knows. He will buy in larger quantities. Your selling cost is less.

Our national advertising campaign builds big profitable trade for you as well as business for us.

If you are not putting out your share of Rigolettos you are losing good money. Get in touch with your jobber or write direct and we will see that you are supplied.

Stogie Makers Arrested Held as Revenue Dodgers

BUFFALO, N. Y., Dec. 29.

WHOLESALE arrests and a heavy seizure of cigars was the result of a raid by Internal Revenue Inspectors upon Niagara Falls cigarmakers. Ten or a dozen manufacturers of a product consisting chiefly of long, black stogies, made of Kentucky-grown tobacco, and merchants who were selling them, were taken into custody by the government officials. All the prisoners were Italians.

Warrants for them had been issued by United States Commissioner Robinson, of Buffalo. They were charged with violation of the internal revenue laws, it being alleged that the cigars were manufactured and sold without payment of the internal revenue tax.

The cigars were sold for not more than $7 a thousand, while the government tax on all cigars is $3 a thousand. It was this low price which caused the revenue inspectors to direct their attention to the matter, precipitating an investigation as the culmination of a coup planned by them some time ago. The fact that no revenue stamps were bought by the arrested manufacturers convinced the officials of their guilt and the raid was then executed.

Preliminary hearings were adjourned until next week, when the cases will come up before United States Commissioner Robinson, of Buffalo.

Independent Retailers Demand Heavy Tax Upon Coupons

Tobacconists' Association Renew War Against the System—Ask for Action in Congress

THE Independent Retail Tobacconists' Association held a meeting at Terrace Garden, New York, on the evening of Thursday, December 28th, for the purpose of denouncing the coupon system used by the United Cigar Stores Co., which they claim is unfair competition. The meeting was better attended than any of the previous gatherings, and those present paid very serious attention to the able addresses which were made by Henry H. Hunter, attorney for the organization; Leslie W. Ferguson, attorney for the Newark Retailers' Organization; Otto S. Jonas, Secretary of the New York Retailers; Robert E. Lane, the well known importer and former retailer, who has always been a moving spirit in retailers' organizations in this city; Alfred Samuels and Vincent J. Farley.

Gov. John A. Dix, of New York, expressed, in a written communication, his regret at being unable to attend the gathering but assured the Association of his heartiest support in their efforts to oust the coupon. Similar communications were received from Mayor Gaynor, of New York, and Senators Gorman and Borah.

Mr. Hunter was very positive in his opinion that the coupon should be declared illegal throughout the country, in as much as it had been so declared by a Supreme Court ruling in the District of Columbia. He stated that when

Tampa Cigar Industry Closes Biggest Year

Production Reaches Nearly 300,000,000 Cigars Breaking All Records—How the Enterprise was Founded

TAMPA, FLORIDA, December 26th.

CLOSING the most successful year in the history of her cigar industry, Tampa approaches the New Year full of confidence and ambition. While no final figures are available at this date, it is conservatively estimated that this year's production will approximate 300,000,000 cigars, a gain of nearly 100,000,000 over 1910, and about 15,000,000 more than the highest previous record, which was made in 1907.

Reviewing the birth and the growth of the industry in this city, the Tampa "Times," on December 19th, published a report of interesting statistics which speak for themselves. Speaking of Tampa's industry, the "Times" said:

"In Tampa there are over two hundred factories making cigars. They employ from 10,000 to 15,000 cigar-workers. There are nearly 15,000 men and women engaged in the making of cigars. These workers, when pushed to their capacity, can turn out a million and a quarter cigars in a day. They earn nearly $250,000 a week.

The Origin of Tampa's Industry.

"And this industry started some twenty years ago because a man wanted some guavas. A guava, to those who have never met it, is best known by those who love it as the 'Florida peach.' The guava is a globular, taffy-colored fruit, which looks bilious and has a smell similar to a congressional investigation. You have to cultivate a taste for the guava. However, this isn't a dissertation on the guava—the most maligned fruit of the tropics—but the wonder of it is that Tampa's chief industry was founded on a guava. Of course, after you fall in love with the guava, you are its slave ever afterward, but—

"A certain distinguished Spanish fruit exporter in New York was short on guavas and heard that they were raised in Tampa, as well as in Cuba. So he came here, and was disappointed in his investigation. The guava was not then spoken of in polite society. While here he interested a distinguished Cuban, who accompanied him to Tampa, to start a cigar factory in Tampa. He conceived the idea, like the good business man that he was, that the protective duty would admit the raw material into America, where Cuban workmen could make up the cigars, and sell the same brands as made in Havana at a less cost than the Havana goods, plus the tariff.

"And so the cigar industry had its growth.

"The Tampa cigar, however, is not to be associated with the guava. It smells better—in fact, its bouquet has no equal.

"In Tampa every condition is favorable to the making of the best cigars. The Cuban and Spanish workmen are as firmly implanted in the city as in their native countries. They have their 'quarters,' where they are surrounded with the coffee houses, clubs, theatres, amusements, parks, and support two hospitals. The Latin people are ingrafted into this city as an integral part thereof. They have assimilated with American conditions to a certain extent, and as a whole are desirable citizens.

"Owners of factories and high-class help, professional and business men of the Latin element are among our most enterprising and patriotic citizens, and mingle and associate with the Americans freely and congenially.

"And these are reasons why the cigar industry is a permanent fixture of Tampa, ever growing and expanding, until today Tampa makes more high-grade cigars than any other city in the world, and more Havana cigars than Cuba and Key West combined.

A Comparison, Year by Year.

"The story of the industry is told in figures printed at the head of this column.

"It is said that the average price of cigars shipped from Tampa is $85 per thousand. This substantiates the statement that this year's cigar business will total $25,000,000.

"The industry has increased over 100 per cent. the past ten years, and there is every reason to believe that this ratio will be sustained in future development.

Handsome Factories.

"The factory buildings are mostly of brick with some assuming beauty in architecture, but all substantial, three-story and four-story buildings, and a great majority set back in large lots surrounded with lawns and proper shrubbery and flower adornments.

"The factories are clean and sanitary, with every comfort for the workmen—they are necessarily well-lighted, and therefore the ventilation is the best.

"Every bit of tobacco that enters into the manufacture of these high grade Tampa hand-made cigars, is grown in the island of Cuba, each section of the island devoted to tobacco culture producing a leaf with individual qualities and characteristics. The purchasing of this tobacco by the Tampa manufacturers is one of the most particular parts of the entire work of manufacturing—so important in fact, that many manufacturers will not permit an employe to handle it, but will spend weeks and even months each year traveling over the island, sometimes in great discomfort, in order to select the particular crop that will satisfy the customers whose tastes they have educated to a peculiar flavor of the weed.

Workmen Earn Good Wages.

How to Color a "Meerschaum" Pipe

By James M. Fordyce

IN the days of our childhood, a genuine, sure-enough, meerschaum pipe was a family possession to be reckoned with. Most of us remember it and the exceptional pride with which we mentioned the fact of papa's owning one to the neighbor's boy and the care with which we handled it and tried it out in the absence of the old gentleman.

With the advent of cheaper methods of manufacturing these once treasured pipes, attendant upon the introduction of modern machinery, all this has become a thing of the past. "Why," sighed a New York cigar store man, reminiscently and sadly, the other day, in talking over the subject, "I recall the time when I made a nice bit of pin money for my best girl by coloring meerschaum pipes for the best class of smokers. New York's elite used to pay me all the way from $5 up for coloring a pipe. Now the process is done by machinery at $2, and while it was impossible for me to smoke more than one pipe at a time, the machines puff half a dozen at once. To be perfectly frank, they do it even better than I could, excluding the risk of spoiling the pipe. The assertion that work done by hand is better and more durable than the machine-made product is here as elsewhere coming to grief.

"Today you can buy genuine meerschaums for 75 cents, and nobody cares to have so cheap a pipe colored. Hence the old time business of coloring these pipes, which in its heyday was such a lucrative addition to my income, has passed out of existence.

"The process of coloring meerschaums was a most interesting one, and considered to be a secret with professionals by the uninitiated. The secret consisted in not allowing the bowl to get too hot. All meerschaum pipes are boiled in wax, which penetrates the clay—for that's all meerschaum is—and which carries the tobacco oil to all parts of the surface, preventing its exuding. The nature of heat is to drive all liquid away, and if the pipe is smoked too fast the heat generated will drive the wax to the extremes. That is why most meerschaums show color first in those places. Just as soon as the wax is all driven out there is an end to the hope of ever coloring the pipe unless it is re-boiled.

"To prevent this burning, smoke slowly, with long steady puffs. If the bowl gets hot, lay the pipe aside at once. Also, let the pipe be thoroughly cold before re-filling it after smoking. Nothing will ruin your pipe sooner than keeping it steadily in use.

Some Ways of Coloring.

"A good idea is to get a false bowl and fit it inside of the pipe. Pack the bowl with cotton first. This will tend to cool the smoke and distribute it and the oil. With such precautions you can keep the bowl cool and the pipe will be colored evenly from the top of the bowl to the end of the stem. Another way to do it is to get a button for the bottom of the pipe bowl. This is a more comfortable way, and it prevents the pipe from becoming too bulky, but the smoker must use greater care not to overheat the pipe. In this case do not fill the pipe to the top of the bowl.

"Meerschaum is a most delicate clay, and exceedingly sensitive to the changes in the temperature. It therefore is unwise to smoke the pipe out-of-doors in winter, or expose it to any great cold or draft, as this may cause it to crack or snap in pieces. Do not handle the bowl or even touch it, as this will cause it to become mottled and dirty. Nor should it be covered with chamois, as this will absorb the wax and leave the bowl spotted.

"Melted beeswax should be used if after a period of use the bowl gets blackened. This will cause the blackness to disappear. The same remedy is effective where the bowl has been scratched. The blackness under the influence of the wax will spread itself evenly over the surface, becoming a dark brown.

The Modern Way.

"The modern method of coloring meerschaum pipes is by the use of a machine to which any number of pipes may be attached. All are connected by tubes to the bellows, which draws the smoke steadily and very slowly, just enough to keep the tobacco lighted. After one set of pipes is "smoked" out, they are laid away to cool and another set is attached. In this way the pipes may be colored in a few days without the slightest risk.

THE MOST AROMATIC OF ALL TOBACCOS

Perique is the Most Costly of Any Tobacco

By HENRY N. LEWIS

The cost of producing Perique is greater than that of any other tobacco, yet it brings the grower an average price of only twenty-five cents per pound. Good Perique growing land, which will yield a maximum amount of 600 pounds green per arpent (one arpent equals five-sixths of an English acre) is worth from $30 to $50 per arpent, and has a rental value of $5 per arpent. Wages are seventy-five cents a day with board.

Perique growing holds out no rosy promises to empire builders. Where land was rented and labor employed, the actual cost of production, exclusive of tax, on four arpents of land, was shown to be 27½ cents per pound, which entailed a loss of $29.50 per arpent. But for the fact that the Acadian women and children do the larger share of the work, and the farms are too small to furnish any other crop that can be handled so economically (the farms contain twelve arpents usually) Perique growing would cease altogether. During the sugar season many of the men find employment on the sugar plantations, while others get work at odd times in the saw mills at Litcher.

There have been no satisfactory tests made with fertilizers in the Perique districts, but beyond the use of a limited amount of cow dung and cotton seed meal, artificial crop forciers on alluvial lands generally tend to increase the yield only at the expense of quality. Maximum yield at Grande Pointe of 600 pounds green, or 360 pounds cured, per arpent is small, even in comparison with the yield in other sections of Louisiana. On land one mile below Baton Rouge, in a season too wet for good results, the State Agricultural Station, by using a limited amount of fertilizer, raised 7550 pounds green per arpent of Havana seed leaf, and as much as 11,025 pounds green per arpent of imported Havana. The Acadian farmer is not given to scientific experimenting, however, looking to an increase in the revenue from his fields, rather laughing "to see how fools are vexed to add to golden numbers," is quite content with what he has.

While Perique is generally given credit for possessing great strength—it seems to grow stronger as it loses its moisture—and for this reason is thought to be good only for blending with milder sorts of tobacco, in reality its percentage of nicotine (4.32) is not greatly in excess of that in the average imported Havana cigar types, and less than that of most of the Kentucky export types. If cut from an Acadian-manufactured carotte (there is as much difference between the home-made article and the product sold for Perique by some of the large factories as there is between country eggs and the cold storage variety) and put at once into an air-tight receptacle, there can be no more delightful tobacco to smoke than Perique. It is mild, with an oily smoothness, without a trace of acidity, and has a flavor that is incomparable.

Perique is indeed a "generous" tobacco. One that the "short-faced, slight man" would have approved of and mentioned kindly in a paper if he had smoked it. And I am sure the smoke of it would have drifted over across the Dove from the cottage of the gentle Piscator if Perique could have been had in London in his day. Its effect is to produce a physical exhilaration, like that, in a mild way, produced by old wine, at the same time stimulating the brain to a marked degree.

It is no more an article for steady diet by an inveterate smoker, though, than ancient brandy is a suitable liquor for a toper. Like Cuban-prepared coffee, its appearance is deceiving, and in rational doses it will conduce rather than retard sleep, leaving brain and body refreshed in the morning. While, as I mentioned, rum and sugar are used to imitate the flavor of Perique, pure Perique depends solely upon its essential juices and gums, and the natural chemical changes which they undergo in curing, for its fine taste.

It was with some trepidation that I ventured into the Acadian settlements to learn the mysteries of Perique-making. "Those people up there will tell you nothing," I was told. "Why, they'll think you've come to filch their very birthright, and you may get shot," concluded my fearsome opponent. So I looked for bullets—but they gave me carottes of old Perique. I expected to find a sullen, morose people in the Acadians, but I found instead a light-hearted clan, who are possessed of an inborn gentleness and courtesy that is acquired only after three generations by less simple folk.

Grande Pointe is as primitive a settlement as an outpost of pioneer days. The yards about the weather-stained wooden houses are as barren of adornment as an Arizona flat. But the cottages are clean inside, and have an air of old-fashioned comfort which only open fires and four-posted beds and home-woven rugs can impart. The natives themselves are clean, too, for they hold in full measure homely pleasures and the happiness of health. The settlers are given to sweeping down on one another at frequent intervals, each bearing his portion of a feast. And they have the town orchestra come out from Litcher at these times and they dance to its music on the level ground. Sometimes a rain comes up and the musicians flee for the shelter of the galleries. But the dancers gayly hold their places and balance and swing over the wet sod as merrily as any rustics under a harvest moon.

I spent the night in a small room, with rafters low overhead, in the only hotel of the village of Convent, which sits, white and prim, on a long green street back of the high levee. The room was as spotless as the closet of a nun, and there were Christs and Holy Mothers on the white walls. A sober-faced little chap requested me in deliberate English to "please unlight the lamp." And the next morning, just as the sun crept over the levee and through the tiny panes of the long French windows, I looked down from my canopy of state on a glorious sight, as the same grave voice came over a tin tray, just as if it thought I had been accustomed to such luxuries all my life, "I haf here your coffee, sare."

In the little town of Litcher the old homestead of Pierre Chenet may still be seen, a quaint, one-story cottage, with square roof projecting over a long, vine-covered veranda. I found no one who could show me Pierre's grave, but "Blest be his shade," say I, and wherever his narrow cell may be, "may laurels ever bloom, and breathing sweet exhale around his tomb."

PROBLEMS of the RETAILER

Ever Advertise? Do It Now

If you have any faith in the value of advertising, there is no time of the year more suitable for an earnest effort in this direction than immediately preceding the Christmas holidays. In fact, if a campaign had been started a little earlier than the present it might have been all the better. But it is not yet too late to show your enterprise by making the strongest effort you can to popularize your store by advertising.

The utility of advertising to the public is being more generally realized year by year, and the daily newspapers are again beginning to show some catchy announcements, not only of cigars, but of smokers' goods and other articles appropriate to the season.

The results of an intelligent and thoughtfully carried out campaign are generally satisfactory and quite commensurate with the outlay of money. It must be remembered, however, that several things are essential in making advertising profitable, the most important of which are quality in the goods advertised, and efficiency in the establishment doing advertising. If either of these factors are lacking the fullest benefit is not likely to be derived from the advertising outlay, no matter how attractive the advertising matter may have been.

Not long ago the writer read a narrative of the success of an advertising campaign which was instituted by a New York State retailer. The establishment was very ordinary, conducted by the proprietor and a boy who found it necessary, in order to make a living, to devote their spare time, which was considerable, to making cigars. In the course of time the boy became a young man, and the man who was the proprietor had tired of the business and was willing to give it up, consequently the young man became the proprietor.

One of the first things the young proprietor did was to give the place a general cleaning up, and also spend a little money for new fixtures and then made it his business to see that each visitor who came into the store was given a cordial greeting and sent away satisfied.

From that time on the business began to show signs of renewed life, but it was only growing slowly. During a conversation one evening with a newspaper friend who had dropped in to buy a few smokes, the young proprietor was persuaded to try a little advertising. The undertaking was commenced in a very modest way at first, by using a space of probably three inches single column, in the most popular evening paper of the town, and which was published twice a week.

This was followed up by reading notices run in a daily and was continued for some weeks. The readers were well thought out and made interesting reading matter. Indeed, they were so catchy that within a few weeks they were literally the talk of the town, or rather the cigar buying part of the town.

Then business began to pick up at the store. New faces were seen daily. People dropped in who said, "I have been reading your advertisements lately and I thought I would drop in to see what sort of a place you kept."

Here was an opportunity for the proprietor to show his wisdom by efficient store management. Every new customer was treated so attentively that he became a steady patron.

No attempt was made to advertise special bargains, and only standard brands of cigars were handled. If any customer expressed a preference for a certain cigar that was not in stock, a supply was promptly obtained.

No coupons were given and no premiums of any kind were offered. The store was always kept clean, well lighted and neatly arranged. A special feature was made of early opening so that workmen who had to start out as early as six o'clock in the morning, might have opportunity to fill their tobacco pouches.

The business became prosperous and ere long it was necessary to increase the selling force. Instead of employing a new clerk, the proprietor wisely reasoned that it would be better to take into partnership a young man who was ambitious and energetic, and thus there was also added to the business additional capital. Furthermore, it was a reasonable assurance that the interest and attention would be given to the business which only a person really interested can give.

Before the advertising campaign had been going on a year the store had outgrown its small quarters on a side street, so that larger quarters on a more prominent thoroughfare were obtained and in the best part of the main street.

The original and successful policy was maintained. Advertising was continued and the most efficient store service possible was given. Needless to say that the business continued to prosper, and when the matter of more help again became imperative the policy of adding another partner was pursued rather than to hire a clerk. Now, the store is doing by far the largest business of any tobacconist's establishment in the same place.

It might be said, by way of comparison, that when the advertising campaign was first started, receipts of $10 per day was considered good; now $400 a day is not a surprising sum to them.

What advertising did in this instance is not an impossibility in other places, and to hundreds of other small tobacco shopkeepers. There were no peculiar circumstances or propitious surroundings in this particular instance that are not found in other places, and there is no reason why a cigar store that is now just "hanging on" should not bring its business up to several times the amount at least, if the proprietor has the courage and a little intelligence to undertake its proper advertising.

Combining Wisconsin Cigar Stores

THE Reeves-Dana Cigar Co., of Fond du Lac; the Jenkins-Mevins Cigar Co., of Green Bay; the Nelson-Kiel Cigar Co., of Hartford, and the H. C. Jenkins Cigar Co., of Oshkosh, Wis., at present separate corporations, have all filed notice of dissolution, with the Secretary of State, in order to bring about a combination, the articles for which they filed some months ago.

The Jenkins Company, of Oshkosh, owns stock in each of the above-named corporations, and was instrumental in their organization. The plan now is to combine them all in one corporation. To this end the individual corporation must be dissolved.

A meeting is to be held, at Oshkosh, in a short time, and it is probable that all of the branch stores will adopt the caption, "Jenkins Cigar Co."

LET well enough alone" has a very comfortable sound, but there is nothing in it, which enables a man to get ahead.

Most retailers are satisfied with their methods. They think they are making money. But here is a letter which suggests a reason for the many failures among these same satisfied retailers. The story was told in a letter to the service department of a large manufacturer of store equipment.

This paper has often tried to point out the necessity for figuring profits on the selling price, but the story so strongly illustrates the point that we print it for what it is worth.

The retailer, whose name we cannot give because it might affect his credit, is in business in Indiana. He thought until a week or so ago, that he was going to make a good profit this year in addition to his salary, but he has discovered that he has actually lost $1125.

"I started the year," he said, "with $1100 in the bank and a stock inventory of $3450. Doing a cash business, I had no outstanding accounts, and my accounts payable amounted to only $550. Assets, $4550. Liabilities, $550.

"My business for the year aggregated $40,600. My stock inventory at the end of the year is $3250. My bank balance is $600. Accounts payable against me, aggregate $975. I have drawn nothing from the business, except my salary of $100 a month. Assets, $3850. Liabilities, $975.

"I found that my cost of doing business was 22 per cent., including my salary. I figured that I should make a profit of 10 per cent., and marked all my goods for that profit.

"I made my purchases carefully, so that my stock did not pile up. I handled only such goods as I was able to move and could make the 10 per cent. profit on.

"But I find my inventory smaller, my bank balance smaller, and my debts bigger at the end of the year.

"I expected a profit above expenses of $2500. I thought I had that profit, but my year-end statement shows that I have lost $1125.

"Can you tell me the answer to this puzzle?" His mistake was this: He took his cost of doing business and his profit from the cost price. He should have taken both from the selling price.

He has less money in the bank. He owes more. He has less stock. He has not made 10 per cent.—that is plain. Instead, he has lost the amount of the decrease in stock and cash and the amount of the increase in debts.

Why? The service department of the manufacturer to whom he wrote, figured out the problem for him. He thought he was adding 10 per cent. for profit, but in reality he did not add anything for profit.

Suppose an article cost him $2.25. Suppose his cost of doing business was 22 per cent., and it was desired to fix a price that would allow 10 per cent. profit. He added 32 per cent. to the cost price of $2.25, and thought he was adding 10 per cent. for profit!

He had estimated his cost of doing business, of course, as 22 per cent. on his gross business, or on the selling price of the article. Instead of allowing 22 per cent. on the selling price for cost of doing business, he added 49.5 cents to the cost price. Instead of allowing 10 per cent. on the selling price for profit, he added 22.5 cents to the cost price. It really cost him almost 73 cents to sell the article, one cent more than both the amounts he added.

Here is the difference: The article was sold for $2.97, or probably $3, when it had to be sold at $3.31 to get 10 per cent. profit. He needed a gross business of over $50,000 on the same wholesale cost to make his 10 per cent. profit.

Prove the figures: 22 per cent. on $3.31 is nearly 73 cents; 10 per cent. on $3.31 is a little over 33 cents. Adding 73 and 33 gives us $1.06. Adding this to $2.25 gives us $3.31.

The whole problem hinges here: Figure your percentages on the selling price.

Successful Boston Co-operative Cigar Co.

THAT the operations of the Massachusetts Co-operative Cigar Co., has been skilfully and successfully conducted is evidenced by the fact that after an existence of only one year a dividend of 7 per cent. has been declared on its capital stock.

The president of the company is J. Arthur Bean, with whom are associated six other men all prominent in the retail drug trade, and the business is confined largely to the drug trade. Their factory headquarters are at Bridgewater, Mass.

The cash drawer of the Moffatt Cigar Store, on West Main street, Rockford, Ill., was recently robbed of its contents, amounting to about $200. The loss was not discovered until the following morning when the store was opened by a clerk, who found the transom over the front door had been opened, which pointed to the manner of the burglar's entry. The police have been unable to obtain any clue.

After carrying away between $700 and $800 worth of cigars from the cigar store of Arndy & Co., 603 North Broadway, Pittsburgh, Mo., some days ago, burglars attempted to cover up their crime by setting fire to the stock and the building. The flames were extinguished only after damage to the extent of $2500 had been inflicted.

STRANGE, isn't it, how the sea-faring people love tobacco, preferably in their corn-cob pipes or in a real juicy chewing form. No stronger evidence of the sailor's love for tobacco is furnished than the recent incident reported in the newspapers from Galveston, Texas. It appears that when the schooner "Clancy Brown," with a cargo of coal, 33 days out from Baltimore, arrived at Galveston, the crew were in a state of mutiny because of a tobacco famine aboard.

The schooner had been blown out of its course and when the supply of chewing and smoking tobacco ran out on the 21st day, the crew became irritable and mutinous and refused to obey orders, quarreled and several times threatened to take the vessel and land somewhere in quest of the coveted weed. When they reached port, the first thing that they did was to dash ashore and buy a bountiful supply of their favorite brands.

The "Mystery of the Ten Dollar Note," is the name of a pathetic playlet, which was dedicated to the most popular cigarette salesman (we won't mention his name). The first half of the play reminds one of "farmer" and the action of the sad, sad story brings out the fact that he was appropriately named.

Ever hear the old gag about the innocent stranger picking up a package containing a diamond in a street car, and his excited neighbor offering to buy it for ten dollars? History tells us that Father Abraham was the first one who bit on this bait, and the last one from whom we have heard is this fin de siècle purveyor of butts.

The play was taken from life, and the incident came as a caption to a day full of interesting experiences for the unfortunate "wuyctim."

A tender heart and the spirit of mercy prevents the observer from mentioning the cognomen of the hero, but his adventures during the course of that unfortunate twenty-four hours are the talk of Broadway, and ——— says he is going away for a month, because he is not kid proof.

Two salesmen and one customer entered a prominent restaurant at luncheon time. The subject of this story suddenly discovered that he had lost his pocketbook, and in wild tones of anxiety exclaimed that it had contained fifty dollars. He accused everybody in the restaurant, and made himself generally disagreeable. As a matter of fact, one of the friends present had taken the pocketbook as a joke, and turned it over to the stenographer at the office, instructing her to return it to the rightful owner about three hours later with the remark that "It had been brought by the waiter from the restaurant," but the joke is that the pocketbook never contained more than forty-six dollars, so that extra ten dollars added to the loss was a lapse of memory on the part of the owner, which worried the practical joker for a time.

After explanations and apologies had been made, Hero enters subway train, and falls all over himself, to put up ten dollars for a diamond (?) which he afterwards found was made from an old beer bottle.

Tears and soft music. Curtain.

American travelers, returning from China, report an astounding increase in the consumption of cigarettes by the Chinese. Until recently, the average Chinaman preferred the opium pipe to any brand of tobacco, however enticing it might be. Evidently now he has turned from the injurious hop to the mild and seductive cigarette.

A Kansas City man, recently returning from the far East, stated that he was amazed by the growth of the cigarette habit among the Orientals. "A few years ago," he said, "there was little demand for tobacco, but today the British-American Tobacco Company is erecting numerous cigarette factories and warehouses at important points throughout the Chinese empire."

When Mrs. Sarah Brandon, who now resides with her son, on a little farm, near Key, Ohio, passes out of this world, some people will no doubt say that she smoked herself to death.

Mrs. Brandon only celebrated her one hundred and eleventh birthday during the past month, and her birthday present consisted of a large package of smoking tobacco, presented by her son, Evan, who is only at the tender age of eighty.

The old lady's age is thoroughly authenticated, and she is described as wonderfully active at the present time, doing considerable housework, and even going into the fields to assist.

For over a half century she has constantly smoked a pipe, and it is today one of her chief comforts.

Mrs. Brandon is the mother of thirty-two children, and sent sixteen boys to the Civil War.

Eureka! Second only to the time and thought spent upon the effort to find the Perpetum Mobilar has been the vast amount of time devoted by retailers in all branches of commerce to the problem of discovering whether or not their employes were "tapping the till."

The writer has found the man who has solved this most difficult of problems.

While standing in a prominent cigar store, the other day, I overheard the proprietor ask the following question of a young man who was applying for a position: "Are You Honest?" The young man promptly replied that he was, which relieved so much worry from this particular merchant's mind. This method is so simple that it has never been used by anybody except the party referred to.

EDITORIAL

A splendid tribute to Tampa's cigar industry is paid in the twelve-page supplement issued by the Tampa Daily Times under date of December 19th. In this number the birth, growth and development of Tampa's importance as a cigar manufacturing centre are treated most interestingly and revealed in the light of figures which speak for themselves.

From 1897, when about 90,000,000 cigars were shipped, to 1911 when the production approximated 300,000,000, the advance of Tampa has been marvelous. Despite the fact that the year just closed has witnessed serious labor disturbances which cut down the production, 1911 will stand out as the banner year of the Tampa industry, not only in the volume of production, but also in the improved quality and the good name which Tampa-made goods have achieved everywhere.

The advance of Tampa has not been an accident. In seeking for the causes, one must give the lion's share of the credit to those pioneers, who first recognizing the ideal conditions for cigar manufacture, planted themselves squarely in Tampa and laid the foundations for their business years ago. The progress has been accelerated with amazing speed the last ten years, but the greatest growth has been for the year 1910-11 when the production leaped nearly 100,000,000.

No Tampa manufacturer can view the figures of progress without being thrilled with a sense of pride. THE TOBACCO WORLD congratulates Tampa upon the unprecedented showing with the hope that the coming year will see even greater progress. Conditions are ripe for such advancement and we can see no barrier in its way.

The history of any industry is only valuable inasmuch as it serves to point out the mistakes from which we may profit by not repeating and the inspirations it might hold for future achievement. So it is with the cigar and tobacco business. The year just closed has been a history-making one in every branch of the tobacco trade; marking as it did the dissolution and reorganization of the biggest single factor in the tobacco industry; a determined attempt to throw open the markets of America to freer competition and a general cleaning of the Augean stables.

That this legal revolution, wrought through the highest courts of the land, will bring about a millennium of brotherly competition in the cigar and tobacco business is too much to hope for, but we believe that the storm has cleared the atmosphere of much foul air and that every one in the trade will breathe more freely hereafter. It is as yet too early to judge the effects of the reorganization of the American Tobacco Company and fair-minded people will reserve their judgments until a later date.

Viewed from the standpoint of production, the past year has been a success for the cigar manufacturer. However, the high price of leaf, especially Havana, and the increased cost of manufacture have cut seriously into the profits of some of the largest manufacturers. Cigarettes and little cigars, too, have shown gratifying increases and the only branches of the trade that fell off were manufactured tobacco and snuff.

Failures in the cigar and tobacco business have been few and comparatively unimportant.

The condition of the leaf market during 1911 was rather unsettled, the high prices prevailing on many grades causing considerable uneasiness and resulting in a sacrifice of profits.

The Havana market experienced a shortage in high class leaf and the resultant high prices considerably curtailed the buying. However, the production of Havana-made cigars shows a very satisfactory increase.

In the twilight of 1911 we find business still unsettled, but making headway towards the dawn of a year that promises better things. While pessimists may lugubriously proclaim that Presidential years always witness an unsettling of business conditions, we cannot coincide with them that the cigar and tobacco business for 1912 will be considerably affected by the election of the chief magistrate for the nation.

Cigars and tobacco will be made and smoked uninterruptedly in 1912. It is up to the manufacturers, jobbers and retailers to see that they get their share of the business and not idly bemoan the fact that business is bad, since these complaints of themselves will serve to knock out the props of confidence and crumble the house of trade.

Rather let us all work together, boosting optimistically to make 1912 a banner year in the cigar and tobacco trade.

Here's hoping.

New Year Resolutions

¶New Year, indeed, is the proper time for all good resolutions to be made and abided by. The wise ones of earth not only make them, but keep them. Therein, they differ from the other fellow.

¶Move along with the time, note quickly and profit by the changes which are constantly taking place in the world of commerce and industry. The way to keep the finger on the pulse of time, however, is to read every issue of THE TOBACCO WORLD from cover to cover.

DISTRIBUTORS

Flourishing Little Rock (Ark.) Establishment

THERE is a particularly flourishing establishment at Little Rock, Ark., which is conducted by Thompson Bros., and is known as the Wall Street Tobacco Shop. It is located at 110 West Second street, which is directly in the financial district of the city.

This year they are showing a larger and better selection of high-grade goods for the Holiday trade than ever before, and this comprehensive line and the highly courteous treatment toward all customers will assure them of an exceptionally fine season's business.

Among the more prominent brand of high grade cigars might be mentioned the "Charles, the Great," made by Salvador Rodriguez, New York and Tampa; "Optimo," made by A. Santaella & Co., New York and Tampa; "Dulce," made by Salvador Sanchez & Co., Tampa and Chicago, all in clear Havana, and the "Lawrence Barrett," a seed and Havana product from the factory of Bondy & Lederer, New York. In the nickel variety there appears the "Havana Sticks," made by the Eitel & Cassebohm Co., of Louisville, Ky.; and the "Tom Keene," also made by Bondy & Lederer, of New York, as the leaders.

Leavenworth Tobacconists Celebrate 10th Anniversary

THE Dicks Cigar Co., at Leavenworth, Kansas, recently celebrated its tenth anniversary as tobacconists and cigar distributors.

In honor of the occasion the store at 402 Delaware street was adequately decorated, and the proprietors were kept busy all day in receiving the "glad hand" of old patrons. Each one was presented with a fifteen cent "Rothenberg" cigar.

This store has long enjoyed the reputation of the "house of quality," where the best goods the market afforded were always obtainable.

The stock carried is among the largest in the State of Kansas, and their holiday stock was this year larger and finer than ever before.

Re-organizing Gunst Co., in Northwest

PAPERS of dissolution were filed at Salem, Oregon, several days ago, by M. A. Gunst & Co., Spokane, Wash., and M. A. Gunst Cigar Co., Seattle, and at the same time there were taken out articles of incorporation, with capital stock of $3,000,000, for Portland business. The company intends to centre business in Oregon, but no further plans have been made public.

Gus. Simon, vice-president of the Gunst Cigar Co., at Portland, said no changes were contemplated by reason of the incorporation papers which were filed at Salem, Oregon. "From now on, all branch organizations will become a part of the general company." "None of the individual stores will be affected in any way, nor will there be any changes in the heads of departments."

Houston, Tex. House in Difficulty

THE widely known cigar distributing and jobbing house of Sam. Flaxman & Bro., Houston, Texas, have filed a voluntary petition in bankruptcy, with which was also filed a schedule showing liabilities of $37,628.01, and assets of $21,466.30.

New York manufacturers are among the largest creditors of the firm, holding notes for merchandise purchased.

The assets of the firm are listed as follows: Cash on deposit in Union National Bank, $1,740.62; stock of goods at 410 and 105 Main street, $4,181.54; residence property, $5,500; household goods, $1,000; horses, cows, buggies, $250; store fixtures, $150; total, $21,466.30.

The petition has been referred to Earl Wharton, referee in bankruptcy, for adjustment.

Since the filing of the petition announcement has been made that a settlement that would be satisfactory to creditors would probably be effected. The business will likely be continued with new and improved methods.

Minneapolis Jobbing House Expanding

THERE has been an important expansion of the jobbing business of W. B. M. & W. G. Jordan, Minneapolis, Minn., during the past several months. The house was formerly known as Anthony Kelly & Co., which began business as early as 1858, and for many years held an enviable position in the trade of the Northwest.

Since its successors have been in charge of the business they have made expansions in some branches of their business, notably the cigar jobbing end of the business. In fact not so much attention had previously been paid to the cigar business, and it might therefore be termed a new departure.

The announcement has just been made that after January 1st, the distribution of the products of A. G. Kaufman & Co., and H. Anton Bock & Co., will be placed in their hands, and that the former distributing agency of Arthur J. Hill & Co., will relinquish the brands, and will in fact retire from the jobbing field.

Harvey Hogg Removing to Nashville

HARVEY HOGG, who has been manager of the cigar department of Earle & Co., at Memphis, Tenn., will, after January 1st, again make his business headquarters at Nashville, Tenn., and will represent The Best & Russell Cigar Co., of Chicago, in Tennessee.

Mr. Hogg is among the best known cigar men of that State, and has hosts of friends in Nashville, his former home, who will welcome his return to that city.

J. F. Emerton, a cigarist at Auburn, Me., who has long been one of the most expert window dressers, has this year outdone all former efforts, and his Christmas trim was the talk of the town. He employed 550 miniature electric bulbs in his decorations. His stock revealed the finest lines of cigars, pipes and smoker's articles.

Late Jobbing Trade Items

John Thorne, a pioneer wholesale cigar dealer at Fargo, N. D., has lately been on a business and pleasure trip to Bismark.

Dan Wolf, one of the enterprising cigar jobbers at Cincinnati, is making good progress with the several lines on which he specializes.

The W. B. Elam Co., at Richmond, Va., have lately featured the product of Hilbronner & Jacobs, Philadelphia, of which they are local distributing agents.

There appears a remarkable increase in the demand for "El Palencia" clear Havana cigars, from the factory of Boltz, Clymer & Co., and many repeat orders are reaching the factory.

Geo. R. Webb, department manager with Coffin-Redington Co., at San Francisco, is now on a visit to the factory of Cuesta, Rey & Co. at Tampa. His house is a large distributor of the product of this factory.

The business of M. A. Gunst & Co. at San Francisco on the "Van Dyck" cigar has this year exceeded all former records. Traveling representatives and local salesmen have all worked energetically to make this a banner year in "Van Dyck" sales, and they have succeeded admirably.

A new nickel cigar was recently taken on by Tillman & Bendel, of San Francisco, Cal., under the name of "Duplicate Wrapper," and they are now booking orders which indicate that the manufacturers will be kept steadily on the go to supply them in adequate quantities.

Horn & Co., San Francisco, jobbers of the "El Sidelo" clear Havana cigars, have been entirely cleaned out of goods, and were obliged to send rush orders to the factory so as to be able to resume deliveries at an early date. 1911 has been a very satisfactory year with them.

The Hochfeld Bros. Cigar Co., of Portland, Ore., report a fine sale on the "La Verdad" cigars of Saml. I. Davis y Ca., New York and Tampa. Recently they have introduced the goods in several of the most prominent stores of Portland.

Chas. Mattheas, of San Francisco, is still clamoring for large supplies of "El Wadora" cigars. The sale of this brand has far exceeded all expectations and stock has been running very low at all times. A good demand for the "Rey-Oma" brand is also being enjoyed by this house.

The W. H. Harris Grocery Co., of Richmond, Va., who are distributors of the "Havana Ribbon" cigars of Bayuk Bros., and "Saboroso" of Vetterlein Bros., both Philadelphia-made cigars, reports an unusually heavy trade during the holidays.

DISPLAY OF "LA SARAMITA" CIGARS AT HAMILTON, OHIO

A strong display of "La Saramita" cigars was recently shown in the show window of L. A. Ribors, Druggist, Hamilton, O., which was installed by Dreyfus Bros., of Hamilton, who are the local distributing agents of this popular ten cent line.

W. W. Blake, a well known wholesale tobacco dealer, of Altoona, Pa., has been visiting Philadelphia and New York several times lately in connection with the dissolution of the American Stogie Co., in which he is interested. Mr. Blake is a large handler of stogie products and was among the organizers of the American Stogie Co.

The "Rey-Oma" cigar, made by Sig. C. Mayer & Co., Philadelphia, was recently taken on by the Harry Karger Cigar Co., at Baltimore, and it promises to become an extensive seller. Mr. Karger has been a distributor of the "El Wadora" cigars for some time and now has an extensive sale of the goods.

Some of the jobbing houses of Portland, Ore., are lamenting the fact that they did not order heavily enough of certain products to meet the unexpected demand for goods during the holidays. In several instances they were sold out of holiday packages several days before Christmas, and orders were still being received by each mail.

The "Anti-Nicotine" cigar, made by the Barnes-Smith Co., of Binghamton, N. Y., has made its appearance in Baltimore. The goods are being distributed by F. A. Davis & Co., and are already found on sale at numerous retail establishments about the city. The house is expecting to develop a large sale on those goods and feel highly encouraged with the success thus far obtained.

The Perego & Moore Cigar Co., of Des Moines, Ia., have brought suit against Gus. Gutfreund, contesting the violation of lease of a factory, in which Gutfreund is the lesser and the company the lessee, to enjoin Gutfreund from making cigars in the building prior to April 1st, of next year. Gutfreund claims that the jobbing house is trying to put him out of business, but the company states they simply wish an observance of the conditions of the lease.

FROM THE TOBACCO WORLD BUREAU, 910 HARTFORD BUILDING, NEW YORK.

New York Holiday Trade Breaks Record

BREAKING all records for gross receipts and volume of trade, the prominent retail establishments of New York and Brooklyn experienced rushes on the Friday and Saturday preceding Christmas, which will make those days pace-setters that will be difficult to follow, or surpass in the future.

Interviews with representatives of Park & Tilford, Acker, Merrall & Condit Co., United Cigar Stores Co., A. Shulte, Godfrey S. Mahn, Max Schwarz, Henry Spiess Cigar Co., Oscar Schein and the other important retailers, disclosed the fact that when the count was taken at the close of Saturday night, it proved to be the busiest individual day in the history of New York's cigar and tobacco business.

Much to the surprise of the store managers, the sale of pipes loomed up as one of the most prominent factors in the day's business. In some of the stores it was even recorded that the amount taken in for pipes and novelties exceeded the gross receipts for all other merchandise combined.

The "World" correspondent does not consider it fair to name any of the exact figures which were furnished him by the various concerns, but their perusal was highly gratifying, and makes this report absolutely correct and dependable.

From orders received during the past forty-eight hours, the indications are that an usually good business will be done before the New Year. Box trade and high-grade goods will probably take front rank in the sales.

Frankfort Takes Over Calero Business

JOSEPH FRANKFORT, head of the firm of Calero & Co., makers of clear Havana cigars, at 70 and 76 Fulton street, New York, has taken over the interests of his partner, Moses S. Greenebaum, and will continue the business under the same name. Mr. Greenebaum, who is one of the best known men in the trade, is now associated with Francisco Bolano and Arthur Seckbach. The trio formed the firm of F. Bolano & Co., with headquarters at Tampa.

Meyer, Sinsheimer & Co., have filed a petition in bankruptcy against S. C. Marum & Co., claiming that $3400 for goods sold and delivered to the firm was due them. The liabilities are said to be $5000 and the assets barely $4000.

Al. Metzger, the veteran cigar salesman, who so ably looks after the Jose Villa interests in the East, spent the month of December in New York. He will start on an extensive trip through his territory about January 15th.

United Stores Make Good Start Under New Order

Cut Loose From A. T. Co. Affiliation by Increase in Business

STOCKHOLDERS of the American Tobacco Co., on December 20th, received by mail, certificates which represented the portion of their holdings which had been invested in United Cigar Stores Co. stock. This was in accordance with the order issued by the Supreme Court which had instructed the United to transfer all stock held by the American Tobacco Co., and have the corporation dispose of such stock among their stockholders in order to further comply with the detailed orders issued by the Supreme Court.

This company has 90,010 shares outstanding of $100 par, on which it pays dividends of 8 per cent. Its business has been restricted owing to the litigation in which the parent company was engaged, but since distribution was ordered officially it has been reaching out for business to such an extent that in December it reported sales of $410,000 in a single day.

For the first fourteen days in December it showed a gain of 21 per cent. over last year's business. The gross business of the company is now running at the rate of $30,000,000 annually, as compared with less than $25,000,000 in 1910. It operates about 1400 stores and has a real estate department which is said to be highly profitable.

Geo. Flattauer & Bro. to Retire

GEORGE FLATTAUER & BRO., who have been manufacturing cigars in New York for a number of years, are retiring from business. Mr. George Flattauer has decided to take this step because after twenty-five years of constant attention to business and the hard mental and physical strain which his interests placed upon him, his nervous system has been impaired. Mr. Flattauer has not made any plans for the future as yet, further than to decide that he will do considerable traveling for the next year or two, and try to regain his health.

For nearly a quarter of a century, Mr. Flattauer has been an interesting character in the trade, always energetic and progressive.

At one time the Flattauers operated in conjunction with their factory, several retail stores, which they abandoned some years ago, in order to devote all of their time to manufacturing.

For the past few years they have had a large, and well-equipped plant at No. 334 East 98th street, New York, and they are now engaged in disposing of the stocks and implements.

They expect to wind up their affairs before February 15th.

How Max Schwarz Has Forged Ahead

THERE is that peculiar telepathic impression conveyed to whoever meets Max Schwarz, cigar manufacturer, that you are confronting a man, who has passed the worry stage in business, and is now sailing along smooth seas, beneath an unclouded sky, because he has built his commercial vessel of honest timber, and designed it with a view to longevity rather than temporary speed.

Twenty-two years ago, a poor Bohemian cigarmaker who had scraped a few pennies from his small compensation at the bench, opened up a cigar store at 57th street and Third avenue, New York, which was about the size of an exaggerated clothing box. In those days Max Schwarz was salesman, cigarmaker and porter. Propelled by a Napoleonic disregard of obstacles and fortified with the energy and patience which have marked his life, he wedged ahead, adding and adding to his business constantly, until today, we find him employing one hundred high-grade cigarmakers, operating two large retail stores, and enjoying a patronage which has been loyal for years.

The key to his success is of a very simple pattern; he made good cigars.

The "La Primadora" is a clear Havana brand in thirty-five sizes, and is equivalent to any product that the writer knows of, superior to many of them.

While the major portion of Mr. Schwarz's business is with consumers, he has placed the "La Primadora" brand with a large number of the best known dealers in the East, and the size of their duplicate orders better describes the quality of the product than would many lines of eulogy.

For the past few years, Mr. Schwarz has been making semi-annual trips to Cuba, and buying tobaccos in large quantities, thus gaining for his customers, the advantage of the best savings on leaf purchases.

An average working day of fourteen hours is a mild estimate of Max Schwarz's dynamic activities and constant attention to business. His progressiveness is best demonstrated by the holiday price list which he issues each year. This booklet is admittedly one of the finest of its kind in America. Five thousand are sent out each year, and bring in a swarm of orders which makes the shipping room look like a branch of an express company.

Arthur A. Schwarz, the twenty-one-year-old son of Max Schwarz; is in charge of the store at 733 Broadway. The young man has been put through a practical course by his father, and is giving an excellent account of himself at the branch store.

M. W. Berriman, of Berriman Bros., left on December 27th, for a two weeks' trip to the firm's factory, at Tampa. He will superintend the inventory-taking and spend some time at the plant, making preparations for the large increase in business, which the firm anticipates during 1912. Speaking of the past year's business, Mr. Berriman said that the output of the house, during 1911, was four million cigars in excess of any previous record.

Among the prominent clear Havana manufacturers who have left within the last few days for Tampa, is Joe Diaz, of Bustillio Bros. & Diaz. Mr. Diaz will probably spend a fortnight in Tampa, and return to New York in time to wish the firm's traveling representatives "God-speed and good luck," ere they start out on their first 1912 trip.

Antonio Santaella is at present in Tampa, superintending the annual inventory-taking at the Optimo plant. Before returning to his New York headquarters, he will probably take a short trip to Havana in the company of Manuel Suarez, who is a member of the firm, and takes charge of their extensive leaf interests in the Cuban capital.

Among the prominent road-men who have been spending Yuletide in the Metropolis, were Joe Carlyle and Moe Schwartz, of the Santaella forces.

THE FAMOUS VEGA "CAYO LA ROSA"

Pronounced to be one of the finest lots of tobacco raised on the Island of Cuba this year. Purchased by Max Schwarz, October 20, 1911. In the foreground is shown Max Schwarz, and in the rear by the door, wearing a straw hat, is Pepy Menendez, a well known Cuban grower, while by his side is Mark Pollack, prominent Havana Broker.

Louis Demuth Dead

LOUIS DEMUTH, whose father, the late William Demuth, Sr., founded the house of William Demuth & Co., and was the pioneer pipe manufacturer in his line, died suddenly on December 14, after a surgical operation. He was 49 years old and grew up in his father's business. The burial took place last Friday.

Mr. Demuth, who resided at No. 111 West Fifty-seventh street, New York City, left a will which has just been filed in the Surrogate's office. The residuary estate is thereby left to his wife, with a special request that she shall not "take the advice or be guided by any of the relatives on her side in any matters relating to her finances or other affairs."

Bequests of $1000 each are made to the German Hospital, the Home for Aged and Infirm Hebrews, the Society for Ethical Culture, the Hebrew Orphan Asylum, the New York Society for Improvement of the Condition of the Poor, and the Visiting Guild for Crippled Children.

Supply Branch Office of Liggett & Myers

THE Liggett & Myers Tobacco Co., whose main offices are located in St. Louis, Mo., and at Durham, N. C., have opened a Supply Branch Office in the Johnston Building, Broadway and 28th street, New York. Here they have excellent quarters on the sixth floor, and the bulk of their supplies will be purchased through this branch. The New York office is in charge of Joseph C. Widmer, who was formerly the secretary of the Amsterdam Supply Co., which recently passed out of existence.

New Year's Greeting From H. Duys & Co.

ANEW YEAR'S sentiment of particular interest is expressed in this issue by H. Duys & Co., 170 Water street, New York, one of the leading importers of Sumatra tobacco.

Their hope is for a "fine Sumatra crop with lots of light colors at reasonable prices for 1912," to be shared by the cigar manufacturers who have used H. Duys & Co.'s Sumatra for many years.

A mysterious fire in the roof of the four-story factory building of I. B. Krinsky, cigarette manufacturer, at 207 North Fourth street, Williamsburg, Brooklyn, several days ago, caused considerable apprehension. Although it was on Christmas day, nearly 100 girls and young men were at work, and the first knowledge they had of the fire was when smoke began to penetrate the workrooms. They fled in disorder, and firemen soon extinguished the flames which had been confined to a lot of rubbish on the roof.

A petition has been filed against Myron M. Harrison, cigar dealer, formerly at the Folies Bergere, by these creditors: Louis G. Smith & Co., $372; Scheaffer & Polakoff, $361; and Harry Sobel, $16.

G. W. Bickett Cigar Co., of Cincinnati, who have been in financial embarrassment, are now hopeful of effecting a settlement with their creditors and continue in the business. The proposition made by them has satisfied local creditors, and if acquiesced in by non-resident creditors it will undoubtedly go through.

Independent Retailers Demand Heavy Tax on Coupons

he failed to get the proper support from the Supreme Court, in his efforts to secure a re-opening of the American Tobacco Co. case, he had appealed to Senator Cummins, of Iowa; Representative Underwood, from Alabama; Speaker Champ Clark, and other prominent members of the National Legislative bodies.

Without exception, the parties appealed to had responded in a hearty and encouraging manner, and at the meeting communications from them were read, wherein these legislators expressed themselves in no uncertain language concerning the action which they proposed to either initiate, or support, in both Houses of Congress.

Various resolutions were passed, among which was one calling upon the United States Government to stop buying their supplies of tobacco from the American Tobacco Co.

One resolution which is worthy of more than passing notice was to the effect that the Government place a tax on premium coupons.

Robert E. Lane stated that, in his opinion, it would lead to quicker and better results, if the retailers were to find some means to protect themselves against, or overcome, the competition furnished by the coupon, rather than to spend their energies in trying to prove that the coupon was illegal. He said that while he had a plan which he considered very effective, he preferred not to discuss it in public, but promised to set forth his ideas in a written communication to President Buxbaum.

Thirty-five new members were added to the roll, and reports were received from a number of other cities where the battle against the coupon is being waged.

Cigar Factory in the Canal Zone

VICE-CONSUL J. M. HYATT, at Colon, Panama, states that there is a cigar factory there, which is under the management of a well known and practical tobacconist of Jamaica, and there are employed twenty people. At present there is being manufactured seven different brands, the tobacco for which comes from Jamaica. The manufacturing methods employed compare favorably with those obtained from Havana or Key West.

Allen H. Smith has sold his cigar store at 313 High street, Pottstown, Pa., to Grover C. McClaskey. Smith expects to engage in another line of business.

A new cigar store has been opened at Richwood, O., by Clyde & Charles Carr, who secured quarters in the old postoffice building.

A new store has been opened at 400 Washington street, Lynn, Mass., which adjoins the Olympia theatre, by the Lynn Cigar Co., which is one of the best equipped stands in that city.

The cigar and tobacco business of James J. Quinn, an Asylum street, Hartford, Conn., dealer, will be sold at sheriff's sale, and the proceeds turned over to a trustee for the benefit of his creditors.

Joe Kosh, a dealer in cigars, wines and liquors at Smetana, O., recently filed a deed of assignment. His total indebtedness was given at $5,569.58, and assets amounting to $2,522.50.

The G. S. H. Cigar & Tobacco Co., Chicago, has been incorporated with a capital of $2500, to deal in cigars, tobacco, etc., by Nathan S. Schoenbrod, Ella Graham, and Raymond J. Cupler.

Julius Sher and Oscar Vinograd have formed a new tobacco firm to do a jobbing as well as retail business, under the name of Vinograd & Sher, 617 Chestnut street, Milwaukee, Wis. They contemplate securing larger quarters at an early date, and engage more strongly in the jobbing business.

Some days ago the Lesure Cigar Store, 615 E. Green street, Champaign, Ill., managed by Walter Edmondson, was broken into and a quantity of fine meerschaum and other pipes and miscellaneous articles carried away. Entrance was gained by kicking in a window at the rear of the store.

The Jacobson Cigar Store, 608 Seventeenth street, Denver, Col., was gutted by fire several days ago. The fire was not discovered until the flames were already bursting through the roof of the building, and before the firemen arrived the entire interior of the store had been burned out.

Nathan Strauss, a member of the widely known firm of Kaufmann Brothers & Bondy, manufacturers and importers of pipes and smokers' articles, at No. 129 Grand street, New York, shot and killed himself, several days ago, in the bed room of his apartment, at the Hotel St. Hubert, New York.

Mr. Strauss was 54 years of age and unmarried, and had lived with his sister. He was born in New York, and was a graduate of Columbia University. He is survived by two sisters.

Julius Colberg, a retired cigar manufacturer, and founder of the firm of Julius Colberg & Son, No. 523 Fulton street, Brooklyn, died several days ago, at the age of 78 years. The deceased was born in Hamburg, Germany, and began the manufacture of cigars in 1879. He continued in active business until three years ago. He leaves a widow and five children.

Thomas Jefferson O'Bryan, a prominent tobacco man, of Louisville, Ky., died suddenly last week from an attack of heart disease.

Mr. O'Bryan was head of the firm of T. J. O'Bryan and Bro., and was a charter member of the tobacco exchange. He was 49 years of age. He is survived by a widow and three daughters.

Colonel Carrell D. Smith, of Guthrie, Ky., and one of the wealthiest citizens of the Southern portion of that State, died recently in his home, at Guthrie, aged 85 years.

Colonel Smith was one of the old organizers of the old Louisville Tobacco Works, and was well known in the tobacco business throughout the State.

Tampa Cigars a Gift to Battleship Florida

WHEN the officers of the battleship "Florida" returned to their quarters, after receiving the presentation of the silver service at Pensacola last week, they also found themselves the recipients of a package of Christmas cigars from the factory of Berrian Bros., at Tampa. The cigars were of the famous "Jose Vila" brand.

Anent the Use of Coupons

THERE has been some agitation among local cigarists with reference to the use of coupons in the retail cigar business. It is now urged by some that since the holiday rush is over local dealers should be able to get together and possibly reason out some plan of action by which they might prohibit the use of coupons.

No actual call for a meeting, so far as is known, has thus far been issued, and in fact there are a number of independent retailers who are using a private system of coupons and who speak well of the plan and declare that it has been profitable to them to adopt the use of coupons. Naturally, such dealers could not be induced to join in a movement to do away with coupons.

Another New Cigar of T. H. Hart Co.

THE success which has attended the distribution and sale of "Five of Harts," the nickel cigar made by T. H. Hart Co., Twelfth and Walnut streets, Philadelphia, has led this wide-awake firm to introduce a ten-cent, three for a quarter brand, known as "Heartsease," and being good citizens of the City of Brotherly Love, have called the sizes with names that are associated with the history of the city, "Quaker," "Independence," "Fairmount" and "Penn." In a short time "Liberty Bell" will be on the list.

R. D. Wilson Company Incorporates

THE R. D. Wilson Company, organized some time since, when the old house of Geo. Zorn & Co. passed out of existence, to do a general novelty business, which included smokers' articles, pipes, etc., has been successful, and with the new year will incorporate.

Application for a charter will be made on January 2d by R. D. Wilson, William S. Skahan, George A. Snodgrass, John F. Meyers, Julius Kehr and Robert S. Carson. The capital stock will be $15,000.

Pushing Cuesta-Rey Cigars Here

AN especially attractive window display is the one in which Yahn & McDonnell are featuring the specially made "Quaker" size of Cuesta, Rey & Co.'s cigars. The quality and size of this brand has proven to be a good business-getter.

"44" Family in Jolly Reunion

MEMBERS of the "44" family gathered in a merry reunion, on the evening of December 27th, at the Hotel Walton, when they were entertained by Mr. B. Lipschutz, the President of the "44" Cigar Co. A special room was reserved for the function, on the top floor of the hotel and following a banquet, various members of the "44" staff responded to toasts. It proved a very enjoyable evening, fruitful of a renewed spirit of co-operation, which should mean big things for this factory in the future. Besides, Mr. Lipschutz, there were present, M. A. Funk, Secretary of the Company; G. M. Lex, office manager; W. H. Nicholson, Middle South representative; O. L. Myers, Western representative; H. Liliu, New Jersey representative, and the following: Mrs. B. Lipschutz, Mr. Max Lipschutz, Miss Rose Lipschutz, Miss Lilian Weinberg, I. Sager, F. A. Maier, J. M. Allgaier, Geo. W. Fullen, Sol Lipschutz, I. P. Linn, S. Blou, J. M. Seymour, S. Crayder, R. C. Myrtetus, Louis J. Fingeroth, F. Davoli, Samuel Lock, E. Crothers, R. Cabot, A. Lieberman, B. Silverstein, T. Lisa, L. Kohn (New Brunswick Factory), M. Goldsmith (New Brunswick Factory), and Miss N. Hogan.

Sig. C. Mayer & Co. Remodel Factory

MECHANICS have been busy during the past week in remodelling the factory building of Sig. C. Mayer & Co., at 515 Lombard street, by adding an adjoining building in the rear and rearranging the floor space. The new addition will be devoted largely to the manufacture of "Rey-Oma" cigars, and although the facilities of the factory will be about doubled all available space will be needed to accommodate the additional force of cigarmakers which it has been found necessary to employ.

The "Roig" Round Up

DURING the joyous days preceding Christmas, a number of salesmen of the forces of Antonio Roig & Langsdorf, dropped into Philadelphia for a little reunion. Richard W. Edwards, who has been doing big things for the "Roig" line, in the West, spent a few days in Philadelphia, as did also, E. L. Weil, who covers Pennsylvania and New York, and S. H. Hamburger, who represents the "Roig" lines in parts of Pennsylvania, Virginia and West Virginia.

"Havana Ribbon" Forces Entertained

DURING the past week the sales force of the "Havana Ribbon" cigar factories were entertained at factory headquarters in this city. They gathered from all sections of the country and rendered some highly interesting accounts of business conditions and prospects in their respective territories. A large number of orders were brought in for deliveries to begin early next year.

Showing Line of "Primer" Cigars

THE M. J. Brown Cigar Co., is showing the trade a line of their "Primer" cigars. The sample case of these goods shows the entire eleven sizes in which the brand is made, and displays them to good advantage. This new line has been out but a few days and some flattering orders have already been booked on them. It is expected after January 1st they will be on sale at several of the fancy grocery houses who cater to high-class trade.

S. Dietz, a factory representative with A. Roig & Langsdorf, is not permitting any of the dealers in the business section of the city that is covered by him to forget the "Roig" line, and he seems to find particular pleasure in pressing for sales on the "Flor de Girard" which has come into wide popularity as a ten-cent leader. "Roig" cigars are, of course, standard wherever they are sold, and Mr. Dietz says it is not a matter of much salesmanship to sell them because they sell themselves, and those dealers who do not push them do not realize what they are missing.

The "Flor de Sanchez y Haya" clear Havana product of Sanchez y Haya, Tampa, is still among the strongest leaders in clear Havana cigars handled by Terry & Duncan, who have the local distributing agency of this line. The numerous sizes they are carrying enable dealers to procure a fine selection without having to take more than their needs warrant, of any size. Such a line as this could be profitably exploited by retailers as holiday attractions in fine goods.

The "Original After Dinner" cigar of the Louis Halpern Cigar Co. is fast becoming a staple among retailers of this city. The factory was opened about eight weeks ago, and since that time more than 250 accounts have been opened in this city alone. Duplicate orders are now arriving and they are for increased quantities of the goods, indicating that the consumer is demanding the goods.

There has been a decided increase in the demand for the product of the Juan F. Portuondo Cigar Manufacturing Co. Sales of their famous "Chico" cigars are gratifyingly large, and the demand for their "All Alike" brands also shows rapid gains. The last named brand is to be presented in a new dress after the new year. The design which has been accepted will greatly improve the package in its appearance.

Jos. F. Gallagher, of Allen R. Cressman's Sons, is spending a well-earned vacation among friends and relatives at Cleveland, O.

Among the new faces in the ranks of cigar salesmen is W. Doyle, who was formerly connected with the Imperial Tobacco Company of London, England, but who recently joined the local selling staff of Duff Brothers & Company, in extolling the merits of "Vesper" cigars. This brand is an old established one in this market and Mr. Doyle should do well.

N. Leventhal, who recently bought the "44" cigar store at 44 N. Twelfth street, is making a fine success of it. The business done there during the Christmas holidays was larger than he had sanguinely expected. The line of goods carried has been extended and lately he has added the "Bold" cigar, made by Bobrow Bros. in this city.

One of the most attractive stores in the Kensington district is that of W. Greenwood, at 2822 Kensington avenue. The line of goods carried is in keeping with the general attractiveness of his store. He is showing a nice array of imported and domestic clear Havana brands and also finds a steady demand for leading local lines, such as "Cinco," "Vesper," "Havana Ribbon," "Tom Keene," "V-P," "44," "Goodina" and "Counsellors."

A. R. Clayton, manager of the Philadelphia office of the Cuba Cigar Co., returned shortly before Christmas from a very successful trip over the Middle South in which he opened up some very nice accounts, in Baltimore, Washington and Richmond. Mr. Clayton is well pleased with the manner in which the goods have taken hold in Philadelphia.

H. N. Goldsmith & Co., Philadelphia distributors for "Rigoletto" cigars, made by E. A. Kline & Co., Cleveland, Ohio, report a very satisfactory increase in the demand for these cigars throughout Philadelphia and vicinity. A number of desirable new accounts have just been opened, and repeat orders are of a volume that bespeak a permanent demand.

"Jack" Fowler, popular local representative and general traveling man with the United States Tobacco Co., at Richmond, Va., has been on a flying trip among his distributors. He has just closed a good year's business and begins another feeling confident that he will surpass all previous records.

Saml. Bayuk, of Bayuk Bros., will leave early in January upon a visit to Havana, where he will personally make an inspection of Havana leaf. He expects to return to office headquarters in a couple of weeks, as the factories are still well filled with orders.

Milton Morris, general representative of the Cores-Martinez Co. in the South, spent Christmas week in Philadelphia in conference with the factory and renewing acquaintances among his many friends in this city. Mr. Morris has had a big year on "V. P." goods in the South and looks forward to even better things for 1912.

J. M. Logan, of the Logan Tobacco Co., New York and Porto Rico, was a visitor in the Quaker City recently.

New Cuban Society Formed

LA Asociacion de Almacenistas, Escogedores Y Cosecheros de Tabaco de la Isla de Cuba," is the Spanish title of our newly formed society of leaf dealers, packers and growers of tobacco in the island of Cuba, and which counts already with a membership of over eighty. Tobacco brokers of standing have joined already, and anybody who is interested in tobacco can join by paying the monthly dues of five dollars and thirty cents per month. A few of the leaf buyers, that come here regularly, have joined likewise and they have the privileges of the rooms of the society by paying twelve dollars per year, as non-resident members. The society has undoubtedly a great future and will be a power to further the interests of the tobacco culture in this island. It is now centrally located at Prado 118, right next to the Telegrafo Hotel, and the rooms are fitted up on the first floor (above ground) in a comfortable, artistic style.

Leaf buyers will feel at home, as they can take their breakfast, furnished by a cosmopolitan restaurant, and in the evenings enjoy a quiet smoke, read all the newspapers, talk, or eventually play a little game. Last Sunday a week ago (December 10th), was selected by the board of directors, as a sort of reception to the members and a few invited guests, and to inaugurate the new home of the society. There was music, speeches, food and drink, all the entertainment being done for account of the directors from their private funds. Among the invited guests were the President of the Cuban Senate, as well as several members of Congress, and who promised to do all in their power to further the interests of the association, in enhancing thereby the welfare of the people of Cuba. The president, Don Manuel Antero Suarez (of Suarez Hnos), the secretary, Don Angel G. del Valle (of Jorge & P. Castaneda) and the treasurer, Don Leslie Pantin, are indefatigable and are giving much of their time to discuss all projects which might redound to the benefit of all members. Fully one hundred persons were present on the opening day and the greatest harmony and good will prevailed, in order to make the association an instrument of success to further the welfare of all people connected with the second fountain of productiveness of the island of Cuba.

Officers Elected by Seattle Association

SEATTLE, WASH., Dec. 23.

A MEETING of the Seattle Retail Cigar Dealers' Association was held last week and adopted several important resolutions, and also elected officers for the ensuing year. They were as follows: President, W. L. Alfred; Vice-President, Charles Pickford; Treasurer, F. L. Pallies, and Secretary, W. H. Andrews. Ben Haverkamp, R. C. Van Der Grift, F. S. Manley, Charles Wright and F. E. Strauss, are members of the Board of Trustees.

The association is striving to obtain a more liberal profit from the sale of tobacco and are making an effort to bring about a reduction in the cost of goods, and with this end in view, they will hold a State conference and endeavor to bring about concerted action.

A further meeting is to be held in Seattle, on January 9th, at which time it is hoped the State organization will be perfected.

A new cigar stand will soon be opened in the lobby of the Bailey Building, at Second avenue and Cherry street, by B. Rideout, who has been conducting a store in the Central Building for about a year.

W. A. Williams, of Bellingham, was among the visitors during the Retailers' Association meeting last week.

"The idea of our childhood, it will be remembered, was that meerschaum was a sort of petrified seafoam, hence the name 'Meer,' the German word for sea, and 'schaum,' which in German means scum or foam. It is probable that the word is derived from the Tartaric word 'myrsen,' meaning clay. Meerschaum in reality is a hydrous silicate of magnesia, and is found only in Asia Minor in quantities large enough to warrant search for it. Many inhabitants of the country make their living digging for it, and most of the raw product is sent to Vienna, Berlin and Hamburg, while some comes to America to be carved into pipes here. In this branch of the industry skilled men make high wages, for they have to be real artists, capable of taking infinite care in the execution of their work. There are, in fact, all grades of meerschaum, good, bad and indifferent—whereof the cheaper pipes are made of the poorest quality and by comparatively unskilled labor. These are sandy, gritty, and full of bubbles. The meerschaum will color, of course, but not like that which is of even texture. For fine carving it is useless.

"The price of genuine meerschaum pipes is affected by political and industrial conditions existing in the countries from which the raw product comes. Thus, during the war between Turkey and Greece, it rose to a prohibitive figure, while the present war between Italy and Turkey also is influencing it, although not to so marked an extent. During the first named war many of the factories were compelled to close and a number of them failed."

This, in brief, is the story of the meerschaum pipe, which in the time of our fathers was a family heirloom and which still occupies an honored place among the world's most fastidious smokers.

Nall & Williams Plant Transferred

A DEED conveying the property of the Nall & Williams Tobacco Co., at Louisville, Ky., was recorded last week, and transfers it to the American Tobacco Co. The property measures 155 by 200 feet, but the consideration was merely nominal, as it is a part of the plan of disintegrating the American Tobacco Co., and had no other significance.

The widely known old manufacturing and distributing firm of H. P. Brewster, at Rochester, N. Y., has been incorporated under the name of H. P. Brewster Co., with a capital of $100,000 for the perpetuation of the business established many years ago by Mr. Brewster. The incorporators are H. P. Brewster, E. H. Brewster and E. M. Harris, all of Rochester.

The Editor's Letter-Box

THE TOBACCO WORLD,
Philadelphia, Pa.
Gentlemen:

Send me sample copy of your papers—and rates on want ads—I want to get a line of the Ninth District cigars for Kansas, Nebraska, Missouri, Arkansas, Louisiana, Oklahoma, Texas and Colorado.

Very truly yours,
O. W. LAMB.

Answered by letter.

TOPEKA, KANSAS, Dec. 16/11.

Temporary Suspension at Key West Factories Will Resume After New Year

KEY WEST, December 26, 1911.

PRACTICALLY all of the cigar factories in the city are closed down at the present time on account of the Christmas holidays. Many of the cigarmakers have gone to Cuba, to remain until the first of the year, while others have gone off on various jaunts to rest up after the hard work of the pre-holiday season.

A review of the past year shows, as has been predicted several times, that the cigar industry in this city reached the high-water mark during the past twelve months. The year has been decidedly favorable from a manufacturers' standpoint. The tobacco has been good, there have not been any labor troubles, cigarmakers have been able to get plenty of work and for the major part of the year, the limit has been removed and the men were allowed to make as many cigars as they pleased, provided, of course, that their work came up to the high standard required.

The weather has been exceptionally favorable and there has not been a day when factories were obliged to close down on account of damp weather. Another important item was that of boxes. The Key West Box Factory began operations before the holiday rush came on and manufacturers were able to secure their boxes on short notice. The lack of boxes was a great handicap in 1910, but this year the manufacturers have not been obliged to contend with this trouble.

The prospects are bright for a prosperous year ahead and it is hoped and confidently expected that 1912 will go ahead of 1911. Many of the manufacturers are contemplating the enlargement of their shops and plans are afoot for the securing of additional factories.

It is expected that the Over Sea Railroad celebration will attract considerable capital to this city and it is intended to show the merits of Key West as a manufacturing centre to the cigar men who may attend the affair. Key West is now in a position to offer inducements to prospective manufacturers, and it is believed that some of them will locate here in the near future.

There have been few, if any, travelers during the last few days, as everybody is desirous of spending the Christmas holidays at home.

Some of the manufacturers are planning trips to Cuba in the next few days and one or two have already left.

A. Artolozaga, of George W. Nichols & Co., is now in Havana, and A. Aurelio Torres, of the Principe de Golfo Co., will probably leave tomorrow.

N. B. RHOADS.

The Leaf Tobacco Growers' Association, at West Baltimore, O., has bought the A. B. Landis leaf tobacco warehouse at that place. They propose, in the future, to handle their own tobacco, which will be sweated and sold direct to the manufacturer. The move has aroused considerable interest, and the success or failure of the plan will be carefully watched.

Fine Trade at Los Angeles

Jobbers and Retailers Reporting Good Business—Attractive Window Displays Everywhere

LOS ANGELES, CAL., Dec. 23, 1911.

CIGAR jobbers are generally reporting a good business, collections are good, country trade is generally well fixed with Christmas goods as they have ordered the goods in time, but city retailers are already finding out that they have not ordered Christmas packages enough to supply the demand. There is a great demand at the jobbing houses just now for more 1/40, 1/80 of fine brands, but the supply is entirely exhausted.

The downtown retailers are making some very attractive window displays. Expensive briar and meerschaum pipes are also much in evidence and are selling readily.

Abe Cohn, manager of the Max Cohn Cigar Co., 326 South Broadway and 536 South Spring street, reports excellent business in both establishments on Clear Havana. They handle all the popular brands in all sizes. In 5c. cigars, they are pushing "Cinco," "El Gonzales" and "San Felice."

The Morgan Cigar Co., 218 S. Spring street, has a fine window display of holiday goods. A number of high class Havana cigars are used in the display.

Mr. Webb Campbell, accompanied by his wife and daughter, arrived today on the steamer "Bear" from Portland, Ore., and are the guests of Mr. Jot. C. Wood, better known as Jose Vila Wood. They are to remain here until after the holidays. Mr. Campbell is president of the Campbell-Lakin Segar Co. of Portland, Ore.

Wm. Wood, star salesman for Henry F. Gadeky, 218 W. Fourth street, reports an increasing business on "Jose Vila" cigars. He also has a very unique window display on "Jose Vila" this week.

The Klauber-Wangenheim Co. reports they have had the biggest month in the history of their business. Their sales for the month of December are running 30 per cent. over their sales of December of last year. They are completely sold out of all leading brands of holiday packages. This firm is very optimistic on the future of Los Angeles. They expect 1912 to be the largest in their business. They operate six wagons and two autos to cover their city trade alone and their selling force is splendidly organized for the greatest campaigns of their career. They report a very heavy sale on "Pippins" five-cent cigars. This brand is always on the increase and is in heavy demand with the consumer.

Dave Weinreich, formerly with J. J. Gans Bros. Co., has decided to try the retail business for himself, having taken a larger store for himself at Second and Broadway in the California Building. Dave is a very popular Los Angeles man and will make a success from the start.

J. D. Waterman, representing Boltz, Clymer & Co., of Philadelphia and Tampa, has been in Los Angeles for the past few days. While here he has been very successful, having secured Scott G. Turner, formerly with Stetson-Barrett Co., to look after the interests of the "El Palancia" and "El Merito." Mr. Turner is very much liked among the trade.

J. H. Nightingale is now in New York for Haas-Baruch Co. deciding on new lines. Mr. Nightingale is the new manager of the cigar department and is the successor to Mr. Cameron Trau, the latter having been with the firm of Haas-Baruch & Co. for the past sixteen years. Mr. Nightingale was formerly with Herman Hyneman & Son, of San Francisco and Los Angeles. Haas-Baruch & Co. are very fortunate in securing a man as capable as Mr. Nightingale for their cigar department.

Cameron Trau will open a general merchandise store at Santa Fe Springs, Cal. Here's to his success! M. B.

Factory Notes

Notice of the dissolution of the Fulton Hill Tobacco Manufacturing Co., at Troy, Ind., has been filed.

The El Chico Cigar Factory, of Chico, Cal., is being enlarged and a larger force of cigarmakers will be employed.

A new cigar factory is being opened at Rome, Ga., by G. F. Odeno, formerly of Torrington, Conn. Operations will begin this week.

A petition in bankruptcy has been filed against the Great North Cigar Co., of Milwaukee, alleging more than $1000 liability.

The Morris Newlander Cigar Co., of Chicago, has changed its corporate title to Canton-Havana Cigar Co., and the principal office has also been changed to Canton, Ill.

Upon complaint of N. G. Protopapas, a Chicago cigar manufacturer, Chris. Leventis, alias Chris. S. Swift, a Greek, was arrested at St. Joseph, Mo., by the police, and charged with the embezzlement of 10,000 cigars, valued at $320.

A fire in the drying department of the R. A. Patterson Tobacco Co., at Richmond, Va., damaged the plant to the extent of $5000. The necessary repairs were quickly made, and little interruption to business was caused.

The cigar factory of Harris Harkness & Co., 29 St. Peter's street, Montreal, Can., was damaged some days ago to the extent of $20,000. A temporary factory will be used while the needed repairs are being made.

A $10,000 damage was done by fire recently to the cigar factory of Ed. Younghart & Co., at Montreal, Canada. The loss caused by smoke and water was the greatest item.

Edward Scheff has engaged in the cigar manufacturing business at Antigo, Wis., where he now has a small force at work. The "Noble Roman" will be his leader in ten cent goods, and "The Little Franklin" is the name of his nickel cigar.

Charles and Joseph Fabian have purchased the cigar factory of A. Mansell, Lewiston, Mont. Charles Fabian was formerly employed by Mansell and is experienced in the business. They propose to conduct a retail business as well.

A fire broke out in the tobacco factory of S. I. Yudelman, Whitcomb and Townsend streets, Pittsburgh, Pa., on December 20th, which greatly damaged the building and caused a loss estimated at $10,000. The fire is supposed to have been caused by spontaneous combustion of packing material lying about the first floor and then leaped up the elevator shaft. It was a five-story brick structure.

The Deisel-Wemmer Co., of Lima, O., have purchased ground in Findlay O., on which they propose to erect a four-story cigar factory to employ five hundred people. They now have a branch factory in Findlay, in which they employ a large number of hands.

The Manchester Tobacco Co., at Hartford, Conn., has secured a certificate of incorporation, with a capital of $5000. The officers are: President, Isaac F. Becker, Hartford; Treasurer, Mathias Spiero, of South Manchester, and Secretary, May F. Gallagher, of Hartford.

The Capital Co-operative Company was organized in Carson City, Nev., recently by Chas. Brannon, A. Y. Werner, W. H. Chedic, R. S. Randall and John Anderson. They will manufacture cigars, and hope to make it one of the most important cigar enterprises in that section.

The manufacturing department of Leonard & Roess, tobacconists, at Battleboro, Vt., is being removed into new quarters in the Hooker Block. The first floor will be used for general business purposes and the basement for stock and store rooms. In the front portion of the first floor they will continue to do a retail business.

The Harkert Cigar Co., of Davenport, have decided to remove their factory at Ottumwa to Davenport, and consolidate it with the main factory. The Ottumwa factory has been employing 80 hands and its consolidation with the main factory will give them an enrollment of 300 hands. It is one of the rapidly growing establishments of that city and ranks as one of the leading factories in the State.

An automobile owned by McGreenery & Manning, cigar manufacturers, of Boston, was struck by a freight train at Chelsea, Mass., some days ago. The driver of the vehicle claims the gates at the crossing were not down and as he saw no train, he attempted to cross the tracks, and when about half way across, he was struck by the train, and the load of cigars and tobacco were widely scattered, and the machine had to be pulled out of the mud by the help of the train crew.

A Buying Movement Started at Lancaster, Pa.

DURING the past two weeks, considerable tobacco has been purchased in Manor Township, of Lancaster County. Local buyers were the principal takers, and they were headed by A. K. Mann, of Millersville, who, it is said, secured several hundred acres. J. W. Brenneman, of Lancaster, and Frank Mellinger were also driving in that section.

William Hughes, the well-known cigar salesman, has joined the staff of the A. B. Smith Cigar Company, of Boston, and will cover Central New York State for this firm, making his headquarters at Albany.

George H. Blodgett has purchased the cigar store of James F. Smardon, at 272 Main street, Stoneham, Mass.

Annual Banquet of Deisel-Wemmer Co.

THE annual banquet of the Deisel-Wemmer Co., at Lima, O., was held on Saturday evening, December 30, and marked the most prosperous year in the history of the house, which was founded twenty years ago, or in 1891, and is now one of the largest concerns in the country.

The banquet was held at the Elks' Home, when sixty guests from all parts of the country assembled. This included officials of the company, traveling and resident representatives, superintendents and foremen of factories and a number of specially invited visitors.

The output of their factories will this year exceed 100,000,000 cigars, representing a gross business of $3,500,000. The company now occupies eight buildings and employs more than 3000 persons. The main factory and offices are at Lima, and branch factories are in operation at Delphos, Van Wert, Wapakoneta, Findley and Sidney. In the spring they will erect a new building for their exclusive use at Findley.

Western Box Factory Tenders Banquet

THE Ritter Cigar Box Co., at Deshler, O., tendered a banquet to its employees and prominent citizens of the town last week to show them what a plant they had in Deshler.

From 7 to 8 o'clock every employee of the establishment was at work to afford the visitors an opportunity to inspect the plant in operation. All were dressed in a special uniform which made an imposing appearance, and the demonstration was really educational to the people of Deshler.

After the work was over, 160 representative citizens joined the employees as guests of the firm and were treated to a most sumptuous repast, consisting of roast pig and oysters, dressing, coffee, pickles and condiments of the season.

Special guests of honor were representatives of Deisel-Wemmer Co., Lima, O., manufacturers of the "San Felice" and other brands of cigars, representative of the Green Tag Cigar Co., and other noted cigar men.

Mr. Ritter, the head of the firm, was heartily congratulated on his enterprise and public spiritedness.

Pertinent Points

¶Standing once more on the threshold of a new year, let us resolve to build upon the successes, honest work and effort made for us, and benefit by the lesson our errors and mistakes taught us.

¶Nothing is so helpful to future achievement than once in a while to stop and look back upon the past, letting the mind take an inventory of the respective success or failure that attended our efforts. A correct perspective of our own capabilities can thereby be arrived at and this self-knowledge will be a great aid to us. New Year is the time for the taking of such an inventory.

The cigar cutter recently distributed among the local dealers by Y. Pendas & Alvarez, featuring their "Webster" cigars, is much admired. Made of heavy white paper, encased in a heavy glass case, it adorns any counter upon which it is placed.

SPECIMEN OF NAILSEA GLASS PIPES

Beautiful English Glass Pipes

EVERY art connoisseur is familiar with Nailsea glass objects, but there are probably many of our readers who do not know that among the many highly ornamental articles made in Nailsea glass there were several fine specimens of pipes, as shown herewith.

An English writer, in relating the story of the Nailsea glass industry which flourished for eighty-five years and passed out of existence in 1873, said that among the choicest specimens of Nailsea glass are the latticino glass pipes, of which three examples are shown. The writer was not prepared to say that all the examples he had observed could be called Nailsea, but the two left-hand figures were collected in the neighborhood. They are a part of a collection made by a Mrs. Challicom.

The left-hand pipe is streaked with pink and opaque white, and is twenty inches long. The middle figure is of clear white glass, with a bright green rim, the latticino work being in opaque white. The third figure is of clear white glass, streaked with opaque white and pale pink.

While these pipes are all highly ornamental, it is doubtful whether they could be put to any practical use.

C. W. Brown, who has been for years a bookkeeper with Oblinger Brothers & Company, and later with their successors, Messrs. Duff Brothers & Company, has resigned his position to enter the cigar business with his brothers who constitute the firm of Brown Brothers & Company, at 224 Arch street, Philadelphia.

Frank N. Winslow, who for the past eight years has been covering Pennsylvania, east of Pittsburgh for Duncan & Moorehead, on January 1st joined the sales force of Terry & Duncan, to represent their accounts in Pennsylvania, New Jersey and parts of Maryland.

The Cuban Market

From Our
Exclusive Bureau
Neptuno 24
Alto

HAVANA, December 22d.

A NEWSPAPER of Pinar del Rio, La Fraternidad, writes, under date of the 9th inst., that of the stocks on hand some 3700 bales had been sold and shipped to Havana, thanks to the losses which the growing crop had suffered, as previous to that these goods had not been inquired for and were a drug on the hands of their owners, while now they were taken off their hands at a slightly increased price. So after all the old proverb, "There is no ill wind," etc., has come true in this instance. About the state of the growing crop, the same paper writes: "As far as the hills (Lomas) are concerned, that the rains have done very little damage, and on the contrary even done some good, as the aspects of the country show a splendid and sound growth of the young plants. The low lands (Tierra Llana) are admitted, however, not to be in this condition, as here the damages have been greatest and the cultivation is more backward, but with favorable weather henceforth there is still hope that the crop, while late, may yet turn out better than we dared hope after the first news of the disaster reached us. Very likely the crop will be shorter, but as long as it should be only of a good quality the harm will be less felt."

The scarcity of seedlings is the greatest drawback for the poor farmers, as they have no means to pay the high prevailing prices and will have to wait until the same come down to low figures.

The Partido region is now in a better condition, and barring the future state of the temperature we are certain to have a good crop. Reports from the Santa Clara province are very optimistic, that notwithstanding the harm done in a few districts, we may have a large and good crop, unless something unforeseen should occur before cutting time.

Our leaf market has been exceedingly active during the first week of the fortnight, while, owing to the departure of our Northern buyers, the second week has been very quiet, and perhaps very little will be done until after the turn of the year. In view of the bad reports of the next crop, it was feared that perhaps some of our dealers might raise their prices too much, but it seems that after all better counsel has prevailed and the ruling figures are not out of reach, although naturally higher than last year. The stocks in first hands are only small, but with a lessened consumption they ought to be sufficient to meet all demands, excepting perhaps second capaduras of Remedios, which will be barely in enough supply to satisfy all inquiries later.

Colas of Vuelta Abajo may also become so scarce as to be a serious drawback for our cigarette manufacturers in conducting their business, but as the American buyers are not interested in this kind of leaf they need not worry about the possible hardships of our people.

Recent Sales Reported.

Sales totaled during the past fortnight 11,402 bales, or divided were: Vuelta Abajo, 1866; Partido, 325; and Remedios, 9181 bales.

Buyers were: American, 8907; exporters to Europe, 1392; shippers to Buenos Ayres and Montevideo, 606, and our local cigar and cigarette manufacturers, 497 bales.

Exports of leaf tobacco from the port of Havana from December 4th to December 16th were: To all ports of the United States, 7686; to all ports of Europe, 1382; to Buenos Ayres and Montevideo, 606, and to Oran, 10, thus making a total of 9684 bales.

Buyers of Leaf Tobacco Who Come and Go.

Arrivals: John Kolb, of the Theobald & Oppenheimer Co., Philadelphia; José M. Fernandez, of Tampa; José Arango, of the Havana-American Co. of Tampa; Bernhard Lichtenstein, of Lichtenstein Bros., New York; Max Schatz, United States representative of the "Sol" and "P. A. Estanillo" factories at New York; Coleman J. Joel, of Egerton & Joel, of Boston.

Returned: Albert Upmann, of H. Upmann & Co.; Louis Marx, the well-known planter and owner of the Vegas "Zorilla" and "San Antonio" at Alquizar; José Maseras, of Brooklyn, who always comes to spend the winter and look after his vegas at Camajuani and Placetas; Max Stern, of Sylvester & Stern, of New York and Havana.

Departures: For Philadelphia, Louis H. Eisenlohr and John Kolb; for Tampa, José M. Fernandez and José Arango; for Baltimore, Joseph Perlman, and for New York, Allie Sylvester, Otto Sartorius and Alfred K. Ettlinger.

Exports of Cigars.

The exports of cigars from Havana during the second half of November, compared with the same period in 1910, were as follows:
From November 16 to November 30, 1911..... 8,752,318 cigars
From November 16 to November 30, 1910..... 10,348,072 "

|---|--------------------|
| Decrease in 1911 | 1,595,754 cigars |
| From January 1, 1911, to November 30, 1911..... | 173,209,217 cigars |
| From January 1, 1910, to November 30, 1910..... | 151,534,487 " |
| Increase in 1911 | 21,674,730 cigars |

The above figures show a retrograde movement, and which was caused principally by England, Germany and France ordering less than last year.

Taking it altogether the exports this year have been fair enough, and if it had not been for the high prices of the fillers this year our manufacturers could be well satisfied. At the moment business is rather quiet, as usual at this season, and it may continue thus until the middle of next month, when a revival is about due. There are some orders pending for England, South America, France and a few smaller countries, therefore business is never at a standstill.

H. Upmann & Co. continue to be quite busy still in their H. Upmann factory, as they never seem to lack orders, if not from one place then from another.

"Partagas" has reduced its forces of cigarmakers temporarily this week, although the factory has some good orders for England and South America.

"Sol" has received some good orders from England, Australia and South Africa, therefore the factory will be kept going the same as heretofore and for some time to come.

As Don Nicolas Cardenas is still hustling in Europe, the Castaneda factory is well supplied with orders from this direction, and besides it has steady orders from the United States for monthly shipments of current sizes.

"La Diligencia" has a big stronghold in the Southern States of the American Union, and orders are never lacking from this part of the country, besides it has steady orders from Belgium, the Canary Islands and England.

La Flor de P. A. Estanillo seems to form an exception, as it is still working with the same full forces as heretofore, and this is owing to the backwardness in not having been able to fill all the outstanding orders, there are some which are dating back from the month of October, and it will take fully two months before the present order slate will be cleared off.

Buying, Selling and Other Notes.

Sobrinos de A. Gonzalez were again the big sellers of the past fortnight, as their transactions summed up the total of 3859 bales of Vuelta Abajo and Remedios.

John Kolb, the president of the sterling firm of Theobald & Oppenheimer Co., of Philadelphia, was the phenomenal buyer during the middle of this month, as the purchases amounted to 3200 bales of Remedios and Vuelta Abajo. Such big operations when prices are relatively high, as compared with normal times, and which involve nearly a quarter of a million dollars, do not alone speak well for the strong financial position, but also for the sagacity of its president, who acts under the impulse to keep up the reputation of the T. & O. brand, no matter what the cost of the raw material may be, even if thereby the profits of the concern should be momentarily sacrificed. However, as long as the tobacco is good and serviceable the question of price becomes of a secondary consideration. Another point which perhaps may not be known is that the policy of this house has been never to use the leaf grown and packed, say for instance, this year, until the year 1913, thus giving the tobacco a chance to become thoroughly cured by passing through the sweat of two summers here. The above quantity of tobacco will remain stored here until the fall or winter of 1912, as the manufacturers have only shipped their purchases of last year at present. Herein lies one of the secrets of the T. & O. success.

Muniz & Gonzalez sold 1200 bales of Remedios.

Progress in Porto Rico

THE report of the Chief of the Bureau of Insular Affairs, recently made public, shows that the notable progress, commercial and industrial, made by Porto Rico, in the fiscal year 1910, not only continued, but increased during the financial twelve-month ending June 30, 1911.

The value of cigar exports during the past ten years is shown in the following table:

| Fiscal years. | Cigars. |
|---------------|-----------|
| 1901..... | $306,115 |
| 1902..... | 1,549,235 |
| 1903..... | 1,753,795 |
| 1904..... | 1,460,496 |
| 1905..... | 2,152,051 |
| 1906..... | 3,074,226 |
| 1907..... | 4,241,410 |
| 1908..... | 3,414,140 |
| 1909..... | 4,383,893 |
| 1910..... | 4,480,030 |
| 1911..... | 5,355,223 |

Walter Raleigh Pipe May Be Sold

A RECENT dispatch from London, England, announces that a pipe with a history is to be offered for sale in London. It was once the property of Sir Walter Raleigh, and is not unlike the letter "Y" in shape, and for centuries now, has had its home in an ancient inlaid box, dated "Anno 1527." It is constructed of four pieces of wood, rudely carved to represent dog's heads or other objects.

The Archaeological Society exhibited it at the Guildhall in the '60's, of the last century, the inscription accompanying it bearing these words: "The original pipe of the celebrated 'Historian of the World,' and who first introduced tobacco and potatoes into England."

Tradition states that this pipe was used by Sir Walter Raleigh on the scaffold, just previous to his execution, and was handed to one of his relatives as a memento of him.

Hartford Tobacco Men Dine

THE monthly dinner and meeting of the Connecticut Tobacco Association, which was held at the Allyn House, of Hartford, Conn., on December 22nd, was one of the most enjoyable in which the association has ever participated.

After the dinner, which was presided over by President B. L. Haas, a business meeting was held, during which many matters of importance were discussed at length, and the tariff schedule was an important subject.

Hartford Leaf Dealer in Difficulty

MASON C. MILLER, of Hartford, who has been operating a leaf warehouse at North Manchester, has become involved in financial difficulty, through a mortgage foreclosure on the property of the Mason C. Miller Corporation, and the affairs will probably find adjustment in the bankruptcy courts.

Two carloads of Christmas cigars consigned to distributors at St. Louis, were destroyed in East St. Louis by fire which destroyed the freight house of the Mobile & Ohio Railroad.

Louis H. Eisenlohr is another instance, how through honesty and perseverance it has been possible to build up a reputation of producing one of the best five-cent cigars in the United States, as is evidenced by the sales of 200,000,000 of the famous "Cinco" cigars per year. Unless Otto Eisenlohr & Bros. had had previously better times, that is to say cheaper wages and lower prices of leaf, they would be unable at the present prices to manufacture a five-cent cigar which contains genuine, legitimate Havana filler from the Island of Cuba, but having through the long years of practice learned how and where to save money, they are keeping up the standard of their brands and do not need to deteriorate the quality; although at the present prices they may perhaps work more for glory than money. Louis H. Eisenlohr was accompanied this trip by his foreman, and, as usual, by Mr. Ventura Blanco, the latter acting as a broker, and his purchases consisted of 3000 bales of Remedios.

Aixala & Co. were sellers of 804 bales of leaf tobacco during the last two weeks.

Alfred K. Ettlinger was a buyer of fine Vuelta Abajo for his firm of E. Hoffman & Sons, New York, and while the exact number of bales could not be ascertained it is stated that they must have reached near or above 1000 bales.

José C. Puente sold 655 bales of his choice Remedios Escogidas. J. F. Berndes & Co. were buyers of 901 bales for the Austrian Regie.

Muniz Hermanos & Co. closed sales to the extent of 585 bales of their fine Remedios packings.

Diego Montero was a buyer of 606 bales of Remedios for his customers in Buenos Ayres and Montevideo.

Gonzalez & Benitez disposed of 440 bales of Remedios and Partido. Joseph Perlman bought and shipped 392 bales of Remedios.

Herrera, Cabnet & Co. turned over 393 bales of Remedios. Mark A. Pollack was a buyer of 400 bales of leaf purchased for account of his customers by cable orders.

Suarez Hermanos were sellers of 300 bales of their fine Vuelta Abajo Escogidas.

H. Upmann & Co. were buyers of 338 bales of leaf for export to Europe.

A. M. Calzada & Co. sold 200 bales of Partido to one of their Northern customers.

Leslie Pantin was a buyer of 300 bales of leaf for account of his American customers upon cable orders.

Rz. Bautista & Co. have set out 3,000,000 of seedlings on their farm "La Divina," and with fair weather henceforth they ought to get a fine crop around the month of February. This is the third time that they had to plow over the fields, manure the ground and replant.

A few leaves of dried new tobacco from the Remates section were shown here by a party that had returned from the country. The leaves looked well, burned perfectly and were of the highly prized temprano style, but, unfortunately, they represent only an infinitesimal quantity, as they had been taken from a few plants which had been saved. What a pity that there has not been more saved.

May Try Shade-Growing in Mississippi

DANIEL BREWER, president of the American Tobacco Company of Mississippi, has written the Chamber of Commerce at Natchez that if it will obtain for the tobacco concern fifty acres of land he believes he can enter into an agreement to plant at least ten acres, and possibly fifteen, of shade-grown tobacco in 1912, and in 1913 increase the acreage to about double. The test is to be made in the Sumatra variety, and if the Chamber of Commerce looks favorably upon the project, an important industry may develop in Mississippi.

Change in Minneapolis Stands

The Sweeney Cigar Company, which operates the cigar stand in the Hotel Radisson, Minneapolis, Minn., has also purchased from Arthur J. Hill the cigar stand in the Andrews Hotel. The change took place on December 1st, when the Sweeney Company took charge.

Late Rush Helped San Francisco Dealers

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 26th.

ALTHOUGH Christmas trade was late in starting it wound up with a rush which kept most of the cigar dealers tired but satisfied. There was a big demand for special holiday packings, as well as for the better grades of pipes and attractive packages of high-priced smoking tobacco, and the jobbers are left well cleaned up on such goods. The amount of sales made to women indicates that cigars and smokers' articles were regarded with great favor as Christmas gifts, and the character of goods thus sold shows that the women of San Francisco are getting pretty well educated on the smoke question.

Shipments of cigars to the country are nearly cleaned up for the year, though a good many small shipments are still being rushed to nearby towns, and reports from outside points indicate an early revival of demand after the first of the year.

M. A. Gunst & Co. have been short on the popular "Owl" cigar all through the holiday season, and seem unable to get in enough to satisfy the demand. They have been doing some fine window display work lately, featuring several fine lines of clear Havanas and imported cigars in special packages, the box of heavy Spanish cedar, in the rough, being quite an attraction from its novelty. The calabash pipe has also been strongly featured by this house and has proved quite a favorite in the holiday trade.

The United Cigar Stores Company is now strengthening its position on the Coast, and has just started an invasion of Sacramento, Cal. A lease was closed recently on a store at Eighth and K streets and the place will be opened about the first of the year. The United Company has had this move under consideration for some time, as Sacramento has for years been an unusually good cigar town for its size and has been growing rapidly of late.

Harry Bercovich, of the Bercovich Company, reports large sales of his "New Bachelor" cigar, and is short of stock in this line at present. Mr. Bercovich returned a few days ago from a trip in the Sacramento Valley, where he had a fine business with this line.

George R. Welb, manager of the cigar department of the Coffin-Redington Company, is on his way East, where he will visit the factory of Cuesta Rey & Co. and other Tampa firms represented by the local house.

D. Frankel, of Frankel, Gerds & Co., cigar manufacturers, has just returned from a trip to Los Angeles. The winter tourist season in the Southern city is just beginning, and he looks for a large sale of "Natividad" in that district during the next few months.

H. L. Judell & Co. have completed their removal from Front street near Market to larger quarters at 225-227 Front street. This company's business has expanded considerably in the last year or two, and it is found necessary to carry a considerably larger stock on hand. Emil Judell, of this house, returned a few days ago from the Coos Bay district of Oregon, where he was detained by storms and bad roads. It is believed that this district will be much more accessible before long as a branch from the Southern Pacific Railroad is being extended to that point, and the dealers at Marshfield and other Coos Bay towns look for quite a boom in business when the new line is completed.

Charles Knobel, Coast representative of the Salvador Rodriguez "Charles the Great" lines, has just left for a visit to the factory at Tampa.

The Edw. Wolf Company reports an excellent business in its Insular line of Manila cigars, a large shipment of which is due to arrive before the end of the week. There has been a good holiday demand for the "Don Antonio" and "El Inimito" lines, and the imported goods carried by this house have had an unusually good run. Mr. Wolf also reports a noticeable increase in the sales of "Nestor" Gianaelis cigarettes.

W. J. Pixley, who recently added the agency for the Gordon Cheroot Company to his smoking tobacco lines, is having great success with the new line and reports sales above expectations for the last two weeks.

Some very attractive displays of "Lovera" cigars are being shown by local retailers, and Wellman, Peck & Co., distributors for San Francisco and vicinity, are well satisfied with the movement of these goods, both here and in the country.

Henry Moss, of the S. R. Moss Cigar Company, of Lancaster, Pa., returned last week from a trip through his Northern territory and is now on his way East for the holiday season.

Arthur Meyer, Coast representative of Bustillo Bros. & Diaz, sprained his ankle badly last week while running for a car, but is now able to get around town. He expects to make a visit to the factory early in January.

Henry Loverich, traveling for S. Bachman & Co., has just returned from a call on the trade in the San Joaquin Valley, where he finds business active and the outlook good for the coming year.

B. W. McIntosh, representing the R. A. Patterson Tobacco Company, has made his stay at Honolulu longer than he expected, and has worked up quite a lot of business in the Islands. He is now on his way home and will arrive before the end of the week.

J. F. Paulding, a well-known cigar man of Los Angeles, has been calling on the San Francisco trade.

Tillmann & Bendel, local jobbers, have just received their first shipment of a new five-cent line, the "Duplicate Wrapper," for which they had a big lot of orders before the stock arrived.

Geo. T. Byrne, now associated with W. J. Pixley at the San Francisco office, will shortly go to Seattle, Wash., to establish a branch house, specializing on the Dill and Frishmuth smoking tobaccos.

Cleveland Stores Left With Low Stocks

CLEVELAND, Dec. 25.

AS if swept by a terrific cyclonic storm was the appearance of the stores here, after a visit to a few, late Saturday night and Sunday morning. In spite of the seemingly "hard times" about which so many of the merchants have been complaining, all indications point to one of the most profitable holiday seasons here in several years. Through the foresight of one of our leading newspapers here, a Santa Claus fund was started and this was boosted so strongly that every one seemed to be in the spirit of giving.

The sales force of The Shields-Wertheim Co. have been experiencing some very pleasant times since their homecoming. For the past few days, they have gathered, at noon, at the different cafes of this city, and with their genial president, J. B. Shields, always in their midst, have been discussing their plan of campaign for the coming year. The past year has been exceedingly satisfactory and at present they are entirely "cleaned out" of stock. The outlook for 1912 is very promising.

I. Teitelbaum, successor to E. Treubhaft, of U. S. cigar fame, now located at 1107-1111 Scovil avenue, has just made arrangements to move into a more spacious and up-to-date factory, at the corner of Woodland avenue and East Ninth street, as soon as building is completed.

Wholesome Effect of Binghamton's Industrial Exhibit

THE wholesome effect of a well managed Industrial Exhibition was demonstrated recently by the Binghamton Chamber of Commerce, when they held, during Thanksgiving week, a show that was not only a credit to the city of Binghamton, but to the officers of the Chamber of Commerce in particular.

It is said that aside from the Boston show, this was the first instance of a fully equipped cigar factory being operated at an industrial show. Of course, Binghamton, as is well known, ranks high as a cigar manufacturing centre, but the officers of the Chamber of Commerce soon discovered that there was much red tape to be unwound before such installation could be perfected. Their energy was undaunted by the obstacles and they saw it through with the result that real cigarmakers were making real cigars in a real cigar factory, for the entertainment and education of the public, and the factory was known as No. 190, and was installed by John Hennessey.

Despite all the work and difficulty of arranging for this exhibit, the officers of the show feel well repaid by the interest manifested in the making of cigars.

In making cigar exhibits otherwise, cigar manufacturers found little difficulty, because they could use dummy boxes, etc., in their trims.

The National Cigar Box Co., also had a working exhibit of the making of wooden boxes, which attracted much attention.

The Bercovich Company has recently taken up the "Blue Mouse" cigar, made by the Gordon Cheroot Company.

"Doc" Hoffman, of the Hoffman-Moore Company, has just returned from a trip to Nevada.

L. A. Sawyer, representing Las Dos Anciones and P. San Martin & Co., has returned from the mining district, where he found business very good for this time of year. He reports an excellent holiday demand for his Mexican line.

The Carus Cigar Company has been incorporated at Seattle, Wash., with a capital stock of $20,000 by J. F. Cabanne, H. Thompson and others.

H. S. ALLEN.

BOSTON, Dec. 28, 1911.

DURING the height of the holiday season the larger retail stores of this city were fairly crowded with purchasers. This was especially noticeable at the stores of the Riker-Jaynes Drug Company, the stands of the United Cigar Stores Company, Eastabrook & Eaton and others.

Dealers declare it was one of the best seasons they have ever enjoyed, and the demand was particularly strong for high-grade goods of all kinds.

Miss Stowell has opened a cigar store in the Lawrence Building, 149 Tremont street.

Willard E. Green and Bessie E. Clapp are to open a drug store in the Norwood Block, Northampton.

At the Hayward Cafe may be seen Fred Suss, with Steniece & Company; Harry Rogers, representing Louis Ash & Company, New York; Steve Herz, with Bustillo Brothers & Diaz, Tampa; Ruby Hyneman, of Hyneman Brothers, and Ben Lett, of B. Lett & Company, gathered around together, recounting their varied experiences and pleasures of the past year, and wishing each other success for a prosperous 1912.

Ruby Hyneman, of Hyneman Brothers, 33 Milk street, will depart for Havana after the holidays.

During the holidays Sanchez y Haya lines were well displayed in some of the most prominent windows in Boston, and the demand for their popular product has been larger than ever.

J. F. Callahan & Company, have entered the cigar business on a larger scale than ever before. Artie Murphy has full charge, and is certainly showing results. Sanchez y Haya and Webster are among their top-liners.

Julius Weiss, with Kaufman Brothers & Bondy, visited the trade last week.

Daniel J. Mahoney, with Park & Tilford, well-known New York retailers, was in town last week.

The "Milo" cigarettes have appeared in individual tubes made of glass, and are exploited by J. Barden.

Mr. Sullivan, with Spaulding & Merrick, makers of Velvet tobacco, was in town visiting the trade last week, especially the jobbers.

Ehrlich & Kopf, Court street, are using considerable newspaper space this week, exploiting their many grades of meerscham pipes.

The trade have been notified by Philip Morris & Company, that the price of their cigarettes will be advanced after January first.

H. Blumenthal, with the cigar department of Cobb, Bates & Yerxa, has been ill for a week or two, but is now on the highroad to recovery.

Driscoll & Fitzgerald, manufacturers of the popular "Elcho" ten-cent domestic, are enjoying a brisk demand for their output; they have been using considerable newspaper space, locally.

Tom Brown, 138 West Broadway, has recently purchased the premises which he occupies. Mr. Brown has been in the cigar and wholesale tobacco business for over thirty years, and has seen his business grow from one box of cigars to sales of many thousands of dollars annually.

New Orleans Well Satisfied With Results
Fifteenth Store in Independent Company's Chain Opened—Other Trade News of Interest

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 26th.

THE continuous strains of the past week interfered to some extent with the holiday trade; however, retailers are quite well satisfied with the demand during the Christmas season.

Last Wednesday the Independent Cigar Stores Company opened their fifteenth store at the corner of Canal and Dauphine streets. Vice-president Henry Valloft was on hand to receive the customers, and was the recipient of the congratulations of many friends on his enterprise in further extending the scope of the business of his company.

Juan Gonzales reports the largest box trade he has enjoyed since he embarked in business on his own account.

C. S. Foster, Ben Samuels and Capt. Jack Dumestre, all well-known salesmen, representing U. Koen & Co., are in the city for the holidays. They state that business on "El Principe de Gales," "Portinas," "Websters" and imported cigars has been very heavy the past month.

The dean of the cigar salesmen, Col. Mose Mayer, will remain here until after New Year's, when he will make an extended trip soliciting orders for the "Bachia" cigars.

Louis Lindheim, who is known to every cigar and tobacco merchant in Mississippi, says his firm, the Southern Cigar & Tobacco Co., will not gaze upon him until he gets ready to leave on his regular trip early next month.

The "John Ruskin" cigar is making quite a hit in many parts of the State; in addition to the newspaper advertising, large screens, showing a baseball game and the audience witnessing the game, as well as hangers, are being liberally distributed to the trade on the brand. The "John Ruskin" bands are redeemable for cigar lighters, fountain pens and safety razor sets. Smith Bros. & Co. are the distributors.

"Jim" Fox, proprietor of the Crescent Hall stand, has returned to the city after an absence of several weeks.

E. N. Frohlichstein, salesman for the Hershheim Co., passed through the city last Saturday on his way to Mobile to spend his vacation with his family.

The Hershheim Company has presented many of their customers with a fine mission wood clock for Christmas. There is no advertisement of any kind on the clock and it is quite a handsome present.

George C. Moroy has just received a shipment of "Manila Straights," "The Toiler" stogies, and "Sozos," packed twelve to the box, that sell at twenty cents a package. Mr. Moroy conducts the largest retail store in the upper section of the city, besides being engaged in the jobbing business.

Frank Joret, proprietor of the Royal Cigar Store, is devoting his window this week to a display of "Lovera" and "Charter" cigars.

"El Genio" cigars are in great demand, Max Guiraud, agent here for that brand, having had an excellent business on the brand during the holiday season.

Dave Frohlichstein, manager of the cigar department for Smith Bros. Co., has just returned from a short visit to New York in the interest of his firm.

W. M. Friess, who has for years supplied the wants of the smaller trade in every section of the city, states that he will close the year with a considerable increase over last year. Mr. Friess carries one of the largest and most complete lines of cigars and tobaccos in the city.

Laz Michel, of the Acme Cigar stand, has been a busy man for some days filling the orders of his country trade for box lots.

Julius and Henry Mayer, who recently leased the large building at the corner of Canal and Rampart streets, have stocked their store with as complete a line of cigars, tobaccos and smokers' articles as can be found in any retail store in the South. If this season's holiday trade can be considered a criterion as to the future for them, their success is assured.

PELICAN.

Internal Revenue Report for November

THE report of collection by internal revenue on stamp sales for tobacco products during November, 1911, made public a few days ago, shows a moderate increase in the output of cigars, a large gain in the production of cigarettes, and a noticeable decrease in the output of little cigars, snuff and manufactured tobacco, as will be seen by the following figures:

| | Nov. 1910. | Nov. 1911. |
|--|----------------|----------------|
| Cigars weighing over three pounds per thousand | $1,940,370.59 | $1,988,037.71 |
| Cigars weighing not over three pounds per thousand | 80,076.08 | 62,607.00 |
| Cigarettes weighing over three pounds per thousand | 7,438.92 | 5,100.69 |
| Cigarettes weighing not over three pounds per thousand | 890,682.74 | 1,135,383.33 |
| Snuff of all descriptions | 188,518.58 | 175,640.00 |
| Tobacco, manufactured, of all descriptions | 2,613,601.44 | 2,509,542.01 |
| Total | $5,720,688.35 | $5,876,310.74 |

PENNSYLVANIA TRADE NEWS

Late Reports from Lancaster, York, Reading

York Manufacturers Close for Holidays

YORK, PA., Dec. 29, 1911.

WITH 1911 about over, every cigar man is looking forward to 1912 and wondering what it will reveal. The past year, generally, was fairly satisfactory and a few will begin the new year feeling much encouraged with their success in the past. With others the year begins more ominously. They have discovered certain things which will have to be speedily remedied if greater success is to be even hoped for.

In the country sections many factories have been closed for nearly two weeks, but all hope to begin operations again early next week. Few, if any, have large stocks remaining on hand and begin with a clean sheet.

The old established cigar factory of Jacob A. Mayer & Brothers, in North York, has passed out of existence. The building has been closed and the late head of the house, Mr. Jacob A. Mayer, has removed to Florida where he is engaging in fruit cultivation. Both of the other brothers are engaged in the hotel business. The firm was started by Jacob A. Mayer in 1874 and continued by him until 1892 when he admitted his brother into the business and changed the name to Jacob A. Mayer & Brothers. They did a thriving business for many years, and had an output of several million of cigars a year, employing in the neighborhood of 200 hands. The factory has been leased to Edward Felty, of York, who contemplates manufacturing cigars on a large scale.

W. H. Raab & Sons, at Dallastown, will re-open their factory next Tuesday after a shut down of nearly two weeks.

At Red Lion, C. N. Foreman & Company, are constantly increasing their working force, and recently added twelve more cigarmakers to their payroll.

G. D. Burger, who conducts a cigar factory at Niles, Michigan, has been visiting friends at Red Lion lately.

It has been one of the best years in the cigar business ever experienced by H. F. Kohler, at Nashville.

M. Runkle, formerly a cigar manufacturer at Red Lion, but who left for the West some eighteen months ago, returned to Red Lion last week on a visit accompanied by a bride. Mr. Runkle is now engaged in the cigar and tobacco business at Monott, Mo., and will return to his present home shortly.

READING, PA., Dec. 29, 1911.

IT was an exceptional year during 1911 with a number of our local cigar factories, and a substantial headway was made. At the closing of the year the prospects for 1912 are very bright in its comparison with the conditions existing at the close of the previous year. Manufacturers generally feel sanguine and are entering the new year with every confidence that it will again be a record breaker for the cigar trade.

D. F. Fleck, who operates one of the newest factories in this city, which was begun on an extensive scale, has made good progress during the few months he has been in business. His brands are now fairly launched and repeat orders are beginning to arrive in a wholesome quantity and volume.

Emil A. Heyn has sold his cigar store, at 314 Penn street, to George Lieb, of Glenside, who has already taken possession. Mr. Heyn has left for Muskogee, Okla., where he expects to engage in the wholesale and retail cigar and tobacco business.

Lancaster Factories Resuming Activities

LANCASTER, PA., Dec. 29, 1911.

AFTER an enjoyable Christmas the cigar and tobacco trade members have turned their attention to ascertaining the net results of their year's labors, and safe to say a majority of them will no doubt find satisfaction in it. While there have been periods in which a larger volume of business was done, there was experienced this year fewer losses than in a long time.

Factories generally will resume active operations early next week. Inventories were taken this week while there was a general cessation of active business. Not a few of the factories have orders on hand which will enable them to begin with their usual complement of help.

This year's holiday season is proving a good one for the retail trade and in several instances they fully deserve it for the energy they displayed in their more than ordinarily attractive displays.

Another experiment will be made this year in bulk sweating 1911 tobacco, by Root & Baker, of Landisville, who have bought several crops for that purpose.

The new factory of the Martin Kinports Cigar Manufacturing Company, at Reamstown, will be opened for operations next week.

The S. R. Moss Cigar Company, is continually busy, and although the special holiday demand is over they have sufficient orders in hand to resume with a full force of cigarmakers.

J. G. Shirk, well-known local jobber in cigars and manufactured tobaccos, etc., has completed plans for a more extensive business next year than he has ever before undertaken.

W. M. Corry, of the Barlow-Corry Company, Quincy, Fla., growers and packers of Florida shade-grown tobacco, was a visitor in this city last week.

Several representatives of the new concern into which the American Tobacco Company, has been divided, have been calling on the trade here this week, and it looks as if there would be real competition among them in the near future.

L. A. Wheeler, of Allen & Wheeler, Troy, O., and X. Hanna, broker, of Dayton, O., were among the week's visitors.

L. E. Ryder, cigar manufacturer, has returned from an extended business trip during which he was gone a number of weeks and covered a territory that extended from coast to coast. He reports a good business but says it was not a boastful volume because conditions in some sections were not as good as was hoped for, while in other places things were very good.

M. Rosenstein, a leaf tobacco broker of Philadelphia, was also a recent visitor in this city. Mr. Rosenstein is handling the Havana business, in Philadelphia, for the account of John F. Nissly & Company, of this city.

The Blue Box Cigar Factory, at Stevens Point, Wis., which has been located at 536 Normal avenue, has just been removed to the second floor of a building at 109 East Public Square.

The incorporators of the O'Flaherty Tobacco Co. at Kansas City, Mo., capital stock of which is $2,000, are: Joseph S., Leo J. and Mary D. O'Flaherty.

Tobacco Crop Statistics for the United States

Preliminary Statement of Thirteenth Census Results Issued by the Census Bureau

STATISTICS relative to the tobacco crop of the United States, collected at the Thirteenth Decennial Census, April 15, 1910, are contained in an official statement issued recently by Director Durand, of the Bureau of the Census, Department of Commerce and Labor. It is based on tabular summaries prepared under the direction of Dr. LeGrand Powers, chief statistician for agriculture in the Bureau of the Census.

The statistics presented cover acreage, production and for the crop year 1909 as compared with 1899. In making comparisons between the two censuses the data for acreage are the most significant, as changes in the area planted to a given crop are due largely to broad economic tendencies which are fairly well indicated by returns of one year out of ten. The production, however, fluctuates from year to year in accordance with current conditions of rainfall, temperature, etc., so that a comparison between one decennial year and another may not show the true general tendencies.

General Summary for the United States.

The land in tobacco rose from 1,101,000 acres in 1899 to 1,295,000 acres in 1909, an increase of 194,000 acres, or 17.6 per cent. The percentage of increase in production was somewhat larger, the crop in 1909 being 1,055,765,000 pounds, as compared with 868,113,000 pounds in 1899, an increase of 187,652,000 pounds, or 21.6 per cent. The average production per acre increased from 788 pounds to 815 pounds. With the increased acreage and production is found an enormous increase in the value of the tobacco crop, which increased from $56,988,000 to $104,303,000, an increase of nearly $50,000,000, or 83 per cent. The average value per pound thus rose from 6.6 cents to 9.9 cents, or 50 per cent.

The land in tobacco has increased at each census since 1879—from 639,000 acres in that year to 695,000 acres in 1889, 1,101,000 acres in 1899, and 1,295,000 acres in 1909. The acreage in 1909 was thus more than double that 30 years ago. The production of tobacco in 1879 was 472,661,000 pounds, as compared with 1,055,765,000 pounds in 1909.

Distribution of Acreage.

Of the total of 1,294,911 acres in tobacco in 1909, the East South Central and South Atlantic divisions contained over four-fifths, 560,623 acres, or 43.3 per cent, lying in the East South Central Division, and 487,411 acres, or 37.6 per cent, lying in the South and Middle Divisions. The East North Central and Middle Atlantic divisions together contained 217,825 acres, or 16.8 per cent. of the total acreage. In other divisions the tobacco acreage was small.

Changes in Acreage of Tobacco.

In the East South Central Division there was an increase of over 100,000 acres between 1899 and 1909, the land in tobacco increasing from 458,000 acres to 561,000 acres, or 22.4 per cent. In the South Atlantic Division, the land in tobacco rose from 466,000 acres to 487,000 acres, an increase of 4.6 per cent. In the East North Central Division there was an increase of 56,000 acres, or 48.5 per cent., and in the Middle Atlantic and New England divisions together an increase of 14,000 acres. The West South Central Division showed a decrease of 2000 acres, or 56.4 per cent., but in this division tobacco is a very minor crop.

Tobacco Sales in Amsterdam

THE prices realized at sales of tobacco in Amsterdam from January 1 to October 18, this year, have been 30 per cent. higher for Borneo and 60 per cent. higher for Sumatra than the prices in the corresponding period of 1910. The total quantity of Borneo tobacco sold this year to date was 14,844 bales; last year, corresponding period, 14,586 bales; average price this year 48 cents a pound, last year 37 cents. The quantity of Sumatra sold this year was 234,132 bales; last year, 273,725; average price this year 48 cents, last year 30 cents. The sales in 1910 were from the crop of 1909; this year, from the crop of 1910.

The cause of the increased prices this year is the better quality of the tobacco crop from which the sales were made as compared with the crop sold in 1910.

Carriers & Marciannis, Ltd., of Canada, will do a tobacco business at Montreal, with a capital of $250,000. The incorporation is through McDougall, Alexander & Pope, advocates, of Montreal.

Production by Divisions.

Of the total production of tobacco in 1909, 1,055,764,806 pounds, the East South Central Division contributed considerably over two-fifths, and, together with the South Atlantic Division, produced 801,917,568 pounds, or over 75 per cent. of the crop of the United States. Nearly 15 per cent. of the production, 157,959,785 pounds, is found in the East North Central Division, and 89,742,818 pounds, or a little over 8 per cent., in the New England and Middle Atlantic divisions combined. The West North Central Division produced a little over five and a half million pounds and the West South Central over 700,000 pounds.

The production of tobacco in the East South Central Division increased from 363,820,000 pounds in 1899 to 467,348,000 pounds in 1909, or 28.5 per cent.; in the South Atlantic from 309,194,000 pounds to 334,569,000 pounds, or 11.5 per cent. In the New England Division there was an increase of about 14,000,000 pounds, or 59.4 per cent., and in the West North Central Division an increase of 2,355,000 pounds, or 70.3 per cent. In each of these four divisions the production increased by a greater percentage than the acreage. In the East North Central Division the increase in production was 31.8 per cent., or less than the percentage increase in acreage. Although the acreage of tobacco in the Middle Atlantic Division increased 17.4 per cent., its production decreased nearly 4,000,000 pounds, or 7.1 per cent. In the West South Central Division the production fell 56 per cent.

State Figures.

The largest acreage in tobacco was found in 1909, as in 1899, in Kentucky, North Carolina, and Virginia, in the order of rank, Kentucky leading with 469,795 acres, or considerably over one-third of the total acreage of the country in tobacco. These three States combined had, in 1909, 877,112 acres in tobacco, or nearly seven-tenths of the land planted to that crop.

In acreage the 10 States ranking highest for the two census years were:

|--------------------|--------------------|
| 1. Kentucky. | 1. Kentucky. |
| 2. North Carolina. | 2. North Carolina. |
| 3. Virginia. | 3. Virginia. |
| 4. Ohio. | 4. Tennessee. |
| 5. Tennessee. | 5. Ohio. |
| 6. Pennsylvania. | 6. Maryland. |
| 7. Wisconsin. | 7. Wisconsin. |
| 8. South Carolina. | 8. Pennsylvania. |
| 9. Maryland. | 9. South Carolina. |
| 10. Indiana. | 10. New York. |

In production the 10 States of highest rank were:

| 1909. | 1899. |
|--------------------|--------------------|
| 1. Kentucky. | 1. Kentucky. |
| 2. North Carolina. | 2. North Carolina. |
| 3. Virginia. | 3. Virginia. |
| 4. Ohio. | 4. Ohio. |
| 5. Tennessee. | 5. Tennessee. |
| 6. Wisconsin. | 6. Wisconsin. |
| 7. Pennsylvania. | 7. Pennsylvania. |
| 8. Connecticut. | 8. Maryland. |
| 9. South Carolina. | 9. South Carolina. |
| 10. Indiana. | 10. Connecticut. |

Prosperous Trade at Wheeling, W. Va.

THE report of the Collector of Internal Revenue of West Virginia reflects the prosperous times in the cigar trade of that State, and shows that during the eleven months of this year, ending November 30th, the production had exceeded the entire output of last year by a considerable number.

The collector's figures show that there was collected in revenue on cigars during the year 1910, a total of $31,016, which represents an output of 10,335,000 during that period. During the eleven months of this year the collections from the sale of cigar stamps amounted to $32,849, representing an output of 10,949,000, an increase over 1910 of 614,000. The production during December will swell these figures in no small number.

Wheeling is, of course, the centre of the industry in West Virginia, and it is in that city where the largest portion of this gain was created.

Col. M. M. Gary, of North Carolina, has succeeded Geo. R. Parker as manager of the American Tobacco Company's largest plant at Maysville, Ky., of which he takes charge about December 15.

LEAF TOBACCO MARKET

Holiday Dullness in New York--Philadelphia Has Fair Market--Buyers Still Picking Up Wisconsin Crops--
Connecticut Tobacco Arriving Slowly at the Warehouses

NEW YORK.

NEW YORK CITY.

AS was expected, there has been a general cessation of business in the leaf market during the past fortnight. This is due largely to the intervening holidays. What few sales have been consummated have been for future delivery and do not reflect a state of steady business. The scarcity of certain classes of goods, such, for instance, as binders, is becoming more apparent, even at this time when there is no strong quest for goods, and will no doubt become more pronounced as soon as a more active season again opens.

The Sumatra leaf has had a little call, but it was of such a nature that it was not regarded with any significance. Most importing houses have reduced their stocks to a minimum and the season as a whole is believed to be a very satisfactory one.

There has been a more active market in Havana than during the immediate preceding weeks, and American buyers procured considerable quantities of goods. The local market did not, however, show any ulterior sign of activity.

PENNSYLVANIA.

PHILADELPHIA.

NOTWITHSTANDING the intervening holidays the leaf market activity has kept up remarkably well, and a larger amount of business was done than is usual at this time of the year. Several moderate-sized lots of Pennsylvania tobacco and some Zimmer Spanish leaf has changed hands, and the jobbers did a full measure of routine business. Orders have been booked for later shipments in some cases where manufacturers did not wish to include purchases in their semi-annual inventories.

The Sumatra market has remained in an unchanged state. Selections were made of small lots for immediate use which was supplied principally by local retail houses.

The Havana market shows no sign of relief to manufacturers so far as any recession in price is concerned. In fact the market appears to be getting stronger on price all the time, and importers can see no immediate prospect of a change owing to the prevailing high prices for leaf on the Island.

LANCASTER.

There was little activity in the leaf tobacco market since our last report. Packers are not particularly urging the sale of old goods at present, and ere long they will be getting busy with the 1911 crops. For the present, however, they are fully occupied with the inventories.

There has thus far been no noticeable interest in the new goods, although the growers are doing everything possible to boom the crops and urging farmers not to accept "ten and three" this year as it is worth more.

There has been some little driving, but only in a few isolated instances have there been any contracts actually made.

Stripping is progressing steadily with each spell of favorable weather, and it is not improbable that when the buyers can make a more critical examination of the crops there will be some offers. Farmers persistently report the leaf to be coming from the poles in good shape, and packers, too, are beginning to believe that the reported pole damages are probably not so extensive as was at first believed.

OHIO.

DAYTON.

THERE are still differences between tobacco growers and packers and as a result the crops are not being contracted for very rapidly.

There has been a moderate trading in old goods of the Zimmer Spanish variety lately, but the volume was far from what has been experienced in some previous seasons.

WISCONSIN.

EDGERTON.

THERE is still a quiet hunt going on for remaining crops of the 1911 production. Slightly higher figures are being paid since a more thorough inspection of the crops is possible, and a thorough clean-up will probably result this year.

Growers are rushing the stripping work as fast as possible in fear of some damage from fat stems. The extremely mild weather has not been the most beneficial in its effect, because it gave rise to some heating in the piles.

A few deliveries have been made, but warehouses generally have not yet been opened for the season. It is thought that once delivery does begin it will be a continuous run, and may begin very soon.

NEW ENGLAND.

HARTFORD, CONN.

THERE is a continued tardiness in the delivery of the new crops, and yet there has been considerable favorable weather. Buyers are riding more actively since the crops have been taken down and enabling buyers to make a more thorough inspection. If growers had taken fuller advantage of the opportunity to remove their crops the buying and delivery movement might have been greatly facilitated.

There is much evidence of early preparations for another year's crop by the breaking of ground and the extension of areas to be devoted to tobacco raising, of which shade plantations will no doubt make the largest showing in gains. Packers are still confident that there will be an increase of anywhere from 20 to 30 per cent. next year.

SPRINGFIELD, MASS.

Some brisk buying has been reported from this section. Damps are still looked for by growers, and although considerable rain has fallen there has not been that protracted spell of damp weather which is most wanted.

A few warehouses here and there have been opened, but they have not yet engaged in real active handling of the new crops.

SUFFIELD, CONN.

According to those believed to know, the tobacco sorting warehouses will not run with a full force in each warehouse this winter as has been the practice during several previous years. It is expected that the American Cigar Co. will pack 3500 cases, but none is being assorted, but simply sized and tied and then shipped to the Hartford warehouse for further handling.

Local warehousemen are all doing something, but the majority of them are operating slowly. At the Fuller warehouse, which opened some days ago, about the usual force was put to work.

L. P. Bissell, who is a large grower as well as packer, has opened his warehouse with about half the usual quota of help.

For several years men who worked on tobacco farms during the summer have been finding employment in tobacco warehouses during the winter season are finding things somewhat different this year, and a number of hands from this town will have to seek employment in outside towns.

For the first time since the American Cigar Company has had a tobacco warehouse in Suffield girls will be employed as sizers and tiers in the warehouse this year. A small force has already been put to work, and this number will be increased as the season advances.

The American is shipping some tobacco bought here to Big Flats, N. Y., for handling.

Late Advices of Ohio Market

DAYTON, Dec. 29, '11.

The few firms who were buying 1911 Dutch when we sent you our last letter have discontinued buying. At this writing there is next to no buying of 1911 tobacco. As we previously reported the Ohio packers do not care to buy this crop of tobacco until stripping is well under way.

The growers, particularly in the Northern section, have bought and leased some packing houses and are organizing to table, assort, bulk and re-sweat their tobaccos and sell direct to the trade. In this way they expect to make all the profit the Ohio leaf packers have (not) made. The organization is alleged to be directed and advised by someone, who, in some way or other, has been identified with the leaf tobacco business long enough to have plenty of trade for Ohio tobaccos. This trade he assures the growers will be very glad to pay thirty-five (35) cents per pound for Wrapper grades and twenty-one (21) cents per pound for Filler grades of Ohio leaf tobacco.

The Ohio packers, in a modest way, for three years past have been very glad to sell Wrapper grades at from fifteen (15) cents to sixteen (16) cents per pound; Filler grades at from four (4) cents to five (5) cents per pound. To do this they were obliged to work and hustle and it really seems tough on the packers that this organizer did not come to them, instead of to the grower, with his thirty-five and twenty-one cent grade. Truly the ways of Providence are mysterious.

If the 1911 Ohio tobacco will be marketed by the grower, through the organizer, with the thirty-five and twenty-one cent customers, we presume the Ohio packers will have nothing else to do but pinch along with their 1909 and 1910 holdings and see just what success the growers will have in marketing Ohio leaf tobacco in its finished state.

Tobacco in New Zealand

VICE CONSUL GENERAL HENRY D. BAKER states in a special report that the statistics submitted to the New Zealand Parliament by the customs department show that in 1910 there was a per capita consumption of 7.17 pounds of tobacco in that Dominion, as against a per capita consumption in 1909 of 7.10 pounds of tobacco. The total consumption of tobacco increased from 2,278,035 pounds in 1909 to 2,295,777 pounds in 1910. The per capita consumption of tobacco was still lower than for many years past, with the exception of 1906, when it was only 7.06 pounds.

The chief use of tobacco in New Zealand is for smoking pipes. Cigars and cigarettes are smoked to an important extent, but not nearly so much as tobacco in pipes. The United States is the chief source of supply for tobacco goods. In 1910 the imports of tobacco from the United States amounted to $295,167 and of cigars and cigarettes to $134,631. The rates of duty levied in New Zealand on tobacco goods include $1.68 per pound on cigars and snuff, and $9.20 per 1000 (not exceeding 2½ pounds in weight) on cigarettes; also 84 cents per pound on manufactured tobacco and 48 cents per pound on unmanufactured tobacco. There is also an excise duty on cigarettes made in New Zealand of 60 cents per pound on machine-made and 24 cents per pound on hand-made cigarettes.

The chief pipes smoked in New Zealand are of English, French and German manufacture. The most popular are English briarwood pipes with kauri gum mouthpieces, selling from about $1.50 upward. A great number of pipes, however, chiefly from France and Germany, sell for only about 25 cents apiece, and are much used by the working classes. Clay pipes are little used in New Zealand.

Most of the tobacco shops in New Zealand are run as adjuncts to barber shops, the front portions being used for the sale of pipes and tobacco goods and the rear portions as "hairdressing saloons." The owners of these shops usually buy all their tobacco goods, pipes, razors, shaving soaps, etc., from wholesale dealers who specialize in all such goods. There is quite a large trade also at these shops in tobacco pouches, pipe holders, cigarette cases, etc., all of such goods, including pipes, being mostly imported, and paying 20 per cent. ad valorem duty with a preferential surtax of 10 per cent. ad valorem on goods from other than British dominions.

Repeat Orders on Rigoletto Cigars are Bigger Than the First

One of our salesmen has just finished covering his route for the first time since our big advertising campaign began. He not only received repeat orders from every dealer who had stocked Rigolettos from the beginning of the campaign, but in every case these orders were bigger than the first orders.

This is a significant example of the manner in which Rigoletto Cigars have made good. The same story from every section of the country. This cigar is fast becoming a standard smoke at 10c. everywhere.

Dealers who realized the quality of Rigolettos, who appreciated the demand for such a cigar when it was made known and the value of our big advertising campaign, have won out big by stocking and pushing it.

Yet the advertising of Rigoletto Cigars has only begun. There are great things for the future. Will you share in them?

Rigoletto Cigars are made in only four standard shapes, all to retail at 10c. Get in touch with your jobber or write to us and we will see that you are supplied.

One Thousand Live Men

UNDER the new management which took hold two years ago, The Tobacco World has been making quick strides forward in every department. The improvement in our reading pages, the enlargement of our correspondence staff and the distinctive style, have combined to place The Tobacco World in a class by itself.

Our method of building, has been first, to produce the best trade paper in the tobacco field, feeling sure that such a standard would be sure to win recognition in the form of thousands of new subscribers.

That this recognition is coming, is evident in the increase of more than 60% in our circulation, as well as substantial gains in our advertising accounts.

With the opening of the New Year, it is our ambition to extend this circulation in every State by an aggressive campaign for subscriptions. To that end, we have an excellent proposition for traveling salesmen who would wish to take subscriptions on a commission basis. Only men of high standing and unquestioned character are wanted.

At one dollar per year, The Tobacco World is the best trade journal proposition in the country to-day. In most cases, all that is necessary to get a subscription is to show a copy of the paper, and point out its distinctive features. Solicitors who have taken hold of our proposition are making a good side income from it.

Why not, Mr. Live Salesman, do the same?

Manufacturers Plan To Strengthen Tampa's Guarantee Stamp

Movement Suggested for Spreading and Protecting the Fame of City's Leading Factories. United Effort Will Be Enlisted

"United we stand, divided we fall."

ONE HUNDRED AND THIRTY-SIX years ago that patriot of patriots sent forth this clarion call, which awakened a determined nation to the needs for amalgamation and joint effort in resisting a great and oppressing power.

The doctrine was not a new one. Since the beginning of time people, savage and civilized, have realized that a composite body is stronger in proportion than the molecules of which it is composed.

This applies with equal force to minds, matters and sinews. Its patent correctness is being manifested in political as well as in industrial struggles.

It is fortunate indeed and a great credit to the old-time houses in the clear Havana business that the most stringent competition has not robbed them of the individuality and the reputation gained by many years of honesty. Nevertheless they are bound to admit in confidence that the racy competitive methods which they have encountered have made it harder for them to reap revenues for their labor, and just recognition for their sincerity in upholding the respective brands that bear their names.

And yet no better defined example of the folly of fighting heavy artillery with toy pistols is to be found than some of the old-time maneuvers which are now being carried on by clear Havana manufacturers in the face of the Twentieth Century business competition.

A prominent Tampa manufacturer, who has always been recognized as cool-headed, sane and conservative, after giving much thought to this important problem, suggested the following solution:

"If at least twenty of the old-time Tampa houses would join forces for the purpose of creating a publicity fund and levy a pro rata tax on each thousand cigars manufactured by members of this combine, said fund to be used in a national advertising campaign, they would in this way be in a position to expend several hundred thousand dollars each year to place permanently before the public eye a guarantee stamp.

Theobald & Oppenheimer Merge With United Cigar Mfr. Co.

Well Known Philadelphia Factory Joins Forces With Powerful Organization for the Expansion of Their Business. Increased Capital and Facilities

A TRANSACTION of far-reaching importance in the cigar manufacturing field has just been consummated by the consolidation of the Theobald & Oppenheimer Co., of Philadelphia, with the United Cigar Manufacturers' Co., of New York. This deal brings together two very important factors in the cigar trade and cannot fail to strengthen all concerned.

The Theobald & Oppenheimer Co., with its six factories located at Philadelphia, Telford, Quakertown, Pennsylvania, Milford Square and Trumbauersville, will retain their own individuality and conduct their business in a general way as heretofore.

John N. Kolb will continue as president and John T. Dee as treasurer and sales-manager of the Theobald & Oppenheimer factories.

When the overtures were first made for the consolidation of the business such a move was considered especially advantageous, because of the well-known manufacturing ability of Mr. Kolb, who, enlisted under the organization of the United Company, would greatly strengthen the combination.

Under the new arrangement, Mr. Kolb will not only direct the T. & O. factories, but also the sixteen other factories of the United Company located in Pennsylvania. The selection of Mr. Kolb for this tremendous work is a fitting recognition of his life-long services in cigar manufacturing, in which he has been recognized as one of the most skilful and thorough in the business. It is by strange coincidence that Mr. Kolb becomes the directing genius of the manufacturing end of the business in which he began years ago at the bench, in the very factory with which the Theobald & Oppenheimer business now is merged.

As heretofore, Mr. Kolb will look after the buying and selection of leaf, and backed by the ample capital of the United Company he will have resources and facilities which cannot be surpassed.

As heretofore, Mr. Dee will continue the direction of the financial end of the business as well as the general supervision of the sales.

JOHN N. KOLB

For the expansion of the United business and other purposes, which will develop under the new arrangement, the United Cigar Manufacturers' Co. expect to increase their common stock from $15,000,000 to $20,000,000, which increase they expect will be authorized at the annual meeting of the stockholders to be held February 1st.

The past year has been the most successful in the history of the Theobald & Oppenheimer business, showing an increase in production over the preceding year of more than 20 per cent. The brands which figure most prominently in the volume of production are their well-known "Royal Lancer" and "William Penn" in ten-cent and "Little William Penn" and "Quatily" in the five-cent goods.

New Measure to Solve Smoker Problem

Bill Introduced in Congress Aims to Limit Free of Tax Cigars for Workingmen

WASHINGTON, January 14, 1912.

THE "Free Smokers" question continues to be a live topic in the internal revenue department, and has just been again brought to the attention of the House of Representatives in the revised form of Representative Reilly's bill, which provides that free smokers distributed to cigarmakers shall not be taxed by the internal revenue. The bill in its modified form, limits the number of free smokers exempt from taxation to three per day for each operative enjoying the privilege.

Commissioner Cabell evidently now realizes the broad question he has to deal with in ruling upon this time-honored custom in cigar factories, and that it cannot be disposed of in an offhand fashion. Hence his recent ruling that the final settlement of taxing cigars consumed on the premises be settled by a friendly suit in the courts. As regards smokers removed from the factory it, however, appears that the Commissioner is taking a decisive stand, and as far as can be gleaned from reports from the various cigar manufacturing points of the country, the manufacturers, generally, are accepting the matter in diplomatic fashion, endeavoring to the best of their ability to conform to the law, making their distributions to employees out of stamped boxes as required.

It is pointed out by Commissioner Cabell's department, by way of distinction, that smokers consumed at the factory as a rule consist in mere bunches of tobacco encased in a wrapper, devoid of the careful trimming that is a feature of the product finished for the market. Hence they cannot, be called "cigars" in the full sense of the word, and as the law calls for taxation of cigars only, not of the raw or half-finished product, they may thus be made exempt. But as regards smokers removed from the factory, these, as the rule, are always finished cigars, although some of them may have been set aside for the purpose because they did not come fully up to the standard as regards trim, color, shape and so forth.

Burley Society Wins in Eshelby Suit

Verdict Favorable to Defendants Despite Judges Denouncement of Pool

CINCINNATI, January 13.—Despite Judge Hollister's opinion that the pooling contract of the the Burley Tobacco Society was illegal and in restraint of trade and in violation of the Sherman anti-trust law, the jury in the case of the E. O. Eshelby Tobacco Company, suing for damages alleged to have been suffered because of the operation of the Burley pool, returned a verdict last night favorable to the defendants, holding that the plaintiff had not been damaged through operation of the pool contract declared illegal by the judge.

Havana Leaf Importers Organize for Action Conference Over Customs With Government Officials Leads to Formation of New Trade Body

A DELEGATION of New York tobacco leaf importers were in Washington, last Monday, for a conference with treasury and custom house officials. The tobacco men's delegation consisted of: John W. Merriam, of John W. Merriam & Company; H. Anton Bock, of H. Anton Bock & Company; Charles Vogt, of Carl Vogt's Sons and Charles Fox, of F. Miranda & Company. The Government was represented by Secretary of the Treasury, McVeagh; Collector of Customs at the Port of New York, Wm. Loeb, Jr.; Assistant Secretary Curtis and Appraiser Bird.

The question of reaching an understanding by which the law might be enforced without loss to the merchants or Government was gone into at length, and suggestions for relief were made by the tobacco men, to which the Government representatives promised to give careful consideration. The treasury department intends, in the near future, to call a conference of all the tobacco examiners, officiating at the various ports where leaf tobacco is received, upon the conclusion of which they promised to give a decision in the matter.

Meanwhile, as an outcome of the present conference and the coming together of the importers, it was decided to organize an association to be composed entirely of Havana importers and manufacturers who use Havana, whose purpose is to be the proper safeguarding of the interests of the importers and users of Havana leaf, placing the Havana consuming part of the trade in such a position that it is possible for it to voice its views and wishes on the subject with necessary weight and emphasis.

The association will be known as the Havana Tobacco Importers' Association, and as soon as organized it is intended to at once get into harness and take up the matter in a proper way with the Government. The idea is to unite for concerted action all those branches of the trade to which importation of Havana is a matter of consequence, making an organization strong enough to demand attention.

which would be found on the products turned out by members of the combination. This would entail a pledge on the part of those who joined the combination to produce nothing but clear Havana cigars, and they would submit themselves to a thorough investigation on the part of a designated committee, which would then be in a position to absolutely guarantee the products for which they were responsible and which they would permit to bear the stamp.

The value and effect of such a move on the part of the Tampa manufacturers cannot be over-estimated. The impression upon the smoker of high-grade goods would be a tremendous one when the full details of the investigations which warranted the guarantee and made it bona fide, were properly placed before him.

An average tax of one dollar, or a dollar and a quarter per thousand, contributed by the producers of over a hundred and fifty million cigars, would mean a joint publicity fund of nearly two hundred thousand dollars per year, which would suffice to properly present to the American public the significance of the Tampa guarantee stamp.

The advance in price obtainable under these conditions, and a reduction in selling expenses, would amply repay the manufacturers.

The rumor that the Woolworth's five and ten-cent stores contemplate opening a chain of cigar stores has been denied emphatically by the heads of the Woolworth firm.

MEN WHO MADE GOOD

SIDELIGHTS ON INTERESTING TRADE PERSONALITIES

GREAT Things Are Done by Single Minds." That will stand the test. And thus, whenever and wherever we find life and activity manifested in any commercial enterprise, causing it to rise to an enviable and commanding position among its competitors, it is always a safe guess that back of this rise is the wise, directing, guiding mind of one man, through whose business genius, initiative and application, the desirable result has been accomplished.

Every conspicuous, notable success, in the world of business as elsewhere is in the last analysis, the achievement of one mind.

This is true of such enterprises as Wanamaker's, Siegel, Cooper & Company, Sears Roebuck & Co., Montgomery Ward & Co., Marshall Field & Co., and other establishments which in the course of a comparatively short span of time have acquired national standing and reputation in their respective fields:

Conspicuous in the wholesale grocery business of the West and Northwest are today two firms, which have reached an enviable position in their sphere of business activity—namely, McVeagh's, of Chicago, and the Stone-Ordean-Wells Company, of Duluth, Minnesota.

It is with the last named enterprise and the men who have built it up to its present enviable position in the commercial world of the country that we are here concerned. Its founders, of course, are its destiny masters, to them the credit for its inception and original success belongs. This great Duluth firm is headed by W. R. Stone and A. L. Ordean, whose names it bears, and who now occupy the positions as president and vice-president, respectively. The other executive officers are J. E. Granger, second vice-president; R. A. Horr, treasurer and manager; W. L. Mackay, assistant treasurer, and R. A. Bartholdi, secretary. The initiative and genius of the founders of the enterprise enabled them in the first instance to surround themselves with men of their own type—men of constructive genius and executive ability, capable of organizing the various departments of what was planned to be and became a big business house.

In this way Rollin A. Horr, the present treasurer and manager of the firm, became identified with the firm. As its present active head and manager of its large and always expanding affairs, the object of this sketch is to pay tribute to the work accomplished by Mr. Horr in his field, and to the man himself.

Worthy of the Name of His Father.

Rollin A. Horr, both as citizen and builder of business is fully worthy of the name of his illustrious father, Congressman Roswell G. Horr, the gentleman who once upon a time caused a stir in a certain section of the country by bluntly and to the point advising his fellow-citizens to "raise more hogs and less hell," by which it is recorded they benefited to an appreciable extent.

Constructive Genius Secret of Mr. Horr's Success.

Living as we do, in an age of consolidation, combination and co-operation, where the business interests of the country, as the inevitable trend of the times, no matter how great the cry against "big business" may be risen, are tending in an always increasing degree to become cemented together in large commercial institutions, there has come to be set a premium upon properly educated, trained and focussed minds, of natural constructive genius, capable of directing the affairs of the mammoth enterprises which are being evolved, with care, progressiveness and initiative. Such talent is rare indeed, and invested capital is ever on the lookout for it, ready to pay the possessor almost any salary for his services.

The recent rapid expansion of the affairs of the Stone-Ordean-Wells Company indicates more truly than many words could do it that Mr. Horr is in line for such a tribute. In his own field it would be difficult to find a more sagacious, progressive and active director of a big business establishment than he. It is due to his efforts that the volume of business transacted by his firm, for the fiscal year ending June 30 last, was the largest in the history of the company and last month showed a greater volume than any previous month.

The firm now has six well-equipped branches catering to the trade of the Northwestern territory: One in Minot, North Dakota, one in Bismarck, North Dakota, one in Billings, Montana, one in Bozeman, Montana, one in Butte, Montana, and one in Great Falls, Montana. Last, but not least, is the flourishing Minneapolis branch, devoted exclusively to the cigar industry, and which under the supervision of Mr. Horr, is prospering and progressing rapidly.

Story of His Business Career.

In adding Mr. Horr's name to the TOBACCO WORLD'S Roll of Honor, covering American business men who have made good, a brief story of his career will be in order:

Born in Saginaw, Michigan, he entered the wholesale grocery business in that city, in 1900, as a member of the firm of Phipps, Penoyer & Co., who purchased the Wells-Stone mercantile business at Saginaw. Phipps, Penoyer & Co. sold out in 1901 to the National Grocer Co., who bought up and operated a chain of wholesale grocery stores. A year later he went to Port Huron, Mich., to manage the Port Huron branch of the National Grocer Co., remaining there for six years. In 1908 he went to Detroit to manage the company's branch there, which is the largest of the chain. From Detroit he went to Duluth on October 1, 1910, and took the management of Stone-Ordean-Wells Company, and in that capacity has duplicated his previous successes.

Announcement is made that a decided expansion in the company's cigar trade has been planned for the year before us. Eight or more salesmen will be put into the field, specializing in cigars exclusively, and an output of 20,000,000 for the year is contemplated.

Mr. Horr is a believer in modern advertising of the highest class, and his company's advertisements are among the most striking and effective specimens displayed in the country's leading trade journals. An advertisement, in pictorial form, covering its full page in the journals, with the inscription, "Everybody Loves a Fat Man," is now being run with great effect.

Among the cigars which Mr. Horr finds it profitable to make a specialty are the well-known, famous "White Heather," manufactured by Guesta Rey & Co., "The Truly Spanish House," Tampa, Florida, for which a great demand has been created. Another brand made popular in the northwestern section of the country through judicious advertising by Mr. Horr, is the "El Roi-Tan" cigar, made by Seidenberg & Co. A phenomenally large, steady and daily increasing sale for these and other cigars of quality and distinction has been created through his advertisements.

The accompanying halftone is a striking likeness of the justly popular and enterprising Duluth business man, who is lifting his firm into a position of national prominence.

Mr. Rollin A. Horr has made good.

Urbansky Wins Verdict in Leaf Suit

A VERDICT for $399.55 has been awarded to Frank Urbansky, of E. Hartford, Conn., in a suit brought against Kutinsky, Adler & Company, of New York.

The verdict represents the difference between the price at which Urbansky sold some of his 1907 crop to the firm named and the price he had to sell it for after the New York firm refused to take it. The defense was that the tobacco was not up to sample.

Fire Destroys Cullman Warehouse in Connecticut

SIMSBURY, CONN., Jan. 10th.

THE three-story warehouse and farmhouse on the tobacco farm of Cullman Brothers here, was destroyed by fire today. Loss estimated at $35,000.

Fire in Cores, Martinez Factory

FIRE destroyed the cigar factory of Cores-Martinez Co. on South American street, Philadelphia, last week. Temporary quarters have been opened nearby. Plans for resumption have not yet been announced.

New England Growers Mum On Tariff Wrapper Duty Not Discussed at Annual Meeting—Senator Alsop Chosen President

HARTFORD, CONN., January 9th.

THE annual meeting and election of officers of the New England Tobacco Growers' Association was held here today, when the following officers were elected: President, Senator Joseph W. Alsop, Avon, Ct.; vice-president, Cyrus M. Hubbard, Sunderland; William K. Ackley and William S. Davis re-elected secretary and treasurer respectively.

For the first time in many years the meeting was adjourned without any discussion concerning the tobacco tariff, as there is a feeling among the members that the present duty on wrapper tobacco will not be attacked during the coming year.

A committee was appointed by retiring president, Thaddeus Graves composed of George Mitchelson, Owen E. Case, Ariel Mitchelson, W. J. Hays and Fred B. Griffin, who reported the following as directors: George Mitchelson, of Tariffville; William S. Pinney, of Suffield; Fred B. Griffin, of North Bloomfield; Nathaniel Jones, of South Windsor; William K. Ackley, of East Hartford; James S. Forbes, of Burnside; W. J. Hayes, of Tariffville; Thaddeus Graves, Jr., of Hatfield; Owen E. Case, of Barkhamsted; H. W. Case, of East Granby; W. M. Richards, of New Hartford; Marcus L. Floyd, of Tariffville; H. W. Farnham, of East Windsor Hill; Hector Chapman, of Glastonbury; Ariel Mitchelson, of Tariffville; Edward Eggert, of Hartford; Frank H. Whipple, of Hartford; John B. Stewart, of Windsor; Thaddeus Graves, of Hatfield; Edward H. Bradley, of Simsbury; Edmund Halliday, of Suffield.

Mr. Dula Outlines Progressive Policy

New Head of Liggett & Myers Tobacco Co. Invites Cooperation of Employees

ST. LOUIS, MO., Jan. 10th.

MARKING his advent as president of the Liggett & Myers Tobacco Company, C. C. Dula has issued a circular to the employees of the concern inviting their co-operation in upbuilding the business and also outlining the broad liberal policy which will be pursued. The circular addressed to the employees reads as follows:

"At the beginning of our association as co-workers, I wish to congratulate you on the encouraging conditions under which we start. While the company is new, the business is old. The brands which we are to make and sell are well established and favorably known, and the name 'Liggett & Myers' brings with it the best associations and traditions of the trade.

"It stands for quality and enterprise, and it should be the ambition of each of us to maintain this high reputation, and by the sale of all goods on a basis of best value for the money, promptness and accuracy in business and straightforwardness in all matters, keep and increase the confidence of the public.

"The work of getting the business under way in so short a time has taxed those charged with that duty to the utmost. Further details will be arranged as the occasion requires. It is hoped and believed that they will be few and incidental, and that their adjustment will not interfere in any material way with the great volume of the company's business.

"I believe the personnel of those who have been entrusted with this undertaking is all that could be desired, and I trust to the future to prove the accuracy of this conclusion. I feel assured of abundant success if all will pursue the several parts assigned them diligently, honestly, courteously, courageously and with that loyalty to the business and one another as the members of one great family working for a common end."

The factory and retail store of Robert Klee, Eighth and Arch streets, Philadelphia, has been closed and stock and fixtures will be offered at constable's sale January 20th.

KEY WEST, FLA., Jan. 9.

THE factories have about all completed their annual inventories and it is expected that the coming week will see the opening of most of them and by the first of the following week, all of the shops will doubtless be in full operation again. An abundance of orders are reported from all of the manufacturers and the year 1912 will start off with very bright prospects. It is fully expected that this year will eclipse 1911 which was the best year the trade has had with the exception of 1890 when the high water mark was reached. At that time, however, several of the larger factories moved away from Key West and for a short time the trade took a tumble, but soon regained itself and has been increasing steadily ever since.

Last year more than 92,000,000 cigars were manufactured here and this was a gain of 10,000,000 over 1910. Every effort will be made to reach the 125,000,000 mark during the coming year and it is fully expected that this number will be made within the next twelve months. This estimate is not made without reason, as preliminary negotiations are now on foot for the securing of additional factories which will insure a great increase.

The R. Fernandez Havana Cigar Company's factory was completely gutted by fire last Saturday night. The interior of the building was burned and the entire contents were burned or so badly damaged by smoke and water that they are worthless. The origin of the fire is unknown and there is much mystery connected with it for the reason that Mrs. Fernandez and the manager of the factory, together with several other employes were in the building until 6 o'clock and the fire was discovered at 9.30. When they left the factory, everything was in good order and the place was made secure at the time.

Mr. Fernandez is in Havana at the present time and he has not authorized any statement as to the plans of the company for the present. It is understood, however, that other quarters will be secured and the business will be continued on even a larger scale than that previous to the fire. Fortunately the stock was pretty low at the time of the fire and there was not such a loss as would have occurred had the fire started during the rush season.

For a time it was feared that the large Cortez factory, which is within a few feet of the Fernandez factory, would catch fire and the efforts of the firemen were doubled in saving the burning building and preventing the flames from spreading to the Cortez shop. As it was the Cortez building was not damaged.

E. H. Gato, Sr., president of the E. H. Gato Cigar Company, spent several days here last week in connection with the affairs of the factory. He was pleased with the results of the past year's work. He returned to Cuba this week.

George W. Nichols, of the George W. Nichols Company, was a prominent visitor last week and spent some time here looking after the business of the local factory.

President Luis Martinez, of the Martinez-Havana Cigar Company, was in Key West last week and discussed plans for the coming year with his son Eladio Martinez, who is permanently located at the factory here.

TAMPA, FLA., January 14, 1912.

THE Tampa Clear Havana Cigar Manufacturers' Association has elected officers for the ensuing year and adopted a plan by which it is believed all grievances that may arise on the part of the employees in the factories against the employers may be settled without delay.

The annual election resulted as follows:

President, A. L. Cuesta; vice-president, Joaquin Lopez; secretary, Moises Bustillo; treasurer, Manuel Sanchez. Directors: A. L. Cuesta, Joaquin Lopez, Moises Bustillo, Manuel Sanchez, Thomas Morgan, M. Alvarez, L. Torres.

The plan for adjusting all disputes between employees and employers is as follows: Each month there will be appointed from the membership of the association three men who will act as a board of complaint. These three men will, when disputes arise in any factory, meet with a committee of three workmen from that factory, such workmen's committee to be chosen by secret ballot among the employees of the factory. If this joint committee fails to settle the dispute, then the matter goes before the full board of directors of the manufacturers' association, who will take it up with the committee of the cigarmakers. If these fail to come to a settlement, the manufacturers are to appoint one man, the cigarmakers another and these two select a third party not in any way connected with the cigar business, and the three members shall constitute a commission to finally adjudicate the matter, both parties to the dispute accepting the decision. It is believed the men will agree to this proposition, which is manifestly fair to all concerned.

The manufacturers and their employees are just getting into harness again after the holidays and ensuing cessation of activities. The annual inventories have been taken, and most of the factories are again working with a full force of operatives.

Harry Culbreath, who travels for V. Guerra, Diaz & Company, was in Tampa during the holidays, with his relatives, and is ready for a vigorous new year campaign in the interest of his firm.

Carnation Meyers is at his headquarters, Salvador Sanchez y Ca. for a conference with the heads of the firm before he takes his 1912 samples out. Mr. Meyers is a popular man about Tampa, and equally so on the road.

A party of Tampa manufacturers, consisting of V. Guerra, Tom Fisher, R. Diaz, C. Menendez and G. B. Greeson made a holiday outing to Moon Lake, in search of big game. They returned with numerous trophies dangling from their belts, and one of the members of the successful expedition may sit down and write up the story of the trip—same as T. R. usually does when the newspapermen are not attending.

Edward Wodiska, of Corral Wodiska y Ca, spent the holidays in Tampa, after the most successful season he has ever had on the road. With 1912 his firm is planning for a vigorous crusade throughout the South.

M. W. Berriman, of Berriman Brothers, was here at the close of the year, inspecting his large factory.

George Meigs, general representative of Sanchez & Haya, was in Tampa during the holidays.

How to Keep Cigars

THIS is one of the most important problems with which the retail tobacco merchant is confronted. There has just appeared, as the outfit of an enterprising Fifth avenue, New York, tobacconist, an entirely new device for keeping cigars and cigarettes in proper condition—so simple and perfectly fitted to its purpose that one would wonder the idea had not been thought out and put into practice long ago.

It consists, in brief, in a device similar to the well-known, unspillable ink-well, reversed and inserted in the lid of a humidifier. Such ink-wells are made in one piece and can be tipped over or rolled around without a drop of the ink escaping. The humidifiers are very much like this style of ink-well, except that they are broad and shallow, made out of silver plate. They are fastened into the lid of the wooden humidifier by an ingenious device, which permits them of being taken out and refilled whenever necessary. For one of the regular size, which is about three inches in diameter, this would be about once a month. One of the cleverest applications of this new style of humidifier is where it is used in glass jars for cigars, fitting into the glass stopper.

As an experiment, the manager of the Fifth avenue establishment, where the device is now used, has gone so far as to have a cigarette case made across one end of the inside of which a small humidifier is attached following the same principle. This holds perhaps a tablespoonful of water, keeping the cigarettes moist.

Preservation of Flavor, Not Mere "Moistness," the Aim.

Fastidious smokers readily agree that an inferior cigar, in good condition, is to be preferred to a good cigar in poor condition. Men talk of "moist cigars" as if mere dampness were all that is necessary. The flavor and the aroma of a cigar, however, do not come from dampness, but from the fugitive resin or oil of the leaf. This is contained in the dark veins which show in tobacco that is in good condition. It is invisible particles of this resin escaping into the air that you get the benefit of when you sniff a box of good cigars. These are always escaping, but much more rapidly in a hot, dry atmosphere than in a cool, moist one.

This fact is taken into consideration in the construction of the new humidifiers, as it is in the best grade of humidifiers.

A glass jar to hold a couple of dozen cigars and with the unspillable new humidifier in the stopper costs $4.50, and a mahogany octagonal case to hold it something like the old-fashioned tail knife cases, costs $10 or $12 more. These may be used as well as a store equipment as to retail over the counter by the tobacco merchant.

The same holds good of cigarette humidifiers, which come in glass, either plain or crystal or cut, trimmed with silver and with a silver case inside to contain the uncut lemon which is the very best humidifier for Turkish tobaccos. Others are of mahogany or rosewood or satin wood, lined with the unspillable humidifier in the lid. Cedar has the quality of absorbing moisture when there is too much and of giving out this accumulated store when the atmosphere dries out. Lemon is complementary to Turkish tobacco, but should not be used for a humidifier with cigars.

The question of keeping their stock of cigars in proper condition is of course one that interests every retailer, and the above invention may prove of great value in this connection. If entirely practicable it will undoubtedly be placed on the general market in the near future, and properly advertised.

Which Class Are You In?

THE day has long gone by when a tobacco dealer could stock up with a few boxes of cigars and packages of tobacco, and when a customer asked for a special brand, select a box from the pile and offer it over a dingy, dirty counter, covered with other merchandise. With the immense strides that have been made in all kinds of store equipments, the cigar store has not been overlooked. Nowadays, a customer expects to step up to a plate-glass cigar case and be able to see the entire line at a glance. He also expects the case to be fitted with moisteners as a guarantee that his cigar or tobacco will be fit to smoke after he has paid out his good money for it. The cigar dealer who has not realized these facts has probably not been able to understand why he has fallen so far behind his competitor.

Up-to-dateness spells the word "Success" in the cigar business no less than in any other line of merchandise. Look around and see what you lack in store equipment that your successful rival has.

Prize for the Best Idea

Here is a wrinkle that has been tried out by a large cigar dealer in Detroit.

They have a brass box with a slot in the top, fixed to the wall near the door of their store. A neat card is displayed bearing these words:

"We will give a box of cigars free every month for the best suggestion as to how we can increase our business."

The contest is open to every one, and the suggestions are examined every month and the prize awarded to the person submitting the best.

You say you cannot afford to sell cigars at the right prices—excuse me—do you buy right?

The tobacco merchant who neglects to insure his stock invites disaster.

The retailer who advertises judiciously is seldom, or ever, troubled with a dull season.

C. A. Mitts has taken twenty feet of the frontage of the Grand Rapids Grocery Co., Grand Rapids, Mich., and is fitting it up as an up-to-date cigar store.

Murray Raphaeld is opening a cigar store at 76 Ellis street, San Francisco, in the location where Sig Cahen formerly operated.

Michael McGrath, of South Windsor, Conn., has purchased the cigar business at 436 Asylum street, from Deputy Sheriff Charles H. Latham, trustee of the insolvent estate of Thomas P. Quinn.

Harvey Hale, of Grand Rapids, Mich., has opened a new cigar store in the New Donovan Building, with frontage on Oakes street.

Show Card Writing Made Easy for the Retailer

How This Useful and Profitable Art May Be Mastered in the Shortest Possible Time

NO Sir. It does not require a skilled, professional artist to produce really striking and unique effects in show-card writing, appropriate to a retail tobacco store. Any merchant or his clerk may, at slight practice, acquire sufficient skill and dexterity in the art to enable him to greatly enhance the attractiveness of his store by the display of seasonable, well-executed effects in show-card writing, original and appropriate to his business, varying and changing often enough to draw the special attention of the public and thus add to the number of his customers and increase in his sales.

Most easily acquired is the so-called "free hand" work. Proficiency in this may be acquired by anybody by practicing whenever an opportunity presents—during idle moments while on duty in the store. Mr. Charles A. Miller, a well-known writer on the subject, defines this as an "acquiring control of the pen and brush." Pen and pencil should be used at the outset. Later on, when a degree of proficiency has been acquired, the brush—more difficult to handle—may be substituted.

Tools—And How to Handle Them.

Not very much in the line of tools is required, but what you use should be of the best quality obtainable. Three or four brushes, including one flat brush for filling in, constitute an ample brush supply. These should be obtained from a responsible firm, if possible one which makes a specialty of supplying tools for this purpose, with a clerk in charge who knows what constitutes a proper show-card outfit, and who can be depended upon to supply you with the best grade.

How to Practice.

At the outset it is necessary to use rule, drawing board and compass in drawing the letters, but after a little practice forming letters by the aid of these, you will find yourself perfectly able to discard with their use. Before discarding them, however, be sure to have gone through the entire alphabet, studying the construction of each letter. After that you will find it no difficult task to draw from imagination, and will be surprised at the ease with which you acquired the rudimentary skill of the art. A large drawing board, big enough to afford space for the largest card you intend to use should be obtained with a T-square and a number of thumb tacks.

Now commence practicing parallel and oblique lines and curves, using for this at the outset pencil and pen. The first effort should be made to draw with accuracy, acquiring the skill necessary to draw with a bold, easy stroke, made without effort. Use the T-square for spacing and for obtaining the correct position of the letters before you commence sketching them. The first outlines should be made by a pencil properly pointed. Make light pencil lines denoting the height, width and respective curves of the letters. Then try the brush, making all the strokes as with the pencil, following the outlines carefully (a pen may be used for the original lines in place of the pencil.) It is one of the knacks of the art to learn to raise the brush at the correct place, leaving go of the stroke and a little further on adroitly, replacing it, and which will be acquired in the course of the practice so that it can be done with appropriate neatness and effect.

The Layout—Paints and Inks—Colors, Etc.

Having practiced on the alphabet with the aid of rule and compass, forming each letter carefully, the so-called "layout" of the show-card in hand should be practiced. Then comes the question of obtaining and using the correct inks and prints, how to mix them for the best effect, how to obtain tasteful color-effects, by appropriate use of colors and shading, and so forth. Space forbids us in this article to go into this subject at any further length, but Mr. Charles A. Miller, the expert show-card writer and instructor, mentioned by us, is the author of an excellent little book entitled "How to Make Show Cards," published by the Spatula Publishing Co., Boston, Mass., in which he enters into the subject practically and thoroughly, with ample illustrations to show any enterprising retail merchant how he, in the shortest time, may become an adept in the art. We recommend this book to our readers as a supplement to this article. Its price is one dollar, postpaid, and it may be obtained direct from the publishers. The two show card designs we give are taken from this book, which contains numerous similar ideas and suggestions, making it, together with the instruction it contains, worth its price a number of times over to any retail merchant bent upon drawing trade to his store by the aid of high class show card advertising.

Corner Store Chat

THE question of stock-taking came up in a conversation at one of the uptown stores, the other day. There were various opinions as to the best way of ascertaining, in a systematic way, the profits or losses during a certain period. Mr. X., who has been in business a great many years, solved the problem in the following simple manner: "Each year, after Christmas, I count my cigars and find that I have no cigars left, and after New Year's I count the cash and find that I have no money left; then I know that my books balance and everything is O. K."

'Tis an old, old story, but we spring it with the hope that 'twill entertain the younger generation in the cigar business. About a year after the Spanish-American war, when things in Cuba were in a chaotic condition, and it was difficult to find good tobacco, even with a microscope, the representative of a clear Havana house called on a prominent wholesale liquor man in Albany, N. Y.

Salesman—"Good morning, Mr. Jones. I have the finest clear Havana cigars you ever saw."
Customer—"Sure, it's a lot of trouble you fellers are havin' with the rain storms in Cuba."

Thereupon the sales representative proceeded to assure the prospective that while no other house in the country had an ample supply of high grade leaf on hand, his house was exceptionally fortunate because they had enough old tobacco to last them for an eight months' supply. Once again the customer commented upon the rain storms in Cuba and the devastation of the crops. The salesman again mentioned the fortunate position of his house, this time even more forcibly than before. All this time the buyer was smoking one of the samples. After a few more puffs he threw the weed away angrily, and exclaimed, "Worried about the rain storms in Cuba, are you? I'll bet you're a whole lot more worried about the snow storms in Connecticut than you are about the rain storms in Cuba."

Mike invited Pat to join him in a sociable drink. "And sure Pat," says "Mike," I'm not taking anything at all. I had a fight with the wife and I'm on the Wagon."

"Oh, come on take something," was Mike's rejoinder.

"Well, I'll walk in with you, and sure I don't want anything at all at all."

Both representatives of the Emerald Isle, walked into a cafe, and upon a repeated invitation, Pat declined, whereupon Mike insisted that he take a cigar.

"What kind of a cigar will you have," said the bartender, "mild, medium or strong?"

Says Pat: "Sure and I'll take a shtrong one, one that won't break in me pocket."

Old Uncle Ryan Brandon, aged 80, a trapper near Moundsville, West Virginia, near the Ohio line, was in that town the other day buying the annual supply of smoking tobacco for his mother, Sarah Brandon, who resides with him on a small farm near the town of Key, Belmont County, Ohio. She is 111 years old and is known as the oldest resident in the State of Ohio.

The records proving her great age are authentic and she is still wonderfully active; moves around the house freely and even goes into the fields and suggests to the boys who are at work. For thirty years she has not had a sick day. Be it known to the Supreme Court of the United States also, Mrs. Brandon began to corner the smoking tobacco market at an early age, yielding to the lure of the pipe, and for many years requiring her son to lay in an ample supply of bright, golden, burley tobacco for her own special use. She hits the pipe freely and every day and night witnesses angelic visions through the curling smoke of the fragrant weed.

Mrs. Brandon was the mother of thirty-two children and her grandchildren and great-grandchildren now number among the hundreds. She had sixteen sons in the civil war, some of them serving in the southern army and some in the northern. Some were killed in battle, some were wounded, while others returned home unscathed.

I was amused the other day, while standing in the corridor of one of the big tobacco plants, to observe the expertness of the professional searcher, who handled the several thousand male employees as they were leaving the works for luncheon.

He stood by the exit door and as each individual workman passed him, with a pair of marvelously trained hands, he went over each man's person, looking for concealed packages of cigarettes, smoking or chewing tobacco which they might have attempted to slyly pinch.

I talked with him for a moment after his job was done and he told me he had been attending to it for twenty-three years, and is so well versed in the science of detecting a culprit that almost the moment he steps up to him he can place his hand on the pocket in which the contraband goods are located.

Only the foremen of the departments are exempt from this wise business precaution for preventing a tremendous loss of stock in a large factory, and the workmen have become so used to the operation that they pass through it mechanically.

For a moment I rather resented the process and my mind traveled over to the far-distant Kimberly diamond mines in South Africa, where the gigantic blacks are stripped at the close of each day's work to be searched for hidden diamonds, but then I recalled that our modern business Juggernaut must move on a direct track irrespective of whose feelings are hurt, and sentiment can play no part. According to the old man's statement, notwithstanding the search of the men, a lot of stuff is slipped out by the female operators, many of whom are veritable jackdaws.

EDITORIAL

THE TOBACCO WORLD'S New York correspondent recently called upon the representative of one of the prominent clear Havana houses, and his inquiry

as to business was met by the statement: "We are not doing anything now, except waiting for word of failures."

While this was said in a semi-jesting way, the truth is that during the year of 1911 there have been in the Metropolitan district an unprecedented number of bankruptcies, receiverships and breakdowns in the "lobster palace district" mainly, which have resulted in considerable loss to the cigar men who have catered to them, as well as much inconvenience in re-arranging their respective points of distribution.

While it is generally realized that the Metropolitan district, from a cigar standpoint, offers little opportunity for profits to the large manufacturers, it has been worked and overworked on account of the advertising benefits which the distribution of the prominent Gotham places offers to the manufacturers.

These numerous credit losses, coming on top of the heavy expenditures connected with the securing of the business, make the burden upon the manufacturers almost unbearable, and it is freely predicted that unless the dealers in the Metropolitan district revise their business methods, those producers, whose goods are in demand by reason of their merits, will abandon the project of trifling with a game that is not worth the candle.

The result of this would be that New York distributors would offer their patrons a poorer assortment of cigars than is presented in Oshkosh.

The gist of Commissioner Cabell's decision, which has just been filed, is that the ruling in Treasury Decision 1723, which requires tax to be paid on free smokers, will be enforced. No assessment for liability "Free Smoker" under the ruling will be made on business done before September 15, 1911; Decision Does that is, the cigar manufacturers will not Not Decide be required to pay tax on smokers distributed prior to that date. The suggestion is made that the manufacturers may test the right of the Commissioner to make this ruling through a friendly suit in the courts.

In substance, the Commissioner's decision confirms his ruling that it is unlawful for an operative under any circumstances to remove cigars from any factory until the Internal Revenue regulations have been complied with. For the enforcement of this rule, the employer is held responsible under penalty of fine or imprisonment. Another point is the consumption of untaxed cigars by workers in the factory. It is here that the Commissioner, unable to make a decision satisfactory to himself, makes a compromise by referring the issue to the courts for a friendly suit to clinch the matter.

The machinery of the courts, however, is apt to move slowly in a case like this, and it seems to us, as to other observers who have followed up the "Free Smoker" situation from the time it first presented itself, hardly fair and reasonable that the manufacturers throughout the country should be kept at sea in the matter. To have the prospects of a fine or imprisonment hover over their heads on account of their allowing their operatives the time-honored privilege of a reasonable consumption of cigars in the factory while at work is not a pleasant thing to contemplate, and the question is a vexed one, as all important questions upon which the parties at interest are unable to reach a decisive conclusion, one way or the other, ever were.

To criticize the Internal Revenue Commissioner on account of the matter would, perhaps, not be just, as he evidently is trying his best to dispose of the entire situation in an all around equitable and fair manner, with as little hardship and damage to the manufacturers as possible. He simply has failed to reach a conclusion on a point upon which he hardly could be expected to be competent to judge.

Is there any way by which the matter can be disposed of, short of keeping the entire cigar manufacturing trade on the anxious seat, pending a court suit as prescribed by Commissioner Cabell?

It has been suggested, and we lend our endorsement to the suggestion, that a committee of leading manufacturers make an appeal to Congress for relief, petitioning for action of the same kind as has been granted to brewers for beer consumed by operatives on their premises. The two propositions are, in fact, identical and there appears to be no good reason why the cigar manufacturers should not have the same consideration as the brewers, using the action taken by the Government in the case of the former as a precedent.

Speaking of the perennial New Year pledges of the anti-smokers, Leo Abraham, Milwaukee, sagely remarks: "Right now business is a bit dull, but in fifteen days we'll be doing as much as ever. Every year at this time hundreds of men swear off smoking, but we find that in less than two weeks most of them are back at it again. It sounds nice for a man to swear off, but give him a few days and he'll sell his shoes for a good smoke. Once a man swears off and finds he cannot do without smoking he doesn't swear off again."

A New Jobbing House at Indianapolis

THE stock of August M. Kuhn & Co., wholesale grocers of Indianapolis, Ind., has been purchased by J. P. Michael and Simon Cohn, who announce that with the new year the style of the firm will be changed to that of J. P. Michael Co. Mr. Michael formerly operated wholesale houses in Rochester and Lafayette, Ind. A feature of the new concern will be an up-to-date cigar department, which will feature leading brands.

Louisville House Takes on "The Poster"

THE Robinson-Pettet Co., Louisville, Ky., is jobbing the "Dutch Stogy", selling at ten for five cents, and made by the W. D. Sharpe Cigar Co., Pittsburgh; "Golden", a nickel brand cigar, made by the American Cigar Co., and "Poster", made by the Surety Cigar Co., also a nickel cigar, are other new brands taken on by this company for the new year. Charlie Frick, manager of the cigar department, is negotiating with an A-1 man to take his new feature brands on the road.

Hastings (Neb.) Wholesale Firms Expand

The large warehouse of the Davis estate at the southeast corner of First street and Lincoln avenue, Hastings, Nebraska, has been leased by the Kinney Cigar Company and the L. A. Kinney & Co., wholesale fruit and candy firm. Some alterations for the two firms are now being made and some equipment is being installed. Probably the building will be ready for occupancy early in January.

Mr. Kinney will maintain his retail cigar business at his present location, but the cigar manufacturing will be changed to the Davis Building.

A Great Distributing House

THE Hjalmar Boedtke Co. are distributors for Syracuse and vicinity for the "3-20-8" cigar, manufactured by A. B. Smith & Co., Boston, was introduced by them in that territory but three months ago, but they already have succeeded in securing a large and growing demand for it, with repeating orders coming in nicely. They also handle the nickel "Charles Denby" cigar and are creating a demand for same.

The business of the Nelson Kiel Company, retail dealers at Hartford, Wis.; The Reeves Dana Cigar Company, of Fond du Lac; The Jenkins Nelson Cigar Company, of Antigo; The Jenkins McNeveins Cigar Company, of Oshkosh, and The Havana Cigar Company, of La Crosse, has been taken over by the Jenkins Cigar and Tobacco Company.

J. E. Reeves, who for some time was manager of the Fond du Lac store of Jenkins Cigar & Tobacco Company, resigned to take an active interest in the Waukesha Cigar Company, of Waukesha, Wis., of which he is president. He was succeeded at Fond du Lac by A. B. Bennett, formerly with the Pfister Cigar Company, of Milwaukee.

Frank M. Lopez, who has been connected in a selling capacity with Chapin & Gore, well known distributors of Chicago, has severed his connections with the western house and joined the forces of Garcia & Vega. He will cover a large territory, starting out within the next few days.

Hochfeld Bros. Cigar Co., Portland, Ore., northwestern distributing firm of "La Verdad", manufactured by Simon Batt & Co., are taking stock with view of opening a vigorous New Year campaign. This firm is also Oregon distributors of the "Bingo", manufactured by the American West Indies Trading Co.

R. J. Seidenberg & Co., Buffalo, N. Y., supplied a recent Erie County Supervisors' banquet at Statler's Hotel, that city, with the well-known La Verdad cigars, manufactured by Simon Batt & Co. Mr. Seidenberg is reported to have made the statement that on the Saturday before Christmas they enjoyed the heaviest one-day's business in the history of the firm.

The Smith Bros. & Co., Ltd., New Orleans, La., will commence the new year with twelve additional salesmen. The manager of the firm, Dave Frolichstein, has just returned from a business trip to New York, where he placed large orders with T. J. Dunn & Co., Rey, Strauss & Co., and the Juan F. Portuondo Cigar Factory. A new year feature with this prosperous concern will be the S. M. Frank & Co. pipes.

Oak Olson and H. B. Olson, representing Schwabacher Bros. & Co., Seattle, Washington, in Southeastern and Southwestern Alaska, have returned to their districts for an active 1912 campaign after spending the holidays in Seattle.

The Noah Foster Co., Buffalo, N. Y., issued attractive New Year's greetings to its patrons and friends, and have concluded their 1911 report, which shows that the firm has enjoyed a prosperous trade in the past year.

L. O. Rand, until recently with the American Cigar Co., has accepted the position as western representative of E. M. Schwarz & Co. and the Jose Lovera Co., with headquarters in Chicago. His territory will cover Michigan, Wisconsin, Ohio, Indiana, western New York, Pennsylvania and Kentucky.

M. A. Gunst & Co. did a large volume of business during the 1911 season on every staple line carried by them. The district managers of the concern's chain of stores will hold their annual meeting in San Francisco in the middle of January. The firm is still short on "Owls", but are endeavoring to increase the supply as rapidly as possible.

Late Jobbing Trade Items

Hyp Bier, of the firm of Bier Saalburg & Co., San Francisco, had an excellent holiday jobbing trade on the Cortez Cigar Co.'s clear Havana line and on the "Sam Sloan" nickel brand. The firm's new year jobbing trade opens brisk and promising.

Rothenberg & Schloss, of Kansas City, have added the "Charles Denby" cigar, manufactured by H. Fendrich, for their entire territory.

Herschberger & Sloan, Kansas City, gave a banquet to their traveling representatives during the holidays, which was largely attended.

The Tromp Smoke House has opened an additional store in Arkansas City, Kansas.

Berg King, until recently with the House of Crane, Indianapolis, Ind., now represents Donahue & Eaton in that city, taking the place of Mr. Eaton as manager of the city trade, while Mr. Eaton henceforth will devote his attention to the management of the wholesale department.

The Klauber-Wagenheim Co., of Los Angeles, Cal., has placed a big order for the "Post Despatch" cigar, manufactured by the Eitel & Cassebohm Co., Louisville, Ky. Commencing with the new year the Eitel & Cassebohm Co. will have two first-class men attending the Los Angeles interests of their "Post Despatch" cigar continuously.

Woodward Jones & Co., Los Angeles, Cal., have added as a new feature to their establishment an auto-sales wagon. They are featuring, among others, the "Vandalia" five-cent cigars, manufactured by Luckett, Luchs & Lipscomb, Philadelphia, and their cigar trade is in a flourishing condition.

The Hemenway & Moser Co., Salt Lake City, Utah, are just in receipt of an additional substantial supply of "Hand-Mades", a five-center, manufactured by the Spietz & Worth Co., Detroit. They have a rushing demand for this special brand and all they can do to fill the orders as they come in.

The Atkinson Cigar Co., Denver, Colo., have bought a half interest in the merchandise brokerage company of Morris Bros., of that city, and the combination will jointly handle, as manufacturers' agents, leading brands of cigars, tobacco and cigarettes.

The Metropolitan Cigar Co., Denver, Colo., are extensively advertising the S. Valentine & Sons brands "Flor de Valentine" and "Betsy Ross" through the daily newspapers.

F. L. Roberts, the Central street, Boston, Mass., jobber, reports that his 1911 reports show an excellent volume of trade transacted. He features such brands as Y. Pendas & Alvarez's "Webster", Garcia Pando & Co.'s "La Victoria" and a number of other leading brands. He expects to do a rushing volume of business during the 1912 season.

A. B. Murphy, manager of the cigar department of John F. Callahan & Co., Boston, is sick in bed on account of the work he had to shoulder during the holiday season.

First State Association of Retail Cigar Dealers in America Formed in Seattle

THE first State association of retail cigar dealers ever organized in the United States was formed at a convention held in Seattle, January 9th and 10th. This convention was the first of its kind on record. Delegates from the seven local retail cigar dealers' associations in the large cities of the State were elected.

The arrangements for the convention were in the hands of J. R. Brewster, O. A. Benson, J. A. Gibson, T. J. Ivers and A. A. Wismolek. The convention headquarters were at the Palace Hotel.

One of the prime causes of the State association is to band the leading retailers of the State together to resist the encroachments of the tobacco trust in the Pacific Northwest. Independent retail cigar and tobacco dealers have long held a grievance against a system of coupons and other devices.

Another aim of the State association will be to discourage the use and sale of goods on which the independents are not guaranteed a fair profit. The association members will also endeavor to promote the sale of independent brands of cigars, tobaccos and cigars.

Nelson Organizes Retailers.

Retail associations have recently been organized in various parts of the State by N. E. Nelson, active secretary of the Seattle association. Delegates to the convention were present from Seattle, Tacoma, Spokane, Walla Walla, Aberdeen and Hoquiam, North Yakima and Bellingham. Representative retailers from other cities where there are no associations, as well as Portland, were invited to attend.

At the election of the Seattle Retail Cigar Dealers' Association, held December 8, the following officers were elected for the next year: J. A. Gibson, President; W. W. Chappell, Vice-President; S. J. Brightman, Treasurer; O. A. Benson, Secretary, and N. E. Nelson, Acting Secretary. Board of Trustees: J. R. Brewster, J. A. Gibson, O. A. Benson, T. J. Ivers, L. L. Phelps, C. E. Smith, and R. E. Sullivan.

Late Jottings

The increase of the cigar output from the First Pennsylvania District in 1911 is estimated at 32 million.

The total production of tobacco for the year 1911 was 905,109,000 pounds—a decrease of nearly 100,000,000 pounds. The total cigar leaf production was 218,153,000 pounds—an increase of about 16,000,000 pounds.

Jerome Fisher, for fourteen years with A. Cohn & Co., has accepted a position with E. Spingarn & Co., to cover his old field, namely, Canada, New York State and the East. He leaves for Canada just as we are going to press, to show the manufacturers throughout the Dominion some of the E. Spingarn & Co. fine Sumatra tobaccos.

Two Utica Firms Consolidate

Utica, N. Y., Jan. 8.

THE Wald-Kendrick Co. has been incorporated by M. A. Wald, P. J. Wald, F. M. Kendrick and James B. Geer to take over the manufacturing and distribution business in cigars and tobacco of F. M. Kendrick & Co. and the five retail cigar stores of P. J. Wald. F. M. Kendrick & Co. was formed in 1872 and for many years has been prominent in cigar and tobacco manufacture. It is understood that Mr. Kendrick, under the new arrangement, will turn over the active management to Mr. Geer and that Mr. Wald will direct the manufacturing and selling end.

Independent Tobacco Salesmen's Association Make Merry

Gathered in Terrace Garden, New York, for Business and Pleasure, the Fraternal Spirit Reigned and Brotherhood's Future is Cemented

RESPONDING to a very tempting and mysteriously worded invitation, seventy-five of the braves who belong to the clan known as the Independent Tobacco Salesmen's Association of America, gathered at Terrace Garden on Friday evening, January 5th, for the purpose of transacting important business and making merry (accent on the making merry).

The invitation set forth that an entertainment de luxe would be furnished. The committee in charge of this entertainment made good, and realizing what was in store for them at the close of the business meeting, those present lost no time in disposing of the more weighty matters that came up for consideration.

A publicity committee was appointed to co-operate with the National Leaf Dealers' Association in the selection of a capable publicity agent, who will be chosen for the purpose of securing space in the national press for the movements of the Allied Independents.

Oscar Veit was the recipient of an ovation when he entered the hall a few minutes after he had been reported sick by Treasurer Weil.

Under "Good and Welfare" discussions, Mr. Veit arose and stated that, while not desiring to make a lengthy address, he could not resist the temptation of making a few suggestions for the "Good and Welfare" of the Independents. He pointed out that various members who were about to start on the road could be of inestimable benefit to their organization if they would aid the propaganda being waged to secure additional members throughout the country. His remarks were enthusiastically received, and many of the men present promised to enlist the support and co-operation of fellow travellers in various sections of the country.

An incident of the meeting was when the chairman called for reports on the sick, diseased or financially distressed members. There were no reports on sickness or disease, and the finances also appeared to be in a healthy state, as good as could be expected Friday night.

The announcement that a Tobacco World photographer would take a flashlight picture of the group after the meeting was received with cheers, because all the boys are good looking, and they are not afraid to show it.

Immediately after adjournment of the business meeting refreshments were served and the most cordial good fellow spirit prevailed. Two hundred sandwiches disappeared in no time.

Singing and jollification concluded the gay and mirthful evening, which will long be remembered by everybody present.

The organization will meet again on the first Friday in February.

New Year Cigar Trade Commences Briskly in Windy City

"Business is Splendid," Says University Cigar Co.

CHICAGO, January 11, 1912.

THE University Cigar Company, at Lake and Dearborn streets, deserves all the credit that can be given them. The location which they are in was known as a dead hole.

Rumors were they had picked a lemon, which proved to the contrary.

They are doing a splendid business since opening this store; they have also gone into the manufacturing business.

The "Ben-Bur," is a big success with them, made in eight sizes.

J. L. Schenk, has left for Detroit.

Mr. Charles Altschule, who has been in the manufacturing business for a good many years, has sold out to C. Waldbott & Company, a local manufacturer.

He intends going to Florida to take care of his father's business.

His father at one time was a prominent cigar manufacturer here.

John J. Dolan, after building up a substantial business in the Quincy and Fifth avenue store branch, had to vacate on account of building to be torn down. He intends opening up a new store some time this month at 61 E. Van Buren street. (The Athenaeum Building.)

Sam Marco, located at Fifth avenue and Adams street, has vacated on account of building coming down, to be replaced by an eight-story fire-proof building. On the completion he expects to be back in the same location.

G. W. Faber, Inc., located in the building formerly known as the Cosmopolitan Bank Building, are to move to the Harvester Building. The building to be torn down.

Billy Waldman states they intend to have a more modern place and extends an invitation to the trade to look them over.

Ed. Klein, has formed a corporation to be known as the Klein Cigar Company.

Paul Smith, assistant manager of the Franklin MacVeagh cigar department, has tendered his resignation to travel for Sig C. Mayer, of Philadelphia, traveling the Middle West. Here's luck to you old boy.

Harry Young, of McNeill & Higgins, has been engaged to fill the vacant chair.

W. D. Fleak has returned from the conference of division managers, held in New York City. With the help of his assistants the "Pall Mall," and the "La Marquis" are to be the shining lights.

L. O. Rand, has resigned his position as division manager of the American Cigar Company to represent E. M. Schwarz & José Lovera & Company, with headquarters in Chicago.

Julius Erenberg, 1309 W. 14th street, was fined $25.00 and costs for running a gambling game in connection with his cigar store.

The health department in Chicago is considering the complaints of the trolley motormen in regard to smoking in the vestibules of street cars. Many of the motormen complain that the vestibule is constantly filled with smoke, which they are compelled to breathe, resulting in severe headaches which handicap them in their work.

R. E. Cook, has purchased the Irving Cigar Company store, 117 South La Salle street, of which Irving Halpern was the owner. Cook's McCormick branch has been closed temporarily until the annex is connected, at which time he is to have a space in a more prominent place of the building.

Annual Dinner of the A. T. Pipe Sales Force

ON Wednesday evening, December 27, at Rector's, the Pipe Department of the American Tobacco Company gave its annual dinner to the sales force. Those present were John Glossinger, Edmund Jane-way, W. C. Bastian, Charles Scheuer, Edward Haas, A. J. Silberstein, C. T. Arrison, H. Wyman, J. Mainzer and E. J. Berliner.

To print the menu would be equivalent to the listing of all the good things the market affords. All present were strong temperance advocates, yet when the dinner ended a conspicuous feature of the room was the silent, but accusing, long row of "empties" against the wall. A still much mooted question is, where did the joyous fluid go to? It might not be out of place, here, to say that a strong flush mantled the cheeks of eleven pipe men as they filed out of Parlor A, in the wee sma' hours. This latter condition was, of course, caused by the heat of the room.

The annual dinner not only brings the boys together for a good time, but results in discussions and suggestions that work for the good of both customer and salesman. All-around improvement was the keynote of all speeches. Each man was allotted a ten-minute period for speech-making, and it is needless to state that the Demosthenes of the evening was J. Mainzer, known to fame as King Pinochle.

Standing toasts were drunk to Mr. R. B. Dula, John Glossinger and "The Line." The new Manhattan line is such as to create the enthusiasm of all concerned, and coupling this with the spirit of the sales force the Manhattan brand should have its banner year in 1912.

Powell Joins Merriam Forces

SIDNEY POWELL, who severed his connections with P. Pohalski & Co. on the first of the year, has joined the sales forces of J. W. Merriam & Co.

Mr. Powell has always borne the reputation of being an energetic, aggressive and capable salesman. He has an unlimited circle of customers in the Metropolitan district, whose confidence he has gained by fidelity and close attention to their wants. In his new connection Mr. Powell will cover New York City and the adjacent territory and other sections in the east. Both parties to the contract are to be congratulated upon the new connection.

Senor Rodriguez Coming to N. Y.

SENOR PEPIN RODRIGUEZ, the manufacturer of the Romeo & Julietta cigars, who has been spending some time abroad, left Cherbourg on January 11th and is due to arrive in New York on the 17th. He will spend several days in the Metropolis, conferring with Wm. T. Taylor, who is the United States representative for the well known Cuban brand. Senor Rodriguez will probably reach Havana before the first of February.

Henry Esberg Goes to Egypt

ON Saturday, January 6th, Henry Esberg, of the M. A. Gunst Co., bade farewell to business cares and sailed for Egypt, accompanied by Mrs. Esberg.

Mr. and Mrs. Esberg will spend three months in the Orient.

Many friends of this popular gentleman and his estimable lady were present at the dock to bid them "Bon Voyage and a Happy Return."

Veteran Cigar Salesmen Form New Company

HARRY PROCHASKA, A. Scholz and William H. Norden, three of the best known cigar salesmen in the Metropolitan district have joined forces and organized a cigar selling company which will be known as the Merano Sales Company.

The firm will have special brands made for them of which they will have complete control. The leading label will be the Merano. Harry Prochaska, who is at present New York representative for Streeter Fernandez & Company, of Tampa, Fla., will retain that position in conjunction with the new business.

A. D. Scholz, is one of the veteran salesmen in the city and has long been connected with the cigar manufacturing firm of T. S. Brown.

William K. Norden has been with some of the largest concerns and has resigned a lucrative position with Carlos Garcia & Brothers, in order to enter the new firm.

All of the members are very popular, and the best wishes of the trade accompany them in their new venture.

Edgar J. Stachelberg, was one of the prominent trade visitors to the Metropolis during the past fortnight. He made a brief stay in New York, attending to important business matters, and returned to Tampa, Fla., several days ago.

Phillip Morris Family Enjoyed Ball

THE Mutual Aid Society composed of the employees of Philip Morris & Company, gave their annual ball on Friday evening January 5th, at the Murray Hill Lyceum. All of the large Philip Morris family were in attendance, and they tripped the light fantastic unto the wee small hours.

The large crowd in attendance had a glorious time, and voted the affair one of the most enjoyable in the history of these popular events.

The East Hartford Tobacco Storage Corporation has been incorporated at East Hartford, Conn., by Daniel E. Bidwell, Charles C. Hammer, Alford E. Kilbourne and George A. Billings.

Late New York Notes

Arthur Harms and John Davis, of the Peter Hauptmann Tobacco Co., of St. Louis, were among the trade visitors to the Metropolis during the past fortnight.

While here they called on a number of houses which they are associated with. They have closed one of the most successful years in the firm's history, and they anticipate an increase during 1912.

S. Goldsmith and F. Lesser, of L. Goldsmith & Brothers, of Pittsburg, Pa., called on the New York manufacturers during the past few days and were royally entertained by their numerous friends in the trade.

Jesse Powell, who covers a wide and varied territory for the First Consul house, is starting out on his initial trip for the year. He will make all the large points in the Middle West, his first stop being Detroit, Michigan.

Mr. Powell has just closed a very satisfactory year, and looks forward to even better business during the present year.

Charles Landau, who represents H. Upman & Co. in the United States and Canada, sailed for Cuba on January 13th over the Ward Line, taking the steamer Saratoga.

Mr. Landau states that fall business was eminently satisfactory and he is much gratified with the increased demand for imported goods in Canada and British Columbia.

The Oasis Cigar Store, New York City, Weinberg & Fresco, has passed out of existence, giving way to the loop over Park Row and the Brooklyn Bridge.

The firm style of the Bedell Leaf Tobacco Company, 10 Chatham Square, New York City, has been changed to that of A. A. Greenwald, and Mr. A. A. Greenwald is now its sole proprietor. The house was founded by Herman Codell in 1842 and succeeded by the Bedell Leaf Tobacco Co. in 1900. The business has been conducted at the same address since its inception, with Mr. Greenwald president since 1906.

Fred J. Davis, Samuel I. Davis & Co., left for Tampa on January 8th, and will spend three months in that city. This extensive stay was necessitated by the fact that Mr. John Levy, the manager of the factory at Tampa, is going to pay a visit to his parents at Hamburg, Germany, and be gone about eight weeks.

A reorganization is taking place in the firm of Leonard Friedman & Co., importers of Sumatra and Havana, 203 Pearl street, New York City. Max Adler retires from the firm, and the business will be carried on by Louis Cantor, Sr., and his son and namesake. The firm is among the oldest in its line in the city.

Murray Bennis, one of the popular members of the selling staff of G. W. Faber & Co., has been suffering from a severe attack of pneumonia for the past two months, and been unable to call upon his friends in the trade. Mr. Bennis has been spending the past few weeks at Lakewood, N. J. His friends hope that he will speedily recuperate at the health-giving New Jersey resort.

The firm of Leonard A. Cohn & Co., leaf packers and importers, Water street, New York City, has been incorporated and is now composed of the following members: Leonard A. Cohn, E. A. Kerbs and Julius Lichtenstein. It will continue in business along the same lines as heretofore.

C. F. Mason, formerly with the American Tobacco Company, has accepted the position as head of the scrap department of the P. Lorrillard Co., New York City, of which he is a director as well. Mr. Mason is also vice-president of the Lohman-Williams Tobacco Co., and is one of the most active and energetic business men in his field.

Col. Alvaro Garcia, of Garcia & Vega, left for Tampa last week. He will spend several days at the firm's headquarters in Tampa, and return with Mr. Vega, who is at present in the southern cigar city.

Val Keogh, Vice-President of John W. Merriam & Co., returned to New York from his Fall trip, a few days preceding the New Year. He stayed in New York only a few days, and then started out on an extensive trip through Western New York and the large points in the Middle West. Mr. Keogh will probably be gone ten weeks or more. He reports having had a most satisfactory Fall business and anticipates an unusually heavy Spring trade.

Immediately after the first of the year the sales staff of the Acker Merrall & Condit Co. started upon the war-path with the renewed determination to surpass their previous sales records.

A. Osterloh, Jr., covers Pennsylvania and Greater New York; F. L. Snedeker, New Jersey, Connecticut and also New York; George V. Moore, Long Island, Massachusetts and part of Connecticut; C. C. Dunbar, of Boston, looks after the A. M. & C. interests in Chicago and the Middle West.

The city staff consists of Wm. U. Osborn, who looks after the club trade, and E. A. Higgins, Chas. C. Ellis and J. J. Kiernan, who calls on the hotels and retailers.

Among other prominent people who sailed for Cuba on the steamship Saratoga were Mr. H. B. Hyman, of Hyman, Ltd., Montreal; George Thomson, of George Thomson & Brothers, Montreal; Mr. M. Landau, of the Henry Clay Bock Co., New York; Mr. H. Stearn, of New York. Mr. Stearn was accompanied by his wife and Mr. W. J. Chubb and wife, of Winnipeg. Mr. Chubb is one of the largest distributors of high-grade goods in the extreme Northwest, having two stores in Victoria, B. C., and several stands in Winnipeg, including the hotel stand at the C. P. R. Hotel in Winnipeg.

The parties from Canada spent several days in the metropolis previous to the day of their departure, and while here called on the various houses with whom they are connected in business.

Ludwig Lasker, the Southern representative for the M. A. Gunst Co., who has been spending the past month at the firm's headquarters in New York, will leave within a few days for a trip through his extensive territory. Mr. Lasker has closed a very successful trip, opening up a lot of new distribution for the Van Dyke brand. Mr. Henry Esberg, who spent several weeks in Tampa, has returned to New York. Preston Herbert, who recently joined the M. A. Gunst forces in the capacity of sales manager, is at present in Tampa. Mr. Lawrence Gunst, who looks after the factory end of the M. A. Gunst Co., spent a few days in New York during the month of December.

Golden Anniversary of E. M. Schwarz

REACHING the Half-Century mile post upon the path of Commerce, having guided the destinies of the concern of which he is the parent and founder to that eminent position it occupies today, Mr. E. M. Schwarz, on Tuesday evening, January 2nd, celebrated the golden anniversary of his business career with a sumptuous banquet at Rector's, which was attended by his associates, lieutenants and a number of personal friends.

What the feelings of the celebrator were as he sat at the head of the table, when his memory drifted back to those fifty years of well-repaid efforts, it would be difficult to describe; for it rarely falls to the lot of man to mark two-score and ten years of a hustling, progressive activity, and have neither constitution nor mind impaired by the grind.

With body firm, mind clear, and spirits young, Mr. Schwarz sat at the head of the festive board, and there was not a prouder man in the nation than he upon whom were showered tokens of gratitude and respect by his many associates, employees and well-wishers.

The private room wherein the banquet was held was handsomely decorated, and a large-sized portrait of Mr. Schwarz wreathed in flowers occupied a prominent position.

Louis Cahn, the secretary of the company, acted as toastmaster, and occupied that difficult post with all the ease and grace that denotes the seasoned after-dinner campaigner.

Among the speakers were D. Emil Klein, president of the company; Jose Lovera, vice-president of the Lovera Co.; E. D. Klein, John Bain, Jr., Donald McKellar, Sol Rosener, W. P. Bushell, Philip Emler, J. S. Lyons and Milton Cohen.

President Klein paid a glowing tribute to the business principles of Mr. Schwarz. He told in a very interesting way of the firm's history, and the various important stages that marked the advancement and progress of this prominent house. Mr. Klein stated that it was his ambition to emulate as nearly as possible the splendid example which had been set by Mr. Schwarz.

Donald McKellar, who came from Seattle, Washington, for the express purpose of attending the celebration, is the dean of the E. M. Schwarz selling forces. With much feeling he spoke of his many years of agreeable and profitable association with the firm of Mr. Schwarz.

Senor Jose Lovera, who is a Castilian Cavalier of the old school, paid his compliments to the celebrator in a Spanish speech, which was translated into the King's best English by one of the linguists present.

The other speakers displayed much feeling when they related their pleasant experiences as members of the Schwarz family.

Many telegrams, congratulatory messages and tokens of esteem were received from all sections of the country.

Arriving in this country, back in the fifties, when the cigar industry was in its infancy, Mr. Schwarz, who was then a youth hardly out of his teens, encountered all the obstacles which beset the path of the foreign-born youngster who comes to these shores without friends or influence, but the same self-reliance and confidence that have been the vehicles which carried him to success manifested themselves at that time. We find this youngster at the age of fourteen, struggling hard at a four-dollar-a-week job, but the ambitious energetic Schwarz by the hardest and most persistent efforts, combined with the strictest economy, saved enough after a few years to start in business for himself.

On January 1, 1862, the banner of E. M. Schwarz was flung unto the breeze, and there it waves today. The little shop of those days has developed into that giant concern which at the present time operates factories at New York; Tampa, Florida; Key West, Florida; Wilmington, Delaware, and Oakdale, Long Island, employing thousands of men, and producing varied grades of cigars which have a distribution in every nook and corner of the United States.

Whitehead Building up Fine Trade

WH. WHITEHEAD, who took possession of the stock in the building at 74 Broadway several months ago, is making quite a success of the place. He has years of experience as a salesman and is rapidly gaining friends in that busy locality.

In imported brands he features "Bock", "Belinda", "Carolina", "Eden", "Hoyo de Monterrey", "La Barceloneta", "Manuel Garcia", "Romeo and Julietta", "Partagas" and "Upman".

In domestic brands a large assortment of the following brands is shown at this stand: "American", E. Regensburg & Co.; "Van Dyck", M. A. Gunst; "Webster", Y. Pendas & Alvarez; "Mi Favorita", Park & Tilford; "La Duse", Corral Wodiska & Co.; "Flor de Lovera", Jose Lovera; "Rigoletto", E. A. Kline & Co., and the charter and original brands made by E. M. Schwarz & Co., and "Roi Tan", G. W. Faber & Co.

In cigarettes Mr. Whitehead features Benson & Hedges; Melachrino & Co.'s products, "Deities", and others.

Acker, Merrall & Condit Get More Stands

ON the first of the year the Acker Merrall & Condit Co. took over the two cigar stands at Fleischman's Cafe, 42nd street and Broadway. One of the stands is situated in the cafe and the other in the rathskeller.

Duncan and Moorhead to Distribute Luxellos

Will Control Popular Nickel Cigar in the Philadelphia Territory

ARRANGEMENTS have just been completed by Luckett, Luchs & Lipscomb, cigar manufacturers, with Duncan & Moorhead, Inc., whereby the latter firm become sole distributors of the "Luxello" 5c. cigar in Philadelphia territory.

Up to the first of the year, the Philadelphia market was sold directly from the factory, but owing to the growth of the business on "Luxellos" in other parts of the country, and the inability of the firm to give the local market all the attention it needed for development, it was thought best to retire from the sales end in this territory and turn it over to a firm which has a well-established reputation and ample facilities for the expansion of the business.

It is the intention of Duncan & Moorhead to establish a special "Luxello" department, employing a number of salesmen who will devote their time exclusively to the sale of this cigar in Philadelphia, Eastern Pennsylvania, New Jersey south of Trenton, and the State of Delaware. In this territory, Duncan & Moorhead have long been prominent factors in cigars, especially the distribution of their 10c. clear Havana cigar, "Marecello."

The new arrangement will permit Luckett, Luchs & Lipscomb to develop their business with jobbers and distributors in other territories on a more extensive scale. Monroe Luchs, of the firm, is now in the West keeping in touch with the big distributors and arranging for the opening of new accounts. He will make his headquarters at Chicago.

It is understood that the firm will concentrate their manufacturing end hereafter at their factory in Gilbertsville, Pa., and close their Philadelphia plant, maintaining only an office and warerooms here.

Winners of "Five of Harts" Contest

THE puzzle contest, recently conducted by T. H. Hart & Co. in connection with an advertising campaign on the "Five of Harts" cigar, aroused much interest locally and throughout Pennsylvania. The contest involved a correct solution of the defects in the display card advertising the "Five of Harts", and the prizes were awarded as follows: First Prize, $50, George W. Brady, Carlisle, Pa.; Second Prize, $25, G. W. Townsend, Philadelphia; Third Prize, $10, to the Griffith Stores, Philadelphia.

Philip Verplank, of Verplank & Company, cigar manufacturer of Tampa, Fla., was looking orders in Philadelphia last week.

George Knodt Joins Cores-Martinez Co.

THE organization of the Cores-Martinez Co., Philadelphia, has been considerably strengthened by securing the services of George Knodt, who will hereafter direct the managing end of the business.

Mr. Knodt is an expert manufacturer and knows the business in its every detail. His long connection with S. R. Moss & Co., of Lancaster; the Theobald & Oppenheimer factory in New York, and his connection with E. M. Schwarz & Co., and more recently with Louis Heitman Co., Dayton, O., have given an experience which qualify him admirably for his new duties.

It is understood that Mr. Knodt has taken a financial interest in the Cores-Martinez Company and will be elected an officer of this company at a meeting to be held in February.

Bayuk Brothers Close Successful Year

BAYUK BROTHERS have closed their most successful year on the "Havana Ribbon" brand and have already perfected lines to secure an increased distribution for 1912. During the entire year of 1911 they were oversold but having increased their facilities for production they hope to take prompt care of the additional business this year.

Mr. Samuel Bayuk left for Havana, Cuba, on the 2nd, for the purpose of securing a choice lot of Havana tobacco. He found the market scarce on the quality required, there being only about 2000 bales available, he succeeded in securing 1000 of the lot and expects to procure the balance before he returns.

Wm. Deiches & Company, of Baltimore, Md., have largely increased their weekly shipments of the "Havana Ribbon" as have Ehrman Brothers, of San Francisco, and McDowell, Britton & Cheadle, of Frankfort, Ind.

Quite a number of jobbers on the "Havana Ribbon" have requested contracts guaranteeing them a stipulated delivery each week for 1912; they seek this protection owing to the fact of being unable to procure the requisite quantity during the past year.

Frank B. Stanton has rounded out his first year as local sales manager and the immense increase in the local distribution testifies in an eloquent manner to the excellent work being done by him and the men under his direction.

Gumpert Bros. have closed a successful year with "Full Weight" cigars. The brand has been placed with numerous firms at prominent points throughout the country. With the commencement of the new year they are planning to feature prominently their high grade "La Morena" brand.

Quaker City Items

HARRY BOBROW, of Bobrow Bros., is spending a short vacation in New York.

It has been a busy season with this firm and when the sales totals for 1911 were ascertained they showed the business on their "Bold" brand had just tripled all previous years' records.

Jose Alvarez, clear Havana cigar manufacturer at 58 South Second street, left on Saturday last for a visit to Cuba, where he will make some further selections of leaf. The demand for their "Alvara" and "El Delerio" brands during the holidays was so strong that their large stock was entirely exhausted, with scarcely a full box remaining on the shelves.

A branch warehouse is being opened at Hagerstown, Md., by J. Harvey McHenry, the well known manufacturers' agent. It will be in charge of C. E. Biersing, and a line of all goods handled in this city will be found in stock at Hagerstown.

H. Belestostsky, manufacturer at 46 North Third street, will soon remove to new quarters, but is not as yet prepared to announce a new location.

Harry Dobbins, formerly with the United States Tobacco Co. at Richmond, Va., is a visitor in this city this week. Mr. Dobbins has formed a connection with the Falk Tobacco Co., and will continue to visit the trade in his former territory, viz.: Baltimore, Washington, parts of Virginia, West Virginia, North and South Carolina.

John H. Boltz, of Boltz, Clymer & Company, left Philadelphia yesterday for Tampa where he will visit the Boltz-Clymer factory. He also expects to go to Cuba before returning to Philadelphia.

Charles Jacobs, representing Carlos, Fernandez & Company, paid Philadelphia a visit last week, and did a nice business in Manila goods manufactured by this firm.

C. Heilpern, vice-president of F. Villar & Company, New York and Porto Rico, made the rounds of the Philadelphia trade recently.

J. G. Atherholt, 111 South Broad street, Philadelphia, is featuring the "Don Julian" cigars, made by E. G. Perez & Company.

D. Harry Moulds, representative of the Sanchez & Haya factory, stopped off in Philadelphia last week, long enough to tell some of his friends about his gunning trip in Virginia during the months of November and December.

The "Lukos-Smokers," a nickel cigar made by S. Wolf's Sons, Key West, is a new line for the Finley Acker stores.

F. C. Gales, secretary and treasurer of Henry Clay and Bock & Company, was renewing acquaintances among the trade in Philadelphia last week.

The Theobald & Oppenheimer Co. tendered a dinner to its factory heads on Saturday, January 6th, which was a big success.

H. N. Goldsmith & Co., on January 1st, took on the product of the Marcus Feder Cigar Co. and have control of Philadelphia and vicinity for same.

E. M. Davis, New England representative of Antonio Roig & Langsdorf, was in Philadelphia during the past week conferring with the factory and laying plans for the extension of the business in his territory during the coming year.

Superintendent Holland, of the cigar factory of S. H. Durstein, Wilmington, Del., was in Philadelphia during the past week looking over the leaf market and laying in supplies. Mr. Holland reports that his factory is running full-handed to meet the growing demand for their popular five-cent cigar "Sen-Auben" and their ten-cent cigar "Flor de Durstein." In their new factory building the firm have ample facilities for the expansion of their business and are laying plans for big things during the coming year.

Jeitels & Blumenthal, Ltd., having completed a year which shows the biggest production in the history of their business, and having a big volume of orders on their books for 1912, are optimistic over the prospects for business. All their factories are now running full-handed.

Eisenlohr's Move Into New Quarters

OTTO EISENLOHR & BROS., now located at 940 Market street, have leased the property, 932-34 Market street; 940 Market street has been occupied by this firm for about thirteen years, and although the premises 938 Market street were added several years ago, the rapid growth of the business, especially on their well-known "Cinco" brand, has made present quarters entirely inadequate, and has necessitated the securing of a larger building, in which will be located the executive offices of the firm, and various other departments of the business. It is expected that the new quarters will be ready for occupancy about the first of next April.

The "Cinco" brand is steadily growing in popularity, and it is still impossible to offer these goods in a considerable part of the country, as the present output is being entirely absorbed by the trade in the territories in which this brand has been introduced.

Latest News From York

George W. McGuigan, trustee for the creditors of E. S. Sechrist, at Dallastown, is working energetically to get the affairs into shape for an early adjustment. It is expected that a composite settlement may be made and it is not improbable that Mr. Sechrist will resume business.

D. Frank Kaltreider has taken an interest in the cigar business of W. J. Neff & Company, at Red Lion. Mr. Neff, however, will continue in the active management of the factory. Business for this year looks very promising.

J. W. Minnich, of Dallastown, who has been ill since Christmas, was at his office one day this week, but the inclement weather is again confining him to his home.

There were a number of tobacco salesmen out this week. Among the familiar faces were D. E. Salomon, with Louis P. Sutter & Bros.; Dave Kalberman, with Joseph Hirsch & Son; Tom Wheeler, with S. Rossin & Sons, all of New York.

H. E. Kohler, cigar manufacturer at Nashville, who has taken office as Register of Wills, has appointed his son Clarence Kohler, a clerk in the department. Young Kohler is a business college graduate and will no doubt make good.

Lull in Business after Holiday Rush in San Francisco

SAN FRANCISCO, January 5th.

AS had been expected, the two or three days before Christmas brought out an enormous rush of business for the San Francisco retailers, and left them unusually well cleaned out. The few days following were naturally quiet, but by New Year things picked up again. Since then, though there is no special activity, business has been a little better than the average for this time of year, the clear, cold weather being rather favorable. It has been a disagreeable time, though for the majority of retailers, who conduct open stands and have no adequate means of keeping their premises warm.

Reports from outside towns indicate a good holiday box business all over the Coast, and jobbers accordingly look for a good movement this month. The outlook for the year as a whole is considered extremely favorable. The rapid settling-up of the agricultural districts is causing a tremendous expansion in interior towns, and this tendency is receiving every possible encouragement from the larger commercial and manufacturing interests of the Coast, who are exerting themselves with a more unanimous spirit for the advancement of the Coast than ever before. Locally, the principal danger will be the increase of retail competition by persons of doubtful responsibility, but the jobbers have long been educated to be on their guard against this trouble.

Considerable interest is taken by the Coast trade in the reorganization of the Gunst interests, which, though it does not directly affect their methods or policies on the Coast, has caused some formal changes in their various branches. The consolidation of the Gunst interests all over the country under the name of M. A. Gunst & Co., Inc., has caused the dissolution of the M. A. Gunst Cigar Company, Seattle, and M. A. Gunst & Co., Spokane, Wash., and the filing of new articles of incorporation at Portland, Ore. No changes whatever are contemplated in the personnel on the Coast.

The reorganization of various branches of the old American Tobacco Company has caused several formal changes on the Coast, including the appointment of W. J. Epes, formerly in charge of the "Star" plug department of this territory, as manager of the plug, fine cut and scrap tobacco business of the Liggett & Myers Tobacco Company, covering the entire Coast, including Arizona, Nevada and Idaho. Mr. Epes will make his headquarters in the John Bollman Company's building. H. Lowenstein has been given the management of the P. Lorillard Company's Coast business.

With the new year, several new brands are being taken up by various jobbers, who are now making arrangements for advertising both the new acquisitions and the old staples. As far as is known at present, most of the new goods are 5c. cigars, the clear Havana situation remaining about as before.

H. L. Judell & Co. are preparing to introduce two new 5c. lines, and have also taken up a Porto Rico cigar under the "Rendezvous" brand.

Several high-class retail cigar stands will be opened in this city within the next few months. Bert Jones has taken the stand in front of the new Terminal Hotel, which will be elegantly fitted up, and expects to have one of the best establishments on lower Market street. The cigar privileges of the new Hotel Sutter, at Sutter and Kearny streets, which will be opened shortly, have been taken by a Mr. Glynn, who will install a stand inside the lobby. M. Raphael has leased the stand formerly occupied by Sig. Caben, on Ellis street near Market. A fine new stand in Oakland will be that of B. & L. Bercovich, who have taken the corner of the Central Bank Building at Fourteenth street and Broadway, considered one of the best locations in that city. Arnold Pollak, a prominent local cigar broker and manufacturers' agent, moved on the first of the year to larger quarters at Rooms 715-721 Merchants' Exchange Building, which will give him much better accommodations than he has had since 1906. Mr. Pollak gives an extremely satisfactory report of the past year's business, and expects to surpass all records in 1912.

I. Danziger, representing the "La Yehana" Manila cigar in the United States, recently received a letter from A. Dettermann, manager of the "La Yehana" factory, stating that he would arrive in New York early this month, to remain there for some time. Mr. Dettermann wrote from England.

Word has been received of the arrival in Manila of E. M. Elam, the local agent for "La Giralda" Manila cigars, and A. Ehrman, of Ehrman Bros. & Co.

Ehrman Bros. & Co. are giving a lot of attention to several of their lines, and report exceptionally good results with the "Pippin," a popular 5c. line made by H. Traiser & Co., of Boston, and the "Havana Ribbon."

F. W. Wallace, traveling for the Hoffman-Moore Company, returned early this week from a trip through Northern California, where he found the trade generally encouraged, and took a very satisfactory bunch of orders.

H. D. Miller, of the Frishmuth & Bro. Company, is conferring with W. I. Pixley, the Coast representative, regarding the work to be done on the Frishmuth lines during the year. Mr. Pixley expects to leave in a day or two for Los Angeles, and will go East before returning.

Chas. Sichel, who covers Northern California for S. Bachman & Co., is just recovering from a severe illness, and hopes to be on the road again within a week or two.

Frankel, Gerdtz & Co., local manufacturers, report a highly satisfactory year, their capacity being crowded at all times, and notwithstanding their increased facilities they were unable to take care of all the business offered in holiday packages.

Factory Notes

W. S. Campbell, Duluth, Minn., has opened a new cigar factory in First street, in the Hansen Building, near the bridge. He was formerly in the employ of Fred Nicolai, on Maebree.

The employes of the Frank P. Lewis Cigar Factory, of Peoria, Ill., assembled the other day, and, represented by a spokesman and a committee, they presented Mr. Lewis with a magnificent chair, accompanied by a well-worded speech, showing the high respect and esteem in which he is held by all his employes.

A. Taylor, owner of cigar factories in Detroit and Spokane, Wash., is in Anderson, Ind., looking for a location to start his third factory. He believes the electric lines coupled with the steam roads, make an excellent distributing point of Anderson, and the deal has practically been closed for leasing a Meridian street room.

John Hosking and Henry Wills are preparing to enter the cigar manufacturing business in the Kjesboe Block, on Cleveland avenue, Marquette, Michigan. Both are well-known, popular business men of the city, and prosperity is predicted.

In Evansville, Indiana, is now under erection, the H. Fendrick cigar plant, purported to be the largest cigar manufacturing establishment in the world. Evansville now leads in the making of cigars, furniture and steam shovels.

A. Kafka & Co., cigar manufacturers, informs us that they have removed to their new quarters at the corner of Meadow and Prout streets, New Haven, Connecticut—into the most modern and sanitary cigar factory in the State, and with largely increased facilities.

The rear of the Leonard & Roess tobacco and cigar store, Brattleboro, Vt., has undergone alterations to accommodate the cigar manufacturing department, which is to be moved from the second floor of the building to the first. The quarters on the second floor was given up the first of the year.

Clifford A. Mitts, of the Pantlind cigar stand, Grand Rapids, Mich., is giving his new smoke shop at 119 Monroe street, a formal opening.

Chris Fosselman, of Waverly, Ia., has entered the wholesale cigar business and will conduct it along with his ice cream manufactory and bottling works. He has a line of the best cigars on the market and will have a representative on the road to handle the business. His leader in five-cent goods is the "Charles Pettit," and it is a cigar that has the quality of many of the ten-cent grade. Mr. Fosselman is thoroughly posted as to the wants of the trade.

Chas. Baswitz With Well Known Jacksonville, House

CHARLES BASWITZ, a well-known salesman, of many years successful experience, has accepted a position with the Gonzalez & Sanchez Company, Jacksonville, Fla., and started on his maiden-trip for this firm January 10th. Mr. Baswitz will cover the territory of New York State, New England and the Middle West, where he already has a large following.

DETROIT, MICH., Jan. 10th.

GAUGED by a comparison with 1910, the year just closed, has been prosperous for every branch of the cigar and tobacco industry in this city. This is the verdict based on reports received not only from the manufacturers of cigars and tobacco, but from the biggest jobbers and distributors of these products in this city.

While it is true, as the manufacturers assert, that profits have been curtailed because of the high cost of leaf tobacco, the bigger factories have all shown substantial increases in the volume of their business but the smaller factories seem to have stood still.

Returns in the Revenue Offices from the First Michigan District, covering a period of six months including December just closed, show a total production of 145,000,000 cigars, about 8,000,000 more cigars than during the same period of 1910.

Figuring high in the sum total of the above are such representative factories as the San Telmo Cigar Manufacturing Company, Lillies Cigar Company, Surety Cigar Manufacturing Company, The Banner Cigar Manufacturing Company, Superior Cigar Manufacturing Company, William Tegge & Company, Hemmeter Cigar Company and Mazer Cigar Company.

Larger retailers universally report a very satisfactory business, in fact, the box trade during the holidays far exceeded previous records. The rapid growth of the automobile industry in this city has been a prominent factor in increasing the demand for high-grade cigars not only of local manufacture, but from outside points.

Local dealers who have been handling the popular line of cigars manufactured by Wertheimer Brothers, of Baltimore, report that they find these cigars to be unfailing repeaters. There is a certain distinctive smoothness and uniformity in the Wertheimer goods that seems to hit the taste of Detroit smokers at the right spot.

If the New Year pans out as well as it has begun, Bert Johnston, who recently took over the cigar department of G. & R. McMillen, says that he will have no regrets. Mr. Johnston has been long enough in the trade not to indulge in any "dreams" but he knows signs of the times when he sees them and his optimism is based on cold solid facts.

Local manufacturers of tobacco report that during the six months closed, including December, their production increased 1,000,000 pounds.

Encouraging reports are being received at the Surety Cigar Company's factory from the distributors of their "Poster" and "Answer" cigars which are duplicating remarkably fast in the new territories in which they are introduced.

Mr. Custin, of the sales force of the Lillies Cigar Company, has been in Cincinnati lately assisting Strauss Brothers & Company in extending the sales and fame of the "La Azora" cigars. Sam Goldberg is in Toledo this week also pushing the "La Azora."

"Absolutely vindicated," was the verdict of "Red" Johnson—William Johnson Werner, of Detroit, Mich., when his ticket with "Tony" Ibbotson at its head, rode to victory in the annual election of the Knights of the Royal Ark, an organization of saloonkeepers, brewers, cigar manufacturers and liquor agents. "They say I spent $2000 buying votes. All I have to say to the charges of the other side is that today's results were the greatest vindication a young man ever had. The saloonkeepers knew that if they wanted a man who would run things on the square with the saloonkeepers, they had better stick with me—and they did it."

Salesmen from many leading cigar factories are dropping into Detroit one by one, making initial rounds for 1912.

Things are now humming at the big factory of the San Telmo Cigar Company. The year just closed has set a new mark which the ambitious president, Oscar Rosenberger, has determined to exceed for 1912. The orders received the first two weeks of the New Year for "Pastora", justly called the "masterpiece of broad leaf wrapped Havana cigars," presage a fulfillment of Mr. Rosenberger's desire.

James J. O'Meara Succeeds F. E. McGlannon

Jas. J. O'Meara, a popular young business man of Kalamazoo, has purchased the cigar manufacturing business of F. E. McGlannon, who for some time has been in failing health. Mr. O'Meara was for a number of years connected with one of the local banks and is well and favorably known as a capable, conscientious, active person. As his leading ten-cent brand he will continue the "Lazoo," which was handled by Mr. McGlannon, and "Murphy's" will be his five-center.

British Capital To Develop Smyrna Tobacco

Asia Minor Trading Co. Organized To Assist Independent Holders (Special Cable to "The Tobacco World.")

LONDON, ENGLAND, Jan. 12.

ANEW factor in the cigarette tobacco market of Smyrna has been brought forward through the organization of the Asia Minor Tobacco Trading Company, which although capitalized at the modest sum of $150,000, is said to be backed by strong financial interests allied with the Oriental Carpet Manufacturers' Company, Limited.

Organization of this company came about through the efforts of a number of independent holders of tobacco, who desire to obtain better prices for their tobacco, and who are individually, unable to bring about this condition. By allying themselves with the new company, whose directors include many prominent financial men of England and the Orient, it is hoped to develop the Smyrna tobacco industry on sound financial British lines.

With the political relations between Great Britain and Turkey promising to be more cordial than they have for many years, it is predicted that Germany's commercial invasion of Asia Minor will be offset by British enterprise.

L. B. Loring, formerly salesman with the Richardson Drug Company, Omaha, Neb., has accepted the position of city salesman of the cigar department of Paxton & Gallagher, of that city. He took his new position the first of the year.

The Cuban Market

From Our
Exclusive Bureau
Neptuno 24
Altoz
Havana, Cuba.

HAVANA, January 6, 1912.

CROP prospects are very uncertain still, and if one would listen to the leaf dealers there would be hardly any crop in the Vuelta Abajo and only a very small one in the Partido section, while it is admitted, that the outlook for a larger quantity in the Santa Clara province is more hopeful. The continuous warm weather which we have experienced almost all through the month of December, and up to the 4th of January, has been anything but propitious to the growth of the tobacco plant, as the same requires a cooler temperature in our winter months in order to fully develop its aromatic nicotine qualities. In the Vuelta Abajo there are complaints of worms which attack the roots of the young plants, thus killing the same, while the hot rays of the sun and dry weather are stopping the growth and are making them wilt. As the soil in the Vuelta Abajo is of a sandy nature, and not very deep, it requires rain more frequently than in the Partido or Remedios districts, where the moisture is longer retained. The tobacco which has been cut lately is described as very flimsy as it seems that the heavy rains have washed out all the substance from the leaves, therefore it is doubtful, whether the saved portion of the early plantings will be of any benefit to its owners after all. However, it stands to reason that there must be some tobacco which may prove quite acceptable, and with favorable weather the cutting which will take place in the month of February ought to give a better result. Seedlings are considerably cheaper at present and the poorer farmers have a chance now to replant their fields, and while it is rather late in the season to expect any good results there is nevertheless some hope, provided the abnormal state of our winter should continue, and perhaps give us cool weather all through the month of March, accompanied by a few rainfalls during this and the coming month.

The Cuban Leaf Market.

Our leaf market has not kept up its activity during the past fortnight and which could not be expected, as proverbially there are not many buyers here at the closing part of the year, but we have had some buyers nevertheless and they have operated to quite a liberal extent, particularly in Remedios, first and second capaduras. Prices have fully kept up, although our dealers on the other hand did their level best not to put their selling prices out of reach of the American buyers. Our stocks of leaf have been greatly reduced and with the expected coming demand, during this and next month, all the good and serviceable tobacco ought to easily find ready takers, particularly if it should prove to be true that the American manufacturers are holding no surplus stocks to tide over until the coming crop, and therefore would be obliged to purchase more or less to keep their factories running.

Sales during the past fortnight only amounted to 5769 bales, consisting of Vuelta Abajo, 1595; of Partido, 221, and Remedios, 3953 bales.

Buyers were: Americans, 4283; exporters to South America, 425; shippers to Australia, 409, and our local cigar and cigarette manufacturers, 652 bales.

Exports of leaf tobacco from the port of Havana, from December 18th to December 30th, 1911, were: to all ports of the United States, 7880; to Europe, 18; to Buenos Ayres and Montevideo, 425; to Melbourne, 409 bales, thus making a total of 8732 bales.

Cigars: The exports of cigars from the port of Havana during the first half of December, as per official custom house returns, were:

|--|-------------------|------------|
| From December 1st, 1911, to December 15th, 1911..... | 8,116,700 | cigars |
| From December 1st, 1910, to December 15th, 1910..... | 12,562,662 | " |
| | Decrease in 1911, | 4,445,962 |
| From January 1st, 1911, to December 15th, 1911..... | 181,415,917 | " |
| From January 1st, 1910, to December 5th, 1910..... | 164,097,149 | " |
| | Increase in 1911, | 17,318,768 |

Reason for Decrease in Exports.

The continued decrease in our exports of cigars can only be explained by the fact that perhaps the usual Christmas orders were shipped earlier this year than last, and as soon as the figures for the whole year are published by our custom house we will be better able to judge where this apparently unexplained falling-off in our exports comes from. Business at the moment is still quiet and which is but natural under the given circumstances at this period of the year. As a rule there is no perceptible betterment until after the second half of this month, and in some years even the demand has not sprung up until the beginning of February. Of course there are some orders of more or less magnitude coming forward all the time, and there is never such a standstill as some of the factories experience in the United States after the close of the Christmas holidays, and which time is usually employed by them to close their books and taking the inventory of their stocks. Here, as a rule, our factories do not close their books until some later date, and which varies according to the ideas of their owners, either when they originally established their business, or according to the crop year, and which latter is figured differently from the end of March to the end of June.

H. Uppmann is one of our factories that usually keeps busy all the year round, although naturally there are seasons of greater expansion, but when one country is less disposed to send orders there are others which are taking a larger quantity. For instance, just at present the United States is quieter, but England, France and Spain are sending enough calls to keep the factory quite occupied. Partagas reports a lesser movement, still some orders were received from the United States for special sizes, and which seems to indicate that the demand for them was greater during the holidays than had been expected. Orders from South America and Australia, as well as from England, are also good considering the epoch of the year.

Sol cannot complain as the new year has opened well enough through orders from several quarters that it had not expected, and for this reason continues busy. Our busy factories are: Castañeda, La Diligencia, La Flor de P. A. Estanillo, Henry Clay and Beck & Co., Romeo y Julieta; C. E. Beck & Co., and Por Larranaga.

Buying, Selling and Other Notes of Interest.

Aixala & Co. figure as the heaviest sellers during the past fortnight, as they report their sales to have been 951 bales. Coleman J. Joel, of the firm of C. J. Joel & Co., of Boston, was the buyer "par excellence" in our market, as he purchased 1530 bales of Remedios and Vuelta Abajo, besides having a refusal on a few more vegas.

Sobrinos de A. Gonzalez did a fair enough number of transactions as they summed up 702 bales of all kinds of leaf. Bernhard Lichtenstein, during his stay in town, managed to operate to the extent of 750 bales of choice lots of Vuelta Abajo and Remedios, according to reliable reports. Gutierrez & Foyo were sellers of 500 bales of Remedios leaf. Sylvester & Stern were buyers of fully 1000 bales of leaf for their customers in town, as well as for export.

Muniz Hermanos & Co. disposed of 472 bales of Vuelta Abajo and Remedios during the past fourteen days. Sam. Mendelsohn was a very discriminating buyer in selecting only such goods which he considered as most suitable for his trade, and while the exact quantity has not been divulged, it is said, however, that he bought quite extensively. Herrera, Calmet & Co. closed out some 400 bales of their choice packings of Remedios and vegas.

G. Falk & Bro., represented this time by three members of this very important firm in New York, made some large purchases of leaf in our market, and while the exact quality could not be learned, it is supposed to have amounted to a respectable number of bales.

Suarez Hermanos made several trades of their select holdings of Vuelta Abajo, as well as of their stocks of Remedios. Edward A. Sutter was a buyer in our market to quite a considerable extent. Gonzalez & Benitez sold 300 bales of leaf to their customers, and are in treaty on a thousand bales of their first capaduras, although there is still a difference between the figure, asked by them and what the buyer is willing to pay.

Leslie Pautin has had four customers here during the fortnight, and for which he has purchased very freely, but besides he had to execute several orders for his American friends. José F. Rocha was a seller of 246 bales of leaf to his clients. Mark A. Pollack was also a factor in the operations of our market, as besides his customers in town he also purchased for account of them by cable.

M. Abella & Co. turned over 230 bales of Remedios tobacco. J. Bernheim & Co. are reported to have made some large purchases of Remedios. There is a daily mail service between Cuba, and either Knight's Key or Tampa, excepting Sundays, since January 3rd, only the mail leaves via Knight's Key at 8 A. M. and arrives late at 5.30 P. M., thus making it almost impossible to answer letters, excepting with a delay of an extra day.

Leaf Dealers' Association Establish Branch.

Our association of leaf dealers, packers and growers of tobacco have established a branch delegation at Artemisa, and is also actively at work to extend their sphere all over the island, by similar delegations, with the same enthusiasm as heretofore.

El Diaric de la Marina, published, under date of the 5th inst., that a new society had been formed, under the name of "Agricultural Colonisation Company," and of which Don Eduardo Mejer is the president. This stock company has bought from Don Jesus Rodriguez Bautista 9 Caballerias (about 300 acres) with all its buildings and vegas of tobacco at Wajay for $331,817.

The principal shippers above 300 bales of tobacco during the past fortnight were: Adolfe Moeller 1136, Sylvester & Stern 1100, J. Bernheim & Son 894, I. Kaffenburgh & Sons 855, C. E. Beck & Co. 829, Leslie Partin 611, H. Uppmann & Co. 422, Mark A. Pollack 412, and Ernest Ellinger & Co. 325 bales.

A. M. Calzada & Co. made some large purchases of extra choice vegas in the Santa Clara province, where Don Antonio had spent over two weeks going over all the principal districts.

Don Pepin Rodriguez is booked to sail from Cherbourg on the 10th instant for New York, and after having seen the many friends which Don Pepin has in Gotham he is expected to arrive here the end of this month.

New Orleans Tobacconist "Touched" for $100

Police Seeking Cigar Salesman on Charge of Passing Bad Checks

NEW ORLEANS, LA., January 10th.

J. H. BALSER, a cigar salesman, a recent arrival in the city is being sought by the police on a charge of passing worthless checks on several saloon and business men. George C. Moroy, one of the best known tobacconists in the city, has been "touched" to the tune of $100. It would be well for the cigar dealers of other cities to be on the lookout and notify the police here if the man is located. Balsar is described as being about 38 years old, 5 feet 6 inches tall, weight 159 pounds, slightly bald in front of head, clean shaven.

The cigar store and restaurant of P. J. Cajoleas, 300 Camp street, was entered by thieves, and cigars and tobaccos valued at $120 stolen. Two boys have been arrested charged with the theft.

E. N. Mansberg, formerly with the Augustus Block Cigar Company, has accepted a position as salesman with the Crescent Cigar and Tobacco Co.

Charles J. Gollmer, 418 St. Charles street, is enlarging his business and has just placed orders for a number of new brands of cigars.

The Hershman Company has promoted H. A. Mordecai, for some time past city salesman, to the important position of manager of their city sales department.

G. J. Pottman, state manager for P. Lorillard Company, Turkish cigarette department, has been calling on the trade. Mr. Rottman will make this city headquarters.

"El Cuba" cigars are meeting with excellent sale in the city and State, through the efforts of A. Heres.

Augustus Block, president of the Augustus Block Cigar Company, is in Philadelphia in the interest of his firm.

Jack Herbert, Jr., a well-known and popular cigar and grocery salesman, is a candidate for the Legislature from the Fifth Ward on the Good Government Ticket.

The jobbing trade are well satisfied with the local demand this month, stocks of retailers having been depleted during the holidays and the replenishing of the same has kept jobbers and manufacturers busy.

PELICAN.

The Moe-Pike Cigar Co., Baltimore, Md., are making a specialty of the box trade, and opening the new year with a vigorous campaign along that line. Its offices in the Merchants' and Manufacturers' Building are crowded with stock ready for distribution. An added feature to the equipment of this progressive up-to-date firm will be a giant humidor, contracted for and which will take up the entire sidewalk in Mr. Pike's office. The salesmen of this firm are making record sales to usher in the new year with.

Big La Crosse Cigar Factory Changes Hands

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Jan. 10, 1912.

TRADE in this city continues good although the extremely cold weather of the last few days has had some effect in that the principal streets are nearly deserted early in the evening, and the smokers find it too chilly when outside to smoke.

The Cuba Rice Cigar Stores Company, successors to Steve Surman Company, report a nice trade on all lines, and admit having done a very good holiday business.

Pollak Crombie Company, also are enjoying their usually good business, and report their holiday trade exceeded expectations.

Leo Abraham continues doing a good business at all his stores. He has given up his sweet shop in the Caswell Block it being understood he was offered a satisfactory bonus for his lease.

Fay Lewis & Brother Company, are doing a very good business in both wholesale and retail departments. They did a very big holiday business, having run out of several sizes of their well-known brands, some days prior to Christmas.

Ralph Wettstein who a short time ago, bought Sam Bach's Grove street store, has done remarkably well. He has a very choice assortment of cigars, and being a good "mixer" gets on well with the South Side trade.

The Mi Lola cigar factory were taxed to their capacity to supply the enormous demand for the "Mi Lola" cigar. The Harvest factory also experienced a large number of rush orders for the "Harvester," the success of which has been really great.

On December 21st an involuntary petition in bankruptcy was filed against the Great North Cigar Company. The creditors taking action, were the Thomas Cusack Company, The Street Railway Advertising Company, and Sterneman and Hayden. The last mentioned are dealers in leaf. This seems to be a case of where much advertising brought failure instead of success, as the other two petitioners are for advertising accounts.

A new firm in this city was formed a few days ago, under the name of The Koch Cigar Company, with a capital stock of $6,000. The incorporators are William W. Koch, H. J. Pomrening, William A. Berenson and Edward Foss.

A change of considerable importance took place at La Crosse, Wis., a few days ago, when The Pamperin and Wiggenhorn Cigar Company sold their factory to the Pamperin Cigar Company. The Pamperin and Wiggenhorn Cigar Company was incorporated in 1886, with a capital of $100,000. Their business steadily grew, until their goods were quite generally known over the entire Northwest. Eight years ago the Pamperin withdrew to form the Pamperin Cigar Company. A short time ago the latter made an offer for the Pamperin and Wiggenhorn Company, and when Mr. W. A. Wiggenhorn resigned as manager, the directors decided to accept the offer. It is understood the Pamperin Cigar Company will take over practically all of the forty employees of the Pamperin and Wiggenhorn Company, and will manufacture the principal brands of cigars put out by that firm. The deal will make the Pamperin Company one of the largest concerns manufacturing cigars in the Northwest. The firm is controlled by Paul M. and Louis A. Pamperin, and it is their intention to broaden out considerably upon assuming the interests of the Pamperin and Wiggenhorn Company.

At Edgerton, Wis., the Edgerton Cigar Company has purchased the business of Hans Nelson. The brands made by Mr. Nelson will be continued, and he will be employed by his successors. A new cigar factory has been opened at Darien, Wis., by Henry Frey.

Leading Cleveland Cigar Manufacturers Merge
Cigar Trade Active in Cleveland

CLEVELAND, January 10, 1912.

IT will probably be of great interest to the many friends and patrons of Mr. Morris Trenhoff and Mr. Marcus Feder, to learn that these worthy gentlemen have joined forces, and will be hereafter operated under the name and style of the London Whiffs Cigar Company. It is needless to say that the consolidation of these two pioneers in the manufacture of cigars, will bring out the best that years of experience has taught them.

For many years Mr. M. Trenhoff has been located at No. 1124 Scovill avenue, in the manufacture of the famous "Moses Cleveland," 5c. cigar, which earned its reputation through the excellent ability exercised by Mr. Trenhoff, as well as many other well-known brands.

Marcus Feder is located at 2318-2330 Ontario street in very spacious and up-to-date quarters and enjoys the reputation of being the originator of the well-known "London Whiffs," famous from coast to coast.

Mr. Trenhoff, will have sole charge of the manufacturing department, while Mr. Feder, will be in charge of the sales department.

The personnel of the concern is, Mr. Marcus Feder, president; Mr. Morris Trenhoff, secretary and treasurer; Mr. Louis F. Rheinheimer, representative.

E. Boasberg, of the firm of Keiser & Boasberg, leaf tobacco dealers of Buffalo, with their Middle Western representative, Mr. Jandorf, spent several days calling on the manufacturers of this city.

Fred Singer, of S. Rossin & Son, tobacco importers, is in Cleveland, and reports a very nice business.

John Jenkinson, of the R. & W. Jenkinson Company, is in town looking after the interests of the company.

In a recent interview with some of the downtown retailers, namely, Fred G. Gollmar, Mirros Glucksman, Harry Fagan, Henry Mandelbaum, Nate Seidman, N. Gleichman, all seemed in high spirits over their holiday trade, and claim it to have been the best for several years.

HOLLANDER.

Late Lancaster Jottings

LACASTER, PA., January 14.

THE past week has witnessed such activity in Lancaster County's new tobacco crop that in some localities half of it has already passed into the hands of the packers by contract. The entrance into the field of outside concerns, such as the United Cigar Manufacturers, has stimulated transactions and had the effect of stiffening prices, so that at the close of the week 11 and 4 cents for wrappers and fillers, respectively, were the prevailing prices, and even at those prices many growers refused to sell, demanding 12 and 13 cents for wrapper goods. The growers believe that 12 and 14 cents will soon be the prevailing prices.

J. B. Strayer, the Red Lion Cigar manufacturer, recently entertained his entire force at an oyster supper. Great jollification.

The Red Lion factory is flooded with orders, covering all the time to July.

Under the auspices of the Merchants' Cigar Box Company, Mr. G. A. Kohler, president of the firm, the other day entertained their employees at a banquet dedicated to a strenuous 1912 campaign.

It is reported from Washington as being likely that Congress will once more appropriate a suitable amount of money for the carrying on of tobacco experiments in Pennsylvania. These are conducted in conjunction with the Pennsylvania State College.

Warner Searle—A Salesman With a Grip

HE covers the entire Eastern district for the Juan F. Portuando Cigar Manufacturing Company, has seen twenty summers come and go while on the road, with twenty winters to match, which have added largely to the business of his employers through his faithful service and untiring efforts. The years, while increasing his efficiency, have in no wise diminished his store of energy, but rather it is now at high water mark, and it is safe to say that it is due solely to him that the difficult district he covers, where trade conditions fluctuate and are not always as good as could be desired, has been developed into a most productive one for his concern.

Mr. Searle is, in the best sense of the word, a genial good fellow, in and out of business hours, and his friends among the knights of the grip, as well as in tobacco circles, are many and true. His photo, which we give above, will help to explain the reason why.

Gus Hoeffler, representative of Lopez, Hermanos & Co., of Tampa, has gone to stay in San Francisco a couple of weeks. He is accompanied by his wife and the couple are enjoying the brisk bracing atmosphere.

Louis C. Erdt, representing M. Melachrino & Co., after an extended trip North, is in Los Angeles and reports a steady gain on all sizes of Melachrino cigarettes.

H. D. Kingsbury, vice-president of the P. Lorillard Co., of New York, visited Boston at the beginning of the year and made a tour of the jobbers in that city.

F. F. Cosgrove, representing the Kansas City Cigar Co., has returned to headquarters after a trip to eastern points.

Dan Liddy, who travels for the Wm. A. Stickney Cigar Co., of Kansas City, made a visit to the main house of the concern at the beginning of the year.

E. H. Briody, of the S. R. Moss Cigar Co., Lancaster, Pa., visited Pittsburgh after the holidays and made a tour of his customers.

The Siller, Narten Barnes Co., Pittsburgh, Pa., intend to put on a number of additional salesman for the New Year.

Dave Weisenberg, who travels for Gumpert Brothers, of Philadelphia, in Indiana and Wisconsin, is at headquarters for a brief stay.

Gerson Brown, president of the J. B. Moss Co., Cincinnati, is on a business trip to New York.

William D. Scisco, Jr., western representative of Gans Brothers, was at home during the holidays and entertained his friends in right royal good style.

William Mendel, the popular Union American Cigar Co., representative, after a brief vacation at the home of his parents in Albany, is ready to again resume his territory covering Pennsylvania and the Southern States.

N. E. Whitbeck, formerly with Spaulding & Merrick, is now with the Liggett & Myers Co.

I. L. Hess, of the Santaella y Ca., has returned to San Francisco after completing his northern tour in the interest of the Optimo brand.

Fred C. Kruckel, formerly of San Francisco, is now a successful salesman for Manny Katz, a Los Angeles cigar jobber.

Robert Gressitt, formerly division manager for the Fatima department, Albany, N. Y., is now traveling representative for the Liggett & Myers Co., covering eastern Pennsylvania.

Milton Cohen, of the E. M. Schwarz Co. in St. Louis, Mo., left the other day for a business trip to New York.

The Northwestern representative of M. Linkman & Co. is again on the road after spending the holidays with his family in St. Louis.

O. H. Hendrickson, of the St. Louis branch of P. Pohalski & Co., of New York City, is at headquarters to help map out a schedule for the firm's new year operations in the West.

F. A. Tripp, representing Berriman Bros., has visited Indianapolis and made a tour of the trade in that city.

Charles Horwitz, formerly with John H. Goetze & Co., is now with the well-known leaf house of Morris Rosenberg & Co., which firm is to be congratulated upon having secured his brains and services.

C. K. Dusel, formerly with the Amsterdam Supply Co., is now head of the supply department of the P. Lorillard Co., New York City. The Lorillard people have chosen a good man.

Winston-Salem Tobacco Concerns Merge

R. J. Reynolds Co. and Lipfert Scales Co. Amalgamated

FOR the purpose of conforming with the decree of the United States Supreme Court, the R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Company and the Lipfert Scales Company amalgamated on the first day of the new year.

The Reynolds Company, which formerly owned a two-thirds interest in the Lipfert Scales Company, has purchased the remaining one-third. The brands of tobacco of the retiring firm will be manufactured by the R. J. Reynolds Company, and the employees of the Lipfert Scales Company will be retained by the Reynolds Company, which is now constructing one of the largest and most modern buildings in the South.

Wilmington, Delaware

The Wilmington plant of the American Tobacco Company, closed several weeks ago in accordance with the Supreme Court order of dissolution, has reopened under the management of Liggett & Meyers and P. Lorillard & Co. Six hundred employees were put to work.

New Policy Being Formulated by the United Cigar Stores Company

THE American Tobacco Company and the United Cigar Stores Company, having been ordered to sever all business relationship which existed between them, the last named concern is now busy forming a new plan for the conduct of its extensive business. The company which, through the order to dissolve issued to the American Tobacco Co., has been left to work out its own destiny, has about 1400 stores scattered throughout the country. As stated in our last issue, stockholders of the American Tobacco Company are now receiving certificates representing their equity in the concern.

Thoughts for the New Year

Ability to sell goods by no means comprises the whole art of legitimate salesmanship. It is undoubtedly the one essential to the dealer in gold bricks or green goods, but is of less importance where the object is to secure friends and retain customers, as well as to make sales. The art of salesmanship includes the faculty of making patrons satisfied with their purchases. To induce customers to buy goods against their judgment and inclination is at best a doubtful gain, and in some cases produces dissatisfaction which results in the withdrawal of patronage.

The most brilliant genius cannot make storekeeping a success unless proper attention is given to details.

Credit is lending money, and endorsing is giving it away.

Every salesman should cultivate a habit of observation. Without it he will never achieve success in the study of human nature. By its use he will be able to note the effect of his conversation on customers and can adapt himself to the requirements of the occasion.

The clerk who treats customers as he would like to be treated if conditions were reversed is not likely to make many enemies, and is in a fair way to become a very efficient salesman.

Tobacco Concerns Commence Competition

HAVING been dissolved as one great corporation by order of the Supreme Court of the United States, the American Tobacco Company, the Pierre Lorillard Company, the Liggett & Meyers Company and other former concerns in the American Tobacco Company, are starting business in the Kentucky markets as separate and distinct companies. Each has a separate buyer, and is operating independently and in competition with the former members of the so-called tobacco trust.

It is believed that within the next month another big tobacco deal will be arranged by which the remainder of all the pool holdings in the Burley Tobacco Society will be purchased by one or more of these companies. If this is done the ten-year plan to control the entire Burley crop of Indiana, Ohio and Kentucky will be started.

Richmond, Va., tobacco factories under the new plan of subdivision of the American Tobacco Company, have passed into the hands of the three major companies, as outlined in the plan of dissolution.

The R. A. Patterson factory becomes a part of the American Tobacco Company; the Allen & Ginter branch, with its well-known brand of cigarettes, passes to the Liggett & Myers Co., and the Federal Cigar Co. plant goes to the Lorillard Co. So far as can be ascertained, there will be no immediate changes in the management of the local plants. The various factory managers have remained practically without change, reporting to the headquarters of the company to which that factory has been transferred.

Two of the three companies which have divided the business of the American Tobacco Company have been granted licenses to do business in Virginia. They are Liggett & Myers, with a capital of $36,880,200, and the P. Lorillard Co., with a capital of $26,463,200.

The former will be represented by Statutory Agent E. Victor Williams, of Richmond. The Lorillard Co. will have as its statutory agent E. M. Cabaniss, of Danville, Va.

Cuban Fairs and Expositions

THIS winter's annual exposition in Havana, under Government auspices, is planned on a considerable scale; $5000 in premiums for agricultural products is to be awarded; the Cuban National Horticultural Society, which is aiding the exposition, will meet on the exhibition grounds, February 14-16. The fair at Camaguey will be held on February 3-12; information from Sir Walfredo Rodriguez, Popular 19, Camaguey. The third annual Cubitas Valley Fair will be held at La Gloria, on January 24-26; information from Secretary Shore, La Gloria. The fair at Santa Fe, Isle of Pines, will be held January 23-26, under the auspices of the Santa Fe Commercial Club.

James Buckley of Lowell

AMONG the most widely known and justly respected and popular cigar manufacturers of the New England States is Mr. James Buckley, of Lowell, Massachusetts. He manufactures "Buck's Best", 10 cents, and "Boston Terrier", 5 cents, and is known by every cigar and tobacco salesman that came through New England in the last twenty-five years. Mr. Buckley commenced as a stripper in the same quarters he now occupies on the day Corbett licked John L.

If a clerk thinks that the store would have to close its doors if he leaves, he should remember that it got along after a fashion before he came.

BOSTON, Jan. 8, 1912.

There is a slight lull in the demand upon retail cigar dealers, as is naturally expected to ensue after the excellent holiday trade. Several of the importers of high-grade Vuelta Abajo have left to renew depleted stocks at Havana. Several new corporations have been formed throughout New England, dealing in cigars and tobacco of all grades.

Lowell D. Hoyt & Co., prominent retailers in Boston's financial district, inform the WORLD man that 1911 greatly exceeded 1910 in the volume of business handled, though 1910 business was of good proportions.

Ruby Hyneman, of Hyneman Bros., 33 Milk street, has left for a pleasure trip to Santiago, Cuba, thence to Jamaica, and from there to Panama, returning to Boston January 20th.

The Bowdoin Cigar Co., 170 Hanover street, is now carried on by Rae and Frank A. Reinhard.

The Manchester Tobacco Co., of Hartford, is a new corporation. Capital stock, $5,000.

Benjamin A. Kaiser, of the firm of B. A. Kaiser Co., importers of high-grade Havana leaf tobacco, has left for Havana, where he will purchase extensively of this line.

The firm of Egerton & Joel has been dissolved, Charles S. Egerton withdrawing. It will henceforth be conducted by Coleman J. Joel.

The S. L. Ullrig Tobacco Co. has been incorporated for $25,000 at Pittsfield, Mass., to manufacture cigars, etc. President, W. E. Putnam; Vice-President, Stephen L. Ullrig; Treasurer, H. Francis.

Thomas Quinn's establishment, Hartford, has been sold to meet the demands of dissatisfied creditors.

Frank M. Knott is now representing H. Traiser & Son, Inc., throughout Michigan territory.

Fred Suss, the popular "seller" for the R. Steinecke Co., is rapidly convalescing from his recent illness.

H. D. Kingsbury, vice-president of the P. Lorillard Co. (which has recently opened offices at Canal street), visited Boston jobbers last week.

The Walen Drug Co., Manchester, has been incorporated for $5,000. Clifford F. Loane, President; Alfred Walen, Treasurer.

Factories Again Active

Baltimore, Md., January 12, 1912.

THE United Cigar Stores Co. store at 324 W. Baltimore street was destroyed by fire on Monday night last. It will be several weeks before the necessary repairs can be made for reopening.

Lenny Wertheimer, of Wertheimer Bros., left on Tuesday last for a short trip through the East and New England States.

Henry Kraus, of Kraus & Co., made an early start and is already calling on his old customers. This factory had but a short cessation during the holidays and is again in full and active operation.

H. B. Cochran, with Petre, Schmidt & Bergmann, lithographers, New York, was in the city last week.

Mr. Lynch, representing the El Draco Cigar Mfg. Co., Philadelphia, was here this week exploiting their "Stratford" and "Rutherford" cigars. These brands are finding increasing patronage among the leading hotels, clubs, cafes and other places.

Simon Schloss, a salesman with Dohan & Taitt, Philadelphia, leaf packers and importers, is making his initial trip to Baltimore this week.

The popularity of the "Ben Hur" five-cent cigars, manufactured by B. L. Frey & Bro., of this city, is evidenced by the increasing volume of sales throughout the city.

J. L. Aubrey, of J. L. Aubrey & Co., leaves at the end of this week for a visit to New England leaf tobacco markets.

Edson Shattuck, Now in Charge of Sales of United Cigar Stores Co., Visits Old Worcester Home

Edson Shattuck, until three years ago proprietor of the O. P. Shattuck cigar store, Worcester, Mass., who is now in charge of the sales department, United Cigar Stores Co., with headquarters in New York, paid a brief visit to Worcester, at the beginning of the year. Mr. Shattuck has supervision over all the imported cigars handled by the company.

He writes of the trade in his store, stating that on the second day before Christmas, 12,600 cigars were sold. His mother, Mrs. O. P. Shattuck, formerly of Oak street, Worcester, is living with her son in New York.

Weston (Mo.), has opened a new tobacco warehouse, in charge of J. B. Doran, formerly buyer for the American Tobacco Company. The opening took place on January 3rd, and buyers from all the big tobacco manufacturing concerns throughout the country were present.

W. P. Henry's stemmery, in Timmonsville, S. C., has been destroyed by fire.

The British American Tobacco Company has reduced its dividend from 8 per cent. to 2½ per cent.

LEAF TOBACCO MARKET

New York Trade Active--Philadelphia and Lancaster Trade Dull--Wisconsin Packing Centers Busy With Old Leaf in Demand--New England Growers Optimistic--General Outlook for 1912 Bright

NEW YORK.

NEW YORK CITY.

FAIR prices have been obtained by growers of leaf tobacco since the beginning of the year. It is estimated that about 90 per cent. of the leaf on the market has been disposed of. This starts the year's business with unusual briskness. The leaf is of uniform quality.

Tobacco issues during the past fortnight attracted considerable attention on the curb market with P. Lorillard the feature for both activity and strength.

The leaf houses, as well as the factories, are now through taking stock and figuring on inventories and everything is in readiness for an active trade all along the line.

Summing up the year 1911, it must be said that it can be pronounced neither a good nor a bad one for the leaf trade. Business was steady all the year round, with the usual intervals of relaxation in the off season. Prices ruled according to conditions, neither too high for the purchaser nor too profitable for the seller. The volume of trade responded to the moderate increase in the cigar output.

PENNSYLVANIA.

PHILADELPHIA.

NO leaf business to amount to anything has been transacted in Philadelphia since the commencement of the new year, nor is it likely there will be any selling of consequence in the immediate future.

The leaf dealers since the commencement of the year have busied themselves with stock-taking and the closing up of their last year's work. The mercantile agencies here have been trying to get a line on what has been done, but thus far they have not been able to get a statement from the dealers, for they do not know themselves where they stand. There was a satisfactory amount of business done in Philadelphia, on the whole, more than last year.

LANCASTER.

The principal activity here in the leaf market for the past fourteen days has been of buying the new crop, with trade dull and packers busying themselves with making up their yearly accounts and taking stocks.

The buying at the close of the old year was lively, and while the rural packers were the most active, some of the city packers got into the game and bought freely. One result of this hurry to buy before the 1911 tobacco crop of Lancaster County was all stripped was an advance in prices. Eleven and two and even eleven and four is reported to have been paid by some packers. The opinion prevalent among dealers was that the tobacco could be bought at about ten cents, but the anxiety to buy exhibited by some dealers stiffened the backbone of the growers to an appreciable extent. There was however, considerable tobacco bought at ten and three cents, but where there was a choice crop and the grower realized that he could command a higher price he held out for and generally obtained it. The consensus of opinion among packers was that a large amount of damaged crop existed. Pole burn is much in evidence, with too much moisture of the leaf as an added feature of damage, and in comparison with that of 1910, the 1911 growth must be pronounced inferior. By careful curing, however, it is hoped it will be brought to measure up to the quality standard.

WISCONSIN.

EDGERTON.

THE new year's season commences with great activity manifested at the packing centers throughout the State. The warehouses are working under extra pressure, additional help being employed and organized for several months' work. The deliveries are ordered in about as fast as the storage facilities will warrant, but some packers are disposed not to be in a hurry to receive their purchases, hoping the tobacco will be in a better condition later.

Some complaints of dockage are heard and many growers are insisting upon an examination of the farms where adjustment can be made of any imperfection before delivery is made.

Old leaf is expected to be more in demand as the new year's season progresses, on account of the scarcity in the binder stock held in Wisconsin, but trading of necessity will be of the small order variety of business.

The tobacco is weighing in strong and yielding unusually good money returns. Very little buying is going on at present. For the first week of the year the shipments out of the State from the Wisconsin market reached 500 cases.

NEW ENGLAND STATES.

SPRINGFIELD, MASS.

THERE is no doubt, according to a usually well-informed tobacco man, who is interested in the prospects and outlook for Connecticut tobacco crops, that with the new year the area of shade grown tobacco will be largely increased, and it is not beyond the range of possibility that it may be doubled. The excellent prices that were paid for Connecticut tobacco and the big profits made by the farmers have caused a great deal of planning and comment in the trade.

The fact that the shade grown tobacco is protected from storm and frost is one inducement to the farmer to attempt that style of agriculture. At any rate the new method will eat largely into the area devoted to the growing of old-fashioned Havana seed this year as it already did last year.

SUFFIELD, CONN.

Buying in the tobacco market continued active at the commencement of the year, reports from Pennsylvania showing the same eagerness on the part of the packers to get as much of the crop as possible, with the Wisconsin demand good, bringing prices above the average. The supply appears to be not much greater than the demand, the outlook being that the packers will make good money on last year's crop. And if the packers make good money on this crop it will be a good thing for the growers, as the next crop will command a higher figure.

The growers are ordering their fertilizers for the new year's season, making arrangements for the raising of the next crop.

OHIO.

CINCINNATI.

THE dealers are practically unanimous in affirming that last year closed with a fair margin of business ahead of the preceding year. Jobbing kept well up to the normal run of trade to the close of December. Stocks are now pretty well cleared off the shelves and traveling salesmen should do well during the month of January.

ARCANUM.

There is nothing particularly encouraging for the tobacco growers of this vicinity so far as the 1911 crops are concerned. Packers seem to be a little afraid of the crops because some of them were taken in pretty late, and there was poor curing weather during the entire fall. This renders the condition of the market uncertain. Not much buying is likely to be done until the stripping begins.

Minnesota Soil Adaptable to Tobacco

THE adaptability of central Minnesota soil to tobacco is shown by a large display of the weed in the specimen cases of the Farmers' State bank, St. Cloud, Minn. The tobacco was raised on the reformatory farm and on the farms of residents of Clear Lake and Palmer, in Sherburne county.

Charles Lien has been sent to Sherburne county to conduct an experimental farm for the State to determine what varieties of tobacco thrive best in the soil of this vicinity. The samples on display are Connecticut, Havana and Spanish Comstock.

Those who have raised tobacco in Sherburne county have found it profitable. The sales average $100 an acre. Its cultivation is not difficult, and it demands but little more care than cabbage.

Representatives of Wisconsin tobacco houses have purchased the entire crop about St. Cloud, at liberal figures. The quality of the Sherburne county tobacco is said to rival that of the famed Connecticut wrapper leaves.

W. B. Shaw, of Broadhead, Wis., has left for different points in the State to receive tobacco crops for shipment to the American Cigar Company's warehouse in that city. From seven to ten carloads are expected at the big warehouse before the week passes.

THE TOBACCO WORLD REGISTRATION BUREAU

The Tobacco World, established in 1881, has maintained a Bureau for the purpose of Registering and Publishing claims of the adoption of Trade-Marks and Brands for Cigars, Cigarettes, Smoking and Chewing Tobacco, and Snuff.

All Trade-Marks to be registered and published should be addressed to The Tobacco World Corporation, 102 South Twelfth Street, Philadelphia, accompanied by the necessary fee, unless special arrangements have been made.

No Responsibility assumed for errors or duplications.

One Dollar for each title must accompany all applications. In case title or titles cannot be registered owing to prior registration, same will be returned immediately, less our usual charge for searching and return postage, or it will be credited if desired.

Hastings, Nebraska

Has Many Able Business Men But Only One W. E. Riggs

IT is only a year ago that W. E. Riggs established a cigar factory in Hastings, Nebraska, but since then he has succeeded in building up a business that is now considered one of the most valuable wholesale and manufacturing assets of the city. His factory building and everything, was especially built for a first-class, up-to-date sanitary factory. Mr. Riggs, furthermore, is a master of advertising and promoting of modern business enterprise, which has been amply shown through the rapid increase of his business.

The other day he demonstrated that he is as big hearted and appreciative as he is enterprising, by giving his thirty-five employees a theatre party at the Wonderland, arranging a program especially in their honor. At the same occasion Mr. Riggs gave further demonstration of his public spiritedness and appreciation by loading up an automobile with boxes of cigars, which he scattered throughout the city with a lavish hand, accompanied with compliments of the season.

Here is a little ditty composed for him on the spot by a local poet:

"Has anyone here seen Riggs?
R-I-double-G-S.
His hair is red and his eyes are blue,
And he's a sport thru' and thru'
Has anyone here seen Riggs?"

Large Tobacco Lands Sold

Arthur Case has bought the large 100-acre farm of Almon B. Phelps, in the Copper Hill district, on the side of the West Suffield mountain, Conn., and will take possession March 1. He will raise two acres of the famous shade-grown tobacco next year and seven acres of outside primed tobacco. Robert Davis, of Hartford, has bought the Frank Newton farm, near the State line, consisting of about 60 acres of good tobacco land and will grow about 25 acres of the weed next year.

Tobacco Thieves Operating at Windsor, Connecticut

Members of the Connecticut State police are assisting the authorities of Windsor, Conn., in running down the thieves who have been stealing tobacco from growers in Windsor. The theft had hitherto been kept secret by the authorities, who now refuse to give the names of the parties from whom the tobacco has been stolen, believing that the ends of justice may be defeated if much publicity is given concerning the case.

C. F. Jackson, of Dawson Springs, Ky., has just bought of the Equity Society 300,000 pounds pooled tobacco to be delivered at this place at once. The price ranged from 6 to 11 cents a pound.

The Goodrich Tobacco Company, Portland, Conn., recently bought land bordering on Strickland street, from Mrs. Mary A. Cornwall.

The clerk who wishes for promotion will find that promoting the business in which he is employed is the best way to obtain the desired result.

The salesman who wishes to attain complete success in his calling must make himself familiar with every detail of his business.

The clerk who always waits to be told what to do will probably have to wait a long time before he is told to take a higher position.

Labor Agitators Work Injury to Porto Rico Cigar Industry

THE cigar industry of Porto Rico, which under ordinary circumstances would have enjoyed a year of most unusual prosperity, is suffering greatly under the presence of a band of agitators and demagogues. Both manufacturers and their employees are suffering under the strain and strikes have become the order of the day, completely paralyzing the trade.

The great mass of the cigarmakers of the island are today much poorer in pocket than they would have been had they refused to listen to the unwise counsels of the agitators who cared not three straws for the welfare of the cigarmakers, so long as they could themselves profit from frequent strikes and the general demoralization which they caused.

But for the work of the agitators, the cigarmakers of Porto Rico would have been steadily employed throughout the past year at relatively higher wages than they ever received in the past, whereas thousands of them have been idle for months at a time, and the aggregate sum in wages which they have lost through voluntary idleness will easily run into hundreds of thousands of dollars.

Nor is the money that has already been lost to the cigarmakers the only damage that has been done. The cigar manufacturers engaged in business in the island have, through the unreasonable demands of the cigarmakers, been brought to a point where it is no longer profitable to manufacture a number of sizes of cigars upon which they have established a large volume of business, and will in all probability be compelled to curtail their output during the coming year, while some of them have already turned their attention to the manufacture of cigars made in the United States from Porto Rican tobacco.

These things will naturally react to the serious economic injury of Porto Rico, and with a decreased demand for cigarmakers in the island, there must necessarily follow a drop in wages from the high scale now prevailing.

In other words, by putting themselves under the bad leadership of the agitators and demagogues, the cigarmakers of Porto Rico have brought about a situation which seriously threatens the future growth and prosperity of the cigar industry in the island.

Why He Did Not Succeed

He did not know how to advertise.
He did not keep up with the times.
He tried to do everything himself.
He tried to save by hiring cheap help.
His word could not be depended upon.
He looked upon system as useless red-tape.
He strangled his progress by cheese-paring economy.
He did not have the ability to multiply himself in others.
He did not think it worth while to look after little things.
He ruined his capacity for larger things by burying himself in detail.
He never learned that it is the liberal policy that wins in business building.
His first success made him over-confident, and he got a "swelled head."
He thought he could save the money which his competitors spent for advertising.

Repeat Orders on Rigoletto Cigars are Bigger Than the First

One of our salesmen has just finished covering his route for the first time since our big advertising campaign began. He not only received repeat orders from every dealer who had stocked Rigolettos from the beginning of the campaign, but in every case these orders were bigger than the first orders.

This is a significant example of the manner in which Rigoletto Cigars have made good. The same story from every section of the country. This cigar is fast becoming a standard smoke at 10c. everywhere.

Dealers who realized the quality of Rigolettos, who appreciated the demand for such a cigar when it was made known and the value of our big advertising campaign, have won out big by stocking and pushing it.

Yet the advertising of Rigoletto Cigars has only begun. There are great things for the future. Will you share in them?

Rigoletto Cigars are made in only four standard shapes, all to retail at 10c. Get in touch with your jobber or write to us and we will see that you are supplied.

Resolutions

1. I will remove temptation from my clerks instead of placing it before them.
2. I will abandon my open cash drawer which affords no protection for my hard earned money.
3. I will know who makes mistakes, which clerk sells the most goods and I will reward them accordingly.
4. I will see that my customers are satisfied, by preventing carelessness and forgetfulness, and enforcing promptness.
5. I will be out in the store with my customers and show them I appreciate their trade.
6. I will be at home at night shortly after my store closes, knowing that my money and accounts have been handled correctly.
7. I will not be cross at home, because I will not have to worry over forgotten charges and other mistakes.
8. I will be able to spend more money on my family and myself.
9. I will take more vacations and thus be in better condition to advance my business interests.
10. I will use the "Get a Receipt" plan in connection with an improved National Cash Register, because this will advertise my business and enable me to get all the money in exchange for my goods.

A Merchant

The "hundred-point" cigar

HERE is a cigar that really is different. Different because it combines two virtues in an unusual marriage, the marriage of "Full flavor" and "Mildness."

It is easy to get mildness alone; it is possible to get full flavor (at a price); but tell us honestly, did you ever get both together? You can get it in the Girard cigar for 10 cents—a rich, full-flavored, satisfying smoke, yet with a mildness and innocence that will commend it to your physician.

The entire filler is pure Havana tobacco, Cuban grown, and matured for use by the slow, old-fashioned Cuban method. We are not up-to-date where that up-to-dateness means an inferior product. Our method, often requiring four months, seasons the tobacco evenly and thoroughly in a natural way. It eliminates all rankness and bitterness, and retains all the fine native quality and aroma. And the aroma is all in the tobacco; we use no flavoring of any kind.

Every Girard cigar is hand-made from beginning to end. We have discovered and improved a method of combining and blending the leaf for the Girard cigar which makes flavor and quality absolutely uniform. This method is one of the most important discoveries in the whole history of cigar-making and is known only to us. The cigars produced by it cannot be obtained by any other means. Believe us, when we say that the Girard cigar "really is different."

GIRARD Cigar

Made in the following standard shapes

"Brokers" 5 1/2 inch Perfecto—Shown in the box above.

"Mariners" 5 1/2 inch Panatella—Shown in cut.

"Founders" 5 1/2 inch Ribbon—Shown in cut.

The Girard cigar is sold by dealers generally where you usually buy. But if your dealer can't supply you today, fill out the coupon below, enclose a dollar bill and we'll send you, prepaid, a box of ten Girard cigars of the shape and color you prefer. If you do not like these cigars better than your dollar, we will send the dollar back to you on request.

We are not in the mail order business. The Girard cigar is sold through dealers only, but we do want you to try them and will therefore send you the first box direct if necessary.

The "FOUNDER" Actual Size

ANTONIO ROIG & LANGSDORF
Established 1871
PHILADELPHIA

Look for this full-page advertisement February 8th on the first inside cover of The Saturday Evening Post

The Post issues more than one and three-quarter million copies every week; so that this advertisement tells the story of the Girard cigar to millions of readers—largely men. And it shows you how we sell this cigar directly to benefit you—the retailer.

We send no cigars to the consumer except where he cannot buy them of his dealer. We offer him no price or inducement to buy from us. We send him only one small sample box at the full retail price of 10 cents straight for these sizes. And if you are his dealer and will arrange to supply him we give you your regular profit on that sale.

We make you customers; not spoil them.

The Girard cigar has already made good. It has proven a consistent repeater wherever sold.

ANTONIO ROIG & LANGSDORF, Philadelphia

It makes a special appeal to a large and growing class of smokers—as you will see for yourself. And we put it before them by strong persistent advertising, every line of which tends directly to make new business for you.

Are you ready to get the full advantage?

Have you a stock of Girard cigars in these popular 10 cent sizes sufficient to meet the earliest demand?

If not you can buy them from your jobber at $70. per thousand. And we suggest that you put them in without delay.

Order from your jobber or from us. We fill all orders the day they are received.

WANTED

One Thousand Live Men

UNDER the new management which took hold two years ago, The Tobacco World has been making quick strides forward in every department. The improvement in our reading pages, the enlargement of our correspondence staff and the distinctive style, have combined to place The Tobacco World in a class by itself.

Our method of building, has been first, to produce the best trade paper in the tobacco field, feeling sure that such a standard would be sure to win recognition in the form of thousands of new subscribers.

That this recognition is coming, is evident in the increase of more than 60% in our circulation, as well as substantial gains in our advertising accounts.

With the opening of the New Year, it is our ambition to extend this circulation in every State by an aggressive campaign for subscriptions. To that end, we have an excellent proposition for traveling salesmen who would wish to take subscriptions on a commission basis. Only men of high standing and unquestioned character are wanted.

At one dollar per year, The Tobacco World is the best trade journal proposition in the country to-day. In most cases, all that is necessary to get a subscription is to show a copy of the paper, and point out its distinctive features. Solicitors who have taken hold of our proposition are making a good side income from it.

Why not, Mr. Live Salesman, do the same?

Address Circulation Manager, The Tobacco World

NO % added for selling, incidental expenses, nor for losses in accounts. Our terms are cash, hence no losses. 10 per cent. saved on your purchases means an average saving for your bank account on each purchase you make. This can be accomplished in making your Manila and Porto Rican cigar purchases through us. Our cigars fill every requirement and most advanced ideas of cigar making. Honest, never varying in material, superior finish and Reasonably Priced.

OUR PORTO RICAN Cigars are made exclusively of Porto Rican grown tobacco.

Fresh shipments of Manilas reach us semi-monthly

MANILA Of all the Manila made Cigars our blends are the most popular. Our enormous sales and direct alliance with all the factories at Manila enable us to receive concessions, which are ample profits in themselves, thus assisting us to give the very closest quotations.

We send samples express prepaid, for which charge is made. In ordering please state price you wish to pay and if a full or limited line is required.

Cummins' Tobacco Plan Not Likely to Pass Now

Senate Committee Oppose Measure as Unconstitutional—New York Retail Suit the Last Hope for Intervention

WASHINGTON, D. C., January 29th.
DEVELOPMENTS in the past week lead to the conclusion that if any effort succeeds in having the dissolution plans of the American Tobacco Company reviewed by the Supreme Court, this effort will not be due to the Cummins bill which is now before Congress, but will come as a result of the suit instituted in New York during the past fortnight at the suggestion of the attorney, E. L. Andrews, counsel for the North Carolina Bondholders' Committee. This committee, it will be remembered, has been trying for years to bring about the redemption of that State's repudiated bonds which were issued by the "Carpet Bag Government" during the reconstruction period following the Civil War.

The American Tobacco Company subscribed for part of a new issue of North Carolina Bonds about a year ago, against the protest of the committee which demanded that the old bonds be redeemed before the new ones be issued.

Through this relation, the Bondholders' Committee urged Otto S. Jonas, secretary of the Independent Retail Tobacconists' Association to file a bill for the review of the recent Circuit Court dissolution plan. Acting along this line Mr. Jonas has brought such suit and thereby hopes to obtain a footing in court to bring about the desired result.

Whether the Jonas action will result in the end desired, is questionable but it is believed here that it stands a better chance of success than does Senator Cummins' bill passing the present Congress. A canvass of the Senate Committee, having in charge the Cummins' bill, indicates that it is not likely to be favorably considered at this session of Congress. Both Senators Root and Overman, members of the Sub-Committee on Judiciary are opposed to the Cummins measure on the grounds of its unconstitutionality.

Senator Cummins was before the Senate Committee last week when Attorney-General Wickersham explained his attitude towards the American Tobacco Company decisions. Mr. Wickersham attacked the Cummins measure as being antagonistic to the decision of the Department of Justice. He maintained that the public interest was maintained by the dissolution plan which he regarded as being in perfect harmony with the requirements of the Supreme Court decision. He assumed entire responsibility for the failure to appeal the case, and emphatically declared that he was willing to stand pat on his action.

Mr. Wickersham has obtained copies of Mr. Andrews' plan of review and is closely studying the same.

Plans for Dissolution of American Stogie Co.

PLANS for the dissolution of the American Stogie Company and the reorganization of the Union-American Cigar Company have been presented to the Circuit Court of New York for approval.

The unwinding process is complicated by the fact that all the stock of the Union-American is owned by the Ameri-

Tampa Manufacturers See Need of United Movement

Proposition to Strengthen Guarantee Stamp Being Widely Discussed—Lack of Co-operation the Big Obstacle

FRIENDLY and co-operative in all that these two terms imply, that is the true sense of an organization which was recommended in the last issue of "The Tobacco World," at the suggestion of one of the leading operators in Florida's cigar city.

The article resulted in an overwhelming amount of comment, both favorable and adverse.

One of the leading men who would be affected by this movement lost no time in formulating the following proposition:

"What have we, our firm, to gain by this combination? Those houses less fortunate in distinguished reputation than ourselves would be trading on our past record were this movement to go into effect."

The correspondent of "THE TOBACCO WORLD," to whom this query was made, was forced to admit that this manufacturer's hesitation in the matter was fully warranted inasmuch as the firm for whom he speaks have succeeded through forty years of honest efforts to place upon their product a name which is equivalent in the eyes of the American consumer to the sterling mark on silver. They have never varied from their set resolution to manufacture only the very best product that constant effort, good financial backing, and talent can create.

The same gentleman, however admitted that since 1901, the trials and tribulations which the clear Havana manufacturers were forced to face on account of tobacco conditions and labor troubles, had made the revenues in that particular field infinitesimal and that the need of an effective combination which would insure economy to the manufacturers as well as better selling facilities is imperative.

Another prominent manufacturer concerned in the plan, suggested very frankly, that in the past, meetings of the Clear Havana Manufacturers Association, of Tampa, have been a smile-on-your-face and a knife-behind-your-back arrangement which has been the most grievous impediment to the men of that great industry. He stated furthermore that the plan suggested by "The Tobacco World," if put in effect with absolute fidelity to the guarantee proposition would mean the salvation of the manufacturers who are now struggling against many and serious obstacles in their honest endeavor to sustain the reputations for quality which they have built up during the past half century.

It is an open secret that the leaf conditions in Cuba and subsequent high price place the honest manufacturer in a condition bordering on commercial suicide. The racy competition which is waged by the less scrupulous producer, prohibits his even attempting to make any advance in the selling price.

Any Tampa manufacturer will admit, no matter how prosperous and successful his business may be, as a whole, that there have been several years during which the profits were on the left hand side of the ledger.

Unfortunately there has always been some hesitation on the part of the Tampa manufacturers to enter into com-

SMOKING OUT JUSTICE

A GOOD JUDGE AND A BOX OF SMOKERS

IF the precedent set by Judge Prescott Smith at a recent session in the Superior Court, in Cincinnati, be followed, smoking will become regularly a part of the judicial proceedings, as an aid to clearing the mind, soothing the nerves and clarifying the obtuse legal questions.

In an equity proceeding to determine whether Hazen & Company were due any money for the partial erection of a building; being heard in Judge Smith's Court. Harry Hake, the witness, becoming bored by the slow proceedings lit a cigar and proceeded to smoke calmly in the witness box. In a few minutes, a dozen other witnesses and the lawyers followed suit, and finally the Judge himself being offered a "weed" joined in the merry "Smoke Fest." Not to be outdone every one of the twelve jurors relaxed, lit their cigars and began to discuss the case informally.

In this hazy atmosphere, judge, jurors and litigants saw clearly the legal points involved and were quick in reaching a decision.

binations because of doubts which the individual manufacturers had as to the sincerity of the promoters. Until that lack of confidence is eliminated, united action is improbable.

At the present writing, however, the operators who would be affected by this combine are facing that crucial time when they are, and will be most in need of an organization that will effectively present the guarantee stamp of Tampa to the American public, thereby reducing selling expenditures, creating economies, and giving the manufacturers that long desired chance of advance in price, when advances are justified by natural and other conditions.

The Variety Cigar Company of New Haven, by Charles E. Case, general manager, filed a petition in bankruptcy in the United States Court on January 26th.

The American Tobacco Company has combined the F. W. Felgner Company and Marburg Brothers into one big concern for the manufacture of smoking tobacco at the Marburg Brothers factory, Boston, Mass. The Felgner plant will hereafter be used as a storage warehouse. Mr. Leidenroth continues as manager of the combined factories.

can Stogie Company, a majority of whose common stock is owned by the American Cigar Company, a majority of whose stock is owned by the American Tobacco Company. The American Stogie Company has never been profitable and dividends on its preferred stock, issued largely an payment for plants acquired, are in arrears, up to Feb. 1, 1912, to the amount of 46½ per cent. The preferred stock outstanding amount to $976,000 and the accrued dividends to $453,840, a total of $1,429,840.

Under the plan the Union-American Cigar Company will receive back from the Stogie Company its entire stock issue amounting to $1,250,000. Out of this $1,087,000 will be exchanged for the $10,879,000 common stock of the Stogie Company. The Union-American will also authorize an issue of 7 per cent. preferred stock to the amount of $1,500,000, and of this $1,429,840 will be exchanged for the preferred stock and accrued dividends of the Stogie Company. All stock of the Stogie Company will be then canceled and retired. Thus the capitalization will be cut down about 90 per cent.

This exchange of American Stogie common and preferred for Union-American common and preferred will affect stockholders not in the old combination. Of the American Stogie preferred the American Cigar Company owns only $40,000 out of $976,000, and of the common it owns $7,303,775 out of the $10,879,000, the remainder being in the hands of outsiders.

When the exchanges are made, the Union-American stock that comes into the hands of the American Cigar Company will be distributed among its own stockholders. Of these the American Tobacco Company is the largest, and the stock that comes into its hands will in turn be distributed to its own common stockholders. The dissolution of the Stogie Company will then be complete and the business of the company it owned will be represented by stock in the hands of individuals.

This business consists of factories at Pittsburgh, Allegheny, Lancaster, and Newark, and although the decree of the Circuit Court called for its division into at least two companies the plan now offered seeks to avoid this, saying:

Concession Asked of Court.

"It is suggested, in view of the fact that the Union-American Cigar Company has at present but 1.58 per cent. of the cigar business of the United States, which is very much smaller than the percentage of business of any of the other companies as sub-divided by the decree, that under the plan proposed the control of the Union-American Company, by ownership of a majority of the stock, will no longer be in the American Tobacco Company or any of its subsidiary companies or stockholders, and that a still further reduction in the size of the Union-American Cigar Company by further sub-division of its properties will put it at serious disadvantage in competing with the other and larger cigar companies provided for in the decree; that the officers of the American Stogies Company and other parties interested present the above-quoted part of the decree to the court for reconsideration and obtain, if possible, a modification of the decree permitting the Union-American Cigar Company to continue to hold the properties now held by it.

In case the court refuses so to modify the decree, then the Union-American Cigar Company shall carry out the provisions of the order by separation into at least two different ownerships of the factories and business now owned and operated by it. This separation shall be effected by the sale of the Union-American Cigar Company of one or more of its factories, either for cash or securities, the proceeds of such sale to be distributed among the stockholders of the Union-American Cigar Company as their interests shall appear."

MEN WHO MADE GOOD

SIDELIGHTS ON INTERESTING TRADE PERSONALITIES

INTERESTING, inspiring and instructive is the story of the business career of Mr. A. Aurelio Torres, of Key West. Today he is one of the city's pushing, progressive, prosperous cigar manufacturers, heading the well-known, well-advertised firm of Trujillo & Company, which is doing a national business.

Born and educated at Key West, Mr. Torres served his apprenticeship as a cigarmaker in his early youth—learning the business systematically and thoroughly under the old Spanish-American masters of the town; attaining an ingoing and thorough knowledge of every detail and fine point that are accessories in the preparation of a truly high-class, representative cigar. And he it known that in the United States of America and elsewhere there are but a few cigarmakers with initiative, ambition and perseverance enough to study and work and keep at it everlastingly until they have made a fine art out of their craft. Also special talent is born not bred into men.

For a number of years young Mr. Torres served in the rank and file of the trade, and it was first in the year 1903 that he decided to embark in business for himself, minus capital, but full of ambition and determination to succeed.

His first product—the cigar upon which he established a lasting reputation—was the "Cottage by the Sea." And the story of how he did it is interesting. Very modest indeed was the beginning of his active career as a cigar manufacturer "in business for himself." With the friendly assistance of business men of Key West, who knew and trusted him, he managed to fit out and stock a tiny factory in the rear of 602 Fleming street, making, packing and shipping his own cigars with his own two hands.

So hard did he work and so brightly did Dame Fortune smile upon him and his "Cottage by the Sea" cigars that in less time than eight months after he had paid off all debts on his enterprise and found himself doing a volume of business which enabled him to give steady employment to eight men.

He now commenced to look about for an out-of-town market for his cigars, and his ensuing advertising campaign by correspondence and advertisements in the cosmopolitan press was as effective and successful as had been the previous luck which had attended upon his thrift and enterprise. Year after year now recorded a comfortable increase in his business, and in 1906 he bought the Principe de Golfo Cigar Company, moving into more spacious quarters on Simonton street. At this time his business had grown to such proportions that he gave employment to twenty-five men.

That was, however, only the beginning of his business career. Spurred on and on by his motto, "Ever Forward," he continued to prosper and expand, every now and then increasing his output, force of men and field of distribution; never, at the same time, losing sight of the premises upon which he first had commenced to build—the same foundation which underlies all real, permanent success in every department of life, namely to concentrate his ambition and energy upon the task of making not only more cigars but better cigars as well.

And naturally his number of satisfied, steady customers continued to increase apace.

His next move was to purchase the Trujillo y Ca. business, associating it with his own, and establishing the new concern at 613 Front street. He had been established there but a short time when the hurricane of October, 1909, came along and totally destroyed his factory, ruining his tobacco and causing him a direct loss of $4,180.20.

Temporarily disabled, but nothing daunted or disheartened even in the face of this serious drawback, which for the time being had left him almost entirely on bare ground—he with a right good will set out to revive by pluck and hard work his vanished fortunes; now moving to his present quarters at 613 Greene street, where he practically had to start business all over again. His indomitable energy and thrift once more won the day for him, for in the course of a comparatively short space of time he prospered so emphatically that he by degrees built up a business amounting to the turning out of a million cigars a year.

Sixty hands, expert cigarmakers, are now employed in his modern, finely equipped factory the year round.

Among the far-famed brands of cigars manufactured by Mr. Torres are the "Principe de Golfo," "Cottage by the Sea," "Bouquet de Trujillo y Ca." and "Polonius."

Mr. Torres is still one of the younger business men of Key West, and, judging by his past achievements it is safe to predict that he will continue to push onward on the success-road until he ranks among the leading men in his field of commercial activity.

Young men in any trade may profitably emulate the example set by Mr. A. Aurelio Torres as a business-builder and citizen, which are among the best tributes that can be paid to any man.

Altoona Wholesalers in Dispute

SURPRISE was expressed when it became known this week that H. D. Soyster & Company, a well-known firm of wholesalers in cigars and tobacco at Altoona, Pa., had made a voluntary statement of indebtedness as a result of proceedings brought for a receivership by G. A. Zimmers, a partner.

In his petition to the Court Mr. Zimmers averred that the firm is insolvent. This was emphatically denied by H. D. Soyster, who, on January 22nd filed papers showing the firm to be perfectly solvent. The inventory taken January 1st showed a net worth, after all liabilities had been paid, of $6,470. The original capital of this firm was only $4,000.

Mr. Soyster contended that he was unjustly assailed by Mr. Zimmers and had not been given an opportunity to take over the business and save all the creditors. Mr. Soyster made a voluntary confession of judgment to Alexander Weir, trustee, for $9,883 which represents the entire indebtedness of the firm. It is stated that the creditors are amply protected as the individual partners are worth approximately $45,000.

It is declared by Mr. Weir that all claims will be paid dollar for dollar no matter what the outcome of the present litigation between the partners.

Navy Tobacco Contract Awarded to Francis H. Leggett & Co.

FRANCIS H. LEGGETT & CO., New York, came out the winner in the competition for the Navy Department's big tobacco contract, eleven of the best known supply houses in the country competing for the prize. The bid made by the Leggett Company was accepted by the Navy Department as the lowest and best, quality being one of the important factors in the consideration.

The contract calls for the delivery of 200,000 pounds of tobacco to the New York Navy Yard between May 20th and June 1st next. The price is fixed as 37.93 cents a pound.

Besides the Francis H. Leggett Company bids were received from the following ten firms: The American Tobacco Co., Booker Tobacco Co., Inc., Larus & Bro. Co., Machee-Zimmer Tobacco Co., Inc., Metropolitan Tobacco Co., Strater Bros. Tobacco Co., Inc., The United States Tobacco Co., Universal Supply Co., Virginia-Carolina Tobacco Co., Inc., Watson & McGill.

"Post Dispatch" Making a Hit on Coast

MORRIS BURKE, the Los Angeles cigar broker, and J. B. Bonhaus, star salesman for Klauter & Wangenheim Company, have just completed a ten-day trip from Bakersfield, Cal., and state that the "Post Dispatch" will be found in the entire territory. Burke and Bonhaus are making a good team touring the suburban towns with an Overland automobile entirely covered with "Post Dispatch" advertising. The "Post Dispatch" cigars are made by Eitel & Cassebohm Company, Louisville, Ky.

Stickney's Denver Branch Gets the "R. B."

ARRANGEMENTS have been completed by the Rosenthal Brothers, of New York, to have the Denver branch of the William A. Stickney Cigar Company handle their popular "R. B." 5c. cigar in that territory. The account was opened by Julius Reisenberg, who has secured the services of C. B. Davidson, formerly with E. M. Schwarz & Company, to assist him in the missionary work of boosting this brand.

New Distributors of the "Betsy Ross"

THE Star Tobacco Company of Wilkes-Barre, Pa., have completed arrangements to act as sole distributors of the "Betsy Ross" 5c. cigar manufactured by A. S. Valentine & Son, of Philadelphia.

Niles & Moser Cigar Co. Make Changes

E. SAUNDERS, for the past seven years with the Niles & Moser Cigar Company, Kansas City, Mo., covering Northern Nebraska, the Black Hills and North Dakota, has resigned. Mr. Saunders is a man of substantial means and feels himself entitled to a rest after twenty-seven years on the road.

He is succeeded by Frank Connelly, for a number of years with George M. Conway, of Sioux City.

J. B. Rule has also resigned from the employ of the firm on account of ill health.

C. R. Whitman will cover the territory of Missouri. J. H. Clark, formerly with the American Tobacco Company, has accepted a position as city salesman with the company.

The company announces that it will control the brands of the United Cigar Manufacturing Company for the State of Missouri.

Drake & Company, wholesale grocers and cigar distributors in Easton, Pa., has just taken on the "Judge Best," "Flor de Valentine," and "Our Field" manufactured by A. S. Valentine & Son, Philadelphia, and will act as sole distributors of these brands in that territory, in addition to the "Betsy Ross" and "Paul Jones" of this factory, which heretofore they have handled.

Sanford C. Bugbee, of Bugbee & Brown, cigar jobbers, of Biddeford, Me., recently visited Dover, N. H., on business, and found it a lively town, as the police there mistook him for a fugitive from justice whom they were trailing. Mr. Bugbee is one of the most highly respected citizens of Biddeford and the Dover authorities are glad to escape a damage for $50,000.

Ben Shearer has resigned as manager of the business of the Perego & Moore Cigar Company, St. Joseph, Mo., and is succeeded by Ed. J. Earle, of Kansas City, formerly with the Niles & Moser Company.

Late Jobbing Trade Items

A. Luebeck, formerly a well-known cigar salesman and who lately had been jobbing cigars in the Central Building on Main street, Rochester, N. Y., filed a petition in bankruptcy a few days ago in the United States District Court. Mr. Luebeck also formerly managed the cigar stands in the Main street, East Store of J. A. Seel & Company, and in the New Osborn House.

Eugene Wilmot Crane, of Moreland Brothers & Crane, wholesale cigar and confectionery merchants, Adrian, Mich., is dead. He came to Adrian in the spring of 1881, entering into partnership with Messrs. Robert S. & James H. Moreland, the trio forming the firm of Moreland Brothers & Crane. Ever since then he made Adrian his home and business field.

W. A. Davis, one of the best known Syracuse, N. Y., wholesale tobacco dealers, is optimistic over the trade outlook of 1912, being quoted as saying that he "does not see a cloud in sight."

President Hart, of the Hart Cigar Company, Portland, Oregon, reports freights as slower than usual at this season of the year. He is behind in receipt of a number of ordered brands of cigars, among which "Gatos," "R. B's" and "Optimos."

J. H. Parker, president of the Parker Gordon Cigar Company, St. Louis, Mo., is on a business trip to New York and speaks optimistically of the trade outlook in his section.

The Chas. P. Stanley Cigar Company, St. Louis, Mo., will move from 606 Olive street to the new store at 702 Olive street, which is more ample and better able to accommodate the requirements of this flourishing concern.

W. W. Higgins, of Park & Tilford, called on the retail trade at Louisville, Ky., last week.

The R. J. Seidenberg Company, of Buffalo, N. Y., are having great success with their "Daily Made" nickel cigar manufactured by A. S. Valentine & Son, of Philadelphia.

The Pierson Cigar Company, Indianapolis, Ind., had a visit last week of Chas. H. Morris, well-known as the manufacturer of "La Integridads." The Pierson Cigar Company acts as Indianapolis distributor for Chas. H. Morris & Company, and is one of the city's best established cigar distributing concerns.

R. A. Horr, manager of the Stone-Ordean-Wells Company, Duluth, Minn., whose portrait was published in the last issue of "The Tobacco World" was a visitor to the Minneapolis branch of his house last week. The Minneapolis branch deals in cigars exclusively, and it is pleasant to know that Mr. Horr, upon the publication of our article, is devoting special attention to this department of his business. J. E. Granger, vice-president, accompanied Mr. Horr.

I. Dahlman and Ira Ellison, pipe salesmen for Wm. Demuth & Company, and Kaufmann Brothers & Bondy, respectively, are leaving New York for Seattle at the end of January to call upon the jobbers of that city.

Oak Olson, travelling for Schwabacher Brothers, Seattle, Wash., left the other day for a trip through the Southwestern part of Alaska.

H. & C. Herrmann are running what may justly be denominated a model retail store at Third street and Garfield avenue, Milwaukee, handling all the well-known brands of cigars.

The Noah Foster Company, Buffalo, New York, carries an excellent line of imported Cuban cigars, among which are, "Por Laranaga," "Giaconda," "Sol Partagas," "Punch," "Belinda," "F. Garcia y Hermanos" and a number of other famous brands.

M. Engelman, proprietor of the Golinda Cigar Company, Baltimore, Md., has offered to settle with his creditors at twenty cents on the dollar.

The Manchester Cigar Company, Baltimore, Md., through its popular proprietor, Mr. Paris, announces that its sales are larger than at this time a year ago. His son, Raphael, leaves shortly for the West to drum up trade for their excellent brands of cigars.

William Boucher & Son, located in the American Building, Baltimore, Md., have stocked up with a large assortment of fine imported brands of cigars and are in the midst of a flourishing boom of business. They report an increasing demand for imported goods.

Selak & Hoffman, cigar jobbers, at Wilmington, Del., have taken the distributing agency of the "Wheelin" brand of stogies, made by the Blu-J Tobacco Company, of Philadelphia.

Havana Importers' Association Formally Launched

PERMANENT organization of the Havana Tobacco Importers' Association was effected at a meeting held in the rooms of the New York Leaf Tobacco Board of Trade, January 30th. The officers elected were: Charles Fox, president; John W. Merriam, vice-president, and Charles Vogt, secretary.

The meeting was largely attended and very enthusiastic over the formation of an association which promises to be a big factor in the tobacco trade. Committees were appointed to enlist members from all sections of the country. The dues were fixed at the nominal sum of $10 per year.

All Havana cigar leaf importers and manufacturers of clear Havana cigars are eligible to membership.

Independent Tobacco Manufacturers Denounce Wickersham at Annual Meeting

WASHINGTON, D. C., January 24, 1912.

THE Independent Tobacco Manufacturers' Association, at its annual meeting, held at the New Willard Hotel yesterday, severely arraigned Attorney-General Wickersham, through the address made by the president of the Association, Mr. W. F. Axton, accusing the Attorney General of having been biased and hypocritical in dealing with the American Tobacco Co. Supreme Court decision.

The officers elected for the next year were: President, W. T. Reed, of Larus Bros. & Co., Richmond, Va.; vice-president, Ben Pearson, of the Byfield Snuff Co., Byfield, Mass.; secretary and treasurer, Rawlins D. Best, of Lowell and Buffington Co., Covington, Ky.

Mr. W. F. Axton, of Axton-Fisher Co., Louisville, Ky., heads the executive committee. About twenty members were present at the meeting.

ONE of the prominent retailers, with whom I have been acquainted for many years, was complaining to me of the fact that he was particularly unfortunate in the possession of cranky patrons.

He introduced me to a man who had been buying cigars from him for twenty years, but he whispered to me that he had never sold this party a single cigar but what there would be some kick or some unfavorable comment.

I took a six-inch stogie, which first saw the light of day in West Virginia, and placed a very elaborate band on it, and presenting this cigar to the cranky customer, I wove around it an elaborate history of the prominent concern in Cuba which made that special size for royalty. The gentleman first declined, stating that he would not wish to deprive me of so valuable a cigar, but I insisted that he express his opinion, because as I told him, I knew what a wonderful judge he was.

It would have been a treat to any retailer or smoker to see with what deliberation and delight the man smoked this Flor de Stinkadora, and when it got too short, he took a tooth pick and inserting it in the end, smoked the cigar to the very last, so as not to lose any of this treat. Again thanking me, he exclaimed in ecstasy, "That was the greatest treat I ever had."

Four or five prominent cigar manufacturers, were sitting in one of the uptown cafes, when I entered a breezy know-it-all "Knight of the Grip," who butted into the conversation with the remark, "Have you heard the news, Brown and Company have sold out to the Amalgamated Tobacco Company."

One of the gentlemen present, to whom the young information bureau had not been introduced, asked him whether he was certain of this matter, and he promptly assured him that he was. The gentleman suggested that there might be a chance of his being misinformed, but the rumor merchant stoutly affirmed that his information was correct.

"The reason I am interested, said the party with a serious air, is because I happen to be Mr. Brown, and if such a deal has gone through, it must have been consummated by my office boy, while I was away."

When last we saw the young wisecracker, he was in an awful hurry to catch a car, and he did not even stop to say "goodbye."

I entered one of the prominent retail cigar stores on Broadway, the other day, for the purpose of making a purchase. Naturally, I was tempted to engage the clerk in business conversation. I realized immediately however, that this particular young man gave but small thought to the business in which he is directly engaged, preferring to entertain his customers with flippant talk, shady stories and a display of obscene literature and pictures, with which he was plentifully supplied.

This is very poor business, and there are no doubt, a great many customers whose first call at the place is their last.

The other day I had an interview with one of the leading retail cigar merchants of Philadelphia, and he entertained me with the following story about the "coupon" craze:

One of the pillars of society of the city, a well-known aged millionaire, was observed leaving one of the cigar stores from which such coupons are dispensed with each purchase, with a bow and a "I thank you" from the educated clerk behind the counter. In his hand he held a bunch of the precious green certificates for which you can get teapots, steam engines, nickel watches that will run, ladies' bracelets of imitation gold that won't come off, ear and nose rings and other good merchandise.

Very carefully, as though they had been gold bonds from his bank vault, the old gentleman counted his cigar-coupon spoil, stopping short in his walk all concentration and attention.

Two men of the younger generation of the same burg approached him, observed him cynically and without the respect due to age, for it was evidently a couple of bad boys, on mischief bent, and one of them stepped up to him, touched his shoulder, tipped his hat with mock respect, pointed the thumb of his right hand downward, backward and outward toward the gutter and said politely:

"You dropped one, right there, behind you, sir!"

Whereupon the poor old man immediately turned about with a perturbed expression in his face, and was last seen making a careful exploration of the refuse filled gutter, while the two young scamps passed laughingly on their way.

In the stress of modern competition it is the "early bird" that not only catches the "worm" but also, the "order." Apropos of this sentiment, I heard a story the other day from an experienced cigar salesman, who is known to be "always on the job." He dropped into a New Jersey town recently and after registering at the hotel sat in the lobby a few minutes to get his bearings. He was approached by a good-natured chap, a cigar salesman, whom he did not know, but who hospitably invited him to join him at a game of pool, saying "I've got an appointment at one o'clock this afternoon with the cigar buyer of Blank & Company's Drug Store and I want to kill an hour or so before going there."

The other salesman, without revealing his identity, quietly refused the offer to play pool on the ground that he was out of practice, but the pool-player soon found a companion and got busy shooting the balls around. Meantime, the live salesman picked up his sample case, dropped into Blank & Company's Drug Store and "sold him up" for several months. When the pool-player arrived at the appointed hour, he was greeted with the sad, sad story, "I have bought all I need."

That evening the two salesmen met and the pool-player learned for the first time just how he lost the order. "Gee!" he said, "I did not not know that you were a cigar salesman." This ended the incident, although, it is presumed that the pool-player "knight of the grip" learned his lesson well.

Another enduring monument to American engineering genius, second to that of the Panama Canal only, has just been completed in the railroad to Key West. On January 22nd the first through train passed over the Florida East Coast Railroad, entering Key West 582 miles south of Jacksonville, having travelled 128 miles from land solid enough to be considered mainland, the distance including 75 miles of water, in which are 17 miles of open sea.

The cigar industry is one of Key West's main assets. The old and far-famed cigar manufacturing concerns of the city have done much to build it and create its cosmopolitan reputation. They did this in spite of its secluded situation by sheer force of initiative and perseverance. Now when the railroad assures the city of rapid and regular intercourse with the outside world, it may safely be predicted that twice the effort will be put forth by the large and prosperous manufacturers of Key West to make their products leaders in the cosmopolitan markets of America.

And so Key West and her old houses, (these aristocrats in the world of cigar manufacturing) are alike to be congratulated upon the progressive possibilities the Florida East Coast Railroad places before them. As we said, they will not be slow to improve upon them. These concerns have always distinguished themselves by their ready initiative and progressiveness. Otherwise they could never, so forcibly as they do, have impressed the outside world with the importance of Key West as a centre of American cigar manufacturing industry.

Interviews with leading cigar retail merchants of Philadelphia and New York indicate that the feeling, on the whole, is reassuring and optimistic, the consensus of opinion being that there is no good reason why the year 1912 should not prove in every respect an improvement upon its predecessor for the cigar industry. And this reflects the general trade outlook of the United States today, a most remarkable change in sentiment having taken place.

The New Year has been ushered in under trade conditions which are very bright and promising. If they are to continue and if the optimism of the business world in general is to continue, depends largely upon the courage of capital to make ventures, and this in turn is to a great extent dependent upon the attitude assumed by the leading press of the country, which sways and focusses the mind of the public.

Indeed, the fact, long recognized in the science of physiology, that "two-thirds of life's ills are imaginary only," may be applied with equal truth to the world of commerce and industry today. That this is so, is strikingly evidenced by the sudden and almost unaccountable change from pessimism to optimism that has taken place in the minds of leading business men throughout the country. It was but the other day that no less a personage than Mr. Frank S. Vanderlip, of the National City Bank of New York, whose position renders him peculiarly able to correctly gauge the business conditions and outlook of the country, in an interview declared that "Business has ahead the most serious situation that has existed since you and I have been observers of business conditions." In the same way, Mr. George W. Perkins was picturing "big business" as having been partly paralyzed by the fear engendered by prosecutions under the Sherman Anti-Trust Act, and that powerful body known as the National Manufacturers' Association, gave it out as its prediction that unless the "reign of political agitation" could be checked, commercial and industrial ills lay in wait for us around the corner.

The future seemed peopled with dark and menacing shadows. Capital, naturally timid, had "got 'em bad," as the slang word goes. Then, all of a sudden, as by silent agreement of the powers that be in the country, that is capital, politicians and the press, the tone changed and the keynote became one of cheer and encouragement. There was an overnight revival in the steel and iron trade, which has become known as the "basic industry" or barometer of national prosperity. Bradstreet's and Dun's Commercial Agencies, and even The Commercial and Financial Chronicle dropped their attitude of melancholy and discovered "tangible evidence of improvement." The Chronicle affirms that the undercurrent of affairs is certainly much better, while Dun's Review has the following to say:

"The betterment in industrial and trade conditions, signs of which have been visible to close observers for two months, has now become plain to all, and is reflected by the expansion in bank clearings and railroad earnings, the big uplift in the iron and steel trade, the advance in copper, the increased activity in dry goods and brisker demand for money, and in the confidence inspired by the record-breaking cotton crop of upward of 15,000,000 bales."

All this reflects directly and favorably upon the tobacco industry of the country.

PROBLEMS of the RETAILER

EFFECTIVE WINDOW DRESSING

General Rules Suggested by a German Expert Which May be Adopted With Profit by the Cigar Retail Merchant

TO arrive at a definition of a good show window display, it is first necessary to ascertain what the function of the display is. The aesthetic is dependent upon the practical.

The show window should attract the passerby, and present the goods displayed in a captivating manner. Out of this simple and uncontrovertible rule all the principles of show window displays grow. But, it must be kept in mind that the rule holds good only as a whole and that a good show window can only be obtained if both parts of the rule are adhered to. If one plans only to attract the passerby, there is a tendency to put into the window something spectacular, or something that is always pleasing to the eye. The resulting effect is to jolt the passerby and gain his momentary attention, but he is so taken up with the striking novelty that he does not see the merchandise displayed. If, on the other hand, the window trim is planned so as to present individual pieces of merchandise in a pleasing fashion, without regard to the attractive qualities of the whole display, the passerby who is intent on buying the particular goods shown might be appealed to but the rushing crowd sees nothing to make it stop and look—and buy.

The good show window, then, is that which presents its merchandise advantageously in an effective and coordinated group. The individual article should apparently be subordinate to the whole display; but the single article is in fact assured an effective prominence by the impression which the whole makes.

To decorate the window only with the goods which the store offers, or with articles of a similar nature which might assist in playing up the store's merchandise—that is the first principle of effective window trimming. Truly a principle, not an arbitrary rule. The violation of this principle in a most ridiculous manner was evident in the recent contests in Berlin. Under ordinary circumstances the merchant out of sheer thrift trims his window with those things which are readily at his disposition. But when an exposition or contest is announced, when the word "artistic" is heard, then all his thrift is thrown to the winds, and he feels called upon to present some unnecessary trumpery.

Pretentious displays are usually burdened with two kinds of articles foreign to the merchandise shown: Wax figures or stuffed animals and flowers.

The main window of one of the largest habit shops in Berlin was recently decorated with six wax gentlemen on foot and one wax lady on horseback. It is evident that the population of that window was too great to admit of much attention to the clothes shown. That the figures were unnecessary to show the style of the clothes was evident from the smaller window displays of the same firm. But a still more common way of loading down displays is the inordinate use of flowers. It is common to see the front and sides of a window fixed up with large flower pots, giving it the appearance of the entrance to a churchyard. It is absolutely wrong, as some insist, to say that flowers are always appropriate, for their very coloring, usually lavish and misty, is detrimental to a display demanding delicate hues. Flowers are only appropriate where they would be likely to accompany the merchandise in life: in vases, on a table over a centerpiece, amidst toilet articles, etc.

But while it is a contravention of good trimming to fill the window with objects foreign to the business it is just as bad to load it down with every article sold by the store.

The second principle of good window trimming is that crowding should be avoided. There are to this, as to every rule, exceptions; for there are store which aim to create the impression of bigness through quantity. In Paris I saw a store called "At the Hundred Thousand Shirts." Undoubtedly this store would be justified in putting as many shirts as possible into its windows. This massiveness creates an impression that there is plenty to pick from and that a bargain might be had. There are many stores to which displays of this kind would be more appropriate than the displays of the select stores which they imitate. Their goods are not high class enough to be attractive if shown individually, when the onlooker can discern through the window the little defects of a cheaper article.

In all other cases moderation is necessary in order to make the goods appear more sumptuous. A mass looks ordinary; a few has the appearance of distinction. To give a pointed example jewelers, especially in Berlin, spoil the displays by crowding them. The most expensive pearls and diamonds fail to give the impression of refinement just as with the woman overloaded with finery. On the Place Vendome in Paris, however, the jewelers' windows always show one of two pieces, which invariably creates the impression of unusual value.

Independent Retailers Discuss Coupon War

Radical Measure for Eliminating the System Advocated at Enthusiastic Meeting

THE Independent Retail Tobacconists' Association held a meeting on January 25th, at Terrace Garden. There was a discussion by Attorney Henry H. Hunter, and others upon the prospects of favorable action in the matter of the Bill of Review which was filed in the United States District Court on behalf of the Independent Retailers.

J. M. Cootner, and William Merican, two prominent retailers, had a lively dispute over the particular form of coupon legislation which would best serve the interests of the Independent Retailers, but J. Hallhiemer, an attorney, pointed out that the best chance of success in securing legislation of this kind would be by introducing a radical, sweeping measure which would wipe out all forms of coupons.

This was the first meeting since the recently elected president, Ike Ochs, and vice-president, C. H. McCarthy had gone into office, and there was much enthusiasm and encouragement on the part of the members over the manner in which these two officers conducted the meeting.

The chairman of the ways and means committee reported that the committee had decided to publish a souvenir journal at the beginning of each year, in which would appear the history of the association's progress, and also considerable advertising. The revenues of which would help materially to increase the funds. The plan was unanimously endorsed and the first number of this souvenir folder will be issued within the near future.

Washington Retail Association Begins Active Work

AS announced in a late report in the January 15th issue of THE TOBACCO WORLD, the Washington State Association of Retail Dealers was organized in Seattle on January 9th and 10th.

The association went on record as opposed to the use of coupons, declaring that it was not a proper adjunct of the cigar and tobacco business and a system not practiced by the successful merchants of other commodities. The association endorsed the anti-coupon fight now being waged by the independent cigar dealers in New York City.

The Washington State Association also went on record as favoring the plan followed by many manufacturers in maintaining a standard price for the output of their factories.

Aims of Association.

The aim of the association will be to put the cigar and tobacco business on a more substantial basis and to help the men in the business to obtain fair profits for the merchandise which they handle.

J. R. Brewster, who was elected president of the organization, made an interesting speech at the meeting, submitted to us by courtesy of the secretary, N. E. Nelson, from which we call the following pertinent points:

Gentlemen of the Retail Cigar Association of the State of Washington:—I thank you for the honor that you have bestowed upon me in making me your first president of our State organization. I am proud of having been elected to this office for several reasons: I was first president of the first Retail Cigar Dealers' Association that was ever organized and stuck together, an organization that has the reputation of accomplishing those things which we start out to accomplish.

Our organization has been written up in the editorials of every tobacco journal in the United States, and is known from the Atlantic to the Pacific Coast. I am also proud in being elected president of the first State organization that has ever been organized in the United States, an organization which will be only a forerunner to the organization of our business in Ten or twelve new members were enrolled, and reports received from Brooklyn, N. Y., Buffalo, N. Y., Seattle, Washington and Newark, N. J., and other large cities to the effect that work of organizing the Independent Retailers was progressing very satisfactorily.

Several thousand copies of the following letter were recently sent out to prominent individuals, organizations and firms by the Independent Retail Tobacconists Association.

Dear Sir:—

This Association is inaugurating a country-wide movement to abolish the use of the coupon and trading stamp.

It is to Congress of course that we must look for relief in the matter.

We believe that a vigorous campaign on the part of the people in the cigar industry, and retailers in all lines of business whose prosperity is menaced by the coupon system, would be effective in inducing both the Senate and the House of Representatives, who are more responsive to public opinion now than they have ever been before, to enact such legislation as is necessary to suppress the use of the coupons.

We ask your co-operation in interesting your representative at Washington—there is much work to be done. Can we count on your aid?

INDEPENDENT RETAIL TOBACCONIST ASSOCIATION.

The officers are greatly encouraged over the hearty and prompt response to this appeal. Among the many replies received was one from Speaker Champ Clark who pledged his support.

other States; an organization that will stick together and accomplish much. And I trust that as we go on with our work and I become better acquainted with you, and you become better acquainted with me, that when I have served my time as president of this organization you may be able to say I have given you the best I had in me. After all, a president of any organization is merely a figure-head and can accomplish nothing unless he has the support of the organization behind him. Each and every one of us has a duty to perform, and if you perform that duty only in a half-hearted way this organization will be a success, but if you perform your individual duty with enthusiasm this organization will be a success beyond the hopes of the most optimistic.

We have a great many things to accomplish, a great many wrongs to overcome. No doubt in our meeting here today there will be resolution upon resolution passed, but a resolution passed in a convention and not carried through may better never have been passed. One of the keynotes to the success of our organization must be that when we start to do a thing, accomplish that before we attempt the accomplishment of something else. We must not try to right all of our grievances at once, but right one thing at the time, and when we have accomplished that start on something else. You will find as we go on with our work that we will have a legislative committee, and that we will be able to correct many abuses through legislation.

Now in this organization we cannot afford to be selfish among ourselves. If our sister city, or one of our cities east of the mountains, should have some grievance to right, no matter whether we are having the same trouble or not, we should get in and help them make their fight. For illustration, if Spokane dealers should have in their city somebody open up "a cut-rate store" it would be the duty of the dealers in the organization to notify the respective jobbers and manufacturers that we, will not handle their products if they continue to sell the cut-rate dealer.

I wish that I had power to impress upon each and every dealer in this organization the necessity of encouraging the officers of your organization. I wish I could make each of you see it as I see it, I wish I could make you believe that it is to your interest to give an hour or two every week to attending the meetings of your local organizations. For this organization is a part of your business. The success of the independent cigar dealer depends upon organization. With it we will succeed and be prosperous. Without it our time is limited.

"Gentlemen, will you stick!
"Response—we will."

The Men Behind the Counter

H. E. Wallace, who was recently in charge of the cigar stands at Fleischmann's Cafe, at 42nd street, has accepted a position on the missionary force of the Butler branch of the American Tobacco Company. Mr. Wallace was connected with the American Tobacco Company for several years previous to his entering the retail field.

Jack Walsh, who was formerly with T. P. Quinn, at Bradley's cigar store on Asylum street, Hartford, Conn., has embarked in the cigar and tobacco business for himself at 16 Union Place, opposite the Union Station. He will carry a most complete line of all the popular brands of cigars, tobaccos, and pipes.

E. B. Embroy, who has been manager for the Sunnybrook Tobacco Company, Dade City, Fla., for five years, has resigned in order to organize a tobacco raising corporation, named the E. B. Embroy Tobacco Company, with headquarters at Brooksville, Fla.

Damage to the extent of $1,800 was caused to the cigar store of H. F. Sheldon, Aberdeen, South Dakota, by fire.

J. T. Wald, Utica, N. Y., has formed a stock company which has taken over the F. M. Kendrick Company, and which will be known as the Wald-Kendrick Company, Incorporated. The new firm has no connection with the Wald Cigar Stores, which will remain strictly independent of same.

The Martin Cigar Company has filed a certificate of incorporation in the office of the town clerk at Hartford, Conn. The capital stock is $50,000; amount paid in $3,350. Incorporators: C. H. Martin and William E. Egan, of Hartford, and Edward F. Dakin, of Southbridge, Mass.

John J. Dolan, the cigar dealer, has leased through E. F. Keebler & Co. from David Mayer the corner store in the new Goddard building, to be erected at the southwest corner of Wabash avenue and Monroe, street, Chicago, Ill. It also is provided that Mr. Dolan, who operates fifteen cigar stores in the loop district, is to have the exclusive cigar privilege of the building.

Tamsky's Tobacco Store, corner Grand avenue and State street, New Haven, Conn., has been completely destroyed by fire.

A petition in bankruptcy has been filed against the Hamilton Cigar Stores Company, of Nos. 2299 and 2905 Broadway and of No. 3210 Third avenue, New York City.

Spencer Arthur Abbott has sold his smoke house at 814 Kansas avenue, Topeka, Kan., to the Curry Cigar Company.

E. E. Foss, who purchased the Anderson Cigar Store, Marysville, Cal., from R. H. Anderson some time ago, is having a sign painted on his window.

The cigar store operated by E. E. Riekert on La Salle street, Chicago, has been closed.

W. S. Pauline, Belle Plains, Ia., has reorganized his cigar business into an incorporated company with $10,000 capital and will establish a distributing point for cigars here.

Now is the Time to Join the I.R.T.A.

THE TOBACCO WORLD

Spokane Gets It

THE next annual meeting of the Washington State Association of Retail Tobacco Dealers will be held in Spokane January 8, 1913. Seattle, Tacoma and Bellingham have voted for Spokane as the next place of meeting and with the votes assured from eastern Washington this city is sure of the meeting.

Think!

THINK.—That word "think" is a great word. Great because it means so little. It doesn't mean "play ball"—play ball is work. It means obeying your brain. Every man back of a counter gets impressions good, bad or indifferent, about the firm, the manager, the floor man, yes, and even himself.

The more you think the swifter impressions. But you've got to take care of these impressions or the thinking apparatus will become congested.

Write out or speak out ideas as they come to you. If it's out of order to "speak" them out, well and good—get them down in the "think" book anyway.

You just recall the fellows that have gone ahead that you personally know and you'll recall chaps that hollered when things weren't right and dug in when things were to be dug and jotted down things worth jotting.—Think.

For "Big Business"

JAMES J. HILL and other business men, who ought to know, say that "Big Business" will boom in the year 1912. READ THE TOBACCO WORLD AND MAKE YOUR OWN BUSINESS BIG.

The Suicide of Ike Goldstein

IKE GOLDSTEIN, a hopeful end-lawyer, rushed breathlessly into the source of his being the other day, beamingly announcing his oratory had won the day in a law suit of long standing. "Alas! Ike," mine poor kind, said his senior sadly to him, "I lived for twenty years on a smaller case than that, and you might have done even better."

A man with his industry located in a small town or village can make himself more widely known through advertising than he could by hiring ten blocks of the greatest street in the largest city.

KEY WEST, FLA., Jan. 26, 1912.

KEY WEST is just rounding out a gala week, the like of which has never before been witnessed in this city and has hardly been equaled in any other city in the South. The festivities started on Monday with the triumphal entry of the first passenger train into Key West over the great Over-Sea railway and thus connecting the island with the mainland and placing the island city among the ranks of the important commercial ports of the United States.

Thousands of people gathered at the depot to welcome the train among whom were United States soldiers, National Guard and Naval Militiamen. The demonstration when the train pulled into the station was one which will last long in the memories of those who were present.

After the arrival of the train which bore Henry M. Flagler, the builder of the road, came a special from Washington bearing a party of sixty-one senators and congressmen, foreign diplomats and other distinguished guests. Practically every hour of the week has been devoted to some function in honor of the event and the city has been filled with strangers.

Taking advantage of the large crowd of out of town persons in the city, the cigar factories have been keeping open house during the week and many of them have arranged very interesting exhibits.

In the down town section of the city there are three exhibits which are worthy of note. The Cortez Cigar Company shows its various brands in an attractive manner in the show window of one of the business houses. The color scheme is yellow, green and white, celebration colors, and in the background is placed a large sign reading "Cortez cigars for men of brains." The letters are clearly worked out with cigars of different shapes. In the foreground is shown the Cortez map of Florida in a frame. Several of the souvenirs of the company are placed advantageously in other parts of the window. The decorating and arranging of the exhibit was done by James H. Fort, foreman of the pickers and packers.

In the same building on the opposite side of the door is the Ruy Lopez display. The color scheme in this window is red, white and blue, the national colors. Many boxes of the Ruy Lopez product are tastefully displayed in the window and prominent in the center is the well-known knight and castle, the trade-mark of the company. The decorating of this window was done by Chas. Wardlow, son of President John Wardlow of the company.

In another window close by is the exhibit of the Martinez-Havana Company. Their brands, attractively arranged, are displayed in a handsome Cuban Cedar case, highly polished and mounted with brass. Every shape manufactured in the factory is shown, each shape having its own separate compartment. The case was prepared and arranged under the supervision of Eladio Martinez at the factory.

All three of these displays have attracted considerable attention from the visitors and they show in a concise way, a few of the many brands and shapes of clear Havana cigars which were made in this city.

Practically all of the factories have resumed operations by this time and while there is no great boom, still there has been a healthy demand. There was very little work done during the earlier part of the week, but operations were resumed on a larger scale yesterday and today. It is the general opinion that the trade will take a great spurt next week and it will not be very long before there will be a return to the very busy times which were prevalent just prior to Christmas.

Late Notes

The outlook for resumption of normal operations throughout the cigar manufacturing district is conspicuous.

The Ruy Lopez Co. has opened with 200 men. The Havana-American Company is working with about 70 men in the old building, but as soon as some finishing touches can be put on the new building on the County Road a large force will be put on. Manager Mahoney stated that he hoped to be able to increase his force by next week.

Geo. W. Nichols & Co. have been working with about 80 men for the past two weeks, but were unable to say when an increase would be made.

The Martinez-Havana Company is only working about 40 men, but they hope to increase in a week or two.

S. & F. Fleitas have opened with 60 men, but are uncertain as to when a larger number will be needed.

The Cortez Company has begun work with practically the same force they had when they closed, about 300 men.

Gato's, Ferdinand Hirsch and Lovera were unable to give any definite information regarding the probable time of their opening.

A number of the smaller shops are working fairly good forces, and, although the month has not started off as well as usual, it is likely that before many days the conditions will be restored to normal.

N. B. RHOADES.

Increase of Cigar and Cigarette Industry

INTERNAL Revenue receipts show a substantial increase in the cigar and cigarette industry of the United States during the calendar year 1911. From the statistics available through this reliable source of information it is estimated that the output of cigars for the past year in round figures amounted to 8,477,892,940, and of cigarettes 9,828,682,005.

As compared with the figures for the year 1910 this shows an increase of 360,346,315 cigars and 1,184,124,915 cigarettes.

Itemizing these figures it is shown that the output of large cigars for 1911 was 7,270,144, 822, an increase of 200,336,076; of little cigars 1,207,748,118, an increase of 160,010,239; and of cigarettes 9,828,682,005, an increase of 1,184,124,915.

These are conclusive proofs that there is plenty of life and progress in the country's tobacco business and from the present outlook it may be predicted with safety that the year 1912 will show a still larger margin of gain.

Retail Dealers of Salt Lake City Defy Police

RETAIL cigar dealers have decided to open their places of business on Sunday in spite of Mayor Samuel C. Park's pronouncement that the police will be instructed to arrest every dealer who makes a sale. And thus the holy war goes merrily on.

John Hosking and Henry Wills, cigarmakers, who were formerly in the employ of the late Herman Jaedecke, and who have arranged to engage in the manufacture of cigars in the Kjesboe building, Marquette, Mich., expect to get started within a week or so. They are awaiting the necessary papers.

The cigar factory building owned by Edward Balf of Hartford, Conn., has been bought by Joseph Dollinger.

Guilford Cigar Company, of Greensboro, N. C., has been incorporated to buy, manufacture and sell tobacco in any and all forms; by J. T. Wade, M. F. Fox and A. L. Hammond.

United Cigar Mfrs. May Buy More Factories

Proposed Increase in Capital Stock Will Enable Them to Expand

THE annual meeting of the United Cigar Manufacturers' Company is to be held February 1st for the election of four directors of the third class to serve for three years. A special meeting of the stockholders will be called to act upon the proposal to increase the company's common stock from $15,000,000 to $20,000,000, shares being of the par value of $100 each.

In a circular issued by Jac. Wertheim, president of the United Cigar Manufacturers Company, he states that, subject to the authorization of the increase in the company's stock, the directors have authorized the making of contracts to acquire more than 80 per cent. of the stock of the Theobald & Oppenheimer Company, of Philadelphia, and existing conditions in the cigar business lead them to believe that other opportunities of acquiring established businesses upon advantageous terms may present themselves. The circular continues:

"The Theobald & Oppenheimer Company, has for many years been engaged in the manufacture of a class of cigars which your company does not make, and for which it is believed that the demand is constantly increasing. Its business is thoroughly established; and upon the basis of its profits during the past two years the earnings upon its stock thus to be acquired should add to the net earnings of your company an amount equal approximately to 1 per cent. upon its total common stock which will be outstanding after the contemplated purchase is consummated; and it is considered that, through co-operation between the two companies, the earnings of the Theobald & Oppenheimer Company may be considerably increased.

"Although but a small portion of the proposed additional common stock is to be issued in connection with the purchase of the shares of the Theobald & Oppenheimer Company, your directors deem it advisable that additional stock be available if other opportunities are presented for extending the business of your company upon favorable terms."

Don Rodriguez in New York

DON PEPE RODRIGUEZ, the head of the Romeo y Julieta factory, in Havana, arrived in New York from Scherbourg and left for Havana on January 27th.

... He spent a very busy ten days with his American representatives, laying plans for a campaign that is expected to increase the popularity of the old brand.

M. W. Berriman, of Berriman Brothers, returned last week from Tampa, Florida, where he had been for a fortnight.

Castaneda Cigar in the French Regie

SIGNAL recognition for "Castaneda" cigars has been won through the efforts of Nicholas Cardenas, of the Cardenas y Cia., new owners of the factory, who has just completed arrangements with the French Regie for the admission of this brand of cigars. Mr. Cardenas entered the "Castaneda" brand, in eight sizes, in face of the custom of allowing only four sizes of any brand to be introduced.

When it is considered that this honor was awarded the "Castanedas" in competition with eight other brands, which have been trying for years to obtain recognition from the French Government and that the award was made after a thorough test by government connoisseurs, the importance of Mr. Cardenas' contract looms large.

Quite elated over this latest triumph of the "Castaneda" brand, Mr. Cardenas last week visited the United States representative of the factory, Mr. Dave Echemendia in New York, departing for Cuba via Key West.

E. Kleiner & Co. Enlarge Factory

FOLLOWING a well-developed plan to extend their business, E. Kleiner & Company, who occupy a front rank position among the progressive cigar manufacturers of New York, have completed arrangements to add to their large plant. The need for the increased facilities was occasioned principally by the large demand for the popular brand "La Famosa" which the firm has established with some of the most active distributors in all sections of the country.

F. E. Kleiner & Company also contemplates a very extensive direct-to-consumer publicity campaign which they feel confident will further popularize this nickel brand. Mr. E. Popper, the vice-president of the firm, who was interviewed by "The Tobacco World," states that up to the present, this year's business has been far in excess of that secured by them during the corresponding period of 1911.

Death of Max Jacoby

ON Thursday, January 18th, the members of the tobacco trade were shocked and grieved to learn of the sudden demise of Max Jacoby, who died of heart failure at the age of fifty-two. It would be impossible to suggest the name of a single man in the leaf tobacco business more liked and respected than was Mr. Jacoby. For many years he was closely identified with various branches of the trade, at first starting a cigar box factory which proved very successful, and subsequently joining the forces of M. W. Mendel. For several years previous to his death, he has been connected with the leaf house of I. Dankowitz.

Late New York Notes

John Glossinger has been elected president of the Manhattan Briar Pipe Company, New York City. Mr. Glossinger formerly held the position as vice-president of the concern. He is a well-known and exceedingly popular business man, whose life since boyhood has been devoted to the manufacture of pipes and their improvement.

That Castaneda cigars are popular with the discriminating smokers of New York is evident from the fact that they were served at the recent meeting of the International Dress Fabric Association, held at the Waldorf-Astoria, and at the Burden dinner at the Plaza, the Electrical Association Banquet and the Jury Panel Dinner, recent functions held in that city.

Among the distinguished trade visitors, in New York, during the past fortnight were the Marquise De E. Sant a Susana (N. De Cardenas), who recently acquired control of the Castaneda factory in Havana. While in the city, the Marquise was entertained by Dave Echemendia, who is the American representative for the Castaneda brand.

The firm of Leonard Friedman & Company has been dissolved. Its affairs will be liquidated to Lewis Cantor and Max Adler at its place of business, No. 203 Pearl street, New York City. The announcement is made by the former members of the firm, Lewis Cantor, Max Adler and Lewis M. Cantor.

The Hamilton Cigar Company, of New York City, is bankrupt. Liabilities, $10,000, assets $2,500. The petition was filed by Louis Weiss, Louis Landesman and Edward J. Goldstein.

A. Luebeck, cigar jobber, located in the Central Building, Main street, Rochester, N. Y., has filed a petition in bankruptcy in the United States District Court.

The apartment at 1014 East 87th street, occupied by Paul A. Sorg, the director of the American Tobacco Company, was destroyed by fire Jan. 26th. The suite which consisted of sixteen rooms, was a luxurious one, located in the ultra fashionable section of New York's Millionaire Row.

Edward Sachs, well-known as one of the most energetic and successful travelling salesmen in the cigar trade, has resigned his position as Western representative of Balbin Brothers, which position he has held for six years. Reason: Ill health. No successor to Mr. Sachs has as yet been appointed.

S. G. Spring, of the Spring Cigar Company, Seattle, Washington, was one of the recent visitors to New York. While in the city, he spent considerable time at the New York office of M. A. Gunst Company, and Salvador Rodriguez. The Spring Cigar Company, are the Seattle agents for the "Charles the Great" cigars, and are building up a very large business on this brand.

W. W. St. John—Leading Metropolitan Cigar Retailer A "Self-Made" Man

YEARS ago when heavily financed interests started to take particular notice of the opportunities for modern cigar stores in New York City, and backed their judgment by investing large capital in retail establishments in the Metropolitan, and adjacent districts, the downfall of a number of the old shopkeepers was freely predicted by those who claimed to be conversant with conditions.

Many of these voluntary prophets numbered among the list of probable victims of high calibre competition. W. W. St. John who at that time was conducting a flourishing retail business, at the corner of 42nd street, and Madison avenue. It appears at the present writing, that Mr. St. John who was well able to take care of all matter of competition up to the time the inroads were made by the chain stores was equally fortified to cope with the changed and more progressive conditions.

W. W. St. JOHN

His business acumen and keen observance of the public's wants, is best displayed by the fact that since the opening of the numerous systematically conducted stores belonging to joint interests of the W. W. St. John Company, have not alone made headway at their original stand, but have since opened up branches at 7 New street, 55 Broadway, and 225 5th avenue, each and every one of which stores are doing a highly satisfactory and constantly increasing business.

It is pleasing indeed to observe and record the onward march of a determined merchant who is ready and eager to face and strenuously combat conditions, with the personal determination to do better than ever before, regardless of how trying a problem his opponents may make it.

There are no stores in the city that handle a better selected general line of cigars, tobaccos and novelties, than are to be found in the various establishments operated by the W. W. St. John Company. Their patronage is gained chiefly from a class of people that have a sharper eye for quality than for cheapness.

Difficult indeed would prove the task, were an observer to attempt the description of the many and varied lines of imported as well as domestic goods that are to be found upon the shelves of the St. John branches. Suffice it to say that they comprise as complete an assortment as even the most fastidious cigar man could well look for. This care in selecting merchandise and close attention to keeping up the condition of the various stocks of the W. W. St. John Company has made their business the success that it is today.

Personally Mr. W. W. St. John is of that sterling type of American manhood, which invites friends and confidants. His personality has been the prime factor in marking the stepping stages to that pinnacle of success which he now occupies, and his business activities and methods are a beacon light that ought to light the path for other independent merchants.

January Trade Slow in Chicago All Branches Complain but Look for Improvements

CHICAGO, January 26, 1912.

THE conditions in this territory among the manufacturers, jobbers and retailers are quiet, as in all previous Januarys. They all seem to have a kick coming.

The retailer loads the smoker up in December, and he does not give him time to consume his smokes. Some say it must be the weather, others presidential year, but my opinion is when February 1st puts her nose in no one will have a holler coming.

A person would only have to look around him, he can see on his left and right the way they are tearing buildings down to be replaced by more modern structures, which will certainly make room for some more cigar shops.

In order to obtain one of these locations you will have to pay no less than from $9,000 to $10,000 a year.

At that figure the real estate men claim they have no trouble renting them.

John J. Dolan has taken a lease for ten years in the New Goddard Building, to be erected at Monroe street and Wabash avenue; $100,000 is the total rental, or $10,000 per annum. This lease was made before one stone was laid.

This location will be one of the best in the "Loop."

The United Cigar Stores, in about a week or ten days, will open their new locations which have been laying idle for some time. Among the newest one is the northwest corner of Washington and Dearborn streets.

The corner store in the Bay State Building, at the southwest corner of State and Randolph streets, has been leased to H. M. Schermerhorn, Inc., for a period of ten years, at an annual rental of $10,000 a year. They will take possession on May 1st, at which time the U. S. store will have to vacate.

Mr. Jean Lillienfeldt is expected to return on February 5th from Tampa.

F. Bolano & Co. have opened up a Chicago branch to deal direct with retailers. They have so far obtained the services of six good men. Joe Moos is one among one of them.

H. M. Schermerhorn, Inc., has secured the stand formerly occupied by R. Cook, in the McCormick Building, with double the rental. On completion of the annex they are to have a prominent space, twice the former size.

M. Levy, of Levy Bros. & Co., of St. Paul, after spending an enjoyable visit of a few days, has left for home.

At a meeting of the Travelers' Association, a plan was adopted to raise $800,000 for a home for disabled road men; which seems to be an elegant plan and should be supported by large contributions by firms who employ them.

Mr. Sam Gessler, of the Rubini factory, has left for an extensive trip of two months through the western country, partly on business and pleasure.

Congress Cigar Co., 1028 W. Van Buren street, exclusive manufacturers for jobbers, have shown an elegant increase. They are at the present time employing seventy-five hands.

Mr. Shepp, formerly of Chapin & Gore, has accepted a position as manager of Shepard-Strassheim Co. So far they are doing a nice business.

Mr. Jellert, of Duns & Jellert, after a very serious operation of eight weeks is up and around.

Ford Ahern has accepted a position with M. Melachrino & Co. He is the son of the manager of the tobacco department of J. & B. Moos.

A. M. Tobias & Co. expect to spring a surprise by opening an elegant store in the "Loop." At this time they will not let the cat out of the bag. The location will be given later.

Mr. O. J. Rosenberger, of Wm. Steiner Sons & Co., (the man who sells labels) leaves for a two weeks' trip to St. Louis and Memphis.

Ed Kuttner, of "La Vella" Cigar Co., leaves the last of the week for a trip through the western country.

Bloom & Mayer's store is worthy of attention. In the first place if you are a pugilist or inclined to be interested in them, you can go there at any time and converse with the best of them.

It seems to be their headquarters, also, it will do your eyes good to look into his all glass cigar case and see on display about as fine a line of clear Havana cigars as are made.

Among them are "Charles the Great," "Henry the Fourth," "Ellinora" and many more, too numerous to mention.

Sam Marco has opened up a few doors north of his old location, Fifth avenue and Adams street.

On completion of the new Rand McNally Building, Clark and Harrison streets, Best & Russell will occupy a space.

Drach & Hamilton, 5502 Evanston avenue, have started a jobbing business.

C. H. Storm, after an illness of a few weeks, is up and out again.

I am sorry to inform the trade that Ernest Wood, manager at the Masonic Temple stand for Albert Breitung, is again down on his back. He contracted a cold several months ago, was laid up about two months, was getting along nicely, started to work, and relapsed. Mr. Wood ranks among the grade men.

Visitors.—Albert Falk, of Falk Tobacco Co.; Mr. Wertz, of Spitz & Wertz; Leo Weiss, of American West Indies Trading Co.

"Rigoletto" Factory Now has 22 Salesmen Out Kline Factory Meeting Increased Demand for Widely Advertised Cigars—Other Cleveland Notes

CLEVELAND, Jan. 27th.

IN a recent interview with Mr. M. Kline, of E. A. Kline & Company manufacturers of the famous "Rigoletto" and "El Symphonie" cigars. Mr. Kline stated that with the exception of two or three weeks following the holidays, business has been very brisk. Orders are coming in very satisfactory from their sales force, throughout the country, which by the way are now twenty-two strong. Mr. Kline further stated that the results of their extensive advertising campaign have been beyond their fondest expectations.

E. A. Kline is in New York City at present.

L. H. Stieglitz, a pioneer in the cigar industry of this city, located at Prospect avenue and East 4th street, reports business very fair. He is featuring the following brands: "La Venga," of Celestino, Vega & Company; "La Social," of M. J. Lopez Company; "La Gira," M. Werner & Company; "La Saramita." The Shields-Wertheim Company, Mr. Stieglitz, boasts one of the largest box trades in the city.

Walter E. Bidlingmyer, who has the cigar and news stand in the Williamson Building, has just moved into the Electric Cigar Stand in the Electric Building, on Prospect avenue; formerly owned by Mr. Goodfriend. His fixtures are all new and of the latest design. The decorations are in accordance with same.

Visitors here in the past few days were, Frank J. Horning, of H. Anton Bock & Company; Chas. S. Morris, of Chas. S. Morris & Company; Samuel Jeitles, of Jeitles & Blumenthal.

A. T. Co. Gives Details of Earnings

In connection with its application for the listing of its preferred stock on the New York Stock Exchange, the American Tobacco Company presents the following statement: "Total assets, $227,301,644, less 7 per cent. bonds to exchange for one-half American Tobacco 6 per cent. bonds, $26,441,325; one-half American Tobacco 6 per cent. bonds to be redeemed at 120, $31,725,590—total, $58,170,915. Balances for the 4 per cent. bonds, $169,130,729, less 5 per cent. bonds to be exchanged for American Tobacco Company 4 series, $25,677,050; one-half American Tobacco 4 per cent. bonds to be redeemed at 96, $24,649,968—total, $50,327,018. Balance $118,803,117, against which there will be outstanding $52,459,400 of 6 per cent. preferred stock and $40,242,400 common stock.

The value of sales of the business retained and not sold to the Liggett & Myers Tobacco Company and the P. Lorillard Company during 1910 was $65,622,948. Earnings from the manufacture and sale of tobacco during 1910, considered only in connection with business retained and not including earnings of business conveyed to Liggett & Myers and the Lorillard Company, were $11,369,810. Earnings from investment securities based one year, 1910, were $3,160,753, and total earnings were $14,530,564."

An entire change has been made in the management of the Kuhles & Stock Company, St. Paul, Minn., with the attainment of majority of the youngest son of the late George F. Kuhles and his subsequent coming into possession of his share of his estate. J. N. Storr, a son-in-law of Mr. Kuhles, was elected president. H. S. Stock was elected vice-president.

The Borgfeld Stripping Machine Company, Middlesex, N. J., has been incorporated for the purpose of stripping and booking tobacco. Capital stock $50,000. Incorporators, R. Borgfeldt, A. Silzer and L. J. Coakley.

Salesmen-Think

(And be sure to think along the right lines)

FROM the minute your mind takes the trail in the morning until the day is closed you think, but there is a great deal of lost motion in the average man's thoughts. The only thoughts you coin from are those you direct toward the selling of more goods, producing more business, and becoming a bigger business man.

Knowing how to think—how to reason—how to concentrate on important things is what will make you a leader in the business world.

In this business you invite nothing beyond your time and your thoughts. These are your stock in trade, your capital—the foundation of your success.

The man who works with his feet never won against the man who thinks with his brain. Walking is a healthful exercise, but its main use is to carry to completion the plans your brain thinks out. An hour's thought and concentration enables you to secure more orders than a ten-mile walk.

It is better to call on one prospect and use your brain in the securing of an order for the proper system, than to make a dozen calls, fail to give proper thought to your work, use half-hearted approaches, and finish the day feeling that you are in the wrong territory.

Thought has been the father of every advance made since time began. "I didn't think" has cost the world millions of dollars, thousands of lives, and held progress in check.

When you approach a merchant try to lead his thoughts in the channels of saving time, labor and money in the handling of his store transactions. Remember, you must get him to think.

The manager of one of America's largest and most successful business enterprises, whose advertisement appears in this issue of "The Tobacco World," declares that the greatest difficulty encountered by him is in trying to convince his selling force that time, labor and money are lost through failure to give their business proper thought. Many of the men in the selling force today could make two dollars where they make but one, if they would think along the right lines. Knowledge is the result of thought, and is the keynote of success in this business, or in any business.

If you apply the right stimulus to your brain you can speed it up to higher efficiency just as surely as you can change from twenty to forty miles an hour by opening the throttle of an engine.

Think what an extra hour's hard work each day among merchants would mean to your record.

Think what it would mean for you to be able to double your income.

Think what you could accomplish in your present territory if you put forth your best efforts every day.

The Bright Spot Cigar Company, of Clinton, Iowa, has just filed its articles of incorporation with County Recorder McKenna. The capital stock is $10,000. Clinton is the principal place of business and the incorporators are Thos. Hanke, F. J. Graham and W. F. Paulline.

The final order for the distribution of the $4,000,000 estate of George S. Myers, of St. Louis, known as "The Tobacco King," has been made, whereby the estate is divided equally between his three daughters, Mrs. Herbert Coppel, of Paris, France, Mrs. Mildred Mary Myers Cravens, of Pasadena, California, and Mrs. Robert Myers Babcock, of Colorado Springs, Colorado.

With the Salesmen

Robert Klec, formerly engaged in cigar manufacturing, has joined the sales forces of Sulzberger, Oppenheim & Company.

Harry Gilberg, who for the past two years has been connected with the cigar department of Park & Tilford has resigned. He had several very flattering offers, but has not as yet decided on a new connection.

Rube Ellis, sales manager for M. Melachrino & Company spent several days in the New England territory recently, and was in Philadelphia during the latter part of last week. Rube brought home the bacon as usual, and succeeded in adding a number of valuable accounts to the extensive list of distributors, who are now handling "Melachrino" products.

H. S. Ansley, American representative for C. E. Beck & Company, of Havana, is now making an extensive trip through the West, and according to his recent reports, he is more than well pleased with the recognition accorded the products of the old-time house in this country by the desirable distributor.

Leo Rosenthal, the Chicago representative, and Percy Lorie, who has his abode at Kansas City, dropped in to the Philadelphia factory of A. S. Valentine & Son during the past fortnight for a semi-annual conference with the firm in regard to business for the coming year. While in Philadelphia they were right royally entertained and left for their homes emphatically denying that the Quaker City is "slow."

Leo Mayer, of Neumann & Mayer Company, is making a trip through the Middle West and expects to return to Philadelphia the latter part of February. He is sending in very encouraging reports on the "Bella Mundo" cigar which his factory is now featuring.

J. D. Rinder, Mishawka, Ind., has opened a new cigar store in the room adjoining the street car station.

The Puff Cigar Store, Peoria, Ills., has passed into the hands of F. B. Smith, the sporting editor of The Star, and his brother H. Norman Smith, manager of the Smith Hotel. Both the new owners and the store are to be congratulated upon the change.

Morris Lesser is making his first trip to the Pacific Coast with the "Juan F. Portuondo" cigar lines. He left Philadelphia shortly after New Year's and expects to be gone three or four months. Mr. Lesser is an experienced salesman, who, backed by the lines of such a well-known house, cannot fail to make good.

John Van Miller, who has been spending most of his time in Philadelphia and vicinity, will hereafter cover his old territory in Pennsylvania and New York and as far West as Michigan with the A. S. Valentine & Son lines.

Stoddard Cigar Company, Mason City, Ia., has been incorporated. Capital stock, $30,000. Incorporators, J. C. Stoddard, Jr., and C. F. Heibig.

PHILADELPHIA.

Eddie Collins Now Selling Counsellors

EDDIE COLLINS, the popular second baseman of the World's Champion Athletics, has joined the selling force of Allen R. Cressman's Sons, Philadelphia, and is selling the well-known "Counsellor" brand of cigars, made by this firm, among the local dealers.

Mr. Gallagher, general manager of this firm in an interview with a World reporter, stated that if the results obtained up to date could be taken as an indication, the most-talked-of man in base ball, would be as successful a salesman as he was ball player.

Receiver for Kensington Tobacco Co.

HARRY DIETSCH has been appointed receiver for Aaron Goldberg and Daniel Schneyer, trading under the firm name of the Kensington Tobacco Company, wholesalers and retailers of cigars and tobacco, at 2239 North Front street, Philadelphia.

Bankruptcy proceedings were instituted by Otto Eisenlohr & Bros., Allen R. Cressman's Sons, Bayuk Brothers, H. C. Nolan & Company and the Forty-Four Cigar Company, all of whom are creditors of the bankrupt company.

Liabilities consist of about $15,000 merchandise accounts, and $5,000 due relatives on loans. The assets are placed at $4,000 worth of stock, and book accounts which cannot at this time be properly estimated.

Committee Investigating Marie Garden Co.

AT a meeting of the creditors of the Marie Garden Cigar Company, of North Randolph street Philadelphia, a committee of three was appointed to examine into the affairs of the company and devise some plan for the payment of the creditors and a continuance of the business. The committee consists of Clarence Landis, of the H. H. Sheip Manufacturing Company, H. B. Cochran, of Petre, Schmidt and Bergman, and H. Velenchick, of Velenchick Brothers. It is understood that the Marie Garden Company have offered their creditors about 50c. on the dollar, but it is predicted that if the business is continued, that the creditors will be paid in full. The factory is now working with a limited force.

A new retail cigar firm, under style of Charles Brooks & Company, has been established in Philadelphia, and will commence business shortly at No. 29 North 13th street. Its specialty will be "El Rico," a nickel cigar of superior merits. Charles Brooks is the proprietor.

Sig. C. Mayer Enlarges Local Factory

SIG. C. MAYER & COMPANY have just acquired a building in the rear of their property, 515 Lombard street, Philadelphia, which will be utilized as a work-room for about 150 additional cigarmakers, who will manufacture this firm's "Rey-Oma," ten-cent cigars.

This building will provide about 14,000 square feet of space and such changes and alterations as are necessary to furnish first-class accommodations for the employees will be made at once, as the rapidly increasing demand for the "Rey-Oma" brand requires an immediate extension of manufacturing facilities.

Oklahoma Cigar Man Visits the East

W. LONG, representing Allen R. Cressman's Sons and Sig. C. Mayer & Company, in Oklahoma City, Okla., visited Philadelphia last week. Concerning the outlook for 1912, Mr. Long stated that there is a stronger feeling of confidence and stability among the merchants and manufacturers in that section than for some time, owing to the increased amount of rain which has visited that locality.

Before returning to Oklahoma City, Mr. Long will visit New York and other Eastern cities.

J. C. Revercomb, Southern representative for Bayuk Bros., is slowly recovering from his recent attack of pneumonia. During his illness, orders on the "Havana Ribbon" continued to arrive by mail with pleasing regularity and the many anxious inquiries as to his condition bore testimony as to his high standing with the Southern trade.

J. L. Hanly, one of the ablest and best known cigar brokers of Kansas City, Mo., returned to his home last week after a pleasant visit in Philadelphia.

Harry Lewis, of Fay-Lewis & Brother Company, Milwaukee, wholesalers and distributors, stopped off at Philadelphia last week to see some business friends and then resumed his journey to Atlantic City, where he is taking a brief vacation.

Louis Valloft, of Valloft & Droux, New Orleans, La., was a Philadelphia visitor recently.

Oscar Reinach, of George L. Storm & Company, was in Philadelphia during the past week laying plans for the expansion of their business on the "Bank Note" cigars.

Quaker City Items

Dave S. Aschenbach, Pennsylvania representative for Bayuk Brothers, was at Philadelphia this week and reported that the jobbers in his territory, are enthusiastic over the business done on the "Havana Ribbon" in 1911 and are perfecting lines for a material increase in distribution for 1912.

J. Harvey McHenry, of the Blu-J Tobacco Company, is now on a trip through the South introducing their stogie products among the jobbing trade.

H. L. Rogers has been appointed "Havana Ribbon" representative for the New England States. Mr. Rogers is an experienced cigar man and anticipates big business on the "Ribbon" from his territory.

"Steve" Herz, representing Bustillo Brothers & Diaz, of New York and Tampa, was a Philadelphia visitor last week.

"Rube" Ellis, representing M. Melachrino & Company, cigarette makers of New York and Cario, was booking orders in the Philadelphia market last week.

Mr. Ackerman, of Y. Pendas & Alvarez, New York, Tampa and Havana, did a good business on "Webster" cigars manufactured by this firm while in Philadelphia, recently.

Mr. Abrahams closed some good orders for Garcia & Vega cigars on his last trip to Philadelphia.

Meagher, of the Jenkinson Company, Pittsburgh, Pa., paid the Philadelphia trade a visit last week.

John Flanagan visited the trade in Philadelphia, recently, in the interest of the "Par Larranaga" factory.

"Ben" Strauss, of Rey Straus & Company, New York and Tampa, was calling on the Philadelphia trade recently.

C. W. Saunders visited the Philadelphia trade in the interest of the Cortez Company, Key West, recently.

Big Shipment of Imported Cigars Menaced

A RECENT shipment of imported cigars valued at $6,500, which was received by M. J. Dalton, 11 South 13th street, Philadelphia, came within an ace of being destroyed owing to the bursting of a water pipe during a recent cold snap, after the store had been closed for the day.

James Flanagan, a Dalton salesman, in the store adjoining, when his attention was attracted by a continual dripping of water, which led to the discovery that the bursted pipe was directly over new goods just received, and which had not been placed in the stock room. Summoning assistance, the supply pipe was shut off, and after several hours hard work the cigars were placed out of harm. Aside from the cigars a large quantity of cigarettes would also have been destroyed.

A New Brand from the Portuondo Factory

THE above is an excellent reproduction of the Juan F. Portuondo Manufacturing Company's new style package of "All-Alike" cigars which they are introducing with much success throughout the country. Anyone familiar with cigars in America knows that the name of Portuondo has been synonymous since 1869 with an exceptionally high standard of blend, quality and workmanship, and, as the manufacturers state in their first announcement of the "All-Alike" brand, finding it impossible to improve the quality, they have decided to improve the label. Inspection of the package shows that they have achieved this end.

The "All-Alike" cigars are made of long-filler, Sumatraprapped and guaranteed to be free smoking and uniform in quality. As a nickel proposition, they are especially inviting and dealers who have not seen the "All-Alike" will learn something to their advantage by addressing the factory at 1110-12-14-16 Sansom street, Philadelphia.

New Firm of Philadelphia Distributors

W. M. STILLWELL and Robert Scott have entered into a partnership, under the firm name of W. M. Stillwell & Company, with offices at room 534 Real Estate & Trust Building, Broad and Chestnut streets, Philadelphia. They will be the distributors of the cigars manufactured by E. M. Schwarz & Company, and Jose Lovera Company, in Philadelphia and adjacent territory.

W. M. Stillwell was a member of the road force of the American Tobacco Company, for nine years, and enjoys the confidence of many cigar and tobacco men in this territory. Robert Scott, is new to the cigar industry, but has a wide circle of friends among the trade.

Edward J. O'Brien & Company, Leaf Tobacco Brokers, of Louisville, Ky., have secured the contract for the French Government, which requires them to furnish their requirements of light Kentucky, heavy Kentucky and Burley tobacco for the year 1912.

E. J. O'Brien & Company are one of the most reliable tobacco firms in their line.

Convention of Gunst Forces Held in Frisco
Executives and Division Managers Hold Important Conference—Cigar Business Continues Satisfactory

SAN FRANCISCO, January 22. THE word has gone forth that San Francisco is no longer to be advertised to the world as the home of more or less artistic vice; the really wicked places are to be more or less covered up, and an effort will be made to try the "Los Angeles Plan," on tourists, that is, to make them see that San Francisco is the one town on earth where they can settle down and raise their families in peace and security. It is asserted as a fact that this city is no longer pre-eminently wicked. It was a "foreigner, a Mr. Ryerson Ritchie, of Detroit, who made the important discovery shortly after he was imported to build up the San Francisco Chamber of Commerce. He discovered the improved morals of the city about the time he came to the conclusion that a reputation of the "Paris of America" sort was bad for business. It is understood that Mr. Ritchie's suggestion is to be acted on, and that an effort will be made to suppress some of the most conspicuous forms of vice. The cigar men, or at least most of them, will welcome the change, more particularly if the old wide-open policy has really been bad for business.

The cigar trade for January is showing up well, notwithstanding rather disagreeable weather a portion of the time. Country trade has also been good, though the lack of rains is beginning to tell in some sections, where dry weather means short crops and a consequent scarcity of sales and money during the summer and fall.

The organization of the extensive interests of the Gunsts in the Coast and Rocky Mountain States a few weeks ago has been followed by a convention here this week of most of the leading lights in M. A. Gunst & Co., under which name all of the Gunst interests are now grouped. The Coast managers present at the gathering are: Gus Simon, of Portland, Ore.; H. P. Eakin, of Los Angeles, Cal.; C. B. Poar, of Seattle, Wash.; L. Marks, of Spokane, Wash., and J. Louison, of Portland. Preston Herbert, of New York, vice-president of the company; Jose Lozano, of Havana, and Jac. Wertheim, president of the United Cigar Manufacturers, were also on hand. The San Francisco contingent included M. A. Gunst, Sr., M. A. Gunst, Jr., and M. H. and A. I. Essberg. These conventions are by no means a new thing, but the present occasion is of unusual interest, coming as it does just after the consolidation of all the Gunst companies.

George R. Webb, cigar manager for the Coffin-Reddington Company of this city, is in San Francisco again after a stay of nearly two months in the eastern factory towns. He reports that he has arranged for a revival of the company's old Havana leader, the M. & M., and that the house will be more actively in the cigar business this year than for some time past.

H. D. Miller, secretary of Frishmuth Bros. & Co., who left here some days ago for Los Angeles, has now left that city and is on his way east. W. I. Pixley, San Francisco representative for the Frishmuth tobaccos, is now selling for factory shipment, and will hereafter carry no stock in this city. He reports the demand good for this early in the year.

Emil Judell, of H. L. Judell & Co., San Francisco jobbers, is now on his first northern trip for the year. He will visit the leading towns of northern California and southern Oregon, and is preparing to turn in a lot of orders on the "Watt" and "Elisado" cigars.

Carl Koenig, traveling salesman for Frankel, Gerds & Co., cigar manufacturers of this city, has just returned from a short trip to Stockton, Sacramento and other points in central California. Notwithstanding a little wet weather, he managed to do a good business with his customers on "Natividad" cigars.

Herman Moss, resident agent for the S. R. Moss Cigar Company, of Lancaster, is back from his trip to the home office and will at once begin his California campaign.

H. Rinaldo, head of H. Rinaldo & Co., of this city, has returned from Los Angeles and other southern points. He put in most of his time in the south working for the "El Telegrafo," and says that he found southern dealers looking for a good business and quite free buyers of his line.

The Edward Wolf Company has shown its confidence in 1912 by putting several new men on its outside selling force. San Francisco trade has opened up well with this house. Mr. F. S. Cox, one of the company's traveling force, is now out in the San Joaquin Valley district, where he finds that men are still smoking good cigars in spite of the dry weather.

The corners on the north side of Market street, which before the big fire of 1906 were nearly all occupied by cigar stands, will soon be in the same condition once more if the present movement develops. This week the Ed Goodman Cigar Company took one of the few remaining stores of this sort on lower Market street, that at 300 Market. This company will carry all popular lines and will cater to both the transient and the solid business trade of that locality. Mr. Goodman, leading partner in the company, was for some time manager of one of the Bercovich chain of stores in this city.

J. L. Jerichau, one of San Francisco's best known retailers, has opened another store at the corner of Mission and New Montgomery streets. This store is in a good wholesale locality, one which before the great fire had a splendid run of trade.

Henry Haussman, vice-president of the Hart Cigar Company, one of the big fellows of Portland, Ore., is in San Francisco this week visiting the local trade and looking about for anything new that may help make a big business still bigger.

The Sunset Cigar Store was opened at 115 Market street, in front of the Sunset Hotel, a few days since by L. M. Horton, proprietor of the Sunset Hotel, and S. B. Taylor. Mr. Taylor will have charge of the cigar stand.

Fred Brown, formerly in the retail trade at Astoria, Ore., has secured a good location at Mason and Ellis streets in this city and will be open for business in a few days.

B. W. McIntosh, for many years the western representative of the R. A. Patterson Tobacco Company, with headquarters in this city, has been left disengaged by the recent changes in the tobacco reorganization. He is not, however, worried about the matter, as there are many openings which he can avail himself of when he gets ready. Meantime he is taking a little rest and recreation, and will later take up the work of getting busy with something else.

E. M. Schwarz & Co.'s "Charter" nickel cigar, which is handled in this section by Wellman, Peck & Co., has taken on remarkably well, not only in San Francisco, but throughout the country districts.

George Saalburg, of Bier, Saalburg & Co., has returned from his extensive trip to the East, where he visited his firm's factory connections. Special effort will be made on the "Cortez" clear Havana line in 1912.

Frankel, Gerds & Co., notwithstanding their large factory equipment, could not come within 150,000 cigars of supplying the demand for their holiday packages. The factory did an excellent year's business, estimated to be close on to 10,000,000 cigars.

One of the few trade visitors the past week was Victor Fisher, representing Tornay, Fernandez & Co., of Tampa, Fla. He was in this city for a brief time only, and then left for the North.

H. Lowenstein, it is understood, will have charge of the P. Lorillard Tobacco Company's California business.

Many shipments of Manila cigars and cigarettes are being received here, and are quickly taken up. Los Angeles is a strong city for goods of this character, while the demand seems to be increasing in the East and Middle West.

New Stamps for Tobacco

FIVE and ten pound tobacco stamps have been issued by the Internal Revenue Department, to take the place of the coupon stamps. The new stamps will come in sheets while the old are in books. It is stated that a saving of $25,000 in printing the stamps and a considerable saving in time and labor on the part of collectors has been accomplished by the new method.

Ware-Kramer Appeal Withdrawn

RALEIGH, N. C., Jan. 26.

The American Tobacco Company has withdrawn its appeal from the award of damages to the Ware-Kramer Tobacco Company, of Norfolk, Va., which sued for a million dollars under the Sherman anti-trust law, claiming its bankruptcy was caused by trust methods of the American Tobacco Company.

The judgment was for $60,000 damages and $10,000 attorneys' fees.

The American Tobacco Company is also to pay all costs, amounting to about $4,000. The case was tried in Raleigh last summer before Judge Connor in the Federal Court.

Late Factory Notes

ONE of the largest cigar factories in the west is that of Kohlberg Bros., of El Paso, Texas, who manufacture the famous "La Internacional" cigars. They retail at ten cents and two for a quarter, and are found in the prominent stores throughout that section. A large jobbing business is carried on by this progressive firm, and they have the best equipped retail store in El Paso.

The Lodge Martin Cigar Company, of Hartford, Conn., has been organized with $4,000 capital; Daniel H. Lodge, president; Charles H. Martin, treasurer; William E. Egan, secretary.

It is announced here by the executive board of the Burley Tobacco Society, Lexington, Ky., that 1,600,000 pounds of pooled Burley tobacco has been sold to a Cincinnati tobacco buyer and broker. The price received is not given.

Revenue Agent Ellison arrived in Alton, Ill., the other day to put Uncle Sam's seal of approval on about 100,000 cigars that are more than fifty years old. The brands passed out of existence before some of the present revenue laws were in force.

Mose Eisenberg Retires from Detroit Factory
Frank Forrest Takes Over His Interest in Surety Cigar Co.

Detroit, Mich., Jan. 29th.

IT has just been learned that Mose Eisenberg has withdrawn from the Surety Cigar Company, one of Detroit's newest manufacturing enterprises, and his interest has been assumed by Frank Forrest, formerly general sales agent for the Lilies Cigar Company, of this city, and more recently associated with the Compeer Cigar Company, of Indianapolis. It is understood that Mr. Eisenberg's withdrawal is due in a large measure to the state of his health which has not been of the best in recent months. He has other plans in view which will involve less of a drain on his energies than the work undertaken by him on behalf of the Surety Company.

Mr. Eisenberg is an able and popular man and his future will be a matter of interest to his multitude of friends.

The development of the Surety Company has been very satisfactory. The success of their brands "The La Deloma" and "Charles VIII" has encouraged the management to pay particular emphasis on their clear Havana lines for the future, while at the same time devoting ample attention to their "Answer" and "Poster" nickel cigars.

Among the recent visitors in the market was Emile Kline and Joseph Wertheimer, of the E. M. Schwarz Company, New York, who have been conferring with their local distributors in regard to plans for the expansion of their business during the current year.

A. B. Heavenrich, popular leaf salesman, who for the past six years has been associated with L. Schmid & Company, Sumatra Importers, is now connected with the house of Charles S. Waxelbaum & Company, of New York, a young and aggressive importing house. Mr. Heavenrich has opened his office and headquarters at the Hotel Fuller, this city.

John Hemmeter, of the Hemmeter Cigar Manufacturing Company, was a recent visitor to Dayton, Ohio.

Henry Hamper, Sales Manager of The Globe Tobacco Company, is being congratulated on the marriage of his daughter, Miss Genevieve, to Robert B. Mantel, the actor, at Pueblo, Colo.

A new face appears behind the counter of the Pullman Cafe at 15 Grand River avenue. Old friends in the cigar trade will recognize the countenance as that of Nate Hart, who is now in full charge and boosting trade at a lively pace.

Reports from the San Telmo factory are to the effect that many rush orders are being received for goods on immediate shipment.

Richard Whalen Dead

ON the death of Richard Whalen, Rochester loses one of the oldest members of the tobacco industry. Mr. Whalen started in the tobacco business when the city was known as Rochesterville and continued to take an active interest in the firm of R. Whalen & Company until a few weeks previous to his death, which occurred on Saturday, January 13th. The business will continue under its present efficient management, but the genial personality of Richard Whalen will be sadly missed by all who knew him.

Tampa, Fla., January 29.

WITH more seasonable weather the cigar trade of Tampa is rapidly improving with larger shipments and better circulation all around. 575 cases were shipped during the week ending January 20th. The magnificent Tampa Hotel has opened under entirely new management, this aiding in the general stimulus of trade conditions, and the beautiful weather is being generously advertised abroad with the result that an increasing stream of tourists at the moment are Tampa-bound.

Officers of the German cruiser "Brennen," which paid a week's visit to Tampa recently, were hospitably entertained and among other things were conducted through a number of the city's leading cigar factories. His royal majesty's men expressed themselves in terms of approving admiration about these world-famous enterprises, from which cigars reach, so to speak, every point of the globe worth reaching, and it says itself that in return for their generous praise the German men of war went away loaded down with the best Tampa affords in the line of smokers. Courtesy should ever be returned in kind.

Charles J. Castillo, sales manager for P. San Martin Leon, has left for a trip down the line to call upon the jobbers and trade in general. Mr. Castillo's object, in part, is of course to drum up new trade and find unexploited territory. He is an exceedingly popular man, on the road as well as at home, and great success will undoubtedly attend his trip.

J. A. Rummell, of the P. G. Fernandez Company, is in Tampa, and has taken active charge of the office and sales department of their large factory.

John Clymer Boltz, manager of the Tampa branch of the Boltz Clymer Company, enjoyed a visit of his father and brother from Philadelphia.

Val. M. Antuono, owner of the Val. M. Antuono Cigar Factory here, is in Cuba, and advises his people that he has succeeded in purchasing a lot of extra fine tobacco, as the result of his trip. He is expected back in a few days.

Jorge Leon, of the P. San Martin & Leon Factory, has been in Tampa for a week or so subsequent to his return to Havana. Mr. Leon came in from a trip to Chicago, and reports that the business of his concern is in a flourishing condition and will soon rank among the leading Tampa enterprises in the cigar field.

Manuel Fernandez, formerly a manufacturer of clear Havana cigars, at Jacksonville, Fla., for eleven years, also running a factory in Chicago, Ills., has removed his entire business to Tampa. The brands manufactured by Mr. Fernandez are "Flor D. M. Fernandez," "La Lampara," and "Esta de Oro." He now occupies a finely equipped two-story factory at 21st street, Ybor City.

The Three Friends Cigar Company, from being considered a buckeye shop is rapidly growing and prospering, compelling recognition as one of the coming factors in Tampa's cigar industry.

Thomas Engelhardt, owner of the Thos. Engelhardt & Company factory, is in Tampa and has removed his business to this city.

The Cuban Market

From Our Exclusive Bureau
Neptuno 24
Alto
Havana, Cuba.

HAVANA, January 22, 1912.

THE crop prospects are as uncertain as they were two weeks ago, and it is utterly impossible to predict what the final outcome is going to be. We have had a few cooler days and also some rains, which were of course favorable conditions, but the two critical months this year will be February and March. Should the temperature continue cool and should a few rains fall, particularly in the Vuelta Abajo, then the chances would be materially improved, as the setting out of seedlings has not stopped and will continue until next month. At all events the Vuelta Abajo crop may fall short, and as far as Partido is concerned the prospects up to now are anything but hopeful, still they could improve under good conditions. Unless Remedios tobacco in the Santa Clara province is favored by dry and cool weather, we may perhaps get a large crop, but it will be lacking in heavy quality, as the first cutting is almost all of the light styles, unfit for mixing with Seedleaf and Sumatra.

Leaf Market Active.

The leaf market has been exceedingly active, as twenty-seven buyers have visited our city, and besides our commission merchants and the resident export houses have also operated, through cable orders, to supply the wants of their customers, thus swelling the total of our sales to over seventeen thousand bales during the last three weeks. Prices have ruled firm, although it seems, that most of our dealers have come to the conclusion, that it would be better to accept the ruling figures than to advance them. While the coming crop in all probability will be late, nevertheless our dealers have acted wisely to try and liquidate their holdings, so they will be in a good condition to have their funds ready in time for the coming country-purchases. Although the stocks in first hands have been greatly reduced, there are still some supplies to be picked up in Vuelta Abajo factory styles, as well as heavy fillers, some Partido Resagos of the "fino" variety, and also first, second and third capadinas of Remedios.

Sales.

Sales from January 2nd to January 20th inclusive amounted to 17,818 bales, or, which divided, represented Vuelta Abajo 5,868, Partido 1,437, and Remedios 10,513 bales. Buyers were: Americans from the north, exporters and our local commission merchants 15,294, exporters to Europe 211, shippers to South America 382, and our local cigar and cigarette manufacturers 1,931 bales.

Exports.

Exports of Leaf Tobacco From the Port of Havana, From January 2nd to January 13th Inclusive, Were:

Cigars: During the second half of December, 1911, our exports of cigars from the port of Havana, according to our official custom house returns, were:

| | Cigars. |
|---------------------------------------|-----------|
| From December 16 to December 30, 1911 | 6,713,271 |
| From December 16 to December 31, 1910 | 7,331,575 |

Decrease in 1911

From January 1, 1911, to December 30, 1911

From January 1, 1910, to December 31, 1910

Increase in 1911

The nine principal countries, to which we shipped over one million cigars during the years 1911 and 1910, show the following interesting comparisons, viz:

| | 1911. | 1910. |
|--------------------|------------|------------|
| | Cigars. | Cigars. |
| Great Britain | 66,981,081 | 60,333,243 |
| United States | 58,975,500 | 54,598,441 |
| Germany | 16,463,975 | 14,981,870 |
| Canada | 11,082,313 | 9,008,074 |
| France | 8,576,787 | 9,856,615 |
| Australia | 6,657,570 | 4,368,924 |
| Argentine Republic | 5,015,706 | 3,691,524 |
| Spain | 4,335,606 | 3,372,905 |
| Chile | 3,336,981 | 2,891,970 |

In 1910 the number of countries to which we shipped over one million cigars amounted to ten, and the tenth was British Africa, which imported from us direct 1,272,338, while last year we only exported direct 379,914 cigars, but it might be possible that the difference was supplied by England.

Of the above-named nine countries, all show satisfactory increases, except France, and this deplorable decrease is only caused by the raising of her tariff on cigars. The majority of our factories has not made any money, notwithstanding the increased exports of over sixteen million cigars, but this unsatisfactory result was, owing to the extremely high cost of the fillers last year. Unless we should have a large and good crop of Vuelta Abajo this year, which would reduce the cost of the raw material, the outlook would not be any better, except a general and concerted movement could be agreed upon, to raise the selling prices of our different sizes of cigars, corresponding to the increased cost of production. As the American clear Havana cigar manufacturers are in the same deplorable position, there ought not be any valid reason why an understanding could not be arrived at to benefit all interested parties. Higher prices reduce the consumption of an article, but would it not be better to sell less with a profit, than to sell more with hardly any profit, or none at all?

H. Upmann & Co. have commenced the new year with a good supply of fresh orders from all countries. Charles Landau, their sole representative for the United States and Canada, arrived on the 17th inst. and expects to remain here some two weeks, in order to prepare the coming campaign in his territory.

Partagas is very busy on large, important orders for England and South America, but also has received already some from the United States for special sizes. Their representative for South America, Don Lorenzo Alonso, arrived here on the 15th of this month, and their European one, Don G. A. Padró, is due here from London about February 1st.

Sol has received the first large important orders from the United States on the 17th, and is also very busy in executing orders for the American Navy at Guantanamo.

Castañeda is in receipt of substantial orders from Great Britain, as well as from South America.

La Diligencia is working quite normally at this season of the year, and has had many visitors (from tourists) of the principal southern States of the American Union, and where La Diligencia has a very strong foothold.

La Flor de P. A. Estanillo is marching along in splendid shape, as besides the many unfilled orders, left over from last year, it has received fresh ones from the United States not alone, but also from England and South America.

Henry Clay & Bock & Co. shipped over one million cigars by the French S. S. "La Champagne" on the 16th inst. Mr. Francis A. Wilson, the deputy chairman, who arrived here on the 10th of this month, has his hands full in attending to the many cigar importers in town, and the ones that are expected here shortly. Chairman, Percival S. Hill, is due to arrive here during the first week of February.

Other busy factories are: Romeo y Julieta C. E. Beck & Co., por Larrañaga, Hija de José Gener and Figaro.

Buying, Selling and Other Notes of Interest.

Sobrinos de A. Gonzales sold 2,364 bales of all kinds of leaf, since January 2nd, to their customers.

J. Bernheim & Son are reported to have purchased 3,500 bales of Remedios for their clients.

Herrera, Calmet & Co. were sellers of 2,312 bales of their holdings of Remedios.

S. Ruppert added to his stocks of tobacco through fresh purchases, during his stay here, according to reliable information received from a good source, 3,000 bales, principally choice vegas of Vuelta Abajo.

José C. Puente closed out 1,953 bales of Remedios, Partido and Vuelta Abajo.

S. Bayuk was a buyer of 851 bales of very fine Vegas for his celebrated Havana Ribbon brand.

Aixala & Co. report having disposed of 1,618 bales of Remedios and Partido tobacco.

Sylvester & Stern are credited with having bought 800 bales of leaf for their customers.

Swedish Match Co. to Build Big Plant Here

THE Noredales Match Company, which is one of the biggest firms at present operating plants in Sweden, has made arrangements for the erection of a huge plant in this country.

They recently acquired 250 acres of land at Verplank Point, which is four miles from Peekskill, New York, and opposite historic Stony Point. The location is an ideal one for the purpose, having more than a mile of river frontage, and being accessible to the great shipping points of New York.

The firm will erect one of the greatest factories of its kind in the world, and give employment to more than five thousand people.

Gonzales & Benitez turned over 1,200 bales of Remedios and Vuelta Abajo.

Hija de José Gener purchased 800 bales of Vuelta Abajo. José Diaz Longo sold 894 bales of Vuelta Abajo and Partido. Suarez Hns did a very big business, both selling and also buying for account of a customer of theirs, but did not wish to have their transactions published.

Planas & Co. were sellers of 933 bales of first and second Capadinas and Remedios.

Mendelsohn, Bornemann & Co. were heavy operators in our market, and it is said that their transactions must have amounted to at least 750 bales, if not more.

Gonzales Hns & Co. closed transactions amounting to 650 bales of Remedios.

Sam. Levy, of the Enterprise Factory at Trenton, invested to the extent of 600 bales, consisting of extra fine Vegas and Vuelta Abajo and Remedios.

Miguel Gutierrez was a seller of 500 bales of second Capadinas of Remedios from his choice packings, for which he obtained an extra price.

Edward Sutter, of the firm of Louis P. Sutter & Co., purchased in all 658 bales.

M. Abella & Co. disposed of 470 bales of Remedios, Partido and Vuelta Abajo.

Mark A. Pollack, besides the buying he did for account of his customers in town, also purchased cable orders for his friends 574 bales additionally.

Canoy Hno turned over 400 bales of Remedios.

Aleck Goldschmidt selected some 500 bales of leaf for his firm of A. Blumlein & Co.

Muniz Hns & Co., sold 400 bales of all kinds of leaf.

H. H. Strater bought 700 bales of Remedios for account of his customers.

Camejo & La Paz were sellers to the extent of 400 bales of Vuelta Abajo.

August Kuttuauer purchased 500 bales of the best Vegas that he could find for his trade.

Herederos de Rufino Canoy disposed of 350 bales of Vuelta Abajo and Partido.

Leslie Pantin, besides the heavy buying by his many customers in town, also executed other orders at the same time, through cables received, amounting to 500 bales more.

José Menendez had a quieter spell, as his sales did not amount to over 178 bales.

Frank Dominguez added 500 bales additionally to his fall investments.

A. M. Calzada & Co. sold 125 bales from their holdings.

I. Kaffenburgh & Sons were buyers of 500 bales for account of their customers.

Cardenas & Co. closed one transaction of 100 bales of their choice heavy Vuelta Abajo.

August Biedermann made some very good purchases of different kinds of tobacco for the needs of his trade.

Llopert & Co. sold 100 bales of their fine Partido Escojidas.

The principal shippers above 300 bales during the past fortnight were: Leslie Pantin, 1,471; Sylvester & Stern, 1,288; H. Upmann & Co., 620; J. Bernheim & Son, 567; Ernest Ellinger & Co., 366; Sobrinos de A. Gonzales, 499, and Diego Montero, 325.

Don Antero Prieto y Gonzalez left with his family on the 20th inst. from Santander homeward bound, and also Don Augustin Quesada, with his bride, a daughter of Don Antero Gonzalez, the original founder of the present firm of Sobrinos de A. Gonzalez. It seems, the more postal facilities we are having the worse becomes our delivery of the United States mails. There is a general complaint of the slowness in the transmission, and we don't know where the fault lies? Your correspondent received a letter today with the postmark New York, January 15th, and Havana, January 22nd, therefore this letter needed seven days to get here, and while the Knight's Key route is using only fifty-six hours between New York and Havana. There must be gross negligence somewhere.

ORETANIV.

Well Known Tampa Firms Merged

THE firms of Garcia & Vega and Jose Cosio & Company, Tampa, Fla., have been merged, and all the effects, brands, etc., of the latter concern have been conveyed to the former. Mr. Cosio will enter into the firm of Garcia & Vega. Col. Alvaro Garcia, its head, intends to leave for Cuba in the near future to buy tobacco.

The firm of Fernandez & O'Halloran, of Havana, has just received the original sketch for a new label "Crown of Tampa," a handsome piece of work, to suitably advertise their flourishing leaf business. P. G. Fernandez, president of the P. G. Fernandez Company, of Tampa, is a nephew to Mr. Fernandez, of the Cuba firm.

Mammoth Tobacco Industry

Immense Capital Involved

THE United States Government has just made public a preliminary statement of the general results of the Thirteenth Census of establishments engaged in the manufacture of tobacco. It comes from the office of Director Durand, of the Bureau of the Census, and includes chewing and smoking tobacco, and snuff, cigars and cigarettes. The report contains a summary which gives the general figures for 1904 and 1909. It shows increases in all the items at the census of 1909 as compared with that of 1904, with the exception of the number of establishments and the capital invested.

The gross value of products increased 26 per cent.; cost of materials, 41 per cent.; value added by manufacture, 17 per cent.; average number of wage earners employed during the year 5 per cent.; amount paid for wages, 11 per cent.; number of salaried officials and clerks, 43 per cent.; amount paid in salaries, 91 per cent.; miscellaneous expenses, 28 per cent.; primary horsepower, 16 per cent.; while the number of establishments decreased 6 per cent., and capital invested, 24 per cent.

There were 15,822 establishments engaged in this industry in 1909 and 16,827 in 1904, a decrease of 6 per cent.

The capital invested as reported in 1909, was $245,660,000, a decrease of $78,322,000 or 24 per cent., from $323,982,000 in 1904. The average capital per establishment was approximately $16,000 in 1909 and $19,000 in 1904.

The value of products was $416,695,000 in 1909, and $331,111,000 in 1904, an increase of $85,584,000, or 26 per cent. The average per establishment was approximately $26,000 in 1909 and $20,000 in 1904.

The cost of materials used was $177,186,000 in 1909, as against $126,086,000 in 1904, an increase of $51,100,000, or 41 per cent.

The value added by manufacture was $239,509,000 in 1909 and $205,025,000 in 1904, an increase of $34,484,000, or 17 per cent. This item formed 57 per cent. of the total value of products in 1909 and 62 per cent. in 1904. The value added by manufacture represents the difference between the cost of materials used and the value of products after the manufacturing processes have been expended upon them. It is the best measure of the relative importance of industries.

The miscellaneous expenses amounted to $106,633,000 in 1909 and $80,145,000 in 1904, an increase of $22,508,000, or 28 per cent. The most important item of miscellaneous expenses is the internal revenue tax. By reason of that tax the miscellaneous expenses are relatively much larger in this industry than in most other industries. The value of products and value added by manufacture of course include the tax.

The salaries and wages amounted to $86,134,000 in 1909 and $71,439,000 in 1904, an increase of $14,695,000, or 21 per cent.

The number of salaried officials and clerks was 13,193 in 1909 and 9,235 in 1904, an increase of 43 per cent.; their salaries amounted to $16,779,000 in 1909 and $8,800,000 in 1904, an increase of 91 per cent.

The average number of wage earners employed during the year was 166,810 in 1909 and 159,406 in 1904, an increase of 5 per cent.; their wages amounted to $69,355,000 in 1909 and $62,639,000 in 1904, an increase of 11 per cent.

A glance over these facts and figures will give even the most casual reader an idea of the vastness and importance of the tobacco industry of the United States, its marvelous growth and resources. It is made on a large scale, with room for all its merchants and workers, and for many more if they but enter it in a proper spirit and with the "get up and get" about them. For with the above statistics before us it may truly be said that, given the necessary application, common sense business methods and the ordinary level-headed man's share of energy, it would be impossible to find a more lucrative and stationary field of business than that of tobacco. It matters not whether it be a presidential election year or not, whether times are good or bad, whether it is days of sunshine or rain—smoke men will, for they have long ago realized that smoking of good tobacco is conducive to their health and comfort, all contrary statements notwithstanding.

This is why the tobacco industry continues to grow and expand.

Push and Progress of Aurora, Illinois, Manufacturers

AREPORT from Aurora, Illinois, gives the following interesting facts about the cigar manufacturing industry of the city:

There are in Aurora almost thirty cigar factories employing considerably more than 100 men. Some are only one or two-man shops while others have the appearance of a considerable factory.

The records show that Henry G. Conerus manufactured the greatest number of any single maker during the year 1911, when he turned out and sold 884,300 cigars. This was an increase of a little more than 200,000 over the business the year before. The firms of N. M. Hermes, Goldsmith & Lies and J. T. Benjamin, Fred Fauth, Phil Schickler & Company, Henry Treumper, William Eitelgoerge and Nicholas Knur are but little behind the Conerus concern in the manufacturing, while a number of other Aurora firms manufactured very considerable quantities.

All Aurora cigars are union made, while many of the foreign brands are not, which added to the quality of Aurora cigars helps to contribute to the large sales.

The American Cigar Company's warehouse, of Broadhead, Wis., is employing one hundred persons on the largest pack of tobacco ever put up in this city. It will be several weeks before the work is completed.

The John W. Babbitt Tobacco Company, which formerly was located at Detroit, Mich., has removed to St. Louis, Mo., and leased the second floor of the building at 217-19 North Third street from L. D. Dozier and the Tissue Binder Company.

The Hull-Gumond Company, one of the largest manufacturing concerns in Binghamton, N. Y., has been taken over by a corporation capitalized at $1,000,000. Directors John Hull, Jr., Herman Whitelaw, Henry G. Jackson, Herbert S. Vance and W. W. Newell.

Albert Cadis, tobacco merchant of Havana, Cuba, is to marry Miss Rose Buder, of Springfield, Ills.

U. S. Senator McCumber, has prepared some interesting statistics giving the causes for the high cost of living, among which he enumerates tobacco in the sum of $450,000,000.

Boston Market "Fair Plus"

THE general condition of business throughout Boston and vicinity can be characterized in no other way than "fair plus" at this time. There is a little quietness experienced by some of the retailers, yet, on the whole, they are making no complaint at the aggregate volume of business handled. The wholesalers are, however, quite active in regard to maintaining the full usual amount of output.

The Walen Drug Company, of Manchester, is a new corporation capitalized at $5,000. President, Clifford F. Loane; treasurer, Alfred Walen, and Harvey S. Page.

Adin F. French has opened a drug store in the Thomas Block, 2 Peabody Square, Peabody. The Lynn Cigar Company has opened a branch at 400 Washington street, Lynn.

Steeves & Tilton is the new firm name of a concern of which E. E. Steeves, formerly representing the R. A. Patterson Tobacco Company, is the head, with offices at 276 State street. They will be Boston agents for White's clay pipes and Langsdorf cigars. Mr. Steeves' successor for the R. A. Patterson Tobacco Company is E. F. Geppert. David Ehrlich, head of Ehrlich & Kopf, meerschaum pipes, etc., has recovered from his recent illness.

Louis Ash & Co.'s representative, Ferdinand May, visited the Boston coterie last week.

Mr. Krauss, head of Krauss & Co., Baltimore, visited the Boston jobbers last week. J. Cohn is the assignee in bankruptcy of Maurice Schriver, School street retailer; assets approximating $8,000, to meet liabilities of $12,000.

Dickey & Hodgson have opened a new cigar store on School street, the new manager being Walter Pickering, recently with Estabrook & Eaton.

Johnson & Co.'s "Private Stock", five-cent domestic, is receiving quite a bit of street car advertising in the car lines plying between Beverly and Ipswich.

The establishment of Augustus H. Hall & Co., 3 Water street, have an unusually "eye-catching" window display this week.

C. H. Greenwood & Co., Boylston street retailers, are enjoying an active post-holiday demand for their extensive lines.

Herbert H. Curtiss, representing the "Between the Acts" little cigars, is one of our most enthusiastic exponents of billboard advertising.

Boston jobbers have received an offer from the R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Company, combining an eight-ounce humidor of Prince Albert tobacco (smoking) together with a meerschaum pipe, for $4.92 each dozen.

The American House cigar stand is having a firm call for Estabrook & Eaton's "Fabula", being panatela shaped, five-cent domestic, and among the Havana's "El Principe de Gales", selling from ten cents to forty cents each, is popular.

The new five-cent cigar recently gotten out by Wait & Bond, Inc., is proving very popular among the general public, combining, as it does, a good value and a low cost. Their universally known "Blackstone" continues to maintain its lead over other ten-cent domestics, and may be obtained throughout the United States everywhere. Their new $35,000 factory is rapidly nearing completion, than which there will be no better equipped in the entire world.

Arthur Coffin has opened a drug store at Broadway, Trautman.

The Baker Cigar Company, 103 Front street, Worcester, is now conducted by H. T. Andrews, of 593 Park avenue. HENDERSON.

Smoking in Factories Stopped

FIRE COMMISSIONER JOHNSON, of New York, with the horrible Ash Building fire, claimed to have been caused by a lit cigarette thrown among inflammable material, in mind, is causing 40,000 notices to be circulated, calling attention to an old law clause forbidding the smoking of cigars, cigarettes and pipes in factories, and asking the factory owners to see that these notices are posted and abided by. Inspectors will go around to see that the law is enforced, especially in factories where women are employed. The proprietors as well as the smokers will be prosecuted.

A report issued by the fire department states that in 1910, 3,240 fires were directly attributable to the careless use of matches and cigarette stubs thrown away.

Fire destroyed the cigar factory of A. J. Petoskey, on Franklin street, San Antonio, Tex., on January 16th.

Fire broke out in the cigar factory of Mr. Schweitzer, Crawfordsville, Ind., January 16th, doing considerable damage.

The new building of the Largay, Adams & Bangor Cigar Mfg. Co., Bangor, Me., is of dark brown tapestry brick with granite trimmings, and is occupied entirely by the B. C. M. concern as retail store, wholesale department, office and factory—a model establishment in every way.

Schedules in the bankruptcy of the Great Northern Cigar Co., Milwaukee, Wis., filed yesterday, showed liabilities of $1,652.37 and assets of $7,190.40.

The cigarmakers' union is mum on what action it intends to take on the ultimatum of the manufacturers at Cunningham's factory in New Haven, Conn., which in effect says that unless the men return to work, a general lockout of all the union men in the city will be ordered.

The Editor's Letter-Box

Editor THE TOBACCO WORLD, BELMONT, OHIO.
Dear Sir:—Could you give me the address of a cigar broker that works in the Southern States?
Very truly yours,

New Orleans Notes

NEW ORLEANS, January 25.

AUGUSTUS BLOCK, President of the Augustus Block Cigar Company, is now liquidating the affairs of his company and expects to retire from business February 1st. Mr. Block is one of the best known cigar men in the south, having been connected before he engaged in the jobbing business with some of the largest manufacturers and distributors in the country. He has mastered the cigar line in all of its details, is familiar with the grades of goods that the southern trade require, and no man in the territory tributary to this city has a wider acquaintance.

The "El Palencia" cigar was unknown in this section until Mr. Block introduced it on the market, and today it is one of the biggest sellers here. It is not Mr. Block's intention to sever all connection with the cigar business, and his friends will soon hear from him again in the cigar trade.

A. H. Mirande, the accommodating counter man of the Independent Cigar Stores Company, Canal and Decatur streets, reports an excellent demand.

The Crescent Cigar Stand, Canal and St. Charles streets, have a valuable asset in A. Petrie. There are very few retail salesmen as capable and well thought of as he is.

G. L. Mauney, representing the Federal Cigar Company, spent last week in the city calling on the trade. Harry A. Mathe, manager of the Southern Cigar Company, Camp and Gravier streets, handle "Beldame Perfectos," "Madge Sessing," "Miss North" and "Evergood Perfectos" brands that Mr. Mauney sells for his company.

The American Tobacco Company last Wednesday filed exceptions in the United States District Court in the suit of the Peoples Tobacco Company for damages. The question of jurisdiction is raised by The American Tobacco Company, the petition stating that the Court is without jurisdiction on the grounds that the corporation was created and organized in the State of New Jersey under the laws of that State. It is further contended that citation was served upon W. R. Irby, who was not at the time of the institution of the suit, or any time subsequent, a manager or agent of the American Tobacco Company, and therefore could not be served as such. PELICAN.

AREPORT from Washington states that Michigan is to be a tobacco-producing State, if Representative J. M. C. Smith of Charlotte has his way about it, but if Secretary of Agriculture Wilson has his way Michigan won't, lest there ensue overproduction of tobacco. Alas and Alack!

The large leaf tobacco factory of Clark & Company, Bedford City, Va., was totally destroyed by fire on January 17th, together with a great quantity of leaf tobacco which was being ordered for shipment to foreign countries.

PENNSYLVANIA TRADE NEWS

Late Reports from Lancaster, York, Reading

Lancaster Factories Feel New Stimulus

LANCASTER, PA., Jan. 30, 1912.
CIGAR manufacturers report that orders are coming in encouragingly. Traveling men generally are now out on the road, and there is more activity noticeable than during the opening weeks of the year. The output, it is expected, will exceed that of January, 1911.

Dan Manheimer of the Imperial Cigar Co., was detained from beginning an active campaign for 1912, by the arrival two weeks ago of an heir, Dan declares it is the finest little girl he ever saw. F. E. Eberley will leave this week upon a short trip West. He has just moved into a new office in the Woolworth Building.

The "Sheik" 5c. cigar, made by the Porto-Vana Cigar Co. at Reading, recently made its appearance in prominent hotel stands in this city.

Fred Duff, of Duff Bros. & Co., is confined to his home by illness. He is improving, but will not be out for several weeks longer. J. E. Sherts, of the Sherts Cigar Co., is this week making his customary trip through Eastern Pennsylvania.

Simon Shissler is featuring the "Blu-J" stogies in this city. This stogie is one of the newest creations of the Blu-J Tobacco Co., of Philadelphia. Mr. Shissler has the exclusive distributing agency for the goods here.

The leaf tobacco warehouse of M. J. Bowman at Kinzer's, this county, was destroyed by fire on Tuesday night last. Mr. Bowman had several hundred cases of new tobacco in the warehouse.

J. W. Breneman has removed his office to the Millersville warehouse, but continues to use the Lancaster building for storage purposes.

Cigar Industry A City's Big Asset

ALLENTOWN, PA., January 29, 1912.

The manufacturing of cigars in Allentown is assuming such proportions that it will soon be classed as one of the city's leading industries. In addition to the larger factories employing 200 and 300 hands, and distributing their goods to every section of the country, there are numerous smaller concerns making their own brands, which are used locally only. In the aggregate, there are several thousand people employed in the manufacture of cigars.

The Victor Torsch Co., branch of T. J. Dunn & Co., whose leader is the "New Bachelor" cigar, have a factory in the city, and one at Coplay. They have worked almost full time for the entire year, and are practically always behind with their orders. They anticipate a marked increase in business for the coming year.

Bayuk Brothers, manufacturing one brand only, "Havana Ribbon", have made rapid strides during the past year and at present employ over 200 hands. This cigar has been on the market for about fifteen years, the main factory being in Philadelphia. The local branch was established two years ago to supply local demand, and has worked full time since.

Allen R. Cressman Sons, of Philadelphia, manufacturers of the "Counsellor" cigar, established a branch on North Seventh street, about two years ago, since which time the business has increased to the extent of necessitating the building of a new factory. This has just recently been completed at 729 Ridge avenue and is a creditable addition to the city's already large list of manufacturing plants.

The Bondy & Lederer Co., who have been marketing the "Tom Keene" cigar for a number of years, report a steady increase in the demand for their product and look for a still greater increase during the present year.

E. S. Gerhart, whose "Affidavit" cigar has been on the market for fifteen years, has made rapid strides, the output for last year having been almost double that of the year previous. This cigar is probably the most popular local brand on the market, figuring the other popular brands as being made at branches in this city of out-of-town concerns.

Factory Conditions in Reading Improving

READING, PA., January 30, 1912.

WITH but few exceptions cigar manufacturers in this vicinity have found conditions steadily improving during this month, and present indications are favorable to a good year. In a number of instances the output for this month is nicely ahead of the corresponding period of last year.

Business during January was fairly brisk at the box factory of F. S. Koons, Boyertown, who is making boxes for the leading manufacturers in that vicinity.

Geo. S. Miller & Co., at Pottstown, are having a good run of business on their "Ambrosio," "Gen. Schuyler" and "Commander St. Clair" brands, which continue to find a ready sale among an old established trade.

Chas. M. Yetter, of Chas. M. Yetter & Co., Inc., manufacturers of union made cigars, has been on a two-weeks' western trip, and reports some highly encouraging orders for their product.

Chas. Breneser & Sons, recently brought out a new nickel cigar under the title "Cubanada," which is already gaining much favor among critical smokers.

C. U. Gery, at Seventh and Franklin streets is now introducing his "700" five-cent cigar in a new dress. The package is embellished with a specially designed label gotten up in serial colors and makes a strong and attractive display.

John G. Spatz, of J. G. Spatz & Co., is on a western trip and reports received from him indicate that business is opening quite nicely for the "El Volcano," "American Empire" and "Heidelberg" brands.

W. H. Yocum, of Yocum Bros., after a short visit to Cuba, will start on his regular spring trip through the west, covering a period of several weeks.

D. S. Erb & Co., at Boyertown, are engaged in remodeling their factory quarters. Sometime ago the office was removed to the second floor of the building, and further alterations are now in progress. They recently engaged a salesman who will cover western territory, and the firm hopes to resume more active operation with the wholesale trade.

Chas. Erb, a son of the head of the house, recently returned from a trip to the Pacific Coast, where he made arrangements for the distribution of their goods.

York Trade Fair

YORK, PA., January 30th.

CIGAR manufacturers are operating with fair forces in this vicinity and the month promises to show considerable improvement over the corresponding of last year.

A meeting of insurance adjusters has been held to settle the losses of the destroyed cigar box factory of E. Myers & Co., and edging and label house of T. A. Myers & Co., which was burned some nights ago, entailing a loss of about $80,000. The firm has not yet decided whether they shall rebuild on the old site or not.

Eugene P. Gillespie last week made a flying visit among his jobbing trade and reports a far more encouraging business condition than he had expected to find.

R. M. Granat, of R. M. Granat & Co., leaf dealers, is confined to his home by an attack of La Grippe. He had just recently recovered from a serious surgical operation.

Sam. Kaufman, of the New York lithographic firm of Kaufman, Pashach & Voice, was stricken with paralysis while on a business trip to Red Lion on Wednesday last. He was carried to a nearby hotel, but was in too serious a condition to be transported to his home in New York.

John A. Shuhart, well-known cigar broker of this city, returned on Saturday last from a short visit among the trade. He reports a fair volume of business.

John C. Heckert & Co., at Dallastown, have closed their cigar factory for an indefinite period.

Danl. Spanger, cigar manufacturer at Red Lion, was painfully injured last week while helping to harvest a crop of ice from his ice ponds, and was confined to his home for several days.

The cigar stand at the Colonial Hotel, York's leading hostelry, is doing a noteworthy business on Cressman's "Counsellor," five cent cigars.

New Sanitary Pipe

THE Sanitary Pipe Company is the name of a new company doing business in Lincoln, Ill., which was organized by Jacob Stuckel and A. W. Larison. The object of this firm is to manufacture and market a new patent pipe, which the local men have been working on for several months. They have applied for the patent, which is pending, and expect it will be approved very soon. The advantage claimed for this pipe over others is the patent well, wherein all moisture drains into a hard rubber bit or well. The well being a part of the stem, when the stem is withdrawn from the bowl, the well containing the nicotine is also withdrawn.

Los Angeles Trade Brisk

Klauber Wangenheim & Co. Shipping by "Solid Carloads"

LOS ANGELES, CAL., January 23, 1912.

The big jobbing firm of Klauber Wangenheim Co. recently received a carload shipment of "Pure Gold" tobacco, which is unquestionably a record shipment of one brand of union made tobacco for the Pacific Coast. The car contained the enormous total of 1,100 cases of "Pure Gold" tobacco. The invoice approximated an even $20,000, and the order is ample proof of the immense sale which this hustling firm enjoys on this brand. The retailers in this territory report a heavy demand for "Pure Gold," and the brand has made a ten-strike here. Klauber Wangenheim Co. have been kept busy and on the jump since the arrival of the order filling orders from "Pure Gold." This firm seems to be as busy as they were before the holidays. They are making a big campaign on all their brands. They report a remarkable business on "Lucky Improved Stogies." Although on the market for only sixty days, they are selling at the rate of ten thousand per day, and are in great demand with the consumer of high-grade stogies.

Mr. C. A. Barnes, the representative of Klauber Wangenheim Co., is still on the job and reports a splendid country business for Klauber Wangenheim Co. Mr. Barnes has been connected with this firm ever since its beginning in Los Angeles.

Mr. D. Marx, the Arizona and New Mexico representative for Klauber Wangenheim Co., returned from his regular sixty-day trip in time to be home for the holidays. His Arizona business has been growing and this oldtime salesman is a fixture in the Arizona field.

"Lovera," "Optimo" and "Webster" have proven the favorites with the Burke Cigar Company in high grade cigars. In five-cent cigars they push the "Post-Dispatch" and "El Gonzalez." Eight boxes of each are displayed in their show case.

A. B. Greenwald Cigar Co. report "Ruy Lopez" and "Bingo" as leaders in their cigar store. This firm is also selling large quantities of Manila cigars.

Ed. Cohn (the College Inn Cigar Store) reports a record breaking business in "Lovera," "Optimo" and "Jose Vila."

Kingsbaker Klingenstein Co. report they had a large Christmas trade and disposed of all their holiday packages. This house is getting an E. M. F. 30 delivery car, with advertising of their leading brands, such as Y. Peidas & A. Alvarez "Webster," E. Regensburg & Sons "The American," Yocum Bros. "Y. B.," Otto Eisenlohr & Sons "Cinco." The Surbrug Company "Milo Cigarettes." The firm is highly pleased with the letter of appreciation which they received from Yocum Bros. on the business they did last year. Mr. Geo. Yocum is here this week, and will be here for months sharing the sunshine of southern California. Mr. Isi. Klingenstein, president of the firm, is highly pleased with the results last year and had a large increase in their business. Mr. Joe Sunderland, vice-president of the firm and who has been sick the last few months, is rapidly improving.

Scott Turner, of Boltz & Clymer Co., is proving that the man behind the gun is the one that does the work. Turner has been selling "El Palencia" cigars less than two weeks, and most of the prominent stands around the city are sending in repeating orders. Scott says he will make "El Palencia" as popular in Los Angeles as it is in Frisco, and I believe he will. A fine piece of goods like "El Palencia," and a man like Turner behind it, is sure to get big results. Klauber Wangenheim Co. handle the above-named brand also.

Factory Notes

Cigarmakers Statistics

FROM the bulletins issued by the United States Census Bureau, the following interesting results have been proven by analysis: in 1904, 159,406 persons were engaged as wage earners in the cigarmaking business, their average annual wages amounted to $392.00, the value of their product averaged $2,077.00 per capita; in 1909, the number of wage earners increased to 166,810, the average annual wages had increased to $415.00, and the average per capita production had increased to $2,437.00. This shows an increase in wages, during the five years, of six per cent, and an increase in productivity, for the same period, of seventeen per cent.

The Stoddard Cigar Company, Mason City, Ia., has filed articles of incorporation with a capital of $30,000.

A petition for the improvement of streets surrounding the new H. Fendrich cigar factory at Oakley and Pennsylvania streets, Evansville, Ind., has been presented to the Board of Public Works.

Harry Tatgenhorst, of the Ceramic Cigar Factory, East Liverpool, Ohio, will move at an early date into the rooms occupied by Miss Alice A. Kinsey's millinery store.

George W. Burghart, the well known Topeka, Kan., cigar manufacturer and dealer, fell on the ice near his home, 744 West Sixth avenue this morning and suffered a painful injury to his shoulder.

There has been filed in the office of the county recorder, Dubuque, Ia., a renewal of the articles of incorporation of the D. C. Glasser Tobacco Company.

Edward Dayton has disposed of his interests in the Dayton Cigar Company at DeKalb, Ill., to his brother, Fred.

The American Tobacco Company will combine the plants of Marburg Bros., at Charles and Barre streets, and that of F. W. Felgner & Co., 214 and 216 South Charles street, Baltimore, Md., into one manufacturing establishment.

The Waldorf-Astoria Cigar Company, Ltd., New York City, J. Jungerman, president, has been incorporated. Capital, $760.

The cigar box factory of T. A. Myers & Co., York, Pa., has been entirely destroyed by fire, causing a loss estimated at $85,000.

Thomas Englehardt, of the cigar manufacturing firm of Thomas Englehardt & Co., will remove the headquarters of his business from New York to Tampa.

Aurora, Ill., has thirty cigar factories, employing more than 100 men, says The Beacon. One factory made and sold 830,000 cigars during 1911.

The cigar manufactory of Denis J. Quinn at 522 Elm street, Manchester, N. H., has been attached by Sheriff Thomas B. Donnelly and a suit is to be brought in the May term of court in the sum of $4,000.

James Moran, who has been running a cigar factory at Fairbury, Neb., will open a factory at Fairbury, Ill.

Obituary

MANUEL BORNIO, said to be the oldest cigar merchant in the South, died at his home in New Orleans on the 21st ult. Mr. Bornio was eighty-six years of age and had been a resident of New Orleans for seventy years, coming to this city from Cuba when a small boy. He is survived by four children, thirteen grandchildren and seven great-grandchildren.

Domingo Mendez, a cigar manufacturer, with a factory at 400 Nostrand avenue and salesroom on Bedford avenue, Brooklyn, N. Y., and who lived at 462 Nostrand avenue, died January 15th in the Long Island College Hospital following an operation.

Edward H. Krom, age forty-seven years, vice-president of the Suffolk, Conn., Cigarmakers' Union No. 156, and one of the most popular cigarmakers of this section of the State of Massachusetts, died of pneumonia on January 18th.

Mr. Max J. Jacoby, a well known tobacco dealer, died January 19th of heart disease at his home, No. 108 East 106th street, New York. Mr. Jacoby was born in this city in 1859. He was a prominent member of the Manhattan Chess Club and was regarded as one of the best chess players in the city.

LEAF TOBACCO MARKET

Firm Prices and Active Trade in New York--Philadelphia and Lancaster Buying Better--Cold Weather Hampers Wisconsin Trade--"Big Business" Anticipated in New England States--Ohio Market Dull

NEW YORK.

THE greatest demand in the New York City market is at present for binders, but there is also continuous absorption of the different grades of all domestic filler types. In wrapper leaf the market is prepared to do a big business in the shade-grown Connecticut. Porto Rican wrapper leaf seems to be one of the most desirable commodities, but the supply appears to be limited. The demand for Sumatra keeps up in small quantities. The Havana leaf market also is active. Good quality Havana leaf, either in Remedios or in factory Vegas, are finding only too willing buyers. Prices are firm, as it is being realized that from the precarious condition of the new crop both in the Vuelta Abajo and Partido districts a recession in price is not likely to occur.

PENNSYLVANIA.

ON the whole the market has been dull here during the last part of January. Several lots of old 1910 Pennsylvania were disposed of, but prices were up to the top notch. On the balance of Connecticut and Wisconsin Zimmer there have been little or no offerings. Prices were firm on these.

The factories have commenced to operate, and active buying is anticipated in a week or two. Sumatra and Havana, of the desirable quality buyers are looking for, are hard to get, with prices very high on both.

LANCASTER.

The tobacco dealers are still plugging away at the new crop and buying continues more or less actively. It all depends on the farmer. It is hard to get at the real status of the buying market. The dealers are reticent about telling the prices they have paid unless they are low, while in many instances the farmer has been instructed, when he sells, just to keep the price to himself. If the dealer can get the tobacco at ten cents he is ready to buy, but the majority of them do not go beyond that figure. In spite of the reticence and security maintained some of the quotations will "get out," and it is on these that the market reports must be based. From the farmers comes the news that some of them have received eleven cents, some eleven and a quarter and in a few instances twelve cents.

Delivery has commenced at a number of warehouses and these will be busy places from now on. There is said to be a large amount of damaged tobacco among the 1911 crop.

WISCONSIN.

THE tobacco business has been severely hampered by the cold weather that has held in its grasp the entire middle west during the better part of the month of January.

Owing to interrupted railroad traffic several warehouses found themselves short of stock and have been compelled to lay off help for the time being. The receiving of tobacco in zero weather also had its drawbacks. Many bundles came to hand frozen, making it impossible to examine them on delivery, and the buyer might as well shut his eyes as to try to determine the quality of stock when received. Only such crops were taken in under these circumstances as were absolutely necessary to keep the warehouses operating, and then it took two or three days to thaw out the bundle before the tobacco was ready for the tables. The disposition to postpone the receiving is becoming more and more apparent every day.

VIROQUA.

It is safe to say that more money is being taken from smaller acreage than any year since growing commenced here. In spite of the extreme cold tobacco growers have come long distances to make deliveries. From the Mississippi to the Kickapoo, north and south, within a radius of twenty-five miles of the town, men and teams have braved the elements and come here to market their crop. Besides deliveries to local dealers, many carloads are being taken away by the American Tobacco Company, the United Cigar Company, Borden and other dealers.

NEW ENGLAND STATES.

SPRINGFIELD, MASS.

THE first month of the new year closes auspiciously for the New England tobacco grower, as far as prices and the prospect of their maintenance are concerned. North of the Massachusetts line prosperity is evenly distributed, but in that part of Connecticut which suffered both hail and frost damage scores of growers, a year ago rated as "well-to-do" farmers, are in straitened circumstances on account of the misfortune over which they had no control.

The warehouses are busy, in some towns being in the height of their season's work.

The tobacco market rules quiet, the great bulk of the new crop having already been bargained for. Probably 70 to 75 per cent. of the new crop has been delivered. The future of Havana Seed tobacco is subject of involved discussion. Part of the shortage which the trade now faces is undoubtedly due to the untempered elements which played havoc last summer. But eliminating this cause, the increase in the shaded Broadleaf and primed tobacco areas account for a big shrinkage in the Havana Seed acreage. Moreover, the fact should not be lost sight of that the men who abandoned Havana Seed culture for one of the new departures in tobacco raising may be put down without question as the grower most likely to raise a high quality of tobacco.

SUFFIELD, CONN.

The leading event in the leaf market here in January was the destruction by fire of the warehouses, barns and other adjoining buildings on the tobacco plantation of Cullman Bros., of New York City. The entire crop of sixteen acres of shade-grown tobacco being made ready for the market was burned up, with a loss of about $30,000, only partly covered by insurance.

Speaking generally, the tobacco in the Connecticut Valley market is nearly or quite bought up. Usually there are a few growers who prefer to hold their crops for awhile after the bulk of the crop has been picked up. But this year they have taken the bull by the horns, having sold and cashed in on their sales, and are probably at this time ready to plant another crop.

The sorting shops are all very busy, and are pushing the work as fast as possible.

Business opened quite actively in the leaf market for the new year. Although no very big transactions took place, with the exception of a sale of 1,000 cases of Wisconsin to a cigar manufacturing firm, trading is reported to have been quite steady. The demand for binders is the strongest at present. But there is also continuous absorption of all the different grades of domestic filler types. In wrapper leaf the market is prepared to do a big business in the shade-grown Connecticut, some transactions in which having already taken place, although not to any great extent.

OHIO.

DAYTON.

BUYING here has recommenced at a moderate pace. Many of the growers are willing, evidently, to meet fair offers, and the tension has eased somewhat. There is good demand for old Gebhardt, but little offered.

There are still differences between tobacco growers and packers, and as a result the crops are not being contracted for very rapidly. There has been a moderate trading in old goods of the Zimmer Spanish variety lately, but the volume was far from what has been experienced in some previous seasons.

Leaf Dealers' Late Notes

THE firm of J. H. A. Gebing, Amsterdam, Holland, known to every leaf dealer's representative who visits the European market, sends us an announcement of change in the personnel whereby G. J. Wolters L. Hzn. retires and Adolf Goldschmidt is admitted as member. The stockholders of the Dearstyn Brothers Tobacco Company, Albany, N. Y., have re-elected Edmund C. Dearstyn, Charles Dearstyn and William E. Fitzsimmons as directors.

Manuel Suarez, Havana, Cuba, has just made a shipment of 142 packs of Havana tobacco to Wengler & Mandell, Chicago, Ill., the shipment being made per S. S. "Havana," via New York.

The leaf firm of Conway Bros., Edgerton, Wis., have opened their warehouse for the season's run for sorting and packing of the 1911 crop.

The large leaf tobacco factory of Clark & Company, Richmond, Va., was completely destroyed by fire on January 18th. A large quantity of leaf tobacco, ready for shipment to foreign countries, was burned.

The capital stock of the East Hartford, Conn., Tobacco Storage Company has been increased by fifty shares. Forty of these shares were taken by D. D. Bidwell, a new member of the firm, and ten shares by Alfred E. Killbourne.

Articles of incorporation of the W. L. Petty Tobacco Company were filed at Lexington, Ky., on the 19th Jan. The capital stock is placed at $50,000, and the stockholders are W. L. Petty and G. T. Apt. of Lexington, and Fred S. and Hugh Campbell, of Richmond, Va. The company is to buy, sell and store leaf tobacco in its various forms.

Exports of Leaf Tobacco Abroad

THERE were exported from the United States, for the year ending June 30, 1911, to all foreign countries, 355,327,072 pounds of leaf tobacco, valued at $39,255,320, as compared with the same time in 1910, when there were exported 357,196,074 pounds, valued at $38,115,386.

THE TOBACCO WORLD REGISTRATION BUREAU

The Tobacco World, established in 1881, has maintained a Bureau for the purpose of Registering and Publishing claims of the adoption of Trade-Marks and Brands for Cigars, Cigarettes, Smoking and Chewing Tobacco, and Snuff.

All Trade-Marks to be registered and published should be addressed to The Tobacco World Corporation, 102 South Twelfth Street, Philadelphia, accompanied by the necessary fee, unless special arrangements have been made.

No Responsibility assumed for errors or duplications.

One Dollar for each title must accompany all applications. In case title or titles cannot be registered owing to prior registration, same will be returned immediately, less our usual charge for searching and return postage, or it will be credited if desired.

FRANK W. WOOLWORTH, of five and ten-cent stores fame, denies any connection with the $2,000,000 corporation which is planning to establish a chain of five and ten-cent cigar stores throughout New York.

Mr. Woolworth said: "I have never been connected with any such scheme and the use of my name is unwarranted. Some months ago I was approached by certain interests who contemplated the forming of such a chain of five and ten-cent cigar stores and found that such an organization would tend to minimize the business of the small cigar stores in New York and possibly throughout the country. My own organization is large enough for any one man to control, does not interfere with the business of the small man and it is not my thought now or in the future to enter into any combination, the tendency of which will be to eliminate or weaken his power to do business. It is a gross exaggeration to say that any part of the $65,000,000 for which the five and ten-cent stores is capitalized is being used in this new scheme. My motto has always been a fair field and no favor and that will always be the motto of the Woolworth company."

Eshelby Tobacco Company to Continue Burley Suit

ATORNEYS for the E. O. Eshelby Tobacco Company have filed a motion in the United States District Court, at Cincinnati, asking Judge Howard Hollister to grant a new trial of the case against the Burley Tobacco Company.

Tobacco Crop of 1911

By Types and Districts

THE United States Department of Agriculture has compiled the following reliable statistics of the tobacco crop of 1911, covering cigar types:

CIGAR TYPES.
New England.

Dry weather retarded growth early in the season, but more favorable weather later enabled the crop to make rapid progress. Wind and hail in August, however, entirely destroyed some fields and injured others; from these the cured product is suitable only for low-grade fillers or scrap. September 13th and 14th a heavy frost damaged most of the tobacco still standing. Although some fields in protected places were uninjured, about one-fourth of the acreage has been damaged by wind, hail, or frost; of this part of the crop the quality is low. The area grown under shade was primed. Both shade-grown and primed Havana are of fine quality, and a large per cent. is light wrappers. The stalk cured varies in quality from very fine down to trash and damaged leaf; a large per cent. is of the latter quality. Harvest was later than usual. Little injury was suffered in the sheds, and, excepting frost, hail, and wind damage, the cured product is as good as that of last year. The yield per acre is 1,632 pounds. The average price is 20.3 cents per pound. The increase in price is largely due to a larger per cent. of shade-grown and primed tobacco.

New York.

Dry weather caused growth to be slow during the early part of the season: in early August the crop looked like a failure in some sections. An abundance of rain, beginning late in August and extending throughout September, effected rapid improvement, and the tobacco went into the sheds in good condition, with satisfactory size of leaf. There was no damage from insects and little from hail. The cured product is of good size, color and body, and consists of a large percentage of wrappers and binders; it may be described as the best crop grown in several years. A small area, however, was damaged by frost in September, as harvesting was two to three weeks late. Both yield and price were higher than in 1910, the former averaging 1,330 pounds per acre and the latter 10.4 cents per pound.

Pennsylvania.

Favorable conditions during most of the summer gave a growth larger than usual; or about the same as last year. Too much rain at harvest prevented the crop from going into the sheds at the proper time and some fields became too ripe. Harvesting was at least two weeks later than a year ago. Insects and hail did only small damage. The size, color, and body of the cured product are good, and the quality, though satisfactory, is inferior to that of 1910, having suffered more damage from shed burn and stem rot. The average price is 9.5 cents per pound and the yield 1,420 pounds per acre, the former above and the latter below last year.

Ohio—Miami Valley.

Growth up to August 20th was checked by dry weather, and the prospect at that date was for a poor crop of small size. But after the aforesaid date improvement was rapid on that part of the crop still in the fields. About 20 per cent. was cut during the dry weather and is of medium size, good color, and body. The balance, cut after the rains, has large size, but is thin, rather coarse and rough, and of dark color. More than the usual amount of damage was caused by shed burn, stem rot, and freezing in the sheds. Taken as a whole, the cured product is inferior to last year's in quality. But little had been sold when reports were sent to the Bureau. The estimated price of 7.8 cents per pound is lower than last year. The yield per acre, 930 pounds, is larger than in 1910.

Wisconsin.

During the early growing season the prospect indicated one of the finest crops ever grown in the State. Dry weather in July and early August retarded growth until many late fields looked worthless. Some, cut during the dry weather, is of small size but good quality. Rains in August-September caused rapid growth, and plants still in the fields improved. In some localities heavy hail, wind, grass-hoppers, and worms did more than usual damage. The part of the crop that escaped weather and insect damage went into the sheds in fine condition, and the cured product is the best obtained in several years. Harvesting was three weeks later than usual. A yield of 1,250 pounds per acre was realized; the price per pound was 10 cents—results better in both respects than last year.

Georgia and Florida.

Excepting a small per cent. damaged by hail, this is the best crop, both of shade-grown and sun-grown tobacco, produced in this district since 1906; the shade-grown will yield a large per cent. of high-grade light wrappers. Little damage by insects was done in the field, and a sound cure has been effected. The yield per acre is 927 pounds and the price 28 cents per pound, both higher than last year.

Lock-out Threatened

THE CIGAR MANUFACTURERS' ASSOCIATION, New Haven, Conn., have a general lock-out under advisement if the union doesn't settle the strike at the Cunningham plant shortly. The strike has been under progress for some time and created considerable disturbance of business.

Repeat Orders on Rigoletto Cigars are Bigger Than the First

One of our salesmen has just finished covering his route for the first time since our big advertising campaign began. He not only received repeat orders from every dealer who had stocked Rigolettos from the beginning of the campaign, but in every case these orders were bigger than the first orders.

This is a significant example of the manner in which Rigoletto Cigars have made good. The same story from every section of the country. This cigar is fast becoming a standard smoke at 10c. everywhere.

Dealers who realized the quality of Rigolettos, who appreciated the demand for such a cigar when it was made known and the value of our big advertising campaign, have won out big by stocking and pushing it.

Yet the advertising of Rigoletto Cigars has only begun. There are great things for the future. Will you share in them?

Rigoletto Cigars are made in only four standard shapes, all to retail at 10c. Get in touch with your jobber or write to us and we will see that you are supplied.

A Confession

I am the oldest criminal in history.

I have acted in my present capacity for many, many years.

I have been trusted with millions of dollars.

I have lost a great deal of this money.

I have constantly held temptation before those who have come in contact with me.

I have placed a burden upon the strong, and broken down the weak.

I have caused the downfall of many honest and ambitious young people.

I have ruined many business men who deserved success.

I have betrayed the trust of those who have depended upon me.

I want to be discarded for something that will protect and benefit all those who handle money.

I am a failure.

MEN WHO MADE GOOD

SIDELIGHTS ON INTERESTING TRADE PERSONALITIES

TIME, energy and knowledge constitute the three elemental factors in human life. These are, indeed, in the last analysis, all we have got to reckon with in the game, no matter what we do. The men or institutions who have been blessed with a fair share of the latter with which to fill out the space of the first, and who have acquired the necessary knowledge to intelligently guide and utilize the energy which reposes in them, are the successful men or the successful institutions.

In the make-up of the young and progressive firm of The Shields-Wertheim Company, of Cleveland, Ohio, we find in Mr. James B. Shields enough energy concentrated to direct and execute the work of a great business enterprise, while Mr. A. C. Wertheim may fitly be denominated the technical expert of the institution, for as regards the building of good cigars, appreciation of the delicate blends and flavors which the always more exacting trade demands in order to satisfy the fastidious smoker, workmanship, quality, style and character, no better judge exists than he.

And thus it comes to pass that in the two members of The Shields-Wertheim Company, the two parts of a whole which is bound to make itself felt wherever it appears have happily combined. Mr. Shields with an excess of exuberant energy, plus a fair share of the technique of cigar-making, the details of which he of course has mastered, but the burden of which he leaves to his expert partner in order to devote himself to the marketing and distributing end; and Mr. Wertheim with the ordinary man's share of energy, plus expert knowledge of his craft, taking care that every parcel of goods shipped by the firm bears the imprint of merit and individuality—in this combination we discover the success of the firm.

The Shields-Wertheim Company had its inception in modest, humble beginnings, a brief decade ago. At that time Mr. Shields, always a student of cigar building and cigar-making, conversant and acquainted with the demands of the cigar consumer, conceived the plan of creating a high-grade cigar which should combine the many delicate qualities of the fragrant Havana with the solid substantial characteristics of the domestic high-grade broad leaf tobacco.

In pursuance of this thought the partnership firm of Shields & Wertheim, consisting of J. P. Shields and A. C. Wertheim, was formed. Modest quarters were obtained, a small force of workmen employed and the manufacture was begun of a high-class product which in its evolution should produce the ideal combination of Havana filler and broad leaf wrapper, and should supply to the consumer-public an article which should inspire appreciation and recognition.

This history of the development of the business from an humble inception to the present corporate organization, The Shields-Wertheim Company, possessing its own real estate and factory of many thousand square feet of floor space, devoted exclusively to the manufacture of high-grade cigars; employing a force of several hundred operatives; with traveling men covering the United States and jobbers located in important commercial centers; with a vast output of cigars, with the tobaccos gathered direct from the field in Cuba and in Connecticut, as the record of the untiring energy and ability of the president of the company and his partner; testify in their concrete application to the singleness of purpose which has animated them and justified their thought. It has demonstrated to the cigar and tobacco industry that a product which is based upon quality, workmanship and character, that maintains such standards at all times no matter what the condition of the market may be, will justify and insure from the public that sense of appreciation and worth and value which should be the incidents of every such expression of good faith.

The constructive mind, which analyzes conditions and formulates policies, which, viewing opportunities, grasps them, must have inherent the power and the ability to carry into execution such policies and procedure as will crystalize

"SOMETHING DIFFERENT"

Business Campaigns That Will "Walk"---For the Retailer, Wholesaler and Manufacturer

By J. B. JAMISON. **

Being an outline of systems through which big business houses are built. Any reader of THE TOBACCO WORLD, retailer, wholesaler or manufacturer, contemplating an expansion of his business, should consult this department, and may secure the personal services of Mr. Jamison for the direction of his campaign by a series of letters suited to his individual needs upon the payment of $2, for which allowance will be given in new subscriptions to THE TOBACCO WORLD, or the extension of old subscriptions. Single letters of instruction 50 cents. This offer commences with the current issue of the paper.

Advertising plans and campaigns present very much the same vexatious problems and difficulties as beset the French Revolution, and money is wasted in the first as generously as blood was spilt in the latter, by incompetent men and methods. One Constitution after another was formulated, but none of them would "walk." Despair, indecision, lawlessness and terror reigned until the man with the Constitution that would "walk" arrived.

The plans I outline in this department will "walk." They have brought home the goods and are doing the trick every day.

I.

Mail Order Campaigns

OF the above enumerated subjects, all of vital interest to retail and wholesale cigar merchants and manufacturers today, we select that of the advertising value of mail-order, for brief and to the point treatment.

Not too much stress can be laid on the fact that correct, timely mail-order advertising is one of the most potent and powerful factors in the world of commerce today, this applying with especial force to the retail business in general. It has been said, and truly, that by a judicious mail-order canvass a country merchant, residing in an obscure town or village, hardly indicated on the map, may make himself more universally known and create a better demand for his goods than he could by renting and occupying ten blocks on Broadway, New York, or State street, Chicago.

Some of America's largest retail business enterprises owe their original success largely to carefully planned, well thought out mail order campaigns, while, on the other hand, it may truly be said that more money, time and effort has been expended in unsuccessful attempts to pull business by correspondence than in any other branch of commercial activity.

It all depends upon "the man behind the gun."

In other words, it takes something of a practical psychologist, a man whose mind is so constituted that he can fathom intuitively or by a system of correct reasoning the trend of the universal human mind and generalize its vagaries, to be a successful mail-order builder.

As a rule, the large and prosperous business establishments in any line, who have prospered through judicious advertising, mail order or otherwise, guard the secret of their success carefully, but by a happy medium of co-operation we have secured, through the services of Mr. J. B. Jamison, who will conduct this department, a large number of forms and systems, which have and are building the business of leading concerns in the cigar and tobacco industry. These powerful business builders are tried and tested, and there can be no doubt as to their merits.

After this introduction, we leave the subject to Mr. Jamison, who is to conduct this department in the interests of the readers of THE TOBACCO WORLD.

Co-operative Mail Order.

By J. B. Jamison.

The idea I have in mind in presenting the following forms is to bring the wholesaler, retailer and manufacturer together in a mutually profitable mail-order canvass, conducted at the lowest possible cost, and with the greatest possible assurance of success.

Here is a simple, practical plan for the bringing together of these three forces in concerted action for the pulling of new business generally, and for any special brand of cigar it is intended to feature. Incidentally this letter and postal canvass will prove of great general advertising value for them all.

Let the retailer and manufacturer who desire to best advantage and at the lowest cost, to introduce a new brand of cigars in the market, come together in a postal canvass, mailing one or the other of the following forms to the trade they desire to cater to. Or the letter canvass, which is a little more expensive and involved, may be selected:

Forms Suitable for Postal Canvass

Dear Sir:

Wouldn't you like to find a cigar that combines just the right blending to give aroma and fragrance without the usual "weedy" taste? Messrs. ——— new brand, "Vuelta," of which you may have read, is made of the finest selected ——— leaf; but I shall not try to describe it; instead I am going to give you one, just a sample, that you may try it without spending your money and judge for yourself. Come into my store tomorrow noon, after lunch, and hand the first clerk who meet this postal. He will hand you a cigar with my compliments.

Sincerely yours,

As will be seen, this simple form possesses the triple merits of advertising at once the retailer, manufacturer and leaf, and through the co-operation of the wholesaler a general campaign of great profit to all concerned may be launched at comparatively small cost. Of course, a system for the equitable division of the cost may easily be arrived at, and all the parties who are advertised can easily be made to contribute if the subject is correctly presented to them.

Another effective postal canvass form, to be enclosed in the shape of a return, self-addressed postal with circular matter soliciting trade, is the following:

Gentlemen:

Please send me a box of the much advertised "Vuelta" made of ——— leaf, for trial. It is clearly understood in signing this order, that the shipment comes to me all charges prepaid, and with your guarantee that you will promptly cancel the order in case I am in any way dissatisfied.

Respectfully,

Letter Forms

Elaborating upon the subject, wholesaler and retailer will readily be able to induce the manufacturer—especially the new and ambitious manufacturer—to circularize the town, or any branch of prospective trade, through the following letter-form, mailed on the retailer's stationery and advertising the brand of cigars through which the manufacturer desires to become known to the public:

Men Who Have Made Good

into successful operation such opportunities. Mr. Shields with the record of successful administration behind him, a record which is marked by opportunity seized and advantage taken, and in its larger application characterized by good faith toward those who have recognized the product of his factory, is one of the most notable examples of the rise and development of the young man in business, who, without power of influence or prestige, unaided and dependent solely upon the strength of his convictions, is able to place his mark in the development of industry and commerce and in the commercial progress of twentieth century civilization.

And these same attributes may, with equal potency and weight, be applied to his partner and the part he plays in the development of the concern.

Dear Sir:

You will find any standard brand of cigars in our store; we carry all the well-known brands. But just now we want to suggest that you try a box of ——— "Vuelta"—a new brand, made by ——— of ——— leaf, that seems to us to have just the blending to make it popular with the most fastidious smokers. Of course, you may not like it, for tastes naturally differ, but so confident are we that ——— "Vuelta" will please you, that we will take back broken boxes and refund the purchase price, if you are not satisfied.

We know some of the cigars will come back, for there is nothing on earth will please everyone, but we are convinced that ninety-five per cent. of the trial users will be delighted with this distinctly superior cigar. That is what enables us to make this absolute guarantee of satisfaction.

May we not send you a box of "Vuelta" for trial, C. O. D., prepaid, under the above agreement?

Very truly yours,

The wholesaler, retailer and manufacturer may arrange between them for the carrying of any losses attendant upon the percentage of cigars which will be returned under this plan, reducing same to a minimum. Remember, co-operation all along the line is the key-note of present day business success.

"Revival" Forms

The manufacturer whose trade has fallen off, may readily be induced by the retailer to mail the following revival form to the trade:

This card entitles Mr. ——— to the special 10% discount on all the well known brands of cigars manufactured by ——— and retailed by us. We have just received a fresh consignment of these excellent goods, with instructions from the manufacturers to offer above inducement to fastidious smokers to start the New Year's boom with a rush.

Just a gentle New Year reminder from this well-known ——— manufacturing firm, to their old friends, that they are still making good cigars and improving upon all their brands.

This offer expires Saturday at 12 o'clock.

Respectfully,

Thus, by an inexpensive system of mail-order agitation, as briefly outlined above, the wholesaler and retailer may make themselves instruments for the creating of more direct and active business co-operation with the manufacturer who supplies the goods, and at the same time infuse new life and vim into the general trade.

The postals and letters, of course, may be changed and variegated to any extent to suit individual needs and purposes, but there can be no doubt that they will "make a hit" with the trade wherever applied.

And the cost, evenly divided up, will be comparatively a trifle.

In their relationship toward their employees, in the development of sanitary conditions in the factory, in creating the social atmosphere and conditions surrounding the employees, Mr. Shields & Wertheim have at all times recognized those fundamental principles of economic development which make for the largest co-operative spirit between the employer and the employed, and which ultimately in their largest application, will solve the labor problems of modern industry.

Last, but not least, these two aggressive and progressive young business men are thorough believers in publicity, and recognize the value and indispensable force of judicious advertising as applied to modern business methods.

They are in the full sense of the term types of the earnest, energetic, keen, affable, constructive, productive business men of today.

PROBLEMS of the RETAILER

To Build a Retail Cigar Business

SELECT a "leader" from among your stock, and make it your point to keep it before the public in as attractive a manner as possible during the time you desire to make it a special display feature of your store. If you can, cut the price at the same time as you bring its special merits to the attention of the public. Have window-cards, such as suggested in THE TOBACCO WORLD prepared, and vary them every little while, so as to create fresh attention. If you advertise in your local papers, feature this brand in your ad, then cut out the advertisement and post it on your show windows. The curiosity of passersby is sure to be attracted; they will stop and read the advertisement and cards, and, if these are so worded as to make them feel that it is quite worth their while to investigate the merits of your proposition, a percentage of them will enter your store and examine the goods. Most of those who enter will not leave without making a minor purchase, and if the system is followed up and persevered in you will derive a percentage of regular customers from out the number.

From then on it is up to your salespeople to attract the new trade not only to the specially featured brands of cigars, but to interest the callers in your general stock. This is best done by an effective counter display of the different choice brands you carry, with prices attached to the lids of the open boxes.

Never be idle while customers are about. If you have a customer waiting for change, then is a good time to attract his attention to some cigar or smokers outfit that you think will interest him.

Too much stress cannot be laid upon the value of having nothing but efficient, cheerful, accommodating salespeople about you. This in fact is one of the principal secrets of success with any progressive modern business institution.

Always keep in close proximity with your regular trade, so if one should drop off, you will know it and you can then make an investigation to find out as to just what was the cause of the loss, and if the blame lies with any one in your store or with your stock, correct it.

To arouse interest and enthusiasm in the general smoking public of your locality, give them something to talk about and keep it up.

Every little while feature in your show windows something new in value and quality—some cigar which you with justice to yourself and your reputation can bring out as superior. Display it in attractive styles through window exhibits with appropriate show-card designs, so that it may attract the passerby and make a novel impression upon his mind.

Always have a complete line of the various popular brands of cigarettes and cigars displayed in your store. If a new customer should drop in and ask, for instance, for a package of "Naturals" or "Turkish Trophies, cork-tipped," and you have not got these in stock, he will put your store down as not up-to-date, and you will lose his prospective future patronage.

Of course the heart of any successful business man is in his business, else he could never make headway. But he does not always understand the art of so selecting and treating his employees, they, too, will attend to their duties with all their might. To learn this is imperative to any man who would succeed in business.

Happy is the business builder who has found the right help to do his work and knows how to keep it.

Giving "The Devil" His Due

AT a recent gathering of Independent Tobacconists, one of the speakers made a statement to the following effect.

"No matter how bitter you retailers may be against the chain stores, you must at least give them credit for one thing and this is, that they have taught you how to run clean up-to-date stores."

The speaker told the Gospel truth, and there was not a word of denial from the men present, many of whom had been in the retail business for a number of years.

This fact deserves and should have the most serious attention and study of all Independent Tobacconists in the country, if they would remain in business.

In no city in the country did dealers suffer as much from the advent of the United Cigar Stores Company, as they did right in the Nation's Metropolis. The reason is very plain. No city in the United States was more in need of first-class tobacco shops than was New York.

Thousands of little booths with old Indians in front who had long lost their war paint, lined the streets and avenues, and attempted to supply the wants of smokers in a slipshod, slovenly, unsatisfactory manner. It is safe to say that the exception to this rule, at the time, was not sufficient to supply the demand of five per cent. of New York's smokers. The result was that when the United Cigar Stores Company started to open their branches they took the city by storm, because they operated cigar stores that were cigar stores in the fullest sense of the word, and every known modern business improvement in that particular industry was employed for the benefit of the purchaser.

Webb Hill of Cincinnati Married

WEBB HILL, who is the son of J. Stacey Hill, well-known as one of the most prominent and respected members of the cigar trade in Cincinnati, was married last week to Miss Ann Hamilton, daughter of the late Alexander Hamilton, who for years was connected with tobacco interests in Cincinnati and Covington, Ky.

The happy young couple are now sojourning in Panama, among the palms, enjoying their honeymoon.

Penn Tobacco Co. Increase Capital

Plans to Build New Factory

THE Penn Tobacco Company, of Wilkes-Barre, Pa., at its annual meeting, held a short while ago, voted to increase its capital stock from $200,000 to $1,000,000.

The reason for the increase is the great increase in the volume of business done by the concern during last year. The Penn Tobacco Company is one of the largest and most substantial manufacturing industries of Wilkes-Barre and ranks as one of the leading independent tobacco concerns of America.

Plans have also been prepared for the erection of an up-to-date factory building at Dana and South Main streets, as the present quarters of the firm are found entirely inadequate for its rapidly expanding business.

The directors elected at the annual meeting are as follows: John H. Uhl, Fred C. Kirkendall, William Drury, J. C. Bell, Harry G. Marcy, Russell Uhl and Henry Weigand.

Deisel Wemmer Co. To Enlarge

ARRANGEMENTS have been perfected by the Deisel-Wemmer Company, of Lima, O., to build an addition to their factory at Main & Elm streets, that city, making this their principal factory. The Findlay, Ohio, branch factory of this company will also be enlarged.

I. J. Mittelberger, with offices at 326 Garfield Boulevard, Cleveland, Ohio, will represent the Antoniedes Company, of New York, makers of the "Rose of Egypt," "Raumo" and "Pendennis" cigarettes in the States of Ohio, Michigan and Indiana. Will call on his old friends in the trade in the near future.

Nashville Wins

ACTION of the greatest importance to the commercial interests of Nashville has just been taken. The Nashville Tobacco Works, which the owners have been considering moving to Louisville, will be kept in Nashville and will be operated on a larger scale. The consideration of the removal of the plant to Louisville grew out of the recent proceedings of the United States Government to dissolve the American Tobacco Company, of which the local company was a subsidiary company. It was not generally known, however, that any steps to take the plant away from Nashville were being considered. The plant employs about 300 operatives, and has a business amounting to more than $750,000. The company has recently been reorganized under the dissolution plan, with Mr. P. J. Hanlon, of Louisville, succeeding Mr. E. B. McDonald, of New York, as president. The company plans to increase the capacity of its plant to 5,000,000 pounds a year.

The Bright Spot Cigar Company, Clinton, Ia., doing a wholesale, retail and manufacturing business in cigars, is open and already doing a lucrative business.

"United" Open New St Louis Store

ANOTHER "United" store, one of the first since the injunction proceedings of last year, has been opened in St. Louis. The Samson Tobacco Co., of Barren County, Ohio, has increased its capital from $20,000 to $100,000.

Johnson Cigar Co. Increases Capital

THE G. J. Johnson Cigar Company, of Grand Rapids, Mich., has increased its capitalization from $30,000 to $250,000, to more nearly correspond with its financial condition and to provide for the growth of the business.

Wisconsin Mfrs. Elect Heads

THE Cigar Manufacturers' Association, of Green Bay, Wis., has elected officers as follows: President, Peter Eggner; vice-president, A. P. Van Schyndle; secretary, A. A. Basche; treasurer, James Trich. Messrs. Eggner and Van Schyndle are new officers in the Association.

A PROPOS of the alarmists who would have us believe that the tobacco trade of America is on the decline and will soon go to the bow-wows on account of being divided against itself and furthermore, having become a thorn in the eye of reformers, a confrère of mine of the optimistic turn of mind, sends me some fanciful figures which he bases upon the cold statistics supplied by Uncle Sam at the close of the year 1911. He says that by these figures he hopes to prove that still there may be a little life left in our storm-beaten craft.

He then goes on to show me in black and white, with mathematical precision, that if the nearly 10,000,000,000 cigarettes made in this country last year were placed end to end they would reach around the globe nineteen times!

The fact is that in 1911 there were manufactured 1,184,000,000 more cigarettes than in the preceding year, an increase of 13.6 per cent. The manufacture of little cigars shows an even greater increase, it being in round figures, 160,000,000, or 15.2 per cent.

My fanciful friend then goes on to show me that as regards large cigars, there were, in the year 1911, 7,270,000,000 of these trusty heart-balmers made, and that if these were placed end to end they would girdle the globe eighteen times, to the nineteen times for the cigarettes; while the addition of the small cigars would more than parallel the "tracks" of the "coffin nails."

Warming up to his subject the droll statistician thereupon demonstrates by whole numbers and fractions, that—estimating the total population of America to be 90,000,000, every man, woman and child in this country, in the course of the year 1911 smoked (or somebody smoked for them) eighty big cigars, thirteen small cigars, 109 cigarettes and four pounds of smoking tobacco (the output of the last shows a decline) "And there you are," he winds up his story. "Gi'me a match, please."

Robert Goelet enjoys a good smoke and a good story equally well. One day recently he was enjoying a Havana while waiting for his auto in front of one of the big buildings around by the Goelet estate, when there approached him an elderly and impertinent reformer.

"How many times do you smoke a day?" asked the meddler.

"Three," answered Mr. Goelet, as patiently as he could.

"How much do you pay for them?"

"Fifty cents," confessed the young man.

"Don't you know, sir," continued the sage, "that if you would save the money, by the time you are as old as I am you would own the big building over the way?"

"Do you own it?" inquired Mr. Goelet

"No."

"Well, I do," said the young man, and the reformer faded.

"Is it wiser to sell a man fifty cents' worth of cigars and keep his friendship or force one dollar's worth on him and lose him?" This question I was asked by one of the men who holds a responsible position behind one of the busiest counters in New York. I promptly replied. "Try to sell him exactly what he wants regardless of your own inclinations or ideas as to what he ought to have."

I had the opportunity a few days ago of noting the different methods of two distinctly different types of salesmen. The first man walked up to the retail merchant, presented his card after bidding him the time of day, and then, in a straightforward manner, proceeded to enumerate the advantages that this particular merchant might derive from pushing that line of goods. He met every argument with a fair business like rebuttal and eventually interested the dealer sufficiently to secure a small trial order. More important than the order, he gained the respect of his prospective customer. He had hardly left the store when in there sauntered with an easy confident gait, a gay, well-dressed proposition, bountifully decorated with precious stones, who placed his elbow on the counter and ordered "Three for a Dollar." He then treated the merchant to a great big story mainly about his own greatness, inquired as to all the members of the family (whom he had never met) and requested to know as to "how many cases of perfectos" he wanted for a trial. About two minutes by the clock Mr. Salesman left the store minus one dollar and a few minutes time. He realized that he had been talking to a man who was strictly business.

It is an unfortunate but nevertheless common usage with a great many buyers of cigars and smokers' articles, to openly doubt a salesman's statements as to the merits of the goods offered. I overheard the following conversation the other day in one of the up-town stores:

Customer: "Have you any clear Havana cigars for a nickel?"

Clerk: "Our special is clear Havana."

Customer: "Ah, What'y'er giv'in us."

Clerk: "You can believe it or not I don't care."

With that the customer walked out very angry and the store will probably never see him again. The clerk evidently had not been behind a counter long enough to become accustomed to the many and varied crankisms of the different thoughtless patrons.

Tobacco does solace the unhappy, does cheer the worried, does smooth out with kindly fingers the many cares of man. It is a friend in need and a friend in comfort. It is no more demoralizing than food, and I have my doubts whether tobacco isn't more of a necessity than a luxury. Too much food, too much drink, too much of anything is demoralizing, but because the foolish are given to excesses I cannot find that an argument against anything which serves as a friend of man.

It is gratifying to us, and must be a source of pleasure and satisfaction to any man who has the true future welfare and prosperity of the great cigar and tobacco industry of the United States at heart, to note how Organization— at the call of the need—as it were, powerful organizations, cementing the various branches of the industry as potent and directive forces, individually and collectively, are springing into being in all parts of the country.

The avowed purpose and mission of these organizations are to protect and safeguard legitimate business and keep it within the proper channels; and, on the other hand, combat and destroy unlawful, trade-destroying, "get-rich-quick" methods in whatever form they may happen to present themselves.

Of the several branches of the industry among which the co-operative tendency has manifested itself, none, perhaps, will derive so much benefit and strength from its organizations as that of the retail cigar merchant, and when we think of the potential material for organization among retailers it is indeed a great study. We find that there are over 1,000,000 retail stores in this country representing fifteen trades. About fifty per cent. of these are organized. Members of organizations practically all read trade papers. Only about ten per cent. of those who are not organized do. While that is a general statement, yet it shows the merchant who is alive enough to reason that by affiliating himself with his fellowmen he of necessity becomes a stronger man.

Now, when the retail cigar and tobacco merchant once gets the full benefit of that organized power, and each merchant comes to know his channel for profit, and through his local organization, affiliated with the national bodies, becomes strong enough to protect his legitimate source of income against all illegitimate competitions, one of the greatest problems of the rank and file of the retail cigar and tobacco trade of the country will have been solved, and together with the coupon and mail-order questions will simplify and solve themselves.

The business is here; the money is here; the problem of the hour resolves itself into the arriving at an equitable distribution of trade under a fair competitive system. And that system, with the present day irresistible and irrevocable tendency toward concentration in every branch of commerce, can only be reached, in the retail cigar and tobacco industry as elsewhere, by meeting like with like and present a solid front to the giant invader—call him trust or what you will. If you are strong enough to meet him on an equal footing, he is harmless and reduces himself into a stimulating and quickening adjunct to your trade; but if he finds you a body of men whom no mutual tie protects, scattered as chaff before the wind, he at once will proceed to work his deadly game upon you, and before his cunning you will go down.

The law of life is, that the big fish ever in the end devours the little fellow, even where the humane element enters in—there it has been neatly denominated "benevolent assimilation." But the net result is the same. Therefore, organize!

The business value of polite language, pleasant manners and a cheerful friendly face had been but partially recognized and exploited until Americas large commercial organizations arrived and brought along a quest for and a fine perception of each and every potential commercial value that had lain dormant—searching for them in the world of ethics, discovering them, bringing them out and reducing them to a simple practical general standard; then counting with them as assets.

That process is still going on. The successful manager of every great concern, by necessity, has to be something of a practical psychologist. He must know how to figure with human nature on a large scale. He has to reckon, not with individuals, but with generalities. The manners, methods and physical and mental caliber of all his clerks are generalized by him.

He carefully directs and determines in broad outlines (but not in hair-splitting minor details, which would kill the initiative of the clerk) his way of approaching, waiting upon and expediting the customer, and that polite "Thank you," "Call again, Sir," "We are obliged to you" or whatever the general phrase prescribed by the manager for general use by his hundreds or thousands of assistants lingers long in the memory of the customer.

Also the successful present day business manager knows that system, orderliness, sunshine and cheer attend upon fair physical health, steady nerves and good habits. Hence, in employing his help he makes his selection with this thought uppermost in his mind, and he is most careful to surround his clerks with the highest possible degree of hygiene, sanitation and system in order to preserve and develop the qualities of courtesy, cheerfulness, punctuality and order in them. And wherever practicable he further caters to these assets in his assistants by stimulating their interest and good will toward the concern through a suitable percentage allowed them in the summing up of their weekly sales.

Cheerfulness and Courtesy as Business Asset

Independent Cigar Co. Expands

THE expansion of the Independent Cigar Company, now under way, is a noteworthy news-item in the retail cigar business in the Quaker City. The concern at present has two stores, one on 13th street above Arch and another at 9 South 13th street. The latter is a branch and the firm at present only occupies part of the premises, sharing them with a barber. But from about March 1st the Independent store will acquire the entire space, giving it about three times as much room as it at present covers.

The owner of the firm, L. Petrowsky, contemplates making the remodeled store his headquarters. The cigarette salesmen of both the Independent and the Trust interests foregather in this establishment.

The Independent Company supplies the consumer only, and has one of the largest, if not the largest outlets in Philadelphia, in the cigarette line.

Donohue & Eaton Distribute "Counsellor"

Joseph F. Gallagher, of Allen R. Cressman's Sons, Philadelphia, has returned from a brief visit through the Middle West. While in Indianapolis, Mr. Gallagher arranged with Donohue & Eaton to act as their distributor of the Cressman products, featuring the "Counsellor" their well-known nickel cigar.

Well-Known Philadelphians Start New Factory

CE. BROWN is president, and Abbott G. Boucher, secretary and treasurer of the Brown-Boucher Company, recently incorporated under the laws of Pennsylvania with a capital of $10,000.

The business of the new company will be the manufacture of high-grade cigarettes under the name of "Medon," and plans have been made for a distribution of these goods in the States of Pennsylvania, New York, New Jersey, Delaware and Maryland.

The office and factory is located at 1203 Cutlbert street, Philadelphia, and as Mr. Brown is thoroughly familiar with the territory to be developed, having had the distribution of the "Recruit" cigarette for the American Tobacco Co. for about twenty years, and Mr. Boucher was until recently connected with Allen R. Cressman's Son. A very large measure of success is predicted for the new enterprise.

Flourishing Retail Store Changes Hands

TE. HENNICKE, 2639 Germantown avenue, Philadelphia, has purchased of J. P. Brown, the cigar store at Fifteenth and Cumberland streets, which is considered one of the best up-town stands in Philadelphia.

Mr. Hennicke will continue to manage the Germantown avenue store, and the management of the Fifteenth and Cumberland store will be in the hands of E. W. Meredith.

Atherholt Starts Advertising Campaign

TG. ATHERHOLT, 111 South Broad street, Philadelphia, has just completed a distribution of 1500 letters under two cent postage, advising his patrons that all sizes of "Rigoletto" cigars can be purchased at his store, and inviting smokers of discrimination to test this well-known brand of 10c. cigars.

E. A. Klein Visits Philadelphia

EA. KLINE, of E. A. Kline & Company, Cleveland, Ohio, manufacturers of the "Rigoletto" 10c. cigar, was a recent visitor in Philadelphia, at which time plans for an extensive campaign on this widely advertised brand were discussed.

Joe Rubitschek, the Pittsburgh representative of this company, will operate a crew of specially trained salesmen, and attractive window displays and high-class advertising matter will be distributed among the local dealers.

H. N. Goldsmith & Company, 639 Arch street, the Philadelphia distributor, will co-operate in every movement to place these cigars before the public.

E. C. Bondy, of Bondy & Lederer, New York, stopped off in Philadelphia for a few hours recently.

J. Jenkins, for several years connected with Bayuk Brothers, and L. M. B. Goff, until recently associated with Gumpert Brothers, have joined the selling force of H. N. Goldsmith & Company, 639 Arch street, Philadelphia.

Louis Gerhard, representative of E. Kleiner & Company, is known throughout the State of New Jersey as "La Famosa Man," and he is winning new customers for this famous brand of cigars every day.

Quaker City Items

M. J. Dalton, of M. J. Dalton & Company, Philadelphia, will leave New York via the Ward Line, on February 17th, en route for Cuba, to visit the several factories he represents.

W. H. Nicholson and Tillman Funk, Southern salesmen for the "44" Cigar Company, Philadelphia, have recently opened several new and desirable accounts in that territory. O. L. Meyers, covering the Middle West section, has proven the popularity of the "44" products by new and duplicate orders.

Mr. Morris, of L. Sanchez, Tampa, Fla., recently spent several days in Philadelphia calling on the local trade.

S. C. Jeitles, covering Middle West territory in the interest of Jeitles & Blumenthal, Ltd., Philadelphia, has met with such success selling the "Flor de Jeitles" and "Royal Peer" cigars, that the factory is now running to the limit to keep pace with the demand.

A new cigar store has been opened at Ninth and Filbert streets, Philadelphia, by Charles B. Smith at the stand formerly conducted by F. C. Moore.

Albert Gumpert, of Gumpert Brothers, Philadelphia, has returned from a four weeks' trip through the Middle West, having completed one of his most successful tours in recent years. He finds that the distributors of the "Full Weight" cigars are rapidly increasing their business and are enthusiastic over the way the cigars are repeating. He expects to leave next week for a brief trip through New York and New England.

It is encouraging to report that the month just closed proved to be the largest January in the history of the Cressman factories. Their output shows a gain of 25% over the same period of last year and despite this, they are still behind in their orders. The demand for "Counsellor" cigars has been growing steadily wherever they are introduced.

Otto and Charles J. Eisenlohr, members of the firm of Otto Eisenlohr & Brothers, 940 Market street, Philadelphia, left Philadelphia, on February 10th, for a pleasure trip to Florida. A fishing and gunning excursion will be among the plans which will be carried out, and Charles J. Eisenlohr will visit Palm Beach before returning home early in March.

TULSA, Okla., February 6, 1912.
THE "WORLD" is a welcome visitor and I always read it before reading the daily.
 Tulsa is growing very rapidly and the new "Hotel Tulsa," 12 stories, is nearly completed. My business shows a satisfactory increase every month.

Yours,

"Brad,"

Lichtenstein Heads American Sumatra Co.

AT a meeting of the stockholders of the American Sumatra Tobacco Company, in New York, last week, the services of Julius Lichtenstein in up-building this company were fittingly recognized by his election to the presidency of the corporation. William A. Tucker, of Tucker, Anthony & Company, bankers, and Emil Wedeles, of Wedeles Bros., Chicago, were elected vice-president and Leonard A. Cohn was re-elected secretary and treasurer. A new director elected to the board was Louis Leopold.

Sommer's Cigar Factory Destroyed

THE cigar factory of H. Sommer, Quakertown, Pa., was destroyed by fire recently, entailing a loss of $20,000, which was fully insured. A big stock of cigars and tobacco was consumed by the flames.

H. M. Schermerhorn, Inc. Displace "United"

AN important lease has just been made at Chicago, through which H. M. Schermerhorn, Inc., secure a store at State and Randolph streets. Messrs. Schermerhorn & Rosenthal, sole owners of the Schermerhorn enterprise by this acquisition, displace the United Cigar Stores Co. from the store they first occupied in Chicago, giving them a corner location of remarkable value for a cigar store, at the intersection of two of the busiest street corners in the world. The lease is for ten years, from May 1st, at a rental of $10,000 a year.

Senator Ruland Heads Anti-coupon Campaign

ASSEMBLYMAN ARTHUR J. RULAND, of Binghamton, is the father of a bill amending the penal law, covering the giving of premiums, coupons, etc., with tobacco, cigars, cigarettes and liquors. The proposed law makes it unlawful to sell or exchange or give away coupons, prize cards, tickets, trading stamps or any other inducement to stimulate trade in the articles mentioned.

Defi Self Cleaning Pipe a Success

THE W. P. Co., 129 West 31st street, New York City, are successfully advertising the Defi Self-Cleaning Pipe, which is attached with a self-cleaning apparatus to the stem, so that it cannot be lost except if the pipe goes with it. The cleaning process is effected by simply turning the top of the bowl. Only one or two turns are necessary to clean the bowl thoroughly.

Salt Lake City Retail Cigar Merchants Victorious

THE closing of cigar stores on Sundays in Salt Lake City, which has recently been enforced by the chief of police in the face of the vigorous protests of the dealers, has been declared illegal by a decree of the local courts, and the mayor has informed the police chief that henceforth he must not molest the cigar dealers. Police Chief Grant is a political crank.

Bankruptcy Petition Against Tampa Firm

The Moehle Lithographic Co., and two other creditors, through their attorneys, Mandelbaum Bros., have filed a petition in bankruptcy against Fernandez, Lopez & Co., Tampa, Fla., cigar manufacturers. It appears from the petition that the corporation owes $15,000, with assets of about $55,000. A motion has been made for the appointment of a receiver, returnable February 12.

The act of bankruptcy alleged in the petition is the making of payments to creditors within four months, with intent to prefer such creditors.

Who'll be the Lucky One?

SPIRITED bidding for the cigar privileges in the new Municipal Building, near the Brooklyn Bridge, Park Row, New York City, is now in progress among prominent metropolitan retailers, who recognize that it is a good berth.

Samuel and Isaac Goldberg, of the Lilies Cigar Co., Detroit, Mich., have purchased the property located at 71-73 Broadway, and intend to place a $50,000 modern building thereon, after tearing down the old structure.

The Varsity Cigar Co., Inc., New Haven, Conn., is bankrupt. The liabilities are $3932.99; assets, $2282.52.

Northeast Corner of Nassau and John Streets Leased by "United"

LOUIS BEAL, vice-president of the United Cigar Stores Co., has just closed a long lease on behalf of his concern of the northeast corner of Nassau and John streets, from Schmidt & Donohue, as agents for George Ehret, owner of the property.

The corner, on which there are now five old four-story buildings, fronting 100.4 feet on Nassau street, 77 feet on John street, with a depth of 110 feet, was leased for a period of twenty-one years from May 1st, at an aggregate rental of about $800,000, with the privilege of four renewals at rentals to be determined by a re-valuation, based on 5 per cent., at the expiration of each term.

It is proposed by the lessees to erect an eighteen-story office building of the type of the Liberty Tower as soon as existing leases expire in May. One of these leases has two years to run, and if this cannot be cancelled the project will be delayed, but it is expected that the matter will be adjusted and the project permitted to go ahead in May, plans now being in preparation with that end in view.

The United Cigar Stores Company has in recent years engaged in a number of large leasing enterprises, which have been advantageously disposed of to other interests, but in this instance the company intends to complete the project and occupy half of the store floor with a premium station.

E. Kleiner a Busy Man

EKLEINER, of E. Kleiner & Company, has been spending several days in the New England States in the interests of the "Lord Macauley" and "LaFamosa" brands. He returned to his New York headquarters several days ago and expressed himself as pleased beyond measure with the favorable reception which had been accorded the firm's products in the East. E. Kleiner & Company are working overtime in their efforts to cope with the ever-increasing demand for their goods.

President of U. C. M. Optimistic

JACOB WERTHEIM, president of the United Cigar Manufacturers, who has been on a three weeks' trip to the Pacific Coast, has just returned to his New York headquarters. Mr. Wertheim was exceedingly pleased with the trade conditions which he found existant in that important territory and he looks forward to a very prosperous year in the cigar and tobacco business.

Treasury Officials Approve of Havana Importers Association

AREPORT from Washington states that the Treasury Department officials are much pleased with the organization of the Havana Importers' Association, and are ready to give it their cordial support. The next meeting of the Association will take place February 26, when Government officials and members of the association will confer.

Annual Statement by United Cigar Manufacturers' Co.

ACCORDING to the annual statement just issued by the United Cigar Manufacturers' Company, their net earnings for the year 1911 were $1,179,426.40. The surplus and reserve of the concern amount to $3,140,460.48. The capital stock has been increased by $5,000,000. The meeting was held on February 1st, in the Owl factory, Second avenue and 54th street, New York City.

Paul H. Hirschborn Has a Wife

PAUL H. HIRSCHBORN, well-known to the cigar trade of the United States and identified with the ownership of the United Cigar Manufacturers Company, was married to Miss Louise Marie Offenbach, at Delmonico's, New York, early in February. Mrs. Hirschborn is a daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Offenbach, 102 West 86th street, New York.

New Lithographic Concern

THE National Lithographic Company, a new concern operating a large plant at the corner of 79th street and East End avenue, have just completed their first run of labels.

They are turning out some very high-class work, and have considerable encouragement from the trade.

The firm is well capitalized, and the men in charge of the art work have many years of experience in the finest foreign plants as well as in American shops.

G. S. Nicholas & Co. Acquire the Auto Habit

GS. NICHOLAS & COMPANY, New York City, have acquired for city delivery of their cigars a new model Packard, three-ton Auto Truck—one of the handsomest vehicles of its kind in New York. The body of the car is enameled in maroon and the advertising devices are in gold leaf.

Swindler Operating In New York

AN alleged manager of a suburban club has lately busied himself among New York cigar manufacturers and importers, gathering unto himself samples of choice weeds from the unwary. The captain wants him. Hand him over.

U. C. M.'s "Bank Note" a Winner

THE United Cigar Manufacturers Co. report an ever increasing demand for their "Bank Note" cigars. This cigar goes to the trade at $33.66 per thousand. The label is a very attractive one; the cigar is a well-made and good looking one, and the advertising matter which accompanies it has helped very materially to introduce it in all sections of the country. The largest jobbers in all sections have placed very large orders for the "Bank Note," and they state that it is finding ready favor with all classes of consumers. One of the special features which has largely helped in the introduction of the "Bank Note" cigar, has been a very handsome mission humidor which holds fifty cigars and is given to the dealer with every 500 cigars. These humidors the dealers usually place upon their counters with the cigars and it makes this particular brand very conspicuous in the general display of goods.

Anti Coupon Measure Discussed by I. R. T. A. A.

THE Independent Retail Tobacconists Association of America held a special meeting at Terrace Garden on the evening of February 8. The main subject which came up for discussion was the report by Attorney Hunter on the Ruland Anti-Coupon Bill which had recently been introduced in the New York legislature. The members present were very enthusiastic over this bill and a committee was appointed which will accompany Attorney Hunter when the bill comes up for a hearing, which will be in thirty or sixty days.

The ways and means committee reported that work was progressing very satisfactorily on the Organization's Souvenir Journal. It is expected by those who are working on this publication, that considerable money will be realized from the advertisements which will appear in the paper. These funds will be turned over to the general treasury and used for the legal fund.

About fifty of the old members were present at the last meeting and a number of new members were enrolled.

New York and Philadelphia Claim "Fido"

This is how Godfrey S. Mahn's famous "Barking Dog" brand originated. One day when the boss was not there the boy, being of an experimental and mischievous turn of mind, tried the psychological and physical effect of one of Mr. Mahn's choice brands of goods upon the canine, inserting a pipe between the bull-terrier's teeth and giving him a light.

The story fails to record as to whether "Fido" puffed away contentedly or not, but he certainly appeared to get the habit, for we have Mr. Mahn's own words for it that a little later, when "Fido" and his now indispensable pipe ran up against two S. P. C. A. agents, and they attempted to relieve him of his pipe, there was a fight.

The story of "Fido" and his pipe and the humane society is now being commented upon by the press of two continents, and all because Mr. Mahn's office-boy got it into his head to try his boss' goods on "Fido" in a noble spirit of investigation.

Meanwhile, we have Mr. Mahn's word for it that poor "Fido" is barkin', barkin', barkin' for his pipe.

Late New York Notes

B. Rabinowitz, formerly operating the cigar stand at 43 Cedar street, New York, has purchased the cigar stand in the Smith, Gray & Co. Building at 261 Broadway. He announces that he will handle only the best clear Havana, Seed and Havana, Porto Rican and imported Havana cigars.

Guy S. Kellog, for many years representing the American Clay Pipe Works, Brooklyn, N. Y., has associated himself with the Manhattan Briar Pipe Co., 111 Fifth avenue, Manhattan, of which John Glossinger is president.

Among the prominent trade visitors in the Metropolis during the past fortnight was Oscar Hemenway, Hemenway & Moser, Salt Lake City, who operate a number of large wholesale houses in the Northwest. Mr. Hemenway arrived in the city during the early part of the month and has been calling on the large firms with whom his house has connections. The past year has been an exceptionally busy one with the Hemenway & Moser Company, and according to Mr. Hemenway's expectations the sales will be even larger during 1912.

James Burns, Southern representative for F. Lozano, Son & Company, who has been in New York for the past two weeks, left a few days ago to spend five weeks on a trip through his territory. Mr. Burns has just closed the most successful year of his connection with the prominent firm and he looks forward to heavy increases during the year which has just started. Mr. Faustino Lozano, the head of the firm, is still in Tampa. Mr. Ben Lesser, the firm's Western representative, is booking some very handsome orders in his territory and Joe Gernsheimer, the genial Metropolitan representative of the house, is giving a good account of himself.

Louis Schneider, a well-known cigar manufacturer, died February 2nd, at his residence, 1601 Seventh avenue. He was born in Giessen, Germany, in 1843. He conducted a cigar store at the corner of Congress street and Seventh avenue. Mr. Schneider was one of the oldest members of the Turn Verein.

Mr. Holmes, assistant manager of the Acker, Merral & Condit Company's cigar department, has just returned from a three weeks' sojourn in Cuba and Key West. Mr. Holmes was accompanied by his wife and they enjoyed their visit to the cigar manufacturing centres and the famous East Coast very much.

The annual meeting of the stockholders of the Globe Tobacco Company was held on February 5th, and the following board of directors elected for the ensuing year: Walter R. Hamper, Reuben Kempf, Homer McGraw, Wm. T. McGraw, A. C. Stellwagen. The board elected the following officers: Homer McGraw, president; Reuben Kempf, vice-president; Walter R. Hamper, secretary-treasurer and general manager.

C. A. Stroude, the popular office attache of Berriman Brothers, is taking a much needed vacation. Mr. Stroude is at present in Tampa visiting the firm's handsome factory in South Florida's cigar city. This is Mr. Stroude's first visit to the cigar metropolis and he is being entertained by the "Only Manuel Sanchez." In his absence M. W. Berriman is looking after affairs at the New York office.

New York Notes

E. J. Berliner, the capable sales agent for the Manhattan Briar Pipe Company, is now on an extensive trip through his territory in New York, Pennsylvania and Maryland. Mr. Berliner has been sending in some nice orders. While there has not been so far, any great demand for fancy pipes the call for general run of briars has been very satisfactory and promises a heavy business later in the year.

S. M. Frank & Company, the progressive pipe house, are placing a guarantee slip in the bowl of each pipe sold by them, which reads as follows: "We will replace, free of charge, the bowl of any pipe that burns or breaks through if identified as a Frank."

This plan has been very successful and as a result of their strenuous campaign, backed by an absolute guarantee, the firm have more than doubled their output during the past fifteen months. Mr. S. M. Frank has just recently started on a six weeks' trip through his Western territory.

John G. Glossinger, the recently elected president of the Manhattan Briar Pipe Company is making a flying trip through the Eastern States in the interests of his company.

Guy S. Kellogg, who for many years has been associated with the American Clay Pipe Works of Brooklyn, has joined the forces of the Manhattan Briar Pipe Company.

N. D. B. Elmendorf, the manager of the cigar department at the Plaza Hotel, has left for a three weeks' journey to Havana. While on the island Mr. Elmendorf will make extensive purchases of high-grade brands for the fine hotel which he represents. He will also visit Tampa, Jacksonville and Savannah before returning to New York.

David Echemendia, American representative for the Castaneda brand of Cuba, made a flying trip to the Quaker City during the past week. The demand for Castanedas is now increasing all the time and this old brand is being widely distributed in Philadelphia largely through the efforts of Mr. Echemendia.

The "Natural Bloom" cigar, manufactured by Harry Bloom, is now being featured by a number of the prominent down town stands, and the dealers who handle it claim that they have found it to please their customers very much.

Don Salvador Rodriguez, who has been spending the last few months in Havana and Tampa, returned to New York several days ago and will spend a short time at the main offices of the "Charles the Great" house. It is probable that he will return to Tampa within the next fortnight. The past year's business has been more than satisfactory with this leading house and as a result of this activity the strain has been very heavy on Don Salvador, but he has stood it nobly and is as ever in harness attending to the important details of the firm's large business. Fernando Rodriguez, who has been taking care of the office end during the past winter, will leave for Tampa some time in March and will relieve his father at the factory during the summer.

George L. Storm, of George L. Storm & Company, has been spending several days in Boston and the East. He returned to his New York desk several days ago after having materially strengthened the distribution of the firm's goods in the important New England centres.

Hotel Belmont has Splendid Cigar Dept.

A visit to the cigar humidors and stands in the Belmont Hotel, N. Y., is indeed a pleasure. This department which is operated by Burton Nathaway with the assistance of Arthur Casside, lacks none of the essentials which denote the perfect, high-grade cigar department. Constant care and attention, backed by ample means and facilities have enabled these two experienced men to arrange their spacious humidor and attractive stands in a business-inviting manner.

Naturally their chief play is for the high-grade business and their assortment of goods and methods of display are of such a calibre as to secure what they are after.

The large humidor in the basement has a capacity for over one million cigars. Splendid humidity arrangements have been made and the special compartments divided for imported and domestic cigars, always with a view toward the most perfect handling and keeping of the respective products.

In Tampa-made cigars the following brands are featured: "Ellimore and Reyes de Espana," Lopez, Hermanos & Company; "Flor de F. Lozano," F. Lozano, Son & Company; "Van Dyck," M. A. Gunst Company; "Optimo," A. Santaella & Company; "White Heather," Cuesta Rey & Company (The Truly Spanish House); "Mi Favorita," Park & Tilford and Graham Courtney, sold by the Acker, Merril & Condit Company.

"Blenheim," a domestic brand manufactured by the Havencia Cigar Company, of New York, is also featured at the Belmont.

H. I. A. Makes Headway

The recently launched Havana Importers' Association, New York City, is rapidly increasing its membership roll.

It was announced at its first meeting that Government officials will hold a conference with the tobacco examiners of the various ports on February 26, in regard to the wrapper duty issue. A proposition was made whereby uniform appraisements might be secured, if found practicable by the Government.

The Men That Blaze the Trail

The National Cigar Co., Chicago, has been incorporated to deal in tobacco, cigarettes and smoking tobacco. Capital, $15,000. Incorporators, Joseph Lewis, Sam D. Seiderman and John L. Lewis.

The A. M. Balfany Tobacco Co., Duluth, Minn., has filed articles of incorporation. The capital is $10,000, and the incorporators J. M. Fenstad and others.

A deal has been consummated whereby J. A. Jenkins, who moved to Lima last August, from Paulding, Ohio, becomes the full owner of the Manhattan cigar store and poolroom on west High street, Lima, and the Oakland Hotel, which occupies the two floors above the poolroom, formerly owned by Col. John L. Sapp, who purchased the place from Ed. Roberts about three years ago.

Stockholders of the Globe Tobacco Company, Detroit, Mich., at their annual meeting recently elected directors as follows: Walter R. Hamper, Reuben Kempf, Homer McGraw, William T. McGraw, A. C. Stellwagen. The directors elected these officers: President, Homer McGraw; vice-president, Reuben Kempf; secretary, treasurer and general manager, Walter R. Hamper.

Green Brothers in about a month will move their cigar store and factory from the present quarters, at the corner of Center and Eagle streets, North Adams, Mass., to their wholesale candy establishment on Center street in order to have both lines of business conducted in the same building.

The Tolles Tobacco Manufacturing Company, Glasgow Junction, Ohio, has been incorporated. Capital, $2,000. Incorporators, J. E. Smith, J. F. Redman, John Vaughn, R. E. Courtney, C. N. Walton, J. C. Tolle and J. B. Hatcher.

Lovell-Puffington Tobacco Company, Covington, Ky., has been incorporated. Capital, $500,000. Incorporators, B. D. Beet, F. Stuey, James Ellis, Henry J. James, H. Friedman and R. D. Best.

After ten years of partnership in the cigar business with Herman Levy, at 402 Delaware street, Leavenworth, Kans., Ed. T. Dicks has bought Mr. Levy's interest and became sole proprietor of the Dicks Cigar Co.

The filing of an involuntary petition in bankruptcy against Maurice Schryver, a School street, Boston, tobacco dealer, and the announcement that he had dropped from sight, occasioned much surprise. It is claimed that his liabilities are $15,000 and that he is able to pay but 25 cents on the dollar.

S. M. Arndt has sold his cigar store and pool hall, on North Broadway, to Hill & Son, Ninth and Wyandotte streets, Kansas City, Kan., at present a firm dealing in ladies ready-to-wear garments. "We will continue to operate the store," said R. E. Hill, "and hope to maintain its high standing in its line."

Miss Lucy Page Gaston has sworn out a warrant for the arrest of Joseph Bitte, owner of a cigar store, at 3942 North Ashland avenue, Chicago, Ills., charging him with allowing minors to frequent his premises and smoke cigarettes.

The cigar store of Maurice Daly, on South Race street, Urbana, Ills., was burglarized the other night and a quantity of tobacco and a number of pipes taken. Entrance was gained by breaking out one of the windows in the rear of the store.

The Hudson Cigar Manufacturing Company, Jersey City, N. J., has been incorporated to deal in tobacco and cigars. Capital, $200,000. Incorporators, J. F. Kelly, E. A. Kelly, both of Jersey City, and T. Norton, of Bayonne.

Harry Mahr, for seventeen years in the cigar business at 481 Broadway, New York, has removed to 38 East 22nd street.

The stockholders of the Quincy Cigar Store Company, Quincy, Ills., had a meeting Wednesday night, at which W. E. Downing, W. E. Yarbrough, Henry L. Hill, L. H. Brink and J. G. Raymond were elected as board of directors for 1912. The board is to have a meeting soon to elect officers.

Alvin Geidel, the popular and enterprising cigarmaker of West Bend, Wis., after a long siege of illness, is able to be about again.

Howard H. Bennett, of Ottawa, Ills., has purchased the cigar and tobacco store which for many years was conducted by M. B. Mitchell, at 120 West Madison street. Success.

The Minnesota Cigar Co., is the name of a new cigar store, opened in the Klink Building, Duluth, Minn., by Philip Segal and James Lavick.

The National Cigar and Tobacco Co. has been incorporated at Chicago, Ills., by Joseph Lewis, Sam D. Seiderman and John L. Lewis.

Dan Quinn, of Ottawa, Ills., made a business visit to Marseilles and Seneca the other day, looking after the delivery of several thousand cigars from the cigar department of the A. Heiberg drug store.

The Samson Tobacco Co., Barren County, Frankfort, Ky., amended articles increasing capital from $20,000 to $100,000.

Al Bruder, of Bruder Bros' Smokeshop, Superior, Wis., has accepted the management of a cigar store to be installed by the hotel company in the corner of the remodeled Hotel Superior block at Tower avenue and Belknap street.

Dickey & Hodgdon, Boston, Mass., have opened a store at 24 School street for the sale of Park & Tilford's chocolates and bonbons. A feature of interest in this store is the cigar and pipe department, which is under the direction of Mr. Pickering, for many years in the cigar business in Boston.

Samuel Weitzman, cigar dealer at No. 296 Flatbush avenue, Brooklyn, N. Y., was burglarized on February 2d, two men entering his store at noontime and striking him on the head with a club attempted to rifle his cash drawer. Mr. Weitzman, however, was a match for the outlaws, sturdily defending his property until a pedestrian, who became aware that a hold-up was in progress, gave the alarm.

The partnership of W. C. Burke and Harry Wilt, running the cigar and stationery store at 678 Broadway, Gary, Ind., has been dissolved and the business will hereafter be run by Harry Wilt, under name of Juniata Cigar and Stationery Company.

The A. M. Balfany Tobacco Company, of Duluth, Minn., took out articles of incorporation, February 2d, with a capital stock of $10,000. The incorporators named are J. N. Fenstad, J. V. Sherar and W. H. Gurnee, all of this city.

A six-story reinforced concrete cigar factory is being erected on Burke and Benton streets, Roxbury, Mass., for Wait & Bond.

Another big cigar factory will soon be built on Meadow street, opposite Prout, New Haven, Conn., on a lot with a frontage of 80 feet on Meadow street, and extending 150 feet deep on Commerce street, which was recently purchased by J. P. Kilfeather, the well-known cigar manufacturer, from the Trowbridge estate.

Work has been started on the new cigar store for Jacob Hartz & Co., at Third and Main streets, Evansville, Ind., last week. J. Bippus & Son are the general contractors. The improvements contemplate a new front on Main street and also on Third street and complete remodeling of the interior of the building. Clifford Shopbell & Co. are the architects.

Mr. William J. Garvey, who recently resigned as manager of the New York Telephone Company, Elmira, N. Y., to go into business for himself, has purchased the Thurber Brown cigar stand on the corner of Lake and Carroll streets, for some time run by Thomas Murpley. This is one of the best established cigar and tobacco stores in the city and under the proprietorship of Mr. Garvey, with popular "Jack" Gilson as first mate and Louis McCanna as second mate is certain to become even better and more patronized than in the past.

The Eisenberger Bros., Dayton, Ohio, have obtained a lease from the Taft estate, giving them the room now occupied by the Douglas shoe store, in the Conover Building, Third and Main streets. They intend to establish a cigar store on this corner and will continue to run the one they now have on South Main street.

E. Godfrey Lefler and Clifford B. Stoll have taken over the Smiley News and Cigar Store, 115 West Center street, Marion, Ohio, and under the leadership of these able men it will undoubtedly make rapid strides forward.

Detroit Trade Shows no Abatement

January Sales Excellent

DETROIT, Feb. 12, 1912.

DESPITE New Year surveys, and customary relaxation, the triumphant grind of Detroit industrial and commercial progress shows no abatement. The almost unanimous report of local cigar and tobacco merchants is that January sales have been excellent. The complexion of the manufacturing end shows no pallor with internal revenue stamps for January, 1912—$64,200.02 for cigars, $167,537.14 for tobacco; as against $60,057.87 and $120,614.85 for the corresponding period last year.

The very large increase in sale of tobacco stamps indicated in the foregoing is due almost entirely to the remarkable development of the business of The Scotten-Dillon Tobacco Company. The history of this organization is one of the most remarkable of Detroit's many industrial marvels of recent growth. On a capitalization of $500,000 the company last year paid cash dividends of 50 per cent. To further dispose of an accumulated surplus of some $800,000, an additional melon was cut in the shape of a 100 per cent. stock dividend. This happened about a month ago, but in that short time the stock, which had fallen around $30 after the distribution, has advanced about 100 per cent in the open market, and limited amounts only are offered at $60 to $65 per share. The par value of the stock is $10 per share.

Here is an infant industry that waxed fat on trusted competition. Its sales, however, seem in no wise unfavorably affected by the dissolution of the A. T. Co., and the less organized, though none the less harassing, opposition of its detached, but now more numerous, competitors.

Boys, and especially you fellows who stop at the Hotel Cadillac, when tarrying here have you seen Miss Daisy Meldrum's sealskin coat? If not, step over to the cigar department and ask her about it. Miss Daisy scripped and scraped for four years before she had saved enough to buy that coat, but "It's a dream," said she, "its fifty inches long. I paid for it yesterday, and I've got just one dollar left for another year's subscription to Tobacco World. But say," she added, "don't you mention that sealskin coat or all the boys will 'kid' the life out of me." So we won't say a word about it.

The cigar department of The Berghoff Cafe shows an increase of over $1,100 in January sales beyond sales for the corresponding month last year. This shows well for the genial little manager Tommy Burns, as well as for the growth of the Berghoff business in all dimensions. It was announced in these columns some time ago that the premises are to be enlarged and business extended. Wm. D. C. Morbs, proprietor, has been evolving plans for expansion for some time past.

Frank Ponsford, recently at La Fond's Majestic Store, is now behind the Berghoff counter.

J. B. Girard contemplates with pride and satisfaction the newly equipped Hotel Metropole cigar department, the work of the Detroit Show Case Company. It is in solid mahogany throughout; fine wall cases and "Silent Salesmen" show cases of latest device. The Metropole stand, under Mr. Girard's management, has gallantly maintained the pace set by Bert Johnson before Mr. Girard's arrival. Bert is doing something tidy now for himself across the way at The G. & R. McMillan Co.

Frank M. Smith has introduced a novelty recently in "Pontchartrain Squares" (two for 25 cents) under the "Count Pontchartrain" brand. They are ribboned, four to the bundle.

Mr. Smith likewise placed an order recently with The Falk Tobacco Co., of Richmond, Va., for a special brand of smoking to be known as "Pontchartrain High Grade Mixture." It will appear in 1/4 lb. and 1/2 lb. cans. Price, $2.60 lb.

Davey Jones, star left fielder of the Detroit Tigers, has not been worrying about condition, but has been right on the job at his drug store, corner of Brush and Adams avenue, ever since the close of the league season. Davey enjoys a neat cigar business. Conspicuous in the case are such brands as "Sanchez & Haya," "La Verdud," "Pastora," "Robt. Burns," "R. B.," "Cinco," "San Felice," etc. A neat calendar, issued by him, has made a hit with the fans. It represents a scene in the memorable game, April 15, 1911, between Tigers and White Sox, when the icy winds were drifting the thickly falling snow in such a cloud the players were for a few moments scarcely discernible. Davey, with visor pulled closely down over the eyes, is at bat. Sullivan is catching, and behind his protecting bulk stands Perrine, the umpire. Seldom, if ever before, has a base been made under such weird conditions, but Davey did the trick on that occasion. The game was won by Detroit, as stated on the calendar, by the score of 2 to 0. "Make a hit," it adds, "by trading with Davey Jones Drug Co."

Another popular idol who has entered trade is "Jimmy" Casey, former Tiger outfielder, and known to all fandom. He has purchased the business of A. L. Walker, druggist, 424 Woodward avenue, one of the oldest and best stands north of Grand Circus Park. There is an excellent cigar business attached.

Supera Cigar Company are shipping ever increasing quantities of "Tionesta's," "Saturday Evening Post's" and other brands. They will thankfully enter larger quarters when their new factory is completed, about April.

The Mazer Cigar Mfg. Company removed to their newly-erected plant February 1st.

The Northwest Cigar Mfg. Company help to keep things looking busy out Gratiot avenue way. So does Jos. Muer. Both concerns coming fine.

Chas. A. Connor, well known to the trade through his former connection with San Telmo Cigar Mfg. Company, just couldn't keep out of harness. He has become associated with L. O. Shinkle in the Queen of the Straits factory, which will relieve "Lee" of the necessity and stress of outside, as well as inside, responsibility. Mr. Connor had been out of the cigar business for some time.

The friends of Mose Eisenberg will be interested in learning of his starting a cigar factory in Windsor, Ont., under the style M. Eisenberg & Co. The plant begins operations today, I am informed, but further details are not yet at hand. Here's wishing success!

C. Elliott & Co. advise me that, while not laying overmuch stress on the cigar department of their business, they have nevertheless had good sales of Rohde & Co.'s "Lygia"; also Newberger's "Picadura" and H. Traiser & Co.'s "Pippin," all five cent brands. The last named is made in Boston.

Chas. J. Waxelbaum, Sumatra importer, spent a couple days here lately, which will be his last prior to his early sailing for the Amsterdam inscriptions. Mr. Waxelbaum is active and aggressive and looks confidently to a successful year for his firm.

Among many visiting salesmen I have learned of the following: O. L. Myers, Lipschutz 44 Cigar Co., Philadelphia; Fred Schloss, R. Steinecke Co., New York; Mr. Franklin, A. & G. Kaufmann; Leo Schoeneman, Celestino Vega & Co., Tampa; Frank Horning, H. Anton Bock & Co.; Wm. Higgins, Park & Tilford; Jos. Carlisle, A. Santella y Ca; Stephen Herz, Bustillo Bros. & Diaz; Jacques Planco, Rey Suarez & Co.; Geo. W. Becker, Calisto, Lopez & Co., Tampa; Willis Andrus, F. Garcia & Bro.; —, Calero y Ca, New York; Wm. Charles, G. S. Nicholas & Co., New York; Val Keogh, Jas. Merriam & Co.; — Niple, Louis Ash & Co., New York; Wm. Gorman, Harriet, Hewitt & Co. (formerly Church McConnell Co.), Toledo, Ohio; S. G. Brown, S. G. Brown & Co., New York.

Mr. Alb. Falk, of New York, president of the Albert Falk Tobacco Co., Richmond, Va., was with us awhile planting high-grade smoking in select places.

What the Milwaukee Stores are Doing

MILWAUKEE, Feb. 12.

THE Cuba Rica Cigar Co., in the Wells Building, is making attractive window displays of their leading brands.

Pollak Crombie Co. are doing their usual business. A display of "Westers" and nickel goods is being made. A postal card bears the words "Gentlemen, The Webster Sufficiency," and sufficiency seems to be the case, for sales on that brand are most gratifying.

Leo Abraham recently started a cigar factory of his own, manufacturing a high-grade cigar named the "Don Corella." This cigar is meeting with much favor with the trade, and it has been necessary to increase the force of cigarmakers.

Ray Lewis & Bro. Co. report a good business at both retail stores. They are also doing a brisk business in the wholesale department.

The Iola Cigar Co., manufacturers, have increased their capital stock from $10,000 to $50,000.

The schedules in bankruptcy of the Great North Cigar Co. filed a short time ago showed assets of $7,190.40 and liabilities of $1,652.37.

The Wright Drug Co. continue to enjoy a very good wholesale cigar business, especially on the "Robert Burns," S. A. Eckstein, president of the company, recently celebrated his thirty-eighth anniversary with the business. Starting January, 1874, as errand boy, for what was then known as the J. N. Morton store, by close attention he advanced rapidly and later purchased an interest in the business. The Morton store was one of the oldest in the city, changing to Geo. Wright & Brother. In 1892 it was incorporated as the Wright Drug Co., and in 1907 Mr. Eckstein purchased the interests of Geo. H. and Arthur T. Wright. Mr. Eckstein is popular and well-liked by friends and employees, and all those who come in touch with him. He is also president of the Wisconsin Pharmaceutical Association and third vice-president of the National Association of Retail Druggists.

Ralph Wettstein, the popular Grove street cigarrist, is enjoying a nice business. Recently his name became quite famous in theatricals. Sometime ago he staged a vaudeville sketch in this city under the name of "A Night Out," and recently this same sketch was accepted and looked at by Hammerstein's New York theater. We understand Mr. Wettstein will shortly stage several other plays.

Several changes have taken place throughout the State. Kreuger & Netzel, manufacturers at Wausau, dissolved partnership, G. F. Kreuger selling out to his partner, Aug. C. Netzel.

Ed. Scheff sold his cigar factory at Antigo to D. A. Bain. The factory makes the "Noble Roman" cigar, which is quite well known in that section of the State. Frank Williams has been appointed traveling salesman. Scheff is retained as manager of the factory, while Bain gives his attention to his two retail stores.

Chas. and Henry Frey have opened a cigar factory at Darien, Wis. They will manufacture the "Club Favorite."

Edwin Famback will open a cigar factory at Spooner. The Edgerton Cigar Co., makers of the "Imperial" and "Max No. 10," have increased their output until it now reaches close to 100,000 a month.

Norman L. Carle, of Janesville, is making a business visit at New Orleans; Frank L. Baines is wintering in California. R. C. Bondy, of Bondy & Lederer, New York, has arrived in the State for a brief visit.

Chicago Not Up to the Mark

Jobbers Complain of Slow Collections and Factories Close

CHICAGO, Feb. 10, 1912.

CONDITIONS existing here is only fair, a good many of the cigar manufacturers here are laying men off. There are about six factories closed on account of lack of business. Jobbers report that collections from the country and city are very slow.

Mr. Fleak has captured another prominent space to display a "Pall Mall" cigarette set piece. The architecture is of the "Doric" type on the top of the wall-case of "The Fair" department store. Mr. Fleak and crew have left for Kansas City.

A. J. McBlair, of Marcelino, Penz & Co., spent a few days in this city last week.

Max Hesser, of Hesser Bros., jobbers of cigars, tobacco, etc., on North Halsted street, met death in a peculiar manner while making deliveries. Max was gazing out of the side of the wagon when an axle broke and threw him out on his head, resulting in a broken neck. Death was instantaneous. He leaves many friends to mourn.

A great deal of attention is being attracted to the windows of Graves' jewelry store, on Madison street, wherein a good section of the window is devoted to the display of cigarette cases of the highest quality. Immediately surrounding these fine cases are between fifteen or twenty original boxes of the M. Melachrinio's "Non Plus Ultra" cigarettes, as well as the many cigarette cases being filled with their various styles and sizes. It not only serves the purpose desired, that of furthering the sale of the cigarette cases, but proves a very strong advertising feature for this well known cigarette. This also has been placed in the large windows of Peacock & Lebolt's jewelry store, on State street.

John McKay and Mr. Marks have taken charge of the Best & Russell store at Dearborn and Randolph streets. Their friends wish them the best of success. The latter formerly owned a retail store on Randolph street, near Wabash avenue.

E. A. Hasley, manager Hotel La Salle cigar department, reports a very fine business during the Auto Show week.

A new corporation, under the name of National Cigar and Tobacco Co., has been formed. Joe Lewis, Sam D. Seideman and John L. Lewis.

Mrs. Landfield, of Randall & Landfield, has left for a trip to Cuba.

John J. Dolan will open another new store in the new Hamilton Club Building.

Goods which may be hid and still "called for" is the verdict of "La Venga" cigar, manufactured by Celestino Vega & Co., the increased sale of which is not only due to the efforts of Jack Whitaker and a fine force of salesmen, but the untiring efforts of Mrs. A. Strauss, president of the company.

D. W. Humphreys, who has been representing D. Theocrides cigarettes, has resigned his position to return to Fort Worth, Texas, to look after his father's interests, who is in very bad health. He will be missed by his many friends.

A. B. Gurney, a clerk in the Schermerhorn cigar store at Lake and Dearborn streets, was locked in a closet and the store robbed of $50 by a bandit, who shot Gurney through the right hand and hip, and then calmly walked away. Directly across the street while this was going on stood Policeman Charles Gammell. The roar of the "L" trains prevented his hearing the shot, and he knew nothing of the robbery until the thief had escaped.

Ten cases, containing 33,000 cigars, were stolen from a freight car on the Chicago Junction R. R., at 47th street freight house, and the company has asked the police to search for the thieves. Two of the empty cases were found a block from the freight house.

Three cigar store owners were arrested for selling cigarettes to minors. They were fined $25.00 and costs each.

By order of the U. S. District Court the stock and fixtures of Manuel Perez, cigar manufacturer, was sold at public auction.

B. V. Levy, of New York City, after spending a few days here, has returned home.

Out of town visitors: Ed. Wodiska, Corral Wodiska & Co., Tampa; A. Korn, Furgatch & Co.; Joe Wertheim, José Lovera Co.

Trade in Cincinnati Shows Improvement

Another Stand Opened by Albert Bejach—Re-organization of Lovell & Buffington

CINCINNATI, O., Feb. 10, 1912.

LOCAL manufacturers report that the cigar trade, which made a poor showing the early part of this year, is picking up considerably, owing to the receipt of large and numerous orders, especially from the western states, a locality most favorably disposed toward Cincinnati-made cigars.

The reorganization of the Lovell & Buffington Tobacco Co., tobacco manufacturers of Covington, Ky., is the most important event of the last few days. President B. D. Best has acquired the interests of Joseph E. Mitchell, former secretary Davis and other stockholders. The new corporation is to be known as the Lovell-Buffington Tobacco Co., with a capitalization of $500,000. The incorporators are B. D. Best, F. Stuey, James Ellis, Henry J. James, H. Friedman and R. D. Best, all prominent tobacco men. This business was established about half a century ago, and at the present time employs a force of thirty salesmen to distribute their output.

Albert Bejach, one of our most aggressive wholesale and retailers, opened a new store at 433 Main street yesterday. The fittings are in early English oak, on modern lines, and in accord with the progressive ideas of the owner, making an artistic as well as a practicable display of his popular brands. It is understood that Mr. Bejach will take on one or two new cigar accounts as Cincinnati distributor.

J. S. Hill, head of the well known cigar house of that name, announces that work on the new Gibson House, of which he is president, will be begun at once. Every modern device for the comfort of the traveling men will be installed. The old Gibson House has always been popular with travelling cigar men.

The Philadelphia made cigars, B. Lipschutz's "44," and A. S. Valentine & Sons "La Espanita," are meeting with great success among discriminating smokers. These goods are being distributed by the Geo. A. Voige Cigar Co., which prides itself on handling only brands of proven quality.

E. A. Condex & Co., of New York, is working the local trade on their "Frat" cigarette, which according to all indications, are selling well and will soon become staple.

Roig's Havana clippings, put up in 1 1/2 ounce packages, and retailing at 10 cents, find a ready sale in Charles N. Krohn & Co.'s store in the Commercial Tribune Building, which distributes several well known brands of cigars made by Antonio Roig & Langdorf, of Philadelphia.

Everybody seems to be getting a "Permit" to smoke. President G. J. Brown, of the J. B. Moos Co., states that the "Permit" cigar is showing an increase in volume of sale monthly. The "La Natoma," a high-grade cigar, is being introduced by the Moos Co., which operates branches in Dayton, Cleveland and Toledo.

One of the most popular locally made ten-cent cigars is the "Sonada," of Michael Ibold. The fact that it is "union made" lends much to its popularity among the union element. Mr. Ibold recently moved into his new factory at 9th and Central avenues, which is a model up-to-date plant, with every appliance for the perfect manufacture of high-grade cigars.

Lee Cahn, who conducts a high-grade cigar store in the Union Savings Bank Building, has created a large demand for his "El Lecano" cigar advertised as being made "with some Havana." He has a large box trade on this brand, which is put up in 40's, 20's and 10's.

The usual Saturday auction sale of cigar leaf tobacco has not been held for several weeks, there being no offerings. The Burley tobacco market has been very active, 2,151 hogsheads being disposed of this week, and a total of 8,631 hogsheads since January 1st, of which 6,700 were old tobacco and 1,931 of the new 1911 crop. The price averages for this week were 10.72 for old and 11.21 for new.

F. A. B.

S. C. Chambers, head member of the firm of Chambers & Owen, Milton Junction, Wis., cigar jobbers, has just been re-elected as president of the Milton and Milton Junction Telephone Company, which position Mr. Chambers has held since the company's organization. Mr. Chambers is one of the most prominent business men in his home town.

E. J. James has engaged in the cigar business at Springfield, Ore.

The F. T. Wise Co. is increasing its plant at Suffolk, Va.

At a recent meeting of the stockholders of the Quincy Cigar Stores Company, Quincy, Ills., the following five directors were chosen to serve during the coming year: W. E. Downey, H. R. Hill, W. E. Yarborough, H. H. Brink and James Raymond. A meeting will be held in the immediate future to organize the new board.

D. V. Orrison, of the Bethesda Cigar Co., Zanesville, Ohio, returned from an extended business trip Saturday, reporting business in his line as improving.

Clark Bros. & Co., are about to rebuild the tobacco factory at Bedford City, Va., recently destroyed by fire.

TAMPA, Feb. 10, 1912.

IF the custom receipts can be taken as a guide, Tampa, as a cigar-producing city, has made noteworthy progress, as these receipts during the month of January ran more than $18,000 ahead of last year. The report of the collections show the handsome total of $145,848.35 as against $127,554.57 for January last year.

Cuesta Rey & Company, the other day made a shipment of "White Heather" cigars to Bergman & Garling, Stockholm, Sweden, being the first shipment to be made to a foreign country from Tampa for months.

Fred W. Krause, manager of the Havatampa Cigar Company, states that there is a rushing demand for their cigars, and he is working with a full force.

P. G. O'Hallaran & Company, makers of the popular "Victor Hugo" cigar, are progressing nicely. J. A. Rummel, of Kansas City, member of the firm, has removed his headquarters to Tampa and is making things hum with a big H!

The El National Cigar Company, through its president, Currie B. Witt, states that the January business of his firm is far and above expectations. He anticipates the largest year in the history of his factory.

Thomas Englehardt, of the T. Englehardt & Company, is preparing for an extended trip through the Middle West States. Their factory is working to its full capacity and the outlook good.

Guy B. Greason, manager of La Noticia Cigar Company, who manufactures the well-known "William the Conqueror" cigar, says that business is coming his way and no mistake.

A big dredging company, under contract, has begun active operations in the development of six miles more of sea front. The finishing of this work will make Tampa one of the finest harbors of the Atlantic and Gulf coasts.

Val M. Antonio, announces that their local sale of "Duke" and "Belcourt" cigars has increased more than 100 per cent. this winter. Mr. Antonio's retail store is situated on one of the principal thoroughfares in Tampa, and does a rushing bar trade apart from his over-the-counter business.

P. San Martin, of the P. San Martin & Lean Company, is succeeding in creating one of the stylistic and classiest lines of clear Havanas ever produced in Tampa or elsewhere. This is one of Tampa's most substantial and best managed cigar manufacturing concerns.

The shipments of cigars during the week ending February 7th, are the largest since New Year, amounting to 4,760,000 cigars. It is expected that the average will soon be back to the normal of one million a day.

N. B. Rhoads, the Key West correspondent for THE TOBACCO WORLD, was given the honor and distinction of being the first Key West to make a flight in an aeroplane last Sunday. Aviator Beckwith Havens made four flights here and in one of them he took the WORLD correspondent as a passenger. This was the second time that an air craft had been seen in action at Key West and the first time that a passenger had been taken up. Mr. Havens used the Curtiss hydro-aeroplane.

KEY WEST, FLA., Feb. 9, 1912.

THE past two weeks have not been all that could have been desired in the cigar trade, but the prospects are much brighter. Several of the factories have been closed down and others have been working with decreased forces. The present plans are for a re-opening of a majority of the shops on Monday, and those which have been working short handed will increase their forces materially.

All of the manufacturers are optimistic and they firmly believe, and with reason, that within a few weeks the business will be up to the standard and that the output will assume normal proportions.

As an evidence of this fact, some of the shops are now receiving telegraph orders from their customers. True, the orders are not for large amounts and are apparently sent to fill in with sizes which have run short. Other factories, which have made up large quantities of goods for later delivery, are receiving orders to let these goods come forward at once.

While a let-up in business is not to be desired by any manufacturer, and they are all better pleased if they can be kept busy at all times, the slack business which has prevailed for some time has not hurt any of the manufacturers here to any extent, for the reason that without exception they all had a most prosperous year during 1910 and can stand a little depression at this time. They are not the least bit worried, and as the indications point to a resumption of good conditions within a very short space of time they are all very cheerful.

There have been several changes in locations within the last two weeks, caused by the fire in the R. Fernandez Havana Cigar Company's factory and the removal of the Havana-American Company to its new quarters on the County Road.

The Havana-American Company vacated the two buildings at Greene and Ann streets and the building on the corner has been occupied by S. Wolf's Sons, who have taken one end and J. M. Navarro has taken the other.

The other building, formerly occupied by the H. A. Co., has been occupied by the Key West Cigar Factory, who have moved from their former quarters on Duval street. For some time this factory has been crowded and they have experienced considerable difficulty in transacting their business. They now have ample room and will find things much more convenient.

The R. Fernandez Havana Cigar Co. has moved to the factory building on Simonton street formerly occupied by J. M. Navarro. This company will open within a few days. They are now awaiting a shipment of filler.

The E. H. Gato Company is now working nearly 600 cigarmakers and the limit has been taken off. President E. H. Gato, who has been in Key West for several days, returned to Cuba this week and he was accompanied by his son, Frank, with his family. They will remain in Cuba for some time.

The Key West Cigar Factory is now working about two-thirds of its regular force and will increase to a full force within two or three weeks.

The Ruy Loney Co. will open on Monday with about three hundred men and this number will be maintained for some time. It is expected that the number of men will be increased shortly.

President Luis Martinez, of the Martinez-Havana Company, has been spending the week in Key West and will return to Cuba on Monday. His son, Eladio Martinez, returned to Key West last Monday with his bride. He was married on January 31st to Miss Josefa Antoniza at Guira de Melena, Cuba. The ceremony was a brilliant one and was attended by many distinguished guests from the surrounding country and from Havana. Mr. and Mrs. Martinez will make their home in Key West.

J. H. Cayro, a prominent leaf dealer of Havana, who has been visiting Mrs. W. S. Lightbourn and family, has returned to Cuba after a pleasant stay.

Manager H. E. Mahoney, of the Havana-American Co., has been confined to his home for several weeks on account of illness. He is much improved at the present time and hopes to return to duty in a short time.

A. L. Sylvester, of the American Cigar Co., was a business visitor during the week.

E. H. Gato, Jr., Thos. H. Gato and Office Manager Jas. R. Curry, Jr., of the E. H. Gato Cigar Co., will make a short trip to the famous Long Key Fishing Camp on the Florida Keys tonight for a day's fishing. These gentlemen are enthusiastic and successful fishermen and their friends are expecting them to return with a big catch.

Steady Trade in "Frisco" with Jobbers and Retailers Anticipating a Good Normal Year

San Francisco, February 5, 1912.

THE city trade has enjoyed a very satisfactory month for this time of year, though there has naturally been no great rush.

Some improvement is looked for during February, as a period of pleasant weather is expected about this time, and the tourists who have been in Southern California for the early winter are beginning to drift in this direction. Both jobbers and retailers are looking for a good normal year, but do not anticipate any particular boom before 1913. Many retailers who are just starting are perhaps taking too optimistic a view, as competition is likely to be pretty strenuous until population is somewhat larger than at present, and a good many will doubtless find difficulty in holding on until this takes place. On the whole, however, the business is in more reliable hands than at times in the past, and under the present city administration there is little inducement for irresponsible dealers, "floaters," and men who would make the business a side issue to sporting propositions.

Jobbing business through the country has been rather above expectations. With much less than the normal rainfall, some gloomy predictions have been made regarding the agricultural outlook, but apparently the open winter has favored the demand for smokes, as the country dealers have bought freely since early last month. Regarding the outlook for the basic industries of California, the statement of a prominent fruit canner is of some interest. He predicts a famine in his line of merchandise, due to increased demand, which in turn he attributes to improved shipping facilities in anticipation of the Panama Canal. By this means the European markets are opened to California products to an extent never before equaled, and a new inducement is offered to prospective settlers.

John Conner, the well-known retailer at Davis and California streets, is having his stand materially enlarged, and when the alterations are complete he will have an enclosed store, to which will be added an office. Mr. Conner has for some time maintained one or two branch establishments, and while he is keeping quiet as to his intentions it is believed that he will extend his chain of stands into other desirable locations before long.

The death was announced recently of Joseph Sunderland, for many years a member of the firm of Kingsbaker Bros., the Los Angeles jobbers, and one of the best known traveling men in the State.

J. Wertheim, head of the United Cigar Manufacturing Company, has returned to his home office after spending some time in San Francisco, making a short stay in southern California on his way home.

Il. Cladstone, factory representative for the Watt cigar, has been calling on the Oakland trade for the last week or so, and is doing some effective work on the east side of the bay. Emil Judell, of H. L. Judell & Co., returned a week ago from a very successful trip to the Oregon line, and since then has been boosting the Watt and Elisardo cigars in the San Joaquin valley.

Chas. H. Knubel, coast representative of the Salvador Rodriguez Company, has just returned from a trip South.

I. Danzinger, factory representative for a number of Manila and other lines, has been ill for several days, but hopes to be at work again very soon.

Wm. Bercovich, of the Bercovich Company, agents for the Luis Martinez cigar, is making another visit to Southern California. He will go as far as San Diego, and on the return trip will call on the trade in the principal towns along the coast.

The sales force of H. L. Judell & Co. has been augmented by the addition of S. Graf, who is well known to the local trade, having been for some time in the jobbing business on his own account.

Geo. Cacematis, traveling for the factory for the Nestor cigarettes, has been calling on the the Edw. Wolf Company, California agents for the Nestor Gianaclis Company. Mr. Wolf is well satisfied with the way this line has taken hold in the last year, and hopes to realize material benefits this year from the introductory work that has been done in the past. The cigar force has been increased by the employment of C. J. Andrews, formerly of Manila. Another large lot of Manila goods is due this month, and the large arrivals in this land are kept moving without difficulty.

R. Dimmick, traveling for the Weyman-Bruton Company, snuff manufacturers of New York, is now in the North, having spent several days in San Francisco.

Emil Frank, the Los Angeles jobber, and Harry Haussman, of the Hart Cigar Company, of Portland, Ore., were recent visitors to the local trade.

D. Frankel, of Frankel, Gerdt & Co., the local manufacturers, made a short visit to the Stockton trade last week, accompanied by Carl Koenig of his traveling force. It is understood that an agency for this house will be opened shortly at Salt Lake City.

W. J. Epes, representing the plug and smoking tobacco department of the Liggett & Myers Tobacco Company, has just returned from his first northern trip under the new regime.

I. I. Hess, representative of A. Santaella & Co., returned about the end of the month from a highly successful trip to Southern California, where he found business normally active in jobbing and retail circles.

M. Falkenstein, of S. Bachman & Co., is making a visit to several factories in the East, but is expected back at the office before long.

The convention of Gunst managers last month, upon the consolidation of the Gunst interests, was made rather longer than the usual annual meeting, as there were many important matters up for discussion in addition to the regular routine work. The formal re-organization has now been completed, and all the managers are back at their regular quarters. The Gunst business locally is keeping up in good shape in both retail and jobbing departments, and there is some difficulty in filling orders in certain lines.

Chas. Frankenthal, the well-known pipe man, has gone North after a visit to the local trade, and Mr. Rubin, representing M. Linkman & Co., the Chicago pipe manufacturers, is now in the city.

The Petri Italian American Cigar Company has been incorporated in San Francisco, with a capital stock of $100,000, by J. F. Gavagnara, John Gavello, D. Foresti, A. and R. Petri.

Louisville Cigar-Trade "Exceedingly Encouraging"

Louisville, Ky., Feb. 13, 1912.

REPORTS from the Louisville cigar trade during the early part of 1912 are exceedingly encouraging and as a general rule, merchants are well pleased with the business. There has been a strong demand for the higher grade of cigars and every branch of the five-cent class has gotten its share of a generous sale.

That the cigar jobbing and retailing business have brought large returns to this city, is shown by the fact that during the past month two new concerns have been opened by local merchants. About three weeks ago, articles of incorporation were filed by Koch, Schmitt and Cohn Company, who will do an exclusive jobbing business in the city and State. All of the members of the concern are well known in local tobacco circles and are recognized as able managers and experienced handlers of cigars. Their five-cent specialty is the small size "Little Minister," and they are featuring the "Englo" and "Flor de Moss" as ten-cent headliners. Adolph Cohn, secretary and treasurer of the new corporation, reports that business has been more than he and his partners had expected at this early stage of the game, and that they had had little or no difficulty in introducing their brands into this territory. He also said that they had found an almost phenomenal demand for the "Kink Stogies," which they brought into the city with their advent.

Another addition to the retail stores of the city was made a short time ago, when C. W. Hecktor, prominent tobacco merchant of the Gateway City, opened his store, on West Jefferson street. Mr. Hecktor now is handling the brands of the local manufacturers, but is making arrangements to take up some new lines from the Cuban producers. He is carrying a full line of tobacco and cigarettes, and reports that he is very well pleased with the prospects for a large business in his new venture.

At a meeting of the officers of the Peter-Neat-Richardson Company some time ago, it was decided that it would be advisable to close out the department which was formerly taken up with the manufacturing of cigars. This concern made the well known "N. A. R. D." and "K. & L." and "Francis Marion" brands and had been engaged in the trade for a number of years. B. C. Neat, who formerly had charge of the department, said that it was not for any direct financial cause that that section of the business had been discontinued, but that the space was needed for the exploitation of other lines which they had recently taken on. They have retained their license and may at some later date, again resume cigar manufacture.

One of the best cigar stands in the city changed hands recently when M. E. Bierman bought out M. Edelmuth, "lock, stock and barrel." Mr. Edelmuth was one of the oldest and most prominent cigar dealers in the city, as he has had some connection with some branch of the tobacco trade of Kentucky for the past quarter of a century. For the past year he has been confined to his room and turned his business over to one of his manufacturers. It was only a short time ago that Mr. Bierman closed the deal and will continue to manufacture the "M. E." and the "Moxie," which were Mr. Edelmuth's leaders.

During the past week, Ray Lovenstein, representing some prominent Key West factories, was in the city doing some detail work through Robinson-Pettet Company, who are now distributing the lines which he is handling. Mr. Lovenstein remained in the city for about a week and then proceeded East, where he has other business to attend to along the same lines. The Robinson-Pettet are now exclusive handlers of the "Preferencia" and "Prince de Gales" brands.

D. H. Stiebel, division manager for Kentucky and Tennessee for the Patterson branch of the American Tobacco Company, left a few days ago for New York, where he has been called by the management of the company.

Mose Grenebaum, at one time a prominent Louisville cigar dealer, but at present Secretary and Treasurer of the Francisco Bolaxo y Ca, a new cigar concern of Tampa, Fla., recently visited his old friends in Kentucky, and also solicited some extensive business from them.

With the Salesmen

D. E. Fishback, of M. Melachrino and Company, has been drumming up new trade in Boston during the early part of February.

Flint B. Aniba, representing the G. E. Johnson Cigar Company, Minneapolis, Minn., states that he expects his house to sell 5,000,000 cigars of the "El Portano" brand during 1912. After February Mr. Aniba will go on a trip through North Dakota and Montana.

C. J. Duddleson, resident representative of G. W. Van Slyke & Horton, at Indianapolis, Ind., is on a trip through the East, commencing at Albany, N. Y.

A. Dahlman, of Wm. Demuth & Company, has visited the trade in Seattle, en route to San Francisco, where the report has it that he is to be married.

C. Walt Kendig, with the Imperial Cigar Company, Lancaster, Pa., having recovered from an attack of sickness has started on a six weeks' trip covering the Eastern trade.

Detroit, Mich., during the first part of February has been visited by many representatives for out-of-town houses, among which were I. Meyer, of Jeitles & Blumenthal; Bill Higgins, of Park & Tilford; A. W. Lenox, of Garcia Pando & Company; Frank Horning, of H. Anton Bock & Company, and Van Winter, of Samuel I. Davis & Company.

W. E. James, of Guesta Ruy & Company, visited his Cincinnati trade in the early part of February.

W. A. Charles, representing the cigar department of G. S. Nicholas & Company, New York, was a recent visitor in Buffalo. He was on his way back to New York from a Western trip, during which he closed some nice accounts.

Sol Rosener, representative of E. M. Schwarz & Company, New York, called on their Denver trade in the first week of February.

N. B. Shapera, of M. A. Gunst & Company, visited their Denver trade in the course of a trip through the West, during the first week of February.

Charles H. Storm, member of the Chicago firm of Storm, Fisher & Company, is in New York visiting their factory there.

E. E. Chapman, representing the Wm. A. Stickney Cigar Company, St. Louis, Mo., is back in St. Louis from a trip to Davenport, Ia., where he went to attend his mother's funeral.

Novel Advertising Campaign

A NUMBER of cigar and cigarette manufacturers have signed contracts with the Coast to Coast Advertising and Sales Company and they expect to receive considerable benefit in the way of sales and advertising from this most novel of advertising propositions. This advertising company is equipping a Pullman car with various industrial exhibits. The car will make its initial trip through Pennsylvania and Ohio starting on February 15th.

N. C. R. Dedicates $100,000 Hall of Modern Salesmanship

A CONVENTION of the National Cash Register Company's Hundred Point Club was held in Dayton, Ohio, a few weeks ago, where a new $100,000 Convention Hall was dedicated to industrial education.

The Hundred Pointers, who represent the cream of the National Cash Register selling force, spent a week in this hall studying ways to help merchants increase their profits.

Twenty-five years ago, salesmanship was measured by a man's ability to go out on the road and, through trickery and deceit, load up the merchant with a line of goods at a price beyond its value. This situation has changed and the loudly dressed drummer with the shady story and the exaggerated statement has given way to the man who would meet the merchant in his store on the same basis that he would meet him in his home.

Much has been said and written within the past few years about honesty in business. Many of the most successful concerns teach their representatives that to be a successful salesman, a man must conform to a high standard of honor in business. The National Cash Register Company, Marshall Fields, John Wanamaker and some of the other greatest business concerns in the world today, were pioneers in this movement. Their success is a monument to the principles.

It has been demonstrated that a square deal and the golden rule are the ABCs of successful commerce. Now comes the National Cash Register Company promoting its representatives from this premier class and teaching the new lesson that, not only must the salesman deal fairly but he must also study until he can intelligently advise the merchant on whom he calls in regard to the best methods of conducting business, and how to get the greatest profit out of it by honest and honorable means.

The company's confidence in the belief that the business world will respond to this idea with increased confidence and increased trade, is evidenced by the fact that they have spent the money necessary to erect the National Cash Register Hall of Industrial Education. They have equipped it with all the appliances to teach the latest ideas in merchandising, brought business specialists from all parts of the world to teach their representatives at this recent convention and rated their salesmen as hundred pointers, only after the salesman had shown positive evidence that he had helped the merchants in his territory make more money.

Imports and Exports for 1911

THE total quantity of leaf tobacco, including filler and wrapper of all types, imported by the United States in 1911 is 52,900,000 pounds, against 42,300,000 pounds for 1910, the increase amounting to 10,600,000 pounds.

The total value of our 1911 leaf imports was $32,100,000, against $24,700,000, an increase of $7,400,000.

Our exports of domestic leaf tobacco reached the enormous figure of 365,000,000 pounds in 1911, worth $47,000,000. The exports for the previous year were 324,000,000 pounds, worth $35,000,000, an increase of 41,000,000 pounds and $12,000,000 in 1911.

The increase in imports is accounted for by the fact that the owners of Turkish tobacco, during the war, made haste to remove their holdings from the danger zone.

PENNSYLVANIA TRADE NEWS

Late Reports from Lancaster, York, Reading

February a Dull Month For Lancaster

Fred C. Duff Dead

LANCASTER, PA., Feb. 14, 1912.

CONDITIONS in the cigar trade have been intermittent. One of the more active manufacturers reports that during January business was all that could be desired, and since it has been extremely dull. In fact, at some other factories I find a similar state of affairs.

Fred G. Duff, senior member of the cigar manufacturing firm of Duff Brothers & Company, of this city, died at his home here on Friday last, after several weeks' illness and much suffering. As the result of paring a corn on his foot he inflicted a wound which culminated in blood poisoning and finally gangrene from which he died.

He had been prominently identified with the cigar trade for more than a quarter of a century, and for many years was the manager for Oblinger Brothers & Company, at their Lancaster factory. Several years ago he and his brother, Saml. C. Duff, purchased the Oblinger business and continued to manufacture the "Vesper" and other well-known brands. The business will no doubt be continued.

York and Reading Trade Improving

Factories Work With Full Forces

YORK, PA., Feb. 14, 1912.

THE cigar trade still lacks vim, although manufacturers as a rule are working along with usual forces, and comparatively few idle cigarmakers are around.

February, although a short month, will probably show some improvement over the previous month. There were only a few new factories licensed this month, which, however, has no particular significance.

Saml. Kaufman, of Kaufman, Pasbach & Voice, New York Lithographers, who was taken ill at Red Lion two weeks ago, was removed to his home in New York, on Thursday last. His condition remains unchanged. No ill effects from his removal were noticeable.

T. D. Hene, cigar manufacturer and leaf dealer, spent last week in New York City.

Robt. M. Granat & Company, leaf packers and dealers, will remove their headquarters to Lancaster this spring. A warehouse is under consideration, but not yet definitely decided on.

The "Flor de Morrow," a ten-cent cigar made by Ibach & Rader, at Newmanstown, is on sale in this city. Chas. Beck & Company are local distributors.

Several manufacturers from this vicinity are victims of the recent failure of the Kensington Tobacco Company, of Philadelphia.

John A. Shuhart, broker and manufacturing agent has just returned from a successful trip among his old customers.

Mrs. John W. Minnich, wife of the well-known Dallas-town cigar manufacturer, died last week after a brief illness.

Mrs. Minnich had attentively nursed Mr. Minnich through a severe spell of pneumonia, when she was herself stricken with the fatal result. She was buried on Tuesday of last week.

Several pro-April changes have already taken place in the tobacco trade. Robt. M. Granat, of York, has leased the residence of M. Michaelis, in this city and will make his home here. F. E. Eberly has removed his office into the Woolworth Building, and now J. K. Leaman has also secured quarters in the building and will take possession at an early date.

W. H. McLaughlin & Son, at Prince and W. Orange streets, have secured the local distributing agency for the "44" cigar. These goods are being carried in all sizes, and a goodly number of accounts have already been opened. They are also on sale at all leading hotels.

Dan. Manheimer, of the Imperial Cigar Company, is preparing for a Western business trip. He will be gone some weeks.

The statement made in my last report that J. W. Breneman had removed his Lancaster office to Millersville seems to have been a misapprehension of the facts.

Through a misunderstanding with the owner of the building, Mr. Breneman had determined to move, and a "for rent" sign was displayed. Subsequently, however, the landlord agreed to make certain improvements and Mr. Breneman decided to remain in the building now occupied by him on West Walnut street.

READING, PA., Feb. 14, 1912.

THE cigar business during January was somewhat of a disappointment to a number of manufacturers, because the volume of trade was smaller than they anticipated. This month, however, is showing some gains, and if weather conditions become more favorable a further improvement is looked for.

One of the larger factories in this city has reported a very large demand for its product in January, and yet nearly twenty-five per cent. of their force of cigarmakers were given the opportunity of looking for other jobs.

Charles M. Yetter returned on the 3rd, inst., from a flying rip through the Middle West and reports a fairly satisfactory condition of trade in the places he visited.

John G. Spatz has made a prolonged stay on his trip among the principal jobbers, with the result that the factory is well supplied with orders for their leading brands, including the "Heidelberg," "American Empire" and others.

Julius G. Hansen was a visitor in the New York trade last week.

W. H. Yocum is making his annual visit to Cuba selecting choice vegas of Havana tobacco for the "Y-B" and other brands. Immediately upon his return he will make his spring visit among Western distributors of their product.

At several of the leading retail stands I was informed there is a steady gain in the sale of the "John Hay" ten-cent cigars, made by W. W. Stewart & Sons, of this city.

Representative Richardson of Alabama Introduces "Pure Tobacco" Bill

A SO-CALLED "pure tobacco" bill has been introduced in the United States Legislature by Representative Richardson, of Alabama. The bill provides that all manufactured tobaccos shall be labelled according to actual contents before entering interstate commerce, and forbids the use of injurious adulterants.

The bill undoubtedly will cause considerable comment, as it interests the entire tobacco trade.

The Cuban Market

From Our
Exclusive Bureau
Neptuno 24
Allice
Havana, Cuba.

HAVANA, February 6, 1912.

THE bulk of the crop is still growing, some plants, however, have been cut, or the ripe leaves have been plucked and strung upon lines, and which is mostly of a light nature, therefore as far as Vuelta Abajo is concerned it may turn out to be of an acceptable nature, while as far as Remedios is concerned the same may be unfit for mixing purposes, and unless the later growth should be favored by cooler weather, as well as a continuous dry spell, the chances of obtaining a heavy bodied leaf are very poor indeed. This is about all that can be said at present with respect to the coming crop. Instead of our usual dry, cool temperature during the month of January, we have had too much rain and southerly hot winds, just the reverse of our ordinary kind of weather.

Leaf Market Continues Active.

Our leaf market has continued to be fairly active and a few large transactions have taken place, which, added to the number of smaller sales, have resulted in a total of a respectable amount for the past fortnight. Prices have ruled firm, although as our holders of leaf are quite anxious to liquidate their holdings, and there are still enough stocks to be had in our market, northern buyers should make up their minds to come to our city and pick all the good Vegas which could still be found in first hands here. Sales during the past fortnight summed up to 8,073 bales in all, or split into its component parts, represent: Vuelta Abajo, 4,072; Partido, 747, and Remedios, 3,254 bales. Buyers were: Americans, 5,148; exporters for Europe, 83; shippers to South America and Australia, 455, and our local manufacturers, 2,387 bales.

Leaf Exports From Havana.

Exports of leaf tobacco from the port of Havana, from January 15th to February 3rd inclusive, were:

|-----------------------------------|--------------|
| To all ports of the United States | 12,119 bales |
| To Europe (London) | 83 |
| To South America | 693 |
| To Australia (Melbourne) | 125 |
| To Mexico | 50 |

Total 13,070 bales

Receipts of Tobacco From the Country Were.

From Elmira: F. Inksater, of John Brand & Co.

From Montreal: Max Elkan, of Edward Youngheart & Co.

From Reading, Pa.: Wm. H. Yocum, of Yocum Bros.

From Cincinnati: M. Haas, of Haas Bros.

From London, England: P. J. Woods, of Walters & Co.; G. A. Padró, representative in Europe of the Partagas factory.

From Berlin, Germany: W. Dreyer, of Carl Gustav Gerold.

From Philadelphia: Theo. H. Vetterlein, of Julius Vetterlein & Co.

From Minneapolis: George Doerr, of Winecke & Doerr, Minneapolis Drug Company.

Mr. Allie Sylvester arrived here again on one of his flying trips on the evening of February 5th by the S. S. Governor Cobb, and it seems really wonderful with what precision he is calculating his future movements, in order to make connections and in order to save time, and he has arranged to make the trip from here to San Juan, Porto Rico, by the S. S. Augusta Victoria on the 10th inst.

Departures—For New York: José Menendez, Joseph Mendelsohn, Louis A. Borneman, Ernest Ellinger, Richard Sichel, Rudolph C. Faber, Herman Stern, S. Holmes, Harold Fitzgerald, Carlos M. Wintzer, Jr., Sidney Goldberg and Frank Tilford, via San Juan, Porto Rico.

For Montreal: George Thompson, Harry Hyman, H. C. Fortier, Michael Landau and Max Elkan.

For Philadelphia: Frank Dominguez and Ventura Blanco.

For Boston: Sam. Gryznieh, Mr. Rowley and B. A. Kaiser.

For Newark: J. Dimond.

For Winnipeg: Wm. J. Clubb.

For Elmira: F. Inksater.

For Tampa: Colonel Alvaro García, Faustino Lozano and Bernabé Diaz.

For Key West: Luis Martínez.

Returned to Havana—Nicholas Cardenas, of Cardenas & Co.; E. Cartaña, of Manuel Campos; Manuel Rodríguez, of Rodríguez, Menendez & Co.; José (Pepin) Rodríguez, of Romeo y Julieta; George H. Wyatt, of Sylvester & Stern; Antero Prieto and Augustin Gonzalez, of Sobrinos de A. Gonzalez; Ignacio Gonzalez, of Gonzalez & Benitez, and José C. Puente, of José C. Puente. Also returned Herman Diehl, of Heinrich Neuberger.

Cigars.

The exports during the first half of January show a further retrograde movement, as can be seen by the following official figures from our customhouse returns, viz:

From January 1st to January 15th, 1912 5,261,302 cigars

From January 1st to January 15th, 1911 6,469,206

Decrease in 1912 1,207,904 cigars

The big shrinkage has been in our exports to the United States, as we shipped 922,266 cigars less this year, but there was also a considerable falling off to Australia and Germany, with respectively 318,000 and 257,879, while on the other hand Canada and Chile showed increases of respectively 176,850 and 188,811 cigars. At the moment there is a better feeling prevailing, and through the many importers of cigars who have visited us a fair distribution of orders has taken place, so that several of our factories had to increase the number of their cigarmakers. It seems that the heavy holiday shipments have been consumed, as the demand from the United States has improved considerably, and there are also good calls from Great Britain, and even Germany is sending us some orders, so the outlook for the future is more cheering, aided also by the more hopeful news from the country, as regards the coming crop.

General Trade Notes.

H. Uppmann & Co. have turned on more steam again, and if the present demand should increase only a little more yet, they would have to work with full steam again, although this is never any season of great activity. Orders appear to arrive, however, from all parts of the world. Charles Landau, their United States and Canadian representative, is still here, but notwithstanding his assistants are demonstrating that they are not asleep, as the sending of new orders keeps right along.

Partagas is also fully occupied and reports a fine, steady demand for its well-liked cigars from the United States, England, South America and Australia. Their European representative, Don G. A. Padró, arrived here on the 4th inst., and expresses himself as very hopeful for this year, as he has secured many new customers for Partagas.

Sol has increased the number of its forces, owing to the steady influx of new orders from all the principal consuming countries.

Castañeda has captured the coveted prize, as eight of its sizes have been selected by the French Regie, and will in future be handled and sold in France. Don Nicholas Cardenas engineered this desirable business, while in Europe, and was warmly congratulated by his friends upon his successful accomplishment.

La Diligencia has noted a welcome increase in the amount of orders received lately from the United States, the United Kingdom and also Germany.

La Flor de P. A. Estanillo continues to receive very good (and in the majority for high prized sizes) orders from the chief cities of the American Union, England, South America and Germany.

This factory is working to the utmost extent of its capacity, and Don Felipe Rodríguez is only waiting for the slack season in order to find a larger building more suited for the steadily increasing volume of his business.

Henry Clay, Bock & Co., are fully occupied in the execution of orders in their various factories, some of which are so crowded with calls for special sizes that they are unable to ship them as fast as their customers would like to have them. Chairman Percival S. Hill arrived here on February 5th, accompanied by Allie Sylvester, the famous buyer of the American Tobacco Company.

Don Pepin Rodríguez, of the celebrated Romeo y Julieta factory, arrived here on the 31st of January from his prolonged trip to Europe, via New York, and was warmly welcomed by the large number of friends that always receive him upon his return.

Other factories which are working well are: Romeo y Julieta, Hija de José Gener, C. E. Beck & Co. and Figaro.

Buying, Selling and Other Notes of Interest.

Mendelsohn, Borneman & Co. had purchased 682 bales of leaf tobacco additional, thus making their total new stock acquired here 1,432 bales, and not as stated in the previous report, which had been a wrong information.

Gutiérrez & Zabala sold 1,100 bales of Vuelta Abajo and Partido during the fortnight.

Teodoro Perez & Co. were buyers of 1,200 bales of leaf in our market.

Gonzalez & Benitez were sellers of 1,000 bales of Remedios.

Hija de José Gener bought 1,100 bales additionally of Vuelta Abajo, clean styles and colas.

José P. Rocha made one sale to a Tampa manufacturer of 897 bales of Vuelta Abajo and Partido tobacco.

Faustino Lozano evidently is satisfied that he has enough orders on hand to warrant his laying in of sufficient stocks, to tide him over until this year's crop should become a fact, and for this reason he purchased 1,000 bales of Vuelta Abajo from the best sections, paying the ruling market figures for these goods, without any hesitation.

Sobrinos de A. Gonzalez sold 723 bales of all kinds of leaf during the past two weeks.

F. Inksater purchased 500 bales of choice leaf for his firm of John Brand & Co.

Sierra & Martínez turned over 700 bales of Vuelta Abajo and Partido.

B. A. Kaiser was a buyer of 500 bales of leaf for his customers.

Miguel Gutierrez disposed of 620 bales of his choice packings of Remedios and Vuelta Abajo to his customers.

Theodore H. Vetterlein made one purchase of very excellent Remedios, first and second capaduras, amounting to 400 bales.

Herrera, Calmet & Co. turned over 441 bales of their prime Remedios packings.

Leslie Pantin, besides the tobacco bought for account of his customers in town, also acquired 375 bales additionally, upon cable orders, during the two weeks gone by.

José Menendez was a seller of 500 bales of Vuelta Abajo and Partido.

Manuel García purchased 300 bales of excellent Vuelta Abajo fillers for his firm of Perfecto García & Bro., at Tampa.

Perez Hns. closed out 400 bales of Remedios leaf.

Theodore Smith bought 282 bales of leaf for their firm of Hinsdale Smith & Co.

A. M. Calzada & Co. sold 320 bales of all kinds of leaf to their customers.

R. Sichel was a buyer of 278 bales of Vueltas and Partido.

Aixala & Co. disposed of 300 bales of Remedios and Partido.

The following buyers took smaller quantities below 250 bales each, viz: Ernest Ellinger, Mark A. Pollack (upon cable orders), Max Elkan, Sidney Goldberg, José Menendez (of New York), Böming & Co., García & Co., Sylvester & Stern, Diego Montero and various small manufacturers here.

The following leaf dealers also sold in smaller quantities below 250 bales each, viz: José C. Puente, Jorge & Castañeda, José Díaz Longo, Llopert & Co., Camejo & La Paz, B. Díaz & Co., Celestino Medio and Sucesores de Candido Perrote.

The many friends of Don Antero Prieto (of Sobrinos de A. Gonzalez) will be extremely sorry to learn of the sad home coming that he had, when he was advised by aerogram on board the S. S. Corcovado that his elder brother, Don Ramon Prieto, had died suddenly in Spain. The latter belonged to the same firm, although he had retired to his native home in Austria several years ago, and only was a silent partner. He died in the full manhood of his years, as he only reached the age of 55 years. What a contrast is life. When the Corcovado discharged her passengers on Sunday, February 4th, the many friends of Don Antero were con-doling him, while at the same time they were congratulating Don Augustin Gonzalez upon the return with his bride.

By the same steamer also arrived Don Ignacio Gonzalez, of the firm of Gonzalez & Benitez, who returned from a long trip of vacation with his family.

Don José C. Puente, the well-known leaf dealer of the Calzada del Monte, arrived on the 4th inst. by the French liner "La Navarre" from his trip of recreation.

José Díaz Longo is still hard at work on his escojida of choice Vuelta Abajo at 129 San Nicolas street. This class of tobacco is really "Crème de la Crème" as regards the texture of the leaf, color of an exceedingly light brown, elasticity, and of a perfect burn, with a sweet taste even, without having been baled yet. Naturally the price will be high, and in all probability the packing when finished will be bought by one of our factories.

Sidney Goldberg, of the firm of S. Batt & Co., stopped during his stay in town with his friend, Sidney Rothschild, at 158 Industria street, and besides selecting what he needed to tide the factory over until the next crop he went all over the country to study personally the prospects of the coming crop. As he has been formerly in the leaf packing business here, for many years, he is certainly a good judge to appreciate a growing crop not alone, but also when the same has been cut and is hanging up to dry.

Mr. Frank Tilford, who arrived here in the S. S. Moltke, came only as a member of an excursion party and did not bother about business, although he spent a short time with his friends, Don Leslie Pantin and Don Ramon Arguelles, while on shore.

We have had two excursion parties here, one from Chattanooga, Tenn., and one from Chicago, both composed of manufacturers, merchants, bankers and other men of mark and means, who have been treated with a great deal of attention, as they were feted and shown the sights, therefore it is to be hoped that they have been pleased not alone, but that they have had an opportunity to study our possibilities for the future, and that mutual, profitable connections may be opened up in the sweet bye and bye. While our National Government is rather slow to help our industry and commerce generally, our City Municipal Government has not hesitated to spend some money on banquets, and an excursion to Matanzas to show them the sights of this charming town.

Don Carlos Cano, one of the pushing and sympathetic members of the Board of Directors of our Association of Leaf Dealers, Packers and Growers of Tobacco of the island of Cuba, has intervened actively in bringing about the settlement of two delegations at Alquizar and Los Palacios with a full membership.

Principal Shippers From Havana.

Principal shippers from the port of Havana, over 300 bales, from January 16th to February 3rd inclusive, were: Leslie Pantin, 2,098; Sylvester & Stern, 1,025; Mark A. Pollack, 961; J. H. Cayro & Son, 785; J. Bernheim & Son, 643; Manuel Suarez, 643; Diego Montero, 643; Miguel V. Perez, 470; I. Kaffenburgh & Sons, 373; García & Co., 366; Rodriguez, Menendez & Co., 359; Suarez Hns., 341, and Sobrinos de A. Gonzalez, 302 bales.

ORETANIV.

The Public Cigar Cutter to Go?

AT a recent meeting of the Travellers Protective Association of America, a resolution was passed with the object of abandoning cigarcutters in public places. According to prominent cigar dealers who expressed themselves at the meeting, the cigarcutter in public places is even more apt to convey diseases than is the public drinking cup in railway trains which has recently been prohibited in several of the States.

Those who are behind the movement claim that a great many smokers who enter a cigar store and purchase cigars, first moisten the end of the cigar with their lips and then insert it into the cigarcutter. Their contention is that if a smoker suffers from some contagious malady it is more readily conveyed by means of the cutters than through the generally used drinking cups. The T. P. A. has started a most vigorous campaign and they have already selected a strong publicity committee which will endeavor to gain the support of the daily press in their efforts to abolish cutters in public places. Up to date the committee has already succeeded in engaging the support and co-operation of some of the most influential Metropolitan dailies, and within the next fortnight a series of feature articles will appear in the New York dailies which will depict and describe the danger and infection which the use of public cigarcutters present.

Firm Trade and Cut-price Retail Sales in Hub

BOSTON, MASS., Feb. 12, 1912.

About 40,000 to 50,000 people visited the magnificent new drug store of the Liggett corporation, formally opened last Saturday; this store is located at the corner of Washington and Avon streets. No expense was spared to make the formal opening memorable, complimentary boxes of chocolates and other valuable souvenirs being distributed freely. This makes the company's 47th store throughout the United States and Canada. The cigar department is especially attractive, carrying, as it does, all of the more popular brands, together with all manner of smokers' accessories, as humidors, automatic lighters, and infinitum.

General business throughout the Boston trade continues firm; many retailers are featuring cut-price sales, which seem to appeal to the public, as they are responding freely. Driscoll & Fitzgerald, manufacturers of the "Elcho" domestic, have recently purchased a large supply of Havana tobacco leaf to be used in the manufacture of this popular brand. Many others have purchased large lines of Havana leaf.

The Manchester branch, No. 192, Cigarmakers' Union of America, recently sent $384. to the secretary of the strike committee at the great mill strike at Lawrence, where 20,000 employees are holding out for wage increase. This is but part of the relief fund which this Union is solicitous of offering the committee in charge making more collections this week, hoping to finally touch the $1000 mark.

Spaulding & Merrick, Chicago, are vigorously exploiting the merits of "Velvet" smoking tobacco, in an expensive advertising campaign in all of the local newspapers, and other publications, not excluding our foremost medical journals.

Waitt & Bond, Inc. (C. A. Sullivan, Treasurer), report assets of $682,706, with surplus of $255,093.

Dickey & Hodgdon's new store, on School street, opened in a blaze of glory last week, at which evidences of the good will of the Boston trade were presented in the form of floral set-pieces. The store was well-filled on the opening day, and bids fair to remain so, as their new stocks are very attractive.

H. Wyman, representing the American Tobacco Company, visited the jobbers last week.

Augustus H. Hall & Co., 3 Water street, have a unique window display of yellow calabash pipes this week, imported direct from London.

Estabrook & Eaton are receiving a steady call for their "Lords of England" Havana, selling at 15 cents straight. Their panatela shape, "Fabula" is holding the demand among the low-priced domestics. The branch at Masonic Temple has a striking window display this week, even non-smokers stopping to admire.

C. B. Perkins & Co., Kilby street, importers of clear Havana cigars, attest a pleasing demand for their product, which is slightly above the average for this time of the year.

S. S. Pierce Co., Tremont street importers, are enjoying a firm demand for their entire cigar line, ranging from their several shapes of "Overland" domestic to the individual boxes of —?—?—? retailing for one dollar each.

L. D. Mayhew, representing the plug department of American Tobacco Company, visited the trade last week.

HENDERSON.

GAYS MILLS, WIS., JUL. 18, 1912.

C. O. CROGAN, of Utica, delivered his acre crop here Saturday, taking home the neat sum of $909.96.

Henry Barlow, of Gays Mills, delivered his four and a half-acre crop, raised on his Yankeetown farm to the American Cigar Co., at Soldiers Grove, on Thursday of last week, receiving $1179.25 therefor. On the day following Norman Barlow, Henry's father delivered five acres to the same parties, receiving over $1200. We were unable to get the exact figures.

On Friday, M. D. Malone, of Yankeetown, delivered two and a half acres to the American people at Soldiers Grove for which they paid him $777.15. The return per acre of this crop will probably compare favorably with any crop in the State.

James Campbell, of Steuben, delivered four acres a few days ago to Einer Peterson, which brought him $785.

John Glimsdale, of Harmony, Wis., has delivered to the American Cigar Co., at Visagna, his three-acre crop of 5350 pounds, which yielded in return $705.06. This is one of the strong crops so far brought in.

Opposing Parcel Post

THE American League of Associations has recently been circulating tens of thousands of wholesale and retail merchants, urging them to send letters of protest against a parcel post law to President Taft and to their senators and congressmen.

Factory Notes

Eisenlohr to Open New Factory

OTTO EISENLOHR & BRO., of Philadelphia, are arranging cigarmakers will be employed to open a new factory at Peensburg, where several hundred

Fred D. Grave, manufacturer of the "Judge's Cave" cigar, was largely responsible for the settlement of the Cunningham factory strike at New Haven, and deserves much credit for his good offices and success.

Adam Hofferbert, an experienced cigarmaker, will soon open a cigar factory in the 100 block of Court street, Peoria, Ills., directly east of the Geo. O. Kraeger grocery.

The cigarmakers at the factory of Thomas Cunningham & Co., in Franklin street, New Haven, Conn., who quit work about two weeks ago, have returned to their benches, following their acceptance of the ultimatum issued by the Manufacturers' Association.

Hemes Bros., the Peoria cigar manufacturers, are now settled in their new quarters on West Eighth street, opposite the St. Francis Building.

Allston A. McCoy has established in the Manion block, on North Main street, Utica, New York, a cigar manufactory. Mr. McCoy is manufacturing a cigar known as "Pa's Favorite."

At the annual meeting of the Penn Tobacco Company, of Wilkes-Barre, Pa., January 26th, it was decided to increase the capital stock of the company from $200,000 to $1,000,000. The great increase of business during the past year is the reason for the increase.

Charles M. Yetter, cigar manufacturer, at Wyomissing avenue and Broad street, Reading, Pa., is on a two weeks' business trip to Illinois, Michigan, Indiana, Missouri and other Western States.

On account of a cut in price from 40 to 38 cents per hundred, according to a statement made by employees of the Bucher & Bucher cigar factory, on Burns avenue, Dayton, Ohio, half of the entire force of cigarmakers, or between 50 and 75, walked out Friday morning.

George R. Coad, in partnership with Charles Burch, will commence the manufacture of high-class popular cigars at Dallas, Ore., in the near future.

A. S. Valentine & Son, cigar manufacturers, have removed their Pottstown, Pa., factory to the building formerly occupied by Factory No. 131, in Womelsdorf, commencing operations there with 75 hands.

Porto Rico Cigarmakers Strike Settled

THE strike among Porto Rico cigarmakers has been settled amicably. This will be a relief to the jobbing trade dealing in Porto Rico cigars.

Ohio As a Producer of Smoking Tobacco

THE State of Ohio is the second largest producer of smoking tobacco in the Union, being exceeded only by North Carolina. Of the total output of 214,056,402 pounds for the calendar year 1910, Ohio manufactured 32,687,954 pounds, or 15 per cent., and North Carolina 43,652,231 pounds, or 20 per cent., the two States together producing 35 per cent. of the entire amount of smoking tobacco made.

A number of porters on the Great Northern road were arrested the other day in Seattle and Tacoma, charged with swindling. It is alleged that they have consistently substituted the brands of cigars supplied for sale by the road with less fragrant weeds purchased by themselves, the same holding good of the liquid refreshments served on trains and at the depots.

Worth Knowing

As an exporter of tobacco, the United States leads the world.

Los Angeles Forging Ahead

Business With Both Jobbers and Retailers "Very Good"

LOS ANGELES, CAL., Feb. 10, 1912.
JAMES McCORMICK will open a new store, "Post Dispatch" in big demand. The cigar business here with both retailers and jobbers is very good. With the majority of our jobbers, the new year has started off with unusual activity, and all indications favor a very prosperous year.

Morris Samuels, of the Baer Cigar Co., is sending in some good-sized orders from Arizona for the "El Templo" cigar.

Jud C. Wood (Berriman Bros.) expects to leave soon for the North as far as Portland, in the interest of the "Jose Vila" cigar. Mr. Wood informs me that he is well pleased with the sale of the "Jose Vila" all over his territory.

C. Barnes (Klauber & Wangenheim Co.'s representative) left today for Santa Barbara, in the interest of his firm. Mr. Barnes always carries an extra order book on this trip.

Robert Gans (J. J. Gans Bros.) reports a successful year and a healthy distribution of "La Natividad," "Lawrence Barrett" and "Tom Keene."

Sam Friend, city salesman of the Kingsbaker & Klingenstein Co., has made a new resolution for the new year, to double the business on "Y. B." and "Cinco" cigars. "Here's hoping you triple it, Sam, as you are always on the job."

The B. & L. Cigar Store has an attractive window display of "Sanchez y Haya."

I. J. Hess (A. Santaella y Co.) left today for San Francisco. Mr. Hess was pleased to see how the "Optimo" is selling here, Klauber & Wangenheim Co. are distributors of the "Optimo" cigar.

Max Roth reports a big demand on the "Bachelor" cigar. The "Post Dispatch" cigar has made a hit with the Los Angeles public from the start. Klauber & Wangenheim Co. report that repeat orders are coming in fast.

The Royal Cigar Store, at 518 South Broadway, has a neat window display of "Post Dispatch" cigars this week.

Albert Greenwood, general manager of the Klauber & Wangenheim Co., made a flying trip to San Diego in the interest of the firm.

Chambers & Smith are displaying the "Bachelor" cigar in their windows this week.

J. Weinberger, at Temple and Spring streets, reports "San Felice" and "Pippins" as best sellers in the five-cent line. He also carries a complete line of clear Havana cigars, such as "Lovera," "Optimo," "La Natividad," "St. Elmo," "Jose Vila," "Americans," "Webster," "El Templo" and "Sanchez," in all sizes.

Louis Gold, the popular cigar man, corner Winston and Main streets, is showing an attractive window display of "El Wadora" cigars this week.

Will H. Wood has resigned his position with Harry F. Gadeky, at 218 South Spring street, having accepted a position as chief clerk in the new hotel at Planada, Merced Co., Cal., "The City Beautiful." He expects to leave for that place about March 15.

Klauber & Wangenheim Co. report a big demand for "Lucky Improved Stogies" all over their territory. The sale of these stogies is phenomenal, as they are turning them out at the rate of ten thousand per day, and the dealers are continually calling for increased orders.

L. C. Erdt (M. Melachrino & Co.) left today for San Francisco, after a hard campaign just finished, on "Melachrino" cigarettes. Mr. Erdt has engaged Mr. C. E. Means to look after the interest of the "Melachrino" cigarettes. He predicts to make this brand of cigarettes the best sellers here.

James McCormick, the baseball magnate, will open a new cigar store at 610 South Spring street, in a few days.

M. BURKE.

Where Did Tobacco Originate?

THE tendency now is to rob the North American Indian of the credit of having given to civilization the boon of tobacco. Some ascribe its origin to the Medes and Persians, others to the inhabitants of the Malay archipelago, and still others to the Arabs in general. There appears to be an Arabian word "sakara," meaning to smoke, from which our words cigar and cigarette may have been derived.

Tullahoma (Tenn.) Tobacco District

ATTRACTED by the development and progress of the Tullahoma, Tenn., tobacco market, O. V. Richardson, Ekron, Ky., has organized the Planters' Bank and Trust Company, with a capital of $20,000. A. P. Ray, president; J. A. Richardson, vice-president; O. V. Richardson, cashier.

A cigar salesman recently gave up his position in order to publish a long treatise on salesmanship, but his project failed because he could not dispose of the edition.

MACDONALD & GOLDSMITH—SALESMEN

The above picture represents two able and efficient salesmen, campaigning for the Davis & Sons' "Don Remo" 5c. cigar, through Southern California. Note the expression in their faces, and it will explain their results.

Duke of Connaught a "Fiend"

THE Duke of Connaught, at present on a diplomatic and social visit to the United States, is a confirmed cigarette smoker.

M. F. Snider Now Chief of Tobacco Division

E. SNIDER, of Ohio, has been appointed chief of Tobacco Division of the Internal Revenue, to succeed the late J. T. Bivins. Mr. Snider has seen thirteen years active service in the Tobacco Department of the Government. His new position carries with it a salary of $2,250 per year.

Assemblyman Rutland, of Broome, N. Y., as the result of extensive correspondence with cigar merchants, has introduced an anti-coupon bill in the State legislature at Albany, which bars the use of coupons in New York State as a means of stimulating either cigar or liquor sales.

Assemblyman George Baker has introduced a bill in the Kentucky legislature prohibiting the manufacture and sale of cigarettes in the State.

The cigar stand at Powers Hotel, Rochester, N. Y., enjoys a liberal patronage by leading cigarmen, and recently was visited by such well-known cigar firms as Isidor Meyer, (Jeitles & Blumenthal); L. Meyer, (44 Cigar Company); I. M. Fleischman, (The American Cigar Company); Joseph B. Wertheim, (Jose Lovera & Company), and many others. The stand is conducted by Coventry & Klem, two popular enterprising men.

New Factory of A. B. Smith Co.

New Factory of A. B. Smith Co., Striking Architectural Feat

THE firm of A. B. Smith & Co., manufacturers of the "3-20-8" brand of cigar, Boston, Mass., has just moved into its new factory, to be known as the daylight cigar factory.

The building is constructed entirely of reinforced concrete, and is modernly equipped in every particular. As shown in the accompanying illustration, it is right-triangular in shape. The A. B. Smith Co. occupy the two upper floors, while the lower floors are used as stores. The entire building, which was designed with the future intention of putting on another story, rests on concrete footings placed on hard pan. Although it might properly be called "absolutely fireproof," a serious loss might even here occur by the burning of the combustible contents, and this has been provided against by the installation of about 340 Grinnell automatic sprinklers, in accordance with specifications furnished by the General Fire Extinguisher Company of Massachusetts. The building was erected by the Concrete Engineering Company of Boston, Mass., in accordance with plans and specifications of Manks and Johnson, architects and builders, 7 Water street, Boston.

Mr. A. B. Smith, who heads the firm, paid a visit to New York the other day for the purpose of looking after the distributing interests of his house in the metropolis. His cigars are reported great sellers by The Interborough Cigar Co., New York; George Hirsch, Brooklyn; Jacob Schenker, Brooklyn; L. Singer Cigar Co., Jersey City, N. J.; Charles Tipl, Astoria, L. I.; the Crawford Cigar Co., Newark, N. J., and many other well-known retailers.

Comparison of Tobacco Crop Statistics

The census statistics on tobacco cover acreage, production and value for the crop of 1909 as compared with that of 1899. In making comparisons, the data for acreage are the most important, as changes in the area planted to a given crop are due to a great extent to broad economic tendencies which are well indicated by returns every ten years. The production, however, fluctuates from year to year in accord with current conditions—rainfall, temperature, etc., so that a comparison between one ten-year period and another may not show true general tendencies. There may be temporary fluctuations in production which will affect current prices and consequently the aggregate value of the crop for any given year.

The area in tobacco increased from 1,101,000 acres in 1899 to 1,125,000 acres in 1909, an increase of 194,000 acres, or 17.6 per cent. The percentage of increase in production is somewhat larger, the crop in 1909, being 1,055,765,000 lbs., as compared with 868,113,000 lbs. in 1899, being an increase of 187,652,000 lbs., or 21.6 per cent. The average production per acre increased from 788 to 815 lbs. The increase in value is enormous, having advanced from $56,988,000 to $104,303,000, an increase of almost $50,000,000 or 83 per cent. The average value per pound rose from 6.6 cents to 9.9 cents or 50 per cent. The acreage has increased from 639,000 in 1879, 695,000 in 1889, 1,101,000 acres in 1899 to 1,295,000 acres in 1909. The acreage in the latter year, shows that it has more than doubled in the last thirty years. The production during the same period has increased from 472,661,000 lbs. to 1,055,765,000 lbs.

The Editor's Letter-Box

Editor THE TOBACCO WORLD.

Dear Sir: Will you give me the owner and address of cigar factory 505 First, District of Pennsylvania.

Yours truly,

WM. J. SWANNELL,
Red Bank, N. J.

Answer.—Factory is conducted by Edward J. Adamson, Jr., Eastern Penitentiary, Philadelphia.—EDITORS.

JANUARY 27, 1912.

Editor THE TOBACCO WORLD.

Dear Sir:—Kindly let me know by return mail, how many cigars were manufactured last year in the United States and Cuba, not including stogies and small cigars. Thanking you in advance, I am,

Very truly yours,

CHARLES C. L. KEVER,
225 Park Avenue,
Dayton, Ohio.

Answer: The figures we have at hand do not discriminate between cigars and stogies.

Total amount of cigars manufactured in this country in 1911 was 7,270,144,822, an increase of 200,336,076 over 1910. "Little cigars," which include cheroots and some of the smaller stogies, showed a total production of 1,207,749,111.

Cuban production for 1911 showed 188,129,188, as against 171,428,724 in 1910.

Editor THE TOBACCO WORLD.

Dear Sir: Will you kindly tell us who manufactures the "Havana Plantation Cigar," under Factory #382, Second District of New York?

Answer.—A. P. Garcia is the name, but he has removed from his old address, #98 McDougall St., New York City.

ALTOONA, PA.

Editor TOBACCO WORLD.

Dear Sir:—Please let me have a list of books and prices, on the subject of tobacco.

Yours truly,

LEAF TOBACCO MARKET

Strong New York Demand for Shade Grown Connecticut--Philadelphia and Lancaster Trade Improving---Main Problem of Wisconsin is the Receiving and Warehouse-handling of Crop Contracted for---Zero Weather Hampers New England Trade---Buying of 1911 Ohio Confined Mainly to Dutch

NEW YORK.

NEW YORK CITY.

BUSINESS in the leaf tobacco market seems to be responding to present needs, but as yet the trade does not appear to be in full swing. The chief demand at present is for shade-grown Connecticut, which seems to have caught the fancy of the manufacturer, and which therefore is likely to become a rapid seller. The shade-grown Connecticut set the pace last year, and it seems as if this fashion would be kept up during the current year. As long as this fashion lasts the shade-grown will undoubtedly make some inroads into the use of the Sumatra, but the latter has by no means lost its prestige.

The binder situation has not improved, nor is it likely to improve. To filler tobaccos the market seems to be at present indifferent. The 1911 Pennsylvania and Ohio are inferior to the 1910 crops, and holders of the latter are in no hurry to dispose of their stocks.

PENNSYLVANIA.

PHILADELPHIA.

WHILE the greater part of the month of January was dull and disappointing, the first two weeks of February show a gratifying improvement in both the leaf dealers' and manufacturers' trade. The latter are commencing to get in good-sized orders from the West, and this encourages them to look around to replenish their leaf stock. The big factories are pretty well supplied with leaf, but if trade continues to pick up apace, they may still be in position to place some orders now and then. The small factories, on the other hand, are very short of stock, and on account of the high prices, they are ordering only for immediate needs.

LANCASTER.

Things are commencing to brighten up very nicely in the local leaf tobacco market, especially as regards trade in old goods. During the early part of February there was quite a lot of this stock changed hands, and although the deals, as a rule, were for small lots, the sum total would make a very nice figure. Packers are now paying most attention to the receiving of the new goods, and deliveries have been quite heavy. There appears to be less complaint than ever about the goods this season and as a rule the cigar tobacco seems to be in fine condition when delivered. The cigar business is beginning to show its anticipated improvement and will soon be in full blast. Buying up the new crop continues in spite of a tendency to higher prices. It is estimated that more than half the crop has now been contracted for, the buyers being busy completing their rounds in spite of the unseasonable weather of the early part of the month.

WISCONSIN.

EDGERTON.

THE receiving and warehouse handling of the tobacco crop contracted for months ago is likely to be the absorbing topic of interest in the local tobacco market for some time to come. This crop is now being taken and settled for as fast as the facilities for packing will warrant. Weather conditions are yet somewhat unfavorable to the crowding of this work, although most of the warehouses are running with full forces and will be kept busy until the spring months.

In old leaf business is still confined to moderate-sized transactions to meet pressing needs of the manufacturers. There is a steady line of deliveries coming to this market each day and much receiving is done at outside points by the large operators.

VIROQUA.

RIGOROUS, inclement weather, attended by snow storms, are keeping trade here somewhat dull, but thanks to the hardihood of the growers there is nevertheless a procession every day of wagons upon the highways leading to town. Every grower appears to be anxious to make delivery of his holdings, but the brakes are applied by the buyers, who are not able to handle or receive faster than the capacity of their crews and warehouse room permit. It will be next April before all can make deliveries.

NEW ENGLAND STATES.

SPRINGFIELD, MASS.

SALES of 1911 Connecticut tobacco are at a minimum owing to the fact that only a small part of the crop remains in growers' hands. Warehouses are well employed. The extreme low temperatures, the thermometer going below zero for a prolonged period in a number of tobacco towns, has tended to restrict activities.

A real good damp is needed to enable Connecticut valley growers to take down tobacco which will soon be wanted in the warehouses. The principal sufferers from the prolonged spell of dry weather are growers owning tobacco still in the barns, who, of course, lose the use of the money which is tied up in their crops until delivery. Growers who have not heretofore primed their tobacco are making inquiries which indicate unmistakably the trend of their thoughts, and it can be put down for a certainty that there will be another large increase in the primed tobacco acreage this season, including the shaded crops; it would not be surprising if more than fifty per cent. of the 1912 crop were primed.

OHIO.

DAYTON.

BUYING of the 1911 Ohio tobacco continues to be confined mainly to Dutch, and while there has been quite a good deal of driving, the buying has been going slowly. The growers are beginning to admit that there is considerable shed damage and that they have a hard proposition on hand in assorting their goods so as to be able to deliver sound tobacco.

Most of the packers are having calls for Dutch and are anxious to get some 1911 Dutch in their warehouses as early as possible and have it on the market early; this condition accounts for the buyers giving their attention almost entirely to Dutch. The buying of the Seed and Spanish will likely not become very general until the growers have finished stripping.

The 1910 tabled and re-sweat Zimmer Spanish is now being offered and it is unquestionably an unusually fancy filler tobacco. A great many of the packers claim it is the best tobacco since the 1904 crop.

Bill to Show Leaf Supply at Hand

SENATOR McLEAN, of Connecticut, has been assisting as a member of the Senate committee on census in perfecting the bill, passed by the House, directing the director of the census to collect and publish statistics to show the amount of leaf tobacco on hand and by whom it is owned, April 1 and October 1, of each year. Senator McLean informed the committee that he had called the bill to the attention of the president of the New England Tobacco Growers' Association, and that the president of the organization, in turn, notified its members and that no opposition had developed.

Leaf Items

Messrs. Landsfield & Steele, Chicago, Ills., are in receipt of a shipment of 43 bales of Havana tobacco, shipped to them under date of January 30, by Manuel Suarez, of Havana, Cuba, per steamship "Mexico," via New York.

The American Cigar Company, Springfield, Mass., have closed their tobacco warehouse on Main street, after packing about 1000 cases of tobacco, which has been shipped to York, Pa. The closing of the warehouse will throw nearly seventy people out of employment.

The Housatonic Valley Tobacco Company, of New Milford, Conn., is to start with $1000 capital, incorporated by William D. Wanzer, James H. Dodd and Fred I. Wanzer.

The Darke County Farmers' Leaf Tobacco Company, Greenville, tobacco warehouse, Cincinnati, Ohio, $10,000 500 shares of $20 each; by J. E. Brown, J. K. Albright, George W. Rhoades, John Robeson, Stephen Rhoades, J. C. Ross, B. G. Edison and H. Paterbaugh.

Mr. Philip G. Frank, representing Philip & John Frank, the well-known importers and packers of leaf tobacco, has started out on an extensive trip for his firm, carrying the large line of samples of various grades of leaf. His first stop will be Philadelphia. He will then take in a few of the cities in the South, and make a flying trip to the section of the Western territory before returning home.

Royal Thompson, of Hartford, representing Connecticut tobacco growers, recently visited Washington, in connection with the Cantrell bill, providing for the collection of additional tobacco statistics and other matters.

Assessors Joel H. Brewer, Joseph E. Carroll and Samuel N. Brainard have made a tour of the tobacco warehouses in East Hartford, Conn., with the intention of having the cased tobacco put in the tax list. Cased tobacco has never been included in the taxable property in this town, although it is included in other towns, it is said.

Obituary

Noted Tobacco Merchant—Last Treasurer of Confederacy—Dead

CAPTAIN M. H. CLARK, who served as chief and confidential clerk of Jefferson Davis, during the Confederate Government, and was the last acting Treasurer of the Confederacy; for over half a century engaged in the tobacco business at Clarksville, Tenn., and for twenty-five years Secretary of the Clarksville Tobacco Board of Trade, died at Washington, D. C., on February 4th. Captain Clark did duty in the trenches around Richmond and helped to repel the Dahlgren raid. He was afterward made a staff officer with the rank of captain.

Kilkenny Mourns the Loss of Captain Cuffe

CAPTAIN, the Hon. Otway Cuffe, who died recently in Ireland, aided greatly in starting the Kilkenny Tobacco Factory, which is sighted as a monument to his industry. In fact, Kilkenny, known as a decaying market town ten years ago, owes its position as a flourishing industrial centre, including tobacco handlings, to Captain Cuffe alone.

Scoundrel Causes Death of Morris Unger

MORRIS UNGER, a cigar dealer, of 1109 Second avenue, New York, fell dead at the door of his house, on February 3rd. It is reported that his death was due to heart failure, caused by a despicable act of some person, who called Mr. Unger on the telephone and told him that his daughter had been kidnapped and was being maltreated.

Repeat Orders on Rigoletto Cigars are Bigger Than the First

One of our salesmen has just finished covering his route for the first time since our big advertising campaign began. He not only received repeat orders from every dealer who had stocked Rigolettos from the beginning of the campaign, but in every case these orders were bigger than the first orders.

This is a significant example of the manner in which Rigoletto Cigars have made good. The same story from every section of the country. This cigar is fast becoming a standard smoke at 10c. everywhere.

Dealers who realized the quality of Rigolettos, who appreciated the demand for such a cigar when it was made known and the value of our big advertising campaign, have won out big by stocking and pushing it.

Yet the advertising of Rigoletto Cigars has only begun. There are great things for the future. Will you share in them?

Rigoletto Cigars are made in only four standard shapes, all to retail at 10c. Get in touch with your jobber or write to us and we will see that you are supplied.

The dealer gets his profit on every cigar we sell.

If he wants it.

If one of your customers writes us for a sample box of Girard cigars he must mention your name.

He must pay us the full retail price 10 cents straight. We give him no premium nor inducement of any sort to buy direct from us—nothing to spoil him for you. We sell him only one box. And if you then arrange to supply him you get your profit on that initial sale.

This shows you our dealer-policy. And we back it up with a cigar that sells on its merits; and with advertising that makes them know.

Look at the Girard advertisements in The Saturday Evening Post of February 24th and March 9th.

These tell the quality-story of this remarkable cigar. They show you how to turn many of your transient uncertain customers into regulars; who will always know what they want; and waste no time in getting it.

The 10-cent Girard is made in three standard sizes:

"Brokers" 5¼ inch Perfecto
"Mariners" 5⅝ inch Panatella
"Founders" 5 inch Blunt.

You can obtain these from your jobber at $70 per thousand.

The Girard "strikes twelve" every time with a large class of hard-to-suit smokers that grows larger every day. And we are telling its good qualities regularly in this live high-grade publication, The Saturday Evening Post which issues more than a million and three-quarters copies every week.

Doesn't that mean that you'd better send in your order for Girard cigars today?

United Mfrs. Buy Lancaster Factory of Union-American Co.

Sale Made to Comply With Dissolution Decree of U. S. Court—Reorganization of Latter Co.,
Effected

FOLLOWING the recent increase of their capitalization from $15,000,000 to $20,000,000, and the subsequent decision to acquire additional plants, the United Cigar Manufacturers of New York purchased this week a factory at Lancaster, Pa., from the Union-American Cigar Co., the latter concern being one of the companies which was affected by the dissolution decree against the American Tobacco Co.

In taking over the Lancaster plant the United Company acquires a valuable addition to its growing string of factories. The Lancaster building is a model one, seating 300 hands, working principally on nickel cigars. A five-year lease on the building and all the stock of made-up cigars and leaf on hand were included in the transaction.

This deal, following the consolidation of the United Cigar Manufacturers and the Theobald & Oppenheimer Co., which was effected early in January, will greatly strengthen and enlarge the manufacturing facilities of the United Company, and it would not be surprising to learn of further acquisitions of other important factories.

Simultaneously with the news of the purchase of this business came the announcement that the Union-American Cigar Co. had reorganized in compliance with the order of the United States Court.

The following official statement made to THE TOBACCO WORLD by John S. Rossell, the newly-elected president, explains in detail the plan of reorganization:

"The Union-American Cigar Co. sold the Lancaster factory property—the "Chicosa," "Old Town Tavern," "Earl of Albemarle," "Oliver Twist" brands of cigars. It retains the celebrated "Rocky Ford" brand and all of its other popular brands of cigars and stogies. The Union-American Cigar Co. retains its factory at Newark, N. J., headquarters of the "Rocky Ford" cigar, and three factories at Pittsburgh, Pa., where they manufacture stogies and cheaper grades of cigars.

"The Board of Directors of the Union-American Co. reorganized February 27th by the election of John S. Rossell, president; M. B. Fisher, vice-president and secretary; George P. Waidely, vice-president and treasurer; John M. Philbin, auditor.

Cuesta Rey to Build Big Modern Factory in Havana

Tampa Firm Secure Site in Cuban City for Erection of Building—A Significant Move

(Special Cable to "The Tobacco World.")

HAVANA, CUBA, Feb. 29.

A MOVE of widespread interest and deep significance to the cigar trade has been planned by the Cuesta, Rey y Ca., of Tampa, Fla., who have decided to build a four-story modern stone and steel factory at Velasco and Penalver streets, this city.

Plans for the new building have been prepared by F. J. Davis, the Tampa architect, and work will be started as soon as possible so that the building can be completed and occupied within this year.

A. L. Cuesta, president of The Cuesta, Rey y Ca., has been in Havana for the past few days completing the final arrangements for the new factory. The Cuesta-Rey factory, which is known among the trade as the "Truly Spanish House," is one of Tampa's most representative factories. The brands emanating from this factory, notably, "White Heather," "La Flor de Cuesta-Rey," "Ponce de Leon," "El Anelo," "La Favorita de Tampa" and "La Unica," are well known throughout the United States.

The erection of a Havana factory, supplementing the tremendous output of the Tampa factory, will greatly enhance the position of this firm.

United Loses Good Stand at Chicago

CHICAGO, Feb. 29.

FOR the first time since the United Cigar Stores have been established here, they have lost one of their locations. The United has been in the Bay State Building, at State and Randolph streets, their lease expiring this month. When about to renew the lease, the United and Jones, Linich & Schafer had an argument over the rental and as a result the place was offered on the open market at $10,000 a year. H. M. Schermerhorn, Inc., at once took up the lease for ten years and will install a store.

The stand at State and Randolph streets has been a cigar store for a period of thirty consecutive years, being first opened by James P. Dwyel.

Mr. Sylvester on the Cuban Crop

A. L. SYLVESTER, the head of the American Cigar Company's leaf department, who is recognized as one of the world's greatest authorities on cigar leaf, has returned from an extensive trip through Porto Rico and Cuba, and made the following statement to THE TOBACCO WORLD representative:

"People in Havana have got things mixed as to the tobacco situation. They ought to go out in the country and see. The Remedios crop will be large. The tobacco will be large and thin. There will be only a half crop in Vuelta. It is probable that it will be a mixed crop. The Porto Rican crop outlook is very good."

Mr. Sylvester will sail March 13th on the S. S. "Mauretania." He will spend several weeks in England, Holland and France before returning to his desk at 111 Fifth avenue.

Novelties as an Aid to the Retailer

AN infinite variety of novelties which appeal with special force and directness to smokers are now on the market and available as desirable and attractive side lines for the enterprising cigar and tobacco retailer. Many of these are so altogether appropriate and timely for this purpose that it is to be wondered at that they have not long ago found their way into the cigar retailer's store as a general and indispensable adjunct to his trade and as an advertising means for attracting new customers. Still it is a fact that comparatively few of this class of novelties are as yet sold by our city or country retailers.

That this is so may be attributed principally to the fact that in this, as in all other branches of commercial activity, and in all departments of life, it is an exceedingly difficult thing to break away from habit and time honored custom. It is always the easiest to follow the old rut, and the pioneer who cuts the new roads in the forest or maps out new plans in the business world ever had a hard row to hoe.

On the other hand the cigar retailer has, perhaps, never been intelligently and systematically made aware of the great opportunity for trade improvement and additional revenue which lies here. If the subject has been broached at all, it has been in a slipshod, half-hearted way, which even was worse than none at all.

To us, however, it is clear that here a great and productive field lies dormant, and that if we can succeed in (1) awakening the cigar and tobacco retailers of America to the vastness of this opportunity (vast because it not only directly opens up a new source of revenue for them, but also, as regards window and store advertising displays puts into their hands numerous striking and unique mediums) and (2) awakening enterprising manufacturers and distributors of novelties, appropriate for exhibition and sale in cigar and tobacco retail stores to this opportunity—to us it is clear that if we can accomplish this through an intelligent, systematic, analytical exploitation of the subject in the columns of THE TOBACCO WORLD we shall have done valuable missionary pioneer work, and we have decided to bring the propaganda to the attention of our readers through a series of articles, to which the above discourse is introductory. Let us now proceed to briefly enumerate a few of the novelties on the market which may be adopted as side lines and readily sold over the counter of any cigar and tobacco retail store:

Smokers' Requisites Have First Call.

The average cigar retailer, who confines himself to the sale of cigars and tobacco, has no idea of the number and quality, ingeniousness and attractiveness of all kinds of articles in smokers' requisites that are now to be found in the market. With the rapid expansion of the cigar and tobacco industry of the country, and the enormous amount of advertising it has received through the government suits against restrictive monopolies and similar channels, numerous firms have sprung into existence all over the country who make a specialty of the turning out of high class novelties in this line, whose goods are either sold through mail order systems or handled over the counters of the big department stores. There is no good reason why the cigar retailer should not largely share in the revenue received from the sale of these goods.

Outfits for Bachelors' and Other Dens.

Every well-to-do bachelor is a constant hunter for striking articles in the line of cigar lighters, match-holders, ash-trays, cigar-cups, etc., etc., wherewith to adorn his sanctum, and he no sooner puts his eye upon a new invention of the kind which strikes his fancy before he buys it. And where of all places could well such an article be displayed to better advantage by merchants than in the cigar store where he is in the habit of making his purchases. Such new ideas in smokers' requisites, forming part of the retail merchants' window display, will also by necessity draw a percentage of new trade to his store.

Souvenirs.

Many of the concerns manufacturing smokers' requisites turn them out in the form of souvenirs or mementos of noteworthy happenings in the history of cities, states, or the nation, and these, of course, would always be assured of a ready sale by the cigar retailer on the ground. If every retail cigar store doing business in Chicago, New York, Buffalo and so forth, during the great expositions held in these cities had been supplied with a suitable line of souvenir smokers' goods during the term of the expositions, their revenue derived from this source alone, would have amounted to millions of dollars. As it is, it was only here and there that an enterprising merchant had the necessary initiative and foresight to put in a supply of such goods, and even then, for want of comprehensive knowledge of the market, the displays were indifferent and fell far short of what they might have been had they been directed by an intelligent, discerning force, and the attention of the manufacturers and distributors of these goods made aware of the demand.

Political Campaign Novelties.

Every political campaign turns out a mass of novelties appropriate to the occasion, and there is no reason whatever why cigar retailers should not sell these as side lines with great demand and excellent profit.

Premiums.

Many novelty concerns make a specialty of manufacturing premiums appropriate to the demands of merchants in other lines of trade, covering an endless variety of subjects. Most of this class of goods may be introduced as a cigar retailers' side line and a steady demand created for same in any well-established cigar store.

Postcards.

Illustrated postcards, for which an enormous demand now exists, may be introduced and sold with profit by cigar and tobacco retailers; the transient trade, especially, will be attracted and make this line a valuable asset. Playing cards, too, can be sold freely at cigar stands.

Toys, Etc.

A selected list of children's toys, especially boys' playthings, would not be inappropriate to the store of the cigar and tobacco retail merchant, and help to advertise him and increase his trade.

Leather Novelties.

Among the many striking novelties carved and hewn out of leather, a great percentage could be profitably carried and sold by our retailers. Leather is one of the

"SOMETHING DIFFERENT"

Business Campaigns That Will "Walk"—For the Retailer, Wholesaler and Manufacturer

By J. B. JAMISON. **

Being an outline of systems through which big business houses are built. Any reader of THE TOBACCO WORLD, retailer, wholesaler or manufacturer, contemplating an expansion of his business, should consult this department, and may secure the personal services of Mr. Jamison for the direction of his campaign by a series of letters suited to his individual needs upon the payment of $2, for which allowance will be given in new subscriptions to THE TOBACCO WORLD, or the extension of old subscriptions. Single letters of instruction 50 cents.

Advertising plans and campaigns present very much the same vexatious problems and difficulties as beset the French Revolution, and money is wasted in the first as generously as blood was spilt in the latter, by incompetent men and methods. One Constitution after another was formulated, but none of them would "walk." Despair, indecision, lawlessness and terror reigned until the man with the Constitution that would "walk" arrived.

The plans I outline in this department will "walk." They have brought home the goods and are doing the trick every day.

Salesmanship and Its Promotion

TO aid your salesman in obtaining a satisfactory interview with the prospective customer is a matter which requires diplomacy and tact. As a rule it is not the best method, on the first hand, to ask the prospective customer for the privilege of an interview on behalf of the salesman who is to call upon him. The busy jobber or retailer, upon receiving such a letter,—if he does not already know you or is specially interested in your goods—will make up his mind that he already is over-burdened with solicitors and has no time to be bothered. Also, he is apt to be adversely impressed with the thought that if he responds to your letter and invites the salesman to call this will make it obligatory upon him, or almost so, to give you an order. It is, therefore, necessary to construct the introductory letter which is to precede the salesman and pave the way for him as diplomatically as possible.

A letter like the following will make the right impression:

Dear Sir:

Have you tested the sample of cigars we sent you? If so, you know that the "Imperial" nickel brand we have just placed on the market is a cigar of genuinely superior merits, better in leaf, make, quality and appearance than many of the ten-cent brands now in the field. A few minutes talk with our Mr. Dickens, who is now in your territory would, however, convince you better than we can possibly do it by sample or mail that it will be to your immediate and permanent advantage and profit to handle our goods.

We have, therefore, instructed Mr. Dickens to call upon you when he arrives in your town, and convince you in a few minutes talk just how and why it is possible for us to outdistance our competitors and give better value for less money in our new "Imperial" nickel brand.

Very truly yours,

In the majority of instances, no reply will be forthcoming from the prospective customer to such a letter; and if there is a reply it will generally be to the effect that he will be pleased to see your representative, provided it does not place him under any obligation. In both instances the salesman is advised by a postal form, or in whichever way you may find it most economical, that the way for an interview has been paved for him.

In this way you have initiated a system through which you take from off the shoulders of the salesman the most difficult part of his task, namely the introduction and correct presentation of his subject, which means practically three-fourths of the work.

The prospective customer has already been carried half way to the selling point when your representative makes the personal approach. The retailer or jobber has been made acquainted with the cigar you desire to place with him in advance of the call by the salesman. An impression of the advantage that would accrue to him from handling it has been made upon his mind, he knows the terms, included in your initial letter,—and your representative is expected and welcome.

Now, if the salesman, in due course, secures the order all that is necessary for him to do is to write the words "Deal Closed" across the postal form used, and return it to you.

In case he does not close the deal, he will inform you by letter as to the way he was received by the prospect, what are the chances for closing a future deal with him, what objections he offered in the first instance; how he can be approached to best advantage, etc., and these will act as your guide in follow-up letters to him.

A special card system will prove helpful and time-saving in such a canvass. You may use one blank card, to be placed in a properly indexed file, for the salesman's use, upon which he is to write any information about the prospect which can be used in the approach later on. This file may suitably be labelled "Deals Solicited, But Not Closed."

After the first call it may be of advantage to have all follow-up letters sent out signed by the salesman. This gives a more personal touch, and if your solicitor is a live man, of pleasant presence and congenial manners,—requisites which all good salesmen should possess—the impression he left upon the prospective customer at the first call will be such that his letter will receive special attention. If he is an exceptionally high-class man, it may even be well to have stationery printed for him.

All letters can be made up for the salesman in the home office and sent to him for his signature and mailing. In order to avoid extravagance or waste, it will be found advantageous, under such a system, to let the salesman pay the postage and increase his commission on sales to cover this item.

Here is a form which may be used to good advantage to pave the way for the salesman with the prospective customer:

Novelties as an Aid to the Retailer

materials which largely enter into the manufacture of smokers' requisites.

Miscellaneous Articles.

Patented, much advertised novelty specialties, such as miniature flashlights, novel cork extractors, all kinds of signs, calendars, special lines of brass, glass and metal wares, and many more, are among the goods which might be introduced as side lines and handled with advantage by the enterprising cigar retailer.

In brief, here is a field which, properly exploited and improved upon, admits of great possibilities for the retailer. It also affords a new and valuable outlet for the manufacturer of standard novelties, such as those we have briefly enumerated above; that is, if the proposition is correctly introduced and handled, so that the parties at interest may be brought together in such a way that both may at once recognize the mutual benefit to be derived from a closer acquaintanceship, and improve upon it.

If we find that this introductory of the subject meets with the necessary approval, we will undertake to take care of the bringing together of the novelty people and cigar and tobacco retailers for the purpose outlined, and shall come back to this in our next issue.

Let the good work proceed.

Use "United's" Own Weapons

IT took the old-time dealers too long to wake up to changed conditions, and now the battle against this competition is far more difficult than it would have been had they been alert at the outset, and met fire with fire, clean stores with clean stores, good clerks with good clerks, and coupons with coupons, and the installation of a choice assortment of novelties will not be amiss.

Gentlemen:

Your representative, Mr. Dickens, may call on our Mr.

Date

o'clock, preferably, to show samples of your cigars and talk over the matter of placing them with us.

Enclose this form with your introductory letter.

The salesman may find the prospective customer so situated that he cannot immediately place an order. But this should not discourage him. If the terms are advantageous and he is impressed with your goods, he is almost certain to come in later on, if followed up systematically and intelligently.

Finally, when the salesman has succeeded in placing the order, and the contract has been properly signed, a courteous letter of acknowledgment and thanks should at once be sent out from the home office, and promptness and accuracy in shipping should be exercised.

This goes a long way toward putting the new patron into a friendly frame of mind and secures for you his immediate good will, which is the most excellent asset which can be obtained from any man.

THE "IMPERIAL" CIGAR.

IF you see a gentleman smiling to himself in the cars, coming into town about 8 o'clock in the morning, it is dollars to doughnuts he is having a dozen of our genuine Porto Rico cigars in his vest pocket, and is just counting the minutes till he gets to his office to enjoy a quiet smoke.

S. Fernandez & Co. to have Larger Quarters

FROM the first day in business, the firm of S. Fernandez & Co., in Tampa, have gone steadily forward, making such progress that they have already outgrown their present factory, and are shortly to occupy very much enlarged quarters.

A call at their factory the other day by a "World" man showed over one hundred cigarmakers seated and orders piled up awaiting the making of the goods.

This firm are specializing on an excellent grade of Tampa-made cigars under the firm brand "Admiration." These are offered in six sizes of the most popular selling shapes and the label and packing would attract in any company. "Admirations" are distributed in the Philadelphia territory by Goldsmith & Co., and are jobbed in New York by E. Regensburg & Sons.

This concern has special facilities for getting out private brands, and distributors who are handling their goods have done extraordinarily well on them. Yalm & McDonnell, of Philadelphia, have featured a Fernandez grade, "En Boga," which has proven a big seller in the Philadelphia market, where it takes "some" cigar to make any headway. The factory has two new labels now in work, "Carola" and "Crystal," which they tell us have not as yet been placed, and this looks like a good opening for a house which needs a new line.

PROBLEMS of the RETAILER

How to Prevent the Frosting of Windows

THE show window frosted over cannot display any merchandise. Every day that a window is covered with frost is just that much lost in advertising.

The remedies which we give below have been successfully applied in a number of instances. Where these simple remedies do not prove effective, it will be necessary to ventilate the window, while in some instances the only means for preventing frost is to reconstruct the window entirely, having it built on scientific lines.

In numerous instances all that is necessary is to rub the inside of the window with a rag saturated with alcohol. This alcohol operation will have to be repeated in very cold weather several times a day. Instead of using plain alcohol, some stores use glycerine and water, while others use ammonia and salt water, or alcohol and water.

Another effective formula is the following: A thin layer of paste, made of water, glycerine, white candy and sugar, in equal parts; with small quantity of coumarin (which is a camphor derived from the Tonka bean); this, spread over the glass, will not affect its transparency and prevents the precipitation of moisture in many cases.

Where windows do not frost over very badly it is possible to keep the glass clear by throwing a strong current of air over the inside surface by means of an electric fan. One should try to screen the fan with merchandise or show card so it can not be seen. The current of air from the fan should strike the glass from one side and sweep over the entire surface, thus creating a circulation of air over as much of the glass surface as possible. In extremely large windows it will sometimes be necessary to use two fans.

Ventilation May Cure Frosting.

The windows frost over because of the difference in temperature in front and on the back of the plate glass. If the air in the window is warmer than outside, it condenses when it strikes the colder glass, and gathers in the form of frost. For this reason it is necessary to have some arrangement whereby the temperature on both sides of the glass is practically equal.

To attain this end it is necessary first that the windows be enclosed, the back, sides and floor to be practically airtight so that none of the warm, moisture-laden air of the store or basement will find its way into the window. Sometimes this will be all that is necessary, but in most cases you will have to proceed still further and have some form of opening just below the glass—to admit cold air into the window—and openings in the top to release it. This circulation of cold air from the outside flows over the inside of the glass and keeps it at the same temperature as the outside. The only drawback to this system is the possibility of dust getting into the window. This can be overcome by covering the opening with cheesecloth or a screen.

Davenport, Ia. Retailer Expands

A DEAL has been made whereby Hickey Bros., among the most progressive cigar dealers of Davenport, Ia., secure possession of the corner store-room of the Harper House Building, Rock Island, corner of 19th street and Second avenue. William A. Hickey says: "We propose to make our new No. 5 store the finest and best equipped in the West. We will spare no expense to make it so."

"Controlled" Retail Cigar Stores

ONE of the most discussed and interesting subjects in jobbing circles at the moment is that of controlled retail cigar stores. In San Francisco and other Western cities there is a strong tendency for prominent distributing houses to secure control of well-located retail stands in order to furnish a better outlet for the products of the factories.

In San Francisco there are now fifty or more first-class retail stands belonging to the various chains, representing large jobbing interests. While the ordinary jobbing interests are complaining about the general jobbing outlook in cities where this change is now taking place, they will have to submit to the inevitable and fall in line.

Spokane Cigar Men Banquet

MEMBERS of the Spokane Retail Cigar Dealers' Association held a banquet the other evening which was in every respect a big success. The meeting took place in the Chamber of Commerce assembly room.

More than 100 of the Inland Empire attended, and the total number of guests approximated 200.

J. R. Brewster, Ted Ivers, Joe Smith and N. E. Nelson, retail dealers of Seattle, and Ted Alfred, of Tacoma, were among those who accepted the Spokane association's invitations. Mr. Roebing, of the National Grocery Company, and Mr. Eckstein, of Schwabacher Brothers, also attended.

"We are in sympathy with the buy-at-home proposition," said one of the speakers. "Portland is working along the same line and will aid Spokane in establishing a northwestern association at the convention to be held in Spokane next January. One of the objects of this new and larger organization will be to boost the buy-at-home plan."

Retail Cigar Dealers of Portland, Oregon, Organize

AN association has been formed by the Portland, Oregon, cigar retailers, one of the chief objects of which is to agitate against the adding of so many new lines of cigarettes and tobaccos.

The following were elected officers of the Portland association: W. H. Dedman, Jr., president; A. M. Oliver, vice-president; A. A. Anserge, secretary; Ike Gundersheimer, treasurer; Clyde Evans, Charles McDowell, Fred Wertheimer, Webb Harrington and T. H. Shelley, directors.

Lots of Room for this League

AS a founder of the Non-Smokers' Protective League, Dr. Charles S. Pease is doing his utmost to put the Tobacco trade permanently out of business.

His latest move is to send a letter to New York hotel proprietors, asking whether they wish to be listed among those who forbid smoking in lobbies, dining rooms and other public apartments.

Commenting upon this, the manager of the Waldorf says: "I have found that every public room where a gentleman is not allowed to smoke is generally quite empty."

The Tobacco trade will evidently not suffer from the Non-Smokers' League to any appreciable extent.

New England Jobbers Form Association

THE Tobacco Trade Association of New England is the name of the new organization just formed among the wholesale cigar and tobacco jobbers of Boston and New England, for the purpose of bringing the members into more pleasant and profitable intercourse than formerly existed, and tending, in good measure, to lessen the feeling of rivalry and sharp business competition existent. The officers are: Henry Hanauer, of Beringer Bros., president; Samuel Rosenthal, of Rosenthal Bros. & Bendetson, vice-president, and James T. Logan, of McGreenery Bros. & Manning, secretary and treasurer.

Last evening was the first meeting, held at the American House. Over thirty members were present. Addresses were made by Richard E. Traiser, of H. Traiser & Co., Inc., and Henry P. Dowst, of the Humphrey Advertising Agency. Mr. Traiser's subject was "Co-operation Between Manufacturer and Jobber." He urged closer and more comprehensive relations between the two branches of the trade, and particularly pointed out the advantages that would result when the manufacturer and jobber appreciated each other's position, and learn to work together for improved trade conditions.

Mr. Dowst spoke on "Co-operation Between Advertising and Selling." He said, in part, that the jobbers might profit by the advertising being done to maintain a demand for advertised lines of cigars, and that the jobbers' salesmen should be instructed to show retailers the advantages of pushing advertised lines, as such lines, he claimed, would move faster, and have no chance to dry and become unmarketable on the dealers' shelves. "Probably the finest seed and Havana goods in the country, both as to quality and appearance, are made here. As New England merchants, you should encourage home manufacture by your patronage and co-operation."

The Robinson Pettet Co.

The Robinson-Pettet Co., Louisville, Ky., of which Charles Friek is the successful manager, and which does a jobbing business strictly, is now devoting its attention to the featuring of "Cortez" cigars. They handle this well-known brand in fourteen sizes and "Principe de Gales" in six sizes.

New Jobbing House in Louisville

A RECENT addition to the jobbing field of Louisville, Ky., is the Koch, Schmitz & Cohn Co. As a starter, it is pushing "Englo," made by T. Englehardt & Co., and "Jose Vila," as leaders among clear Havanas.

August Claudot, jobber and retailer, of New Orleans, La., does an exceedingly prosperous business with "Sanchez y Haya" cigars.

Old Altoona Distributing Firm Enlarges Its Premises

ANOTHER step forward was taken by the Reid Tobacco Company, one of the large and prosperous enterprises of Altoona, Pa., when the new story to its substantial building at Green avenue and Tenth street, was completed a few days ago. The addition was made necessary by the rapidly-expanding business of the firm.

The Reid Tobacco Company was founded in Milton, Pa., in 1881, by Marshall Reid, deceased. He commenced in a modest way, occupying but a single room, and from this start has developed one of the largest and most successful cigar and tobacco distributing firms in the United States.

In 1902, Mr. J. F. Kauffman, with many years' experience in the business acquired in Philadelphia and Altoona, was made the local manager, with headquarters then located at 906 Green avenue. The wonderful impetus given the business immediately following his selection as manager and the acquisition of a most capable working organization made it imperative within a year for the firm to secure larger quarters.

Subsequently the lot at the northeast corner of Tenth street and Green avenue was purchased and thereupon erected the substantial three-story brick building, which has now been enlarged to accommodate the firm's increasing need for more space.

Best & Russell Get More Stands

BEST & RUSSELL, of Chicago, opened their new stand in the new Insurance Building, Jackson Boulevard and Sherman street, March 1st. They will, on May 1st, open stands in the new Rand McNally Building, and the Otis Building, at La Salle and Madison streets. This is one of the most centrally-located stands in the city. Best & Russell have also taken over all the cigar departments of the Buck & Rayner drug stores, which include the stores run under the B. & R. name and the Consumers and Republic drug stores. They have also leased the privilege in the North-Western depot. This firm now controls the cigar business in the Congress Hotel drug store and the Auditorium Hotel drug store. They have also just renewed the lease on the Ashland Block drug store.

Buck & Rayner have leased the ground and bought the property at the corner of Adams and State streets for a drug store, where cigars will be a feature. They will not get possession until May, 1913. This will give Best & Russell, who have the privilege, one of the best stands in the city.

Ware-Kramer Company Creditors Lucky

A DIVIDEND of 60 per cent. was ordered paid to creditors in the Ware-Kramer Tobacco Company bankruptcy proceedings. This was made possible as the result of a compromise at $60,000 of the restraint in trade damage action brought by the Ware-Kramer Company against the American Tobacco Company for over a million dollars. This, together with a previous division of 15 per cent., makes a total of 75 per cent. There will be another dividend later on.

Large Importing Business of Strauss Cigar Co.

THE Strauss Cigar Co., of Richmond, Va., makes a strong bid for business on imported goods. An entire case of this class of goods is exhibited in their retail store. The firm features the "Eden," "Romeo y Julieta," "Exception," "H. Sepman," and many other popular brands.

Cliff Weil Co., of Richmond, Great Jobbing House

THE Cliff Weil Cigar Co., of Richmond, probably carries the largest stock of imported goods in Southern territory, covering four States with a large and able sales force. The line is made up of the following brands: "Bock" in six sizes; "La Carolina" and "Villar y Villar," in five sizes each; "Henry Clay," "Manuel Garcia," "Romeo y Julieta," and many others.

St. Louis Jobber Introduces New Cigar

THE "La Invada" cigar, something new, is being put on the market by the W. A. Stickney Cigar Co. of St. Louis. The brand is carried in sixteen different sizes, ranging in price from $36 to $85 per M.

Big San Francisco Jobber Optimistic

EHRMAN BROS. & CO., cigar jobbers, of San Francisco, report that their business is improving by leaps and bounds as the season advances, and the fact that collections are becoming easier proves that the general trade conditions of the far West are correcting themselves.

Liggett & Myer Co. Boom St. Louis

THE dissolution of the American Tobacco Company has resulted in giving St. Louis prestige as the distributing center for "Velvet Tobacco," "Fatima Cigarettes" and "Duke's Mixture," three extensively advertised brands which are now controlled by the Liggett & Myers Co., of St. Louis.

The Liggett & Myers Co. points out that, inasmuch as "Velvet" and "Fatimas" are advertised in every town and hamlet in the United States, such advertising necessarily will henceforth accrue to St. Louis, inasmuch as St. Louis is mentioned in every advertisement.

J. D. Jones Gets Berth From A. T. Co.

J. D. JONES, of Michigan, has just been appointed representative of the American Tobacco Company in Maine, New Hampshire and Vermont. This is Mr. Jones' first visit to Maine.

Cigars Distributed Free at Fair

AT the sixth annual food fair, held under the auspices of the Methodist Church at Rockland, Me., during the week commencing February 12th, cigars in plenty were distributed to the Grand Army veterans present in particular and to the public in general, by the J. W. A. Cigar Co. and Messrs. H. M. Brown and H. C. Clark, greatly adding to the success of the fair.

Smith Bros., Boost New Orleans

THE Smith Bros. Co., of New Orleans, do an immense jobbing business in that city and throughout the Southern States with their clear Havana lines.

Late Jobbing Trade Items

F. A. Zirnheld, who conducts a thriving cigar jobbing business at 1219 West avenue, Buffalo, N. Y., will shortly introduce in Buffalo, the "Adlan" ten-cent cigar, made by the 44 Cigar Co. His campaign on this cigar will be active and he will distribute much advertising in its interest.

Leo Roth, the veteran Milwaukee jobber, is ill and confined at his home. S. Roth, his son, meanwhile is conducting the business. The house handles a choice line of Havana cigars, among which "Espina," Leopold Powell & Co.'s well-known brand, in eight sizes.

Abe Berger, a prosperous jobber and retailer of Keene, N. H., has just moved into his new store, which is fitted up with all modern improvements.

Chas. F. Rockwood, of Burlington, Vt., is doing a rushing jobbing business in his own brands of cigars, which are made for him in the East factories.

H. Koen & Co., of New Orleans, feature "Websters," "Cortez," "Principe de Gales" and "Flor de Vega." These cigars are all good sellers, and are to be found at the hotels and other retail stands, including the firm's own stores.

Pushing the "Sealomo" in Missouri

PETER HOFFMAN CO., the St. Louis jobbers, are featuring a new and very attractive brand of Tampa-made goods under the brand "Sealomo," which being interpreted from the label, is Seal of Missouri. These goods are just the kind for the "show me" class, and have caught on heavily, according to reports. They come from the S. Fernandez & Co. factory.

New "Tokio" Cigarette

A NEW cigarette of the five-cent variety is announced, and will, according to the schedule, be largely advertised when it arrives. Its name is to be "Tokio," each package consisting of ten excellent cigarettes, with a silk butterfly insert. The cigarette will be put on the market by the Hassan Department of the American Tobacco Company.

Officers elected for the Wald-Kendrick Co.

THE Wald-Kendrick Co., of Utica, New York, recently organized, has elected Peter J. Wald, president; Frank M. Kendrick, vice-president; J. B. Geer, secretary, and M. A. Wald, treasurer, the same officers to serve as directors.

Mr. Geer has resigned as the local manager for R. C. Dunn & Co. in order to devote his entire time to the interests of the Wald-Kendrick Co., of which he is to be manager as well as secretary. The new concern has taken over the business of F. M. Kendrick & Co., the second oldest tobacco house in Central New York.

Harry Kenyon, Jr., a hustling tobacconist of Wilmington, Del., is meeting with much success in the sale of "Blue-J" stogies, of which he has the exclusive selling agency in that territory.

Corner Store Chat

WHAT becomes of all the empty cigar boxes? Frankly, I haven't the slightest idea. I should say that there are between 2,000,000 and 3,000,000 cigar boxes thrown away each year in New York alone. These boxes are nearly all made of cedar wood, and on account of the fact that they are thrown away instead of being re-used, the price of cedar has been steadily going up.

The weight of all these boxes totals several hundred tons and yet no one knows where they all go to. The reason for this is seen in the revenue laws. We are not permitted to use a box twice. Consequently, when a box is emptied it is broken up and thrown in the ash heap. Cigar box makers have discussed the problem of turning this loss into a profit for years, but no solution has offered itself. We cannot use the boxes as long as the revenue stamp is on them and that seems to end it. This costs the cigar people about $15,000 a year, figuring that the boxes are worth about five cents apiece. We are looking for the time when there shall be no more cedar wood and that problem seems to be solved by the tin box. There is a manufacturer in Kansas City, who is sending out a great number of cigars this year, packed in tin boxes.

I suppose that along in 1915 about Christmas time, when "hubby" wants to smoke one of wife's favorite presents, he will say, "Well, Johnnie, run out in the kitchen and get the can-opener. Papa wants to smoke."

Smoking, according to Judge Landis, of Chicago, is not a bad habit. He expressed his views to that effect in court the other day, to Rev. W. H. Taylor, pastor of the Humboldt Park Baptist Church. The reverend gentleman was there to plead for leniency for a member of his congregation who had pleaded guilty to rifling mail while in the employ of the postoffice as a sub-stamper.

"Your honor," said the minister. "Allow me to speak for this young man. He is a member of my church, of good moral character and reputation un-be-smirched. We were all much surprised to hear of this crime he has committed."

"What do you mean when you say good reputation and moral character?" queried the court.

"He doesn't smoke, chew or drink. He stands well with the congregation."

It was then the court expressed his views on smoking. "You would better smoke," added the court to the prisoner at the bar. "Much better that you smoke than do what you have done."

While it is not exactly de riquer for a preacher to smoke these days, many of them do it. A well-known New York clergyman of unusually solemn and impressive appearance went to a country town to lecture. He arrived early in the afternoon, and all the town, of course, spotted him within five minutes as a very great and very saintly man. He went into a drug store and in tones that froze the young blood behind the soda fountain, said:

"Young—man—do you—smoke?"

"Y—yes, sir," said the trembling clerk. "I'm sorry; but I learned the habit young, and haven't been able to leave off."

"Then," said the great divine, without the movement of a muscle or the abatement of a shade of the awful solemnity of his voice, "can you tell me where I can get a good cigar?"

Each cigar, when smoked, is capable of killing 5,000 germs, according to scientists. Just use this argument with the Missus the next time you want to smoke up the curtains in the best parlor, if you want to get a cold stare, or a torrent of reproaches.

I see by one of the morning papers they publish out in the "Windy City," on Lake Michigan, that it has finally been settled by a court decree that smoking and chewing tobacco is no discredit or criminal offence.

I don't believe the salesmen in the larger stores get close enough to the customer. Somehow or other, the spirit of trust isn't as mutual as that of the littler fellow. With him it's a kind of family relationship.

If this relationship in business appeals so strongly to womankind why isn't it a good thing to cultivate?

A lot of us need to get off our high horse and do business on earth.

Stores with a hundred feet deep and fifty feet wide, with magnificent fixtures and a swell stock are a credit to the owner, but unless you make it a "home" store, gentlemen, a lot of mighty good trade will swing around the corner where Jimmie calls everybody by name and asks why little Myrtle isn't along with her mother today.

"Invincible Chico" sounds like the title of a newly risen Mexican bandit chief, but it's not. It is the "front mark" of a cigar. Just like panatela or perfecto. "What most people know about tobacco won't hurt 'em." They let a flashy trade name be the distinguishing mark of their favorite brands. A name is a lot, but not everything. To make a success of the cigar business, as everywhere else, I reckon "the goods" must be there to support the name.

It was the late King Edward who popularized the cigarette in English society at a time when its use after dinner was very little known.

"Our late sovereign" says my source of information, an Englishman of note who stood close to King Edward's Court, "was the only man who ever offered a cigarette to Mr. Gladstone with acceptance, but while that statesman, who loathed tobacco in every form, did his best to take a few whiffs to emulate his enjoyment of the smoke, he was altogether unaccustomed to the weed. He soon laid the cigarette aside on the plate and the then Prince of Wales did not ask him to re-light it."

The action of the clear Havana cigar manufacturers of Tampa in contributing $250 per week for the relief of distress among the poor of the trade is liberal as well as creditable to them. It is presumed and hoped that most

Honest Workers
Sycophants and Improvidents

of this donation will find its way to the relief of poor cigar workers' families. Without being unduly severe, it might be appropriate and timely to bring to the attention of the cigar manufacturing trade of America, as a general illustration, that but for the voluntary, stubborn and prolonged strike of the cigarmakers at Tampa within the last two years there could never have been such a condition of the cigar business that any need for this extraordinary charity would have been called for.

It is trite, and perhaps need not be repeated, but improvidence plays as large a part in bringing about destitution as all other causes combined. This is an opinion based upon practical knowledge and quite apart from the deductions arrived at by certain scientific gentlemen, now conducting experiments at various points of the country, who it appears have concluded that the workers of the world, in the field of cigar manufacturing and elsewhere, after having filled the coffers of their employers, should be put out of existence in this or the next generation, on the plea of inherited pauperism—being now superfluous. We believe in such an adjustment of the social and industrial world that every man, woman and child will have a chance to make a living by honest work, and will be so born as to have a healthy taste for doing things and letting the other fellow live.

And as for these "sociologists" and "scientists," who advocate race restriction, we are very much in favor of commencing the experiment upon themselves, as we find that most of them are idlers, inquirers for truth in name only, conspiring with governmental and social rogues, sycophantic, servile and impossible—they are men and women who not alone will not or cannot make an honest living for themselves, but who busy themselves trying to prevent other people from doing so; an agglomeration of poor, undesirable busybodies, who constitute a heavy drain upon the taxpayers of the country on account of the appropriations they manage to draw from the national treasury—we have carefully analyzed the whole situation as regards these dangerous parasites, and find that they should be voted out of existence forthwith, to which end we make the motion that a House of Representatives Committee be at once appointed to investigate them and will cheerfully furnish particulars.

But as regards the condition of which the present state of the Tampa cigar workers is an instance, there can be no doubt, and every intelligent worker among them will readily admit that strike agitators, failure to properly husband their earnings or stick to their employment and in some instances lassitude and improvidence, are almost wholly responsible for the deplorable existing poverty and destitution.

For the prosperity of the Tampa cigar trade is such, and the same may with equal truth be said of almost every cigar manufacturing center in America, that there is not one among the workers in this field upon whom the touch of actual poverty could descend—except in the rare case of severe and continued affliction. Prudence and thrift would avert all danger of pressing poverty among workers in the cigar manufacturing field, in Tampa and elsewhere.

Four centuries ago tobacco was unknown to civilized man, today there is a trail of tobacco smoke around the world.

Tobacco's Conquest of the World

Four centuries ago, the aborigines of the two Americas were the only users of tobacco; today there is scarcely a race or tribe upon the globe that is not addicted to its use in some form or other. Four hundred years ago, the economic value of tobacco did not exist so far as civilization was concerned; now, it is one of the world's greatest industries, employing hundreds of thousands of men and women in its culture, manufacture and distribution, and with a value for the finished product that rivals that of the great food staples. In four hundred years this American weed has made the economic conquest of the world. At first treated as a luxury or an expensive medicine, it has become a necessity. Once grown only in tropical and semi-tropical America it is now cultivated in every continent and in practically every country of the world. It has adapted itself to great extremes of cold and to many varieties of soil, and it has become the greatest revenue producer for the support of governments. More bitterly fought than was the introduction of coffee and tea, tobacco swept away the opposition of kings and mitred prelates, laughed at secular and theological denunciation and now holds its growing sway over literally billions of devotees. Tobacco is an economic romance that has no rival for interest in modern industrial history.

"When," said James B. Duke, in departing for Europe, "certain officials of a country begin denouncing its pioneers practically as crooks and thieves and as 'immoral,' I should think it is getting time for the old builders of the country and of its commerce, to quit and get out and seek other fields of action. To my mind all this stirring up of trouble tends to breed socialists. Their leaders will quote what the big lawyers or certain officials are calling employers of labor, and, of course, they revel in that."

"Is that the reason," Mr. Duke was asked, "that you are going to quit and have become president of the British-American Tobacco Company in London?"

He offered his interrogator a cigar, but only said, "A closed mouth doesn't catch any flies."

PHILADELPHIA.

Antonio Roig & Langsdorf Profit

THE strength of their advertising campaign is now being felt to a gratifying extent by Antonio Roig & Langsdorf of Philadelphia, in the increasing demand for their "Girard" cigar. The factory is running under full pressure in an attempt to keep up with the call from the local dealers and from every prominent point in the country.

T. & O. Co. Factories Work Overtime

THE Theobald & Oppenheimer Co. are working their factories overtime to keep up with the demand for their high-grade cigars. They are over-sold on the "El Teano" and "El Paso" brands.

Steigerwals Elect New Officers

THE John Steigerwalt Co., of Philadelphia, at a meeting held on February 14, elected Wm. T. Gabell as president, to succeed Wilbert Stewart. H. F. Gillingham and E. P. Balderston were elected secretary and treasurer, respectively, for the ensuing year. The new management will continue along the same lines as heretofore, keeping up the quality of "La Voco," "La Tonia," "Wanetah" and "El Borita" brands.

"Mifeco" Success

MITCHELL, FLETCHER & CO. are meeting with pronounced success in marketing their new "Mifeco" brand of cigarettes, which are manufactured to their order with plain and cork tip and intended to appeal to smokers of discrimination. Repeat orders have come in with increasing regularity, which leads to the belief that the "Mifeco" has come to stay.

"Rigoletto" to be Pushed in Philadelphia

R. Rubitschek, brother of Joe Rubitschek, Pittsburgh representative for E. A. Kline & Co., Cleveland, will shortly begin an active campaign in Philadelphia and adjacent territory on "Rigoletto" ten-cent cigars made by this firm.

Mr. Rubitschek will have the co-operation of H. N. Goldsmith & Co., who are the local distributors for this brand of cigars.

A corps of trained salesmen will operate under Mr. Rubitschek's direction, and if the plans already mapped out are followed "Rigoletto" cigars will be a prominent feature of many cigar stores.

Well-known Firm Opens Headquarters in Middle and Southwest

WS. LUCKETT, of Luckett, Luchs & Lipscomb, recently returned from a trip through the West, which proved to be the most successful ever taken in the interest of this firm.

Monroe Luchs left Philadelphia recently for Chicago with his wife and family, where he will establish permanent headquarters and look after the firm's business throughout the Middle West and Southwest.

Strong Call for "Kings Club" Brand

AR. CLAYTON, Philadelphia representative for the "King's Club" brand, with an office at 436 Real Estate Building, is cheerfully optimistic regarding the future of his brand with Philadelphia dealers. He has succeeded in creating a strong demand and placed his cigars successfully with a large number of the best dealers in the city.

"Prince Albert" Featured

THE R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Co., through its Philadelphia representative, Thomas F. Gilbert, is making an excellent showing with "Prince Albert." The brand is being pushed in every section of the city and all sizes of the packing sell readily.

El Draco Succeeds in Philadelphia

THE El Draco Cigar Manufacturing Co., of Wilmington, Del., are making headway in Philadelphia, through their energetic representative, featuring the "Stratford" cigar. A. J. Lynch, representing the same firm, has returned from Baltimore, where he has placed the brand with many of the prominent hotels and cigar stands. He is going to Atlantic City, N. J., in the interest of the brand. The firm is working its factory to its fullest capacity to keep pace with the growing demand.

Mr. Gallagher Goes West for Cressman

IOS. F. GALLAGHER, advertising manager for Allen R. Cressman's Sons, leaves Philadelphia about March 2nd on a trip through the West, going as far as Los Angeles, Cal., where he will confer with Geo. W. Walker, distributor for the Cressman brands in that territory. Various distributing points will be visited by Mr. Gallagher, and the best methods for meeting the increasing demand for the Cressman lines discussed.

Quaker City Items

George I. Watson, of Sig. C. Mayer & Co., makers of "Rey Oma" ten-cent and "El Wadora" and "Rugby" nickel cigars, made a trip to the out-of-town factories during the current week.

A large shipment of "Jose Villars," made by Berriman Bros., Tampa, Fla., has just been received by the Philadelphia distributor, H. N. Goldsmith & Co., 639 Arch street, and the popularity of this well-known brand is rapidly increasing.

Percy Myers, a member of the firm of the Cortez Cigar Co., Savannah, Ga., and C. W. Saunders, general sales agent for the same firm, visited Philadelphia recently.

Percy Dolby, of the "Three B" Pipe Company, booked some attractive orders while in Philadelphia recently.

The Marie Garden Cigar Co., 823 Wharton street, Philadelphia, has discontinued business, and there is an unconfirmed report to the effect that the stock has been disposed of and a 50 per cent. payment made to creditors.

Frank Estrada, for sixteen years with Frau & Pena, is now operating a factory at 2320 North 26th street, Philadelphia, where he manufactures a line of high-grade Havana cigars.

Mr. Estrada will cater to the better class of smokers, and at present will engage in the wholesale business only, supplying clubs, cafes and such stores as have an output for a clear Havana cigar.

The C. L. Martin Company, 1303 West Columbia avenue, Philadelphia, are enjoying continued success with their "Martin's Havana" cigar, which they are marketing in "Diplomatics," "Londres" and "Panatella" shapes.

So consistent has been the growth of this nickel cigar that Martin & Co. are planning to increase the production, and later inaugurate an aggressive campaign for local and general distribution.

The store at the northeast corner of 15th street and Columbia avenue, Philadelphia, which has been occupied as a cigar store for a number of years, and recently owned and operated by Wm. M. Stambaugh, has been closed, and as soon as alterations are completed will be opened as a first-class drug store by H. S. Houghendobler.

The stock of the Kensington Tobacco Co., 2239 Front street, Philadelphia, was sold at public sale at the auction rooms of Wm. Comly & Son, 27 South Second street, February 20th, under the direction of Harry Deitsch, who was appointed receiver when bankruptcy proceedings were instituted several weeks ago. It was learned that the creditors can expect little more than 15 per cent., and perhaps less than this amount.

Arthur Holt has severed his connection with Pent Brothers, 13th and Juniper streets, Philadelphia, to accept a position as manager of the cigar department for the Theodore Netter Distilling Co., 1215 Market street, this city. Prior to his association with Pent Brothers, Mr. Holt was identified with the firm of H. N. Goldsmith & Co., 629 Arch street.

The "Counsellor" cigar, made by Allen R. Cressman's Sons, is proving such a popular smoke down Charleston, S. C., way that J. M. Shroedern, distributor for that section, has expressed a desire to develop additional trade.

Godfrey S. Mahn, Philadelphia and New York cigar importer, sailed on February 17th, for Havana, and expects to be gone about three weeks.

Henry Hilbronner, of Hilbronner & Jacobs, left Philadelphia, February 26th, for a six weeks' trip, which will terminate on the Pacific coast. Mr. Hilbronner recently returned from a trip through the Middle South and reports good business on all their lines, especially the "Havana Browns" and "El Gonzales."

Monroe Luchs, of Luckett, Luchs & Lipscomb, who has been covering the Middle West for his firm, with headquarters at Chicago, is back in Philadelphia, to spend a couple of weeks at the factory. It is learned that the L., L. & L. factory is far oversold on their "Reynaldo" and "Luxello" brands.

E. C. Howlett, advertising manager of Bondy & Lederer, New York City, spent Washington's Birthday in Philadelphia en route to the Pacific Coast, via Pittsburgh.

Cassius Parcels, until recently New York City representative for Salvador Rodriguez, 130 Water street, will in future take orders for the well-known "Charles the Great" cigars made by this firm in Philadelphia and vicinity.

N. Leventhal, who has been conducting retail stores at No. 44 N. 12th street and No. 802 Vine street, Philadelphia, has taken Mr. H. Epstein into partnership and will engage in the cigar manufacturing business at the 12th street address. Mr. Epstein was formerly engaged in the cigar manufacturing business at Quakertown, Pa., and prior to that was employed by H. D. Narrigan, of Philadelphia, wholesale distributors. It is the intention of the new firm to manufacture 5-cent and ten-cent goods.

Wm. G. Sulke Dead

WM. G. SULKE, a member of the firm of T. H. Hart & Co., 12th and Walnut streets, Philadelphia, died on February 24th at the age of 57 years.

For twenty-five years Mr. Sulke was identified with the cigar industry, and was considered an expert judge of leaf tobacco and an authority on blending.

Portuondo to Feature "All Alike"

ATTRACTIVE window displays will soon be ready for distribution by The Juan F. Portuondo Cigar Manufacturing Co., 1110 Sansom street, Philadelphia, featuring this firm's new nickel cigar, "All Alike."

The demand for this new brand has been so consistent that an additional force of cigarmakers was necessary to keep pace with the orders.

The new display is in the form of a pyramid, and is a fine specimen of the lithographer's best work, and will prove an attractive setting for many windows.

TOO LATE FOR CLASSIFICATION.

Revival of National Retailers' Coupon Association

THE National Retailers' Coupon Co. held a meeting in New York City, on Friday, February 16. The officers and stockholders of the concern decided to reorganize the corporation and adopt a more aggressive policy.

It is understood that as a result of the meeting, a man recognized as a regular wizard in the coupon business will take over the management and complete control of the organization, making it to all intents and purposes a new enterprise.

It is confidently hoped that this change will make the National Retailers' Coupon Co. a big factor in the retail cigar and tobacco business throughout the country.

Thomas F. Ryan Out of Tobacco Board

THE directors of the American Tobacco Company, on February 28th, accepted the resignation of Thomas F. Ryan from their body. Mr. Ryan's resignation has been expected as a consequence of the resignation of other men who were important members of the board in the days before the dissolution, notably James B. Duke, P. A. B. Widener and his son, George D. Widener. The resignation of Paul Brown, of St. Louis, as a director was also accepted.

K. P. & V. Open Chicago Office

IN order to take care of their rapidly growing business in the Middle West, Kaufman, Pasbach & Voice, specialists in the manufacture of cigar labels and brands, have decided to open a Chicago office in the charge of John B. Thatcher. Mr. Thatcher is well and favorably known among the Western trade because of his former connections. As yet he has not decided upon the location of his office, and he is making his temporary headquarters at the Briggs House.

N. Y. Coupon Legislation Foreshadowed

THE collectors of coupons may lose their occupation, for a bill has been introduced in the New York Legislature, making it unlawful to sell or exchange or give away any coupon or card or serial picture card or ribbon with cigarettes or cigars; also to sell or give away tickets, stamps, coupons or inducements of any kind with any quantity of liquor or tobacco.

Finch now Secretary of A. C. Co.

GEORGE G. FINCH has been elected secretary of the American Cigar Company, to succeed T. T. Anderson, who has gone with the Liggett & Myers Company. Mr. Finch is also treasurer of the American Cigar Company.

Noted New York Manufacturer to Move Up-Town

SALVADOR RODRIGUEZ, maker of the famous "Charles the Great" cigar, announce that upon expiration of their present lease, May 1st, their New York office will be removed from Water and Pine streets to the fourth floor of the Mecca Building, on West Forty-eighth street, between Broadway and Seventh avenue.

The new location is especially convenient for the many visiting members of the trade who come to New York from time to time to buy the "Charles the Great" cigars, being in close proximity to the big up-town hotels. The offices are light, spacious and airy, and contain all modern improvements.

A New 10-Cent Cigar, "The Abbey"

ANEW high-grade cigar, which will be sold at 10 cents straight, and be known as "The Abbey," will be marketed by the United Cigar Manufacturers Co. The manufacturers say that they have struck a particularly fine blend in this cigar and expect great things from it.

Havana Fakers Jailed

UOSE E. PEREZ and Antonio Garcia, of New York City, have been sentenced by Judge Hought of the United States District Court to six months in the penitentiary and the payment of $100 each for selling counterfeit "Romeo ye Julieta" and "Hoyo de Monterey" in refilled boxes.

"United" Specializes in Cigars

THE Flatiron store of the "United," New York City, displays cigars to the exclusion of other lines. One window is devoted to the display of calabash pipes. The remainder are trimmed with cigars principally clear Havana brands.

Arrest-order Awaits Alexander S. Korn

ABOUT a year ago the Ability Cigar Manufacturers' Company, then of 1208 Avenue A, New York City, was placed in bankruptcy. Following the usual hearings supplemental proceedings were started for the creditors by the law firm of Putzel, Stern, Barr & Tyler, the report of the referee, Mr. Stanley W. Dexter, showing that assets amounting to $6,000 had not been properly accounted for. An order was issued by the court, directing Alexander S. Korn of the bankrupt concern to turn in these assets of $6,000. This he failed to do, and a warrant for his arrest is now pending awaiting his return to New York from the West.

New York News Notes

President Ochs of I. R. T. A., Warns Members to Steer Clear of Politics

AFEW insurrecto members of the Independent Retail Tobacconists' Association announced at the last meeting of the organization that they had formed an Anti-Taft League. The meeting was held on Thursday evening, February 22nd. The resolutions condemning the attitude of the President in the matter of the A. T. Co. dissolution were received with applause by the radical members of the organization, who appeared to be in the majority.

A number of the more conservative members were naturally inclined to frown upon the efforts to bring politics into a purely commercial issue. Several of these cooler heads expressed themselves to THE TOBACCO WORLD correspondent as strenuously opposed to this action.

President Ike Ochs was not at the meeting. When interviewed concerning the strenuous step taken by some of the members, Mr. Ochs made the following statement: "While I was not present at the meeting, I am sure that these resolutions were passed by some of the members as individuals, and that the Retail Tobacconists' Association as a body does not sanction or contemplate engaging in politics."

The Ruland Anti-Coupon bill, which is scheduled to come up before the New York Legislature, was the subject of considerable discussion at the meeting. A number of the members had addressed personal communications to various legislators with whom they are acquainted, exploring them to give their support to the bill when that measure comes up before the house. It is learned upon excellent authority that, while most of the legislators promised their support to the Independent Tobacconists, some of them were inclined to think that the bill in the form that it has been introduced would not be constitutional and that it will either have to be changed or a substitute bill presented before they can hope to pass it.

The Ways and Means Committee reported that work was progressing very satisfactorily on the First Annual Journal, which will be issued within a few weeks. The committee in charge of this journal has already secured a large amount of advertising, and they hope to get a handsome revenue out of this publication.

Independent Salesmen Meet

THE Independent Tobacco Salesmen's Association will hold their regular monthly meeting tonight (March 1st) at Terrace Garden, New York.

On Saturday, March 16th, this organization will give a beefsteak dinner at Reisenweber's restaurant.

It is expected that a large number of the boys will attend the feast and extensive preparations for the entertainment of the guests are being made by the committee which has the arrangement in hand.

Mr. Levy Now With Perez & Co.

HENRY LEVY, who for the past thirty years has been intimately connected with the Havana leaf market, selling Havana tobaccos exclusively, has connected himself with the well-known Havana importing house of Theodore Perez & Co.—an announcement which will be hailed with approval and congratulations from Mr. Levy's numerous friends and patrons in the cigar manufacturing field.

Mass Meeting of Brooklyn Retail Dealers
ON Tuesday evening, February 27th, the Independent Retail Dealers of Brooklyn held a mass meeting at the Sheldon Building, 315 Washington street, Brooklyn.

Spirited addresses were delivered by the following well known professional business men:

Gratton J. McMahon, "Must the Small Dealer Disappear?"

Former Assistant District Attorney L. LeRoy Ross, "Is it Possible to Carry on the Government Prosecution?"

Luke O'Reilly, "What Chance Has the Small Businessman?" and Editor Martin J. Costello on "The Benefits of Organization."

Oscar S. Veit, delegate from the New York organization, acted as chairman and Otto S. Jonas as secretary of the meeting.

A large number of the New York retailers and salesmen were present and listened in wrapped attention to the splendid talks of the able speakers.

John A. Schmidt Dead

JOHAN A. SCHMIDT, of the firm of Schmidt & Co., trade lithographers of 37-39 East 21st street, New York City, died of typhoid fever on Wednesday, February 21st. His numerous friends in New York, Chicago and elsewhere will hear of his death with sincere regret.

Several days ago Salvador Rodriguez, of "Charles the Great" fame, secured a lease on a handsome set of offices and salesrooms in the large office building, which is situated on Broadway and 48th street, to which desirable location they will remove their New York offices from their present location on Water street.

They expect to be in their handsome new offices on about April 1st. The new offices are situated right in the heart of New York's hotel and theatre district, and will make them very convenient for the out-of-town customers who visit the city.

associated with, the American Tobacco Co., tendered their resignations.

"The headquarters of the company will be removed from New York to Pittsburg, Pa., on or before April 1st, and will be established at one of its factories located at 28th and Small-man streets.

"The new officers of the company were busy yesterday issuing the new preferred and common stock, which aggregates over $1,500,000.00. These certificates will be forwarded to the stockholders within the next ten days.

"Vice-President Fisher will have charge of the sales department of the Union-American Co.; Vice-President Waidely of the manufacturing and leaf departments.

"The court required the Union-American Cigar Co. to separate its factories and businesses into at least two concerns, and the sale above reported was brought about to comply with the Court's decree. The Union-American Cigar Co. acquired no interest whatever in the United Cigar Manufacturers Co., nor are any of its officers associated with the last-named company.

"The American Stogie Company, of which the Union-American Cigar Co. was a subsidiary under the old organization, has been fully and completely dissolved.

"The Union-American Cigar Co. is now an independent organization, and under its new management will continue the manufacture of its splendid line of goods and will push its business vigorously in every State in the American Union."

Havana Importers' Association Meet

THE Havana Importers' Association met on Friday, February 23, at the rooms of the New York Leaf Tobacco Board of Trade. A committee was named to formulate a set of by-laws, and the question of the Association's incorporation was taken up.

Most important among the business transacted was the perfecting of a brief which was placed before the Secretary of the Treasury on February 27. It states in full the position of importers of Havana tobacco and manufacturers of clear Havana cigars in America in regard to the trouble arising out of the differential rate of duty on Havana tobacco, and is as follows:

To the Secretary of the Treasury:

We would respectfully add the following to our previous communication and ask for your esteemed consideration of same.

As previously stated "Havana" tobacco is essentially a "filler" tobacco, the total percentage of "wrapper" tobacco not exceeding 5 per cent, and the best available statistics do not place it over 2 per cent.

The principal merit of "Havana" tobacco is its quality, differing from and conceded to be superior to all other tobaccos, and it is in consequence indispensable in the manufacture of the better grades of cigars, especially the "Seed and Havana" cigar, a cigar the "filler" or inside of which is of "Havana" tobacco, with a domestic "binder" and either domestic or "Sumatra" leaf as "wrapper." We believe that fully 75 per cent. of the entire imports of "Havana" tobacco is used in the "mixed" or "Seed and Havana" cigar.

Prior to 1883, the term "wrapper tobacco" was unknown in any tariff law, and all leaf tobacco imported paying one rate of duty, and no domestic interests had up to that time asked for, or considered necessary, any protective tariff rate against "Havana" tobacco. These interests did, however, at about the above date ask for and receive a protective rate of duty against "Sumatra" tobacco, which is essentially "wrapper" tobacco and used as such: none of it is, or can be used for any other purpose in this country. It is true that the tariff did not refer to "Sumatra" tobacco as such, the treaty with Holland prohibiting the discrimination involved by such designation, but did apply the higher, or "wrapper" rate to tobacco of a certain description which practically excluded all tobaccos with the exception of "Sumatra" tobacco from the higher rate of duty and admitted all other tobaccos, including "Havana," into the United States at the lower, or "filler," rate of duty.

In the subsequent tariff law, known as the "McKinley tariff," the tobacco schedule underwent a change, the rate of duty on "wrapper" tobacco being increased to $2.00 per pound, but the "filler" rate remained as in the previous tariff. A clause known as the "15 per cent. clause," was inserted in the new tariff as a result of representations made to Congress by the "Havana" tobacco interests and without opposition or objection on the part of any domestic interests; as a matter of fact these latter interests favored the said clause. This clause, it was fully believed at the time by all interested parties, would permit of the entry at the "filler" rate of all "Havana" tobacco with the exception of the fine "wrapper" bales and it is our firm conviction that, had the Havana interests at that time foreseen the present state of affairs, they would have asked for and, we fully believe, obtained from Congress 25 per cent. or even more instead of the 15 per cent. which they (the Havana tobacco interests) considered a sufficiently high percentage to cover any possible contingency.

A higher percentage in the so-called "15 per cent. clause" would no doubt reduce the present difficulties in the entry and appraisal of "Havana" tobacco, though we do not believe that it would entirely remove them, and this latter objection is the solution we seek.

The fact, conceded by all who have even a slight knowledge of "Havana" tobacco, that there will always exist an honest difference of opinion between experts in "Havana" tobacco as to what is "wrapper" and what is not suitable for "wrapper," precludes the possibility of arriving at a rule or method of entry and appraisal of "Havana" tobacco under the existing tariff schedule that will be fair, equitable and uniform throughout the country, and which will not impose upon an important industry hardships that can have one result, viz: the destruction of said industry without benefit to any other domestic industry.

The suggestions as to entry appraisal of "Havana" tobacco, contained in our previous communication, we believe to be the best method and likely to produce the most satisfactory results in solving the perplexing question, though we do not claim they are not open to some criticism. However, any and all other suggestions would be equally defective, excepting "a reasonable uniform rate of duty on all Havana tobacco."

The previous statement referred to contained the following explanations and suggestions:

When a bale containing more than 15 per cent. of wrappers is appraised at full wrapper duty, it is a very great injustice to the importer. Very few of the finest bales of so-called wrappers contain more than approximately 50 per cent. to 60 per cent. of wrappers, and when an importer pays the full wrapper duty on a bale which contains from 20 per cent. to 40 per cent., or 60 per cent. wrappers, he then pays about two or four times the amount of the actual duty on his wrappers, which seems to be a great injustice. As stated above, Havana tobacco is selected and packed differently from any other tobacco in the world, and being packed by so many different farmers and packers in an unsecured condition, it is impossible to change the mode of packing. Havana tobacco on account of temperature and on account of the damage by the tobacco beetle, can change so quickly, that no experts will be united on the wrapper percentage, nor will any one expert put the same standard on tobacco at different times.

We make the following suggestion:

That all bales of Vuelta Abajo or Patido tobaccos costing in Cuba $250 per bale and upwards, be assessed full wrapper duty.

That all bales of Vuelta Abajo or Partido tobaccos costing in Cuba from $100 to $250 per bale, be assessed at 15 per cent. wrapper duty.

That all other tobaccos be considered filler tobaccos and assessed at filler rate.

This method of appraisal would give the government an increased revenue, and place all importers on an equal footing.

The above applies to unstemmed tobaccos.

This Association pledges itself for its members that they will render correct Consular Invoices to the government, embodying therein the cost of each bale, and further pledges itself to assist the government in correcting any irregularities that may occur on the part of its members or non-members.

For the Association.

CHARLES FOX, President.

CHARLES VOLT, Secretary.

The officers of the Association are highly gratified at the rapidly increasing membership roll, among the newly acquired members being the Martinez Havana Co., Simon Batt and Co., and Sanchez y Haya.

Detroit Trade Hampered by Inclement Weather

DETROIT, MICH., Feb. 26.

THE month of February has not, from all report, proven as satisfactory to the trade as January. Perhaps two national holidays, in addition to four Sundays, may have had something to do with it. A depressing circumstance was the big storm of days, which swept the country far and wide and assailed Detroit and all of Michigan with particular fury. A coal famine that was more real than imaginary added to the unpleasantness of the situation, many plants curtailing operations for fear of a shortage of fuel. Train and interurban service was almost at a standstill. The "daily fast trains" advertised in the press were, many of them, fast in the snow, and freight trains were neglected for days to enable the roads to restore the highly disorganized passenger and mail service. It is easy to understand how a storm of such magnitude and wide-reaching effect will demoralize business. The cigar and tobacco interests suffered in common with others.

That portion of the Detroit tidings in the last issue of "Tobacco World" referring to Detroit's development in the cigar and tobacco industry, and particularly that part of the article outlining the wonderful growth of the Scotten-Dillon Tobacco Co., was brought to the attention of some of the officials of the Board of Commerce. This body is an aggressive, capable organization, comprising more than a thousand of our leading business and professional men. It has been a great factor in the city's marvelous development of recent years. Many were heard commending "The Tobacco World" for its recognition of the magnitude and importance of the Detroit interests in the field it (T. W.) so ably covers. But do these interests know what "Tobacco World" is doing for them? Do they know that, roughly speaking, "The Tobacco World" gave them, last year, more space, more gratuitous publicity, than all the other tobacco trade papers together have given them in "three years"? When will these interests awaken to the fact that in this journal they have an active ally and a potential agency for greater sales and larger business— "Wake up!"

DETROIT, MICH., — — —, 1912.

The McHie-Scotten Tobacco Company, of Detroit, begs to announce that it has purchased the merchandise, leaf tobacco and brands of the Scotten Tobacco Company, but has no other connection with its business and has assumed none of its liabilities.

We shall be pleased to fill your order of ——— to the Scotten Tobacco Co. upon your advice that the same will be satisfactory. Thanking you in advance for this and any future business you may favor us with.

Respectfully yours,

McHIE-SCOTTEN TOBACCO CO.

The foregoing announcement sent to the customers of the Scotten Tobacco Co. is the most significant trade item of the week. As will be observed, the new company is not a reorganization of the former and has nothing to do with its affairs, but purchased from it its merchandise, brands, etc. I understand, too, they have purchased the plant and machinery. The old company will liquidate and go out of business.

The identity of those behind the McHie-Scotten Tobacco Co. is not fully disclosed yet, the organization thus far not being entirely perfected. Articles of incorporation were filed with the Secretary of State February 15th. $300,000 is the authorized capital stock, of which $150,000 is subscribed and $100,000 already paid in. The head of the company, Geo. E. McHie, is eminently known in the tobacco trade. He started with J. P. Sorg & Co. in 1881, later becoming affiliated with the American Tobacco Co., and was until the recent dissolution of that corporation general manager of its pipe and chewing divisions.

The company will continue most of the employes of the Scotten Tobacco Co., but supplemented by competent additional assistance. Old brands will be continued and new ones will be launched in the near future.

Another enterprise just launched here is the H. G. Ritter Cigar Box Co., located about one month ago at No. 606 Chene street, in the old Spietz & Worch Co. building. Mr. H. G. Ritter, president and general manager, is giving his personal attention to the business here, although the company operates another plant at Deshler, Ohio, where they have been since April of last year. Prior to removing to Deshler, Mr. Ritter was for seven years engaged in business at Minster, Ohio. He has the advantage of a wide experience in the line, is already very busy here and anticipates most favorable results. The ever increasing volume of Detroit's cigar output is what drew him hither.

Business with other box manufacturers has been entirely satisfactory. The Michigan Cigar Box Co. state that, taking January as an index, 1912 is going to be a banner year.

Mose Parshalsky, former cigar manufacturer, now customs agent, left on the 23rd inst. for Washington, thence to New York, to attend the tobacco conference that is staged for this week.

Jos. M. Weiss, one of the most affable and big-hearted politicians Detroit has ever called her own, was named by President Taft on the 20th inst. as U. S. Appraiser for this district, to succeed the venerable Gen. L. S. Trowbridge, just recently deceased. Mr. Weiss' confirmation is opposed by Senator Wm. Alden Smith for political reasons, but the friends of Mr. Weiss feel certain of his appointment.

I learn through The Payette-Walsh Co. that John E. Frey, formerly with Clarence Hirschhorn & Co., Chicago, has joined Bondy & Lederer, of New York, and will soon be in this territory booming "Tom Keene" cigars.

"Tom" Powell, late of J. T. Woodhouse & Co., is now working the State for The Payette-Walsh Co. He just returned from Grand Rapids and Western Michigan with good results.

Lester Wanamaker, 14 Michigan avenue, reports good business with "Julia Marlowe," which he has been carrying in three sizes: "Londres Grande," "Gracias" and "Commercials" for the past three months. The Payette-Walsh Co. are distributors. "Bob" Gilmore, who has been incapacitated by rheumatism for a month, is back on the job once more.

Frank Girardot, for four years past with United Cigar Stores Co. and until recently in charge of the branch at Woodward and Jefferson avenues, is now manager of the Majestic store of M. A. La Fond & Co.

La Fonds have gotten out a new and improved edition of "La Flor de Malco" labels. This brand is made for them by the Armada Cigar Factory, N. Y., and has been maintained hitherto as a strictly private brand. Now, however, it will be offered by the factory for general distribution, in which the La Fonds will be interested and will help promote sales.

O'Brien & Co. show a neat display of Cayey-Caguaz Co.'s "Alomino" this week, to which interest is added by a series of framed photos of the various plantation, factories, warerooms, etc., in Porto Rico, through which the weed passes from seed to smoker.

Ben Crittenden, 54 Library avenue, says things look O. K. and sees no valid cause for complaint. He is having a private brand, "Ben's 54," made for him in two styles, broadleaf wrapped by Comus Cigar Co., of this city, and all Havana by Morey & Ca, Tampa. It is a little cigar, to sell at five cents as a leader.

Sensabaugh & Gould, 35 Grand River avenue E., anticipate a decided improvement in sales with the completion of the Broadway market building, now in course of construction opposite to them. They report good business on W. E. Baker & Co.'s "La Aromadad," sold in this territory by Ike Simon.

Sepull-Travis Drug Co., corner Warren and Woodward avenues, recently added to their excellent line "Webster" and "El Sidelo."

C. A. Schick, 294 East Fort street, confines his attention to the making of "Prost," ten-cent, and "Lincoln," five-cent cigars, and finds business of both brands steadily improving.

C. J. Holton left on the 22nd inst. on a trip of four to six weeks over a wide circle, embracing Frisco, Los Angeles, New Orleans and other distant points. While somewhat in the nature of a pleasure trip, it will not be devoid of commercial advantage, as Charlie will sing a little song along the way about the Playtime Mfg. Co, a growing novelty concern here of which he is principal owner.

C. J. Spietz and Alb. Worch were among those registered at Hotel Astor, N. Y., Washington's Birthday.

Ike Goldberg returned to his love, the La Azora, after a five weeks' pleasure trip to the coast and South.

It's an ill wind blows no good. Daisy Meldrum, of the Hotel Cadillac stand, said of the blizzard last week, it must be God loves her and sent that big snow storm so she could wear her new seal-skin coat. She sure is an optimist.

Fred C. Mitchell sailed Saturday on s. s. "Von Moltke" for a trip to Panama and other Central and South American points. Among distinguished fellow passengers from this city are ex-Gov. Warner and ex-County Clerk Wm. C. McGregor.

Harry Nathan, of Springarn & Co., N. Y., was here last week demonstrating fine points in pinocle and selling leaf tobacco. Fred Singer, of Rossin & Co.; Mr. Siever, of Sueringer & Co., Baltimore; Mr. Gehr, of E. Hecht & Co., Chicago; Wm. Miller, of Am. Sumatra Tob. Co., N. Y.; Mr. Regensdorf, of Hinsdale, Smith & Co., N. Y., and a few other leaf men were here in the past week.

Among other visitors were Jno. G. Spatz, of J. G. Spatz & Co., Reading, Pa. (this is Mr. Spatz's first trip here in five years); H. Hammer, Corral Wodiska y Ca, Tampa; Edwin Ackerman, Peudas, Alvarez & Co., N. Y.; Dan Junk, G. W. Faber & Co., N. Y.; Otto S. Murphy, Jos. Berran & Co., Peoria, Ill.; J. M. Logan, Logan Tob. Co., N. Y.; G. C. Ernst, Graham-Ernst Co., South Norwalk, Conn.; J. Basch, Jose Hnos, N. Y.; Van Miller, A. S. Valentine & Sons, Philadelphia; W. D. Walker, S. S. Pierce Co., Boston; J. Sempliner, Bucher & Bucher, Dayton, Ohio; I. C. Rosenthal, Rosenthal Bros., N. Y.

Also "Jonesey," of the Surbrug Company (making a general survey), and Leo Heine, Kaufman Bros. & Bondy (pipes); Sam Frank, Frank Pipe Co., N. Y., and Jasper Fassett, of Geo. D. Emery Co., Cedar Lumber, N. Y.

S. F. HEAVENRICH.

The Bruhn-Neville Cigar Manufacturing Company, of Enid, Okla., has been incorporated with a capital stock of $5,000. The incorporators are W. F. Bruhn, W. C. Neville and H. W. Tmm. The purpose of the corporation is to manufacture and sell cigars.

Cincinnati Cigar Trade All Around Satisfactory

Cincinnati, Feb. 27, 1912.

CIGAR manufacturers report the month of February as being a very satisfactory month, notwithstanding the shortness of the month and the Washington's Birthday holiday. The demand for nickel goods being greater than that of a better quality. An equally favorable report is made by the jobbing and retail trade, both handling a greater volume of business than the previous month.

E. O. Eshelby, who in addition to operating the Eshelby Tobacco Co., of Covington, Ky., has for a number of years past been the proprietor of the "Commercial Tribune," one of Cincinnati's leading morning papers, will on March 1st retire from the newspaper business in order to give his entire attention to his tobacco interests. One of the principal brands made by the Eshelby Tobacco Co. is "Cincy Scrap," which has an excellent sale in this section.

Miss Wagner, representing Knowell & Co., of Lancaster, Pa., leaf dealers, is the first woman visiting Cincinnati in that capacity. Miss Wagner's whirlwind campaign of the cigar manufacturers, combined with excellent salesmanship, has met with unusual success in obtaining orders for Knowell & Co.'s choice line of wrappers, binders and fillers. This new departure has met with such great success that it is probable a new field has been opened for woman's activities, especially for those possessing Miss Wagner's selling abilities.

The police of Cincinnati are determined to break up the gambling in the cigar stores of this city, and a number of arrests have been made. This procedure having failed in accomplishing the desired effect of intimidating all the cigar store proprietors who countenance or operate gambling joints in the rear of their stores, policemen have been detailed to watch duty in front of a number of suspected stores.

The Hodde-Kirschner Cigar Company, has just been organized by H. J. Hodde and Frank Kirschner. Mr. Hodde has been acting as distributor for a number of out-of-town cigar houses for several years, and has worked up a large trade. Mr. Kirschner is a retired well-known grocer. Offices have been secured at 137 East Third street, and it is believed that the new concern will be an important factor in the wholesale cigar business before long. One of the leading brands which they will handle will be the "Iroquois" cigar, which is manufactured by the Iroquois Cigar Company, of Flint, Mich.

Alfred M. Voige has been appointed local representative of E. A. Kline & Co., of Cleveland, Ohio, whose "El Rigoletto" cigar has a large sale in this section. The Geo. A. Voige Cigar Company continuing as distributors. This is Mr. A. M. Voige's initial appearance in the cigar business, he having been interested heretofore in a large wholesale jewelry house. The name of Voige has been identified with Cincinnati's cigar and tobacco interests for more than half a century, and now that the brothers Geo. A. and Alfred M. are active in this industry it will likely continue to bring credit to the name for many years to come.

Strater Brothers, the Louisville, Ky., tobacco manufacturers, are working the local trade on their brands "On the Square" and "Day's Work" plug. The former is packed in tins, which retail at 96 cents per dozen. On the latter brand there is a special discount of 5 per cent., to be deducted from invoice on drop or stock shipments.

The cigar store of Michael Ibold, located at 9th and Central avenues, was entered by burglars on Sunday last. Their spoils, however, amounted to only 6 cents. A similar experience having warned Mr. Ibold against leaving any money in the cash register over night.

The action of the E. O. Eshelby Tobacco Co. against the Burley Tobacco Society, which was tried in the United States District Court in this city last month, resulting in a verdict for the defendant, will be appealed by the plaintiff. The motion of the latter for a new trial was overruled by Judge Hollister last week, who granted the request of counsel to file briefs in their effort to prove that the plaintiff is entitled to nominal damages, notwithstanding the verdict rendered against the E. O. Eshelby Tobacco Co.

The Burnhoff Manufacturing Company, which make a specialty of cigar lighters, cutters, coin containers and other essential adjuncts to a well-conducted cigar store, reports a most satisfactory condition of business. This concern has established an enviable reputation as manufacturers of standard articles of this character.

The new cigar factory of Arnold Tietig & Son, located at 413 East Fifth avenue, is of concrete construction, with brick facing, and in its appointments is strictly modern and sanitary. The architects of the building are Tietig & Lee, the former of whom is a son of Arnold Tietig, Sr.

T. H. Kirk, one of Cincinnati's leading burley tobacco dealers and who has purchased in the neighborhood of 15,000,000 pounds of 1909 pooled crop of the Burley Tobacco Society, is negotiating for 5,000,000 pounds of the E. grade of that pool at a price around 22 cents. It is understood that Mr. Kirk is acting for one of the large eastern manufacturers.

The local burley market has been very active for a number of weeks, 9621 hogheads being sold from January 1st to February 24th. The offerings last week were 2549 hogheads, of which 1414 were old tobacco and 1135 hogheads of the 1911 crop. The former brought an average price of $10.78 and the new averaged $10.46 per hundred pounds. F. A. B.

"Eddie" Collins Quits Cigars for the Diamond

AFTER six weeks in the harness as a cigar salesman, during which time he "batted out" orders for the famous "Counsellor" cigar, Edward T. Collins, the famous second baseman of the World's Champion Athletics, has resigned to prepare for Spring base ball training.

"EDDIE" COLLINS

"Eddie" proved a big hit as a representative of the Allen R. Cressman's Sons' factories and took orders with as much ease as he picks up a "hot liner" at "second." He covered Philadelphia and adjacent territory and everywhere he went, was met with a "glad hand" full of orders. Encouraged by this experience, it is probable that he will again resume the selling of cigars in the fall, after the Athletics have won another pennant.

Cigar and Tobacco Output for January, 1912

ACCORDING to the Internal Revenue figures, the cigar output for the month of January, 1912, totalled about 483,000,000, compared with 517,000,000 in 1911, a decrease of 34,000,000. The cigarette output for January, 1912, was almost double that of January, 1911, the figures being 667,000,000 and 398,000,000 respectively, a gain of 268,000,000.

In little cigars the internal revenue figures show a steady decrease, the output for January being 47,616,000, while last year's figures are 56,209,000, a decrease of 8,500,000.

In manufactured tobacco a comfortable gain is shown, the figures for January, 1912, being about 27,000,000 pounds, as compared with something over 23,000,000 pounds in January, 1911, a gain of more than 3,000,000 pounds.

Snuff shows a decrease, the output for January, 1912, being 2,193,000 pounds, as compared with 2,466,000 for January, 1911, a decline of 273,000 pounds.

National Gathering of Leaf Examiners

Effort to Evolve Uniform Classification of Tobacco

WASHINGTON, Feb. 29.

EXAMINERS of tobacco from every important port of entry in the country held a conference on Monday with Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Curtis and other officials of the department and the customs service in the effort to evolve a uniform classification for the importation of Cuban and other tobaccos. The officials still have the matter under advisement and will announce their decision later.

It is the belief of experts in the government service that because of the diversity of views and methods of the various examiners, the government has not been receiving the full amount of the revenues to which it is entitled under the tariff act.

The purpose of the officials in summoning the examiners is to determine, for duty purposes, what shall be assessed as wrapper and what as filler tobacco. Under the existing law the former is dutiable at $1.85 and the latter at 35 cents per pound.

The brief sent to the Secretary of the Treasury by the Havana Importers' Association is published on page 22 of this issue of THE TOBACCO WORLD.

The Busy Retail Trade

Frank Hyland has opened a new and attractive cigar store at 5814 Fifth avenue, Brooklyn, in the Bay Ridge district. He is an experienced retail cigar dealer and as a leader is featuring the "Sir Rahmas" cigars of Sam H. Harris, Inc., and also carries a full line of the popular brands in Seed and Havana and nickel goods.

Thieves backed up a wagon to the cigar store of Martin Nielson & Co., 437 North Clark street, Chicago, Ill., on February 16th, and hauled away cigars valued at $300. One of the front windows of the store was shattered.

Work was commenced this morning in remodeling the cigar store and pool room of P. A. Carroll, on Main street, Scranton, Pa. A partition will be erected, separating the pool room and cigar store and the partition in the rear of the pool room will be taken out, giving much more space.

Leo J. Spuhler, who conducted a live retail cigar stand on Liberty street, Pittsburgh, and who recently purchased the Frederick Mann Cigar Store, at 610 Smithfield street, that city, reports that business in his new location is coming along in good shape. The Spuhler stores are big factors in the distribution of stogies and high-class cigars.

The Frank Alvey Company, Springfield, Ill., operating a cigar store and pool and billiard rooms, has been given a license of incorporation by the Secretary of State. The capital stock of the company is placed at $15,000 and the incorporators and first board of directors are Frank Alvey, F. E. Leseure and L. J. Nardine, the latter two of Danville.

The Leseure Brothers, Springfield, Ill., cigar retailers have received articles of incorporation for their Danville concern. The capital stock is placed at $50,000 and the incorporators and first board of directors are F. E. and L. M. Leseure and L. J. Nardine.

Ed Levy, the La Salle street, Ottawa, Ill., cigar and tobacco dealer, has returned from a business trip along the line of the Burlington road.

Burglars broke open Bernard Goldstone's cigar and tobacco store, at No. 1523 Washington avenue, St. Louis, Mo., February 13th. The loot amounted to $478. The missing goods include 120 boxes of cigars, chewing tobacco and pipes.

James J. Kelley, who formerly conducted a tobacco store in the pool room of James A. McKane, 825 Edgmont avenue, Chester, Pa., has moved his business into the premises next door, 827 Edgmont avenue.

Possession of the Wigwag cigar store, near Fifth and Main streets, Richmond, Ind., is still in the hands of Daniel Gates, who, on February 14th, drove his brother, Harry Gates, from the place, changed the locks on the entrance doors and took charge of the cigar, pool and magazine sales business.

John Fielding, who for many years was office manager for Rothschild and Sons, and, until recently, held a similar position with Charles J. Waselbaum & Co., has accepted the position as assistant manager of the New York branch of Louis P. Sutter & Bros.

George W. Childs Cigar Company, Maysville, Ohio, has been incorporated with a capital of $5,000. Incorporators, I. N. Childs, E. L. Cablish and Simon Clarkson.

Articles of incorporation are issued to the Frank Alvey Company, which operates a cigar store in Springfield, Ill. Frank Alvey, of Springfield, and F. E. Leseure and L. J. Nardine, both of Danville, are the incorporators and first board of directors. The capital stock of the concern is named at $15,000.

The New England Tobacco Corporation, Hartford, Conn., has been incorporated with an authorized capital of $75,000.

John Taylor, Jr., 3232 Park avenue, Kansas City, Mo., a salesman for the Leggett & Myers Tobacco Company, was robbed of a diamond pin, worth $60, while riding on a street car between his home and the Postoffice Building, on February 19th.

Arthur C. Nelson, son of Andrew Nelson, one of the oldest and best known cigar dealers of Denver, Colo., is dead of pneumonia. He was twenty-four years old.

The following officers have been elected for the coming year by the N. Kuhen Cigar Company, Davenport, Iowa: President, F. M. Rhodes; vice-president, Victor Littig; secretary and treasurer, August Zschiesche. Directors elected were: F. M. Rhodes, August Zschiesche, F. C. Henigbaum, R. J. Sterling, Victor Littig.

Wayne Tobacco Company, Fort Wayne, Indiana, has increased its capital stock from $50,000 to $85,000.

Liggett & Myers Tobacco Company has declared a quarterly dividend of one and three-quarters per cent. on the preferred stock, payable April 1, to stockholders of record February 15.

Walter Ross, of 141 South 28th street, Lincoln, Neb., has bought the one-half interest of A. L. Martin in the tobacco, cigar and confectionery firm of Hill & Martin, in Omaha, Neb. Mr. Ross will move his family from Lincoln to Tecumseh next week.

The cigar store of P. A. Carroll, Main street, Scranton, Pa., has been remodeled and brought up to date in every particular.

Joseph Walsh and Peter Manley have opened the Rialto Cigar store in the Maloney Building, on Chestnut street, Scranton, Pa., and are already doing a prosperous business.

E. T. Sandberg, of Duluth, Minn., has disposed of his cigar store in the Bank Building, to Joe Sikkila, of Ely, who took possession at once.

At the annual meeting of the N. Kuhen Cigar Company, of Davenport, Iowa, the following directors were elected for the year: F. H. Rhodes, August Zschiesche, F. G. Henigbaum, R. J. Stelling and Victor Littig. The directors met later and elected the following officers: President, F. M. Rhodes; vice-president, Victor L. Littig; secretary and treasurer, August Zschiesche.

The G. J. Johnson Cigar Company, Grand Rapids, Mich., has increased its capitalization from $30,000 to $250,000.

John F. Jones, the Wilmington, Del., tobacco and cigar dealer, with stores at 625 Market street and at Ninth and Market streets, that city, on Tuesday signed a lease for the property at the northwest corner of Sixth and Market streets, to be vacated by the Belt Drug Store.

The large display window of the Clinton Cigar Co.'s store on Second street, Clinton, Ia., contains a very nicely arranged display of three winning brands of cigars which are manufactured in the home factory of T. W. Schroeder & Son over 414 So. 2nd street.

Duluth Retailer makes Record Sale

IF you could sell 1,649,315 cigars in a period of three years, would you start a cigar store? That's what Harry W. Rowley, proprietor of Rowley's cigar store, 312 West Superior street, has done since February 17, 1909.

Protest Meeting of Salt Lake City Retailers

A big meeting of cigar men, held at No. 22 East Second street, Salt Lake City, on February 14, the Sunday closing order was discussed at length, and it was the consensus of opinion that the order is unfair to the cigar stores as well as to the saloons. It was decided to test the legality of the order in a friendly way to which end two cigar stores were kept open the next Sunday, and the Chief of Police notified of the intention.

"La Saneda" & "Half a Dime" Make a Hit

THE Union News Co., which operates on a large number of the railroad trunk lines radiating from Chicago, reports big sales in "La Saneda" and "Half a Dime" cigars, made by Storm, Fisher & Co., of Chicago.

Francis Bolano y Ca. are pushing very actively a campaign among the Chicago dealers for "Flor de Bolano" Havana cigars. A very fine line of newspaper advertising forms part of the campaign.

The Men Who Book The Orders

EMIL KLEIN, the popular executive of E. M. Schwarz & Company, New York, has made a round of the jobbing trade in Boston and opened some new accounts.

Leo Moyer, of the Neumann Moyer Company, Philadelphia, is on an extended trip through the Middle West, and sending in good sized orders to his firm. Their factory is running full force to keep up with the demand.

George L. Jones is a new salesman on the staff of the T. Wright & Company jobbing house, of St. Louis. Mr. Jones is making good by booking a number of desirable orders for his firm on his maiden trip.

The Kuhles & Stock Company, St. Paul, Minn., has secured the services of N. J. Buckley, of Duluth, who will act as their representative at the head of the lakes. He succeeds F. H. White, who has resigned.

Fred Marsh, representing Marcelino Perez and Company, has made a round of the trade in Syracuse, New York, in the interest of the "Tuval" cigar.

Angel Garcia, of the firm of Perfecto Garcia & Company, has been in Cincinnati for a week calling upon the trade. Mr. Garcia is making his first trip of the new year and is now eastward bound. In St. Louis, Memphis, Kansas City and St. Joseph, Mr. Garcia registered complaints on account of bad weather conditions, but this did not prevent him from booking many good-sized orders.

The "Samo" cigar of the Grinsfelder Company, of Spokane, Wash., has made its appearance, and its fame will be carried abroad by a number of selected salesmen.

A. Dahlman, who for fourteen years has represented Wm. Dennit & Company on the Pacific Coast, on February 25th, married Miss Dora Selig, of San Francisco.

George Erhart, of the Hemenway & Moser Company, a rapidly growing Seattle jobbing concern, is on a trip through Southern Oregon, and sends in some good-sized orders to his firm.

W. C. Rue, Western representative for E. A. Klein & Company, has spent two weeks in St. Louis working on the firm's "Rigoletto" brand, which is selling finely.

J. Hamburger, of the staff of Antonio Roig & Langsdorf, was a visitor to Bluefield, W. Va., during the last part of February.

Otto Eisenlohr and his brother Charles, of Otto Eisenlohr & Brothers, Philadelphia, are vacationing and enjoying life at Palm Beach. Another cigar manufacturer who intends shortly to visit the country of sunshine and everglades is Sig. C. Mayer, who intends to rest up a bit after a season of strenuous and successful work.

C. E. Ralph, a progressive cigar jobber, of Superior, Wis., has made a round of the trade in Chicago, interviewing numerous friends and not forgetting to book orders.

Sid Cahen, who represents E. Regensburg & Son, Chicago, after covering the trade of the "Windy City" to excellent advantage, has left for an extended trip through the Northwest.

George Casematis, of the Nestor Gianacis Company, of Boston, is in San Francisco, preparing to start a vigorous campaign in the interests of the "Nestor" and "Royal Nestor" cigarettes. Mr. Casematis is making his headquarters in Frisco with Edward Wolf and Co., agents for the Nestor Gianacis Co.

William Catlin, who travels for the T. J. Dunn Co., has been on the road for the last twenty-four years, during which time he has established an enviable reputation as a cigar salesman. He joined the sales force of T. J. Dunn & Co., seven years ago, his territory covering New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania and part of the South, and is making good on every successive trip he takes over the road.

To Exhibit Cigars

CHARLES SOBY, the well-known cigar manufacturer, of Hartford, will have an exhibition of the various brands of cigars turned out by his establishment. The exhibition will be in the window of Weeks and Woods and will be in keeping with the high-grade for which these goods have always been noted and which have added to Hartford's industrial fame.

Boston Cigar Trade Fair

BOSTON, February 23, 1912.

THE general consensus among several prominent trade members is that, while business could be, on the whole, better, yet—it could be a lot worse, hence we might summarize by terming it fair. Collections are unusually slow, which is discouraging to many, especially retailers, who need the money at this time more than they would later. However, new cigar stores started and recent incorporations attest an optimistic point of view about future prosperity.

A. Boyd Wilson, representing P. C. Fulweiler & Bros. Co., of Philadelphia, was in town this week.

Harry L. Rogers, representing Bayuk Brothers, Philadelphia, has just returned from a successful trip from Connecticut and Western Massachusetts, where he vigorously exploited the "Havana Ribbon" brand.

Winslow Judson, the enthusiastic exponent of "Twin Oaks" smoking tobacco, (Monopol Tobacco Works) is leaving no stone unturned to make this brand more popular in the Hub, there being several prominent windows carton-decorated with this feature. He offers a combination of English Curve Cut and a two-ounce carton of "Twin Oaks."

The first Queen Quality smoking tobacco, (American Tobacco Co.) ever seen in this locality has just arrived, in the form of five-cent bags.

D. F. Mahoney, representing Park & Tilford, prominent New York cigar jobbers, was here last week.

Mendez & Gomez's (Porto Rico) representative, E. A. Jacobs, is visiting Boston jobbers this week.

The Barrington Pharmacy, Inc., is a new trade corporation. Capital, $5,000. James Crotty, president; John J. Harvey, treasurer; David J. Hickey, secretary.

Alfred A. Conlin has purchased the drug store of Harry B. Ball, at 333 Lowell street, Lawrence.

Thomas A. FitzSimmons is opening a drug store, at the corner of Clinton avenue and Belmont street, for Miss Alice Morey, proprietor of Hotel Hamilton, Brockton.

Ruby Hyneman, of the firm of Hyneman Bros. (Sole New England agents for the "Hoffman House Bouquet" domestic), is doing great work on the "Priscilla" brand, one of the most popular ten-cent, high-grade, seed Havana cigars sold in Boston, obtainable at all hotels and clubs.

Managers of several stock exchange houses have a cute scheme of insuring ample time to engage "prospects" in conversation by having a pocket full of cigars, each one being carefully wrapped in tissue paper bearing the name of the brokerage house, the wrapping of which is tightly twisted and coiled at either end. To unravel this requires several moments, the office manager in the interim making good use of his time broaching advice and market opportunities, frequently receiving worth-while commission orders in this manner.

Sam Gryzmish, manufacturer of the well-known "S. G." Londres, ten-cent cigar, has just returned from a visit to Havana, purchasing extensively of high-grade Havana leaf while there. During his absence, his business was ably conducted by his two sons, Mortimer C. and Reuben B. Gryzmish. He states that tobacco was unusually high this season.

Kid Nichols and Joe Mendel, (New York City) formerly factors in the cigar and tobacco trade, were visitors in town this week. They have recently embarked in the leather business.

Sanchez y Haya clear Havana cigars are depicted in several admirable window displays in town, among the neatest of which is that of J. F. Callahan & Company, Federal street. This high-grade line is pre-eminent in Boston.

Charles A. Grant, of the cigar stand at Clark's Hotel, than whom none was more popular among Boston's theatrical district, recently passed away. His brother, William P. Grant, is now in charge of the business.

William Gaglon, the new manager of George C. Shaw Company, Portland, Me., was in town this week. He reports a firm increase in business since he assumed charge. This firm is noted for "quality" goods.

B. S. HENDERSON.

Prize Tobacco Growers

AN attractive display of prize tobacco, of the 1911 crop, was made in Lancaster, Pa., during the week ending February 17th, by the leading growers of the county. The crop for the most part was one of the best of recent years and the exhibit brought out a large number of excellent samples. The judges made awards as follows:

Cigar Fillers—H. K. Landis, East Lampeter, first; J. Aldus Herr, West Lampeter, second; George Hibshman, Ephrata, third; Martin H. Good, Martinsville, fourth; John F. Weaver, West Lampeter, fifth.

Cigar Binders—Daniel Lausch, Ephrata, first; George Hibshman, Ephrata, second; J. H. Hostetter, Millersville, third; Daniel Lausch, fourth; D. E. Groff, Strasburg, fifth.

Cigar Wrappers—J. H. Hostetter, Millersville, first; D. E. Groff, Strasburg, second; H. K. Landis, Greenfield, third; J. H. Hostetter, fourth; Martin H. Good, Martinsville, fifth.

Greatest Weight Per Acre—H. K. Landis, Greenfield, first; M. W. Taylor, Reidenbach's, second.

More Life in San Francisco Trade Reports from California Points Encouraging

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 20th, 1912.

THE city trade is gradually taking on a little more life, though in some parts of the downtown district retailers do not find the snap to business that they expected at this time. One reason assigned for this is that slow business in all lines through the East is causing many people to spend the winter at home, who would otherwise come to the Coast. There are a great many working people in the city, but many of them are unable to find employment, as the construction of the exposition has not started. As soon as the prospective building boom starts there should be business enough for everybody.

Reports from Southern California, particularly Los Angeles and San Diego, are most encouraging. Hundreds of workmen are now employed on the San Diego exposition buildings, and the town itself is growing fast, while the new hotels are well filled. Traveling men returning from Los Angeles say the growth of that city, as a residence place, is hard to realize. Some idea of its growth may be gained from the fact that, for the last year, about $1,500,000 a month has gone into the construction of medium-priced dwellings, and still it is hard to find vacant accommodations. Los Angeles is a great place for 5-cent cigars, fewer "bit" goods being sold there than in this city, but the staple, low-priced trade is growing tremendously.

George Cacematis, special representative of the Nestor Gianacis Company, is still in the city, and will probably be here for some time to come. While this line of cigarettes has been energetically handled by the regular agents, the Edward Wolf Company, the manufacturers, have felt the desirability of giving their line more attention than it could well receive from a jobbing house, and Mr. Cacematis is putting in a lot of effective work with the trade.

The Edward Wolf Company is steadily increasing the sales of its regular Havana and domestic lines, and has gotten its business in Manila cigars down to a regular routine basis, so that the large shipments coming in from time to time are moved off about as fast as they arrive. Another shipment of these goods, amounting to half a million, will come in by the end of the month.

Ehrman Brothers & Company, the local jobbers, expect a visit early in March from A. Santalla, manufacturer of the "Optimo" cigar, which has for years been their leading line. A visitor at this house at present is W. C. Rose, representing Bayuk Bros., of Philadelphia, manufacturers of their popular 5-cent line, the "Havana Ribbon," for which they have built up a large business in the last year. Under Mr. Rose's direction, some special work has been started on this cigar, with good results. This house is well satisfied with the progress made since the first of the year, and anticipates one of the best years on record. A. Ehrman, of this house, who made a trip to Manila about the end of the year, intending to return via Suez and New York, cut his trip short and has just completed his return voyage across the Pacific.

M. A. Gunst & Company report that their Portland, Ore., branch has secured quarters for a new store in the Multnomah Hotel in that city, which has just been opened, having considerable competition for the location. The hotel is one of the finest in Portland, and the cigar store will be fitted up in keeping with the surroundings. Another notable acquisition of this firm is the cigar and tobacco concession for the Emeryville aviation meet to be held next week.

M. C. Eisenschimmel, representing Henry W. Peabody & Company, agents in this country for the Maria Christina factory at Manila, is making an extended tour of the States.

The importing firm of Castle Bros.—Wolf & Sons, which was one of the first in this city to take up Manila cigars, has been reorganized as the Pacific Commercial Company, additional capital being brought in by eastern members of the firm. The management will remain as before. The company has been incorporated under the laws of the Philippine Islands, with a capital stock of $2,000,000.

Samuel Cantor, well-known in connection with the cigar department of the St. Francis Hotel, is receiving the congratulations of his many friends on the birth of a daughter.

Joseph Triest, manager of Haas Brothers' cigar department, will leave early next month for a visit to relatives in Europe.

An announcement of unusual interest to the retail trade is that their old friend Bauer Hess, who has for several years been on the road in the interest of the "Optimo" cigar, has quit the road and is entering the retail business. He has bought out the large and finely appointed store of Kasser Brothers, on Market street near Powell, a highly desirable location.

The wholesale grocery house which has occupied half of the Pendleton building, on Drumm street near Market, has found other quarters, and the entire structure will hereafter be used for the wholesale tobacco business of Horn & Company, giving them one of the largest jobbing establishments in the country. The quarters consist of two floors and basement, with nearly 50 feet frontage and a depth of 137½ feet.

I. Danziger, the well-known cigar broker, underwent a serious operation a few weeks ago, but appeared at his office again this week, though it will be some time before he can fully recover his strength.

The business of Frankel, Gerdt & Company, the local cigar manufacturers, has been increasing rapidly since the first of the year, and quite a lot of extra help has been taken on. The company's expansion in the Northwest has necessitated a considerable increase of output, and at present the facilities are taxed to the utmost.

D. J. Waterman, representing Boltz, Clymer & Co., is making a tour of the Northwest.

According to a recent report from San Diego, Cal., the United Cigar Stores Company has made arrangements for one of the choicest corners in that city, and that a large building will be erected in the site, to be occupied mainly by the United and the Owl Drug Company.

M. A. Gunst & Company have attracted a lot of attention to their local windows in the last week by a strong display of "Robert Burns" and "Little Bobbie" goods, with typically Scottish decorations.

Mr. Correo, who has been looking after the interest of the La Isabella cigar factory, of Manila, in this city for several weeks, has just left for the Spanish office of his company.

Business in Los Angeles Better Demand for "Post Dispatch" Cigars

LOS ANGELES, CAL., Feb. 23, 1912.

LOUIS H. EISENLOHR, of the firm of Otto Eisenlohr & Bros., manufacturers of "Cinco" cigars, called on the firm of Kingsbaker & Klingenstein, of this city, and was very much pleased with the success of "Cinco" in this territory.

Geo. J. Yocum, of Yocum Bros., left this city after enjoying six long weeks of Southern California sunshine and joy, and negotiating business in the meantime with Kingsbaker & Klingenstein Co., of this city, their distributors.

Milo Adams, of the Surbrug Co., is also here working hard on "Milo" and "Arab" cigarettes for the above-named house.

Mark A. Brunner is expected here next Sunday.

Kingsbaker & Klingenstein Co. received their new E. M. F. delivery car, which has the following advertisement on it: The American-Webster-Y-B-Cinco and Milo Cigarettes. It is without doubt the finest delivery car on the Pacific Coast at the present time.

The retail cigar trade is still rather quiet, although most of the jobbers say that they had more business in January than they had the same month last year. Retailers seem to have greater cause for complaint than the jobbers.

Klauber & Wangenheim Co. are very busy on their leading lines. They operate two autos and six wagons in this city. The leading lines of this firm are always in great demand. They report a very heavy demand for "Pure Gold." The sale of "Chancellor" cigars is showing a big increase, and this old-time brand is on sale at every cigar store in the city and the neighboring territory. "Optimo" cigars are running particularly fine, and the new size "Queen," selling to the retail trade at $100.00 per thousand, is making many friends among the consumers of high-grade Havana cigars.

J. B. Lampe is leaving in a few days for Riverside in the interest of "Pure Gold" tobacco.

Ike Wentworth (Jose Lovera Co.) is still on the job. He reports a steady demand for "Lovera Angelus" and the "Lovera Miniatures."

C. Barnes, representing the Klauber & Wangenheim Co., and Morris Burke, representing the famous "Post Dispatch" cigar, manufactured by Eitel & Cassebohm, of Louisville, Ky., are leaving for a week's trip to Santa Barbara in the interest of the "Post Dispatch" cigar.

Abe Cohn, manager of the Max Cohn Cigar Co., reports a satisfactory business at their places of business in this city.

Morris Burke has just returned from Imperial Valley after an eight-day trip in the interest of the "Post Dispatch" cigar. He reports a very satisfactory business. On his trip he covered the towns of Brawley, Imperial, Banning, Calexico, Haltville, Yuma, El Centro and Beaumont. With the assistance of Mr. E. A. Nance, Klauber & Wangenheim's representative, he succeeded in placing the "Post Dispatch" all over the territory. Repeating orders are coming in fast and the sale of this cigar is far more than Klauber & Wangenheim Co. had ever expected, as they are now oversold at least 75,000 cigars.

The Long Beach Drug Co., of Long Beach, Cal., have an attractive window display of "Post Dispatch" cigars this week, with an attractive flasher sign in the center, and six boxes in the top of the showcase. They report a very satisfactory business on this brand.

Joe Goldsmith, manager of the M. A. Newmark & Co., reports a very satisfactory business on "Don Remo" cigar. Mr. McDonnell, coast representative, is here calling on the trade.

Rob. Gans, of J. J. Gans & Bros., has just returned from Santa Barbara with a nice bunch of orders for "Lawrence Barrett" and "Tom Keene" cigars. Mr. Gans informs me that he is selling "Tom Keene" at the rate of 300M. per month. The cigar is well placed in this territory. It is also well advertised. In clear Havana, Gans Bros. sell "La Natividad." They are always in demand greater than the output. No cigar store can be without them for a minute.

PENNSYLVANIA TRADE NEWS

Late Reports from Lancaster, York, Reading

Few Idle Cigarmakers in Lancaster

LANCASTER, PA., Feb. 28th. GENERAL activity among cigar manufacturers in this district indicates an improvement in trade, and better prospects for lively spring business. There are no idle cigarmakers to speak of, and February, considering the number of actual working days in the month will doubtless show a healthful gain in output over the production in January.

There will soon be something doing in the offices of the Imperial Cigar Company, in this city. Dan. Manheimer, head of the house, left last week upon an extended trip through Western territory where he has a large number of old customers, and reports now coming from him indicate a successful business.

The Woolworth Building will soon be recognized as tobacco men's headquarters. Among the first tobacco firms to occupy offices in the building were Long & Taylor. Later they were followed by F. E. Eberly and now still another tobacco man, J. K. Lemian, has taken fine new quarters in the building. I also hear there are others who are considering the idea of establishing themselves in the building.

S. M. Ottinger, of the Florida leaf firm of Mitchell & Ottinger, is this week attending to the wants of his constituency in Philadelphia. Ottinger is growing more and more optimistic regarding Florida wrappers and increased sales are following in the wake of his enthusiasm.

Things are running along smoothly at the new factory of the M. Kinports Cigar Manufacturing Company, at Reamstown. Highly skilled cigarmakers have been secured and the product of the firm never looked better than it does now.

W. H. McLaughlin & Son are meeting with encouraging success in the distribution of the "44" cigars here. Their territory cover the entire county, and already the brand is on sale in many of the outlying sections which is really an excellent field for this line of goods, because the prosperous people of those places really enjoy a high-grade smoke.

If the record of output established during the first two months of the year by the S. R. Moss Cigar Company, can be maintained throughout the year, a new high water mark in production will have been established by the close of the year. The demand lately has been especially strong for the "Flor de Moss" and other grades of higher priced goods.

Friends of John Slater, of the well-known stogie manufacturing firm of John Slater and Company, are much grieved to learn of the serious illness of his aged mother, who resides at Washington, Pa., where Mr. Slater also lives.

Reading Manufacturers Optimistic

READING, PA., Feb. 28th. TRADE conditions here are quite satisfactory for this time of year and every one is in a highly hopeful mood.

W. H. Yocum, of Yocum Brothers, has returned from a short visit to Cuba to inspect their holdings of Havana leaf and to make some further selections. He will now devote several weeks to a flying trip through the Western States.

F. P. Rush, of the Tornay-Fernandez Company, Tampa, left his office in this city some days ago for an eight weeks' trip to the factory.

D. F. Fleck is pushing with remarkable vigor the sale of his "Courtello" brand of nickel cigars and has already established a good distribution on them in this vicinity. The "Cubanada" is now being introduced as a running mate, and is also meeting a good reception.

J. G. Spatz, of J. G. Spatz & Co., is home from his visit to St. Louis and other points in the Middle West. As usual he was the recipient of an encouraging number of orders for their leading products, and the factory will be kept busy for several months to come.

F. S. Koons, at Boyertown, can easily surpass many of the country box factories in the manufacture of boxes for popular brands of cigars. The careful observer will have little difficulty in finding a reason for this in the care taken in the production of boxes as shown by the Koons make. Personal supervision is the rule in every department of the fine big structure, at Boyertown, which is equipped with every known facility.

"John Hay" cigars, made by W. W. Stewart & Sons, are fast becoming a pass word in Reading. There is scarcely a cigar store or stand where they are not to be found on sale among the leaders of ten-cent goods.

New By-Law for A. T. Co.

THE annual meeting of The American Tobacco Company will be held in Jersey City, N. J., March 13. At the meeting there will be presented for the stockholders' consideration a proposed by-law providing for participation by certain officers of the company in profits if earned by the company in excess of profits in 1910, on brands and business owned by the company, such participation not to exceed in the aggregate ten per cent. of such excess.

York Factories See Brighter Prospects

YORK, PA., Feb. 28th. A FALSE alarm was spread about Dallastown a few days ago when it was stated that John W. Minnich contemplated retiring from the cigar business. The truth is that a goodly number of orders for the product has been booked since January 1st, and in all probability the production during 1912 will exceed former years.

John C. Hackert and Company have closed down their Dallastown factory temporarily, but are operating the branch establishments.

The box manufacturers reported last week that business was not as brisk as they would like to see, but the general tone has again improved. The box factories here have had all they could do to fill orders coming in from the large cigar manufacturers.

W. H. Grimm is preparing to place his "Travellers Tip" cigar on the market in a new dress. A fine new label is being made for this line, which, when completed, will make it an up-to-date package in every way. Mr. Grimm already has his goods well introduced, but proposes to push them with greater vigor.

John A. Shubart returned to his York office recently from a flying visit among his jobbers and reports conditions as rather quiet but indications for greater activity. Mr. Shubart controls the output of several factories in this vicinity and by his energetic work he keeps them well supplied with orders.

T. D. Hene must today be classed among the largest shippers of cigars in York, and established a record of 15,000 cigars sold during 1911. Plans have been very carefully laid and he hopes to exceed those figures very handsomely this year. Mr. Hene is a brother of Oscar C. Hene, manager of the cigar department of Austin, Nichols and Company, of New York.

The York Tobacco Company is in possession of the Sonneman warehouse in this city.

Wm. Frutiger, at Red Lion, recently completed many improvements to his factory building and has good facilities for the production of a superior line of goods.

H. L. Haines, salesmanager with T. E. Brooks and Company, had been confined to his home for several days, suffering severely from a cold, but is now so much improved that he is making daily visits to the factory.

A. Scott Frey is continuing the cigar business of Kaltreider & Frey, from which D. Frank Kaltreider retired several weeks ago to join the firm of W. J. Neff & Co. Mr. Frey is trading as A. S. Frey & Co.

Miller Bros., Red Lion, are turning out more cigar boxes than ever before, and utilize every foot of space in their fine new building, erected since their disastrous fire of two years ago.

The Trade at Pottsville

POTTSVILLE, PA., Feb. 23rd. AMONG the old established factories here is Jacob B. Schoen Cigar Company, makers of the well-known "Stag" and "Schoen Bros. No. 7" cigars. These goods have a wide reputation and have been standards for years. The firm consists only of Jacob B. Schoen, who continues to visit the trade at regular intervals and never fails to bring in substantial orders. Mr. Schoen made one of his regular trips through the coal regions last week.

Wm. Pfifer is also among the better known manufacturing retailers of the city. In nickel goods he specializes strongly on the "La Rosa Calie," which is a very popular brand among residents of Pottsville.

The cigar stand at the Allan House is showing a fine line of popular brands of goods among which I observed the "Flor de Girard," "Gatos 1761," "American Empire," "Cinco" and "Golden Rule" among about fifty others.

What's Doing in the Chicago Market

Mac Veagh House to Distribute the "First Consul" Line—Other Jobbers Busy

CHICAGO, Feb. 23rd, 1912.

CHICAGO Association of Credit Men held their sixteenth annual banquet at the Hotel Sherman, Friday, February 23rd, which was largely attended. After an elaborate dinner cigars were passed and speeches from many prominent credit men were heard with interest.

Mr. E. G. Ahern, of J. & B. Moss, is still on the sick list. He is improving slowly. It was doubtful at one time if he would live.

N. E. Spears, of Michigan City, has sold out his cigar shop to E. M. Oppenheimer.

The Rubini cigar factory have disposed of their retail store in the Chicago Opera House Block to Miss Jossie Meyers. It is expected that Miss Meyers will cut quite a figure in the cigar game.

Elmer Bacon has tendered his resignation with W. K. Steel and has accepted the managership for the cigar department for Frank Haggerty.

P. S. Bove, has sold his store, at Sheridan Road and The "L" Station, to Mr. Ryan.

Ed. Solomon has secured the lease of the S. W. corner of Clark and Randolph streets, to be used for a cigar store. This building will be remodeled and used as a hotel.

Albert Breitung, has opened his beautiful stand in the Harris Trust and Savings Bank Building.

Arthur D. Berlzheimer, of the Fromherz, Berlzheimer Company, has returned from a successful trip. Their leading brand is "La Espera."

The cigar store known as the Fifth Avenue Cigar Company, Fifth avenue and Lake street, was purchased by Edward Bros. Reid, Murdoch & Co. are enjoying a very fine business from a successful campaign on "El Roi Tan" and "Cubanola."

Consumer's Cigar Manufacturing Company, have just received their new five-cent label called the "Imperial Ribbon," which is a pippin and should be a red hot seller. This label was made by George Schlegel, New York.

Franklin MacVeagh have taken on the "First Consul" cigar, made in fourteen sizes. It is expected they will get many repeating orders on this brand.

John B. Thatcher, Western manager for Kaufman, Pasbach & Voice, of New York City, Label Lithographers, has opened a Chicago branch in the Atlas Block.

H. M. Schermerhorn are making a big hit with their new brand, called the "Scherose."

Bill Rosenfeld has left on a trip. The Hotel La Salle cigar department reports business very good.

Charles Donovan Cigar Company are having a very satisfactory business on "R. B." and "King Alfred." In spite of it being presidential election year does not seem to have any effect on their business. They will be greatly surprised if an increase is not shown this spring.

Out-of-town visitors: J. Noll, Sheboygan, Mich.; Geo. Alces, El Victor factory, Jacksonville, Fla.; Al Korn, Furgatch & Co., New York; Max Cane, Cane Brothers; Abe Cario, Bostillo Brothers & Diaz; Harley Morris, El Sanchez & Co.

Considerable speculation and interest has been aroused among the cigar dealers in Chicago over the enormous rents that are being asked for space in the different new buildings that are being erected here. The dealers say that they are being forced to pay 100 per cent. more than they can possibly afford to, when the profits on their goods are taken into consideration. They declare that the locations all over are being taken by the haberdashers and drug men, owing to the fact that they can afford these high rents from the difference in the profits of their line of business.

Despite the fact that rents are so high, many of the dealers have taken leases on space in the many new buildings now in the course of construction.

John Dolan has already leased the stands in the new Goddard Building, Hamilton Club Building, and a store on Jackson Boulevard, near Franklin street. He has also leased the location in Van Buren street, back of the Chicago Club.

Tom Murray is offering the location at the corner of Madison and Clark streets, for $8000 a year. It is probable that Best & Russell will take the place at $7000. This site is directly opposite a United stand.

Smiley Corbett, proprietor of the Lambs Club, has taken a 21-year lease on the Hannah & Hogg property at southeast corner Clark and Randolph streets, where George Silver is now located. Mr. Corbett will take possession of the place on May 1st, when he will erect a hotel known at the City Hall Square Hotel, which should be completed by September 1st. Mr. Corbett will run his own cigar stand, as he does at the Lambs Club.

Rutherford B. H. Cook, proprietor of the stand in the Kesner Building, just opened a new stand in the Calumet Building, at 117 South La Salle street.

J. B. Moos, who has just erected the Textile Building, at the corner of Fifth avenue and Adams street, has rented the cigar store to Sam Marco for a period of ten years, at a rental of $7500 per annum. Mr. Marco also has a stand in Adams street, near La Salle.

A new location not yet leased is in the new Continental and Commercial Bank Building. As H. M. Schermerhorn has the stand in the old bank building, it is presumed that he will have first call on the location in the new building.

E. C. Waller, a real estate man, has taken over the old Hamilton Club Building on a ten-year lease and has offered the cigar stand on the corner for $7000 a year. The knowing ones contend that this is much too high a price, considering there is no night, Sunday, or holiday trade at that point.

Another location that is going begging is the stand in the New York Life Building, in La Salle street. This space is 23½x21, and is held at $8500 a year. This objection with this is that there is no night, Sunday or holiday trade at this point.

The owners of the building at 18 West Randolph street, are looking for a tenant for a cigar store they intend to install at their place. This location is one of the most desirable in the loop district and several of the big retailers are looking over the situation. The space in the Mallers Building, at Wabash and Madison streets, is being offered at $3000 per year. No tenant has yet been secured for the place.

The entire ground floor of the new City Hall Square Building has been leased by John Righeimer, who will control the cigar privilege. By leasing the entire floor, he has eliminated all possible competition. Mr. Righeimer will also retain his old stand at 87 West Randolph street.

W. G. Andersen, manager of the hat department of The Fair, has recently been given the management of the cigar department of that store. Mr. Andersen has just returned from Cuba, where he has been familiarizing himself with certain branches of the cigar business.

Charles Storm, of the firm of Storm, Fisher & Co., left February 27, for New York, where he goes to confer with the other members of the firm. He expects to be gone about two weeks.

Ed. Morgan, formerly with the Lucius Cigar people, is now featuring the "Optimo" through the distributors, Clarence Herschorn, and has been very successful in his efforts.

Walter R. Eagle, proprietor of two good loop stands, has renewed his lease on the stand at 86 Randolph street, for a period of five years.

H. N. Schermerhorn has taken the cigar privilege in the McCormick Building, at a yearly rental of $3600. He has also taken the stand in Orchestra Hall, at $2400 per year.

Incorporated: Barrett Cigar Company, Chicago, Ill., $2500; cigars and smokers' articles; Oscar Knittel, Anna O'Donnell, Morris C. Leonard.

Tobacco Shipment for Japan

MR. S. MORI, an emissary of the Japanese Government, has been in the principal tobacco districts of Virginia and North Carolina for some time, purchasing a supply of tobacco for retail through the government's tobacco shops, which have a monopoly on the sale of tobacco in that country. To date over 100 car loads of tobacco of excellent quality have been bought, and the shipping of it has begun. The tobacco is being handled by rail across the American Continent and loaded on Oriental steamships at San Francisco.

Sweepings Not Waste

SWEEPINGS from a tobacco warehouse or storehouse constitute manufactured tobacco rather than waste, the Supreme Court of the United States has decided. On the decision depended the question of whether importers under the Dingley law should pay a duty of 55 cents a pound or a 10 per cent. ad valorem.

Arthur O. Gray, for the past eight years with P. J. Wald, for whom he managed cigar stores, has resigned to accept a position with the Wald-Kendrick Company as salesman. Mr. Gray will represent the concern in Utica and vicinity.

Woman a Successful Leaf Salesman

A FEMALE leaf salesman, representing Knoell & Co., Lancaster, Pa., is making a serious hit with the trade and booking orders like a veteran. When last heard from she was in St. Louis.

The charter for the new warehouse, to be operated by the Farmers' Leaf Tobacco Growers' Union, Dayton, Ohio, has been received and stock books will be opened in the near future.

Balbin Brothers, of Tampa, famous as the manufacturers of "Elsardo" cigars, have secured the services of W. H. Terri, formerly with Sanchez & Haya, and will cover the same territory as he did for his old firm. Success.

Many Visitors at Tampa Factories

Conditions are not as Healthy as could be desired—What the Leaders are doing

TAMPA, February 26th.

THE general condition of the cigar manufacturing industry in this city is not as healthy as could be desired, but the trade of the whole country is also reported in a very slow condition, and this gives a slight bit of satisfaction. Reports from all sections received from varying sources indicate a lull in every branch of trade during the past sixty days, but nevertheless, several manufacturers tell me that their orders have picked up more during the past fortnight than during the entire six weeks previous.

Most of our manufacturers who live in New York and elsewhere, have been late in coming down to Tampa this month, but the past week has brought many arrivals and this has created much more activity around the factories and hotels. The hotels, by the way, have been jammed to their capacity for several weeks, and everyone is anxiously awaiting the completion of the new Hillsboro, which is now under roof and being plastered. The city is in urgent need of a first-class house, and it is hoped that the opening of the Hillsboro will lead to better general accommodations for our visitors.

Mortimer Regensburg, accompanied by his wife, came in last week and registered at the Tampa Bay Hotel. Mr. Regensburg tells me he will remain here for about three weeks and then go on to Havana to look over the leaf market there. Business with them he reports as fair.

Manuel Rodriguez, elder son of Salvador Rodriguez, of the Charles the Great factory, has been seriously ill for several weeks now, and his condition became such last week that his father returned hurriedly from New York to be at his bedside. Mr. Rodriguez has delayed his annual visit to Cuba on account of this illness, and has the sympathy of his large circle of friends in his anxiety.

H. H. Sheip, head of the H. H. Sheip Manufacturing Co., Philadelphia, left Saturday night last for a trip down to Cuba. Mr. Sheip says that this is the first time he has been down to the island since 1892, and his visit has no business significance. He will journey over to the Isle of Pines and then return to Florence Villa, to play a little golf, getting back to Philadelphia about April first.

A. L. Cuesta, of Cuesta, Rey & Co., left here on the 21st, for a brief trip to Havana, to replenish his leaf stock. They have had a good season on their "White Heathers."

After a two weeks' stay, L. Powell, of L. Powell & Co., left here on Washington's Birthday to return to New York. Mr. Powell says business is only fair, but he is not complaining as he is a close student of trade conditions and knows that the cigar business is not the only industry which is backward.

The Exchange Cigar Co. tell me that they have received some fairly nice orders on their goods during the past few days, but business has not been anyway up to the mark. This is one of the younger factories which has shown a healthy, if not a startling growth.

It is well known to many of the observant in the trade that the "La Mega" clear Havana cigars of V. Guerra, Diaz & Co., are popular in hundreds of the leading clubs in the United States, and are standard goods for prominent banquets, but it does not often fall to the lot of one firm to have their goods used at two such prominent functions as the big Lincoln Birthday dinner of the Republican Club in New York, at the Waldorf, on February 12th, where President Taft and the other distinguished guests puffed alternately on "La Megs," from Tampa, and "Partagas," from Havana. This, coupled with the fact that a few days previous, in New York, at the special dinner of the attaches of the firm of J. P. Morgan & Co., the firm's brand was exclusively selected for consumption has given the management of this fine factory much satisfaction and a right to be proud of the distinction gained by their goods.

Messrs. Jose and Manuel Pendas, who are the resident New York members of the Y. Pendas & Alvarez Co., spent two days in Tampa last week, looking over the situation here and in consultation with Enrique Pendas.

Jose M. Diaz, senior member of the firm of Bustillo Bros. & Diaz, reached Tampa from the North yesterday and registered in at the Tampa Bay Hotel. Mr. Diaz will stay here several weeks.

On Washington's Birthday, President Harry B. Guilford, of the Tampa-Cuba Cigar Co., which has made such a striking success in producing for the associated drug trades, made his first visit to the company's factory, in West Tampa, and was the guest of Secretary Ernest Berger. Mr. Guilford, who is the head of one of the leading drug concerns in Rochester, N. Y., was most enthusiastic as to their equipment and factory here and believes that his concern will score a phenomenal success along the lines they have mapped out. A. M. Goehring, who was formerly with the Exchange Cigar Co., is the sales manager for this factory and he has a force of ten salesmen just taking the road with their line of new goods. There is a spirit of enterprise and push about this factory which leads one to believe that this venture will succeed, where others might fail.

F. Lozano, of F. Lozano & Co., arrived in Tampa last Thursday, on his regular visit to the factory. He will probably make a brief trip to Cuba before returning home.

At the Sanchez & Haya Co. factory, I learned from Vice-President F. A. Torre that he is preparing to leave here about March 4th, to make a long trip out West, which will take him clear through to the Pacific Coast. He expects to return via the Northwest country and then on to New York. This is Mr. Torre's first trip to the Pacific slope and he will doubtless receive a warm welcome from the trade out there, who have handled the fine product of "Old Number One" so satisfactorily and for so many years. He expects to be absent from Tampa about five weeks.

Judging from the number of cigarmakers who are seeking employment on every hand, it is safe to estimate that at this day not over sixty per cent. of the normal number of men are seated. Last week four factories took on a few new hands, but the supply is much greater than the demand. May the conditions soon be reversed.

KAPPAL.

The Orpheum Cigar Co. have started in business at Winnipeg, Manitoba, and will manufacture high-grade Havana cigars under the titles, "Orpheum," "Red Feather" and "Royal."

A cigar factory is to open operations soon at Mobridge, South Dakota. It will be a branch of a big Minneapolis concern.

HAVANA, February 21st, 1912.

THE reports about the coming crop from the different sections of the country remain favorable up to now, but ought not to be so construed that we can already form a judgment as regards the quantity, and far less even what the quality is going to be. We shall have this year three distinct types of tobacco, a very small part of the early planted tobacco (before the rainstorms of November 22nd) and which is the real Temprano growth, a somewhat larger part set out after the heavy rain during the month of November, and which we call the medio tiempo, and finally all the tobacco planted in January and even this month, which would be the tardido growth. Whether the experiment of the last plantings will be a success depends entirely upon the temperature in the month of March. If favorable we shall have a large crop, while on the other hand with an early spring weather the tobacco may have hardly any commercial value for the cigar factories. How the temprano part will look, after it has passed the fermentation process is still an uncertainty, while the so-called medio tiempo growth promises to give the best kind of tobacco this year, but unfortunately the quantity is not as large as we would like to have it. The above statement refers to Vuelta Abajo and Partido, while Remedios this year can be relied upon to give us a larger crop in quantity, but the question of quality is still the unsolved problem, as the frequent rainfalls have washed the leaves too much, just at the time when dry weather was needed most.

The above is all that could be said about the coming crop, and the further outcome depends entirely upon the future state of our temperature during March.

Leaf Market Good.

The leaf market has been well sustained with some large transactions by Americans, one local house which buys for cigarette factories, one exporter for Spain, one for France, and quite a number of smaller deals, so that the total during the fortnight has swelled up to respectable figures; prices have been favoring buyers in instances, although good vegas did not show any recessions. Apparently a mistake has occurred in the stocks on hand upon January 1st, as otherwise there would be only an insignificant quantity left for sale in first hands, because while there are houses which have almost liquidated their holdings, there can be still found sufficient stocks in other leaf dealers' stores, and which would be willing enough to dispose of them. It may be said here that the exact extent of the stocks on hand upon a given date is almost an impossibility to ascertain, as no dealer could be forced to disclose them, therefore the approximate figures may have to be rectified later on at the end of the year. Regarding the amount of sales and purchases some allowance has to be made likewise, as not every house cares to have the true figures published (although there are a number of them which do not prevaricate), some will increase the amount of sales, while others prefer, for one reason or the other, to keep silent of their transactions, but during the course of the year the total sales and purchases come as near the true figures, as they could be possibly reported.

Sales.

Sales during the past fortnight total 12,988 bales, or divided were: Vuelta Abajo 8864, Partido 633, and Remedios 3491 bales. Buyers were: Americans 5093, Spanish Regie 1234, French Regie 989, Shippers to Buenos Ayres and Montevideo 575, and our local cigar and cigarette manufacturers 5097 bales.

Cigars.

Business during the second half of January had not picked up sufficiently, as can be seen by the following statistics of our customhouse returns, viz.:

|--|-------------------------|
| From January 16th, 1912, to January 31st, 1912 | 6,137,078 cigars |
| From do 16th, 1911, to do 31st, 1911 | 7,787,412 |
| Decrease in 1912 | 1,650,334 cigars |
| From January 1st to January 31st, 1912 | 11,398,380 |
| From do 1st to do 31st, 1911 | 14,256,618 |
| Decrease in 1912 | 2,858,238 cigars |

The big falling off was again to the United States with 909,479, to England with 840,985, and Germany with 137,890 cigars. Principal increases were: France 240,025, and Canada 105,724 cigars. Australia also fell off with 97,385 cigars.

At the moment several of our large factories, and some smaller ones, are reporting better calls for cigars from England, the United States and South America chiefly, while the other countries are holding back with orders, or are only sending them in lesser quantities for special sizes. It may be possible also, that the reports of a large and good crop have had some influence in making importers hold back, although this is certainly a wrong supposition as nobody can tell yet what the future outcome is going to be. At all events the crop will be late this year, and whether the new tobacco would cure fast enough to be worked, is another problem to solve, so there will be in all probability some six months that would have to disappear, before any new cigars can come upon the market. Can importers afford to keep quiet for such a long period without stocking up?

General Trade Notes.

H. Upman & Co. state that their factory is well supplied with orders, and that they are perfectly satisfied with the amount of business on hand.

Partagas reports that it is turning out 60,000 cigars per day, having seated all the cigarmakers, which it temporarily discharged in the month of January, and the bulk of orders on hand is as much as just before the holidays. Robert E. Lane, the hustler, only stopped two or three days here, as he was in a hurry to get back to New York and go on a trip all over the Canadian Dominion. Sol is doing a very satisfactory business.

Castañeda has increased its forces, and has particular good orders from England, France and South America.

La Diligencia is doing a normal trade at this season of the year, although the demand from the United States is steadily increasing.

La Flor de P. A. Estanillo continues to be very busy, as there is no cessation in the receipt of its orders from all parts of the world, and particularly for its brand, "Flor del Fumar."

Henry Clay & Bock & Company are working with the same forces since last Christmas, and which surely indicates a continuous steady demand for their principal brands.

Other factories that are working well are: Romeo y Julieta, Hija de José Gener, C. E. Beck & Co., Allones, Ltd., Belinda and Figaro.

Buying, Selling and Other Notes of Interest.

Sobrinos de A Gonzales did a phenomenal business during the past fortnight, as they sold 4983 bales of tobacco, and of which 3495 consisted of Vuelta Abajo colas, and 1234 bales were shipped by them to the Compañía Arrendataria, of Spain, on the 19th of February, per S/S Reina Maria Cristina.

Sylvester & Stern were the chief buyers in our market, as they registered and received 4000 bales.

Rodriguez, Mendendez & Company were sellers of 791 bales of leaf.

Sol Hamburger has registered and bought 1500 bales of all kinds of tobacco, and states that the trade is very good with his firm of Hamburger Bros. & Company.

Gonzalez & Benitez closed transactions amounting to 500 bales of Remedios and Vueltas.

Monsieur de Montrevel, the Engineer as his title is, or the buyer for the French Regie, secured 989 bales of Vuelta Abajo in our market.

Miguel Gutierrez disposed of 400 bales of his choice packings of Remedios.

Wm. H. Yocum was a buyer of 891 bales of Vuelta Abajo, and including some prime Remedios, for his firm of Yocum Bros.

A. M. Calzada & Company sold 328 bales of Leaf from their own stocks during the past fortnight, but they purchased for account of their customers 1300 bales in all, and of which Max Rosenblum was the buyer of 1000 bales for the Edwin Cigar Co., and J. P. Rowland & Co. 300 bales.

Julius Fecht, of Otumwa, has been a buyer of 230 bales of leaf.

Camejo & La Paz delivered 303 bales of their fine stocks of Vuelta Abajo.

Leslie Pantin bought for account of his customers, through cable orders, 500 bales of leaf, and which does not include what his customers in town have purchased additionally.

M. Ahella & Company were sellers of 262 bales during the last fortnight.

Diego Montero increased the quantity of his shipments to Buenos Ayres and Montevideo by 550 bales.

Perez & Obeso sold 216 bales of their choice holdings of Vuelta Abajo, and of which they still possess several very fine vegas.

Harry Landfield was a buyer of 382 bales of Vuelta Abajo and Partido.

Elias Diaz & Company closed out 215 bales of Vuelta Abajo and Partido. They also still are the owners of quite a number of fine vegas of both the above varieties.

Henry Oppenheimer has bought, so far, 300 bales of tobacco for his trade of very fine qualities.

José C. Puente disposed of 205 bales of Remedios and Partido from his stocks.

Theo. H. Vetterlein added to his previous purchases 400 bales additionally, of the best kinds of Remedios, which our market contained.

José Mendendez had a quiet fortnight as he only turned over 100 bales of Vueltas.

E. H. Smith, besides the previous quantity reported, increased the same by 118 bales.

Cardenas & Company sold 185 bales of their choice stocks of Vuelta Abajo to the French Regie.

Alfred K. Ettlinger has secured, up to now, 300 bales of excellent Vuelta Abajo for his firm of E. Hoffman & Sons.

Francisco Bolaño, who arrived here last week, has found that the business of his firm of F. Bolaño & Company, in Tampa and Chicago, has developed a great deal faster than he had anticipated, and therefore he has been obliged to come here again, in order to make some further purchases of leaf for his Tampa factory.

Leaf Dealers' Association Active.

Our Leaf Dealers', Packers' and Growers' Association has obtained from our customhouse, authority to supervise all the imports of returned Havana tobacco at our port, or elsewhere. Through the initiation of the above association all of our economical societies had combined to present a brief to our President, urging him to use his influence in bringing about the completion of the so-called "Modus Vivendi" with Spain, as with slight alterations the proposed terms by Spain had been found acceptable, and it was of great benefit to our tobacco industry to have this matter settled as soon as possible.

The association is also hard at work to instal different delegations in the country towns, such as: San Antonio de los Baños, Consolacion del Sur, Rio Hondo, Pinar del Rio, San Luis, and San Juan y Martinez. A general meeting of all the members will be held upon February 26th.

Principal Shippers of leaf tobacco, above 200 bales, from February 5th to 19th, inst., were: Sobrinos de A. Gonzales 1330 bales, J. Barnheim & Son 1037, Miguel V. Perez 692, Monroe Commercial Co. 635, Sylvester & Stern 623, I. Kaffenburg & Sons 609, Diego Montero 550, The French Minister 506, Garcia & Co. 496, Ernest Ellinger & Co. 451, Manuel Suarez 429, Rodriguez, Mendendez & Co. 377, Mark A. Pollack 282, H. Upman & Co. 240, Leslie Pantin 239, and José F. Rocha 210 bales.

Study Weaknesses of Systems

A STRONG, intelligent approach is absolutely dependent upon the knowledge of the weakness of systems in use. This enables the salesman to point out chances for loss, also to point out actual losses which the merchant is quick to recognize even though he doesn't agree with you at that moment.

The study of systems in use is a most important thing today for the successful salesman, because we are no longer dealing with the little fellow, but we are dealing with the merchant who needs system. He is anxious for anything that will increase his profits, and we have it, if we only know why he needs us. How can we find out how he needs us unless we study and become familiar with the weaknesses of his system? The great trouble with a majority of us is that we try to find the hardest way to approach the merchant instead of the easiest way. The merchant little realizes that the system he is using to get his profits may be the greatest competitor he has and he is fighting competition every day, so why shouldn't he consider a system that will assure him of the greatest amount of protection possible on every transaction in his store. Wouldn't this cost him less to fight competition? He needs the system worse than you need the order. Don't forget this, and no matter what he says when you approach him he is waiting to be shown why he needs it.

One system is better than another only by comparison, and we cannot make this comparison unless we have a thorough knowledge of what we are trying to compare. We can only gain this by studying and thinking continually. So let us

STUDY THINK WORK

Diamond Match Profits

THE report of the Diamond Match Company for the year ended December 31, 1911, shows gross earnings of $2,406,444, as compared with $2,221,668 in 1910, net earnings of $2,024,013 against $1,850,482 or 12.65 per cent. on the $16,000,000 stock against 11.56 per cent. earned in 1910, a surplus of $914,013 against $740,482, and a profit and loss balance of $520,082 against $606,069 after $1,000,000 under the "written off" item. The balance sheet showed assets of $21,258,050 against $22,158,887.

South Carolina to Have British Plant

PLANS are being completed by the Imperial Tobacco Company of Great Britain for the building of a $50,000 stemmery and steam drying plant at Lake City, S. C. The new enterprise will be started at once, in order to handle the business of the company next fall.

The rapid growth of Lake City as a tobacco market was the reason why the big English concern chose this location for its American operations. The town is located on the main line of the Atlantic Coast Line Railroad, and the stemmery of the British Tobacco Company will be situated on Acline avenue, where the railroad company will build side tracks for the handling of its business if necessary.

Sumatra Buyers Ready to Leave for Amsterdam

THE entire New York delegation of Sumatra buyers will sail for Amsterdam in a day or so in order to get there in time for the first inscription of the year, which takes place March 8th. Rarely have so many New York importers made the trip to Holland to attend this sale, their unusual number undoubtedly being caused by the scarcity of Sumatra tobacco in New York.

Among the importers who will attend the inscriptions are the following: Louis P. Sutter, of Louis P. Sutter & Bros.; Charles J. Waxelbaum, of Charles J. Waxelbaum & Co.; Benny Neuberger, of E. Rosenwald & Bro.; Leonard A. Cohn, of A. Cohn & Co.; J. H. Duys, of H. Duys & Co., and many more. The spring inscriptions are scheduled to take place on the following dates: At Amsterdam, March 8, 15 and 29, April 4, May 3, 10 and 24, June 7 and 28, July 5. At Rotterdam, April 26 and June 22.

It is reported that 15,000 to 18,000 bales will be offered at the initiary sale. It is not likely that the tobacco will be any cheaper than last year.

Free Smoker Suit "Up To" Cigar Manufacturers

NO developments have taken place since the free smoker question came up, and Internal Revenue Commissioner Cabell proposed a friendly suit to determine the taxable status of smokers consumed in factories. It is understood that the government cannot, or will not, institute the friendly suit.

Detroit Cigar Firm Under Investigation

INTERNAL revenue agents are investigating a Detroit cigar manufacturing concern, alleged to have been manufacturing stogies, cheroots and near-cigars for box-stuffing agents scattered over Michigan and nearby States. It is said that the evidence so far unearthed proves beyond a doubt that the firm has been conducting an illegal business on an extensive scale.

The information which forms the basis for the government agents' investigation was obtained at Freeport, Ill. Until the arrest at the Detroit end is made the government agents will not divulge the manufacturer's name.

Receiver Appointed for Fernandez Lopez & Co.

THE latest development in the Fernandez Lopez & Co. bankruptcy proceedings is the appointment of J. M. Schriber as receiver. He will immediately take charge of all the assets, and as soon as the adjudication in bankruptcy is made the referee, to be appointed by the court, will fix the date for a meeting at which the trustee will be elected. All creditors will be duly notified of the date of this meeting, which will be held in the near future.

The Globe Tobacco Co.,

Detroit, Mich.

Gentlemen:

Will you kindly advise the writer if you know the whereabouts of a Mr. Patterson or Pattison, who sold "Nerve Tobacco" here for the Mowry Tobacco Co. in 1874.

Editor THE TOBACCO WORLD,

Chas. H. Gehrken,
666-668 Howard Street,
San Francisco, Cal.

Detroit, Feb. 19, 1912.

Editor "The Tobacco World":

We have no knowledge of the party inquired for, but believe that if you reprint the inquiry in your valued paper, it may bring Mr. Gehrken in touch with the gentleman he desires to locate.

We find a great deal of interest in "The Tobacco World," and wish you success.

To Raise Turkish Tobacco

VARTELES B. IRPASIAN, formerly of Constantinople, where he had a farm at Radosto, on the Sea of Marmora, is in Portland, Ore., seeking a farm of from four to five acres on which to experiment with the raising of Turkish tobacco. Mr. Irpasian experimented for two years on a farm near Los Angeles in endeavors to raise Turkish tobacco, but says he found the climate to dry there. The Portland Commercial Club has taken up the subject.

Factory Notes

THE operations of several Chicago tobacco factories are undergoing scrutiny with a view to compelling restitution of duties evaded and the payment of penalties. If warranted, the district attorney will be instructed to seek indictments of the guilty importers.

The Mi Lola Cigar Company, Milwaukee, Wis., has purchased the holdings of the Great North Cigar Company, makers of the "Mi Flora," "Fillibuster" and "Concha" cigars, and will continue the manufacture of these well known brands of cigars in addition to the number of brands of the Mi Lola Cigar Company. The factory of the Great North Cigar Company will be transferred to 137-141 Sycamore street, the home of the Mi Lola Cigar factory.

The factory of the Dana-Cates-Simson Co., cigar manufacturers, Ironton, Ohio, has been totally destroyed by fire.

The Bankable cigar factory, located at Flora, Indiana, may be removed to Frankfort. Flora merchants have been informed by Noah Smith that strong inducements were being offered the plant to move and that his company was about to accept the offer. It is proposed to maintain a branch in Flora.

Ed. Levy, cigar manufacturer, of Charleston, W. Va., has returned from a business trip to Aurora, and other points along the Fox river branch of the C., B. & Q.

James F. Hammel, formerly an Ionia, Mich., cigar manufacturer, and later a resident of Lansing, where he was elected mayor, may be a candidate for the Democratic nomination for Governor of Michigan. Somehow there seems to be more genuine good fellows in the Democratic party than in any other and Jim Hammel is a past master in the good fellowship art.

F. A. Harding, of Hudson, formerly representative of the "Pioneer Press and Dispatch," was in Clear Lake, Wis., the other day, representing O'Brien & Rietdorf, cigar manufacturers of Hudson. Mr. Harding was formerly editor of the Hudson "Star-Observer."

Cigar business with the Dallastown, Pa., Cigar Company is apparently very brisk, as new hands are being added daily. Six new cigarmakers were added February 14th, to the force now numbering about 135. John Sheetz has been appointed to assist the foreman, Perth Smith, in his work.

Fire, which started in the offices of Kerr and Lindley, Paxton, Ill., did several hundred dollars' worth of damage to Mattison & Bros., cigar manufacturers.

Carl Martinson, of the Martinson Cigar Co., Paxton, Ill., is back in that city, to help his brother, Arthur W., and H. A. Rozene in conducting their cigar factory. The firm expects to put their "Club House" cigar on the market in the near future and follow it with their "M. B." and "La Buna."

The firm of Leschke & Pletcher, Hartford, Conn., during the last week of February, conducted a well-patronized exhibit at their salesroom, 1037 Main street. The business of this prosperous Hartford firm was established in 1876, by E. Leschke, employing two cigarmakers. The present force is 100. The firm manufactures the well-known "Rosedale" cigar.

With a capital stock of $10,000, the Jose Venta Company, Incorporated, New Orleans, La., has filed its charter in the Recorder of Mortgages office. The concern will manufacture cigars, cigarettes and deal generally in tobacco. Jose Venta, president.

M. Melachrinio & Co., manufacturers of the well-known and deservedly popular "Melachrinio" cigarettes, announce that they are packing their number 9 size in packages of twenty. The package will retail at 25 cents, which price is proportionately the same as on packages containing 10, 50 and 100 cigarettes.

Balbin Bros., the well-known New York City clear Havana cigar manufacturers, have gathered an excellent selling force of experienced men. J. H. Saxman covers the Pacific Coast territory. William Lineaweaver is in charge of the Middle West. W. H. Terril takes care of the Southern States, while Balbino Balbin himself covers New York City and the East. The firm thus equipped, has surpassed its entire past record during the first two months of 1912.

The internal revenue receipts in the Madison, Wis., office of the Western district of Wisconsin, gives the figures for cigars and tobacco as $121,025.63.

Deisel-Wemmer Co. Acquire Factory Site

THE Deisel-Wemmer Co. has acquired valuable real estate on Main and Elm streets, Lima, Ohio, consisting of a two-lots plot of ground, upon one of which the Deisel-Wemmer Co. factory, in which 600 men are employed, now stands. The purchase was made by the Deisel-Wemmer Co. as an investment and to provide another factory site when required. The purchase price, paid to the former owners of the site, Henry Hawisher and John Burton, of Lima. The Deisel-Wemmer Co. may in the near future erect another factory on the rear part of the property.

Cincinnati Stogie Factory for Los Angeles

H. LUCKE, whose "Lucke Rolls" became famous in the years immediately following the Spanish-American war, and who since has been engaged in the manufacture of cheroots and stogies in Cincinnati, has under advisement a plan for opening a large stogie factory in Los Angeles. The Klauber & Wangenheim Co. are California distributors of the "Lucke" stogies, which enjoy a large and rapidly increasing sale in the Los Angeles market.

Big English Tobacco Concern Prospers

THE Imperial Tobacco Company of England has recommended a final dividend of 7½ per cent. and a bonus of 15 per cent. per share on the "B" deferred ordinary shares, making 30 per cent. for the year ending October 31, 1911.

Use and Abuse of Cigar Bands

CIGAR bands, properly used, have but one mission. The band of the cigar is for the protection of the smoker just as the brand on a collar or the label on a shoe assures the buyer of receiving what he pays for.

The largest acreage in tobacco was found in 1909 in Kentucky, North Carolina and Virginia in the order of rank, Kentucky leading with 469,795 acres, or considerably over one-third of the total acreage. In 1909, these three States had 877,112 acres in tobacco, or almost seven-tenths of the land planted to the crop.

LEAF TOBACCO MARKET

High Prices, Fair Volume of Business, With Small Margin of Profit in New York---Philadelphia Trade Unsatisfactory---Lancaster Improving---New England Warehousemen Prospering---Wisconsin Outlook Good---Ohio Market Active

NEW YORK.

THE volume of business done seems to give satisfaction to everybody, but there is complaint about the small margin of profits in spite of the high and ever rising prices of the leaf. But if the packer and dealer do not make any money on the sales or at least that adequate profit to which their capital, their work and foresight entitle them, who then gets the vast difference in the price of the cigar leaf now and a couple of years ago? The tobacco farmer, without a doubt. The chief transaction during the fortnight seems to have been a sale of about 1800 boxes of Connecticut and of 400 cases of Zimmer, The Connecticut was of the new crop and a packer's transaction. In wrappers, the shade grown has still a general call. Trading in Sumatra seems to have quieted down as it generally does at this season so near to the beginning of the new inscriptions. The Havana market continues active, with prospects of an active season.

PENNSYLVANIA.

FEBRUARY seemed to start with some sort of a snap in it as far as the Philadelphia leaf trade is concerned, but very shortly this snap went out and things since then have been dragging along in a somewhat unsatisfactory way, and, unless there should be a sudden and unexpected change, February, like January, is likely to fall behind to an equal extent.

The market remains very firm, with the supply of leaf small, especially in seed goods. The only leaf the manufacturers are looking for with any desire is Connecticut, and the market seems to be barren of what they want. Little, if any, Pennsylvania has changed hands within the latter part of February and Havana and Sumatra have been equally dull. Most of the manufacturers have considerable stock on hand.

LANCASTER.

The heaviest selling in old goods that has taken place in the Lancaster market for some time was done during the month of February.

While the cigar trade is not by any means what it should be, nor anything like what the manufacturers would have it, still it is beginning to give a slight evidence of improvement. In spite of the recent bad weather, the buying of the new crop goes steadily on. Prices instead of weakening, have stiffened, in the face of the withdrawal from the field of representatives of some of the big concerns, on account of prices being too high. Probably 60 per cent. of the crop has already been contracted for, but not that much has yet been stripped. Very heavy deliveries have been made lately, the growers being anxious to get rid of the responsibility of holding the goods. Very little trading is done in 1909 goods.

NEW ENGLAND STATES.

SPRINGFIELD, MASS.

CONNECTICUT Valley tobacco growers are heavy losers from unusual causes—tobacco thieves and bank failure. The thief is something which the farmer has not hitherto had to combat with. He appears in the dead of night with a horse and wagon and carries off hundreds of pounds of tobacco. Individual growers have lost hundreds of dollars' worth of tobacco since the new crop was harvested.

SUFFIELD, CONN.

The season at the tobacco warehouses is drawing to a close. It has been a successful season from the dealer's standpoint, as there is a good demand for all grades, and the prices are considerably higher than last year. Binder grades are scarce owing to the short crop in Pennsylvania and Wisconsin, and the market is also active in wrapper grades. It is said that the shade grown wrappers have all been snapped up, and that there is not a pound of primed tobacco in the market. It is safe to say that the acreage in this section will be increased the coming season.

WISCONSIN.

EDGERTON.

THE receiving of last season's crop is being conducted under better weather conditions and the work is proceeding about as rapidly as packers are able to care for it at warehouse points. The growers are generally pretty well pleased with the result, as the crop is bringing more money than most of them expected because of the extraordinary yield per acre. Buying of the remaining remnants has been resumed in a moderate way. Warehouse work is proceeding smoothly at the packing centers and help seems to be plenty for all purposes.

VIROQUA.

That more money is paid out in the town of Viroqua these cold winter days than any town of its size in the State of Wisconsin, is no exaggeration. Daily scores of farmers receive checks ranging from $500 to $2500. That they are well repaid and satisfied is certain. No season has there been so little friction between buyer and grower as this year.

The largest money crops to be brought to Viroqua during the month was delivered to the Eckhardt warehouse by John N. Hanson and Stener B. Jacobson, the joint 11-acre crop from the Van Wagner and Arthur Rogers farms. It weighed out in dollars, $2405.85.

OHIO.

CINCINNATI.

THE offerings in the local Burley market during February have been the largest since last April. Some very choice lots have been received from Brown, Ohio and Adams counties, Ohio, and a crop lot of fourteen hogsheads shipped by John Jett, from Bracken county, Kentucky, and which were specially fine quality, sold at an average of $21.36 per 100 pounds. On the other hand considerable of the 1911 tobacco has been found to be green and rough. The top price for new crop for the week was $27.50.

Duty On Scraps

IN a decision just rendered, the United States Supreme Court held that scrap and waste tobacco, when imported, is dutiable at 55 cents a pound.

John W. Helm, a South Windsor tobacco dealer, opened his new warehouse at Station 38, in that town, with a barn dance which was attended by a large number of his friends.

Waldorf Meyer, a member of the firm of Isaac Meyer & Co., of New York, dealers in leaf tobacco, says this season will be a banner one for the leaf industry.

The New England Tobacco Corporation of Hartford; to start with $60,000 capital; incorporated by E. Henry Hyde, Charles M. Joslyn and George H. Gilman.

Charles Gans, youngest son of Max Gans, a well-known New York leaf packer, is to be married on March 6th to Miss Rene Newman. Mr. Gans is western salesman in his father's business, with lots of friends in the trade.

To Fight Lower Rates

THE New England Tobacco Growers' Association has passed a resolution to the effect that it is unalterably opposed to any reduction in the existing wrapper tobacco tariff schedules. It was voted by the directors of the Association, at a recent session, to ask the Connecticut delegation in Congress to assist in maintaining the present rate.

Philippine Exports of Cigars

THE exports of cigars from the Philippine Islands show a decrease of 64,000,000 during 1911 over the preceding year, but it was greater than for any other year during the American occupation. Practically, the entire decrease was in shipments to the United States.

H. N. Lincoln Invents "Folding Cover" Cigar Box

H. N. LINCOLN, of Middletown, Conn., has invented a new patent cigar box, consisting of a box which in appearance looks very much like an ordinary cigar box, the improvement consisting in that besides the regular hinge which attaches the cover of the box, there is a second hinge in the cover running lengthwise across it about one and a quarter inches from the back edge. When the box is opened the cover buckles over and turns down flat against the back of the box, leaving a strip one and a quarter inches wide projecting up above the rear edge of the box. On this strip is the name of the cigar and its price. The advantages consist in that the cover does not have to be torn from the box, as by simply folding it over it doesn't obstruct the view of the cigars which may be further back in the showcase; secondly, every box of cigars carries its own price tag, formed by the narrow strip of cover. The opinion of many who have seen the invention is that it possesses undoubted merits and well worthy the attention of the trade.

THE TOBACCO WORLD REGISTRATION BUREAU

The Tobacco World, established in 1881, has maintained a Bureau for the purpose of Registering and Publishing claims of the adoption of Trade-Marks and Brands for Cigars, Cigarettes, Smoking and Chewing Tobacco, and Snuff.

All Trade-Marks to be registered and published should be addressed to The Tobacco World Corporation, 102 South Twelfth Street, Philadelphia, accompanied by the necessary fee, unless special arrangements have been made.

 No Responsibility assumed for errors or duplications.

 One Dollar for each title must accompany all applications. In case title or titles cannot be registered owing to prior registration, same will be returned immediately, less our usual charge for searching and return postage, or it will be credited if desired.

It Will Sell Your Cigars

W. P. BOWERS & CO., 108 South La Salle street, Chicago, Ill., have invented a novel combination Lid Holder and Price Card for cigar retailers, consisting of one piece of steel, ingeniously executed.

The letters and figures of the device are easily read, being white on a dark blue background, so conspicuous that they can be easily distinguished at a distance of thirty feet.

This appears to be just the thing to exhibit in plain figures the price of the cigars on the lid of every box in the show-case. It covers but a small part of the lid, is easy to change from one box to another and holds the cover so firm that the heaviest box of cigars can be handled by the lid, and its angle remain unchanged.

W. P. Bowers & Co. have placed this useful and timely invention on the market under the motto: "It will sell your cigars."

Don't Do It

You want to occupy the entire block by next week—
You want to control the world's market by next month—
You want to own the earth by next year.
And yet you know—
Too rapid a growth means fungus growth—
Too sudden a start breaks a vital part—
Too great a speed winds you up in a wreck.
Dishonest copy will run a business—
But—
The road is on the down grade—and—
The undertaker of business lives right at the bottom.
Therefore—

Oklahoma City to Benefit by New Outlet

OKLAHOMA CITY, OKLA., Feb. 25, 1912.
TRADE seems to be getting back to its old standard slowly but surely. The building of the Northwest Railroad is now assured which will top a rich field for Oklahoma City jobbers. Crop prospects are the best for several years and the campaign our Chamber of Commerce is carrying on, with the aid of twelve hundred traveling salesmen against the presidential year, poor business cry is getting good results. Jobbers and retailers feel very optimistic over the outlook.

Metropolitan Cigar Company, local manufacturers, have opened up a fine retail store, corner Second and Broadway, and will feature the several brands of their own manufacture. In 10c goods they have taken on the "La Tendencia," from H. Sommer Company, Quakertown, Pa.

James T. Bowden, formerly with the Independent Cigar Company of this city, has accepted position with Platter Tobacco Company as city salesman.

J. B. Solloway, the popular cigarist in Insurance Building, recently purchased Donley Brothers stand in Lee Building Lobby.

Allen Bricker (Wm. Tegge Co., Detroit), was with us this week. He is elated over the wonderful success the "P & H" cigar has made for Patterson and Hoffman, distributors of the brand.

Collins, Deitz, Morris Company, are putting on the market the "Vicar" broadleaf cigar from the factory of Justin Seubert Company, Syracuse, N. Y. Mr. Ward is here in interest of the factory.

"Rey Oma" cigar (Sig C. Mayer & Co.), is making substantial gains in this territory. Patterson and Hoffman are distributors for Oklahoma on the brand.

George Proffer will open a new store in Empress Theatre Building this week. The fixtures are from Bishop Babcock and Becker Company, Cleveland, Ohio, and are unquestionably the finest in the city.

Prizes Awarded to Lancaster Growers

THE County Tobacco Growers' Association, Lancaster, Pa., awarded prizes to the following: Best filler tobacco grown in the county in 1911, H. K. Landis; best cigar binder tobacco, Daniel Laush; best cigar wrapper, J. H. Hostetter, and greatest yield per acre, H. K. Landis, who raised 2500 pounds.

Another loose leaf tobacco warehouse probably will be erected here in the near future.

George A. Schmitman & Brother, St. Joseph, Mo., cleared through the local port of entry 239 pounds of Havana tobacco, duty $95.60.

The supply of tobacco in Havana is not large and prices now range from 10 to 30 per cent. higher than for the same grades last year.

O. H. Holtan and Gullick Osgaren, Madison, Wis., received 84 acres of 1911 tobacco February 16th, at Stoughton, for the P. Lorrillard Company.

The Housatonic Valley Tobacco Company, of New Milford, Conn., organized with $1000 capital; William D. Wanzer, president and treasurer; Fred I. Wanzer, vice-president; Adella H. Wanzer, secretary; William D. Wanzer, Fred I. Wanzer, James H. Dodd and George E. Ackley, directors.

The City of Weston, Mo., has achieved the distinction of being the first open market in Missouri for loose leaf tobacco.

The Orpheum Cigar Company have started in business at Winnipeg, Manitoba, and will manufacture high-grade Havana cigars under the titles, "Orpheum," "Red Feather," and "Royal."

Foreign Tobacco Trade of Interest to Us

ENGLAND.

From Consul-General John L. Griffiths, London.
THERE has been more or less interest shown for some time in the question of tobacco growing in England. In a recent issue of the "London Times" a report was published of the result of an experiment in the growing of tobacco conducted on an estate in Norfolk, a county on the eastern coast of England. The crop was rehandled by a Virginia planter employed by the owner of the estate and the report which follows is that of the American expert:

My previous report of the tobacco crop on the estate in Norfolk has proved fully justified. I am now rehandling it and find that the American tobacco handles much better than I expected, and that there will be from 3 to 4 hundredweight (hundredweight=112 pounds). Much of it is of fairly good color, not bright yellow, but medium to dark.

The quality is better than I thought it would be. The texture is fine and silky, partaking more of the Maryland character than Virginia, and therefore better for cigars than the Virginian. This suggests to me that the best grade of it will be used for cigar fillers, while the remainder will be more suitable for pipe tobacco. The flavor and aroma depend to a great extent upon the fermentation; but, at any rate, the tobacco has sufficient strength of character to warrant thinking it will develop into a fair sample in comparison with American-grown.

It is too early to give a definite opinion on combustion and smoking, but yesterday I rubbed up two or three leaves and must say that for unsweated tobacco it smoked well without burning my tongue; so well that I continued smoking it with pleasure. Some of it is good enough for cigar wrappers, but the percentage is smaller than it might have been. Owing to the late planting, the growing plants had to stand out late, and consequently were much beaten by the gales at the end of September.

CANADA.

From Consul-General Henry A. Conant, Windsor, Ont.
THE chief of the tobacco division of the Canadian Department of Agriculture settles a moot question by declaring in his annual report recently issued that it seems useless to try to grow seed leaf with light tissue in Essex County.

He adds that perhaps owing to the length of the season, which allows for the curing of large tobacco, good results may be obtained with Big Ohio in this part of Canada, but delicate products, such as the Comstock Spanish and the Brewer hybrid will have to be grown in suitable districts in the Province of Quebec.

Experimental fields were established in the various districts in order to test the adaptability of the different varieties of tobacco as produced in all parts of Canada. The main object was to find out whether the county of Essex was able to grow as good a quality of seed leaf as that produced in Quebec.

The first experiments proved that, generally speaking, the seed leaves of Ontario have much looser and coarser texture than those of Quebec. The soils of Essex are particularly well adapted to the growing of burley, but the porous tissue, which is a quality in burley, is an objection in seed-leaf tobacco. Again, in burning quality the seed leaves of Ontario are generally inferior to those of the Province of Quebec.

TURKEY.

From Report by the British Consul-General, Saloniki.
THE material is not yet to hand for a full report on the tobacco crop of 1911, but it was in general a very abundant one throughout almost the whole of Macedonia, as well as in the adjacent districts of Gümüldjina, Kirdjali, and Adrianople.

The persistent rise in the prices which have been obtained by growers during the past two or three years, and which in 1910-11 attained to figures hitherto undreamed of, had the natural result of encouraging cultivation, and, meteorological conditions having been in general fairly favorable, the yield this year was considerably in excess of that of the preceding year. It is estimated at from 30 to 35 per cent. above that of 1910 in most of the districts above indicated. The quality, on the other hand, seems everywhere to have been somewhat inferior, the conditions having favored a luxuriant growth of the plant with a larger and consequently somewhat coarser leaf.

One hundred and thirty-one bales of Havana tobacco were forwarded February 20th, per S. S. "Monterey," via New York, to Messrs. Renner Bros., in Chicago, Ill., from Manuel Suarez, of Havana, Cuba.

Two hundred and fifteen bales of Havana tobacco forwarded February 17th, per S. S. "Saratoga," via New York, to Messrs. Wengler & Mandell, in Chicago, Ill., from Manuel Suarez, of Havana, Cuba.

Tobacco Crop of Pennsylvania

THE Government statistics, just issued, give the tobacco crop of Pennsylvania as 46,164,800 pounds; acreage, 41,742.

It was College men who carried the fame of Fatima Cigarettes into every corner of the country, and you know a cigarette that a College man will recommend to his friends is pretty near good enough for anyone.

FATIMA
TURKISH
BLEND
CIGARETTES

These College men who first discovered Fatimas didn't care whether they cost 10 cents or 25 cents—they liked Fatimas for their quality alone. So when they pocketed their diplomas and went out into the world they took Fatimas with them and told other smokers about them. In this way men who know no Latin or Greek learned from their College friends that Fatima means a good smoke in spite of the fact that 20 of them cost only 15 cents.

If you want a cigarette leader that will make and keep friends—try pushing Fatimas. Put yourself in line with our big 1912 advertising campaign. It will help your sales.

That hard-to-suit smoker; that hesitating chap who never seems to settle on a choice; and that "transient" who flits in only now and then. You turn them into quick buyers and regular customers when you offer the

GIRARD Cigar

Here is a cigar full flavored yet mild.

A rare combination. It has made a distinct hit. And the smoker must come to you for it.

We do not carry on a mail order business.

We have no gift enterprises to spoil your trade.

We never send more than one sample box of Girards to a consumer. He must pay us the full retail price; and give us his dealer's name. And if you will then arrange to supply him, you get your regular profit on that first sale, made by us.

Look at our strong advertising in The Saturday Evening Post, telling million of smokers regularly all about the Girard cigar; and sending them to the dealer for it.

Hadn't you better order more Girards today?

Three sizes retailing at 10 cents straight:

"Brokers" 5 1/4 inch Perfecto
"Mariners" 5 3/8 inch Panatella
"Founders" 5 inch Blunt.

Your jobber will supply you at $70 per thousand. If he can't supply you, you can buy from us direct.

To the Tobacco Trade-

Announcement

FROM the time the first package of Tuxedo Tobacco was put on the market, this company has never been able to fill Tuxedo orders promptly.

This condition has been the result of an enormous and constantly increasing demand for this brand of tobacco—a demand that it has been absolutely impossible for our manufacturing facilities to keep pace with—a demand created without advertising or special effort on our part—simply by the superiority of Tuxedo itself.

These facts are well-known to all dealers and to the trade generally.

It is therefore with great pleasure that we are able to announce that with tremendous increased facilities at our disposal, we can now, for the first time, handle all Tuxedo orders promptly.

Furthermore, these facilities now make it also possible for us to push Tuxedo as it deserves—to back up the dealer, as he deserves, with strong, constructive advertising.

We thank you for your past co-operation. We will appreciate your continued support of this most popular high grade tobacco and we can assure you that in the future, we will be able to take care of your business in a way much more satisfactory to you and ourselves.

Yours very truly,

THE BOLD

HUNDREDS, yes, thousands, were the brands of the cigars four short years ago, when we casually mentioned to a large manufacturer of Philadelphia that we were going to place a new and better 5c. cigar on the market. "In the face of the strong, local competition, you are mighty 'BOLD.'" was his rejoinder.

If we were bold, why then our cigar was BOLD, and BOLD it was called, and BOLD it has proven. Until now it stands out BOLD and ahead of any of its erstwhile strong competitors.

Thus a BOLD firm with a BOLD cigar made a BOLD success.

Why? Because we have embodied in the BOLD the necessary requisites for success, namely, extraordinary quality, better workmanship and honest business methods. Result—the BOLD is the utmost for 5c.

Waste-Basket Circulation

¶ A trained circulation solicitor, who had observed how many trade papers are frequently consigned unread into the waste-paper basket of the busy merchant, wrote to us, "I'd like to take subscriptions for The Tobacco World. Wherever I see it, it's being read, so I know it's a live one."

¶ That's the point for you, Mr. Advertiser to consider. It's not how much circulation your ads. get, but how many prospective buyers actually see and read them.

¶ Remember, your ad. in The Tobacco World will be seen and noted, because our readers read each issue from cover to cover. They are a select audience of keen, alert and aggressive men, receptive to new ideas that concern their business.

Do you want to reach them?

¶ Remember that one trade paper read, is worth one hundred in the waste-basket.

Repeat Orders on Rigoletto Cigars are Bigger Than the First

One of our salesmen has just finished covering his route for the first time since our big advertising campaign began. He not only received repeat orders from every dealer who had stocked Rigolettos from the beginning of the campaign, but in every case these orders were bigger than the first orders.

This is a significant example of the manner in which Rigoletto Cigars have made good. The same story from every section of the country. This cigar is fast becoming a standard smoke at 10c. everywhere.

Dealers who realized the quality of Rigolettos, who appreciated the demand for such a cigar when it was made known and the value of our big advertising campaign, have won out big by stocking and pushing it.

Yet the advertising of Rigoletto Cigars has only begun. There are great things for the future. Will you share in them?

Rigoletto Cigars are made in only four standard shapes, all to retail at 10c. Get in touch with your jobber or write to us and we will see that you are supplied.

A. T. Co. Shows Increases
In Net Earnings For 1911

Gain of $854,721 Over Previous Year—Board of Directors Reduced to Fifteen—Bonus For Officers

THE annual meeting of the stockholders of the American Tobacco Company took place at the main office in Jersey City on the morning of Wednesday, March 13th.

The board of directors of the company has recently been depleted by the loss of twelve directors, seven of these having become directors in the Liggett & Myers Co. and The P. Lorillard Co., and five of whom, namely Thomas F. Ryan, O. H. Payne, P. A. B. Widener, G. D. Widener and Paul Brown having resigned.

The newly-elected board of fifteen comprises the following: George Arents, Anthony N. Brady, E. S. Edwards, John C. Engelhard, Patrick J. Hanlon, Percival S. Hill, George W. Hill, Charles S. Keene, W. H. O'Brien, Malvern C. Patterson, Morton W. Reed, Charles N. Strotz, Thomas J. Walker, Josiah T. Wilcox and Thomas B. Yuille.

Of the new directors of the American Tobacco Company Mr. Edwards was formerly an assistant to C. C. Dula in the plug department; Mr. Englehart is the company's chief leaf tobacco buyer; Mr. O'Brien is the head of the cigarette manufacturing end of the company and Mr. Keene is manager of the freight department.

Treasurer J. M. W. Hicks submitted a report for the twelve months ended December 31, 1911, showing total net earnings of $35,900,073, an increase of $854,721. There was a balance of $25,946,582 after preferred dividends are deducted. This is equal to 64.7 per cent. earned on the $42,242,400 common stock, as compared with 62.2 per cent. on the same stock the previous year.

The distribution of excess net profits to the officers of the American Tobacco Company will be 2½ per cent. of the 10 per cent. excess profits to the president and 1½ per cent. to each of the five vice-presidents.

New Cuban Tobacco Crop
Looks Like Record-Breaker

Ideal Weather Conditions for Growing Lead to Rose-ate Predictions—Plenty of Light Leaf Promised

Special to "THE TOBACCO WORLD."

HAVANA, March 11.

UP to the present, the weather has been favorable for the growing crop in the fields, while there is some doubt expressed as regards the drying-off process of the freshly cut tobacco, owing to the frequent showers and the humidity.

But there is no longer any doubt but that we shall have a large crop of Remedios, Partido and Semi-Vuelta Abajo, also in all probability will be a good deal larger than last year. Estimates of the total crop run as high as 700,000 bales—the largest crop in the last twelve years and a new record as far as quantity is concerned.

In the Vuelta Abajo region the plantings have been smaller, but thanks to the frequency of rains this winter the vegueros have been enabled to make, up to three cuts, and this naturally has helped to counterbalance the otherwise shorter crop, to a material extent.

During the twenty-six years of residence in the island of Cuba, the "Tobacco World" correspondent does not recollect to have ever passed a winter, when we have had so many showers as since December last. These three months have been invariably considered as our dry season, sometimes without a drop of rain, and then again with perhaps only a shower once a month. During December, 1905, and January, 1906, we had a few days of excessive rains, which completely washed the nearly ripe tobacco for cutting, and the consequence was, that a large part of the crop was destroyed and the balance was the memorable short and flimsy crop of 1906.

Since that time we have had five dry winter seasons

Two Big Cigar Factories Merged

Heyman Bros. & Lowenstein Consolidated with T. J. Dunn & Co.—Combined Output will Be 100,000,000 Annually

MERGER of two well-known and old-established New York cigar manufacturing firms was effected during the past week by the consolidation of the business of Heyman Bros. & Lowenstein with that of T. J. Dunn & Co. This combination brings together manufacturing interests which will have a combined output of 100,000,000 cigars annually.

It is stated that Heyman Bros. & Lowenstein's factory at 430-32 East 59th street, New York, will be continued.

The firm of T. J. Dunn & Co. was originally founded in Philadelphia by Mr. Dunn, who has been dead now for many years. He was succeeded as president by Henry Heyman, upon whose death the business was consolidated with that of Theodore Werner & Co. It was shortly after this that the business was removed to New York. Mr. Werner is at present head of the house of Dunn.

In the early days Dunns' made their reputation on their "Pete Dailey" brand of nickel cigars and "Robert Mantel" seed and Havana.

The Hold-Up Game

How Itching Palms of Some Cigar Buyers are Cured
With Silver Salve

Written for The Tobacco World
By An Insider

THROUGHOUT the length and breadth of the business community of this nation, the still small voice, which for a while had been hushed by the late, overpowering, "get-rich-quick" fever, is again making itself heard, and the call for clean, honorable business methods is reasserting itself.

Thus it comes to pass that a probe is now being extended into the alleged methods of grafting practiced by expert buyers, who ought to be able to live comfortably on the lucrative salaries they are paid for their services. More, however, always craves for more, and the phenomenon is one to reckon with.

Over and again the complaint is made by manufacturers and salesmen that their salesmen are unable to interest certain firms or departments in their goods. In justice to the tobacco business, it should here at once be affirmed that in our trade the evil is not so pronounced; still it exists, to our personal knowledge; it was only the other day that an instance of this form of dishonesty was brought to our attention, and while we do not wish to make any direct accusations, we feel confident that this article will fall in good soil.

It should be borne in mind that to damage the reputation of an individual or trade is a far easier matter than to correct mistakes when they once have been made. A lie once set in motion will travel afar before it can be stopped. But on the other hand there can be no doubt but that the evil to which we have called attention is formidable enough to call for proper investigation, that it may be brought home to the class of men who have made it, of whose business methods it forms a part, and who should be boycotted and forced out of competition with their more honest and conscientious fellows, who suffer under their transgressions upon the laws of business ethics.

In fairness to the average cigar merchant, we would here affirm that we do not believe there is a firm among them anywhere who would knowingly tolerate the practice of graft among their buyers. The salesman and the manufacturers and salesmanager behind him, except in rare instances, where men of such questionable character, as indicated above, are involved, are all bitterly opposed to any system of graft that may threaten their legitimate business. Unfortunately it appears that among a certain class of undesirable buyers, the practice of this kind of graft actually enters in as a regular method of doing business. They have systematized their dishonesty. Also they form a force strong enough to be reckoned with by the honest businessman. As matters are, he is confronted with the problem of either accepting the system, losing the business or playing the part of the informer, and between these fires many find it prudent, as the least evil among the three, to accept the system where it exists and cannot be avoided, and make up the loss on the price of the goods.

In speaking of this form of graft, we should also be careful to make a clear distinction between what, under a common sense standard of business ethics, may justly be called by that name and what comes in under the rule of business courtesy. In the language of some salesmen, "There are men for whom you cannot even buy a cigar without its being considered the introductory to a bribing system, while a dinner or theatre party would be entirely out of the question."

Again, if a buyer should unwittingly frame his question like, "What do I get off of that?" he runs the risk of at once being put down as a potential grafter, while as a matter of course he may only have had his store and department in mind when he thoughtlessly used the "I."

Should a buyer as a matter of principle point blank refuse all social advances on the part of the wholesale salesman, that would be his personal prerogative and should occasion no criticism, no more than should such courtesies be considered graft in the event of their being accepted. Indeed, there are certain courtesies which the traveling salesman extends in the natural course of business acquaintance that need no defense or excuse other than the good fellowship these practices bring between men of friendly intent, who look for an opportunity to learn to know each other better than can be done in the rush hours of business. The distinction would be that just as soon as these courtesies are extended to the friends or family of the buyer, without there being some reason outside of business considerations, they carry with them the taint of graft and must be so considered.

That, however, is only the beginning of "The System." In probing it, as a general proposition and part of modern business ethics, in and out of the tobacco world, it is a fact that the wholesale trade of New York or Chicago, if it choose, could relate stories of graft that would create disaster in retail stores throughout the entire country.

So well understood and defined is the evil that one manufacturing concern is known to maintain a book in which is entered the amounts for which the firm has been "milked" and the ways in which it has been done. The items represent insurance premiums paid, vacation expenses for wives and families, hospital bills, holiday trips, birthday and wedding anniversary and holiday presents for buyers and members of buyers' families. Many of the items run into substantial sums that represent a considerable part of the gross selling expenses.

"If an out-of-town customer don't show up just before lunch time, Madruss, either he has bought his goods somewhere else or he has got stomach troubles."—Montague Glass.

From that point on, "The System" by degrees becomes less and less reserved and more brazen in its methods of fleecing. We now may encounter the entirely unscrupulous, nery, devil-may-care buyer who approaches his man with a swagger confident air and delivers himself somewhat like this: "Look here, Mr. Manufacturers, it costs you 10 per cent. to sell your goods to me on the road. I come to the market and buy your goods here. Don't you think I am entitled to a commission of five per cent. for the amount I save you."

The other fellow is "up against it," and the result is that the grafter gets what he asks for.

Stories are told of enterprising buyers in this class who have been so eminently successful in their questionable methods as to put hopeful sons through the college or university on the proceeds of "presents" made to them by their victims.

Imagination and Cigar Smoking

HOW great or small a part imagination plays with the smoker must surely be of interest to him who caters to the wants of the victims of the weed.

The care and attention, the art and moneys that are expended upon the outer decoration of tobacco packages would lead one to suppose and appreciate that imagination is a very important factor with him who selects his smokables.

It has often been said that there have been cases where men who have smoked for years, and afterwards were visited by blindness, lost their appreciation of a cigar, because they could not see it. If this is so, and there is no reason to doubt it, a peculiar phase of the cigar business comes up, which is more important. The dealer will naturally ask, "Shall we cater to his sense of sight, or his sense of taste and smell?"

Within the recollection of even the younger men in the business, there have been innumerable cases of clever industrial operators, who have been quick to grasp this peculiar phase, and play upon it to their own benefits, in other words, at least a dozen prominent producers can be mentioned off-hand, whose products, while inferior in quality to that of their competitors, were so handsomely attired, and placed before the public in so attractive and inviting a manner that they over-ran in sales and profits the honest, dependable goods which came from the factories of their more scrupulous competitors.

If the average retailer or cigar clerk was asked the following question, "How many of your customers buy labels and bands, and how many of them buy cigars for cigar worth?" It is safe to predict that the answer would show an overwhelming proportion in favor of the fancy covers.

Advertising and Salesmanship

Your advertising may be well written—
It may be the best reason-why copy—
The illustrations entirely appropriate—
The type a good clear readable style—
The general lay-out and display contributing to the pulling force—
The reading matter arousing interest—creating desire—

Let us add again, that this undoubtedly well-defined, obnoxious "system" has its root, not by any means in the cigar and tobacco industry, but in the general trade conditions of the country. It is part and parcel of that unfortunate, all-pervading "get-rich-quick" craze, and will only pass out of existence as this tendency gives way to the general acceptance of more clean and honorable methods.

And let it be clearly understood that no such dishonest system as that to which we have here called attention can ever lead to enduring success. It is bound to pave the road to failure and disaster. It is the method of the pirate and adventurer who does business under the maxim "After us, the deluge." No merchant in the great and growing field of the cigar and tobacco industries, and who has any regard whatever for good citizenship and clean business methods, should fail to consider the problem carefully and raise his voice and put down his foot against it whenever he is in position so to do.

This is not very complimentary to Mr. Smoker, but neither can he be criticized too severely for that preference, for it is merely one of the human tendencies of which we are all victims to a greater or lesser degree.

It is more than passing strange that the men of so material and straight forward a race as ours, should, in this 20th Century, the age of reform and broad civilization, allow their better senses to be swayed by that outward show which was, and is, typical of Orientals and Latins, who live in countries where the sun sheds its rays and people feel only the effects of the heat, but do not acquire the benefits of the light.

It is reasonable to assume that the average sound sense American calls for a highly advertised and gayly attired cigar, in about the same spirit that the apes in the African wilds walk into the traps.

Naturalists tell us that when the monkey leaves his tree to go in search of food, he makes certain tracks, and it is force of habit with him to return by those tracks, never deviating from the path made by himself. The trapper knows of this peculiarity, and sets his trap in the middle of those tracks. When the monkey returns from his meal, he approaches this trap, and begins to cry; but nevertheless, he puts his foot into it. Nothing on earth would tempt the monkey to go around the trap.

This is how a great many of the American smokers feel when they buy some of the fancy looking cigars with giddy wrappers and bands. They know they are going to be stung, but they can no more help following the impulse of taking the article than can the more primitive ancestor of the jungle avoid walking to his doom even if he knows it.

The size of the copy very generous—
The position exceptional—and yet—
If you have let down the gate to deceit—
If you have opened the door to mis-statements—
If you have invited in a falsehood—
If you have made promises that will never be realized.
If you have stretched some words beyond their real meaning—

Business Campaigns That Will "Walk"---For the Retailer, Wholesaler and Manufacturer

By J. B. JAMISON. **

Being an outline of systems through which big business houses are built. Any reader of THE TOBACCO WORLD, retailer, wholesaler or manufacturer, contemplating an expansion of his business, should consult this department, and may secure the personal services of Mr. Jamison for the direction of his campaign by a series of letters suited to his individual needs upon the payment of $2, for which allowance will be given in new subscriptions to THE TOBACCO WORLD, or the extension of old subscriptions. Single letters of instruction 50 cents.

Advertising plans and campaigns present very much the same vexatious problems and difficulties as beset the French Revolution, and money is wasted in the first as generously as blood was spilt in the latter, by incompetent men and methods. One Constitution after another was formulated, but none of them would "walk." Despair, indecision, lawlessness and terror reigned until the man with the Constitution that would "walk" arrived.

The plans I outline in this department will "walk." They have brought home the goods and are doing the trick every day.

How to Figure Retail Profits Correctly

A MANUFACTURER of store equipment recently caused a question to be printed in a few of the national magazines, business, trade and newspaper publications, designed to find out what percentage of retailers figure their profit right.

The answers aggregated about 1,000, of which 750 were wrong.

It is hardly believable that 75 per cent. of all retailers, whether in cigars or socks, do not know how to figure profits. Some of the readers of this publication will doubt the possibility of such a condition.

Here is the question: A certain article costs $1 wholesale. What will it have to be sold for to allow a profit of 10 per cent., after allowing 22 per cent. for cost of doing business?

It is a very simple question—one that every retailer has to answer in his own business every day. But 750 out of 1,000 retailers answered it wrong.

The answers ranged all the way from $1.10 to $1.60. The majority gave the selling price as $1.32 or $1.34, allowing a profit of one cent or less, notwithstanding an explanation at the bottom of the question that the answer was not $1.32.

A retailer in Dallas, Texas, answered like this:

"In answering your question, will say that if you had not stated that $1.32 was not correct, I would have put that price on the article, for I do not charge any profit on overhead expenses. But if you do, I cannot see any other way of figuring but to charge $1.34 on selling price."

Is there any wonder that this man was not making money? He was on the straight road to bankruptcy and going fast. But he has slowed up now, and will soon be going in the right direction.

Perhaps some of the readers of this department will think that there would be a profit in the article at $1.34, and to make sure that they will understand this Texas merchant's state of progress, it is well to explain why and how he was losing money instead of making ten per cent. profit as he thought.

If the wholesale price is $1.00 and the cost of doing business 22 per cent., $1.34 does not allow 10 per cent., but only 1.4 per cent. profit. On a gross annual business of $15,000 he will clear $150 a year, or a little better than $12 a month.

He said that if the ad had not stated that $1.32 was not correct, he would have put that price on the article.

Selling the article at $1.32, he would lose almost 1 per cent. instead of making 10 per cent. His trouble was that he figured his profit and the amount which he wanted to take out for the cost of doing business, or his percentages, on the cost price instead of on the selling price. Instead of adding 32 per cent. of the wholesale cost to the wholesale cost he should have added 32 per cent. of the selling price to the wholesale cost.

The wholesale cost is not something to be added to, but a portion of the selling price, in this instance, 68 per cent. of the selling price.

If the wholesale cost is 68 per cent. of the selling price, then the selling price is evidently $1.47, instead of $1.34, or $1.32.

If the cost of doing business is figured on the selling price, that is, 22 per cent. on the gross amount of business done during the year, the cost of selling the article is not 22 cents but 32 1/3 cents.

If 10 per cent. profit is desired on the selling price, it is not sufficient to add 10 cents to the cost price. Instead 14.7 cents, nearly 15 cents, must be added.

To prove this, take 22 per cent. of $1.47, which is 32.34 cents, and 10 per cent. of $1.47, which is 14.7 cents. Add these to $1.00 and you have $1.47.

A cigarist in Alabama said:

"If my cost of doing business is 22 per cent. and I wish to make a sale to bear 10 per cent. profit, I should figure it this way:

|----------------------------|--------|
| Cost and cash | $1.22 |
| Profit at 10 per cent..... | 12.02 |

Selling price

$1.34
"I would, therefore, sell for $1.34 all articles invoiced at $1.00 for 10 per cent. profit. Am I correct?"

He is incorrect. As stated before, instead of making 10 per cent. profit he would make a fraction over 1 per cent.

A dealer in a little town of Illinois gave a little different solution, getting very near to the correct method. He deducted 22 from 100, leaving 78. This 78 he construed as being 78 per cent. of the selling price, less his profit.

If $1.00 is 78 per cent. of the selling price, the latter, of course, would be $1.28, which he labeled as the selling price to cover the cost of doing business.

Then he deducted 10 from 100, leaving 90, and labeled $1.28 as 90 per cent. of the selling price to cover profit, $1.28, of course, is 90 per cent. of $1.42, which he gave as the answer.

He made the mistake of taking his percentage for the cost of doing business out of one sum and his profit out of another. He should have taken both percentages at the same time.

He went on to prove his figures, and undoubtedly did prove them, so far as his way of figuring is concerned. But proving that a wrong answer is correct by using a wrong method is like trying to prove that a horse is a horse by pointing out a pig.

This man's letterhead showed that he has a capital stock of $10,000, and that he is treasurer of the company.

But he has the wrong job, for he was figuring himself out of 5 cents on every dollar's worth of goods he bought. He isn't doing it now.

New Cuban Tobacco Crop

in the Vuelta Abajo and Partido sections, and if it had not been for artificial irrigation of the tobacco fields we should have suffered even more than we have done.

What the final outcome this year is going to be, as regards quality, is still an unsolved problem. While the quality of necessity will be light, it will now depend upon the drying process, and how the tobacco may finally pass the fermentation process in the piles and in the bales.

According to present appearances, a light quality leaf has been just what our manufacturers and those of the clear Havana cigar industry in the United States have been wishing for, and as there seems to be no doubt that the tobacco is going to burn freely, they ought to be congratulated upon this happy occurrence. On the other hand the seed and Havana cigar manufacturers might possibly have some difficulty to find enough heavy quality leaf for mixing purposes next fall and winter.

A few sample bales of new tobacco from Semi-Vuelta and Partido have arrived already, but no judgment ought to be formed upon them, as this kind of leaf has been packed without fermentation, and would have to be worked immediately, or otherwise is liable to go to waste. It is said, that one exporter for Germany should have bought some eleven bales of new Partido, a running lot, in order to find out what acceptance this class of tobacco would have in Germany. Such precipitate shipments ought not to be encouraged, as the leaf is liable to spoil in transit. The regular packing season may not commence before May or June, as usual, unless our rainy season should commence earlier this year.

Crop Looks Good in Porto Rico

PRESIDENT Frank R. Hoisington of the Cayey-Caugas Tobacco Company who has recently returned from the island, states that the indications for the tobacco crop, in Porto Rico this year, are much more favorable than they have been for several years past. The last advices he received a few days since, were that the crop is coming on finely, looks splendid as far as quality and light colors are concerned, and that the wrapper yield will be much heavier than it has been for a long time. This latter feature has been the one most anxiously desired, as the production of cigars in Porto Rico has been heavily diminished and in some cases, stopped entirely, owing to the lack of suitable wrapper.

Mr. Hoisington states that there was a quarter more acreage planted in tobacco this year than last but that the demand for tobacco has increased 50 per cent. to 100 per cent. and that there seems little likelihood of any lower prices for the present, although the supply is larger.

Pushing the "Edens" in South America

THE portrait herewith is that of Ramon Irijoa, who is the general South American representative for the fine old factory of the "Eden" cigar, of Havana. Mr. Irijoa for some years represented nine of the leading Havana factories in the principal cities of South America, but about a year ago he centred his attention on the distribution of the "Eden" product of Calizto, Lopez y Ca. and in one year his sales for this firm have exceeded in volume any previous year when he was selling the output of the combined nine factories.

Mr. Irijoa has made a careful study of the South American market and his firm have backed him up in regal style both as to quality and packing, so that his success is not at all surprising. He has been in Havana for a month past, but sails in a few days for Buenos Aires in which city he makes his headquarters.

He is an able and enthusiastic salesman and has a host of friends and customers in the territory which he covers.

share of the undivided net profits of the companies in which it holds stock, which they have deemed advisable not to declare as dividends.

The total earnings of the American Tobacco Company were made up of the following items:

The sales for the year amounted to $101,943,189, and the net earnings therefrom, after deducting all charges and expenses for management, etc., were $14,964,304. Dividends from companies, all of whose stock is owned by this company (including P. Lorillard Company, a small portion of the preferred stock of which is not owned by this company), $7,548,923. Dividends from companies engaged in the manufacture and sale of smoking and chewing tobacco or cigarettes (a part of whose stock is owned by this company), $887,952. Dividends from companies engaged in the manufacture and sale of snuff, cigars or supplies, and companies engaged in distributing tobacco products (a part of whose stock is owned by this company), $2,986,501. Dividends from foreign companies, $4,688,630. Interest on bonds, loans, deposits, etc., net, $4,107,372. Income from sundry other sources, $716,388. Total, $35,900,072.

Reference is also made to the fact that provision was made in the decree for the retirement within three years of all the 6 per cent. bonds, amounting to $52,882,650; all of the 4 per cent. bonds (including the outstanding 4 per cent. bonds of the Consolidated Tobacco Company), amounting to $51,354,100, and $26,229,700, being about one-third of the $78,689,100 6 per cent. preferred stock of the American Tobacco Company. Although such retirement did not begin until after January 1st last, it had up to March 1st been accomplished except as to $1,408,800 6 per cent. bonds, $4,882,850 4 per cent. bonds and $1,840,900 6 per cent. preferred stock. The stockholders are reminded that this exchange of securities has taken place since January 1st.

SHOULD you happen to visit among Havana manufacturers of cigars, be careful of discussing the lottery. Perhaps you might tread on somebody's toes. I heard of a most pathetic tale in Havana the other day, concerning one of the leading manufacturers there and his sad experience with the Christmas drawing.

It seems that the gentleman in question came out of his home a few days before the great Christmas lottery was drawn and noticed in a shop window across the street from his house a portion of a ticket, No. 8113. He was struck by the fact that the four figures totalled 13 when added together, and also, having a wee bit of superstition in his make-up, he went across the street and asked the shopkeeper to give him all the parts of the ticket which were to be purchased. It so happened that the dealer only had two out of the hundred numbers of the ticket, but these were secured and safely stored away.

A few days later a lottery ticket vendor wended his way into the factory and had three more parts of the same ticket, No. 8113. Mr. Manufacturer promptly purchased them. An hour or two later his fancy was taken by another number owned by the foreman of his factory and he swapped the three parts of No. 8113 with him, knowing that he had two more parts at home.

As is always the case, No. 8113 drew the third prize of $140,000. Added to his terrific disgust at having swapped his winning portions with his foreman, his cup of misery was full when he returned home to find that his wife had given the other two portions of the ticket to his children, together with some former non-winning tickets and that the entire lot had been destroyed.

Strange how the printed word, often meant for purely local interest, travels with the wings of Mercury to lands afar. I dropped in to see J. G. Atherholt, a Philadelphia retailer, the other day and he showed me a letter which he had received from Irving Pollak, who conducts a busy retail stand in the Merchants' Exchange Building, San Francisco. Mr. Pollak had read in "The Tobacco World" of Mr. Atherholt's plan of introducing the "Rigoletto" cigars to his customers by sending them personal letters. Mr. Pollak, being a live merchant always on the alert for new ideas, wrote to Mr. Atherholt and asked him to send him a copy of the letter.

By this means "The Tobacco World" linked the interests of the East and West and brought about an exchange of ideas which cannot fail to be mutually helpful.

This is one of the great functions of a trade paper which few realize and even less appreciate.

An interesting story illustrating how the old soldiers prize the loot of war, comes to my attention from a correspondent in Allentown, Pa. It is relative to John S. Trumbauer, of that city, who is now seventy-three years old and who is still chewing "rebel" tobacco as he calls it, which he captured while in the civil war.

Trumbauer's regiment was part of Sheridan's army which was sent to guard a property along the Manassas Gap Railroad, at Sharpsburg. Thrown in the company of a number of other Yanks, they seized some 200 pounds of good old fashioned navy plug tobacco and appropriated as much as they could carry. He kept this tobacco with him during the remainder of his term and when he returned to Allentown, he still had a goodly supply. Trumbauer states that he still has twenty pounds of the tobacco and he likes it so much, that he is very sparing in the use of it and is reluctant to give any of it to his tobacco-chewing comrades.

I was standing in a Broadway cigar store the other day, early in the morning, when a chap walked in, bought a 10c cigar and proffered a dollar bill in payment.

The bright young clerk behind the counter said, "Sorry, Sir, but I can't change it."

The customer seemed surprised and exclaimed: "Well, this is all I've got except a five dollar bill." "Give me the five-spot. I can change that," said the clerk. The customer, abashed, remarked, "if you can't change a one dollar bill how can you change a five dollar bill?"

"Simple, enough," replied the clerk, as he rolled out on the counter $2.50 gold piece, two one dollar bills and 40c. in change.

Do you get it, Steve?

Undaunted by competition because they have none, A. Aschner's Sons are operating a little cigar store at 369 Fulton street, Brooklyn. It is an agreeable surprise for one who is acquainted with the general make up, stock and equipment of the every-day cigar store, to enter the Aschner establishment. At first glance one is almost ready to term the place an exhibition of smokers' requisites, rather than a store. But a glance at the number of customers who line the counters, brings you back to realization, that it is a commercial establishment, and not a museum.

The first thing that attracts the visitor's attention is a show case containing the most valuable selection of carved meerschaum pipes in the United States. In this case there are hundreds of artistically carved meerschaums, ranging in price from $15.00 to $500.00 apiece.

Every imaginable style and make of foreign and domestic pipes, cigars and cigarette holders, tobacco cases, tobacco jars, pipe racks, ash trays and what not, that in any manner is connected with smoking can be found in the widest possible range of assortment at this monster salesroom.

The firm has been established since 1870 and is now composed of four brothers, who are the sons of the original founder. They occupy the entire building at the above address, operating a cigar factory on the floors above the store. Most of the cigars sold in this store are private brands, controlled by the firm, that have been very successfully introduced in the territory in which Aschner Sons operate.

Evidences of friction between cigar manufacturers, who are seeking to increase their business through national advertising, and local wholesalers, who are featuring their own private brands, are becoming more apparent in the cigar trade. It is a question which is forcing itself to the front and one which must be met in a spirit of fairness and toleration by both sides.

At first glance, it seems that the wholesaler is standing in his own light by refusing to take up nationally advertised brands of cigars and tobacco products. A manufacturer who has the courage and progressiveness to distribute his cigars in every state in the Union, and back them with advertising through trade papers and national mediums, evidently believes in the merit of his product. It is evident that advertising will not make a poor cigar good, but it will put a good cigar in the mouths of thousands of consumers of cigars who otherwise would be using some other brand.

A wholesaler taking up a brand which is backed by such potent forces, will find his path easier than if he were to exploit his own private brands which are necessarily limited to local consumption and not known beyond a limited radius.

Speaking on this subject, a national magazine recently said:

"The wholesaler commonly sets too high a mark on the value to him of selling goods under his own brand, or otherwise, as he puts it, 'owning his own trade.' Unless his private brands are of good quality and well advertised, they are seldom as profitable to him as the well advertised manufacturer's brands. They are harder for him to sell to the retailer because the retailer's customers want the brands that are convincingly advertised. Many a wholesaler has forced manufacturers to eliminate him solely because he obstinately refused to do justice to the demand in his territory for standardized goods. No matter how hard the wholesaler fights, the brands that will eventually dominate his territory are chosen by the demand of the consumer. If he doesn't distribute them efficiently, someone else will and he is the sole loser.

"While such opposition as above-mentioned is discouraging to the big cigar manufacturer, it may be said in justice to the wholesaler, that it arises from a mistaken notion on the part of the latter, as to where his profit really lies. If the wholesaler wishes to survive modern competition, he will take advantage of the manufacturer's efforts to help him and not counteract them by insisting on his own private brand."

The wholesaler is a necessary factor in the distribution of all merchandise, and especially in cigars. The manufacturer who seeks to eliminate a wholesaler is both short-sighted and narrow-gauged. Few manufacturers are willing to assume additional expense to distribute their goods direct to the retailer or of taking on their books thousands of new accounts about which they know little. This is the business of the wholesaler and the shrewd manufacturer will not try to deprive him of it.

Summarized, the question at issue is this: Is it better for a wholesaler to insist on selling brands which he must advertise himself, and which at the best will never have more than a local consumption, or would it be wiser for him to take up a nationally known cigar and push it himself, rather than to allow it to fall into the hands of a more aggressive and open-minded competitor?

Not for twelve years past, has the crop in Cuba been so favorable in its earlier aspects as it is today.

For the first time in a number of years, the weather conditions have been uniformly of such character, as to promote the growth of a bumper number of plants and the farmers throughout the entire Island, have apparently taken every advantage of this, and utilized their opportunity to the utmost.

Predictions are freely made in Havana and elsewhere that the present season's crop will exceed over 700,000 bales of all kinds. Last year's crop totalled only 350,000 bales so that this preliminary figure, if verified should prove tremendously helpful to the industry.

The largest recorded crop of Cuban tobacco previously gathered was in 1900. This reached figures approximating 625,000 bales, and should present expectations materialize the year 1912 will be a record breaker.

Concerning the character of the crop one might be more or less optimistic. The output in Vuelta Abajo, Semi-Vuelta and Partidos alone, have been estimated to run over 300,000 bales. These figures, however, seem to be a little exaggerated, but a quarter of a million bales can be safely figured for the districts mentioned.

The quality of the tobacco in growing is perhaps not up to the superlative standard of Cuba, being generally pronounced rather light, and in some instances washed out, but nevertheless when it is considered that last year's crop was mostly dark in character, it can be readily judged that with the large quantity of the present season's light tobacco on hand, there will be more and enough to enable the manufacturers in both Cuba and the United States to supply their needs at a fair price for the manufacture of clear Havana cigars.

It is a source of much gratification to every one that there is a general spirit of optimism as far as the tobacco industry is concerned on the Island of Cuba, despite the distressing political situation down there at the present time, and the general lethargy in the clear Havana industry in the United States.

Castaneda for French Consumption

THE management of the Castaneda factory in Havana, Cardenas & Company, have made exceedingly favorable arrangements with the French Regie during the past month, whereby in future Castaneda cigars are to be featured for the smokers of the French Republic. It has been a custom for some years that the Regie would only take four sizes of any brand, but they have arranged with Cardenas & Co. to handle eight sizes of Castaneda, and the goods which have already been sent there have met with the utmost approval.

Fernando Cardenas, of the firm, arrived in New York, from Havana, on March 9th, for a brief visit here, during which time he met the company's Australian representative, S. Levic, of Sydney, N. S. W., who is visiting in New York. Castaneda cigars have proven themselves very popular out in Australia and the demand for large sizes especially, seems to be continuously growing.

Dave Echemendia, who looks after the company's interest in the United States, reports that the Castaneda's were the adopted cigar at the Hide and Leather Association Dinner, held at the Hotel Astor, in New York, last Thursday.

The company put the goods up in a beautiful, natural cedar package, bound with imitation leather thongs.

Duys Get Big Lots of Choice Sumatra

CONSIDERABLE interest was manifested in the offerings at the first inscription of Sumatra tobacco, which took place in Amsterdam on March 8th. A large number of American buyers made the bidding pretty lively.

The firm of H. Duys & Company were represented by John H. Duys, and upheld their reputation by buying some of the most desirable lots which were offered. They acquired over one thousand bales, including such well-known marks as Deli My / D/ Lankat, Deli My / Q B, S & R / B / Deli, and Sum Plant Deli.

Information reaches the New York office that the wrappers which were secured are extremely choice ones, containing mostly large sizes. The colors are light, and from the cable description, it is probable that no time will be lost by the manufacturers on this side in securing through the firm of H. Duys & Company the tobaccos before mentioned.

The firm announces that they will be in a position to show samples of their recently acquired leaf as early as March 21st.

Suffragettes Lose One Advocate

ONE of the curious incidents attendant upon the recent suffragette riots in London was the smashing of the big plate glass window in the store of Philip Morris & Co., the cigarette manufacturer whose headquarters has been for some fifty years past at 22 New Bond street, London.

It seems that during the rioting one of the militant women armed herself with a hammer and while parading down New Bond street noticed the handsomely decorated window of Philip Morris & Co. and immediately smashed it into a thousand bits. One of the clerks of the company observing the incident and rushing out captured the would-be female voter and turned her over to a "Bobby."

The interesting fact of this, was that Frederick Curtis, president of Philip Morris & Co., had been impressed for some time past with the claims of the suffragette movement and was really counted among their conserving supporters. Since the window smashing episode, however, it is stated that Mr. Curtis has modified his views and now figures that a Woman Rampant with a hammer is perhaps even less dangerous, than one with a ballot.

Regan Importation Co. Open for Business

THE James B. Regan Importation Company, of New York, has opened a new store, which occupies four floors of the Knickerbocker Annex, 140 West 42nd street. They will sell at wholesale and retail select imported cigars and liquors. Mr. Regan has spent $75,000 on the project which will be one of the best in New York City. A. H. Carling is manager of the company.

Chicago Office for Wm. Steiner Sons & Co.

WM. STEINER, SONS & CO., New York lithographers, have established a branch office in Chicago, at 214 West Ontario street. The branch will be under the management of O. J. Rosenberger, well-known in the trade. Isidor Stern, a member of the firm established the office during a visit through the Middle West.

Henry J. Rindskopf, of the Rindskopf Tobacco Company, was among the well-known trade visitors in New York during the past fortnight.

Rheinhardt Brothers, cigar dealers of Nassau street, New York City, recently purchased the old and successful cigar stand in the "Citizen" building. This stand was for many years conducted by Herman Seidenberg, who now retires after a long and successful career.

Liggett & Myers Co. Adopt Bonus Plan

Officers to share in increased profits—New Directors chosen

THE first annual meeting of the stockholders of the Liggett & Myers Co. since the severance of that corporation from the American Tobacco Company took place at the New Jersey headquarters in Jersey City on Monday, March 11th, with president C. C. Dula presiding.

The report of treasurer T. T. Anderson showed that the company was in excellent shape having net earnings of $598,572 earned in a little over three months that they have been in business independently. The surplus account was given as $355,623 and gross assets were placed at the huge sum of $69,221,721.

It was voted to increase the board of directors from ten members to twelve and T. T. Anderson, the treasurer, and Leopold Feist were named to fill out this number.

As foreshadowed some weeks ago, action was taken by the stockholders, and an amendment to the by-laws of the company adopted whereby competition and the progress of the business will be stimulated among the president and five vice-presidents of the company, by dividing a pro rata of certain excess profits of the company among these officials.

This amendment read as follows:

"As soon as practicable after the close of the year 1912 and of each year thereafter the treasurer shall ascertain net profits earned during the year. If the excess net profit exceeds $4,552,784, which is estimated amount of net profits during 1910 by the business that now belong to the company, a payment equal in the aggregate to 10 per cent. of such excess shall be paid to the president and five vice-presidents in the proportion of 2½ per cent. to the president and 1½ per cent. to each of the five vice-presidents."

The gentlemen affected by this are: Messrs. C. C. Dula, president; C. W. Toms, E. B. McDonald, H. A. Walker, and R. D. Lewis, all vice-presidents, and who, with Messrs. J. A. Lewis, W. R. Irby, R. B. Dula, A. Klein, E. H. Thurston and the two newly elected members comprise the present board of directors. The board is scheduled to meet in St. Louis at the company's main office next week and elect officers for the ensuing year.

New Chain of Stores for New York

THE Consolidated Cigars Company, a concern which intends establishing a chain of retail cigar stores in New York City, was incorporated there last week. A. B. Woythaler, a New York retailer, will be manager of the stores, which it is intended shall number at least fifteen, possibly more. The capitalization of the new concern is $100,000.

The first store will be located at 7th avenue and 47th street. Plans for the remodeling and equipping of the premises are being prepared. The leasing of a number of other desirable locations is being negotiated.

The names of the men who have entered this enterprise with Mr. Woythaler were not given out. It is announced that the Consolidated Cigars Company have placed no limit on the number of stores, but will expand as conditions and opportunities warrant.

The H. B. Sladon Cigar Co., which operates in the Folies Bergere, New York, has opened a new store at 16 East 18th street. E. W. Dunn, formerly manager of the Waldorf-Astoria Cigar Store, at 42nd street and Fifth avenue, is in charge.

Jacoby Cigar Factory Fails

APETITION in bankruptcy was filed against Louis Jacoby, of New York, trading as Herman Jacoby, cigar manufacturer, at 33 Bowery, that city. The liabilities are said to be $30,000 and the assets $10,000 on the stock and machinery. The bankrupt has also a life interest in tenement properties.

The business was started twenty-eight years ago by Herman Jacoby, who built up a large trade. When he died in 1909 he was said to have left a fortune of $150,000.

Themilis Co. Removed to New York

THE main offices and factory of the G. Themilis Company, cigarette manufacturers, located at Atlanta, Ga., have been moved by that firm to the old Melachrino premises at 8 West 29th street, New York. The Atlanta offices will be continued as a branch of the business. The firm consists of George Nicholas, Styro and Tom Themilis.

Change in Cincinnati Cigar Firm

THE firm of Greenwald Bros., cigar and stogie manufacturers at Canal and Walnut streets, has dissolved, Samuel Greenwald having purchased the interest of his brother Max and will continue the business under his own name. He has also acquired the cigar factory of M. Mayers, of 521 West Liberty street. The latter, it is understood, will establish a jobbing house in the Far West. Mr. Greenwald will enlarge his factory, and in addition to his cigar and stogie line will embark in the cigar leaf trade.

The cigar factories have weathered a "thorough" investigation of their premises by the civil authorities, who have found very little of a serious nature to criticize. They also made the astounding discovery in a chewing tobacco factory, that the tobacco employed in the manufacture was "adulterated" with a sweet. This has caused rather caustic comment on the part of the trade. As is well known to the least practical of tobacco men, a sweet casing is absolutely essential to making the product palatable and marketable. A few more of these remarkable discoveries will illustrate the urgent need of practical tobacco men as inspectors.

Miller, DnBrul and Peters, who specialize in machinery for cigar and cigarette manufacturers, report business as being very satisfactory. Another large Cincinnati house catering to the needs of the tobacco trade is the Western Paper Goods Company, of which Fred. H. Berold is president and F. W. Galbraith, Jr., is secretary. Nearly all the bags used by scrap tobacco manufacturers are made by this concern, which is also featuring a paper pouch to contain plug and pressed scrap.

One of the recent prominent trade visitors was Percival S. Hill, president of the American Tobacco Company, who is making a tour of inspection of all the large tobacco centers.

The Burley market is unusually active at the present time. Colony tobacco and anything showing quality is in strong demand at outside prices, while red types, selling at from 7 to 10 cents, are in good request. Offerings last week consisted of 2535 hogsheads, of which 1593 were new and 942 old. The former brought an average of $10.70 per 100 pounds, and the latter $9.65. Offerings for the year to date are 18,217 hogsheads, 67377 being new and 11,480 old.

Elkins' Tobacco Stock a Legal Issue

AN interesting point has arisen in the settlement of the estate of the late William L. Elkins. The Orphans' Court, at Norristown, Pa., which has been asked to decide whether the income from the stock of the dissolved American Tobacco Company, which was held by Mr. Elkins, shall be considered as an income payable to the heirs or revert to the estate.

Mr. Elkins, who died November 7, 1903, owned 13,233 shares of the common stock of the Continental Tobacco Company, and received therefor an equal number of shares of the common stock of the American Tobacco Company.

It was alleged that during 1911, pending the litigation directed against the American Tobacco Company, there was an additional accumulation of surplus, and after the decree of the court directing the dissolution no further dividends were paid to the common stockholders.

It is contended that, in addition to the securities named, the estate of Mr. Elkins is entitled to subscribe at par for 7019.2651 shares of the Liggett & Myers Tobacco Company common stock, and to 4991.0920 shares of the P. Lorillard Company common stock.

The life tenants assert that the stocks received by the trustees in partial distribution of the American Tobacco Company should be paid to them as income.

What the Bayuk Bros. Men are Doing

BAYUK BROTHERS report a continued increase in the demand for "Havana Ribbon" both in the home and out of town territory.

H. L. Rogers, recently appointed to the New England States, is meeting with the most gratifying success, having placed the "Havana Ribbon" with a number of the most representative firms in that section.

L. T. Shacklett, who covers the extreme South, is rapidly opening up that territory and reports the "Havana Ribbon" duplicating to the jobbers' satisfaction, wherever placed.

Despite the threatened coal strike, Dave Achenbach is finding Pennsylvania a fertile field and looks forward to a large increase in his March business.

A. M. Thompson has just returned to his headquarters in Indianapolis from an extended trip through the West, and while he found conditions badly tied up, owing to bad weather, he still found the "Havana Ribbon" in a flourishing condition and indications for a banner year's business in his territory.

Cores-Martinez Co., Open N. Y. Factory

FOLLOWING the fire which recently destroyed their factory on South American street, Philadelphia, the Cores-Martinez Co., have opened a factory in New York City, at Nos. 212-214 East 99th street, where George Knodt a newly admitted member of the firm is in charge. Offices for the conduct of their business have been opened at 333 Walnut street Philadelphia.

It is possible that another factory exclusively for nickel cigars will be opened by this company, in the First Pennsylvania Revenue District, at a place yet to be decided.

New Salesman for "Counsellors"

MINOR GRISCOM, who covered Northern and Central New Jersey for The American Tobacco Company for several years, has joined the road force of Allen R. Cressman's Sons, 512 Pine street, Philadelphia, and is meeting with great success in opening new accounts for the well-known "Counsellor" 5c. cigar made by this firm.

Special Cigar Offer Makes a Hit

GOOD results have been obtained by Dusel, Goodloe & Co., 112-114 No. 7th street, Philadelphia, on a special 1,500 cigar offer which they placed before the local trade some few weeks ago. This offer comprised eight varieties of nickel goods, made by the American Cigar Co., and "El Yutan" and "Continental" brands, in the 10-cent and two-for-a-quarter values.

New Frishmuth Tobacco Brand

FRISHMUTH & CO. are putting on the market a new tobacco known as "Rainbow." It is a cut plug foil package, and retails 2½ ounces for 5 cents.

George H. Weidmer, representing the American Cigar Company, New York City, was a Philadelphia visitor recently.

Wm. H. Terrill was recently calling the attention of the trade, in Philadelphia, to the merits of the "Elsiardo," made by Balbin Brothers, Tampa, Fla.

Monroe May, vice-president of The West Indies Cigar Company, 138 Pearl street, New York City, visited the trade in Philadelphia recently.

Quaker City Items

R. Fernandez, of the firm of R. Fernandez Cigar Co., Key West, Fla., booked orders in Philadelphia this week.

"Sheridan only twenty miles away" is the war-like advance notice sent by this live wire of the Park & Tilford selling staff, to the Philadelphia dealers early this week.

E. G. Dunlap, has just returned to Philadelphia from a very successful trip through the South in the interest of Arquesles, Lopez & Co., Tampa, Fla.

W. W. Macfarlane booked some desirable orders in Philadelphia recently for Henry W. Peabody & Co., 17 State street, New York City.

Manuel Fernandez, of Manuel Fernandez & Co., which recently moved their factory from Key West to Tampa, Fla., was in Philadelphia within the last fortnight specializing of the "Lampara" brand made by this firm.

Oliver G. Bennett, booked a number of attractive orders for "Southlands," "White Rolls," "Lynnhaven," and "Ex Cel" cigarettes, made by the Vaughan-Ware Co., Inc., Richmond, Va., when in Philadelphia this week.

The cigar department of the Finley Acker stores have just added two sizes of clear Havana cigars, made by C. E. Beck y Ca., selling at 25c. each and three for 50 cents.

Terry & Duncan, retail cigar and tobacco dealers, of 10th and Chestnut streets, Philadelphia, have inaugurated a plan whereby a Hathway cigar lighter is given away free to every customer who makes a cash purchase to the amount of $2.50.

M. J. Dalton, of M. J. Dalton & Co., is still indisposed as the result of having eaten improperly cooked fish while on his recent visit to Havana, Cuba.

Mr. Falk, head and founder of the Falk Tobacco Company, Richmond, Va., who has been at Atlantic City for three weeks seeking rest and recreation, stopped off at Philadelphia this week on his way back to Richmond where he will remain for several months.

The Independent Cigar Store on Thirteenth street, near Market, is to be enlarged and refitted with modern fixtures at once.

Max and Samuel Bayuk, of Bayuk Bros., cigar manufacturers of this city, are en route to Amsterdam to attend the inscriptions.

Charles Bobrow, of the firm of Bobrow Bros., has been calling on the trade of the Middle West placing their famous nickel cigar "The Bold" in the hands of live distributors. He expects to visit Indianapolis, Cincinnati, Cleveland and other important centres before returning.

Patterson Co. to Remove only Part of Business Louisville Will Get About One-Quarter of Richmond Firm's Production—New Cigarette Factory Planned

Special to "THE TOBACCO WORLD."

RICHMOND, March 13th.

THE report that the R. A. Patterson Tobacco Co., would remove its business from this city to Louisville, Ky., has been qualified by an official statement issued by Malvern C. Patterson, president of the company and vice-president of the American Tobacco Co. Mr. Patterson today announced that less than one-fourth of the business would be removed to Louisville and this only as a temporary expedient to take care of surplus business pending the erection of a new plant here and that the manufacture of their principal brands would be continued in the Richmond factory.

Mr. Patterson's statement said:

"The R. A. Patterson Tobacco Company is making arrangements to move from its present plant at the intersection of 7th and Overton streets for the reason that that plant is old and out of date; that it cannot be operated economically, and as a matter of necessity, the company will for the present distribute its business between the plant it has recently acquired at the corner of 6th and Cary streets and the P. H. Mayo Branch factory, on 7th street, also of this city, to the utmost capacity of these two plants. This will necessitate temporarily some of the business being done in Louisville. Just how much, of course, depends on the increase of sales.

"It is still the intention of the R. A. Patterson Tobacco Company, sooner or later, to erect a large new plant in Richmond to care for its increasing business, and we fully expect to do more business in Richmond in the future than ever in the past, feeling that Richmond is the most economical point and the best point for the manufacture of our products, which have become famous under a Richmond label. Furthermore, the recent introduction of the Sovereign Cigarette will probably increase the business here, which will necessitate new quarters for this new industry also.

"It is also contemplated in the proposed changes that all of our old employes will be taken care of in a manner satisfactory to them. A sufficient number will be transferred to Louisville to take care of such business as it may prove necessary to transfer there for the reasons outlined above.

"The R. A. Patterson Tobacco Company will continue its separate corporation form and maintain its offices in Richmond."

Mr. Patterson explained that since the reorganization of the American Tobacco Company and its divisions into separate companies, the Allen & Ginter Branch, in this city, has gone to the Liggett & Meyers Company, leaving the American Company no cigarette factory in this city, and he predicted the erection of a cigarette plant here at an early date, of sufficient size to compete on equal terms with the Liggett & Meyers Company.

Reports indicate that the Patterson Company made about 12,000,000 pounds of smoking and plug tobacco last year, and the indications point to increased sales of the popular brands. The two factories to be operated here will have a combined capacity of approximately 10,000,000 pounds, so that for the present at least all surplus sales over that amount will be made up in the American Tobacco factories in Louisville. The Patterson Company retains in Richmond certain distinct and widely advertised brands, only transferring to Louisville those brands of smoking tobacco using a large amount of Kentucky Burley tobacco, the cost of divided operation being offset by freight advantages.

DISTRIBUTORS

Boston Sub-Jobbers Organize

FOLLOWING the reorganization of the jobbing interests in the Boston market as told in our last issue, the sub-jobbers doing business in and around the "Hub" have gotten together to form an organization of their own. Sub-jobbers be it known, are dealers who buy from the big wholesalers, in turn selling to the retailers.

At a meeting of these merchants, held at the American House, Boston, there was a lively exchange of epithets and only a temporary organization was formed. J. J. Dalton, president, and J. J. Donovan, secretary, were appointed to call a meeting later for final reorganization.

Wrights' to Distribute "The Abbey" in St. Louis

ARRANGEMENTS have been made by T. Wright & Co. Cigar Co., to distribute the new 10c. cigar "The Abbey" being put on the market by the United Cigar Manufacturing Company. The house of Wright will control this brand in the St. Louis territory. "The Abbey" is a broad leaf wrapped cigar which the manufacturers claim will be "a revelation." Wrights' are also featuring strongly at present the famous "Webster" brand of clear Havana cigars, made by Y. Pendas & Alvarez.

Traiser Company Gives a Dinner

THE selling force of the Traiser Company, of Boston, Mass., were the guests of the firm at a dinner served at the Hotel Thorndike, on the night of March 6. This dinner is an annual "get-together" affair in which the officers and the selling force discuss their work, past, present and future.

Rome Tobacco Co. to Handle "Havana Ribbon"

THEROME J. FOLEY, of Bayuk Bros., recently placed an account for "Havana Ribbon" with Rome Tobacco Company, of Rome, N. Y. They expect to do a lively business on the brand. Mr. Foley, who covers the New York territory, is sending in increased business from that section and reports a bright outlook for the firm.

Increased Demand for Cuesta-Rey Cigars

THE Wright Drug Company, of Milwaukee, report good demand for the Cuesta-Rey cigars in their territory. W. O. Grady, a Cuesta factory representative, covered that region with a member of the Wright company recently with very gratifying results.

New Manager for Western Jobbers

J. H. Nightingale, formerly manager of the cigar department of Haas, Barnich & Co., of Los Angeles, has taken charge of the San Francisco office of Herman Heyman and Son. Mr. Nightingale was the honored guest at a farewell banquet given by the salesmen of the different jobbers of Los Angeles, who wished him success in his new venture.

H. P. Brewster Co. Incorporated

TO carry on the jobbing and retail trade formerly conducted by H. P. Brewster, of Rochester, N. Y., a new company has been incorporated which will trade under the name of H. P. Brewster Company. Mr. Brewster is president of the company. This is one of the largest cigar jobbing houses in Rochester and was established many years ago by Mr. Brewster. In addition to the jobbing end, the firm will do a large retail trade.

New Firm of Porter & Gunther

CHARLES A. GUNTHER a well-known cigarmaker, of Middletown, N. Y., has purchased of James S. Porter a half interest in his cigar store and in the future they will do business under the firm name of Porter & Gunther. They will sell high-grade tobacco and cigars at wholesale and retail, and also carry a full line of smokers' supplies. Mr. Gunther has had a large experience in the cigar business.

Wood & Bray Get La Saramita Account

Wood & Bray, of Indianapolis, who recently entered the field as wholesalers, have acquired from the Shields-Wertheim Company their "La Saramita" account. Bert Smith, their factory man, has been helping the new distributors to introduce the brand.

New Jobber in Poughkeepsie

A new cigar and tobacco jobbing house has been opened at 93-94½ Main street, Poughkeepsie, N. Y., by I. M. Gottlieb, of that city. He is the only exclusive tobacco jobber in that place.

Stone, Ordean, Wells Co. Open Branch

The Stone, Ordean, Wells Co., which a year ago opened a jobbing house in Minneapolis, have started a branch business in St. Paul. L. E. McLaughlin is in charge.

The store of Magee Brothers, wholesale grocers and distributors of cigars and tobacco, at Easton, Pa., was damaged to the extent of $3,000 by fire on March 5th. This firm was more fortunate than some of its neighbors who suffered total losses.

George M. Voige, Cincinnati distributor of the famous "Rigoletto" cigar, made by E. A. Kline & Co., Cleveland, reports that the sale of this brand in Cincinnati territory is growing by leaps and bounds.

O. L. Meyers, Pacific Coast salesman, and Tillman Funk, Southern representative for the "44" Cigar Company, Philadelphia, are rapidly placing this firm's goods with the better class of jobbers in these sections. The larger cities and towns of North New Jersey have indicated that this territory will also prove a desirable outlet for the "44" and "Adlon" brands.

With the Travellers

Frank Niles, of the widely known Kansas City jobbing house of Niles and Moser, greeted a number of his friends in the East recently, prior to his departure for Europe on a vacation. Mr. Niles was accompanied by Mrs. Niles.

W. L. Porter, well-known to the cigar trade as the Chicago representative of the E. H. Gato Cigar Company, has purchased an interest in the Havana-Tampa Company, successors to Gonzales, Fisher & Co. Mr. Porter will continue to look after the selling end in which he is regarded as past master.

William Olsen, representative of the Scotten Tobacco Company, in Michigan, has been reappointed to cover the same territory for the reorganized firm, the McHie-Scotten Tobacco Company.

W. G. Collins, who acts as the Indiana representative of the Best & Russell Co., has invented a counter holder for cigars packed in cans. Each device holds three cans perfectly straight, all of which are opened by a single push. It is a very ingenious affair.

Dan Lamont, formerly of E. A. Kline & Co., Cleveland, has joined the selling forces of the S. R. Moss Co. and will represent them in Chicago and the Middle West.

Cleveland Retailers and Factories Busy

CLEVELAND, OHIO, March 13.

THE breaking-up of the cold spell in this city marks a decided change in the retail business here, and the retailers all seem to welcome the glad springtime again. M. Glucksman, Fred G. Gollmar Co., Louis Stieglitz, George Bassett, Polster Cigar Company, Archie Holwitz, Henry Mandelbaum, Nate Seidman and several of the other down-town retailers all report a steady increase in business.

James B. Shields, of the Shields-Wertheim Company, has just returned from a four weeks' slam around the territory looking over things in general and reports business exceptionally good. Mr. Shields states the factory has been over-sold since November 1st, but that they are giving everyone a little goods to keep them satisfied. J. C. Leverance has just returned from an eight weeks' trip in the West and reports business on "La Saramita's" and little "Sara's" very heavy. Bert Smith, their Indiana man, is very jubilant over the outlook for his State this year. Fred P. Shields, looking after the eastern territory, is grabbing off the big end as usual. Sig. Stein, northwestern representative, reports a record-breaking business. Louie B. Shields, the grand old man, is still picking off the big ones now and then. M. E. Loeb seems perfectly satisfied with conditions in his territory; and in fact, everyone connected with this aggressive concern are more than pleased with the outlook for this year. A. C. Wertheim, the factory man, carries a smile that won't come off, owing to the fact that he likes to be rushed with orders.

Joe Levy has been appointed manager of R. & W. Jenkinson's store in the Williamson Building, and has moved in with an entire new crew. It certainly seems natural to see Joe on the job, as he originally opened this stand.

E. A. Klein & Co.'s "Rigoletto" factory is rushed as usual, and reports business at a steady increase.

M. E. HOLLANDER.

New Bill To Solve Free Smoker Riddle

Florida Congressman Wants 5% of Each Factory's Production Untaxed

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 10th.

IN an effort to solve the "Free Smoker" controversy which has been exercising the cigar manufacturing trade for some months, Representative Sparkman, of Florida, voicing the sentiments of some of the manufacturers in Tampa, Key West and Jacksonville, has introduced a bill in Congress.

The measure provides that the manufacturers need not pack nor pay tax on 5 per cent. of the total number of cigars produced by them, the quantity thus exempted by them being allotted for the personal use of the manufacturer and his employees and under no circumstances must be offered for sale or profit.

New Machine for American Tobacco Co.

WH. TOLHURST, Pittsfield, Mass., recently perfected for the American Tobacco Company a machine which probably will play a very important part in the manufacture of tobacco. By means of this machine it is possible to save every particle of the product. The development of the machine has been in progress for years.

The new machine, which was developed at the Tolhurst machine shop, in Troy, N. Y., will be manufactured there and to make it possible it will be necessary to construct a sizable addition to the plant.

New Los Angeles Jobbing House

ANOTHER cigar jobbing house has been established in Los Angeles, Cal. The California Drug and Chemical Co. have entered that field. They are pushing as their leader the "Lord Essex," manufactured by J. Rourk, of that city, who has been making cigars for thirty years.

Purchase Old Manila House

THE Alejandria Cigar factory, in Manila, (Philippine Islands), has been purchased by Ehrman Bros. & Co., of San Francisco, who will continue to manufacture the brands of "La Flor de Luzon" and "La Alejandria." The factory was established seventy-five years ago, and is probably the oldest in the Philippine Islands.

Goodman-Kinstler Co. Add New Line

GOODMAN-KINSTLER CO., INC., of Los Angeles, Cal., have added to their many lines of successful brands, the product of "44" Factory, Philadelphia. With the assistance of Mr. Meyers, the factory representative, the Goodman-Kinstler Co. will begin placing the famous "44" cigars with the trade the middle of this month.

Will Handle "Fox Club" Cigarettes

WJ. PIXLEY, of San Francisco, has taken the Coast agency of the Simmons Tobacco Company, who make a fine line of Turkish cigarettes. Each box of "Fox Club," the 25c. line, contains a coupon, 100 of which entitle the bearer to a Simmons Safety Shaver, sterling silver, valued at $5.00. Each carton also contains eleven certificates for the retailer, 200 of them being required to procure the shaver.

PROBLEMS of the RETAILER

Feature One Brand at a Time in Your Window

AN important fact which must be borne in mind by the cigar dealer, is, that his show window is his biggest advertisement in the immediate vicinity of his store, and that a dirty, ill-dressed window will do more toward letting the fellow-around-the-corner put his hand in your till, than to have a limited stock.

What devotee of the weed likes to pass a store and see a lot of accumulated dirt from the window mixed in the box of his favorite cigars, for how does he know but should he make a casual visit to the store that he would not be offered one from the very box which is being displayed.

Authorities on window decoration agree, that for limited space it is much better to have the window trimmed with one article, or one line of goods, which necessarily must be in attractive condition, than to have a window show several lines of goods. If the passer-by sees a number of different cigars, the display is likely to fail in impressing his mind, but if one brand is occupying the vantage point, he naturally sees but this, and noting an attractive display, remembers it and also mentally classifies the store as a live one. Then, too, by featuring one brand of goods at a time, the retailer is allowed a greater number of changes. No matter how attractive a display may be, it is not advisable to let it occupy the place of honor for too long a time.

There is scarcely a cigar of any reputation that the makers will not provide a certain amount of display cards or pyramids for window use, and often, if the dealer is barren of ideas, the factory salesman, if requested, would suggest ways and means that would prove beneficial to a customer.

If the store is not of sufficient size to take the required amount from the stock, use a brand of cigarettes for filling some empty space and the many attractive colors in which this class of goods are marketed will add enough color to relieve a one-color effect.

The large placards which the greater majority of cigarette and smoking tobacco manufacturers now distribute, will prove an attractive background or side facing.

By placing ammonia in the water in which the window is washed and by a few applications of a chamois saturated with alcohol, in frosty weather, the window can be kept bright and attractive looking, so see to it that the goods inside the glass are kept clean and fresh looking, remembering not to crowd.

Don't Overpraise Your Cigars

CLERKS in retail cigar stores oftentimes display a tendency to overpraise a certain line of goods to such an extent as to shake the confidence of the customer.

While we know that there are plenty of genuine bargain sales, when for special reasons, standard goods are sold at a reduction, it is an unchangeable law, that we usually get just about what we pay for. The cigar clerk who asserts boldly that his five-cent Havana second is the best he has in the store, which had a reputation for handling high grade cigars, creates a doubt in the mind of the customer who is trying the cheaper brand as an experiment.

Every cigar smoker knows that he cannot buy as good an imported, domestic or Havana cigar for a nickel as he can for a dime, and the over-zealousness of the clerk in over-praising this brand will cause dissatisfaction with a brand that won a satisfied customer, who realizes the relation of price and quality.

The movement inaugurated by President Taft to unify the commercial interests of the whole country under the head of one central organization, representative of various local, commercial and industrial associations, is one that should receive unanimous support from the tobacco interests of the country. So important does the President consider this movement, that he embodied the suggestion in his message on foreign relations recently submitted to Congress. Acting under the present instructions, the Secretary of Commerce and Labor has sent out a call for delegates from the local commercial organizations to attend a conference at Washington on April 15th for the purpose of outlining the principles by which a national trade body can be organized and governed.

The tobacco industry is nominally organized on a national scope and there are several associations which would be qualified to send delegates to the Washington conference. Industries of the size and importance of the cigar and tobacco trades, should have a voice in the movement whether it be directly through their own organizations or through local Chambers of Commerce of which they are members.

As President Taft pointed out, a central organization such as is proposed, would be instrumental in assisting the executive and legislative branches of the Government in the intelligent and impartial development of domestic and foreign trade. It could advise also in regard to proposed new legislation and counsel the executives in regard to bills affecting the commercial stability of the country. Such an organization would also be potent in developing new fields for our manufacturers at home and abroad and form the focal point for the rallying of the commercial interests of the country in maintaining our supremacy in trade matters:

Obituary

ABRAHAM OPPENHEIMER

Death of Abraham Oppenheimer

ABRAMHAM OPPENHEIMER, widely known member of the Philadelphia cigar manufacturing firm of Sulzberger & Oppenheimer, Ltd., died on the morning of March 6th, at his residence, 2225 N. Broad street, this city. Mr. Oppenheimer was stricken last September with Bright's disease. He gradually improved until about a month ago when a nervous attack followed which resulted in his death. The funeral was held March 10th, at 10 A. M. He is survived by a widow, Mrs. Mary Oppenheimer.

Mr. Oppenheimer was considered one of the best judges of leaf tobacco in the country. He had traveled extensively for the firm, and by his winning, unassuming personality had made a host of friends from coast to coast. Telegrams and letters of sympathy have been coming to his widow and business associates from many parts of the country, evidencing the high esteem in which he was held.

He was born near Heidelberg, Germany, on October 24th, 1847. At the age of eighteen he came to the United States, going to the West. In 1876 he came to Philadelphia, and up to the time of his death had been actively engaged in the tobacco business here. He started business in the building occupied by Adam Theobald, at the N. E. corner of 7th street and Girard avenue. Two years later the partnership of Theobald & Oppenheimer was formed, the factory being at 111 N. 3rd street. This firm was very successful from its inception and the partnership continued until January 5th, 1896, when Mr. Theobald retired.

Mr. Oppenheimer then took into the firm George E. Spatz, and on January 1st, 1899, Mr. Spatz and several associates bought out his interest. He then went into business with Mr. Sulzberger, and opened a factory at Broad and Noble streets. They later moved to Broad and Wallace streets. Several years ago they bought their present property, at the S. E. corner of Mervine street and Montgomery avenue, from Mang & Wiener, who had erected the building for a cigar factory.

The firm is a limited partnership. Mr. Sulzberger stated that he would continue the business.

Samuel Kaufmann

SAMUEL KAUFMANN, the well-known member of the lithograph firm of Kaufmann, Pasbach & Voice, died at his home in New York City on the night of March 4.

While on a business trip through Pennsylvania about six weeks ago, he was stricken with apoplexy. He rallied and was removed to his home, but soon became worse. He is survived by a widow and two sons, one of whom is connected with the firm.

Mr. Kaufmann was born in Germany sixty-one years ago. He came to this country in his boyhood and took up his residence in the South. He soon entered the lithographing business and has been actively interested up to the day he became ill. He has been associated with several firms before organizing the firm of Kaufmann, Pasbach & Voice, which started business early in 1911. Mr. Kaufmann had made a specialty of printing labels and bands for the cigar and tobacco industry, which brought him in close touch with members of the trade all over the country. He will be sincerely mourned by his business associates and a host of friends.

H. H. Austin Dead

HARRISON HENRY AUSTIN, one of the largest tobacco growers in Connecticut, died at his home in Suffolk, on March 3rd, of pneumonia. He was seventy-one years old. Mr. Austin was an organizer and charter member of the New England Tobacco Growers' Association. It is said that he was one of a committee which drew up the tobacco clause in the Dingley tariff bill.

Charles L. Fritscher, who took out permit No. 1 as a cigar manufacturer in Omaha, Neb., in 1867, died there several weeks ago. Latterly, and up to the time of his death, he was on the selling staff of Liggett & Myers Tobacco Company, of St. Louis, and was well-known among cigar and tobacco men.

Charles Frederick Rivior, a Brooklyn cigar manufacturer, died recently of pneumonia. He was fifty-eight years of age.

Isaac Weil, a retail Boston cigar and tobacco jobber, died in New York City on March 1. He was associated with the Boston trade for about fifty years.

Clarence Short, member of the firm of Zapp & Short, wholesale and retail dealers in cigars, died in Louisville recently of a hemorrhage, resulting from an operation for cancer of the tongue.

Asa R. Burgess, a retired wholesale tobacco dealer of Maysville, Ky., died from a hemorrhage of the brain on February 29, at the home of his daughter, Mrs. F. Stanley Watson, 519 Garfield avenue, Kansas City, Mo.

Thomas P. Hamm, president of the Alabama-Sumatra and Havana Tobacco Company, died at his residence in Chicago, on February 29. Mr. Hamm owned large tobacco farms in Alabama.

Retail Briefs

The Men That Blaze the Trail

Frank Foster, of Sioux City, Iowa, formerly with Geo. M. Conway Company, retail store, has opened a cigar and news stand at 308 Nebraska street.

The B. W. Zeigler tobacco store, on East Main street, Van Wert, O., formerly the Comer Smoke House, was wrecked by fire and water recently.

After breaking the plate glass in the front door of a store at 1322 West Eleventh street, Kansas City, on February 20th, a thief risked his life by crawling through the jagged opening he had made. About 1500 cigars, valued at $80 were taken.

A cigar stand is being installed in the Churchhill House, Peoria, Illinois.

Humber & Nolan, the Louisville firm, will open a new cigar stand in the Henry Watterson Hotel, on April 15.

The United News Co., of Philadelphia has removed from Thirteenth and Filbert streets to 921-923 Filbert street.

Bauer Hess, of San Francisco, one of the well-known cigar men of the Far West, has bought the store of Kasser Bros. Mr. Hess will be remembered as a salesman.

A new stand will be opened on May 1st, in the Palmer House, Paducah, Ky., by Humber & Nolan. This will make the eleventh of a chain of retail stores in the South, controlled by this firm.

Park & Tilford, of New York City, have leased a property at Broadway and 112th street, and will open a branch store there next October.

One of the up-to-date cigar stands of West Virginia is that of Cohen & Baker, located in the Hotel Maltz, Bluefield.

H. Larsen has opened a store at Arlington, Ia.

The cigar store owned by L. H. Damm, of Bennett, Ia., has been sold to Henry Dettmann, of that place.

Austin Ake will engage in the cigar business at Holdredge, Neb.

George Davis has sold his cigar store at Norfolk, Neb., to Frank Flynn.

John F. Jones, of Wilmington, Del., who has two retail cigar stores in that city, has bought another store at Sixth and Market streets.

Otto Krahn, of Leo Abraham & Co., Milwaukee, will open a retail store at 1227½ Walnut street, that city, about March 15.

The Pyle & Allen Co., of Cleveland, O., has opened another retail store at the corner of Chestnut and East Ninth streets, that city.

R. Luddington has purchased the cigar business of M. C. Shirley, Kearney, Neb.

V. E. Benstead recently bought the cigar store of A. F. Coombs, Watts, Cal.

A new United Cigar Store stand has been opened at Grandby and Plume streets, Norfolk, Va.

Eugene Labeau has purchased the cigar store of John W. Stone, located at 338a Lincoln street, Marlboro, Mass.

The Marcuse Tobacco Company, Sacramento, Cal., which has been in business since 1852, has sold out on February 21st to H. A. Niemeyer. J. H. Marcuse will enter the real estate business.

Barrett Cigar Company, Chicago, Ill., has been incorporated with a capital of $2500, to manufacture cigars and smokers' articles. Incorporators: Oscar Knittel, Anna O'Donnell, Morris O. Leonard.

Thomas J. Bannigan, New England sales manager of George L. Storm & Co., of New York, has purchased the Bradley cigar store at No. 436 Asylum street, Hartford, Conn.

L. E. Higgins, who for the last six years has had charge of the cigar stand at the Paxton Hotel, New Bedford, Mass., has resigned to accept the position of manager of the new Mantell cigar store at 1808 Farnam street, that city.

The Twin City Cider & Cigar Co., St. Paul, Minn., filed a notice on February 26th, with Julius Schmahl, secretary of state, that at a meeting of the directors it had been decided to dissolve the corporation.

W. A. Hamel, of West Haven, Conn., bought the business of J. B. Ganvin, which he will continue as a first-class cigar, tobacco and confectionery store.

Thomas B. Taylor, of Dunmore, near Scranton, Pa., has opened an up-to-date cigar store and pool room at 403 Chestnut street. Mr. Taylor is one of Dunmore's most popular young men and his many friends wish him success in his new business venture.

The Martin Brothers Cigar Company has purchased the L. H. Martin retail cigar store at East Fourth and Sycamore streets, Waterloo, Iowa.

Arrangements were completed recently, whereby the wholesale and retail cigar and tobacco business established by J. P. Olsen in 1860, and continued by him ever since, became the property of G. M. Hoff, of Huron, Mich. Mr. Hoff will have an associate, C. M. Eckles, who has been connected with the Sauer cigar factory for many years and who is considered one of the best cigar makers in the country. The firm name will be Hoff & Eckles.

Mrs. Rosa Dazwirn, of Luzerne street and Hyde Park avenue, Scranton, Pa., is having a cigar stand erected.

A new cigar store has been opened in New York City on Eighteenth street, just off Broadway, by H. B. Sladon, a well known retailer.

L. A. Dusterhoff, of Redwood Falls, Minn., has opened a cigar store at that place.

The Weidmann cigar store of Echo, Minn., has been purchased by Will Borning of that town.

Al Bruder, of Bruder Bros., cigarist at Superior, Wis., has accepted the management of the cigar stand in the Hotel Superior, in that city.

United Gets New Stand in Milwaukee

MILWAUKEE, March 11th.

THE United Cigar Stores Company have at last succeeded in obtaining possession of one of the oldest stands in this city. Pollak-Crombie Company who some time ago took over the store at 83 Wisconsin street, which had been operated by Léo Abraham for many years, have disposed of their lease to the United Company, who moved their store from 91 Wisconsin street, to the better location. This gives them not only one of the best stands on the east side, but also reduces the number of stores in that block, and lessens competition. The main business district on the east side of the river has only four stores of consequence now.

Ron-Fernandez Co. Give Good Report

RON-FERNANDEZ Cigar Manufacturing Company, of Duluth, Minn., is meeting with an increased demand for its lines. Greater activity, it avers, is showing through all sections of that State.

M. Simon & Co. Report

MSIMON & CO., of Duluth, Minn., report a nice gain in cigar lines during the past few days. Salesmen advise dealers to show greater inclination to place orders, and they are coming to hand more satisfactorily both in size and number.

20,000 Cigars Seized

J. W. McGinnis, special United States internal revenue agent, has confiscated 20,000 cigars in the M. McGuirk cigar factory, 314 1st avenue, Minneapolis, Minn. The cigars will be destroyed. A deputy state fire marshal claimed the cigars had been damaged by fire.

Cigar Trade in San Francisco Quiet

Crops threatened by lack of rain—New Bercovich store opened—Cigar men optimistic

SAN FRANCISCO, March 5th.

THE local cigar trade has not picked up as rapidly as many of the dealers had anticipated, partly owing to the fact that many allowed their expectations to be aroused to too high a pitch by Exposition prospects, and partly to the general quietness which seems to prevail throughout the nation. Some betterment is still noted, however, and the country trade is holding up extremely well. The only uncertainty now is caused by lack of rain, which seriously threatens to ruin the year's crops. Practically no rain fell in February, and should the drought prevail much longer all lines of business would suffer heavily. The cigar men are still optimistic, however, and all the selling and publicity campaigns which have been started on various lines of goods are kept up with unabated vigor. Numerous new retail stands, also, are being opened, and improvements are being made in a good many of the older places.

The new Bercovich cigar store in the Central Bank Building, at Broadway and Fourteenth streets, Oakland, will be a decided innovation and something entirely different from anything on the Coast. It is designed in imitation of the rear of a Pullman car, the illusion being carried out even in the exterior, the roof and doorway being made to resemble a car entrance. The display windows, though only of moderate size, are being tastefully fitted up, and the interior will be equipped in the most modern manner.

Preston Herbert, of M. A. Gunst & Co., Inc., returned last week from his Northern trip, and Milton Esberg, of the same firm, returned from a visit to Los Angeles to attend a general conference of the California travelling men, at which the lines of work to be followed during the spring were laid out. This house is now following out a well-considered policy, which is expected to result in a rapid growth of its business on the Coast.

E. M. Elam, head of the E. M. Elam Company, of this city, American representatives of several Manila factories, returned late last month from an extended trip to the Philippines. He announces that his company will continue to represent the "La Giralda" line, for which it has established a large market, and has also added the agencies for the La Badenia factory and the "Athena" brand of the La Minerva factory. Arrangements have been made for large shipments from all these factories, and Mr. Elam will soon be in a position to fill all orders. A few days after his return from the Orient, Mr. Elam left for the North Coast cities, with the intention of proceeding East to make arrangements for the handling of his new lines in other parts of the country.

Sol Arkush, Coast representative of the Luis Martinez line, who has been at Santa Monica, Cal., for some time, came up to San Francisco last week.

All the local agents for Manila lines have found difficulty in filling orders for the last month, but it is believed that the shortage is about at an end. The Edw. Wolf Company received a large shipment about a week ago, but the goods were shipped out immediately. Another lot came in March 2, and still another will arrive about the end of this week, which should give this house a fair stock ahead of orders.

M. Falkenstein, secretary of S. Bachman & Co., who has been visiting Eastern manufacturers for the last month, has just returned.

Doc Hoffman, of the Hoffman-Moore Company, returned a few days ago from a tour of Southern California. William Bercovich, distributor of the "Luis Martinez" and "New Bachelor" cigars, has also returned from a Southern trip.

Major Burrows, Pacific Coast representative of the "Lovera" line, is making an unusually good record this year, his local work being strongly supported by Wellman, Peck & Co., distributors, and many of their friends in the retail trade, who have engaged the services of the Black-Crane Company, cigar window specialists, to put in "Lovera" displays. One of these displays was installed last week in the store of I. H. Dahlman, on Montgomery street, and another is shown at the stand recently opened by Edw. Goodman, at Pine and Market streets. Wellman, Peck & Co. are featuring a new size of the "Lovera," called "Manhattan," which has met with considerable favor.

C. W. McCormick, representing Y. Pendas & Alvarez, is visiting the San Francisco trade.

Emil Judell, of H. L. Judell & Co., is spending most of his time on the road. Returning from Nevada the first of last week, he left immediately for the Oregon line.

Ed. Marshall, traveling for the "El Wadora" cigar, was in the city a few days ago.

Max Silverthau, representing Porto Rico lines, is now in the Northwest, after a short stop in San Francisco.

W. I. Pixley, representing the Frishmuth and Dill smoking tobaccos, and the Gordon cheroots, has added the Simmons line of pipes. He reports a rapid gain in the Dill tobacco business for the last month. G. T. Byrne, who is traveling for Mr. Pixley, is starting on an extended trip through the North.

Glaser Bros., the Montgomery street jobbers and retailers, have made many changes in their store of late, rearranging the departments and remodeling the entrance.

Sig. Siebel, the popular cigar man of Portland, Ore., called on his friends in San Francisco a few days ago.

G. W. Whitaker, head of the John Bollman Company, the large local cigarette manufacturers, is expected back from a trip to Honolulu about the end of the week.

S. Myerson, who recently opened a stand on Montgomery street, between Pine and California, has sold out to G. Vitach, who also has a stand at Montgomery and Sacramento streets.

C. W. Gregory and Robert Bochn have started a new cigar factory at Redwood City, Cal., under the name of the Havana Manufacturing Company.

Louis Erdt, representing Melachrino cigarettes, is back at his San Francisco headquarters after a trip through the South. Another cigarette man recently here was Alex. Herbert, vice-president of Philip Morris & Co.

Marc Brummer, representing E. Regensburg & Sons, has been in Los Angeles for the last day or two, having spent the early part of the week in San Francisco.

L. Stark, a cigar manufacturer of New York, made a short visit to the local trade last week.

Americans Buy Heavily at Amsterdam

AT the first Inscription for 1912, held at Amsterdam, March 8th, exactly 15,635 bales of Sumatra were sold with the American buyers capturing some 2,700 bales. The first offerings were regarded as ideal for the American market, being light in color and quality. Eagerness to obtain these goods resulted in spirited bidding and high prices.

Among the heavy purchasers were: H. Duys & Co., 1,000 bales; A. Cohn & Co., 450 bales; Hinsdale, Smith & Co., 200 bales; E. Rosenwald & Bro., 650 bales; Joseph Hirsch & Son, 45. Other buyers included, Otto Eisenlohr & Bro., Charles J. Waxelbaum & Co., G. Falk & Bro., and S. Rossin & Sons.

Springfield Boosts Home Brands

MUCH enthusiasm was created recently among the tobacco smokers of Springfield, Mo., by the publicity campaign of the cigar manufacturers of that city. They claimed that were the retailers to advertise more widely the cigars made in that city, the product of the eight factories located there would be doubled. A large increase in business is expected as a result of the campaign.

Tobacco Realty Company Formed

THREE Louisville capitalists, Samuel Culbertson, Baylor Hickman and Henning Chambers, have organized the Tobacco Realty Company for the purpose of buying and selling tobacco on the auction breaks. The company will erect a large warehouse in the tobacco district.

Manufacturer Clashes With Officials

ON a complaint sworn to by Bert M. Thomas, internal revenue agent, Harry Adams, an Oakland, Cal., cigar manufacturer, was recently brought before United States Commissioner Krull. Adams is accused of having violated the internal revenue laws. His defense was that he had transferred the business to his son and was no longer acquainted with its details. When the defendant signified a willingness to compromise the case was taken under advisement.

Tobacco Exhibit Yields Good Returns

AS a result of its exhibit at the Kansas City, Mo., land show the Alabama Sumatra and Havana Tobacco Company has opened permanent offices in the Waldheim building, that city, where Mr. Hook, special representative will be stationed to look after business coming directly and indirectly on account of their exhibit. One sale of 500 acres of their tobacco land has been negotiated since the show.

Here's Detroit—That Hustling City by the Lake

Slightly Less Activity than Usually Noted—What the Big Factors are Doing and Intend to Do

DETROIT, March 9th.

EARLY March business shows more favorably than February, although general reports indicate somewhat less activity than that to which Detroit manufacturers have accustomed themselves. Tariff agitation and political turmoil are disturbing factors. The threatened removal of all duties on refined sugar, recommended by Congress, is a serious menace to the beet sugar industry; and sugar beets constitute Michigan's largest and most valuable agricultural asset. The effect on industrials can be noted, for instance, in the stock of the Michigan Sugar Co., which within sixty days dropped from $108 to $85 per share. If the bill becomes a law it will be a blow to the raisers of sugar beets, that will surely have a depressing effect on trade throughout all the lower peninsula.

The vicious conflict between the Roosevelt forces, led by Gov. Osborn, and Taft cohort, creates uneasiness too. The struggle is staged at present before the legislature, where it is waxing close and bitter. It's the warmest thing we've had this winter.

The February sale of stamps at the local office of internal revenue is $64,268.87 for cigars, and $164,418.70 for tobacco, as against $63,642.12, and $156,147.70 for the corresponding month of 1911.

It is safe to predict that operations at the McHie-Scotten Tobacco Co., together with the increasing sales of the Scotten-Dillon Co., and others, will materially increase future revenue returns.

Geo. E. McHie, of the McHie-Scotten Tobacco Co., has been out of the city this week. New boiler and equipment is being installed at the plant and preparations being made to care for a greatly enlarged business.

Efforts to gather information at the Revenue Office relative to certain manufacturers of stogies and cheap cigars, located here, who were suspected of collusion with a gang of box-stuffers, developed nothing beyond the fact that one manufacturer, whom the Treasury Department officials apprehended, has admitted his guilt and is endeavoring to compromise with the Government. The identity of the party is not disclosed. Under a recent order of the Treasury Department to its officials, they are forbidden to disclose any information regarding matters under investigation or parties before the bureau under suspicion. It would seem that the order goes to unnecessary extremes, for even when the department officials have progressed sufficiently with a case to pass it on to the Department of Justice, they are still denied the privilege of disclosing to the press or the public any information.

A pretty good scheme was worked by United Cigar Stores Co., taking advantage of the extra day in February this year. The following card, bearing the signature of the chief clerk of the particular store from which it was issued, was received February 28th by the United's customers: "Dear Sir:—On the last day of this month, February 29th, which is an extra day in the year, you are going to have an opportunity to smoke on my landlord, as my rent is free on that day, and I am going to give my customers the benefit of this day's rent."

"Please drop in and see me and inquire about the BOX OF 10 CIGARS that I want to give you on this day. Keep this in mind and SMOKE ON THE LANDLORD on February 29, 1912."

Speaking of retail business, Tommy Burns, of the Berghoff Cafe, is getting real sassy. Not satisfied with beating last year's January's sales by over $100 this year, he arose from a sick bed toward the close of February and got busy on the phone and otherwise rounding up business. Result, he overreached February, 1911, by more than $1200. When Wm. D. C. Moris, proprietor of the Berghoff, returned recently from a month's trip to the South and Cuba the magnificent showing of the entire Berghoff business in every department proved a most agreeable surprise to him.

Jack Ablard's right arm is now free of splints and sling and "Jack" can lay 'em over with either hand. Beginning the first of April extensive alterations and improvements will be made in the ground floor front of Cafe Grande. Handsome new fixtures will be installed and double the present space will be accorded the cigar stand.

Bert Johnson is feverishly awaiting new fixtures from Detroit Show Case Co. for the McMillan & Co. store. They will be the right kind.

M. A. LaFond & Co. have made some changes in their Majestic store fixtures that give a greater security to stock and lighter appearance to store.

Geo. Sharpe, Michigan avenue, reports business humping along about as usual, which means pretty busy.

Art Klotz, a little above on the next block, same thing. Both are popular rendezvous, and carry good lines.

Between times, when Frank Smith isn't busy, he thinks out new styles of packings and shapes for the "Count Pontchartrain" cigars. His latest is a very effective Boite Nature, in 20ths, of the "Count Pontchartrain Squares."

Incident to the current week's offering of H. M. S. Pinafore at the Garrick, DeWolf Hopper seems to have visibly depleted the "Pontchartrains" supply of Villar y Villar's "Generals," 50c. straight. While professing no special interest in the Cuban Army, the comedian admits a high regard for this particular "General."

The Griswold House management are spending money again and when they get the lower floor and stairways fixed up right some handsome cigar cases will be put in by the Harry W. Watson Cigar Company, who own the privileges.

The handsome young lady with the cerulean eyes and raven hair who helped make things pleasant for many months at Hotel Charlevoix, is now assisting Miss Blooie at Hotel Oxford stand. Her name is Frances Gramme.

Art. Gram, well known through his former connection with O'Brien & Company, is about to open a retail cigar store in the block at Canfield and Woodward avenues, recently erected by Oscar Rosenberger, president of The San Telmo Cigar Manufacturing Company. The fixtures will be installed by Doemling Bros., of this city.

It will be of interest to learn of a new all Havana cigar, the "Cataline," to be launched by Detroit Cigar Manufacturing Company, about May 1st. The company have been spending much effort and thought on this new proposition. It will appear in five sizes, selling to the trade from $65 to $90. The Calvert Litho. Company are now occupied with the labels, which will be handsome and artistic, in keeping with the merits of the cigar.

A new connection with the Detroit Cigar Manufacturing Company is Chas. Teugler, who joined its staff February 15th, traveling west and northwest from his home in St. Paul.

J. E. Graham, 352 Twenty-third street, has, in a very short period, worked up a tidy manufacturing business. His ten-cent brand, "La Lunda," is in good demand. It is made only in Club House, Londres and Panatela shapes. His leading nickel brands, "Government Union Bond," "San Alto" and "Graham's Gems" have such a sale that he is already contemplating the necessity of removing to larger quarters.

Frank J. Clough and Wm. Freigh, of Compeer Cigar Company force, were working in Detroit the past few weeks, boosting "Plantista" cigars. Mr. Clough leaves in a few days for St. Paul and Minneapolis, where he will continue operations.

Frank H. Forrest, in company with L. H. Stradley, sales manager of Harry W. Watson Cigar Company, have been promoting local sales of "Chas. VIII," the clear Havana cigar of the Surety Cigar Company.

Wm. F. Armstrong, cigar manager of Sprague, Warner & Company, Chicago, stopped on the way to New York this week to visit the Surety Cigar Company and other factories here.

Some recent travelers this way are: Frank J. Horning, J. Anton Boek & Co.; Mortimer Hammer, Garcia, Vega & Co.; Victor Thorsch, T. J. Dunn & Co.; W. H. Orr, Luckett, Luchs & Lipscomb; Willis Andrus, F. Garcia & Bro.; Sidney Cahen, Regensberg & Co.; Alb. Caliseh, Cortez Cigar Co.; S. G. Brown, S. G. Brown & Sons; Alphonse Kaufmann, A. Kaufmann & Co.; Harry Weller, Geo. W. Nichols & Co.; Rich. Davis, Robt. E. Lane; H. Hilbroner, Hilbroner & Jacobs; S. W. Turner, Puerto Rico Commercial Co., New York and Cagueas; Herbert S. Baer, Mi Lola Cigar Co., Milwaukee, and J. Bash. The latter just finished a five weeks' trip to Detroit and Michigan in behalf of Josephson Bros., New York City.

Other representatives were Otto Sartorius, Jr., of New York, and his younger brother, G. V. Sartorius, from Chicago, both of Sartorius & Co., New York City; Howard Kinney, Duys & Co.; Harry Mendelsohn, Mendelsohn, Borneman & Co., New York City; Wm. Herschel, L. Schmidt & Co., New York City; Emil Auerbach, Sunnybrook Tobacco Co., New York City and Dade City, Fla.; William Van Baalen, Ernest Ellinger & Co.; Jos. Zeimer, Hoffman Leaf Tob. Co., Marietta, Pa.

Also A. G. Wiedman, of the Acme Veneer & Lumber Co., Dexter, Mo.; Mr. Fredericks, of Jerome H. Shippe, Mobile, Ala., and Phila.; Henry H. Sheip, of H. H. Sheip Mfg. Co., Phila.

S. F. HEAVENRICH.

Jacob Miller, a Peorian, who has a number of cigar stands in the hotels of that city, has opened one in the lobby of the New Churchill House, Canton, Ill.

Benjamin D. Schoen, Springfield, Mo., sold his pool room, tobacco and candy shop at 232 East Commercial street to Henry W. Geister for $1000 on February 21st.

Dave Griffith has purchased of Charles Shilling the "Slave" cigar store on Fourth street, Logansport, Ind. The cigar factory in connection with the store will continue to be operated by Shilling.

Key West Manufacturers Optimistic

Although Improvement has been slight, a good increase is expected—Number of Cigarmakers not employed

KEY WEST, FLA., Mar. 9.

WHILE it cannot be said that there has been any improvement in the cigar situation during the past two weeks, still there has been no depreciation, for which the manufacturers are grateful. A personal canvass of the factories shows all of the manufacturers in an optimistic frame of mind and fully anticipating a good increase within a very short space of time.

They are all of the opinion that the year 1912 will not fall short of 1911 in the output. They say that all of the factories will have to put on an additional spur for the remainder of the year when trade picks up, but they are confident that this will be another good year. Added to this optimistic feeling is the continuous reports of an excellent crop of tobacco in Cuba. It is estimated that this will be one of the best years in the history of the country and that all sections will have bumper crops.

As several of the cigarmakers have been out of work for some time, they and their families have been put to some hardship, owing to the stopping of their incomes. There has been no real suffering here, however, for the reason that those cigarmakers who have been at work have been contributing to the support of those who were less fortunate. Then there have been entertainments and other forms of amusement provided with which to raise funds to supply the wants of the cigarmakers who are out of work.

Some of the factories anticipate an increase in the very near future and in fact have been assured of this by their representatives in the different sections of the country. With this assurance they have increased their shipments of tobacco from Cuba, and the steamers arriving from Havana within the last few days have been carrying fairly heavy shipments for the manufacturers here.

Among the notable social events of the last two weeks was the wedding of Miss Hildah F. Roberts to Ernest F. Salis. Miss Roberts is the daughter of Claude H. Roberts, superintendent of the Cortez Cigar Co. The wedding was a most brilliant affair and was attended by hundreds of guests. The home was beautifully decorated for the occasion and many novel features were embraced in the decorations. After the wedding an elaborate buffet luncheon was served. This is the second wedding that has occurred in the family of Mr. Roberts within a few months, his daughter, Miss Margaret, having been married to Wm. H. MacIntosh, formerly of the Havana-American Co.

Mr. and Mrs. James Fort, father and mother of James H. Fort, foreman of the pickers and packers of the Cortez Cigar Co., will arrive here next week for a visit with their son. They will be accompanied by their daughter, Miss Arline Fort. Mr. Fort and his family are on their way to Europe, having spent the last year in California.

E. H. Gato, Jr., accompanied by his family, left for Havana this week. Mr. Gato will remain in Cuba for a month at least, attending to matters pertaining to the business of the company.

Luis Martinez, president of the Martinez-Havana Cigar Co., left for Cuba this week, after having spent several days here at the local factory. Mr. Martinez feels that the business will pick up in a very short time and he stated before leaving that he had had assurances to this effect from his Northern representatives.

Celestino Vega, of the manufacturing firm of Celestino Vega, spent a short time here during the week.

Among the prominent visitors this week was Barney Barron, of Barron Bros., cigar manufacturers, of Chicago. Mr. Barron was on his way to Cuba.

Gustav Gutfreund, a prominent cigar dealer, of Des Moines, Iowa, spent a few days here this week and visited several of the local factories.

Horace Linton, of the firm of Horace Linton & Bro., manufacturers of cigar ribbons, was among the trade visitors during the last week.

A Aurelio Torres, president of El Principe de Golfo Cigar Company, left this week for an extended trip through the South in the interests of his company. Mr. Torres will be away several weeks.

J. W. Allen, of the U. S. bonded warehouse, has returned to Key West, after spending some time in Washington, attending a conference of cigar manufacturers.

One of the new factories which has been making good is the Lowden Cigar Co., which has been established in the factory building formerly occupied by S. & F. Fleitas. Mr. D. C. Whiting is the principal owner of the stock, and his son Clinton L. Whiting is in the city, familiarizing himself with the local conditions.

H. E. Korn, formerly president of the Key West Cigar Factory, has severed his connection with that company and is devoting his whole time to the interests of the Waldorf-Astoria Cigar Co. The withdrawal of Mr. Korn has necessitated a reorganization of the company and E. M. Phillips has been elected president. Wm. R. Porter, of Key West, is vice-president and George Robinson is secretary. This is one of the firms which has been kept very busy continuously and at the present time they have plenty of orders on hand with bright prospects for a gradual increase.

News from the Milwaukee Stores

Activity Reported in all Lines—Mi Lola Cigar Co. Purchase Bankrupt Great North Cigar Co.

MILWAUKEE, March 11.

THE Cuba Rica Cigar Store continues to hold its own under the able management of Steve Surman. "Tassos" are being featured in the window display, and the cigar seems to be meeting with much favor.

Fay Lewis & Bro. Co. report an active trade on all lines, especially the "Harvester," which is moving better right along. The wholesale department is also enjoying a good business as well as the pipe department.

Leo Abraham is doing nicely at his four retail stores. Chapman, head clerk at Third street, has been very ill for two months with typhoid fever.

Earl Devor has again accepted a position at the Third street store, where he was employed before going to Pollak-Crombie's store. The "Don Corella," Abraham's new cigar, is certainly proving a winner, sales becoming larger right along.

Crombie, the Chamber of Commerce cigarist, continues busy, and since the firm of Pollak-Crombie have retired, he is enjoying more business than ever, as the firm carried several brands not to be had elsewhere which he now handles.

A large number of cigars will be sold within the next month, as wagers of same are being made every day on the outcome of our next election. Many wagers of a box of cigars are already on record, and as the election proves to be one of almost national interest, there being a hot campaign to oust our Socialist administration, it may also affect outside trade to a considerable extent.

The Mi Lola Cigar Co. have purchased the holdings of the bankrupt Great North Cigar Co., who made the "Mi Flora," "Fillbuster" and "Concha" cigars. The Mi Lola Co. will continue to manufacture these brands, which were well known in this section, and for which there was a considerable demand.

The Great North factory has been transferred to 137-141 Sycamore street, the home of the "Mi Lola." Speaking of the "Mi Lola," this cigar is proving one of the best sellers in this section, and the factory is having trouble in supplying the demand. At the present rate of rapid growth of this factory, and the Harvester factory, Milwaukee will soon be among the leading cities in the cigarmaking industry. The Ascherman Cigar Co. is also enjoying a steady trade with their "Carl Marr" cigar and are adding more hands from time to time.

Since the A. C. Brenckle Co. discontinued their retail business and moved into their new factory they have also enjoyed an increased business, and are now shipping cigars all over the Northwest. These four, with several other smaller factories, are rapidly placing Milwaukee on the cigar map, and it is predicted that in a few more years this city will take its place among the leading cigar centers.

Allanson, the Plankinton Hotel cigarist, is enjoying his usual business, which, owing to his location, has always been very good. It now seems as if the new building to be erected for the hotel will be delayed, until 1913, as court delays over confirming the lease of the property to Mr. Somers have made it impossible for plans to be carried out.

Ralph Wettstein, the popular Grove street dealer, reports a nice business, and is making new friends in his section right along. Courteous treatment, and a good line of cigars win out, and Ralph is a very likeable person.

F. D. Murdock sold his cigar factory at Wautoma, Wis., to C. L. Christensen.

N. L. Carle has returned to Janesville after an extended trip through the South, which included a visit to Havana and other points on the island.

J. W. Lenekel has started a cigar factory at Farmington, Ia. O. A. KROMPAS.

E. H. Harter, of Petersburg, Ill., has sold his cigar factory to O. C. Thomas, of Jacksonville, that State, who has taken possession.

James M. O'Meara, of Kalamazoo, Mich., is moving his cigar factory to the second floor of the Kalamazoo Laundry Building, at 221 North Rose street. The building in which the plant has been situated has been used for the manufacturing of cigars for over 30 years.

The Cuban Market

From Our
Exclusive Bureau
Neptuno 24
Altoz
Havana, Cuba.

HAVANA, CUBA, March 9.

OUR leaf market has ruled considerably quieter during the past fortnight, due partly to the smaller number of visiting buyers, and to some extent the lesser stocks in our market, which are offering little inducement for buyers to come here. While it cannot be denied, that the selection of goods is smaller, there are enough vegas to be found yet in so-called factory styles, as well as of heavy quality goods, which deserve attention, particularly if the new crop should be lacking in heavy-bodied styles. In any event, the present holders are showing no anxiety to dispose of them, and feel confident that sooner or later there may come an active demand just for their particular holdings.

Sales during the past fortnight aggregated a total of 5142 bales, and which represented: Vuelta Abajo, 1880; Partido, 442, and Remedios, 2820 bales.

Buyers were: Americans, 3776; Exporters to South America, 761; to Australia, 125, and our local cigar and cigarette manufacturers, 480 bales.

Receipts of tobacco from the country:
For two weeks ending March 2nd, 1912. Since January 1st, 1912.

| | | |
|--------------|-------------------|-------------------|
| Vuelta Abajo | 776 bales | 2656 bales |
| Semi Vuelta | ... | 13 |
| Partido, | 6 | 91 |
| Remedios | 104 | 2062 |
| Mayari | 461 | 866 |
| Total | 1347 bales | 5688 bales |

Exports of leaf tobacco, from the port of Havana, during the fortnight, ending March 2nd, 1912, were:

|-----------------------------------|-------------------|
| To all ports of the United States | 7772 bales |
| To London | 15 |
| To Oran | 30 |

Decrease in Cigar Exports.

The statistical position of our market has not improved during the first half of February, in fact the official custom house figures show a further decrease of over half a million cigars during the first 15 days of February, as follows:

|---|------------------|
| From February 1st to February 15th, 1912, | 7,430,805 cigars |
| From February 1st to February 15th, 1911, | 7,974,288 " |
| Decrease in 1912, | 543,483 " |

|--|--------------------------|
| From January 1st to February 15th, 1912, | 18,829,185 " |
| From January 1st to February 15th, 1911, | 22,230,906 " |
| Decrease in 1912, | 3,401,721 cigars. |

The chief decreases by countries were: England, 1,048,099; Germany, 214,312; and Australia, 178,670 cigars; while the principal increases belong to the following countries: The United States, 642,122; Chile, 248,922, and Peru, 120,400 cigars.

While the figures for the second half of February have not been published yet, it is known, however, that at last there has been a slight increase again of about 300,000 cigars, and which if continued steadily in future would be a more favorable sign. However, as long as the present crop prospects indicate a better state of business for the future, our manufacturers might be willing enough to wait for such an improvement for the next 3 or 4 months to come, if only then they would be able to buy the necessary leaf upon lower terms, as for the last years hardly any factory could make any money, owing to the exorbitant high prices for their raw material.

H. Upmann & Co., as we have learned from a good and reliable source, have not reduced the forces of their cigarmakers since last Christmas, and which surely is a sign that the famous "H. Upmann" brand has lost nothing of its well-earned popularity, and is selling in as large quantities even during the dull season.

Romeo y Julieta is as flourishing as always, having increased the output of its cigars during the past year by over one million. Don Pepin, the senior partner of Rodriguez, Arguelles & Co., watches over this factory, as a father would take care of a beloved child, never sparing money, and giving his whole time to the future development of the same, even when he is away in Europe, travelling.

Paratagas is also one of our factories that has no time to complain about dull times, and is constantly well supplied with orders from all the principal markets of the world. Their European representative, Don G. A. Padró, left on March 4th, per steamship "Corcovado," for the post of his duty, London.

The owners of the well-known Sol factory, Behrens & Co., state that they are well satisfied with the amount of orders on hand.

Castañeda has increasing calls from the United States, England and South America.

Don Fernando Cardenas left on last Saturday, March 2nd, via Key West and Richmond, for New York, to make a friendly call upon the various principal customers all over the United States.

La Diligencia is marching along in a good, steady fashion, trying to increase the number of its customers by always giving them the same good quality of cigars.

F. Rodriguez & Co., owners of the long established and favorably known factory, Flor de P. A. Estanillo, report the same cheerful news, that the orders for their "Flor del Fumar" brand are in excess of what they have been looking for at this period of the year.

Henry Clay & Bock & Co., Ltd., are doing the same steady good business in their principal factories, which they have been enjoying for the last five months.

A Visit to the Eden Factory.

Mr. J. Lawton Kendrick, upon his last hurried visit upon the patrons of the "Tobacco World" in Havana, made a call, in company of the local representative, upon the owners of the Eden factory, Messrs. Calixto Lopez & Co., and both were affably received by Don Calixto Lopez (son of Don Manuel Lopez, the present senior representative), who, after a while, instructed their South American representative, Don Ramón Irijoa, to show them the factory in all its details. The latter is a three-story brick building, comprising a whole square, and was specially constructed as a model cigar factory, by the late Don Calixto Lopez, with all modern improvements, and a part of which he also used as residence of his family. Besides the cigar factory, the firm also operate a cigarette factory, which latter instead of giving coupons, or other nicknacks, has steadily given the purchaser full value in a superior class of tobacco, which mode of doing business has helped their sale in the long run.

Don Ramón Irijoa displayed a variety of fancy and costly packings of cigars, partly put up in boxes of his own invention, and patented, for the benefit of his South American customers, and which were indeed very interesting to inspect. He told us, that he had one customer that ordered steadily 80,000 cigars of one brand alone, costing over $200 per thousand, monthly, all the year round. The firm has their own tobacco plantations in the Vuelta Abajo, and expects to have an extra fine crop this year. Business is very satisfactory for the United States, England, and also for Germany, while the trade with South America is one of the specialties of Calixto Lopez & Co.

Buying and Selling and Other Notes.

Menendez & Co. have done a phenomenal business during the last fortnight, as they sold 6000 bales of their own packings to two of their customers. The first one was Don Benito Rovira, of the Benito Rovira Co., of New York, makers of good cigars, of the well and favorably known brands, "El Arabe" and "Flor de Benito Rovira," who purchased 1500 bales of Remedios and 500 Bales of Vuelta Abajo. As he had previously bought 2000 bales of leaf, last October and November, it makes the yearly consumption of this firm come up to 4000 bales per year. The second purchaser was Mr. W. E. Waterman, president of the Waitt & Bond Company, of Boston, who bought 4000 bales of first and second capaduras of Remedios.

Gonzales & Benitez sold 700 bales of leaf during the past fortnight.

Kaiser & Boasberg were large buyers in our open market, as through their commission merchants, Cardenas & Co., they acquired 1000 bales of the choicest vegas of Vuelta Abajo and Remedios in town, and which include about 500 bales of Vuelta Abajo, which Cardenas & Co., are using in their own factory "Castañeda."

José C. Puente was a seller of 490 bales of tobacco to his customers.

Diego Montero, who is the recognized buyer of an English syndicate, which according to a report, shall have been formed in Buenos Ayres and Montevideo to control the factories in the Argentine and Uruguayan Republics, was a buyer of 761 bales of leaf.

Sobrinos de A. Gonzalez disposed of 290 bales of all kinds of leaf during the last fortnight.

Alfred K. Ettlinger added some 680 bales of choice Vuelta Abajo to his previous purchases for their firm of E. Hoffman & Sons, of New York.

Rodriguez, Menendez & Co. closed out 200 bales from their stocks to one of their customers.

Lewis L. Cantor selected some 500 bales of choice vegas for his trade.

Herrera, Calmet & Co. turned over 200 bales of their fine Remedios tobacco.

Felix Eckerson was satisfied to purchase around 400 bales of leaf for the urgent needs of his customers, as under the given circumstances, he preferred to go rather slow, than to stock up heavily.

Isauro Cano was a seller of 200 bales of Vuelta Abajo. Leslie Pantin bought, besides the quantity that his customers in town acquired, 300 bales additional, for account of his patrons, by cable.

Suarez Hns. made several sales but they were kept private and could not be ascertained.

Harry Roberts was a buyer to the extent of a few hundred bales of leaf.

José F. Rocha sold 100 bales of Vuelta Abajo to a local factory.

Bernard Spector only needed to replace some special styles, and after having secured them, about 200 bales, he left for home again.

Camejo & La Paz closed out 100 bales of Vuelta Abajo during the past fortnight.

A. M. Calzada & Co. did a good commission business with some of their customers during the fortnight, but we are sorry to state, that owing to our changeable weather, Don Antonio has caught a severe cold, which temporarily may keep him home for a few days.

The Por Larranaga factory was awarded a gold medal at the exposition held in Camaguey last month for excellency of its cigars.

Principal shippers of tobacco from the port of Havana above 300 bales, were: Sylvester & Stern, 1449; I. Haffenburgh & Sons, 1247; J. Bernheim & Sons, 1057; Diego Montero, 761; Mark A. Pollack, 517; Leslie Pantin, 410; Rodriguez, Mendez & Co., 506; A. M. Calzada & Co., 366; H. Upmann & Co., 218, and Ernest Ellinger & Co., 306 bales.

Would Stop Export of Havana Seed

Cuban Packers and Growers Ask Government to Take Drastic Action

HAVANA, CUBA, March 9.

A well-attended and enthusiastic meeting of the leaf dealers, packers and growers' association at which President Don Manuel A. Suarez was in the chair, assisted by Don Angel Gonzales del Valle, secretary, a resolution was passed authorizing the president to request the Cuban Secretary of Agriculture to issue a decree prohibiting the exportation of Havana tobacco seed. This move was made in protection to the Cuban growers who look with concern upon the competition abroad.

A reduction in freight rates on fertilizers was also discussed.

The dues were changed as follows; the brokers' dues were reduced to $2.00 per month while foreign buyers were allowed to join the association at the rate of $12 per year, having no voice nor vote. Country delegates can join by paying one dollar per year and every ten delegates will have the privilege of naming a member to the Havana association.

THE POR LARRANAGA EXHIBIT

Gold Medal for "Por Larranaga" Cigars

THE management of the Por Larranaga factory, in Havana, were recipients of congratulations last month upon the award to them of a gold medal for the exhibit of their famous brand of cigars at the Camaguey exhibition, which was held in the city of Camaguey, Cuba, during January and February. Since occupying their commodious new factory in Havana recently, the Por Larranaga business has shown a most gratifying increase in all its branches.

Revival of Activities in Tampa Factories

Hundreds of Cigarmakers being taken on to meet demands for goods—
Business takes a spurt

TAMPA, FLA., March 11.

THOSE distressing reports which have gone forth from Tampa's cigar industry for the past two months will be heard no more this year. The returning activity, which marks the passing of the period of depression, prolonged to unusual duration from various causes, has put the manufacturers into cheerful frame of mind and this recovery of the customary optimism which characterizes the trade is inspired, also, by the gradually increasing orders which are coming to the local factories.

Shipments have steadily increased from barely 3,000,000 the first week in February to 5,200,000 the week ending Saturday. Withdrawals of tobacco for last week broke all records for any week in March. Hundreds of cigarmakers have been given employment in the past ten days. The lack of work which prevailed through a portion of January and practically all of February necessitated appeals to charitable organizations for the families of the idle men. These appeals have now ceased. The workmen have returned to the benches and conditions may be definitely pronounced normal.

There is at present no menace of labor trouble and it is believed relations between manufacturers and operatives will continue amicable throughout the year.

An order for a half million cigars, for immediate delivery, is somewhat exceptional at this season of the year. Such an order has been received by Samuel I. Davis & Company, from Horn & Company, of San Francisco. Fred. Davis, of the firm, who has been managing the local factory through the winter, confessed that the order was unexpected, but at once increased his working force and is shipping the goods by express in lots of 10,000. The big order is for the "Bon Ton" and "Chesterfield" brands.

Publication in THE TOBACCO WORLD of the plans for the building of a large factory at Havana by Cuesta, Rey y Ca created much interest in Tampa. Mr. Cuesta confirms the report that the building is to be erected, but says he is not prepared to say, just yet, what use will be made of it. It will be the Havana home of "The Truly Spanish House," but it is likely that it will be devoted to the leaf rather than the manufacturing interests of the concern.

Manuel Rodriguez, son of Salvador Rodriguez, the "Charles the Great" manufacturer, has been seriously ill here for several weeks and much concern was manifested for a time as to his prospects of recovery. He is now reported slowly improving.

Rumors of a change in the local management of the Havana-American Company are still in circulation. It was reported some time ago that J. J. French, who has been in charge of the company's interests here for a number of years, would sever his connection, but this has not yet occurred. The latest report is that the business manager of the company's Key West factory, Mr. Mahoney, is to come to Tampa, but this also lacks confirmation.

Celestino Vega, who has just returned from the tobacco fields with his partner, Mr. Strauss, says the crop promises to be the largest and best since 1905.

Elmer E. Crane, of "The House of Crane," large dealers of the Middle West, has been in the city visiting the manufacturers and enjoying a trip to Cuba with A. L. Cuesta.

The Tampa-Cuba Company has begun business, putting out three brands, which are being pushed throughout the country by sixteen traveling men.

Jose Lovera, of the Jose Lovera Company, and D. E. Kline, New York representative of the house, have gone to Cuba to look into tobacco conditions.

Harry Roberts, of the Roberts mail-order house, is among the local manufacturers recently returned from Cuba. Mr. Roberts is highly pleased with the prospects both for a good crop and for increasing business throughout the year.

F. A. Torre, manager of the Sanchez & Haya factory, left a few days ago for the Pacific Coast. This is Mr. Torre's first trip in that territory and he is very desirous of meeting personally the dealers in that section. Business is brisk at the Sanchez & Haya factory.

Philip Verplanck, of Verplanck & Company, is at the Tampa Bay Hotel for a week. His family has spent a portion of the winter there.

Louis Sarazans, of St. Louis, was a prominent visitor in cigar circles the past week. He was a guest of Fred. Davis, of Samuel I. Davis & Company.

The record-breaking travel to Florida this winter has been very gratifying to resident Floridians. During the months of January and February, Tampa was crowded almost to capacity with winter visitors, many of them homeseekers and investors, and the same report was made by all towns in this section. Colonization projects are on foot in every county and there seems no end to the development that is taking place.

The present rivers and harbors bill makes appropriation for continuing the Tampa harbor improvement, and the city will soon add miles to its available water-front through the dredging of what is known as the estuary. With twenty-four feet of water at low tide, the shipping interests of the city is beginning to make itself felt as a most important enterprise and will in time rival the great cigar industry as a developer of Tampa's growth. The remarkable recovery which Tampa made from the long strike shows that the city has other resources than cigar manufacturing, although that continues to be the leading and most productive feature of the city's trade.

PERFECTO.

Significance of Cuesta-Rey Move

THE exclusive announcement in the last issue of the "World" that Cuesta-Rey y Ca., the leading Tampa manufacturers were to build a splendid and model factory in the city of Havana has, attracted widespread attention and interest in the trade.

In an interview, A. L. Cuesta told a "World" man that he merely wanted to be on the ground with a first-class factory in Cuba in case they should latterly decide to enter into the manufacture of Havana cigars in Cuba as a corollary to their splendid present output.

When asked if this was looking toward being established in case of Cuban annexation, Mr. Cuesta merely smiled and refused to commit himself.

This move on the part of an American firm in locating a factory in Havana is not without precedent, however. It will be recalled that the late M. Stachelberg on two occasions equipped and operated a factory in Havana at the same time he was making goods in Tampa but the ventures on both occasions did not prove very successful and the factories were eventually closed. The first Stachelberg venture was about fifteen years ago and the last factory was maintained about five years.

Jose Diaz, of the present firm of Bustillo Bros. & Diaz, also operated a factory in Havana for about a year but discovered ultimately that it was not a successful venture and also closed it.

There is no question of doubt that if emergency arose and Cuba should become American territory, Cuesta-Rey y Ca.'s enterprise will bear precious fruit.

Plan British Cigar Chain

LONDON, March 6.

A CHAIN of tobacco stores through England and Europe is being planned by the British-American Tobacco Company. A great increase in activity in the affairs of the company has followed the arrival of J. B. Duke, founder of the American Tobacco Company, who has become chairman of the board of the British company. These stores are to be identical with those of the United Cigar Stores Company scattered throughout the United States.

Burley Society Makes Large Sale

THE Burley Tobacco Society made another large sale of its pooled tobacco last week. This time about 6,000,000 pounds were taken by the American Tobacco Company, the price being approximately $17 per cwt. It was stated that another sale of a like amount would take the entire residue of the great but unsuccessful pool of 1909. That will end one of the greatest efforts ever made by an organization of farmers to regulate the price of a product.

Lost Without the "World"

WELLSBURG, W. Va., March 6th, 1912.

Editor THE TOBACCO WORLD,

Dear Sir:

We missed the March 1st issue of the WORLD. Kindly see that one is forwarded as we feel LOST without it.

Yours very truly,

THE WELLSBURG STOGIE CO.

Plans for New Deisel-Wemmer Plant

PLANS for the new $45,000 building which will be erected by the Diesel-Wemmer Cigar Company, at Findlay, O., have been completed and the work will be begun as soon as the weather permits.

The factory, located on the fourth floor of the Rawson block, has become more cramped every day. The present force is turning out an average of more than 30,000 cigars a day and the management hopes to be able to increase this production by more than half when the new building is finished. Two hundred persons are now employed in the factory.

Smuggled Sumatra Seized

COLLECTOR Loeb, of New York, has announced that $8,000 worth of smuggled Sumatra tobacco was taken from an apartment house in that city.

It is said to have been smuggled through the port of Philadelphia. Mr. Loeb said concerning the seizure: "No claim has been made for the tobacco nor is any claimant expected to appear, for obvious reasons." No arrests were made.

The William Bieker cigar store on Main street near B, Hamilton, Ohio, has been purchased by Edward Gruber.

Louis Higson, of Wabash, Ind., is in charge of the cigar stand in the lobby of the Tremont Hotel, Wabash, Ind.

Factory Notes

W. G. Stewart, cigar manufacturer, of East Liverpool, Ohio, recently purchased a new automobile delivery truck.

J. W. Milk, of Sioux City, Iowa, has purchased his partner's interest in the McIntyre & Milk cigar factory and will continue the business under his own name hereafter.

The South River Stripping Company, of Newark, N. J., has extended its plant by leasing additional loft room. It employs 150 hands.

Mr. Harter, proprietor of the "True Blue" cigar factory, of Petersburg, Ill., has sold his place to C. Thomas a cigarmaker from Jacksonville.

Frank M. O'Connell, of Sterling, Ill., has rented the rooms formerly occupied by the Sterling Beobachter and will open an up-to-date cigar factory therein. Mr. O'Connell has been operating a factory at Tampa.

The Hershman Company are now occupying their new two-story factory in New Orleans, La. The second story is being used as a manufacturing department, and for the stripping of tobacco and the storage of cigars. The selling force, under the direction of President Cobb, has been reorganized, and an aggressive coast-to-coast campaign planned.

Arthur Carter, H. J. Hunt and W. E. Crutcher are the incorporators of the Loose Leaf Tobacco Warehouse, of Vine Grove, Ky., which was recently incorporated with a capital of $7000. A warehouse will be erected during the summer months and be ready for use in the early fall months.

Frazier Stogy Company, of Grafton, W. Va., has been incorporated to manufacture and deal in stogies and cigars. Authorized capital, $5000. Incorporators: J. W. Frazier, M. E. Frazier, G. H. A. Elliott, G. E. Elliott and R. C. Elliott, all of Grafton.

W. G. Stewart, a cigar manufacturer of East Liverpool, O., has ordered an automobile delivery truck.

The Grand Rapids Cigar Box Company's factory, of Grand Rapids, Mich., was destroyed by fire on February 28th. The loss has been placed at $50,000, which is covered by insurance to the extent of $35,000.

Boston Trade Reported Improving

Boston, March 11th.

THE cigar and tobacco business, around Boston and vicinity, is fair, considering the time of the year. Estabrooks & Eaton, Waitt & Bond, C. J. Dando, and others report business as fair, the different salesmen on the road selling fairly well.

Hamilburg, of 7 Essex street, is placing on the market, a new cigar, named "Alvan A," a 5-inch club size "Perfecto," Havana filler, Sumatra wrapper of the finest quality and workmanship, to retail at 10 cents straight, which for value will be unsurpassed, Hamilburg says "here is where he will show his class."

Daniel Frank & Co. report business as fair. They have a fine window display this week. "La Severnas," seed and Havana cigars are the feature.

The American Tobacco Company is giving away one ounce packages of U. S. Marine cut plug tobacco.

J. Farren, formerly with Joseph McGreenerly, has severed connections with that firm, and is at present with Louis Aarons' Sons, tobacconists, of Cambridge.

F. B. Bosworth, Liggett & Myers Tobacco Co., has taken an office in this city, and will make his headquarters here. "Velvet" smoking tobacco is the line Mr. Bosworth is advocating and selling at present.

G. D. Gifford, general representative of P. Lorillard & Co., has visited Providence and Boston, looking over the general conditions of the trade, accompanied by E. J. Madden, and from the broad, expansive smile on his face, found conditions just to his liking.

F. H. Dowell, for the last 14 years with the American Tobacco Co., has severed connections with that concern. He is taking a rest, and looking over many different propositions.

H. F. Stites, the genial and enterprising manager of the cigar department, at Clark's Hotel, reports business the finest it has ever been, at this season of any year. He carries the most complete line of clear Havana and domestic brands, of any hotel in the city, but especially has a run on "Clark's Regalia" special. This cigar is becoming the big leader.

News of the death in Porto Rico, of Harry Franklin Adams, of Boston, has reached here to-day. He was engaged in the tobacco business, and was on a business trip. Born in Boston, January 9th, 1857.

While calling on one of the downtown hotels, I met the well-posted cigar and cigarette salesman, E. J. Mulligan, of Boston, who reports a very successful business, in Providence and adjoining towns, on the high-grade Egyptian cigarettes of D. Theodoridis.

As a result of the recent visit of Ex-President Roosevelt to Boston, Julius Cohen, the Bowdoin Square tobacconist, conceived the idea of registering a new brand of cigar, and is applying for registration on the name of "Big Stick," with a life likeness of Roosevelt on the label.

L. W. Scott & Co., 133 Broad street, report business good, in large factories and poor in small ones.

H. Traiser & Co., Inc., says business has been good, but as the season advances, will be better.

Mr. Waterman, of Waitt & Bond, Inc., has returned from Havana, Cuba.

WM. T. HENDERSON.

New United Stores in the South

THE United Cigar Stores have perfected plans for locating throughout the South, and options have been secured on sites in Atlanta, Ga., Norfolk, Va., and Nashville, Tenn., and it is understood that five new stores will shortly be opened in Chicago Ill.

New Incorporations

Incorporation papers have been issued to the following:

The Lyth Farmers Tobacco Company, of Lyth, Ohio. Capital $5,000.

H. G. Ritter Cigar Box Company, of Deshler, Ohio. Capital $20,000. Charter was issued in the name of H. W. Buckley.

S. G. Metzler Cigar Co., of New York City. Capital $12,500. Incorporators Matthew S. Holmes, Samuel G. Wilson, Wm. S. Cooke and S. G. Metzler.

Frank M. Garcia, Inc., of New York City, to deal in cigars, cigarettes, etc. Capital stock is $10,000. Incorporators Frank M. Garcia, Mabel Garcia and Joseph Garcia.

TRADE NEWS

Late Reports from

Lancaster, York, Reading

Dullness and Activity Near York

YORK, PA., March 14th.

THE cigar trade is so dull in some sections of this country that cigar manufacturers are praying for a cessation of the cold weather, feeling confident that as soon as the weather becomes milder and country roads more passable, there will be a noticeable improvement in trade conditions. Strange that during the past few weeks the majority of the manufacturers at Red Lion have had a rather active business, while at Dallastown, just two miles distant, many factories were temporarily closed, or practically so.

Myers, Adams & Co., of York, have suspended operations at Dallastown for a short time.

The Dallas Cigar Company have closed operations at their Craleyville branch. The factory was, however, taken over by David P. Gipe and Samuel C. Winter, who will trade as the Craley Cigar Co.

A new stripping machine, being marketed by a sales agency of Baltimore, has aroused considerable interest among manufacturers in this section. Will Ruthenberg, who is already known to the cigar trade here as one of the members of the former leaf firm of Kohlenberg, Ruthenberg & Co., who had a leaf house in York at one time, is now introducing the new machine in this vicinity. Already a number of manufacturers have equipped their factories with the labor-saving equipment.

This division of the Ninth District, during 1911, produced about 136,845,000 cigars. This record is likely to be smashed this year, either by a heavy gain or a heavy decreased production. Present indications are not very favorable for an increase, but this is no time for grieving, for time lost in lamentations is irretrievably gone.

Several cigar manufacturers have found something to do to occupy their minds for a couple of weeks during the present dull period. John F. Sechrist, of Holtz, and H. S. Stabley, of Sprey, have been drawn to serve on the petit jury for the next term of Quarter Sessions Court.

Dallastown is soon to have a new cigar factory. Mr. Fred E. Druck and Henry E. Keesey have formed a partnership to engage in cigar manufacturing, under the name of D. & K. Cigar Co. Mr. Druck was formerly a bookkeeper in the employ of J. W. Minnich & Son at Dallastown.

The stogie factory at Dallastown, being operated for Eugene Gallagher & Bro., of Columbus, O., is now occupying larger quarters, obtained in the factory recently conducted by E. S. Sechrist, who now has charge of the Gallagher business.

W. J. Neff, of W. J. Neff & Co., Red Lion, recently made a short visit to some of their jobbing trade at Baltimore and other points.

That some of the larger manufacturing interests are having a good demand for their product is fully evidenced by the fact that the several cigar box manufacturing establishments of this city are well filled with orders and were obliged to put in some overtime work.

A new cigar factory building has been secured in York by H. F. Kohler, of Nashville, who will on April 1st remove his plant to this city. Since taking the office of Register of Wills, Mr. Kohler has found it very inconvenient to maintain his cigar business and make daily trips to this city. He believes, however, that once he gets his business concentrated under one roof, by merging his Nashville and Jacobus factories at York, he will be able to give the operations a closer personal supervision.

Reading Factories Fear Coal Strike

READING, PA., March 14th.

SOME of our local manufacturers are somewhat apprehensive of a strike in the coal regions and fear it would cause a serious depression in their business. Their present suspense will no doubt be relieved about April 1st, when it will be definitely known whether the coal miners go on strike or not. As it is, buyers in the coal region are going slowly and are unwilling to lay in large stocks of goods until they know exactly what the outcome of the present agitation will be.

Of course, not all our local factories will be affected, for large quantities of Reading-made cigars find their way west as far as the Pacific Coast.

Wm. H. Yocum is now on a trip which will probably take him to San Francisco before he returns to this city.

John G. Spatz, of J. G. Spatz & Co., has returned from his first trip of this year. He brought with him a number of orders for their lines of high-grade goods.

At Womelsdorf, Newmanstown, etc., the cigar factories are increasing their forces.

Ibach & Rader, of Newmanstown, are presenting one of the finest lines of nickel and ten-cent goods made in this section. Not satisfied alone with the manufacture of a strictly high-grade cigar, they have adopted the most artistic labels they could procure. In the nickel line they are making leaders of the "La Regidora," "El Rego," "Amicus," "Ralph Lane," "Abram Clark," "Havana Favorite" and "George Walton." In seed and Havana cigars they are offering "Viador" and "Flor de Morrow."

As an additional mark of distinction, they have adopted the banding system on their 10-cent goods only. Their "Flor de Morrow" is one of their newest brands and yet the factory is at present oversold on this brand. Of their large line of nickel goods their "Abram Clark" and "Havana Favorite" brands are finding much favor in this State. The "Ralph Lane" is a large seller throughout Ohio and in the Middle Western States.

Ninth Dist. Gains Surprise Lancaster Manufacturers.

LANCASTER, PA., March 14th.

THE production of cigars in the Ninth Internal Revenue District during February has been an agreeable surprise to the manufacturers here. Trade conditions during February seemed generally rather dull and it certainly was not expected that the output of a year ago would be beaten, but the report of the Collector of Internal Revenue shows that it did. There were produced during February, according to the sale of stamps, 53,865,630 cigars. During February of last year the production was 53,154,470—increase in 1912 of 711,160. As compared with January of this year, however, there was a noticeable decrease, which amounted to 1,316,900. The continued production of these large quantities of goods is attributed largely to the extensive operations of Otto Eisenlohr & Bros., and the United Cigar Manufacturers' Company.

The S. R. Moss Cigar Co. has not been pressed for goods lately and have deemed it desirable to discontinue manufacturing at a branch factory at Hanover, and concentrate their operations to the factories in this city. The equipment of the Hanover factory has been brought to Lancaster.

John Slater & Co., the most extensive stogy manufacturers in the East, have adopted a new dress for their leading brand of goods, called "Havana Blunts." The appearance of the package is to be much improved, and a high and uniform standard of quality is always maintained. Present indications are that this year the demand for high class stogies will be stronger than ever before.

John L. Metzger, trading as the J. L. Metzger Leaf Tobacco Co., died recently at his home here. He was formerly engaged in cigar manufacturing, but abandoned that branch of the trade and engaged in the leaf tobacco line some years ago. He has been identified with the industry more than thirty years and was widely known.

M. Michaelis & Son recently disposed of a considerable portion of their holdings of 1909 packing of Pennsylvania leaf.

Martin Kinports, superintendent of several factories in this county for the United Cigar Manufacturers' Company, has gone on a pleasure trip to Panama, accompanied by his wife.

W. H. McLaughlin & Son are making quite a noise with the "44" cigars in this section. They recently secured the distributing agency for those goods and are waging a very aggressive campaign. The goods are meeting with a good reception, and in the rural districts of the county there has been created a heavy demand for the goods.

I. H. Weaver recently returned from a visit to the leaf markets in Ohio. The receiving season has commenced there, and he left Alex Mowery there to look after these details.

After a temporary suspension at the cigar factory of C. E. Bear & Son, of Harrisburg, operations have been resumed, with a good force of cigarmakers.

"Things are a bit quiet," said M. H. Bare, of the Sherts Cigar Co., "although we have no reason to complain. We are employing our regular force, and are able to keep all hands moving along nicely."

The United Cigar Manufacturers' Co. has taken over the plant of the Union American Cigar Co. at Lancaster. Nearly 300 men were employed in the factory. There will be no change in the operating staff, at the head of which is Superintendent Jack Lang. The factory was closed down for several days to take an account of stock.

H. Summer Co. Resume at Quakertown

QUAKERTOWN, PA., March 14th.

THE H. Summer Co. have resumed operations since securing the former "Suelke" cigar factory, and shipment of goods to old customers has already commenced. W. S. Cliver, who is on the selling staff of this house, has been stirring things up a bit in Philadelphia and vicinity lately.

The T. H. Hart Co. factory is making steady progress, and the demand for the "Five of Harts" is growing quite rapidly.

There is some talk that the Victor cigar box factory, of this town, would soon open a factory at Reading or Harrisburg, but when interviewed by your correspondent the officials said it was thus far merely talk and that they were not so sanguine of the undertaking.

Matthew Nolan, who recently closed out his retail cigar store at 183 Main street, Fitchburg, Mass., has built an up-to-date two-story cigar factory in the rear of his home at 214 Blossom street.

As the result of a fire on March 5th in the H. B. Fromer cigar factory, of New Haven, Conn., many cigars were destroyed. The loss has not been estimated.

The lockout at the L. S. Kent-McCarthy Co.'s factory at Jacksonville, Ill., known as the "Big Shop," was ended on February 27th. The men returned to work the following morning.

LEAF TOBACCO MARKET

Sumatra Men Eagerly Watching the Amsterdam Inscriptions---Increased Demand for 1910 Pennsylvania---Activity in Connecticut---Zimmer Spanish in Demand

NEW YORK.

NEW YORK CITY.

THERE has been considerable disappointment among those leaf dealers who anticipated renewed activity after March 1st, for while there has been some sales of fair size recorded, the parties thereto, held prior arrangements as to price and date of delivery.

Several of the leading houses of New York City have had their men in the Connecticut district, but large purchasers have been few, and the greater number of sales in the wrapper section has been between the growers and packers.

Some of the more established houses have sent their men as far as Wisconsin in search of binder, as present indications point to the fact that there will be a shortage of this class of goods, and high prices are being paid for tobacco that can be used for this purpose.

Practically all the Sumatra dealers have sent representatives to the inscriptions which opened in Amsterdam, on March 8th. Lively bidding is looked for, as there is a scarcity of light wrapper stock.

PENNSYLVANIA.

PHILADELPHIA.

AN increased demand for Pennsylvania 1910 crop has been the principal event in the local market, though a few offerings of Connecticut have found a ready sale.

Indications point toward a shortage by the manufacturers, who claim increased cost of production, and cannot enter the market with the prices now prevailing.

There is a marked absence of desirable tobacco, so that there is little hope expressed that there will be any decline in price for attractive stock.

LANCASTER.

There are about 25,000 cases of 1909 crop of leaf tobacco which can be purchased at prices ranging from 13 to 15 cents per pound, marked weight.

Inquiries for 1909 crop tobacco have been more numerous within the past week than for some time, and it is claimed that there are about 25,000 cases which can be purchased at from 13 to 15 cents per pound, marked weight.

The warehouses have begun active operations, as the recent damp weather has permitted the growers to deliver their 1911 crop. As previously forecasted, there is every evidence that there will be sufficient 1911 crop to meet the demand.

The better grades of this tobacco has been selling at 11 cents, but some sales have been recorded at 10 cents.

YORK.

There has not been much change in the leaf market during the past week, though there has been rather a consistent demand for Connecticut shade-grown tobacco. One sale of 1600 cases of Connecticut-Havana seed grown is reported for future delivery, and buyers will do well to place their orders for this class of leaf early, as the supply is claimed to be short of the demand. The Sumatra market is quiet pending the inscriptions, and a number of manufacturers claim that if the price for this leaf is as high as circumstances would indicate, they intend using Connecticut shade-grown wrapper and advertising the fact to their customers.

CONNECTICUT.

THERE is considerable activity among the packers and warehouses in the Connecticut district. Several buyers from New York City visited the leaf section and a number of sales of considerable size were reported. A number of packers who have been packing in other sections of New England have secured warehouses in the territory adjacent to East Hartford and East Windsor Hill. B. W. Ranney, of E. Rosenwald & Bro., Ralph Lasbury, of Gans Brothers, and Albert Mendelsohn, all made purchases within the fortnight. Mr. Hudson, of Hinsdale Smith, was another New York firm, who made recent purchases, as was Kaiser & Boasburg. Eighty-seven boxes of Havana seed was purchased by Hathaway & Steane, for 19 cents, of the 1911 crop.

WISCONSIN.

EDGERTON.

ABOUT sixty-five per cent. of the Wisconsin crop, as purchased, has been delivered, and the balance is being taken to the warehouses as fast as these places can properly handle it. There were no new developments in the old leaf market, trading consisted mostly of small lots to meet the immediate needs of the manufacturers.

Six carloads and 1033 cases were shipped from storage, and twenty-seven carloads received. Prices have averaged high, except small lots which were contracted for at from 7 to 7½ cents.

OHIO.

CINCINNATI.

THE recent offerings of Burley tobacco which were offered in Cincinnati, were the finest grades ever presented at their sales. A good market was maintained, and prices were such as to please the shippers. Three hundred and eight hogsheds of old tobacco and one hundred and eighty-one hogsheds of new tobacco changed hands, which at this season, is a very fair volume of business.

DAYTON.

The 1910 Zimmer Spanish, as has been expected, is in demand and quite a number of very nice sales have been made. The buyers, who have looked over the samples of the 1910 Zimmer Spanish, seem to think it is quite as good as the packers have claimed. There is no longer any question about the 1910 Zimmer Spanish crop containing only about 50 per cent. of the amount of the usual crop of Zimmer Spanish B's. From the amount of inquiries received, sales made and the number of buyers visiting the packers, it seems certain that the 1910 crop of Zimmer Spanish B's will be sold without a great deal of effort on the part of the packers. In fact, it looks decidedly as though the wise buyers are those who are buying their supply of 1910 Zimmer Spanish B's early.

Most of the 1911 crop is stripped. There are some fancy B's in the crop, but the growers seem to be indifferent to assorting when they are stripping and it is safe to say that every crop of 1911 Ohio tobacco contains some damage. This tobacco must be cleaned in the warehouses, the damaged thrown out as low grade tobaccos and the B tobacco packed. The tobacco thrown out and the labor in getting this tobacco out is quite an item to be added to the first cost. The price on Dutch, Spanish and Seed is firm, at 8 cents per pound; with the expense noted above and the chance of the fillers not commanding a very attractive price, there does not appear to be much chance of 1911 wrapper B's selling at a low price when the packers have these goods ready to offer.

New Havana Leaf Firm Organized

JOSE SUAREZ & CO. is the style of the new leaf firm which will start operations on April 1st, with headquarters at Havana, and a branch warehouse at Tampa, Florida.

The members of the new company need no introduction to those who are familiar with the Cuban tobacco business and its auxiliary branches. Jose Suarez, who will head the new firm, has been for years a member of the firm of Selgas, Suarez & Co. He is considered one of the ablest judges and buyers of Cuban leaf. He has the absolute confidence and friendship of all of the growers on the Island, and this has enabled him in the past, and no doubt, will in the future to secure first call on desirable vegas, which will be of priceless value to the clients of his company.

The other members of his firm are: Emillio Suarez and R. Menendez. The former is the brother of Jose and has spent many years in the clear Havana business. Mr. Menendez is also an old timer at the game, having been for a long time prominently connected with the firm of Menendez Brothers and Verplanck, of Tampa.

Jose Suarez recently made a flying trip to New York for the purpose of severing his connections with the Water street firm, with whom he was for so long a period identified.

Mr. Suarez stated to the "Tobacco World" representative that Suarez & Co. would probably be ready for business on April 1st, and that the prospects were very bright.

THE TOBACCO WORLD REGISTRATION BUREAU

The Tobacco World, established in 1881, has maintained a Bureau for the purpose of Registering and Publishing claims of the adoption of Trade-Marks and Brands for Cigars, Cigarettes, Smoking and Chewing Tobacco, and Snuff. All Trade-Marks to be registered and published should be addressed to The Tobacco World Corporation, 102 South Twelfth Street, Philadelphia, accompanied by the necessary fee, unless special arrangements have been made. No Responsibility assumed for errors or duplications.

One Dollar for each title must accompany all applications. In case title or titles cannot be registered owing to prior registration, same will be returned immediately, less our usual charge for searching and return postage, or it will be credited if desired.

At the Amsterdam Inscriptions

AMONG the prominent American Buyers who attended the first Inscription Sales of Sumatra Tobacco, which were held at Amsterdam on March 8th, were: Leonard Cohn, of A. Cohn & Co.; Kaufman Falk, of G. Falk & Brothers; J. Duys, of H. Duys & Co.; Harry Spingarn, of Spingarn Brothers; Fred Hirschhorn, of the United Cigar Manufacturers, all of New York. These gentlemen sailed on the steamship "George Washington," on February 24th, and will remain in Amsterdam throughout the various sales, which are scheduled a week apart, and will last for about a month.

The Lytle Farmers Tobacco Company was recently incorporated in Columbus, Ohio, with a capital of $5,000. The incorporators are H. M. Clark, Albert Stacy, C. S. Lamb, Robert Friend, Charles E. Johns, W. T. Clark, Everett Early and C. W. Cox.

A cigar store and pool room was recently opened at 403 Chestnut street, Dunmore, Pa., by Thomas B. Taylor.

The South River Stripping Company, a subsidiary of the Hirschhorn & Mack Tobacco Co., of Perth Amboy and New Brunswick, N. J., has just leased additional space in Newark, N. J.

W. A. Hamel has purchased the cigar, tobacco and confectionery store until recently owned and operated by J. B. Ganvin, West Haven, Conn.

The Kind on which to Build
Your Business

MADE BY
Allen R. Cressman's Sons, Philadelphia

Short talks
to Dealers

We realize that what smokers get out of cigarettes depends entirely on what we put into them.

And you probably realize that to get smokers to your store and to keep them coming you must give them cigarettes that are worth coming for—even walking out of their way for.

So it will pay both you and ourselves to make Fatima our leader.

FATIMA
BLEND
CIGARETTES

We make the package plain and put the value into the cigarettes. In every 15-cent package there are twenty mild, mellow, Turkish blend cigarettes of finest quality. And it is this quality, not the price, that makes smokers like and recommend Fatimas. You needn't be ashamed to sell Fatimas to anyone, no matter how much he may have been paying for cigarettes heretofore.

College men and others who have smoked Fatima Cigarettes for years have given them the strongest kind of endorsement by spreading their use among their friends.

Our 1912 advertising campaign will increase the demand.

A Quality, Not a Quantity Journal

THE ordinary merchant's time is so well occupied and he is so absorbed in his business that he has a very limited time in which to scan his trade paper. Taking that into consideration "THE TOBACCO WORLD" is giving its readers a quality, and not a quantity magazine. We are building up an audience of readers who appreciate quality, brevity, authenticity and efficiency. When a busy man gets those qualities in his paper, he appreciates them. The special articles, letters and news stories, are all prepared with that end in view. If you are a busy man and are not a subscriber of ours, send in your $1.00 to-day to THE TOBACCO WORLD, 102 South 12th Street, Philadelphia and receive 24 copies of the best tobacco journal published.

The GIRARD Cigar

Sold only through dealers or for them.

Yes, we mean just that.

A consumer can buy only one box of Girard cigars from us. He must pay us the full retail price with no prize thrown in. And he must mention his dealer's name.

If you arrange to supply him you get your regular profit on this first sale of ours.

We make that sale for you.

More than that, the Girard is a cigar that sells and repeats.

It combines mildness and full flavor in the same cigar.

You know how unusual that is. You can easily understand why it has made a hit with a large class of "off-and-on" smokers; and turned them into regular customers.

It will do this for you.

And the Girard is not only a good cigar. But we let the people know it.

Our strong, honest, persistent advertising in The Saturday Evening Post reaches millions of smokers regularly and sends some of them right into your store after Girard cigars.

3 standard sizes that retail at 10c. straight:

- "Brokers" 5 1/4 inch Perfecto
- "Mariners" 5 5/8 inch Panatella
- "Founders" 5 inch Blunt.

To the Tobacco Trade-

Announcement

FROM the time the first package of Tuxedo Tobacco was put on the market, this company has never been able to fill Tuxedo orders promptly.

This condition has been the result of an enormous and constantly increasing demand for this brand of tobacco—a demand that it has been absolutely impossible for our manufacturing facilities to keep pace with—a demand created without advertising or special effort on our part—simply by the superiority of Tuxedo itself.

These facts are well-known to all dealers and to the trade generally.

It is therefore with great pleasure that we are able to announce that with tremendous increased facilities at our disposal, we can now, for the first time, handle all Tuxedo orders promptly.

Furthermore, these facilities now make it also possible for us to push Tuxedo as it deserves—to back up the dealer, as he deserves, with strong, constructive advertising.

We thank you for your past co-operation. We will appreciate your continued support of this most popular high grade tobacco and we can assure you that in the future, we will be able to take care of your business in a way much more satisfactory to you and ourselves.

Yours very truly,

On the train, the other day,

I met a salesman who traveled from Chicago to the Pacific Coast in the interest of a certain cigar manufacturer. Because of the wide area this salesman covered he could see his customers not oftener than twice a year. Some of them he sees only once a year and some dealers he visits once—never again.

The manufacturer who hires that salesman could lighten the salesman's work and increase his efficiency by the use of the advertising pages of The Tobacco World. The World would hunt out some new dealers and jobbers really worth a visit; and in its twenty-four calls during the year, (to the salesman's one or two), if the manufacturer use the advertising space at all wisely, the salesman would develop an appreciation of the merits of his cigars impossible to create through infrequent, widely separated, personal visits.

The cost would be a fraction of the salesman's railroad fare.

United Stores Strike Back In Imported Cigar Price War

Cut Well-Known 25 Cent Brands to 20 Cents in New York—Other Points Likely to Be Affected

NEW YORK, March 29.

ACCORDING to present indication the cutting of prices on imported cigars is here for a certainty. The initiative was taken by the Schulte stores where "Perfectos," formerly selling at 25 cents, were reduced to 20 cents and a similar reduction is to be made on "Puritanos."

Following the action of the Schulte stores the United Cigar Stores Co., on Thursday, March 28th, also broke into the game with a reduction to a price of 20 cents each on "Hoyo de Montrey," "Carolinias" and "Romeo y Julieta" perfectos.

For the present, these are the only sizes and brands which the United Stores will reduce, but an insider stated his belief that unless difficulties are speedily adjusted, the day of a quarter Havana Perfecto in the cut-price stores will be passed.

Inquiries from the manufacturers' representatives, whose goods are affected by the cut-price war, do not disclose any reason from that end, as to why a knife should have been applied, and it is generally understood that the Henry Clay Bock Co. have declared themselves as determined to protect the standard price on their goods. It is also certain that this action is not looked on favorably by the other manufacturers interested.

Although the present step has been under consideration for some time, it is said to have been precipitated by a Boston firm, which violated an agreement it held with three other importing houses.

These houses, which largely control the importing of cigars in this country, agreed to sell imported cigars to dealers in single orders of 10,000 cigars, at a profit of 2 1/2 per cent. over cost price. Any smaller lots were to be sold at greatly increased prices.

One of the Boston firms is said to have violated this agreement, selling to clubs and small dealers on smaller orders at the same profit as had been agreed upon on the 10,000 cigar lots. Some of the clubs began to cut prices which precipitated the present action.

With the present general situation of trade conditions, the price-cutting war at this time is deplorable from every standpoint.

Prices Rule High at Third Inscription

AMSTERDAM, March 29.

At the third inscription here today competition was brisk. American buyers purchased more heavily than at the other inscriptions. The leaf, as a rule, was of a poorer quality, but this did not seem to materially affect the prices which ruled high. The following were some of the purchases: Messrs. E. Rosenwald & Bro., 500 bales; A. Cohn & Co., 549 bales; H. Duyts & Co., 700 bales; M. F. Schneider, 160 bales; S. Rossin & Sons, 144 bales; Joseph Hirsch & Son, 100 bales; Hinsdale Smith & Co., 100 bales; and Pretzfeld & Co., 52 bales. It was stated that the American Cigar Co. purchased 400 bales and Otto Eisenlohr & Bro., 150 bales.

Justin Seubert, Inc., Open Factory in New York City

Labor Troubles at Syracuse Lead Manufacturers
To Transfer Operations—Now Ready
To Handle Business

FOLLOWING the prolonged strike at their factory in Syracuse, started last June, Justin Seubert, Inc., one of the leading up-state cigar manufacturers, have decided to practically abandon Syracuse as a manufacturing city, and locate their factory in New York City.

Several months ago their labor trouble prevented them from making sufficient cigars in Syracuse and they opened a small factory in Port Morris, at 749 E. 137th street, New York City, where they turned out quite some goods. During the last month they have leased the old Kaufman factory building at 444 E. 68th street, New York, and on Monday, March 18th, work was first started in the manufacture of cigars at this stand.

Justin Seubert, Jr., of the firm, stated that for the present the main offices of the business would continue to be located in Syracuse and that they would also do some stripping of tobacco at that point, but the manufacture of the cigars will be carried on in New York, and it is quite probable that ere long the entire business will be transferred to this city. Justin Seubert, Jr., will make his permanent headquarters in New York City.

The company are just adding several new sizes on their "Vicar" brand of broadleaf wrapped, Havana cigars, and this further rounds out their well known output, which also includes "Faraday," their clear Havana goods "Pickwick Club" and "Optimates." Their new factory, in New York, is known as No. 324, 3rd district.

Limit Amendment on Cantrill Bill Unchanged

ACCORDING to the latest report on the Cantrill bill, the Pennsylvania cigar manufacturers have lost their fight for raising the limit of cigars not subject to a revenue tax.

They sought an amendment to the bill, which was presented by Representative Griest, of the Lancaster district. The bill was reported out by the Senate Committee on Census with a number of changes, but the limit of 250,000 free cigars remains the same.

In giving their report the committee contended that since monthly reports are published, showing the acreage of tobacco planted and its condition up to and including its cutting, giving the manufacturer a clear idea of the quantity of unmanufactured tobacco unsold, there should also be published statistics, giving the amount of tobacco manufactured.

By the present method it is claimed that the planter never knows the quantity of manufactured tobacco and is at the mercy of the manufacturer, who knows just what amount of unsold tobacco is on hand. It was estimated that the cost of procuring the information would be approximately $10,000.

There were also a number of minor changes relating to the reports to be made and in several instances ambiguous sentences were made clearer.

"SOMETHING DIFFERENT"

Business Campaigns That Will "Walk"—For the Retailer, Wholesaler and Manufacturer

By J. B. JAMISON. **

Being an outline of systems through which big business houses are built. Any reader of THE TOBACCO WORLD, retailer, wholesaler or manufacturer, contemplating an expansion of his business, should consult this department, and may secure the personal services of Mr. Jamison for the direction of his campaign by a series of letters suited to his individual needs upon the payment of $2, for which allowance will be given in new subscriptions to THE TOBACCO WORLD, or the extension of old subscriptions. Single letters of instruction 50 cents.

Advertising plans and campaigns present very much the same vexatious problems and difficulties as beset the French Revolution, and money is wasted in the first as generously as blood was spilt in the latter, by incompetent men and methods. One Constitution after another was formulated, but none of them would "walk." Despair, indecision, lawlessness and terror reigned until the man with the Constitution that would "walk" arrived.

The plans I outline in this department will "walk." They have brought home the goods and are doing the trick every day.

J. B. JAMISON.

IV.

Advertising—Does it Pay?

A PUZZLING matter for every retailer, jobber or manufacturer in any line of business is as to whether he is advertising properly or not, and whether it is paying him. And when he seems most at sea there are very few men upon whom he can call for opinions and advice, chiefly because there are no set standards for advertising. No two firms have the same conditions and problems, and it is often a matter of experimenting until the right method has been discovered and the desired results obtained. When that point has been reached it should be strictly adhered to.

The business man who merely advertises because his competitors do, and therefore looks upon it as a necessary evil, most assuredly will tell you it doesn't pay. He simply makes a stab at it, like a woman playing the ponies, and usually is just as successful. His rivals who exercise thought and intelligence in their advertising soon outstrip him.

The most important point to be remembered by the man who advertises is as to what advantage he may have over his competitors in regard to location, facilities of operation, goods, etc. With a few exceptions every business has some sort of individuality which gives it an advantage. In other words, the merchant should learn the strongest factors in his business, construct his policy from them and constantly use them in his advertising.

He should stick to this program as much as possible, for jumping around from one scheme to another is not good advertising. In the long run it will bring small results. The man who takes a flyer in anything generally meets with the fate of our earliest aviators. It doesn't pay. Get in to stay and stick, or stay out.

A short time ago a young man with ideas left an extremely conservative firm to go with another concern which appeared to be more progressive. He wrote an ad, which from an artistic and argumentative standpoint was unexcelled. He showed it to his new superior. "Oh, that will never do," he exclaimed. "We tried that argument at one time and didn't receive an answer."

This firm, since that time had been floundering around in a state of unrest and doubtful decision in regard to their advertising, jumping from one idea to another before any of them had been thoroughly tested. Many concerns are doing that very thing now, and then complain that "Advertising doesn't pay." Of course it doesn't, not when done in that slipshod manner. That young man then and there asked permission to have "a plain talk" with his employer. It was granted, and after the subject was thoroughly discussed, he was allowed to use his method, which was admitted as being feasible.

He started on his campaign with a determination "to pound them." He used an attractive cut in the upper left-hand corner of the ad, one which had, at intermittent periods, been used in previous advertising. The results for a time were scarcely noticeable, but in six months the volume of replies pouring in testified to the efficacy of his artistic, well-put ads. As one customer put it, "It was indeed a pleasure to read your advertisement. I looked for it each month."

In this instance this business man became discouraged because, after a few insertions, his ad did not produce apparent results.

Good, careful, well prepared advertising of the steady, "never let up" sort will surely win. The usual business man expresses a poor opinion of another who uses no system in his methods, yet he does precisely the same thing in his advertising.

One extremely important factor is the selection of your advertising mediums. If it is a trade journal, see to it that it is not of the waste-basket variety. Many of them are crammed with miscellaneous articles, most of them uninteresting and not pertaining particularly to the trade, so much so in fact that the subscriber after a few perfunctory attempts to peruse the news matter, throws the paper aside. His time is limited and he refuses to wade through column after column of trash to find the real news.

Find out whether the journal is widely read. The circulation plays an important part, but what you desire, first of all is, to place your ad in the hands of prospective buyers, that class of business men which is on the alert for something new, a class which buys largely.

If it is anywhere that individuality counts it is in publicity methods. There are some business men and houses in this country whose individuality is so pronounced that they are known from Maine to California. The methods of such well-known advertisers can be studied to advantage.

Another factor is being absolutely truthful. Not very many years ago a cigar was a cigar. Today the buyer asks for this or that cigar. He knows values, too, and can tell you whether the manufacturer has used shorts or long filler and if any other than the represented tobacco has been used. Of course there are still men who do not know the difference between the cheapest domestic and a good Havana cigar, but they are in the minority and are not the heavy tobacco consumers.

My advice to every advertiser in every line of business is to study human nature. My contention is that without this knowledge of human nature no man can become entirely proficient in the art of advertising. This is something no correspondence school in the world can instill in one. Don't allow yourself to overlook this sympathy thing, because it is a valuable asset if properly employed. Inject a little personality in your ads, but do not overdo it.

Satisfy yourself that your publicity department is being properly looked after. Eliminate the element of chance. Don't spend hundreds, perhaps thousands of dollars upon advertising, then place it in the hands of one of your men who knows nothing about the subject and, who, because of other duties has very little time to spend upon it. Don't clip an ad out of a paper of a year ago, perhaps one which is elaborately gotten up and occupies half a page and turn it over to the solicitor with instructions to "do the best he can with it," in an eighth page ad.

When one glances over the many trade publications and magazines he cannot help but believe that there is an appalling amount of advertising which is a rank waste of money. A prominent advertising man said recently, "Personally I believe there is more slipshod, inconsistent, reckless, unintelligent, unconvincing, bone-headed, non-producing, unreliable, ill-advised and absolutely harmful advertising being done than ever before."

He further stated that the merchant who does no advertising at all is far better off than he who does it in the wrong way. "I would rather," he said, "depend on my window displays, on personal solicitations, on the personal following of my sales force and other familiar agencies for business."

Do you have the right man writing your ads—are you doing it right yourself? Do you wait until the last minute and then turn in any old thing just to fill space? Are you convinced that your advertising is good? Are the cuts good or are they battered up wrecks which should have seen the scrap heap long ago? Are you promising things on which you cannot make good? Are you blowing your own horn strong enough? Are you spending enough money on your advertising? Until you answer these questions and in a satisfactory manner, you will not get the desired results.

Last, but not least, do not cut down the advertising appropriation when business gets a little duller than usual. When business becomes dull, your advertising should be increased. Prosperity will come. The way to advertise is to advertise all the time. Make every ad the best of its kind that you can write, put it in a good medium and then when your business friends ask you, "Does advertising pay?" you can answer them in an emphatic affirmative way.

Tobacco Novelties and Good Will

TOBACCO novelties as a medium for personal appeal are being used to a larger extent than ever before.

This was illustrated recently in the case of a Western firm introducing their product. It was a comparatively easy matter to get firms to use their goods, but it was practically impossible to be sure that they would be continued in use.

It remained for a wise specialty advertising expert to point out to this concern that what was necessary in addition to introducing their goods to prospective customers, and getting them to try them, was the securing of their good will. In other words, it was necessary to protect their ground so that when it was time to place another order their product would be specified. The specialty advertising expert further pointed out that the average man back of the purchasing agent would resent an offer of a deliberate bribe, but was susceptible to an adroit personal appeal.

So a small tobacco pouch of undressed calfskin was selected as the medium for making this personal appeal. The wonderful success which followed testified to the effectiveness of such methods of securing the much-desired goodwill.

The salesman in the course of his talk with the manager of the firm visited would ask for his initials and home address. He explained his reason for the request by stating that the "house" was distributing a few souvenirs and he was anxious to have his best customers and future customers share in the distribution. The pouches were mailed along with a letter of greeting from the house, which, of course, called attention to the excellence of their goods.

This method not only put the salesman on a friendly footing with the managers, but it gave the concern a mailing list. From time to time they sent data and statements of tests made upon their goods.

The pouch selected was of a good quality leather and carried an advertisement on both sides. The majority of business men nowadays smoke a pipe, if not in the office at least at home, and this distinctive little souvenir was welcomed everywhere.

The actual cost of the pouches was but a trifle as compared with their great "good-will power." The experience of this house is an example of what can be done by every enterprising concern. By the aid of judiciously selected souvenirs and salesmen, who never overlook the important consideration of impressing the prospective customer with the superior points of the goods, a firm places itself in the position where it does not have to go over the same old battlefield in securing re-orders.

So very many business men smoke that tobacco novelties are especially adapted for souvenirs. Another house recently used a pocket lighter for this work, although as a rule the average concern does not care to spend so much on the venture. Cigar cutters, cigar and cigarette cases, match boxes, match scratchers, cigar and cigarette holders, ash trays and dozens of other novelties of this variety are being used more extensively than ever.

Something quite elaborate in this line is being introduced by a Chicago novelty firm. It is a combined cigar case, humidor and advertising display stand. It is made of oxidized metal, the humidor consisting of two metal pans, with a perforated cloth between. Water flows by capillary attraction from one pan to the other and back again, and in that fashion provides the right amount of moisture. The humidor is hidden from sight by the display card which covers the entire front. That firm is now introducing their new novelty to the tobacco manufacturers and jobbers of the country.

Some enterprising cigar and cigarette manufacturers have been distributing really beautiful electric light chandeliers of colored glass. The name of the maker's brand blazes forth on each customer as he enters the store. To any man who is hesitant on what brand to try this lighted chandelier is very apt to "speak the final word" and clinch the sale. This is a particularly fine stroke of publicity advertising.

Enelow Cigar Co., Introducing "Crackerjacks" Stogie

A NEW brand of stogies is about to be put on the market by the Enelow Cigar Company, under the title "Crackerjacks." They will be offered in the 2 for 5-cent and 3 for 5-cent sizes, and be put up in attractive packages. The Enelow factory, at 48 Miller street, Pittsburgh, has been kept quite busy turning out the famous "Zig Zag" stogies, which are being sold through the active work of J. A. Adams, general sales agent. Mr. Adams is about to start for the West, and will go as far as Milwaukee.

John T. Stier & Son to Make N. A. R. D. Line

John T. Stier & Son, of Louisville, Ky., have secured a contract from the Peter-Neat-Richardson Drug Company, of Louisville, for the manufacture of a special line of N. A. R. D. goods, a national brand taking its name from the National Association of Retail Druggists and marketed in Louisville exclusively through the Peter-Neat-Richardson concern. Mr. Stier proposes to put unusual quality in the N. A. R. D. stock and probably will soon be able to boast of a popular-priced special which possesses prestige in its field equal to that of the "Quail."

Brooklyn Jobbers Bankrupt

Leo Schwager & Co., an old and well-known jobbing retail cigar firm of 325 Washington street, Brooklyn, filed a petition in bankruptcy on Saturday, March 16th. The liabilities were reported to be $26,240, of which $9,819 are unsecured claims. The assets were stated to be $15,099. The matter was referred by the judge to the referee, Robert T. Tilney.

A. V. Johnson Buys Retail Store

One of the best known cigar distributors of Lincoln, Neb., A. V. Johnson, has purchased the James J. Kelly cigar stock at 141 South 13th street. Richard Wainwright, of that city, has been engaged to take over the active management of the store.

Herman Hyneman Retires

It was announced recently that Herman Hyneman, who has been the Pacific Coast distributor for the American Tobacco Company, will retire permanently from business owing to his ill health.

Mr. Hyneman has been taking an important part in the Far West tobacco trade for years and directed the policy of distribution of the American Tobacco Company's products. He was advised by his physician to take a long rest and will give up all business activities.

To Handle "Owl" Cigars

The Metropolitan Cigar Company of Denver, prominent jobbers, have taken on the "Owl" cigar of the United Cigar Manufacturers' Company.

J. P. Mericle to Sell "Reynaldo"

Jay P. Mericle, wholesale tobacconist and jobber, who succeeded to the business of E. A. Lowell, at 410 Main street, East Rochester, N. Y., has just taken on the "Reynaldo" brand, of Luckett, Luchs & Lipscomb. He will handle this cigar in three sizes. John Barrett, formerly a salesman in the cigar and tobacco department of Brewster, Gordon & Co., and Frank Maas, formerly employed at the Hub cigar store, are now identified in the capacity of salesmen with Mr. Mericle.

Southern Cigar Co. Gets New Account

The Southern Cigar Company, of New Orleans, has secured the jobbing rights for the "Hernan Cortez" cigars and is doing an excellent business in them.

W. A. Beck Takes on "Nemo" Cigar

W. A. Beck, cigar jobber, of Denver, Col., has taken on the "Nemo" cigar, of the Neumann & Mayer Co., and is well pleased with the way the brand duplicates. He is featuring other brands of this same factory.

Missouri "Houn" Cigar Out

The Holmes-Dakin Cigar Company, of Hannibal, Missouri, have introduced a new brand of cigars, the "Missouri Houn" cigar. Truly that poor hound is being worked to a frazzle.

Woods & Bray Secure New Account

Woods & Bray, the well-known Indianapolis jobbers, have secured the Banner cigar account for the State of Indiana. For so young a house they are showing good results.

Simon Shissler to Handle "Graham Courtneys"

Simon Shissler has taken the distributing agency for the "Graham Courtney" clear Havana cigar, of Acker, Merrall & Condit Co., New York. This is a very popular piece of ten-cent goods and Mr. Shissler proposes that it shall be thoroughly introduced in this city.

The Hunt-Hawes Grocery Co., Fort Worth, Texas, suffered a $75,000 loss by a fire in their plant on the 19th ult. The flames were subdued before the building had been totally destroyed but the damage was caused by smoke and water. The company are jobbers, also, of cigars and tobacco.

The Campbell-Lakin Cigar Company, of Portland, Ore., will move about April 1, from their present quarters at 325 Davis street, to 384 East Stark street, that city. They have been at the Davis street address over three years.

The Dingman-Evans Co., of Tacoma and Portland, have closed their Seattle branch. The trade in that city will be handled hereafter from the Tacoma store.

MEN WHO MADE GOOD

SIDELIGHTS ON INTERESTING TRADE PERSONALITIES

WHETHER the sun shines and women use a needle, it is said that you will find a sewing-machine with the "Singer" label upon it. On the other hand, it is safe to say, that in whatever part of the world men congregate, in their clubs, or elsewhere, and smoke cigars, you are very apt to find a Havana Perfecto with the "Romeo y Julieta" label upon it.

It is an acknowledged fact that almost any man can manufacture a good article, but it takes a genius to know that his wares are good and make the world recognize his belief. Don Jose Rodriguez, or as his intimate friends are in the habit of calling him, "Don Pepin," is admittedly one of the geniuses of the Havana cigar industry.

Some thirty years ago he landed in Cuba from Spain, a lad about 15 years of age, proud, of Castilian birth, but like many of the descendants of the old Spanish families, impoverished. Don Pepin was not the least bit afraid of work and he quickly secured himself a position in a cigar factory and commenced to learn the manufacture of cigars, in every minute detail. His perseverance and sagacity pushed him forward steadily, until he finally became a partner with the late Don Leopoldo Carbajal, then the principal owner of the famous "Hijas de Cabanas y Carvajal" factory. Eventually this factory was sold to the Henry Clay & Bock & Co., Ltd., branch of the American Tobacco Company, and for a time Don Pepin remained a director. He quickly felt, however, that his energies were somewhat cramped under the new conditions, and looking around for an opening to suit him, he ascertained that he could acquire the old "Romeo y Julieta" factory at a comparatively low figure. At this time, however, it might be stated that this brand had no importance whatsoever.

The firm of Rodriguez, Arguelles & Co. was formed and the managing owner started in with a will to manufacture the best cigars which brains, skill and money could produce, with the result, that today no one will dispute for a moment the fact that the "Romeo y Julieta" brand is probably one, if not the best known brand of cigars coming out of the island with a reputation unsurpassed.

Don Pepin is a cosmopolitan in the widest sense and is as well known in New York and in the principal large cities of Europe as he is in Havana. He is a man of wide culture, exceedingly benevolent, and his success in life has only proven a means to him, whereby he could relieve the suffering and assist the needy wherever he met them.

He is a member of all the leading social clubs of Havana, as well as deeply interested in the civic progress of the city and the general welfare of his adopted country. He is a lover of out-of-doors sports, an enthusiastic golfer and backs up his enthusiasm with an open pocketbook.

Only recently Don Pepin contributed $5000 to the Havana Realty Club to assist in the construction of some fine golf links between Marianao and the beach.

He has watched the construction of these links with intense interest and he has induced several of the leading foreign amateur golfers of distinction to assist in the construction of them.

It will be recalled that about a year ago Aviator McCurdy was promised a $5000 prize to make a flight from Key West to Havana and around Morro Castle. There was some hitch in the payment of Mr. McCurdy's prize money and Don Pepin stepped forward with his check for $3000, in recognition of the splendid effort which McCurdy made, although the committee refused to give the aviator the sum promised.

It has been by such actions as these, modestly effected, that Don Pepin has become one of the most interesting and beloved characters in the City of Havana. It is needless to add, that he is always in a good humor, with a most friendly smile and kind word for everyone he meets. Affection and respect have been given him because he deserved it. He has the satisfaction of knowing that whatever he has achieved has been by his own honest efforts.

Enelow Cigar Co., Introducing "Crackerjacks" Stogie

A NEW brand of stogies is about to be put on the market by the Enelow Cigar Company, under the title "Crackerjacks." They will be offered in the 2 for 5-cent and 3 for 5-cent sizes, and be put up in attractive packages. The Enelow factory, at 48 Miller street, Pittsburgh, has been kept quite busy turning out the famous "Zig Zag" stogies, which are being sold through the active work of J. A. Adams, general sales agent. Mr. Adams is about to start for the West, and will go as far as Milwaukee.

John T. Stier & Son to Make N. A. R. D. Line

John T. Stier & Son, of Louisville, Ky., have secured a contract from the Peter-Neat-Richardson Drug Company, of Louisville, for the manufacture of a special line of N. A. R. D. goods, a national brand taking its name from the National Association of Retail Druggists and marketed in Louisville exclusively through the Peter-Neat-Richardson concern. Mr. Stier proposes to put unusual quality in the N. A. R. D. stock and probably will soon be able to boast of a popular-priced special which possesses prestige in its field equal to that of the "Quail."

Brooklyn Jobbers Bankrupt

Leo Schwager & Co., an old and well-known jobbing retail cigar firm of 325 Washington street, Brooklyn, filed a petition in bankruptcy on Saturday, March 16th. The liabilities were reported to be $26,240, of which $9,819 are unsecured claims. The assets were stated to be $15,099. The matter was referred by the judge to the referee, Robert T. Tilney.

A. V. Johnson Buys Retail Store

One of the best known cigar distributors of Lincoln, Neb., A. V. Johnson, has purchased the James J. Kelly cigar stock at 141 South 13th street. Richard Wainwright, of that city, has been engaged to take over the active management of the store.

Herman Hyneman Retires

It was announced recently that Herman Hyneman, who has been the Pacific Coast distributor for the American Tobacco Company, will retire permanently from business owing to his ill health.

Mr. Hyneman has been taking an important part in the Far West tobacco trade for years and directed the policy of distribution of the American Tobacco Company's products. He was advised by his physician to take a long rest and will give up all business activities.

To Handle "Owl" Cigars

The Metropolitan Cigar Company of Denver, prominent jobbers, have taken on the "Owl" cigar of the United Cigar Manufacturers' Company.

J. P. Mericle to Sell "Reynaldo"

Jay P. Mericle, wholesale tobacconist and jobber, who succeeded to the business of E. A. Lowell, at 410 Main street, East Rochester, N. Y., has just taken on the "Reynaldo" brand, of Luckett, Luchs & Lipscomb. He will handle this cigar in three sizes. John Barrett, formerly a salesman in the cigar and tobacco department of Brewster, Gordon & Co., and Frank Maas, formerly employed at the Hub cigar store, are now identified in the capacity of salesmen with Mr. Mericle.

Southern Cigar Co. Gets New Account

The Southern Cigar Company, of New Orleans, has secured the jobbing rights for the "Hernan Cortez" cigars and is doing an excellent business in them.

W. A. Beck Takes on "Nemo" Cigar

W. A. Beck, cigar jobber, of Denver, Col., has taken on the "Nemo" cigar, of the Neumann & Mayer Co., and is well pleased with the way the brand duplicates. He is featuring other brands of this same factory.

Missouri "Houn" Cigar Out

The Holmes-Dakin Cigar Company, of Hannibal, Missouri, have introduced a new brand of cigars, the "Missouri Houn" cigar. Truly that poor hound is being worked to a frazzle.

Woods & Bray Secure New Account

Woods & Bray, the well-known Indianapolis jobbers, have secured the Banner cigar account for the State of Indiana. For so young a house they are showing good results.

Simon Shissler to Handle "Graham Courtneys"

Simon Shissler has taken the distributing agency for the "Graham Courtney" clear Havana cigar, of Acker, Merrill & Condit Co., New York. This is a very popular piece of ten-cent goods and Mr. Shissler proposes that it shall be thoroughly introduced in this city.

The Hunt-Hawes Grocery Co., Fort Worth, Texas, suffered a $75,000 loss by a fire in their plant on the 19th ult. The flames were subdued before the building had been totally destroyed but the damage was caused by smoke and water. The company are jobbers, also, of cigars and tobacco.

The Campbell-Lakin Cigar Company, of Portland, Ore., will move about April 1, from their present quarters at 325 Davis street, to 384 East Stark street, that city. They have been at the Davis street address over three years.

The Dingman-Evans Co., of Tacoma and Portland, have closed their Seattle branch. The trade in that city will be handled hereafter from the Tacoma store.

A BRIGHT young cigar man in Cleveland has the misfortune, or otherwise, to be deeply in love with a lass who lives in Chicago, and I learn confidentially that the date has been set.

Last Saturday it appears that he intended to run on to Chicago to spend the week end, but on second thought he decided that he would save money on account of the approaching expense of the wedding and send a little love message over the 'phone. He secured his number in Chicago all right and the long-distance cooing over the wire commenced. At the end of about thirty minutes of explanation, affection and exclamation, his sweetheart in Chicago heard a loud burst of laughter in Cleveland. "What's the joke?" she demanded. "Nothing," was the response, "only I have talked up the price of a round trip to Chicago, and here goes for a few minutes more."

"Hang up, dearie, and write me," she replied.

"No," said he, "I shall give the telephone company the price of the sleeping berths before I quit."

In a few minutes she asked, "Have you worked out the berths now?"

"Yes," was the game lad's reply, "I have paid for the berths, and now, darling, just one minute more."

"What is that for?" she queried. "The porter's tips," was the mellow reply, simultaneously with the click of the receiver.

I was enjoying a smoke in a Chestnut street store the other day, when a very amusing thing happened. Two cronies, evidently well known to the man behind the counter, sauntered in, rather the worse for—well, it wasn't water, anyway.

"Say, Bill," said the first to the proprietor, "let us have two 'perfectos,' Ed, here, and I have made a bet. When it's settled, the one who loses will come in and pay you."

The deal was made and the chums, after lighting up, started for the door. "Oh, by the way, Bill," said Ed, "we forgot to tell you what the bet was on. Charles says the Athletics are going to occupy Shibe Park for the next 25 years. I claim they won't."

Bill is now speculating as to whether it is advisable to wait 25 years to collect a bill for 50 cents.

He was one of those inquisitive old busybodies who are incessantly looking for trouble, and usually find it. He was especially interested in the working man and lost no opportunity to hand out advice to him when the occasion arose.

One morning as he was taking his customary stroll he noticed a plasterer busy mixing his lime. In his mouth was a short, black "Mick." Walking up to him, he said, "Do you know, my friend, that half the cases of cancer are caused by people smoking those foul, dirty, short, black clay pipes?"

The horny-handed son of toil turned around from his work, glared at his interlocutor a moment, then replied, "Yes, and do you know, Guv'nor, that 'alf of the black eyes in this world is caused by folks not mindin' their own business?"

A TRAVELING man who stutters recently related the following story: He had spent all afternoon trying to get a grouchy business man interested in his goods. This man had taken particular trouble to impress on the salesman his insignificance, and naturally the salesman had made little headway.

As the traveling man was locking up his grip, preparatory to his leaving, the grouch was impolite enough to remark in the presence of his clerks: "You must find that impediment in your speech very inconvenient at times."

"Oh, n-no," replied the salesman. "Every one has his p-peculiarity. S-stammering is mine. What's y-yours?"

"I am not aware that I have any," replied the merchant.

"D-d you stir y-your coffee with your r-right hand?" asked the salesman.

"Why, yes, of course," replied the merchant, a bit puzzled.

"W-well," said the salesman, "t-that's your p-peculiarity. Most p-people use a t-teaspoon."

This salesman, in relating the story afterwards, remarked, "I don't b-believe in trying much of that stuff on p-people, but this f-fellow was so confounded disagreeable that I think I was justified."

Waterbury, Conn., claims the distinction of having the only woman in New England, who owns, manages and manufactures cigars. This is Mrs. J. M. Moss, a widow, who has managed the business, in that city, since the death of her husband, seven years ago.

"I had learned a number of things about cigars when my husband was living, and felt sure that if I kept up the quality of the cigar, it would continue to sell," said Mrs. Moss, recently. "I kept the books and knew all about the accounts."

At the time of her husband's death, he was employing two men. Mrs. Moss doubled her force when she took charge and within a year had increased the number to ten. She has encountered considerable difficulty, having been compelled to bring lawsuits against several concerns, infringing on her label, but she has brought them all to a successful conclusion, as her present large trade testifies.

The good die young. It's always the fellows who used whiskey and tobacco all their lives who live to be a hundred.

No one will gainsay the fact that a zealous man with a hobby is likely to prove dangerous, especially, if added to his zeal, there is a lack of clear comprehension of existing conditions.

The Postmaster-General of the United States is an enthusiastic young fellow who has decided on his own account that the Post Office system of this country shall be run at a profit, even if he has to impose a certain amount of indirect taxation upon the people. To attack national education is to attack the ethics of the nation, and if the Hughes Postal Commission recommendations are accepted by Congress itself, it is apparent to every well-informed publisher that hundreds, if not thousands, of valuable educational publications must either suspend or force their needy readers to pay an additional tax to the government in the form of increased postage.

Take THE TOBACCO WORLD for instance, which weighs about a pound per issue. It is mailed to the trade 24 times a year at a cost of 24 cents for carriage. If second-class postage is increased to 2 cents per pound, it will inevitably lead to an increase of the price of subscription for a sufficient amount to cover this added cost of manufacture and delivery.

Mark this. There is not a publication printed in the United States today, which could, for a moment, be issued to its readers for the price paid for subscription alone. The actual manufacture and delivery of a publication such as ours costs the publishers $2.04 per year. We sell it for one dollar per year.

Our country has grown great because of broad thinking men, who have been in control of our national departments. The action whereby the present Postmaster-General places our publications on the basis with potatoes as freight, and which results in a delay in the delivery of a publication from four to five days, is in our estimation, a dangerous sign and one which should warrant us in seriously considering whether a change of management would not be expedient.

Figures in themselves mean little, but to the student of trade conditions they always disclose much of interest.

The reports issued last week by Director Durand, of the Bureau of the Census, relating to the importance of the leading manufacturing industries have attracted much attention.

Only industries having a gross value of products of $100,000,000 or more during the year 1909 were considered. The manufacture of tobacco and cigars is rated as the tenth of importance in the United States in so far as the average of wages is concerned; 166,810 wage earners drawing their living from this industry.

During the year 1909 the value of the manufactured products of tobacco, cigars, cigarettes, etc., was computed to reach the tremendous total of $416,695,000 showing an increase in a decade of fifty-eight per cent. flat in the value of the goods produced. This seems stupendous on its face, but as a matter of fact the tobacco and cigar industry has not increased with anything like the proportion that other industries have.

The metal trade, oil, cotton, and knit goods all show very much greater proportioned increases than our own industry.

The growth, however, has been healthy and there is no cause to worry about the general future of the industry at large.

Another interesting lot of figures issued by the Department of Commerce and Labor on the same date, indicates an increase in the export of tobacco from the United States as being well-maintained.

On the verge of what promises to be a disastrous cut-price war on imported cigars, those who are about to engage in it, would do well to pause and consider the possible consequences.

That Cut Price War on Imported Cigars The reputable imported cigar has been about the only class which has not been, at sometime or other, cut to death by bargain-makers. For this reason, there has always been a certain dignity, prestige, as well as profit, in handling the well-known imported brands.

In face of the fact that the percentage of profit to the retailer in selling imported cigars is not as large as it is on the average domestic cigar, whether it be clear Havana or seed Havana, we now find a disposition among certain factors in the trade, to shave the margin closer than ever. We cannot see that any ultimate good will come to anyone from cutting down the small profit they are now obtaining.

True, it may move more cigars to the consumer, but as soon as the price cannot be maintained at the cut-rate level, the consumer, who has been wooed from other brands, will be quick to return to them.

Argument is advanced by a prominent New York chain-store man that the reason more imported cigars were not sold at retail, was the fact that they moved too slowly to be kept in proper condition. This is a sophistical argument and will deceive no one.

If a cigar merchant thinks enough of his business to keep his stock well preserved, he will have no difficulty in maintaining his imported lines in the best condition.

It is the hope of those who have the best interests of imported cigars at heart, that the threatened war will fizzle out before it gets under way.

JOHN BREITWEISER AND SONS

The Breitweisers of Buffalo

FIFTY years ago, John Breitweiser and his two brothers commenced the manufacture of cigars in a modest way in a little shop in Buffalo, N. Y., under the firm name of H. & J. Breitweiser. Today at the corner of Washington street and Mohawk street, with a double frontage on Washington street, 477 and 479, stands a fine, modern, four-story store and factory building and the sign over the door is unchanged after a half century. Although two of the original firm have joined the Great Majority, John Breitweiser, one of the founders is yet the active head of the close corporation which conducts the business and with his three sons, who are officers of the company, they are celebrating this year their Golden Jubilee.

The Breitweiser product includes such leading goods as "My Own Brand," which is rated as one of the oldest brands of 3 for 25 cents cigars in America, and sells at the rate of a million a year; "Our Taste," which is their highest-

Frank M. Garcia, Inc., Make "Prince Richards"

During the past week, F. M. Garcia, who was a former partner in the Porto Rican cigar firm of Alvarez & Garcia, opened a new factory at 128 Water street, New York, where he will devote himself to the manufacture of clear Havana goods. Mr. Garcia has several brands under consideration, but, for the present, will feature "Prince Richard" as his leader.

The new concern has obtained a charter under the corporate name of Frank M. Garcia, Inc.

J. Weissberger has opened a cigar store at 1315 Boston Road, Bronx. This is an up-to-date store.

priced cigar made in six sizes from 10 cents to 25 cents, and a splendid piece of goods both as to workmanship and quality; "Princess," "Commercial," and several other 10-cent brands as well as their standard "5 Penny Weight," "Mohawk" and "Seal of Buffalo," in 5-cent goods. They have manufactured cigar clippings for over forty years and this is also an important branch of their business.

We have pleasure in reproducing herewith a portrait of the two generations in the business, which includes John Breitweiser, president and treasurer of the company, and his three sons, two of whom Harvey J., and J. Roscoe Clay Breitweiser are respectively vice-president and secretary of the company.

Although their entire business life has been spent in Buffalo, this company and its goods are favorably and widely known all over the United States, and it is almost needless to add that wherever they are known the makers and their wares are deeply respected.

Tampa Co-operative Cigar Co. Opens New York Office

During the past two weeks, The Tampa Co-operative Cigar Co., makers of clear Havana cigars, whose factory is in Tampa, has established a New York office at 23 Duane street. Their leading brand is the "Quevedo" cigar, on which they have already taken a number of large orders in Brooklyn. They are planning to open a branch office in Chicago very shortly.

The stock of Porto Rico cigars belonging to Alvarez & Garcia, 27 William street, New York, who failed last month, were sold at a receiver's auction sale on Wednesday, March 27th. This winds up the assets of this company.

Sale of Sulzberger-Oppenhimer Co., Ltd.

Purchase of Company Gives Theobald & Oppenhimer Several Valuable Brands

ONE of the most important announcements of the past fortnight is that the Theobald & Oppenhimer Company, a subsidiary of the United Cigar Manufacturing Company, has purchased the entire business, trade-marks, brands and good will of the Sulzberger-Oppenhimer Co., Ltd., Philadelphia.

Since the death of his partner, Mr. Oppenhimer, on March 6, Mr. Sulzberger has been arranging the amalgamation although it is understood it has been under consideration for some time. The stockholders of the United Cigar Manufacturing Company provided for the sale out of an issue of new stock recently, which amounted to $5,000,000.

This purchase gives the Theobald & Oppenhimer Co. a number of valuable brands and trade-marks, including among others, the splendid leader, "Campanello," which has long been recognized as one of the most desirable pieces of goods in broadleaf wrapped Havana cigars coming out of Philadelphia. Some of the other well-known cigars, "Lord Curzon," "Ben Rush," "Latona," and "Delores" are of such high standing among the centres of distribution that they need no comment here.

The factory force of the company is now hard at work taking an account of stock preparatory to the formal transfer which is to be made as soon as possible. It is understood that the old employes and connections of the company will be retained.

HJ. SCHWAB, one of Dayton, Ohio's best known cigar merchants, stopped off in Philadelphia, during the past week, and called at the factory of Antonio Roig & Langsdorf. Mr. Schwab was returning from a two months' sojourn in Florida and halted in Philadelphia long enough to renew a lifelong acquaintanceship with the "Roig" factory, and also, to bring the good news that not only the "Roig" cigars, but also their new "Girards" are selling as never before, from his Dayton store. The sale on "Girards" has tripled within the past two months.

J. R. Vetterlein, of the cigar manufacturing firm of Vetterlein Bros., returned from a trip through the South on which he conferred with the leading jobbers and distributors of the "Saboroso" and other cigars that have made the Vetterlein factory famous from coast to coast.

Jacob Loeb Langsdorf and Jacob L. Krauss have just completed a quick trip through Pittsburgh and Cleveland in the interest of Roig & Langsdorf "Girard" cigar. They called on the distributors in that territory and found that "Girards" are selling briskly.

United Company Purchases Waterbury Store

THE United Cigar Stores Company, on March 19, purchased the lease and stock of the drug store of James W. Cone, of Waterbury, Conn. The location, West Main street and Exchange Place, is considered one of the very best, it having a frontage on two of the busiest streets of the city. Mr. Cone will continue to run the store until May 1, so as to enable him to get rid of his stock.

The United Stores Company have been trying to buy the lease for several years. It is not known just what price was paid, but is thought to be in the neighborhood of $12,000. This purchase is in accordance with the well-established policy of the company of obtaining the best locations possible. After extensive alteration the place will be opened.

Tobacco Products for February

The following is a table showing the numbers and quantities of tobacco products upon which the internal revenue tax was paid in February, 1912, also giving figures for the same month of 1911.

| | 1912 Number | 1911 Number |
|---------------|----------------|----------------|
| Cigars | 528,066,186 | 524,982,476 |
| Little cigars | 80,179,293 | 97,118,866 |
| Cigarettes | 910,631,970 | 671,732,392 |

Emil Kleiner, of E. Kleiner & Co., has been in Boston during the past week, and has managed to make the trip profitable by a number of good orders on their popular "La Famosa" five-cent goods.

Maurice Wertheim, secretary of the United Cigar Manufacturing Company, returned to New York on the 27th ultimo, after a brief trip out West which took him as far as Denver. Mr. Wertheim struck some blizzard weather, coming across Kansas en route home, but he reports trade conditions with his firm as especially satisfactory nevertheless.

Ferris & Grady Treble Capital

FERRIS & GRADY, wholesale cigar dealers of 200 Third street, South Minneapolis, Minn., who located in that city about eight years ago, have increased their capital stock from $50,000 to $150,000.

This firm operates two cigar stores in Minneapolis and plans to establish two more retail stores in that city. They will also put another salesman in the Minneapolis territory. Under its new arrangement the firm will handle much of the factory outputs of Boltz, Clymer & Co., of Philadelphia and Tampa; Sanchez & Haya, Tampa, and A. Davis Sons & Co., Cincinnati.

New Store For Dayton Distributors

EISENBERGER BROS., well-known distributors and retailers of cigars at Dayton, O., expect to occupy their new store on the S. E. corner Third & Main streets, that city, this week. The store will be one of the most finely equipped in central Ohio. Just at present the Eisenbergers are making a big feature of the "El Portana" cigars, manufactured by G. J. Johnson Cigar Co., Grand Rapids, Mich.

Fernando Cardenas Returns Home

Fernando Cardenas, one of the owners of the Castaneda factory, sailed for Havana again after a brief conference in New York with Dave Echemendia, the United States representative of the factory. He cut his visit short owing to the inclement weather.

McHie-Scotten Tobacco Company

The McHie-Scotten Tobacco Co., of Detroit, Mich., recently purchased the merchandise, leaf tobacco, brands and good-will of the Scotten Tobacco Company, of that city. It has no other connection with its business and assumes none of its liabilities.

Tampa Factories Kept Busy

Clear Havana Cigar Manufacturers Association Trying to Have "Tampa-Made" Seal Adopted—A. Santaella Receives Orders for 1,500,000 Cigars in One Week

TAMPA, FLA., March 27. STUDENTS of conditions in the cigar industry were highly gratified when, for the week ending March 16, the report of shipments showed the total of 5,590,000 cigars, exceeding by more than 200,000 the shipments of the week previous, and setting a new record for the March business. This elation was subdued to some extent, however, by the shipments for the week ending March 23 when there was a falling off of about 400,000. The explanation given is the number of immediate delivery orders filled in the week of March 16 and the absence of these in the week following. The withdrawals for the past week, however, have been the largest of the present year, which means that there will be large shipments this week. Beginning Monday, March 25, practically all the larger factories here added to their working forces and it is safe to say that the output for the present week will reach more than one million a day.

Tampa is just now engaged in its biennial municipal political campaign, in which the cigar manufacturers take much interest. Their interest this year is keener than usual, because the present Mayor, D. B. McKay, is a candidate for re-election and they feel that this re-election is essential to the uninterrupted progress of the industry. Mayor McKay's attitude during the long strike, when he took positive steps to protect the property and the lives of cigar manufacturers and those workmen who could be induced to work in defiance of the strikers, was regarded by the manufacturers as indispensable in maintaining their position against the agitators. The Mayor has two opponents, H. P. Baya and W. H. Frecker, and the election will be determined at a white municipal primary, to be held April 9.

Representative S. M. Sparkman, of this district, has introduced in the House a bill intended to settle the much-agitated "free smoker" question, which has been giving the manufacturers and workmen, as well, some concern of late. This bill provides that the manufacturers need not pack nor pay the tax on five per cent. of the total number of cigars produced, these cigars to be "used for the personal use of himself and his employees, but not for sale or profit." The manufacturers hope the bill will become a law at the present session, as the attitude of the official of the Treasury Department in insisting on the payment of the internal revenue tax on the cigars furnished, the cigarmakers for their personal use, and known as "smokers," has kept them for some time in a state of uncertainty as to just how to proceed.

Efforts are now being made by the Clear Havana Cigar Manufacturers Association, of Tampa, to have adopted a distinctive stamp or seal which will designate all Tampa-made cigars. Mayor McKay recently received a letter from E. C. Berriman, of Berriman Bros., urging that such action be taken by the City Council and Board of Trade of the city, and the matter has also been taken up by the Manufacturers Association. President A. L. Cuesta, of the association, before leaving on his present trip to Eastern cities, warmly approved the idea and stated that something definite in this direction would be accomplished in a short time.

Everything is rushing at the factory of Guerra, Diaz & Company and Harry Culbreath, of the traveling sales force, is sending in some fine orders in the course of his trip to the Coast. The factory is not encountering any dull days.

Y. Pendas & Alvarez report a good stream of orders for their famous "Webster" brand. They have recently added to their working force, to keep pace with the increasing demands for their goods.

Mortimer and Jerome Regensburg have been in Tampa for several weeks, attending to affairs at the local factory of their firm. They have been stopping at the Tampa Bay Hotel and will leave in a few days for New York.

Samuel I. Davis & Company are rapidly filling the big order for 500,000 cigars recently received from Horn & Co., of San Francisco. They are making the shipments in 75,000 lots.

Julio and Jorge Leon, of P. San Martin & Leon, have returned from a visit to Cuba, where they inspected the tobacco fields and found the prospects excellent for a fine crop.

Jerome Windmuller, of Salvador Sanchez & Co., has resumed his duties at the factory, after a severe illness.

Rey, Strauss & Co. report increasing demand for their "Mi Rey" brand and they are opening new territory where the goods are being rapidly introduced.

Speaking of large orders, the factory of A. Santaella & Co. takes the record for the past week, having put on file orders for a total of 1,500,000 cigars during that period. Most of these cigars are for immediate shipment. Over 500 men are now employed at this factory, and it is turning out an average of 75,000 every day.

Sam Levine, of Francis Bolano & Co., has started out in the Southern territory for his firm, and A. M. Seckbach is en route to the Pacific Coast, stopping at important points to get acquainted with the trade.

Philip Verplanck and family, who have been stopping at the Tampa Bay Hotel several weeks, have left for the Pacific Coast, stopping en route at Mobile and New Orleans.

A social event of much interest in cigar circles was the eight-course luncheon given at Ballast Point, Tuesday, by Mrs. Salvador Rodriguez. The table was beautiful with decorations of cut flowers and ferns. The guests of Mrs. Rodriguez were Mrs. D. B. McKay, wife of the Mayor, and wives and daughters of prominent manufacturers, including Mrs. P. Arguelles, Mrs. P. Kellher, Mrs. Frank R. Diaz, Mrs. Vicente Guercia, Mrs. Philip Verplanck, Mrs. A. A. Martinez, Mrs. M. Menendez, Mrs. Jose Cosio, Mrs. E. Ortiz, Mrs. Benjamin Cosio, Mrs. Joaquin Lopez, Mrs. F. G. Mahoney, Mrs. T. Arguelles, Misses Fallie Guerra, Georgine Monrose, Christine Mahoney, Grace Haines, V. Verplanck and Madeline Guerra.

J. R. Burns, of Lozano & Co., has started on a thirty-day trip over his territory.

M. A. Gunst & Company are putting out about 25,000 of the "Van Dyck" and "Invincible" brands daily.

Spring Stimulates Cincinnati Trade

CINCINNATI, March 27, 1912.

THE approach of spring has stimulated the cigar business considerably, especially the advertised brands. The manufacturers are busy with orders for immediate delivery as well as for future shipments, distributors anticipating an early summer trade.

The American Tobacco Company has disposed of its interests in the Thos. Cusack Co. (which it controlled through a subsidiary concern), to Ph. Morton, who now owns the bulletin and bill posting privileges of Cincinnati. No announcement has been made regarding the disposition of the Thos. Cusack plants in Louisville and other nearby cities.

The Geo. A. Voise Cigar Co., located in the Pickering Building, is giving with every dollar purchase of "Plantista" perfecto cigar, a handsome seal leather cigar case, with the name of the purchasers printed on same in gilt letters.

The "Brod-Vana" cigar, of the Federal Cigar Company, which is being distributed in Cincinnati by the J. B. Moos Co., is duplicating nicely throughout this section. It is packed in 40's, in tin cans.

F. H. Berning & Son, the Maine street jobbers and cigar manufacturers, report business as being very satisfactory in both departments. This is one of the oldest Cincinnati tobacco concerns and their "King Herald" cigar has an excellent sale.

Lee Cahn, the Union Trust Building cigar dealer, has acquired a new panatella shaped Bull-dog cigar, made by John W. Merriam, of New York City.

H. L. Kierstein, of 2513 Vine street, although located considerably out of the cigar manufacturing zone, has worked up a good trade on his "Why Not" "Cluquot Bouquet" and other brands, and at the present time is working the full capacity of his factory.

W. D. Spalding, the Burley leaf tobacco broker, has taken as a partner his son, Lee M., the firm being known as W. D. Spalding and Son. They do the buying on this market for the P. Lorillard Co., of Jersey City; Sir W. C. MacDonald, of Montreal, Canada, and others.

There has been no auction sale of cigar leaf in this city for a number of weeks. At the local Burley tobacco breaks, last week, 1720 hogsheads were disposed of, of which 1525 were of the 1911 crop. The latter brought a price averaging $10.20 per hundred pounds, while the old sold at $10.70 per hundred pounds.

Better Weather Helps Los Angeles Trade

LOS ANGELES, March 25.

WITH the return of clear weather after a few days of rain, Southern California retail trade has increased a little and steady improvement is expected by everyone. The jobbers are all busy and have their men out covering their respective territories. Collections are good.

Rob Gans, of J. J. Gans Bros. Co., is now covering the San Joaquin Valley territory and judging from the orders he has been sending in, Bob must be on the job all the time, and the shipping department is working overtime to get the orders out.

Detroit Awaiting Better Weather

"Cadillaqua", a Carnival, to Be Held July 24—Spietz-Worch Co. Offering Premiums to Employees

DETROIT, March 26.

IT has been a long, hard winter, such as has not been known here in forty years. We have long since grown weary of Messrs. Low Temperature, Rough Wind, and Heavy Snow, and wistfully await April showers and springtime flowers. Occasionally, in recent days, Miss Gentle Spring has made ineffectual steps to "bait in." She's hovering about though and one of these fine mornings we'll awake to find her sitting in our door yard holding her infant blossoms in her lap.

The writer offers one year's subscription to THE TOBACCO WORLD to the first Detroit person reporting a robin within the city boundaries. Report date, time of day, and location. Also whether or no you heard the robin sing. Now, come on, you "first robin" liars!

Expression from widely differing sources as to trade conditions seems to clearly establish that, in comparison with other centres, Detroit has no valid cause for complaint. The gross volume has likely depreciated somewhat, largely owing to very unfavorable weather, and inadequate freight and transportation facilities. Shipments are delayed on all sides, both incoming and outgoing, naturally hampering production and sales.

Our cigar and tobacco factories, under present circumstances, are, with one or two exceptions, confronted with no shortage of help. Scotten, Dillon & Co. maintain their marvelous gait. Bagley & Co., in their magnificent new plant, which they have occupied now just one year, bear wholesome evidences of activity and stir. A recent brand, "Old Colony," (for pipe or cigarette) has met with flattering success in those distributing centres wherein it has thus far been introduced.

The Spietz-Worch Co. factory, while not the only cigar factory that can make use of additional help is perhaps singular in its urgent need of more labor to meet immediate demands. Necessity is the mother of invention, and among other devices, the firm have conceived the idea of giving premiums to their employees for recruiting cigarmakers. Bulletins, posted conspicuously in the building, announce cash prizes of various amounts, in the aggregate fifty dollars, to be paid the various employees ranking highest in the number of recruits secured between March 1st and 31st; the sole stipulation being that the recruit must be a competent mechanic and must remain continuously in the service of the company for at least one month.

How successful the scheme will prove I am unable to state; nor whether it will stir unfriendly feelings in the breasts of fellow-manufacturers, or prompt them to emulate the Spietz-Worch Co. and possibly outbid them. Certainly it is a more ethical and agreeable method to employ in securing help than the practice of waylaying cigar makers at street corners and calling at their homes nights and Sundays, the superintendent and foremen of one factory, striving by questionable means to seduce labor from others, and vice versa; a practice that was all too common some years back and that is not altogether in disuse, if current reports are to be believed.

To the credit of Detroit proprietors though, be it said that they have a fair appreciation of communion of interests. To them there is significance in the scriptural lines, "Behold, how good and how pleasant it is for brethren to dwell together in unity!"

Great interest is centered in the new Sumatra. Advance cards have been received from representatives of a number of importing houses. Some are already on the ground with samples of the new goods. From what has been observed thus far, it is judged that the new goods are high, but surpass in quality. Their yielding qualities have, to the present writing, not been determined in this market as far as I can ascertain. I hope to give a fuller report in your next issue.

The "Big Noise" this summer is going to be "Cadillaqua." Cadillaqua is a celebration to be "pulled off" by the city of Detroit during the week of July 24th, and will be a Mardi Gras, Venetian Festival, Rose Carnival, and Veiled Prophets rolled up in one great, grand and glorious land and water festival. Cadillaqua is not named after the Cadillac automobile, but one of its features will be an auto parade in which will appear twenty-five million dollars' worth of pleasure and commercial motor cars. Long ago the writer urged that some one grab "Cadillaqua" for a cigar title and now I learn that M. A. La Fond was the "wise guy" who did it. The cigar will appear in the near future; just in what form I do not know.

The Mazer Cigar Manufacturing Company are comfortably established in their new factory building now. They are busily engaged in promoting sales of "Villa Vista" and "La Cavalerie." Henry Mazer is working in Bay City and vicinity with the Saginaw Valley Drug Company, who have taken over the "Villa Vista" in their territory.

Harry Farbstein, of the San Telmo office force, sails April 9th, on S. S. Noordam, from New York for Amsterdam. He will see home folks and incidentally visit the tobacco markets. "Pastoras" will move just the same while Harry is away, but meanwhile we will miss his bright and shining countenance, while the two Herb's will have to be twice as affable and pleasant as they already are.

Ang. Lamberg, one of our most painstaking and reliable manufacturers, finds a steady consistent demand from his established accounts. Mr. Lamberg's goods are of the character that deserve repetition. His two principal brands are, "A. G. L." a broadleaf wrapped, 10c, and "Lamberg Special," a 5c, smoke.

Extensive alterations are being made by B. Schwartz in the building recently occupied by him. Meanwhile he is temporarily in the former premises at 271 E. High street.

Vendome Cigar Manufacturing Company is the style under which a small cigar plant was started, March 1st, at No. 162 Randolph street.

Meldrum Brothers, corner St. Anbin and Antietam streets, are reported as doing a very nice business, sales in ten-cent goods being unusually brisk.

E. Chauncey Damon, formerly in charge of the Harry W. Watson Company local headquarters, is now selling for the organization and is making things hum.

Miss Della Sanjule, who suffered an attack of diphtheria, is back at the Charlevoix stand. Mrs. Wells, of the same stand, who has been ill for several weeks with typhoid, is less fortunate and does not show great improvement. It is sincerely hoped though that her recovery will not be long delayed.

Miss Alice Ludlum, formerly at Hotel St. Claire, is now in charge of Watson's Hotel Burns stand.

Harry Watson left, March 18th, for rest and health to which he proposes to devote himself for a few weeks at French Lick Springs.

V. Courtney, of Hotel Pontchartrain stand, it is understood has accepted a state job with the Cadillac Cigar Co., pushing "King Albert" cigars and other goods.

A three hundred dollar electric sign will soon be in place at the Woodward and Jefferson angle of the Best & Russell Co. store. Fred J. Harris, manager of the store, is delighted with the way business has been steadily coming ever since the start last July.

On March 7th the H. W. Watson Co. sold the Hotel Gorman stand to Wm. J. Gorman, former owner, who will continue the stand under the direction of R. A. Pyle, who served there for some time before the change and is familiar with the patronage of the place and its requirements.

Daisy, Meldrum, Hotel Cadillac, has added "El Verso" to "Pastora," "Preferencia" and other successful broadleaf brands. Among her Havana line, "La Selonah," made by the Surety Cigar Co., has proven a prime favorite ever since she placed it last September, which can be regarded as a high testimonial to the merits of this cigar as patrons of the Hotel Cadillac are of the most discriminating.

"This place hasn't been cleaned since Noah landed," said Joe Tobias, referring to the store of M. Tobias & Co., 277 Woodward avenue. Joe is well-known to the trade here and New York. He broke in with Sim Harb on Campus Martins here seventeen years ago. On St. Patrick's Day, 1911, (after several minor operations) he lost his leg by amputation. The surgeons and nurses didn't give him one chance in one thousand but the following morning he was propped in bed reading the sporting dope. Joe has been in charge of the present store since October 1st. The store is being renovated and brightened.

Gustave Berger, Imperia Cigar Company, 361 Woodward, is (temporarily at least) out of business. He is anticipating an operation for cataract of the eye, in the near future.

Alterations are planned to improve the front of the La Azara cigar store, 304 Woodward avenue, formerly owned by J. C. Reedy, but now in the hands of Barbas & Morris. The latter gentlemen are proprietors of the Woodward Candy Kitchen, 297 Woodward avenue; also a similar place at No. 17 Cadillac Square.

A handy price list has been received which was issued by the cigar department of Hunt & Rittenhouse, Cheboygan, Mich. The department features exclusively the cigars of Justin Seibert, Syracuse and New York City.

Mr. Charles S. Brundage, of this city, representing Justin Seibert factory, just returned from a Western trip devoted primarily to pushing their broadleaf wrapped "Vicar."

The Cuban Market

From Our
Exclusive Bureau
Neptuno 24
Alto
Havana, Cuba.

HAVANA, March 23.

HEREAFTER we shall have no more talk about the coming crop, or the growing of same. Although there is still some tobacco in the fields, the cutting has to come to an end in the month of April, and this will finish the quantity that could possibly be raised. During the past fortnight, quite a number of the fore-runners of Remedios lots, as well as some Vuelta Abajo and Semi Vuelta have come to our market, so it might be said, that the season has opened, although the bulk of the regular packings may not start up until May or as late as the first of June. If the rainy season should commence during April, nobody would wait until June, as this year the lighter kind of leaf will not require so much fermentation in the piles, as the heavier leaf in former years.

Some of the very early harvested tobacco which has been thoroughly dried hanging in the sheds, could, thanks to the frequent rains, be bundled and thrown into piles undergoing the first sweat, and this kind of tobacco may be fit for packing next month in the Partido district. The same may take place in the Semi Vuelta section, while Vuelta Abajo in all probability will be one month later. As far as Remedios is concerned, some farmers and packers have been hurrying the escogidas of the temprano leaf, and it almost looks as if we shall have weekly receipts from the country henceforth.

Up to the present, thirteen different lots have arrived from the country, but they were consigned to only four dealers. As usual our German export houses were eager to buy and ship the new tobacco to their customers in Germany, in order to find out what acceptance this leaf would meet with among the manufacturers in the fatherland. The prices paid for these first lots were high, comparatively speaking, particularly if the crop should in reality be as large as it is claimed to be, but it remains to be seen what Germany is willing to pay this year, although there is hardly any doubt but that the class and style of leaf will be acceptable to that market. This kind of tobacco will doubtless be also in demand for Canada, and by those Tampa and Key West manufacturers, who are making a cheap kind of cigar to compete with the Porto Rican and Manila 5-cent goods.

It is still premature to say, approximately, what the total quantity of the whole crop of the island of Cuba may amount to, but the probability is more in favor of the first estimate of "El Tabaco" of 700,000 bales, as being correct in the main. As far as the quality is concerned, there is no doubt either, that the same will be mostly light up to a medium quality but there may be very little, if any, of the very heavy styles. In all probability we shall have some excellent tobacco this year, some fair, medium and perhaps also some poor leaf. The vegueros in the Vuelta Abajo will very likely obtain good figures for their choice vegas, as the demand may be active for them, while the medium grades may have to be sold at low figures. The same may hold true of Semi Vuelta and Partido, but how the vegueros may ultimately fare is hard to predict in the Santa Clara province.

When the crop is small they are getting perhaps high prices for the little they may have to sell, but this year with the abundance of the crop they have had extra high expenses for more poles, wood to build more drying sheds, and extra wages for more help in cutting the enormous quantity of tobacco, constructing the houses, etc., and the question is, whether, after all, they will realize enough money from their tobacco to pay their living expenses.

It is reported that sales have been made at $6, $6.50, $7, $7.50 and $8 per 100, which appear to us as very good figures, and if all the farmers could sell their bundles at these prices they would have no reason to complain, but it is feared that many of them may have to do their own packing, and the question arises whether they would finally be able to sell their packed tobacco at perhaps only a trifle above the cost of the escogida, thus leaving them hardly anything for their crop.

Our packers that are paying the above quoted prices are also running a great risk, whether they will be able to recoup themselves in the sale of their escogidas, as nobody could predict what the future ruling prices may be for the great quantity of light leaf.

The heavy styles fit for the North are only estimated at from ten to twenty per cent., therefore, if to the original cost of the bundled tobacco is added the high cost of the escogida, the final cost price of the packed tobacco may not attract buyers, and in order to finally make sales the owner may have to sell below cost. The outlook for the packer is therefore by no means a pleasing one, and for this reason, many houses which formerly have packed tobacco every year, have determined to desist this spring. So, after all, if a small crop is a hardship, an abundant one may be even worse for the farmer and packer, although the manufacturer may have, at last, his turn after so many years of waiting for lower prices, and this is, at least, one satisfaction for the latter.

The past fortnight in our leaf market has been even quieter than the previous one, because the small number of Northern buyers who have visited us have bought very sparingly, just enough to supply themselves with a few needed grades, and have come mainly for the purpose to convince themselves about the prospects of the present crop; and as business in Tampa and Key West is still very unsatisfactory the manufacturers of these important centres have manifested no concern to lay in more stocks of old goods. It remains to be seen how they will act when there should be a selection of the 1912 crop in our market, although as business cannot remain stagnant for any length of time it is to be hoped that there will be a change for the better soon. The German buyers have been very actively acquiring all the first lots of new Remedios, but there will come a lull until they receive cable advices how the tobacco and prices have suited the buyers in Bremen and Hamburg. It is predicted that considerably lower prices will have to be accepted in future for these German styles. The buyer for South America continues to operate every week in our market, taking hold of all the low grades of heavy quality, and which, it is said, are used for making cigarettes, as it appears, that there exist no cigar factories in Buenos Ayres. Some Vuelta Abajo Colas have also been sold to our local cigarette manufacturers. The few stocks of heavy quality goods in our market of the old crop are held confidently by the owners at former prices.

Sales during the past fortnight only totaled 3828 bales or which divided were: Vuelta Abajo, 1224; Partido, 722, and Remedios, 1882 bales.

Buyers were: Americans, 1437; Exporters to Europe, 364; Shippers to South America, 952, and our local cigar and cigarette manufacturers, 1075 bales.

Exports of Cigars Show Increase.

The statistical position of our market has improved, according to the customhouse returns, showing the exports per fortnight, from February 16th to March 15th, 1912, and compared with the same period of 1911, viz.:

| | | |
|--|-------------------|-------------------|
| From February 16th to February 29th, 1912. | 5,063,462 cigars | |
| From March 1st to March 15th, 1912. | 8,006,512 do | 13,069,974 cigars |
| From February 16th to February 28th, 1911. | 4,762,080 do | |
| From March 1st to March 15th, 1911. | 6,199,729 do | 10,961,809 do |
| | Increase in 1912. | 2,108,165 cigars |

|--|-------------------|
| From January 1st, 1911, to March 15th, 1911. | 33,192,715 cigars |
| do do 1st, 1912, to do 15th, 1912. | 31,899,159 do |
| | Decrease in 1912. |
| | 1,293,556 cigars |

The chief increases by countries during the past four weeks were: The United States, 392,544; Canada, 332,175; Great Britain, 324,324; Chili, 232,802; Germany, 230,030; French Africa, 156,750; Uruguay, 90,604; Canary Islands, 75,650; Australia, 225,942; United States of Columbia, 58,100; Italy, 43,000; Belgium, 34,925, and France, 30,296 cigars.

The only decrease of importance was to the Argentine Republic, 77,168 cigars.

The above figures ought to be satisfactory, but as the increase has not been equally distributed among all the factories, it appears, that the few large concerns have profited most and the medium and smaller ones have not been benefited at all. However, when the new crop shall be in a condition to be workable, it is to be hoped that all factories will derive a corresponding profit from the better quality of the leaf and more moderate prices for same.

H. Upmann & Co. continue to report a very satisfactory business in all directions, as orders are arriving regularly and in fair volume.

Romeo y Julieta states that there is no change in its accustomed activity at this season of the year.

Partagas is still working with a full house, and its South American trade is particularly good.

"Sol" has no reason to complain, as the orders on hand, and those which are coming forward, keep the factory fully occupied.

Castañeda is steadily forging to the front, as the different qualities of its cigars are receiving well merited recognition wherever shipped to.

La Diligencia is marching along in its accustomed steady fashion, never losing any of its old customers, and slowly making new ones all the time.

La Flor de P. A. Estanillo is doing an increasing business from year to year, and its Flor del Fumar brand has captured quite a large number of new customers.

Henry Clay, Bock & Co. report no change, as all of their principal factories are fully occupied and have all the orders they can take care of.

Other factories which are working in good shape are: Eden, C. E. Beck & Co., La Devesa de Murias and Hija de José Gener.

Buying, Selling and Other Notes.

José C. Puente sold 500 bales of leaf to his customers during the past fortnight.

Sylvester & Stern were buyers of 850 bales of Vuelta Abajo Colas for account of their clients.

Sobrinos de A. Gonzalez were sellers of 400 bales of all kinds of leaf.

Leslie Pantin bought 500 bales additionally of choice leaf upon cable orders.

Gonzalez & Benitez disposed of 400 bales of Remedios during the past fortnight.

Howard L. Friend was a buyer of only 200 bales of leaf, although he had intended to make some larger purchases, but abstained from doing so, as either the quality or the prices did not suit him.

Elias Diaz & Co. turned over 300 bales of their fine holdings of Vuelta Abajo leaf.

Harry Slavinski was also satisfied to purchase only a few small lots of leaf, 200 bales, to tide him over until the new crop will be ready. He made a trip to the Vuelta Abajo and was very much pleased with the new crop in its different stages.

José F. Rocha sold 252 bales of Vuelta Abajo and Partido to his customers.

Walter C. Sutter complained likewise that he could not find as much tobacco to suit his trade as he would have liked to purchase, therefore, taking only about 200 bales.

Mignel Gutierrez was a seller of 240 bales of Remedios.

Harry Erlich only stayed four days in town in order to supply his Tampa factory with some special grades of Partido leaf.

Albert W. Kaffenburgh arrived here nine days ago and went at once to inspect their Manicaragua plantation, besides taking a run through the province of Santa Clara, in order to post himself on this year's Remedios crop. He will return here on Thursday, March 28th, and leave at once for his Boston home. His firm has received already 125 bales of a small packing, part of which has been sold at once to our German exporters.

Don Avelino Pazos, the owner of the fine vega "Lechuga" states, that he has a splendid crop this year, having cut already enough to give him 15,000 poles of wrappers, almost without any spots of a silky, clean, light color. He intends to commence his escogida on about April 1st.

Don Manuel Lopez, of the PUNCH factory, stated the other day, that he would not like to express any opinion about the new crop until the end of May, as regards quality.

The farm "La Divina," owned by R. Z. Bautista & Co., evidently justifies its name ("The Divine") as it has a superb crop this year, with a very large assortment of beautiful wrappers, with hardly any spots, and fillers of a good quality. Don Jesus R. Bautista intends to commence packing on April 1st, with the part of the early cut tobacco, which has been dried in good shape for some time, and as the weather had enough humidity to allow the handling of this leaf, it has had sufficient time to undergo the first fermentation in the piles, and is now in condition to be packed. He has also besides the half dry tobacco, still some growing plants in the fields.

Principal shippers, above 200 bales, during the past fortnight, were: Sylvester & Stern, 997; Leslie Pantin, 663; Diego Montero, 635; the French Minister, 581; J. Bernheim & Son, 566; M. A. Pollack, 498; Manuel Suarez, 475; Garcia & Co., 470, and Rodriguez, Menendez & Co., 287 bales.

Pierson Mfg. Co. to Open New Plant

The Paul Pierson Manufacturing Company of Chicago have announced the opening of their new plant at 167 West Washington street, that city. They will manufacture cigar bands and cigar banding and repacking machines. This company claims for its machines a saving of 50 per cent. over the present cost of banding cigars. Paul Pierson is president of the new concern.

Fernando Zegri, manager of the Porto Rico Commercial Company, whose New York offices are at 130 Pearl street, which firm some time ago took over the interests of the Quinones Cabezudo Company, announces that they have on hand, despite a supposed scarcity of high-grade Porto Rican Cigars, a very large stock of their well-known brands, all high-class goods, guaranteed to be made exclusively of the best Porto Rican tobacco.

Schweitzer & Karniol, American agents of A. R. Malmendye & Co., of Paris, the oldest manufacturers of cigarette papers in the world, have opened up in New York, at 109 Broad street. Although established only recently, they are getting in touch with the trade rapidly, on account of the high-class goods they are importing. The parent house has for years supplied cigarette papers to the French and other European regies.

Mr. J. K. Leaman, leaf tobacco broker of Lancaster, Pa., advises that a recent notice concerning his removal to the Woolworth Building, that city, was an error. His correct address is 110-12 West Walnut street, Lancaster.

Manuel Suarez forwarded on March 19, seven packs of stripped Havana tobacco, per steamship "Monterey," via New York, to Brenner Bros., of Chicago.

Key West Trade Situation Quiet

E. H. Gato Cigar Company Working Good Force—R. B. Wyatt Succeeds H. E. Mahoney as Manager of Havana-American Co.

Key West, Fla., March 24, 1912.

DURING the past two weeks there has been but little, if any, material change in the cigar situation in Key West. There has been no diminution in the forces of cigarmakers employed and there has been no appreciable increase, although a few men have been seated in some of the larger factories.

All of the manufacturers retain their optimistic frame of mind, however, and they feel that it will be but a very short space of time before business will have resumed its old standard. The present condition of affairs is not conducive to record breaking and it will take some very hard work for the remainder of the year to pass last year's record, or even equal it. Many of the manufacturers believe that this can be done and are fully confident that by the 31st of December, of this year, that another record will have been made.

An important occurrence during the last week was the visit to Key West of a party of Eastern capitalists, who are making a trip through Florida as the guests of the well-known engineering firm of J. G. White & Co., New York. While in Key West these gentlemen were entertained informally at the Elks Club where they met some of the leading manufacturers and were taken the next day to see some of the factories. These gentlemen expressed great interest in the cigar situation as regards Key West and made many pertinent inquiries. It is generally believed that, though the financiers did not come to Key West for the express purpose of inquiring into the cigar business, the industry will be benefited as the local conditions were minutely inquired about and fully explained.

Manager H. E. Mahoney, who, for a long time, has been in charge of the affairs of the local branch of the Havana-American Company, has been transferred to Tampa and he has been succeeded by R. B. Wyatt, formerly traveling auditor of the Havana-American. Mr. Mahoney has been ill for several weeks and has been confined to his home. He is greatly improved at the present time and he expects to leave for his new home about April 1. Mr. Mahoney will be greatly missed in manufacturing circles as he has always taken a prominent part in matters of interest and benefit to the trade. His successor is not a stranger to Key West, as he has made several trips here in his capacity as auditor and while the manufacturers will regret having to part with Mr. Mahoney, they are glad that Mr. Wyatt is to succeed him.

R. Fernandez, of the R. Fernandez Havana Cigar Co., accompanied by Mrs. Fernandez, left this week for the North on the Mallory steamer. They will spend a short time in New York and will then go to Chicago.

President A. Aurelio Torres, of El Principe de Golfo Cigar Factory, has returned after a business trip through Florida and Georgia. Mr. Torres brought several orders back with him and he reports that all indications are for a smart increase in business in a very short time.

The E. H. Gato Cigar Company has perhaps felt the depression in trade less than any of the other shops. They are now working a good force of men and there is no indication that they will decrease that number, in fact, hopes are entertained that additional men will be seated in a few days.

On the whole, while it cannot be said that business has improved, and naturally the manufacturers are not pleased with the present condition of affairs, still there is not a factory in the city which can be said to be in hard straits. All have been doing more or less work and could continue indefinitely with the present business, but they all have capacity for a larger output and they naturally want to secure all of the business they can.

Eitel & Cassebohm's Latest Achievement

Reports from the Eitel & Cassebohm factory, Louisville, Ky., indicate that their "Post Despatch" cigar is making legions of friends in the very section of the country in which it has been introduced. During the past few months, this firm have taken on additional salesmen, who have been planting the cigars in new territory and with remarkable effectiveness. The "Post Despatch" has passed the experimental stage and can now be classed among the recent big successes in the cigar market.

Weyman Burton Co. Also Gives Bonuses

STOCKHOLDERS of the Weyman-Burton Company, on March 19, approved the arrangement by which the president of the company shall receive 5 per cent, and the two vice-presidents 2½ per cent, each, of an aggregate 10 per cent, bonus. Similar action has been already taken by the stockholders of the American Tobacco Company, the American Snuff Company, the Liggett & Myers Tobacco Company, and the P. Lorillard Company.

The Weyman-Burton Company reports net earnings for the month of December, the first month of the company's independent operation, of $77,454. The financial statement shows total assets of $8,528,479. The officers of the company are Jonathan Petersen, president; John H. Bowers and B. E. Wright, vice-presidents, and Hunter Brooke, Jr., secretary and treasurer.

English Firm in New York

The Pera Cigarette Company, of London, has opened an office and is making hand-made cigarettes, at 335 Fifth avenue, New York City. This is a well-known English house, owning plantations at Cavalla, Turkey, from which they get their supply of Turkish tobacco. The cigarettes retail at 35, 30 and 25 cents a package of ten.

Cigar Salesmen Hold Beefsteak Dinner

The members of the Independent Tobacco Salesmen's Association, of New York, held a beefsteak party at Reisenweber's, 59th street and Columbus Circle, on Saturday, the 22nd ult. Sixty covers were laid for the affair, and the guests included manufacturers and retailers, as well as the salesmen members of the association. The affair was voted a huge success.

"United" Opens Philadelphia Store

The United Cigar Stores Company have leased the Robert Klee store, at Eighth and Arch streets, Philadelphia. It will divide the store, using the corner and sub-letting the rear store.

A United store is also to be opened shortly at Main and Armat streets, Germantown, in the heart of the business section. They have been trying to secure another more desirable location for some time, but it is said they had been unable to lease it.

PROBLEMS of the RETAILER

Relief for the Tired-out Clerk

THERE are very few occupations open to the average young man where the hours are as long as those of the retail cigar store clerk. We have found that too large a proportion of this class of workers are more or less inclined to be "grouchy" when they are compelled to work six nights a week until 9 or 10 o'clock. There is apt to be indifference and general carelessness, which the average buyer does not care to encounter when buying his favorite perfecto.

Perhaps, Mr. Proprietor, you remember how keenly disappointed you were when the "boss" vetoed your request for a night off when a favorite show came to town. Perhaps you imagined a crisis of your life had been reached when he turned you down on that dance you had been looking forward to for several weeks. Any way, you didn't see the necessity of keeping open just for a few miserable cigars. You felt like "jacking up the job" and walking out.

It may be true that you kept everlastingly at it, and a rough road it may have been, until at last you won a well-earned success where you are able to leave to others many of the aggravating details of your business. But remember that your ideas between the ages of twenty and thirty and those of your clerks now are pretty much alike. So why not arrange it so he can be relieved one or two evenings a week, or give him an afternoon off when things are dull so he can see his favorite ball team play. Let him get out in the fresh air for several hours and notice the way he tackles his work the next day; how anxious he is to please your patrons.

If he arrives next morning looking as though he had made a night of it, let him understand that if a short vacation has had such an evil effect on him possibly they had better be discontinued. He will have no trouble grasping your meaning.

Try for about four weeks this plan of relief, giving him at least one evening a week, and see what effect it will have on him. If he does his work in the same listless manner, stop giving him his night off, but if you notice that there is improvement from his former "grouchy" disposition, tell him that he will be given one evening through the week during the winter and one afternoon each week through the summer.

Let him know that you give this because you want him to be in the best of health, that the efficiency of his work depends to a great extent on his physical condition, and that you know he will keep his eyes on the minor details better if his health is good. You will find that he will work with renewed vigor, that he will take more trouble to suit customers, and also, which is not so unimportant a factor as some men try to tell you, you will rise in his estimation, as one who has his interest at heart and is in sympathy with him.

Provided you have the right kind of men in your employ, and every man has as far as possible that kind, you will find that this little investment of human interest will return you large dividends.

He who minds his own business will be asked to mind the business of others.

Artistic Window Dressing

SOME short time ago an enterprising clerk, who had saved several hundred dollars, started a cigar store on a side street in one of our large cities. There were half a dozen stores in the immediate neighborhood and his friends predicted a short career for him at that place. He simply said little and "sawed wood." The building was a dark, gloomy, forbidding place, formerly occupied by a tailor, and was altogether inconspicuous and unattractive. It had one redeeming feature and he evidently determined to make the most of it. That was the large bulk window, covered with dust and grease spots. He soon remedied that. It was scrubbed until it shone like a polished floor. Then he got a painter for a day and had the whole front painted in an attractive red.

After the store had been furnished with fixtures, finished in mission style, he started to trim his window. The first display consisted of a special in cigarettes, which he had the opening week. In one corner of his window he placed a large "Horn of Plenty." Out of the mouth of the horn came tumbling hundreds of inverted boxes of cigarettes. The horn, which was of cardboard, was covered with gilt paper. With the cigarettes, which were in blue boxes, and the bottom of the window in white (covered with cotton), he had a most attractive arrangement.

The following week he bought half a dozen invisible supports for boxes of cigars. On these he displayed his popular brands. Around and between the boxes were branches of different varieties of tobacco, with labels on each one denoting the kind and explaining the use to which they were put in each cigar.

His window soon became known in the neighborhood as one worth watching, and in a comparatively short time he had a business which was the envy of his fellow tobacconists. In explaining his methods, he said, "I always made it a point to never overcrowd my window. Most cigar men have too much junk in their windows. That detracts from its appearance and makes very little impression on the onlooker."

Much of his business was done with tobacco "cranks," men who wanted a good tobacco and didn't mind paying for it. This was particularly the case with his smoking tobaccos. He mixed several blends which hit the taste of discriminating smokers. These customers swore by his blends and would have no other. He placed his knowledge before each man and made him believe that he could prepare a tobacco for his individual use. He made good in this respect, too.

What this young man accomplished can be done in almost every neighborhood. A little common sense, with infinite patience, an artistic taste and plenty of stick-to-itiveness, will work wonders.

Among the exhibits at the Made-in-Peoria show, held in that city starting March 11th, was a booth displaying in an elaborate fashion the products of the cigar and tobacco manufacturers. In the booth was shown a working exhibit of the cigar from the plantation to the smoker.

Creditors Will Run Churchill's

DESPITE the terrific prices which the Broadway restaurants plaster on their bills, few if any of them are making any too much money, and rumors fly up and down the Lane every few days that one or the other of the favorite eating depots is in financial distress.

Quite some surprise was handed the knowing last week, when a committee of three of the largest creditors, took temporary charge of Churchill's big place at 49th street and Broadway, with a view to paying its debts. The committee consists of J. W. Buchner, of Park & Tilford, J. E. Dordan and Nathan Schweizer.

James Churchill remains as manager of the restaurant, but his salary has been cut, even if the prices for food have not. He owned nearly all the shares of the company which operated the place, and it is said has turned these over to the committee. The place has been making money but the outgo has been too liberal and this will be checked, so that it is hoped that all debts will be paid in about six months.

The cigar department at the restaurant has always been operated independently of the eating end, and is known to be one of the best maintained along Broadway.

Lithographic Firm Secures New Representative

MR. ELMER E. THATCHER has been engaged by Heywood, Strasser & Voight Litho. Co. as their Western representative to succeed Paul Pierson, who resigned to become president of the Paul Pierson Mfg. Co., of Chicago. Mr. Pierson has the best wishes of his many friends in his new venture.

Mr. Thatcher has had considerable practical experience in the label line. He was formerly with Geo. Schlegel, the New York lithographic firm. Under his management Heywood, Strasser & Voight Litho. Co. will doubtless continue to grow and prosper.

Herman Jacoby Effects Settlement

A meeting of the creditors of Louis Jacoby, the cigar manufacturer at 333 Bowery, who did business under the firm name of Herman Jacoby, was held at the law offices of Mandelbaum Bros., 90 Wall street, on March 18th, at which time the creditors' committee recommended a settlement of thirty-five cents on the dollar in a series of three notes, suitably endorsed. Every creditor present accepted the offer and it is expected that Mr. Jacoby will resume business in a short time.

Simon Rothschild on Western Trip

SIMON ROTHSCHILD, of Montevierno & Co., has just about completed a long Western trip which took him to the Pacific slope and is expected back in New York in two or three days. Mr. Rothschild reports business in a fair condition in the territory which he has covered, and little complaint is offered as far as he is personally concerned.

The members of this company have been very much interested in the progress, which is being made by their New York representative Ferdinand Poggenburg, the American amateur billiard champion, who is now crossing cues with the leading amateur experts in Paris. Mr. Poggenburg only a few days since succeeded in eclipsing the world's record for average in 18.2 balk-line billiards heretofore held by the young wizard, Calvin Demarest.

Maurice Wertheim, the efficient secretary of the United States Manufacturers Company, has just returned from a two weeks' trip out West during which time he has been laying out plans for a big distribution of their new "Abbey" ten-cent cigar.

L. Corn, of the S. H. Furgakh Co., has just returned from an extended trip throughout the middle West, during which time he managed to land a number of good deals on their well-known brands of "Jockey Club" and "Bouquet de Paris." Mr. Corn says that they have had a well-maintained trade, despite unfavorable reports from some quarters, and that their factory is now working on full time, with enough big orders in sight to make them feel quite comfortable.

Charles M. Gans Enters Firm

Charles M. Gans, the younger son of Max Gans, was admitted into full partnership to the firm of Max Gans & Son during the past month. The firm is one of the leading importers and packers of Havana and Porto Rico leaf tobacco, and is located at 197 Water street, New York. The firm now consists of Mr. Max Gans and his two sons, Messrs. Robert and Charles M. Gans.

The chain of retail cigar stores formerly owned by the Jacobowitz Brothers, trading as The Hudson County Tobacco Company of Jersey City, N. J., have been sold by them to individual owners. The stores were all clean, attractive places.

New York City Items

Oscar Friedman, the popular chief of the New York City salesmen of the Surbrug Company, is again back at work after an absence of two months due to illness. Mr. Friedman had been recuperating at Lakewood and is again tackling the Milos and Oxfords, his special hobbies.

M. W. Berriman, of Berriman Bros., manufacturers of the now famous Jose Vila clear Havana cigars, recently made a flying trip to Chicago. He is now on a trip to Tampa and Havana.

A. B. Woythaler, the well-known cigar man, has been busily engaged of late installing the fixtures and arranging the stock in his new store at 47th street and Broadway.

A. Weiner, the cigar retailer at 357 Fourth avenue, New York, has been selling out his entire stock at fifty cents on the dollar. At least that is the claim of Mr. Weiner, in his cards of announcements on his store.

The retail cigar store of W. V. H. Smith, at 88 West Broadway, New York, has been acquired by L. E. Connor and Edward Eimerson. Mr. Smith desires to retire, and in so doing leaves one of the most prosperous cigar stores in the city.

The Edwin Cigar Store, on 42nd street, between Fifth and Sixth avenues, New York, will be vacated May 1st. Max Rosenblum, executive head of the Edwin Cigar Stores Company, has decided to abandon the lease.

At the ninth annual dinner of the Hide and Leather Association of New York and vicinity, held at the Hotel Astor March 14th, the famous Castaneda brand of imported cigars were distributed to the diners, in boite nature boxes, bound with imitation leather, the capacity of each being two perfectos.

Celestino Lopez, New York partner of the Tampa firm of Arguelles, Lopez & Bro., arrived home recently from Havana, where he went on a leaf purchasing expedition.

The Nestor Gianclis Company, manufacturers of the Nestor cigarettes, have been forced to vacate their offices at 25 West 42nd street, New York, because of the tearing down of the building in which their offices were located.

The Broadway cigar store at 26½ South Trejon street was purchased recently by Philip W. Packer, formerly associated with the B. G. Robbins Clothing Company.

The pioneer pipe concern, Kaufmann Bros. & Bondy, is completing arrangements to move its New York offices and warerooms from 129 Grand street to 16th street and Irving place, where their new granite building is awaiting them.

Carlos, Fernandez & Co., the largest handlers and importers of Manila cigars in the United States, are receiving two large shipments of Manila cigars arriving on two separate steamers from the Philippine Islands. They have found it necessary to engage the floor below their present stock rooms, at 42 East 23rd street, for their greatly enlarged stock of Manilas.

Cigar Firm Makes Assignment

The Bogert & Heydon Co., cigar manufacturers of 125 Warren street, made an assignment recently to Maurice B. Gluck. The firm started business in 1885 and was incorporated in March, 1911, with a capital stock of $10,000. Abraham Bogert is president of the company and Samuel McElroy secretary.

Max Schatz, United States representative of the prominent Sol factory of Behrens & Co. and the Elite factory of F. Rodriguez & Co., returned recently from a trip through the Western States. He reported an increased demand for his brands.

We are informed by J. C. Clayton, the well-known Trenton (N. J.) jobber and retailer, who is located at North Broad street and Hanover street, that he intends to retire from business in a short time.

The well-known cigar brokers, Chanin & Tunis, heretofore located at 74 Essex street, have found it necessary to remove to larger quarters at 26 Canal street.

Beneto Rovira, executive head of the Beneto Rovira Company, returned recently from a trip to Cuba.

Alexander Hubert, vice-president of Philip Morris & Co., Ltd., the cigarette manufacturers of New York, London and Montreal, is now on a trip through the Southern States.

Haas of Vueltas, Cuba, Back on the Farm

ALEX HAAS, who is probably one of the few American tobacco growers and packers who lives directly on the farm, in an entertaining personal letter to the editor of the WORLD, under date of March 9th, says: "The desk at which I am writing is in the 'Casa Grande' and looking out of my barred window there is one big tremendous green vista—all tobacco in its most luxuriant stage—preparatory to being cut and put into the sheds. There is much—but much poor quality also. This section is called 'El Punit,' of which my farm, 'Ojo-de-Agua' is the flower, will give the best class of tobacco for the 'North.'

"This is going to be a 'Germany year.'

"I'm going to pack pretty heavily this year. It's a buyers' year. The farmers know that there are poorer, as well as better, grades of tobacco and will put up with the usual kicks of the 'buyers' more willingly than in years past. I look for $14 to $17 per qq. for good Coledad tobacco, and $5 to $10 per qq. for the light washed out stuff."

United's Big Dividend

AT the meeting of the board of directors of the United Cigar Stores Co., of New Jersey, held at Jersey City, March 25th, a big melon was cut for the holders of common stock in the shape of a 30 per cent. cash dividend in addition to a regular quarterly dividend of 1½ per cent. on the preferred stock. This corporation is only capitalized with $2,000,000. $1,000,000 each of common and preferred and the United Cigar Stores of New York, controls nine-tenths of the common.

Store for United in New Britain

Introducing "44" and "Adlon" in New York

THE Lipschutz factory, at 11th and Wharton streets, is now running on full time and with a full force, working hard in an endeavor to fill the demand for their "44" and "Adlon" cigars. Both factories are running to their full extent.

On the 15th of February, this concern started a campaign in Greater New York, which has been extremely gratifying. Under the direction of M. A. Funk, sales manager, they have placed their brands in 1525 stores in that territory, and are now distributing between 75,000 and 80,000 cigars weekly in that region alone.

An advertising car is being used in their work and they have nine representatives who are keeping them busy with orders. This is a remarkable record, considering that New York, to a certain extent had never been covered. S. Mondy's Sons are their distributors in that territory.

O. L. Meyers, the Western representative, reports conditions as being very good. He is now covering that region and working his way East.

Tillmon Funk and Mr. Nicholson, Southern agents, are now in that region, opening up new accounts daily.

Cressman's Sons Kept Busy

Although business, as a rule, is quieter, Allen Cressman's Sons have been receiving good reports from their different representatives. Joseph Gallagher has just returned from a very successful trip through the West and reports things booming for the Cressman brands.

Minor Griscom is now working Northern New Jersey and gives gratifying returns.

In spite of the rumors of an impending coal strike, that region is still finding time to buy the brands, but dealers are, as a rule, cautious about over-stocking.

Vincent Bros., of Rochester, N. Y., who distribute the "Counsellor" in that section are sending in their usual quota of orders.

News of the Portuondo Factory

The "All Alike," being introduced in a number of new regions throughout the country, is giving good returns. Warner Searle, Eastern representative, is now on a trip featuring this brand.

Morris Lesser has just returned from a trip to the Coast and has turned in a number of large orders.

H. C. Martin, Middle West agent, is now covering his region and reports conditions as being very gratifying.

Eisenlohns Preparing to Move

OTO EISENLOHR & BROS., are expecting to remove to their new store, at 940 Market street, shortly. Owing to several delays in finishing the building, they have not been able to move as anticipated. The principal cause was the non-arrival of the steel work.

Work on their factory in Pennsburg is progressing slowly. This building had been used formerly by them as a leaf warehouse and to remodel it into an up-to-date factory, such as this firm requires, will take considerable work.

Louis Eisenlohr is still sojourning in Florida.

The General Gomez Cigar Company

THE Gen. Gomez Cigar Co., located at 1229 Chestnut, started on March 6, is now busy manufacturing their product, the "Gen. Gomez," a 5-cent cigar. Mary Horn is the owner of the new concern and Michael Horn the manager.

They will sell their own brands only, manufacturing and retailing them at the Chestnut street store. They are making the "Gen. Gomez" in two sizes and intend to soon introduce another, the "Wag," to sell at 7 cents.

The first floor is now being used as a workroom, but after an upper floor is remodeled, the workroom will be moved there, the first floor to be used as a salesroom only.

This new firm will be watched with interest, as the location is an excellent one.

News From Bayuk Brothers

Bayuk Brothers report active business on the "Havana Ribbon," the month of March showing a material increase over previous months.

The recent addition of Messrs. Shacklett and Rogers to the sales force has been a prominent factor in the increased business. The former has been very successful in making desirable connections in the extreme South, while the latter has met with equal success in the New England States.

Business from the West has opened up in excellent shape after the severe winter, rush orders arriving daily in addition with weekly shipments.

Samuel and Max Bayuk are still in Amsterdam, where they are securing some choice Sumatra.

Quaker City Briefs

Mr. Letterer, of the American Tobacco Company, was a visitor in town recently, working the "Demando" cigar.

H. J. Bergman has an attractive window display of "Twelfth Night" and "La Marquise" cigarettes.

The Godfrey S. Mahn store in the Mint Arcade, has an attractive display of their "Invincible" 5-cent cigar.

M. J. Dalton is expected back at his desk about April first. Mr. Dalton has been recuperating at Atlantic City after his recent illness, but is again at his home.

Frank Rowland, of the Calixto de Lopez Co., was in town recently and reported things in nice shape in his territories.

The M. J. Dalton cigar store, at 111 South 13th street, is featuring the "Key West Special" cigar, a product of the Cortez factory.

Allen R. Cressman Sons have secured the services, as salesman, of Minor Griscom, formerly a representative of the American Tobacco Co., in New Jersey.

Abraham Oppenheimer, in his will filed recently for probate, left the entire estate to his widow, who is made sole executrix. The estate is estimated at about $500,000.

The City Cigar Store, at 7th and Chestnut streets, is introducing the "El Satisfactor," a 5c. cigar. They have been featuring the "Billy Boy," another nickel brand.

Julius Vetterlein has opened a new leaf warehouse in Terre Hill, Lancaster County, Pa. H. J. Wolf has been appointed manager of the new plant. Mr. Wolf has been a buyer for the Vetterlein house for years.

Dusel & Goodloe report things quiet, but as good as can be expected, considering the general condition of the trade. N. Popper has returned from a trip through the coal regions of Pennsylvania and stated that things are very quiet.

Mr. Mullineaux, now covering New Jersey for the firm, is doing nicely. The "La Preferencia" and "Principe de Gales" are doing exceedingly well, as is the "Hoffman House" cigar. Sales of "Fatima" are increasing at a rapid rate right along.

Their "Miflenco" and "Cronk's Short-Cut Mixture" are selling exceedingly well, according to Mitchell, Fletcher & Co., 12th and Chestnut streets. They have at present a window display on these brands. "El Ecuador" is their leader in 5-cent goods and "Baronita" their best-selling 10-cent cigar.

Mr. Carl Morr, the Eastern United States agent for the "La Flor de Intal" cigar, manufactured by E. A. & Otto Weber, Manila, P. I., and Mr. R. Kummerfeldt, the technical manager of the above concern, are at present in Washington, D. C., on a month's business trip, which will include Philadelphia, Reading, Baltimore and Norfolk.

Zahn & McDonnell, 15th and Chestnut streets, are introducing in Philadelphia, a new cigar, the "Flor de San Martin y Leon," made by the San Martin and Leon factory, in Tampa. This is the first cigar made by the company which owns a number of plantations and is just breaking into the manufacturing line. It is a clear Havana cigar retailing at 10 cents and up.

Retail tobacco men of Philadelphia give gratifying reports on the increased sales of "Fatima" cigarettes as a result of the advertising campaign now being waged on that brand by the Liggett & Myers Tobacco Co. As one of a number of salesmen in a large central shop put it, "It seems that almost every time I go to the bin I see nothing but a hole."

Convention of Cigar Leaf Association

The National Cigar Leaf Tobacco Association will hold its annual convention in New York City on May 13th and 14th. Officers for the ensuing term are to be elected. The present officers are: A. B. Hess, president; Fred B. Griffin, vice-president; C. Emory Long, secretary, and Felix Eckerson, treasurer.

STAFF OF TAMPA-CUBA CIGAR CO.

ON Washington's Birthday an interesting group was gathered in the main office of the Tampa-Cuba Cigar Co. in West Tampa, Fla., when one of the visitors who had his camera with him snapped the portrait reproduced above. Reading from left to right, sitting, are H. B. Guilford, president of the Tampa-Cuba Cigar Co.; Miss Alderman, stenographer; H. C. Shuptrine, president N. A. R. D., and Wm. S. Oppenheimer, one of the leading local druggists; reading from left to right, standing, are Emilio Pons, treasurer; E. Berger, secretary and general manager; Florentino Diaz, factory foreman; A. M. Goehring, sales department.

Mr. Guilford was spending a week at Tampa headquarters when the portrait was taken, and was making a thorough inspection of the company's accounts and system of doing business. His report, upon returning to Rochester, was most enthusiastic, he having stated that the company had every indication of complete success. Mr. Guilford was accompanied by H. C. Shuptrine, president of the National Association of Retail Druggists, who came to Tampa to deliver an address before the physicians and druggists at their "Get-Together" meeting.

A. M. Goehring, sales manager, has just left Tampa for a three months' trip, during which time he will make a very systematic canvass of the principal Southern cities, placing agencies for the company.

The United Cigar Stores Company are starting a new store in New Britain, Conn.

Dennis C. Dovenberger, of Bloomington, Ill., has opened a new cigar shop on South Main street, that city. Mr. Dovenberger formerly worked in large Ohio factories and is an experienced tobacco man.

The Leggett Drug Co. opened their second cigar store in Boston on March 16, at the corner of South and Summer streets. The opening had been heavily advertised. They have leases on several good locations in that city where they intend opening more stores in the future.

George Hofmann, a cigar manufacturer and retailer of South Hadley Fall, Mass., is having a new factory built on Lamb street, that city. Mr. Hofmann has conducted a shop in that town for over thirty years and makes his own brands of cigars.

Tobacco Production Co. Takes Over Paper Mill

THE Tobacco Production Company, a New York concern, has purchased the New Milford Paper Company's mill, at Wellsville, Conn., and will commence operations about April 1st. It is expected that 20 men will be employed at first. The company is said to have a process of utilizing tobacco stems and will manufacture tobacco leaves to be used as a binder in cigars; also smoking tobacco, a covering for plug tobaccos, and a cigarette paper.

It was said that the company has orders from a great many of the large manufacturers in this country and has orders for millions of pounds for Europe.

The plant is to be enlarged as soon as possible and more men added as the work of building progresses.

United Cigar Stores Dividend

The directors of the United Cigar Stores Corporation have declared the regular quarterly dividend of 1½ per cent., and an extra dividend of ½ per cent., payable April 15.

Outlook Around San Francisco Bright

Liberal Rains Benefit Crops—Retirement of Herman Hyneman—Bouquet-Cohn Co. Buy Another Store

SAN FRANCISCO, March 22, 1912.

LIBERAL rains have fallen throughout the State this month, relieving all fear of crop failure and causing a marked improvement in general trade conditions. Fair weather has alternated with the showers, making conditions about as good as possible for the cigar trade. Jobbers report an immediate response through the interior and in the southern part of the State. In fact, the jobbing movement is good locally, but there is still considerable complaint from city retailers, for which no adequate reason is apparent. Work is now under way on the Exposition grounds, building is active, and altogether conditions are favorable for a prosperous season.

Percival Hill, the new president of the American Tobacco Company, is spending the week in San Francisco to look over the field and make arrangements for the future handling of his company's lines in this territory. In this connection it has just been announced that Herman Hyneman, for years Coast representative of the American Tobacco Company and one of the most prominent tobacco merchants in this part of the country, has finally retired from the business, having asked to be relieved on the dissolution of the Tobacco Trust. This dissolution, which necessitated changes in the handling of many lines long associated with Mr. Hyneman's name, caused considerable disorganization in his business and brought about his final determination to retire. A secondary reason for this decision was the fact that he had been in poor health for some time, and as soon as his successor is named he expects to leave for Europe.

Notwithstanding the heavy arrivals of Manila goods this month, some lines of the Oriental cigars are still scarce, owing to labor difficulties in some of the Manila factories. Several local jobbers are still behind on their orders, but hope to make full deliveries in the near future.

Arthur Meyer, Pacific Coast representative of Bustillo Bros. & Diaz, returned about the first of the week from an extended trip in the East.

H. Lowenstein, who has charge of the San Francisco office of the P. Lorillard Company, has just returned from a tour of the Coast territory.

Charles S. Morris, the New York cigar man, represented here by the Hoffman-Moore Company, made that firm a visit a few days ago. The jobbing firm is building up a big business for "La Integridad" cigars, and has put a couple of new travelers on the road in the last month.

Major F. S. Burrows, Coast representative of Jose Loyera & Co., has been on the sick list, but is now back at work with his usual energy, and feels greatly encouraged regarding the outlook for his lines.

The Bouquet-Cohn Cigar Company, operating a chain of retail stores in this city, recently bought out the White Cigar Company on Market street.

A second cigar store is being opened in the new Terminal Hotel building on Lower Market street by H. Ferguson, formerly with the Bouquet-Cohn organization.

Geo. T. Byrne, traveling for W. I. Pixley of this city in the interest of Dill and Frishmuth tobacco lines and the Gordon cheroots, is now at Seattle, Wash., and will remain for some time with the trade in the northern cities.

J. C. Chuck, lately from the East, is now covering the San Joaquin district for Frankel, Gerds & Co., of this city.

Colonel William L. Levine, traveling for Sam H. Harris of New York, has been in San Francisco for the last week, and will probably announce the placing of his lines with a local distributor within a few days.

Dan Loftus has taken over the store on Market street which has been operated for some time by John Conner as a branch of his California and Davis streets establishment.

Ted Cohn, Coast representative of the American-West Indies Sales Company, is again in the city, after spending two months on the road, visiting every part of his territory.

M. A. Gunst, head of M. A. Gunst & Co., Inc., returned about a week ago from an extended vacation in Southern California, and is now preparing to start on a trip through the East and Cuba. Gus Simon, head of the Gunst business at Portland, Ore., who was in the South with Mr. Gunst, has returned to his office. Milton Esberg, vice-president of the company, and Sello Blumenthal, one of the road men, have just returned from a trip up the San Joaquin Valley.

Sam Caro, well known to the local cigar trade, has been named as agent for the Francisco Bolano Factory of Tampa, the deal having been closed this week by A. M. Seebach, of the company, who is still in the city.

Wm. Crane, formerly in charge of the Gunst business at Honolulu, T. H., has returned to San Francisco and will cover an outside territory for the same company.

Herman Moss, of the S. R. Moss Cigar Company, Lancaster, Pa., is back at his local office after a trip up the Coast.

A. Santaella, manufacturer of the "Optimo" cigar, one of the most popular clear Havana lines on the Coast, is visiting his agents, Ehrman Bros. & Co. He will visit the north Coast before returning to the factory, being accompanied by I. I. Hess, of the Ehrman organization.

S. Rothschild, representing the "El Rayo" cigar, spent a few days in San Francisco this week.

W. C. Rose, of Philadelphia, representing the "Havana Ribbon" cigar, is now in the city and expects to carry on a lot of special work to increase the popularity of this brand.

C. Macmupha, who recently bought out a local cigar stand, has had the former owner arrested, charging that the store was sold on the understanding that it was free from debt, but has since been attached to cover the liabilities of the former owner.

The Men Who Book the Orders

John J. Collins, who was at one time a salesman for the Queen City Tobacco Company, in Cincinnati, is now in charge of a large Western territory for the Liggett & Myers Tobacco Company, Fatima Cigarette Department. His headquarters are in Denver, Col.

R. E. Harrison, who has been introducing the Velvet Smoking Tobacco, manufactured by Spalding & Merrick, of Chicago, Ill., recently made a visit of inspection to Cincinnati for his brand.

O. A. Immerhansen, of the A. Hussey Leaf Tobacco Company, of Cincinnati, returned recently from an extended trip to the West Indies.

Joseph Twist, manager of the cigar department of Haas Bros., San Francisco, has left on a six months' vacation in Europe.

Carl Jaeger, formerly with the West Coast Grocery Co., of Tacoma, has joined the staff of the Hemenway & Moser Company, of Seattle. He will look after the Tacoma and adjacent fields.

Philip Payne, who travels for the American Tobacco Co., with headquarters in Salina, Kansas, has been transferred to the Wichita branch.

John Fidler, salesman for J. W. Minnich, of Dallastown, Pa., recently returned from a Western trip. He reports conditions far from satisfactory.

H. E. Brownell, recently of Lorillard Company, in Illinois, has joined the selling force of the Khedival Company, in Indiana and Kentucky.

Curt B. Waller, formerly with the Khedival Company, is now associated with the Duschler Cigar Company, of Indianapolis.

Hugh Pendleton, Southern representative for E. A. Kline & Co., the Rigoletto cigar manufacturers, of Cleveland, O., put his brand in forty retail places in Baltimore recently.

John S. Oliver, until recently with the Ware-Kramer Company, manufacturers of White Rolls cigarettes, has become the general agent of a vacuum cleaner.

R. M. Ellis, the Melachrimo cigarette promoter is on a flying trip through the Middle West.

H. E. Pearce, the popular salesman of H. Traiser & Co., has placed the Traco cigars in all leading hotels and cafes and the retail stands in Boston. This brand is winning favor with smokers.

H. Rinaldo & Co. in Hands of Trustee

H. Rinaldo & Co., the well-known jobbers and retailers, of San Francisco, who have for some time had the distribution of the "Smokecraft" and "La Venga" lines in that territory, are in the hands of a trustee, Benjamin Hersch having been chosen for that position. The company has liabilities amounting to about $14,000, and assets estimated at nearly, if not fully, the same amount. The company's difficulties are attributed mainly to the leasing of a downtown location, the rent of which seems to have been higher than the business justified. It is expected that the affairs of this concern will soon be adjusted.

Woodhouse Company Increases Capital

The Woodhouse Company, of Grand Rapids, Mich., have filed notice of an increase in capitalization from $25,000 to $100,000. The concern has a good wholesale trade in tobacco and cigars.

Factory Notes

The Miami Cigar Co., of Germantown, Ohio, started business in their new building recently.

The Yost Cigar Co., of 534 Water street, Bridgeport, Conn., have moved into their new quarters at 239 Fairfield avenue, that city. This concern is the largest of its kind in Bridgeport.

The Fluhner Tobacco Company, of Boonville, Ind., have imported several twist makers and have been running night and day in an endeavor to catch up with orders.

George P. Jordan, until recently of Monmouth, Ohio, is opening a cigar factory in Canton, that State.

The factory of the Tony Zender Cigar Company of Lima, Ohio, has been sold to Francis Leonard and Mr. Hoerzman of that city.

B. Engelmann of Cass Lake, Minn., has purchased the cigar factory of Charles E. La Gesse at that place.

The Wilbur Cigar Company of Fargo, N. D., have moved their plant from that city to Bismarck, the same State.

C. G. Cribbs, of Benton Harbor, Mich., has sold his "Mantello" cigar business to J. E. Koeh, who will continue their manufacture.

The Galvador Suarez Co., of Tampa, Fla., operating a small factory sold its business to R. L. Richards. Lamar Rankin was the owner of the business.

New England Tobacco Growers Meet

THE New England Tobacco Growers' Association met on March 20th at Bond's Cafe, Hartford, Conn. Previous to the meeting the tobacco men received a circular from the executive committee of the association telling of the discussions at the last meeting, giving also a statement as to future needs and policies of the tobacco growers.

It was stated in the circular that the tobacco industry is the only example in southern New England of a specialized and centralized agricultural industry, and that tobacco, next to hay, holds first place in cash value of all agricultural crops. In New England tobacco growing represents an investment of $15,000,000 by 4,000 farmers, who use 20,000 acres of land in growing their tobacco.

After advising immediate organization for mutual benefit and profit, the circular continued:

"The benefit of such action could be made very great. First we have the necessity of protecting ourselves against foreign competition. We are a protected industry. A duty of $1.85 a pound protects our wrapper leaf and makes it possible for us to continue in existence. Other branches of the tobacco trade are already organized, branches to whose profit it would be to have this duty abolished and a uniform rate on filler and wrapper alike substituted in its place. At this present session of Congress it is not only possible but very probable that an attempt will be made to bring this change about. When that time comes, and it is not far off, we should be found shoulder to shoulder, thoroughly armed with information and statistics and ready to appear before the ways and means committee in a way that would leave no doubt of our power and importance."

It is intended to have meetings from time to time during the season on the farms of different "good" growers.

United Stores Test Match Ruling

THE United Cigar Stores Company have started a suit before the Board of United States General Appraisers to test a recent ruling of Collector of the Port Loeb in New York to the effect that on matches, designated "fancy," a duty of 35 per cent. must be paid. The importers contend that this is excessive.

Several years ago the Diamond Match Company lost the decision in a similar case. The United Cigar Stores Company expect to reverse this ruling.

Baltimore Manufacturers Report Trade Active

Royal Havana Cigar Co., to Introduce New "El Bosal" Cigar—Wm. Boucher, of Wm. Boucher & Sons, back again

WITH a majority of the more active manufacturers of this city, business during the past three months has exceeded that of the corresponding period of last year.

None of the old brands are being abandoned, but in a few instances new ones have been added to former lines, increasing the variety of packages they have to offer.

The Royal Havana Cigar Manufacturing Company will soon introduce a new brand under the title of "El Bosal." No effort is being spared in making it one of their most attractive lines in a high-grade article.

Wm. Boucher, of Wm. Boucher & Son, returned recently from a trip to Panama, and is again busy at the main store on E. Baltimore street in directing the most extensive operations the firm has ever enjoyed. In addition to the "Boucher Select" brand, which is of their own manufacture, they have had a strong call for such high-grade clear Havana cigars as "Romeo y Julieta," "Sanchez y Haya" and "Loveras."

A. Fader is featuring strongly his "La Cresta" domestic cigars along with some of the leading brand of imported goods.

H. C. Pfaff is at present sojourning in the South, and after a short stay in Texas he is expecting to proceed to California.

Each of the Lilly, Duncan & Co. stores is featuring particularly some special line of goods. At the W. Baltimore and Liberty streets store "Savaronas" Porto Rico cigars, made by the Caye-Caguas Tobacco Company, are shown in fine window displays, while at 207 E. Baltimore street the "Barrister" and "Little Barrister" cigars, made by Celestina Costello & Co., York, are exhibited in a specially attractive manner.

"La Integridad," clear Havana cigars made by Chas. S. Morris & Co., are strongly in evidence at the Birnbaum Cigar Company establishment, W. Baltimore and Hanover streets.

Special campaigns are being conducted by Kraus & Co. in further exploitation of their "Wizard" and "Royal Rob" brands, and sales are increasing correspondingly.

The Manchester Cigar Manufacturing Company will soon place on the market a new brand of little Havana cigars under the title of "Cuban Cadets." The goods will be put up in a novel style and all banded.

Some Pittsburgh Factories Dull; Others Busy

Retail Trade Unsatisfactory, But Improvement is Expected When Weather Settles

THERE are many idle stogie makers in the Pittsburgh district today as the result of a falling off in the sale of this class of goods. One stogie maker, who advertised for one stripper, got forty applications the first day, indicating just how many idlers are on the market. In spite of this general condition I know of several factories that are using all the hands they can seat and one factory is making overtime to fill orders. Prospects of more general activity are freely admitted even by those factories which are now dull. The advent of seasonable spring weather, it is predicted, will accelerate business.

The Pittsburgh Stogie & Cigar Company, under which title the W. D. Sharpe Cigar Company is now known, report that they are well satisfied with their present business and are quite optimistic as to the future. This new company has been incorporated under the laws of Pennsylvania with $70,000 capital by Mr. Sharpe and Mr. Schmunk, the original owners.

Shiple, Massingham & Co. are developing their cigar department at a rapid rate, featuring several private brands of stogies.

General Manager Flagg, of The Duquesne Cigar Company, has a pronounced and decided winner in his "Red Devils" stogies. They are selling everywhere they have been introduced, and they are being introduced everywhere. More than sixty new distributing accounts on the brand have been opened in the last three months.

Retail trade, as reflected by such representative stogies as Jenkinson, Goldsmitt, Zimmerman, etc., is very quiet. SMOKE.

H. Sutliff's Pipe Shop will be opened about March 15th, at 245 Kearny street, San Francisco. The location is an excellent one.

On March 23rd the Charles P. Stanley Cigar Co. of St. Louis moved from their store at 606 Olive street to 702 Olive street, their new quarters. This is considered one of the best equipped stores in St. Louis. The floor is of marble and the humidifier has a capacity of 1,000,000 cigars.

A new cigar store has been opened at Third and Main streets, Evansville, Ind., by Jacob Hartz. The building was first remodeled and the new store is considered one of the best in that city. The old store, just across the street from the new one, will be continued for a time at least.

PENNSYLVANIA TRADE NEWS

Late Reports from Lancaster, York, Reading

York Cigar Trade Continues Dull

THE lethargic condition prevailing for some weeks in the cigar trade in this section still continues. Dallastown, which under normal conditions is a hive in industry, is at present exceptionally dull, and a number of its factories have suspended operations altogether, at least temporarily. Among the few exceptions is the Dallastown branch of Myers, Adams & Co., of York, which had also been closed for some days, but has resumed with a normal number of hands. John Peeler closed his factory several days ago and will not re-open for some time. The Chauncey Minnich factory is to resume operations about April 1st. The Dallas Cigar Company, at Dallastown, is fairly busy and in fact has slightly increased its force of cigarmakers lately.

The D. A. Gallagher factory, which is a branch of Eugene Gallagher & Bro., of Columbus, Ohio, has removed from Main street to the former E. S. Sechrist factory building, and Mr. Sechrist has been placed in charge of the factory.

H. F. Kohler, of Nashville, is now in active preparation to open a factory in York about April 1st, after which he will discontinue operations at Nashville, as well as at Jacobus. Mr. Kohler, who is the present Register of Wills of York County, will also move his family to this city.

Tobacco growers who raised burley tobacco last year are finding a very dull market for their crops this spring, although the Meads Tobacco Company recently received a lot of 100,000 pounds for shipment to other points. It is not thought likely that farmers will this year indulge in growing burley leaf.

"Abraham Clark" cigars, made by Ibach & Rader, at Newmans-town, are on sale at a number of retail establishments throughout this city. They are distributed here by Stahlman & Co.

The C. H. Plitt Cigar Co. has decided on a novel name for a new brand of cigars which will shortly be placed on the market. It is to be called the "Liar." They propose to market under this brand a strictly high quality piece of nickel goods, to be sold to the trade at $35.00. The package will be neat, but not elaborately embellished, and every effort will be expended on the quality of the goods.

Mr. Young, of the jobbing house of Young & Busser, is at present on a visit at Pine Grove, N. C., for the benefit of his health.

Chief Factory Inspector John C. Delaney has recently made a report to Governor Tener, in which he said that 60 per cent. of the employees of 621 cigar factories in operation in this part of Pennsylvania are women. He also found that there were employed in those 621 factories about 32,700 persons, and 4½ per cent. of them minors, that is under the age of sixteen. Of the 621 factories, 540 are in Adams, Allegheny, Berks, Bucks, Lackawanna, Lancaster, Montgomery, York and Philadelphia Counties.

Several peculiar contrasts might be briefly referred to as follows: Dauphin County, which raises little or no tobacco, is reported to have only three cigar factories, but that they are large and employ about 1,229 people, while York County, a tobacco producing center, and having 175 cigar factories, gives employment in the aggregate to only 4,522 people.

H. L. Haines has commenced the manufacture of cigars at Red Lion, and has taken possession of the former Koch & Gipe building. Mr. Haines was until recently the selling agent of T. E. Brooks & Co., Red Lion. He has just returned from a short trip to his old customers and secured an encouraging number of initial orders for his product.

Gus Neuwahl, a popular cigar broker of Altoona, Pa., was a recent visitor here.

Manufacturers in Lancaster Encouraged

MANUFACTURERS are becoming a little more optimistic now and a spirit of greater vigor is being injected into the cigar business. They are encouraged by the more frequent orders which are now coming in and feel that the backbone of the dull spell has been broken. While the report of stamp sales for the month of March may not show a very substantial increase in the volume of business, they look forward to April with renewed hope of greater activities.

The larger manufacturers have apparently not felt the depression much, as they continued to operate with their usual forces, which in a few instances have been slightly increased. All of the branches of the United Cigar Manufacturers' Company are in full operation, as is also the big factory of Otto Eisenlohr & Bros.

A new cigar box factory is the latest project for Harrisburg, where the Victor Cigar Box Company, of Quakertown, will open a branch establishment early next month.

After a temporary suspension of business the Lebanon Cigar Manufacturing Company at Lebanon is now again in full activity, and find a good demand for several of their leading brands.

The Hoffman Leaf Tobacco Company has discontinued its offices at 215 N. Queen street, and the premises have been leased by J. L. Strauss as a cigar store and factory.

F. E. Eberly, manufacturer of union made goods, recently received several orders for his goods from prominent St. Louis distributors, which will keep the factory busy for several months to come.

The "Our Principal" Cigar Company, selling agents for "Our Principal" cigars, are vigorously pushing the sale of this line, and the output in Lancaster City and County is gaining at a rapid rate. J. W. Breneman, of Millersville, is the manufacturer of the brand.

"Billy" Miller, with the American Sumatra Tobacco Company, has been in this section for some days traveling with Ray Heiland, and together they have been stirring up considerable enthusiasm on their offerings of new Florida-Georgia tobaccos for their house.

Geo. J. Boas, representing the Spaulding & Merrick factory of Chicago, manufacturers of "Velvet" smoking tobacco, was a recent visitor here. He informed the writer that "Velvet" was selling more largely than ever.

R. M. Granat & Co., of York, has secured the leaf tobacco warehouse on N. Christian street formerly occupied by A. H. Sondheim, and will take possession about April 1st. Mr. Granat, of the firm, has also leased the residence of M. Michaelis, leaf dealer, of this city.

John L. Daron, of R. M. Granat & Co., who are removing their leaf tobacco business here from York, has leased the former residence of the late Fred. Duff.

Trade in Reading Fairly Good

THE cigar trade here, with an exceptional few, is fairly good, and more than ordinarily quiet with others. The Fleck Cigar Company and D. F. Fleck are probably among the busiest at the present time.

John G. Spatz, who was expected back two weeks ago from a protracted stay in the West, found it desirable to prolong his visit, but the factory has materially benefited by the additional business secured by him.

Chas. Breneiser & Sons, at 7th and Penn streets, have been displaying the "Breneiser" and "Heidelberg" brands prominently in their show windows. Both of these brands are locally made goods and appeal to the critical consumers of this city.

Since the business of the Old Honesty Cigar Box Company and that of L. P. Kline have been merged into the Bucks Cigar Box Company the firm has found its facilities taxed to the utmost in filling all orders promptly, and overtime has been necessary to do it. They claim to be now the largest producers of cigar boxes in this city.

The Porto Vana Cigar Company has been operating with a limited force of cigarmakers for some time owing to a slack demand for goods.

Local manufacturers now feel more confident that a coal strike in the anthracite regions will be avoided, although they find that dealers in that section of the country are at present buying very conservatively so as not to be overstocked should a strike occur, and consequently trade is a little dull with manufacturers having much business in the coal mining towns.

Late Retail Notes

Samuel J. Little, a cigar manufacturer of Troy, N. Y., has opened a retail stand in the new Caswell Building, that city. William J. Shult is the manager.

A cigar stand has been opened in the Pioneer Hotel Building, Porterville, Cal., by Scott & Hardell, a local cigar firm.

Mrs. Alice Hinman has opened a new cigar and tobacco store at Curtis street and Kansas avenue, Topeka, Kansas.

H. J. Pearce, has opened a new cigar stand at Andrew and Market streets, Lynn, Mass. Mr. Pearce has spent considerable money on new fittings.

Archibald Ludwig, of Galesburg, Ill., has purchased the Rex store, in that city, on East Main street.

A new cigar shop is being opened by B. Berovich, in the Central Block, near Fourteenth street, Oakland, Cal. The furnishings are of the very best.

The United Cigar Stores Company's new store at the corner of Peachtree and Decatur streets, Atlanta, was opened on March 9. This is one of a number of new sites for their stores in the South, options upon which were secured recently.

Boston News of Interest

Tobacco Trade Association Hailed as a Benefit—Business About Same—Waitt & Bond Report Increasing Sales

Boston, March 26th.

THE Tobacco Trade Association, of Boston and New England, recently formed among the wholesale cigar and tobacco jobbers, for the purpose of safety and protection in finding out the credit and standing of parties, that are here-today-and-gone-tomorrow style of men, will meet socially and in a business way to get at the foundation of those buyers who wish time on their goods.

A mutual benefit association for all cigar and tobacco men in the trade will no doubt extend to every state and finally be a national protection for both buyer and seller.

Recently one party took "French leave" with $10,000 cash realized on goods sold that he had bought on credit. Another "skipped out" with $15,000. Neither of these two men have been heard from. This Tobacco Trade Association is something necessary and will be a safety valve and boon in a financial way to wholesalers who want to know their customers. In a social way, men show their colors more and now there are a number of more men who wish to join the association.

The officers are: Maurice Hanauer, of Bieringer Bros., president; Samuel Rosenthal, of Rosenthal Bros. and Benditson, vice-president, and James F. Logan, of McGreener & Manning, secretary and treasurer.

All communications should be sent to the secretary, American House, Boston, Mass.

The cigar and tobacco industry, around Boston and vicinity, remain about the same as last month.

The writer cannot see very much difference in the trade, only as to location, as that is everything in the drug and cigar business.

Mr. Waterman, of Waitt & Bond, Inc., says that trade has been increasing every month for the last two years. Their "Blackstones" and fine Havana cigars, are kept up to the standard, and sold everywhere.

Mr. Silver, of Goldsmith, Silver & Co., manufacturers of the "M. C. A." cigars, says that business is good, but when hotels, beach houses, etc., open they will have almost more than they can handle.

Hamilburg, of 7 Essex street, this city, sold more "Queen Smokers" on St. Patrick's day, than any other man in Boston. He certainly had the lead that day, President Taft being in town.

The Electric Cigar Company, George E. Page, treasurer, announces assets of $30,040.00.

George H. Thompson and George B. Sutherland, carrying on business as retail druggists at Bowdoin Square, Boston, under the name of Choate Drug and Chemical Co., have dissolved partnership. The business will be carried on by George B. Sutherland.

"Elcho" cigars, made by Fitzgerald and Driscoll, have been advanced this week from $62.00 to $65.00.

Ned Solomon, formerly with the Adams Square Cigar Store, is now with the Bieringer Bros. Co., on Dock Square.

Woodbury's Cafe, on Devonshire street, has a very fine display of Havana and domestic cigars. "12th Night" cigarettes figure in the window display.

James F. Logan, the able and well-known manager of McGreener and Manning, wholesale and retail tobacconists, says that they are always busy, have twelve Auto Trucks loaded every day delivering cigars, tobacco, cigarettes, and all accessories to the trade in all towns, within fifty miles of their warerooms.

Sol Rosmer, with E. M. Schwarz & Co., was a recent visitor here, looking up the trade.

"Partagus" cigars hold the centre of Ehrlich and Kopf's Court street show windows. They look good enough to smoke (that is, the cigars).

The Nestor Cigarette Co. reports business as good. They have regular customers in all parts of New England the year 'round, which ensures a steady business.

The Eastern Independent Cigar Stand Co. is now carried on by Morris Bernstein, 2132 Washington street, Roxbury.

The firm of J. F. Collins & Co., wholesale and retail tobacco dealers, State street, North Adams, has been dissolved. Mary J. Collins will continue the business under the same name. John J. McDonough has retired from the firm.

John W. Creasey, druggist on Market Square, Amesbury, Mass., has sold the store to William M. Gowen. For several years Mr. Gowen has been head clerk in said store.

Dyer Stannard has sold his drug store, in Mill River, to John Thurlough.

The American Tobacco Co. are giving away a generous sample of the famous Mayo's cut plug tobacco, for smoking or chewing. It has been on the market for forty years. 7-20-4 Factory's output for 1900 was upwards of twenty-three millions. The increase during the year was over four and one-half millions.

Mark Wolf, one of the old time veterans in the cigar and tobacco business, died here this week. He was considered by the old school, a very fine salesman.

The American Tobacco Co. are placing "Tokio" five-cent cigarettes on the market.

The Boston Tavern handle a good many Havana cigars. The trade demands a cigar of a high order, the "Elaborados" having the call.

LEAF TOBACCO MARKET

Leaf Market Fairly Active—New Crop Being Steadily Absorbed—Farmers Preparing for Summer
In Connecticut—Connecticut Leaf in Demand

NEW YORK.

NEW YORK CITY.

The leaf market in this city continues to be fairly active. Shade-grown Connecticut still seems to be in much demand, although other desirable types of leaf get their share of attention. Connecticut primed and shade-grown leaf is being bought so largely that there will possibly be very little leaf for next fall when the Connecticut season is supposed to be at its busiest.

Since the Connecticut-Havana seed crop is reported to be in a damaged condition, buyers have been hustling to secure a supply. The Sumatra crop evidently is of exceptional quality, judging by the high prices it seems to command.

BALDWINVILLE.

The leaf market at this place has been listless. The crop has been pretty well disposed of, the better grades selling easily.

The growers are preparing their fields for next season, although weather conditions have delayed them considerably. The 1911 crop has sold for a respectable figure and the growers generally are well satisfied with their returns.

PENNSYLVANIA.

PHILADELPHIA.

THE leaf market in this city has had a slight change for the better, according to a prominent leaf dealer. Although there is considerable room for improvement the tobacco men as a rule are optimistic and look forward to increased sales. There seems to be a tendency on the part of Pennsylvania growers to get rid of their stock on hand, and as a result prices have dropped slightly. One dealer ventured the opinion that about twenty per cent. of the crop still remained unsold. Many of the factories are extremely dull at present, but all are looking for increased activity.

LANCASTER.

The last two weeks have been extremely dull in the leaf tobacco circles. There has been virtually nothing done so far as trade in old goods was concerned. The packers are putting their whole attention to packing the new crop, deliveries being made to them daily. There is still quite a good amount of tobacco to be delivered, also a number of crops to be contracted for. Prices have been ranging around ten cents, a good crop occasionally bringing eleven cents.

The cigar business at present seems to have taken a slump. Manufacturers are awaiting the predicted spring boom. With such a condition it is only natural that the leaf trade should suffer in sympathy.

Trading in 1910 tobacco fell off considerably, nor was there much doing in 1909 goods.

YORK.

The buying of the new crop was less active the past two weeks, owing to the dull conditions in the cigar factories. The damp weather of several weeks ago was taken advantage of by the growers and deliveries have been heavy. It has been estimated that from 20 to 30 per cent. of the new crop remains unsold. In the vicinity of Litz most of the 1911 crop has been disposed of, some prices of 11 cents and 3 having been obtained.

There has been a rather consistent demand for Connecticut shade-grown tobacco. One sale of 1600 acres of Connecticut Havana seed-grown was reported for future delivery. The Sumatra market is quiet. A number of manufacturers claim that if the price of the leaf is as high as circumstances would indicate they intend using Connecticut shade-grown and will advertise the fact to their customers.

CONNECTICUT.

The farmers have started to prepare their fields for the coming season. They had been considerably delayed owing to the renewal of the snow a short time ago. A good amount of the new Havana seed has been shipped from local packing points and very little remains unsold in this region. Broadleaf has been selling fairly well.

The tobacco growers in the broadleaf section are aroused over the alleged combination of buyers to establish and maintain low prices on the 1911 crop still in the hands of growers.

One prominent tobacco man said that the reported action of the buyers had developed a spirit of co-operation among the growers who still hold their 1911 crop, so much so that it will probably tie up the broadleaf market unless a reasonable price is received. It is estimated that one half of the 1911 crop still remains in the growers' hands, 80 per cent. of it being of standard quality.

At present the outlook for a good season is bright. Many of the growers have put glass over their beds in order to draw out the frost.

OHIO.

CINCINNATI.

The Cincinnati Burley Tobacco Market has had two of the busiest weeks of the season. Quality considered the market has been improving.

The better grades of colory leaf were well sustained at previous high quotations, while medium red leaf and tips were slightly stronger. A number of hogsheads of scrap sold at low prices, but brought their full value, being of inferior quality. Little fancy wrapper leaf was shown, which brought the top price of $26.25 for old and $26.75 for new.

Rejections have been about 19 per cent. of the offerings. The average per cent. rejections, so far this season, has been 15, as compared with 21 for the corresponding period of 1911.

KENTUCKY.

SHELBYVILLE.

It has been estimated that from 85 to 90 per cent. of the crop still remains unsold. Buyers are still scouring the country, paying the best prices of the season for the remaining crops, with prices ranging from 9 to 12 cents per pound.

HOPKINSVILLE.

There has been a strong rush to the markets here the last two weeks, due to the favorable weather conditions. Prices were firm and there was a lively demand for all goods offered. Hogshead prices ranged from $6 to $10 for lugs and from $9 to $16 for leaf.

WISCONSIN.

EDGERTON.

Deliveries are still being made at receiving points as fast as the packing facilities will permit of handling the goods at the warehouses. Deliveries have been exceptionally heavy, although there is considerable tobacco still hanging in the sheds.

The unsold portions of the crop have been steadily absorbed, but generally at prices under the earlier figures, prices ranging from 6 to 9 cents. The movement in old stock continues in a hand to mouth fashion and few transactions of any size were noted. In comparison with other years the holdings of desirable binder stock are very limited.

The proceeds of the tobacco growers show that this has been one of the most profitable crops in years. There is no probability that prices will decline for two or three years to come, provided a good binder leaf can be produced.

Franklin, O., Warehouse Destroyed

The tobacco warehouse at Franklin, Ohio, owned by A. Landis, Dayton, Ohio, and occupied by Ira Weiser, was destroyed by fire on Sunday, March 17th. The building and contents were a complete loss. The building was insured for $50,000. It contained over twelve hundred cases of table assorted and resweat Zimmer Spanish B's of the 1908, 1909 and 1910 crop. Of this amount less than three hundred cases belonged to Mr. Weiser, which were fully covered by insurance. The 1,000 cases which were held on storage for other firms with headquarters in the East it was supposed are also covered by insurance.

Second Amsterdam Inscription

Prices as a rule at the second inscription in Amsterdam on March 15th were higher than those paid at the first. Competition with European houses was very spirited. About 2,000 bales were taken for America, among the purchasers being H. Duys & Co., 364 bales; Yocum Bros., 351; United Cigar Manufacturers Company, 274; E. Spingarn & Co., 147; M. F. Schneider, 143; A. Cohn & Co., 130; S. Rossin & Sons, 126; Otto Eisenlohr & Bros., 120; G. Falk & Bro., 112; Pretzfeld & Co., 107.

THE TOBACCO WORLD REGISTRATION BUREAU

The Tobacco World, established in 1881, has maintained a Bureau for the purpose of Registering and Publishing claims of the adoption of Trade-Marks and Brands for Cigars, Cigarettes, Smoking and Chewing Tobacco, and Snuff. All Trade-Marks to be registered and published should be addressed to The Tobacco World Corporation, 102 South Twelfth Street, Philadelphia.

One Dollar for each title must accompany all applications. In case title or titles cannot be registered owing to prior registration, same will be returned immediately, less our usual charge for searching and return postage, or it will be credited if desired.

Positively no responsibility assumed for errors, duplications or any controversies which might arise. We will not under any circumstances act in a legal capacity in cases concerning disputed titles. We maintain a bureau of records only.

The Kind on which to Build
Your Business

MADE BY
Allen R. Cressman's Sons, Philadelphia

Short talks
to Dealers

It is just as essential to use good cigarettes in order to build up a substantial cigarette business as to use good building material for a home. With

FATIMA
BLEND
CIGARETTES

you have a good, dependable foundation. Good, because the mild, mellow Turkish flavor of Fatimas is the flavor most desired by cigarette smokers. Dependable, because our process of manufacture insures the same uniform quality in each cigarette in every package.

And to increase the already enormous sale of Fatimas and to make it easy for you to build up a big, substantial trade with them, we are advertising them very heavily during 1912.

In fact, the 1912 Fatima advertising campaign will be one of the very biggest ever known for cigarettes.

And back of every ad—every cigarette and every dealer—stands the Liggett & Myers Tobacco Co.

P. S.—Fatimas are very popular with all college men.

A

OPPORTUNITY

To be profitable, a cigar must be a repeater—a repeater of its own accord. To do this it must have exceptional quality; it must be uniform, and it must stay uniform. These points and only these points have made the BOLD, without exception, the one best bet in the nickel market. Now, Mr. Jobber, get a hold on this profitable proposition. Write for samples today. Delay will mean a lost opportunity.

BOBROW BROS.
114 S. SECOND STREET, PHILADELPHIA

A National Cash Register protects merchant, clerk and customer

It fixes responsibility. It eliminates losses and mistakes, prevents forgotten charges, and insures a record of money received on account and paid out.

It makes careless employes careful—it enables good employes to prove their efficiency.

Customers are protected against mistakes in their accounts. The receipt in the parcel, printed by the register, proves the amount paid.

When a National Cash Register enters a store, it becomes a better store—better for the proprietor, better for his employes and better for his customers.

The National Cash Register Company
Dayton, Ohio

NO % added for selling, incidental expenses, nor for losses in accounts. Our terms are cash, hence no losses.

10 per cent. saved on your purchases

means an average saving for your bank account on each purchase you make. This can be accomplished in making your Manila and Porto Rican cigar purchases through us.

Our cigars fill every requirement and most advanced ideas of cigar making. Honest, never varying in material, superior finish and Reasonably Priced.

OUR PORTO RICAN Cigars are made exclusively of Porto Rican grown tobacco.

Fresh shipments of Manilas reach us semi-monthly

MANILA Of all the Manila made Cigars our blends are the most popular. Our enormous sales and direct alliance with all the factories at Manila enable us to receive concessions, which are ample profits in themselves, thus assisting us to give the very closest quotations.

We send samples express prepaid, for which charge is made. In ordering please state price you wish to pay and if a full or limited line is required.

Henry Meyer, Pioneer Ohio Tobacco Man, Killed in Auto

One of Cincinnati's Best Known Leaf Packers Meets
Sudden Death—Son Seriously Injured

CINCINNATI, O., April 13th.

HENRY MEYER, one of the oldest and best known leaf tobacco dealers in the Ohio Valley and founder and president of Henry Meyer & Co., of this city, was killed on the evening of April 9th, and his son Harold seriously injured, when an automobile, in which they were riding, became unmanageable and dashed over a steep embankment near Mr. Meyer's suburban home at West Alexandria.

Father and son were buried under the machine and death was instantaneous to the former. The son when extricated was found to be injured internally, and it is not known as yet whether he will survive.

The death of Mr. Meyer caused a great shock, not only to his family, but to a large circle of social and business friends. He has been one of the most prominent and active factors in the Ohio leaf tobacco market for many years, having at one time served as president of the Ohio Leaf Tobacco Packers' Association and having represented that body in the National Cigar Leaf Tobacco Association. He was 76 years old. The funeral took place on Friday, and was largely attended by men prominent in the trade.

Cigar Dealer Swindled in Cemetery Deal

CINCINNATI, O., April 12th.

FRED SAMAD, retail cigar dealer, 730 West Fifth avenue, was swindled out of $484 this week by three men who lured him into a fake investment in a cemetery lot deal. One of the men who had frequented his store for a week, treating him to the best cigars and then taking him to the theatre, promised to let him on the ground floor of a fine money-making proposition.

The swindler brought around a tin box, alleged to contain $12,000, the capital of the enterprise, and persuaded Samad to deposit his $484 in it. In some manner Samad's good money was extracted from the box and the swindlers departed leaving him a tin box containing a lot of newspaper clippings and a soiled handkerchief. Samad is looking for the swindlers. So are the police.

Solomon Monday Dies in Brooklyn

Solomon Monday, one of Brooklyn's pioneer cigar and tobacco jobbers and manufacturers, died at his home in that city April 10th, at the age of 71. The name Monday has been prominent in tobacco affairs of Brooklyn for nearly half a century. Mr. Monday founded his business as a jobber and distributor of cigars and tobacco, and later branched out in the manufacture of cigars and tobacco, in which field he has been a notable success. The firm of S. Monday & Sons is well-organized and in fine position to continue and perpetuate the business founded by Mr. Monday. A widow, two sons, Joseph and Moses, who are associated with him in the business, and a daughter, survive.

Another Big Cigar Manufacturing Firm for Philadelphia

Will Operate Two Factories—Isaac Jaffe, Late of Sulzberger-Oppenheimer Co., to Be Manager

PLANS are being formulated by Nathan Baum, Isidore Baum, Isaac Jaffe and B. J. Stiefel for the incorporation of a cigar manufacturing firm in this city. Nathan Baum stated to a TOBACCO WORLD representative several days ago that nothing definite has been decided upon, but that further information will be forthcoming in several weeks.

Nathan and Isidore Baum are well-known figures in the liquor circles of this city, being members of the firm of Adam Baum & Sons, 117 North Third street. This old-established concern has been in business in Philadelphia for more than fifty years.

Mr. Jaffe is to be the manager of the new concern, and will have direct charge of the manufacturing end. He was superintendent of the Sulzberger-Oppenheimer factory, at Montgomery avenue and Mervine street, for over twelve years. That firm, with its brands and good will, was purchased about three weeks ago by the Theobald-Oppenheimer Cigar Company.

No definite locations have been decided upon, but the intention at present is to have two factories, one in this city and another at Souderton, Pa., where only higher grades of cigars will be manufactured.

Mr. Jaffe's experience in the Sulzberger-Oppenheimer factory on such well-known brands as the "Campanello" and "Delores" will doubtless be of great value to him in the high-grade line of goods which it is intended the new company will turn out.

First District Shows Big Decrease in Cigars

Deficit for First Quarter of Year Increased by the Production for March

REPORTS issued by the Collector of Internal Revenue for the First Pennsylvania District, covering the month of March, show that there has been a falling off in production in every branch of the industry with the exception of tobacco, which shows a slight increase. The decrease in cigars considerably overbalances the increase which was shown in February, of 2,994,270 cigars, and coupled with a decrease of 3,953,270 for January, brings the present deficit of the first quarter of the year up to 4,456,970. The figures for March are as follows:

| | 1912. | 1911. | Decrease. |
|----------------------|------------|------------|----------------|
| Large Cigars | 59,818,500 | 64,189,650 | 4,371,150 |
| Little Cigars | 13,320,000 | 25,400,000 | 12,080,000 |
| Cigarettes at $3.60 | 16,000 | 19,000 | 3,000 |
| Cigarettes at $1.25 | 8,406,440 | 9,015,800 | 609,360 |
| Snuff at 8c. | | 97,775 | |
| Manufactured Tobacco | 91,789 | 91,371 | (Increase) 418 |

Cuba-Rica Chain Incorporates in Wisconsin

The Cuba-Rica Cigar Stores Co., a new chain of stores being promoted by New York interests, has filed articles of incorporation under the laws of Wisconsin with a stated capital of $48,000, $2,000 of which is invested in Wisconsin property. Steve Surman, of Milwaukee, is the Wisconsin representative.

"SOMETHING DIFFERENT"

Business Campaigns That Will "Produce"---For the Retailer, Wholesaler and Manufacturer

By J. B. JAMISON. **

Being an outline of systems through which big business houses are built. Preparing Advertising Copy

PREPARING the copy for your advertisements is one, if not the most important, part of advertising. And this requires experience. One often hears of the "born ad-writer," but before a reputation was made, it is safe to say, that considerable experience was acquired.

If you are considering a campaign, first decide upon your style of type and layout. To the novice in printing this is immaterial, but were he to see the different effects produced by using various styles of type, but using the same advertising copy, he would change his mind on this point.

After you have decided upon a general style, use it each time. The desirability of having an individual style cannot be overlooked. This applies to advertising as it does almost everywhere else.

Do not go to extremes in your make-up. The ad with type an inch high does not always make the best impression. Some of the glaring ads so often seen, really jump up and strike one in the face, so that in relief we turn to the pleasing, easily read style on the next page. That glaring style, once so prevalent, has long since been consigned to the scrap heap. Watch carefully the advertisements of large and successful firms.

A technical knowledge of printing, while desirable, is not absolutely necessary. Much of the appearance of the ad can be left to the printer. But many printers imagine that not a square inch of space shall be left unused. Do not allow him to fill in with scrolls, ornaments, rules, etc. The step from the prevailing style of laying out ads to the ridiculous is not a very long one and should be carefully watched.

An ad writer who lacks technical knowledge of printing should obtain one of the various letter books issued about type. They are small, easily handled, and contain much useful information. These books enable you to make yourself clearer to the printer.

In preparing your copy, make the headline bold and prominent, but in the balance of the ad use bold type sparingly. Use the larger type only when you have something very important to announce, or when you have something which you wish to emphasize.

In starting upon the body of your ad just imagine that you have with your headline, attracted a prospective customer. Now that you are with him, cool down and have a confidential talk, in other words use a chatty style, as though he were right beside you. Try to make your sentences crisp, and right to the point. Don't forget that your space and also your reader's time is limited.

In writing up your goods, think of the class of people you are appealing to. If you are a business man appealing to other business men, do not use any alleged humor with impunity. It will hurt the dignity of your firm and cheapen you in other men's eyes. Humor can be used with telling effect at times, but it often is cheapening, and should be used with discretion.

If you are appealing to the "common people," you can often use methods which would be entirely out of place in appealing to a business man. Wit and humor with a chatty, breezy style will go well, but be very, very careful, so that it is good fun.

Try as far as possible to be original, but if a good advertising scheme has been used in another part of the country, which possibly applies very well to your case, use it. Originality is to be preferred, yet a good scheme, used before, is better than a poor new one. The man who wrote that advertisement may have taken it from some other man, so you need have no scruples in using it, provided he is not your nearest competitor. If you are sending your ad copy to an advertising agency, do not think for a moment that they are entirely original. Most agencies have a book which contains the best styles and layouts of ads used in every branch of every business, and your ad may be written in one of the best styles of your line, perhaps with modifications.

Any first-class ad contains an idea for you and the more you study the ads of others, the more proficient will you become in preparing yours. Criticize them, notice where they fail and see that you do not make the same mistakes.

When you use cuts handle them carefully and when they become battered throw them away. No cut at all is preferable by far to a poor one. Preserve them carefully and put them away with the faces covered, for the slightest scratch will surely show in the printing.

A change of copy should be made in every issue, if it is at all possible. It makes no difference whether or not you are advertising the same article. Use the same general style, but give them another argument. If a man glances at your ad and notices that the wording is the same as in the previous issue of the paper, he will never finish it. That's an old story.

Trade journal advertising, at one time, was confined principally to announcing new varieties of goods and to general advertising, which did nothing more than keep the advertiser's name before the public.

Manufacturers are beginning to see the weakness of such publicity methods and are going more into the newspaper style than ever before. Where formerly the business man kept his ads chiefly as a directory of the trade, now he receives such live business-like stuff in them, that in each issue he searches for new ideas. If more advertisers using trade journals would try to make them as readable as the magazine ad, they would have no reason to complain, and their ad would be read just as closely as the magazine ad is.

Above all things change the wording of your advertisement continually and keep out of a rut. For variety is, first, last and all the time, the spice of advertising.

MEN WHO MADE GOOD

SIDELIGHTS ON INTERESTING TRADE PERSONALITIES

HITCH your wagon to a star," was exactly what H. A. Bogardus, the most prominent and best-liked cigar jobber and distributor in the City of Louisville, did when he accepted a position a number of years ago, as driver of a delivery wagon for a small tobacco store in Indianapolis, Ind. The life of Mr. Bogardus may well and profitably be taken as an example of men who have risen from the ranks to become one of the leaders.

Mr. Bogardus got his first position in a cigar store. This was in the establishment of Louis G. Deschler, a jobber and retailer of the Hoosier capital. At this time the concern was doing but a small and confined business, but they soon moved to larger quarters and took up the wholesale trade. Mr. Bogardus was then put on the street as a city salesman, where he showed his ability and proved himself to be a man of energy and tact, becoming before long a member of the firm.

After he had associated himself with the Deschler concern in this capacity for a few years, he was offered a salesmanship with the House of Crane, of the same city. He sold his interest in the Deschler store, and accepted the position for the fact that it promised brighter prospects for the future. He rose step by step in this store and soon had charge of the salesmen, both city and travelling. It was then that he offered to buy half interest in the Kentucky business and to take charge of it in person. Heretofore, very little attention had been paid to the trade in the Bluegrass State by the Crane Company, but Mr. Bogardus said that it would be a success, and his employers had learned to believe that what he said was usually so. They took him into the concern and sent him across the Ohio, into a territory which had hardly been worked by them at all.

Mr. Bogardus opened a small store on Main street and procured a horse and buggy, in which to wait on the few customers which he might be able to solicit. He put in a small stock of cigars and tobacco and left a small boy in the store, while he made his rounds to the retailers and told them of the wonders of the Crane products. At the end of his second month there was enough on hand to pay all bills and start a neat bank account. From that time on the concern progressed. An experienced clerk was put in the store, and new lines were added to the stock.

Not long after, owing to cramped quarters, Mr. Bogardus was forced to move. When he did, he got in the center of the wholesale section and opened one of the best equipped cigar stores in the city at that time. He soon began to consider the purchase of an automobile delivery truck. He finally decided in favor of a four-cylinder truck. The emblem of the House of Crane was enameled on both sides and it was put to work immediately.

The first brand which was put on the market by the House of Crane in Louisville, was the "Plantista." It met with a gratifying success and led to the greater exploitation of such brands as the "Denby," and the "San Felice," all in the five-cent class. The latest and perhaps greatest success which Mr. Bogardus has brought into the Gateway town is the "New Bachelor." In the clear Havana line, he has brought the "Lo Paz" and the "Optimo" to a high degree of quality. The broad leaf headliners are the "Elverso" and the "Rigoletta."

Mr. Bogardus is one of the best known and liked cigar dealers in Louisville, and has a circle of friends which extends throughout two States. Associated with him are Mr. C. C. Renfro, who has also risen from the ranks, and Paul Coleman, who has taken charge of the retail trade. An insight into the character of this man is shown by a small card which hangs near his desk in his private office. It reads:

"Jolly the fellow who is down today,
And give him a smile for his sorrow,
For this world oft has a funny way,
And you may be down tomorrow."

Caricature of Mr. Bogardus which recently appeared in one of the Louisville daily newspapers.

The Marital Mystery of a Cigarette

By R. Maxwell

REBELLIOUS woman is up in arms against the tyrant man these strenuous days, and desires to know why she can't be the equal of the Lord of Creation if he sells his vote at the polls, takes bribes, drinks, swears and plays crap. Also the deadly cigarette and the affinity habit in wives appear to be coincidental evils of the day to be reckoned with. For the villain as a rule may be relied upon to enter the erstwhile happy home with a "Turkish Trophy" cigarette imbedded between his lips, which is only removed for a sufficient length of time to permit him to go down upon his knees and utter the fatal words which leave that particular home a desolate waste, and supplies another case for the divorce courts at Reno.

Thus it came to pass that when Mr. Younghusband the other day—or rather night, for it was an hour past midnight—entered his domicile, carefully unlocking the door so as not to disturb the girl of his choice in her long slumbers, seating himself on the edge of the bed and with equal care unlacing and removing his shoes, placing them first one and then the other upon the floor without a sound, he of a sudden sat bolt upright, with staring eyes and extended nostrils, as novelists put it.

Mr. Younghusband had smelled something which caused him to thus sit up and take notice.

It was the subtle, permeating odor of a Turkish cigarette.

He sniffed several times—a terrible thought crossed his mind—what did it mean? Whence came that smell? It certainly was not of his own making, for he had not been in the house since half past six o'clock, and then only for a brief half hour, when pressing matters of a business nature took him away to his club, leaving the wife alone in the flat.

He arose and walked across the room, out into the hallway, back into the parlor, continuing to sniff with dilated nostrils and mind awhir. In explanation of his great agony and perturbation it may here be explained that he had only been married two months, and it was but the last week or so that club matters had commenced to take him away from his fireside nights.

Ha! Ha! A Clue!

The cigarette odor was unmistakable. There could be no doubt. With bitter regrets he recalled that short, blissful period when Bess would sit up waiting for him even until two o'clock in the morning—when he would entertain her even until a later hour than that.

Now the faithless creature slumbered sweetly while the cigarette smoke which filled the house betrayed her perfidy.

It was maddening. What could he do?

Who among their mutual male acquaintances could have called upon her that night after he left the house, leaving this smoke in his trail? She might have become suddenly sick and called in the doctor, but then he never smoked anything but cigars. His bosom friend Jim, one of the few among his chums he had dared to introduce his wife to, as he knew him to be his true friend, could hardly have been there as he was away from the city for a one week trip to Tampa. The janitor might have been there to look after the radiators, but he was an old fashioned Dutchman who never smoked anything but the long pipe of his fathers.

What should he do?

Spending an hour in troubled indecision as to whether he should wake her and have it out then and there, he at length decided to wait until the morning, relying upon his skill as a cross-questioner to bring out the truth and lay bare her deceit, painful as the task would be to him, for he would never have suspected such a thing of Bess.

The morning came. The two sat opposite each other at the breakfast table, when he looked at her casually and in the most indifferent tone in the world remarked:

"Had company last night Bess?"

"No, not a soul."

"No one?"

"No, dear."

He was ready to explode and controlled himself with an effort. He had already scrutinized her finger-tips, but they bore no yellow tell-tale marks. Still she might have contracted the habit. There were holders. Of two evils that certainly would be the least. Then of a sudden he noted that she had dressed herself with unusual care that morning. He had never seen that pretty kimono before and it had been some time since she had worn a ribbon in her hair. This morning she did.

The Plot Thickens.

Mr. Younghusband was in a quandary. He could not bear to make the fatal break just then, and went to his office with a heavy heart, hoping against hope that some way to explain the matter without compromising his young wife might yet be found.

Purposely he kept himself away from home until midnight, then entered once more on tiptoe and once more was met with a whiz of cigarette smoke, piquant and unmistakable.

Beads of perspiration broke out on his forehead. Five horizontal lines, formed as though to suggest that a bar of music was about to be written there, and from the expression he was wearing one might infer that the composer was to be Strauss and the subject "Discordia." Stealing into the sitting room he peered around. By the side of his own easy chair was a little stand, and on this stand was an ash receiver containing half a dozen cigarette stubs. There could no longer be any doubt in the matter.

Mr. Younghusband put them on the top shelf of the china closet and slowly and sadly betook himself upstairs. His wrath was giving way to sorrow and melancholy, deep and profound.

"And did you have company last night Bess, dear?" he asked in his blithest accents the next morning at breakfast, noting that once more she had dressed up as though she expected to receive a lover at ten o'clock, after he had gone to the office.

"No," she said, "not a soul."

"Nobody?"

"No."

"Queer game Bess," he remarked. "I thought I smelled cigarette smoke. Nobody smoked cigarettes in this house the last two nights?"

"No, sir."

"The hussy!" Looking at her closer, he saw that this morning she wore a flower in her hair.

What to do? Once more the gravity of the situation stood clear before him. It meant either a permanent break with his wife, or he would have to take her at her word. He choose the third course. He would watch her and trap her.

Mr. Younghusband experienced the sensations of a falling aviator. That night he stayed at home to make observations. Mrs. Y. had dressed herself in her daintiest gown and looked her very best. To match the idea he noticed she sported one of her laciest, filmiest handkerchiefs. Cologned? Yes, sure.

Two more nights he kept himself at home to allay her suspicions of being caught; he made it a week to make sure. Then one morning he looked up from his coffee and in a matter of fact way remarked:

"I've got to attend a meeting of the 'Jolly Neros' tonight, Bess. It may be late. Don't wait for me. The boys will think I have broken faith with them if I don't attend. I haven't seen any of them since we were married. You just go to bed."

And so he went out, only to linger on the streets for a couple of hours, walking, walking and sadly pondering over his lost happiness, for he felt positive of catching his wife. Eight o'clock he returned. The moment he entered the house there was the cigarette smoke once more. On tiptoe he went to the parlor door and peered in. Murder was in his heart. His right hand instinctively went to his hip pocket, although there wasn't any gun, but he had seen how cowboys do it in a moving picture show.

What he beheld was Bess sitting near the window beside the table, an ash receiver placed in front of her and on this receiver a self-consuming cigarette was sending spirals of smoke toward the ceiling. A two inch length of ashes showed it had not been disturbed since lit. While he stood at the keyhole lost in wonderment at the strange sight, she took another cigarette from the box, held it over the gas until it was lighted and then placed it in the receiver beside the first one.

Caught. Yes, Caught at Last!

Mr. Younghusband made his better half aware of his presence by a strained cough. "Ahem, ahem!"

Mrs. Younghusband beholding him in the door sat herself down very suddenly with abashed mien.

"What the deuce are you up to, Bess?" he demanded.

"Well—now—you see—you go to the 'Jolly Neros'—I feel lonely, and when I light these cigarettes and let'm smoke I somehow feel as though I were in your company. That's all."

Mr. Younghusband folded her to his breast with deep sighs of relief. So that was it. He kicked off his shoes and donned his slippers. No more "Jolly Neros" for him.

Then the thought that she might have explained to him long ago, when he first questioned her, entered his mind. After all she had played a double game. She had deliberately put him on the anxious seat.

"But that was the only way I seemed to be able to discover to make you prefer my company nights to that of the 'Jolly Neros,'" she murmured, reading his thoughts.

"Darn the 'Jolly Neros,'" spouted Mr. Younghusband. "You are a little hussy," he added, but I'll have to humor you.

"Got any more cigarettes?"

"Yes, have one?"

Smoking Among Women

(By the "Tobacco World" Philosopher.)

DA ME FASHION has again decreed that it is quite the thing to smoke among women. And when she decides that any practice is a friend of hers the old moralities just naturally fade away. This subject of smoking is one that has been thrashed out so much that one often speculates whether anything has been left unsaid. Some of our dear, old-fashioned grandmothers "hit the pipe," usually a corncob, and it was a pretty strong one at that. Yet no one ever thought it out of the way. They would sit by the hour, calmly puffing away.

During the last 25 years there has been an impression prevailing that any woman who smoked the "coffin-nail" was beyond the pale, that it was the practice only of the low and depraved. It may seem strange then that any cigarettes are sold at all. But go into any large store and ask the proprietor about this, and nine times out of ten, he will tell you that he has quite a trade among women, that he would not like to mention names, but could give you a number who are habitual users of the weed. A prominent tobacco man estimated that in New York alone the number of women smokers is close to 100,000, and that they consume on an average of 35,000,000 cigarettes a year.

While many of the smartest set in the large cities use tobacco extensively, its use is not confined entirely to them. The middle class foreigner's wife uses it quite extensively. The tobacco used is usually Turkish, the kind that their male relatives buy. Madam will stop in at her favorite tobacconist's and get her cigarettes, sometimes by the box, perhaps 100 at a time.

Although smoking is forbidden in some of the fashionable restaurants of our large cities, in others there is no pretense at stopping the women patrons from enjoying a smoke after their meals. It is beginning to be considered a woman's privilege.

In Europe, the custom is quite prevalent and fails to excite the comment that it does on this side of the pond.

The Grand Duke Michael, exiled from Russia, has been one of the shining lights of Russia-London society. Women of the English swell set delight to attend the functions he and his wife, the Countess Torby, give, for in addition to the charm of their hostess they find the added charm that the cigarettes are of a quality superior to anything that can be had of British tobacconists for love or money. There, at all times, can be found a group of kindred spirits, all devout subjects of Queen Nicotine.

A short time ago, the Grand Duke offered a jeweled cigarette holder to the lady who could consume a cigarette in the least number of puffs. Mrs. Bingham, the well-known London belle, formerly Mrs. Chauncey, won it. She left her "coffin-nail" in ashes when her nearest rival needed several seconds to match her. The Grand Duke gave her the holder with the enthusiastic remark that there was no one in Russia who could have done as well.

The story of that curious contest spread all over Europe and later came to this country, where it opened the old discussion as to the benefit or harm that may result from women using tobacco. Dr. Martin Friederich, health officer of Cleveland, recently declared that cigarettes, so far from being injurious to women, constitute one of the most effective antidotes to the poison of theine, an active poison absorbed by consumers of tea, and that it helps women's hearts in an appreciable manner. Dr. Charles Pease, of New York, takes exception to all utterances of this nature, but has used such extreme measures and language that any point that his arguments may have contained were spoiled by his "Carrie Nation" methods. He has made himself so ridiculous that all thinking men refuse to take him seriously.

But the fact remains that with all the agitation against tobacco in its various forms, it is being used more and more every day. Excessive use of tobacco will result in injury to the body, just as excessive use of tea or coffee, or almost anything for that matter, is injurious.

Meanwhile the workingman will fill up his pipe after his evening meal and bless him who was the means of introducing smoking, while the more fortunate man will smoke his after-dinner cigar, although I doubt if he will enjoy it any more than the workingman. While all the Dr. Peases will go their troublesome ways and become general nuisances.

THE spruce, jaunty-looking traveling man, after a glance at the menu, looked up at the pretty waitress and observed: "Nice day, little one."

"Yes, it is," she replied, "and so was yesterday, and my name is Jane, and I know I am a corking looking girl, and have fetching eyes, and I have been here quite a while, and like the place, and I don't think I am too nice a girl to be working in this place—if I did I'd get out—and I don't know whether there is a show or dance in town tonight, and if there is I shall not go with you, and I am from the country, and I am a respectable girl, and my brother is cook in this restaurant, and last week he wiped up the floor with a fresh fifty-a-month drummer who tried to make a date with me. Now, what will you have?"

The traveling man, slightly wilted, replied that he was not very hungry, and that a cup of coffee and a few buns would be enough for him.

It has been said, and with much truth, that a drop of nicotine administered all in one dose would kill the strongest dog. Using this as an argument upon which to work, the "antis" argue as to its injurious effects upon the human body. While the statement about the dog is undoubtedly true, it is misleading. In order to commit suicide, Fido would have to consume 400 strong cigars, one right after another. Whatever the injurious effects of tobacco may be when used to excess, in moderation, it acts on an adult as a mild sedative. Many authorities claim that after the 30th year, its use prolongs life and preserves the mind by lessening the bodily functions of waste and repair. In smoking, tobacco is one of the least injurious substances known. Compared with other well-known vegetable substances, it is extremely mild.

Seven-year-old Charles had been suspected several times of smoking, but his mother had been unable to catch him "with the goods." One day recently he came in from play, and as he washed his face preparing for supper his mother was sure she detected nicotine stains on his fingers.

"Charles," she said, "you have been smoking."

"No, mother I haven't," the young hopeful replied, "that's iodine on my hand. Willie sprained his wrist and I rubbed some iodine on it."

"Don't tell me a story. I know it's nicotine stains."

Charles looked around in terror. Surely after all that trouble he didn't want to be caught.

"Well, mother," he said, "God knows it's iodine, because he saw me rub it on."

The good Doctor Charles G. Pease, who is known as tobacco's militant foe, in New York City, got himself "in bad" recently at the dinner of the Men's League for Women's Suffrage, held at the Hotel Marseille. Dr. Pease elected himself a committee of one to go around the banquet table and wherever he perceived a lighted cigar or cigarette, snatched the "smoke" from the guest's hand without a word of warning. The secretary of the league grabbed the reverend anti-smoker and came within an ace of putting him out of the dining room. His unwarranted actions offended a number of prominent gentlemen present, some of whom left the banquet hall in utter disgust. Needless to add, the incident did not do much toward strengthening the work of the Men's League along the lines for which it was organized.

At the present time, when everyone is discussing the high cost of living and at a time when noted educators and economists are giving us the pro and con on this all-important question, the contents of a day-book kept by H. J. Morrison & Co., pioneer merchants of Wisconsin in 1840, should be of interest.

A yard of calico was quoted at 38 cents; a pair of socks, 63 cents; one shirt, $2.25; one bar of soap, 50 cents; one paper of pins, 13 cents, and one plug of tobacco at 75 cents. If the present user of plug tobacco had to pay that price for it, we would take a pretty safe guess that the mastication of the weed would drop off to virtually nothing.

A traveling man, who was an inveterate cigarette smoker, reached a small town on an early train. He wanted a smoke, but none of the stores was open. Near the station he saw a newsboy smoking, and approached him with:

"Say, son, got another cigarette?"

"No, sir, but I've got makings."

"All right" the traveling man said. "But I can't roll them very well. Will you fix one for me?"

The boy rolled one.

"Don't believe I've got a match," said the man after a search through his pockets.

The boy handed him a match. "Say, Captain," he said, "you ain't got anything but the habit, have you?"

According to a recent statement of a Havana salesman of cigars, the demand for the more expensive kinds greatly exceeds the supply. Ten times as many cigars, selling at $5, could be disposed of than are at present.

The cigars at that price average about 15 inches in length and it requires 120 pounds of tobacco to make 1000 of them, as against 14 pounds to perfectos, the twenty-five-cent straight cigar.

The difficulty of making them lies in securing suitable tobacco for wrappers, which are of an extraordinary size. Perhaps only one wrapper, which is large enough, can be used after sorting one bundle of tobacco.

The stories about our millionaires and rich men smoking cigars of an unusual size was branded as being untrue. The price paid for these choice smokes depends generally on the quality of the tobacco used in their manufacture and not in the size, which is usually that of the ordinary cigar.

Everybody connected with the trade was glad to learn that the cut-price war on imported brands of cigars died a quick death on the morning of the 9th instant, when the flaring signs came off the front of the United and Schulte stores, in New York, and "Havana Perfectos" were once more quoted at 25c. to the consumer.

As a matter of fact, inquiry at a dozen different United stores during the continuance of the cut-prices elicited the fact that, if anything, the lower figure had scared customers and their total business on imported Havana goods was a trifle less in those shops than previous to the cut. Under these circumstances a continuance of the 20c. price seemed absurd and unbusinesslike, not considering for a moment the effect ultimately on the brands themselves.

The big importers, of New York, deserve much credit for the stern and uncompromising attitude which they took on this dangerous step on the part of the retail distributors and their influence probably led to the quick reversal.

The whole matter had a depressing effect temporarily upon the Havana manufacturers and they, in some cases, stopped their men and plans for immediate action in the securing of business in the United States.

In other sections, outside of New York, the dealers generally paid no attention to the situation here, but expressed themselves as well satisfied with a fixed retail price on Havana goods and also a fixed jobbing price for the purchase of the goods on their own account.

The announcement that England, Germany and Switzerland are about to witness the birth of a new chain of retail cigar stores, similar to those of the United Cigar Stores in this country, will be received with deep interest, by those who have been watching the progress of combination stores in America.

It is understood that George J. Whelan, who made the United Cigar Stores possible in this country, has been in conference with officials of the British-American Tobacco Co., who are arranging the details for the opening of the chain stores in Great Britain.

The attitude of the British public toward the new chain of stores is not likely to be hostile, because consumers in Great Britain have been accustomed to deal in stores of this character.

It is known that one company has been conducting a chain of more than 1000 retail stores in London alone for a number of years. In 1903, the stores were absorbed by the Imperial Tobacco Co., who promptly closed them, thinking it best to sell to the trade in general rather than in finding their own distributing depots.

In Germany and Switzerland, where the anti-trust laws are more severe than in England, the chain-store is likely to meet with more opposition than in England.

Complaints are being heard among importers of leaf tobacco wrapper and filler that "Uncle Sam" has laid his mailed fist unnecessarily heavy upon them in the enforcement of import duties. It seems that the Government, not content with imposing heavy taxes upon every branch of the cigar trade, has set out to squeeze more dollars from the importers by interpreting the Payne-Aldrich tariff to suit itself, and without proper consideration of the importers.

There is such wide latitude in construing paragraph No. 220, that the appraiser can, by a nod of his head, virtually confiscate a shipment of mixed wrapper and filler tobacco. Examining each bale in detail, is impracticable, and it seems to us that the importer ought to have his inning once in a while.

As the law is now being enforced, every doubt is now being decided in favor of the government and by the government's own representatives. If this attitude continues, we would recommend the importers getting together, and going to Washington to lay their complaints direct at the doors of those responsible for the present intolerable conditions.

The fake cigar store auction has bobbed up again on Broadway, and there seem to be a goodly number of the common people who are not yet wise to this game, judging from the business which was being transacted the other day.

The store, which was formerly a small retail shop near Thirty-seventh street, was loaded to the limit with the finest collection of unknown snide brands of cigars which could be seen in many a day. The man with the hammer was a plausible gentleman, with the usual assortment of vulgar wit.

If he could not sell a box at a time he would take five out of the box and peddle them out at a fake bid of five for a quarter. The other goods which probably never cost over $12 per thousand averaged 3 to 5 cents a cigar and the sample smoked by the writer was worse than awful.

Empty boxes of certain well-known brands stood around in the store, but an attempt to get them to cry some of these was fruitless. Mr. Auctioneer said we were to wait, and we are still waiting.

Cut-Price War on Imported Cigars Ends

David A. Schulte Said Nothing Was Gained by Move and Former Price of Perfectos Is Again at 25 Cents

THE cut price war on imported cigars, which went into effect about two weeks ago, has been suddenly discontinued. The cut in prices, which is now said to have been only an experiment, was kept up for only ten days.

The Schulte stores, which were the first to reduce prices, and the United Cigar Stores, who followed to meet the competition, have all gone back to the former prices and declare they are there to stay.

According to the stores which followed in the price-cutting, there had been no great increase in sales, as had been anticipated, and no unfavorable comment has been heard upon the restoration of the old prices.

David A. Schulte, head of the Schulte stores, when asked about the return to the original prices, said: "We decided to reduce the prices on the Perfecto size of the leading imported cigars, because we thought such a move would be beneficial to the customers and would result in largely increasing the sales of such cigars."

"It appears though that many of our customers got the impression that the Perfectos were of an inferior quality from those formerly sold at 25 cents; that the reduction had been made for that reason only. As a result we have gone back to the former prices, for it is evident nothing would have been gained, for there was virtually no increase in the sales of the cigars."

Manila Brands Below Cost

An excellent chance to test the selling quality of Manila cigars is open to dealers who will communicate at once with Carlos Fernandez & Co., 42 E. 23rd street, New York City. This house have decided to close out certain sizes of their exclusive Manila brands at figures which they state are thirty-five per cent. to fifty per cent. less than the goods could be imported.

It is a question of first come, first served and only while the special lots last.

Readers of the TOBACCO WORLD, who are interested are invited to use the coupon in the Carlos Fernandez advertisement and secure from the firm their proposition.

Representative for Ernest Ellinger & Co.

Ernest Ellinger & Co., packers and importers of Havana tobacco, located at 87-89 Pine street, New York, have announced the appointment of William Van Baalen, 168 West Lake street, Chicago, Ill., as their Western representative.

S. Monday & Sons Add New Brand

A PACKAGE of ten clear Havana little cigars, called "Quality Puffs," is the latest output of S. Monday & Sons, Brooklyn. These are packed in cartons neatly wrapped in gold foil paper. The new goods retail at a quarter per package, and are of such genuine quality as to warrant the price.

Besides this brand S. Monday & Sons make the "Imperialette," which is on the same style as the new brand, but of a slightly inferior quality. These retail at ten for fifteen cents, and have proven themselves a very enjoyable short smoke. They also turn out the popular "M." brand, ten for ten cents, and all brands are Havana filled. The demand for their goods at the present time, is tremendous and the factory is pushed to capacity.

Leaf Tobacco Board of Trade Elects Officers

At the meeting of the Leaf Tobacco Board of Trade of New York, held April 9, Carl W. Wobbe was elected president. All of the old officers were re-elected, which included F. M. Dolbeer, vice-president; Charles Fox, secretary, and F. Cranz, treasurer.

The delegates to the convention of the National Cigar Leaf Tobacco Association, which will be held in New York on May 13th and 14th, include the following: J. F. Cullman, Jr., Joseph Mendelsohn, Carl Wobbe, Charles Vogt, Jr., F. Cranz, E. A. Kraussman, F. M. Dolbeer, Jerome Waller, Benno Neuberger, Ernest Ellinger, Marco Fleishman and L. A. Cohn.

Several speakers of the Citizens' League addressed the Board on banking subjects of interest to the trade. According to the treasurer's report, the Board, financially, is in very good condition.

Julius D. Alexander, tobacco dealer at No. 177 Pearl street, has filed a petition in bankruptcy with liabilities $11,264 and assets $5,394, consisting of stock, $600; office furniture, etc., $22; accounts, $88; cash in bank, $4, and claims, $4,680 for goods taken on replevins. Among the creditors are Clara Alexander, $2,426 loans; Mayer & Co., $1,966, and Mark Harris, $1,624. He has been in business fifty-three years. He was formerly of Alexander Bros., against whom a petition in bankruptcy was filed on March 23, 1908, which was dismissed on a settlement at thirty-six cents on the dollar.

D. Baumann & Co. have leased to the United Cigar Stores Company, for a long term of years, the corner store in the building at the southwest corner of Third avenue and 149th street. The annual rental is reported to be $19,500. The space is now occupied by one of the Hegeman stores. D. Baumann & Co. recently took a lease of the entire building for a term of twenty-one years at an annual rental of $32,500.

New York City Items

The offices of the Turco-American Tobacco Company, New York City, have been removed to 220-230 West 19th street.

William J. Wemmer, of the well-known cigar firm, Deisel-Wemmer Co., of Lima, Ohio, will leave for a trip to Europe on the 23rd of this month.

Godfrey S. Mahn, cigar retailer of this city and Philadelphia, vacated his New York store, at 10 East 42nd street, on April 1st. The rental was considered exorbitant. The Import Cigar Company formerly occupied the premises.

George L. Symons, of Symons, Kraussman & Co., is at present in California, where he has placed some notable orders on their popular product, "Flor de Baltimores." The company's business during April, thus far, has been quite above the mark.

The Miller-BuBrul & Peters Manufacturing Company have closed their New York office, at No. 1 Madison avenue, and Mr. F. Chudoba has gone to Cincinnati, where he will be associated with the main office of the company.

A petition in bankruptcy has been filed against the University Smoke Shop Co., of 131 Duane street, by the following creditors: Henry Chamberlain, $369; S. Gryzmish, $105, and T. Rosenbaum & Co., $28. The liabilities are said to be $6,000.

The Ramado Cigarette Company are now occupying their new building on 36th street, this city, where they use two floors. A force of 22 men is now covering the large Eastern cities.

The New York offices of T. Englehardt & Co., have been closed. Their factory, in Tampa, will be the future headquarters. The concern thinks an office in New York is no longer necessary, and for that reason it was discontinued.

Jackson H. Kelley, general road representative of Salomon Bros. & Stern, was reported in Minneapolis last week, and has been cleaning up strongly on "Optimo" orders. Mr. Kelley will finish his long trip in about a fortnight, and is expected in New York by May first.

The special meeting of the American Snuff Company, which was called for April 18, at 15 Exchange Place, Jersey City, has been changed to April 23, for the reason that not enough stock was represented to make a quorum. It had been intended to take some action on the proposition to amend the charter of the company, so that the number of directors would be eleven, not ten, as at present.

F. O. Rhoades, treasurer of the Cuba Cigar Co., 3 Park Row, New York, made a brief trip last week to the Philadelphia, Baltimore and Washington markets. As usual, Mr. Rhoades did not come back empty-handed, for "King's Club" cigars are well known in the cities visited and he gathered in some orders of good volume.

L. Schneider, of A. L. Pandoz Co., says that the month of March proved to be an unusually prosperous one with them and that the orders now on hand will keep the factory working to full capacity for some time to come. The demand for their "El Pandoz" cigars is growing steadily, their men having put over some large deals recently along the Pacific Coast.

A Cigar Making School in New York

AN enterprising cigar man, E. Hein by name, who was formerly in the retail business, has started a new industrial idea in New York City, which, if fostered, might lead to most excellent results, i. e., the establishment of a school for cigarmakers. Mr. Hein has a modest little shop located at 359 East 68th street, right in the Yorkville district, and he is open to receive pupils and teach them the cigarmaking trade for a small fee. The tuition lasts until the pupil is fully qualified to accept a job as a cigarmaker. The fees are $10 for bunches, and $15 for the clear Havana work.

Mr. Hein conducts a little factory of his own and his pupils are worked on the making of his goods, so he can afford to put the fees low. He says that he has turned out a number of excellent scholars who are today holding down good jobs with several leading manufacturers in the city.

"Castanedas" at The Perfumers' Banquet

Dave Echemendia put over another good one last week, when he secured the contract for furnishing the cigars at the annual banquet of the National Association of Perfumery Manufacturers. The dinner was held at the Plaza Hotel, on the night of Wednesday, April 10th, and the smokers included "Castanedas" exclusively in two large sizes, and put up in a special souvenir package. Mr. Echemendia warned the Banquet Committee particularly against having his cigars placed anywhere near samples of their wares, as he did not want the superb aroma of his goods diluted with any mixture of "Mary Garden" or "Jockey Club" or even "Ideal."

S. H. Furgatch & Co. Move April 25th

FINDING that their business has grown to such proportions that they must have additional factory space, S. H. Furgatch & Co., who have been located on East 49th street, New York, have just leased the Miller factory, at 1414 Avenue A, corner of 75th street, and their plant will be moved to the new location on the 25th of this month.

Here the firm will have the entire building of three floors and room for a heavily increased number of cigarmakers, which will be added immediately.

I. B. Krinsky Factory on Overtime

For the past month the cigarette factory of I. B. Krinsky, at 207 North 4th street, Brooklyn, has been pushed to its limit to fill their orders and been compelled to work overtime.

President Morris Krinsky, of the company, is particularly elated over the success of the last addition to their products, the "Turkish Student" cigarette. These goods are packed in the most attractive style of any ten-cent cigarette on the market, and the cost of the packing has not been taken out of the quality, either. They are mild, splendidly blended, and good for repeat orders wherever they are tried. "Turkish Student" are made with cork tips, as well as plain, and form a good companion offering to the other popular brands of the firm, "Fifth Ave.," "Egyptian Lotus" and "Egyptian Hero."

George M. Cole and Joseph Moffett, of Bridgeport, Conn., who, with George W. Thompkins, have been partners under the firm name of Moffett, Cole & Thompkins, tobacco and cigar manufacturers, at 105 Middle street, Bridgeport, have filed a petition in bankruptcy. They claim that George W. Thompkins refuses to join in the petition, although he is a partner and was a partner when the business was attached, on March 14. The liabilities are given as $1424.82, with assets of $750, which includes stock, trade-marks and machinery.

PHILADELPHIA.

Tobacco Trade Outlook

THE trade outlook in Philadelphia is not as satisfactory as could be desired. The retailers all report a fair amount of business being done, but in view of the fine spring weather we have been having, they have expected an appreciable increase in their sales. Conditions are improving slowly and doubtless in a very short time will be satisfactory to all concerned.

The factories, particularly the larger ones, are reporting a fairly large volume of business. The firms with a large Middle Western patronage are working hard in an endeavor to fill orders, they claiming that trade conditions in the Middle West are in a far better state than they are in this immediate territory.

The leaf market has been fairly active. A number of large transactions were reported in Connecticut broad leaf, although a number of dealers experienced trouble in securing enough of this leaf.

Jobbing Firm Bankrupt

Max Gilbert & Son, jobbers, located at 10th and Thompson streets, this city, filed a petition in bankruptcy on April 2nd. The petition was granted on April 8th. Mr. Fink, of Dusel & Goodloe, was appointed receiver.

It is not known what the liabilities of the firm will amount to, but according to one source of information very little will be paid to creditors as the firm is reported to be pretty well tied up.

News of the Bobrow Factory

The Bobrow factory, on South Second street, is now hustling on their new and repeat orders. Charles Bobrow has been out through the Middle West and duplication of orders on the "Bold" and "Discriminator" are the rule.

Very good returns are reported in Indianapolis and vicinity where Rosenthals, the well-known jobbers are distributing the Bobrow brands.

Last week's sales showed an increase of 18,000 over the previous week and even better results are being looked for. They have been compelled to take on new hands to handle the growing business.

Things are booming around Eleventh and Wharton streets, the headquarters of the "44" and "Adlon" cigars. M. A. Funk, sales manager, is now in New Jersey with a crew of hustlers and is doing very well in renewing interest in the Lipschutz brands.

The new United Cigar Store, at the former Robert Klee stand, 8th & Arch streets, was formally opened on Saturday, April 6th. Robert L. Thomas is manager of the store.

Active Demand for "Havana Ribbons"

Frank B. Stanton, local sales manager of Bayuk Bros., together with George M. Pruitt, South Jersey representative, have just completed a most successful trip through that territory. They found "Havana Ribbons" in most active demand at the principal seashore resorts, exceptional preference being shown the brand at Atlantic City, where K. E. Rockefeller has control of the distribution; Wildwood, where J. C. Funck takes care of the trade; Pleasantville, where P. T. Harris has jurisdiction, and Ocean City, Sea Isle City and Cape May, where the "Havana Ribbon" is being sold direct to the responsible retail trade.

The South Jersey Tobacco Company, of Mt. Holly, and John Hackett, of Millville, also report an excellent duplicating business on the brand.

Suit for Infringement of Design

Suit charging infringement of a copyrighted design was begun in the United States District Court, in Harrisburg, Pa., by Joseph Schwartz, of Cleveland, against George A. Kohler and Cornelius S. Snyder, cigar manufacturers of Yoe, York County, Pa. The plaintiff charges that the defendants put out a box similar to the one used by him and employed a similar brand name. The suit has attracted considerable attention, as it is the first of its kind ever entered there.

Manufacturers are optimistic in this vicinity, and none more so than Allen Cressman's Sons, who claim a thirty per cent. increase in March over the corresponding period last year. Their three factories are running full time and the hands have been kept very busy supplying orders.

Sig. Mayer, of Sig. C. Mayer & Co., is now in the Middle West looking up the distributors of the Mayer lines of cigars. He has opened up a number of new accounts and after some extensive traveling in that territory will return home, probably in several weeks.

Dusel & Goodloe are featuring the "Paola y Franceses" cigar, of the Havana-American Company, which brand was taken on by them several weeks ago. Mr. Pleasant, of the Havana-American Company, has been helping to introduce the new brand in addition to working up interest on the "La Preferencia," another of their well-known brands.

Jeitles & Blumenthal are working hard in an endeavor to catch up with the incoming orders on their "Masterpiece," "Flor de Jeitles," "Royal Peer," and "Statesmen" cigars.

Quaker City Notes

A. Goldberg is now doing a jobbing business at 2237 N. Front street. He will be remembered as being with the Kensington Tobacco Co. which failed a short time ago.

W. Fred Worthington, manager of the Fifth street store of M. J. Dalton, is seriously ill, and at last reports, no one was allowed to see him.

Work is rapidly being pushed on the new quarters of Otto Eisenlohr & Bros., at 940 Market street, which they expect to occupy in several weeks at the latest.

J. G. Atherholt is featuring the "La Badenia," a Manila cigar in his window display. The cigar retails at 5c. and if its quality can be judged from the size it is "going some." The window display is especially tasty looking.

The Juan F. Portuondo Cigar Manufacturing Company have distributed to their many customers special display cards for their campaign, which is now being waged on their "All Alike" cigars.

T. H. Hart Company have just gotten out a small card, on which are shown all the dates for the American and National League ball games in Philadelphia for the season. Valuable data and facts, interesting to all "fans," are also printed on the card, which is of vest-pocket size.

The store at the southwest corner of 11th and Chestnut streets, formerly occupied by the Thompson Tailoring Co., and now leased by the United Cigar Stores Company, will not be occupied for some time. Extensive alterations are to be made, which will probably occupy several months.

T. H. Hart Company, 12th and Walnut streets, have taken on the "Pera" cigarette, manufactured by the Pera Cigarette Company, of New York. This firm, a well-known London house, recently opened up a factory in New York, from which place the Hart Company gets their supply.

Business is booming at the Roig & Langsdorf factory. The month of March has shown a large increase over March of last year. The "Girard" cigar has been widely distributed in this city and from the comments heard everywhere, will need little publicity after a time, it can be found with the smallest as well as the larger retailers. The "Girard" is now being made in nine sizes.

J. L. Krauss and Jacob L. Langsdorf recently made a trip to Pittsburgh and Cleveland and were more than pleased with the success attained with the "Girard" in that territory.

The Gen. Gomez Cigar Company, recently formed, located at 1229 Chestnut street, is now making the "Wag" cigar, an 8-cent piece of goods, in addition to the "General Gomez," their nickel brand.

Michael Horn, the manager of the concern, stated recently to a Tobacco World representative, that a plan will soon be put into effect, by which a customer can select his cigars, if he wishes, from any being manufactured in the workroom, which is on the first floor, in full sight of the customers. They will be packed in 5, 10, and 25-cent size boxes, a revenue stamp affixed, and in that way the patron will get the exact cigars he selects. A clear Havana cigar will be manufactured in the near future to supply the demand for a higher grade of cigar.

H. W. Cobb, president of the Hensheim Company, Ltd., of New Orleans, was a visitor in Philadelphia recently. He had been on a very successful trip through New England and told a Tobacco World representative that he intended making a trip covering the Middle West, after which he would return to New Orleans. Mr. Cobb stated that the Hensheim Company was doing very nicely in their new factory. They removed to their new quarters several weeks ago. The new building is admitted to be one of the most up-to-date cigar factories in that section of the country.

Federal Control Urged by Smith

Commissioner of Corporations Says Permanent Office to Supervise Interstate Commerce Is Desirable

IN his annual report to the Secretary of Commerce and Labor, Commissioner Herbert Knox Smith strongly advises the establishing of a Federal administrative office for the purpose of supervising interstate corporate business. He contends that it is impossible under the present arrangement to enforce any real restraint through the courts alone, due to the constantly changing business conditions and also to the complexity of corporate interests. He said in part:

"The actual dissolution of two great corporate combinations, ordered by the Supreme Court in the Standard Oil Company and American Tobacco Company cases, has thrust forward the whole problem of our policy toward industrial corporations.

"The exact form of such an administrative office as is proposed is a matter for further detailed consideration. The essentials are permanence, expert training, administrative flexibility, effective investigation and publicity.

"There is little dispute as to the object of our corporate policy. We want a business machinery of high efficiency, serving the best interests of the citizen and returning ample reward to the ability and industry of those who use that machinery.

"In short, under present conditions, as well as in whatever future course may hereafter be followed, a permanent administrative office is necessary. The vast complexity of corporate business and its constantly changing conditions make it wholly impossible to enforce effectively any real system of restraint through the courts alone."

Manufacture High-Class Humidors

The Sargent Cigar and Plantation Company, who have plantations in Cuba, factory in Bridgeport, Conn., and executive offices at 1135 Broadway, New York, bring the attention of the Tobacco World readers to their humidors, in this issue.

They claim to have the only practical moistening device in their humidors on the market. This concern also manufactures special chests for the smoker, retailer or manufacturer, of any capacity. They have a reputation among the trade of making a high-class line of goods in cigars, as well as in humidors and smoking accessories.

Adverse Report on Cummins Bill

The Cummins bill, which was introduced and fostered by independent tobacco companies of the United States, was reported adversely by the Senate Committee on Judiciary, on April 2.

The majority report contended that Congress had no right to intervene from the decree of approval of the dissolution of the American Tobacco Company by the Circuit Court of the Southern District of New York.

The minority report was handed in by Senators Borah, Cullerson, Nelson, Brown and Cummins, who declared "that the whole business formerly under the control, technically, of the American Tobacco Company, is now under the control of the same persons, who then controlled that corporation, and in the same proportion."

Pratt-Dodd a New Wholesale Firm

A new wholesale firm has just been formed in Salt Lake City, which will trade under the name of the Pratt-Dodd Cigar Co. The organizers of the firm, Julius Pratt and V. B. Dodd, were in the cigar business in that city for a number of years. They have taken over most of the brands of the Columbia Club Cigar Co. which retired from business recently. The "Generalidad," "Critico," "Cuesta-Rey," "Pinzon," "La Natividad," "Hoffman House" and "The Columbia Club Perfecto" are some of the brands which the new firm will carry.

Distribute "Ruy Lopez" on Coast

Bier, Saalburg & Co., of San Francisco, well-known distributors, have given up the "Cortez" cigar and have taken in its place the "Ruy Lopez" clear Havana, which they will carry in a full line of sizes. The "Ruy Lopez" is one of the leading brands of Havana cigars and no doubt will be as widely distributed by Bier, Saalburg & Co. as elsewhere.

Hyneman & Son, Inc., Reorganized

Since the retirement of Herman Hyneman, the house of Herman Hyneman & Son, Inc., has been reorganized. They have been the Coast agents for the American Tobacco Co., with headquarters in San Francisco. As the company now stands W. R. Hyneman is president; L. S. Greenbaum, vice-president, and M. Rattigan, secretary.

J. R. Smith Co. Leases Quarters

A large storeroom, at Fourth avenue and Jefferson street, Seattle, has been leased by the J. R. Smith Cigar Co., of that city. The quarters will be used chiefly for wholesale purposes. The company has put in a large Cuesta-Rey sign.

They recently vacated their First avenue location, but have a well located retail stand in the Northern Bank building.

Washington Tobacco Co. Buys Property

The property at 917 E street, Washington, has been purchased by the Washington Tobacco Company, which has been occupying rented quarters at Eighth and D streets, since its former quarters on Pennsylvania avenue were destroyed by fire last fall. They will erect a building on the newly acquired property, which has a frontage of 30½ feet and a depth of 159 feet.

Columbus United Sales Co. Formed

A new jobbing firm has been formed in Columbus, Ohio, which will do business under the name of Columbus United Sales Company. They are putting on the market two brands of stogies, the "Two Kings" and "Three Kings," which are being manufactured for them.

H. L. Judell & Co. to Handle Stogies

The Duquesne Cigar Company, of Pittsburgh, Pa., have placed two lines of their stogies with H. L. Judell & Co., well-known distributors of San Francisco. These are their "Red Devil" and "Colonel Bouquet" brands. The deal was closed through their Coast representative, Col. F. S. Burrowes.

Buy Interest in Metropolitan Cigar Co.

A controlling interest in the Metropolitan Cigar Co., jobbers of Denver, Col., was recently acquired by the United Cigar Manufacturers Company. They immediately turned over the distribution of the "Owl" and "General Arthur" cigars handled by the Rothenburg & Schloss Cigar Company, to the Metropolitan concern. The "Robert Burns" and "Little Bobbies" cigars, handled by another Denver house, Lawrence Cigar Company, were also turned over to the Metropolitan Company. This backing should, in time, make the Metropolitan Cigar Company one of the big jobbing houses of the country.

S. Fernandez & Co. Introducing "Admiration"

A new clear Havana cigar, the "Admiration," is being introduced in the territory of Denver, Col., by S. Fernandez & Co., of Tampa. Their factory representative is John Livingston, who is now looking after the needs of the retail trade in that region. The cigar is being distributed through the Lawrence Cigar Co., who are very well pleased with the business which is being done and who expect even greater things in the future.

Agent for American Tobacco Co.

Charles J. Michaels, who has been with Butler-Butler, Inc., a branch of the American Tobacco Co., on the Pacific Coast, was recently appointed representative in charge of the entire cigarette business of the American Tobacco Company, in that territory. This business was formerly handled by Herman Hyneman & Son, Inc., which firm was reorganized a short time ago upon the retirement of Herman Hyneman, senior member of the firm.

Hoelcher Cigar Co. Takes on "Pastora" Cigar

The Hoelcher Cigar Company, of St. Louis, who, a short time ago, succeeded to the business of the George C. Spencer Cigar Co., have taken on the "Pastora," of the San Telmo Cigar Manufacturing Company, Detroit, and will immediately begin a campaign featuring this well-known brand. This cigar is a popular broad leaf wrapped piece of goods and has made a reputation all over the country.

Distribution of "Rigoletto" Progressing

The general representative of E. A. Kline & Co., in Denver, Col., R. E. Wickson, is reporting the most gratifying progress in distributing the "Rigoletto" in that territory. Mr. Wickson has been selling them to the trade for but six weeks, disposing of them to the retailers for the distributors, the Morey Mercantile Company.

Jobbers Move to New Quarters

John C. Herman & Co., of Harrisburg, Pa., who do a large tobacco jobbing business, have moved from their old quarters at Third and Strawberry streets, to the Calder Building, on Market Square.

C. E. Beck & Co., of Havana, have, through their representative H. S. Ansley, placed their brands with John C. Davis, 412 Vine street, Cincinnati, who will be the sole distributor in that territory.

New Distributor Opens in Pittsburgh

A NEW retail and distributing business has been established by Charles J. Moye, formerly of the R. & W. Jenkinson Co., Pittsburgh, in the Fulton Building. The new store is centrally located and beautifully decorated. Among the lines noticed prominently in the stock, are several from E. M. Schwarz & Co., A. Santaella y Ca., and Acker, Merrall & Condit Co., as well as a wide assortment of imported goods.

Mr. Moye is thoroughly familiar with the cigar business and exceedingly popular, and his friends predict a very successful career for his business, which will be conducted under the name of Charles J. Moye & Co.

L. D. Houghton, pioneer tobacco retailer and wholesaler of San Bernardino, Cal., has moved to the Commercial Building in that city. The new building will be thoroughly renovated to handle the growing retail and wholesale business.

Theo. Schuechler, of 623 East Genesee street, Buffalo, who went into the jobbing business in that city, has taken on the "Mammon" cigar, made by the H. Sommer Co., of Philadelphia. He recently purchased a motor car to help in the delivery of his goods.

Peter Olson, of San Francisco, has given up the agency for the "St. Elmo" and will, in the future, run a retail stand at Gough and Haight streets, that city. The store was formerly owned by J. H. Kingston. The account of the "St. Elmo" has been taken over by the American Merchants' Syndicate, of San Francisco.

James B. McClements, who has been with Reymer & Bros., Pittsburgh, wholesalers and retailers of cigars for nearly a quarter century, is now in charge of the retail as well as the wholesale department of that firm.

L. C. Marks & Co., of Chicago, will soon remove to their new quarters in the North American Building, that city, which will be ready for occupancy by April 15. This firm does a large wholesale business.

John J. Dolan, of Chicago, who owns a chain of retail stores in that city, has added another in the new City Hall Square Building. This should make one of the best stores in that city.

English Company to Establish Chain of Stores

Indications Point to Organization of Retail Stores Through Europe, Although George W. Whelan Denies Report

A CCORDING to several recent reports, the plans to establish a chain of cigar stores in Europe are now well under way. George J. Whelan, of the United Cigar Stores Company, who has been in Europe for some time, and who has frequently been seen with J. B. Duke, founder of the American Tobacco Company, now chairman of the board of directors of the British-American Tobacco Company, would neither affirm nor deny the report.

There is a strong rumor on the London Stock Exchange that important developments are soon to take place in connection with the British concern. British-American Tobacco shares have been quite active in the New York curb market, having recently sold at $24 per share, their par value being $5.

It is intended, according to the report, to start the stores in England, and if they come up to expectations, the chain will gradually be extended through the Continental cities.

To Make Tobacco Inspections Uniform

New Standard of Classification Adopted by Treasury Department and Is Now in Effect in Key West and Tampa

The Treasury Department at Washington has instructed tobacco examiners at Key West and Tampa to raise their standards for the determination of wrapper and filler tobacco. A circular has been sent to the collectors of customs at the two Florida cities advising them of the new standard of classification.

It has been claimed by manufacturers that there was a vast difference between the examination at the Florida ports and the port of New York, the latter being stricter. The tobacco schedule is complicated and it is difficult in many instances to determine between the two grades.

This is important to the Government as wrapper pays a duty of $1.85 a pound and filler only 35 cents a pound. For this reason the Government wishes to establish uniform examinations at all ports.

A new leaf house has been formed in Elmira, N. Y., by William C. Helme and Joseph Meyers, of that city.

The Farmers' Tobacco Company was recently incorporated in Mt. Sterling, Ky., with a capital stock of $30,000.

PROBLEMS of the RETAILER

Health as a Business Asset

THE man who would be a thorough success in business should take the best care of his health. He should remember, at all times, that no matter how much of a success he makes, if he loses his health he loses the possibility of enjoying the fruits of his labor. The loss of his health will mean a corresponding decrease in the proportion of success he will attain.

To the young man who must depend absolutely upon his own exertions for his success in life, it sometimes seems almost impossible to reserve enough time from business to take the proper care of his health, but it is generally a matter of selection.

If some indoor enjoyment can be set aside, and the time devoted to healthy exercise, such as a long walk in the country, where the deep breathing of pure air can be enjoyed to the full, or even long rides in the country, it will go far towards retaining the health which would otherwise be lost. But, by all means, take the walk, if possible. Perhaps they can be taken going to work in the morning, if no other time can be found. The walk will soon become enjoyable, and a habit of that kind contracted, early in life, will be a safeguard against the business break-down in later years. Unless your body is in a healthy condition, you cannot expect your brain to be alert and ready to do its best work.

Now is the time to commence this exercise. The great "Outdoors" is calling to every one and its appeal is being responded to by every class and condition of life. The business man hunts up his golf bag or fishing tackle, the young man prepares also, while the urelin can be heard on the lots, thoroughly enjoying himself, playing baseball.

It matters little these strenuous business days, what you may have been in the past. What you are now is what counts. Try to be a present success, not a past one, or the world will have little time for you. And if you are an employe with ambitions, now is the time to get busy and improve yourself, so you may in time be where your employer is now.

You may be poor and of the humblest parentage, yet there is a chance for you just as there was for the great merchants of today, the majority of whom started at the bottom rung of the ladder. Look around at some of your friends and see what they are doing, going to night school perhaps, or trying to improve themselves in some other way. Possibly in ten years from now you will be saying with a number of others, "Wasn't he lucky. Why, I knew of the time when he was sweeping out the store in which he now owns a controlling interest."

If all people in this country would only take to themselves the spirit which seems to rule in the West, there would not be the incessant grumbling we so often hear. The writer met a friend of his recently, who had been residing in the Northwest for a number of years, and was at the time on a visit to relatives in Philadelphia. "Those people out there can teach us how to live. Everyone seems to work and there is not the bluff and sham one sees in the East wherever one goes." "They don't ask you who you are," he concluded, "but what you can do." And with all the distractions of our modern life, with its false side, if you go into a business career, what you do will be the measure of your success, and not what you tell others you can do, and what you would do if you got the opportunity.

Profit by Your Blunders

EVERY blunder you make during the course of a day's business should be a boost. Mistakes occur in the best regulated business houses, but naturally are more frequent in those not so well regulated. For this reason every mistake should be noted carefully and the system made more perfect, so it can not occur again.

The best advertising you can do for your store is to stand ready at all times to rectify all mistakes. While the customer will possibly resent a mistake on your part when first made, the resentment will disappear when the matter is corrected and you make it apparent that it was not an intentional mistake and that you cheerfully rectified it. He will recognize that mistakes will often happen and if you take considerable trouble to satisfy that customer, you need not worry about never seeing him again.

To make the blunder profitable, however, you must, as far as possible, take measures to prevent it from occurring again. Analyze it thoroughly and you will find a means of adjusting existing conditions, so it will not happen in the future.

It is the same old story of profiting by past experience. It has often been said that experience is a dear school, and that fools will learn at no other, but it may be added that it really takes a wise man to learn a thorough lesson from every experience.

You should not strive to make a customer think you know it all and he knows nothing about tobacco, neither should you simulate ignorance yourself and assume that he has a superiority of knowledge. There is a happy medium between the two extremes where you and the customer can meet and talk sensibly about what is the best.

OBITUARY

Death of R. A. Patterson

Passes Away at His Residence, Near Richmond—Founder of R. A. Patterson Tobacco Co.

Dr. Richard A. Patterson, well-known among the tobacco circles of the country, and founder of the R. A. Patterson Tobacco Company, died last Monday, April 8th, at his residence, near Richmond, Va. Though 87 years of age, Mr. Patterson had been in fairly good health, but when he became ill from an attack of pneumonia, he quickly succumbed.

He was born in Virginia, March 15, 1826. He was a poor country boy, but by sheer grit and perseverance, worked hard, and at the age of 26, graduated from the Medical College of Virginia, and began the practice of medicine.

In 1850, Dr. Patterson gave up his profession and entered the tobacco business. Three years later he went into business for himself, forming a partnership with Thomas C. Williams, trading as Patterson and Williams.

When the Civil War broke out, in 1860, Dr. Patterson enlisted in the Confederate Army and served throughout the war, holding a commission as Surgeon. After the war, like many other Virginians, he was financially in a bad way, conducting a farm in Henrico county for a time.

He re-entered the tobacco business in 1869, under the firm name of R. A. Patterson & Company. Mr. Patterson was entering a field which was already occupied by old established concerns, but with small capital, poor labor and little known brands, he worked his way up until R. A. Patterson & Company became one of the large tobacco manufacturing concerns of the South.

The firm was reorganized in 1889 and Dr. Patterson was elected president. He held that office until July 1, 1903, when he retired because of infirmities due to advancing age. He has, since that time, been living on his country place, "Reveille," in Henrico County, Virginia.

Robert Michaels, 38 years of age, died suddenly of apoplexy, on April 7th, at Henderson, Ky. He was a manager in that city and vicinity of the tobacco interests of the Gallaher Company, Limited, of Belfast, Ireland.

John C. Pfeiffer, formerly a well-known cigar manufacturer of Leavenworth, Kansas, died in that city on April 2, at his home, 216 Second avenue. Mr. Pfeiffer was 65 years old and retired from active business about a year ago.

George Brand, member of the leaf firm of Goff, Mather & Co., Elmira, N. Y., died about ten days ago in that city at the age of forty-nine years. He was very well known in that section of the country and his death was greatly regretted.

L. Weil, a prominent cigar and tobacco man, of Boise City, Idaho, died on March 28th, at his home in that city. He had been in business in Boise City for fifteen years and was a member of the firm of J. Weil & Co.

Alpheus R. Orth, aged fifty-nine years, a well-known cigar manufacturer of Reading, Pa., died at his home on North Fifth street, that city, on March 29th, of Bright's disease. Mr. Orth was well-known among the trade in Pennsylvania and was highly respected.

August Baerens, well-known among the tobacco circles of St. Louis, died in that city on April 4th, aged sixty-eight years. Mr. Baerens had been a sufferer from heart disease for a number of years, which caused his sudden death.

William Blindenhofer, a Brooklyn cigar manufacturer, died at his home, 5323 Fifth avenue, that city, recently. He was fifty-five years of age.

Jacob S. Heisler, a cigar maker of Ephrata, Pa., died in that city after a short illness of pneumonia. Mr. Heisler was fifty-three years of age.

John Knight, a cigar manufacturer of Oswego, N. Y., died at his residence in that city a short time ago, aged forty-two years.

The Men Who Book the Orders

Sigmund Weil, formerly with the Duke of Navarre Company, has joined the Carlos Garcia & Co. firm, of New York, and will sell the "Marie Garcia." Mr. Weil is one of the best known salesmen in that city and some years ago was a manufacturer.

J. S. Kimmelstiel, the well-known cigar salesman for the American Tobacco Company, has joined the forces of D. M. Frank & Co., of New York. He is now working on the "Rotten" cigar.

Frank Patton, of Indianapolis, who until recently was with Barnes-Smith Company, of that city, is now working with the Bayuk Bros. force in that territory, helping to boom the "Havana Ribbon."

Harry Table-Porter, salesman in New York for the Surbrug Company, recently placed the "Milos" and "Arabs" in the chain of Childs restaurants, in that city.

Richard Moss, a well-known salesman in New York City, has become general manager of a new cigarette firm, located at 29 West 30th street, that city.

C. B. Harryman, one of the best known salesmen in Denver, has been engaged by the Mendal & Company, of that city. The Mendal line of goods is being handled in that territory by the R. & S. Cigar Company, of Denver, and Mr. Harryman will work through them.

Burley Tobacco Company Procures Site

The Burley Tobacco Company, on April 6th, secured a site for their new factory, warehouse, offices, etc., on South Broadway, Lexington, Ky. The tract comprises twelve acres and is at present occupied by a sanatorium, which will shortly move.

President Lebus, of the Burley Company, said work on the new plant will begin about May 1st, and will cost in the neighborhood of $500,000.

P. Lorillard Co. Moves Into New Building

Work has been started on the P. Lorillard factory, in Jersey City, where extensive alterations will be made. The various departments moved into the new building, at Newark avenue and Senate Place, that city, on April 8. Contracts will shortly be awarded for the construction of an eight-story factory building, near Marion, N. J.

Child Labor Bill Becomes a Law

The Act of Congress creating a Bureau of Child Labor in the Department of Commerce and Labor was signed on April 9, by President Taft. The pen used by the President was given to Dr. A. J. McKelway, secretary for the Southern States of the Child Labor Committee, who has been agitating for years in favor of the bill.

Key West Trade At Standstill

Party of Bankers Visit Ruy Lopez Factory—Gato and Hish Plants Busy

KEY WEST, Fla., April 9. CONTRARY to the general expectations, the trade has not picked up in the last two weeks, and, although it has not deteriorated, there is not the improvement which was hoped for. None of the manufacturers have lost their optimism, however, and they are all confident that there will be a general increase within a very short space of time. "It has got to come," said one of the leading manufacturers yesterday. "The fame of Key West made cigars is too widespread at this time to allow of a depression of the market to obtain for any great length of time." Practically all of the factories are working, but with a reduced force of men. Orders are constantly coming in, and in many cases for increased quantities. The past week has been a very important one for Key West, it being the occasion of the annual convention of the Florida Bankers' Association. There were over 100 bankers from the various parts of the State present at the convention, in addition to several representatives of banks from New York, Maryland, Georgia, Louisiana and Cuba.

The visitors were all shown through the local factories and the manufacturers saw to it that they were supplied with a plentiful supply of the Key West cigars. The bankers showed great interest in the local factories, and they stated that they had no idea of the magnitude of the business in this city.

A large party of ninety-three bankers and their ladies were shown through the Ruy Lopez factory at one time. President Wardlow gave the party his entire attention and showed them all of the details of the manufacture of the cigars. He also sent a large quantity of cigars to the convention. He was given a vote of thanks by the association for the courtesies shown during the convention. In this connection, it might be well to note that the Ruy Lopez factory has been most popular with tourists during the season. Mr. Wardlow stated yesterday that there had been over 1,200 visitors since the middle of January. Visitors are always given a cordial reception at this shop, and they are invariably taken over the entire plant and shown the process of manufacture from the time the tobacco enters the building until it leaves in the boxes ready for the market.

The E. H. Gato factory still continues to be the busiest shop in the city. They have maintained a force of over 500 men during the entire year, having closed down but one time and that for a day or two. The Ferdinand Hirsch Company also continues with a good force and they have been turning out fair-sized orders for several weeks.

Luis Martinez, president of the Martinez-Havana Cigar Company, accompanied by Mrs. Martinez and their son Joaquin, left last night for Havana after having been in Key West for several days.

President John Wardlow, of the Ruy Lopez Company, accompanied by Mrs. Wardlow and Mrs. George W. Allen, left last night for Havana, where they will spend about a week. While in Cuba Mr. Wardlow will look over the tobacco situation.

Among the visitors in Key West during the last week was Isaac Martin, of the firm of Gwynn, Martin & Strauss. Mr. Martin has many friends in Key West, and he is always a welcome visitor to the cigar city.

Eugene Lopez, of Lopez & Co., prominent leaf dealers in New York, stopped here last week while on his way to Havana.

W. O. Griffin, assistant auditor of the Havana-American Company, spent last week here on business at the office of the local factory.

J. D. Holmes, of Baker & Holmes, prominent wholesale grocers in Jacksonville, was a visitor last week. Baker & Holmes handle large quantities of Key West cigars, and Mr. Holmes visited several of the local factories while in the city.

Manuel Garcia, of the firm of Perfecto Garcia & Bros., was among the trade visitors in the cigar city last week. Mr. Garcia is on his way to Cuba. N. B. RHODES.

New Store in Milwaukee

A new retail cigar store was opened at 189 Third street, Milwaukee, on April 6, by Mendal & Gorfinkel, of that city. Gustave Mendal, one of the members of the firm, is running a cigar stand in the depot of the Chicago and Milwaukee Electric Railroad in that city, while Nathan Gorfinkel hails from Lake Mills, Wis., and will be the active manager of the business. Many of the best known brands of cigars in the country will be carried and the stand will be of the best grade.

American Tobacco Co. Loses Suit

TOTAL damages of $26,000 were awarded on April 1, against the American Tobacco Company, by a jury in the United States District Court in the anti-trust suit brought by the People's Tobacco Company, of New Orleans, for alleged conspiracy to destroy competition.

The People's Tobacco Company claimed damages approximating $300,000. The actual award was $8728.00, which, under the Sherman law, was tripled, making a total of $26,184.18.

Motion for a new trial was filed by the American Tobacco Company on April 3.

United Cigar Manufacturers Company Declares Dividend

The United Cigar Manufacturers Company has declared the regular quarterly dividend of one per cent. on its common stock, payable May 1, to holders of record April 25.

Milwaukee Recovering From Political Contest

Cuba Rica Cigar Company Secure Permit to Operate in Minnesota—Leo Pollack to Manage Hotel Pfister Cigar Stand

MILWAUKEE, Wis., March 10. MILWAUKEE, the bright spot, has just recovered from the effects of a strenuous political contest, in which the Socialists' administration was badly defeated.

The business leagues of the city have already taken steps to induce numerous conventions to gather here again, and Milwaukee will regain her name as the Convention City.

Prominent among the attractions which will be brought, and which will bring thousands of visitors, is the Vanderbilt Cup race. This event will draw large crowds from all over, crowds which help business, and incidentally increase the sale of high-grade cigars.

While none of the dealers are voicing any complaint, business is not what it should be, but prospects seem somewhat brighter for the future.

The Cuba Rica Cigar Co., of New York, filed their articles of incorporation for a permit to operate in this State. The capital in Wisconsin is given at $2,000. Mr. Steve Surman is named as manager. They are enjoying a fairly good business on all lines handled.

Leo Pollack, formerly of Pollack-Crombie Co., has again accepted the management of the cigar department of the Pfister Hotel. Mr. Pollack is a good man for the place, knows the cigar business thoroughly, has a large number of friends, and should make the Pfister stand one of the best in the city. The line carried is one of the best to be found anywhere, and they already do a large business.

Leo Abraham returned a few days ago from the East. Business has been steadily increasing at the Abraham stores, and the Third street store has again been made a three-man store, owing to the larger amount of business being done. "Charters," of E. M. Schwarz, and the "Lovera" are among the leading sellers, although the "Tadema" and other brands are also going well.

Fay Lewis & Bro. Co. continue to enjoy a good business at both retail stores. The "Webster," "Savarona," "Masterpiece" and "El Sidedo" are moving nicely. The pipe department is steadily growing.

Allanson's are doing fairly well at the Plankinton Hotel. Peary pipes are featured in the window display.

The Wright Drug Co. is doing a nice wholesale business, their sales on the "Robert Burns" being very good.

The Dadd Drug Co. is also doing a large cigar business. Their line is a strong one, and sales have been very gratifying.

The A. S. Goodrich Co. is doing a fairly good business. They are local distributors of the "Cinco," which is moving quite well with the trade. Mr. A. S. Goodrich is at present in the East, but is expected back in a few days.

Otto Krohn, who has charge of the pipe repair department of Abraham Caswell's block store has opened a store at Thirteenth and Walnut streets, where he has two hands busy, while he himself devotes some of his time there.

Ralph Wettstein, the Grove street smoke merchant, continues to do a nice business. During Easter week Ralph was busy afternoons and evenings at the Schubert Theatre, where the Metropolitan Quartette, of which he is a member, sang.

At La Crosse, Wis., E. E. Stringer and E. J. Steinmetz bought Adam E. Forschler's interest in the Forschler cigar store, 323 Main street. Stringer is well known there, having been connected with the Forschler store for the past four years. Steinmetz came here from New York, where he had been connected with the Monopol Tobacco Company. Burley Crop a Failure in York County

The experience of York county farmers with Burley tobacco was a disastrous one, according to H. C. Reinhold, East Petersburg, Lancaster county, before a meeting of tobacco raisers in Lancaster, on March 8. Mr. Reinhold, who has made a careful study of the result of the experiments with Burley in that region said that conditions of soil and climate tend to distort it into a form somewhat similar to the seed tobacco, which is grown successfully there.

It was brought out that 80 per cent. of the Burley crop is purchased by the American Cigar Company, 15 per cent. is shipped abroad, and about 5 per cent. sold to independent firms. It is not a wrapper, filler or binder tobacco, but is used for the tobacco plug trade exclusively.

York county growers, it was brought out, had been promised 12 cents a pound for their crops, but in some instances 6, 5 and even 2 cents was all that was secured.

Purchase Luxfer Cigar Company

H. S. Dietz and W. H. Wolf, of Hellam, Pa., have purchased the factory, brands and good will of the Luxfer Cigar Company, of that place, and will continue the business under the same firm name.

Review of Detroit Sumatra Situation

M. A. La Fond & Co. Introduce "Cadillaqua" Cigar—C. J. Holton to Vacate Present Quarters

DETROIT, April 10. SPRING is here; we are quite sure of it at last. The terminal buds of the horse-chestnut trees, which are numerous before our homes, glisten in the genial sun and the beautiful elms and maples along our residence streets, unfolding their vernal blossoms, are blushing lightly at the challenge of wanton zephyrs whose caresses strangely stir them.

Some shop doors already stand open inviting trade within. The sales at cigar stands, a trifle unsatisfactory in February and March, are now improving and there is a more evident expression of satisfaction with the trade.

In my last letter I touched on the new Sumatra, but was able to give only the barest estimate of it, based on the very few samples that had been shown in this market up to that time. Since then I have made careful inquiry of a number of prominent manufacturers; also of some smaller manufacturers, and a few of the leaf tobacco trade. Greatly to my surprise I have learned of very little of the new crop being sold here, notwithstanding there has been an abundance shown and Sumatra salesmen have been active and plentiful.

In seeking an explanation of this seeming lack of interest, so different from last year, I learn that the present situation is in marked contrast to that of a year ago. At that time there was scarcely any desirable wrapper left in this country. The Sumatra crops of 1909 and 1910 were practically exhausted, nothing remaining unsold but dark, fleshy, or undesirable leaf. The trade was impoverished and faced a wrapper famine. The 1911 inscriptions were awaited with feverish interest. It must have been a fever that was infectious, for those who, at Amsterdam, felt the pulse beats of the America Sumatra trade recognized that the demand was super-normal and competition grew keen and the bidding high. Such prices were never known before. Nevertheless everybody, big and little, grabbed for samples, stretched and spread, admired and sighed, wondering how he was going to stay in business with wrappers that would cost him at least one dollar per thousand more than he had ever paid before. It was a cheerful prospect to be added to the high cost of hen fruit and other necessities, but the manufacturer bought. He had to have the goods. One local manufacturer I know of paid as high as $2.85 per pound, in bond, for second lengths. They were undoubtedly choice, but that is surely "going some." Other goods were bought by other manufacturers at correspondingly lofty prices. Now, if a man finds his margin (which was little enough previously), is suddenly reduced by one dollar or so per thousand, it calls for re-adjustment somewhere. Our Detroit manufacturers concluded to face the situation as gracefully as practicable, resigned to a lesser profit, seeking to offset this somewhat by economies in various directions in factory and selling methods, but carefully avoiding anything that might impair the merits of their product. Thus they showed themselves submissive to urgent necessity, took their diminished profits and looked hopefully to the future for relief.

Today the situation is altered. Detroit manufacturers have a plentiful supply of Sumatra. There is no famine, not even hunger; in fact, scarcely a keen appetite. Business is good, sales better than this time last year and consistently gaining month by month. But they know a lot of new Sumatra has been bought for this country and a good deal more is still to be shown before American buyers forsake Holland, and they fail to see the advantage of adding to past and present difficulties by immediate purchases of new Sumatra until they are satisfied it will do for them more than the old. They have got to be shown; and I am informed that samples and sample sales worked here thus far have aroused no great degree of enthusiasm. Whatever may be held as to its color, burn, texture, quality, etc., the new Sumatra does not work per thousand any lower than last year's wrapper, and the prevailing feeling among our manufacturers is that the prices rule too high, are almost prohibitive and must recede. All of this I gather from a wide expression, not of the manufacturer merely, but of leaf interests as well. There have been Sumatra salesmen here who admit that the wrapper is too high. Light colors are plentiful; the tobacco is thin, but much of it is broken and holey. Hence, when the manufacturer gets the colors he needs he learns they cannot be profitably worked on his cigars. This is particularly true with reference to nickel goods. "The new Sumatra," said one prominent party, answering my inquiry, "the best thing about it is the price." "The price?" I answered surprised. "Yes," he said, "it's out o'sight."

Incidentally he expressed the opinion that $6.50 per thousand would be the average cost of wrapping nickel goods, using the types demanded in this market. This estimate was substantially verified by others, whom I interrogated, none of whom thought the new goods would yield much under $6.50 per thousand for the average run of nickel cigars, which, needless to say, is altogether too much.

It is interesting to note the opinion of one prominent member of the trade, who suggests that first lengths should be bought this year at more favorable prices than seconds. "Our two strongest competitors for light wrappers," he stated, "were Germany and Austria. But their demand is mostly for second lengths and short sizes, hence the competition for these was unusually keen and correspondingly higher prices prevailed than for first lengths. I look to see better values here in first lengths for that reason."

There is a general belief that the price of new leaf will recede. It is noted that lower prices prevailed at the fourth inscription. The situation is not without promise.

Another source of worry to some of us is found in downtown rentals. One man up against it just now is C. J. Holton, who is under the necessity of vacating his present premises in the near future. When he moved in, thirteen years ago, he took a five-year lease at $3600 per annum. His rental now is in the neighborhood of $40 per day, and the landlord wants the premises. An advance of 400 per cent. in thirteen years is a giddy pace. He wants to remain centrally located, owing to a large bar and retail trade. In spite of efforts of a score of real estate men, he has found nothing available yet. If it comes to a pinch he can move temporarily to the block of ten stores he is erecting on the southeast corner of Adams and John streets.

Robinson Bros. showed a nice display of "Royal Circle," a new nickel cigar, introduced here by Claude Howell. Robinson's have also just taken on "Bull Head," an old factory brand of Wertheimer Bros., Baltimore.

Another Baltimore cigar that has met with some approval here is "Salome," made by Heineman Bros., and designated by Ed. Schaurth, 15 State street, local distributor, as "a rich man's smoke at a poor man's price."

David Wallace & Sons, fancy grocers at 105 Woodward avenue, have just placed the "La Demanda," of F. H. Leggett & Co., N. Y., among their brands. Their line of cigars, while not extensive, is select and includes standard brands such as "Rey Eduardo" and "Mi Favorita," of Park & Tilford, "Charles the Great," "Webster," and others.

"Cadillaqua," the new cigar of M. A. La Fond & Co., will be a broadleaf, Havana filled, made by the San Telmo Cigar Manufacturing Co. The labels, representing a scene in the infancy of Detroit, are the work of Calvert Lithographing Co., of this city, and are highly artistic. The cigar will be ready for market about the 25th inst. and it is expected, within thirty days thereafter, will be seen at practically every stand in town.

C. H. Brockway is just getting comfortably settled in a nice little store at No. 743 Woodward avenue, to which he was obliged to move in a hurry April 1st, from his store a few steps further down the square. The move was a good one, and, besides, he knows more about landlords and leases now than he ever did before.

I note with regret the death of Geo. Fitzimmons, general manager of Cadillac Cigar Box Co. Mr. Fitzimmons died April 4th of pneumonia, which developed from a cold taken at the burial of a brother, two weeks previously. Mr. Al. Vonderheid, proprietor, has resumed active supervision of the factory and business.

Alex. Grant, statistical clerk in the local office of United States Customs, died last Thursday, after four days' illness. Mr. Grant was 74 years of age, and a veteran of the Civil War. He had been in the customs service fifteen years and was highly esteemed.

Oscar Rosenberger, president of San Telmo Cigar Manufacturing Co., was removed to Harper Hospital ten days ago and underwent a serious operation for appendicitis. Previous to the operation, Mr. Rosenberger expressed the wish that nothing be said of it until successfully over. It is learned he will be removed to his home tomorrow. Besides flowers and innumerable attentions at the hospital, one of the things that relieved his impatience and kept him good humored, was the big boost in sales of "Pastora." This brand is Oscar's pet, and its growing popularity is a source of intense satisfaction.

Fred R. Charles, formerly with Garcia, Vega & Co., now vice-president and sales manager of the recently organized Martinez-Charles Co., of Jacksonville, Fla., stopped here on his way to the Coast, calling on old trade acquaintances.

P. F. Alberty, manager of the cigar department of F. H. Leggett & Co., New York, was in the city the past week. Also M. Rosenfeld, Salvador Rodriguez; Harry Alés, Simon Batt & Co.; Ben Lesser, F. Lozano Sons & Co.; Wm. W. Higgins, Park & Tilford; Tom D. Branyan, José Escalante & Co.; José M. Cuyar, Andreas, Diaz & Co., Tampa; Howle G. Morris, L. Sanchez y Ca., Tampa; T. E. Humphreys, "Tokio" cigarettes; E. A. Condax, E. A. Condax & Co.; Jno. Frey, Bondy & Lederer.

Howard Kimey, Duys & Co.; Henry Fisher, A. Cohn & Co.; Harry Nathan, Spingarn & Co.; Stephen Friend, S. Friend & Co.; Harry Singer, Rossin & Co.; Wm. Lewisohn, J. Bernheim & Sons; Jerome Waller, Jos. Gans & Co.

Boston Trade Improves With Better Weather

John H. Gardella Purchases Store Which Will Be Opened Shortly—Riker & Jaynes Co. to Have Store at 375 Washington Street—"Queen Quality" Gratis Deal Withdrawn

BOSTON, April 6. GOOD weather is having a better effect on the cigar and tobacco business. The retailers say that they are having a good trade all round.

Frank W. Morris, the popular manager of the cigar department at the American House, says that everything looks well for a good spring trade. The call for Havana cigars is brisk. The box trade is good, being patronized very largely by the Harvard students. Their window display will rank with any in the city.

E. A. Kleiner was in town last week and was surprised with the progress Abe Shadoff was making on the "La Formosa" and seed "McAlays" cigars. He has got them placed in 500 stores. They are duplicating nicely. It is simply an eye-opener. Abe is a sport to make results.

Julius O. Cohen, the Bowdoin Square tobacconist and hustler, who gives the manufacturers a run for the money, placed an order for 50,000 seed "Ketchenals" cigars Monday.

The manager of the Howard street branch of the United Cigar Stores says that business is booming and trade is good. Domestic and Havana cigars at cut prices have the call.

John H. Gardella, proprietor of the Town House Pharmacy, Milford, has purchased the store of Daniel J. Cronin, in the Haywood district. It will be opened immediately as a first-class drug, cigar and tobacco store.

Thomas Morris is to open a cigar and drug store in the Mahanna block, Lenox.

Paul Revere Cigar Store, carried on by Erminio Cimmons and Bernardo de Indicibus, 23 North Square, Boston, is having a run on Havana cigars and smoking tobacco. Seamen, before they go on a voyage, generally stock up here in this famous store.

The American Tobacco Co. has notified the trade that the "Queen Quality," gratis deal, of Durham, has been withdrawn. "Queen Quality" is the name of a very popular ladies shoe, made near Boston—Lynn, Mass.—and the advertisement of the tobacco in the district where the hundreds of factory hands reside has caused quite a sale for the new smoking tobacco.

The Riker & Jaynes Co. will open a drug store at 375 Washington street, Boston, immediately and will have a full line of cigars—foreign and domestic.

C. H. Wood has opened a drug store at 145 Pearl street, corner of Lawrence, Cambridge.

The Quinlan Drug Co. is carried on by Edward J. and Thomas F. Boyle, 765 Washington street. They handle a first-class line of smokers' supplies.

William R. Hagyard, of Lenox, has purchased the Wendall Pharmacy, Pittsfield, Mass.

The Fink Cigar Co., No. 2 Federal street, Boston, report that the spring trade is coming right along and business is good.

Rosenthal Bros. and Bendetson have taken on "Wendebars" cigars. This will be Sam Rosenthal's diamond steal.

Deonison & Bource, dealers in cigars and tobacco, 82 Green street, Worcester, carried on by Thomas Bource and Vangil Deonison, of 163 Southbridge street, Worcester, report business booming.

Daniel Frank, the cigar manufacturer and dealer, has as fine a display of Havana and domestic cigars as any in the city. This box trade is increasing every day and trade as a general thing is very good.

A. B. Smith & Co., Cambridge, manufacturers of the "3-20-8" cigar, say business is very good, but with warm weather will increase even more. The "3-20-8" is a very popular cigar, has the best quality of stock and is rapidly forging ahead.

Reynolds Tobacco Co. Reports Increased Earnings

The R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Company, of Winston-Salem, N. C., reports net earnings for 1911, of $2,076,686, compared with $1,670,000 in the year previous. The net undivided profits of the company on December 31, 1911, were $3,820,866, equal to 27.59 per cent. on the $7,525,000 stock outstanding, as compared with 22.19 per cent. in the year previous. The net value of the selling product for 1911 was $17,946,268.

England's Increased Tobacco Bill

Great Britain consumed in 1911, over 3,000,000 pounds of tobacco more than in 1910, involving an increased expenditure of $4,838,310. The amount spent on tobacco last year amounted to $145,324,335, an average of $3.20 to each person.

New Anti-Coupon Bill Introduced

Senator Beveridge's Bill With Number of Changes Now in House and Senate—Manufacturing Interests Agitating for It

A NUMBER of men representing cigar manufacturing interests, have been agitating for an anti-coupon bill, which it is now thought can be passed if backed up by the cigar men, who have been complaining against the practice of giving coupons.

These men were in Washington recently and held conferences with President Taft and other important officials. As a result a bill has been introduced in the Senate by Senator Brown, of Nebraska, and into the House by Luther W. Mott, of Oswego, N. Y. In many respects it is the same as Senator Beveridge's Bill No. 6219, except that it contains many additions, which are as follows:

"That none of the packages of smoking or plug tobacco and fine cut chewing tobacco, cigarettes, or snuff prescribed by law, or any cigar, or package of cigars, or other package of tobacco prescribed by law, shall be permitted to have packed in, or attached to, or connected with the same any article or thing whatsoever, other than the wrappers and labels of the manufacturers or persons, orders, or organizations making or producing the same, the internal revenue stamp, and the tobacco, snuff, cigarettes, or cigars, respectively, put up therein, on which the tax is required to be paid under the internal revenue laws; nor shall there be affixed to or given with the sale thereof, or brand stamped, marked, written, or printed upon said packages or their contents any promise or offer of, or any order or certificate for, any money, gift, prize, premium, payment, or reward; and such label shall truly state the bona fide owner, proprietor, and manufacturer.

"That no such packages when emptied, nor any part of them, nor anything attached to or given away with the sale of such packages, shall be received by any manufacturer of, or dealer in tobacco, snuff, cigars, or cigarettes in lieu of coupons or in consideration of anything of value."

One of the cigar men instrumental in introducing the bill said:

"I believe a bill like this one will do an immense amount of good if passed at this time. Many objectionable features in former bills of this kind have been eliminated and a very good authority assured me there was no question as to its constitutionality. Now is the time for those men who favor it to come out and say so, and to back us up in this fight."

The W. P. Bowers Cigar Box Holder and Price Card

THE cigar box lid holder now being manufactured by W. P. Bowers & Co., of 108 South La Salle street, Chicago, is considered one of the neatest and most useful devices ever invented for the purpose.

This holder is made up of one piece of steel. In addition to showing the price of the goods, it holds the lid in position. It covers but a small portion of the lid, is easily changed, and the figures being white, on a dark blue background, they are easily read.

It is manufactured for every price cigar, and is also made in special designs, advertising brands of cigars, names of firms, etc., such as can be conveniently placed on the shield.

The accompanying illustration shows the manner in which it is placed on the cigar box and the neat appearance it makes.

Election Satisfies Business Men

Fire in Factory of Jose Scaglione at Ybor City—Garcia, Pando & Co. Close Up Plant

TAMPA, FLA., April 10.
THOROUGH satisfaction prevails throughout the cigar manufacturing colony today, as a result of the municipal primary election of yesterday, in which Mayor D. B. McKay was re-nominated by a majority of 300 over both his opponents. Even the most zealous supporters of the mayor did not predict his victory in the first primary, believing that it would be necessary for him to make the second race with his leading opponent, W. H. Frecker. The voting had not progressed far, however, before it became evident that not only were the business interests supporting the mayor for re-election, but a large proportion of the labor vote, which had been counted against him. The positive stand taken by the mayor during the great strike, when he led the citizens' committee in jailing the agitators among the strikers and in maintaining strong protection for the cigar factories, made him the logical candidate of the business men of the city in this light, and it was anticipated that, for the same reason, the labor element would oppose him vigorously. This, however, proved to be a mistake, as the mayor carried wards in which the labor element predominates.

The primary also resulted in an overwhelming vote in favor of the adoption of a commission form of government for Tampa, which had been advocated by the "Tampa Morning Tribune." The vote on this proposition was three to one, and it will be the duty of the incoming administration to take the necessary steps toward carrying out the wishes of the people and securing the necessary legislation for the adoption of the commission plan.

Cigar manufacturers regard the re-election of Mayor McKay as the best thing that could happen for their industry. They feel that it will insure the safety of the industry for the next four years and that there will be no outbreak of labor trouble while a vigorous and determined administration is in charge of affairs. The participation of many of the cigarmakers in the victory of the mayor is hailed, also, as a most hopeful sign, indicating that the wounds of the strike period have been healed and that all classes are determined to work together for the prosperity of the industry and of the city.

The attorney of the cigar manufacturers' association, by direction of the association, is now engaged in drafting a petition to be presented to the proper authorities at Washington, asking for the appointment of a local board of appraisers, for appraising tobacco brought to this port. The action is the outcome of much agitation, arising from the repeated complaints of manufacturers that the system of appraising in force here results in great injustice to them. It is pointed out that the methods in vogue by the customs inspectors at this port tend to impose burdens upon the manufacturers in the shape of excessive duties, the proportion of wrapper and filler being so determined as to exact from the manufacturers an unfair rate. It is further complained that, in the event the manufacturer makes a protest on appraisement, the tobacco in dispute has to be sent to New York for examination by the board of appraisers and that, in transit and through the handling received, the quality of the goods is impaired and, in nine cases out of ten, it is unfit for use when it returns to the factory. This method also requires expense, the manufacturer having to employ witnesses and attorneys at New York. The manufacturers think the imports of tobacco at this port are of sufficient volume to merit the appointment of a local appraising board, and they are determined to press the matter to the attention of the authorities at Washington with all the influence they can command.

H. E. Mahoney, formerly with the Havana-American Co., at Key West, has succeeded J. J. French as local manager of the company. Mr. French has resigned on account of continued ill-health, but has not made public his plans for the future.

Fire, occurring in the factory of José Scaglione, Twenty-second street and First avenue, Ybor City, caused damage of $3000 to the tobacco on hand. The firemen were handicapped in fighting the fire by reason of the dense smoke which filled the building.

The factory of Garcia, Pando & Co. has closed down and it is stated that it will remain closed indefinitely. No statement is made as to the cause, but it is believed, in well-informed circles, that a lack of business is responsible for the suspension.

Shipments for the week ending last Saturday were 5,265,000, maintaining the gradual increase from week to week, which has marked the resumption of operations with larger forces in all the principal factories.

Manning Rodriguez, son of Salvador Rodriguez, of the "Charles the Great" factory, is out again, after a severe illness of more than a month. He is as yet unable to resume active duties at the factory and probably will go to New York for a few weeks to recuperate.

Mrs. José Cosío, wife of the well-known cigar manufacturer, entertained in a novel way Friday, in honor of Mrs. T. Verplanck, of New York. She took a party of friends to the Garcia, Vega & Co. factory, in West Tampa, and her guests enjoyed the luxury of eating strawberries picked from the plants growing in the grounds of the factory. The hostess also made a short-cake from the berries and served it to the members of the party and the heads of departments of the factory. Her guests were Mrs. E. W. Monroe, Misses Georgine, Rita and Alma Monroe, Miss Vera Verplanck, Mrs. Benjamin Cosío, Miss Grace Haines and Mrs. T. Verplanck, of New York.

Jerome Regensberg has returned to New York and Mortimer Regensberg remains in charge of the factory.

Perfecto Garcia & Bro. are receiving some large shipments of tobacco at present, indicating a continuance of the large orders they have been filling recently.

Val. M. Antuono, manufacturer of the "C. H. S." cigar, is enjoying steady increases in the standing orders which he fills for leading distributors, one writing him this week if it would be possible to guarantee one million cigars per month.

Cuesta, Rey & Co. have a letter from leading distributors of Berlin, Germany, asking for a contract to handle the goods of the "Truly Spanish House" throughout the German Empire.

Jose Lovera is among the Tampa manufacturers who have recently visited the tobacco fields, and he joins with the others in pronouncing the crop of unusually fine quality.

D. E. Klein, after a brief visit to Cuba, has returned to his headquarters in New York.

A. L. Cuesta is still on his extensive tour and the reports he sends to the factory team with encouraging things. He finds the demand for the "White Heather" and other Cuesta-Rey brands increasing everywhere.

At every leading factory the report is that more men are being put to work and that the orders coming in warrant the prediction that capacity will be the rule in each house.

Julio Leon has returned to Cuba after a visit to his brother, Jorge, of P. San Martin & Leon.

Edgar J. Stachelberg is just back from New York City, where he spent a few days on business. Mr. Stachelberg believes the cigar trade is on the eve of a remarkable boom, and he finds Tampa cigars more popular than ever among fastidious smokers.

Emilio Suarez has gone to Cuba, where he will remain permanently. Ramon Menendez succeeds him in the management of the leaf business which they have been conducting here.

J. P. Hardee, who operates a large bonded warehouse here, is in Cuba, combining business with pleasure. Mr. Hardee spent a few days at Key West, where he attended the convention of the Florida Bankers' Association.

Americans Buy Heavily at Fourth Inscription

At the fourth Sumatra inscription, held in Amsterdam, on April 4, Americans were the heaviest buyers, taking over 3,500 bales. Although prices ruled a shade lower, the tobacco was of a uniformly good quality.

The following were some of the largest purchasers: E. Rosenwald & Bro., 1,000 bales; H. Duys & Co., 602 bales; A. Colm & Co., 600 bales; E. Epingarn & Co., 300 bales; Pretzfeld & Co., 300 bales; S. Rossin & Sons, 184 bales; F. & E. Cranx, 107 bales; Joseph Hirsch & Son, 45 bales, and Otto Eisenlohr & Bro., 550 bales.

Havana House Goes Out of Business

Perez y Obeso, a prominent tobacco leaf concern of Havana, is closing up its affairs and will soon go out of business. Pablo Perez, a member of the firm, will wind up the old accounts and close up the business. The other members of the firm have already retired.

Late Retail Notes

E. A. Richardson, of Grand Island, Neb., has sold his cigar stand, located in the Post-Office, to a Mr. Deffenbaugh.

The Stander cigar store has vacated the corner in the Muir drug store, at Monroe and Ottawa streets, Grand Rapids, Mich., and the drug store has expanded into the space vacated.

R. G. Fisher, who for sixteen years up to 1908 was in the cigar business at Hennepin and Fourth streets, Minneapolis, Minn., has organized the Fisher Cigar Co., at 55 S. Fourth street, formerly occupied by the Weeks cigar store. Associated in the business is Frank Iverson, who was at the Hennepin store for five years with Mr. Fisher.

Business in Los Angeles Improving

Klauber-Wangenheim Secure New Quarters — Southern California Tobacco Association Elects Officers

LOS ANGELES, CAL., April 12.
THE cigar and tobacco business in the city is far better than it has been in the last few months and the retailers are looking forward to a busy month, owing to the Shriuers' big convention, which is to be held here from May 4th to 12th.

The Kingsbaker-Klingenstein Co. is displaying the "Cinco" cigar all over the city, and they are in great demand everywhere. The retailer finds it hard to be without one in his store and believes the cigar is a staple article. The "Cinco" is manufactured by Eisenlohr Bros., of Philadelphia.

Sam Friend, of the Kingsbaker-Klingenstein Co., is still on the job and reports a big increase in his territory, especially on the "Y-B" and "Cinco" cigars.

M. Samuels, of the Baer Cigar Co., has just returned from his Arizona trip with a nice bunch of orders. Mr. Samuels informs us that business is very good all over his entire territory.

Morris Burke, broker and representative for Eitel & Cassebohm, of Louisville, Ky., is putting up a strong campaign on the "Post Dispatch" cigar window and show-case displays and these can be seen, not only in the city, but in all the surrounding towns. The "Post Dispatch" is taking well with the trade and duplicate orders are coming in daily. Klauber-Wangenheim Co. are distributors for this cigar and are very well pleased with the account.

Mr. Eitel, of Eitel & Cassebohm, of Louisville, Ky., made a visit to this city a short time ago on his distributor, Klauber-Wangenheim Co., and is very much pleased with the way in which the "Post Dispatch" has been handled here by this firm and his representative, Mr. M. Burke. Mr. Eitel has also taken back home with him a nice order for "Post Dispatch" for immediate delivery.

J. Wentworth, of the José Lovera Co., has just returned from his Bakersfield territory and wears the "smile that won't come off." He reports "Lovera" cigar sales all over and has brought with him some good-sized orders. Haas-Baruch & Co. are distributors for this brand.

Geo. E. Meigs, representing the Sanchez & Haya Co., of Tampa, were among the recent visitors here on their distributors, Klauber-Wangenheim Co., and after a brief stay here, left for San Francisco to visit their distributors, Tilman & Bendel.

Mike Roth, distributor of the "El Sayon" 5c. cigar, made by E. H. Kohler, of Nashville, Pa., is making a strong campaign and has the cigar distributed all over the city. On his delivery wagon he has a sign which makes every one stop and take notice. It reads like this: "Believe Mike, the 'El Sayon' is a Dog-On-Good Smoke."

One of the most important changes of the year of 1912 is the announcement of the removal to new quarters of the big jobbing firm of Klauber-Wangenheim Co. The growth of this concern during the past few years has been so tremendous, that they are compelled to abandon their lease on the old quarters at 304 South Los Angeles street, occupied by them for the past ten years. The Klauber-Wangenheim Co. has taken a ten-year lease on the new reinforced concrete building at the corner of Fourth and Wall streets.

Mr. Klauber informed THE TOBACCO WORLD correspondent that this location will give his firm over four times the floor space of their old premises, and being situated on a corner, gives exceptional opportunities for taking care of their rapidly increasing volume of business.

The firm of Klauber-Wangenheim Co. is one of the oldest on the Pacific Coast, having been established in 1869. From that early beginning they gradually established a business of great volume, built up strictly on a definite line of action, first-class quality and fair treatment to their trade. Today Klauber-Wangenheim Co. is distributor for many of the big selling brands in this market, such as "Optimo," "Palencia," "Sanchez & Haya" in clear Havana; the "Chancellor" and "Mendel" in domestic brands, and in five-cent goods they are distributors for "Post Dispatch," "Pippins," "Havana Ribbons," "El Meritos" and "Permits."

This firm has sixteen salesmen and uses four wagons and two autos to take care of their city trade alone.

They are also distributors for the famous "Pure Gold" tobacco, and a recent order received by them for 1100 cases in a single delivery, aggregating in money value $21,000, is acknowledged to be the largest single shipment of union label tobacco of one brand ever received by a Pacific Coast jobber.

The "American," "Webster," "Y-B," "Cinco" and "Milo" cigarettes are being advertised tremendously by the Kingsbaker-Klingenstein Co. of Los Angeles, by means of a very neat and attractive E. M. F. delivery car.

This firm are also now putting on the market a new brand, called "Admiration," manufactured by S. Fernandez & Co., of Tampa, Fla., in three sizes and the cigar is displayed about town and makes quite a hit.

Mr. David Feifer, of B. Feifer & Co., New York, is calling on the above concern, who are their distributors.

Mr. J. B. Bonhaus has just returned from a very successful ten-day trip from the oil fields, and has brought with him some good-sized orders for "Post Dispatch" and "Havana Ribbons."

The "New Bachelor" cigar, manufactured by T. J. Dunn & Co., of New York, and its distributor, The Max Roth Cigar Co., of this city, are coming to the front very fast. Mr. Roth informs us that the demand for "New Bachelor" cigars is very strong and that he cannot supply the demand.

The Southern California Tobacco Association, at their regular monthly meeting, Thursday evening, April 4th, elected their officers for the first six months, as follows: H. F. Gadeky, president; H. D. McLain, vice-president; T. C. White, recording secretary; D. H. Elmore, treasurer. The meeting was well attended. President Gadeky appointed Wm. Newton, Morris Burke, F. Finkelstein, B. Beson and Van Slik as banquet committee.

Mr. Peabody, manager of the Haas-Baruch & Co. cigar department, reports a steady increase on the "San Felice" cigar.

A few very noticeable window displays can be seen about town on the "Imp" cigar, made by the Arguelles y Ca., of Tampa, Fla. J. J. Gans Bros. are distributors for this brand here. M. B.

New Store for United in San Diego

The United Cigar Stores Company has secured a lease on the Snyder store, at the corner of Fifth and D streets, San Diego, Cal., and after extensive improvements have been made on the property, which will possibly take six weeks, the place will be opened.

PENNSYLVANIA TRADE NEWS

Late Reports from Lancaster, York, Reading

Some York County Crops Still Unsold

YORK, Pa., April 13.
SOME of the crops of the new tobacco in this county seem to be going begging, and a few dealers are buying it up at low figures. The choicest crops are being picked out at every opportunity, but prices are not a favorable comparison with that obtained last year.

The cigar industry taken as a whole is dull. Of course, there are few and exceptional cases in certain districts. A few weeks ago it was unusually quiet among manufacturers at McSherrystown and vicinity, but it has revived now again and a majority of them are resuming operations. Dallastown manufacturers seem to be still somewhat hard hit, but they are at least hopeful that there will be a change for the better ere long.

At Red Lion there are several factories which have all they can comfortably do, while others are suffering from a stagnated condition.

Edw. Felty is getting his new factory on South George street under way, and will soon be in operation there, when he will discontinue in the former plant of Jacob A. Mayer & Bros., in North York.

H. F. Martin has completed the work of removing his factory into the old Heffner Cigar Box Factory building, and now has greatly increased facilities at his command. Mr. Martin has this week been on a trip through Eastern Pennsylvania and met with considerable encouragement.

J. A. Shubart, a prominent local cigar broker, has been on a trip through the Middle West and some fair-sized orders have resulted for his factories.

O. A. Hankey has sold his cigar store at West Market and Penn streets to E. J. Wilt, and will devote his energies entirely to the manufacture of goods.

The D. & K. Cigar Co. will be ready to begin operations at Dallastown within a fortnight. They are making preparations to market a strictly five-cent product.

Lancaster Trade in Good Shape

LANCASTER, Pa., April 13.
THE report of Internal Revenue Collector Hershey, of the Ninth Pennsylvania District, does not indicate that, as some aver, the cigar manufacturing business has gone to the dogs. But it does show that during March there were made in the district more cigars by far than during February, and comparing not so unfavorably with 1911. The total output according to the report of the sale of stamps was 58,291,350. During February the production was 53,865,630, a gain for March of 4,425,720. During March, 1911, the production was 50,572,870, and its comparison with this year shows a decrease of 1,281,520.

There were fewer new factories opened during March in this district than during some previous months, but that has no particular significance.

The branch factory of Sig. C. Mayer & Co. at Ephrata has been closed and the fixtures moved to their other factories. Dave Keller, who had been in charge of the Ephrata plant, has also removed to Red Hill, where the firm has one of its largest plants.

R. M. Gramat & Co., of York, have secured the offices formerly occupied by the Hoffman Leaf Tobacco Company on North Queen street, near the Pennsylvania Railroad depot.

Both members of the leaf firm of Seisel & Tole have lately been visiting Connecticut, where they were making purchases of the new crops of leaf. This is an innovation for this firm, as they have never before handled Connecticut leaf. Their purchases are said to have been about 300 acres, producing something like 600,000 pounds of leaf.

J. L. Aubrey and Isaac L. Memper, two Baltimoreans, have been in Lancaster lately, replenishing their stocks of leaf tobacco.

Conditions Among Reading Manufacturers Improving

READING, Pa., April 13.
THERE is now some indication of improvement among manufacturers of cigars. Local retail trade conditions have not changed perceptibly and only the more popular brands are meeting with much demand.

Trade in the coal regions is naturally suffering from the apathetic feeling of the dealers in that section, who are curtailing all they possibly can on their purchases at present, fearing worse to come.

Chas. Ream has sold his manufacturing business to H. R. Weiser, who may close the old factory on Washington street. Weiser has been in the business in West Reading for some time.

Henry Heymann's Sons have leased the factory building formerly occupied by W. W. Reigel at Third and Greenwich streets, and have taken possession, removing from their former premises at 38 Madison street. The new factory is well adapted to their needs. Mr. Reigel is engaged more particularly in the leaf tobacco business and is also operating an auto garage.

Geo. W. Lehr has now rented his entire former factory building at 912 Penn street, and will remove his manufacturing department to his Perkiomen avenue premises, to which address he removed the tobacco manufacturing department of his business some time ago.

M. A. Levine, with H. Duys & Co., Sumatra importers, New York, has been in this city lately showing a line of the firm's importations of new Sumatra tobacco. Mark has been visiting the trade here regularly for some years, but reports the present to have been among his most successful visits.

L. F. Mueller, with Cullman Bros., and J. A. Kinney, with A. Colm & Co., were also among recent visitors.

H. D. Hackman, of Womelsdorf, recently made a short trip to some of his old customers and brought home a nice number of orders for his product.

C. J. Garman, manufacturer at Ephrata, has been confined to his home by a severe and serious attack of rheumatism.

A. R. Orth, a prominent local cigar manufacturer, who won fame as the manufacturer of the "Pompey" brand of nickel cigars, died at his home in this city on March 29th after an illness of several months. The business will be continued by his son.

Late Retail Items

A. H. & J. R. Rogers have ordered new fixtures for their new store, 1404 G street, Washington, D. C., and expect to occupy it about April 15th.

J. O. Van Horn has purchased the interest of Mr. Johnston, in the cigar firm of Millorn & Johnston, Junction City, Ore.

Starbuck & Criswell have purchased the cigar business of the Egan Bros. Co., 1011 Eighth street, Sacramento, Cal.

W. H. Gerhardt, of Alton, Ill., has sold his cigar store to A. F. Greasle, a tobacconist of that town.

The cigar store at 219 South street, Springfield, Mo., owned by the Altschul Bros., has been sold to H. D. Chinn & W. L. Crist.

The Sterling Soda Co., of Atlanta, Ga., has opened a fine new cigar store in the Empire Building, that city. Russ Stovall is the organizer and manager.

The cigar store located in the Empire Building, Birmingham, Ala., which has been operated by J. R. Brown, was sold recently to the R. D. Burnett Cigar Company. After extensive repairs it will be reopened.

The formal opening of the new J. W. Evenden Co. store, which handles cigars at 287-89 Washington street, Buffalo, was held on March 30th. E. W. Wilcox is president and general manager of the concern. More than 12,000 carnations were given away as souvenirs on the opening day.

Baltimore News of Interest

BALTIMORE, Md., April 12.
THE "El Dallo" is the latest creation in nickel goods that has been put on the market by Wertheimer Bros., and it has made an instantaneous success. These goods are put up in a new style and an unusually attractive package, which deserves the recognition it is receiving. The firm announces that similar results are being obtained in other territory where the goods are being placed.

Wm. Boucher & Son this week received a fresh consignment of "Adelina Patti" Key West cigars from the factory of the Jose Lovera Company, and when the store was visited by the writer they were being rapidly picked up by some of Baltimore's connoisseurs.

The Royal Havana Cigar Manufacturing Company will soon introduce a new product under the name of "El Bosal." It will be a high quality cigar and is calculated to appeal to aristocratic tastes.

The Karger Cigar Company, local distributors of the "El Wadora" five-cent cigars, made by Sig. C. Mayer & Co., Philadelphia, are having a very satisfactory trade on these goods. The brand is well-distributed about the city and is duplicating everywhere.

A fine display of Geo. W. Nichols & Co.'s "Solace" clear Havana cigars is shown in the display window of Lilly Dungan & Co. at Liberty and West Baltimore streets. Some space is also given to the "Savaroni" brand of Porto Rico cigars from the factory of the Caye-Caguas Tobacco Company.

Windsor, Pa., Manufacturer Fails

Horace Shindler, a cigar manufacturer of Windsor, Pa., has been adjudicated a bankrupt by Judge Witmer, in the United States District Court, at Scranton. The scheduled liabilities are $3590.45; assets, $1800.

Morris and Sidney Eisenberger opened their new store at Third and Main streets, Dayton, Ohio, recently. The old store at 14 South Main street, will be continued. On the opening day, ash-trays and cigar-holders were given away as souvenirs, to all the customers. This is one of the best appointed stands in the city.

Alex. A. Kohary to Move About May 1

Alex. A. Kohary, of Pittsburgh, one of the heaviest importers of foreign tobaccos, cigarette papers, pipes, Weichsel stems and smokers' articles, in his section, will remove to his new fireproof building in that city about the first of May.

Mr. Kohary distributes his own brands of tobacco, "Arpad" and "Kraljevica Marka," special brands of cigarette papers, tobacco boxes and cigars, to the leading wholesale houses throughout the United States. He has been in business for fourteen years.

The accompanying illustration shows the new building, which is located at 15 Shingiss street.

Imperial Company Prospering

According to its recent report another year of very great prosperity is shown by the Imperial Tobacco Company, of Great Britain and Ireland, Limited. The profits, which amount to £2,788,200, show an increase of more than £385,000 over those of 1910.

The Cuban Market

From Our
Exclusive Bureau
Neptuno 24
Alto
Havana, Cuba.

A SPELL of dry weather has retarded the manipulation of the Partido and Vuelta Abajo crop, as the Vegueros are unable to bundle their dry leaf and commence the fermentation process in the piles. Even in the Santa Clara province the few packings which are going on play no important role, as the great bulk of tobacco is not in a condition to be handled in good shape yet. The overwhelming part of light leaf, and the uncertainty of the future prices for same, are another great drawback for our packers to commence buying operations, which besides is aggravated by the high cost of packing expenses. If the prices were to continue, which have been paid to the Vegueros for the first few bundles, in order to make some trial packings, there would result a downright loss to the packer, unless the latter could count upon no falling market for the light leaf in the future. At first sight it looks as a losing speculation from the start to pack tobacco this year, and still the case may not be as hopeless as it appears at the moment. The farmers alone by themselves would be utterly unable to manage the manipulation of the big crop, as even with the assistance of our regular "escogedores" the number of available hands may be too short to finish the packing before the end of this year, therefore the latter must per force of circumstances take a share of the burden on the shoulders of the Vegueros, unless a large part of the tobacco should go to waste for want of people to handle the same.

Another point that ought not to be lost sight of is, that besides Germany and Spain, there are other customers for light leaf, and which might be willing to pay better prices than the above two countries are eventually speculating upon, such as England, Austria, France, Canada, and last, but by no means least of all, the clear Havana cigar manufacturers of the United States, that are producing the cheaper kinds of cigars. Therefore, summing up the whole factor in this problem, it stands to reason, that our packers and farmers will come to an agreement about prices on the bundled leaf, which will leave some margin to the latter for their crop, and also enable the former to go to work upon a basis, that ought to leave him a moderate compensation for his capital, time and labor to be expended during this summer and fall.

One point, which the buyer of our leaf later on ought not to lose sight of is, that by paying perhaps a somewhat higher price to regular established packers here in Havana, he has the guarantee of receiving uniformly packed, sound goods, as they could not afford to lose their reputation. On the other hand, by buying vegas from the farmers at a lower figure, he will have to keep his eyes wide open, and examine every bale thoroughly, unless a responsible house here would guarantee a correct packing. There are undoubtedly a good many honest Vegueros, but there are unfortunately also a number of them, who would have no scruples in trying to palm off falsely packed tobacco, and as this year particularly there will be quite some damaged leaf, the dishonest farmer will not throw this leaf away, but mix it with the sound portion.

The leaf market has about reached its dullest period, as the sales compared with the previous fortnight were cut in halves again, and there will be no revival to speak of, until the arrivals of the new leaf should become larger to enable the buyers to find a more varied selection of goods to suit them.

Sales only aggregated during the past fortnight 1925 bales, representing 761 of Vuelta Abajo, 250 of Partido, and 914 bales of Remedios. Buyers were: Americans 452, exporters to Europe 258, to Buenos Ayres and Montevideo 828, and our local manufacturers of cigars and cigarettes 387 bales.

Exports from the Port of Havana, for the two weeks March 18th to March 30th, were:

Principal Buyers of Leaf Tobacco and Cigars That Come and Go.

Arrivals—From New York: Fritz Lederer, of Heinrich Neuberger; Victor K. Ettlinger, of Em. Hoffman & Sons; S. Ruppim, of S. Ruppim; Frank A. Merrill, of Acker, Merrill & Condit, and Wm. T. Taylor, representative for the United States and Canada of the Romeo y Julieta factory.

From Tampa: Manuel Garcia, of Perfecto Garcia & Bro.
From Chicago: August Kuttner, of Rothschild, Sontag & Co.
From Buenos Ayres: José R. Sanchez, of Weile & Altgeld, representatives of La Flor de A. Fernandez Garcia.
From Spain: Constantino Junco, of M. Abella & Co.
Departures—For New York: Emil Klein, Victor K. Ettlinger, Frank A. Merrill, Wm. T. Taylor, Marcelino Perez and S. Ruppim.
For Tampa: José Lovera.
For Boston: Albert W. Kaffenburgh.
For Buenos Ayres: Laureano Sanchez.
For London, England: P. J. Woods.

Cigars.

As the statistics of our exports to the end of March have not been published yet, this news has to be delayed until the next fortnight, but it is supposed, that there is no great change in the comparison with last year. While the coal strike in England has been fortunately settled, the after effects, however, are still felt by lessened orders from this quarter. Whether the price-cutting war in the United States will have any influence later on, has to be seen, at the present time there are more orders for Perfectos in our market. Business for the South American republics, Canada and Australia is quite fair, also for France, but the other countries are rather quiet. Until the new leaf should be ready for the cigarmakers' tables we cannot expect to see any livelier moment in our factories.

H. Uppmann & Co. are perfectly satisfied with the amount of orders on hand, and would like to see the same kind of fair business in the other factories, as they are in harmony with the old saying: "To live and let live."

Romeo y Julieta, Don Pepin Rodriguez, was very much surprised, when he learned of the price-cutting war on all Perfectos in the United States, and he had not made up his mind then, what determination he would take in this matter. Mr. Wm. T. Taylor, their United States representative, had come here for the express purpose to consult Don Pepin about it and had left again by the same steamer he arrived here, for New York, in order to get further information. After hearing from him, Don Pepin will quickly make up his mind what steps he would deem proper to take in this matter. Business with "Romeo y Julieta" is as good as ever at this season of the year.

Partagas states frankly enough, that trade is somewhat quieter, but nevertheless is turning out 50,000 cigars per day still, therefore has no reason to complain.

Sol has received some very good orders of late, far more than Behrens & Co. had any expectations to look forward to. Their well-known brand "Columbus" has been given to Messrs. Macy & Jenkins, as sole distributors, and as a proof that the old connoisseurs of this cigar had not forgotten their favorite brand, a repeat order was received by Behrens & Co., as soon as the first shipment of cases had reached New York.

Castañeda reports no change, as the amount of orders on hand is up to the expectations of the owners, Messrs. Cardenas & Co.

Flor de P. A. Estanillo has orders for a large number of high-priced sizes, averaging $200, or even over. Don Felipe Rodriguez and Mrs. Rodriguez will leave for New York on April 13th per steamship "Saratoga" on a short vacation, as well as a business trip, as Don Felipe expects to return here by the end of May.

Eden is doing nicely, or as Don Calixto Lopez expressed himself to THE TOBACCO WORLD correspondent, they had no kick coming to them. Henry Clay and Bock & Co. report the same steady amount of orders on hand. Don Francisco Arango, the general resident manager, left on April 2, for a short visit to Tampa, to be gone about a week.

Buying, Selling, and Other Notes of Interest.

José C. Puente was the largest seller during the past fortnight, as he closed a few sales, amounting to 255 bales in all.

S. Ruppim, who leaves today with Mrs. Ruppim by the steamship "Havana," shall have made some large purchases again, amounting to 1000 bales, but as this information came too late, they are not included in the fortnightly sales reported above.

José Menendez disposed of 234 bales of leaf during the past two weeks.

Diego Montero was the heavy buyer for South America with 828 bales.

Victor K. Ettlinger did not even look at tobacco, as he was on his bridal trip.

González & Benitez turned over 200 bales of Remedios to their customers.

Leslie Pantin and Mark A. Pollack were the only commission merchants, that operated to a moderate extent in our market, upon cable orders, for account of their customers.

The following houses all made some sales, but as the quantity did not even reach 200 bales each, they are simply mentioned as sellers, viz.: Sobrinos de A. Gonzalez, Camejo & La Paz, Suarez Hns. & Cardenas & Co., Selgas & Co., José F. Rocha and Gonzalez Hns. & Co.

The buyers for Germany that operated mostly were: H. Uppmann & Co., J. F. Berndes & Co., Adolfo Moeller and Michaelson & Prasse.

Albert W. Kaffenburgh returned from his trip to the Santa Clara province on the 28th ulto., and left for his home in Boston on the 30th idem. He stated, that the Remedios crop is principally of a light nature, as even the apparently heavy leaves will only give a medium quality, and while the smoking promises to be very fine, the manufacturer will perhaps have to use a larger quantity of Remedios than he has been in the habit of using lately.

The friends of Don Antonio Calzada will be glad to learn, that he has recovered from his late severe attack of the gripe, and is on deck again. He expects to make some escogidas of Remedios upon a large scale this year, as soon as the Vegueros are ready to accept reasonable figures.

Edgar Pollack returned from his extensive trip, all over Europe, to New York, on the 28th ulto., and after a month's stay in the United States intends to buckle on the armor again in Havana.

Our association of leaf dealers, packers and growers of tobacco of the Island of Cuba opened a delegation at Consolacion del Sur on March 25th. There was an assembly of 500 persons, consisting of rich planters, Vegueros, packers and land owners, and the greatest enthusiasm prevailed. The meeting was presided over by Dr. Antonio Ferrer and Armando del Pino acted as secretary. Don Manuel A. Suarez, the president of the Havana association, was proclaimed under great applause as honorary president. A number of telegrams of felicitations were exchanged between Consolacion del Sur and Havana. There is a movement on foot to establish a delegation in Pinar del Rio, the presidency of which will be offered to Don Ricardo Cuevas. of the banking and mercantile house of Ricardo Cuevas & Co., and who are also owners of the well-known Hotel Globo. In fact, there is reason to affirm, that many more delegations will be established all over the island, as the enthusiasm is spreading among the Vegueros. The directors of the home association had a meeting this week treating about the important question of fertilizers.

Principal shippers above 200 bales from the port of Havana, during the past fortnight, were: Sylvester & Stern 917, J. Bernheim & Sons 756, Diego Montero 755, Leslie Pantin 697, Mark A. Pollack 493, Rodriguez, Menendez & Co. 342, Garcia & Co. 271, Selgas & Co. 264, Sobrinos de A. Gonzalez 260, and Monroe Commercial Co. 230 bales.

New Bill to Reduce Express Rates

The tobacco trade, especially manufacturers and leaf men, will be materially affected if the Adamson bill, introduced in Congress recently, is passed. It aims to enforce maximum rates on all express packages weighing not more than 11 pounds.

Under the proposed law it would cost 20 cents to send a 10-pound parcel from New York to Washington, and the charge would approximate $1.20 to send the same package to the Coast. Firms which send many samples are especially interested in the new measure.

Exposition for San Francisco Benefits Trade

Dealers Watching for Good Exposition Sites—City Votes $8,800,000 Bonds for New City Hall—Number of Retail Stores Opened

SAN FRANCISCO, April 5, 1912.

THE San Francisco jobbers, and such retailers as are looking ahead to future years in the business, are feeling more optimistic regarding the local situation than for a long time past. This is partly due to the fact that preparations for the Exposition are making better progress, but even more to the energy shown by the present municipal administration, which is accomplishing more in the way of actual progress than any set of officers the city has had in many years. Last week the city voted $8,800,000 bonds for the construction of a civic center and new City Hall, and the arrangements for the work are going through with unprecedented speed. With all this work in progress it is anticipated that there will be little lack of employment after this spring, while by the end of the year the working population will be largely increased. Many eastern people, who have come in lately, are already finding work, and the consequent increase of trade is well distributed through all parts of the city. Next year there will doubtless be quite a boom in business around the Exposition sites, and a good many dealers are keeping their eyes on these districts with a view to opening stands there as soon as things begin to move.

The inevitable influx of workmen from the East is expected to bring about some change in the nature of goods sold, particularly in the increase of sales of smoking tobacco, cigarettes and domestic cigars. Several manufacturers of smoking tobacco are taking steps to strengthen their position here, and some strong advertising of various brands may be expected within the next few years. The market has been rather crowded with domestic cigars, which have met some competition from Manila goods, but the jobbers are now putting in some strong work on their 5-cent brands, hoping to give them the greatest possible popularity as the demand grows.

W. J. Pixley, agent on the Coast for several prominent lines of smoking tobacco, has recently strengthened his lines materially, and now handles a varied assortment of smokers' articles, representing the Milwaukee Novelty Company. He is also meeting with great success in the introduction of the pipes and cigarettes of the Simmons Tobacco Company, and is keeping his record on the established lines of smoking tobacco well up to the usual standard.

The recent re-organization of Herman Heyneman & Son, Inc., agents for the American Tobacco Company, has so far caused little apparent change in the conduct of the business, though the new officers are getting to work energetically, and hope to make up for anything that has been lost through the changes in the national organization. J. H. Nightingale, who formerly had charge of the Southern California territory for Herman Heyneman & Son, is now in charge of the plug department of the re-organized company, and it is reported that some eastern men are to be added to the local force.

Bier, Saalburg & Co., local wholesalers, who have for some time made the "Cortez" cigar their clear Havana leader, have given up this line, replacing it with the "Ruy Lopez." This company is also doing some energetic publicity work on its 5-cent line, the "Sam Sloan," which is being featured in many window displays around the city.

The opening of retail stores by Bauer Hess, who was formerly with Ehrman Bros. & Co., and another of their former employees, A. Brunoni, together with the display of their lines in a number of retail stands, has given competing firms an opportunity to spread the rumor that Ehrman Bros. & Co. were going into the retail business. This is indignantly denied by members of the firm. The company has a large wholesale business outside of San Francisco, and is not disposed to complicate matters by entering the retail field here, though it has naturally built up a high standing for its "Optimo" and other lines in the local trade. A. Santaella, manufacturer of the "Optimo," who visited Ehrman Bros. & Co., last month, left for the factory via the Northwest about a week ago.

Geo. R. Webb, handling the Cuesta, Rey & Co. line for the Coffin-Redington Company, spent last week on the west side of the San Joaquin Valley, where he found conditions greatly improved over a month ago.

M. A. Gunst left for the East a week ago, and expects to be away for some time, planning to make a trip to Cuba before returning.

A. Charnak, who has had a stand at Battery and bust streets for nearly five years, is well pleased with the growth of the business during that time, and has taken a new lease on the place for four years more in anticipation of further improvement. Mr. Charnak is now taking a vacation in the North.

Sam Caro, the new agent for F. Bolano & Co. of Tampa, made a trip to Southern California last week in company with Mr. Seckbach, president of the company.

Henry Dalton, traveling for Bondy & Lederer, is visiting the Coast trade, having passed through San Francisco a few days ago on his way South. He is expected here again about the end of the week, and is making arrangements for special publicity work on the "Lawrence Barrett" cigar.

Harry Jonas, formerly in charge of the wholesale department of M. A. Gunst & Co., but recently on the road, has resumed his former place at the local store.

W. J. Epes, Coast manager for the Liggett & Myers' plug and smoking tobacco lines, is calling on the trade in the northern Coast cities, but will return about the middle of the month.

W. B. Wellman, of Wellman, Peck & Co., local jobbers of the "Lovera" line, is making a tour of Europe.

W. C. Rose, of Philadelphia, representing the "Havana Ribbon" line, is doing a lot of special work with the trade in various Coast cities. He is now in Portland, after about a week with the local trade, and will make another visit to San Francisco before going East. The United Cigar Stores Co. has secured a very desirable location at the corner of Sutter and Kearny streets, in the New Sutter Hotel. This is not only in a fine business centre, but will be the only cigar store at that corner, for the present at least.

F. Garcia, of F. Garcia & Bros., was in the city a few days ago, and is now at Portland, Ore.

D. H. Ball, vice-president of the P. Lorillard Co., is now on his way East, after a rather hasty trip along the Coast.

Several large shipments of Manila cigars have been received here in the last week, and the importers hope to catch up with orders in the near future, but there is still some complaint of shortage.

Indianapolis Cigar Retailers Fail

I. STEINBERG CIGAR COMPANY, one of the prominent retailers of Indianapolis, conveyed, on March 27th, its three stands, in that city, to L. O. Hamilton, of Hamilton, Harris & Co.; E. L. Donahue, of Donahue & Eaton and Wm. Walker & Co., as trustees, pending liquidation.

The liabilities are about $9,000. It is supposed that the business done in the sixty-days' trusteeship, together with the money secured from the sale of the stock and fixtures will almost, if not fully, cover the liabilities.

Toledo Retailers Cutting Prices

The cutting of prices has recently started in Toledo, where fifteen-cent cigarettes were cut to eleven cents straight, with the exception of "Fatimas," which are selling at two packages for a quarter.

The Snyder stand took the lead. A number of dealers claim they will not handle cigarettes if they are also compelled to cut prices to get any business, as there is little profit, even when they are sold at regular prices.

Hazleton to Manufacture Vending Machines

The Standard Vending Machine Company, successors to the International Vending Machine Co., of St. Louis, will open a plant in Hazleton, Pa., before very long. A. W. Drake is head of the concern.

The machine that will be manufactured can handle ten different kinds of cigars at one time, there being a slot for each cigar sold, whether the price be five, ten or twenty-five cents.

The machinery is now being installed in the new plant.

Manila Strike at an End

The cigarmakers' strike which has been on for some time in Manila is reported to be virtually at an end. The employees were said to have reached a satisfactory agreement, which will give them an increase of about 25 per cent. over their former wages. Several of the factories have not yet agreed to the increased rates, but it is said will soon fall in line.

California to Raise Turkish Tobacco

Between 300 and 400 acres in the Alta district, near Dinuba, Cal., will be planted in Turkish tobacco this year. Experiments conducted for years in almost every tropical and sub-tropical country have met with failure. The difficulty lies in duplicating the flavor and aroma of the imported Turkish.

J. W. Kelly, of San Francisco, has sold his interest in the firm of Nasser & Kelly, at 487 Castro street, that city, to A. Fries. Mr. Kelly owns a cigar store and factory at Sixteenth and Mission streets.

C. H. Lane has bought a half interest in the Neal & Neal cigar store, Kansas City, Mo., and the name of the firm has been changed to Neal & Lane.

LEAF TOBACCO MARKET

Volume of Business Increasing in New York City---New Pennsylvania Crop Almost Cleaned Up--- Wisconsin Dealers See End of Work

NEW YORK.

NEW YORK CITY.

MARKET conditions continue fair in this locality. Trading has been going on steadily. All types of leaf have been in demand and, although transactions have been small, the volume of business seems larger each week. The good crops appear to have given every one an optimistic spirit, instead of the complaint heard in former years relative to the shortage and the defective quality of the leaf.

Taking in consideration the satisfactory Sumatra crop, the record-breaking Havana crop, the best in years, and the universally good domestic tobacco grown the last year, it would appear that an exceedingly prosperous year is ahead of the trade, barring labor troubles. The coal strike does not seem to have affected conditions as yet.

PENNSYLVANIA.

PHILADELPHIA.

LEAF tobacco dealers are doing quite an amount of business, although many of them claim that conditions are far from satisfactory. There has evidently been considerably more buying of leaf tobacco the last fortnight than selling to manufacturers. Most of the factories are fairly well stocked up naturally, and business in general being quiet, they are not doing very much buying.

The new Pennsylvania crop is being bought quite extensively, and at figures from 1 to 2½ cents lower than growers first demanded. There has been brisk scrambling after Connecticut and, though some dealers were fortunate enough to get much of it, others complain that little of this is being offered, and then only in small lots. The same difficulty in securing this tobacco has been reported in other places.

LANCASTER.

During the past fortnight the local leaf market has been dull, so far as trade in old goods was concerned. The farmers have been rushing their new crop to the warehouses to get cash to pay obligations falling due.

They are showing an inclination to ease up on the price, as they seem to realize that they have held for their price too long. They received 9 and 10 cents for leaf, for which they demanded 11 and 11½ cents a few weeks ago. Some of the warehouses are so well filled that packers will not purchase any more, unless they can get it very cheap.

The trading done recently in 1909 and 1910 goods has been with local manufacturers, and as they were buying for immediate use the purchases were light. The 1909 tobacco is being sold from 9 to 14½ cents per pound, actual weight. None of the 1910 crop has been reported as going beyond 18 cents.

YORK.

The local leaf market has been quiet for the last two weeks. The growers have been delivering the tobacco as fast as it has been stripped.

Lancaster packers, including the Eisenlohns, Isaac H. Weaver and the Hoffmans, have been buying quite heavily. Prices have been slightly lower than in Lancaster, the average figure being about 8 cents. The Eisenlohns recently received ten carloads of York County leaf and Weaver received three carloads.

WISCONSIN.

EDGERTON.

THE earlier purchases have gone so far that dealers are able to see the end of the work, except that portion which is still hanging in the sheds. It has been estimated that from 80 to 90 per cent. of the crop already sold has been delivered and settled to date. Buying of the remainder is proceeding slowly at about the same prices recently quoted.

There has been very little doing in the market for old leaf. The sales of old crop are generally of a small nature to meet the pressing needs of the manufacturers.

STOUGHTON.

The leaf in growers' hands, still unsold, is very scarce. Owing to the delay in receiving the new crop, more local warehouses are operating than at this time last year. The deliveries within the last two weeks have kept them busy. Prices have been ranging from 8 cents downward.

VIRGINIA.

The local warehouses have been kept busy handling the tobacco rushed in, the growers being anxious to make deliveries while the roads are good. The local packers have been working their crews hard, but the sorting is still going on. The largest individual crop taken at Eckhardt's warehouse this season was delivered by Casper Burass, of Bloomingdale. He delivered 15,800 pounds at 12 cents, and 2795 pounds at 4 cents, making a total money return of $2007.80.

CONNECTICUT.

SUFFIELD.

WAREHOUSES are working slowly and are practically closed for the season, as there is very little tobacco left in the hands of the growers. The growers are beginning to get ready for the new crop and tobacco seed has been planted in the seed beds.

The acreage of tobacco will be increased in this town the coming summer and the greater proportion will be the Havana seed type instead of broadleaf. The proportion of primed tobacco will be greater this year, as numerous growers are getting ready to fix over their sheds.

The acreage of shade grown will not be much greater, as this method is principally used by the syndicate, the average grower not caring to risk the expense and trouble of caring for the tent grown product. With the present condition of the market and the demand for tobacco, with a fair season, the growers ought to make good money, barring, of course, hail or destructive wind storms.

OHIO.

CINCINNATI.

EARLY preparation for the Burley crop has been retarded by a late and rainy spring. A number of beds have been prepared, but not as many as at this time in former years. Large quantities of tobacco are finding buyers through the two loose leaf markets in the Ohio River section. The average daily price is $10 per cwt.

The mild weather has caused much tobacco to soften, necessitating immediate use or rehandling. This tends to weaken prices. The market as a whole was strong and active for the better grades of red and practically all grades of color, but irregular on other kinds.

KENTUCKY.

LOUISVILLE.

THE demand for the fine grades of new Burley continues remarkably active, also for all grades which have any pretense of being color.

The very common grades, lacking in color, and some grades of red tobacco have shown a material decline as compared with the same values the early part of the season. The amount of Kentucky tobacco, grown in 1911, still unsold, is smaller than has ever before been known for this time of year.

MT. STERLING.

The receipts of tobacco here during the last fortnight have not been startling. The amount of tobacco on hand is not so large as at this time in former seasons. It is reported that most of the tobacco has been sold and that in many localities of this and adjoining counties the crops have all been marketed. The receipts as a result are gradually falling off.

MAYFIELD.

The sales of tobacco have been active on all goods, but the better grades have been in greater demand. The largest deliveries of the season have been made the last two weeks and prices are good. The medium grades sold at from $8 to $10, lugs at from $5.50 to $6.80 per hundred.

NORTH CAROLINA.

WINSTON-SALEM.

Receipts in the local market have been gradually declining. There was no perceptible change in prices, and the quality of offerings were about the same. Ten cents per pound is now about the average, which, considering the quality of tobacco sold, is very good indeed. The market has now sold about nineteen million pounds, with one million yet to sell.

VIRGINIA.

DANVILLE.

Receipts for the fortnight foot up fairly well. A good deal of the tobacco offered has been in bad condition, being too soft, and in many instances showing some damage. The deliveries are of such character as to give every evidence of being generally the last of the crop in the farmer's hands.

All grades of fine tobacco, especially those with color, hold firm at highest prices, with a very strong demand. Common tobaccos are in large supply, and somewhat easier in prices. Cigarette cutters continue in unusually active demand at top prices.

THE TOBACCO WORLD REGISTRATION BUREAU

The Tobacco World, established in 1881, has maintained a Bureau for the purpose of Registering and Publishing claims of the adoption of Trade-Marks and Brands for Cigars, Cigarettes, Smoking and Chewing Tobacco, and Snuff. All Trade-Marks to be registered and published should be addressed to The Tobacco World Corporation, 102 South Twelfth Street, Philadelphia.

One Dollar for each title must accompany all applications. In case title or titles cannot be registered owing to prior registration, same will be returned immediately, less our usual charge for searching and return postage, or it will be credited if desired.

Positively no responsibility assumed for errors, duplications or any controversies which might arise. We will not under any circumstances act in a legal capacity in cases concerning disputed titles. We maintain a bureau of records only.

Great Northern Cigar Co. Declares Dividend

The first meeting of the creditors of the Great Northern Cigar Company was held in Milwaukee recently, and a 10 per cent. dividend declared. The liabilities amount to $7000.

Two Kentucky Warehouses Burned

A tobacco warehouse at Sweet Owen, Ky., was destroyed by fire on March 28. It belonged to A. L. Hammond & Co., and contained 75,000 pounds of tobacco, which was partially covered by insurance.

Another warehouse at Tacketts' Mill, the same State, was also destroyed, causing a loss of 30,000 pounds of tobacco, belonging to the Tacketts' Mill Tobacco Company.

Large Sale of Burley Tobacco

According to a recent Lexington dispatch, President Clarence Lebus, of the Burley Tobacco Society, has sold to the American Tobacco Company, 300,000 pounds of burley tobacco that he had not pooled. The tobacco is from his holdings of an old crop. The price was not given.

Short talks to Dealers

There's nothing very spectacular about the Fatima package. It is neat and substantial, but inexpensive. And right there is a point in favor of Fatima Cigarettes as a leader for you.

FATIMA TURKISH BLEND CIGARETTES

We have always thought it better to spend money on the tobacco than on the package, and the way men stick to Fatimas once they learn their quality bears us out in this theory.

No man will buy a cigarette the second time simply because he likes the package, but he will go blocks to get a cigarette whose flavor just suits his taste.

That's the history of Fatima—so Fatima will continue to be made of better tobacco at the expense of the package.

It's this extra quality that has always made Fatima such great favorites with College men.

THE BIRTH

Born April, 1908, sans noise, sans advertisement, sans all that would make it known; in short born in obscurity in the most unpretentious way. To-day, finds the BOLD ranking first, without a single exception, as a leader in the Philadelphia market.

We attribute this wonderful record to but one thing --QUALITY. Yes, it's quality, and that's what has made it repeat and repeat until now. It is the leading nickel cigar in the leading nickel market of the country.

What the BOLD has done for us it will do for you. Investigate this remarkable proposition. Make us prove this record, or still better, investigate this yourself, then write for territory.

Death Lays Heavy Hand on Firm of M. J. Dalton & Co.

Founder of the Business, Michael J. Dalton, and W. Frederick Worthington, an Associate, Die
Within Four Days of Each Other

DEATH has laid a heavy hand on the firm of M. J. Dalton & Co. Within four days, it has robbed the firm, not only of its founder, Michael J. Dalton, but also of one of Mr. Dalton's principal associates, W. Frederick Worthington. It seems a strange stroke of fate that these two principal factors in the Dalton business, should be wiped out so suddenly and within such a short interval.

In spite of this blow, the business will be continued as heretofore, for the present at least, with Raymond N. Crane in charge of the store at 5th & Chestnut streets, and James L. Flannigan at 13th & Chestnut streets.

MICHAEL J. DALTON

Two members of Philadelphia firm who died within four days of each other

W. FREDERICK WORTHINGTON

M. J. Dalton, who was familiarly known to the trade as "Mike," died at his home, No. 2219 N. Broad street, Wednesday, April 24th, as the result of an attack of ptomaine poisoning contracted during a recent business trip to Cuba. Anyone familiar with the cigar trade knows what a prominent and active factor Mr. Dalton has been during his residence in this city. Born in Cleveland, in 1867, he came to Philadelphia at an early age and was employed for sometime in the Baldwin Locomotive Works. A few years later, he entered the cigar business in which he remained until the very last. His first venture was in a retail store on 7th street above Chestnut, where he remained until he joined the firm of Gray, Morales & Dalton, at 11th & Chestnut streets, at that time one of the leading cigar houses in the city. When this firm was reorganized, Mr. Dalton joined partnership with Godfrey S. Mahn and the firm of Dalton & Mahn was founded which took over the 11th &

Foreign Capital To Back United Stores Realty Venture

George J. Whelan Enlists Aid Abroad To Buy Retail
Locations In United States—A $10,000,000
Company Forming

PRIOR to sailing from England to America, George J. Whelan, head of the United Cigar Stores Co., announced on April 27th his plans for the formation of a new $10,000,000 corporation to develop retail opportunities throughout the United States, by purchasing realties, leasing and sub-leasing them. In addition to the $10,000,000 capital stock $100,000,000 in first mortgage bonds will be issued and the company will be known as the United Retail Realty Co.

Mr. Whelan has been abroad enlisting the support of English and French capital and the subscriptions which he has received to date, indicate that the European and English capital is favorable to the scheme, inasmuch as it offers real estate as security.

Upon reaching New York, next week, Mr. Whelan will make final arrangements for the floatation of the company. While the primary object of the company will be for development of retail cigar stores it will also have a decided effect on other retail businesses through its leases and sub-leases of realty not actually required for the United Stores.

Interviewed in London, Mr. Whelan stated that competition in the tobacco business was never so keen as today and he ridiculed the idea that the United Stores are still subsidiary to the American Tobacco Co. In fact, he said, "we are keen competitors of the American Tobacco Co. but there is plenty of room for everybody."

In New York, it was learned that Edward Wise and Louis Biel will retire from the United Cigar Stores Co. to join Mr. Whelan's new enterprise. The retirement of these two men will make way for the promotion of others in the United Stores and a number of important changes are expected.

3,500,000 lbs. of Tobacco Destroyed

(Special Dispatch to "The Tobacco World.")

WINSTON-SALEM, April 29th.

Three and a half million pounds of leaf tobacco owned by the R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Company was destroyed by fire here tonight, when the storage warehouse belonging to I. P. Taylor, of the Taylor Brothers Tobacco Company, was burned.

The fire was of unknown origin. The total loss is estimated at $425,000.

Hearing on Free Smokers Today

A hearing on the "Free Smoker" bill which is being promoted by Representatives Sparkman, of Florida, and Grist, of Pennsylvania, will be held before the Ways and Means Committee of the House in Washington on May 1st. A number of prominent cigar manufacturers are expected to be present.

Business Campaigns That Will "Produce"---For the Retailer, Wholesaler and Manufacturer

By J. B. JAMISON. **

Being an outline of systems through which big business houses are built. Any reader of THE TOBACCO WORLD, retailer, wholesaler or manufacturer, contemplating an expansion of his business, should consult this department, and may secure the personal services of Mr. Jamison for the direction of his campaign by a series of letters suited to his individual needs upon the payment of $2, for which allowance will be given in new subscriptions to THE TOBACCO WORLD, or the extension of old subscriptions. Single letters of instruction 50 cents.

The plans I outline in this department will "produce." They have brought home the goods and are doing the trick every day.

Management of Clerks

MANY merchants nowadays pride themselves on their ability as business men and perhaps deserve all they think of themselves with perhaps one particular, that of clerk management. As a result they are always changing hands, some leaving, others being discharged, until the store gets a reputation as one where the personnel is continually changing.

When a merchant is constantly changing his clerks, and having trouble securing others, he is failing in one of the most important branches of his business. For the clerk stands between him and the public, and his store is judged to a very great extent by the clerk and his attitude toward the customer. The proprietor may be using the very best method in his advertising, he may have the right line of goods, he may be well known and liked among his customers, yet if he does not have the right kind of clerks, men who are polite and attentive to his patrons, and willing to go to a little trouble to please them, his best efforts will be of little avail.

There are only two kinds of clerks, the right kind and the wrong. A merchant should have no difficulty in soon telling either class. When he secures the man who is conscientious, willing, a hard worker, ready to please, quick to catch on to new ideas, he should give him an opportunity to better himself and give him the best of treatment. By doing that he need not be afraid that he will leave him on the slightest provocation, or at a time when he secures a slightly better offer.

Clerks are as numerous as the sands of the sea; many of them are looking for something easy. There is never any trouble in hiring that variety. And others are reasonably honest, do not continually watch the clock all day, are willing to obey orders, but there are so many, even of this class, that the progressive merchant should not be satisfied with those qualities alone. These clerks will not drive trade away and probably will do their work fairly well, yet when it comes to being a positive asset, they are lacking.

The desirable employee is the one who has ambitions, who is ready to work up the business in any legitimate way. Such a man is willing to do all in his power to further his employer's interests because he realizes that in making that interest his, he is improving the chances for his success. Give that man an opportunity to earn more and in all probability you will be doubling your chances for increased sales.

Do not make the mistake of having too many clerks. It is far better to have several good clerks than half a dozen indifferent ones who are looking for a "steady job," the "nothing to do till tomorrow" kind. In having several clerks who are really good you will be able to pay good wages, and they will stick and work for you all the more.

It is very poor policy for a man to be stingy with his clerks. If you show them that you are willing to give them all you can, provided it does not affect the business, they will appreciate the favor. How often do we see several tired clerks behind a counter on a nice bright day, when business for several hours at least, is virtually at a standstill. At such times if, one of them is given a short rest, he will appreciate it and work all the harder when he comes back. Put yourself in their position and try to imagine how you would feel it a long afternoon were before you and someone were to say, "Well, Ed., you may have a few hours off this afternoon. There's not much doing and you may as well trot out to a ball game and get some fresh air; Jim may go next time."

Aside from giving them this rest, there is one point to be remembered which many employers overlook. Did you ever go into a store where the clerk was "knocking" the owner and telling a customer what an unfeeling person he was working for? Perhaps you will say that your clerks are not that kind. Possibly you are right, but when a man feels aggrieved he usually likes to confide his trouble in some one and when the first opportunity arrives he unburdens himself.

There are still many employers who imagine the clerks are ready to take advantage of them at the first chance and consequently drive and browbeat them until they positively dread their arrival each day. I stopped at a haberdashery a short time ago just as the proprietor was coming in. He probably had been out the night before and, not having very much sleep, was not in the best of humor. There was a hush among the clerks as soon as he came in and in a few minutes he was hawling out one of the clerks for a small sin of omission. The other employees looked around apprehensively as though they would prefer to leave for the time being. I left with a decidedly bad taste in my mouth and have had no desire to go there again. Those clerks had my sympathy. Fortunately such employers are rare and far between.

Can you imagine for a minute that those men would ever go to that man with suggestions for the improvement of the business? Many suggestions from clerks are poor and inopportune, and others are a positive nuisance, yet many merchants nowadays can point to an increase in sales which resulted from timely hints from clerks carried to a successful conclusion.

Have it distinctly understood that the store rules must be obeyed. Give all a square deal, and show no favoritism. Your men will have a better opinion of you and it makes for efficiency.

Three Mighty Factors in the World To-day

Advertising--The News--The Printing Press

The Tobacco World Philosopher

ADVERTISING is the literature of modern business, large or small. The firm, large or small, which does not advertise in some form or another cannot survive.

And the printing press is the mother of advertising. THE TOBACCO WORLD spreads the tobacco news and advertising through the medium of the printing press.

And the printing press is the tireless distributor of the world's news.

It cries out to the four winds its joys and sorrows every hour of the day. When it talks a myriad people listen. It speaks all the languages of earth. The Anglo-Saxon, the Hun, the Slav, the Hindu all comprehend it.

It prods the sluggard into activity. It lifts up the dullard's mind and throws fear into the heart of the evildoer. Nothing escapes its eye. It is the light, the knowledge and the power of the present day.

It is the voice of today and the herald of tomorrow. It weaves into the warp of the past the woof of the future, and makes it possible for the man of today to benefit by the achievements and mistakes of the race that was before him. In the last analysis it is the great dispassionate discriminator, telling the story of human weal and woe with equal fidelity to truth. The misstatements it makes today are recorded by it so that they may be detected as such tomorrow.

It makes the human heart beat with passion and tenderness, stirs the pulse of nations and brave men to do braver deeds. The joys and sorrows, hopes, fears, longings and aspirations of the race are immortalized by it. It is the faithful recorder of everything human kind has ever achieved.

It is the laughter and tears of the world.

It is the great consolidator of things.

Without it the great business enterprises of today could never be built up.

It sings the songs of the world.

It lays bare the shameful perfidy of the human heart and brain and their saving graces, and makes it possible for the analysis to distinguish between the two.

It is the world's great inspirer and recreator.

Through the medium of THE TOBACCO WORLD, it disseminates everything new in the tobacco industry.

It brings new business home to the door of the advertisers in THE TOBACCO WORLD every day in the week.

It makes for co-operation and mutual aid and assistance between jobbers, retailers and salesman, in the news columns of THE TOBACCO WORLD, and gives merit where merit is due through the same source.

Its heart is of steel, its limbs of iron and its fingers of brass.

And its great heart will never cease to throb and beat and cry out the news of the world as long as the human race shall exist.

The Salesman's Creed

TO respect my profession, my company and myself. To be honest and fair with my company, as I expect my company to be honest and fair with me; to think of it with loyalty, speak of it with praise, and act always as a trustworthy custodian of its good name. To be a man whose word carries weight at my home office; to be a booster, not a knocker; a pusher, not a kicker; a motor, not a clog.

To base my expectations of reward on a solid foundation of service rendered; to be willing to pay the price of success in honest effort. To look upon my work as opportunity, to be seized with joy and made the most of, and not as painful drudgery to be reluctantly endured.

To remember that success lies within myself, in my own brain, my own ambition, my own courage and determination. To expect difficulties and force my way through them; to turn hard experience into capital for future struggles.

To believe in my proposition heart and soul; to carry an air of optimism into the presence of possible customers; to dispel ill temper with cheerfulness, kill doubts with strong convictions and reduce active friction with an agreeable personality.

To make a study of my business; to know my profession in every detail from the ground up; to mix brains with my efforts and use system and method in my work. To find time to do everything needful by never letting time find me doing nothing. To hoard days as a miser hoards dollars; to make every hour bring me dividends in commissions, increased knowledge or healthful recreation.

Finally, to take a good grip on the joy of life; to play the game like a gentleman; to fight against nothing so hard as my own weaknesses, and to endeavor to grow as a salesman and as a man with the passage of every day of time. This is my creed.

W. C. HOLMAN.

Interesting Smoke Notes

An error now common even among old tobacco smokers exists in reference to the nicotine in tobacco. The dark stain which comes on a white handkerchief after blowing smoke through it is caused by soot and tar from the smoke and not by nicotine, as nearly everybody supposes. Nicotine is colorless and forms less than one ten-thousandth part of all the substances precipitated from tobacco smoke.

A very curious fact concerning tobacco smoke is the remarkable change in color which it undergoes after entering the mouth. From the burning end of a cigar the smoke issues in deep blue threads, while that which is expelled from the mouth is of a decidedly brownish tint.

The "cake" in the bowl of a pipe is composed of real coal, as good as any that is mined. It is formed by the juices oozing under the high temperature from the burning tobacco and would burn if subjected to sufficient heat.

Clogging in a pipe stem is caused by the rapid accumulation of tar.

Both cubeb and corn silk inflame the mucous membrane and upset the digestive function. None of these evils results from the moderate use of tobacco.

Hygienically strong tobacco is better than mild, for in smoke from the mild varieties the tiny particles are far more numerous and tend to dry up the blood by absorbing large quantities of moisture from the mouth and lungs. For this reason paper cigarettes, even when unadulterated, are held to be injurious.

Tobacco Store Illumination

R. W. Shenton

DOES the tobacco retailer appreciate the full value of good effective illumination in his store? It is probably true that the larger part of the average cigar store's business is transacted by artificial light. It is also true that the volume of this business will depend largely upon the lighting equipment employed, both to attract the attention of the customer and to aid him in making his selection. It will be seen that good lighting serves the twofold purpose of attracting custom and furnishing one of the necessary facilities for carrying on trade.

The first of the two classes of lighting suggested above includes sign and window lighting. As to the value of electric signs, little need be said, for they have long since demonstrated their usefulness as advertising media. The retailers of tobacco products, especially those located in busy sections, do not depend for their business upon the patronage of a number of regular customers, but rather look to those of the passing throng who upon impulse drop into the most convenient store. A man walking along the street and suddenly realizing that his supply of cigars is low will step into the first up-to-date store that attracts his attention and make his purchase. The electric sign is the most conspicuous of all outdoor advertisements and will invariably be the means of drawing such a buyer.

Good window illumination is always an efficient publicity agent. A well-lighted window attracts the attention of the passerby, not to the window itself, but to the goods displayed in it. It is not an uncommon occurrence to see a window which at first glance gives the impression that the merchant is offering for sale some type of electric or gas lamp, for these are the most conspicuous things in his window. For window lighting to be effective, it must not be necessary for a person to look past an unshaded lamp to see the articles on display; that is, lamps should be so hung that their direct rays will not fall on the eyes of the observer. Further, all lamps should be equipped with reflectors that will direct the light upon the contents of the window and not upon the sidewalk or street. Probably one of the most pleasing methods of lighting tobacco store windows is that in which Mazda lamps equipped with focusing reflectors are hung close to the ceiling, the units being hidden by a transparency or shade along the upper border of the window. An allowance of from five to ten watts of electrical power for every square foot of floor space will give satisfactory results.

In considering interior illumination, there must be light—not merely enough to see by, but enough to show the goods to the best advantage. Too much light or too high an intensity of light in certain portions of the store, on the other hand, must be avoided because of the eye strain they cause. If lamps with suitable reflectors are used, an allowance of one watt of electrical power per square foot of floor space will generally give satisfaction. Where bare lamps are used this allowance should be doubled on account of the inferior light distribution of lamps without reflectors.

It is always desirable that the illumination throughout a store be uniform; that is, there should be no alternate dark and light spots or sharp shadows. Uniformity of illumination is obtained by using a relatively large number of small lighting units in preference to one or two larger ones. The use of several relatively small incandescent lamps instead of one or two large gas or electric arc lamps, for instance, will result in a much more even distribution of light. Ability on the part of the customer to see all the goods with equal ease will enable him to make a judicious selection and will often prevent his overlooking an article which may be just what he wants, but which, because it is placed in some poorly lighted corner, either escapes his notice entirely or else because of its obscure position gives the impression of inferiority.

All lamps, except those used for decorative purposes, should be used with reflectors and, in so far as possible, should be hung near the ceiling, so as not to be in the direct line of vision. A lamp, especially a bare, unfrosted one, hung in the line of sight causes all objects beyond it to be more or less obscure. As was mentioned in the case of window lighting, light should be thrown upon the object to be seen and not directly into the eyes of the observer. Tip-frosted lamps are to be preferred where reflectors are used.

Very effective results are often obtained by having the ceiling studded with bare lamps arranged in the form of rectangles or fantastic figures. In such cases, round bulb, frosted lamps are the most desirable. A light colored ceiling aids materially in diffusing the light and reflecting it downward. Such installations are comparatively free from shadows.

The indirect system of illumination is very popular for store lighting. In this system, the units are concealed in inverted shades or reflectors, which direct the light upon the ceiling, from which it is diffused and reflected down into the room. The ceiling, of course, should be white or as nearly so as convenient, so as to absorb as little of the light as possible. This method gives uniformity of illumination with a marked freedom from shadows. Inasmuch as there is absolutely no glare the illumination is similar to that produced by diffused daylight. For indirect illumination with Mazda lamps and a white ceiling, one and one-half watts of electrical power per square foot of floor space will be found adequate.

Show cases are often lighted by means of tubular lamps placed along their inside edges. These lamps should be concealed beneath reflectors or at least should be frosted so that the glaring effect of the lights may be minimized thus enabling one to see the goods they are supposed to illuminate and to see them to the best advantage.

Quality of light is an important consideration wherever color is one of the factors upon which a choice depends. A buyer who selects what to him, under the light used, appears to be a claro cigar will be disappointed if on smoking it he finds it to possess the qualities of flavor and strength peculiar to maduro. The Mazda lamp gives a light which, because of its near approach to daylight in color value, shows objects in practically their true color.

A notable example of good cigar store lighting is the Rialto Store, of Findlay, Ohio. This installation, which was made by the Buckeye Electric Supply Company, of Findlay, is representative of the most modern methods of illumination.

Management of Clerks

Try to show your clerk that you have confidence in his ability to sell goods. Give him a fair show and nine times out of ten he will make good. If he makes a bad mistake, correct him, but do not call him down before the others, for it engenders bad feeling, and in such a case does little good. If he is worth anything he will have seen the mistake and when it is explained to him in a right spirit he will take it in a receptive spirit and profit by it. No man of spirit, no man who is worth a hill of beans enjoys or likes to take a blowing up before his fellow clerks. Remember that the employee has just as good a reason to want a good and just employer as you have to want an efficient clerk.

Many men who work for others nowadays say, "As long as I do my work my employer has no right to know what I do outside the store." To a certain extent this is right. But when a man's actions away from his place of employment affect his work, his employer has a right to know. He has the privilege of knowing what kind of man is handling his money. A word to some men in such cases often will do good, in others none. In the latter instance a man should be discharged without any compunction at all.

When your men do a particularly good bit of business, do you give them credit for it? A word of commendation will go a long way and make for better feeling between you. The clerk appreciates it and the next time he gets an opportunity he will repeat that piece of business. But if it is overlooked and you scarcely mention it for fear he will ask for a raise, you are making a great mistake. There is

An electric sign, a system of border lamps and a well illuminated window constitute the exterior illumination of the store. Mazda sign lamps are used in the decorative front and the sign. The interior of the window is lighted by 40 5-watt lamps hidden by the frame work of the window and so arranged that their light is thrown directly upon the merchandise on display. The merits of this installation are plainly shown in Fig. 1.

The interior of the store, which is 135 feet long, 19 feet wide and 15 feet high, is lighted by two rows of 60-watt lamps, spaced 13 feet apart, the rows being placed five feet from the side walls. Each lamp is equipped with a reflector and hung 3 feet from the ceiling. These lamps supply the general illumination. In addition to this general illumination there are 2 25-watt Mazda lamps in porcelain lined metal reflectors over each of the pool and billiard tables in the rear of the store. Each of these pairs of lamps is provided with a separate switch by means of which the lamps over any table can be turned off when the table is not in use. The admirable results obtained from the lighting system are evident from Fig. 2.

Good lighting has its utilitarian advantages, but does not stop there. Well designed illumination produces an impression that is pleasing and, like polished glass an elegant ornament, adds an air of refinement and distinctiveness to the store just as bare lamps and an over-abundant blaze of light gives an impression of vulgarity not unlike that produced by gaudiness of personal attire. The appearance of the store is a sure indication of the progressiveness of the proprietor. Surely light, which adds so much to the general appearance of a store, is a subject that demands the attention of the up-to-date tobacco retailer.

little incentive for pleasing if a good piece of work is passed off unnoticed.

If the clerk is ambitious do not try to keep him tamed for fear you will lose him. Provided he has the right kind of stuff in him you will lose him in any event. And when he leaves knowing you have been trying to keep him from bettering himself, you have against you one who in later life might have helped you. Men in all lines of business are beginning to realize that a feeling of good fellowship between business men is beneficial for all concerned. Formerly business men did not know their competitors in the immediate neighborhood, and furthermore, did not care to establish an acquaintance. Now they are beginning to find out that their interests are pretty much the same. They get together, form associations, discuss means to improve their stores, get to know each other personally, and learn that there are many ways in which they can assist each other.

One matter which many business men pay too little attention to is that of the cash system. It is the duty of the employer to protect the clerk as much as possible from temptation. Many clerks have fallen when they have been tempted in a weak moment. When one takes into consideration the various methods of safeguarding both the employer and employee which are at the service of every business man, he cannot help but think that a man who loses money in that way comes pretty near to deserving it. He has as much sympathy for the culprit, who may have fallen in a weak moment, as the victim of the theft. A business man who fails in this particular has no right to harbor suspicions of anyone in his employ. The moral effect of a cash register is worth the price of the machine alone.

Corner Store Chat

I AM very thankful for my democratic taste in the matter of tobacco," remarked one of a party of smokers in the corridor of a well-known New York hotel, and as he said it he pulled out of an inner pocket a fine sealskin cigar case and took from it a Havana perfecto.

"Don't imagine for a minute that I am very aristocratic in my tastes because I am smoking a good cigar now. This simply proves what I am going to tell you. Just now you see me when I have been having a run of luck. I am at the zenith of one of my periodical good runs. Perhaps in a month or so from now I will be virtually on my uppers. I will not be smoking such good tobacco, but that will never phase me.

"I suppose many other smokers are like me in this respect. That is when I am on the top of a wave a twenty-five cent cigar is none too good for me. When I am not quite so prosperous, a three-for-a-quarter seems pretty fair. If I am going down for a time a nickel cigar gives me an immense amount of enjoyment. And when I am fairly well 'bent' but not altogether 'broke' I can get lots of satisfaction out of a cigarette made from the 'makings.'

"You would be surprised how many people smoke that way, too. The financial condition of many men I know can be judged pretty accurately by the quality of tobacco they are smoking, and I am not speaking of the salaried fellows altogether, either.

"It's strange, too, did you ever notice, that it makes no difference what state a fellow may be in financially, he always has something for a smoke even if it is only a nickel for a bag of the cheapest tobacco. I have known the time when I had only a dime and would spend half of it that way and the rest for a cup of coffee. It's a queer thing, but men must have their smoke."

"Have you ever been riled by the fellow who, when he offers you a cigar, looks at it deprecatingly, shrugs his shoulders, and passes the weed to you with 'I don't know how rotten it is, but if it is too much for you chuck it.' This was addressed to me a short time ago by a friend of mine who prides himself on his cultivated taste for tobacco.

"A friend of mine up the street offered me one a few minutes ago, saying something like that," he continued. "Say, you are the third chap today to treat me to a smoke on speculation," I said. "I wonder if everyone takes me for a cigar sampler? I like a good one, but don't propose to take any chances, and as you are not sure that this one will fill the bill—why here goes"—and I chucked it in the cuspidor.

"I always buy that fellow a good cigar and don't make any bones about it, but every time he offers me anything, he always uses that same line of talk until I get tired of it. If the cigar is rotten he don't need to tell me. I know a piece of rope when I strike one. And if it is a bum one, what business has he to offer it to me. He wouldn't do that at home to a guest, but he does it outside, and a lot of people are just as particular about their smoking as they are of their food."

THE ONLOOKER.

A foreign paper recently reported a pathetic incident about an old Hungarian. He had smoked the same pipe for half a century and had grown to love it like a companion. One day his infant grandson broke the pipe beyond all hope of repair. The old man was so heartbroken over his loss that he went into the next room and hanged himself on a peg. In his pocket was found a note: "My pipe is done for, and I must go, too."

The following incident was related to me by a man who had recently been at the field event of an Anti-Cigarette League.

The boy members of the league had turned out en masse to participate in the races. A dozen or more of the youngsters were lined up for the fifty-yard dash, and the assistant-superintendent of the league stood ready to give the signal, when a stunted street urchin with a cigarette between his lips pushed his way through the crowd.

"Wot's dis?" he asked, addressing the starter.

"This is a fifty-yard dash for boys under fifteen years of age," was the reply, "and just to show people that you cannot win because you smoke cigarettes, I will let you enter."

The street urchin threw his stub away and lined up with the other boys. At the signal he was off with a dash and led all the way. At the finish he slowed up and looked back at the other boys who were puffing away in the rear and then walked across the line. He walked up to the starter and proudly received the loving cup.

Score one for the cigarette fiend.

A recent vivid writer in depicting the times of Carlisle, the great English author, tells of the big quantities of tobacco which Carlisle smoked when writing his History of the French Revolution. He must have been rather a free and easy smoker, too, for he kept a wash basin by him half filled with water which he used as a cuspidor and into which he cast the debris of his pipe as he loaded and reloaded for action.

The task of forcing salvation on working men and boys, who are not particular about being saved, has brought Zion City in Illinois to the brink of martial law.

The employees of an electric company located there, who reside outside the city, are addicted to the smoking and chewing of tobacco. The laws of Zion City prohibit the use of tobacco in the city, and when these workmen were leaving the train to go to the electric concern's plant, they were met by the advance guard of the church workers, who flourished canes, sang songs, and punctuated their exhortations by calling the men "hounds of the underworld" and "pipe-sucking wrecks."

The workmen became annoyed and a general fight resulted. The reformers have demanded the discharge of the smokers, which the company refuse to do. Dr. Pease, of New York, may be "some reformer," but the Zionists have something on him, when it comes to pushing matters.

The agitation which has resulted in the passage of national pure food laws and their rigid enforcement, is now swinging towards a similar regulation of the tobacco business. The Richardson bill, now before Congress, aims to preclude the adulteration of tobacco products with dangerous drugs, the misbranding of goods and the substitution of impure materials for good tobacco.

The recent testimony of Dr. Kebler, Chief of the Bureau of Chemistry, indicates that the authorities at Washington have been making a careful analysis of tobacco products and have raised the danger signal.

Fraud in any business, whether it be cigars, cigarettes or candy, is a menace to its perpetuation, and whether the Richardson bill passes or not, it should serve as a warning to those in the trade who might have resorted to unfair practices.

We challenge the right of Dr. Kebler to apply his assertions to the entire industry. The few instances which he quotes in his testimony reveal that there has been some "doping," and those who have been engaged in it should be called to account. If they do not quit it, they will invite drastic legislation.

The most shameful part of the hearing on the Richardson bill, is that Dr. Kebler unjustly placed a stigma upon the entire tobacco business and not a single representative of the industry was present to raise a voice in protest.

Is the cigar and tobacco industry to remain silent, while an alleged expert, who admits he has never smoked or chewed, or even knows the taste of tobacco, attacks a business, in which millions of dollars are at stake?

Who will answer the doctor?

Who will come to the defense of a much-maligned and over-taxed industry?

Where are the associations?

It is for you, Mr. Manufacturer, to say whether an entire industry is to be fettered with unreasonable regulations because of the transgressions of a few unscrupulous men!

Those pessimists who are constantly referring to the lack of opportunity for the average merchant or manufacturer in the tobacco business, under present conditions, should study the latest report issued by the Department of Commerce and Labor. This volume, entitled a "Statistical Abstract of the United States," is compiled from the census reports taken in 1909 and gives the very latest and most authoritative information on the business conditions of this country, as revealed by the lynx-eyed census takers.

Comparisons are made with the year 1899 and also 1904. In the first place, the number of establishments engaged in the manufacture of cigars or tobacco and its kindred products increased from 14,959 in 1899 to 15,822 in 1909. This increase is nothing remarkable; in fact, in the point of number of establishments it shows a falling off, compared with 1904. But there has been an increase of over 4,000 in the number of employees engaged in the industry and this indicates that, although the number of establishments has not grown abnormally, those which have come into being have been on a larger scale than heretofore.

The most significant feature of the report, however, is the comparison of the capital involved. In 1899 there was $111,517,000 capital invested in the tobacco and cigar manufacturing industry which increased to $245,660,000 in 1909. The value of the production increased in that period from $263,713,000 to $416,695,000.

It should not be necessary to point the lesson of these figures. It is too obvious. In spite of the concentration of certain branches of the tobacco business into fewer hands, it is shown that the industry as a whole, has expanded both in the number of individual establishments as well as showing a tremendous gain in the production.

The passage in the Senate of the Cummins bill, providing for an appeal of the dissolution decree against the American Tobacco Company to the United States Supreme Court, seems to portend a complete reopening of the much mooted question.

The measure must now pass the House and be signed by the President before it becomes a law, and from present indications it will doubtless reach that stage.

The consensus of opinion among a number of tobacco men approached on the subject appears to be that it would be best to leave well enough alone. The independent manufacturers are pushing the matter hard, and for the benefit of all concerned it is hoped the matter will soon be pushed to some definite conclusion, either one way or the other.

Importing Houses Issue Price Lists

Action Taken by Three Leading Concerns Would Indicate End of Recent Flurry in Price Cut

UNDER date of May 1st three of the leading importing houses of Havana cigars, have issued new price lists, which would indicate that the recent flurry concerning the selling price of certain Havana goods was ended and that henceforth a fixed price would be assured both the jobber and retail distributor on the brands which were affected.

During the past fortnight, Leslie Pantin, who is recognized as one of the most important factors in the clear Havana industry, in Havana, has been in New York City, and it is through his efforts, largely, that the new fixed scale has been adopted. It is generally believed, that the recent action of the United Cigar Stores and the Schulte chain in cutting the price on certain sizes of well known Havana brands, was not an original action, but merely the result of a cut in prices on the part of some of the wholesale importers, the prime mover in which was a New England house. It was instantly seen by all concerns that any continuance of the practice, would lead to most dangerous and unsatisfactory conditions, and hence the present adjustment was easily accomplished.

From an unauthenticated source we understand that the jobbing price on "Romeo y Julieta," and other standard brands, has been fixed at $180, less one per cent.

Discussing the new price list, which has been issued by the house of Park & Tilford, Mr. Haddock stated that they had uniformly refused to knife the price on any of their goods, and that their new lists would not show any change whatever in the prices of certain popular brands, the distribution of which is exclusively controlled by Park & Tilford in the United States. In popular Havana brands, which are handled by several of the big concerns, he further added there would probably be a uniform list.

Sherman P. Coe, manager of Acker, Merrall & Condit's cigar business, stated in reference to this matter, that his firm had not issued any new list, and that the price on their imported goods would remain exactly as they were.

Anglo-Egyptian Cigarette Co. Move Uptown

The Anglo-Egyptian Cigarette Co., who have been located at 93 Broad street, New York, have decided to move their headquarters shortly to a new location on 34th street, near Broadway.

W. T. Taylor, the American representative of "Romeo y Julieta" cigars is president of this company, but it is stated that the New York office of this factory will not be affected by this change and that Mr. Taylor will conduct this business at the old stand.

New York Retailers Hold a Ball

ABENEFIT ball to raise funds for the New York Retail Tobacconists' Association was held in the Lenox Lyceum ball room, on the night of the 29th ult., and proved an enjoyable function, despite the bad weather which prevailed.

The energetic Vincent J. Farley, who publishes the Retail Tobacconist, fathered the function, and the net receipts are to be devoted to the use of a committee of retailers, who will visit Washington next week to help on the endeavor to pass the Cummins bill of review through the House of Representatives.

A large list of notables received invitations including the President and Attorney-General and also Colonel Roosevelt. The Massachusetts primaries made it out of the question for both the President and his predecessor to attend.

"Gentlemen Get Your Pin-zon"

A neat, new souvenir pin cushion, with the catch phrase printed on one side as quoted above, is the latest novelty which is being distributed by the M. Perez Company to advertise the "Pinzon," Key West-made Havana cigar. This company has been particularly active in recent months in the pushing of their product, and have the utmost faith in the superlative quality of their brand.

Through a typographical error in our last issue, in the illustrated article of "Pinzon" cigars (page 35), in the store of John D. Adair, Iowa City, Iowa, the brand appeared as "Prinzon," but close study of the photograph, with the well known bust of the label on the boxes clearly indicated the goods which were on view.

President of Philip Morris & Co. Here

FREDERICK CURTISS, head of the Philip Morris & Co., the great English cigarette manufacturing concern, has been in the United States for several weeks in consultation with the officers of the company here. He sails for his home in London on the White Star Liner "Adriatic," on May 2d.

Mr. Curtiss is the president of the three separate corporations which manufacture "Philip Morris" cigarettes. Although his home and interests are principally in London, he is keenly interested in the progress of the Philip Morris & Co.'s affairs in the United States.

M. W. Berriman, of Berriman Bros., has left on a visit to Tampa and Havana. The firm's output of cigars during the past few months, has been an exceptionally large one. The demand on their very popular brand "Jose Vila" has surpassed all records.

New York City Items

John J. Planco, of Ruy Suarez & Company, is headquartered at the Planter's Hotel, in St. Louis, this week.

Jacob Wertheim, of the United Cigar Manufacturers' Company, has just returned from the West on a vacation trip.

The "United" have just leased a valuable new site at the southwest corner of 149th street and Third avenue, Manhattan.

Militades Melachrino, executive head of the great Melachrino cigarette house, is expected to arrive in New York, from Cairo, Egypt, May 1st.

George H. Greenwood, tobacconist at 7 Boylston street, Boston, filed a voluntary petition in bankruptcy last Saturday in the United States District Court, disclosing liabilities amounting to $16,403 and assets of $2,204.

The Ferdinand Hirsch Company has removed from its old town location to 205 Fifth avenue, where it has leased light, spacious, finely equipped offices.

Joseph Frankfort, of Calero & Company, has recently returned from a tour through New England. He says the expected revival of trade is near us and the general outlook is most encouraging.

A. Oelnick, of M. J. Lopez & Company, reports that business for the last three months has by far passed the mark over that of last year. "La Social," their principal brand, has proven itself a very good seller.

H. J. Teuben, the New England representative of I. B. Krinsky, met with excellent success in booking orders recently. The distribution of his firm's product throughout Boston and nearby points has been showing a steady increase for the last few months.

Salvador Rodriguez, the Tampa cigar manufacturer, has moved from the old New York offices on Water street, to the finer and more commodious offices in the new office building at 47th street and Broadway. An electric flash-light sign will be a feature on the new building.

Alexander Herbert, of the Philip Morris & Co., Ltd., recently visited St. Louis calling on the trade with local representative W. H. Wolfsohn. "Philip Morris" cigarettes are quite popular in St. Louis market and Mr. Herbert was more than pleased with conditions as he found them. After going over the situation in St. Louis, Mr. Herbert returned to New York.

The N. P. Antoinades Cigarette Co., of 686 Sixth avenue, intends to engage in the Turkish cigarette business on a larger scale, in the near future. Two additional upper floors at the above address have been leased and a number of improved cigarette machines are to be installed for the manufacture of their product. They do an importing business in tobacco also and have quite a business throughout the country.

Carlos, Fernandez & Co. Kept Hustling

CARLOS FERNANDEZ & CO., the largest importers of Manila cigars in the United States, are kept hustling on their extensive sales throughout the country. Shipments from the Philippines, consigned to this company arrive twice a month on the larger liners from the Orient.

Carlos, Fernandez & Co., are in a position to offer Manilla's finest cigars at a cut in price of from 20 to 35 per cent., and as this enterprising company controls the output of nearly all the representative Manila factories it would seem that the new offices of this company located at 42 East 23d street are the place to visit or address.

Maurice Wertheim, secretary of the United Cigar Manufacturers' Co. is managing the arrangements for the introduction of the new "Abbey" cigar. George L. Storm & Co., the local jobbers, will make a big run on the brand, which is one of decided quality.

Leslie Pantin, the prominent Havana commission merchant, arrived in New York, on April 19th. Mr. Pantin had with him his wife and family. He expects to sojourn in this country for some time.

Alfred E. Schermerhorn, in conjunction with William Cruikshank's Sons, leased to Edward Wilke, a manufacturer of cigars under the title of the Tobacco Growers' Society, the triangular store at the southeast corner of West Broadway and Barclay street.

The Trinity Cigar Company have purchased the cigar stand of Robert E. Lane in the Trinity Building, 111 Broadway and have taken possession. Charles Brucklacher, the former manager, will remain in charge of the stand.

One of the latest leaf houses to raise tobacco is that of Rose & Wobbe, of this city. They have leased over twenty-five acres of land and four tobacco sheds from E. M. Granger, of Melrose, Conn., and will grow primed tobacco. It will be necessary to build additional sheds to handle the increased acreage.

Rose & Wobbe will also plant eighty acres of tobacco in addition to their above, all in primed tobacco.

H. M. Miller has opened the third store in his chain of stands in New York. The last store is situated in the Parke, Davis & Co. Building, 80 Maiden Lane, and was opened on April 22d. Arthur Cassidy, formerly connected with the Hotel Belmont cigar stand, is in charge of the new store. Some of the prominent brands of cigars noted were "Romeo y Julieta," "Hoyo de Monterey," "La Corona," "Villar," "Eden," "La Mega," and a host of others.

Mahn Sells Wall Street Store

The cigar store situated on Wall street, near Broadway, operated by Godfrey S. Mahn, has been sold by him to M. A. Gunst & Co. This formerly was the headquarters of the Mahn stores, but they will hereafter be at the stand at 1169 Broadway. The Forty-second street store having been closed, this gives Mr. Mahn one stand in New York City.

PHILADELPHIA.

Eisenlohrs in New Building

OTTO EISENLOHR & BROS. removed to their new building at 932-34 Market Street on April 24. The new home of the "Cinco" and "Henrietta" is all that could be wished for in an up-to-date building.

The arrangement is similar to that in the old store. The salesrooms and a business office are on the first floor, as is also the retail stand. The executive office and offices of the members of the firm are on the second floor, which has been fitted up in the most complete way in regard to office fittings, lockers, etc., for the convenience of the employees.

With increased facilities for handling their output, this company should be able to dispatch orders with even greater speed than they have done in the past.

Louis Halpern Kept Hustling

Louis Halpern, who has been in active charge of the G. H. P. cigar factory, and who has been manufacturing cigars at 46 North Seventh street, this city, since last October, is getting excellent results at his new location. Mr. Halpern is manufacturing three brands of cigars, the "Halpern After Dimer," a nickel brand, also the "Lexie," a 5-cent cigar, and the "Edmund Halley," a 10-cent article, which Mr. Halpern says is the best value for the money in the market. The reputation which Mr. Halpern has established on these new brands testifies to his ability as a manufacturer and an authority on leaf tobacco.

Sig. Mayer, of Sig. C. Mayer & Co., is still on a protracted trip through the country. He is now in the South and is not expected back for several weeks. The stock of "Rey Omas" is being used up rapidly and the factory is kept busy. They are particularly pleased at the launching of their new nickel cigar, the "Royal Clerk."

The Cressman factory is hustling to fill orders on the "Counsellor" cigars. Harry Larish, who has been working with the Vesper Cigar Co., has been added to the Cressman staff and will take care of the Philadelphia trade. Mr. Gallagher will soon make a trip through York State to look after the Cressman interests. Vincent Bros., of Rochester, distribute the "Counsellor" in that territory.

M. A. Funk, sales manager of the "44" Company, has been on a trip through Central Pennsylvania and reports good progress on the "Adlon" and "44" cigars. The advertising car, which has been used in New York City and vicinity with pronounced success, is now in Philadelphia. It is intended to use it here for a short time, when a trip will be taken with it through the South.

News from Bayuk Headquarters

BAYUK BROTHERS report an active demand on "Havana Ribbons," sales for April surpassing any previous months' business.

Bert Thompson, Western representative, has just completed a trip through his territory and reports all of the "Havana Ribbon" jobbers very enthusiastic over duplicating business. O. McCaffrey & Co., of Maquoketa, and the Cave Cigar Co., of Dubuque, Iowa, have lately increased their regular shipments to take care of the increased demand. Mason, Ehrman & Co., of Spokane, Wash., and Portland, Ore., found it necessary to wire for a liberal shipment of "Ribbons" to replenish their rapidly moving stock. H. P. Lau Co., of Lincoln, Neb., are showing a very material increase in distribution, as is McDowell, Britton & Cheadle, of Frankfort, and McMahon & Leib Co., of Anderson, Ind.

J. C. Revercomb, Southern representative, is fully recovered from his severe attack of pneumonia and is again among his jobbing friends. Mr. Revercomb has recently sent some large "Ribbon" orders to the factory for Cole Tobacco Co., Newport News; E. F. Beale & Sons, of Norfolk; Harris Grocery Co., of Richmond, Va., and Hubbard Grocery Co., of Charleston, W. Va.

Dave Achenbach has been allotted New York State in addition to Pennsylvania, and will presently take a trip through the former. He has visited Blakeslee-Snyder Co., of Buffalo, and Vaughn-Ryan Co., of Olean, where he found "Ribbons" duplicating with pleasing regularity.

Samuel Bayuk is still in Amsterdam and will not return until after the May 3d inscription.

J. J. Bagley's New Philadelphia Headquarters

During the past fortnight the Philadelphia Office of John J. Bagley & Co., leading tobacco manufacturers of Detroit, Mich., have removed from their old location in the Lippincott Building to larger and more commodious quarters at 105 N. Second street. At this point, Charles A. Clayton, the General Agent of the company in Philadelphia who has ground floor room is altogether much better equipped to take care of the local business. Bell Telephone, Market 799, will get a quick response for needers of the Bagley product.

The Roig & Langsdorf factory is kept busy on incoming orders of "Girard" cigars. A force of fifteen men is now out booming this popular brand, and judging by results, the "Girard" is selling better than ever. Plans for the new addition to the factory are being completed and alterations will probably be started in a few days.

Quaker City Notes

The demand for the Jeitles & Blumenthal brands is showing a healthy increase, particularly so on the "Flor de Jeitles," "Royal Peer" and "Masterpiece" cigars.

John McNamee, who has been connected with the cigar stand in the Bellevue-Stratford Hotel, recently opened an attractive cigar store at 2425 West Lehigh avenue.

The stock of Max Gilbert & Sons, Tenth and Thompson streets, who were declared bankrupts a few weeks ago, will be sold on Thursday, May 2nd, to pay creditors of the concern.

Herman Sideman, of Sideman Company, Third and Green streets, will soon open a retail cigar store in Scottish Rites Building, 154 North Broad street, where he will carry a complete line of cigars, cigarettes, tobacco and smokers' articles.

Morris Lesser, of the Juan Portuondo Cigar Manufacturing Company, has left for a trip through the South and Southwest, where he will renew interest on the Portuondo brands, particularly the "All Alike."

Benjamin Grabowsky, of the G. H. P. Cigar Company, has arrived home from a trip through the Middle West in the interest of the G. H. P. Company, and reports excellent results on their brands, particularly the "Goodina" cigar.
